Senate Backers Of Bill Worried As Vote Is Set Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Senate leaders showed concern today at a fast-gaining economy drive which threatened to make a $500 million cut in the foreign arms program.

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois conceded the vote would be close on amendments by Sen. George (D-Ga.) to slice in half the $1 billion earmarked in the program for North Atlantic pact nations.

"But I think we have the votes to beat them," Lucas told reporters.

By agreement, the Senate was to begin voting at 4 o'clock today on the $1,014,010,000 plan to re-arm friendly nations in the fight against Communism.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) cautiously avoided predicting defeat for the George amendments. He was obviously not as confident as he had been earlier in the week when he opened the debate on the bill.

Critics hammered hard at the spending program yesterday. George and Sen. E. V. Riehl (D-Va.) led the assault with other senators joining in during the day.

The George-Byrd attack centered on government spending which they said threatens to undermine the strength of the United States. If the United States is weakened, they argued, then all hope for peace will be lost.

As the bill now stands, it would authorize $500 million in cash and $500 million in contract authority for the Atlantic Pact nations. The remaining $314,010,000 would be divided among Greece, Turkey, Korea, Iran, the Philippines, and the China area.

File Civil Suit Against Paper

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—The government today filed a civil action charging the Lorain (Ohio) Journal Co. and four of its officers with conspiracy to monopolize the spread of news advertising and other information.

Atty. Gen. McGrath announced the suit was filed in federal district court at Cleveland. He said it is the first case in which a newspaper has been charged with conspiring to injure a competing radio station.

A justice department statement said the company and its officers are charged with acquiring ownership of their competitors and refusing to publish in the Journal advertisements of business houses who advertise over radio stations in Lorain and Elyria, Ohio, or who advertise in the Lorain Sunday news, a newspaper published every Sunday.

Deathless Days In Big Spring Traffic

TEAPOT DOME SCANDAL REVIVED

'Child Of Gods' Returns

DENVER, Sept. 22. (AP)—This mountain city's fabulous "Child Of Gods"—80-year-old Henry M. Blackmer—is expected home Sunday after 25 years of luxurious self-imposed exile in Europe. He returns to face six federal charges of income tax evasion.

The multimillionaire oil tycoon planned to return yesterday on a Trans-Atlantic airliner. After clearing customs he was whisked away in an automobile. Denver friends said he would fly to Chicago and board a train for Denver, arriving Sunday. He is accompanied by his second wife, Eide Norena, Norwegian soprano.

MAYBE HE'LL BE A TUMBLER—Bruce Jacobson, three years old, takes it easy in a hospital crib but he might become a tumbler when he grows up. He made a start in Kansas City. He toppled off a chair, fell through a third-story window, bounced off an electric wire and hit the ground 35 feet below. His screams were only from fright. He was only bruised slightly, but his parents took him to a hospital for observation. (AP Wirephoto)

GULF HURRICANE LOSING POWER

By The Associated Press

Hurricane warnings were lowered along the Texas Coast today as a slow-moving tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico lost power. The storm at 10 o'clock was reported 160 miles south, southeast of Galveston. Apparently it was turning northward and the weather bureau expected it to move five to eight miles during the next 12 hours.

Northeast storm warnings were hoisted from Port O'Connor to Freeport, replacing hurricane warnings that had flown since yesterday afternoon from Corpus Christi to Freeport.

Winds in the disturbance had been clocked up to 60 miles per hour, but reconnaissance planes today found a velocity of only 35 miles per hour.

The weather bureau said the storm may contain squalls of up to 50 miles per hour, and in the 10 o'clock advisory it added:

"Caution is advised as this disturbance may still increase in intensity."

Small craft on the Louisiana and Texas Coasts were warned to remain in port until all danger has passed. Tides will be considerably above normal on the Louisiana coast.

Storm warnings south of Port O'Connor to Brownsville were ordered down.

The weather bureau said the storm had no well-defined center but the location of the "disturbed area" was placed at near latitude 27, longitude 94.

There were squalls along the Texas coast as a result of the gulf storm.

Rainfall included .54 of an inch at Galveston, .05 at Beaumont and .07 at Brownsville.

Weather in other portions of Texas was fair and mild.

Heifer calves inspired bids up to 20.00 while top hogs brought up to 23.00, which was more than the Fort Worth market offered.

Youths Charged With Rape Still In Jail

Reports that the five youths being held in the county jail on charges of rape have been freed on bond are not true, Sheriff Bob Wolf stated this morning.

The five are Tom Norman, Tommie King, James Fausett, Charles Echols, Tommie Morgan and James Tindol, who allegedly assaulted a 17-year-old girl here Saturday night.

The accused will appear before the grand jury here Saturday morning.

of the bonds were traced to Albert Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding administration.

Fall was convicted of accepting a bribe of $100,000 from Doherty in the leasing of the Elk Hills Naval oil reserve, part of the Teapot Dome field. He was sentenced Nov. 1, 1929 to a year in prison and fined $100,000.

Before his exile, Blackmer became known as the "Child Of Gods" for his incredible financial success. A former business associate in Denver once said: "Blackmer could make a million dollars on a desert island."

Nationwide Steel Strike Put Off Another Week

Wildcat Walkouts Idle Two Plants

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22. (AP)—Philip Murray's CIO United Steelworkers today put off another week the nationwide steel strike set for Saturday midnight.

The million-member union's policy making committee joined industry in accepting President Truman's plea for extension of the strike truce until 12:01 o'clock Saturday morning Oct. 1 to permit renewed contract talks.

The action came as wildcat walkouts shut down two Pittsburgh steel plants and idled 2,400 workers. Pickets carried signs demanding "strike—not more extension," and "strike—free pensions."

Murray and the industry deadlocked on acceptance of a presidential board's peace recommendations that the steelworkers get company financed insurance and pensions. The union accepted. Industry objected to footing the bill and refused to be bound by the report without bargaining. They've been feuding since.

Mr. Truman intervened to stave off the week-end strike. In addition to truce extension, he called for direct bargaining and early settlement.

Murray announced the union wage policy committee approval of the extension. He said:

"The only thing I have to add is that we are contacting the various companies and we hope to meet with the (U. S. Steel) corporation tomorrow."

The action was taken in a resolution unanimously adopted by the committee. The resolution stated:

"The public interest requires and the American people have a right to expect an early settlement on the part of the steel companies on the basis of the board recommendation."

The two and a half hour session of the wage policy committee broke up with the 120 members standing on their feet to cheer Murray.

The Lewis camp gave some signs that the mine leader would use that as the basis for a blast at the operators before a week-end recess.

A prominent West Virginia operator beat the UMW leader to the punch. President D. W. Martin of the Kanawha Coal Operators Assn. declared that Lewis "seemingly afraid of public sentiment," had dodged responsibility for calling the strike.

At Bluefield, W. Va., where Southern Coal Producers Assn. members are negotiating with a union team the issue of paying the 20-cent royalty was at the top of the agenda.

New Labor Law Written Off By House Leaders

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—House leaders appear to have written off chances for getting a new labor law through Congress—not only for this year, but for 1950 as well.

Chairman Lesinski (D-Mich.) of the House Labor Committee said today his committee will take no further action on Taft-Hartley repeal—now, or at the next session starting in January.

With demands for some new legislation almost certain if the nation's strike picture worsens, Lesinski told reporters:

"Unless the attitude of the House changes, we don't intend to try to report out another labor bill."

And with the 1950 election campaign already warming up, Lesinski said he doesn't look for any immediate change in attitude.

Early in the session, the House rejected in administration's labor bill and sent a substitute measure back to committee, leaving it with no labor legislation pending. The Senate passed a bill containing many of the features of the union-hated Taft-Hartley Law. The House hasn't acted on the Senate bill and leaders have indicated no intention of doing so.

President Truman, who campaigned for Taft-Hartley repeal in the 1948 presidential election, said recently that the administration will fight to the bitter end to wipe that measure off the books.

'Sober' Official Wins Nomination

ATLANTA, Sept. 22. (AP)—Councilman Joe Allen, who has pledged himself not to drink again in public, has the Democratic nomination for another four years.

Allen yesterday defeated W. C. Campbell by approximately 3,000 votes for the second ward council seat.

He has trailed Campbell by 2,000 votes in the regular Democratic primary after a short term in the city stockade for drunken driving. Neither, however, had a majority and both had to go into a second primary. Nomination is equivalent to election.

During the run-off campaign, Allen publicly pledged himself against drinking. He sent his signers to the city clerk, to be effective if he ever again was convicted of drunkenness or any other offense.

1,824 BALES GINNED

Need 2,600 Pickers For County Cotton

Howard county cotton farmers need over 2,600 harvest laborers to move their crops from the fields, the Texas Employment Commission office estimated this morning.

The weekly report from the TEC office listed 39 unfiled orders for a total of 2,651 laborers.

Ginning figures received from operators throughout the county earlier in the week and tabulated Wednesday afternoon showed 1,824 bales ginned in Howard county and the rate was increasing steadily.

Ginners who participated in the TEC's weekly survey estimated that 25 percent has reached the gins. The ginners stood pat on their earlier estimate of a 37,000-bale total crop for the county.

Ginning figures in Martin county had increased to 1,100 bales. The ginners there estimated that the crop was 25 percent open and that 21 per cent had been harvested. The TEC had unfilled orders for 1,400 laborers listed in Martin county. A 50,000-bale crop is forecast there.

The Mitchell county crop is estimated at 40,000, with ginning figures to date totalling 1,128 bales. About 20 per cent of the crop is ready for harvest there, and unfilled orders for 750 laborers are on file at the TEC office in Big Spring.

RIBBON RAMBLINGS

By Mildred Young

Several months ago, we wrote a column concerning complaints which we had heard concerning certain welfare agencies. Our idea was that whether or not such agencies were doing their part that the highest principles call for charity on an individual basis.

Recently, we called on a number of church officials seeking information for "The Big Spring Story." In the course of our interviews, we found that very little of aid is given to the town's needy by the churches. They seem to be depending on the job.

But, it isn't organized charity which we're interested in at the moment. It's the individual kind. Someone has expressed the idea that unless the individual takes a direct part in his giving that it doesn't mean much to him as an individual. Instead of complaining about what organized groups are not doing, individuals should find a way to aid others.

Today is the first day of autumn. We've had a taste of it already, but we still have summer too. In this section of the state autumn should mean something because it is usually the most pleasant and colorful season of the year. Due to no fault of our own, we are usually a little short on spring, which is claimed by other sections as their favorite season.

Big Spring's club year will get off to an official start tonight with the federation banquet to be held at the WOW hall. Program features will include a Dallas speaker and some local musical numbers. It'll be a good time for all club members to get on their toes for the current programs and projects.

Do You Really Want to Take Off That Ugly Fat?

Recently there has been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It is obvious that vitamins will not reduce the body weight, so one must depend on diet to reduce. But it is also obvious that one cannot go on a strenuous diet over a protracted period and any weight lost will be restored if the former eating habits are gone back to.

No what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight gals" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulges" in a different way. Ask any well stocked Texas drugstore for four ounces of Barcontrate. Mix with 12 ounces of grapefruit juice and take two tablespoonsful twice a day.

This preparation contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves. Barcontrate is low in cost and is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcontrate.

2,800 Steel Workers In Texas, Oklahoma May Go On Strike

HOUSTON, Sept. 22. (U. S. P.)—Union sources here said they thought some 2,800 Texas-Oklahoma steel workers would leave jobs if a national steel strike is called.

Only basic steel industries likely would be affected, said officials of the three-state district 37 of the CIO United Oil Workers of America.

It was estimated some 5,000 union members and 5,000 others elsewhere in Texas and Oklahoma would stay on their jobs.

Free Margarine Offered Clubs For Dinners

Women's church, P-T-A, charity and benevolent organizations in this area may get Meadlake margarine for their dinners without cost, according to an announcement made by the Mrs. Tucker's shortening folks, who make Meadlake margarine.

Appreciating the efforts of women who serve such dinners, Mrs. Tucker is happy to furnish enough Margarine for each event, the announcement said. Organization presidents or chairmen of serving committees are urged to write Mrs. Tucker, Sherman, Texas, giving name of organization, date of dinner and number of guests expected. Mrs. Tucker will mail back an order good at local dealers for enough Meadlake to serve each guest.

"All Mrs. Tucker asks in return is that the pats of golden-yellow margarine be served in Meadlake's convenient cardboard pattie-shells she sends with the order," the statement said. The company will pay local dealers their full retail price plus all taxes for the Meadlake used.

'SOUNDED LIKE A-BOMB'

Six Injured In Gas Plant Blast

BORGER, Sept. 22. (U. S. P.)—Officials of Phillips Petroleum Co., waited for a fire to burn itself out in a gasoline plant today before checking damage from a terrific explosion which injured six men.

The blast, which shook the area, occurred late yesterday afternoon. It was followed by fire in two catalytic units and two propane gas tanks.

The fire was brought under control by nightfall but no one will enter the plant until fire is out in the gas pipes.

None of the injured was in a serious condition. Those hurt were Dial King, Homer Carroll, Barney Fritch, J. W. Harris, W. N. Reeves and Guthrie O'Neal, plant employee. The latter two were treated at Panhandle Hospital and released. The others remained.

F. L. Rice, public relations manager at Phillips headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla., said the fire started in an aviation alkylate plant and was caused by a ruptured gasoline pipe.

The plant is at Phillips near here. The big Phillips refinery is less than a half-mile away.

The fire could not be fought because of the heat. All the valves that could be reached were shut off to block any new fuel being added.

Two employees of the plant reported there were a couple of explosions. The concussion knocked people to the ground some distance away. Clouds of smoke shot up several hundred feet.

The entire area was evacuated and Borger sent its four fire trucks to the scene.

One man said the first blast was so heavy it sounded "like an atomic bomb."

the theory that St. Peter's remains were buried in a crypt in St. Peter's Church.

In preparation for the Holy Year 1950, he is reported to have ordered an effort to prove the theory.

"There are very significant circumstances about the crypt in St. Peter's Church," Archbishop Rummel said.

"It is a fact that the entire crypt is undergoing a series of studies in the course of which there has been definitely authenticated the presence there of the remains of St. Peter, the chief apostle."

Jury Service For Women? There'll Be No Exemptions

A mixed jury of nine women and three men were selected in a Los Angeles court this week after listening to the sound-bite language of one Mickey Cohen, variously described as a mobster, a gangster and Public Enemy No. 1, and self-described as a simple, home-loving husband.

The police had asked Cohen, last August, for the key to his clothing store after one of his henchmen had been arrested; Cohen gave the cops a fine, well-rounded and unprintable tongue-lashing. From the witness stand the cops repeated Cohen's profanity for the benefit of the jury, and the jury blushed.

So much for the case of Mickey Cohen and his cop-cussing habits. What we started out to do was to mention of the ten amendments of the Texas Constitution to be voted on November 8, and it so happens that the Los Angeles trial is quite apropos.

On the ballot will be Senate Joint Resolution No. 4, to amend the article relating to jury service so as not to exclude women from service on petit and grand juries in Texas.

If this amendment is adopted, Texas women will be eligible for jury service. The amendment says that no person shall be denied the right to serve on a jury because of sex, which is all to the good as far as we're concerned. If women want jury service, let 'em have it. But there is another side to this amendment that should be understood. It declares that "no person shall be exempt from service on grand or petit juries on account of sex."

A number of states permit women to serve on juries, and as far as we have been able to find, the quality of justice as a result has not been compromised or strained. Indeed, it has probably been improved. If anything, for a woman is much harder to fool than a man, especially in affairs of the heart, or in plain bamboozling. Every married man who has had a carefully-rehearsed alibi blow up in his face knows that.

Our problem, in this free country, is to find a workable formula under which free workers and free enterprise can settle their squabbles short of walk-outs, lock-outs, and paralysis of production. The Wagner Act did not provide the answer, and the Taft-Hartley Act, while it redressed the balance of power between labor-management courts which would be for and management, obviously is no panacea.

Perhaps the eventual answer will be voluntary acceptance of a system of labor disputes in dispute and make awards, which would be binding on both parties. Scandinavia has found this system very effective for many years, and to save our democracy from eventual collapse we may have to come to it, distasteful as it may seem.

Both these conditions are peculiar to democracy, not because democracy isn't the freest and most humane of all forms of government, but precisely because it is. No totalitarian country would tolerate such conditions for a minute. Nobody can strike in Russia. No industrialist can argue with his workers about wages and working conditions. In Russia neither the worker nor the industry is free both belong to the government body and soul—and in Russia the government consists of twelve or fourteen men in the Politburo.

Bevin Sets Sir Stafford Right About His Own Reason For Giving Up 'Weed'

WASHINGTON — British Economic Czar Sir Stafford Cripps and Foreign Minister Bevin attended a National Press Club luncheon while in Washington where Cripps, who controls Britain's economy with a vice-like grip, told in detail of British sacrifices because of the dollar shortage.

"Just to give you an example of the sacrifices we are making," said Cripps, "both Mr. Bevin and I have given up tobacco as our part of the program to save dollars."

Whereupon Bevin, turning to his luncheon companion, whispered: "That's not the case at all. The fact is I gave up smoking because I couldn't stand the bloody awful tobacco Cripps has been buying."

NOTE — In order to save dollars the British have been partly shunning North Carolina tobacco and turning to their African colonies.

NEWS CAPSULES
GOP Blocks Civil Rights — It wasn't a Southern Democrat but a Midwest Republican who stopped the Senate Labor Committee from approving the fair employment practices bill behind closed doors.

Atlantic Defense — The State Department has called a highly secret meeting of the joint chiefs of staff of the 12 countries in the North Atlantic Pact. They will meet in Washington the last week in September.

Food For Democratic Countries — The food and agricultural branch of the United Nations is setting up an important organization to sell surplus American farm products to the underdeveloped countries of Western Europe and India. The plan should benefit both American farmers and democratic countries, and the experts claim they have worked out a plan to lick the toughest problem in international trade.

SENATORIAL SPECULATOR
It looks as if Sen. Thomas Cullum has diverse and widespread interests.

Last week it was revealed that Cullum, who frequently claims to represent Thomas, had bought 10 carloads of egg futures at the same time that the Senator from Oklahoma had introduced legislation taking the support price off of eggs.

Now, in addition to eggs, it develops that Cullum has been pulling wires with the Agriculture Department regarding land.

Cullum's influence in agricultural matters results from the fact that Thomas, as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, can block or pass most farm legislation.

Therefore, when Cullum who helps the Senator write legislation, demands inside information from the Agriculture Department, agricultural officials can't tell whether they are giving it for legislative purposes or for speculative purposes.

Naturally, inside knowledge of government purchases and price supports could be used to make big profits on the commodity market.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
President Truman has decided to name Gen. Walter Bedell

Smith as the top American military representative on the North Atlantic Pact Defense Committee. This will bring him face-to-face again with British Field Marshal Montgomery, the man Smith bitterly criticized during the war for his cautious tactics against the Germans.

Friends of Secretary of Commerce Sawyer say there is a good reason for his many trips to Ohio. Sawyer, they say, is preparing a buildup to oppose Sen. Taft in his re-election race next year.

Agile young Congressman Gore of Tennessee is also getting a buildup to run against ologeneation Sen. Kenneth McKellar.

Capt. John Crommelin, who spoke out of turn against the Air Force, has been flooded with job offers and magazine contracts. If he is kicked out of the Navy, he intends to go back to the family farm near Montgomery, Ala.

Mrs. Lorna Watkins is secretary to Utah's Sen. Arthur Watkins, but the nameplate on her desk explains: "Not the senator's wife, ex wife or niece." What she doesn't mention, however, is that she is the Senator's daughter-in-law.

GOP farm-bloc Senators, led by

Milton Young of North Dakota and Edward Thye of Minnesota, have been huddling for several days in preparation for a vigorous drive to forestall the "three power wheat agreement" whereby Great Britain will be allowed $175 million of ECA money to buy Canadian wheat and flour.

GOP senatorial strategy is to amend the ECA appropriation in order to prohibit the Canadian wheat purchases at a time when American farmers are building up the greatest wheat surplus in years.

However, Republican Leader Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska admits privately that the farm-bloc senators do not have the votes to put over the amendment.

Meantime, Agriculture Secretary Brannan has assured congressional leaders that the new wheat agreement will not injure the American farmer, but probably will increase foreign purchases of U. S. wheat, chiefly in Canada.

Canada has secured the State Department that it will curtail its wheat trading in South America in return for British purchases of Canadian wheat with ECA dollars.

Angela Is Good Sport About Vicar's Action

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (AP)—Angela Lansbury says she feels no ill will toward the Church of England vicar who blocked her marriage in the church of her childhood.

Angela returned to London for the first time in eight years, to be wed in Bow Street church. She was denied the privilege, as a divorcee.

"It was a disappointment, of course," admitted the baby-faced Angela. "But I don't blame him. (The Rev. G. F. J. Ansell). He was only observing church policy."

It was quite a shock, Miss Lansbury said, to learn from reporters at the dock that venerable Bow Church was closed to her. "It had not occurred to us that we might be turned down."

Angela and interior decorator Peter Shaw took more than two weeks to decide upon another church. They were finally married by a Church of Scotland Minister.

Now back in Hollywood, Angela and Peter have set up housekeeping in her home.

Angela is the former wife of Actor Richard Cromwell about whom she is silent. She is, she explained, "I'll be accused of criticizing the Labor government. If I say they are good, people will think the Marshall Plan is making life too easy in England."

If being together as much as possible is any badge of domestic harmony, Wanda Hendrix and Audie Murphy should be all ready to deny the next rumor of their separation. Locationing at Cedar City, Utah, for "Sierra," Audie and his bride decided not to live in town with the rest of the company.

They're staying at the mountain location site, Wanda explains because Audie loves to fish in the nearby stream or go hunting in the woods after work. She says they sleep in the prop truck. The night-watchman (really likes the arrangement because he has company. Wanda isn't so crazy about life in the rough, but she's going along with Audie's outdoor enthusiasms.

Endurance record: Helen Constantine, 17-year-old Melbourne, Australia fan, told Larry Parks in a letter that she had seen him 216 times in pictures. She wanted to know when "Joison Singa Again" will reach Melbourne.

"My girl friend and I are looking forward to it very much," wrote Helen, who works at Myer's Emporium, a department store. "We saw 'The Johnson Story' 73 times, 'Renegade' 40 times, 'The Swordsman' 50 times, and 'Down to Earth' 47 times."

You Don't Refer To A Ship As A 'Boat' Down In Galveston

At Galveston one of my favorite pastimes was to go down to the docks and watch the ships at anchor there. They were of all kinds and sizes—trim yachts, blunt-nosed coast-wise vessels, great rusty tramps and the long, slim greyhounds of the Lykes Lines. Sometimes there was even a visiting man-o-war. All these ships made a gallant show on a clear, windy day, with their pennants whipping against the blue sky, and about them hung the indefinable aura of romance and adventure in foreign ports.

I used to stroll for hours along the dingy waterfront, picking my way among piles of goods and dodging cursing longshoremen at work loading or unloading cargo. However, I did not let my interest in the ships render me oblivious to my immediate surroundings, for a busy wharf is a good place to keep your eyes about you. I remember once a heavy cargo boom fell and killed a longshoreman, crushing him so badly that they were able to identify him only by some letters in his pocket.

It was a thrilling moment for me when one of those great ships cast off its mooring lines and began to move slowly and majestically away from the dock in the wake of a puffing little tug. Invariably, I wished that I were on it, bound for some out-of-the-world place such as the magic island of Bali. Of course, it was only a coincidence that just then my imagination was filled with the tales I had heard of the matchless beauty of the Balinese women.

Naturally, shipping is the very blood and breath of Galveston, and no city in America is more cosmopolitan in its outlook. Most of my friends at Galveston had made one or more sea voyages, and talked familiarly of London, Havre and Stockholm. They had an astounding knowledge of ships, too, and could recite the history of almost every vessel that called regularly at Galveston. Incidentally, there is hardly an office in the city that does not display a painting of some particularly famous ship, while ship models may be seen wherever one goes. The Public Library, for instance, boasts several models which are complete to the minutest detail and never fail to enthral visitors.

Scarcely less interesting than the ships of Galveston are the men who sail them. They are of every nationality, and are a picturesque, devil-may-care lot. Although seafaring conditions are vastly improved from the days when hard masters, bucko mates and floggings were the rule rather than the exception, a seaman's life still is no bed of roses, and he is not to be blamed if he seeks relaxation ashore in ways that do not always meet with the approval of the city authorities. Like all port cities, Galveston is large-minded and tolerant of human foibles, but it frowns upon the use of beer bottles in physical combat, and does not like to see a policeman laid out cold with his own nightstick.

Sea etiquette is rigidly observed at Galveston, and you must be especially careful in regard to nomenclature. The first thing I learned from the marine editor of The Galveston News was never to refer to a ship as a "boat." That, he assured me, would bring down upon you the wrath of any shipowner in Galveston.

I have many memories of the Galveston shipping, but none can compare with the remembrance of the vessel I saw one morning when I was on a fishing boat off Head Bank. The waters of the Gulf were molten gold in the beams of the rising sun, and out of the blazing east came a long, lovely liner of dazzling whiteness, racing for Galveston. She was the Natalie D. Summers, and as she crossed our bows, she seemed to dip in a graceful courtesy. It was then, I think, that I fully realized John Masfield's meaning when he sang: "Now I give thanks with heart and lips for the great queenliness of all those ships."—R. G. MACREADY.

The Nation Today-By James Marlow

Background Of British Action In Devaluing Pound Sterling

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A COUNTRY DEVALUES its money because it has to. In Britain's case, it was as simple as this: Pounds would buy so little, as compared with dollars, that people didn't want pounds.

They were willing to pay a premium, in pounds, to get hold of dollars.

And as long as Britain insisted that a pound was worth $4.03, the many foreigners who thought otherwise didn't do business with Britain.

Now Britain says a pound is worth $2.80. A pair of British gloves that was marked one pound—or $4.03—can be bought for 30 per cent less.

That is a more realistic price, by the standards of Americans and a lot of other people. Britain therefore should sell more gloves—and more of everything else she makes.

THE QUESTION ARISES WHY DO countries have fixed, "official" rates at all? Why don't they just let currencies find their own level in the financial markets of New York or Paris or Switzerland, and let values fluctuate like wheat prices?

This is why: A businessman who sells to foreigners must know the value of the money he will receive when his cargo reaches port. Otherwise he cannot safely quote a price, figure a profit, or be sure of avoiding loss.

And a businessman who places orders abroad for quantity deliveries over a long period of time must be sure that the foreign currency is stable enough to insure his getting his money's worth.

Therefore, nations set great store by the stability of their currency. Otherwise they must cease to be trading nations. The Italians used to talk bravely of defending the lira "with 10 million bayonets."

IT TAKES MORE THAN BAYONETS to keep a currency stable. In Britain, there was a wartime and postwar inflation. Britain was short of goods, her factories flattened. She couldn't export until she could feed and fuel and house her own people. She imported far more than she exported. She couldn't earn enough dollars by selling to America to pay for what she bought.

The "unfavorable balance of trade" became a chronic deficit and finally, a crisis, when the last remaining reserves of dollars ran desperately low.

Meantime people in Britain had pounds. They were at work. They wanted goods and footstuffs and comforts. They would get them from the United States but they had to have dollars to do so.

England clamped restrictions on the number of dollars it would give its people for pounds. As dollars got scarcer, people were willing to put an extra value on them.

THE INFLATION MADE THINGS worse. The labor government had let wages rise. Its social welfare programs, aside from questions of merit or demerit, imbedded taxes into the costs of production. A pound bought less and less, whether it was held by a Britisher or a foreigner. American prices went up, but not nearly so fast.

There were lots of pounds floating around, but they didn't represent the goods that people wanted. Foreigners selling to Britain soon held more than they needed. They demanded dollars instead.

All the while Britain was making fine recovery—within the British Isles. Production rose. Exports moved 50 per cent ahead.

But that wasn't enough. Last April the channels of trade became choked with pounds. British exports began to fall. Even with Marshall Plan help, the gap between dollars owed and dollars earned began to widen.

(Tomorrow: Britain's growing financial troubles, and the prospect of recovery through devaluation of the pound.)

To Have Power In Hawaii Fall To Communists Is Unthinkable

HONOLULU, Sept. 20—The cold war, Pacific version, is being fought here in these beautiful islands.

An aggressive, left-wing union whose members are of Asian extraction has joined the issue with the peculiarly vulnerable sugar-pineapple economy. Both sides are virtual economic monopolies. The average American normally, therefore, would hope that they would both lose, and this so far seems to be, for various reasons, Washington's official position.

But something has been added to struggles of this kind, and that is the effort to pit democracy as a fighting force for peace and security against communism. America eyes Europe with satisfaction because almost unnoticed except as another complicated labor dispute.

It is certainly that. And it turns the usual two faces of a labor-management problem into the headless mainland.

Harry Bridges, longshoremen and warehousemen's union, by a combination of luck and pioneering, has organized the entire basic economy of these islands—sugar, pineapples, docks—and holds them in a tight grip. His leaders here present an innocent, democracy-loving countenance to the visitor and assert they are only trying to narrow the gap between U. S. living standards and the lot of their 28,000 members.

Industry offers an equally virtuous image of free enterprise and asks whether Harry Bridges, the Communist, shall be dictator of this American outpost with power to hold and to bind its economy at will.

This is a real case against the union and its leadership on the Communist issue, and in it lies real danger to America.

TESTIFIES IN B-36 PROBE—Capt. John G. Crommelin, naval aviator who created sensation by charging army and air force brass with wrecking Navy's fight power is shown as he testified before the Navy inquiry court in its probe of source of memo planning B-36 and hinting at irregularities in the plane's building program. (AP Wirephoto).

Vindication Of Worth Forecast By Crommelin

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin predicted Wednesday that Cedric Worth who helped touch off the Congressional B-36 bomber inquiry, "will be vindicated in the eyes of the American people."

Crommelin told a Navy court of inquiry.

The captain himself is a controversial figure on the fringes of the B-36 investigation. He stirred up a sensation of his own with a charge ten days ago that Army and Air Force brass were trying to wreck the fighting power of the Navy.

The court of inquiry is trying to find out whether anyone else in the Navy helped Worth, suspended special assistant to Navy Undersecretary Dan Kimball, prepare a once-anonymous memo. The paper hinted at fraud and irregularities in the B-36 bomber program.

Crommelin said he had nothing to do with preparation of the memo and knew of no one else who had lent a hand.

But he read to the court a brief statement which wound up this way:

"However, I wish to reaffirm what I said about the character of Cedric Worth. It is my firm conviction that Cedric Worth was prompted by the highest motives of patriotism and selflessness in whatever action he took to help point out the dangers of the original Tydings Bill. It is also my firm belief that when this entire investigation is completed, Cedric Worth will be vindicated in the eyes of the American people."

That statement goes back to one Crommelin gave the press ten days ago, complaining that the Navy's attack power was being "nibbled to death" through inter-service rivalry. The court of inquiry isn't looking into that at all.

ZOO COURSE FOR TEACHERS IS STARTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—"Teacher, have elephants got Adam's apples?"

"Teacher, what does a platypus have for lunch?"

"Teacher, are apes right-handed or left-handed?"

For years, tired-tempered school children have bombarded their teachers with the e and other bafflers during school-sponsored tours of the Bronx Zoo.

And teachers have hemmed, hawed, created their throats and otherwise staved for time until they could sneak a look at an encyclopedia.

Starting this week, the Bronx Zoo is running a series of courses in zoology for teachers, with special emphasis on providing the answers to the toughest queries little Johnny can dream up.

The first class of 40 teachers started getting the word Tuesday from instructors on the zoo staff. They seemed to enjoy themselves. And they'll get credit toward promotions and pay increases. And here are the answers to those questions:

Yes, elephants have Adam's apples.

Platypuses are nuts about earth-worms.

SOLONS BACK FROM VACATION

House Has Work Cut Out For It

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—House members are back from a month's vacation, with enough unfinished business on hand to keep them here the rest of the year.

They probably won't stay that long. "Around Nov. 1" is the target date of congressional leaders for final adjournment.

Despite messages sent to Democratic members last week by party leaders, the House doesn't plan to transact any major business this week. Party spokesmen explained that the recall messages merely were intended to assure the presence of a quorum, 217 members. While a dozen or more major bills are pending, appropriation bills furnishing almost $20-billion will have top priority. They finance the military establishment, the Interior Department, the foreign economic recovery program and some miscellaneous federal agencies.

Pending final congressional action, those agencies are being financed on a temporary basis until Oct. 1.

These bills, in addition to the appropriation measures:

An increase in the minimum wage in interstate industry; passed by both chambers but not in the same form.

A new farm price support program; passed by the House.

A bill broadening social security coverage; not acted on by either chamber but approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Raises for military personnel and for top government executives; passed by the House.

Revision of the displaced persons law; passed by the House but tied up in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Federal aid to education; passed by the Senate but stalemated in the House over a religious controversy.

Permanent School Fund Hike Slated

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—The 145 million dollar permanent school fund will get another boost Dec. 6.

The school land board has authorized a new sale of mineral leases for that date on state land located in bays, inlets, riverbeds and uplands.

Specific information on location of the tracts on which bids will be taken for oil and gas development will be announced later.

KITTEN TURNS OUT WINNER

ALENCON, France, Sept. 22 (AP)—Henri Villette, 67, set out Wednesday to drown a kitten.

He threw the kitten into the water, then lost his balance and fell in himself.

The kitten crawled out. Villette, drowned.

BIRD FORCES DOWN PLANE

RENFREW, Scotland, Sept. 22 (AP)—A seven-ounce bird buzzed an eight-ton airplane Wednesday, and forced it down.

The bird hit the windshield of a British European Airways' passenger liner on its takeoff. The pilot, fearing cracked glass would be blown into the cabin, landed for repairs.

Succulent Is Word For Shrimp Dishes

There's nothing like a good shrimp dish to brighten Fall menus and sharpen appetites. Tender, juicy shrimp have a flavor all their own. Succulent is the word, meaning a luscious, savory, mouth-watering delicacy.

One pound of shrimp generously serves four persons, making the choice economical.

Shrimp is such a well-rounded food, with its excellent protein and minerals, iron, copper, calcium, magnesium and phosphorus, that it makes a satisfying main dish.

Fried shrimp the way it is done in the Deep South is a favorite. Southern Fried Shrimp:

- 2 cups raw shrimp.
- 1 egg beaten
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1/2 cup dry bread or cracker crumbs
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Remove shells from shrimp. Make cut along the outside curvature, and remove the black or sand vein and wash. Dip in bread crumbs, seasoned milk and egg mixture, crumbs again, and fry until golden brown.

There are those who dip the shrimp in milk and then in biscuit mix, and proclaim the results highly. Others use a pancake mix, to give just a touch of cornmeal flavor. One woman says fried shrimp are most delicious when soaked in buttermilk and then dipped in a pancake mix.

Shrimp New Orleans Style
1 pound shrimp, boiled
Salt, pepper.
1-1/2 cup butter
Paprika
1/2 to 1 cup bread crumbs
1 clove garlic

Melt 2 tablespoons butter, or margarine, and add the garlic and crumbs. Stir until well blended and garlic seasoned, remove clove. Shake crumbs and shrimp in paper bag until shrimp are coated with crumbs. Arrange in shells or pottery baking dishes. Dot with butter. Place in 325 or 375 degree oven until crumbs are brown. Serve hot with a tossed green salad, hard crusty rolls and coffee.

Boiled Shrimp

Simmer 1 stalk celery and tops, chopped fine; 1 dozen allspice and 1/2 dozen cloves, a bit of onion, a dash of cayenne, black pepper and 1 tablespoon salt in a quart of water while two pounds of shrimp are being shelled and cleaned.

Add three lemon slices, shrimp, and simmer 10 minutes longer or until shrimp are pink and tender. Partially cool in cooking water, freshen in cold water and drain.

Shrimp Cocktail

Most persons prefer a cocktail sauce zesty with horseradish. One recipe combines 1/4 cup catsup, 2 to 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish, 10 drops tabasco sauce, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

An appetizing way of serving shrimp cocktail is in chilled heat-resistant glass custard cups placed in the individual deep pie dishes filled with crushed ice. These make happy substitutes for crystal leed cocktails with liners.

Shrimp Creole

Heat 2 tablespoons fat in skillet; add 1 cup diced celery, 1/4 cup diced green pepper, 1/2 cup sliced onion, 1/4 cup sliced mushrooms. Cook 10 minutes. Sprinkle 1/4 cup flour over vegetables, mixing lightly. Add 3 1/2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper. Cover and simmer one hour. Serve with steamed rice, or, for a pleasing variation, in an au gratin ring of hominy grits.

Grits Au Gratin Ring

Slowly stir 1/4 cup hominy grits into 3 cups boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Use double boiler, cover and place over boiling water, cook for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Alternate layers of cooked grits and 1/4 pound of sharp cheese, grated, in a greased 8-inch ring mold. Add 1 cup milk, sprinkle with paprika and bake in a slow oven 30 minutes. Unmold and center with shrimp creole, garnish with parsley and lemon slice. Six servings.

Shrimp Salad

There is not limit to the variety of main dish salads which can be whipped up with a cup or two of delicious cooked shrimp. Here is one that is sure to be a hit with the entire family:

- 2 cups cooked shrimp
- 3 tablespoons French dressing
- 1 cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons capers, or bit of onion.
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 1/2 dash of salt
- 1/4 dash of pepper
- Mayonnaise

Marinate shrimp in dressing 20 minutes. Combine with chilled celery, capers, green pepper and seasonings. Moisten with mayonnaise and heap on bed of lettuce.

Garnish with strips of green pepper.

Saled Variations

Here are recipes for other favorite shrimp salads:

Shrimp Stuffed Tomatoes: Combine 1 cup shrimp (with 4 whole ones reserved for garnish) with 1 cup diced celery. Moisten with mayonnaise and season with salt and pepper. Peel and cut four tomatoes in five sections, petal fashion. Center with shrimp mixture. Four servings.

Shrimp Stuffed Avocado: Combine 1 cup shrimp with 1 cup grapefruit sections, drained; marinate in 1/4 cup French dressing. Cut two avocados in half, remove seed and sprinkle cavity with lemon juice. Fill with mixture. Serve with additional French dressing. Four servings.

Shrimp Stuffed Cucumber: Cut two large cucumbers in half lengthwise. Scoop out inside and chop. Combine with 1 cup shrimp (save several for garnish). Moisten with mayonnaise and season with salt, pepper and onion juice, if desired. Fill cucumber shells with mixture, place whole shrimp on top. Four servings.

Dog Days Blues Is No Song, But Tired Feeling

Dog Days Blues—no, it's not a song, it's a feeling that gets the best of most of us during these last days of summer heat.

You can be in tune with the times and refreshed as well if you keep a supply of leed tea on hand. For meals, for a mid-morning, afternoon or evening pick-me-up, leed tea properly brewed and served to suit every shade of taste—some like it dark, some like it light—is an economical and satisfying thirst quencher.

Give it a new sweet-sour taste with lemon ice cubes. Easy to make, they lend a crunchy kind of interest to leed tea, because of their texture. You'll be tempted to eat them with a long-handled spoon.

Serve old fashioned sugar cookies with your leed tea and those in-between-meal pauses can become simple relaxing tea parties.

Lemon Ice Cubes

- 1 1/4 cups sugar
 - 2 1/4 cups water
 - Grated rind of 1/2 lemon
 - 1/4 cup lemon juice
- Grate lemon lightly, just enough to break oil cells in the skin. Then combine grated lemon rind, sugar and water and heat until sugar dissolves. Remove from fire, add lemon juice, cool and strain. Put into refrigerator tray and freeze solid. Makes 1 or 2 trays of ice cubes, depending on size of refrigerator freezing trays.

Old-Fashioned Sugar Cookies

- 1/2 cup high grade vegetable shortening
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 eggs, unbeaten
 - 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon soda
 - 2 tablespoons milk
- Combine shortening, salt, lemon rind, nutmeg, sugar, and eggs and beat until smooth. Sift flour with baking powder and soda, add to above mixture; add milk and mix. Drop level tablespoon of dough on baking sheet. Flatten cookies by stamping with a flat-bottomed glass covered with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with sugar. If desired, press 3 seeded raisins or split blanched almonds into each cookie. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 F.) 10-12 minutes. Makes 3 1/2 dozen.

Part of leed tea's appeal is the simplicity with which it can be made. But brew it properly, either by the hot brew method or the cold brew method.

Hot Brew Method

Use 4 heaping teaspoons of brisk tea to 4 cups of bubbling boiling water. Let this brew steep for 6 minutes. Strain over cracked ice and serve.

You can use this same method and keep the tea on hand for serving during the day. After letting the brew steep for 6 minutes, strain it into a pitcher and store in the refrigerator. If the tea has clouded, when you're ready to use it you can restore its crystal clearness by adding a little boiling water until it clears. Then fill the pitcher with cracked ice and serve.

Now if you want a practically guaranteed cloudless way of preparing leed tea, try the Cold Water way. It's equally as satisfactory as the hot water method but has this added advantage of remaining perfectly clear.

Use 4 1/2 tablespoons of tea to 1 quart cold water. Combine tea with water by stirring and place in your refrigerator for 12-24 hours. Then strain and use when desired.

Alice Grand Jury Recuses, Says Nothing

ALICE, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — It was an off day for the grand jury investigating the August 1946 election in which Coke Stevenson charged fraudulent voting in the race for United States senator.

The grand jury recessed yesterday afternoon until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning without giving an explanation or indicating when it will make a report.

The jury has been investigating the million-vote primary in which Lyndon Johnson won nomination over Stevenson by 87 votes. Stevenson claimed 200 votes were added fraudulently at Precinct 13 after the polls closed.

The grand jury yesterday afternoon questioned James Rowe, Corpus Christi Call-Times staff writer, who wrote that newspaper's stories on the disputed election and its investigation.

Case March, already campaigning for governor in the 1950 election, visited the jurors just before they reconvened for their afternoon session. He talked with them a few minutes and departed.

Three witnesses testified in the morning session. One was Hector Cerda, a student at A&I College, Kingsville. He testified last September at Fort Worth during a federal court hearing. His name was in the list of voters at Precinct 13, Alice, but he testified in Fort Worth he was in Kingsville the day of the primary and had not voted.

Other witnesses were Rufino Lopez and Hector Gomez, both of Alice.

March's informal visit with the jurors was his second talk to a grand jury in South Texas yesterday. He dropped in on the Atascosa County Grand Jury now sitting at Jourdanton earlier in the day. His visit there also was at a time when the jury was not formally convened.

Dallas School Board Avoids NAACP Lawsuit

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — W. T. White, superintendent of Dallas schools, says the school board has included an ROTC addition to Lincoln high school to avoid a lawsuit with the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

The addition will be in the first-year phase of a $15,000,000 building program, White said last night.

He explained the priority listings of schools under the program at a meeting to rally support for the $15,000,000 bond issue to be voted on Oct. 1.

White said: "We don't want a law suit like the two the NAACP has brought against county schools because we don't have ROTC facilities."

A deeper reason for putting Lincoln high school on the first-year list, White said, was because the Dallas school board has always tried to provide equal facilities for Negroes because they deserve them. There is no Negro ROTC now, he said.

MOTHER, ACQUITTED OF NEGLECT CHARGES, SEEKS TO REGAIN TOT

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 22 (U.P.) — A pretty 32-year-old mother today sought to regain custody of her baby after being acquitted of charges of neglecting the child to go nightclubbing.

A jury of fathers yesterday released Mrs. Hugh L. Flinn after deliberating more than three hours.

She was accused of depriving her 9-month-old son, Shaughin, of necessary care and attention. The charge is a misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty on conviction of six months in jail or a $500 fine.

Mrs. Flinn was arrested Sept. 4 at a Pensacola night spot about four blocks from her one-room cottage.

The child was placed in temporary custody of Deputy Sheriff William J. Amos. The deputy said he and his wife wanted to adopt the red-haired blue-eyed baby.

Mrs. Flinn said after being released that she would go before juvenile court authorities in an effort to regain custody of the child.

Sheriff's deputies said they found the child in a closed room cluttered with whisky and beer bottles when they went to the cottage after Mrs. Flinn's arrest.

Mrs. Flinn and her husband came to Pensacola from Baton Rouge, La., several months ago. Officers said they were unable to locate Flinn, a $60 a week sign painter.

LEADERSHIP CRITICIZED

UEW Continues Feud With CIO

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — The U.E.W.'s affairs. In addition, it asked Murray to give the U.E.W. a detailed breakdown of CIO expenditures each month.

In adopting this resolution, the convention turned down another submitted by the right wing minority. It would have placed the U.E.W. on record as approving the CIO's policies on political action, support of the Marshall Plan, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, support of the North Atlantic Pact and approval of the CIO's southern organizing drive.

During debate on the resolutions, Carey shouted: "I tell you, Fitzgerald, that you are not going to take the U.E.W. out of the CIO. And I tell you that the Communist Party is not going to destroy the CIO."

Carey added: "We could have unity in the CIO today if we let the communists run our affairs."

Kelley declared that the resolution on withholding the per capita tax was "actually advocating secession" from the parent body.

For the job of secretary-treasurer, Julius Emepak, 14, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., defeated Michael Fitzpatrick of Pittsburgh 2,301 to 1,529. Emepak has held the post since the 600,000-member union was created in 1936.

James J. Malles of Brooklyn, N. Y., again was named organization director, a job he has held since the post was created in 1937. He defeated the right wing candidate, John Dolan of New York City, 2,340 to 1,519.

It was by a similar margin that the convention adopted the resolution, sponsored by left-wing forces, censuring the CIO. The vote was 2,321 to 1,504.

This was interpreted as the union's answer to a demand from the CIO executive board last May that all left-wing unions fall into line with CIO policy or face disciplinary action when the CIO's national convention meets here Oct. 31.

The U.E.W. resolution was headed "Raiding and Dictatorship in the CIO." It called on CIO President Philip Murray to stop raiding of the electrical workers' union by other unions and their officers and organizers. It also asked assurance from Murray that CIO officers and agents would not interfere with the Woman Facing Hearing On Murder Charge

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Sept. 22 (U.P.) — Mrs. Sophie Petrillo, 35, accused of shooting her husband to death in the bathroom of their Palm Springs apartment, will have preliminary hearing Oct. 8 on a charge of murder.

Although she signed a confession that she shot Peter Petrillo, 38, because of jealousy over the ex-wife of Band Leader Louis Prima, a coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday that Petrillo died of gunshot wounds inflicted by person or persons unknown.

Mrs. Petrillo is in jail at Riverside, reportedly resting quietly for the first time since the shooting last Monday. She was arraigned in Riverside township court.

The shooting, she told police, climaxed an argument over her husband's attentions to Dancer Alma Ross Prima. Mrs. Prima, in a statement to police, said her relationship with Petrillo was of a business nature only.

Neither Mrs. Prima nor Mrs. Petrillo appeared at the inquest.

Devaluation Not To Hit Texas Cotton Growers

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — Cotton growers in Texas need not fear devaluation of the British pound, says Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas marketing specialist.

The professor of cotton marketing noted that all nations are short of cotton. The market outlook now is good and indications are it will remain above average.

Dr. Cox explained that pound devaluation means Britain will be able to sell more cotton along with other goods, on the world market because the price in pounds will be cheaper than cotton sold for U. S. dollars. The U. S. market outlet, however, will remain strong because of ECA commitments and world market needs.

The federal government still buys U. S. growers' cotton at a pegged 25 cents per pound for export to Marshall Plan countries.

Britain, which gets most of her U. S. cotton through ECA, cannot supply her world market demand with her own output. Dr. Cox said she will probably sell cheaper cotton to other countries who have sliced their currency values along with her. This is expected to increase her U. S. dollar fund. In addition, she can import ECA cotton and use it to fill export orders.

If Britain does not get enough cotton for export from her own resources and ECA, she can buy some for that purpose at a cheaper rate than before from other devalued money nations. The university market analyst said.

Nationalization In Australia Lagging

SYDNEY, U.P. — Australia's Labor Government is doing little about nationalization. It hasn't the power. The Australian Constitution says: "trade, commerce, and intercourse among the states, whether by means of internal carriage or ocean navigation, shall be absolutely free."

That sentence, in Section 92, has been the wreck of Labor Party dreams of nationalization. There have been 40 High Court cases and two Privy Council cases in which judges and lords have decided how section 92 applies in certain cases.

Today the general legal view is that Section 92 cuts right across plans for nationalization — transport, banks, coal mines, breweries, or almost anything else that has business in more than one state. Latest defeat of a nationalization plan was in the Banking Case. The Privy Council, in London, ruled the Australian Government has NO power to make a law to nationalize private trading banks.

REDS ENGULFING NATION

China Appeals To UN For Quick Aid

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—China called on the United Nations Assembly today to act quickly to prevent Communism from engulfing China and the entire Far East. For the first time, China also charged that Russia was directing the Chinese Communists.

China's chief delegate, Dr. T. T. Tsiang, told the 39 national delegates that the North Atlantic Pact had halted the flow of Communism across Europe, but there was no such barrier in the East.

"The Chinese Communist Party," he said, "is an integral part of the international Communist movement. It is as fanatical as Communists elsewhere. Its propaganda is all ways in tune with Moscow propaganda. Its action is always in step with Moscow's action."

Tsiang spoke less than 24 hours after the Chinese Communists proclaimed at Peking the establishment of a Communist peoples republic of China.

Tsiang devoted almost his entire speech to an attack on Communism. Then he made his appeal for help.

"I ask the General Assembly," he said, "to ponder over the present situation in the Far East and the grave dangers to world peace and security."

"I appeal to the General Assembly to be brave enough to embrace the vision of one indivisible world and not to retreat to the false security of half a world."

Tsiang did not say whether his speech would be followed by a speech by the Soviet Union, but this was the impression left by his declaration.

Hope Wanes For Two Lost Miners

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Sept. 22 (AP)—

With waning hopes, rescue workers pushed forward their search today to find two youthful miners believed lost in the crumbling tunnels of an old coal mine.

Rescue workers said they would take bloodhounds into the pit today to try to track down Marvin Johnson, 20, and his cousin, 19-year-old George Johnson of Three Mile, Ky.

No trace of them had been reported since they went into the mine early Tuesday afternoon.

They had been working with their fathers, Tom Johnson and George Johnson, Sr. The mine recently was reopened after a 14-month shutdown.

The cousins went into the mine after dynamiting to loosen the coal. Their fathers called to them later but received no response.

A. D. Sisk, chief state mine inspector, and Carson Hibbitts, United Mine Workers district representative, said the mine was reopened without inspection in violation of state mining law. Hibbitts declared the mine a "death trap."

Red Flays Idea Of Negro 49th State In Dixie

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The idea of a Negro 49th state in the Deep South has been called anti-Communist propaganda by Henry Winston, national organizational secretary of the Communist Party.

He said at the Communist conspiracy trial yesterday that the idea is a distortion used by enemies who want to "discredit the Communist Party on the Negro question."

To think that the Communists would push such a project was termed "fantastic" by Winston, the sixth of 11 defendants to take the witness stand in his own behalf in federal court.

The 11 Communist leaders are accused of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Discussing his organizational work in the party, Winston testified there were "a few thousand" Communist clubs in existence in America last year. He said he could not remember the exact number.

His job from 1946 to 1948, Winston asserted, was to lead a drive to bring the party membership to 100,000. He did not say from what figure the drive began nor how successful it was.

Education Board Candidate Visits In City Thursday

E. H. Boatler, Lubbock, candidate for a place on the state board of education from the 19th district, was here Thursday renewing acquaintances.

Now regional representative for a life underwriters concern, Boatler served eight years in this area as deputy state superintendent. He said he felt this experience contributed toward an understanding of the problems of the area he seeks to serve.

Boatler was serving in this area during the accrediting of the Howard County Junior College and sent his daughter, Sue Boatler, here as a student in the college.

In offering for the position, he said, "I am in accord with the laws and it would be my aim to carry out the program in keeping with the new statutes. I am not committed to anyone for commissioner of education, nor do I have anyone in mind for the post."

Identify Woman Amnesia Victim

LAMESA, Sept. 22 (AP)—City Judge Luther Sandifer said today a woman amnesia victim found here Sept. 10 had been identified.

He named her as Loraine Patterson of Hitchcock, Tex., near Galveston. She is about 35.

She was found here wandering in the streets. She has been under treatment at a Lamesa Hospital.

Sandifer said she was given arduous penitential yesterday. Under its influence she named her sister as Mrs. Ann Lott of Hitchcock.

Sandifer said he talked with Mrs. Lott, who told him her sister disappeared from Hitchcock about eight weeks ago.

A physician here said the woman could be released from Lamesa Hospital and transferred to some point nearer Hitchcock, possibly Galveston or Houston—for further treatment.

Sandifer said she apparently disappeared while on a routine errand.

Rangoon Warring On Drug, Food Rocketeers

RANGOON, (AP)—The Burmese Government has hit hard at racketeering, marketing imitation drugs and adulterated foodstuffs through an ordinance threatening fines, imprisonment and whipping for the guilty.

It was preceded by an official investigation into a newspaper charge that paraffin was being mixed with vegetable oil. Import of edible oil into Burma is controlled by the government. But paraffin can be brought into the country under open general license.

Complaints to the city's Health Department were made that adulterated oil was given refugees congesting camps in the city. They also charged that in Rangoon's sprawling Chinatown unlicensed druggists were peddling upon an unknown public imitations of well-known medicinal products. Several deaths are known to have taken place after these mixtures were drunk.

Reds Send Bill For Transporting Team

PRAGUE (AP)—Business is busy, even among the professed adherents of the strict Marxist-Leninist line. Czechoslovaks got further proof of this recently when the Russians handed them a bill—in dollars—for the transport of Czechoslovak track and field team to an invitational meet in Moscow.

Upon their return some of the athletes said that although they lost on points, they had profited in a great lesson in socialism. A month later the Russians also gave them "a whacking stiff bill" for the ride—to Moscow and back—in Russian transport planes. The Russians asked dollars, no Czech crowns or Soviet rubles.

Board Of Health Member Accused Of Supplying Drugs For Prison

JUNCTION CITY, Kas., Sept. 22

(AP)—A Kansas board of health member was accused today of supplying narcotics smuggled into the Colorado State Penitentiary.

The board of health member is Dr. Hugh A. Hope. Federal agents arrested him yesterday of his drug store in Junction City, Kas.

The physician has been active in Kansas Republican circles for many years. He was a delegate to the 1948 National Convention in New York City and was featured on a radio network as a "good American" delegate.

Hope was charged specifically with selling narcotics to two agents posing as underworld men.

Last week Roy P. C. Anderson, prison warden, reported a letter supplied to him by a nurse in the prison. The letter had been written by Hope and had been placed in a letter box in the prison.

A grand jury charged with investigating the case is expected to return its verdict in the coming days. The physician is being held in the Junction City Jail.

Terry A. Talbot, supervisor of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics Office at Denver, said Hope admitted orally he sold the drugs to the two undercover agents.

T. J. Walker, agent in charge of the Kansas City narcotics office, said the arrest "cleans up a very important source of narcotics going to the underworld."

Hope waived preliminary hearing at his arraignment here yesterday and was bound over to the next federal grand jury.

Temple is employed by the city treasurer's office which collects the money from parking meters. He is a personal property tax collector.

U. S. Architect Missing For Month In Poland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—An American architect has been missing mysteriously in Poland for more than a month. The State Department twice has asked Poland to explain.

This was disclosed last night by a state department official. He identified the missing man as Herman H. Field, 38, director of building plans for Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

The State Department gave this account of the case:

Field went to the Warsaw airport on Aug. 20, planning to fly to Prague. Friends saw him to the airport. But when the plane reached Prague he was not aboard.

Czech officials said his name originally was on the flight manifest but had been stricken off. Crew members said he was not on the plane.

The state department asked the Polish foreign office to make an investigation on Sept. 13. Three days later Polish authorities informed the American Embassy they were doing so and would make a report as soon as possible.

A second request for information went to Warsaw Sept. 17.

Michael F. McDermott, State Department press officer, said the U. S. Embassy asked whether Fied had been detained by customs officials, security police or any other representatives of the Polish Government, and whether that government knew his present whereabouts.

Shivers Says Oil Imports Hurt Texas

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Gov. Allan

Shivers says even imports are a "bad thing for Texas."

Speaking at the closing of the American Assn. of Oil Well Drilling Contractors here last night, the governor declared:

"The overall success of any industry depends on the success of the little men in it. The small businessman must be operating soundly and successfully if the industry as a whole is to be sound."

That is true of the oil business in Texas. That is why an excess of foreign oil imports is a bad thing for Texas because it means a reduced market for Texas oil and a cut in Texas oil allowances.

The little man is the one who suffers the greatest when the market shrinks.

Cats To Hold Weight Edge

WATER VALLEY, Sept. 22; — Water Valley's Wildcats host the six-man football game here Friday afternoon.

The Cats will hold a weight advantage over the guests but Merton's team should be faster.

The meeting will be the fourth in history between the two teams. Merton holds a 2-1 edge. In 1946, Water Valley ran over Merton, 50-7, while marching toward a championship.

In '47, Merton evened matters with a 53-0 win and then went ahead by copping last year's battle, 18-0. The Hornets lost only to Forsan last year.

Merton has been hit hard by graduation and tragedy. Dale Hegwood, all-district back, died following a grid injury recently.

The Cats will weigh in at an average of 172 pounds and a line rocketing to 189. The Hornets will average 167 in the line and 142 in the backfield for a team average of 154.

For Coach James Edwards' home club, the starting lineup will probably be composed of Jay Spears 157, Henry Pope 150, and Jack Willis 159, backs; Billy Westbrook 175, and Bomar Fincher 157, ends, and George Weddell 235, center.

Merton's lineup will have E. I. Tankersly 142, Dennis Sanders 140, and Paul Baze 144, in the backfield; Buck Whitley 146, and Paul Carr 176 at ends; and Hubert Payton 180, center.

Water Valley beat Christoval last week, 26-8, in its first start. Merton will be opening its season Friday. The Hornets are coached by Joe Scrivner, McMurry graduate. Edwards is a Daniel Baker product.

Museum To House German Officials

BONN, Germany. (U)—Some officials of the new German Federal Republic will have stuffed lions, pre-historic mammoths and rare butterflies as neighbors. They'll all be together in the Alexander Koenig museum in this first capital city of Western Germany.

Bomb-battered Bonn is woefully short of office space. New buildings are blossoming amid the war ruins. But it will be years before enough space is available to house all the ministries of the infant republic. If they stay here permanently, so one ministry probably will settle in the museum. It will have one wing—and the relics of the past will have what's left.

FIVE MILES FOR FIVE CENTS

Staten Island Ferry Ride Is World's Best Travel Bargain

By SAUL PETT
AP Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 22—People ride the Staten Island ferry for many reasons.

They come aboard to get to the other side, to take a ride, to see the Statue of Liberty and New York skyline, to cool off, to make love, to die.

All for a nickel.
It's called the biggest bargain in water travel anywhere. For five cents, which won't buy a candy bar in most places, you can still ride five miles from Lower Manhattan to Staten Island. No extra charge for the salt spray, the sea breeze, the sights of the world's busiest harbor.

It's even a bigger bargain for people studying people. You never run out of raw material.

The six ferries carrying up to 77,000 round-trip passengers on a busy week day. One busy Sunday there are 100,000 making the trip—the sight seers, picnic-packing excursionists and local refugees from the concrete squirrel cages of Manhattan.

"People die, babies are born we see everything," says Arthur Hinchey, supervising captain of the ferries. He's been making the run since 1905, when the city took over the ferries from a railroad.

Suicides are an old story to ferry crews. Estimates of the yearly rate for all six boats go up to 50. Each pilot house has a special suicide bell to sound an alarm. For some reason, people bent on taking their own lives seem to prefer the stern to the bow.

Two years ago, a man sat on the passenger deck getting a shoe shine. He paid off, said "so long" to a woman on his right and jumped over the side. The crew saved him but was almost tempted to toss him back after they offered him a slug of whisky. He studied the bottle label very carefully. He explained he was "damn particular" about what he drank. Several times pregnant women hurrying to a hospital have been wrong in their timing. One cold winter morning, about two o'clock, a woman began giving birth in the ladies' cabin.

Her husband was along but, of course, he was useless. She was assisted by the mate—at the moment the best expert aboard since he was the father of 11 children. Keeping the baby warm was a problem. There were no blankets aboard. So the mate smeared the baby with machine oil and wrapped it in waste rags normally used to wipe engines. Both mother and child did well.

Privacy is at a premium. But romance flourishes at night, enhanced by the sights and sounds of the journey. By the lights of ocean liners sailing by, the muffled ship's bells, the Christmas tree effect of the skyline. There is considerable necking.

Most of the regular commuters are taxpayers. That, of course, makes them critics on navigation and seamanship.

If the ferry racks are bumped too hard, if the trip takes much over its normal 25 minutes, dirty looks and wisecracks will be thrown up at the man in the pilot house. But the passengers are appreciative, too.

Capt. Hinchey remembers one run that took one hour and 15 minutes—a tortuous journey through dense fog, between freighters and tugs, strained for the sound of bells. Going over, several passengers let the captain know he was doing a lousy job.

But when the ferry finally docked safely a loud cheer went up from the crowd. People waved their congratulations up to the captain. One man tossed a bouquet of flowers into the pilot house.

One regular commuter irritates Capt. Harryarker.

"This guy," says the captain "always looks at his watch when we dock. He always looks up at me shaking his head. Never says anything. Just shakes his head. He's been getting my goat for years."

Sometimes passengers are embarrassingly helpful.

Several years ago New York had a grisly murder in which the victim was decapitated. The murderer wrapped the head in toweling and newspapers and boarded a ferry at night. He intended to drop his package over the side, to make it appear accidental.

The killer moved to the rail, elbowed his gory bundle over the side but at this particular moment a fellow passenger leaned over and caught the parcel.

"You dropped something, Bud," he said, returning the item to the hacker. That personable character had to circle the deck several times before he dumped over his bundle. He was caught several days later.

There was a play once about a ferry captain who became so bored he took his boat and all the passengers out for an ocean trip. This has never happened on the Staten Island ferry although the Narrows leading to the sea are a daily temptation off the port bow.

Capt. Parker laughingly admits he's been tempted.

But Parker dutifully sticks to his course on every run, eight times a day, five days a week and every night he finds himself not going to sea, but riding a subway home to the Bronx.

Capt. Richard F. Sweeting seldom finds time to get bored. If it isn't the heavy traffic—the liners, the freighters, the tugs, the barges—it's the passengers.

Once during the war, his mate rushed up to the pilot house and reported, "Captain, there's a woman below who says she's going to throw her husband overboard."

"She nuts?" asked the skipper.

"No, she seems all right. But she's French and her English is lousy and all I can make out is she wants to throw her husband overboard."

Capt. Sweeting went down to investigate. He talked to the woman and all he could understand was what the mate understood. Having little time for such things, he was about to suggest she walk him off a bridge when the woman produced a small article.

It was an urn. Further questioning revealed that the urn contained her husband's ashes. Before she died, her French husband had expressed such fondness for America.

can democracy be asked that his ashes be thrown off the side of a Staten Island ferry as it passed the Statue of Liberty.

The request was granted. The urn was dropped into the water near the statue. And although the woman was weeping, her act was little noticed by the passengers nearby.

Expedition Seeks Key To Mystery Of Abandoned Everglades Village

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A small expedition is pushing through the grassy water of the Florida Everglades in search of the key that will unlock the mystery of an abandoned village about 30 miles west of here.

The little safari—traveling in two lumbering swamp buggies—is made up of L. P. Harvey, game warden, William Gill of Davis, Ed Peterson of the state game and fish commission, and three newsmen.

The group hoped to learn the fate of a "ghost town" located several days ago by a private pilot, Holly Stirling.

Stirling, Gill and Harvey reported they had visited the village and found the bones of humans and animals strewn through the rotting cypress buildings. They displayed pots and brass kettles which they said were brought from the mysterious town.

Several theories have been advanced as to the fate of the settlement, none of which has been substantiated.

One was that the village was founded by Confederate soldiers who fled with a quantity of gold bullion at the close of the war between the states.

Another was that the settlement once was an Army outpost and all of its occupants were massacred by Seminole Indians.

Still another was that a great tropical hurricane claimed the lives of the entire community, before the storms were recorded.

An epidemic also could have wiped out the settlement.

The expedition left yesterday in the specially made vehicles for the swamp travel. It will take at least two days to penetrate the thick tangle of vines, sawgrass and underbrush.

Oliver W. Lea, fireman USN, of 2200 Nolan St., Big Spring, is serving as a crew member of the attack transport USS Pickaway, which is participating in this fall in "Operation Miki," a large-scale amphibious exercise in the Pacific.

The maneuvers, scheduled for late September, October, and November, involve nearly 40,000 soldiers, sailors and marines, and are designed to dislodge an imaginary "aggressor" force from the Hawaiian Islands. General Mark W. Clark, commanding general of the Sixth Army, is overall commander.

Threshers Make Unusual Hobby

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Old steam engines and threshers are the hobby of members of the National Threshers Association. Every year, several hundred of these hobbyists gather at the farm of LeRoy W. Baker, president and founder, near Alxington, to show off their models and engines, compare old catalogues and books, and swap news.

This has been going on since 1949.

JUNIOR THINKS IT'S ENOUGH

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Junior Scott must think he's had enough troubles in one day to last a lifetime.

Junior's dog jumped in front of him yesterday and took the bite of a copperhead snake which was poised to strike.

While Junior was rushing the dog to a veterinarian in a horse and buggy the horse bolted from harness and the buggy crashed into a parked car.

The dog was hurried to the vet and his life saved, but Junior was arrested for reckless driving.

However, the charge was dropped when it was found the city had no law covering such an offense with a horse and buggy.

But Junior wasn't through having trouble. During the arraignment, his horse disappeared from the post to which it had been tied. It finally was found about four miles from town.

Junior got astride, carrying his dog and rode off.

The buggy was left behind. It had been too badly damaged to move.

HERALD WANT-ADS GET RESULTS

Houston Harte Acclaimed For 'In Our Image'

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 22 — A dream had come into partial fruition here today.

It was the dream of presenting stories of Biblical characters in such fashion for the ordinary lay reader that he would be persuaded to read further into his Holy Book.

The partial fruition is the publication of a handsome work of printer's art called "In Our Image," and containing 30-odd stories of Old Testament individuals.

And the men who brought it about, Houston Harte, the creator and editor, and Guy Rowe of New York, who has painted 32 portraits of the Old Testament characters — received the warm acclaim of San Angelenos Wednesday night. The occasion was a testimonial dinner at the Cactus hotel, attended by about 150. Harte and Rowe had spent a busy day in autographing first volumes of "In Our Image" being distributed in San Angelo.

Fellow townsmen of Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times and long a civic leader in West Texas, lauded him for his newest contribution to his fellow man. The theme of the program was set by Dr. B. O. Wood, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Harte's pastor for more than two decades. Dr. Wood said, "we have to have our ideals rooted in order to put our best skills to use. Those ideals must be rooted in the Bible... there is no hope unless we maintain a faith in God as shown by these great men whose stories are told in this new book."

Other speakers were Henry Z. Walck, president, Leon McCauley, manager of the religious department, and Walter T. Oakley, sales manager, all with the Oxford Press of New York, which published the book. Also paying tribute to Harte were A. F. Ashford of Austin, a former Angeleno who heads the Western Reserve Life Insurance company, Gene Howe, newspaper publisher of Amarillo, and Pat Mayse, newspaper publisher of Paris.

One of the features of the program was the appearance of Guy Rowe, the former Time magazine cover artist who conceived the 32 color paintings. His works were on exhibit for the crowd, and there was vast interest in the art he has developed. Rowe told the crowd he had worked from 16 to 18 hours a day, for three and a half years without letup, in painting the series. He found the whole work inspirational, he said, and "I felt that I was elevated, the whole time I was at work." Rowe said he had attempted to present the Biblical notables in images of today, much as he felt the average man of today would conceive them to be in appearance. The result is regarded widely as a major contribution to art.

Of all the characters, the artist revealed Isaiah as his favorite, "largely because I worked longer on him, and it took me so much longer to achieve the character I felt him to be." Rowe's models were composites found in a search of faces in New York City. In newspaper pictures and magazines. For one of the portraits, he used himself as a model.
