Sting Of Death Hits 'Medicare'

'But Just Wait Until Next Year'

By HALE MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate backers of health care for the aged, stung by the proposal's defeat, issued the rallying cry today of "wait until next year."
The plan to finance health care for 17.9 million elder citizens through higher Social Security taxes was killed Tuesday by a Senate roll call vote of 52-48.
The action shattered President Kennedy's hopes for an old-age health program this year. The President quickly issued a statement calling it a "most serious defeat" for every American family.

Kennedy urged voters to register their protest at the polls and "return in November a Congress that will support a program like medical care for the aged." He said a new bill would be introduced in January.

AMA Praises Defeat

The American Medical Association (AMA), vigorous foe of the plan, said in Chicago that defeat of the "hastily conceived" proposal was "in the public interest."

"It would have been inequitable to force wage earners to pay substantially higher payroll taxes to provide health care for millions who are able to take care of themselves," the AMA said.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Tower, R-Tex., voted Tuesday against the President Kennedy-backed health care for the aged bill. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted for it.

Members who are able to take care of themselves," the AMA said. Although the measure was dead for this session of Congress, the issue was very much alive. Friends and foes alike acknowledged it would be a major factor in some congressional elections in November.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., chief architects of the bipartisan plan, indicated they would try again next year.

"Medical care for our older citizens has suffered only a temporary setback," Javits declared. "It will inevitably become law because the need exists."

A Surprise Vote

The Senate chamber was hushed while the roll was called. The senators voted. Perhaps the turning point came with a surprise vote cast by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va.

Randolph, one of the original 23 co-sponsors, voted for tabling, or killing, the plan. He said he feared the medicare amendment (See MEDICARE, Page 3)

Half Of $5 Counterfeit Bill Found

Police today warned Pampans to be on the lookout for counterfeit $5 bills.

Mrs. Mary Hayden, 1401 E. Frederic, told authorities today she found half of a $5 bill in front of the Black Gold Restaurant about two weeks ago.

She said she thought it was play money. Today she took it to a downtown bank to have it checked and was told that it was counterfeit.

J. O. Dumas, assistant police chief, said it was a fairly good printing job but could be detected as counterfeit by anyone who took a close look at the bill.

Police said they had no other reports of counterfeit bills in circulation but suggested that it would be a good idea for merchants and residents to check their $5 bills.

13-Story Balloon Shot Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The United States today rocketed almost 1,000 miles into space a 13-story tall, reflecting balloon whose brief but spectacular flight appeared as a brilliant star to many early risers.

The successful test of the Echo-2 balloon proved the design for a new series of communications satellites the United States will begin launching late this year—a group of "mirrors in the sky" to reflect radio and television signals thousands of miles around earth.

Scientists called the shot "a 100 per cent success. Robert Gray of the Federal Space Agency said it was "practically perfect."

Packed tightly inside a canister in the nose of a Thor "hot rod" rocket, the balloon was shot into the heavens at 4:30 a.m.

Three minutes later, it was released in the black vacuum of space and inflated to its 135-foot diameter. The silvery sphere climbed to a peak altitude of about 950 miles around 12 minutes after blastoff and then plunged to a fiery destruction in the earth's atmosphere.

Reflecting the first rays of the morning sun, the huge balloon outshone the brightest star in the pre-dawn sky.

Scientists got a blow-by-blow account of the flight by "line" television. A camera located in the upper section of the Thor booster focused on the canister the instant it left the rocket nearly 200 miles above earth.

The television camera was destroyed on reentry of the rocket, but a second movie camera was ejected for a parachute landing in the Atlantic about 400 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral and within 11 miles of a recovery ship.

The camera-carrying capsule was taken aboard an SA16 amphibian airplane and lifted from the water at 8:04 a.m. Officials said the package would be flown back to scientists at Cape Canaveral.

The Air Force said the capsule was spotted about 250 miles north of San Salvador by two airplanes 11 minutes after the package had landed. Three men made parachute leaps from a C34 and got the capsule into a raft to await pickup by the SA16.

Police Chief Jim Conner said 19-year-old Charles Paul Burkhard already has been charged in connection with the burglarizing of the Phillips 66 Service Station, 501 S. Cuyler, and Able's K-Tex Service Station, 420 W. Brown.

The Phillips Station was robbed Sunday night of $60 in cash, 71 packs of cigarettes and an undetermined amount of cash from a cigarette vending machine. Five dollars in quarters were taken from the K-Tex Station.

Chief Conner said Burkhard has admitted breaking into the two places. He was to be questioned further about similar burglaries committed in Pampa within the past few weeks.

Police said Burkhard is believed to have had an accomplice working with him.

Chief Conner said Burkhard was taken into custody when he came to the police station to inquire about another man who had been picked up on a bogus check charge.

After long questioning of Burkhard, Chief Conner said the confession on the two burglaries was obtained.

Charges of burglary with intent to commit theft were filed against Burkhard this forenoon by Dist. Atty. Bill Waters.

Chief Conner said Burkhard was expected to be taken before Justice of the Peace W. J. Graham for arraignment this afternoon.

'Friendly' Intruders Visited Homes

Police spent some time tonight before last looking for four "friendly" intruders.

Robert Ragsdale, 429 N. Doyle, reported that two men came to his door between 10 and 10:30 p.m. and tried to get him to open the door.

"They said they just wanted to shake hands," Ragsdale told police.

A few minutes later police got a similar call from Mrs. H. N. Haynes, 408 Doyle, who said four men appeared at her front door and wanted to come in.

She closed the door and called police. A roving squad car failed to find any trace of the men or the car in which they drove away.

Directors Of Rodeo Plan August Show

Top O' Texas Rodeo directors met last night at City Hall to work on plans for the city's first RCA professional rodeo to be held in Recreation Park Aug. 22-25.

The directors will meet at the rodeo grounds at 8 a.m. Friday to spend the day getting grounds and buildings into shape for the forthcoming show.

Plans also were made for the Rodeo Advertising Tour on Aug. 3. Six carloads of Pampa High School girls, members of various sororities, will cover the Top O' Texas area distributing posters and inviting townspeople of the communities to attend the rodeo here.

A dinner for rodeo directors is scheduled for Aug. 9 in Coronado Inn. This will be the last directors' meeting before the rodeo opens.

X-15 Pilot Has Unusual Distinction...

He's A 'Winged Astronaut' Now

By JOSEPH ST. AMANT
EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Air Force Maj. Robert M. White today enjoyed the distinction of being America's only "winged astronaut."

The 38-year-old test pilot qualified for his astronaut wings Tuesday by rocketing the X15 rocket plane to a world record altitude for winged aircraft of almost 59 miles.

He made the altitude record—316,000 feet or 58.7 miles—on his 16th flight in the rocket ship. He bettered the old record of 46.7 miles, which he shared with another X15 pilot, Joseph Walker, by 12 miles.

White holds the X15 speed record—4,159 miles an hour. Tuesday's flight was not a speed test and the plane was clocked at "only" 3,784 miles an hour.

White took his record more or less in stride. With a straight face but with a twinkle in his eyes, he said in answer to a question at a news conference, "This impressed me as being a very unusual flight."

Son Greets Him
His 7-year-old son Gregory was on hand to greet him as he landed and someone asked what the boy's reactions were.

His eyes twinkling once again, White said, "I would say he was impressed generally but he's not quite 8 years old and I would hesitate to interpret his reactions."

White had given strict orders to Air Force public relations people to prevent any attempt by newsmen to question his son. It was

4 Airmen Found Alive At Plane Crash Scene

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Four American crewmen aboard a U. S. Air Force C123 transport plane which crashed in Communist-infested country Sunday were found alive today at the scene.

A U. S. military spokesman said two of the men had been evacuated aboard a Vietnamese helicopter to a hospital in the coastal town of Nahatrang, 172 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said the other two were awaiting removal from the crash scene near the base of a 4,700-foot mountain in the central highlands.

The U. S. Army previously had identified the missing airmen as Capt. James E. Henderson of Seymour, Iowa; Lt. Winston R. Harris, Jr., Harlem, Ga.; S. Sgt. Charles F. Richards, Spring Lake, N. C.; and S. Sgt. Henry C. Stefanski, Fayetteville, N. C.

The spokesman said one of the survivors still awaiting rescue had a broken leg. He said he did not know the condition of the other three.

Wreckage of the missing plane was spotted earlier today by air search parties.

The scene was about 115 miles north of Saigon and 35 miles south of Ban Me Thout, the plane's destination when it left this capital city on a routine flight.

Military sources said there has been an increasing number of Communist attacks recently on villages in the area of the crash. Red guerrillas have been operating widely in the region.

Vietnamese troops were airlifted Tuesday by 30 U.S. helicopters into Communist-infested jungles to the north. The mission, "Operation Sunrise," hoped to clear six

More Plans For Promotion Of Industry Slated

Further plans to advertise Pampa nationally will be discussed at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in City Hall.

Copy for the ads, size, number of insertions and in what magazines the ads will be published will be among the topics to be taken up at the meeting, according to Johnny Watson, committee chairman.

Some other NASA officials, however, did not conceal their private belief that Slayton's space grounding was permanent, although he will continue in the program as an engineer.

Reporters Tuesday asked the chief spokesman for the seven Mercury astronauts, Lt. Col. John H. (Shorty) Powers, whether he thought Slayton would be permitted to fly with other astronauts in the later programs.

Powers, here on a speaking engagement, replied that the decision was not his to make. But he made it clear he thought the answer was no.

admitted frankly he didn't have the faintest idea what it was. But he added that he thought "in all conscience," he should talk about it.

"We've never seen anything like this before," he said. "I haven't got the slightest idea what it was. As I went over the top, I saw a couple of particles go by the airplane. They showed up again. They were very small, flaky objects and I thought they were from the residue of peroxide which the engine burns."

"Then I saw another larger object to my left. It looked like a piece of paper about the size of my hand."

He said he did not believe cameras attached to the X15 were in position to record the object.

Military Junta Takes Over Following President's Arrest

By ALBERTO SCHAZIN
United Press International

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — The armed forces deposed President Manuel Prado today. The army announced that a military junta had taken over the government in a bloodless coup.

The national radio, which is controlled by the army, announced that the junta, made up of leaders of the armed forces, would be sworn in as the country's new governing body today.

The radio went on to say that the country was peaceful. It said the reason for Prado's overthrow was that "it has been determined that there was fraud in the electoral process" in the June 10 presidential election.

In Communiqué No. 1, the military said the coup was successful throughout the country. The leaders asked the people to cooperate in keeping the peace.

The communiqué said the military chiefs were forced to depose Prado when efforts to annul the election "fraud" were fruitless.

Prado himself was seized when a column of 50 tanks and armored cars rolled up to the presidential palace before dawn and threw a ring of men and weapons around the building.

An officer entered the building with two presidential aides. A short time later, a station wagon carrying a group left the palace grounds — presumably including Prado.

Troops occupied the headquarters of the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA).

We Sever Relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today suspended diplomatic relations with Peru because of the seizure of power in that country by military forces.

The State Department, which announced the action, said it was "watching developments in this situation closely." It added that it expected to be "exchanging information with other Latin American countries."

"We must deplore this military coup d'état which has overthrown the constitutional government of Peru headed by President Manuel Prado," press officer Lincoln White told newsmen.

He had no immediate comment on a Venezuelan proposal to call a meeting of hemispheric foreign ministers to consider possible action by the Organization of American States in the situation.

whose presidential candidate, Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, has been opposed by military leaders. He polled the most votes, but not enough for election.

Before he was seized, Prado issued a statement to the press that "a group of leaders of the armed forces has resolved, through force, to become a board of government."

Island Prison

Mariano Prado, a relative of the deposed president, reported that the chief executive was taken to the island of San Lorenzo and confined. San Lorenzo is on the Pacific, where it faces the port city of Callao. There is a prison on the island.

Units of the armored division also surrounded the congress building and kept everyone a block away.

A newsmen tried to enter the presidential palace, but he was ordered back by an army officer.

"We are in a state of siege," the officer said. "If you do not obey, we will shoot."

There was no shooting or fighting around the palace. After the station wagon left the grounds, all but a dozen of the tanks and armored cars rumbled off.

The armored column rolled up to the palace unexpectedly from an armored division headquarters shortly after 3 a.m. The plaza was empty at first except for a few people.

JFK Asking For 'Flexible' Red Berlin Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has made a new effort to persuade Russia to adopt a more flexible approach to settling the Berlin issue and other major East-West differences.

The President was understood to have told Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin at a one-hour meeting Tuesday that meaningful negotiations on Berlin are not possible so long as Russia continues to insist on Allied evacuation of the city.

Neither the White House nor Dobrynin would comment on the substance of the discussion. But presidential news secretary Pierre Salinger said the talk concerned Berlin, disarmament and nuclear testing, and the new Laos agreement to be signed in Geneva next Monday.

Emphasizes Stand

Informed sources said the President emphasized his complete support for the position that Secretary of State Dean Rusk has taken in six Berlin talks with Dobrynin over the past three months.

The principal point is, as Rusk told a news conference last week, that there is no basis for "serious negotiations" on Berlin so long as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev insists primarily on talking about elimination or reduction of British, French and American garrisons there.

On disarmament and a nuclear test ban, the President was believed to have urged again that Russia make a greater effort to meet the British and Americans half way in an effort to end the nuclear arms race.

Tourist Spending Up In Mexico Border Cities

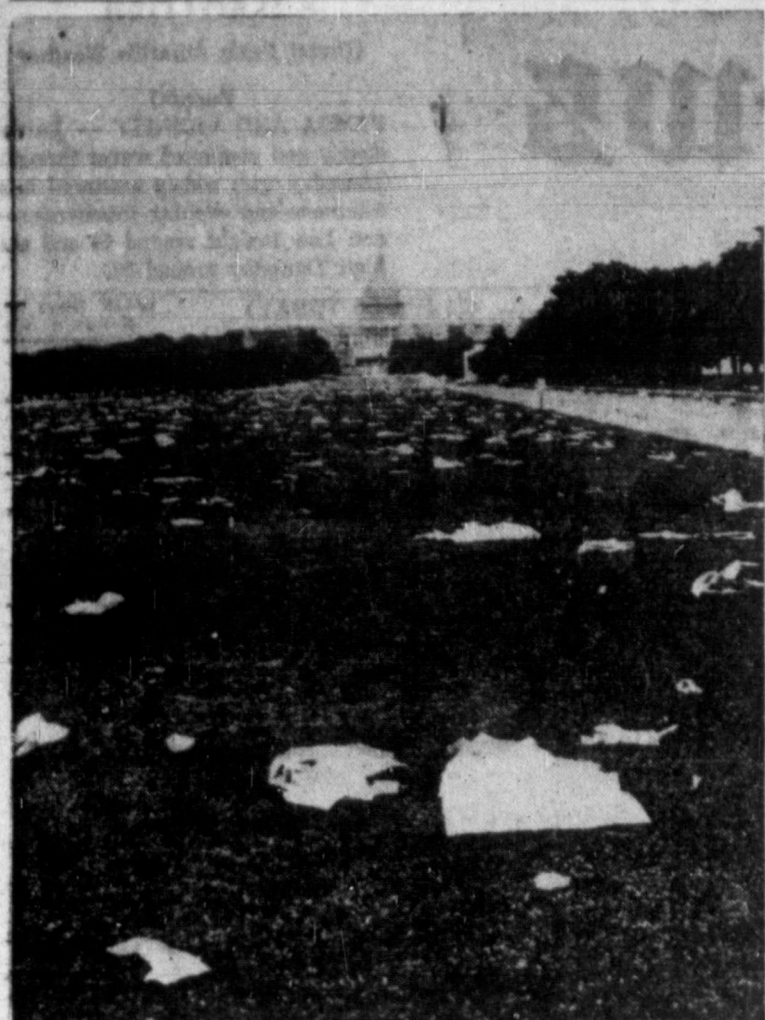

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Tourist spending at border cities was up $22 million during the first three months of this year compared with the same period of 1961, the government tourism department said Monday.

However, spending by Mexican border residents in U.S. border communities increased by almost the same amount, the department noted. The increase was $19 million, from $62 million spent in the U.S. during the first quarter of last year, to $81 million during the same period this year.

The department called the U.S. spending increase a "recuperation" of border tourist income, and credited the National Tourism Council, created slightly more than six months ago, with the increase. The council is headed by former President Miguel Aleman, who has toured the country and foreign areas extensively since assuming the post.

The department gave the 1962 border tourist income figure as $190,720,000 (U.S.). Last year's figure for the period was slightly more than $167 million, the department added.

Thieves Enter Pampa Garage

W. M. Lane, realtor, reported to police that the garage of a home placed with him for rental was entered by thieves sometime Monday night.
The house, at 1018 Duncan St., is owned by Joseph Marler, now residing in Enid, Okla.
Lane said a lawn mower, rake, clipping shears, and 50 feet of garden hose were stolen from the garage which was forced open.

Condition Of Injured Pair Still Serious

Hospital officials report today that the conditions of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. (Clyde) Jones, who were critically injured Sunday in an unconfirmed twister south of the city remain serious.

Clyde Jones, 73, and his wife, Cora, 67, were taken to Highland General Hospital in critical condition Sunday evening when their trailer house was picked up by severe winds and rolled into the side of the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Babcock, 13 miles south and one mile west of the city. The trailer was located about 50 feet from the Babcock home.

Officials said Jones' condition was poor and Mrs. Jones was on the fair condition list. Both are suffering from severe shock and bruises.

Mrs. Jones was thrown from the trailer as it rolled over and her husband was found in the trailer, which was completely destroyed in the storm. No other damage was reported in the area, and no one was injured in the Babcock home.

Pampan Is Hospitalized After Mishap

A Pampa woman was taken to Highland General Hospital with cuts and bruises yesterday afternoon following a pick-up truck and automobile accident at the intersection of E. Denver and Talley Streets at 5 p.m.

Investigating officers said Mrs. Belva B. Harrington, 1241 Farley, was reported in good condition with injuries suffered after her pick-up truck collided with a 1936 auto driven by Mrs. Barbara N. Stevenson, 945 E. Malone.

Officers said the Harrington truck was traveling west on Denver and the Stevenson auto was headed north on Talley when the accident occurred.

Patrolman J. E. Brewer, who investigated the accident, said Mrs. Stevenson's vehicle hit the Harrington truck on the left side. Mrs. Stevenson was cited for failure to yield right-of-way.

Medicare

would delay a welfare reform bill to which it was attached.

In all, 31 Republicans and 21 Democrats voted to table, five Republicans and 43 Democrats opposed the tabling motion.

The Anderson-Javits proposal would have provided hospital and nursing home care, among other things, for all persons aged 65, starting in 1964. The benefits did not include doctors' fees.

The financing features of the plan drew the most fire, and possibly was the major factor leading to its defeat.

Say Benefits Too Limited

Critics also argued it provided too limited a package of benefits. In addition the bill was opposed on the ground that it was compulsory and would lead to federalization of medicine in the United States.

Supporters countered that it was the best and cheapest plan yet devised to provide some pay-as-you-go system of health protection against costly illnesses in old age.

The health plan was offered as a rider to a $325 million House-passed welfare reform bill. After disposing of the medicare proposal, the Senate passed the "self-help" welfare measure by voice vote.

A House-Senate conference group was expected to meet this week to approve a compromise welfare bill. Some states have complained that they are running out of federal funds for welfare clients' checks.

In general, the welfare bill carries out reforms requested by Kennedy in the federally financed, state-administered programs of aid to dependent children, and assistance for 2.8 million needy aged, blind and disabled persons on relief.

It places the accent on getting welfare recipients off the relief rolls and on to payrolls.

Jr. Garden Club Will Organize

The organizational meeting of the Junior Garden Club, sponsored by the Pampa Garden Club, will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Pampa Youth and Community Center.

A course of instruction will be given each Friday morning from 10 until 11 and is designed for girls 10-14 years of age, who are interested in Junior Garden work. The first meeting will be a Cook Party, at which time girls will register for the class and will be given a brief description of gardening.

Meetings are scheduled to run through August and will include a balanced program of instruction in flower arranging, horticulture and flower show practice.

Man Left With Tank Of Gasoline

Refusal of the manager to cash a check in payment for a gasoline bill caused a motorist to drive off without paying, according to a report filed with police by L. Wright of the Bell Service Station, E. Brown St.

Wright said the man offered a check to pay a bill totaling $2.02. When Wright said he couldn't accept the check, the man got in his car and drove away.

Wright told police the car carried Oklahoma license plates 11-7622.

City Recorder Attends Meeting

City Recorder James R. Bowers went to Austin today to attend a two-day Conference on Traffic Courts.

Corporation Court judges from all over Texas are attending the seminar for discussions of traffic court procedures, traffic problems and safety and the value of having traffic violators appear in court.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A few hours before he died in an auto accident, Ernie Kovacs showed up at a baby shower for the Milton Berles, tired but happy about a test film he had just finished for a new television series.

The projected series was called "The Medicine Man," with Kovacs playing an 1870 con artist, and deadpan comedian Buster Keaton as his sidekick. And after Kovacs' death, CBS announced the show would appear on its summer program, "The Comedy Spot," which Tuesday night presented another test film for a series, "Octavius and Me," about a retired, trailer-living couple.

Unfortunately, matters involving Kovacs' estate have forced CBS to cancel the comedian's final work—at least for the time being. But "The Comedy Spot," which replaces Red Skelton for the summer, gives viewers a unique inside look at the television business because all its episodes—except Kovacs'—were rejected by sponsors as series ideas.

Why a Failure
From this viewpoint, it was fascinating to consider why "Octavius and Me" failed. The script, which told how the noisy but supposedly lovable couple helped two newlyweds through a love spat, seemed at first glance to be the reason, with such extraordinary lines as this:
"He's a college professor, and he's studying to be a better college professor—or something stupid like that."

At second glance, however, it seems amazing that "Octavius" didn't make it: it is a study in the elements that producers often think will sell a series. First, it had the above-mentioned contempt for book learning. Second, it aimed at a specific, growing, stay-home audience: retired "senior citizens," to use that phony phrase again. Third, it capitalized on the American fascination with motor vehicles and trick gadgets, and the love of being mobile.

Fourth, it was cute and folksy—to the point of nausea. Fifth, it hinted at a little illicit sex. Sixth, it even glorified golf, painting a tournament player as more attractive than a mere teacher.

Two Possible Reasons
Why, then, did "Octavius" fail? There are two possible reasons: The network schedule was full, which is doubtful—or someone along the way, thank heaven, had taste. The trailer couple, Dub Taylor and Loie Bridge seemed unable to talk below a roar.

Although the script was terrible, the cast was equal to it. Taylor and Miss Bridge came across like a middle-aged version of the "Route 66" heroes—riding around in a trailer instead of a sports car, but also sticking their noses into other people's business.

The production was commercially slick, with the suggested illicit relationship between the teacher's young bride and the golfer, who tells her: "You belong here on a golf course." That's modern romance.

Among the many other test films that didn't make it this year were a variety show starring Dennis (Gunsmoke) Weaver, and a projected series with Mort Sahl playing a cab driver.

The Channel Swim: Mrs. Bing Crosby guests Sunday on CBS-TV's "Who in the World" . . . NBC TV's "Look Up and Live" offers dramatized excerpts from the novel "Moby Dick" Sunday.

Johnny Carson, who takes over NBC-TV's "Tonight" show this fall, will be replaced on ABC-TV's "Who Do You Trust?" by comedian Woody Woodbury . . . Biff McGuire subs for John Kerr as Carol Lawrence's costar in a comedy on CBS-TV's "Steel Hour" July 25.

Pampa, Area Youths To Attend Meet

Five boys from Pampa and five from Miami will attend the state Future Farmers of America convention in Fort Worth starting today and continuing through Friday.

Attending from Pampa are Sammy J. Whatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Whatley, 1101 S. Clark; Boyd Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shepherd, south of the city; Wendell Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Alexander, 514 N. Russell; James Baggerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baggerman, south of the city; and Jerry Fulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fulton, 633 S. Tignor.

All are members of the Pampa Future Farmers of America Chapter. Bob Skaggs, vocational agriculture teacher, will accompany FFA members to the Fort Worth convention.

Attending from Miami are Roy Bean, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J.

Bean; Lewis Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Holland; Charles Byrum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Byrum, and David Locke, Charles Woodfin, vocational son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Locke, agriculture teacher, will also accompany FFA members to the Fort Worth convention.

The three-day meeting of representatives of over 900 FFA chapters throughout the state will include the awarding of advanced degrees, scholarships and awards to outstanding members of the organization.

Among the more important business to be transacted at the convention will be the election of a state president from the ten state officer nominees, who have been elected by members in the ten areas of the state. Voting delegates to the National FFA convention in Kansas City in October will also be elected. In addition, delegates will elect a sweetheart from the ten candidates elected by the areas and will select the top talent teams in the state.

Nearly 800 members from the 38,000 membership of the organization will receive the state's highest award, the Lone Star Farmer Degree. The membership will confer Honorary Degrees on adults who have contributed in an outstanding way to the accomplishments of the organization. A vespers service will be conducted on Tuesday evening, preceding the convention sessions. Lyle Carpenter, Uma, Colorado, immediate past president of Future Farmers of America and Bob Murphy of Nacogdoches are among the speakers to address the 3000 farm youth convened in the Hotel Texas, Grand Ballroom in Fort Worth, today.

"QUESTION DIET"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union Tuesday urged a Senate armed services subcommittee to take another look at the Navy's traditional disciplinary diet of bread and water.

The union suggested that under recent Supreme Court decisions the "bread and water" "anachronism" might be viewed as a violation of the constitutional ban against cruel and unusual punishment.

Penne Percy Ends Cotton Maid Reign

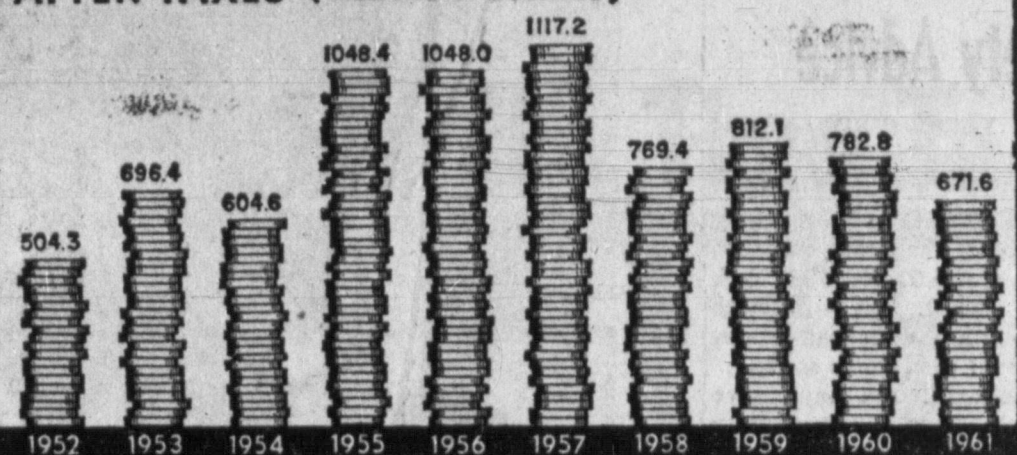

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Penne Percy, the 1962 Maid of Cotton, ended her reign this week but the final moments were among the best.

She was given a new automobile by Memphis auto dealers. The blond from Waco, Tex., traveled more than 50,000 miles as the worldwide ambassador for the American cotton industry.

This fall she will resume classes at the University of Texas. She stopped being a coed following her crowning as the Maid of Cotton last December.

"I hope I have fulfilled the cotton industry's faith in me," she said at a final banquet. Penne recently returned from a six-week tour of Germany, France and The Netherlands.

STEEL PRODUCERS' EARNINGS AFTER TAXES (MILLIONS OF DOLLARS)

PINCH ON STEEL PROFITS—The squeeze on the U.S. steel industry's profits tightened in 1961. Dollar volume of net profits dropped 14.2 per cent below 1960's and the net profit of 5.2 cents per dollar of sales was the lowest since 1952. Steel magazine, in its 37th annual financial analysis of the industry, estimates 1961 net income for the industry at $715.3 million, lowest since 1954. Newschart shows industry earnings from 1952 through 1961 after taxes.

ISSUE 30-DAY FORECAST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Weather Bureau predicts below normal temperatures for the next 30 days in the northern half of the nation and the far Southwest, but above normal for the Gulf states and southern plains.

The forecast is for above normal rainfall from the Pacific Northwest to the western Great Lakes and over the central plains and southwestern plateau states. Subnormal rainfall is expected in the Gulf states and northeast.

No Hunger Pains With Barcentrate

Here is a letter from Mrs. Georgia Hubbard, 406 E. 11th St., San Angelo, Texas.
"At the age of 73, I find Barcentrate the best plan I ever tried for weight control, without the ill effects of hunger pains. When I commenced to use Barcentrate, I weighed 215 pounds with painful swelling of limbs, bloating and distressing gastritis. Now I weigh 180 pounds, but could have lost more, but did not want to lose more, because of my having different complications. I now take Barcentrate for its soothing effect on my digestive tract and find it an excellent tonic."

The Lighter Side On Truck-Captured Cars

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many Americans feel that vacations are a time for fun and frolic. Many others seek rest and relaxation.

I have just returned from one of the educational type vacations. I didn't plan it that way, but that's the way it worked out.

While making an extensive, cross-country automobile trip, I became an involuntary expert on the recreational habits of truck drivers. In fact, I was able to evolve a theory as to how the drivers amuse themselves during long hauls over the more-or-less open road.

Scholarly conjecture, plus deep draughts of diesel fumes, led me to conclude that they keep their wits sharp and their driving skill at peak condition by playing a variation of the old game of "bumper tag," otherwise known as "Detroit chess."

The rules go something like this:

Each driver receives five points for every automobile that he can "capture," or force into a queue, while laboring up a steep hill or rounding a blind curve in low gear.

Any Number Play

Any number of trucks can play and a driver may "capture" cars either as a solitary player or while playing in partnership with another truck. At times, a partnership offers certain advantages.

For example, if one truck takes a position immediately behind another truck at the bottom of a hill or the beginning of a curve, they are said to be "tailgated." Passing becomes twice as difficult and the scores of both drivers are doubled.

If, however, the second truck cannot maintain the "tailgate" position and drops back in the procession, then each driver only gets credit for half of the automobiles "captured" on that particular hill or curve.

All drivers, whether playing alone or in tandem, lose five points for every car that "escapes," or manages to pass, on a straightaway. Here again, partnership, or "team" play, can be advantageous.

Employ Pass Play

When a straightaway is sighted, the most commonly employed strategy is for the "lead" truck to signal to the second truck to attempt to pass. This blocks both lanes of the highway and prevents the "captured" automobiles from "escaping."

The object is for the two trucks to take turns in passing each other until they reach another hill or curve.

On rare occasions, a driver may be unable to find a "partner" on a straightaway and will lose all of the cars that he has "captured." When that happens, he must either forfeit all of his points or go back to the nearest weighing station.

The drivers turn in their score cards at "truck stop" restaurants, where the points are added up by a waitress on the back of a menu.

The driver with the most number of points is declared the winner and, as a prize, receives a life-size portrait of Jimmy Hoffa, autographed by Bobby Kennedy.

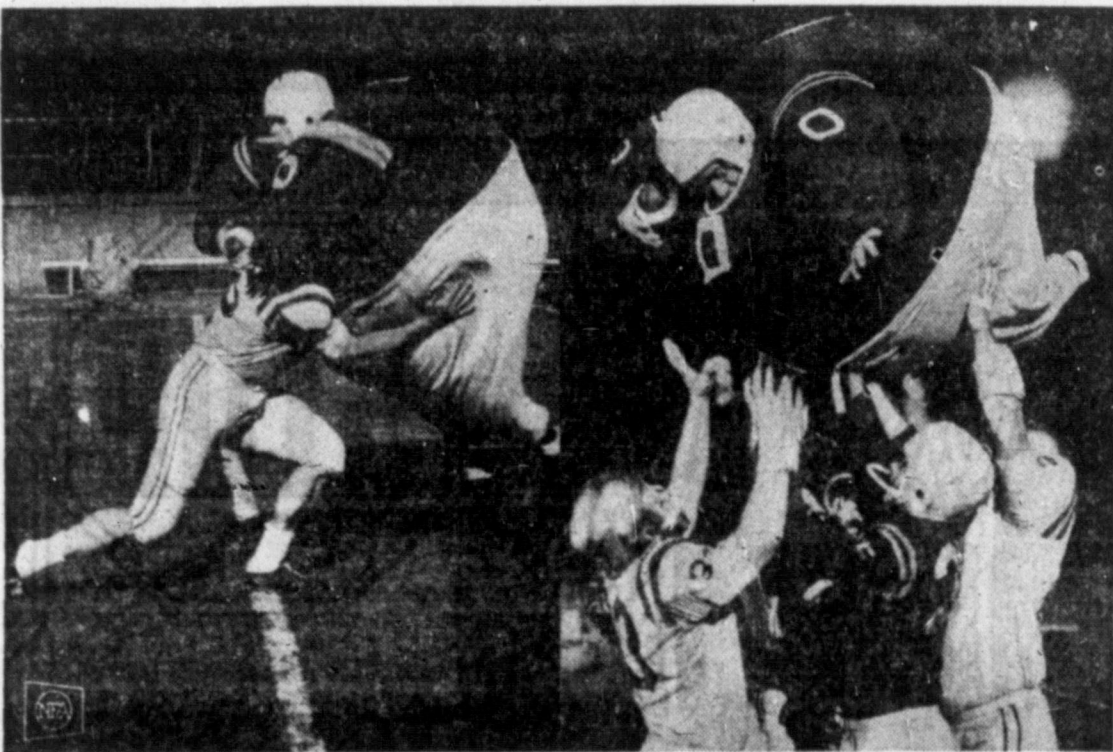

LOOKING FOR BUSINESS

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (UPI)—A "sin strip" restaurant, all but deserted since the recent Senate Rackets Committee hearings, has posted this sign:

"Eat here or we'll both starve."

TRASH LANDING—Light plane seems to be making a crash landing on top of a pile of junked cars in Vienna, Austria. Actually, the plane is being used as a commercial sign for the junk yard and is perched on a wall located a few yards behind the car graveyard.

NEW GRIDIRON WRINKLE—Walt Disney's laugh-happy "Son of Flubber" introduces the "flubberized" football suit, an inflatable device enabling the runner to soar up and over his opponents. At left, Leon Tyler prepares to take off when tackled. Up and floating, right, Tyler "blimps" along to a touchdown. Costars are Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan and Ed Wynn.

Some Unusual Safety Advice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Safety messages pour at us from all sides, but the most unusual come from Marjorie May.

Miss May, the home education director of the Greater New York Safety Council, has concluded that "in this complicated age, people don't even worry straight."

For instance, she says, "We worry about the Russians—then invite an unknown hitch-hiker to ride with us."

Her regular newsletter points up these other "crooked" worries:

"We worry about H-bombs—then buy our kids fireworks, light the barbecue fire with gasoline, and leave firearms about."

"We worry about children running out in front of cars—then drag them across the street on a red light."

"We worry about overweight—then struggle through fad diets and use the car to go two blocks to pick up a newspaper."

"We worry about cancer—then drink and drive."

"We worry about paying off the mortgage—then smoke in bed."

"We worry about juvenile delinquency—then give junior some perfect examples of disrespect for the law by illegal parking, jaywalking, buying fireworks, passing remarks about the police, law-makers or teachers, and even neglecting to vote."

"We worry about retirement—then do everything we can to keep from lasting that long."

Skellytown Masons In Installation

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Masonic Lodge 1391 held an installation of officers for the ensuing year in an open ceremony recently in Masonic Hall.

Owen Handley was installing officer; M. R. O'Dell was installing marshal; and L. Barrett was installing chaplain, all of Pampa Masonic Lodge No. 766.

Installed were Frank Hewitt, worshipful master; J. D. Herd, senior warden; Kenneth Crawford, junior warden; Kel Sorenson, chaplain; H. L. Biggers, secretary; W. H. Price, treasurer; Cletus Duckworth, senior deacon; Ethel Ross, junior deacon; and Paul Hinton, tiler. Kel Sorenson is retiring worshipful master.

Mrs. Sorenson was presented an orchid corsage by the retiring officers. The installing staff presented Mr. Hewitt a Panama Straw Hat.

Following a short program, refreshments of ice cream and cake was served to the approximately fifty who attended.

Playing cards did not appear with ornate back designs until about 1850.

There's Plenty Of Material Left For TV Series "The Untouchables"

By ROBERT STACK
As Written For UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A question I'm frequently asked is: "How many untold Eliot Ness stories are left?"

Actually, the potential of "Untouchables" yarns has scarcely been tapped. The era is so colorful that writers with imagination can, through researching newspaper files, come up with enough material to last us 20 years.

For example, late in the current season, John Mantley, one of our writers, came upon the information that a police permit was needed to buy a single shot revolver in Chicago in 1929, but anyone could buy the most lethal hand weapon ever conceived by man—a "tommy gun"—at any hardware or sporting goods store by merely forking over the price.

Develops Idea

This loophole was sealed, fortunately, before any of the top mobsters could stock up on machine guns. But Mantley got to thinking about what MIGHT have happened if Frank Nitti had been able to take advantage of the situation.

The result was Mantley's teleplay "The Arsenal," which gave us one of our most interesting and exciting shows.

In addition to the color of the period, "The Untouchables" has another good thing going for it: Being able to attract top talent in both the writing and acting fields. Actors and writers value a credit on our show as high as a graduate degree rates with a scientist or engineer.

Therefore, Leonard Freeman, our new executive producer, is having no trouble interesting the cream of the Hollywood writing corps in working on scripts for us, and is in a position to balance off veterans with young writers to give us a variety of ideas.

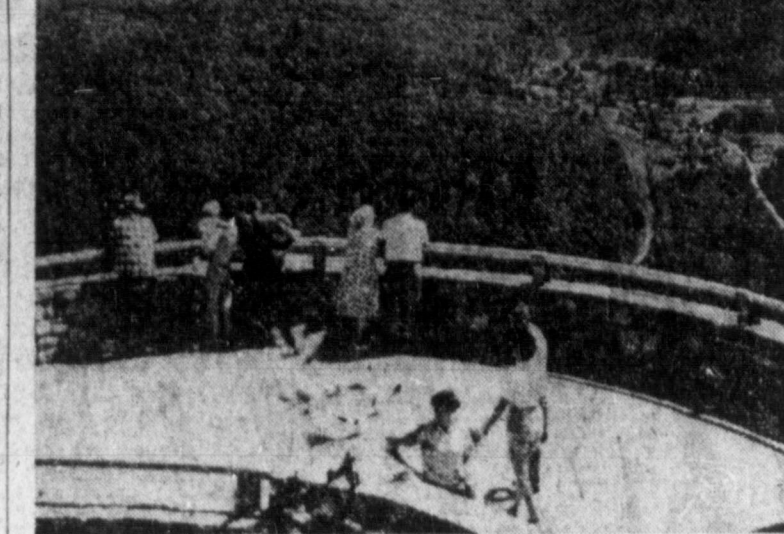

Plans Innovations

Freeman has some innovations planned for next season. For instance, Ness won't win 'em all. He won't always get the verdict he's seeking when he brings malefactors into court. This is the way it was in real life.

Freeman plans to humanize Ness in other ways, too.

Some time during the season, Ness will be hospitalized because of wounds incurred in a battle with the underworld. This is as logical as Freeman's decision to have Eliot check in with Mrs. Ness from time to time, probably on occasions when he has been exposed to the wiles of some of the beauties the underworld provided to influence police officers.

The 1962-63 season will also introduce several new underworld characters to "Untouchables" viewers. One show, for example, will deal with a character who appears to be a model citizen except for the fact he hangs out at a speakeasy. He plays Santa Claus for the orphans at Christmas, contributes to charity, and WINDFALL FOR CAMPERS—Deep in Kentucky's 20,000-acre Cumberland Gap National Historical Park a 166-campsite area—the Wilderness Road Campground—is being carved out of a mountaintop. The camp sites, an innovation in historical parks, overlook the view above and will be available Aug. 1, free of all cost. Campfire wood also is free. Campground commemorates road made famous by explorer Dr. Thomas Walker, and by Daniel Boone.

PRINCESS ILL

LONDON (UPI)—A Kensington Palace source said Tuesday night Princess Alexandra has a slight infection of the glands in her neck.

The cousin of Queen Elizabeth II underwent surgery July 8 for the removal of her tonsils.

is seemingly a model husband. However, in this story titled "The Night They Shot Santa Claus," Ness has to investigate his death and uncovers the man's seamy side which few even suspected.

I am looking forward to the coming season and am confident it will be our fattest yet. I also believe our new ABC-TV time slot, (Tuesdays), will mean new viewers who haven't been able to watch us in previous seasons.

THANKS TO MAC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committee Tuesday approved unanimously a resolution to express the "thanks and appreciation" of Congress and the American people to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It must now be approved by the House and Senate.

McNamara Issues Stiff New Orders To Armed Forces To 'Buy American'

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has ordered stiff new "buy-American" rules for the armed forces in a further effort to slow the flow of U.S. gold dollars abroad.

McNamara doubled the price differential that the Pentagon is willing to pay for American goods and services, instead of foreign, for use of U.S. troops overseas.

In effect, he told the armed forces abroad to buy American even if it costs 50 per cent more.

The price differential previously was 25 per cent for the purchase of services and supplies.

McNamara said he wanted held "to an absolute minimum" the procurement of defense supplies and services abroad that would contribute to the adverse American balance of payments.

The State Department denied published reports that it opposed new defense procurement policies overseas, but said some special adjustments might have to be made in the tougher "buy American" policies to ease its impact on certain U.S. allies.

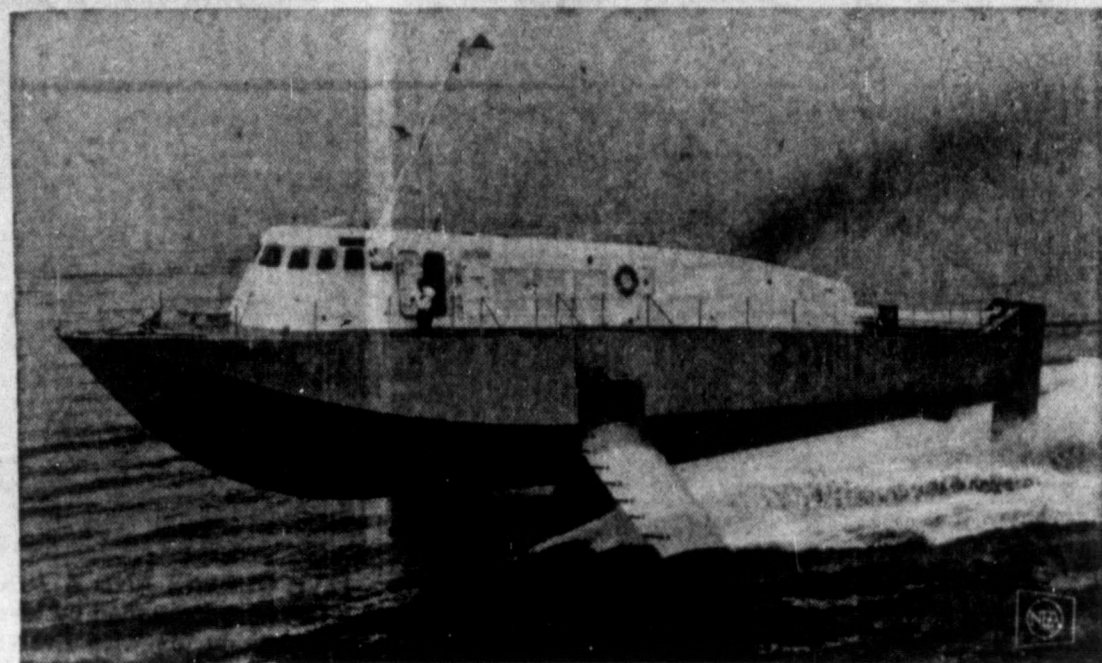

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said purchasing restrictions, part of a long-range program announced Monday by McNamara to cut the flow of dollars abroad, were "in accordance with objectives of the President."

White said the Defense Department had consulted with state in advance. He added, however, "it is recognized that in some countries it may be necessary to adjust these policies in order to minimize their effect upon aid objectives and for other special considerations."

Officials said privately the new policy would apply primarily to purchases in the European theater.

McNamara hopes that the long-range plan will cut in half the dollar drain brought about by the stationing of servicemen and their dependents overseas.

HIGH-STEPPER—The HS (Hydrofoil Ship) Denison is shown making its first "flight" in Long Island Sound. Raised up on its underwater wings, the 90-ton craft reached a speed of 50 knots. Developed by Grumman Aircraft, the 104-foot-long aluminum vessel is expected to be the first operational, ocean-going hydrofoil ship. The Denison will be employed as a passenger ship in 1963 along a tourist route between Florida and the Bahamas.

VFW Auxiliary Writing Contest Gets Underway

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars has announced the opening of its 28th annual National High School Writing Contest. The topic will be "What I Can Do For My Country."

The writing contest, first started in 1935, is intended to put before the student some problem of patriotism, citizenship or similar topic about which he must study and learn in order to write the essay.

During the last school year some 40,000 students wrote on the contest topic, "America the Beautiful—How Long Without Clean Water?" The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare supplied students with free kits of background readings on water and the importance of pollution control, and awarded to each state winner a special certificate. Dr. Albert E. Burke, Cheshire, Conn., an authority on conservation and world affairs, served as chairman of the national judges.

Students in all public, private and parochial high schools are eligible to enter the contest. National prizes are: First, $1,000 cash; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $100 and gold medals, and 20 other cash awards for honorable mention. State and local contest winners receive additional Auxiliary awards which vary with the community.

Further information on the 1962-63 contest may be obtained from local Auxiliary units, or by writing to the Contest Department, V.F.W. Auxiliary, 406 West 34th Street, Kansas City 11, Mo.

Auxiliary members annually give more than three million dollars, and more than six million hours, to volunteer service for hospitalized veterans, "community

You Can Have More Withheld From Salary

A workable plan to reduce the chore of employers in handling wages levies against their employees for delinquent federal income taxes, was presented today by Ellis Campbell, Jr., Dallas district director, Internal Revenue Service.

The plan, he said, solves the major cause for wage levies against delinquent workers, namely, that the amount of tax withheld from wages or salaries is lower in many cases than the amount of tax due at the end of the year.

Campbell said the worker sometimes is unable to pay the additional amount due when he files his income tax return and thus becomes delinquent. This necessitates a wage levy for collection purposes in many cases.

"To solve this problem," Campbell said, "workers have the right under law to eliminate one or more exemptions for tax withholding purposes on Form W-4. This automatically increases the amount withheld by approximately $120 a year for each exemption dropped."

Campbell continued, "If that doesn't cure the problem, workers may enter into an agreement with their paymasters to increase their withholding further by amending their W-4 form. Convenient tax withholding tables, provided by IRS in Circular E, give this computation at a glance."

The IRS official urges area employers to encourage their employees to take advantage of these two devices so as to prevent their becoming delinquent and thereby eliminate wage levies.

"Dropping exemptions for tax withholding purposes," Campbell explained, "doesn't mean that taxpayers lose their exemptions. It's merely a system for increasing the amount of tax withheld. The exemptions can be claimed for tax computation purposes, when the taxpayers file their returns."

EXERCISE TO RELAX
CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—Famed heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White says the best way to relax is to quit smoking and to exercise.

"Tobacco doesn't do anybody any good," White told a Rotary Club meeting here Tuesday. "The best tranquilizer is exercise. Walking helps emotional strain."

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

LOVE CONQUERS ALL—Much to the chagrin of the city fathers in Carlisle, Pa., true love seems to be winning its battle against all odds. After Dick proclaimed his love for Nan (left) by writing it on the new water tank, the city repainted the tower. Now it needs a new paint job, as the tower carries the reaffirmation, "He still does."

INDIAN CALL—The two civilizations that live side by side in modern Colombia are symbolized by this study of an Indian chief using a telephone for the first time in his life. The chief, from the rain forests in southeastern Colombia, was calling a government official in Bogota.

GOLD SUIT FOR SPACE AGE WORKERS—Paulette Hale helps engineer William Phillips with the plastic helmet which completes this 24-karat gold outfit for missilemen. The Armalon fabric is surfaced with pure gold and gives protection from flash temperatures up to 3,000 degrees F.

FIVE QUEENS AND A JOKER—As usual, comedian Phil Silvers is surrounded by lovely women. The lovelies in his life include his wife Evelyn, daughters Tracey, 5 (left), Nancy, 3 (right), and twins Katherine and Candace, 1.

CANINE BABY-SITTER—Four-month-old William Leroy wonders what his baby-sitter, Sam, will do when he escapes from his chair. The German Shepherd is ready for anything. Sam has been watching over William since his birth.

HOW TO GET A HEAD—A life-like wax figure of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy nears completion in this photo from the Washington, D. C., Wax Museum. The museum officials complained the First Lady's beauty was difficult to copy.

SPARE THAT TREE—This oak tree in North Attleboro, Mass., was so much a part of the Moulton family, they couldn't bear to part with it. When the Moultons needed an extra garage, they built the extension around the tree, which was abutting the outer wall of the first garage. Sighing with relief, the tree is flashed to bend easily in the wind.

NEW LEAF EXCHANGE

FAIR TRADE—The boys in Vienna, Austria, are turning over a new leaf by handing over their collections of comic books (left). The boys exchange "slick" literature for recommended story books for young people (right). The "Friends of Children Society" are sponsoring the trade to guide children away from crime magazines.

CIRCUS PRIEST—Visiting priest Father Heinpeter Schoenig (center) greets several midjet performers at an all-midget circus in Giessen, West Germany. Father Schoenig was appointed by Pope Pius XII in 1956 to be the priest for several variety theaters, ice shows and 22 circuses.

MANEUVERS MAKEUP—Marine PFC Ralph McBride, 19, darkens his face with grease paint as he gets ready to "perform" in Operation "Toe Hold," the anti-guerrilla training exercise at Kahuku, Hawaii. It seems the small men always carry the big artillery. The five-foot, three-inch, 134-pound Leatherneck weighs 219 pounds in battle gear.

COTTON CALLS—Cool cotton goes into the chic line of a three-piece tailored suit for summer sophistication. White ribbed cotton forms a short demi-jacket dropped over a slim skirt. The white outfit is highlighted by a blue cotton overblouse.

BALLOON SALUTE—Rising slowly up in the sky, balloonist Fred Dolder started on his 190th balloon flight with two passengers at Rapperswil, Switzerland. As he started his ascent, 200 children launched 3,000 balloons carrying special cards as part of the ceremony. The card which went the farthest distance won the prize for its owner.

WEAKER SEX? BOSH!—Mrs. Eva Wick of Olney, Ore., further gives the lie to the old saying that it's a man's world. Daily, she rams her tractor into the Oregon woods and hauls out logs for pickup, taking in stride a job once considered the exclusive domain of hard-muscled men. Mrs. Wick has a crew of two men and has been logging for 10 years.

Canadian, American 'Medicare' Controversial, But Not Similar

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Saskatchewan doctor's strike and the congressional controversy over President Kennedy's medical care bill have focused attention on government attempts to help pay private medical bills. But although their basic objective is similar, the Canadian and Kennedy plans differ greatly in their scope and approach, as outlined in the following dispatch.

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Medicare these days is an explosive word, whether it's pronounced in Canada or the United States.

In Saskatchewan, the province's government-supported medical care plan has triggered a doctors' strike.

In the U.S. Senate, President Kennedy's medical care proposal has just been tabled. It undoubtedly will be a political issue in next fall's congressional elections.

Between the two plans, the nickname "medicare" is the one basic similarity. There are, these two vast differences:

The Saskatchewan plan provides for payment of doctors' bills, and the Kennedy bill does not; the Canadian plan covers all residents of the province, from cradle to grave, while the Kennedy bill applies only to those Americans over 65.

Hospital care—the basic objective of the Kennedy proposal—is not a part of the Saskatchewan plan because all Canadian provinces already sponsor a hospitalization program.

Here is a comparison of the two plans:

Coverage
Canada—Everyone, from child to parent to grandparent, who has been a resident of Saskatchewan for three months prior to July 1, or will have had three months residence by Dec. 31 of this year.

American—All persons now 65 or who reach 65 by 1967, whether or not they have paid into Social Security; after that, the plan would cover only those over 65 who are in the Social Security system.

Benefits
Canadian—Medical and surgical services and new-born care; specialist services where the patient has been referred to a specialist by another physician; anesthesia; X-ray, laboratory and other diagnostic services; preventive medical services; some physiotherapy; dental services where provided by a dentist in conjunction with facial surgery.

American—Payment for 90 days of hospitalization a year, provided the patient pays at least $20, and up to a maximum of the first $50, of his hospitalization costs; payment of up to 180 days of skilled nursing home care a year; 240 days of home health service visits by nurses; outpatient diagnostic services of the kind customarily furnished by or through a hospital to its outpatients, provided the patient pays the first $20 of each diagnostic study; certain drugs, X-rays and the like if part of normal hospital care.

Doctors
Canadian—Payment of 85 per cent of their 1959 rates. The government reasoned that the 15 per cent difference would be made up by increased business. Here is the way this provision came about:

The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons suggests rates which general practitioners may charge. Traditionally, doctors have billed their patients on the basis of 85 per cent of these suggested charges. The government, therefore, decided to use the 1959 college of physicians scale and reimburse doctors at 85 per cent of these rates for the plan's first year of operation (July 1, 1962 to June 30, 1963). The rates themselves are not set for beyond June 1963. The Saskatchewan doctors are upset about this provision, saying there is nothing in the act to prevent the government from lowering payments below 85 per cent.

American—Doctors' charges are not involved.

Financing

Canadian—Each single adult must pay an annual premium of $12 and each family, regardless of size, must pay $24. Added money will come through a 1½ per cent increase in the retail sales tax and through a surcharge on personal income tax, amounting to about 1 per cent of an individual's taxable income, and a 1 per cent boost in the provincial corporate income tax. On such a basis, a family earning $2,500 annually would contribute about $39 a year.

American—Paid for by increase in Social Security taxes. These taxes would go up in two steps for employers, employees and the self-employed. The taxable base would rise from the first $4,800 earned to $5,200 on Jan. 1, 1963, in addition to an increase from 3½ per cent to 3½ per cent already scheduled to go into effect next year. The tax would be raised one-fourth of one per cent in 1964. For example, a worker making $5,200 a year or more would have his Social Security taxes increased by $27.50 in 1964 over amounts now scheduled. Of this, $17.68 would be earmarked for health benefits.

Options
Canadian—Originally the plan was pre-paid and compulsory. But recently the government deleted the compulsory element as it pertained to doctors. Doctors may continue private practice. Those who do not sign up for the medicare plan can bill their patients and the patients in turn can claim compensation from the government, for the statutory amount only.

American—The bill encourages participation of private insurance companies and states. It also gives an individual the opportunity to keep his own private policies. In all cases the federal government would pay for the basic health benefits outlined in the program. This could be paid to states which set up their own medicare plans or to a private firm which is insuring an individual. The idea is to supplement the basic plan with additional coverage such as those which would take care of doctors' fees.

Good Records Are Needed For SS Payments

Social security payments to a farm worker and his family can be assured only through the correct reporting of earnings, states Hal Geldon, manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office.

Farm operators who hire farm workers need to keep good records, Geldon said. The name and social security number of every employee hired should be recorded together with a record of his time and pay. A report must be filed at the end of each year and the social security tax paid for any employee who was paid at least $150 in the year or who had worked on 20 days or more on a time basis. Each farm operator is also required to report to Internal Revenue Service the name, address, and employer's identification number of each crew leader or farm labor contractor who furnished him with agricultural workers. The report should be submitted on the reverse of Form 943 (Annual Report of Agricultural Workers.)

This is necessary to protect the farm operator if the crew leader does not report his employees for social security purposes and the employees claim they worked directly for the farmer, Geldon said.

MATURE PARENT

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
My sister-in-law has nagged her 15-year-old son into a nervous cough. The doctor practically told this to my brother. Though the boy is an outstanding student, she's after him night after night to get at his homework. I've heard her pester him for a whole afternoon about mailing a birthday card to her mother. She's a very nervous woman herself. As my brother says, he has his real estate business to escape into but the boy has no escape.

ANSWER: We should not run away from naggers either into business offices or nervous coughs. All such evasion does is to add to the poor things' problem: their unconscious conviction that nobody can be trusted to fulfill their obligations to them.

That this is a neurotic conviction is proved by the nagger's inability to register facts. Take your sister-in-law. Though her son has clearly proved that he can get good school marks by the use of his own energies, she does not trust them. She believes that unless she pushes him to study, he won't study. Once we note this blind suspiciousness of the nagger, we realize that she does not live with us at all but with someone in her past - often a parent whose unreliability so frightened her that she has never dared to recapture the desolate feelings it aroused in her. We begin to see why any encounter with normal resistance to what she wants is certain evidence that we, too, intend to let her down. We perceive that she is confusing us with the threatening shadows of people in her past who hurt her deeply.

Sometimes, if we can sufficiently appreciate our own record of responsible behavior toward the nagger, we can confront her with the disparity between her suspiciousness of us and what we deserve.

Instead of running away from her into devotion to a real estate business, we can turn on her and say, "It's time for you to meet your family. I am your husband who feeds you, shelters you and is faithful to you. This is your son who does much of what you expect him to do. I don't know who you are confusing us with but the confusion is making us all unhappy. We have not let you down in any serious way and now want to be treated as the reliable people we are."

Mrs. Billy Wayne Lord
... nee Patsy Ruth Yarnold

Patsy Yarnold, Billy Lord Marry In Double-Ring Wedding Ceremony

CANADIAN (Spl) — In ceremonies held Sunday afternoon, July 8, in the First Baptist Church, Miss Patsy Ruth Yarnold became the bride of Billy Wayne Lord. Miss Yarnold is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Yarnold; Mr. Lord is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Lord of Miami. The double-ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Joe Vernon before an altar flanked by baskets of white gladioli and white mums. Greenery garlands across the banister and six candelabra completed the church decorations.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. C. H. Lansdown sang "Bless This Hour." "Oh, Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Mert Cooper of Abilene. Mrs. Cooper played the traditional wedding processional and recessional.

BRIDE

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her formal wedding gown of white peau de soie was styled with a long fitted bodice which came to points in the front and back and featured a scalloped neckline and a row of tiny covered buttons accenting the back. The floor length skirt was accented with wide white lace trim down the front matching the lace trim at the neck of the dress. The long tapered sleeves came to a point at the wrist. Her headpiece was a white satin pillbox trimmed with seed pearls with attached veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

ATTENDANTS

The maid of honor, Miss Jane Etheredge and bridesmaids, Miss Judy Brock and Mrs. Patrick O'Quinn of Lubbock, wore matching dresses of blue silk organza styled with scalloped necklines, short sleeves and fitted bodices coming to points in front and back above the full skirts. Their bouquets were of blue split carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Jimmie Seitz of Miami as best man. Ushers, were Wiley Bailey, Jimmy Bowers, Larry Rogers and John South, all of Miami.

RECEPTION

A reception for the couple was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church following the ceremony.

The bridal table was covered with a white cloth edged with a wide flounce which was dotted with blue rosebuds. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with blue wedding bells and each tier of the cake was decorated with white roses and blue scrollwork. Centering the table was an arrangement of white fuji mums and pom mums.

Serving the cake was Mrs. Wayne Greenhouse an aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. L. F. Etheredge presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting at the reception were Theresa Cloyd, Judy Jackson and Joyce Lansdown. Miss Gwen Cummins of Graham, a college roommate of the bride, registered approximately 80 guests.

Harrington, Cecotti Unite In Double-Ring Wedding

CANADIAN (Spl) — In a formal wedding ceremony, July 10 at 7 p.m. in the First Christian Church, Miss Beverly Sue Harrington became the bride of Louis A. Cecotti of Somerset, Pa. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harrington. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cecotti of Safety Harbor, Fla.

James T. Mitchell read the vows for the double-ring ceremony which was performed before an altar flanked by baskets of white mums and pom mums and decorated with mums and greenery. Two candelabra with white candles, a prayer pillow and bench and an arrangement of white spider mums and pom mums on the piano completed the church decorations.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a gown of pure silk peau de soie with accents of imported re-embroidered lace. The molded bodice featured a semi-round neckline edged in appliques of re-embroidered lace sprinkled with tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The long tapered sleeves came to petal points over the hands. The skirt was edged in a scalloped design giving an overskirt effect and falling gracefully over layers of filmy imported tulle. Medallions of re-embroidered lace were scattered over the skirt and highlighted with seed pearls, sequins and crystals. The detachable train fell from the back in a cluster of pleats unfolding into a wide chapel sweep.

Her bouffant veil of imported French illusion fell in tiers from a lace crown and was encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white pom mums around a white orchid, with white streamers atop a white Bible.

BETROTHED

Sharon Koksol

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Koksol of Garden City, Kans. announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon, to Phillip Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Price. Wedding vows will be exchanged Aug. 19 in the First Methodist Church of Garden City.

Mrs. Louis A. Cecotti
... nee Beverly Sue Harrington

ATTENDANTS

Carolyn Harrington, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Mrs. Paul McGrew of Borger and Georgia Ann Newell, cousin of the bride, attended her as bridesmaids. They were gowned identically in pastel pink silk organza over taffeta trimmed at the neck, sleeves, waist with tiny satin buttons. The dresses were styled with rounded necklines, short sleeves and deep scooped backed bodices and full skirts of unpressed pleats. Pink silk organza pillbox hats, pink satin shoes and white gloves completed their costumes. They wore wristlet corsages of pink pom mums.

The candlelighters, Laura and Leslie Davis of Amarillo were attired similarly to the bridesmaids, as was the flower girl, Gib Ann Dims. The ring bearer was Mark Fry.

Stanley Harrington, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Paul McGrew of Borger and Dee Alvin Haines. Preceding the ceremony Beverly Sue Harrington sang "Because," "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Danny Urschel, who also played "Clair de Lune," the Bridal Chorus by Wagner and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

RECEPTION

A reception for the young couple was held at the church following the ceremony.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Cecotti wore a beige silk sheath styled with a scalloped lace bodice and matching jacket and gold shoes, bag and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

After two weeks the couple will be at home at Somerset, Penn. where Mr. Cecotti is employed as a geologist with the United Geophysical Corporation.

Mrs. Cecotti is a graduate of Canadian High School and attended West Texas State College and Dallas Christian College. Mr. Cecotti is a graduate of Clearwater High School and the University of Florida.

Take It From Kathy

Dear Kathy: We just had another big family quarrel. My parents aren't speaking to each other. Everyone's mad at me. Whenever I want something, they tell me I'm selfish and then fight about whether or not I should have it.

My father claims that if I'm not asking for clothes, I'm being a pest about dates or parties or staying out late. He says I'm never satisfied, that I never appreciate anything.

Sure — there's always something I'd like to have. Who could stay excited about a dress that's six months old? I don't see why it's a crime to want to go places and do things. All people wish for things they don't have. Don't you think I'm right?

If I'm a spoiled brat, they've made me that way, but I'm not. I'm just human. If parents tried to remember what it was like when they were growing up, we wouldn't have half so many problems. — Jean C.

Dear Jegg: Lots of people stay happy with dresses that are six months old. Some of the world's best-dressed women have kept and worn favorite clothing for years. I don't know whether you're spoiled or just a teen with normal growing pains. I suspect that you haven't learned to take "No" for an answer.

The whole family would be happier if your parents listened to each request and then took the time to discuss it privately before giving you an answer. After careful consideration, they should announce their decision. You should accept it.

Thinking ahead and wishing for things that could make life happier is natural and human. This is a basis for initiative and ambition, but planning for tomorrow can become so important that you are always impatient with the present.

Just make sure that wishing ahead doesn't spoil today, or you won't experience satisfaction and real happiness.

Dear Abby....

Ex-Boyfriend's Car
Scarecrow To Others

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know my parents mean well but they are not on my side in a very important matter. I used to like a boy named Dick, but I lost interest in him. My parents are crazy about Dick, and have practically made him a member of the family. They have told him he is welcome to come over any time, which he does. I would just as soon not have him around the house all the time as other boys stay away when they see his car parked outside. My parents say he comes over to see THEM, not me, and I don't have to pay any attention to him. Do you think this is fair to me?

SHELLY

DEAR SHELLY: Your parents may "mean well" but they are certainly not being fair to you. Explain how Dick's car is a "scarecrow" keeping more desirable birds away and perhaps your parents will reconsider and change their tactics.

DEAR ABBY: You always preach that children should "honor their parents." I don't want to seem heartless, but it is my experience that people usually get back what they give. Just because they happen to be parents doesn't entitle them to "respect" they haven't earned. I know a widow who cries all over town that her children ignore her. Actually all her life she made trouble for them with her wicked tongue and evil imagination. Now they want nothing to do with her. And who can blame them? Be fair, Abby, and print this to show the other side of it.

OLD BUT NOT LONELY

DEAR ABBY: I recently graduated from secretarial school and got a job as secretary to a man who is old enough to be my grandfather. When I take dictation, he pulls my chair near his. Several times he has pressed his knee to mine. I thought it was an accident at first, so I just moved my knee. Now I know it is no accident! How can I put a stop to it without making an embarrassing accusation or getting fired?

NEW GIRL

DEAR GIRL: There are more than knees involved here. Start looking for another job or you'll

Sod house, left, Oklahoma Territory, circa 1890, is representative of a type of construction which provided homes for many pioneering families. At center, old-timer registers fierce determination as he poses with his trusty Winchester in this early photo. Couple, right,

Newspaper Editors' Views Of Khrushchev

By United Press International
A group of American newspaper editors interviewed Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for 2½ hours in the Kremlin last Friday. Here are some impressions of him:

Lee Hills, vice president and executive editor, Knight Newspapers: "Nikita S. Khrushchev is a shrewd, tough master politician who is irreversibly changing Russia and strengthening it."

"He definitely does not want war. It would be suicide. But this doesn't mean he will abandon tensions and crises as a means of winning with all the wily cunning of his predecessors, and with Soviet control over people and economy, he is bent on making the U.S.S.R. second to no nation on earth."

"He looked healthy and vigorous but tired. Twice during the long interview he stifled yawns. At other times he was full of beans, bounce and ebullience."

"Without taking a note he digested and answered involved questions. He (was) extraordinarily articulate."

"It was a remarkable mental performance combining memory, quick humor, quaint peasant references and a fund of information."

Walker Stone, editor-in-chief, Scripps - Howard Newspapers: "even Huey Long, telling the U.S. Senate his robustness and involved recipes for making potlikker, was a piker as a political filibusterer compared to Nikita Khrushchev engaged in a newspaper interview."

Felix M. Knight, executive editor for Dallas Times Herald — "Premier Nikita Khrushchev sternly reprimanded me in his Kremlin conference room."

"He chided me. He spoke of my ignorance of space missiles. And he was more than subtle in suggesting that I go back to school."

"But he never answered my question (about the Soviets breaking the nuclear test ban) in his 12-minute lecture that ranged from latherly admonitions to anger and boasts of deadly power. My colleagues suggested that my question could draw fire. It did."

Paul Miller, president, the Gannett newspapers, Rochester, N.Y.: "Khrushchev is short, less corpulent than when he visited the United States...his eyes are small and piercing...his strong neck and bullet head fully match the cartoonists' caricatures."

Robert H. Estabrook, editor, editorial page, Washington Post: "Khrushchev seemed surprised when a chorus of 'no' (described in the transcript as 'yes') greeted his question whether the editors had been permitted to see all they wanted to see."

John P. Harris, columnist, Hutchinson (Kan.) News: "He was informal and frank. He jollied, boasted, lectured, accused and threatened."

"He freely admitted Soviet shortcomings and accompanied his words with gold-toothed grins, chuckles and an occasional scowl."

Area Woman Wins Week End Vacation

PANHANDLE (Sp) — Is it not often that the mere fact of keeping four grandchildren for a month earns one a week-end vacation in a nice motel and vacation merchandise for a trip, but it did for Mrs. Tommy Newton, 1208 Franklin, Panhandle.

Mrs. Newton sent in the following statement in the Family Vacation Sweepstakes, sponsored by the Interstate Theatres:

"I have just finished keeping four grandchildren for one month, and brother I NEED a vacation."

For sincerity and wit, Mrs. Newton won the vacation, a week end for the family at the Crossroads Motel, Amarillo, with the fanciest dinner the vacationer could choose. In addition to the week end at the Crossroads, she received a Brownie camera, a fishing reel, tennis shoes, a full tank of gas and a grease job for the car, lady's swim suit, swim trunks and terry cloth shirt, an ice cooler and a picnic jug. The bonus was a month's pass to the Amarillo Interstate Theatres.

Mrs. Newton stated that she enjoyed the grandchildren, ages 13, 12, 10, 6, but the schedule was strenuous. She is now ready for a rest from the children, whose homes are in El Paso and Richardson. Following the vacation she will return to her household duties and do some work in her garden and writing, which she does strictly as a hobby. She is also a movie fan and expects to enjoy her theatre tickets.

Mrs. Newton has lived in this area for 33 years, being a former Borger resident before coming to Panhandle 3½ years ago. Her husband is a postal clerk at the Panhandle Post Office.

The Newtons spent the week end in Amarillo, where they picked up their other prizes. At present they do not plan any other vacation this summer.

Farm Safety Week Points Up Need for Year-Around Safety Practices

A special week to alert rural residents to the hazards of farm life has been set by the President and the Governor, and an intensive campaign is being conducted in Texas to call public attention to this serious problem, according to Herman Clark of Houston, president of the Texas Farm & Ranch Safety Council.

The week of July 22-28 has been designated "National Farm Safety Week" by President Kennedy and "Texas Farm Safety Week" by Governor Daniel. Many county judges over the state will issue proclamations calling for countywide observance of the week. Theme of this year's observance is "Family Safety — Work and Play."

Clark said the observance is coordinated on the national level by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and on the state level by the Texas Farm & Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Farm Bureau, and the Extension Service.

Kennedy, in his proclamation, calls for all persons and organizations allied with agriculture to join together in a strong effort to reduce the number of farm, home and highway accidents.

In proclaiming the state observance, Daniel said, "Texas cannot afford the loss in human life, the misery of human injury, nor the economic costs resulting from farm accidents and others involving farm families."

Daniel noted that traffic crashes involving Texas farm families in 1961 resulted in more than 170 deaths, more than 600 injuries and more than 1,600 non-injury mishaps. He urged all Texas farm families to "acquaint themselves with the hazards of their specialized occupation, and encourage all interested Texans and Texas organizations to take an active part in this campaign for active part in this campaign for greater farm safety."

Each day of the special week will have a different theme emphasized, Clark said. Beginning Sunday, July 22, they are: Reverence for Life; Safety Begins at Home; Agricultural Chemicals; Prevent Falls; Highway Safety; Farm Machinery; and Recreation Safety.

Clark pointed out that in one year, accidents of all types kill about 11,300 rural residents and injure about a million. Nearly half of the deaths are caused by traffic mishaps.

SWITCH ON NATURE—Dr. Gregory Pincus, head of the birth defects research program of the Foundation for Experimental Biology at Worcester, Mass., dips a batch of eggs into a hormone solution which scientists have found will change the sex of chicks before they are hatched.

Which Sounds Should Container Make In Basket?

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The struggle to determine what kind of sound shall be made by the soft drink containers bouncing around in a market basket is reaching its annual thirsty season peak about now.

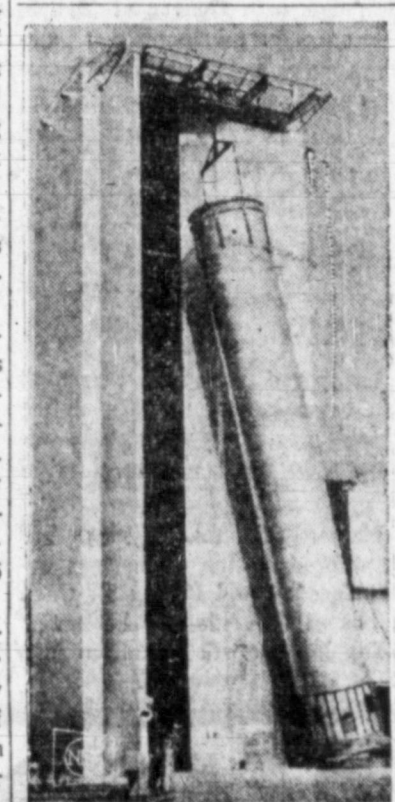

Shall it be a metallic or a glassy clink when the container gets on the kitchen table or refrigerator shelf at home?

Steel companies, promoting extensively, say the metallic sounds are heard in an increasing number of homes and industrial locations by the soft drink imbiber. The soft drink field is a thirsty one: Estimates on which both metal and glass men agree put consumption in 1961 at more than 35 billion units.

Glass advocates, as characterized by the Glass Container Mfrs. Institute, Inc., say that they are holding their own and that if expected developments occur in the soft drink container field, their production figures still will rise. Richard L. Cheney, executive director and marketing manager of the GCMi said that his research indicates that the consumer preference for bottle-scrus-can in the soft drink field is 9-to-one for bottles, either returnable or non-returnable.

"The bottling industry," he said "was built on returnables. The returnable bottle is an economical container; figures show that domestic shipments in 1961 of bottles for soft drinks were 1,337,760,000 units, and non-returnables 401,904,000 units."

South Rose Again To Defeat North In Texas 'Star' Tilt

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — San Antonio Mission stars did yeoman duty Tuesday night when the South beat the North 2-1 in the 1962 Texas League all-star game.

Mission third sacker Don Eaddy provided the winning margin with a bases-empty homer in the seventh. San Antonio southpaw Morris Stevens was the winning pitcher.

The game was expected to be a slugfest but turned into a tight pitching contest. South hurlers gave up six hits, the north pitchers eight.

Angels Keep Pace In American League Race

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky may be the darling of the Hollywood Dawn Patrol but when it's first-class pitching that's needed the Los Angeles Angels will take Ken McBride.

Belinsky "made it big" in the Hollywood night spots when he pitched a no-hitter for the Angels May 5. At the time McBride owned a 1-3 record and couldn't have gotten an autograph from a Class C Western starlet without an introduction from a half-dozen press agents.

But that's ancient history today because the 26-year-old right-hander from Huntsville, Ala., has reeled off nine straight victories to give him a 10-3 record while Belinsky has won only three games since his no-hitter and stands at 7-4.

McBride, obtained for $75,000 from the Chicago White Sox last December, pitched his third 1-0 win of the season Tuesday night when the Angels beat the Detroit Tigers and remained 3½ games behind the American League-leading New York Yankees, who topped the Boston Red Sox, 1-0.

McBride has won three of the Angels' five games since July 2. He has hurled three shutouts and pitched four games in which he has yielded two runs or less.

McBride got the run he needed to top Detroit's Hank Aguirre when Steve Binko singled. Felix Torres doubled and Lee Thomas singled in the fourth inning. He pitched a three-hitter and walked only three while striking out six.

The Cleveland Indians dropped 4½ games off the pace when they were beaten by the Minnesota Twins, 7-2, the Baltimore Orioles downed the Kansas City Athletics, 3-2, and the Washington Senators swept the Chicago White Sox, 1-0 and 7-3, in the other American League games.

The San Francisco Giants moved to within one game of first place in the National League when they edged out the Milwaukee Braves, 4-3, while the Cincinnati Reds beat the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-5. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs, 8-6, and the Philadelphia Phillies made it 10 in a row for the season over the Houston Colts with 3-0 and 8-2 triumphs in the other NL games.

Ralph Terry struck out nine and pitched a four-hitter to win his 12th game for the Yankees, who scored their run on eighth-inning singles by Hector Lopez, Cleve Boyer and Tom Tresh. Gene Conley suffered his eighth loss although he allowed only five hits in eight innings.

Camilo Pascual pitched a five-hitter and struck out 10 to win his 14th game and increase his league-leading strikeout total to 130 behind a Minnesota attack that included homers by Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison. Gary Bell, tagged for six runs in 2-1-3 innings, dropped his seventh decision.

Robin Roberts' seven-hitter and Marv Breeding's first homer of the season enabled the Orioles to hand Kansas City's Ed Rakow his 11th defeat. Roberts struck out three and walked two in winning his fifth game.

Don Lock's homer provided Dave Stenhouse, who pitched a three-hitter, with the run he needed to post his eighth win and deal Juan Pizarro his eighth loss. Ken Retzer hit two doubles and a single to lead a nine-hit Washington attack in the nightcap.

Early Wynn, trying for the 29th win of his major league career, suffered his seventh loss of the season for the White Sox in the nightcap.

Second baseman Amado Samuel's ninth-inning error let Orlando Cepeda score from second base with the run that gave the Giants their victory. Cepeda and Felipe Alou homered for the Giants and Hank Aaron hit No. 23 of the season for the Braves.

Billy O'Dell received credit for his 11th win.

Moe Drabowsky's six innings of three-hit shutout relief pitching stopped the Dodgers after the Reds ran up a 6-2 lead in three

Indianapolis Smashes Out 11-7 Win Over All-Stars

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Indianapolis exploded for a record six doubles, including one by winning southpaw Herb Score, to grab an 11-7 slugfest from the American Association All-Stars Tuesday night.

Score, sent down from the Chicago White Sox early this season, also smacked a single to pace the Indians to their third victory in four All-Star tilts.

The win evens the series at 10 decisions each for the hosts and the All-Stars.

Starter Score, one of three Indian pitchers, was lifted in the fifth inning.

Both teams got 13 hits, but the All-Stars were saddled with three errors and the Tribe none. The old record of five doubles was held by the All-Stars of 1939 and 1958.

Jack Smith of Omaha, the second of six All-Star hurlers, was tagged with the loss.

No games were scheduled to night. Things get back to normal Thursday with Denver at Dallas-Fort Worth; Indianapolis at Oklahoma City, and Omaha at Louisville for night games.

Junior Golf Lessons To Start Friday

Junior golf lessons for kids 10-14 will begin Friday morning at the Pampa country club course, according to Hart Warren, local pro.

Warren said that lessons will be offered to the youngsters every Tuesday and Friday for three weeks at 50 cents per lesson. The lessons will last from 9:30 to 11:00 each morning.

Palmer Favored In PGA Golf Tourney

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (UPI) — The odds makers made Arnold Palmer a 2-1 favorite today to win the PGA golf championship but there was surprising support for a 15-1 shot in the field — ruddy-faced Phil Rodgers.

The cocky redhead from California has been coming close, but up to now never has been able to catch the favored Palmer in a big one. Rodgers finished two strokes behind Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in the U.S. Open last month and last week tied for third in the British Open—seven shots behind Palmer.

Nicklaus, who beat Palmer in a playoff for the U.S. Open title, was the second choice in the field of 172 golfers at 3-1. Behind him and ahead of Rodgers came defending champion Jerry Barber and Gary Player at 5-1, Billy Casper 6-1, Dow Finsterwald 8-1 and Gene Littler 10-1.

"I don't think that in a field like this one any golfer is good enough to be a 2-1 shot," Palmer said. "But I sure hope the odds makers are right."

Palmer had a four-over-par 74 Tuesday in a practice round over the 7,040 yard Aronimink course with its par of 35-35 — 70 while Nicklaus fired a two-under 68.

Rodgers was late showing up and planned to play his first—and final—practice round today. But Rodgers doesn't worry about things like that.

He wasn't even concerned when it took him four strokes to get his ball out of a tree in the Open at Oakmont—last month.

He came into the press tent the next day and a golf writer suggested he had good luck.

"What was tough about it," he asked. "Why just a couple of hours ago I four-putted the 10th green—from eight feet."

And he lost the title by two strokes.

"I'll make up for it some day," he promised.

The golfing pros think he could do it here. One reason they are high on the 24-year-old Rodgers is that nothing seems to disturb him—even those two disastrous holes at Oakmont.

"You do or you don't," is his philosophy of the game.

So far it has worked well. He made his first appearance as a professional in the 1961 St. Paul Open.

In less than a full year on the tour, the confident kid from La Jolla—which had produced such golfers as Casper, Littler, Don Whitt and Mickey Wright, the leading money winner among the gal pros — has won two tournaments, the 1962 Los Angeles and Tucson opens. That is better than any first year pro ever has done.

In addition he placed in the top five in five other tournaments and seventh on the money winning list with a total of $28,091.90. A victory here, with its first place money of at least $11,000, would jump him into fifth place—behind Palmer, Littler, Casper and Nicklaus.

Baugh Released By Grid Titans

NEW YORK (UPI)—If any pro-football team is looking for an assistant coach, Sammy Baugh is available.

Baugh was released as "advisor and kicking coach" of the New York Titans of the American Football League Tuesday. He was given the dual post of the close of the 1961 season after being fired as head coach of the Titans.

Harry Wismer, club president, said Baugh will receive his $20,000 salary for the coming season, which represents the final year of a three-year contract he had with the Titans.

"I'd like to stay in the league in some capacity," Baugh said before returning to his Texas ranch. "Yes, I'd take an assistant's job, but I don't know if there are any open."

The Titans had a 7-7 record in each of their first two seasons under Baugh. Wismer, though, became openly critical of Sammy midway in the 1961 season and finally replaced him with Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, former all-pro center and a close friend of Baugh.

PROUD POP — Great former Yankee baseball star Joe DiMaggio left, beams as his son Joe, Jr. shows him the American Spirit Honor Medal he received upon graduation from the U.S. Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

Blanda Will Guide Fortunes Of Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — George Blanda, looking prosperous and slightly overweight, took over the familiar role of leader of the Houston Oilers today as they started their campaign for a third straight American Football League championship.

Blanda, the 1961 AFL Player of the Year, started his 14th professional season when he led 30 veterans onto the Oilers' pre-season training camp field at Ellington Air Force Base.

The 34-year-old Blanda, former University of Kentucky and Chicago Bear quarterback, barely had checked out his play notebook this week when he assumed his authority. By tacit agreement, he became team spokesman to the press on Oiler prospects.

"We're stronger and our younger men have gained experience, but the other clubs improved also," he said on his way to meet new oiler coach Frank (Pop) Ivy. Without hesitation, he picked Houston to repeat as Eastern Division champs and San Diego to take it all in the West.

Blanda warmly greeted the players he calls his favorite people; offensive guards Hogan Wharton and Al Jamison and halfback Billy Cannon, the core of his past protection.

Ivy said all the Oiler regulars showed a lot of enthusiasm and except for a few extra pounds, most of the veterans reported to camp in good shape.

The Oilers Tuesday lost rookie Ralph White of Bowling Green, the club's ninth draft choice in 1960, when doctors found he had torn a ligament in his right knee.

White was the second line candidate, felled in two days at the Oilers' rookie camp. Bill Miller of New Mexico Highlands was lost earlier because of a broken foot.

Thirty members of last year's championship team joined the rookies for a brief drill Monday. Several veterans have not yet signed their 1962 contracts but will participate in preseason training.

SIGNS WITH COLTS

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Running back Tom Matte, hampered by injuries most of last season, has signed his 1962 contract with the Baltimore Colts. Matte suffered a cracked vertebrae in the second game and returning after a five-game layoff he sprained an ankle.

RICH DAILY DOUBLE

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Six $2 daily double tickets on the winning $4,337.80 combination of Little Faro and Janie Fox was sold at Thistledown Race Track Tuesday. It was the second largest daily double payoff of the year, being topped only by the $6,141 return at Hollywood Park July 10.

SIGNS BROWN PACT

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Charlie Scales, expected to back up Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis in the Cleveland Browns backfield, has signed his 1962 contract. Scales is a former Pittsburgh Steeler.

FOR MEN ONLY

By Mark Heath

How well will it wear? Here is a question heard by clothing people almost every day. The question is a sincere one on the part of the customer, but it is a real stickler on the part of the salesman.

Each man gives his clothing a different type of wear as a result of his build, his work, and the care he gives his clothing.

We find many men taking two or three suits for business, wearing one all week long, then sending it to the cleaners to be put back in shape. Then he takes his second suit and gives it the same treatment for the following week.

Now this man won't get near the wear from his clothing as the man who would use all three suits during the week, alternating them each day. You will definitely prolong the life of your suits by letting them rest between wearing, and also by cutting down on the number of cleanings you give a suit. While it is important that you should look well groomed, it is equally important that you should rest your clothes as much as possible. Have them cleaned as infrequently as possible, and hang them up properly on a good hanger for at least a 24 hour period.

At Heath's we strive to buy the best basic fabric and well constructed suits in each price range to give you the maximum wear. From then on it's up to you. If you will follow our advice, we are sure you'll save money doing it.

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

The Blameless Ones

There are not nearly enough people around these days who — when they should — can say, "I've made a mistake" and take full responsibility for it.

It is not enough to admit error if one invariably seeks to place the blame elsewhere.

In this Age of the Excuse, too many people do just that.

Recently, a woman driver, evidently upset by an approaching car, swung erratically onto the roadside shoulder and struck a boy walking along. Though he was injured, she lectured him for being where she should not have been, and drove off.

On the highway, in the office, the factory, the schoolroom or the home, almost any kind of shortcoming is in this era too easily shrugged off as somebody else's fault. If all else fails, there is always a person's environment or childhood to blame.

This does not mean that responsibility for mistakes or transgressions never does lie elsewhere, or that powerful, impersonal forces in the environment are never to be held accountable.

It does mean, however, that there is too much of this looking beyond oneself. Human beings are more than clay to be shaped by others. They have wills of their own. At least some of the time, they must bear responsibility for the things they do.

The all too common resort to the refuge of excuse is bad enough. Perhaps still more unfortunate is what seems to be a rising tendency among some folk to meet complaints of error with a wholly unreasonable attack upon critics.

Police who summon parents whose children have been caught in thievery, assault, or in-citing to riot, often see the parents become abusive of the authorities. Usually without evidence, they may present vicious counter-charges, or threaten economic or political blackmail against the arresting officers.

The explosive response of some individuals when challenged in some transgression or error suggests that they regard legitimate criticism as a sort of invasion of privacy.

Mistakes that violate the law may go beyond the bounds of freedom into unreasonable individual license. Errors of lesser kind we are, of course, free to make. But our fellows likewise are free to complain of them.

The individual who can't admit his failings and bear the burden of them is hardly mature. He is trying to get by on a pass.

Things That Endure

Ideas, in spite of the fact that they are invisible, have a strange permanency which many more tangible things do not have.

More Than Money Involved

A spendthrift — individual or government — eventually faces but one end — bankruptcy.

It takes government longer than individuals to go broke, because governments can cover their waste and extravagance by bleeding the individual white with taxation and by borrowing until inflation makes their money worthless.

Commenting on the tax and debt situation in the United States, Garth A. Shoemaker, president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey of New York, points out that federal government expenditures planned for 1963 exceed those of 1962 by nearly $3.5 billion and 1962 spending exceeded 1961 by about $7.5 billion. He adds: "In the period of the last six fiscal years ending June 1962, budget expenditures of our national government have exceeded revenues by $23 billion and the difference was made up by going deeper into debt. The statutory limit on the federal debt has been raised twice in the past year and is now being raised a third time to $308 billion. At its World War II peak, the debt never exceeded $290 billion. Decline from that height was reversed by the outbreak in Korea but, even so, the $308 billion ceiling will be some $40 billion higher than the debt at the end of the Korean War."

The costly welfare state idea is being steadily forced on our nation. This, together with various schemes, whereby tax-exempt federal business projects discourage or displace tax-paying private enterprise, costs the government tax revenue and forces it to borrow more and more money to meet deficits.

Just why Congress tolerates socialistic experiments that sap the vitality of sorely needed tax-paying enterprise, is hard to understand. Unless the trend is reversed, our loss will be more than money — it will be the end of individual opportunity and liberty itself.

Big Question

Does anyone in the government really want to save the taxpayers money?

Before considering that question, read this story.

Last January 14, established electric utilities — all big taxpayers, all under public regulation — submitted a plan for firming the federal government's hydroelectric system on the Missouri river. It would work on a barter plan, with no money changing hands. The utilities would supply needed supplemental power to the government system during low water periods, and the government would pay it back during the periods when water releases were ample.

Now the Department of the Interior has rejected the proposal. Instead, it apparently has decided to accept a plan proposed by a group of rural electric co-ops involving the construction of a $36 million steam plant. The plant doesn't exist now, couldn't be completed for several years, and wouldn't be needed at all if the utility plan were accepted. It would be financed with a Rural Electrification Administration loan, at below-cost interest rates, which is a form of subsidy if there ever was one. And, as a practical matter, it would provide only about 30 per cent as much supplementary power as would the utility offer.

There's the story. Now you might consider the question which opens this little piece.

Clerk — What's wrong, sir? Doesn't it work right?

Deaf Man — Oh, it worked fine, but after being able to hear my wife talk again I suddenly realized how lucky I was to be deaf.

The American Way

By ROBERT MORRIS
CHOPPING UP OUR FRIENDS
PREPARATORY TO MERGER
WITH OUR ENEMIES

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Morris, Past President of the University of Dallas, was formerly chief counsel or the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security.)

We have been writing of the disastrous consequences that would flow to us from the success of our present "Disarmament Program." This program calls for the dismantling, in three stages, of our military establishment and the creation of a UN Peace Force that would, by the third stage, possess all the weapons of the world. This force, being all powerful, would necessarily rule the world.

This is not disarmament at all, but the creation of a world government wherein we would be a small minority force with the balance of power in the hands of the emergent "neutral" nations. We have written that this "program" (which has been described as "fixed policy") should be opposed as vigorously as possible.

We have been hearing that the State Department is now quietly putting out the answer that it has proclaimed this "disarmament" policy for propaganda purposes and is not serious about it.

This contention is inconsistent with the vigorous implementation the planners are carrying on. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson has said he would press for changes that would increase the UN ability to enforce decisions. His office further stated that "studies are being made in Washington now on ways of strengthening the United Nations' peace-keeping machinery."

This "program," moreover, is really the crystallization of our fixed policy that from time to time has been discernible and which is regularly the subject of this column.

Two good reporters, Willard Edwards and Edith Kermit Roosevelt, recently brought out details of the report of George Ball, Undersecretary of State on Military Security, that further reflects this policy. This report reveals that our policy is not "victory over Communist aggression," but "accommodation" with the Soviet Union. Edith Roosevelt went on to quote a policy planner as follows:

"The purpose of American policy is to work for a merger of East and West. It is believed accommodation can be reached as the two systems become more alike politically and economically. As the United States adopts a more collectivist pattern of federal control, while at the same time a consolidation of Soviet rule makes genocide, purges and other less-pleasant attributes of the police state unnecessary."

This sounds extreme but it dovetails with not only the "disarmament program," but it repeatedly finds expression in the otherwise unexplainable actions of our policy planners with respect to the various countries around the world.

But if "merger" is our goal, I keep wondering why our planners seem to be further reducing our already-minority position within the framework. They are doing this by reducing the status and the strength of our Western allies while preparing for this merger.

Our planners, for instance, have renewed their campaign against Spain and Portugal. Even the language of the reporters attached to our government agencies is revealing. The heads of state in Spain and Portugal are "Dictator Franco" and "Dictator or Strong Man Salazar." At the same time we read of polite references to "Marshal Tito, Chairman Khrushchev or Prime Minister Gomulka." (In Laos General Nongavan, because he resists a minority rule in a Communist-ruled coalition government, was openly referred to as "strong man" and "right wing extremist.")

In Angola, a Province of Portugal, the Communist-led terrorists struck on May 15, 1961, in a carefully organized series of raids. They killed and grotesquely disfigured the bodies of more than 5,000 Angolans, white and colored. Since then the terrorists have killed over 8,000 more people and boast about it.

Nevertheless we do not read a word about these killings in our press. Our State Department is silent on these atrocities. When the terrorists in Algeria kill 30, it is front page news; but the Communist murders in Angola, involving thousands of human beings, are not even mentioned.

Actually the State Department is not altogether silent on Angola. In the councils of the world it has taken its position with the terrorists and murderers and against our allies! So we chop up our friends and prepare to merge with our enemies.

THIS IS PROGRESS?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Transit Authority reported proudly Monday the average speed of its bus runs increased from 11.5 to 11.7 miles an hour last year.

The Chicago Sun-Times retorted that in 1906 horse cars on State Street averaged 12 miles an hour.

Isn't That Wonderful?

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

Worse hit than the tobacco industry by the cancer scares is the U.S. cold tablet business, but nobody knows just why. The sales of cold remedies leaped from $32 million in 1956 to $65 million only three years later, but it fell off by $2 million in 1960 and has been sliding downward since. It may be that people are contracting fewer colds, but there are no statistics on that yet.

News of a brighter hue is that U.S. sales of red ink fell off 9 per cent last year from 1960. But what red ink will do during 1962 is still in doubt.

Culinary note in the Chicago Tribune: "If you want to bake fish on a hardwood plan, oil the plan well." Amphibian tour: Cruising along the New England coast this summer is a 107-foot yacht which has a compact automobile suspended from one pair of its davits instead of a lifeboat or motor launch. When the yachtman feels the urge, he merely sails up to a pier, swings the small car onto it and does some road driving as his craft follows him along the shore.

Today's favorite gag: An ardent unionist was attending his first symphony concert. He looked on absorbed during a cello solo number, during which all the other orchestra members remained perfectly still. Finally the union man could stand it no longer, turned to a friend and exclaimed: "Boy, talk about feather-bedding—this is the greatest!"

If you think air is light, be advised that the established weight of the earth's atmosphere is 5,633,000,000,000,000 tons. Mind bet: Maurice Ravel composed his best known work, the classic Bolero, to convince himself that he could string out for 15 minutes a single intriguing melody by increasingly pouring on musical intensity. Observes a cynic: "The happiest people sometimes seem to be those who have the most interesting troubles."

Thoughts while shaving: 1. It seems incredible now, but in the presidential campaign of 1920, Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, and James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President, both spouted their principal speeches to make phonograph records which readily retailed at 75 cents each among the faithful. 2. One whose understanding of mathematics is far greater than his own asserts that today's marvelous electronic calculators are merely ingenious wheel-and-cog adaptations of the principle of the ancient Chinese abacus. And the original calculators were regarded as black boxes that multiplied with radio tubes. 3. One executive who finds it necessary to lug home a briefcase of office stuff with him after his working day explains it this way: "During the day I keep up with my work, and in the evening I keep ahead of it." 4. An expression often heard is, "The watched pot never boils." Oh, yeah? Well, turn the heat on, keep watching the pot, and it'll boil all right. Or if it doesn't, there's something wrong

Allen-Scott Report

Red Veterans of Greek Civil War Returning to Border; U.S. Greeks Explore Meaning — Is Move 'Keep Off' on Albania

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — U.S. and Greek officials are watching with growing concern the first ominous results of Premier Khrushchev's mid-May visit to neighboring Communist Bulgaria.

Hundreds of Communist guerrillas who fought in the unsuccessful Greek civil war have moved back into the Macedonia areas of Bulgaria and Yugoslavia from their postwar haven in the Soviet Union.

Located on the Greek border, the mountainous sanctuaries in Macedonia were used by Stalin after World War II to funnel thousands of Red guerrillas into the bloody uprising in Greece.

The secret return of these partisans to this sensitive Balkan area was discovered earlier this month by Greek Intelligence agents passing through these regions as mountain climbers.

The agents reported seeing more than 200 guerrillas, including a number of Greek children captured by the Communists during the civil war, in the Macedonia area of Yugoslavia that borders Greece.

The "Orphans of the Storm," as the Greek children are called, said their group has just arrived from the Soviet Union. They appeared to be fully indoctrinated in Communist doctrine and guerrilla warfare. All carried automatic weapons of Soviet design.

About 150 of the Communist Greek guerrillas, including a number of Russian wives, were discovered in newly-settled camps on the Bulgaria-Greek border. These Greek partisans told stories of leaving the Soviet Union late in June, or just a month after Khrushchev visited Bulgaria.

The guerrillas indicated they are the vanguard, and that others still in the Soviet Union are to join them before the fall. They expressed hopes of eventually returning to their home land.

BEHIND THE RETURN — The Kremlin's purpose in returning the Communist guerrillas is believed to be tied into a whole program of improving Soviet-Yugoslav relations toward which Khrushchev and Tito have agreed to work.

Greek officials are concerned that the return is part of a Khrushchev-Tito move to set the stage for a second attempt to overthrow their government.

U.S. officials have another theory. They believe that Tito is planning an uprising in Albania, and that he is installing guerrillas on the border as a warning to with your kitchen range. Our trouble when NOT watching the pot is that it'll boil over.

Country editor speaking: "Voice prints, analyzed and coded by computer, may some day be as reliable as fingerprints in establishing identity, according to Bell laboratory scientists. This will make silence more golden than ever."

the Greek government to keep hands off.

George Kennan, U.S. Ambassador to Yugoslavia, has recommended that the NATO nations, including the U.S. and Greece, adopt a "hands off" policy in Communist Albania's bitter quarrel with Yugoslavia.

He recently testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "Tito is trying his best to knock off the stinking, Stalinist, pro-Red China, Dictator (Enver) Hoxha regime in Albania by using covert operations within the Communist party there. If these internal subversion efforts fail, he will resort to overt military action."

Kennan warned that Tito will not tolerate any attempt by Greece, or any other Western nation, to use the Communist split with Albania as an opening to pry that country from the Communist orbit.

This blunt warning by Kennan clashes head-on with the policy the present Greek government is planning to follow if Tito tries to annex Albania. The Greeks themselves are prepared to take over a section of Albania that they have claimed for years.

ENDING A MYTH — The book "Conversations with Stalin" by Milovan Djilas, a former high-ranking Yugoslav Communist official, is forcing U.S. Intelligence officials to revise their estimates that Tito closed Yugoslav's border to Greek partisans to help the West win the civil war. According to Djilas, who was sent to prison on May 14 for divulging "official secrets," Tito closed the borders on direct orders from Stalin.

Djilas related details of one high-level meeting he attended (February 10, 1948) at which Stalin announced:

"The uprising in Greece has to be fanned. Do you think that Great Britain and the U.S., the most powerful state in the world, will permit you to break their line of communication in the Mediterranean Sea? Nonsense. And we have no navy. The uprising in Greece must be stopped and as quickly as possible."

It was after this meeting that Tito ordered the border closed to Greek guerrillas, according to Djilas.

MAKING CHANGES — The Agriculture Department is stockpiling large quantities of wheat and barley on the West Coast. Upwards of 15 million bushels of wheat are being moved to Stockton, Calif., and Portland, Ore., from storage facilities in the Midwest. Agriculture Department officials say the grain is destined for Japan and not Red China as some rumors persist. President Kennedy is planning to name new Ambassadors to West Germany, Vienna and Thailand before Congress quits. He has temporarily dropped plans to replace Ambassador James Gavin in Paris.

Pegler Says:

State Strangling 'Little Fellows' In Oil Industry

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ODESSA, Tex., recently celebrated a festival called "Appreciation Week" in tribute to three majestic new industries which have raised awe-inspiring structures on the old cattle prairies a mile south of town. They are El Paso Natural Gas Products Co., the General Tire Co., which now goes in for petroleum products, and Rexall Chemical, which produces plastic things like pill bottles and slip-covers for porch furniture.

Concurrently, in the much more stylish and pretentious city of Midland, 20 miles to the east, the news is not good. There have been 471 foreclosures on dwellings, both FHA and VA, and there are 271 delinquents. And only 247 oil drilling rigs are working as against 800 about eight years ago. Some of the mortgage defaulters are upgrading themselves into bigger homes as the prices drop, but the figures altogether justify only one conclusion. The economy is absolutely out of joint.

Odesa used to be the mud-spattered rough-neck, Odesa still is the roughneck, which is an honored name of a formidable calling, the roustabout, who works on oil rigs. Midland is the executive and financial capital of the great Permian oil basin. Both cities now have tall buildings on streets which were dirt roads 20 years ago. Midland is the outpost of Wall Street. The geologists live there, too.

Odesa sells, salvages, repairs, and generally keeps the machinery going. It is not jewelry. It is unsightly pipe of many dimensions, derricks, pumps and heavy-duty trucks. Odesa now has about 75,000 people. Midland has about 60,000. Both cities now have expensive stores, including jewelry stores, whereas only an hour and a half to the north the ghastly ghost-town of Wink is on the public hide like a tick on a cow, for more than a million dollars' public charity for "urban rehabilitation." It would have been better to level the damned mess with earth-movers, for it has no conceivable use for any useful people — that the oil beneath the spread has been exhausted. But has it been exhausted? I will come back to that.

Texas is really a distressed area for all her reputation as a blow-hard spendthrift in New York, Chicago, and latterly, Washington. The base of the prosperity, the economy of Texas, next to farming, which means cotton and beef, is oil and natural gas. But the state Government has been strangling the "little fellows" of the oil industry with a limitation on the number of days that a well is permitted to produce up to its normal, rated capacity. This limit is called the "allowable," commonly pronounced "the lubble."

The lubble is now static at eight days a month. This is very popular with the giants of international oil such as Humble, a subsidiary of Jersey; Shell, Mobil, Cities Service, and Tidewater. They import foreign oil from the Near East and Venezuela for a dollar a barrel at the rate of about two million barrels a day. Texas oil brings about $3 a barrel. So the Big Fellows have it made either way. The lower the Texas can market here. But if Texas were to abandon control absolutely, her own known reserves would be used up in a very few years. But her known reserves are not her unproven potential. Thousands of the wildcat and development holes drilled by the Little Fellows are just liddy-biddy or so. Such a hole will cost from $25,000 to $50,000. If it makes oil, or gas, the Little Fellow pulls up his pipe, lowers the rig and —

Well, he does not necessarily begin to sell oil or gas, although he has it to sell, underground. First he must either connect with a pipeline or contract with a man to come around with a tank-truck on his lubble days and fetch it to the market. Or, if he has a gas mine in some cavern down there in the dark, he must first wheedle some pipeline to come and tap him and then submit to arbitrary prices imposed by the Federal Power Commission in Washington in the most fascinating tangle of court decisions and appeals ever amassed. Meanwhile some companies which produce and buy gas are putting money into dead storage against a day when they may have to refund hundreds of millions to householders and other customers if current retail prices are disallowed.

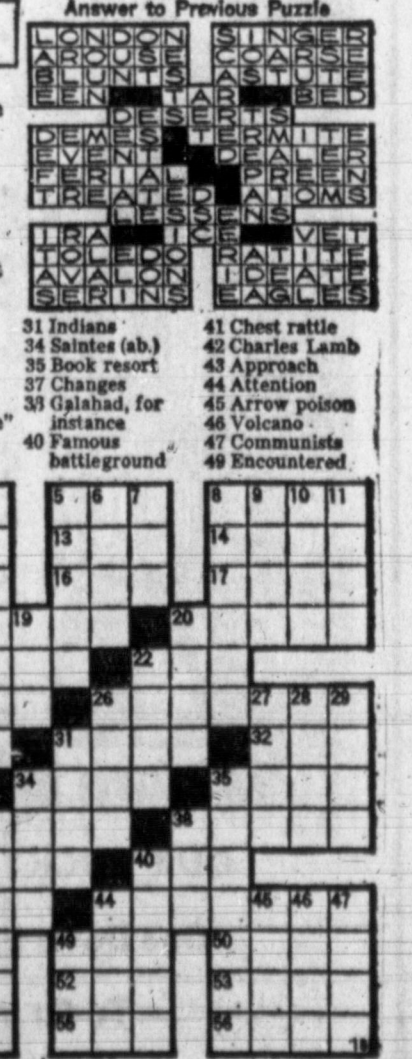

Some of the court appeals take three years. A mere motion may take six months. Nobody on this earth understands all the technicalities which have been raised to disguise the fact that a Federal bureau in Washington presumes to tell a citizen in Texas how much he may charge for a thousand cubic feet of gas in his own ground. No other fuel is so controlled. In the last three months El Paso laid off more than a hundred of the best men of its small staff. The future was too uncertain to justify exploration and the accumulation of leases on further reserves. Other companies are up against about the same problem.

The Big Fellows probably have the future of Texas oil and gas in their chubby hands. For they can go down to 20,000 or 25,000 feet. Nobody really knows what is down that far. But they can afford to try and results to date justify a strong hope that if Russia and the Near East should run the United States out of other world markets, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Louisiana could produce quantities not yet imagined from way down deep.

Odesa is only 70 miles east of Pecos, which is coming on with a rush as a producer. But thus far, Pecos is only tentative and the business men there who are scoffing at their Estes disaster, are whistling past the graveyard. It does the economy of a farming country no good to have most of her most prominent men wiped out in a confidence game. That is the fact in Pecos and still the public indignation of this old-line church-going American town runs not against Billie Sol but against Dr. John Dunn, a local physician and member of the John Birch Society, for snatching the mask off a psalm-singing pulpit — slap-

How a Billie Sol Estes could operate is explained by a maze of laws and the tangled administration of the Agriculture Department. It is the story of the...

Triumph Of Bureaucracy

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The federal government's multi-billion-dollar farm program setup is an open invitation to crime and corruption.

The potential profits are large, the chances of getting caught are small. The penalties for getting caught are light and in some cases non-existent.

In an effort to correct this situation, the Department of Agriculture is installing a complicated electronic "game." An expert will "play" that game day in and day out to determine all the ways a Billie Sol Estes could get around the nation's farm regulations.

Then Agriculture experts will try to plug the loopholes. "We won't catch all of them," says one harassed official. "But we'll find some."

In another section of the Agriculture Department, officials are working on a system that will flash a red flag for Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman when a sizeable amount of cotton allotments is transferred from one state to another.

"We'd like to set up a system to red flag every important transaction which might tip us off to a possible fraud or evasion," says one of the technical experts. "But there are so many possible indicators we might end up red flagging ourselves to death."

EDITOR'S NOTE: The U.S. Department of Agriculture is 100 years old this year, but it has little to be joyous about and it is definitely showing its age. The Estes case, reports of scandals in cotton sales and rice allotments have marred the celebration. To find out how and why these things happen, Washington reporter Ray Cromley spent weeks digging into the department's working ways. This is the first of three reports on what he found.

Still another group of men are organizing a sort of inspector general section to keep closer tabs on the 200,000 men and women responsible for administering the complicated price, marketing, allotment, relief, conservation, research, insurance, electrification, loan and other Agriculture Department projects.

These three actions give a clue as to how a Billie Sol Estes can flourish. They also indicate that other men such as him could be blooming unknown in the maze of regulations and officialdom which surround the myriad programs under the supervision of the 100-year-old U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Robert S. McNamara is credited with being the first man to master the mammoth Department of Defense. Agriculture Secretary Freeman notes it has been said no man has controlled the sprawling Agriculture Department since the first Henry Wallace back in the early 1920s. Freeman says he is determined to do so. But in the year and a half he has been in office, Freeman has put his major emphasis on selling his agriculture programs to the farmers and to Congress. He has not paid the close attention to Agriculture Department manage-the details of running the Defense establishment. And, of course, the defeat of the administration farm bill in Congress has meant much of Freeman's time and effort have been wasted.

"What's needed in Agriculture," says one official, "is a group of four McNamaras as Assistant Secretaries — one in charge of each major set of programs. For the bureaucrats have taken over almost completely."

Instead, farm officials say Freeman has tended to put intellectuals and theorists in the top positions. They aren't the tough, hard administrators needed to take control and force changes in such situations as these:

There are so many complicated regulations with so many exceptions and counter exceptions that some officials say frankly they can do almost anything and find a way to justify it.

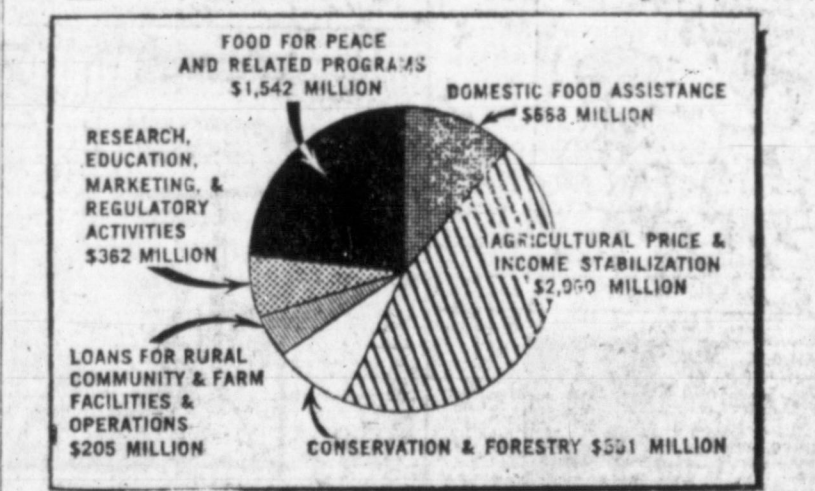

Department of Agriculture programs are rigidly compartmentalized. Often the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing. In any given city there may be a handful of different federal agriculture officers or official groups dealing with farm problems. They may have little intimate direct contact with each other. They may, in fact, be working at cross purposes. One may have information of an attempt to evade regulations — information that put together with information in the hands of a man a few miles away might add up to something significant. But these chunks of information may never be brought together, or may be brought together too late to do any good.

Some Department bureaucrats in key spots over the years have come to do their work routinely and superficially, even when handling transactions involving large amounts of dollars. If a man certifies he bought a piece of land without making any side deals as to cotton allotments, these officials tend to take his word without checking it out. If a certified public accountant testifies a man's net worth is $12 million, these officials tend to accept this.

There has been no complete and thoroughgoing check of the honesty and strength — against temptation of the 200,000 men and women who in one way or another have something to do with administering the Agriculture Department's programs. The great bulk of these men and women are honest, but there has not been a weeding out of those few that are weak and "temptable." These men and women administer about $7.1 billion a year, $3 billion in price and income stabilization programs alone.

There have been reports of a tendency to pick a growing number of Department of Agriculture men for political reasons, rather than for ability. These charges have been denied in the department. Some farm association officials downgrade these charges; some affirm them to be true. This reporter has seen political clearances on some agriculture jobs that were alleged by the department to be nonpolitical.

(NEXT: The big temptations.)

TEMPTATION IS THERE — This chart shows the breakdown of the nearly $7 billion budget of the Agriculture Department.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, July 18, the 199th day of 1962 with 166 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In A. D. 64, Rome burned and the myth of Nero's fiddling started. Violins had not been invented at the time.

In 1838, "Wrong Way" Corrigan took off from New York for California, but landed in Ireland by mistake.

In 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated unanimously for a third term by delegates to the Democratic convention in Chicago.

In 1961, Jersey Joe Walcott won the world heavyweight boxing championship by knocking out Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh.

TRADE PACTS SIGNED

GENEVA (UPI) — Representatives of 28 governments signed world trade liberalization agreements Monday worth an estimated $4.9 billion, it was reported here.

Informed sources described the accord as the biggest international move toward liberalized world trade since the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) was drawn up in Havana in 1947.

Ohio ranks first among states of the Union in production of timothy seed with 8.5 million pounds annually.

Why I Voted Against Foreign Aid

Immediately after World War II there came into being a program called the Marshall Plan. It was so named because it was proposed by George Catlett Marshall, who had served as Supreme Commander during World War II and was subsequently appointed Secretary of State.

The plan was designed primarily to provide aid and assistance to those nations in Western Europe that had been prostrated by the toll of war in both the natural resources and the manpower. Its purpose was to prevent these weak and sick nations from falling prey to Communist domination, or to other political philosophy contrary to democratic principles and to the will of the majority of the people.

Few have challenged the accepted fact that the Marshall Plan had a basic soundness of purpose and, as implemented, provided the nucleus of economic stability to Western Europe.

Many felt that when the primary purposes had been accomplished, the program should be terminated. Undoubtedly, there must have been great controversy as to when and to what extent these purposes had been accomplished, or if they were ever accomplished. The program was not only not terminated, but, like "Topsy," just grew. It grew in Western Europe by leaps and bounds, it spread into every other area of the globe and even behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains. In fact, it expanded in so many directions and in such proportions, that I seriously doubt there is any one or any group who could provide an accurate accounting of how much has been spent or how it has been spent.

The debate produced a number of calculations as to the number of countries that have been recipients, the several amounts that have been received by those countries, and the overall totals that have been expended. One particular total reflected since World War II the American taxpayer has been called upon to furnish to foreign countries the sum of $84,000,000,000. Of this amount, it is estimated that more than $2 billion went to Yugoslavia, an admitted Communist country, although of a different hue of red. Another $509 million went to Poland, an admitted Communist Satellite.

Many people have asked, "Why foreign aid?" Without exception, the general answer has always been: "To fight Communism."

Many have asked: "If it is for the purpose of fighting Communism, why give it to Communist countries?" The general answer to this question has been: "It is one of the means of fighting Communism."

These answers do not satisfy me, and I don't believe they satisfy many others. In the first place, all of us are against Communism, or any other ideology that would destroy our way of life.

In the second place, the people who are paying these bills are entitled to specific instances of effectiveness instead of tripe generalities. I think the record will reflect clearly that our effective blows against Communism have been through our Defense Department (a department in which the American taxpayer has spent $555 billion in the past 15 years), and not through the foreign aid program.

Another question seems to be as to why foreign aid is continued, even though it is admitted that if the matter was submitted to a referendum of the people in the United States, it would undoubtedly be defeated substantially. Many have asked me where this program gets its major support. They are usually astounded when I give them the answer. The fact is that the foreign aid program from an economic standpoint amounts to a giant subsidy to both business and labor. It is generally conceded that four of every five dollars spent in the foreign aid program remains in this country. This means that the taxpayers are picking up the tab for goods, wares, merchandise manufactured in this country, sold to the Government under the foreign aid program, and delivered free of charge to foreign countries.

It explains why the foreign aid program has been the support of most of the big business organizations, as well as the big labor unions. It has provided the means by which the countries of Western Europe have been able not only to stabilize their economy, but to expand it to the point that they are presently in serious competition with this country and can, by the implementation of the Common Market, create a much more serious competitive force with reference to our world markets.

It can also serve as the explanation of why we can do such a big export business, yet cannot seem to stop the outflow of gold. The reason is that we are giving the money to foreign nations with which to buy their products, a case of trying to lift yourself by your own bootstrap.

In opposing this program, I have been completely out of step with both political parties. But unless information which has not

Low Yield
Device Is Detonated

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) — A low yield nuclear device was detonated Tuesday in a highly classified military exercise involving 900 infantry troops.

The above-ground shot was not visible, nor was it heard in the gaming resort of Las Vegas some 65 miles distant.

Also involved in the secret test was the firing of conventional military weapons.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and presidential military adviser Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor apparently witnessed the exercise. They arrived in Las Vegas Monday night en route to the testing grounds to confer with officials.

The AEC and Defense Department said about 900 troops of the 4th Infantry Division from Ft. Lewis, Wash., took part in the "realistic field maneuver."

America's Astronauts Have Yet To Settle Down In Texas

By KENNETH CARR
United Press International
HOUSTON (UPI) — America's astronauts, although officially welcomed as citizens of Houston in a giant fourth of July parade, have yet to settle down in Texas.

They are the rear echelon of a 1400-mile migration of 751 employees of the manned spacecraft center and their families — about 3000 persons in all — who have completed the move from Langley Station, Hampton, Va.

Only the family of Lt. Gordon Cooper Jr., has settled in Houston. The rest of the astronauts are awaiting completion of their homes in the swank resort-area surrounding the proposed $90 million-space center near Clear Lake, Mid-August.

The houses are expected to be finished by mid-August and the rest of the astronauts — with the exception of Walter M. Schirra — are due to be moved in by then. The Schirras are expected to stay at Cape Canaveral until the astronaut's planned orbital flight, scheduled for late September.

Even once their families are here, the astronauts are not expected to be in Houston a great deal of the time. Their training procedures are different. Manned flights will keep them hopping around the country.

A spot check on the astronauts this past weekend showed only Cooper in Houston. He flew in Friday for a special conference. Schirra was at Cape Canaveral.

and Virgil (Gus) Grissom was flying about the country making up flight time.

Glenn With Family
John Glen, was in Washington, D.C., while Scott Carpenter and Alan Shepard were with their families in Virginia.

Donald (Duke) Slayton was on vacation in Wisconsin. Earlier in the week he had learned he was being temporarily eliminated from solo orbital flights because of a heart condition.

Slayton still will participate in astronaut training and also will assume new duties as an engineering and operational adviser. The rest of the manned spacecraft center employees have settled down in their temporary facilities scattered about at 12 sites in Houston.

They are due to be consolidated at the Clear Lake site when it is completed in early 1964.

Several of the new Houston residents are renting and taking their time about buying homes until the center is completed. Some of them have already bought homes in the Bay Shore area.

Up in the World

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Mrs. O. M. Gowan's cats live in a "penthouse."

The cats loved to scamper about on top of the roof so much that Mrs. Gowan's husband finally built them a "trash can" house there.
