BRENHAM, Feb. 21.—Sixteen year old Dolores Felchak, high school student, who was found mysteriously shot in her parked automobile near here Monday, has only a slight chance of recovery. Brenham hospital attendants said Tuesday as physicians prepared to make an X-ray examination of the wound in her left temple.

When that period of oil and gasoline famine will begin—whether in a few years or 20—nobody knows. But it will begin as soon as our consumption begins to outgrow the supply and it will be hastened as the potential new oil fields of this country begin to give out.

AUSTIN, Feb. 21.—The state highway commission announced Tuesday that it will authorize the selection of a resident engineer to make surveys for location of state highways 4 and 5 through Childress county which is seeking $1,300,000 state aid funds to match $650,000 county funds for a high type hard surface treatment.

Sight Dirigible?

Many cinemas have booked the picture and others are anxious to obtain it. The question was raised today as to whether they should respect the ban or repudiate the board of censors which they themselves established in their own interests. Disobedience would entail no legal consequences as neither the censors nor the government possess the legal power to prohibit the showing of the picture.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Don't you know that a woman's first duty to herself and the world is to keep herself looking attractive? Of course you don't go in for holding husbands any more. If a man wants to go, let him. It's a broader view we have now, a bigger reason for taking care of our looks.

We know that all the activities of business revolve about woman. Less that sound far fetched? Just listen. Why do men do things? Why do they want to be successful? Why do they want to make money for a woman? And they want that woman to be pretty and well groomed. If she measures up, they like to go out when I went to bed and he wouldn't be, around the next day after breakfast to see the good results.

Anyway, I'm not so sure a man wants to see his wife early in the morning. I don't like to look at Alan before he's shaved and he'd hate to have me crowding the bathroom. And if you think I'd ever sit across the breakfast table from Alan before I'd gotten myself looking decent you don't know your darling child. What men must have thought of these early-worm women with their beador caps and cotton kimonos I'd hate to listen to!

No siree, we wouldn't lift a finger to hold a man when he's through, but we know enough about the male species to credit them with a little esthetic taste, and that's something women did not do once upon a time.

And the way to get on in business has changed too. The other night Alan asked me to doll up in my scantiest evening dress because we were going out with the Driscolls. He's trying to land a contract from Driscoll and if he followed father's rule of early to bed he would have a swell chance, wouldn't he? As it was we hurried areal party after a show and gave the Dr's a thrill. They're out-of-town people, you know.

He enjoyed it but she was kind of quiet. She's awfully dowdy too. You'd think the wife of such a prominent man would have more class. Well, I hope Alan closes the deal. The party cost enough!

With all my love,
MARYE

BUFFALOES, STUNG BY TECH DEFEAT, PLAN COMEBACK TONIGHT

CREW BAFLED BY ATTACK OF PAYNE'S SQUAD

MATADOR CREW HOLD SPOTLIGHT WITH A BRILLIANT OFFENSE

Coch Sam D. Burton of West Texas State Teachers college of Canyon, sits in his room in the Lubbock hotel today, almost in a daze, following the most decisive defeat of his team last night at the hands of the scrapping Texas Tech crew on the Tech floor, 39 to 29. He is blaming cheating and when threatening his men and hoping that the gloomy outcome will be somewhat changed tonight when the two teams meet for the last time of the season.

Coch is Convinced
Albiss were in order by numerous Buff fans last night but nothing of the sort was heard to come from the lips of the team or Coach Burton, who seemed to be aware of the fact that a sound beating had been administered them by a team whom they had begun to think could never beat them on the floor. The game last night marked the first victory for the locals since the establishment of the school three years ago.

Unable to ward off the dazzling defense of the Matador combination which settled in the scoring zones like a morning dew, the Buffs fought an uphill battle throughout the game, cheered on by some 200 students and ex-students of the college, including the pep squad of 20 girls.

Buffaloes Baffled
The speed and invincible work of the Buffs, of which much has been said and written, failed to materialize and at times, the visitors were literally standing in their tracks while the Matadors completed their scoring plays. In the opening minutes of the game, the Matadors took the lead which they maintained throughout the contest, only being tied twice by the Buffs. So sure was the Matador victory that in the ebbing moments of the game Buff Coach Sam Burton sent in his reserve players in the hope of holding down the score as low as possible. The margin was gradually growing wider at this moment.

White is Outstanding
To Gilbert "Dope" White, stellar guard, goes much of the credit for the Tech victory. Dashing from passer to receiver and then back to passer, White completely annihilated the Buff offense and reversed the ball on many occasions. Not only did he play the entire game, with two personals chalked against him, but he climaxed his third season for the Tech by scoring a field goal, something which he rarely indulges in.

"STRANGLER" LEWIS NOW UNDISPUTED WRESTLING CHAMP OF WORLD BEATING STECHER IN ST. LOUIS GRUDGE MATCH

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis of Kansas City, reigns today as undisputed champion of the wrestling world.

By defeating Joe Stecher of Dodge, Neb., claimant of the title, in a three fall match at the Coliseum last night, Lewis ended the quarrel that has existed between them for seven years, since the time the "strangler" defeated Stecher in New York in 1920.

First Fall Over 2 Hours
Lewis won the first fall after more than two hours of dreary wrestling, pinning Stecher's shoulders to the mat with a bar arm, half Nelson and scissors hold on the arm, in 2:18:16-32. He captured the third and deciding fall in 12 minutes with a bar arm, or perhaps a double wrist lock. Nobody was clear on the exact hold because of the excitement in the dramatically sudden finish.

Stecher won the second fall in a dizzy maze of quick action, lasting only fifty-six seconds. Lewis, in a moment of carelessness, fell victim to a double wrist lock and was pinned in such astonishing quick time that he was dumbfounded.

Stecher Wins Second
In winning the second fall, Stecher, who had only lost two matches in fourteen years previous to last night's defeat, showed the only flash of aggressiveness that he displayed during the entire contest. He was outmaneuvered, outwitted and outwrestled. Lewis, although past the 35-year-old mark, carried the battle to Stecher from the start. He displayed superwrestling ability, trickiness and courage. He won fairly and decisively, never leaving a doubt as to the outcome after the men had been on their feet for an hour.

SPEED DEMONS OPEN DRIVE TO SET NEW MARK

LOCKHART BEATS 200 IN TEST BUT FAILS TO COMPLETE RUN

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—Possessed of a new mark to shoot at, automobile racing drivers here today had redoubled their energies toward surpassing all previous records at which four-wheeled vehicles have traveled along the ground.

Frank Lockhart, of Indianapolis and J. M. White of Philadelphia were seeking the proper combination of motor temperament and beach condition which would permit them to challenge the new time of 206.956 miles an hour set Sunday by Malcolm Campbell of London in his monster Napier Blue Bird special.

Lockhart Beats 200
Lockhart spun his comparatively tiny Stutz Blackhawk Special over the sands against the wind yesterday at an officially timed rate of 200.2246 miles per hour, but did not make the return trip which would have made his an official try for the record. A trip in each direction over the mile course, for an average speed, constitutes an official mile.

Ray Keech, likewise unlimbered the gigantic 36-cylindered machine belonging to White yesterday, but was forced from an official attempt by a minor accident which resulted in slight injuries to Keech. White said last night the machine attained a speed of "more than 253 miles an hour" during its run, but that its average over one way of the charted mile was out to 186 miles per hour by the motor trouble which sent a spray of live steam flying back over the pilot.

White's machine is at present under the ban of the American Automobile Association because it is not equipped with a clutch or reverse gear and its attempts will not be officially recognized until it has been made to conform to that body's standards.

Campbell is not expected to make an immediate assault on his own record until one or the other of the drivers now here betters his mark. Campbell's record supplanted the former high speed of 203.5 miles per hour attained last by Major H. O. D. Segrave, also of England.

ROBINS' SPEED BALL KING IS STILL HOLDOUT

VANCE DEMANDS MORE MONEY AS OTHERS START ON GRIND

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Dizzy Vance, the speed ball king, is still at odds over the salary arrangements offered by the Brooklyn Robins, dispatches from Wilbert Robinson's rendezvous at Dover Hall, Ga., disclose.

With five days left for the batters to report at Clearwater, Fla., it was reported Robbie had made an offer of $18,500 to induce Dazy to come to terms.

Vance wants $20,000 per annum and a contract of two years. In view of the recent procedure of the Robins in distributing on year contracts to players, Vance's case has created speculation.

Koenig Signs With Yanks, Two Years
NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mark Koenig, shortstop of the New York Yankees, has signed a two-year contract with the world's champions.

Waite Hoyt, pitcher for the Yanks, is still a holdout although he is training at Hot Springs. At present he is paying his own way.

Giants Are Eager To Begin Training
NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The baseball fever is breaking out into an epidemic with the Giants, news from the training camp at Hot Springs, Ark., today indicating that players from various sections of the country are reporting for practice ahead of schedule.

Mel Ott couldn't wait for the Giants to advance on the regular training grounds at Augusta, 50 he has joined the battersmen at Hot Springs. George Harper and Travis Jackson also have put in appearance and Jackson formally accepted the captaincy of the club offered by Manager McGraw.

The pitchers worked out between showers yesterday with McGraw on the sidelines.

Braves Start Work At St. Petersburg
BOSTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby and other Braves have started training at St. Petersburg, Fla. Battersmen monopolized most of yesterday's practice.

Practically the only member of the club now considered to be a holdout is Luke Urban who recently returned his contract with a plea for more salary.

Michigan Star Is Praised By Coach
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 21.—Benny Osterbaum, thrice selected all-American end, is the greatest college athlete today.

That's the opinion of Fielding H. Yost, Benny's coach at Michigan.

Osterbaum is a three-sports man at Michigan and, in Yost's opinion, owes his athletic success to the fact that he "early learned how to concentrate, how to practice and how to form the right habits of playing."

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Understood The Art of Getting What You Want

There are few royal roads to achievement. The shining goals of Life lie across innumerable chasms—The treacherous Delaware, ice-locked, was simply an impetus to an extraordinary effort to beat the Hessians. To have defeated them easily would have been to minimize the importance of Washington in the traditions of America.

WHATEVER IS WORTH GETTING IS WORTH FIGHTING TO GET!
What you want may now be a dream, and seemingly as inaccessible. What you want most may be what dollars can buy.—If so, remember that acorns make up a forest, that a single bird doesn't make a meadow, and that every house, every automobile, every heart's desire, that can be measured in coin, is a multiple of dollar bills.

The bulk of our oil from foreign lands and that we may be at their mercy many decades before the world supply is exhausted.

Two-thirds of our oil reserves, according to the Federal Oil Board, have been exploited. We have taken 16,000,000,000 barrels of oil from the ground, five billions of them in the last six years. The remaining one-third of unexploited reserves may produce more than five billion barrels and it may produce less, for no one knows how much oil will come out of an un-drilled well.

This nation uses nearly 1,500,000 barrels of oil a day and consumption is constantly increasing. In 1925 the new supply showed a gain of 2 per cent, while the domestic demand increased 7 per cent. Over-production, of course, altered these figures for 1927.

Our demand for oil and gasoline has trebled in a decade and doubled in four years. Figures for gasoline are 128,000,000 barrels in 1922, 260,000,000 in 1926, and 300,000,000 in 1927.

After demand definitely passes production, many experts believe the price of oil and gasoline will soon be more than doubled. This will not only seriously affect the owners of 25,000,000 automobiles in the United States, but it will mean much added expense to nearly every industry—especially to users of oil furnaces.

Wells Short Lived As demonstrating the nearness to conditions of domestic shortage, it was estimated that as much as 100,000,000 barrels would be taken from stores above ground to meet the demand in 1927. Overproduction avoided that necessity.

Oil wells, at best, produce a maximum capacity for no more than three years. There are wells in Pennsylvania, for instance, which once produced 500 to 600 barrels a day compared with perhaps a daily barrel now.

The whole subject is admittedly so conjectural that no one can say when new wells will stop coming in. If we knew something probably would be done about it, but today the authorities on the subject advance opinion ranging all the way from the belief that we will have a definite oil famine in two or three years to the theory that

"We Never Miss The Water Till The Well Runs Dry"

The supply will last forever.

Production Nears Peak When the new wells stop coming in, production, unless bolstered by new methods, will drop 50 per cent.

The young wells, about 4 per cent of all the wells, now furnish about half the daily supply. The big gushers of the new Seminole field have produced nearly one-seventh of the national 900,000,000 barrel production this year, but the average yield per well will be little more than the 7.5 barrels produced last year.

President Coolidge, in his letter creating the Conservation Board—consisting of the secretaries of interior, war, navy and commerce—said:

"The failure to bring in producing wells for a two-year period would slow down the wheels of industry and bring about serious economic depression. The problem of a future shortage in fuel and lubricating oil, not to mention gasoline, must be avoided, or our manufacturing productivity will be curtailed to an extent not easily calculated.

War-Time Necessity In the same letter he observed that "it is even probable that the supremacy of nations may be determined by the possession of available petroleum and its products."

Prof. John Lee, Kansas economist, in his book "The United States and Its Oil Policy," said: "The motto on our coins should not be made our national policy in providing a future oil supply."

Firemen Get Long Rest Without Run

Nineteen days have passed since the Lubbock fire department has had cause to make a run to a fire. Chief W. E. Twitty said this morning. The last run made by the department was on February 2.

Construction work on the new fire station at 19th and Avenue U will be completed this week, he said but several days will be spent in finishing the station and getting it ready for occupancy. The station is expected to be ready by March 1.

BOYS MUST HALT LOAFING IN CITY POLICE ASSERT

Following numerous complaints from business men recently, Chief of Police John Lemond gave notice this morning that the loafing and playing of small boys in the downtown district must stop and issued an appeal to the parents to cooperate with him in the problem. Complaints have come to him lately, he said today, from business men protesting against so many young boys playing in the alleys and vacant lots near the business houses.

Marbles seems to be their chief pastime and as the spring days are slowly approaching, Chief Lemond advises that the boys confine their games to their homes and playgrounds.

A curfew ordinance is still in effect in the city, he said, and if the parents do not keep closer check on their boys at night, the rule will have to be enforced more closely than in the past.

TEXAS GIRL WEDS WAR VETERAN IN PARIS EMBASSY

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Feb. 21.—Miss Eleanor Barclay of San Antonio, Texas, and Harold Tittman, Jr., second secretary of the American embassy at Rome, were married here today. The civil ceremony took place at the city hall and the religious ceremony at the American pro-cathedral, after which a wedding breakfast was held at the American embassy. The witnesses at the civil ceremony were Myron T. Herriek, American ambassador to France, and Harland Miller, second secretary to the American embassy at Paris, for Tittmann, and Mildred Nelson for the bride. The couple will spend their honeymoon traveling in Italy. Tittman is an American aviator hero who had his right leg shot off, his arm broken, and his body riddled at an air battle at Chateau Thierry. He was decorated by the French and American governments for bravery.

In the dining room Mrs. P. B. Ralls, L. A. Wickes, W. D. Watkins and W. E. McLaughlin served appetizing food, strawberry ice cream and coffee from a table which was laid with white lace over pink and embellished with pink roses, white carnations and pink cathedral candles.

FORMER CHIEF IS ACQUITTED

EX-CANTON OFFICER IS CLEARED IN MURDER OF DON MELLETT

LUBBOCK, O., Feb. 21.—Serafinus A. Lengel, former chief of police at Canton, O., once convicted of the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, today was freed from the charge by a directed verdict in his second trial here.

Judge W. F. Lones sustained a defense motion for a directed verdict after he had previously upheld the defense in its fight against the admission of testimony of Floyd Streitenberger, former Canton detective, given at Lengel's first trial. The second trial was ordered by the court of appeals.

Dramatic Suddenness.
The state's case against the white haired former chief collapsed with dramatic suddenness last Thursday when Streitenberger, brought here from Ohio state penitentiary where he is serving a life sentence for his part in the Mellett killing, refused to testify.

He had been expected to repeat the testimony given at the first trial which was credited with Lengel's conviction.

Defying the efforts of Henry W. Harter, Jr., Stark county prosecutor, to make him talk and giving non-committal answers when Judge Lones sought to draw out the reasons for his silence, Streitenberger virtually snuffed the life from the state's case.

Harter sought to recover the loss by introducing the record of Streitenberger's testimony at the first trial. It was admitted tentatively over defense objection, but on Friday Judge Lones definitely refused to accept it, after a day of argument.

Second Effort Fails.
Harter made a second effort yesterday to have it included in the record, but failed when Judge Lones declined to reverse his first opinion.

The testimony which Judge Lones excluded was in part the basis of the reversal of Lengel's original conviction by the court of appeals. The appellate court held that parts of Streitenberger's testimony linking Lengel with the plot against Mellett were unsubstantiated and wrongfully admitted in evidence.

FROG ARGUMENT

that the horned frog removed from the cornerstone of the Eastland county courthouse after having been placed there 31 years ago, was alive.

Professor Reid said that although he knew of no case of this kind on record, horned frogs are dormant animals, and he believed they probably would be able to live for a long period of time if there were some dampness on the inside of their tomb.

Brother Absent When Stone Laid

EASTLAND, Feb. 21 (AP)—Eugene Day of Eastland, one of those present when the cornerstone of the old court house was opened Saturday and who vouches for a horned frog being found in the stone which supposedly had been there for about 31 years, today said that he had laid the corner stone to the court house site but was not present when it was laid and closed. He said that his brother, W. H. Day of Tulsa was employed to work on the building, but his own work was as a teamster, and he did not have opportunity to see himself whether a frog was enclosed in the stone.

COTTON MEET

tion presented today in the Mississippi senate by Senator W. C. Adams of Corinth.

Acreege Reduction On Cotton Urged

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—The resolutions committee and representatives of cotton growing states, now in session here in an effort to restore cotton prices to a "profitable standard," is on record as in favor of a ten per cent acreage reduction as a means towards the desired end, but is opposed to legislative action.

Disregarding the plea of State Senator W. B. Roberts of Mississippi, that his resolution, memorializing state legislatures to enact laws prohibiting planting of more than fifty per cent of a farmer's acreage in cotton, either be adopted or replaced by an equally strong document, the committee last night adopted a resolution which urges the ten per cent reduction among other reforms.

Hold Night Session.
Denying themselves the opportunity of attending a banquet at which the visiting governors, Dan Moody of Texas and Bibb Graves of Alabama, were honor guests, the resolutions committee met in night session and continued deliberations far into the night.

To facilitate matters, the committee, before dinner adjournment, appointed Clarence Ousley of Dallas to prepare a resolution, from the mass of proposals before it. This was quickly passed after the defeat of Senator Roberts' measure. Reforms recommended in the resolution were that the governors in the cotton-growing states, through cooperation with bankers and credit men, lay down credit policies based upon restricted cotton acreage, urging congressional delegations to prohibit price forecasts by the department of agriculture; support from congressional delegations for measures looking to control of surplus crops; revision of tariff schedules to provide more liberal protection to cotton planters against importation of foreign-grown cotton; and adoption of stringent laws extending rural school terms and making it mandatory for children between the ages of eight and fifteen to attend full school terms.

Expects Alterations.
Mr. Ousley said he expected several of the recommendations incorporated in the resolutions to be altered materially before final passage of the complete document by the entire conference.

In defense of his resolution calling for legislative action, Senator Roberts turned to the Texas delegation and declared full responsibility of results of the conference rested with them. He said that since Texas produces more than 60 per cent of the nation's supply of cotton, efforts to curb production in other states would meet with little success unless Texas took stringent action.

The conference planned to adjourn today immediately after taking up the recommendations of the resolutions committee.

Impeachment Plan In Case Is Foiled

TEXARKANA, Ark., Feb. 21 (AP)—Attempts to impeach the testimony of H. T. Prudhomme, government's star witness against 13 Miller county men on trial for an alleged plot to kill two federal prohibition agents, met defeat in federal court here today.

The defense today continued cross examination of government witnesses, bringing out that Prudhomme used $45 of his own money in setting up a $100 still at which the state charges, he was supposed to slay the two federal agents.

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer' Starring Al Jolson.
Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros., Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jakie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the synagogue. On the eve of the day of atonement he finds Jakie singing ragtime in his "bees garden." The wise old cantor and Jakie run away. Ten years elapse. Jakie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, meets Mary Dale, a dancer, who obtains a part for him in her vaudeville act. Back in New York the cantor still deceives him, but Jack corresponds with his mother who rightly judges that her son is in love. Then one day Mary hands Jack a telegram to read.

New York—Miss Mary Dale—State-Lake Theater, Chicago, Ill., he read. "Would you consider leading role new musical show fall opening stop rehearsals begin two weeks stop wire answer. Harry Lee."

He turned to face a smiling girl who could scarcely keep her feet still.
"Ge, that's a great chance for you, Mary," he exclaimed, returning the smile. "I always knew you'd get it."

"I know. Isn't it marvelous!" Mary was nervously searching for pocket book and gloves and not quite conscious of whether she was looking for anything at all or not. "Just think! That's the opportunity I've been waiting for ever since I began to dance. And now it's here. O, Jack, I can hardly believe it."

"How did it happen? Do you know?" Jack asked, still enthusiastic.
"Well, you see, I was sent to Lee several times from a casting agency. Mary explained, "but somehow my work never seemed to fit any of his shows. Then one time he caught me on set when we were playing Brooklyn, and he came back to see me, and he said then that he liked my work, and as soon as he got a show that would suit me he wanted to take a chance and put me on. He's really a frightfully nice sort of person. But I'm so thrilled!"

"I know, Mary. I don't blame you. Ge, that's the chance we're all looking for. Have you answered the wire yet?"
"No, I haven't had time. It just came in today. It was here waiting for me when I got to the theater this afternoon, and I was so nervous I didn't know whether I was going to get through the act or not. I didn't say anything about it then, because I thought that if I ever began talking about it, I'd never be able to go on."

"Have you told Berg?"
"No, I haven't told a soul but you. You're the only person who knows about it. But I'll have to see Berg and see how soon I can leave and straighten all that out later. I'm going out now to answer this, because I don't want to lose any time. I'll probably have to continue this week and then go on to New York. I want to get settled a little there before I start rehearsing. It won't give me much time if I have to start in two weeks. And I want to go up to Muri's and pick up a few new steps, and—"

Mary was talking on and on, but for the first time since he had met the girl Jack was not hanging on her every word. For when she spoke of leaving, finishing out the week, notifying Berg, going on to New York, it was suddenly borne in on Jack's consciousness that this meant, quite possibly, the end of his friendship with Mary. He had seen the hateful iron monster that would fly from Chicago to New York taking with it the one person who had come to mean everything in his life. And after that—he could scarcely bear to think of what could happen next. That Mary would undoubtedly be a star on Broadway, and he would still be a two-day singer out on the road.

Jack caught the back of the chair, against which he had been leaning, with an unsteady hand. He had known for some time that sooner or later this break would have to come. But it never seemed so near, so palpably real. And now that it had come, he was stunned for the moment. What should he say? What should he do? He wanted to seize Mary in his arms and carry her far, far away from stage and theater and managers and agents, and find some nice desert island where there would be no careers to think of. But that sort of thing wasn't done—except in story books and this was no story—it was stern reality. He sighed longingly, and made an effort to speak.

"I'll be sorry, Mary," he began, "in one way. I hate to see you go. But—but I understand what this means to you. I—we—we'll miss you a lot."

Beneath the brim of her hat Mary smiled. It was a tender little smile, and one that carried a great deal of meaning if Jack could have seen and read it right. But Mary didn't want him to read that smile just yet. At the proper time, then, it would have its use. Quickly she reached out her hand and patted Jack's arm.

deak and say: "Gentlemen, the line forms to the right."
"And that's the truth," Jack smiled. "But no matter what happens, Mary, you'll always know that I'll be wishing the best of luck, and everything for you."

Impulsively, Jack caught Mary's hand in his, and the two stood gazing into each other's eyes, lost to the world about them.
"Mary," Jack pressed the girl's hands tenderly between his. "I want to tell you—I'll never forget that everything I am I owe to you. Everything I am—ever will be."

"Thank you, Jack, for saying that," Mary drew her hands away slowly. "But what you to remember this: I, nor anyone else, could ever make you what you are or will be. You have that within yourself. And you're going to come out on top, Jack. I know it. You have the ability, and you have the voice. You must carry on. If I can do anything to help you, I'll do it—you know that."

"You've already done so much for me, Mary," Jack answered, his voice trembling. "More than I can ever hope to thank you for. If it hadn't been for you—"

"I only gave you a chance, and you made good," Mary looked up at the singer with frank admiration in her eyes. "I you hadn't had it in you, you'd have flopped. Instead, you got over. So, after all, you're the one who's done the real work. Listen, Jack, it's so easy to create opportunities, but there are so few people who can do anything with them after they have them. And you've proved that you can. And that's more than enough thanks. So forget all about it. I've got to hurry now."

"It's 4 o'clock, and I want to get this wire right off. See you tonight." She found her bag and gloves and the two stepped out into the hallway.
"All right. I have to collect Buster," Jack walked as far as the key rack where Mary hung up her key to her dressing room. "Coming in early?"

"O, about 7:30. Bye-bye," Mary hurried out the stage door.
Jack wandered back to his dressing room and Buster with happiness and sorrow each fighting for supremacy in his heart.

CHAPTER IX
"Ready, Buster?" Jack thrust his head into the dressing room and found his companion adjusting his scarf before the mirror.
"Just a minute," Buster reached for his hat and turned out the lights. "Say, did you see that green tie of mine? Can't find it." He closed the door and turned the key in the lock.

"No, maybe it's over at the hotel."
The two deposited their keys in the rack and went out the stage door, turning into Michigan avenue. They started across the street lined with tall, stately buildings, dodging the heavy traffic and at last reached the safety of the opposite curb. (To be continued)

HONESTY IN ALL GOVERNMENT IS REED PLATFORM

DALLAS, Feb. 21.—In the fight for the "United and Militant Democracy" which he demanded here last night to bring about "the return of honesty in government," Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri set out today for Tulsa, Okla. and the far west to spread his doctrine of harmony.

Opening his western campaign, the Missouri democratic presidential candidate told his party that first of all it must be united. He set out the platform on which he believed the democratic party can unite and win.

Re Raps Republicans
"The most important question before the American people," he said, "is to drive the republican party from power; to take this government out of the hands of bootlickers, grafters and lobbyists and to place its control once more in the hands of American people."

Emphasizing the necessity for party harmony, the Missouri candidate declared to discuss presidential candidates, "including my own" as he talked here with some of the Texas democratic leaders yesterday. With the award of their 40 votes in the democratic convention still in doubt and involved in factional strife, most of the Texans who streamed into the senator's hotel room were easily steered by him from political discussions.

Attacks Plunderers
The veteran silver-haired campaigner who is making his first bid for the presidency centered his opening attack on what he described as the "public plunderers" and "corruptionists" of the Harding and Coolidge administrations. He called for the "swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe-givers, election corruptionists and other malefactors." He departed from his prepared address to declare for law observance and to denounce racial and religious prejudices.

ADA, O.—Back in the seventies students of Ohio Northern university began assembling a skeleton in the biology laboratory. Whenever they obtained a new bone they would add it. Now the cadaver is complete and has been given a prominent place in the laboratory.

Come a "We" a la Horseback

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 21.—A new kind of good-will ambassador is Aime Felix Tschiffely of Argentina. He is riding horseback from his South American home to New York City, partly for the adventure and partly in the interests of the proposed New York-Buenos Aires Highway.

When he crossed the border into Texas at Laredo the other day, Tschiffely had been on the long, long trail two and a half years and had put behind him more thrilling experiences than fall to the lot of the average man in a lifetime. He crossed the desert of Ecuador, rode through alligator-infested rivers, contracted swamp fever and dodged roving bandits. He crossed the snow-capped Andes three times, once going over the highest peak, El Condor, at an altitude of 17,400 feet. On several occasions his food supply ran out and he was forced to live on monkey meat.

"I didn't want to start a private revolution," he said, "so I avoided Nicaragua on the way up." In his home town, Tschiffely was a school teacher. He is 31, speaks English, Spanish, French and German. He started on the trip with two horses, but Mancha (Big Spot) is the mount on which he will ride down Broadway two or three months hence.

LITTLEFIELD IS IN RUNNING FOR GUNTER COLLEGE

(Special to The Journal)
LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 21.—Virtually promising that Littlefield will be in the "run off" when the final vote is taken, a committee in charge of the re-location of Gunter college has visited this city several times and members have expressed themselves as being well pleased with the offer made the school by people here.

The city which is chosen for the new location of the school, an institution which has been located in Grayson county and operated by the Church of Christ, must offer 1,300 acres of land, subdivided into small farms, each of which is to be improved with modern homes and conveniences. A small pumping plant, capable of irrigating 5 acres, must also be placed upon each tract.

Members of the committee, R. O. Connor, Dallas; John R. Freeman, Gunter, president of the college, and F. A. Johnson of Turkey, stated while here that a number of the tracts have already been purchased and that they feel certain that the college will open next fall in its new location with about 300 students.

LEGION SHARES IN CONCERT BY BAND ON MAR. 9

Taking initial steps toward a ticket sales campaign for the concert to be given here Friday night, March 9 by the Tech college band, in which the Legion shares 50-50 with the band in net receipts, and reiterating approval of the work being done through the boy scout organization, the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion met Monday night in regular session.

Plans for the band concert explained by W. T. Strange, presiding in the absence of Post Commander Hubert L. Allen, for the Legion, and by Richard Cavett, for the band, both of whom stressed the value of the program to be given. John T. Fulcher, former state adjutant of the Legion, was named general chairman of the campaign, and heads of committees for the drive also were named, these to select their teams. The campaign will open about one week in advance of the program.

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat against which modern research has discovered, Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 21 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.
