Harriman Confers With Ky On Split

PARIS (UPI)—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman conferred today with South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky to try to settle U.S.-Vietnamese differences that led Ky to yet another attack on American aims in Vietnam.

Ky, in an interview in the Paris newspaper L'Aurore, said he would personally ask the Americans to leave South Vietnam if they were guilty of any sell-out "solution which will make us the slaves of the Communists."

"If their goal has changed, they can leave," Ky said. "I myself would ask them."

Harriman, accompanied by deputy negotiator Cyrus Vance, called on Ky at Ky's suburban Paris villa, their fifth meeting since Ky arrived in Paris almost two weeks ago.

They also were expected to discuss Vance's encounter Thursday with his North Vietnamese counterpart, Col. Ha Van Lau, which ended in an even tighter deadlock over conference procedures and Lau's charge the United States had threatened to resume bombing North Vietnam if the Viet Cong opens a new offensive in the South.

Ky spoke amid a rift between his delegation and U.S. negotiators on how to meet Communist demands blocking the opening of delayed war talks here. U.S. Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford and other critics have accused Ky's delegates of delaying the opening.

Ky today said his government "is not trying to block the negotiations."

The South Vietnamese deputy leader also said the military situation in his country would have been better now if it had ordered general mobilization in 1965. He said U.S. Gen. Maxwell Taylor at that time turned down his request for such mobilization.

"It's too bad because right now there would have been far less Americans in Vietnam," Ky said.

He said his nation now has a million men under arms. "But the American press only speaks about the Americans and they don't see our action," he said.

"Why would the Americans abandon us? Why would they have fought for nothing?"

He said a U.S. pullout would abandon South Vietnam to the Communists and threaten South Korea and Thailand.

Ky said Americans must understand that even if "foreign and North Vietnamese troops" withdraw from South Vietnam after agreement here is reached, "in a year or maybe earlier they would be back."

He said he doubts there will be a new Viet Cong offensive now "since they would have everything to lose. They would be crushed and Washington could break off (the talks), especially if many Americans were killed."

Ky spoke as diplomatic observers said there is virtually no chance for progress in holding the talks this year between North and South Vietnam, the United States and the Viet Cong.

The Communists have insisted on recognition of the Viet Cong as a full delegation partner. Neither Washington nor Saigon have agreed but have differed on how to counter the demand.

Shoppers Enter Final Days Of Christmas Buying

Shoppers invaded Pampa stores today for the final weekend buying spree before Christmas.

Downtown and shopping center stores were crowded with customers making Christmas gift purchases.

While last-minute shoppers were expected to continue their buying through Monday and Tuesday, the greatest wave of them was expected tonight and tomorrow.

Many merchants were offering toys and other perennial Christmas presents at greatly reduced prices to clear their shelves.

There were only three shopping days left before the big day and folks in the Pampa trading area apparently were set to make the most of the little time left.

Most merchants reported Christmas business on a par with last year or slightly above.

Debaters to Compete At Florida Contests

Two Pampa High School debate teams will participate in the Miami Beach Forensic Tournament Dec. 27-28 in Florida after "Project: Miami Beach, Debate '68" was declared a success today.

One team has already been entered in the national tournament and entry fees for the other team will be wired to Miami Beach tomorrow, Mrs. Pat Sargent, debate coach, said this morning.

Members of the debate teams are John Karr and Warren Wilson, boys debate, and Jo Hlatt and Carolyn McKinley, girls debate team.

U.S. Considering Offers of Cong

WASHINGTON (UPI)—State Department officials said today the United States is likely to take up the Viet Cong's offer and send military representatives to discuss arrangements for the release of some more American prisoners.

The Viet Cong offer, made in two broadcasts Wednesday night, was still under intensive study and officials said no final decision has yet been taken.

However, the officials indicated (See OFFERS, Page 3)

POTENTIAL HITCH IN APOLLO LAUNCH

Engineers Find Contamination In Tank

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Engineers found contamination in an Apollo 8 oxygen tank today in the first potentially serious hitch in the final hours of the countdown for Saturday's launch of three men into orbit around the moon.

A space agency spokesman said the tank will have to be drained, purged and refilled with liquid oxygen but they said they expected this could be done during an afternoon rest period without disrupting the launch schedule.

"Project officials feel that the launch time can be met," said a space agency spokesman. "work in the next few hours will determine this."

Astronauts Frank Borman,

James Lovell and William Anders are scheduled to begin their $30 million adventure at 3:51 a.m. (CST) Saturday.

The liquid oxygen is used to fuel the spacecraft's fuel cell electrical power generators. The contamination was identified as nitrogen, and this could hamper the unit's operation.

Engineers believed the nitrogen got into the tank from a cooling unit on the service structure next to the towering space machine. If this is determined to be the source of the nitrogen engineers planned to replace the cooling unit.

All other aspects of the intricate countdown were reported proceeding without difficulty. Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman reported, "we're as ready as we can be."

Engineers Thursday night easily overcame two time-consuming snags related to the loading of the oxygen into the spacecraft.

Today was a day of rest for the three astronauts. They took Thursday night off, and Lovell took advantage of the time to visit his wife, Marilyn, and their four children for the second evening in a row. The other astronauts' families are in Houston.

Weathermen predicted cloudy, but satisfactory conditions for launch time. Tracking stations and recovery forces around the world reported they were set. Even solar radiation forecasters gave an all-clear nod to the moon-bound pilots.

They are scheduled to swing into a 69-mile high orbit around the moon Dec. 24, circle it 10 times and shoot back to earth Christmas morning after flashing a special yule telecast a quarter of a million miles back to television viewers around the world.

Release by Cambodia A Complete Surprise

BANGKOK (UPI) — Eleven of 12 American prisoners released by Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk arrived here today on their way home for Christmas. They were promptly given $200 each in back pay, cholera and smallpox shots and a stack of Christmas presents from home.

The 12th man, Spec. 4 Earl Gurnsey of Sacramento, Calif., remained in Phnom Penh undergoing treatment for wounds suffered Nov. 27 when his helicopter was shot down near the Cambodian border. He said in Phnom Penh he was dragged across the border into Cambodia.

The 11 Americans, captured July 17 when their landing craft sailed across the border on the Mekong River, walked off an air Vietnam civilian commercial plane dressed in an assortment of U.S. Army uniforms, civilian clothes and garments the Cambodians made for them.

They arrived shortly after 3:30 p.m. (4:30 a.m. CST).

They boarded a bus for the 90-yrd ride to the airport terminal and were taken into a "P" lounge for a routine checkup and the cholera and smallpox vaccinations.

Then officials sat them on a row of chairs and couches and Bangkok American Red Cross Director W. P. Frenzel of Fort Collins, Colo., gave them Christmas packages. Their families had sent the gifts to be delivered to them at the Phnom Penh navy base where they were held.

Warrant Officer Ralph McCullough of Columbus, Ga., speaking for the group, said they first received word of their release about 4 p.m. Thursday when Cambodian officials came to the barracks.

"It was a complete surprise to us," he said.

"The Cambodians came in and said we were free, and we left the barracks about a half hour later. I figured myself, though, if it was going to be anytime, we could get out for Christmas."

McCullough said Cambodian civilian employees who had taken care of them "were just about tears when we left."

He said the group spent Thursday night at the homes of various members of the Australian Embassy which handles U.S. affairs in Phnom Penh.

He said the group just took it easy Thursday night.

"Myself, I just stayed there where it was nice and peaceful and quiet," he said. His (See RELEASE, Page 3)

Progress Made Toward Release Of Pueblo Crew

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Signs continue to point toward rapid progress on an agreement with North Korea for release of the 82 captive Pueblo crewmen, possibly before Christmas.

Official Washington buzzed Thursday with hints of an impending breakthrough in the 11-month negotiations for release of the Americans, while in the Korean truce village of Panmunjom the two sides met for five hours — their longest meeting yet.

Reports from Seoul said another weekend meeting was planned.

Band, Choir to Play For New York Jets

The word is final: the Pampa High School band and choir will perform at halftime of the New York Jets' American Football League championship game Dec. 29.

Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent, said late yesterday that a 250-passenger jet airplane had been secured for transportation and arrangements are being finalized.

Occidental Life and Trans-American Life insurance companies, of Houston, volunteered the aircraft through the efforts of Mrs. Cletus Mitchell, wife of the Pampa Band Booster president, who is employed by a subsidiary of the firms.

Commercial airliners were unable to provide transportation because of advance holiday bookings.

A spokesman for the New York Jets extended the offer to the band and choir following their Dec. 15 nationally televised appearance at the halftime of the Los Angeles Rams-Baltimore Colts football game.

An offer of $10,000 was made by the Jets to pay for travel expenses to the Dec. 29 championship game but no means of transportation could be found, until yesterday. The insurance firm will be paid for the use of the aircraft, although the exact figure is unknown at this time.

Expenses for lodging and meals for the band and choir will be paid for by band and choir parents. Funds have also been raised by other individuals and Pampa businesses.

Tentative plans call for leaving from Amarillo air terminal early Dec. 27, rehearsals Dec. 28, the performance Dec. 29 and flying home the same day.

The band and choir returned home from Los Angeles late Wednesday by bus.

The group will perform the same routine at the Jets' football game that they performed in Los Angeles. A spokesman said today.

SIC Earnings Up Over Last Year

AMARILLO — Consolidated net earnings of Southwestern Investment Company and subsidiaries for the quarter ended Nov. 30, 1968, exceeded those of the same period in the previous year, according to a report released by R. Earl O'Keefe, chairman of the Board.

Net earnings for the period were $497,879. After deducting preferred stock dividends, such earnings equaled 37 cents per common share, compared to 34 cents per share for the same period last year.

Adjusted earnings (recognizing the increase in insurance in force in the life insurance subsidiary and the changes in equity in unearned casualty premium reserves) were 45 cents per share for the three months, compared to 42 cents per share for the same period in the previous year.

Adjusted book value was $17.67 per share on Nov. 30, and

Christmas Spirit Pervades the Air Around City Hall

It was Christmastime at City Hall today.

Several parties were scheduled this afternoon. There was a retirement party for the police department's "Maw" Walker from 2 to 6, a Yule party in the waterworks office and another in the city engineering department.

In fact, the gourmet offering today in the engineering division was fruit cake, baked by Mac Wofford, utilities director.

When pinned down, Wofford admitted he spent several hours in the kitchen over a hot oven to turn out the Christmas goodies.

The final weekend before Christmas found City Hall employees going about their work, but with a definite holiday spirit in the air.

The City Hall, like other public offices, will be closed on Christmas and New Year's days.

the reported book value was $14.56 per share.

Rep. Bob Price Commends Deferral Of Maine Oil Trade Zone Decision

Commerce Secretary C.R. Smith's announced deferral to the Nixon Administration of any action on the "Trade Zone" at Machiasport, Maine, where Occidental Petroleum sought a privileged status permitting it to entirely circumvent the Mandatory Oil Import Program is both realistic and commendable, according to a statement released by Panhandle congressman Bob Price.

Here is Price's statement:

"As the first member of Congress to speak out against this blatant attempt by one company to gain special privilege, I commend the Secretary's action. I hope it proves to be the beginning of the end of special favor handouts, which have characterized the Administration of the Oil Import Program under Interior Secretary Udall.

"The cries from those who wanted a Government subsidized refinery in New England already have started. Governor Curtis of Maine said Mr. Smith's announcement was a decision in favor of the Major Oil Companies. This is a prejudicial judgment with no basis in fact. The action was a decision in favor of fairness and equity in the operation of an essential security-oriented program for the benefit of all our citizens.

"The New England promoters of this project have tried all along to discredit the Major Oil Companies because the Major Oil Companies are a convenient whipping boy. This is, however, a flimsy smoke screen to divert attention from an effort by one company, through political chicanery, to gain a Government protected marketing sanctuary in which it alone would be privileged to supply a major refinery 100 per cent of cheap foreign oil.

"When I condemned this attempt to engineer a political-economic advantage for one company, I did not do so at the behest of the Major Oil Companies. I did so because the oil import program, imperfect though it be, is the last best hope of maintaining a defense petroleum supply for our country. I did not want this program further undermined by special privilege.

"Now, let us speak of the facts. There is no refinery in Maine for the same reasons that Maine lobsters are not processed and prepared for market in Pampa, Texas. There is no refinery in Maine for the same reason that there is no plant in Seattle, Washington, processing Maine potatoes. There is no refinery in Maine for the same reason that the Massachusetts fishing fleet does not process its catch in Chattanooga, Tenn.

"It is a matter of economics. The only thing which would make a refinery at all economical, would be for the Federal Government to grant Occidental Petroleum the right to use foreign oil exclusively—and continue to hold back its competitors of the oil import program by limiting their use of foreign oil to 12 per cent. This is the economic truth of the matter.

"If there were no controls on all other importers of oil Occidental Petroleum would never have proposed its refinery and, if it did, it most certainly would not have been proposed in the State of Maine. This is a further truth of the matter.

"What we have had at issue here was an attempt by one company to gain special privilege to subsidize an uneconomic operation. That is not the function of Government. It certainly is not the intent of the Oil Import Program. It is not the intent of the Foreign Trade Zones Act. And I am pleased to learn that it is not the intent of the Secretary of Commerce."

Newsman Barred From Wedding Of Julie, David

NEW YORK (UPI)—Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower will be married Sunday in a ceremony from which all newsmen and photographers will be barred—with one exception.

An NBC camera crew will film the ceremony for closed circuit transmission to Washington's Walter Reed Hospital where it will be seen by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower will be watching the marriage of his grandson to the daughter of the man who served him as vice president, President-elect Richard M. Nixon. The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale will officiate at the 4 p.m. ceremony at Marble Collegiate Church.

Mrs. Eisenhower is expected to attend the ceremonies in the 1,800-seat Protestant church. Some 450 to 500 friends and relatives of the couple are invited, along with politicians including the cabinet of the bride's father.

"Julie decided she didn't want anyone watching that wedding who was not a personal friend of hers — or someone she knows," said Gerry Van der Heuvel, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, in explaining the restrictions on newsmen.

Reporters and photographers will only be able to see the couple briefly after the ceremony, then again at the reception, according to Mrs. Van der Heuvel, who held a news conference Wednesday on the coverage of the wedding.

"All details are Julie's decisions, not her parents'," said Mrs. Van der Heuvel.

Julie, 20, also disclosed that she would have all three of the sisters of the intended bridegroom as attendants. Mrs. Van der Heuvel said that Barbara Anne Eisenhower Echavarria-Urbe and her husband Fernando will be attendants.

Susan and Mary Jean Eisenhower, David's other sisters, were on the initial list of attendants. All are the children of the former President's son, John Eisenhower.

Julie's sister Tricia will be maid of honor at the single ring ceremony, expected to last 25 minutes. The couple's honeymoon plans have not been announced.

Repairs Made

The final 28 hours of the long countdown began on schedule at 7:51 p.m. CST Thursday after technicians used up most of a five hour 51-minute rest period to catch up on work stalled earlier by a faulty valve and a leaking pipe in ground fueling equipment.

The problems delayed the loading of frigid liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the spacecraft to fuel the ship's three fuel cell electric power generators.

The rest period—or "hold"—that enabled technicians to recoup the lost time was added to the countdown only last week to deal with such difficulties if necessary. Launch operations manager Paul Donnelly said Thursday, "We're thankful for our foresight."

Two more of these planned "holds" remain in the countdown. One, lasting six hours,

McCullough said a Vietnamese captured with them on the river boat was turned over to French officials in Phnom Penh and he was thought to have been repatriated early today.

He declined to comment on a letter the group wrote to Sihanouk several weeks ago except to confirm that it was written by the men themselves. Sihanouk in announcing their release said they had deplored U.S. and South Vietnamese border violations.

American sources said they had not seen the letter but understood it expressed appreciation for the courteous treatment they received while they were in captivity and "in an innocuous fashion expressed sorrow over their violation of the border."

the release remained to be agreed on.

They cautioned, however, some "last minute hitch could develop to delay release by the Communists of the men who were captured off the North Korean coast last Jan. 23 when their intelligence gathering ship was seized."

It was said the two sides had been on the verge of agreement at least once and perhaps twice before when such "hitches" developed.

An influential South Korean newspaper reported Thursday that clothes and ambulances had been brought to Panmunjom to prepare for the return of the American sailors.

There was no official confirmation in Washington of this or of the status of negotiations, but Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's office told Congress developments could be expected "very shortly."

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey indicated he expected further meetings.

At issue in the negotiations are North Korean demands for an American admission the Pueblo violated North Korean waters, an official apology, punishment of those responsible and a pledge not to conduct U.S. "spy" operations in the Sea of Japan in the future.

Washington has repeatedly said the Pueblo was hijacked in international waters.

ed the United States was interested in meeting with Viet Cong representatives to discuss prisoner releases. The Viet Cong previously have released seven American prisoners during the war without requiring negotiations with U.S. representatives.

U.S. officials stressed that a U.S.-Viet Cong meeting would not be hindered by any possible inference that the United States was thereby recognizing the Viet Cong politically.

However, the United States was expected to assert emphatically that any such meeting did not represent recognition.

Actually, U.S. representatives have in the past occasionally made contact with Viet Cong agents in Europe and North Africa to take soundings on the prisoner issue.

Of more concern to U.S. officials was the suggestion in the Viet Cong offer that the Communist guerrillas were trying to use the prisoner issue to establish some sort of relationship with the United States that would short-circuit the South Vietnamese government.

Christmas Sound Is Sermon Topic For Rev. Hager

"The Sounds of Christmas" will be the sermon topic for Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, this Sunday at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services.

Ruling Elder Charles White will serve as the pulpit assistant at both services.

At the 11 a.m. worship services, Mrs. George Budd, soloist, will present "Cantique De Noel" by Adams as the special music. Miss Harriet Henderson will be the guest organist.

At 4:30 p.m. there will be a dress-rehearsal for the Christmas pageant, followed by a supper for the youth involved in the pageant.

The Christmas pageant will be presented at 7 p.m. in the Sanctuary and the children's white gift offering and the Christmas offering for children will be taken at this service.

On Christmas Eve, the annual candlelight service will be held at 11:30 p.m.

First United Methodist to Note Day of Fourth Sunday in Advent

Services for the fourth Sunday in Advent, observed in the Christian world by emphasis on the long-awaited coming of the Christ Child by the ancient world and the heralding the beginning of the season of Christmas, will be celebrated Sunday by the First United Methodist Church, East Foster at Ballard Sts., beginning with the lighting of the fourth candle of the Advent Wreath on the altar of the church at 8:45 a.m., 11 a.m., and 6:15 p.m. services.

Dr. H. Dewitt Seago, pastor, will be in the pulpit for all services, assisted at the lectern by John Rosenberg. Topic of the morning sermons will be "Born To Save."

Music for the 8:45 a.m. service, which is broadcast over Radio Station KPDN, will be provided by the children's Celestial Choir singing the anthems "O Holy Night" (Adam) and "There's A Song In The Air" (Holland-Harrington) under the direction of Mrs. Jeff Anderson.

Tracy D. Cary will be at the M. K. Brown Memorial Organ for all services and will play for the prelude "Noel No. 5 in G" by Daquin. The offertory will be "In Dulci Jubilo" by Gordon Young and the postlude will be "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell.

The choral music at the 11 a.m. service will be under the direction of Edward C. Juenger and Bill Wilkinson. It will feature the combined voices of the Sanctuary Singers (adult choir) and Chapel Choir (youth), assisted by the Youth Handbell Choir presenting for the Introit "The Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel and the anthem "Christmas Day" by Holst. The offertory anthem will be "O Little Town of Bethlehem," arranged by Tracy D. Cary.

Church school classes are scheduled at 9:45 for all ages. The Youth Handbell Choir will rehearse at 3:45 p.m. and the Chapel Choir at 4:30 p.m. Evening supper will be served in Fellowship Hall beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Evening worship is scheduled at 6:15 p.m. and will include carol singing directed by J. E. Gunn, the Altar Moments Prayertime, and pastoral sermon. Vocal soloist will be Mrs. Rochelle Wilkins, soprano, singing "I Wonder as I Wander."

Following the evening service a reception will be held in Fellowship Hall for the new minister of music, Morris Kille and family of Maryville, Tenn. Kille will assume direction of the church's musical education activities next week.

Hosting the reception will be members of the Sanctuary Singers. Arrangements will be in charge of Mrs. Myron Dorman, Mrs. Malcolm McDaniel and Mrs. Otis Nace.

Two TV Catholic Hours Set for Same Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Catholic Hour-TV will be presented twice on Sunday, Jan. 14 when the National Council of Catholic Men presents first its regular program in the January series, "The Catholic Faith—A New Perspective," on NBC, and then presents an extra with "The Workout," an original drama, at a later hour. "The Workout," written by Crean, was originally scheduled for October, but pre-empted by the World Series.

Pentecostal "Prims" Have Special Program

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Girls in the 8,506 Assemblies of God churches throughout the nation have a new program developed just for them called Primary Missionettes, or "Prims" for short. The program is for seven and eight year olds.

Activities for Prims include Bible lessons, stories about children and customs of other lands, character-building stories, music, games, arts and crafts.

Pious Persons Often Disturbed At Keeping Christ in Christmas

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

There is always, at this time of year, a lot of hand-wringing among pious folks about the difficulty of "keeping Christ in Christmas."

The great Christian holiday has degenerated—so the refrain goes—into a commercial orgy of gift-giving. Department stores wear out Christmas carols before churches get to them. Santa Claus has usurped the place of the Babe in the manger. And so on.

Well, perhaps.

But when we acknowledge all that's wrong with modern Christmas customs, can it really be said that Christ has been crowded out of His own birthday celebration?

I think not.

Christ will be in Christmas as long as Christmas makes children happy.

Jesus loved children. There are many anecdotes in the Gospels which reveal that children thought highly of Him, too. They followed Him around, and He was never too busy to stop and talk to them.

It's impossible to conceive of Jesus being affronted because His birthday has become a child-centered holiday.

But all we know about Him makes clear that he would be greatly distressed if some children—however few—got only broken hearts for Christmas.

That's why those who reverence His name should do all in their power to make sure no child wakes up on Christmas morning in a home barren of toys and treats.

Jesus also cared for the aged, the lonely, the sick, the maladjusted, the unloved.

So Christ will be in Christmas as long as it's a day on which richly-blessed families find ways to share their happiness.

Revival Planned

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Plans for a maximum revival effort during 1969 will be discussed at a meeting here Dec. 19-21 of Assemblies of God evangelists.

In the Assemblies' five-year plan of advance, 1969 has been designated as the Year of Revival. The Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, will be keynote speaker for the seminar, says Zimmerman.

"We believe that spiritual revival will precipitate a more effective evangelistic effort."

with others who aren't so fortunate.

Finally, it can be said that Christ will be in Christmas as long as people display at this season loyalty to their families, affection for their friends, and gratitude toward postmen, newspaper carriers, cleaning women, waiters, elevator operators and others whose year-round service makes life more convenient and pleasant.

Keeping Christ in Christmas is not so much a matter of doing different things, but of doing the traditional things in a spirit of love. For where love is, Christ is.

Hobart Baptist Choir To Present Holiday Program

A Christmas cantata, "Night of Miracles" by John W. Peterson, will be presented at Hobart Baptist Church at the 7 p.m. worship hour this Sunday by the church choir, directed by Carl Meyer.

The cantata tells in song, readings and scenes the story of the birth of Christ. Scripture passages will be read by Meyer.

Several soloists will perform. The scenes of the shepherds, the wise men and the manger group will be portrayed by the children from the beginner, primary and junior departments.

Special lighting effects will be handled by George Kilcrease. The public is invited to attend the cantata performance.

Catholic Service Draws 50,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Roman Catholic service dedicated to greater recitation of the Rosary and peace in Vietnam was attended by about 50,000 persons in Memorial Coliseum.

The service, the 20th annual Mary's Hour, was presided over by Cardinal James Francis McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles. In a sermon, Auxiliary Bishop Timothy Manning urged older Catholics to be patient in understanding with transitions brought about in the Church through the Second Vatican Council.

Despite Merchants, Christmas Is Still A Time For All Men

By DAVID POLING

Some people are fearful that the merchants have the best of Christmas—the massive sale of toys, the cash registers ringing their commercial victory, the stores bulging with clerks and customers.

This is the society that makes things to sell and Christmas is the season for people to buy. You couldn't find a happier climate for a hard sell to soft hearts.

Yet the angels said, "Fear not," at the first celebration so long ago. They still do, for Christmas is larger than our complaints over department store sales and shopping plaza promotions. The coming of Jesus and the celebration of his birth is the most universal holiday on earth. Every culture, every tongue has found special, inspired ways to honor the Holy Family of Bethlehem.

The Christmas theme of a young woman struggling to bring forth her first-born in such humble and stark surroundings has not been lost in any century or country. In the dreary, uncertain days of the 13th century, St. Francis of Assisi charmed the entire continent with his Nativity Scene in Greccio, Italy.

Here farm animals, herdsmen from the countryside, a couple with their tiny babe brought alive the gospel story of a King revealed in a manger.

Every family, every household, every couple can find in this event the joys and happiness of a young baby—the lasting sign of God's goodness and kindness to a puzzled and groping world.

Missionary Work Aids Growth of Latter-Day Church

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah
The rate of growth The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is undergoing is due primarily to a successful missionary program organized throughout the United States and in most foreign countries in the free world.

Every year, young men and women voluntarily accept calls to become missionaries for periods of 18 months to two and one-half years. They serve at their own expense, or are aided financially by friends and relatives. After their mission activities, missionaries return to the normal pursuit of their lives.

At the beginning of this year there were 79 missions, and Church membership was listed as over 2,600,000. Nearly 135,000 new members of the Church were baptized during the previous year.

The largest foreign membership is listed in South America, Great Britain, South Pacific Islands, Canada and Mexico. This year, the same number or perhaps more, are expected to swell the fast-growing rolls of the Church.

In addition to full-time missionaries, the Church also has local, or part-time missionary organizations in cities and neighborhoods.

Missionaries are, for the most part, young men who have completed a year or two of college. Almost always, upon returning home, they fulfill their military obligation. Their education, marriage and professions generally are further postponed in this manner.

The life of a Mormon missionary is not an easy one. His day starts early and ends late. His primary responsibility is to call on as many people as possible during the time he is a missionary and interest them in the Gospel of Jesus Christ as he teaches it.

Many times he is turned away politely, and many times not so politely.

Once the Mormons were a persecuted people, and quite misunderstood. The Church today sails along with some of the most favorable publicity and public cordiality ever known in its history. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was organized 138 years ago.

The Mormon missionaries, who work and live in pairs, receive no ministerial training for their missions, other than attending a one-week orientation course in Salt Lake City prior to their departure to mission fields.

Missionaries assigned to foreign countries gain the opportunity to learn foreign languages. Foreign language knowledge not only helps them to teach the principles of the Gospel in native tongues, but these languages also have helped further the individual's college education, and even have led to job opportunities.

In the early days of the Church, the Mormon missionaries traveled "without purse or script." They walked wherever they went, and lodged wherever they found a friend.

Times certainly have changed, and the missionary usually finds a modest room or two in the general area where he knocks on doors. He gets along on as little money as possible, and his transportation problems have been solved by bicycles and cars.

With very few exceptions, Mormon missionaries return from their missionary work with a keen sense of accomplishment, and look the picture of a well-rounded character. They rate their missionary time as perhaps one of the most influential and successful periods in their lives.

Missionaries are directed by a mission president, who even serves as a part-time parent in times of need and frustration. Bonds between mission presidents and missionary companions last a lifetime.

According to Gordon B. Hinckley, Mormon apostle and a director of the great missionary program, "We have no really great problems. The work is progressing nicely, as is evidenced by the tremendous numbers of people coming into the Church each year."

Hinckley says if there is one general problem the missionaries face, "It's finding enough people to listen to our message."

The proselyting program of the Church has been aided greatly by the Visitors Centers erected at Church Temple and historical sites. More than two million people pass through the Visitors Center on Temple Square in Salt Lake City each year. A good portion of these people are non-member tourists. Local missionaries also direct their investigators through the displays and tours in the Visitors Center.

In the British Isles, perhaps one of the biggest problems faced by Mormon missionaries is getting investigators to give words of scripture to the brilliant notes of chorus and symphony to produce the "Messiah." Its joyous, lofty arias, where the product of one who suffered from a crippling stroke and lived to claim the message of Christmas for his time and ours.

It seems that just when we have surrounded the nativity story with our special emphasis, our regional traditions, our personal family obligations, it breaks loose to spark another expression of faith, a new channel of artistic inspiration, interpretation and endeavor.

A century after Handel, Charles Dickens wrote "A Christmas Carol" and millions have been surprised at their disgust with Ebenezer Scrooge, their encouragement of Marley's ghost and their winsome affection for the Cratchit family. You won't find many words from Matthew or Luke or Isaiah in the narrative—but you experience the spirit of God in a secular novel—another way of telling us that no one owns Christmas.

Not the Church, for those outside the boundaries of formal religion have shared in this Advent. Not the clergy, for Handel and Dickens were artists, ordained only by their talent and their honesty in expression. Nor do the creeds own Christmas, no matter how strong they are in our religious tradition. For men and women everywhere have joined in the songs when they thought they could not speak the language of faith.

The 20th century has not been shallow in its celebration of Christ's coming. Benjamin Britten and his "Ceremony of the Carols" and Gian Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" have shown us that God's presence is not restricted to the tradesmen of Nazareth or the pilgrim scholars from the East. Wise men are everywhere, some disguised in sport coats, commuting to a library or studio or workshop or factory.

Who owns Christmas? You do, year after year, when you catch a new glimpse of the truth that startled shepherds, angered Herod and keeps the word Merry in international usage.

Scientists Slate Universe Study

"Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all."

These words from the first book of Chronicles are part of the Bible lesson-sermon titled "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" to be read at the 11 a.m. service Sunday, First Church of Christ Scientist, 901 N. Frost.

The following passage is from those to be read from the denominational textbook:

"In the material world, thought has brought to light with great rapidity many useful wonders. With like activity have thought's swift pinions been rising towards the realm of the real to the spiritual cause of those lower things which give impulse to inquiry.

"Belief in a material basis, from which may be deduced all rationality, is slowly yielding to the idea of a metaphysical basis, looking away from matter to mind as the cause of every effect."

Missionary Work Aids Growth of Latter-Day Church

up drinking tea. According to the Mormon health code—the Word of Wisdom—tea, coffee, tobacco, and alcoholic beverages are not part of the Mormon way of life.

The large membership in the British Isles attests to the fact that the pleas of the missionaries are being heeded. Twice each year these missionaries gather in Salt Lake City, during the Church's general conference time, and hold reunions—nothing more than greeting old friends and hearing about new experiences. Thousands of these returned missionaries are in Salt Lake City during conference time.

The Missionary program of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints merely attests to the principle taught in this Church that the Gospel of the Savior goes hand-in-hand with all other pursuits in the lives of Latter-day Saints.

"SILENT NIGHT" MEMORIAL CHAPEL, above, in Oberndorf, Austria, is the scene of a month-long celebration observing the 150th anniversary of the famous Christmas carol. Built in 1937 on site of original St. Nicholas Church, chapel honors Josef Mohr, who wrote the lyrics, and Franz Gruber, who penned the music (for guitar) a few hours before midnight mass when the church organ broke down in 1818.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Are You a Miniature Christmas (Christ)?
Rev. MONROE WOODS
St. Mark's Methodist Church

And the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth. St. John 1:14.

A little boy stood before the picture of his absent father, and then turned to his mother and wishfully said, "I wish father would step out of the picture."

This little boy expressed the deepest yearning of the human heart. We who have gazed upon the picture of God in nature are grateful, but not satisfied. We want our Father to step out of the impersonal picture and meet us in person. The human heart is personal and wants a personal response. Why won't principles do? Why do we need a personal God? Suppose you go to a child crying for its mother and say, "Don't cry, little child, I am giving you the principle of motherhood." Would the tears dry and the face light up? Hardly. The child would brush aside your principle of motherhood and cry for its mother. We all want, not a principle nor a picture, but a person. The Father (Heavenly) has stepped out of the picture. A Divine Being from space has visited this earth and walked with sinful men. The Word has become flesh. That is the real meaning of Christmas, so many of us become so wrapped up in secular activities, such as, gift hunting, decorating lavishly, planning and attending too many annual Christmas parties, posting too many greeting cards at the last minute, etc., until it causes us to forget that, "Love (God) came down at Christmas in the Person of Christ," and became involved in human relations. What are you doing for Christ in this day and age? Are you sharing the Christmas message with those who are not Church related? Are you a miniature Christmas (Christ), telling the Good News about him to a mixed up, shook up, confused, war torn, sinful, world?

The Christmas word must become flesh in me. I too must become the word made flesh. I must be a miniature Christmas (Christ). The Christian spirit is the Christmas spirit, extended through the whole year. May we say with Paul, "For to me to live is Christ."

Let us pray: Most Gracious Father, as Thou hast stepped out of the picture help me this Christmas season to step out of the picture and become a miniature Christmas (Christ) in a special way. Help me to become involved in the problems of mankind. May I be an instrument of Thine now and forever. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

On Way To 5-Cent Dollar?

If you are making about $1.90 a month today, you are about as well off as the man who made $416.66 a month in 1939. Social Security taxes back in 1939 were only 1 per cent and the income tax and other tax levies were comparatively small. Prices were much lower and inflation was a term that was recognized only in reference to some of the other nations of the world. It could not happen here, was the feeling of many, and yet today we have inflation as serious as any nation of Europe, for the United States has failed to heed the lessons of history. At the present rate of inflation, the 1939 dollar will be worth a mere nickel by 1982, which means that you will have to make at least 20 times the salary in 1982 that you needed in 1939 to make ends meet.

Higher prices, higher income and Social Security taxes, and higher everything else, have made a mockery of today's high wages. Many of us are not as well off today as we were 30 years ago, in spite of the fact that the average family man has an income about 2.8 times as large as dear old dad had. Unless we realize that the larger pay checks of today are relatively smaller than the paychecks of 1939, we can be easily trapped by the argument that we never had it so good. One thing is certain — never have so many been fooled by so few; our "prosperity" is as phony as a politician's promise.

Washington and Austin and local officials have played Robin Hood with our money for

Time To Take Inventory

The driver who plops himself into his car and roars off down the street without pausing to take inventory of his gas gauge is apt to stop along the way a wiser driver. Gasoline gets siphoned out of gas tanks, and sometimes other members of the family have spun off a few miles without filling the tank.

Inventory-taking is part of everyday living. We note that the change-over in cashiers at the cash register in a store we frequent means an automatic inventory of the cash drawer.

Any change in management or ownership or responsibility in any business is an occasion for making a careful inventory, whether a cash register, a warehouse or a company is involved.

We wonder if this might not be an appropriate caution in Washington come January 20.

There has been so much hanky-panky involving our money in recent years that a complete inventory might clarify some things for the taxpaying public, as well as for the incoming Administration. Of course we're not talking about the printing press money. Nor are we concerned with the sandwich coins which the

Golden Age of Sports

Add another "charmed circle" for athletes to aim at in addition to the .300 batting average, the less-than-four-minute mile or what have you: The $100,000 salary.

It's reported that more than 50 athletes will have earned that much or more in salaries or prize money in 1968.

There have always been a few superstars who commanded super incomes. Babe Ruth's 1928 contract for $80,000 with the New York Yankees would be worth some $200,000 in 1968 dollars. But the average athlete in the old days earned far, far less.

Things have changed. The median salary in professional basketball today is $25,000. In pro football it's $22,000, with the minimum in the National Football League set at $15,000.

In baseball, the median is $17,000.

With prospects like this, what can a parent tell a kid who wants to go out and play ball instead of practicing the piano?

Well, tell him about Denny McLain, one of this year's baseball heroes. McLain, who is dickering with the Detroit Tigers for a raise from $35,000 to $100,000, is an accomplished organist who reportedly can earn as much pulling the stops during the off-season as he does pitching the horse-hide rest of the year.

It always helps to have something to fall back on.

Onassis gave Jackie a ring so big she can't dial the phone while wearing it. Well, it figures. A guy with all that dough don't want his phone tied up.

There's Fair Chance For Nixon Plans

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Democrat of major stature believes that his party should focus on constructive opposition to the incoming Nixon administration and give the new president his fair chance to solve the critical problems of war and urban strife.

This leader, who cannot be identified here, says: "Some of our people will have their knives out for Nixon, but I think this would be a great mistake."

Most new presidents, whether or not they are backed by a Congress led by their own party, enjoy something of a honeymoon. The quoted top Democrat sees no reason this tradition should not apply in 1969.

He considers that the President-elect has a good prospect of settling the controversial Vietnam war. He is less sure of his ability to mount a successful assault on the racial struggle and the related problems of the cities, but nevertheless insists that Democrats should co-operate constructively in whatever effort is made.

This Democratic source says he is finding much agreement among his party colleagues that this should be the opposition's course. But there are still some who see only the old stereotype of their arch-enemy, "Tricky Dick," the fabled GOP hatchet man of the early 1950s, and who thus want to get at him quickly.

The quoted leader sees better long-range Democratic gain in the more tolerant course, remembering that several years of Democratic congressional cooperation with President Eisenhower did not prevent his party from recapturing the White House in 1960.

This man feels, moreover, that the Democrats fundamentally comprise a far sounder party than the gloom-mongers of September were saying. He adds:

"We need a lot of internal party reforms. We need to open up the party. And we have to have these things before 1970. But I think we're going to get them."

In this vein an important lead in this field will be taken by Vice President Hubert Humphrey, no matter what endeavor he decides to devote himself to after he leaves office Jan. 20. And he expects these reform moves to have the full support of such other top-rank Democrats as Senators Edmund Muskie of Maine, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts, and George McGovern of South Dakota.

Curiously, this leaves Sen. Eugene McCarthy and his followers in an uncertain position. They talked of the need for urgent reforms at a time when their swift accomplishment might have been turned to immediate advantage in McCarthy's nomination fight against Humphrey.

Today no leading Democrat professes to have any inkling as to the course McCarthy himself intends to pursue. Some of his followers convened twice during the fall campaign, assumed Humphrey's crushing defeat Nov. 5, and drafted plans for a detailed study of the mechanics of Democratic politics as a prelude to an attempt to seize control of the party in the 1972 nomination struggle.

Much is now working against them. Humphrey's close showing and the Democrats' continued stronghold on Congress means the party is not exactly lying around in the loose pieces the McCarthyites expected to pick up easily. If party reforms currently have broad Humphrey-Muskie-Kennedy-McGovern backing, they can hardly supply the leading edge of the McCarthy movement.

Furthermore, the McCarthyites are badly handicapped for having given late help or no help at all to Humphrey. This has special sting in light of the closeness of the outcome.

Meanwhile, the so-called "Kennedy forces," backers first of the late Robert Kennedy and now of his surviving brother, Ted, stand in high repute for early and full-hearted support of Humphrey.

Already Kennedy is being urged to "get off the mark" and start moving for the 1972 nomination. But friends

Caesar And God

"... in due time Christ died for the ungodly" (Romans 5:6). Have you ever stopped to think of the significance of the time into which our Lord was born? The Roman Empire for the first time had fairly well extended one empire over the known world. The Romans made it possible for the Apostle Paul to journey from one place to another. He journeyed through a land that was reasonably at peace because the Roman legions patrolled the whole world to keep it at peace. It was a time when the sea around which civilization was clustered was navigated. God picked His own time to send His Son.

Caesar Augustus sent out a decree that the world was to be taxed, and every man had to go to his own city. People thought that it was Caesar's decree; but actually it was God's decree. God let Caesar issue a decree that affected the whole world — Mary and Joseph would journey down to Bethlehem so that the Son of God might be born in the place where God had said that He would be born. The prophet Micah had said years before, "But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth, that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (5:2). God moves slowly; He does not rush things. There are no short cuts with Him.

We must have enough faith to await God's time, as well as to believe God's promise. The times are with God as much as the purpose of your life is with Him. God prepared for the coming of the Lord Jesus by getting all the affairs of history ready throughout many years. From the time that the sacrifice was instituted and Abel brought his offering to God outside the gate of Eden on the altar he had built. God was preparing for the coming of the Lord Jesus. The history of Old Testament times is the record of the preparation for the day when the Lord would send His Son to die for our sins. "But when the fullness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law. To redeem them from all iniquity, and to purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works" (Galatians 4:4,5).

Question Box

(We invite questions on "Caesar And God" and the proper functioning of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: How is it possible for a "slave" people like the Russians to make such tremendous progress in just a little over 50 years of communism?

ANSWER: The "progress" which has been reported in Communist Russia seems to have been almost entirely in a military way. From all reports, while the Soviet government has put a great deal of space hardware into orbit and has developed nuclear weapons, the people of the country have little in the way of creature comforts to show for the "progress."

If communist Russia were making great progress in lightening the load on the people, there would be no need for the government to erect barbed wire barricades and otherwise restrict the departure of its citizens from the country.

From time to time, the masters of Russia have found it necessary to ease some of the citizenry in order to keep control of the people. Some small semblances of individual enterprise have been permitted, such as allowing holders of small plots of land to raise all the food they can on them and to sell any surplus over their own requirements at whatever price they can get. This practice is reported to have been responsible for a large part of the food production of the USSR. There are even reports that incentive pay is being given now to some of the better producers in factories.

Vast government projects have been built throughout history under conditions of virtual slavery. But real material progress requires comparative freedom for individuals to work in their own self-best interests.

Insist that, while he intends to take a more activist party and Senate role than ever before, he is not thinking beyond that level. Nor, evidently, is Muskie, though his new star role is attested by the fact that upon his return to Washington he has been deluged with party invitations. They fit the general Democratic mood of watchful but helpful waiting.

New Use for Grandparents

By PAUL HARVEY
"Professional grandparents" are enjoying productive new careers in 180 different schools across the United States. Let me tell you how the program works in one of those schools—the state school for retarded children, Denton, Tex.

Grandmothers and grandfathers living in the area are employed four hours each day at $1.60 an hour. They are brought by school bus from all over Cooke County, from as far as 35 miles away.

At the school, after proper training and preparation, each "foster grandparent" is assigned two children. He attends these children one at a time, thus each child can advance at his own speed.

Together the youngster and his foster grandparent may read, go for walks, work puzzles or just sit and talk.

The minimal wage augments Social Security or other pension benefits. But more important are the "fringe benefits." This is an opportunity for continued usefulness. The "need to be needed" is no less at any age. So often, if retirement means sitting in a rocking chair looking at the wallpaper, it hastens advancing senility.

The 93 grandparents, ages 60 to 83, presently employed at the Denton school are so enthused about their new careers that they ignore their ills, often concealing any indisposition, because they don't want to miss their shift: "I don't want to disappoint my youngsters." Among the foster grandparents there is almost no tardiness, absenteeism or turnover. Indeed, most of the grandparents report their health improved by the increased activity and exercise—and because they again have what we all need: a reason to get up in the morning.

For the youngsters, the bus ride and the midmorning coffee break provide opportunities for socializing. (One pair of grandparents became engaged and were married by the school's chaplain.)

For the youngsters, the benefits of companionship are incalculable. Most of these mentally deprived children had no opportunity to know their own real grandparents. Now they get that close human relationship which they missed.

Together, they plan ahead for parties, weeks in advance of each seasonal holiday.

Achievements of the children since this program was instituted three years ago have exceeded the most optimistic expectations.

Most of the 180 institutions where the foster grandparents program is in effect are schools for retarded children under the age of 16. They receive co-operative federal-state financing. Probably nowhere have so few tax dollars bought so much for so many.

Universally, unanimously, the schools involved report the program a success. Each cites measurable benefits for the children and for their grandparent companions. Also, of course, the schools' regular staffs are thus released to spend more time on essential administration, supervision and teaching.

Meanwhile, the youngsters are demonstrating a greater degree of sociability, an increased span of interests, improved eye and hand coordination.

And staff doctors shake their heads in appreciative amazement for what love can do.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, Dec. 20, the 355th day of 1968 with 11 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter and Mars.

The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history: In 1803 the American government officially took over from France the land bought in the Louisiana Purchase.

In 1864 Gen. William Sherman completed his march to the sea and arrived in Savannah, Ga.

In 1922 the 14 Russian republics combined to form the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

In 1952 an Air Force Globemaster crashed at Moses Lake, in Washington, killing 87 servicemen.

A thought for the day: Walt Whitman said, "Once fully enslaved, no nation, state, city on this earth, ever afterward resumes its liberty."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In the 1964 presidential election, the voters of Illinois had to contend with a ballot three feet long and listing 236 candidates for the State House of Representatives. The World Almanac says. Responsible for selecting up to 177 names, voters were allowed only 10 minutes to make their choices. If 176 or more names were checked off, the entire ballot was void.

Wit and Whimsy

Harry (to a friend)—The man across the street has found a way to make his wife drive more carefully. He told her that if she had an accident, the newspaper would print her age.

"Say," I says to the Blouse & Skirt, "Where's them old pants of mine that I tore the leg off on the barbed-wire fence?"

"I put them in the 'no-good' basket," she says, "why?"

"I have to get them out. I am starting rehearsals on my act. I am gettin ready to play the new game called 'Automatic Relief Checks.'"

"What kind of game is that?" she asks.

"O, it is a duxy. It was thought up by them HEW officials. To play the game you just dress up in some old clothes, go down to the welfare office and declare you are in need. Everybody is a winner."

"What kind of need do you declare?"

"O, there ain't any rules on that — in fact there ain't any rules at all. The idea come up because the case-workers got tired of running around checking up on people. They want to sit home and sift ashes and draw their checks like all the other recipients. I figure I got a need alright. If I can draw enough on welfare to pay my taxes then maybe we can afford to live in Jollytown like the welfare grabbers do."

"Well," says the Blouse & Skirt, "it sounds like a nice game. But won't there be any investigating of your need?"

"Why no. That's the whole idea. O, they say they will check a few when ever the mood moves them—sort of a spot check. But when that happens I'll just move to another spot. By the way, did you throw out those shoes that had one heel ripped off? It would be just the thing to complete my outfit."

of engagement rings.

And, sitting here reading that letter, I could no longer recall exactly how I planned to get back and get married in Florida, finance a honeymoon, take a new bride to a home done in quiet good taste — and continue my scope-broadening of journalism.

But I certainly was glad to read my letter, as I had been a bit concerned about problems of this current Christmas. . . 18 years and six kids later.

But no callow, swell-headed kid of 18 years ago can make me look bad. Consequently:

"Dear Margery: Everything is going great and will be even better by Christmas. I've about decided on Ireland. And you know that engagement ring I've been meaning to get around to for you? I think I'll get you something tasteful in emeralds — diamonds are so gaudy — just as soon as I get these few bills out of the way. Meantime, that's still my favorite short sentence, kid."

"P.S.: Will you get rid of those darned letters?"

When I wrote that letter my most frightening worry was the cost of a wedding ring. I worried about that for weeks. I thought wedding rings cost an immense fortune. I was thinking

At first, I just peeked. Some mushy stuff, but it concerned itself in a large part with cold facts — what a great writer I was.

Margery and I were to be married two days after Christmas. She was covering the Federal beat, and I was on rewrite in Atlanta. As I read the typing on the yellowed copy paper, I was impressed with my wild optimism.

I seemed undetermined as to whether Ireland or Mexico would make for the nicest honeymoon. (We ended up with four days at Exotic Silver Springs.)

The type of mansions I had looked at around Atlanta all had something wrong with them — too ostentatious, I seemed to feel. (We lived in an apartment for years.)

My editors on the paper, I revealed, were splendid fellows but terribly limited in literary scope and preoccupied with short sentences. But I was getting them straightened out and had sneaked in one story — dealing with a man actually named Snodgrass, who had lost his alligator — that rhymed throughout.

"The only really worthwhile sentence," I wrote to Margery, "is 'I love you.' Anyhow, everything is going great and will be even better by Christmas."

Suddenly, reading these effusions, my mind clicked back — I remembered the actual facts of that December.

I was, dead broke. I had sold my first two short stories, to an adventure pulp, and was wild with glee when I wrote this news to my intended bride.

What I didn't tell her — and have not until now — was that I had lost most of those checks in a poker game.

When I wrote that letter my most frightening worry was the cost of a wedding ring. I worried about that for weeks. I thought wedding rings cost an immense fortune. I was thinking

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wright Investors' Service observes that the market usually goes down, not up, when money and credit get tight. Long term bonds usually recover first, once the crisis passes, and the stock market's recovery follows close behind. It adds, The firm suggests shifting investments out of overpriced common stocks and into long term Treasury bills and some of the more active Government bonds.

Tessel, Paturick & Ostrau says that "in spite of the slowdown in blue chip movement recently, the market remains in an overbought position as a result of increasing activity on the American Exchange and excessive price appreciation among glammers."

Bache & Co. expects a "moment of truth" in the first quarter of 1967. If the new administration chooses to "write off the surplus as inadequate, and employ additional fiscal and monetary restraints," market reaction could set in midway in the first quarter, the firm believes.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Tallulah is gone now, and so are Hugo Haas and Max Asnas and Dick Maney, and their deaths in 1966 have taken much of the cheer from show business as Christmas draws near.

There was only one Tallulah Bankhead, of course — and reams of copy have been written about her since she passed on last week. Her appearances in any entertainment medium—from the stage to television—were always an occasion. But anyone who met her has his own private memory, and I have mine too. I will always remember Tallulah standing in the middle of her suite in the Hollywood

Knickerbocker Hotel, demonstrating to me how Willie Mays swings a bat. I had gone to the suite for an interview, and somehow we got to talking about baseball, and Willie, of course, was one of her favorite people. And she stood in the middle of that suite, using a closed umbrella she had found—as a bat—and for 15 solid minutes she illustrated, in minute detail, the finer points of Willie's swing. The interview was great, and so was she.

Earthy Films

Hugo Haas was not so well known, but a sort of minor cult of late-night television movie nuts, including me, has been devoted to his small, earthy films about pathetically attractive characters caught in the inevitable tide of their own weaknesses.

Haas, who died recently in Vienna, had a stage career, and was in some major American movies, such as "A Bell for Adano" and "King Solomon's Mines." But it was, curiously, the small films he made and starred in that endear him to his cult.

His best movie, perhaps, was "Pickup," in which he appeared with Beverly Michaels, a leggy blonde with a wonderfully real braveness. He was also memorable in "Bait," with Cleo Moore. In each film, he portrayed a basically decent man who sinks to low depths because of his infatuation with a cheap woman.

Salami King

Max Asnas owned a delicatessen—but what a delicatessen! everybody who is anybody in show business knows "The Stage Delicatessen" in New York. Max's personality sustained the place until he died last week. I didn't really know him, but as a kid I held him in awe. One evening, in the bitter cold and snow, I was standing outside his place, entranced by a Jimmy Canon column in a newspaper. Max walked by, snapped the paper out of my hand, said "eat now—read later," and intimidated me through the door.

Dick Maney died a while back, and you could write a lot of paragraphs about him. There has never been a more stylish, more honest, more literate press agent, and few newspapermen can write half as well as he did. When Maney died, "Variety" ran an editorial about him, and it included this anecdote:

"Billy Rose once told him, let's steal a column in tomorrow's papers." Maney answered, "we don't have to steal it. It's there. Let's use it."

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (UPI)—The chamber of commerce of this city has a Santa Claus problem.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At this point in the Christmas shopping season, most people are down to the hard core segments of their gift lists.

They are frantically trying to find appropriate presents for friends or relatives who are especially difficult to please. Perhaps I can be of some assistance.

Richard Manuell, a child consultant (whatever that is), recently published some guidelines to help adults select gifts suitable for children in various age groups.

Reading them, I was impressed by the way that human life tends to run in cycles. The phrases that we go through in our youth are repeated at intervals for as long as we live.

Because of the cyclical phenomenon, the guidelines drawn up by Manuell can be used in shopping for adult presents as well as children's gifts.

All you have to figure out which phase the person on your list is in, and the rest is easy.

For instance, Manuell says "babies up to one year of age like to feel, chew, hold, drop and look at things."

Here I am in my mid-forties and I would be hard pressed to find a better description of what I like to do. I spend most of my spare time feeling, chewing, holding, dropping and looking at things.

This does not mean I like to feel, chew, hold, drop and look at the same things a baby does. But the pleasurable sensation derived from such activities is much the same at both age levels.

Knowing that, you should have no difficulty buying a gift for someone in my age bracket. "Toddlers from one to two years of age love to investigate the world," Manuell says.

As I recall, I repeated that phase in my early 20's and again in the late 30's. If you are shopping for someone 22 or 39, choose a gift he "can take apart and put back together, or move from place to place."

"Between two and three years of age children love to experiment."

That phase renews itself in the late 20's, middle 30's and early 40's. You can't go wrong giving someone 28, 35 or 42 something to experiment with.

I trust this solves your shopping problems. Don't bother to thank me personally. Just make a small donation to the Aristotle Onassis relief fund in my name.

DUPONT
TEFLON®

NO-STICK COOKING
NO-SCOUR CLEANUP

It's hard to believe till you see it! Scrambled eggs, cheesy sauces, fudge, even burned-on foods simply wash out, without soaking or scouring! Nothing sticks, whether or not you use cooking oils!

Try better-cooking MIRRO aluminum, with Du Pont's pastel-colored Teflon finish on the inside, and you'll never scour again.

AS FEATURED ON TV

Just on this seal of Quality when you buy! It identifies new, non-peeling Teflon. Any smooth-edged metal spatula can be used.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR CHRISTMAS

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of rayon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga.

Students Present Holiday Recitals

Piano pupils of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder met in two groups in her studio at 1215 Williston recently for Pre-Christmas Recital-Workshops.

Hostesses for the first group were Mrs. Leroy Ogden and Mrs. J. C. Daniels who furnished refreshments following the musical program.

Two Christmas duets were performed in this program. Miriam Carroll and Melinda Diggs played "Angels We Have Heard on High" and Linda Reed and Cassandra Sweet presented "Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer".

Performing solos at this program were: Carol Sparkman, Vicki Ogden, Jona Daniels, Melinda Diggs, Miriam Carroll, Kim Kelly, Kim Harris, Lana Beckham, Cheryl Jamison, Karen Upshaw, Shelly Pilcher, Sally Keeton, Linda Reed, Cassandra Sweet, and Debbie Bray.

Parents present included David Pilcher, J. E. Sweet and Mmes. Roy Sparkman, Mary Diggs, Thad Carroll, C. C. Kelly, L. E. Harris, Doyle Beckham, J. R. Jamison, Therman Upshaw, Finis Keeton, Thelma Bray and the hostesses. At the second recital, Mrs. Carl Williams and Mrs. Michael Wilson were hostesses and served refreshments during the social hour.

In this program special Christmas ensemble numbers were also performed. Suzanne Bond and Lisa Laycock played "In Dulci Jubilo" (Bach) as a duo on two pianos. "Song of the Christmas Goose" was played by Kathy Gallman and Mrs. Yoder who substituted for Gail Duncan who was ill.

Solos were played by Robin Lee, Stan Williams, Tommy Bruce, Jill Ferrell, Melinda Laycock, Susan Johnson, Ann Henderson, Glenn Norris, Suzanne Bond, Lisa Laycock, Kathy Gellman, Anita Williams, and Jean Fischer.

Mothers attending this group were Mmes. Bob Lee, Wallace Bruce, Claude Ferrell, Royce Laycock, Dan Johnson, E. L. Henderson, D. W. Bond, J. H. Gallman, Theo. Williams, and the hostesses. Miss Helen Hill of South Africa, American Field Service exchange student, and two student visitors were also guests.

Students brought toys or games and exchanged them for the afternoon, later to be given to Pampa's underprivileged children.

Advantage

According to a survey of homemakers it is a great advantage to have more than one cleaning center within the home.

B&PW Members Exchange Presents

VE WP-RI 1-24 b6bw members The Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club had its Christmas party recently in the City Club room for members and guests, with Mrs. Pearl Castka, president, presiding. Mrs. H.F. McDonald gave the Club Collect.

Rev. J.W. Duke, First Christian Church pastor, was guest speaker. Speaking on the letter "X", or the X IN Christmas he said too often "Christ" is left out of "Christmas." "Let us put Christ back in the 'word,' in our heart, and in our home."

Members brought food for a Christmas basket for a needy family. A collection was taken for a Christmas offering for Girl's Town U.S.A.

Gifts were exchanged from a lighted Christmas tree. The refreshment table was covered with a red Christmas cloth centered with the Utopia tree decorated for the Christmas season. A trellis covered with poinsettia holly and festive fruit was placed behind the serving table.

Guests included Mmes. Valarie Paronto, Charlotte Andrews, Lora Dunn and Marion George.

New Device

For the professional or businessman who is away from his office a new telephone answering device makes sure you won't miss those vital calls. Your recorded voice answers, then the caller merely gives the message. After 8 to 15 seconds of silence, the unit shuts off. About $100 or $200 for a deluxe model.

Wash Separately Clothing contaminated with form chemicals, sprays, etc., should be washed separately, using extra soap or detergent, then rinsed well. The washing machine should then be "laundered" and rinsed also.

JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, DEC. 21.

Your birthday Saturday the coming year brings opportunity to show latent talent for management. Earnings can improve, add a sideline. Any problems are mainly matters of convenience rather than fundamental issues. Saturdays natives tend to seek situations in which they control activities such as self-employment or working arts.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): A possible early-morning temptress is over quickly, leaving the air clear for fun, and trust. Greet Wright, Dennis Wyatt, Alfred Cross, Miss Audrey Mollett, and Mmes. Grady Savage, Thomas Skinner and Mike Clark.

deal can be accomplished this weekend.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): After you get past annoyances of last night and early morning, all goes much better. Pressure should be surmounted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Put your effort into work that can be finished quickly. Belated shopping is no bargain. Latter part of the day favors sociability, new introductions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Quarrel-breeding weather phases out in morning hours; be patient. The impact of new materials and methods bring an interesting venture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): For the next 10 days a spirit of independence can lead you to speak out of turn or make impatient demands. Control of emotional expression is essential.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get past the morning crisis by doing nothing while plans are settled; then pitch in without comment. Put into effect your own health-care program.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The upcoming 10 days favor fuller enjoyments of home and family. Brief tension triggers panic; once worked through, you are set for an enjoyable holiday season. Be serene, pursue creativity and romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Proceed slowly (and gently) on all matters. Home improvements are greatly favored. Let your feeling come out a little at a time. Look over the changes in your situation during tonight's discussion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money gets away from you with almost no returns. The amenities and symbols of social ties are satisfying at present.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Impatience forms an early threshold which you must surmount before you can prosper today. Business and personal plans are encouraging.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The morning is not good for activity, but the latter part of the day increases the chances of your self-improvement. Consult informally this afternoon with competent judges, critics.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Skip the early impulse toward haste and let a pleasant busy day unfold. Apply your creativity and natural sympathy. Take the positive, optimistic view.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my youngest son. He has had two bad marriages and now he is separated from his third wife. He has eight children from these three marriages and he has to support them all.

The last two are only babies yet and with all the alimony and support money he has to pay out he can't afford to hire anyone to look after the little ones, so he counts on me.

Abby, I am 68 years old and my husband is an invalid and I am not in very good health myself, but how can a mother say no to her own son. He is 32 years old, but he is still my baby.

SYRACUSE MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Your "baby" is responsible for eight babies of his own. He's very good at multiplying, but he does not know how to add or subtract. Let him work his problem out himself. If he knows he can't "count on you" he may find a solution and grow up in the process.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that in the state of Massachusetts 10 kisses are equal to a proposal of marriage?

HEARD IT

DEAR HEARD IT: I have a deal with the Massachusetts Bar association. They do not give advice and I do not practice law. But if there is such a "law" I'll bet it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to make it stick.

DEAR ABBY: I can understand how a business man might insist that his receptionist find out who is calling before he picks up the telephone, but how about this? At home my husband expects me to find out who is calling him before he'll come to the phone. I tell him this is his HOME, not his OFFICE — that I'm NOT his receptionist, and since I answer the telephone all the time and have to talk to anyone who calls me, why shouldn't he? If I am wrong, let me have it.

HIS MAJESTY'S WIFE: DEAR WIFE: You asked for it. I think you're wrong. A business man is sometimes annoyed at home by calls he has refused to take at his office. True, you are not his receptionist, but as his wife, you should be even more mindful of his best interests.

DEAR ABBY: I finished high school and took a secretarial course. I'm working now, and my parents expect me to pay room and board. I do not dig it at all. After all, I didn't ask to be born, so isn't it their duty to take care of me?

I am always being bugged about helping with the housework and ironing. I thought it was a mother's job to do the housework, laundry, and cooking. She works only part time and I think my time off should be my own to do as I please. Even rest, if I want to.

I am only young once. I am thinking about moving into an apartment with a girl friend. No more midnight curfews. "Where are you going and where have you been?"

NINETEEN: DEAR NINETEEN: I think you need to grow up, all right, and I advise you to stay home until you do.

Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Twentieth Century Form Has Christmas Program On Mexico

One might think Christmas in Mexico was spelled with a capital letter P for pinsettias, posadas, pinatas, puestos, pastorelas, and pastores. The Mexico Christmas theme was a recent Twentieth Century Forum program.

The holiday season is a time of elaborate pageantry, fireworks, feasting, and frivolity — a blend of reverence and revelry that radiates with the brilliance of flaming poinsettias which bloom at Christmas in Mexico. Members discussed the program during a meeting at Mrs. Edward P. Dunigan's home.

The first P stands for pinsettias which Joel R. Poinsett, first American minister to Mexico, brought back upon his return from Mexico. It's called by the natives, "Flower of the Holy Night" or Flower of Christmas Eve.

Posada is the second P. The word itself means "inn" or "place of lodging". It is a religious procession in which Joseph's fruitless search for shelter for Mary on the way to Bethlehem is re-enacted with dramatic fervor. Las Posadas begins nine days before Christmas and ends on Christmas Eve when the Christ Child is placed in the manger.

Pinata is for the children. It's an earthenware jar cleverly decorated which is suspended from a branch. Each child is whirled, blindfolded, and allowed to hit at the pinata. When finally the jar is broken, a shower of toys, candy and fruits falls to the waiting children below.

Christmas visitors to Mexico see puestos or market stalls which spring up anywhere there is room. The Indians work all year long, young and old alike, to bring their wares to sell. It includes all the native crafts, allied arts, and variety of food imaginable.

The final P is for the pastores which begin the day after Christmas and continue until Jan. 6, the day the Mexicans exchange gifts. The pastore is a modern version of a medieval miracle play brought from Europe in the early days of the Conquest. It's performed in small towns and on ranches in the peasants' language. It's the same every night but several go to watch it more than once. Since the Three Kings were supposed to have reached the Christ Child with their gifts on Jan. 6, the exchange of presents is at this time.

Christmas in Mexico is a blend of all its ancient cultures, history, and religion and is a thing of beauty.

Members attending were Mmes. David Holt, Aubrey Steele, Frank Stolla, Bill

Hatcher, A.L. Henson, Leon Hinton, Georgia Mack, Janice Myers, R.D. Morris, W.F. Mulanaz, J.J. Rance, Tony Smith, Vernon Stuckey, Mack Taylor, A.L. Walling, and Carl M. Wright.

Pampa Hosts Sandies Tonight

By RON CROSS

Pampa Harvester coach Sterling Gibson says Amarillo is capable of beating anybody in the district and the Sandies will be trying to do just that, beginning at 8 p.m. tonight in Harvester Field House.

But the Sandies, losers of two straight, will have a tough row to hoe against Pampa, winners of two straight and 2-1 in district play and 5-2 for the season.

Like Dallas's Cowboys, defense has been the key for the Harvesters, plus the hot shooting of senior Jim Hollis, the districts leading scorer.

Pampa, in three conference games, has given up 150 points, an average of 50 per cent.

For the season the Harvesters have given up 351 points, an average of 50.1 points per contest.

For the season and in three league games Pampa has scored an average of 55.5 per game.

Hollis is the district's leading point maker. The 6-2 senior has scored 72 points in three league outings for a 24.0 per game mark and has totaled 159 points for the season, an average of 22.8 per game.

Edward Moultrie still leads Pampa in rebounding with 47 in seven games and center Jim Gallman has 40 rebounds.

After opening district competition with a 61-31 victory over Lubbock the Sandies have taken a nosedive and lost to Coronado, 70-66 and Borger, 63-50. But Amarillo will bring a 3-4 season record into tonight's fray with the Harvesters.

Coach Gary Lawley returned only four lettermen and no starters off a team that finished 12-15 a season ago.

Last season Pampa smothered the Sandies twice, 90-81 and 77-70.

Lawley will probably start 6-6 senior letterman Hurlie Sealer, 6-0 senior Jerry Vachav, 6-3 senior letterman Mike Ray, senior Kyle Pipkin and either junior Kenny Roberts or senior Wayman Moland.

Johnny Epperson and Billy Thomas will start at guards for Pampa. Hollis, Moultrie and either Gallman or Tommy Ivey will be the other Harvester floormen.

In other district action tonight Tascosa plays at Coronado in hopes of staying tied with Borger for the league lead; Borger hosts last place Caprock, Lubbock is at Palo Duro and Plainview hosts Monterey.

The Pampa Shockers attempt to even their record at 2-2 when they meet the Amarillo Junior Varsity at 6:15 p.m.

Beall Signs To Coach With Baylor

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Baylor University has not had a winning football team in five years, has a low athletic budget, has a hard time competing in the dog-eat-dog recruiting scramble and had a freshman football team that did not come close to winning a game in 1968.

But Bill Beall thinks he can change all that.

Beall, an assistant football coach at Louisiana State University for the past seven years, Thursday took the helm as head man at Baylor, a school that has been snubbed twice since it fired John Bridges Nov. 28.

Beall admitted the task of rebuilding Baylor's football fortunes is a large one, but he is optimistic.

"Our No. 1 concern right now is to bring all Baylor factions back together," he said.

Pokes Edge Trinity, 65-63

By United Press International
The Texas Longhorns put five men in double figures and came through with a convincing 89-72 win over Southern Mississippi Thursday night but the basketball game was never a run away.

The score was tied 54-54 at one point and 60-63 at another but Southern Mississippi faded and Texas scored 12 points to three at one stretch and put he game out of reach.

Bruce Motley led Texas with 19 points and Wendell Ladner scored 23 for Southern Mississippi to lead all scorers.

Texas never trailed in the game but Southern Mississippi kept coming back from nowhere to give them a race.

Abilene Christian jumped into the lead and then held off a panicky surge by Colorado State to win 90-87.

The Christians led by 21 points with just over seven minutes left but the Bears roared back and almost pulled it out.

Undeclared Lamar Tech came from behind to knock off Northwest Missouri State 76-65 and rack up their ninth win of the season.

Kenny Haynes scored 17 points to lead all scorers. Colorado is 5-3.

Prep Football Playoffs In Final Round Saturday

By United Press International
Four coveted state high school football championships go up for grabs this weekend with the state's two longest winning streaks in danger of coming to a screeching halt.

Capacity or near-capacity crowds are expected in Fort Worth, San Angelo, San Marcos and Nacogdoches for the culmination of a season that saw more than 500 teams kicking off last September.

Only one of last year's champions is back for another shot at the title. That's Austin Reagan, which goes into Saturday's Class AAAA title affair against Odessa Permian with a 14-0 record this season and a 29-game winning streak that stretches back to the final game of the 1966 season.

Reagan is only a slight favorite against Permian (11-3), which possesses a giant offensive and defensive line. The Raiders' role in the championship game, having come into last year's championship contest a decided underdog, before bumping off Abilene Cooper.

Both Undeclared in AAA

The Class AAA championship Saturday features two undefeated teams—Refugio and Lubbock Estacado.

Title action will get underway tonight with Lufkin Dunbar battling Daingerfield for the Class AA crown in Nacogdoches and Poth tangling with Sonora for the Class A championship in San Marcos.

The Refugio-Estacado contest, to be unraveled at Fort Worth, is the only championship game to bring together two undefeated clubs.

Estacado ranks as the slight favorite thanks to its impressive playoff record thus far. Estacado opened the playoffs by thrashing defending champion 49-8.

The longest winning streak in Texas goes on the line when Dunbar meets Daingerfield. Bar has won 39 straight, but is no better than an even bet against Daingerfield (13-1), which upset No. 1 ranked Iowa Park last week in the semifinals.

The biggest favorite going into championship weekend is Poth, which meets Sonora (12-1-1).

The Pirates have not come close to being beaten in its 14-game schedule, often rolling up 50 and 60-point winning margins. They have shut out their last two opponents, including defending Class A champion Tidehaven.

Sooners Practice

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—The Oklahoma Sooners started the post-season tune-up for its Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl game in Houston Dec. 31 by putting the most effort on stopping the passing attack of Southern Methodist.

"Also we spent a great deal of time on our own running game," coach Chuck Fairbanks said.

Pampa Teams Sweep Pair

Pampa eighth and ninth grade swept a pair of games Thursday from Borger Houston with Pampa eighth downing Houston, 50-30 and Pampa ninth winning, 55-49.

Coach Don Drinnon's eighth graders coasted to their fifth win without a loss and Pampa ninth is now 3-2.

In the eighth grade game Richard McCampbell had 16 points as did Fred Wilbon, Ricky Smith had 8, Don Proctor had 4, Ricky King 5 and Tim Holt 1.

Larry Knutson scored 15 for the ninth grade. Richard Buntun had 11, James Brodley 10, Doug Smith 8 and Sam Vallaster 7.

Eskimo Golf Meets To Help March Of Dimes

A series of weekly "Eskimo" Golf Tournaments are now underway at the Pampa Country Club course.

Billed as a handicap tournament for handicapped children, 75 per cent of the proceeds will go to the March of Dimes fight against birth defects. The remaining 25 per cent will go toward a prize fund.

Entry fee is $2.00 for each 18 holes and players may enter as many times as they wish. Two winners will be named each week.

The tournaments are scheduled to run through January 21.

Lilly Slated Guest Speaker

It's official now. A Dallas Cowboy will be guest speaker at the Pampa High School All-Sports Banquet.

It was announced Thursday that All-Pro tackle Bob Lilly will be guest speaker at the March 3 banquet.

Other details for the banquet have not been completed.

Gibson to Speak

Basketball coach Sterling Gibson and members of the Harvester cage team will be guests at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the bi-weekly Harvester Club meeting.

Club members will meet in the high school cafeteria and a program will be presented.

Moderation In Red China Still Entails Use Of Much Violence

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China went from massacre to moderation in 1968. The outlook for 1969 was more moderation. But the violence that marked much of the past year was not likely to end completely.

The upheaval of Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution was to continue despite claims of victory by Mao's supporters and the formal purge of his chief adversary, Liu Shao-chi.

The military, which emerged as the most cohesive and most dominant force, probably will keep the violence better contained than in the past.

The signs were that the soldiers and the less extreme elements in Mao's Peking power center would keep the nation moving along a course that emphasizes tighter control, more efficient administration, improved production and increased trade.

The country seemed on a moderate course when 1968 began. But the power pendulum swung towards the extreme left early in the year.

Fighting erupted in many areas. Armed civilian factions fought for a voice in the new revolutionary committees being established in place of the old party and government apparatus.

At the outset of the year, only nine of the 29 major administrative regions (26 provinces, three special municipalities) in the country had succeeded in establishing new power organs acceptable to the central authorities.

By September, all 29 regions had new revolutionary committees.

The most serious violence was in South China, particularly in Kwangsi province which borders on North Vietnam.

Power Struggle

Fighting there produced grim, irrefutable evidence of the violence that has accompanied the country's purge and power struggle.

At least 100 bodies, bound and beaten, were recovered in early summer from waters around the British colony of Hong Kong and the Portuguese enclave of Macao, 45 miles away across the Pearl River estuary.

The violence was particularly serious in Wuchow, a city on the west river at the Kwangsi-Kwangtung provincial border, and Liuchow, a major transport hub for rail, river and road traffic in South China.

Violence was not confined to Kwangsi. But that was the main trouble spot. Premier Chou En-lai and other high officials complained of interruptions in the flow of war supplies from China to North Vietnam as a result of the fighting.

Trains were damaged, derailed and looted. Much of the loot consisted of arms and ammunition bound for Vietnam.

On June 13, top government, party and military authorities in Peking issued a joint directive ordering an end to the fighting and disruption of transport.

Toward Normalcy

The fighting did not stop immediately. But before the end of the year some semblance of normal transport had been restored in Kwangsi and other parts of the country where Chou had complained of disruptions.

While the fighting was taking shape in the south, dramatic developments were taking place in Peking. Three top military men accused of undermining the cultural revolution and plotting to seize power were purged.

A top-level directive issued on March 22 announced the dismissal of Yang Cheng-wu, acting chief of the general staff; Yu Li-chin, political commissar of the air force, and Fu Chung-pi, commander of the Peking garrison.

Later in the year, the central committee of the Communist party held its 12th plenary session, the first since August 1966, and voted to purge Liu Shao-chi, chairman (president) of the country and Mao's onetime heir apparent in the party.

Military Stronger

Despite the differences among the armed forces leadership, the military moved to take stronger control in mid-year.

The Red Guards were told to calm down and sent back to classrooms for study under a reformed educational system initiated by Mao.

The moderate trend that developed in the latter part of the year was reflected most in the economic sector, where considerable effort was put on getting production back to normal after some serious decline in 1967 and the first half of 1968.

The trend toward moderation carried over into foreign policy as well.

'Viva la Raza' Favorite Cry Of 'Chicanos' Across Nation

By KENNETH R. CLARK
McAllen, Tex. (UPI) — "Viva la raza" is a cry with which Americans from San Diego, Calif. to Brownsville, Tex. may become very familiar in months to come.

Literally translated, it means "long live the cause of the Mexican-American race," and it has become the battle-cry of the militant "Chicano"—recently described by State Sen. Joe Bernal, of San Antonio, as "the Mexican American who wants to be an American and still retain the language and culture of his mother country."

A group of "Chicano" students from Edcouch-Elisa junior-senior high school Wednesday took their battle cry to federal district court in Brownsville, and won a stunning victory over school authorities who had expelled them for staging a walkout and classroom boycott on Nov. 14.

The case presented by the school board crumbled suddenly and dramatically over the issue of violation of the constitutional guarantee of free speech, and "selective enforcement" of the rule.

The board, which had expelled 82 students, while allowing 130 others to return to class under probation, found itself trapped on both counts. The board capitulated, and agreed out of court to reinstate the young rebels and pay them nominal damages as well.

Thursday, Bob Sanchez, the McAllen attorney retained to press the students' case by the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund of San Antonio, speculated upon the possible consequences of the school board's upset.

Even though no formal ruling came from the court in the case, Sanchez said he regarded it as a "victory for the Mexican-American people, because the case has far-reaching impact on the movement of Mexican-Americans everywhere in their endeavors to obtain social justice."

"I would not be human if I did not feel overjoyed with the victory," he said. "There is absolutely no doubt but that we found justice in our federal court at Brownsville."

Sanchez said he thought the case would be a boost for the "Chicano" movement throughout the nation, as well as for the Ford Foundation-backed Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, which scored its first major civil rights victory in the Edcouch-Elisa case.

At the same time, Sanchez called for "a note of temperance and warning" to Mexican-Americans "that not all demonstrations are constitutionally protected as free speech."

"Every measure must be taken by anyone seeking redress of grievances before any peaceful demonstration is staged," he said. "Failing all efforts to obtain any redress, then perhaps a peaceful demonstration could be in order."

RESEMBLING OPEN AND CLOSED UMBRELLAS, a row of pines and cypresses punctuates road leading to Punta Ala, a resort in Italy.

SKORZENY OUSTED
ROME (UPI)—The former Nazi SS colonel who freed Italian Dictator Benito Mussolini in World War II never got a chance to re-enact his feat for television Wednesday. Italy ordered him home as an undesirable.

Former Col. Otto Skorzeny, who now is a businessman in Spain, arrived in Italy for reconstruction of his exploit for a CBS television crew. Police met the plane and told Skorzeny he was unwelcome in Italy, putting him on the next plane out.

Benjamin Lach Is Judged Insane

LUBBOCK (UPI)—Benjamin Lach, a 24-year-old pre-med student from Boston, was found insane Wednesday by a district court jury. Lach is charged with murder in the scalpel slaying of a Texas Tech cleaning woman.

The 10-man, two woman jury took 12 minutes to reach the decision and recommend hospitalization under secure measures.

The jury verdict ruled only on Lach's present mental condition and said he was "incompetent at the present time to aid attorneys in his own defense."

If he is later determined sane, he could be returned to Lubbock, to stand trial for the death of Mrs. Sarah Alice Morgan, 54. Mrs. Morgan's almost decapitated body was found in a campus biology laboratory with her throat repeatedly slashed Dec. 4, 1967.

Dist. Judge Howard C. Davison will determine judgment at a later date. He probably will commit Lach to the Rusk State Hospital.

ANTI-NUCLEAR PROTEST

SASEBO, Japan (UPI)—Anti-nuclear demonstrators snake-danced through a park today near the docks where the U.S. nuclear-powered submarine Plunger was moored but the protest fell far short of what has been promised.

STUDENTS SENTENCED

SALONIKA, Greece (UPI)—A military tribunal Thursday night sentenced three students to from 4½ years to 18½ years in prison for what the Greek military regime said was an attempt to organize a subversive organization.

COMMANDOS KILLED

SEOUL (UPI)—South Korean troops killed 10 more North Korean commandos who landed on South Korea's east coast Oct. 30, military spokesmen said today. The announcement said the latest were killed Thursday and brought to 89 the number slain.

drew 2,900 persons, police said. But socialist and labor officials claimed there were 11,000.
