Weekend update

Governor Opposed To Amnesty

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday amnesty is out of the question as a means for relieving congested conditions in Texas prisons.

"I would not be for amnesty," Clements told his weekly news conference.

Georgia officials recently granted amnesty to thousands of prisoners to comply with a federal court order that it put an end to overcrowding in its penitentiaries.

OPEC Member Asks For Cut

KUWAIT (AP) — An Arab oil minister called on fellow members of the world oil cartel to cut production in an effort to drain rising oil reserves being stockpiled by the major oil consuming nations.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries must not allow any glut in world oil markets, United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Seed Oteiba was quoted as saying in an interview published today in the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Rai Al-Aam.

The oil minister of Saudi Arabia, meanwhile, was quoted today in a Saudi newspaper as saying his country does not wish to manipulate oil supplies as a political weapon, as happened in 1973 when Arab oil states cut off supplies to supporters of Israel.

Kangaroo Show Being Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — "Captain Kangaroo," network TV's longest-running children's program, will be cut from an hour to 30 minutes this fall to make room for an expanded "Morning" news program, CBS said Friday.

"Captain Kangaroo," now broadcast 8-9 a.m. EST, will move to 7 a.m. as part of the morning shakeup, CBS said.

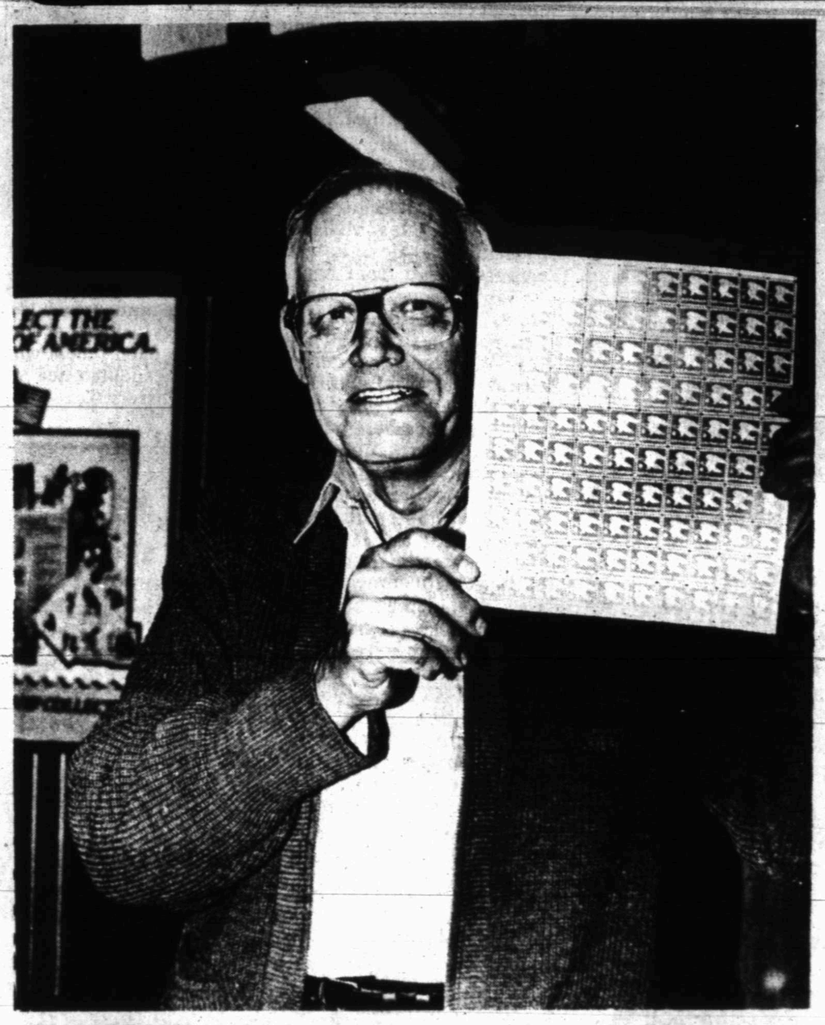
In addition, the network said CBS News will produce a new afternoon series dealing with issues affecting the contemporary family that will include reports by Bob Keeshan, who has been "Captain Kangaroo" in the series he created and brought to CBS Oct. 3, 1955.

PUC Order To Affect Texans

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Southwestern Bell executive says enforcement of a Public Utility Commission rate order will affect "almost everyone" in Texas, but warns that your telephone bill may not be lower.

State District Judge Harley Clark on Friday upheld a PUC order setting rates that are lower than the phone company wanted, but delayed the effective date of the rates by two weeks.

Bell attorneys said they would appeal to the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here.



HIGH MAILING COSTS--The cost of mailing a first class letter increases to 18 cents effective today. The Snyder post office, however, does not have any of the new stamps. The local post office will be selling 15-cent and 3-cent stamps or the Class B Stamp which does not have a face value. Shown with the Class B Stamp is Ordon Benbenek, a clerk in the Snyder post office. (SDN Staff Photo)

Miners Ignoring Pleas Of Leaders

By The Associated Press

More than 12,000 coal miners ignored the pleas of union leaders and stayed off the job Friday, as wildcat strikes idled soft coal operations in at least six states in anticipation of a nationwide work stoppage by 160,000 United Mine Workers next week.

"Once the talks broke down in Washington everybody just walked off the job," said Earl Ellis, a miner in Boone county, W.Va. "They said they weren't coming back until August."

Although only 50 miners stayed away from work in Virginia, state police said they were boosting the number of troopers in the coalfields.

"We're going to see that things are peaceful," said Capt. W.S. Hucklin. "You don't know what's going to happen. You never know. We hope it will be peaceful."

Government officials in coal-producing states girded for the nationwide strike, now considered a virtual certainty.

In West Virginia, Gov. Jay Rockefeller estimated Friday that a strike would cost the state $10 million a month in tax revenues, with a far greater effect on the overall economy.

The wildcat work stoppages began after collapse of contract talks Tuesday in Washington and continued despite pleas from some union officials for workers to return to the mines.

UMW President Sam Church told a Washington news conference Friday that he had failed to revive contract talks with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the industry's bargaining agent.

Church warned the impending strike could be a long one and appealed to the coal operators to return to the bargaining table.

But B.R. Brown, chairman of the BOAC negotiating committee, said the industry would resume talks only "when the UMW indicates its willingness to modify its demands."

Even if an agreement were reached before the current contract expires March 27, UMW procedures for ratification by the rank-and-file require 10 days. The UMW has a strong no-contract, no-work tradition.

Some 2,000 miners were reported off the job Friday in West Virginia, 2,300 in Alabama, 1,100 in Kentucky and 550 in Illinois. Most were were apparently protesting the stalled contract talks.

In Pennsylvania about 6,000 miners were off the job, many of them to protest the disciplinary suspension of workers at a U.S. Steel mine. Some 2,300 of the miners were defying a federal judge's back-to-work order covering five mines.

The SDN Column

Over the years we have published reports of incidents that exemplify total honesty, but we never had one as close to home as this one.

The star is Mrs. W. W. Furnace of Colorado City.

She writes as follows:

"Yesterday, I was through Snyder. I stopped at the shopping center. As I was leaving, I dropped change in the paper machine at Eckerd's and Safeway. It kept part of the change and returned part. I put the dime back through and it came back again. I tried one more time and it kept the money but refused to open up. So, I shook the 'return' lever (pretty hard).

"Several coins came out ($1.35). I returned the money for the paper and got it this time. But when I tried to return the coins to the machine, they kept coming back. It was raining and I was out of time, so I am returning the amount of the coins to you--$1.35 minus my 20 cents I put back for the paper. Sorry I couldn't take time to bring it by the newspaper office."

Enclosed with this letter were a $1 bill and a 15-cent stamp.

Needless to say, this sets an all-time record, and, although she was not obligated to do so, we also are sorry that she was unable to come by the SDN office in person, because yours truly, Publisher Roy McQueen and other staff members would like to meet Mrs. Furnace in person. Until we do have such an opportunity, we congratulate her and express our thanks to her for really going the last mile in proving her integrity.

Back east, they'll probably say those crude Texans are just curious, but for some reason, culture is on the upswing in the Lone Star State, according to reports from the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth.

The recent showing of "The Great Bronze Age of China" exhibit there set the record for that exhibition in this country. It also set a record for the Kimbell Museum. Attendance totalled 281,282 from Dec. 10 to Feb. 18, an average of 4,767 per day. It drew an average of 4,460 per day at the Metropolitan Museum in New York, which organized the exhibition in this country, and in Chicago, an average of 3,626 per day was recorded over a 50-day period.

Of course all of those visiting the China exhibit while it was at the Kimbell were not Texans. Guest books were signed by people from all 50 states and from 48 other countries. But the fact that they saw it in Texas should be of some significance. We suspect that thousands of those who saw it in New York and Chicago also were from points far removed from those cities.

Ed Thrift says he knew last Tuesday's duster was a bad one when he saw a prairie dog digging up.

Several people have told us that they never saw a worse blow than that one, but there are some of us who recall a few that would be in its class. We don't remember any exact dates, but somebody said we had one nearly that bad in 1974. Anyway, this one will do for a few years, we hope.

Mrs. Feather Rites Sunday

Private graveside services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Snyder Cemetery for Earle Feather, 72, who died Friday in a fire at the family's printing firm in Lubbock.

The fire occurred about 1 p.m. at Feather Printing Co., located on the Clovis Highway in Lubbock. A cigarette or smoking material is believed to have started the blaze in a office adjacent to the print shop.

Employees of the printing company smelled smoke but the fire was already out of control by the time they reached the office where Mrs. Feather was alone.

Her husband, Herbert, and four employees attempted to rescue Mrs. Feather but were stopped by heavy smoke and flames. Mr. Feather entered the burning structure and pulled his wife from the building.

Feather, former publisher of the Snyder Daily News, received second degree burns on his arms and hands. He was admitted to Lubbock General Hospital and was in good condition Saturday. He was expected to be released from the hospital Sunday.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy pronounced Mrs. Feather dead at the scene, but has not issued a ruling until a fire marshall's report is received.

Four employees of the print shop also attempted to aid Mrs. Feather. Willie Davis, former pressman for the SDN and now manager of the Lubbock printing operation, said his son Glen received a minor cut on his hand when he attempted to kick in a door.

Feather Printing Co. does the printing for the University Daily, Texas Tech's campus newspaper. Damage to the office and warehouse was heavy, but damage in the press area was confined to water and smoke damage, Davis said. An estimated $50,000 in newsprint was destroyed.

Mrs. Feather resided at 3798 Dalton in Snyder. She is survived by her husband; and two daughters, Mrs. Glenda Powell and Mrs. Evelyn Line, both of Snyder.

The Feathers came to Snyder in 1950 from Big Spring. In 1957 Mr. and Mrs. Feather purchased the Snyder Daily News from Harte-Hanks. They remained owners of the newspaper until October, 1978.

Fun Breakfast Will Be Held On Thursday

The quarterly Snyder Chamber of Commerce fun breakfast will be held at 7 a.m. Thursday at the Smorgasbord Restaurant banquet room.

Chamber Manager Bill Warner said the breakfast will be another fun-filled event at which new chamber members will be introduced and "special" awards will be presented. In addition there will be a drawing for a $300 door prize if the person whose name is drawn is present. There also will be a $10 door prize.

Sponsors for the Thursday breakfast are the First National Bank, Snyder Truck & Tractor, and Thompson's Shoe Store.

Reservatons for the breakfast must be made by noon Wednesday and can be made by calling the chamber office.

Absentee Voting Indicates Little Interest In Race

The pace of absentee voting at the end of the first week indicates little interest in school board and city council elections set for April 4.

Absentee voting in both elections began last Monday and as of Friday only 10 votes had been cast in the school board race while no ballots had been cast in the city council election.

Absentee voting is being held at the school administration building and at city hall. Absentee balloting ends March 31.

In the Snyder school board election, two places are on the ballot. Candidates for place 6 are Vera Stansell, Charles Freeman and Roy McQueen. Running for the place 7 spot are J. D. Hinton and Dr. Paul Thompson.

Both incumbents on the school board, Bill Eiland and Ted Crenwelge did not seek re-election.

There are no contested races on the city ballot. Candidates include Gale McPherson for place 1, Ed Thrift for place 2, John Wilson for place 3, David Holt for place 5 and Rod Waller for place 6.

Elections are also being held in the Ira and Hermleigh school districts. Ira has four candidates for three spots on the board. They are Donnie Dunn, Tommy Sterling, Jim Wilson and Robert Barbee.

Three candidates are seeking two spots on the Hermleigh school board. They are Jimmy Roemisch, Allen Kuss and Jimmy Hudgins.

Ask Us

Q.—Why is Easter so late this year?

A.—Blame it on the moon. Easter falls on the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox (the beginning of spring). Thus it may come as early as late March, or as late as April 25.

Jaycees To Participate In Easter Seal Telethon

The 1981 National Easter Seal Telethon is expected to reach more than 40 million viewers, a record high in its 10-year history, and Snyder will take part locally.

Snyder Jaycees will man the local Easter Seal pledge center, 10:30 p.m. March 28 through 6 p.m. March 29, at the chamber of commerce.

All residents are welcome to call in pledges or come by the chamber office. The number is 573-3558.

Members of the Western Texas College student government will also be selling solid fudge chocolate Easter eggs in the near future, to benefit Easter Seal.

The 20-hour telethon will originate in Hollywood, hosted by Pat Boone, and will include live feeds from New York City, featuring New York host Marvin Hamlisch. The show will be carried by at least 130 stations.

Since 1972, when the telethon was inagurated as a major vehicle to support Easter Seal rehabilitation services for people with disabilities, more than $52 million has been raised.

"Despite the uncertain economy, we look forward to surpassing last year's record pledges of $14,508,348," said John Garrison, executive director of the National Easter Seal Society.

He credited "continued growth of corporate support for the telethon and increased public recognition of the Easter Seal Society as the world's oldest and largest volunteer agency serving the needs of handicapped people," for the continued expansion of the telethon.

Jaycees Seeking Nominations

Snyder Jaycees are accepting nominations for The Distinguished Service Award, to be given at its annual installation banquet. The award is the highest a local Jaycee chapter can present to a young man.

To be considered for the award, the young man must be between the ages of 18 and 36. He must set goals and be able to achieve them. There are six areas in which goals must be set; business, family, social-civic, physical, emotional, religion.

Anyone wishing to nominate a young man should send a letter stating why they feel this person is deserving of the award. Nominations should be sent to the Snyder Jaycees, Box 622, Snyder, Texas for the attention of Pinky Pinkston. Deadline for nominations will be April 1.

Tuesday In Austin....

RSVP Awareness Day

Retired Senior Volunteer Program members from Scurry County will join other members from across Texas in Austin Tuesday for an RSVP Anniversary Awareness Day.

The local delegation will include Rosa Kennedy, Blanche Arnold, Mae Bush, Rita Dowdy and Oleta Layne, RSVP members. Marsha Krenek, RSVP director, and Betty Doan, secretary, will accompany them.

RSVP, a nationwide project, will be marking its 10th anniversary with observances in June and July. RSVP is an organization for retired persons 60 years and older who enjoy working as volunteers in community activities.

To determine who would represent the Scurry County project, the local advisory council compiled a list of volunteers with the most hours for the past year, and this list was called until five volunteers accepted.

The group, along with Big Spring, will leave Monday. At 11 a.m. Tuesday, a representative will attend a proclamation ceremony in the Governor's reception room. Mrs. Dowdy will represent the local program.

At noon, a reception will be held in the Sam Houston Building. A special cermanic name tag will be awarded a designated representative from each RSVP project, and Mrs. Bush will accept the Scurry County tag.

RSVP began in Scurry County in 1973 with 11 members and now has over 350 members, Mrs. Krenek said. Members contribute more than 65,000 hours of volunteer service to the community each year.

The local project received special commendation for developing a pilot walking club program for nursing home residents and a reading program for special children in public schools. Volunteers also assist with fund drives for non-profit groups. In addition time is given to the museum, library, hospital, day care center and senior center.

Journalists At WTC Honored

Two Western Texas College journalists were honored during the 6th annual Press Day at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa.

J. D. Helm, editor of The Western Texan, WTC's student newspaper, and Lynda Cain, editor of The Trailblazer, WTC's yearbook, were introduced by their advisor, Dr. Michael McBride, associate professor of journalism.

Other community college honorees were from Howard College at Big Spring, Odessa College and South Plains College.

David Lyons, publisher of the Odessa American, addressed the group. Bob Lewis (Tumbleweed Smith), who airs the "Sounds of Texas" radio broadcast state-wide and over KSNY Radio, gave WTC's students a personal tour of UTPB's broadcast facilities.

Dr. Bob Rothstein, UTPB journalism chairman, organized the event.

WTC Recesses For Spring Break

Students will return March 30 as classes resume. Dormitories will be closed all this week and will re-open March 29.

Offices at the college will be open Monday through Wednesday but will close Thursday and Friday. The Museum also will be closed Thursday and Friday.

Americans spend more time in shopping malls than anywhere else outside their homes and jobs. Not only do they go to the malls to purchase merchandise, but they can go to church there, register to vote, give blood, bet, work and meditate.

Rx HEALTH TIP from DEAN

HEALTHY ATERIES

Linoleic acid, found in many vegetable oils and in highly unsaturated margarines, not only reduces elevated blood-cholesterol levels (believed involved in atherosclerosis and coronary heart disease)—it also may help prevent the formation of blood clots that block coronary arteries and trigger heart attacks. Studies show that emphasis on highly unsaturated oils in the diet reduces the tendency of blood to form clots, and encourages aggregated platelets safely to separate.

Unemployment Measure Signed By Clements

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements signed into law Friday a bill designed to prevent persons who voluntarily quit their jobs from collecting unemployment compensation.

The bill created one of the earlier controversies of the 67th Legislature, but passed easily in the House and Senate.

A person who quit voluntarily, was fired for misconduct or refused to accept "suitable employment" could not collect benefits until he or she obtained another job, worked at it six weeks and was layed off without fault.

Major backers of the bill were independent school districts, most of whom play unemployment benenfits from tax dollars rather than participating from the unemployment pool operated by the Texas Employment Commission.

The bill was considerably modified before it passed the Legislature. Military personnel who did not reenlist will not be considered to have quit their jobs voluntarily and will be eligible for unemployment benefits.

Persons who quit to travel with a spouse who has been transferred to another city could receive benefits as early as six weeks after quitting.

Says Extension Entomologist...

Plenty Of Alfalfa For Weevils

Farm Pest Management

By BILL JANY
Scurry-Mitchell Entomologist

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, published as a public service, has been prepared by Bill Jany, extension entomologist for Scurry and Mitchell Counties from the Texas A&M University System in College Station.

There is not much alfalfa in Mitchell and Scurry Counties, but there is enough for the alfalfa weevil. This pest is occurring in extremely high numbers this year, and may be extremely damaging to alfalfa less than six inches tall.

The adult alfalfa weevil ranges in size from one-fourth to three-tenths inches long. It is grayish brown in color with a distinct dark line along the center of the back. The adult weevil feeds on alfalfa but is not damaging except when it occurs in large numbers.

The alfalfa weevil larvae are the true damaging stage of this insect. Newly hatched larvae are about one-thirty-second of an inch long, have a light yellowish green body with a brown head capsule. The small larvae crawl up the stem to the growing tip of the alfalfa plant to feed. As weevil larvae increase in size they become a darker green with a white stripe down the middle of their back. Larvae feed for about three to four weeks on the terminal and upper leaves. The mature alfalfa weevil larvae are those that do the heaviest leaf feeding and cause the most damage.

The larger the alfalfa plant, the more alfalfa weevil larvae it can support without sustaining economic damage.

In early spring, alfalfa plants two to six inches will receive economic damage when two or more larvae are found per plant terminal. At this population level, the damage will equal the cost of treating the alfalfa. Larger alfalfa plants can stand higher numbers of alfalfa weevils before a significant economic loss is experienced.

Twelve to fifteen alfalfa larvae are required to defoliate larger alfalfa that is 12-18 inches in height. If alfala is two weeks or less away from cutting, it may be advisable to cut early rather than apply an insecticide.

There are twelve insecticides registered for alfalfa weevil control. Each has a required grazing or cutting restriction period ranging from zero to 28 days. Some of the more popular insecticide include: Methyl Parathion®, Malathion®, Sevin®, Geothion®, Serpracide®, Diazinon®, Mothoxychler®, Furadan®, and Imiden®.

The rain we received last week has greatly improved the looks of area wheat fields. Some fields had been top-dressed prior to the rain and are now showing good growth and a healthy, green color.

However, do not let this color fool you into making windshield checks on your wheat. Greenbug populations have risen dramatically in some area fields. Even fields that have been sprayed once are showing heavy infestations again in some areas. Counts last week ranged from 25 greenbugs per linear foot of row to populations that are causing large, yellow, dead spots in fields. On a warm day (above 55 degrees F) greenbug populations can quadruple.

Producers should check their fields at least once a week and preferably twice. Oat bird-cherry aphids are dark green but may appear black, slightly larger than greenbugs, and can be identified by the presence of a red area at the base of the cornicles (tailpipes). These aphids are not as damaging as greenbugs, but can reach levels that require treatment.

Beneficial activity is increasing in area wheat fields. Parasitized "mummies" are now being found. "Mummies" are the hollow remains of an aphid or greenbug that has had an egg laid in it by a small parasitic wasp. The egg hatches in the greenbug, the larvae fees on the insides of the aphid, leaving a small exit hole. Lacewing flies and lady beetles are also present and increasing in numbers. Check your fields closely for beneficial activity. These predators and parasites can eliminate a greenbug problem in instances, especially if we experience temperatures above 65 degrees.

The guide listed below will aid in determining when to treat for greenbugs.

Plant Ht. (inches)	No. greenbugs per linear ft.
3—6	100-300
4-8	200-300
6-16	300-800

Recommended insecticides for greenbugs are Dimethoate (Cygon®, De-fend®), Disulfoton (Di-Syston®), Malathion, Parathion and Phorate (Thimet®). As with all insecticides, check the label carefully before application.

"Goya's Spain" Showing At Brown Bag Luncheon

A color film titled "Goya's Spain" will be shown at Monday's brown bag luncheon in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Francisco Goya was the Spanish artist who created the series known as "The Disasters of War" currently being featured in the museum. "Goya's Spain" is made available through the Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation to accompany the "Disasters" exhibit and traces the artist's life and career.

John Gibson, WTC art instructor, has shown the film to two of his art classes and recommends it highly as being both informative and entertaining. Ricardo Montalban serves as narrator for the film and a musical background further enriches the production.

Goya was born in 1746 near Saragossa and was apprenticed to Jose Luzan, a painter of religious subjects, in 1760. His first known works, paintings for the reliquary of the Parish Church in Fuendetodos, were destroyed in 1936 during the Spanish civil war.

In 1771, Goya received honorable mention in a competition of the Academy of Parma and was commissioned to paint frescoes in Cathedral of Nuestra Senora del Pilar. Four years later he received his first official commission to design tapestry cartoons for Real Fabrica de Tapices de Santa Barbara, a series he worked on for 15 years.

By 1785 Goya's reputation had grown to the extent that he was appointed Duputy Director of Paintings for the Real Academia de San Fernando. At that time, he began a series of official and royal portraits that continued throughout his life.

Goya later suffered an illness which left him permanently deaf. This did not bring his work to a halt, but it did cause his outlook to chage and his works became different in nature.

In 1808, the people in Madrid revolted against French domination. Goya, probably a witness to the brutal fighting, commemorated the revolt in two masterpieces, "The Second of May in the Puerta del Sol" and "The Executions of the Third of May." It was about two years later that he began work on the "Disasters of War" series completed in 1816.

The museum's brown bag luncheons are open to the public without admission charge and no reservations are required. Programs begin about 12:10. Anyone wishing further information is invited to contact the museum office at 573-6107.

The Federation of Malaya entered the British Commonwealth as an independent nation in 1957. The federation was made up of nine Malay states and the British settlements of Penang and Malacca. It won self-government, despite political and military crises caused by the success of Communist guerrilla bands operating since the end of World War II.

Dear Abby

Lonely Widow Needs To Advance, Not Retreat

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have been widowed less than two years. Many friends and relatives said at the funeral, "Call me if you need anything." And, "Come and stay with me sometime." I thought they were so kind. However, as time passed, no one has reached out to me. A few have kept in touch by phone or mail.

Doctors advise, "Get our more, get involved in activities — keep on the go!"

I did and made a few new friends, but those friendships didn't last. It's not easy to keep on the go. I was formerly a homebody, and basically still am. But I love people, and socializing helps me more than counseling or medicine.

The grief and loneliness of being left alone make us hunger for something we can hardly define. And what's left of our tattered garment of pride, we wrap closer around ourselves, remain silent and withdraw even more.

Abby, please remind your readers again to reach out to those of us who live alone — especially the elderly. Too soon we, too, will be gone, but their neglect only hastens the day.

ALONE AND LONELY

DEAR ALONE: Your letter will surely remind many to be more considerate of those neglected folks who live alone. But please reconsider the advice of doctors who urge lonely people to "Get out more, get involved, and keep on the go!"

It's time to retire that "tattered garment of pride." You can combat your own loneliness and depression by reaching out to others (men or women) who are also hungry for company. Try it. It really works.

DEAR ABBY: A gay friend of ours has announced his intention to marry. In speaking with his intended bride, it is obvious that she is unaware of her fiance's homosexuality.

Should my husband or I discuss this with the gay groom? Or do you advise us to inform the unsuspecting bride?

FRIEND OF BOTH

DEAR FRIEND: A homosexual is not likely to marry. In all probability, your friend is not "gay," he is bisexual, in which case he is able to function equally well with both sexes.

Many bisexuals choose to go the heterosexual route, so since your friend has obviously made this choice, to discuss it with him would be presumptuous, and to discuss it with the bride would be meddlesome. Back off.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband. We have three lively, mischievous children, ages 10, 7 and 5, whom my husband refuses to discipline. That's my job! The only time he will do any correcting is if I'm not home. I work 40 hours a week and I'm tired when I get home. When the kids fight among themselves, I yell at them, then my husband gets mad at me for yelling at them.

Now he tells me he can't stand my yelling at the kids all the time, and if I don't quit it, he is going to move out of the house.

I love him and want him to be happy, but I'm torn between disciplining the kids and trying to keep my husband home. Please help me.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: Your method of disciplining the kids isn't working, or you wouldn't be yelling all the time. Try another technique. When they fight, separate them until they get good and lonesome for each other. (Don't worry, they will.) And keep them apart until they learn to get along better. Time is in your favor. The older they get, the smarter they get.

Winners In NIRA Rodeo To Receive Belt Buckles

Hand-engraved gold and silver belt buckles are awaiting the winners of each event in the NIRA rodeo to be held here April 9-12.

According to Bob Doty, WTC rodeo advisor, buckles will also go to the all-around cowgirl and cowboy. All buckels were donated by friends of the rodeo team.

Donors were First Federal Savings, Ezell-Key Grain, Ezell-Key Feed, Key Brothers Implement, John Billy Koonsman, Bar-H-Bar Western Wear, West Texas State Bank, First National Bank, Snyder National Bank, Fenton's, Reed Ranch, Hays Ranch and the Scurry County Board of Development.

WTC and Howard College in Big Spring are cooperating in sponsorship of the rodeo which will be held in the Scurry County Coliseum.

"This will give the people of Snyder a chance to see a great rodeo without having to fight the cold as in the past," Doty said.

There will be 22 colleges and universities from the southwest region of NIRA competing. Performances will be at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A matinee performance will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Doty said a big bonus wll be the Sunday afternoon performance. The leaders from the other four performances will participate on a final head of stock. Only 10 from each of the nine events will be competing for the average championship.

Harry Vold, top PRCA producer, will be furnishing the stock.

Advance tickets may be purchased from rodeo team members and from Rodeo Queen contestants. General admission tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students. A few box seats also will be available.

Sul Ross currently is leading the men's and women's teams, Doty said. The WTC men's team is in a close race with Tarleton State for second place. Every rodeo is critical now as only the top two teams in the region will qualify for the College National Finals to be held in Bozeman, Mont., this summer.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

March 22, 1981

For someone who prefers to go it alone, this could be an unusual year for you because of the several partnerships you might form. In each instance it could prove to be quite lucky.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your desire to get along with others is very pronounced today. Because of this, you'll look for their finer qualities rather than their frailties. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Hadio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something which could be advantageous materially is now beginning to stir. It may be awhile, however, before you start to reap its rewards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you feel the urge to gamble today, don't take chances on things. Take chances on people who have been lucky for you in the past.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're luckier than usual today in having things work out your way in the long run. Focus on important matters which you'd like to finalize.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Spend time with persons today who stimulate your imaginative juices. Bouncing ideas off the right type of individual will result in rewarding thoughts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A situation which up till now hasn't looked too profitable may still have a lot of life left in it. Take another hard look at it today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone who thought you were a trifle wishy washy may be in for a big surprise today when they see how firm you can be when it really counts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Of course don't discount your logic, but also heed your hunches businesswise or financially. Your intuition is exceptionally keen in these areas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although you won't be putting on any pretenses today you'll have a certain aura of mystery and glamor about you which will be especially appealing to those of the opposite sex.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A close confidant may pass on some information today which, if properly interpreted and used, could put you several steps ahead of your competition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others may find the Sunday sermon a trifle boring today, but not you. Something that will be said will give you new hope and inspiration.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Continue to devote your energies and efforts on promising joint ventures today. It's possible you could have more than one good thing going now.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Your Birthday

March 23, 1981

Something advantageous could open for you this coming year, making possible a second source of income. It may be quite different from the ways you're accustomed to employ to earn money.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could benefit in small ways today through changes that others originate. Let them make the first move, then act on opportunity. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Situations where you work in unison with others should turn out to your liking today, especially if the project is of a unique or futuristic nature.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Because you are able to grasp the essence of matters a bit quicker than your contemporaries today, you'll fare well when challenged.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good day to socialize with co-workers. A better understanding to improve working conditions can be arrived at over a friendly dinner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Treat serious matters with respect today but don't let them overpower you. Things will go more smoothly if you use your sense of humor as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're quite good at reasoning things out today, but you might be a trifle slow in acting on your insights. Move equally fast in both areas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are opportunities for material gain around you today. To make the most of them, be careful not to go off on tangents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Situations that on the surface appear to hold the least amount of promise could turn out to be the real winners today. Avoid cursory judgments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) To be more successful today, don't play your trump cards too early. Make sure they count for something when you put them down.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend who has been helpful to you might be able to do you some gnod again today. He or she has unusual contacts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do things today that have real purpose and meaning. Worthwhile involvements will give you the motivation for success and achievement.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't discount any clever ideas you get today that you feel could make or save you money. They should prove profitable if followed through.

Pays IRS $42,000 In $1 Bills

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A farmer who says the Internal Revenue Service was "underhanded" in the way it assessed taxes against his farm staged a paper protest Friday — paying the $42,000 tab in $1 bills.

"I wanted to pay in pennies, but the Federal Reserve Bank told me they didn't have enough in Oklahoma City," said David Rout of Logan County.

Local IRS officials estimated it would take three cashiers four to six hours to count the money.

Rout had two armed guards accompany him and the four large money sacks crammed with cash, then stood patiently at a cashier's window while the tedious counting went on.

Rout said the IRS notified him just last week that his farm, which the IRS included as part of his father's estate, was subject to seizure if a 1973 estate tax bill was not paid.

"If I had been notified in 1973, I might have paid it," he said.

He also contends the farm, given to him several years before his father's death, is not part of the estate.

Former Husband Tempers Testimony

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Vickie Daniel's former husband has tempered his more spectacular testimony by telling jurors in a custody battle over the two young sons of slain former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. that he has no reason to believe Mrs. Daniel is not a fit mother.

Larry Moore and his current wife, Judy, were the final witnesses in a sometimes sensational first week of testimony in a trial to determine of Mrs. Daniel or her sister-in-law, Jean Daniel Murph of Richardson, should be given custody of 3-year-old Franklin Baldwin Daniel and 1-year-old Marion Price Daniel IV.

Mrs. Murph contends in her suit that Mrs. Daniel, who is charged with murder in the Jan. 19 shooting death of her estranged husband, is an unfit mother, emotionally unstable and prone to violence.

Much of the testimony during the first week has centered around the circumstance's of Daniel's death. Mrs. Daniel has pleaded innocent by reason of self defense.

Andrews Takes Lead In Boys Golf Action

FORT STOCKTON – Andrews took the early lead in District 2-4A boys golf play, winning the first of four scheduled 18-hole tournaments here Friday by 11 strokes. Lamesa took second, followed by host Fort Stockton.

Andrews, led by co-medalists Brad Boynton and Leland Snook, carded a 313 to win the meet going away. Lamesa notched a 324 and Fort Stockton had a 325.

Snyder finished tenth in the running with a 373 score, led by Jay Eiland's 82.

Boynton and Snook rolled a pair of 73s to earn top honors. Lamesa's Sam Hansard was next with a 76, followed by Scott Jones of Andrews at 78. Myles Gallemore of Fort Stockton, Terry Carr of Sweetwater and Steven Fine of Monahans all had 79s.

"We capable of playing much better than this," said Snyder Coach Mackey Greene, who was without two of his first-teamers, Barry Blackmon and Kris Seale. "There's no doubt but what Andrews and Lamesa will be fighting it out for the title, but we'll move up considerably before the season is over."

Friday's tourney was played against a cool, strong wind at the county country club at Fort Stockton. Next Friday, the district match moves to Monahans.

Other Snyder scores included Jim League's 90, Joe League's 100, Steve Neeley's 101 and Steve Gressett's 109. Greene took only one team to Fort Stockton, but noted he would take two teams to the three remaining meets.

Wrestling returns to Snyder March 24 at 8 p.m. with David and Kerry von Erich highlighting the show. Tickets are abailable at the Scurry County Coliseum box office.

Half of the "double main event" occurs when David von Erich takes on Kabuki, a Gary Hart product billed as "the wildest man in wrestling today."

The other featured bout is a tag team battle featuring Kerry von Erich and the Blue Demon versus The Spoiler and Mr. Chan. The Blue Demon is heralded as "one of the biggest name movie stars in Mexico, starring in over 500 movies."

Also included on the fight card will be Ricky Romero taking on Jessie Barr and Raul Zapata versus Billy White Cloud.

TOUGH PUNISHMENT - Snyder varsity catcher Neil Evans is about to get a batting helmet in the chest as this photo taken during Friday's game between the Tigers and Dunbar Panthers indicates. Evans, one of three Snyder players to belt home runs in rounds one and two of the Snyder Tournament, held on to the ball and tagged out the would-be tying run. Snyder won the game 7-6, then defeated Lamesa 10-0 to reach Saturday night's championship game. (SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClellan)

In Snyder Tournament Action Friday...

Snyder Tigers Win Two, Enter Finals

Tiger Coach Albert Lewis may be yawning all the time, but he'll be glad to tell you that his team had advanced to Saturday's finals of the annual Snyder Baseball Tournament.

Snyder outlasted Lubbock Dunbar 7-6 Friday afternoon, then blanked Lamesa 10-0 in a game that didn't get started until 1:05 a.m. Saturday morning. Lewis and company finally put their heads to the pillow sometime between 3 and 4 o'clock Saturday morning.

The victories gave the Tigers, now 7-5, a berth into Saturday evening's scheduled 8 p.m. championship game. But unless the 10-run rule cut Saturday's slate of six games short, the title match was more likely to be held at 11 or after.

In other games Friday, Lamesa whipped Levelland 8-4 before falling to Snyder, and Dunbar fell to Levelland 6-5 in the consolation bracket. Also, Andrews stunned favored Lubbock Estacado 7-4 and Odessa Ector trimmed Brownfield 6-2.

Saturday's slate was to begin at 9:30 a.m. with an Estacado-Brownfield consolation game, followed at 11:30 with Andrews taking on Ector. At 2, Dunbar was to meet the Andrews-Brownfield loser for seventh place; then the consolation game at 4, third place at 6 and the championship game at 8.

Snyder got standout pitching from Gerald Don Hicks in the late game Saturday as the Tigers shutout the Tornadoes in six innings, via the 10-run rule. Hicks fanned 14 batters, walked three and gave up only three hits.

Meanwhile, Snyder broke a scoreless game in the third inning as Perry Echols belted a two-run homer. The Tigers added two more runs in the fourth, and got four in the fifth - ignited by another two-run bye-bye shot from Mike Roemisch. Barry Davis followed with a triple, and was belted home, giving the hosts an 8-0 lead. A couple of stolen bases and passed balls, accented by an Echols single, garnered two more runs in the sixth.

Echols led Snyder batsmen with a four-for-four effort.

Lasaro Arredondo absorbed the loss for Lamesa. He gave way in the fifth to Henry Lopez. The pair got five strikeouts, gave up three walks, and allowed nine hits.

Snyder had a tougher time of it against Dunbar, despite taking leads of 3-1, 5-3 and 7-3. Ralph Hernandez drew up the win for the Tigers after relieving Mike Roemisch, and Hicks came on in the final two innings to earn a save.

Brent Roemisch, Echols, Mike Roemisch and Tony Degrate all slapped first-inning singles as Snyder grabbed a 3-0 lead. Doubles by Gary Don Edmaiston and Echols provided the power for two more runs in the second, and Snyder held a brief 5-1 lead before Dunbar cut it to 5-3 in the bottom of the stanza.

A two-run homer by Neil Evans made it a 7-5 ballgame in the top of the third. It stayed that way until the fifth, when Dunbar reached base on back-to-back errors, followed it up with a double, then slapped a single.

Hicks came on in relief with two innings to go. He had little trouble in the sixth, but gave up three hits in the seventh. Still, Dunbar saw its chances slip away when Evans tagged out the apparent tying run at home, and Hicks fanned one batter and got a force-out for the third.

Kush Is Aquitted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Calling it "one of the greatest moments of my life," former Arizona State University football Coach Frank Kush has been acquitted of battery charges against ex-Sun Devil punter Kevin Rutledge and misrepresentation of a scholarship situation.

The eight-member jury was deadlocked for more than eight hours on the battery issue. It returned its decision Friday after Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Thomas Kleinschmidt said he would accept five as a majority - rather than the six votes he had required earlier in the day.

Kush, now the coach for the Canadian Football League's Hamilton Tiger-Cats, didn't change expression as the decisions were read.

Moments later, he thanked the jury, saying he was "definitely elated" and accepted congratulatory handshakes and pats on the back from his attorneys and friends. He then ducked into an adjoining room where he placed telephone calls to "my mother in Windber, Pa., and my boss in Canada" - telling them "We did it!"

"My last 25 years rolled in front of my eyes in those final moments," he said later.

Rutledge and his attorney, Robert Hing, declined comment as they took opposite stairwells to avoid television cameramen. Kush's attorney, Warren Platt, said he expected Hing to appeal

Tulsa Reaches NIT Final Four, Try W. Virginia

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — With Greg Stewart and Paul Pressey canning 15 points apiece, Tulsa clawed back from a 12-point first-half deficit to oust South Alabama, 69-68, in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament Friday night.

Tulsa led 68-62 with 35 seconds left but needed Stewart's free throw with 11 seconds left to hold off the Jaguars.

Tulsa, 24-7, meets West Virginia in the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden Monday night

Stewart's shots made it 69-66. Rory White's layup as time ran out pulled the Jaguars within one.

ended the year 25-6, spurted to a 22-10 lead midway through the first half and led 38-29 at halftime.

Pressey keyed Tulsa's comeback and the Hurricane pulled into a 48-48 tie with 13 minutes left.

Tulsa took the lead for good at 60-58 with 6:15 left.

White had 14 points and Andrew hit 11 for South Alabama. Tulsa got 11 points from David Brown and 10 from Phil Spradling.

"I was thinking 'New York' all the way," said Stewart, who's from the city. "I was seeing my father's face."

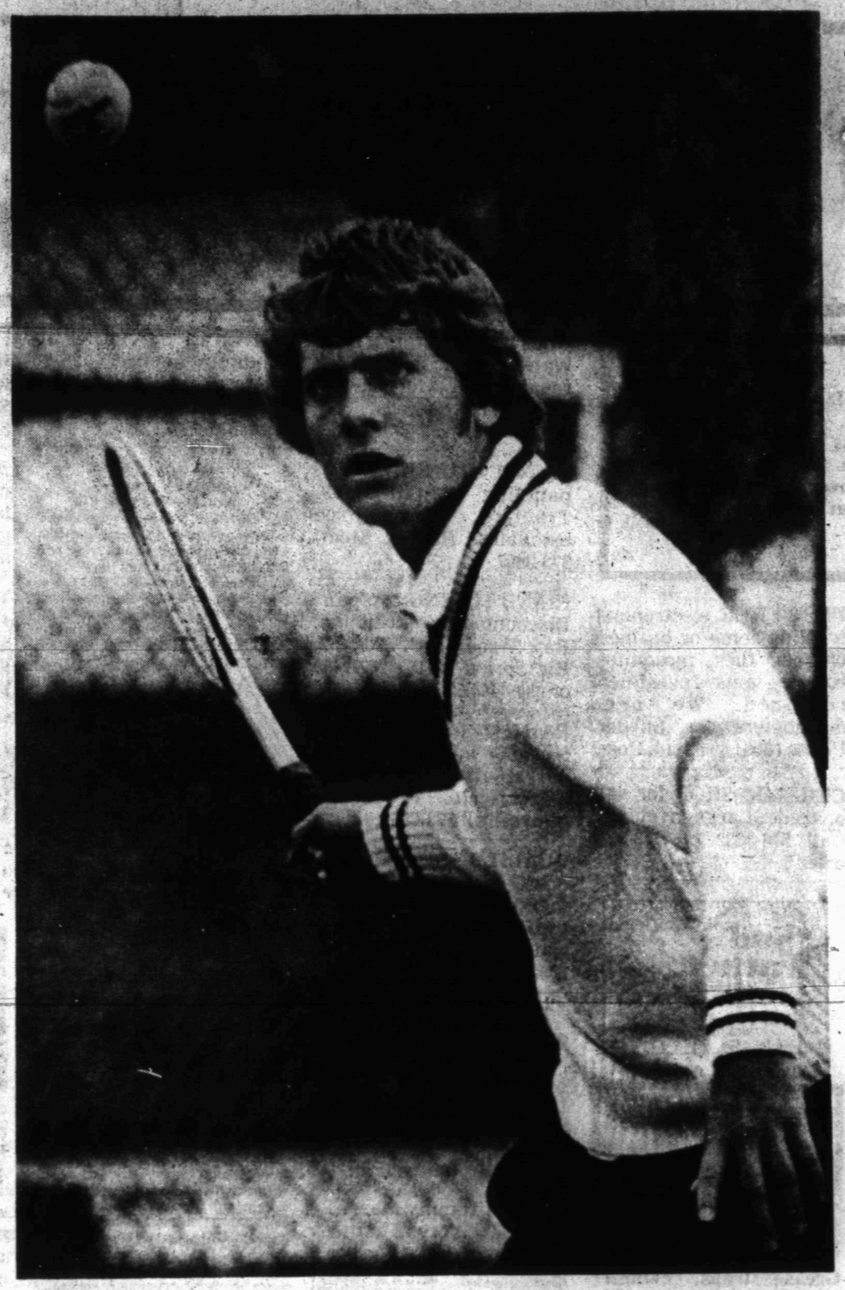
Stewart said before the tourney began he notified relatives in New York to make plans to attend the NIT semifinals. He said his father had never seen him play college basketball.

In Coach Nolan Richardson's first season, Tulsa has its best record ever at 24-7. Four players from Richardson's national junior college championship team at Western Texas form the nucleus for the Tulsa squad.

Purdue's Drake Morris scored 28 points Friday night and teammates Brian Walker and Russell Cross keyed a second-half surge that carried the Boilermakers to an 81-69 college basketball victory over Duke in the quarterfinal round of the National Invitation Tournament.

The victory sent Purdue, 20-10, into the other NIT semifinal Monday.

Duke, hitting 15 of 24 shots from the field in the first half, built a 31-28 lead at intermission and held a five-point edge early in the second half before the Purdue rally.



CONCENTRATION – Neal Paige, a possible post-season player for Snyder High School this year, keeps his eyes on the ball and his mind on the game during action in the Snyder Team Tennis Tournament, held here Friday and Saturday. Paige was one of dozens of local and area high school players in action. Results will become available early in the week. (SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClellan)

Indiana, LSU Major Survivors In Tourney

by The Associated Press

The opposing fans throw rubber chickens on the court and shout "The Hawk is dead" when St. Joseph's plays at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

This is a basketball team that is used to tough crowds - and tough games.

Sunday in Bloomington, Ind., they'll get both.

"We can play the game," says Coach Jim Lynam as he prepares his team to meet Indiana Sunday in the finals of the NCAA's Mideast Regional playoffs. "The fact that we're here tells a lot about the basketball we play back East."

As usual, though, the Hawks will be underdogs.

"We played all season long as an underdog," said junior guard Jeffrey Clark after a gut-wrenching 42-41 victory over Boston College in the Mideast semifinals Friday night. "It's a role we don't mind."

Indiana advanced to Sunday's regional championship game with an 87-72 decision over Alabama-Birmingham in Friday night's second contest.

Elsewhere Friday night, Wichita State nipped cross-state rival Kansas 66-65 and Louisiana State buried Arkansas 72-56 in the Midwest semifinals at New Orleans. They'll also play for their regional championship Sunday.

In two regional finals Saturday, Virginia faced Brigham Young in the East at Atlanta and North Carolina met Kansas State in the West at Salt Lake City.

Bryan Warrick hit two free throws with 21 seconds left to erase a one-point deficit and lift St. Joseph's over Boston College. Warrick scored 20 points to pace the Hawks, who are shooting for their first appearance in the Final Four since 1961.

Isiah Thomas scored 27 points to lead Indiana past Alabama-Birmingham. Thomas hit eight free throws in the final 2:46 and added a breakaway layup with 39 seconds to play, and the Hoosiers were one step closer to their fourth NCAA title. Randy Wittman added a career-high 20 points for the Hoosiers, who broke away from a tight halftime lead of 42-37 with a 12-4 spurt at the start of the second half.

Spring Training A Dream World For Some Baseballers

by The Associated Press

Spring training. A time for phenoms and their dreams. Tim Leary of the New York Mets, Mike Witt and Steve Brown of the California Angels qualify. And a time for ex-phenoms and their nightmares. Like Mark "The Bird" Fidrych of the Detroit Tigers.

Leary, a 22-year-old nonroster right-hander who has been called "the next Tom Seaver," is trying to pitch his way to New York after one year in the minors (15-8, 2.76 ERA with Jackson of the Texas League). He did nothing to hurt his cause Friday with four scoreless innings - two singles, one walk, five strikeouts - as the Mets defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4.

Meanwhile, Witt, a towering 20-year-old right-hander who stands 6-foot-7, blanked San Francisco on three hits over five innings as the Angels defeated the Giants 3-1 for their seventh consecutive exhibition victory.

Witt, who was 5-5 with El Paso of the Texas League and 7-3 after dropping down to Salinas of the California League last year, has not allowed a run in eight innings this spring. Another rookie right-hander, 24-year-old Steve Brown (14-12 at El Paso), worked three innings and allowed his first run of the spring.

And then there is Fidrych, still trying to recapture the form that made him the talk of the baseball world in 1976 before his career became plagued by injuries.

He took a 9.00 ERA into Friday's game with Boston and was tagged for four runs and nine hits, including Jim Rice's two-run homer, in three innings as the Red Sox pounded the Tigers 9-2.

Elsewhere, Jay Loviglio's RBI double in the 10th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 triumph over the Minnesota Twins. The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1 as 19-game winner Jim Bibby pitched three scoreless innings.

Drungo Hazewood's leadoff homer and five innings of one-hit pitching by Dennis Martinez helped the Baltimore Orioles edge the New York Yankees 2-1. Cleveland's John Denny allowed one unearned run in five innings as the Indians downed the Chicago Cubs 7-3.

The Toronto Blue Jays took advantage of an error to score three unearned runs in the seventh inning and down the Kansas City Royals 7-6.

Tim Raines drove in two runs with a single and a triple, while Larry Parrish homered and stole home to pace the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 victory over the Houston Astros. Bill Fahey and Tim Flannery both homered and combined to drive in seven runs to lead the San Diego Padres over the Oakland A's 10-5.

the decisions.

Hing had asked the jury to award his client "$50,000 in compensatory damages and $150,000 in punative damages."

The 21-year-old Rutledge, who now attends the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, had sought $2.2 million in the civil suit against Kush, the university and others. He claimed Kush split his lower lip with a "knuckle-punch" after a 27-yard punt in Arizona State's 41-7 loss to Washington in Seattle Oct. 28, 1978.

Dieter Not Half The Man He Was

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It's spring. Swimsuits jam department store racks but flab bulges around midriffs — time to take a tip from Paul Kimelman, the world's fastest calorie-cutter on record.

"I tell people not to do what I did unless they're willing to pay the consequences. You could kill yourself," said Kimelman, who shed 357 pounds in eight months.

The 33-year-old Pittsburg cab driver owns a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records for having shrunk from a bloated 487 pounds to a skinny 130 pounds in 1966.

Kimelman says he actually lost more than that, but didn't have access to a scale to measure his quarter-ton body.

"At the peak of my pork, I figure I weighed about 530 pounds," said Kimelman, whose girth once measured 66 inches. He is 5-foot-10.

A New Year's resolution prompted his starvation diet 14 years ago: "The doctors told me to do it right would take four years. But who wants to go four years without a cheeseburger or a pizza?"

Kimelman, who now weighs 168 pounds, decided to go cold turkey on New Year's Eve 1966 when he was 19 years old. His anger at those who ridiculed his obesity finally overpowered his love for food.

"I was at a party, and I thought to myself, 'I'll show all you jerks making fun of me.' I was a laughing stock," he said in a recent interview.

"I quit eating right there. I fasted for as long as I could, then after that it was just clear soups, grapefruit juice, skim milk and salads," he said.

Because Kimelman dieted without a doctor's help, he had to put up with hives, abdominal cramps and diarrhea. "All my muscles and joints ached. I could just feel my body changing," he said.

Kimelman also had no professional help to deal with the mental trauma of his breakneck diet. The temptation to eat led him to curse the "monster" inside himself. "I'd go to my room and scream and punch myself," he said.

The fat disappeared, but Kimelman said he almost couldn't stop dieting. "I almost had anorexia (chronic lack of appetite) at the end. I wanted to see 129 on the scale."

He eased off after collapsing on the job at a suburban amusement park. Today, he exercises regularly and eats in moderation, a typical meal being a hamburger, french fries, a soft drink and dessert. "I'm still a cookie freak," he said.

"I really don't know what I'm doing. I just eat what I think I should. If I'm going to lay around all day, like over the holiday, I eat accordingly."

Application Deadline Extended

Scurry County farmers will have more time to apply for coverage under the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

Due to a delay in receiving rates and coverages for the county, the deadline on cotton applicatons has been extended until April 10. Anyone wishing to participate in the 1981 program must submit an application by that date.

The FCIC program is administered by the Department of Agriculture and is a voluntary program. It is designed to protect a producer's annual crop investment from such hazards as hail, wind, drought and insects.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT JONES TERRY

Couple Weds In Afternoon Ceremony At Student Center

Emily DeLoera and Scott Jones Terry were united in marriage Feb. 21 at the Christian Student Center on the Western Texas College Campus.

The double ring ceremony, officiated by Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway, was performed at the foot of the stairs before a heart-shaped candelabra. Baby blue satin bows and greenery decorated the bannisters.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond DeLoera of Loraine and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joe C. Terry, also of Loraine.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a high-neck Victorian gown of silk organza. The bodice was of Venise lace while the bishop sleeves, bottom of dress and train were of pleated organza.

For a headpiece the bride wore a white derby hat with a long bow of lace in back. She carried a cascade of baby blue and white roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor and bridesmaid wore identical long dresses of baby blue satin with long sleeve chiffon print jackets. Their hair was adorned with wreaths of baby blue and white silk flowers and they each carried a long stem blue carnation with long streamers.

Elida DeLoera, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Sylvia Barrera was bridesmaid.

Patrick Terry, brother of the groom, served as best man. Randy Garza was groomsman and candlelighter was Ruben DeLoera, brother of the bride. Matt Preston, the bridegroom's nephew, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Christian Student Center. The bride's table was covered with a white linen tablecloth. A two-tiered old-fashioned square cake and punch were served by Janet Gattis, Emma Ramirez and Sara Goebel. An arrangement of baby blue silk flowers adorned the table.

Benita Lopez registered the guests. A German chocolate cake was served from the groom's table by his sisters, Mrs. Susan Preston and Liz Terry of Brownwood. The table was decorated with a white lace tablecloth and a blue cut-glass candleholder was the centerpiece.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Loraine High School and a 1980 graduate of WTC Cosmetology. The groom attended Loraine High School and is employed with CRC Wireline in Snyder.

After a short wedding trip, the couple now reside in Snyder.

Commission Says Name Is Offensive

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The state Commission on Human Rights has ordered four restaurants to stop using the name "Sambo's" on the grounds that it is offensive to blacks.

The restaurant chain already is changing the name of 18 of its New England establishments to "No Place Like Sam's" in a move the company said would improve business. None of the 18 is in Rhode Island.

DISCIPLINE GIVES GUIDELINES— "I don't care what everyone else is doing."

"Just go to your room until you can behave."

"Can't you share with your brother?"

"You're grounded!"

Are these familiar phrases around your household?

They are all "strong" doses of discipline.

There's no magic rule by which to raise children, but there are guidelines that research has found most effective:

1) love your children and let them know you do

2) be a model for your child by disciplining yourself

3) insist on good conduct, but understand your child's real feelings and talk to him about them

4) criticize a child's behavior, but do not tear down the child

5) have limits and enforce them, but let the child know what they are

6) and, most important — and most overlooked by parents, be consistent. Kids get confused when a house rule is right sometimes and wrong others, or when it's right with dad and wrong with mother.

Discipline is the set of guidelines your family uses to control behavior acceptable in your family.

It teaches character and provides guidance for self-control.

To have responsible, productive children who have satisfying self-images is the goal of most parents, but parents and experts don't always agree on the best route to that goal.

There are many theories of discipline that work.

Some disciplinarians stress preventive tactics for keeping children in tow.

Others emphasize ways of handling misbehavior immediately after it happens.

PREVENTIVE DISCIPLINE requires close supervision and constant tuning in. It's often referred to as the "no-lose" method of discipline between parents and their children.

In preventive discipline, parents may have to alter the home or environment to head off misbehavior.

This may mean keeping breakables out of a small child's reach or hard drugs out of the house during the time that pre-teens and teens might experiment with them.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES is another method of discipline used by some parents.

If certain warnings are not heeded by the child, he knows a penalty will occur.

For example, if a child is determined to be late for the bus, he must walk to school.

BEHAVIOR MODIFICATION is another popular method.

Parents try to change a child's behavior by immediately rewarding desired behavior.

For example, these parents believe you should ignore tantrums and obscenities but praise the child or teen when you haven't heard them for an hour, half-day or while they were under stress.

No matter which method you choose, discipline that helps children grow into self-satisfying, responsible adults is discipline that exhibits love and understanding and a spirit of working together toward the child's adulthood.

Discipline is not punishment or beating.

When discipline is overpowed by punishment, a child becomes insecure, resentful and rebellious, because he has no workable guidelines to know what you expect of him.

Threats, bribes, sarcasm and ridicule, backing down on a promise and losing your temper are ways parents show children they cannot discipline themselves — and ways they can expect their children to disobey.

FHA Representatives Attend Convention

Representatives of the Snyder High School Chapter, Future Homemakers of America attended the 1981 Area II Convention along with 800 other members and advisors from the West Texas area March 13-14.

"FHA-HERO — Where Do You Fit In?" was the theme of the meeting which was held at Lee High School in Midland. Attending from Snyder were Monica Chandler, Patsy Casas, Emily Craig, Teka Eicke, Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Eicke and Mrs. Carolyn Derouen and Mrs. Carolyn Limmer.

Keynote speaker for the general session Saturday morning was Elvin Caraway, former state president of the Texas Association of Future Farmers of America.

Participants broke into small groups to attend workshops on topics of concern to young people such as child abuse, health, dealing with death, self-defense, drugs, teenage pregnancy and parenthood, shoestring interior decorating, developing self-confidence, and understanding the needs of the handicapped and the elderly.

The area choir, with members from throughout the area, presented two musical selections. Teka Eicke, a member of this group, won the honor of singing in the State Chorus at the State FHA-HERO meeting in San Antonio April 30-May 1.

Installation of the 1981-82 area officers ended the Saturday afternoon session. Future Homemakers of America is a vocational youth organization sponsored by the Division of Homemaking Education, Texas Education Agency.

"Grandma's" Attic Clutter Is Fashionable Now

By ULA ILNYTZKY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — That old, unfashionable furniture stashed in the attic, which once belonged to Granny and found its way there because you didn't know what in the world to do with it, is fashionable again. The things Grandma loved and collected are now making their way to the auction house where they are selling big. Real big.

Nineteenth-century American furniture, which 15 to 20 years ago was getting little attention from the collecting public, is joining other Americana pieces and setting five-figure prices at auction.

American sales are setting world records about every six months, says William Stahl, vice president of Sotheby Parke Bernet Inc.

"There's an increasing amount of appreciation for the antique decorative arts of this country," Stahl says. "The public has been exposed to a tremendous amount of education in the form of museum exhibitions and openings. The printed material that's come out in the past 20 to 30 years ... all of this has contributed to educating a public, and that's one of the steps to developing a marketplace."

Yet, there are no major books written on 19th-century American furniture, says Margaret Caldwell, furniture expert at Sotheby's, the world's largest auction gallery.

Grandma's collectibles are partly to blame.

"Nineteenth-century American furniture has the terrible misnomer of Grandmother's junk — heavy and hideous," Ms. Caldwell says. "I think we all have to change our terminology and our view of what 19th-century furniture really is because it's extremely well made in terms of decorative motifs, quality and use in today's home."

Ms. Caldwell says it has taken nearly three generations to shake off that misconception, but now museums and a growing number of serious collectors are "heavily" buying 19thcentury American furniture.

The curvy and ornately carved rococo furniture, 1840s50s, currently is the most popular, she says, and the most prized is that designed by New York cabinet-maker John Henry Belter.

"Every time something great of his comes up, it commands a world-record," Ms. Caldwell says. "He was quite an innovator in design and in technique, which makes his work so special."

Last November, a round Belter laminated rosewood table sold for a record $60,000. Part of actress Gene Tierney's collection, it was estimated at $15,000-$20,000.

Although climbing, 19th century works fetch lower prices than 17th or 18th-century Americana. Last year, for example, an 18th-century Newport Chippendale chest of drawers realized a record of $360,000.

Nineteenth-century furniture by Herter Brothers cabinetmakers, as well as the heavier and more linear Renaissance period, 1860s to 1870s, is gaining popularity in the marketplace. Also high on the list is Eastlake furniture, lighter and simpler than its predecessor, with a Japanese motif.

Those earning under $70,000 a year may have a tough time competing in this market, but they can still collect American antiques on $15,000 or $20,000, buying the best examples on the next level. Or they can look for unknown, quality cabinetmakers or for styles making a gradual comeback.

If you've inherited family valuables or are looking to buy some, how do you separate the quality from the junk? According to Stahl, check for rarity; condition in terms of finish (collectors pay a premium for an old or original finish); design; craftsmanship; family or region lineage; and markings or signatures.

"Nothing we sell, aside from silver, gold and jewelry, has any intrinsic value. Auction prices seem to reflect what the public is willing to pay," says Eric Silver, an expert in the Arts and Crafts movement.

ENGAGEMENT—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dow announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Dana Joyce, to Jymmy Joe Martin of Houston. Mr. Martin is the son of Mrs. E.E. Wallace of Burnett and the late Mr. Willie N. Martin of Snyder. The wedding will take place May 2 at the First United Methodist Church of Snyder.

Missing honors dealt with

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

This will be the first of several articles to tell you how you should play a suit in which you miss certain high cards. Unless otherwise specified, it is assumed that you have no information from the bidding.

As a starter suppose that you, South, and dummy, North, hold the ace-queen-jack-10 and various low cards between you. It doesn't take much card knowledge to know that your best play is to finesse for the king. The finesse will pick up that king any time it is held in front of the ace. Once East follows low, the play of the ace will only win for you if the king is singleton in the West hand.

Now here are the percentages. You and partner hold 11 cards in the suit. Play the ace. The odds are 13-12 in your favor.

You and partner hold 10 cards. Finesse. The finesse works 50 percent of the time — the king is singleton 26 percent of the time. The other 24 percent of the time no play will pick up his majesty.

You and partner hold less than 10 cards. The finesse is still an even-money play. The drop of the king becomes less and less likely as the number of small cards held by the enemy increases.

Now give your opponents the ten as well as the king. It doesn't change the play if you hold 11 cards. Try to drop it. Suppose you hold 10 cards. Again the finesse is best, but here is a special case.

You hold: A Q 9 x x x, Dummy holds J x x x. You are going to finesse, but start by leading the jack. If East holds the three missing cards (K 10 x), the jack play will kill both king and 10. If West holds K 10 x, you let the jack ride after East shows out and the king scores against you, but there was no way to pick him up.

You hold: A Q 9 x x, Dummy holds J 8 x x. Now your opponents hold K 10 x x between them. If you lead the jack and East shows out, West is going to get two tricks. Lead low and play your queen.

You only make all the tricks in the suit 33 percent of the time, but you are sure to make all but one.

Spinach dip

This tasty party dip makes a great low-cal sandwich spread, and, it's only 125 calories per half cup serving. Blend together a 10-ounce package of frozen chopped spinach (thawed and squeezed dry), a half cup plain yogurt, a half cup minced fresh parsley, one tablespoon minced onion, one tablespoon mayonnaise, a half teaspoon salt and a quarter teaspoon ground black pepper. Chill one hour. Makes one cup.

At arms length

For really firm upper arms, try this special stretching exercise. With feet comfortably apart and knees slightly bent, bend over. Head should be loose and hands formed into fists with thumbs facing in. Keeping arms straight, draw them back behind your body as far as they'll go. Then rotate arms so thumbs point to the ceiling. Return to first position. Do 10 times.

PROFILE OF THE CHILD LEAST VULNERABLE TO DRUG USE:

The following is furnished by The Ladies Auxiliary VFW 8231 as part of their program on Drug Abuse:

*Strong family in which there is a clear policy on drug use and personal conduct.

*Strong religious conviction on the part of the child.

*Child is an independent thinker, not easily swayed by group or peer pressures.

*Child's parents know the parents of his friends.

*Parents stay in contact with one another to establish reasonable standards of behavior for the group.

*All the parents take a very clear position against drug use, and set a good example in their personal use of liquor and drugs - including the pills in the medicine cabinet.

*Child frequently has friends come to the home and the behavior of the child and his friends is open and normal.

*Child is busy, productive, pursuing a number of athletic, academic and personal interests.

IN SUMMARY, THE CHILD IS SECURE, PRODUCTIVE, KNOWS WHO HE IS AND WHAT HE STANDS FOR AND HAS AN OVERALL GOOD FEELING ABOUT HIMSELF.

SYMPTOMS TO LOOK FOR WHEN SUSPECTING DRUG USE IN YOUR CHILD

(Note: The child should display more than merely one sympton when beginning to experiment with drugs - a physical impairment can cause many of the symptoms described below.)

*Change from active, normally competitive interest to passivity and withdrawal.

*Diminished drive.

*Reduced ambition.

*A shortened attention span.

*Impaired communicative skills - slurred words, inability to finish a sentence.

*Mystical thinking.

*A significant drop in the quality of schoolwork.

*Reduced ability to think sequentially, to solve hard problems.

*Deterioration in judgement and short-term memory.

*Distinct lessening in accustomed family warmth.

*Pale face, imprecise eye movements, red eyes.

*Neglectful of usually neat appearance.

*Strongly inappropriate overreaction to even mild criticism.

*Secretiveness about money, disappearance of money from house.

*Physical evidence: smell of marijuana - like burning rope - in the child's room, on his clothes; butt of marijuana cigarette; seeds or leaves in coat pockets; rolling papers or pipes in the closet or room; bottles of eyedrops, room deodorizers, incense, breath fresheners, things to clean up; a soft drink or oil can with a top which screws off, used as a stash can for drugs.

Eiland Marries Trulock At First Baptist Church

MR. AND MRS. JEFFERSON LEATH TRULOCK
(Photo by Harley Bynum)

Carol Jane Eiland became the bride of Jefferson Leath Trulock in a double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church Feb. 28.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eiland of Snyder and Mrs. Nancy Eiland of Vernon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O.B. Trulock of Colorado City.

Rev. Ken Branam officiated the ceremony which took place before an altar decorated with brass arched and spiral candelabrum holding cathedral tapers and adorned with boxwood garlands and foliage.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelite organza and Venice lace. The fitted bodice was accented by long tapered sleeves and a wedding ring neckline. Venice lace appliques etched the bodice and skirt which swept into a chapel train. Her matinee length veil cascaded from a Juliet cap.

Her flowers were a cascade of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with accents of English ivy and candlelite streamers.

Debe Longbotham served as maid of honor and wore a formal gown of powder blue chiffon. She carried a colonial nosegay of blue carnations, silk miniature lilies and silk navy phlox with baby's breath.

The bridesmaids wore identical gowns and also carried colonial nosegays. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Terry Martin, the bride's sister; Mrs. Susan Robinson, sister of the bride; and Miss Becky Jackson.

Hope Papay, the bride's niece, served as flower girl and wore a blue dress with puff sleeves and an A-line skirt with petal-shaped apron.

Steve Shackelford served as best man and groomsmen were Johnny Trulock, brother of the groom; Jimmy Trulock, brother of the groom; and Mickey Neff. Ushers were John B. Latimer, Randy Anderson, Allen Sparks and Delbert Helm.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Lynn Bethel.

Following the wedding, a reception took place at the Snyder Country Club.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth adorned with ropings of green smilax and satin bows. The four-tier wedding cake was decorated with nosegays of white sweetheart roses. A silver candelabra holding five white tapers with an arrangement of white roses completed the table. Serving were Roxanne Stoker and Mrs. Mickey Neff.

A blue cloth covered the grooms table on which there was a brass coffee service and matching brass candelabra. German chocolate cake was served by Miss Beverly Fuller and Miss Jill Linam of Colorado City.

Miss Robin McGlamoury registered guests.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Snyder Country Club.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and has attended Texas Women's University in Denton and Baylor University in Waco. She is presently employed by West Texas State Bank.

The groom is a graduate of Colorado City High School and has attended Texas Tech University in Lubbock. He is presently engaged in farming, ranching and trucking with his father and brothers in Colorado City.

Following a five day wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple now reside at their farm residence east of Colorado City.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were from Colorado City, Odessa, Midland, Ingram, Dallas, Bedford, Grand Prairie, Post, Corpus Christi and Rotan.

Superhero Is No Superman

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Greatest American Hero," an ABC-TV show about a new superhero, was broadcast as scheduled after a federal judge ruled that the main character was not a copy of Superman.

Warner Bros. Inc., the licensed distributer of the 1979 movie "Superman," filed a suit against ABC and was joined by D.C. Comics, which owns the copyright on the Superman character.

U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley ruled Wednesday that Ralph Hinkley, the central character in the program, "is an unmanly shambles whereas Superman is a square."

mass transit fades

Remember the day of the five-cent subway ride in New York and the streetcar ride in most any metropolitan area that cost no more than a dime. If you wanted a transfer, that came free.

Those days apparently are gone forever.

The cost of fuel, the demands of labor for a wage that would insure a decent standard of living have changed all that.

THE RALLYING CRY around the country has been for creation and enlargement of public transportation systems but the truth is, the cost of climbing aboard a vehicle which offers service to all people is getting prohibitive, if one has to do it on a regular basis.

The Dallas Transit System is a prime example. In December, the fares went from 30 to 65 cents inside Loop 12, $1 from the inner city to the LBJ Freeway and $1.25 beyond LBJ.

A few years ago, it was possible to ride all over Dallas for ten cents.

The subway fare in New York was a nickel before World War II. Now it is more than a dozen times that, and the end is not in sight.

Because energy costs are going out of sight, the time may come when, if a business man doesn't live in quarters above his business, he may not be in business long.

Mass transit systems, of course, have long been in use in eastern and some midwestern cities. Los Angeles, on the other hand, resisted the idea of developing such a system for many years and is now paying the price for such neglect. The highways and the freeways out there are glutted hopelessly with traffic.

OLD DOBBIN MAY yet stage a comeback, if the cost of gasoline gets as high in the United States as it is in many other parts of the world. When it comes to the point where the masses can't even afford passage on mass transit systems, man is apt to confine himself to living day-to-day in a much smaller area. Travel and transportation as we have known it may only be available to the ultra rich.

noodle socialism

Back in the days when the late Nikita Krushchev was loudly and persistently promising to overtake the West economically, there was a lot of discussion of "goulash communism" and its implications, what the effects might be of a preoccupation with consumer goods upon the building of socialism.

Today's People's China may be providing part of the answer: industrial espionage and a capitalist-style compromise in dealing with it.

As reported in a Shanghai newspaper, a technician at a Peking plant developed better methods of turning out that operation's product. So far just fine as far as the management of the state enterprise was concerned. But the technician's willingness to share the innovation with other state plants was something else again.

That brought a reprimand and penalty, which in turn earned the plant management a reprimand from state authorities. But they coupled it with an acknowledgement of the benefits to be derived from allowing enterprises to keep their own technological innovations to themselves, all in the interests of furthering socialist competition.

The technological advance in question: an instant-noodle maker.

saints and sinners

george plagenz

I couldn't have been more surprised if I had asked Moses to tell me the full story of how he got his hands on the Ten Commandments and he had stared at me blankly and said:

"Ten Commandments? What Ten Commandments?"

The letter on my desk was from Charles Lindbergh. For many years I had been giving talks to all kinds of groups based on Lindbergh's list of character traits which I had copied from a 1930 magazine.

I told how the young Lindy would go down the list every night before bed and grade himself on the 59 traits — cheerfulness, no fault-finding, perseverance, politeness, self-control, etc.

Then the idea came to me to write Lindbergh, asking him how he happened to compile the list, how long he had stuck to it, etc. It would make a nice sequel to the story.

Well, now I had my sequel but it wasn't the one I expected.

"The character list is pure bunk," said Lindbergh in his letter to me in May, 1973, "one of those numberless concoctions by the press that have no basis in fact whatsoever...

"Those stories get into the newspaper record files and are carried over and over again through the years until they are rather generally accepted as factual. The character trait list has even been carried in a dictionary.

"Actually I had no such list and had no interest in this kind of thing.

That punctured a cherished myth of mine, but I have continued to think that a Lenten regimen based on "Lindy's 59 character traits" could be beneficial to us all.

Many of the traits in the list sound quaint and old-fashioned ("Clean body, clean speech, modesty, neat appearance"), as if they came from a YMCA character-building manual of the 1920s or from one of Horatio Alger's novels for boys where virtue, if not its own reward, rewards one with success and riches.

To get a good score on "Lindy's 59" will, nevertheless develop our will power; this in itself makes it a fine Lenten exercise.

A case could probably be made that the decline of character in our society has gone hand in hand with our downgrading of will power. "If it feels good, do it" is not a motto which will encourage us to develop our will power.

Will power in most cases demands a large measure of self-denial. This is only one of the things that is involved in character-building.

What I am proposing is that we observe Lent this year in the old-fashioned way by "giving up" some of our self-indulgent ways and concentrate on developing our characters.

Lent has already begun but it is not too late to start. A lady in my parish in Boston had a saying, "If you can't begin at the beginning, begin in the middle."

If you would like a textbook for your Lenten self-improvement program, get Marcus Aurelius' "Meditations." This little volume of Stoic thought is available in paperback.

Marcus Aurelius was emperor of Rome in the second century. He wrote his Meditations in an age of decadence. To the Stoic, happiness consisted of virtue, endurance, self-suffiency and right disposition. It was these qualities which enabled a man to rule as lord over his own life while the world seemed to be crumbling around him — which makes much of Marcus Aurelius' advice applicable to us today.

I will leave you with a few of his meditations to ponder until you get to the bookstore:

— "The best way of avenging the wrong-doer is not to become like him."

— "In my father I observed a mildness of temper, an unchangeable resolution in the things he had determined after due deliberation, and a love of labor and perseverance. He took a reasonable care of his body's health ... so that, through his own attention, he very seldom stood in need of the physicians's art or of medicine."

— "Practice thyself even in the things which thou despairest of accomplishing."

— "In the case of most pains, let this remark of Epicurus aid thee, that pain is neither intolerable nor everlasting, if thou bearest in mind that it has it limits, and if thou addest nothing to it by imagination."

south africa's value

South Africa -- not "southern Africa" -- the nation of South Africa -- is consistently meanmouthed by some Americans who may not realize they are being used.

Then again -- some may.

While not all of the world's restiveness can be blamed on Communist agitation, much of the concerted campaign to malign and diplomatically isolate South Africa derives from Soviet ambitions.

Here's why:

What the Persian Gulf is to oil, South Africa is to minerals.

While the Soviet Union is, itself, adequately supplied with most essential minerals -- we are not.

The United States must rely on other nations for 24 of 32 minerals essential to national survival.

While Americans could somehow manage to make-do without any Middle East oil, we would be helplessly impotent without platinum, paladium, manganese, cadmium, cobalt, chromium and other minerals and metals which we get from South Africa.

And our industrialized allies are similarly dependent -- militarily and economically -- on South Africa.

The region from Zimbabwe to Cape Town is the richest area of mineral reserves in the world.

South Africa, smaller than Alaska, has the world's largest known deposits of gold, platinum, chrome, manganese, vanadium and flourspar -- plus vast quantities of antimony, diamonds, coal, copper, iron ore, lead, limestone, mica, nickel, phosphates, titanium, uranium, vermiculite, zinc and zirconium.

Without South Africa's chrome we could not build your shiny stainless steel appliances.

But also we could not build jet aircraft, cars, refineries, computers, power plants, modern food processing plants and hospital operating rooms.

One jet aircraft uses 3,600 pounds of chrome.

Without manganese there is no steel -- and without South Africa we have no manganese.

So Soviet penetration of the African continent is no happen-stance -- and Soviet concentration on subverting and controlling South Africa is also aimed at controlling the sea lanes around the Cape. Then, with what Russia has plus what South Africa has -- and with what we would not have without South Africa and the Soviet Union as sources -- we would be impotent -- and they would encircle the world.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A husband is a man who expects his wife to be perfect and to understand why he isn't."

On a scale of one to ten, Tuesday's duster had to at least be an eight. It was the second blowing day of this year, and such weather brings out the worst in most of us.

We were talking to a farmer Tuesday afternoon during the height of the storm, and he was able to find some humor as he watched the land go by.

"Well, that's not my farm going by," he announced.

"How do you know," was the question.

"Mine is mortgaged and doesn't have permission to leave the county."

There is a new book off the press that tells the executive how to decorate his office to reflect those little subtleties that confer status and taste and ultimately bring success.

What you get for $19.95 is ideas on how to make your office look as if you do not work. It also should convey the idea that you are in complete control.

According to the author, a Judith Price, the desk should express power and position. A person could purchase a very rare Louis XVI secretary for $95,000. The alternative is to opt for a large and more economical contemporary desk. Or design your own at a height of three feet and there's no way the executive will ever be able to work at it.

For a chair she suggests a $28,500 Queen Anne corner chair. Many offices consciously try to look like living rooms. The idea is to get the guests so comfortable that you are in complete control. However, getting them to leave is another matter.

With floor covering you should not go overboard with the non-office look. If it is an investment office, you might consider rubber flooring for those who like to pace a lot. For the executive who wants to be in complete control, he might try stainless steel. Then when he paces, everyone will know it.

According to Ms. Price, the executive should get rid of such things as family photographs, wood frame diplomas, plaques and other items that clutter the typical office.

Instead, the executive should should search for rare objects that reflect the real you. That's another way to avoid working. You spend all your time at shows and in off-beat shops searching for those one-of-a-kind art objects.

Just in case you have to do some work, you can buy a $2,000 Hermes attache case to take all that work home to be done in the privacy of a mundane, conventional office.

To The Daily News:

The recent resignation of Terry Gilbreth from the post of director of the Diamond M Museum is a loss to that insitution. As an artist and as a man, Mr. Gilbreth is held in high esteem by the directors of the Museum and by the McLaughlin family. We cherish his friendship and respect his character.

During the time that Mr. Gilbreth was associated with the Museum, he made the rooms more attractive for visitors and used his technical skills to protect and preserve the collection. He arranged for exhibits and brought artists into the Museum from many states. He personally escorted many people through the Museum, and his courtesy and his knowledge made the occasions memorable for them.

The McLaughlin family acknowledges with gratitude the many gracious acts of Terry Gilbreth and commends him for his skill and his dedication during the months that he was director of the Museum. The citizens of Scurry County are favored, indeed, by the continuing presence of this talented and personable artist. He and his delightful family are assets to the community. The directors of the Museum, in spite of regret at the separation, extend to Mr. Gilbreth all good wishes for the success he deserves in his artistic endeavors.

Types of cataract surgery

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 78-year-old man with diabetes. My doctor told me I have cataracts in both eyes but not to worry about them because they are small. If I should require surgery in the future, what type of surgery would you recommend? I understand there are three types of surgery and they can put a lens inside your eye. Also, I have heard that with some types of surgery you lose your peripheral vision. Is that true?

DEAR READER — Small cataracts that the eye doctor can see but which do not interfere with normal vision do not have to be removed. There are a number of different criteria for having a cataract operation, but the most common one is whether the cataracts actually interfere with vision. Can the person still do the things he needs to do with his sight?

A cataract involves the lens of the eye. You can have poor vision also because of disease at the back of the eye. The blood vessels may be involved, particularly in a diabetic. So before a doctor decides on any operation he will want to know all about your vision and what, if anything, besides your cataracts is affecting your vision.

I suppose you can say there are three types of operations. One method involves a larger incision and the whole lens is slipped out of the eye. A second is a small incision and the lens is fragmented by vibrations and sucked out. And in a third procedure as the lens is taken out, an artificial lens can be implanted inside the eye.

Your question about central and peripheral vision is related to the lens you use after surgery. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-6, Your Cataracts Are Coming, for a more detailed explanation. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Those very thick cataract eyeglasses that distort vision are the real cause for loss of peripheral vision. The use of contact lenses after surgery causes very little distortion. The implanted lenses cause the least distortion but are not for everyone.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am having a problem which I am afraid to mention to my doctor. I feel like I must have a bowel movement almost all the time, even though I have just had one. There is always a pressure in my bottom. Lately I have been passing blood in my stool. It is bright red. Also I have a lot of pain in my lower back which my doctor said was arthritis. I am a 44-year-old female and in fairly good health.

I've heard to check something like this the doctor has you bend over a table and uses a metal instrument which is very, very painful. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — Yes. Don't delay another day. See your doctor at once. Anyone who has unexplained rectal bleeding may have a cancer of the rectum. It may be just hemorrhoids but you cannot tell without an examination. The examination you speak of is not that painful. In experienced hands it is a fairly simple procedure. I hope your back pain is just arthritis but rectal and colon cancer can spread to the spine. Rectal and colon cancer combined is the second most common cause of cancer deaths. Everyone over 40 should have at least a finger examination of the rectum once a year.

More Force Was Needed

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter has told a group of Princeton University students that he "might have been more forceful in dealing with Iran" in the hostage dispute, according to Steve Yelenoski, a senior who heard him speak.

Carter also said at the private meeting Wednesday that he "wasn't as effective as a president as he could have been," said David Huebner, a junior.

Carter participated in a question-and-answer session with upperclassmen studying the American presidency at the university's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

He arrived at Princeton on Tuesday to seek the advice of political science and history scholars in preparing his memoirs.

Water Deliveries Below Last Year's

Revenues are running under budget estimates for the Colorado River Municipal Water District through the first two months of 1981, but so are expenses. This, however, is a budgetary distortion by ascribing each month 112 of the total, when as a practical matter most production and expenses pile up from April through September.

Total revenues amounted to $662,405 for February and 1,339,652 for the first two months. This is about $70,000 off the budgetary pace.

Water deliveries for February stood at 982,873,000 gallons, and for the two months at 1,507,535,000. The two-months total is about 335 million under the same period a year ago. Most of the loss is in municipal deliveries due to unseasonably cool wet weather. Deliveries to oil companies were gradually increasing.

Electric energy costs, the principal item of expense, amounted to $355,823, which compared with a budget allowance of $516,369 for two months. The total, however, was $120,681 over a year ago, although less water had been pumped. Operating expenses through February amounted to $640,376, well below the $818,206 budgeted.

A Proposal Aired From The Floor

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — State Rep. C.A. Smyser's proposal was a bit unorthodox, but it only needed one vote to pass — his girlfriend's.

Melinda Sloviaczek of Middleton was watching from the gallery when Smyser, a Parma Republican, took the floor Wednesday on a point of personal privilege.

"There's a young lady in the gallery now who I've been dating lately," Smyser said, "and I'd like to ask her to help me leave the ranks of being the only member of the Idaho Legislature who has never been married."

He motioned to the gallery where Miss Sloviaczek was sitting and asked, "Will you?"

The proposal prompted a recess, during which Smyser went upstairs to the gallery, got an affirmative reply and promptly put a ring on Miss Sloviaczek's finger.

"Honestly, she didn't know I was going to do it from the floor," he said.

It will be the third marriage for Ms. Vaccaro, 41, and the second for Cannizzaro, 27.

Seek To End Midnight Dumping...

New England States Grapple With Toxic Wastes Problem

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Several New England states are helping industry in the difficult search for safe toxic waste treatment or disposal sites, arguing that a dearth of the unwelcome facilities only fosters "midnight dumping."

The states are also spurred by threats from waste-generating businesses who say they may be forced to pack up and move to locales more willing to accept toxic waste facilities — from landfills to recycling centers and incinerators.

The region has no legal dump sites and treatment facilities are limited.

The only site in New England now equipped to treat or transfer toxic wastes — the Keefe Environmental Services' 17-acre site in Epping, N.H. — was shut down by court order March 3.

The closure order came after nearly a million gallons of poisonous waste threatened to overflow the banks of a waste lagoon swollen by heavy rains.

Federal environmental officials, who had crews working around the clock to prevent the overflow, had worried the waste would pollute ground water and the Picassic River.

New Hampshire officials fear the highly publicized crisis will further harden opinion to waste facilities in the region.

"The alternative to having facilities locally, of course, is illegal dumping by your smaller waste producers who can't afford to truck this material to Alabama or some other place. It's happening now," declares Norton Nickerson, a Tufts University biology professor who is on Massachusetts' new "waste siting committee."

"Ultimately, unless the facilities to dispose of wastes are provided locally, industries are going to move where they are provided," says James Crowley, manager of safety, health and environment for CibaGeigy Corp. in Cranston, R.I.

But local opposition to such sites is strong — so strong that Connecticut and Massachusetts have passed laws giving the states power to override communities opposed to waste facilities unless the community's zoning already blocks such operations.

Rhode Island lawmakers are being asked to approve similar legislation this year, to mounting resistance from local interests.

"I don't believe the state should have the right to override. If no town is willing to accept toxic waste facilities, then that's the way it's going to be," says Rhode Island
