HUNT CONTINUES FOR WOMAN IN MURDER CASE

PROSECUTOR IS APPOINTED FOR SLAYING TRIAL

UNDERWORLD TRIES TO STOP PROBE INTO DOUBLE KILLING

VICTIM OF GUNMAN IS BURIED; GANGSTERS AT SERVICES

LOS ANGELES, May 23. (AP)—Hunt for a woman, appointment of a special prosecutor and grilling of the police chief by the acting mayor mared today's investigation into the Hollywood killing last Wednesday of Charles H. Crawford, wealthy political boss, and his lieutenant, Herbert Spencer, former newspaperman.

Seemingly least concerned of all was David Harris Clark, candidate for municipal judge and former deputy district attorney, held on charges of double murder.

Seek Woman

Joe Taylor, chief of detectives, left Los Angeles early today, accompanied by a deputy district attorney, and was reported to have gone to San Francisco to fine June Taylor, a woman the police are very anxious to question.

She was the confidante of Albert Marco, vice chieftain of Los Angeles, now in state's prison. He was convicted by Clark, but the woman was said by police to have been seen in Clark's company subsequently.

Ford Named

W. Joseph Ford, twenty years ago a deputy district attorney, who aided the prosecution of the McNamara brothers convicted of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times, was named by District Attorney Buron Fitts as special prosecutor. Ford has been an attorney for Alexander Pantages, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and engaged in other spectacular cases.

Acting Mayor W. J. Sanborn called Police Chief Steckel to his office today. The city executive said the conference was about reported attempts from the underworld to "put the lid" on the murder investigation. Steckel is a close personal friend of Clark.

The acting mayor told the police chief he wanted it known that it was up to the police to convict the slayer, and made it clear the murder investigation was not ended.

LOS ANGELES, May 23. (AP)—More than 1,000 persons gathered at St. Paul's Presbyterian church today at final rites for Charles H. Crawford, slain in his office along with Herbert Spencer, newspaperman, Wednesday.

Men of the underworld, who recognized Crawford as the "Grey Wolf", rubbed elbows with those who knew the man as a recent brother in the church . . . A member whose contributions totaled more than $25,000.

There were city officials, for Crawford was a power in politics.

The Rev. Gustav Brieglieb, who accepted Crawford's church membership a few months ago, and who was at his hospital cot when he died of gunshot wounds, read an eulogy of hope.

Bill Murray Says 'Hell' Isn't Bad

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 23. (AP)—Now comes William Henry (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, governor of Oklahoma, as public lexicographer.

The governor contends "The word 'hell' has not an immoral or illegal meaning. Indeed, preachers often times use it in the pulpit, as I understand it. t is a place to which some school eachers may journey, as well as parents or the people."

Gov. Murray released tonight a letter written to Mrs. J. M. Barton, Claremore, Okla., whose son, 12 years old, was "thrown out of school" because he "used the word hell."

He instructed Mrs. Barton to show the letter to the school superintendent and advise him that the state's legal department would take mandamus action to return the child to school if he failed to do so.

"We are here without bias and with no ax to grind except to select the very best site for Pampa's federal building," W. P. Rider, site agent of the treasury department, told The NEWS-POST yesterday in an interview at his room in the Schneider hotel.

"I want to emphasize," he added, "that we must take into consideration both the present development and the future growth of this city. We desire to please the city as a whole and not any special group."

Mr. Rider was joined here yesterday by Carl Besserer of Austin, postal inspector, with whom he will make a joint recommendation following the investigations here. The two officials plan to leave Pampa Tuesday night.

Reserve Opinions

"We have no mental reservations and do not plan to make a decision, even in our own minds, until all the data is in hand," Mr. Rider asserted.

He stressed that the government is still anxious to receive bids of suitable size; that is, with a minimum of 37,000 square feet. In addition to this requirement, the location and price are the other important factors. After looking over 15 bids and hearing of three or four others to be submitted tomorrow, the federal men said that many of the proposed sites were undesirable either in price or size.

The government has appropriated $180,000 for the Pampa project, and every dollar paid for the site means that much from the building itself. Several citizens have indicated a willingness to donate a site, but it was uncertain yesterday whether these sites met the requirements and were otherwise desirable. The extreme care being exercised by the visiting officials was attributed to the fact that there is a civic angle to a federal building, which is unlike a lease in that it is permanent.

GRAY COUNTY'S PRODUCTION UP

DAILY FLOW INCREASES 314 BARRELS FOR PAST WEEK

After emptying storage two weeks ago Moore county dropped back below normal production last week and the Panhandle decrease daily from last week totaled 2,020 barrels. Gray county again increased its production when two new wells brought in the previous week added 314 barrels to the daily flow.

Wheeler county showed a slight increase while the other counties dropped in production. The Gray county production last week was the largest since last fall when drilling was at its peak.

Gray county reported two new locations last week. The Interstate Production company has a rotary rig built for its No. 1 Frasier, 980 feet west and 1,320 feet south of the southeast corner of the west 100 acres of the southwest quarter of section 177, block 3, I&GN survey.

Steckel and Rieger also made a location for their No. 1 Short in the southwest corner of the Short survey, a half mile north of the LeFors townsite.

Production of the various counties compared with that of the previous week as follows:

About half the acreage is being planted to corn, and the other half to grain sorghums.

Five years ago the ranch grazed 4,000 head of cattle. Stewart now has 700 or 800 Herefords that he will feed for market on the grain and corn produced on his farms.

INCOME VARIES WITH BUSINESS UNDER SYSTEM

REVENUE FLUCTUATES TOO MUCH FOR GOOD OF GOVERNMENT

REVISION IS NEEDED

TREASURY IS AWARE OF DEFECTS, SECRETARY TELLS NATION

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—Revision of the tax system to provide a regular flow of revenue was suggested tonight by Secretary Mellon.

In an address over the Washington Star radio forum, the secretary of the treasury said under the present system the income fluctuates with the upward or downward swing of business.

This is due, he added, "to the fact that we rely for two thirds of our tax revenue on the income tax, which is subject to sweeping variations."

Face Deficit

"The situation in which we find ourselves at present, with a serious deficit facing us at the end of the year," Mellon said, "raise the question as to whether we have yet developed a sufficiently well balanced system to provide the revenues on which the government must be able to count from year to year."

Mellon said the prospective deficit, estimated at $800,000,000 for the end of the fiscal year, was being met through borrowing.

"The continuing policy," he continued, "addressed to conditions as they may be expected to prevail over a considerable period of time, can only be the maintenance of the second principle of closing each fiscal year with a balanced budget."

Knew Condition

"The treasury has for some time been aware of the defects in our tax structure," Mellon added, "and while in my opinion we could not possibly have anticipated the extent to which revenues have fallen off, the treasury has not failed to call to the attention of congress and the country the advisabiliay of providing safeguards against the very conditions which have overtaken us.

"Three years ago when congress was being urged by organizations of business men and other individuals to grant a greater reduction of taxes

Garfield Found Shot Fatally at Home

CLEVELAND, May 23. (AP)—A bullet wound which Sheriff James Maloney said was self-inflicted, caused the death early today of John Newell Garfield, 39, grandson of the late James A. Garfield, 20th president of the United States.

Relatives tonight said Mr. Garfield had been in ill health but there was nothing definite to explain the tragedy.

The fatally wounded man was found by relatives last night at his home in Mentor, a Cleveland suburb. He had been shot in the head with a revolver found nearby. He did not recover consciousness.

DEEDS TO BE SIGNED SOON

COMMITTEES HELD UP DURING PAST WEEK, DAVIS SAYS

Held up by familiarity with legal technicalities connected with signing of deeds for the right-of-way of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, committees will secure the signatures the first of this week. A meeting of all county committees is called Monday night, Mel Davis, general chairman, said last night.

Charles C. Cook, local attorney, and H. H. Durston of the railway company have been preparing deeds since last Wednesday and expect to have those ready to the outskirts of Pampa by tomorrow night. Mr. Cook will explain legal details to the committees so that there will be no difficulty encountered in receiving signatures.

One committee will work from the Wheeler county line to the LeFors limits. Another committee will secure right-of-way through town while a third committee will work to the Pampa limits. It will take some time to prepare the deeds through Pampa, Mr. Davis says.

Fort Worth and Denver officials said last week that construction would start 24 hours after the last deed had been signed.

Many Poppies Sold For War Veterans

"Poppy Day" brought approximately $140 to the local chapter of the American Legion Auxiliary in the poppy sales held yesterday in Pampa, Mrs. Al Lawson, president of the auxiliary, announced.

This money is the result of the sale of about 1,500 of the red, crape-paper poppys, made by the disabled veterans in government hospitals and worn in remembrance of those American soldiers who died in France during the World War.

The American Legion Auxiliary pays two cents to their national headquarters for the poppys, one cent of which is given to the veteran who made it. The other cent is used to buy the necessary materials. One half of the net earnings from the sale is kept by the local auxiliary for charity work among veterans, the other half is paid into the state organization.

"Poppy Day" is held annually on the Saturday preceeding Memorial Day.

The largest number of sales made yesterday by anyone person were made by Clarice de Cordova, 5-year-old daughter of Clarence de Cordova, a World War veteran.

Products Banquet Proposed for Pampa

A Pampa products banquet was proposed by the entertainment committee of the Board of City Development in a meeting held yesterday at the city hall.

Such a banquet will serve to stimulate the use of Pampa products in Pampa, members of the committee said. No definite date was set, but it was thought the banquet would be held under the auspices of the Board of City Development sometime in June.

FAIR TO DRAW EXHIBITS FROM RURAL PLACES

SEVEN COMMUNITIES TO PLAN DISPLAYS IN AFFAIR

CATALOG READY SOON

OFFICIALS MAKE PLANS FOR EXPOSITION IN SEPTEMBER

Enthusiasm highly gratifying to Pampa fair officials was shown yesterday afternoon when 21 representatives of Gray county communities discussed various projects with C. H. Walker, superintendent of the fair, and George Briggs, B. C. D. manager.

Seven communities already have pledged exhibits in the rural competition, and others are to do so at once. Those planning exhibits are Aldridge, Back, Laketon, Grandview, Hopkins, Bell, and Wayside. All rural communities of the county are eligible, and also those located partly within the county.

It was announced that the catalog would be ready for the press in about two weeks. The dates of the fair are September 10-12. Good progress is being made in the various departments, several score persons have been appointed on committees.

Towns in the county, not eligible to compete in exhibits with rural communities, will be given booths for displaying their products, if they desire them.

An innovation in county fairs in the Panhandle will be the wheat show, which will be thrown open to all sections of the Panhandle. Liberal prizes will be awarded in this class with a view to making it a permanent annual institution.

Another added feature to the fair this year will be a machinery show. It is expected that with the cooperation of manufacturers of labor saving devices for the home and farm this department will be highly interesting.

Another general committee meeting will be held in a few weeks and regular meetings thereafter until the fair in September.

WOMAN BRINGS CLOTHING FOR 30-DAYS TERM

A woman walked into the sheriff's office yesterday morning carrying bed clothing, portable victrola and a suit case and said to Sheriff Lon L. Blanscet, "Here I am."

"What about it," replied the sheriff, mystified.

"Well, it was this way, sheriff," said the visitor, laying her bundles on a desk, "Judge Wilson in federal court in Amarillo fined me $500 for sale and possession of liquor and as I had no money to pay a fine I had to take the pauper's oath so the judge told me to report to you for 30 days, and here I am all set to be comfortable for that length of time," she informed the sheriff.

"But where is the officer who accompanied you from Amarillo," Sheriff Blanscet asked.

"They didn't send anyone; I came by myself," Gray county's latest prisoner replied.

She was escorted to the ladies' section by Jailer Jimmie Olson, where she proceeded to make herself comfortable.

"When a person takes the pauper's oath they have to serve only 30 days in jail," Sheriff Blanscet explained.

Degree Is Awarded Prof. Albert Einstein

OXFORD, Eng., May 23. (AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, who developed the theory of relativity, today was praised as "a brilliant ornament of our century" when Oxford university conferred the degree of Doctor of Science on him.

Wearing the scarlet degree robe, which marked him as the holder of this honor, the noted mathematician went from the meeting to a lecture room where he completed his series of Rhodes lectures.

The little scientist was over-shadowed in size when he was escorted into the old Sheldonian between four large mace-bearers. Dr. Arthur Poynton, the public orator, then eulogized the recipient of the degree.

Large Crowds Are Drawn to Pampa Saturday

Saturday in ampa furnished ample proof that this city is the wholesale and retail trading point of this territory.

The streets were crowded through the afternoon, and in the evening cars were parked in every available space. Jams developed a number of times as drivers became confused while seeking vacant places at the curbs. Visitors were astonished at the activity, which is in such contrast with most of the larger points in the southwest.

Merchants had a good day, and a busy one. They particularly noticed that The NEWS-POST "came back home" as out-of-town subscribers used this newspaper as a shopping guide. The big circulation of The Pampa Morning POST in nearby cities is credited with a large part of the popularity of Pampa as a trading point. The NEWS also blankets the oil fields through the largest delivery organization in Gray county.

PEARSON STAR OF 'OKAY BABY'

COMEDY IS GIVEN FOR WELFARE BENEFIT LAST NIGHT

The versatile brilliance of Albert Pearson, son of Jimmie Pearson of Pampa, was the center of attention here last night as William Russell Clark, Memphis publisher, presented his Follies players in "Okay Baby", musical comedy, at the city hall.

The comedy was written, directed, and produced by Mr. Clark. It was given as a benefit performance for the local Welfare Board, but was attended by a very small crowd.

Young Pearson, besides carrying the main comedy role, sang repeatedly but did his best work in dance numbers. His duet with Annie Laurie Carter was professional in character and much enjoyed by the audience. Other leading players were R. C. Pearson, Iris Hollis, Ruth Harrison, Mary Winston Walters, Jo Ann Estes, Troy Broome, James Hammond, Vernadine Jones, V. L. McGlocklin, Annie Ruth Johnsey, Homer Shankle, Bill McKelvey, and Blanton Bagwell.

Evidence of the painstaking direction of the production was shown in the rhythm of the choruses, the smooth flowing quality of the action, the rich scenery and costuming, and the sprightly appropriateness of the music. The orchestra provided a background of delightful melody. On account of poor acoustical properties in the partly filled auditorium, with heavy traffic outside, much of the dialogue was imperfectly heard, but this was not entirely essential to the enjoyment of the production. Of the chorus work, the most interesting was that of the boys in a hobo dance.

The comedy took many a rap at the depression, but always came back to that theme optimism, "Here Comes the Sun".

The audience much regretted the absence of so many citizens who would have enjoyed the comedy brought by the talented Memphis group.

Cornell Dedicates War Dead Memorial

ITHACA, N. Y., May 23. (AP)—Cornell university's memorial to its World War dead was dedicated here in a cold rain today. President Hoover, from his Virginia camp, delivered the dedicatory address by radio.

The memorial cofisists of army and navy towers with connecting cloister and a hall adjoining each other. Massed before the structure were throngs who came to honor the 264 men who offered to die for their country in France, Italy and Belgium.

The Cornell Sun, undergraduate paper, had demanded the names of those university men who had died for Germany and her allies be included in the memorial, but it was explained subscriptions had been asked for a memorial to those who had fought for the United States and the allies and to include the names of the others would necessitate a complete change in plans.

Governor May Call Special Meeting Soon

Many Bills Die On Calendar With Adjournment

MEASURES NOT SIGNED

Appropriations Are Sent to Sterling For Cutting

AUSTIN, May 23. —The longest continuous legislative session in Texas history ended late today. It began January 13.

While hundreds of proposals were killed or died on the calendar, many important bills and proposed constitutional amendments were passed, including cigaret, sulphur, natural gas and cement taxes, and a proposed amendment to exempt $3,000 of the value of homesteads from the state property tax.

The work of the 42nd legislature in its regular session cannot be accurately measured until Governor Sterling acts on several bills which were passed in the last two weeks. Among them were general appropriations, truck regulation, the sulphur-cement tax and an allotment of $1,000,000 to repay farmers for losses suffered in pink boll worm and tick eradication.

May Call Session

Legislators returned home expecting they likely would be journeying back within a few weeks. Governor Sterling told them he would call them into special session "if it develops that an additional session will be necessary to complete the program of needed legislation".

Many thought the governor could not reduce the appropriations bills to the estimated revenues by "blue penciling" individual items and that he would have to veto the bills. That would necessitate a special session. Even if he should not veto the bills, the governor might deem congressional redistricting or oil legislation of sufficient importance to ask for an extra session. Congressional redistricting failed yesterday when the senate, by one vote, rejected the free conference report.

Items Restored

The only hard-fought battle on the final day was the house fight on adoption of the free conference report on educational appropriations. A motion to reject the report failed, 61 to 53. Many members of the house economy bloc objected to the free conference bill because the salarly slashes ordered by the house were eliminated and the buildings, cut out by the house, were restored. The bill carried an appropriation of $15,986,772.

Other appropriations bills approved today totalled $23,749,000. They were the departmental $13,600,000 and eleemosynary $10,149,000. That ran the total appropriations to more than $50,000,000.

The legislature passed about 500 bills and submitted nine proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on in the general election next year.

Outstanding legislation included:

Legalization of Sunday shows in cities which desired them.

Three cents a package tax on cigarets and two per cent gross production tax on natural gas.

Increase of sulphur tax from 55 to 75 cents a ton and tax of five cents a barrel on cement. (Unsigned).

Giving West Texas owners of school land title to all mineral rentals and bonuses.

Limiting cotton trucks to 10 uncompressed or 20 compressed bales.

Permitting taxpayers to pay taxes in two instalments, the first by November 30 and the second by June 30.

A group of child welfare bills, including establishment of a division board of control.

Water priority, giving muicipal and domestic users priority over power companies.

Prohibiting reckless issuance of

EXQUISITE FRAGILE FROCKS ARE SELECTED FOR BRIDES AND ATTENDANTS THIS YEAR

FASHIONS VARY AMONG WEDDINGS OF INTEREST

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Fluffy ruffles and filmy lace enhance the springtime beauty of capital brides.

Countess Alice Szechenyi, daughter of the Hungarian minister, whose wedding to Count Bela Hadik of Hungary was a brilliant event, wore a rare old lace veil which belonged to her mother, Countess Szechenyi.

Since Princess Takamatsu of Japan showed her preference for pink during her recent visit to the capital, that dainty shade has become more popular for bridesmaids' gowns.

The maid of honor at a recent wedding wore a film, pink sleeveless chiffon. Her gloves she had long cuffs of pink chiffon ruffles extending from wrists to elbow, with the upper parts of the arms bare.

The bridesmaids wore pink chiffon embroidered with rosebuds and airy fragile hats of chiffon with veil lillie nosegays of pink and red flowers tucked under the brims. The upper parts of their long pink gloves were in cut-out embroidery.

Yellow and green were chosen by another bride to deck her attendants. The maid of honor wore yellow crepe with green slippers. Two of the bridesmaids wore yellow and two green. They all had corsage bouquets of yellow snapdragons.

Countess Alice Szechenyi wore a bridal veil of rare old lace when she became the bride of Count Bela Hadik.

Legion to Meet At Laredo Soon

LAREDO, May 23 (AP)—The third division and 15th district annual convention of the American Legion to be held here Saturday and Sunday, May 23 and 24, will find Laredo in gala attire to welcome the 1,000 to 1,500 delegates expected to attend these two conventions as well as that of the American Legion auxiliary of the department of Texas.

State Commander Hal L. Brennan, a Laredo business man and other high officials of the American Legion in Texas, and probably Gov. Ross Sterling and Lieutenant Governor Witt, will attend the convention. All of these will participate in the opening ceremonies on Saturday afternoon when the new $15,000 home of the Laredo post of the American Legion will be dedicated by State Commander Hal L. Brennan, with the principal address made by Hon. Robert Lee Bobbitt of Laredo, former attorney general of Texas and a past post commander of the Laredo post, while Mrs. F. H. Carpenter, president of the American Legion auxiliary of the department of Texas, will make an address on behalf of the auxiliary organization.

The Laredo post drum and bugle corps with other visiting drum and bugle corps, will participate in the festivities Saturday evening and Sunday. Following the dedication of the Laredo post home a grand ball will take place in the home at 8 o'clock, with music furnished by a Mexican orchestra. Those who do not care to dance can attend a boxing match in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

SAN ANGELO, May 23 (AP)—Appeal to the county court and eventually to the state supreme court is seen by principals in a case here in which J. E. Long, justice of the peace, ruled that the bonus money of a World war veteran is exempt from attachment for any sort of debt.

Tax Bill Would Exempt Thousands Of Home Owners

AUSTIN, May 23 (AP)—It has been estimated here that 80 per cent of all Texas home owners will secure outright exemption of their homesteads from state ad valorem tax levies if the people adopt the homestead exemption amendment which is to be submitted to them.

Estimates are that out 20 per cent of Texas homes are assessed for more than $3,000, the amount of exemption allowed in the proposed constitutional amendment. Texas assessments for taxation run one-third of the market value, it was estimated. Under the proposed amendment, homes with market values of $9,000 and less would escape all state ad valorem tax levies unless assessable values were increased.

While the senate voted strong for passage of the proposed amendment, it likewise voted strong for adoption of an amendment which stated that homes in counties receiving remissions of state taxes should not come under the exemption of the amendment.

It was likewise estimated the state would lose about $8,000,000 revenue from small homes annually if the amendment was adopted.

ARMORY INADEQUATE

AMARILLO, May 23 (AP)—With the location of six units of the Texas National guard in Amarillo, officers of the military groups are looking for new quarters, the old armory that was built when only four units were stationed here now being inadequate.

The six units have 266 enlisted men, 21 officers and an annual payroll and rental expenditure of $40,000.

Miss Ethel Greenway, teacher at Wayside school, left Friday for White Deer, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Evans, for a few days before going to her home in Tulia for the summer.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beryl Borden, secretly in love with Tommy Wilson, discovers that he is planning to elope with her half-sister, Irene Everett.

Feeling that he would ruin his career, Beryl and her "gang" kidnap Tommy and take him into the country where she urges him to continue in college and not break the heart of his adoring aunt, Mrs. Hoffman, who is financing him. Failing to convince him, Beryl calls him a "sap" and lets him return to her sister. Irene, enraged at the long wait, refuses to listen to Tommy's explanation and postpones the elopement.

Next day Tommy goes fishing with his uncle and is surprised to find Beryl and her gang on a beach picnic. One of the boys, Angie, slips away from her, goes into the water and is carried out by a "sea kitty." NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

When the whirling water caught Angie he thought at first that it was just an extra big wave tossing him about. But it didn't pass over and leave him free to catch his breath. Instead it seemed to pick him up and carry him swiftly along with it, with cruel playfulness. The harder he fought the more it laughed at him, the precocious kitty of the sea toying with its prey.

Beryl's first aid work completed, she set about to count noses. That is when Angie was missed. "Where is he?" she asked, anxiously glancing up and down the beach. "Look for him, everyone," and then she sent their roll cry, as she called it, ringing out in a strong full tone that was surprisingly clear and sweet. Beryl had a voice, even though her family wouldn't admit it. As its echoes died away the boys took it up and flung it forth again. Beryl strained her ears to catch an answer but none came.

Fear gripped her then for the boys had promised never to go out of hearing of the roll cry without her permission. Angie wouldn't have done it wilfully; she was certain of that. He'd wandered away or—she turned in sharp alarm to the water.

Lacy waves broke at her feet where she came to a pause to scan the ocean that spread before her, bland today and smiling. The wash of the water seemed to purr invitingly, teasingly promising to be good. Its serenity was like a false face to Beryl. She saw it as a hungry monster, greedy to devour little boys.

"Angie, Angie," she called frantically and waded deeper—until the waves made standing uncertain. No good going out with nothing of Engie in sight. She turned and started to run along the beach. Then she stopped and called back to the children, to string out behind her and not to move, only to watch and relay word if they caught a glimpse of the missing boy. They understood. This was a game they'd played in fun many times before. Today it might mean something in earnest.

They watched the water with eyes wide to popping and could scarcely breathe for their excitement. The strongest ran with Beryl and only stopped as she called out their names. Then they rested themselves on the sand and stood like statues, on guard.

With them all stationed behind her Beryl too paused to search the water anew with eyes that were widened with anxiety. Again she started the roll cry and again there was no answer.

Far down the beach she could see a party of men. She called at the top of her voice as she ran toward them, but the distance was too great for them to hear, or if they heard, they thought it all a part of the noise a bunch of kids were making.

Suddenly a piercing call to her halted Beryl. She wheeled and saw that the line of boys was no longer motionless and facing seaward, but was wildly signaling to her to come back. As the message reached her, passed from one shrill relayer to another, she realized that something had been discovered in the water, something they wanted her to know about. But was it Angie? She could not tell; they were too excited — the message had got jumbled.

As she flew back to the starting place she prayed that Mike, left there, hadn't made a mistake and called her back in vain. She must have divers—she couldn't send the boys out to do that.

"What is it? Have you found him?" she gasped as she ran past the line. They fell in with her, each trying to tell what he thought of Mike's discovery. But Beryl would not stop to listen until she reached Mike.

"There, look! Way out," he shrilled, pointing toward an object that Beryl could not discern at first. Mike began to jump up and down. "It's somebody swimming," he screamed.

Then Beryl made out a bit of a head, and saw that an arm flashed rhythmically up and down in the water, bringing its owner nearer the shore with each rapid stroke.

"Oh Mike," she wailed, "that isn't Angie."

"I know, Captain Beryl, but he's got something and I think it's Angie. It's something he got in the water."

"He's sure got somethin' all right," another boy contributed, "unless he's only got one arm, for that's all he's swimmin' with."

Beryl too had noticed this fact and hope sprang to life in her terror-filled heart. If it were Angie they'd have a fair chance to revive him. He hadn't been gone so long—it wasn't hopeless. She said this over and over, unconsciously speaking aloud, while she watched and waited for the swimmer to come near enough for them to identify the burden he supported. They could see clearly now that he was handicapped with a burden.

"Fool!" Beryl exclaimed all at once, and ran out to dive head-on into a foaming breaker. In a flash she had seen that the swimmer was tiring, and there she'd stood, safely waiting for him to do her rescue work. Her expletive referred to herself. The boys wondered, but remained where she had left them.

She did not see that it was Tommy she was going to help until she got close to him. The next second she saw Angie, still and white, on his back, his chin over Tommy's arm.

"Give him to me," she ordered and swam into position to take the boy.

"Are you good for it?" Tommy gasped.

"Yes," Beryl said. "Let's go."

Tommy was glad to be relieved. He'd been swimming fast. But he did not let her get ahead of him, lest she get into trouble and lose her hold on Angie. There was some hard swimming still ahead of them. Before she reached Tommy Beryl had cleared the breakers and now she must swim back through them, with Angie a dead weight on one arm.

Tommy watched her anxiously. She did not try to speed, neither did she lose time unnecessarily—time that might mean life or death for Angie. She simply kept her head and swam as fast as she could with safety.

Tommy's strength began to return and when the heaviest breakers crashed over Beryl and bore her under he was beside her to keep Angie's body righted and afloat.

The boys met them in water waist high and helped to carry their unfortunate comrade beyond the water's reach. Tommy, spent and breathless, cast himself full length upon the sand for a few seconds to recover sufficiently to assist in the efforts to revive Angie.

He found that Beryl had placed the little chap face downward, his forehead on one arm, the other stretched out from his side, and that she was astride Angie's back, working as skillfully as she was able to force the water from his lungs and set him breathing again.

Tommy put a hand on her shoulder. "I'll do that," he said gruffly. "You go for a doctor."

Beryl didn't need to ask if he knew how. She remembered a day on the beach when they'd practiced it, until Irene had turned up her nose at the undignified performance and made them self-conscious.

She got up without a word and ran to her car. Fearfully she attempted to start the motor. Would this be one of the times she'd have to crank it? She hardly dared breathe until it was safely going. And then when she was congratulating herself on a lucky break a mean hissing sound warned her of unexpected trouble. A flat! Well, she couldn't stop for it. Goodby tire.

She tore along, as fast as the car in its disabled condition could be made to go and still be kept on the road. Presently she heard a sound that was not new to her. It came from the rear. She did not slacken her speed but the sound continued to draw nearer. At last it came: "Get over there!" The cool voice of the law.

"Listen officer," she pleaded as a uniformed individual on a motorcycle beside her car reached for a summons, "I know I'm not Mrs. Lindbergh or anybody like that. You don't have to ask me. But I am on a matter of life or death. Back there at the beach there's a kid that's been drowned. I'm going for a doctor?"

"Yeah?"

"Please. Where does the nearest doctor live? Take my number and then get a doctor, quick. I'll wait here and go back with him."

The officer looked her over and decided she was not drunk. And sober she certainly wouldn't be driving for pleasure as she had been, practically on three wheels. Besides, she was dripping wet. She must have been at the beach, all right. Nevertheless he took the number of her car.

"I'll get you a doctor," he said soberly. "But see that you stay right here until I come back."

Beryl nodded. "You'll hurry?" she begged. In her mind, as a silent, unbearable accusation, was the picture of a small white face still against the sand. If that was to be the way it would look the last time she was ever to see it. . . .

Beryl's heart shrank into a small hard lump that burned like fire. And it stayed like that while she waited endlessly for the officer to return.

IMPRISONED DOG FREED

QUANAH, May 23. (AP) — After chasing a wolf into a cave on the Pease river, a wolf hound belonging to W. G. Scott became trapped in a crevice about 30 feet under ground and remained there 48 hours without food or water before being set free by members of the hunting party. The dog was unharmed, except for scratches made by the wolf.

Miss Ruth Darnell, teacher at LeFors, is going to her home in Ardmore, Okla., for a few days. She will then attend the East Central State Teachers college at Ada, Okla.

YANKEES HOLD EARLY LEAD TO DEFEAT WASHINGTON 7-6

SENATOR NINE STAGES RALLY FOR FIVE RUNS

WELLS STOPS ADVANCE LITTLE SHORT OF TIE GAME

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP)—The Yankees ran up an early lead today, then barely lasted to win from the Washington Senators, 7 to 6. Washington rallied in the ninth inning for five runs, driving Herb Pennock from the mound. Ed Wells stopped them just short of a tie. Earl Combs ran his hitting streak through 21 games with three hits.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS WIN BOTH GAMES

ST. LOUIS, May 23. (AP)—Making the first triple play of the major league season, the St. Louis Browns today trounced the Detroit Tigers in both games of a double header and pulled themselves out of the American league cellar to within one game of fourth place.

The Browns made their three-ply killing in the fifth inning of the second game and McManus, Doljack and Owen of the Tigers were the victims. Owen hit to Levey and McManus was run down off third base, Levey to Ferrell to Kress. Owen was the second victim, when he was out on Kress' throw to Burns and Doljack, who had rushed to third, was out on Burns' throw to Kress.

GALLOWAY WILL LOOK OVER PLAYERS TODAY

Jim Galloway, manager of the Pampa team in the Panhandle league, will attend the Magnolia-Phillips baseball game this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Magnolia field and look over several players who believes will make the grade. Galloway did not say last night who the particular players were that he was interested in seeing in action.

Burke and Lister will probably be the batteries for the Mags while Stewart and Pullian will probably be Manager Kirkpatrick's choice for the day. It will be the first time the two ace moundsmen have opposed each other this season and a pitchers' battle is expected.

It may be that one or two new players will be in uniform for the first time this season.

RAIN HALTS DAVIS CUP TENNIS MATCH

MONTREAL, Que., May 23. (AP)—The weather man took a hand in the Davis cup tennis series between the United States and Canada today, sending a downpour of rain to halt hostilities for the day after Sidney B. Wood, Jr., New York, had won the first set of his match with the Montreal veteran, Dr. Jack Wright.

After waiting an hour for the rain to stop, officials decided to postpone all play until tomorrow afternoon. Wood will complete his match with Dr. Wright and Frank Shields, New York youngster, then will take the court in the final singles match with Marcel Rainville, little French-Canadian from Montreal.

ATHLETICS BEAT BOSTON 7 TO 1

PHILADELPHIA, May 23. (AP)—Clubbing Eddie Durham and Hod Lisenbee for six runs in the first two innings here today, the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics experienced no trouble in increasing their winning streak to 14 games, 7 to 1 against the Boston Red Sox.

George Earnshaw went the route for the Mackmen and held the opposition to four hits in turning in his fifth victory of the year. Al Simmons continued his batting rampage by hitting a pair of singles in four times at bat. The American league batting champion has now hit in 20 straight games.

LOTT AND VAN RYN GO INTO SEMI-FINALS

AUTEUIL, France, May 23. (AP)—George Lott and John Van Ryn, who probably will represent the United States in the doubles if America wins through to the challenge round of Davis cup play, today won their way into the semi-finals of men's doubles in the French hard court championship.

The two Americans swept to an easy victory in the quarter finals over Ian G. Collins and John Oliff, the English pair, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

Tomorrow they will play Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes, English youngsters, who upset Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus in the quarter-final round. The defeat of Borotra and Boussus was unexpected. Perry and Hughes won 6-3, 7-5, 10-8.

The defeat of the French pair insured an all English-speaking final as H. W. (Bunny) Austin's England's number one, and C. H. Kingsley, the former Cambridge captain, will play the South African pair of V. Kirby and N. G. Farquharson, in the semi-final of the lower bracket.

Irving Howard of Mobeetie was dismissed from the Worley hospital today.

CARDINALS WIN IN TENTH INNING

CINCINNATI, May 23. (AP)—Red Lucas limited the champion St. Louis Cardinals to four hits today but the title holders won 2 to 1 in 10 innings when two Cincinnati errors figured in the scoring.

In the tenth Douthit doubled and scored when Ford fumbled Gelbert's roller.

On the first 18-holes this morning, Smith made the turn two up. In the afternoon round he rapidly increased his lead when May's putter failed him on any number of short putts which would have halved greens with Smith.

The Pampa All Stars will meet the White Deer Bucks on their home grounds this afternoon. The Bucks have been playing all their early season games at home and refused to come to Pampa this early in the season.

Who will start on the mound for Manager Murray Freundlich is not known. The Pampa boss says he will not name his hurler until he sees them workout before the game.

The Buck's boss said his battery mates would be Austin in the box and Lassiter receiving. The combination has lost only one game this season.

The Rev. G. W. Keeling of Amarillo, father of Mrs. V. Darnell of this city, will fill the pulpit of the Central Baptist church at both services today. The Rev. D. H. Truhitte, pastor, is in Mineral Wells for his health.

PAMPA'S TEAM TO REPORT IN NEXT FEW DAYS

MONEY FOR FRANCHISE ALMOST RAISED BY LOCAL FANS

The $2,000 needed to assure Pampa's entry in the new Panhandle baseball league was practically raised last night. Jim Galloway, manager of the Pampa team, expects to finish raising the money tomorrow. The money will go to the league as a guarantee of Pampa's faith in the league and of that amount half will be refunded at the close of the season and the remaining amount made up from profits and sale of players. If the sum is realized at the close of the season is more than that subscribed, those supporting the team will split the difference.

Following the last pledge, box seats, season tickets and booster tickets will go on sale. Mr. Galloway said they would probably be available Wednesday. By that time work on the park will commence and players will be ordered to report.

It is planned to erect 20 box seats, six chairs to the box, and sell then for $20. The purchaser's name or business will be printed on his box which will be his for the 48 home games. A season ticket will sell for $20 and will be good for admittance to any game during the season. All money derived from the sale of boxes, season tickets, and booster tickets, will remain in Pampa and used for support of the home club, such as buying lighting equipment, caring for grounds and other incidentals.

The opening game of the season will be played June 11 with the Amarillo entry here. The Amarillo team will play two nights and will then be at home to the Pampa nine.

All games will be played at night. A contract for the lighting system is ready to be signed and the Southwestern Public Service company is ready to start its share of the work immediately. An experienced ground keeper will be employed to get the diamond ready for play.

Several well known players have already signed contracts and more are anxious to sign with the Pampa team, but Mr. Galloway says he wants to try out Pampa boys before signing any more players.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: After Nora Lake and Jonathon Thayer become engaged, her dream of living in the Thayer mansion seems near realization, despite the coolness of his step-sister, Damon. Behind Nora lies the tragedy of the suicide of the painter, Nicholas Thayer, Jon's brother, whom she had wed lovelessly. Now secure in Jon's regard, she rejects Dr. More's plea that she help her Aunt Emily care for the children of Nora's cousin, Frances, ill in a distant sanatorium. Fran's husband has deserted her and her crippled sister, Hallie, can make only a pittance through her writing. Meanwhile Nora's father, Julian, has persuaded Jon to finance an exhibition of his paintings. Nora, knowing her father's pictures to be mere daubs, foresees certain humiliation for them.

Chapter 26
JULIAN'S TRIUMPH

Julian Lake returned next day as mysteriously as he had left them. But he was jubilant with hope.

He told them about the gallery that Jon had rented.

"I was too modest at first," he explained, "but I am advised to sell 'Devon Lanes' for five thousand. There are 43 canvases. Now picture to yourselves what I shall make."

Nora did picture to herself. She remembered "Devon Lanes" with its murky colors and its weak draftsmanship. Poor Julian! He actually believed that someone would buy his atrocious daubs.

But when he told them just what he was going to do for them, Nora caught her breath almost like a sob. He was going to have a trust fund for Aunt Em. As for Nora and himself . . . he stopped and cried:

"Nora doesn't believe in me. But wait. Wait!" He smiled at her.

It was just one more fantastic scheme that would end as the others had, Nora knew, in failure. And Aunt Em and Hallie were beginning to believe in him. Perhaps it was because they had never seen his pictures, Nora thought ironically.

Jon, too, was as enthusiastic as her father. He told her that as soon as the show was launched they would be married.

"Not if it's a horrible failure?"

"It couldn't be, darling," he assured her.

"Nothing's going to stop us, Nora."

At the end of the week Jon drove her father to New York.

"Don't come to the old show, Nora. It will only bore you," her father said.

But Nora was depressed by the thought of the failure that awaited her father. No one but a fool or a genius could have believed so utterly in himself. And Julian, she admitted, was not a genius.

They had a letter from Fran to say that she felt better already. She would be home in a few months. It seemed to Nora, these days in September, that she was surrounded by people who never touched reality.

On Sunday they saw in the paper a notice of her father's exhibition by a well-known art critic.

"The paintings of Julian Lake, on display this week at the Weiland Galleries, show a peculiarly rich individuality. They have a rude vigor and commanding draftsmanship. The luminous character of his color arrests and haunts the mind.

"His peasant studies have the animation of truth. This is an outstanding group of paintings, not only in its variety and its number, but in that he has reached out to new horizons.

"America may well be proud when she adds this talent, I would almost say genius, to a long line of splendid artists."

If they needed further proof, came an enthusiastic telegram from Jon saying that her father's pictures were being sought by art dealers.

But it was of Jon that Nora thought with rapture. Nothing could ever separate her and Jon now. She could not wait to see him. Why should she not go straight down to New York in the morning? What did it matter that she should be in the office? Things like this happened only once in a life-time.

It was in the same excitement that she dressed next day in the beige dress that was Jon's favorite, drew on the small beige hat. She had never, she knew, looked so lovely. Her eyes shone with happiness, for her heart sang over and over that at last they were all secure. Julian had saved them. Now she and Jon could be married.

The dream was with her all the way to New York. At the Grand Central she took a taxi and gave the address of the Welland Galleries with a thrill of excitement.

They did not know she was coming.

She watched the crowds swim past. As she stepped into the gallery she caught her breath. It was still early afternoon but she saw small groups of people standing about, heard the buzz of talk. In the far corner of the gallery she saw Julian looking amazingly handsome as he made a graceful gesture. He did not see her. She was happy that she should have these first few minutes alone.

She stood looking about at the pictures, that seemed to glow with light and color under a blaze of sunshine. She turned at last to look intently at one.

Alpine meadow. She could hear cow bells chiming down the flowery slopes, and smell the wild, sweet tang of summer. But this—this was not the way her father painted. She moved to the next picture, "Devon Lanes." The twisting lane with a flock of sheep winding past, the light on the shepherd's upturned face. She could hear the thud of sheep's feet, taste the dust as it rose in a cloud behind them. She remembered her father's murky colors and faltering brush strokes. She heard voices pattering art talk with a note of enthusiasm uppermost. The light, the wild color, the enchanted country spread before her eyes, as she walked from picture to picture.

In the center of the room was a wooden bench. She went to it and sank down at last. She felt she could not face those pictures again. Her father had never painted like that. But what did they make her think of: these pictures that seemed to lay bare the innermost search of the heart?

This trembling sunlight, painted with a brilliance that overlaid a masterly technique. These translucent colors. These brown-necked, stooping peasants with the patience of animals. . . . She tried to put them from her mind.

Her hands were wet. She wiped them with a ball of handkerchief.

Someone behind her was saying: "The artist's little joke. See it over there."

She turned her head spasmodically to see what it was they were laughing at. There in the corner was one of the things she remembered well, the purple house that seemed to topple down the brown hill into the red water below.

"Amazing that he should catch the modern spirit and caricature it so precisely."

The voices moved off. She closed her eyes. Someone had come to sit beside her, she felt a hand over hers. It was Jon.

"You couldn't stay away! Well, what do you think of it?" he leaned forward, his green eyes smiling, his face lighted with a charming gayety. "How queer you look, Nora. What's the matter?"

"Nothing. Nothing. What could be the matter?" she tried to say between white lips.

"Didn't I tell you—there you must go and speak to him as soon as that old dowager is through gushing over him—"

"Jon," she plucked at his sleeve, "take me away!"

"It's been too much for you, has it? This is the time when I thought you'd be wild with delight and you look as though—"

She tried to wring a smile from her lips but she knew it was only a grotesque twitch.

"Let's go, Jon. It's so hot here, isn't it?"

"But your hands are ice-cold. There, he's free now!"

"No, Jon, no." She shrank back. "I don't want to see him now."

At last they were on the train. Jon began to tell her all that had happened in these last few days. She listened without seeming to hear, closing her eyes now and then as though the lids were too heavy.

"You're tired, Nora. I'll go and smoke a while. You're coming home with me. Damon will be there. We'll tell her, tonight. Then we can be married. At once. At once!"

"Oh, yes, Jon, at once! And you'll take me away?"

She was a strange, mad creature, he thought. Only last week she had stood out against him, saying over and over again she could not leave her aunt. And now she begged him to take her away. Well, that was Nora. All strange contradictions and sudden impulses, variable as the wind.

Nora sat alone at last. Her head fell back against the chair. She could hear the train sliding over the tracks, feel the ceaseless vibration.

But this could not make her forget those pictures. She knew something about them—something that she dared not face. If she should bring it to the light—if she should drag up from the depths of her mind this truth, she could never meet Julian face to face again.

COTTON GOES DOWN

NEW ORLEANS, May 23. (AP)—Cotton was decidedly active today, for a short week-end session and the course of prices was downward from start to finish, recording new lows for the season.

The close was called steady, showing net losses for the day of 26 to 30 points.

Liverpcol was closed today for the first of the Whitsuntide holidays and will remain closed several days.

Prices made new lows for the movement and the season near the end May down to 8.86, July off to 8.96 and October to 9.32 down 27 to 30 points from the previous close. Prices closed at about the bottom.

Port receipts 2,236; for season 8,721,129; last season 8,513,433; exports 4,463; for season 6,097,467; last season 6,275,283; port stock 3,360,348; last year 1,729,430; combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 68,564; last year 62,927; spot sales at southern markets 3,483; last year 1,841.

CATTLE PRICE LOWER

KANSAS CITY, May 23. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the circuit this week was marked by a recession in values on most all classes. Killing classes were generally taking the full 50 decline. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 185,400, as compared with 178,576 last week.

A moderate supply of hogs this week failed to offset the depressing influence of lower price on fresh pork cuts and closing quotations are unevenly 25-65 under a week ago. Best hogs at most points sold at the lowest levels since January, 1912. Total offerings were around 400,700 against 413,147 last week.

Considerable unevenness prevailed in killing classes of sheep with values at points where prices last week were relatively low working higher and other centers closing at rates 25 or more under a week ago. A liberal movement out of Texas helped to swell receipts. Supplies approximated 347,500 a decrease of 4,500 from last week.

GRAINS HIT BOTTOM

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, May 23. (AP)—Wheat, corn and lard today joined in a triple breaking of this season's low price records.

Reports that the international wheat conference at London had effected little if anything likely to bring about immediate upturns in grain values had an evident bearish influence from the start. Indications also that frost damage to domestic winter wheat was only slight tended further to reduce buying to a minimum, and to cause liquidating sales of grains and provisions alike.

Wheat closed irregular, 1¾-1⅞ cents lower to ⅛ higher, corn 1⅛-1¾ down, oats ⅛-⅜ off, and provisions at 12 to 20 cents setback.

Better weather in the corn belt and the weakness of wheat did much to tumble corn prices. Oats sympathized with the action of other cereals.

Provisions fell, despite steadiness of hog values. Buying support was lacking both for lard and meats.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May offers, 83; July 57⅛-½, 59½-⅝; Sept. 57¼; 59¼-⅜; Dec. 60½, 62⅝-¾. Corn, July 53⅞-54, 55⅞; Sept. 51⅞-52⅛, 53⅞-54; Dec. 46⅜, 48.

Oscar Boyington bought a tent from us last year to go on a fishing trip. He got busy and never did get to go. Rufe Thompson sold the tent and we used the money all winter, but we got Oscar another tent in the other day, and he has served notice that he is going to expect this tent to be waiting for him the day he is through the Combs-Worley building. We are going to try to work with Oscar on this, for we believe he deserves a vacation.

GOLF STARS LIMBERING UP FOR DALLAS TOURNEY

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, May 23. (AP)—Texas link stars have only a few more days to practice before the start of the twenty-fifth Texas Golf Association tournament at the Brook Hollow Country club, Dallas. The tournament will open Tuesday, June 2 with 18-holes of the qualifying test. The second 18-hole qualifying round will be held June 3. Match play competition will follow the next day with thirty-two qualifiers in the championship flight. All matches will be 18 holes except the final combat which will be a 36-hole test.

Willie Cutter Hunt, the diminutive Houston stylist, who last year at Houston's River Oaks Country club course, played fine golf to win the title by defeating Gaston Peek, Galveston, one up, will be defending champion.

Other veterans expected to compete are George V. Rotan, Houston, who held the title from 1912 to 1915; Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls, 1924 and 1925 champion; O. S. Carlton, Jr., 1923 and 1926 champion; Dennis Lavender, 1929 title holder; Charlie L. Dexter, Dallas, 1921 and 1922 champion, and Gaston Peek, Galveston, 1930 runner-up. The field of young talent includes Gus Morland, Lanham Connor, Lecnard Atwell, O'Hara Watts and Reynolds Smith.

Tournament officials hope for a starting field of 200 golfers.

ALA CARTE WINS DERBY RACE AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, May 23. (AP)—A crowd of 5,000 persons at Bainbridge track today saw Ala Carte, chestnut son of Transmute and Silvery Shapiro, run like a streak through the mud to win the seventh $12,000 added Ohio Derby by a six lengths margin in 1:58 flat.

Spanish Play and Up finished second and third. There were nine starters.

Ala Carte, owned by the Alton stable of New York City hardly showed the effects of his long run, a mile and eighth, but the others almost staggered when they passed the finish line.

than seemed warranted, the treasury pointed out the danger of eliminating certain excise taxes and depending for so large a part of our revenues on a comparatively small number of tax payers."

Tells Defects

The secretary said he had described the defects in the tax system because he wanted the country to know that the treasury did not view the present situation with complacency.

He added that because of the handling of the public debt, which had been reduced from $25,235,000,000 to $15,922,000,000 in 11 years, the country found itself in a better position during the depression than it otherwise would have been. He said that despite the declining income, the regular payments for debt retirement must be met, adding that the debt would be increased this year due to borrowing to meet the deficit.

Discussing what he described as a "happier problem," the public building program, he said it was not extravagance to erect buildings at this time because every structure was needed by the government and the work could be done now at low prices.

"We at this moment, are engaged in another struggle, this time against economic forces," he concluded. "The trial is a severe one but there can be no doubt about the outcome. We know that we shall emerge not only with unshaken faith in our country's future but with renewed confidence in our own capacity as a people to meet and overcome any obstacles that may seem to temporarily impede our progress."

The highly controversial $212,000,000 highway bond issue, backed by Governor Sterling, failed of submission in the house several times, the last time by three votes. The proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the state ad valorem tax was not brought up in the house after passing the senate.

POSTAL—

It is desired to hold the site price down as much as possible in order to construct a building which will be a permanent asset.

Visitors Impressed

Greatly impressed with the evident prosperity of Pampa, the officials stated that their selection would be one that the people would not regret in the future when the city is much larger. Their recommendation will not be made public.

In about six weeks, announcement will be made of site selection by Washington authorities. Whether the supervising architect there will have the plans drawn in Washington or delegate the work is not yet known. The building contemplated is of one-story type, with a large basement and high ceiling.

Letting of the contract may be within the next two months. The officials said that the public building projects total more than three hundred millions in cost and that there was a tremendous task before the postal and treasury departments.

"In the old days," Mr. Rider remarked, "we thought we had a big job if the appropriations totaled 25 or 30 millions. You can imagine what we face with the present huge appropriation and the president's wish to expedite the work."

Shaddix, national deputy chief of staff, representing the national headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and the State department in Dallas will speak, and will give a synopsis of the various laws that have passed for the benefit of disabled ex-soldiers and their dependents.

Bible's Interpretation of Pajamas Is Issue

MODERNISM IS UPHELD BY DR. CHARLES DIEHL

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN TO INVESTIGATE CASE SOON

By E. C. McCLUSKEY
NEA Service Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 23.—Once again Tennessee, smoking battle ground of Dayton's famous "monkey" anti-evolution trial of a few years ago, is preparing for an attack on modernistic education.

Memphis is the scene of action this time and Dr. Charles R. Diehl, president of Southwestern university, is the accused. And it's co-ed pajama parties, dancing on the campus and a theological controversy over hell fire and eternal damnation that have brought about the impending fireworks at the south's 56-year-old Presbyterian institution, which may cost Dr. Diehl his job.

The controversy was set off recently when 11 ministers of the Presbyterian church, particularly the synods of Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana and Alabama, prepared a signed indictment asking for Dr. Diehl's removal from office.

Within the next two weeks a committee of five ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian church will meet in Memphis to examine Dr. Diehl and collect evidence. They will report to the fall meeting of the presbytery. That the president of Southwestern will be called to the church's bar of justice to exist on the college campus is pretty much a foregone conclusion.

Opponents of Dr. Diehl who seek his dismissal say they will make as bitter a fight for their principles as did the anti-evolutionists when John T. Scopes, Dayton teacher, was convicted in a state court for teaching his pupils that man descended from the lower animals. Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone, acting as counsel for Scopes, turned the "monkey trial" into a national sensation. William Jennings Bryan was active in the prosecution.

Bible Is Issue

The present fracas at Southwestern university involves the same issues of "fundamentalist" religious doctrine. Dr. Diehl's theological views have been attacked. He is criticized for failing to accept a literal interpretation of various passages in the Bible. The controversy, while essentially an attack on the college president, may divide Tennesseeans into the same two factions which fought out the Scopes case.

Southwestern is a Presbyterian college but is non-sectarian in its teachings. Part of the male students plan to enter the ministry. A larger part are engaged in academic studies. The school is co-educational.

The three counts on which the clergymen base their demand that Dr. Diehl shall be removed from his office are: his theological views; his administration of college finances; his attitude toward campus social life.

The ministerial indictment, which

Says Dr. Diehl—

ABOUT THE BIBLE

"I do not think the first chapter of Genesis is a scientific treatise."

"If a person is loving and kind he will be saved even if he never heard of Christ."

ABOUT THE CO-EDS

"I do not believe it is right to prevent students from dancing on the campus as long as they dance in their own homes . . . homes of persons high in the Presbyterian church."

'House Jackets' Back In Sports Guise

PARIS, May 23. (AP)—Bright colored coats resembling old-fashioned house jackets are a new wrinkle for sports wear. They consist of a short straight piece across the back, reaching just below the shoulder blades and attaches to long sleeves. The coats, worn over white sports frocks, are made of bright lightweight wool banded at the wrist in different colors.

Peach and Green For Bridal Party

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP) — Peach and green formed the color motif of the bridal attendants for Miss Dorothy Kidd when she was married to Captain William Henry Waters. The maid of honor wore peach colored chiffon with a leghorn hat trimmed with peach colored velvet ribbon. The four other bridesmaids wore green chiffon gowns with matching hats.

DECORATIVE!

Eyelet embroidery, the year's new fashion, produces effects as decorative as prints yet more subtle and feminine. The evening gown shown here is of red Irish linen, with white embroidery.

BANQUET AND RECITAL HELD

MRS. F. L. HILL GIVES FUNCTION FOR LARGE GROUP

One of the most entertaining programs of the season in Pampa took place at the First Methodist church when Mrs. F. L. Hill of the Hill School of Expression presented her older pupils in recital in connection with the banquet which she gave for 64 guests.

A feeling of informality which prevailed during the evening was emphasized by the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, when, in an interesting talk, he offered advice to the young people attending. The program consisted of dialogues and readings by Mrs. Hill's pupils and musical numbers by pupils of the Schick Conservatory of Music.

Numbers included the following: Reading, "Haughty Zell," Barbara Kilgore; negro dialect, "The Dancing Fool," Elizabeth Erard; "Aunt Mime at the Circus," Frances Hodge; "Aunt Paradise and the Freshman," Mrs. Homer Wallace; solo, "I'm Waiting for the Sunrise," composed by Prof. Otto Schick, was sung by Mrs. A. H. Doucette, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frank Keehn, with Prof. Schick playing violin obligato; "Drowsy Baby," duet, Mrs. Doucette and Mrs. Keehn; reading, "A Fascinatin' Man," Aileen Cook; "The Coward," John Plank; "Betty at the Baseball Game," Isabel Baer; "Waiting for the Train," Ila Poole; vocal solos, "The Big Bass Viol" and "O'er the Billowy Sea," Gaines Black, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Keehn.

The following monologues were given: "Bride and Groom Being Photographed," Ruth Reynolds; "Neighbors," Mrs. Dirksen; "At the Cooking School," Dorothy Dodd; "Hanging Out the Wash," Bernice Lyon and Marie Tinsley.

Prof. Schick played two violin selections, "Chanson d' Amour," and, as an encore, "Serenade."

Appropriate costumes were used where necessary, and all children showed careful training. Naturalness, also, was a commendable feature of each reading.

Tables were decorated in pink and green and the colors also were seen in candles and in the menu. Girls who served the meal were Harriet Hunkapillar, Lois Bryson, Jane Daniels, and Daisy Ann Shields.

The menu included tomato cocktail, a chicken course, and a dessert course of ice cream with pink and white cake.

E. G. Sanders, school superintendent of LePors, plans to spend one week at Canadian, after which he will go to Alpine for a six-weeks term at Sul Ross.

Miss Lillian Mullinax and Miss Brown, teachers in LePors, will spend most of the summer at Boulder, Colo., attending the University of Colorado.

BEAUTIFYING OF TEXAS IS BEING URGED

FORT WORTH, May 23. (AP)—The Texas Federation of Garden clubs has started a campaign to preserve all beauty spots and add to the picturesqueness of the landscape wherever possible, in anticipation of an influx of visitors during the Texas Centennial, planned for 1936.

Mrs. Will Lake of Fort Worth, formerly chairman of conservation and beautification of highways for the Garden clubs, is urging upon Texans the need for a greater appreciation of the native landscape and a whole-hearted cooperation in preserving that valuable asset. Mrs. Lake was recently elected conservation chairman for the National Council of State Garden Club Federations.

"The highways reveal the civic spirit of a community, and this fact should challenge concerted action on the part of the citizenry," Mrs. Lake said. "The protection of indigenous plant life is a subject of weighty importance. Not only is this true with regard to Texas, but it is applicable to all parts of the United States."

Local Residents Home From Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Walker and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McDonald and baby daughter, Patty, have just returned from Clay Center, Kans., where they visited Mrs. W. W. Merten. Mrs. Merten, until last summer, was a resident of Pampa.

The group also visited friends in Morganville, and spent a part of their time fishing. "The fish dinners were grand," declared Mrs. Walker.

London Now Wears Rings on Its Hats

LONDON, May 23. (AP) — We have been wearing rings on our fingers and in our ears from time immemorial, but now fashion decrees that we are to wear them in our hats! White coral is to be popular with black, navy blue and bottle-green suits and gowns, and the star in a recent "talkie" wore two stud earrings of white coral on a closely swathed turban of gleaming black straw.

NEW SPRING FROCKS OF OPALINE GREEN

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP) — Opaline green is the name of a dainty shade much used in summer dresses.

One of green dotted net is appliqued with large green silk flowers running over the full skirt.

HIS HAIR WON A GOLD MEDAL

Probably most American mothers will think their Junior's hair is just as pretty at little Rudi De Czikann's. But Rudi's fine flaxen tresses were adjudged best in all Hungary, at least, in a contest held recently at Budapest. Rudi is shown here as he posed for the cameraman after being awarded a gold medal.

FORMER SIMMONSITES GIVEN PARTY HERE BY MRS. LEECH

EXAMINATION HELD AS PART OF EVENT ON FRIDAY

The thrill which comes from reliving a pleasant past experience was evident on the part of former Simmons university students when they were entertained Friday evening by Mrs. F. Ewing Leech, formerly Mrs. Jessie K. Hunter, Simmons English instructor, who is now living in Pampa.

"The renewing of old acquaintances made the meeting seem like a class gathering at the university. Simmons stickers were distributed, and a dozen or more university annuals, as well as a number of copies of The Brand, weekly newspaper, were provided.

Adding to the spirit of the occasion, Mrs. Leech presented each guest what was playfully termed a "flunk pad," and conducted an examination which featured facts relating to Simmons.

Some of the glassware used in serving a lovely ice course had been wedding gifts from Simmons faculty members.

Ex-students present were Mrs. W. Sherman White, Clifford Solomon, Miss Winifred Barton of Clyde, Miss Louie Barton, Miss Anne Louise Jones of Wortham, who is teaching in Pampa Junior high school, Miss Lottie Gibson of Paducah, who is teaching in Junior high school, Harvey Anderson, Mrs. Harry Kelley, Miss Ruth Henry, Mrs. B. H. McFarling, Mrs. A. L. Sullivan, and Mrs. Olin E. Hinkle.

Determination Is Stressed in Talk Before Children

That determination to succeed is more important than talents was stressed by the Rev. F. W. O'Malley in speaking at Sam Houston school Friday morning. He said that promotion time is a period for "moving up," a sign of progress. Boys and girls, he said, should express their appreciation to their teachers. A teacher was compared with a sharpener who brings out talents and sharpens the wits.

"Make the best of opportunities", said Rev. O'Malley. He named Demosthenes and Thomas Edison as examples of men who have become great in spite of what seemed to be handicaps.

The program, given under the direction of Mrs. John I. Bradley's room, was opened with two songs, the Sam Houston song and "Little Tom Tinker".

Mrs. L. K. Stout presented certificates for progress in penmanship to Bonie Shannon, Eldra Stark, Bessie Lee Reed, Albertine Schulkey, Dorothy Davis, Rose LaNell Williams, Elizabeth Friedman, Flora Marie Denebeim, Edith Mae Wears, Sarah Ellen Wills, Marie Barnard, Loretta Miller, Mary Snow, George Brewer, and Eva Jane Stark.

Seventy-five pupils also were given perfect attendance certificates.

Out of the total enrollment of 569, Chattie Noah had the distinction of winning the scholarship medal and Bob Mitchell the citizenship medal. Mothers of the two children also were introduced.

Closing the gathering were the school song and "Texas, Our Texas".

ALL DISTRICT TO HELP WITH STATE AFFAIR

MANY FROM THIS CITY TO ATTEND EVENT IN AMARILLO

Sponsored by all business and professional women's clubs in District 1, the tea slated for Friday evening in the Amarillo city auditorium will be an important feature of the state meeting of Business and Professional Women's clubs to be held in Amarillo from Thursday to Saturday, inclusive.

The tea was planned at the recent district meeting held in Plainview, and Mrs. Nina McSkimming of this city was selected as general chairman. Mrs. Frank Allison is in charge of refreshments, and Mrs. H. H. Hicks, will supervise the floral arrangements. The Amarillo club will furnish a varied fine arts program for the occasion.

Punch is to be served from a bowl fashioned of a 300-pound cake of ice in which will be frozen flowers and greenery. Wisteria colors will be featured in other refreshments. Plainview is provice 1,000 mints for the occasion.

Of special interest also will be a banquet planned by the Amarillo club for Friday evening at the Herring hotel, this hotel having been chosen as headquarters for the gathering.

It is expected that about 25 Pampa women, or at least half of the local club membership, will attend the tea and the banquet. A number also are to go to Amarillo next Sunday morning for the chuck wagon breakfast which will be given at the Harding ranch.

Mrs. W. C. Mitchell has been named by the local club as delegate-at-large, and Mrs. Mabel Gee, Mrs. Nina McSkimming, and Mrs. Grace Higgins Poole also will go as delegates.

AMARILLO, May 23. (AP)—Plans for the entertainment of the Business and Professional Women's clubs of Texas, at the annual convention here May 28-30 are being made by the local chapter and the chamber of commerce.

The state convention is meeting in the Panhandle for the first time and a record attendance is expected, according to Mrs. Jack Eldredge, Amarillo, state secretary. She is assisting Miss Frankie Gober, president of the Amarillo club, in directing plans for the state assembly.

"Upholding their right to go from one extreme to the other, the business and professional women, meeting in the Rio Grande valley last year, voted to come to the Texas Plains this year," Mrs. Eldredge said. "We expect a good attendance from down state because the women are curious to see the Panhandle."

Miss Martha Connole of St. Louis, legislation chairman of the national federation, will be the principal speaker, attending each session of the three-day meeting. She will participate in the round-table discussions which make up the convention program.

Among the high lights of entertainment will be a tea given by clubs of the first district. Delegate from Borger, Childress, Clarendon, Dalhart, Lubbock, Memphis, Quanah Pampa, Plainview, Shamrock and Vernon will be hostesses. A reception will be given Thursday evening by the Potter County Federation of Women's clubs. A "pioneer" luncheon will be given Friday at noon, and a "Mary Jane" banquet, honoring club presidents will be held in the evening. Committee and district chairman will be honored at a breakfast Saturday morning, and a "Round-Up" luncheon will be held at noon Saturday. Miss Connole and Miss Daisy H. Leake, national second vice-president, will be honored at a banquet for national officers Saturday night.

Those who remain over until Saturday morning will be served a chuck-wagon breakfast, concluding a program of entertainment featuring the western motif.

Miss Mary Jane Higgins of Fort Worth, president of the state association, will preside at the business sessions, and will be one of the most prominent speakers attending.

Missionary Spirit Is To Be Studied

"The Missionary Spirit and Baptist Progress" will be studied by the ycung married people's B. Y. P. U. this evening at 7 o'clock at the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Dewey Priest will be leader of the following program: Scripture reading, Mrs. O. E. White; "Periods of Beginnings, from 1845 to 1870," Ernest Fletcher; "Period of Foundation Laying, 1870-1895," Wilson Hatcher; piano solo, Mrs. F. E. Gatlin; period of expansion, 1895-1910," Mrs. McIntosh; "Period of Vision and Victory, 1910-1920," Mrs. R. E. Gatlin; vocal solo, Ernest Fletcher; "Period of Opportunity and Difficulty, 1920-2930," Mrs. Ernest Fletcher.

Bandana Trip on Navy Blue Dress

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—Gay red and yellow silk in imitation of a bandana handkerchief trims a navy blue street dress. It is draped carelessly about the neck in cowl effect and bits of it flutter loosely from the sleeve ends. A band of it peeps from beneath the blue skirt.

Washington Daybook

(By Herbert Plummer)

WASHINGTON—There's nothing in the appearance of Utah's democratic senator—the tall and scholarly William H. King—that suggests he would interest himself in a subject so highly technical as radio.

He looks like what he really is—the jurist who has spent years on the supreme court bench of his state. His dignity impresses one immediately. On the floor of the senate, in the committee room or in his office always he seems the same.

His manner is deliberate. When he speaks in the senate on such subjects as the tariff or marines in Latin-American countries—the latter his favorite topic—one can most visualize the black robe of justice draped over his shoulders.

He chooses his words with care. He presents his case in a straightforward and meticulous fashion.

Television Student

Radio and its problems have long interested him, but until a short while ago he never bothered to make a serious study of this subject. His friend, Senator Dill of Washington, is one of the senate's recognized authorities on radio, and heretofore King has been content to let him lead the way.

But with the advent of television his curiosity became aroused. He decided to do a little personal investigating of the whole subject. Now he has some very definite ideas and plans to work for their adoption.

He has become convinced that the existing radio law must be thoroughly studied and brought up to date by congress at its next session. But it's the television angle which particularly interests him.

"Television is so new and so important," says the senator, "that it staggers the imagination. Few are aware of its potentialities. For that reason we must become acquainted with it."

The question of censorship of television is being considered by him.

Three Radio Experts

But as to that phase he admits that he must do more investigating.

"It is a matter to be considered from all angles. It's certainly something to think about."

With Senator King entering the radio field the senate will be well fortified with expert opinions when the subject comes up for discussion.

Senator Dill is a student of radio and has made its his legislative hobby for a number of years. He is co-author of the present law.

And Wallace H. White Jr. of Maine, the house's radio expert and co-author with Dill of the Dill-White radio legislation, moves over to the senate for a six-year term next December.

A POET LAUREATE FOR TEXAS

By the time this appears in print, Texas may have a poet laureate. The legislature has been busy, of late, trying to decide upon some one equal to the occasion and willing to accept the position. There are some avowed candidates for the job, one of the number being a newspaper man of Mexia. In reading press reports, we ascertained that this poet has a national reputation, although we never heard of him before.

The job will be a luckless one whoever gets it. Just what is a poet laureate expected to do? It is our opinion that he or she is expected to ornament the state in some way by appearing at public functions, literary and near-literary teas, and to work hard to keep steadily in the limelight. For what purpose, you ask? Oh, to be a poet laureate, one must act the part. The long suffering public must, of necessity, be exposed to further poetry.

We have an idea that much that is done in the legislature must, necessarily, be immortalized by the laureate. He will probably have to write sonnets about Governor Ross Sterling, blank verse about the capital, vers libre about the new oil field in east Texas, rondeaus concerning the social elite of Austin if their husbands hold down state jobs, villanelles having to do with the state institutions, including the insane asylums, and last, but not least, he will probably be assigned the job of writing an epic poem detailing Texas history. Such an assignment means work, plenty of it. Publicity may pay the laureate for his efforts; flattery may keep alive his spirits when they droop; pink teas may held hold body and soul together, but after the last word has been written and the laureate-elect becomes the laureate-elite, all we can say is God pity him.—Memphis Democrat.

PAMPA
TOPICS OF OUR CITY
By O.E.H.

Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. I Cor. 10:12.

* * *

It is perhaps superfluous to mention that Pampa's P.-T. As have been unusually active this year, but this column is going to repeat it nevertheless.

No Snap Judgment

As one formerly a student in a Teachers college, the Pampan has seen many school organizations in this section, and his interest has included several neighboring states. It is not an idle statement, therefore, when he says that nowhere has he seen more valuable parental cooperation.

* * *

There is no doubt about the worth of this parental interest in the schools. The good teacher welcomes it and is able to assist in directing it along the best channels. It is only the poor teacher who is afraid to have a parent or a P.-T. A. interested in his teaching.

Results Obvious

The results are readily seen in the well behaved student bodies and in the excellence of the work done. This writer hopes to witness the graduation of some of the pupils who are now enjoying the excellent teaching in the ward schools. It is upon this primary and intermediate instruction that the high school department builds. Give the grade pupils good instruction and a chance to learn some of the fine arts and you will have high school talent second to none. At this close of the school year, the Pampan and this newspaper extend congratulations for a task well done.

* * *

Many Pampa business and professional men are taking advantage of the office supply stocks in furnishing their quarters tastefully and efficiently. . . . The Pampan looks forward to that day when The NEWS-POST will be housed in a new, larger plant with designs especially adapted to the growing demands of this newspaper. Every newspaper man dreams of ideal surroundings—as ideal as an atmosphere charged with hot news and hustle and bustle can be. Modernistic, of course, with a second story balcony for public address broadcasting, election bulletins, etc. It is not far from the age of airplane delivery of papers to neighboring cities, and if we had space at this writing we would make a lot more predictions. It is good to live in a good town in the world's most interesting age.

Red Cross Stamp

The Red Cross, wonderful mother of mankind in time of disaster, has just had the fiftieth anniversary. Uncle Sam has commemorated the event with a new two-cent postage stamp. According to information furnished this column by Rev. Tom W. Brabham, the new stamp is printed in two colors, black and red. It is an upright rectangle of regular size, inclosed in a border formed by a heavy black outer and lighter inner line slightly indented along the center on all four sides.

* * *

Across the top of the stamp in two lines are the words, "United States Postage" in white Roman lettering. The central design of the stamp, printed in black, has the figure of a Red Cross nurse, kneeling before the glove with outstretched hands. It is reproduced from the 1930 poster, entitled "The Greatest Mother." In the upper part of the stamp at the left of the figure is the Greek cross with five equal squares, the emblem of the organization, printed in red. Arranged vertically on the opposite side are the dates in black—1881 and 1931. The "2" and "cents" appear at the bottom corners in white Roman letters.

Fifty millions of the stamps are being printed. They are being supplied to various postoffices just as fast as requisitions for them are made. Stamp collectors are eager to obtain cancellations at Washington and Dansville, N. Y., where the stamps were first placed on sale.

Chartered by Congress

Organized May 21, 1881, the Red Cross is chartered by congress and is audited annually under the direction of the war department. It is the only volunteer organization authorized by the government to render direct aid to land and naval forces in time of war. It has rendered aid in 1,100 disasters in the last fifty years, spending more than $54,000,000 contributed by the American people.

* * *

The unemployment problem will be greater now that many thousands of college graduates are ready to make their way in life, joined by not a few high school graduates who will not go to college. Like most of the other idle individuals, the graduates will ask only an opportunity to work. It is an alarming situation when this privilege is denied. Civilization owes each person an opportunity to succeed, though the rest of it is up to the individual.

* * *

Not for many years has the employment problem for college graduates been as serious as now. Many of the "grads" are deeply in debt. Many of them will offer to work at almost any price—a regrettable circumstance. There is a surplus of talent in nearly all professions, including that of school teaching. . . . It is hard to refuse an eager young man or woman who asks an opportunity, yet the very deluge of applications for jobs precludes the possibility of being of much assistance. Watchful waiting is about the only advice possible.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

NEWSPAPER ETHICS

Recently one of the newspapers of a small southern city came out in a special edition whose glaring headlines proclaimed the fact that an opposition man's wife had left his bed and board.

The scareheads were written in such a way as to leave very much in doubt whose wife had left whom. The only unqualified statement indicated that some man who worked on the other paper had been deserted by an irate spouse.

The facts in the case were not in the least sensational. A very young man—one of five who worked on the opposition sheet—had had a disagreement with a younger wife. She went home to mother and spent a night or two, only to return to a reconciliation so joyous as to have made the quarrel almost worthwhile.

Mention is made of the incident because it is one of the very rare exceptions that prove the rule. With a thousand opportunities daily presented for infraction of the code of ethics which circumscribes operation of a newspaper, it is truly remarkable that so few violations are observed.

It is the privilege of newspapers to record the triumphs, the achievements, and the ralized ambitions of men and women of its community; it is the newspaper's unpleasant duty to chronicle the sorrows, the tribulations, and even the dishonors which fall to the lot of the same people. It is never the task, nor the intention, of editors to peddle slanders, to magnify or exaggerate petty disappointments and quarrels, to place stigma, either by suggestion or innuendo, where it does not properly belong. There is sorrow and sordidness enough in the world without newspapers going to the trouble of inventing more.

To the everlasting credit of the profession, be it said that scandal-mongers and character assassins among newspaper men are conspicuous by their absence.—Editorials of the Month.

UNMASKING GANGSTERS

Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., of New York, has very little use for the current effort to paint the city gangster as a bold, capable and efficient super-man.

Mr. Bennett went into Greene county, in the Catskill, after Jack "Legs" Diamond had been shot down while promoting his racketeering enterprises there. After looking into things thoroughly, he had this to say:

Here in Greene county we have found Jack Diamond and his gang to be the cheapest sort of cowards. And all of them everywhere are nothing more."

Diamond has admitted, from time to time, that he is a great man. Mr. Bennett, studying the man's record, called him "a cheap, boasting criminal with no courage, a man who gained power only because his thugs spread fear."

So much for Diamond. Turning to the larger problem of gang outlawry in general, Mr. Bennett declares:

"Racketeering his grown in seriousness to a point where there can be no more delay in stamping it out. It must be dealt with now and dealt with finally. We have found that Diamond had laid elaborate and amazingly vicious plans to prey on every legitimate enterprise in the Catskills.

Mr. Bennett's summary is admirably concise. It ought to be repeated in every city in the land; for it emphasizes two very important truths.

The most important one is the second—that racketeering has grown to an unbearable extent and must be driven out of existence at once. There is no sense in underestimating the menace that it holds for American institutions. It is outlawry on a greater scale than we have ever had before.

But there is a lot of comfort in Mr. Bennett's other truth—that the gangster is a coward and a rat. Why has it taken us so long to realize this?

It should have been self-evident. The gangster's favorite way of killing a rival is not by fair fight, as was the case with our western outlaws; it is the shot in the back, delivered by treachery. He gets frightened easily. Every big city has reporters who have exposed gangland's activities—and not one of them has been harmed. Nobody molested Mr. Bennett in the Catskills. Pat Roche in Chicago has never been hurt. The federal officials who took the Capone gangsters into court for income tax frauds have not been molested.

The job, in other words, isn't nearly as hard as it looks. All it takes is courage and ability. Any city whose prosecutors and police officials have those two qualities can quickly drive all of its gangs to cover.

CRAMMING

Of New Books

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK. — Rumania's royal adventures have been compiled by Konrad Bercovici.

The title, "That Royal Lover," apparently refers to the reigning King Carol. But it's difficult to isolate the royal lovers in the lusty record as recited by Bercovici.

In depicting tone the author, noted for his gypsy lore, pictures his native land in a sad state, on the verge of revolution.

Rumanian Scandals

Carol II gets the breaks in the book. Whatever else he does, Bercovici says, he shoulders responsibilities. But the author writes:

"If Carol sits much longer on the throne of Rumania, the time is not far off when he will again be seen behind a little table on the terrace of a Parisian cafe: just one more exiled king. . . . And lean fingers will point to him.

"'There is the man who could have averted the greatest European war and has failed to do so.'"

As for the adventures, many already are familiar to readers of cable dispatches. Bercovici charges Queen Marie and her political allies set up a publicity campaign to expose the liaison between Prince Carol and Magda Lupescu, red-head daughter of a junk peddler, to antagonize her subjects and the world against him.

Bercovici begins his account with a brief history of his country and a revelation of its natural resources, mainly wheat and oil. He alleges that powerful princes have bled and impoverished the country. He names alleged powers behind the throne.

He tells of revels and machinations, intrigues, orgies and anti-Semitic butchery.

When Carol flew from exile to claim his throne, Bercovici writes, he was preceded by a French actor, disguised to look like him. It was the actor who first acknowledged the cheers of the people from the royal balcony, Bercovici says; Carol slipped in by a back door under cover of darkness.

Sailors' Heaven

"Fiddlers' Green", is the paradise of sailors and the title of a book of sea legends, tall tales told by Albert R. Wetjen.

Tommy Lawn, a second mate, goes down when his ship hits an iceberg. In the Valhalla of the deep, where good sailors enjoy eternal wine, women and song, he meets Davey Jones, Mother Carey and other characters of nautical mythology and hears of their origin. The story's salty appeal is to the sea narrative addicts.

ABOUT NEW YORK

(By Richard Massock)

NEW YORK—LADY'S MAID, colored, interested in going to Reno. A 1146 Times Harlem.
(Classified ad).

So Reno's divorce mill is luring the maids of Harlem, too. Out west, where the alimony begins, you can get rid of a husband in six weeks.

But here it is June—or almost. June, the month of brides and all that.

And the municipal marriage bureau is wondering what kind of a June it is going to be, a lively one or a dull month like it was last year.

Marriage License Counter

The marriage license bureau in the tall municipal building that looks down on the cooing doves (pigeons to you and me) in City Hall park is like the lobby of a bank. Except that chairs are provided for the applicants.

At long tables sit couples who have crept hesitantly up a flight of stairs. Some of them, the younger ones, are still bashful as they fill out the forms. Others, nearer middle-age, are more casual, their faces not so red. They look as though they had been there before.

The form filled out, the man takes it to one of the bank-grilled windows to pay his fee of $2 and receive the fateful license.

If the municipal chapel is to be the scene of the ceremony, the couple and their witnesses, if any, go up another flight of stairs.

There they find a waiting room, like that in a village depot, with several benches. By that time they usually are pretty nervous.

Civil Marriage

When enough couples have gathered in the waiting room, the city marriage performer—J. J. McCormick, deputy city clerk—comes upstairs from his other civic duties down below.

It only takes him about two minutes to join a couple together until death or Reno doth them part. If quite a few couples are waiting, he can do it in a little more than half a minute. His record is 156 marriages in one day. That was the last day before the draft.

The daily average is 30 to 35 marriages. Three years ago it was about 55 a day.

The chapel is private. The couple and their witnesses—a pair of clerks serve, if no others are along—enter. They find themselves in a tiny room, containing two wooden chairs side by side, facing a platform. On the platform is a table and behind that a leather chair for Marriage Performer McCormick.

The table is flanked by two sickly plants in enamel saucepans on tabourets. Behind is a narrow window silhouetting a single palm. The walls are a bridal ivory in tint, ornamented with a pink rosebud design. Ducky.

The perfunctory seremony over, the couple exits through another door. Most of the hands must grope on the way out, for the plant is worn off the edge of that door by fingers that missed the knob.

As the newlyweds pass out (literally, of course) they stop at a desk and pay the fee for the marriage—$2—and leave their license to be entered in a book.

That's all—until Reno, or maybe ever.

Erich Remarque, noted author, blames German militarists for circulating the story that his name was once Kramer. He warns them to watch their Remarques.

Modern pugilists, opines the office sage, are like erratic motorists; they are imbued with the hit and run idea.

PARIS, May 23. (AP) — Evening gowns for young June brides are as demure as a Quaker bonnet.

Tissues, tints and lines of the trousseau's moonlight frocks are designed to reflect sophisticated simplicity and present a flattering frame for youthful faces and figures.

Tissue paper organdies sweeping into voluminous skirts trimmed with rows of valenciennes lace, net frocks with embroidered ruffles and demure dotted swiss dresses with gay ribbon belts are among the favorites for the youthful bride.

In colors the cotton frocks range from dead white to delicate pastel shades called "dragee" after the tints of a type of French candies.

There are pale ppink organdies embroidered in white flowers, accented with coral spangles, ivory net dresses embroidered in green beads, and pale blue dotted swiss frocks for the bridal trousseau.

The less youthful bride who cannot wear the demure frock may choose evening gowns of shimmering satin designed on sophisticated diagonal lines. White is the favorite shade for these satin gowns, and lemon yellow, lime green and pastel blue are smart for the girl who prefers color.

Filmy chiffons and heavy laces designed with draped skirts and worn with little waistlength capes, offer another smart addition to the trousseau, while one dark frock of black, brown or prune triple georgette is almost a necessity to the bride's evening wardrobe.

MODERNISM

was the first volley in the investigation, charged the college president with allowing "pajama parties on the campus" where girls mixed with boys and wore nothing but "garments of the boudoir."

In response to these accusations Dr. Diehl says: "I welcome an impartial investigation of my conduct. I don't believe it is right to prevent students from dancing on the campus as long as they dance in their own homes and homes of persons who are high in the Presbyterian church."

He declared he "saw nothing wrong" with the pajama party given by co-eds recently. The girls came clad in bright colored pajamas of flaring, modest lines. They danced "under proper chaperonage," according to the school executive.

Another social affair included in the indictment was a "shipwreck dance" at which the girls wore shorts. "Some of them were only scantily clad with shorts that didn't even come to their knees and they danced with young men dressed like that," according to the clergymen's charges.

Dr. Diehl retorts: "If the ministers had investigated fully they would have found the girls were decently clad."

Concerning his theological views he says: "I couldn't believe that all the people who have died in the past, men like Plato who had no opportunity to know Christ, are suffering in an undying hell. I would go crazy if I thought there was an eternal hell. If a person is loving and kind he will be saved even if he never heard of Christ.

Says Genesis Not Literal

"I do not think that the first chapter of Genesis is a scientific treatise. In regard to the Canaanites — a point on which I am accused—I am doubtful if God meant that Joshua should kill them all."

Dr. Diehl declares he has never denied the theory of atonement for sin. "I am charged with telling young ministers there is no atonement," he says. "I told them that I believe in vicarious atonement but that I have found no theory of atonement which satisfies my mind completely."

It promises to be a heated and picturesque fight. Staunchly behind their president stand the student body of Southwestern, the faculty and board of directors. At a recent hearing before the directors Diehl was questioned and exonerated by them.

Hearing this, his opponents announced, "We haven't begun to fight yet. We will carry this to the General Assembly of the church."

The faculty of Southwestern has issued a formal statement backing Dr. Diehl's administration. The students at a public rally expressed themselves in accord with their president.

So the issue stands. If the situation at Southwestern develops into a church trial as now seems likely, there is reason to believe it may exceed Tennessee's "monkey" controversy for warmth and explosive exchanges. Both sides are prepared to fight it out on the line of pajama parties if it takes all winter.

Ward Tires are made by one of world's largest tire companies!

Free Mounting at Every Ward's Store

Montgomery Ward & Co. sells two qualities of tires

THE RIVERSIDE IS OUR FIRST QUALITY TIRE

It is made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. It is built to one of the most stringent sets of specifications in the tire industry. It is one of the best known tires in America. It has been sold by Ward's for nineteen consecutive years. Millions of Riversides are in use today. It is backed by a guarantee without limit as to time or mileage.

Other fine tires equal in quality to our Riversides are Firestone High Speed, Goodyear All Weather and Goodrich Silvertown Cords . . . but these tires are much higher priced than Riversides. The table at the left gives you a size-for-size price comparison.

Having studied that price comparison there remains only one question for you to ask . . . "Are Riverside tires really as good as these other tires with which they are compared?" Well, Montgomery Ward &Co. has been in business for sixty years. It is one of the largest and oldest merchandise institutions in the world. It is the originator of the "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back" guarantee. It depends for its business not only on tires, but also on some 40,000 other items of merchandise which it wishes to sell to you. Isn't it reasonable to believe therefore that Ward's MUST be telling the truth when it makes these direct statements to you?

THE TRAIL BLAZER IS OUR SECOND QUALITY TIRE

It is of the quality similar to such other nationally known "second line" tires as Firestone Oldfield, Goodyear Pathfinder, and Goodrich Cavalier. And it, too, sells for LESS than other second line tires . . . as the table at the lower left indicates.

This combination of quality-with-lowest-price which is offered by Ward's seems to have made some of our competitors very envious (especially Firestone dealers) so they are making and publishing misleading and inaccurate statements about "Mail Order" tires. But they do NOT compare their first quality tires with our Riversides . . . and their second-line tires with our Trail Blazers . . . for they know that to do so would immediately indicate how very much lower Ward's tires are priced. So these alarmed competitors have, cunningly enough, priced their "second-line" tires at exactly our first quality Riverside prices . . . and then they print incomplete comparison tables which are intended to make people believe that their prices, quality for quality, are the same as ours. Well, they are NOT! (See tables at the left.) And the chart directly below shows how Ward's Trail Blazers compare in quality as well as in price with other nationally known second-line tires. Will you please compare the specifications and the prices?

8 WAYS TO COMPARE TIRE VALUES

This Table lists the eight comparisons that were made. Six FIRSTS for Ward's Trail Blazers. And Trail Blazers are also the lowest priced.

4.50-21 Tire	Ward's Trail Blazers	Firestone Oldfield	Goodyear Pathfinder	Goodrich Cavalier
Non-Skid Depth	.250 In.	.250 In.	.218 In.	.190 In.
Tread Thickness	.390 In.	.343 In.	.328 In.	.367 In.

Strength of Carcass	1714 lbs.	1655 lbs.	1256 lbs.	1418 lbs.
Strength of Tread Stock	4170 lbs.	3490 lbs.	3160 lbs.	4165 lbs.
Outside Diameter	30.765 In.	30.765 In.	30.796 In.	30.664 In.
Squeegees (A "squeegee" is an extra cushion of rubber placed between the two outer tire plies for the purpose of preventing fabric breaks and separation of plies.)	1	0	0	0
	(List Price) $5.15	(List Price) $5.69	(List Price) $5.69	(List Price Usually) $5.65

WEIGHT AS A MEASURE OF TIRE QUALITY IS NOT INCLUDED IN THIS TABLE FOR TWO REASONS:

1st, Because no two tires of the same brand and size weigh exactly alike, and

2nd, Because quality of rubber and cotton fabric used, rather than the compounded weight after being mixed with other ingredients is the determining factor. Reclaimed or second hand rubber weighs more than new rubber. Tires containing a large percentage of second hand rubber, therefore, weigh more than those made entirely of new rubber—even though the tires are exactly alike in size—so "Weight as a standard by which to measure tire quality MEANS NOTHING."

I have personally examined the specifications of the four tires described above and hereby certify that I know these specifications to be exact, accurate and devoid of prejudice.

George B. Everitt President, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 9th day of April, 1931 at Chicago, Ill.

O. B. Fullerton A Notary Public

If you want a first quality tire . . . buy RIVERSIDES . . . and save money.

If you want a second quality tire . . . buy TRAIL BLAZERS . . . and save money.
