Vernon C-C Plans For Busy Year Ahead

CIVIC UNITY IS STANDARD PLEA AT BIG BANQUET

Accomplishments of Past Year Reviewed; 1926 Aims Presented

GO AFTER A HOTEL

Business Men Start Today Raising $21,000 For Building Site

By BEN MEYER
Record News Staff

VERNON, Jan. 28.—With the conviction that whole-hearted co-operation and close civic unity will provide a way for a full year's active growth, Vernon business men here tonight at the annual chamber of commerce meeting and dinner laid plans for a coming campaign of community expansion and development.

To do this, they were told by a number of speakers, unified effort on the part of Vernon, not a part of it, would be necessary. They were told, too, that Vernon's accomplishments in the past argued well for her advancement in the future, and it was predicted that 1926 would see a remarkable program of work put through to the credit of this thriving center of business and agriculture.

Seek New Hotel

As a start for this program of work, a committee of business men will meet Friday morning to plan a campaign for the rasining of funds to provide a building site for the new $240,000 hotel to be built here by Amarillo capital if this city will give the location. It is believed that the funds can be raised and with that end in view, the following business men will start Friday on the task of getting them: W. R. Moore, C. G. Smith, Emory Rhodes, Myatt Napier, Roy Abbott, W. W. Bennett, D. L. Pearson, Leon Brown, E. M. Haney, O. A. Brunson, R. H. Smith, A. B. Swartwood, Hub Colley, W. W. Duke and M. C. Culbertson.

TRAINS TOO SLOW

VERNON, Jan. 28.—A. L. Reed, general manager of the Dallas chamber of commerce and one of the principal speakers at the annual banquet tonight of the Vernon chamber of commerce, combined pleasure with business this afternoon and flew from Dallas to Vernon in two hours. Reed is an enthusiastic air pilot and recently completed a trip from Dallas to San Antonio in two hours and five minutes, an air line distance of more than 260 miles. With him was Lieutenant Tom Hardin, a commercial pilot of Love Field. Because of pressure of business, Reed decided on the airplane trip rather than call off his engagement here. He made a beautiful landing in a field on the edge of the city.

Pre-Dinner Program.

Tonight's meeting started with the short pre-dinner program at the First Christian church with the "Sensational Six," local high school orchestra, providing some rapid-fire melodies. The turkey dinner and all its trimmings was served in the basement of the church after the invocation had been said by Dr. E. L. Moore, pastor of the church. M. C. Culbertson, local attorney, acted as toastmaster.

Solos were given by Miss Georgie Castlebury, Ebb, K. Jones, Mrs. E. F. Lyons; while a vocal trio composed of Mesdames E. O. Christian, E. H. Gipson and W. C. Casper also delighted the crowd with music. A reading was given by Miss Jaunita McDonald.

Vernon as it was back in the 90's, when there were as many saloons as there now are filling stations was the theme of W. D. Berry, local attorney, who was the first speaker. He gave a number of reminiscenses of the early days; paid tribute to diversified farming a stae agricultural saviour of the section and included a plea for a unified and concerted support of the chamber of commerce.

Herring Is Speaker.

Col. C. T. Herring, ranchman and banker of Amarillo who formerly resided here and who still maintains large business interests in Vernon, also voiced an urgent plea for civic and community co-operation and stressed the need of young men's activity in this work.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by A. L. Reed, general manager of the Dallas chamber of commerce, who spoke at some length on the general topic of civic building.

Must Build or Die.

"When cities stop building they die," Mr. Reed said, and then he went on to point out how, in this day of progress, organization and co-operation are playing an increasingly important part in community life. He cited Dallas as an example of a city that has attained a leadership of pre-eminence in the southwest through the co-operative action of its business men. Dallas got the federal reserve bank through organization and a determination to bring it there, he declared. Fort Worth got her great packing houses because she organized and made a determined effort to bring them; Houston practically underwrote a $25,000,000 ship channel 50 miles long and insured her position as a seaport center because of co-operation and concerted action.

The speaker asserted that the automobile has now taken about 30 per cent of the short-haul passenger traffic from the railroads and he believed

Cooking School Uses Meats As Text For Class

Electra Drops Its Business to Catch Fleeing Chickens

ELECTRA, Jan. 28.—Business in the down town section was tied up for several minutes Thursday morning when early shoppers, business men and most every one else applied themselves to the serious business of catching chickens.

An automobile and a truck operated by a poultry house collided at Cleveland and Main streets, with no damage other than the liberation of about 50 chickens on their way to market. The fowls scattered in all directions and were promptly pursued.

Not all of them were recovered.

Mrs. Chitwood And Mr. Hayes Explain Various Cuts Thursday

A complete and appetizing lunch served on one plate—a plate not only of a nourishing meal but which also carried the charm of few dishes to wash afterwards was the culinary magic invoked Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Ida L. Chitwood, nationally known cooking expert, in the Record News cooking school demonstration at the Kemp. "Meats in the menu" was the subject discussed.

A silver platter garnished with crisp green parsley, held the delicious broiled steak. Small baskets of creamed potatoes, well cooked beets hollowed out with a green cherry in the cavity; and, then, stuffed olives held by a half toothpick stuck into the meat—that was the meal.

Steaks to Broil

How to broil a steak was one of the lessons taught. To make a delicious neck roast was another piece of the afternoon's work; how the roast, with a little onion or garlic, green sweet pepper, tomatoes, and spices could be made into a most appetizing and nourishing dish was another. A tomato gravy to serve with it was also included.

With meats it is always well to serve a jelly, Mrs. Chitwood said. The cooking school class was given recipes to make a jelly in various colors, mint jelly of green; orange jelly of yellow, and others in pinks and reds.

The ballroom was filled almost to overflowing with interested women who unhesitatingly asked questions concerning the preparation of meats, the cuts of meat, and about its nourishing qualities.

Has Important Place

"Meat has an important place in the menu, and is an important phase of cookery," Mrs. Chitwood told the class. "There is a great deal said about meat substitutes, and how milk or butter may be used for it, but there is no substitute for meat but meat." She pointed out that the housewife should know the quality of meat.

MAN LOSES AND WINS IN DEATH GRIP WITH SEA

Renewal of Age-Old Feud Brings Triumph for Both On Atlantic

1 CREW LOST; 1 SAFE

Moon Comes Out to Give Aid in Dramatic Mid-Ocean Rescue

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The sea and human heroism have broken even in the latest renewal of their age-old battle.

The President Roosevelt, her funnels belching defiance of the gale she has fought for four days, had resumed her way to Cherbourg tonight, with the whole crew of 25 men from the battered and helpless British freighter Antinoe aboard.

Their rescue was the seaman's victory. A few hundred miles to the north and west, bits of wreckage on the still turbulent Atlanic give evidence of he battle the sea won. They are all hat is left of the Larisan, also a British freighter, which went down with her captain and 25 men.

The Moon An Aid.

The Roosevelt completed her victory early this morning by the light of a moon which came out propitiously during a brief lull in the 90 mile gale. An open boat from the Roosevelt, commanded by Chief Officer Robert Miller, took the last 13 men off the Antinoe.

They were exhausted from hunger and battered by the waves. Earlier, Captain George Fried of the Roosevelt, had wirelessed of the rescue of th first 12 of the crew, but said the others had to be left aboard "because they were too weak to risk jumping into the sea."

Captain Fried had stood by the Antinoe since Sunday. Early this morning he got a "blinker" code message from the 13 left aboard, saying the ship was listing 50 degrees and could not stay up much longer.

Sixth Succeeds.

Though the gale had abated a little, heavy swells were running, and the waves were high. Nevertheless, the Roosevelt launched its sixth life boat. It succeeded.

A little later her wireless operator sputtered a message to the home office of the United States line saying they were "on the way to Cherbourg" again, regretting the loss of two of the crew who were drowned in an earlier attempt to reach the Antinoe and leaving the freighter still afloat "a serious menace to navigation."

The North German Lloyd liner Bremen which had stood by the lost Laristan as the Roosevelt stood by the Antinoe, wirelessed today the names of six men she had been able to rescue from the Laristan before she went down.

WINTER REIGNS WITH ICY HAND IN NORTH

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—King Winter reigned tonight over land and sea, defying efforts to alleviate the suffering he caused. Borne on the wings of a forty mile gale from Canada, sub-zero weather settled over the middle west last night, remained today and gave indications of staying for a while longer.

While the middle-west shivered, simultaneous storm: off both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts endangered shipping, and delayed fast Atlantic liners. At the same time two tugs were ice-locked in Lake Michigan off Muskegon harbor and it was feared that seven men would freeze to death if not rescued.

3 OF 8 MEN ABOARD FROZEN TUG ESCAPE.

MUSKEGON, Wis., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three of the eight men who have been stranded on two ice-bound fishing tugs off shore in Lake Michigan near here have made their way across ice floes to land. Theodore Graham, Jr., also made his way across the ice, arriving shortly before his companions.

Too Proud to Pay, Blind, Aged 70, He Fights for "Rights"

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Too proud to pay a fine, but not too proud to fight for his "rights to beg as long as folks want to give me money," Washington Hunt, Dallas medicant, who was found to possess $7,000 when arrested recently for asking alms on the streets in violation of a city ordinance has signified his intention to fight for his "constitutional rights," to beg, by hiring a lawyer to represent him.

Hunt, who is 70 years old, steadfastly avers that he is not prosperous because of his $7,000 savings in alms money. He says he merely has laid the cash up for old age.

Policemen found him begging again and he was sent to jail. After making bond he hired an attorney to "help him save his little pile from the city sharks who are trying to lay hands on it."

STATE RESTS IN TRIAL OF STORY

14-Year-Old Boy Tells Of Seeing Bandit Car Near Krum

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP) —The state rested late this afternoon in the case of Yancey Story, charged with robbery with firearms. Clarence Smith, 14-year-old son of Roy Smith, Krum farmer, was the last witness. Defense attorneys had not expected the state to close so soon and asked for time to confer regarding presentation of their case. Court recessed until 9 a. m. Friday. Smith, the 19th witness introduced by the state, told a straightforward story in corroboration of testimonoy of several other witnesses.

The youth testified he was chopping cotton with his father in a field on the Krum road on the afternoon of the robbery and saw a large motor car stop on the road near where they were working. The two men got out of the car, he said. They wore unionalls and he recognized one of them as Yancey Story. When the men got back into the car, it rolled slowly toward Krum while the man on the front seat put on a white mask and the man on the back seat, a green one. A bit later, he said, he heard shots in the vicinity of Krum and the same two men in the car came speeding back on the same road.

Ziegfield-Made Mimi Brings Ovation From Opera's High-Brows

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Metropolitan opera house, citadel of musical-dramatic art, rang today with the praise of an erstwhile Follies girl when Mary Lewis joined Geraldine Farrar in the ranks of American opera stars.

The American debut of the former Little Rock, Ark., choir singer in Puccini's "La Boheme" brought forth prolonged applause and showers of bouquets after the first, third and fourth acts.

Her voice, sweet, melodious, but at times of inadequate volume to sound above the orchestra in its louder moments, was particularly effective in "Thy Call Me Mimi" the Aria of the first act, which had been awaited as a test of her singing ability. The appreciative audience halted the action of the opera with its applause and at the end of the act, called her before the curtain repeatedly.

Miss Lewis' theatrical training—the result of her experience in the motion pictures as bathing beauty and on Broadway as singer with the Greenwich Village Follies and the Ziegfield Follies—gave her an assurance in her acting of Mimi that balanced the nervousness with which she approached the higher reaches of the score.

Miss Lewis' duet in the third act with the American tenor, Edward Johnson, brought another ovation.

FARMERS GIRD TO FIGHT FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

Agriculture to Shape New National Policy Says Expert

ONLY TWO GROUPS

"Those Who Favor Justice For Farmers and Those Who Do Not"

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A new national policy for agriculture and a union of farmers that will be able to see this policy worked out through congress and otherwise, was foreseen today as a result of the corn belt conference here by George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., president of the American Council of Agriculture. There will be but two groups in the national life, Mr. Peek declared, that would be recognized by the farmers—those who favor placing agriculture on a basis of economic equality with industry and labor, and those who do not.

Starts a Test.

The corn belt conference, he said, marked the beginning of "a test to decide whether an independent, self-respecting agriculture can be established and maintained."

The test will decide, he said, wether the peasantry of other countries shall be duplicated to some degree in America or whether the American agricultural industry of the past is to continue.

One of these indictments charges an officer of a corporation with the offense of perjury in connection with an account claimed to be due under the terms of a road surfacing contract let to said corpora-

Indictment of F. G. Hoffman and the report of the grand jury is the culmination of nearly four months investigation into the highway department. Burkett Is Blamed For Giving Jobs To Hoffman Firm

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Recommendation and assurance of Joe Burkett guided the highway commission in awarding a $2,000,000 surfacing contract to the Hoffman Construction company, Frank Lanham, former commission chairman, testified today in the Hoffman company trial.

Testimony was made through oral deposition offered by defense. The state asks $125,000 damages and prevention of payment of $296,000 in approved highway estimates, alleging fraud in execution of contract, and charging Burkett, former commissioner, with "connivance in effect."

Lanham said when the contract was awarded he knew nothing regarding the solvency or personnel of the Hoffman Construction company. "Mr. Burkett assured us the company was responsible and capable of performing its obligations.

Followed Courtesy.

"Work contenplated was in Burkett's district. It was our usual courtesy to follow recommendations of the commissioner in whose district a project was proposed. I knew nothing of assets of the Hoffman Construction company and depended entirely on Mr. Burkett. I was not acquainted with condition of roads topped. The surfacing was done on request and recommendation of Burkett."

About two months ago Lanham and Burkett resigned from the highway commission at request of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, following confessed recovery by the state of $600,000 excess road profits from the American Road company.

Through oral deposition, Burkett today made vigorous denial his friendship for Ray Starnes, stockholder, or for any other officials of defendant company had actuated him in awarding the topping contract.

Lanham was in the court room as portions of his deposition taken at Dallas last December were read. Many of Lanham's answers were read by Attorney General Dan Moody. Lanham has been subpoenaed by the defense, but defense attorneys would not say whether he will take the stand in person. In deposition he identified himself as a road contractor of 20 years experience, son of S. W. T. Lanham, former governor of Texas, and brother of Fritz Lanham, United States congressman from Texas.

30 Cents Unreasonable.

Thirty cents a square yard paid Hoffman company by state was reasonable according to his interpretation of the contract, which imposed a two ocurse treatment, where needed, and maintenance between the two applications, which might be separated by as long as a year, Lanham maintained. He said 24 cents was fair, if the second course was to follow immediately the first. "I wouldn't have accepted the Hoffman contract at 24 cents a square yard."

The former chairman defended the practicability and utility of asphalt surfacing laid by the American com-

HE SEEKS ARMY AIR SERVICE

Wainwright Would Create Division Analogous To Marines

WAASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP) Creation of a separate air corps in the army, analogous to the marine corps in the navy, was proposed today in a bill by Representative Wainwright, republican, New York, a former assistant secretary of war, acting for the house military committee.

Another measure to provide for material revision of the air defense was introduced by Representative French of Idaho, chairman of the naval appropriations sub-cimmittee. It would provide for naval aviation pilots who would be designated as flight ensigns.

Has Recommendations.

The Wainwright bill is designated to carry out the recommendations of Major General Patrick, the army air chief.

It would provide for an additional assistant secretary of war to supervise the air corps.

The corps would be commanded by a major general and have three brigadier generals, 3,000 other officers, 1,500 cadets, 75 warrant officers and an enlisted personnel of 118,000.

Valentino a Sheik Par Excellence In Strand Picture

RUDOLPH VALENTINO IN 'COBRA' A PARAMOUNT RELEASE

Rudolph Valentino has made of "Cobra" a photoplay of strong and adult emotions. The theme has been treater sincerely and intelligently. The picture opened today at the Strand theatre.

The picture, directed by Joseph Henabery, was adapted from Martin Brown's successful Broadway play by Anthony Coldewey. The title itself signifies the appeal of a fascinating woman—the lure of the cobra for its victims.

Valentino is seen as a young Italian Count who has an inherited weakness for the cobra type of woman. He makes a successful and sincere effort to reform, only to be lured back into the old ways by the wife of his best friend. This affair leads to a tragic conclusion. To atone for his misdeeds, the Count makes a great sacrifice. The star's emotional acting is superb and he never looked in such excellent physical condition.

Nita a Vamp

Nita Naldi, slimmer and more alluring than ever, is the cobra woman, while Gertrude Olmstead plays a role of great sympathy and charm. Casson Ferguson returns to the screen with a fine performance as the loyal friend. Othe rparts are capably played by Eileen Percy, Claire de Lorez, Hector Sarno and Rose Rosanova. Joseph Henabery directed the picture with a fine understanding of the dramatic and psychological values.

$300,000 Damage In Fire at Mill

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Fire discovered in wheat bins of the Arkadelphia Milling Company after a fire had damaged the plant Tuesday to the amount of $300,000 still was burning today with methods to be followed in extinguishing the blaze undetermined. Use of water would ruin the unburned wheat, it was pointed out, and the task of smothering the flames by other means was made difficult by the height of the bins and the intense heat of the fire. Grain stored in the bins was valued at $275,000.

Get it Anywhere, Kansas City Youth Tells Grand Jury

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The grand jury investigating drinking and waywardness among high school students here continued today to call school authorities and young people before it for testimony.

One high school senior, after being closeted with the jury fo r45 minutes today said that he was not prepared to give any specific information about liquor drinking. When asked where boys get their liquor he replied: "Any place."

Morals and ideals are fairly well developed by the time students reach the high school age, high school principals who blamed conditions on the parents told the jury.

Twenty five years ago, one principal said, boys were drinking the same as today, but at that time many of them were not in school.

2 Bushels of Corn Their Ticket To Wedding Bliss

FORT MADISON, Iowa, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Justice Joseph Hay's attempt as "marrying squire" to help the movement for a better price for corn by offering to marry couples for two bushels of corn, may not affect the movement much, but it promises to make two persons happy in wedded bliss. Elsie Maunders, 19, of Virgil, S. D., was so impressed with the plea of Walter Stein of New Braunfels, Texas, for a life mate of good character that she wrote Hays asking him to arrange the matter.

Hays replied that she had best attend to the matter herself, but offered to perform the ceremony without the customary two bushels of corn if it could be arranged.

MILLIONS FOR RUBBER

NOW the auto manufacturers of America are preparing to throw down the gauntlet to Mr. John Bull, and use their millions to smash his rubber monoply. These manufacturers have a chamber of commerce. This chamber of commerce has authorized the appropriation of $10,000,000 to assure the public and the motor vehicle manufacturer of adequate supplies of rubber at reasonable prices.

As a curtain raiser it was decided to apply for a charter enabling the organization to produce, purchase and deal in rubber. This charter will be broad in its scope, including the authority to produce, purchase and deal in raw rubber and rubber products, as well as to manufacture automobile tires. Rubber production will be carried on in the Philippines, in South American countries and in Liberia on the African coast. Millions talk.

Americans have the millions, the billions if necessary, and they are going to smash the British rubber monoply regardless of the cost. Not many years ago, Brazil had the rubber plantations of the world. There was no great demand for rubber and as an industry in Brazil it was permitted to go into decay.

Now the men of millions of America are going to resurrect the industry and show Mr. Bull that his monoply can be broken in a few short years.

ANGEL OF THE AIR MEN

DANIEL GUGGHENHEIM has donated $2,500,000 to aid in the advancement of aeronautics and aviation in the United Stattes. He is the Guggenheim who gave $500,000 in 1925 for the establishment of a school of aeronautics at New York University.

He is of the famous family of Guggenheim who have made millions in mining in Asia, Africa, South America, Mexico, Alaska and California. Daniel has stipulated that his millions shall not be of profit making enterprise, and any earnings that may be realized are to be added to the fund.

General William Mitchell did not fight in vain. He did not endure crucifixion in vain. Congressman Wainwright of New York has prepared a bill which will carry out some of the ideas advanced by Mitchell.

This Wainwright bill will provide a seperate air corp, almost of equal footing with the army and navy, increase the personnel to 40,000 men and provide a separate promotion list.

Gugghenheim has the millions, Wainwright has the political pull ,and Mitchell has his cross to carry for five years. Martyrdom comes high.

MOSES AND HIS ENEMIES

SENATOR GEORGE H. MOSES of New Hampshire will be a candidate for re-election next year. He is a republican and a bitter opponent of the League of Nations and the World Court proposals. Now former Governor Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire is on the trail of Moses.

Bass is a republican, he is wealthy, he is popular, he is an excellent campaigner, and he is loud and strong for the World Court proposal.

Senator Moses is an editor, a brilliant editor at that, but when he takes his stand, he is very much like Borah of Idaho, as unbending as a mountain peak, and as full of fight as a grizzley bear.

New Hampshire would be lost in one corner of the Magic Valley of Texas, but there is more politics to the square inch in New Hampshire than can be found in the entire state of Texas.

Politics is a business in New England. In Texas politics is a sport, except for the few who are out for the pickings which go with the offices.

ELEVATORS CAME LAST

THE time is past when visitors to great cities are astonished at elevators.

They take as a matter of course the easy journey from the street level to the top floor.

Today even mountain climbers have a part of their work done for them, riding on funicular railways to the shoulders of the skyscraping mountains they mean to scale.

But no elevator, no funicular railway could aid the business man or the mountain climber till somebody had climbed up to establish them.

To make travel easy to the top of the tallest building in the world, iron workers had first to rear the structure, working at dizzy heights and often at the risk of their lives.

After the roof had been built came the elevator man, and he used ladders in his ascent, which he made every day till he had anchored his pulleys and strung his cables.

So with the building of mountain railways. Always someone had to endure the hardships and take the risks that made the same journey a pleasure to those who followed.

Life today is comparatively easy only because of the many centuries of thought and toil expended by brave and intelligent men and women, who did not hesitate to devote their lives to work for the future.

It was so with the pioneers sent across the seas by England, to find sites for the British Empire, and useful work for the surplus of the British Isles.

It was so with the men who crossed the American continent in prairie schooners, and with their sons who came afterward, bringing the iron rails which enabled locomotives to make in less than a week a journey which had required months when made by horse or ox team.

Today the pioneers are in the air, or in the factories where airplanes and dirigibles are made, toiling to make transportation still easier for those who are to live after them, and to bind the peoples of the world closer together.

It is often said that there is no such thing as luck, yet how can it be disputed that we who live in this time when so many difficulties have been met and overcome were not born lucky?

It was for us that our ancesters found distant fields on which the food supply of a whole world could be grown.

It was for us that rivers were dammed and lakes impounded, so that our water supply should never fail.

Wherever you see from a train window men building roads or structures or park systems you see the pioneers of today, whose work will be of far more benefit to future generations than it is for them.

And the same kind of work has been going on almost since civilization began.

These are the men who put elevators into existence, who did the dangerous climbing so that we, in a more fortunate age, can save our muscles and brains.

And it is a question whether we shall ever become as able as they, for they saved us much work that we really ought to do.

TEXAS NOW ON THE MAP

COLONEL A. D. Jackson of the A. & M. College at Bryan and secretary of the Brazos River reclamation association is giving the public his views on reclaiming rich land in populated area. He is of the opinion there are more than 20,000,000 acres of farming land in the more densely populated areas of east and central Texas that could be profitably reclaimed.

Futhermore, these rich acres are all in those parts of the state of heavy population and might be reclaimed by flood protection, drainage or inexpensive irrigation.

Of course, the Colonel does not expect nor desire the federal government to protect and improve "the lands of our farmers and lay the job on their laps on a silver platter."

Irrigation is the thing. More cotton on fewer acres is the thing. Better cotton on fewer acres is the thing. More food stuffs and food stuffs on more acres, is the thing.

Texans are moving. In some communities they are sleeping.

"Love Bound In Wichita Falls"

By the Author of 'The Flapper Wife'

READ THIS FIRST:

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for the Dexter Automobile Company.

Mary Rose is secretary to the sales manager, JOHN MANNERS, and is in love with him. But he's engaged to DORIS HINIG, an heiress. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY.

Flossie, a born vamp, is in charge of the office files. She is carrying on a wild flirtation with the married head of the company, HILARY DEXTER, although she's going to marry his secretary, SAM JESSUP. She accepts jewelry from him and goes joy riding with him at all hours. The girl's mother, MRS. MIDDLETON, can do nothing with her.

John Manners falls in love with Mary Rose as he never has been in love before, and tells her so. Then the sisters quarrel and to "get even" with Mary Rose Flossie tells John that Mary Rose is "just stringing him along" and really intends to marry Tom Fitzroy. John believes the convincing lie and Mary Rose is hurt and puzzled by his coldness. She decides to leave Dexter's.

One night Dexter, whose wife has become suspicious of him, goes too far in his love making and Flossie learns how little respect a married man has for the girl who runs around with him. She walks home from her last joy ride with him. Angry and disillusioned, she quites her job the next day and elopes with Sam Jessup. From the beginning of the honeymoon they quarrel about money and finally Sam gives Flossie all of his savings to spend on furniture for a tiny flat. Flossie buys such foolish extravagances as real lace tablecloths, and then cries when the money is all gone and because she hates married life.

Mary Rose leaves Dexter's and gets a new job as secretary to a steel man, JIM MORRELL, whose jealous wife drives him frantic with her spy system. Mary Rose advises him to discharge her and get a man for his secretary.

One Sunday morning Flossie comes in tears to her mother's house. Sam has found the jewelry Detxer gave her long before and the two have had a rousing battle about it. As she tells her mother about it, the sound of Sam's automobile is heard outside.

(Now go on with the story)

Then one night she did see him—driving past in his shining black roadster with Doris Hinig beside him. A pang of jealousy that was like a stiletto in its sharpness shot through her as she glimpsed them and then glanced quickly away.

"My word! I'm as bad as Mrs. Morrell!" she told herself angrily. "Jealous as a cat!"

She was slowly making up her mind not to work for Morrell after the first of the year.

"It's not that I don't like the place," she told her mother and Flossie one Saturday afternoon when the three of them sat together in the gay little chintz-hung living room of Flossie's flat. They were doing her weekly mending for her while she lay stretched out on the chaise longue, looking at herself in a Florentine mirror of blue and gilt.

"And Mr. Morrell is nice enough, too, in his queer way," Mary Rose went on thoughtfully. "But I can't stand the way he talks about his wife—"

"All men do that!" Flossie broke in, covering a yawn with two of her slim little fingers. "Show me the married man who won't roast his wife to any good looking girl he meets and I'll show you a holy angel!"

Mrs. Middleton frowned at her. "Flossie! Flossie! What are you saying? You mustn't talk that way about the angels of the Lord. My dear, I've tried to bring you up to be God-fearing—I just wonder if you ever say your prayers any more. Do you?"

Flossie looked bored. "Nobody prays nowadays anymore than they say 'grace' when they eat," she answered lightly.

"I pray," Mrs. Middleton said very quietly. "And let me tell you something—I never could have lived through these last few years if it had not been for prayer! Wait until you have children, my dear little girl, and you'll find out that God is an ever-present help in trouble."

Flossie looked at her amiably. "All right, wait until I have children if you want to," she chirped. "But don't hold your breath."

She turned her sea blue eyes to Mary Rose. "What does this bird, Morrell, have to say about his wife?" she asked curiously. No one adored a titbit of gossip more than Flossie.

"Oh, nothing much, except that she's jealous of him," Mary Rose replied, snipping off her darning silk and rolling a mended pair of hose together. "Of course, there's no doubt that she is wildly jealous of him, poor woman! I feel sorry for her."

"I'll bet she hasn't any children, that's what I'll bet!" Mrs. Middleton said, after a moment of silence broken only by the soft ticking of the little French clock on the mantel piece.

"Why, no, she hasn't! But how did you know it?" Mary Rose asked in wide-eyed astonishment.

Mrs. Middleton looked as wise as the proverbial owl. "Oh, just put two and two together," she said smartly. "You take a woman who has a family of children to bring up and she hasn't much time to imagine things about her husband. Half the mischief in the world, it seems to me, is done by these wives who won't have the children nature intended 'em to have. The very idea of a woman saying she won't have her children! It's wicked, that's what!"

She looked straight at Flossie who smiled up at her lazily from the cushions that were heaped around her like broken rainbows.

"Hitting me over Mrs. Morrell's back, aren't you, mother?" she asked, narrowing her eyes until they were just a gleam of green blue between her lashes.

"Yes, I mean it for you, too," her mother admitted. "This notion that you girls have nowadays that you won't have your babies, is immoral! And don't think that your husbands like you any better for it. They don't. Men want their families—"

She stopped and sniffed the air. From the direction of the kitchen came the unmistakeable smell of burning sugar. "That's my pie, running over," she cried, and hurried away. She always cooked Flossie's meals for her when she spent the day at the honeymoon flat.

"Mother ought to hire a hall and be one of these women preachers," Flossie laughed, stretching herself like a kitten. "I never did know anybody who loves to hand out advice like she does. What's the matter?"

For Mary Rose was staring at one of her little white hands that lay, like a pale flower, on the arm of the long chair. Upon its third finger shone a ring that Mary Rose had seen before—the star sapphire that Hilary Dexter had given her months ago, when he was at the height of his passion for her!

"For heaven's sake, why are you wearing that thing?" she gasped.

"This?" Flossie held up her hand and looked lazily at the jewel. Why, I suppose I'm wearing it because it's the only decent piece of jewelry I'll ever have! Sam never notices what I have on, anyway. I could flash forty 'leven rings under his nose and he'd never see 'em! He's as blind as a bat in some ways."

"Even so, you haven't any business wearing another man's presents when you're married to him," Mary Rose told her earnestly and Flossie gave an amused snicker.

"I never think of the things Dexter gave me as 'another man's presents,'" she drawled. "They're just some some lovely bits of jewelry that I have and I'm going to keep 'em and wear 'em. And you mind your own business, will you?"

Her tone was insulting.

That was on Saturday.

And on Sunday morning, as Mary Rose was getting dressed for church, a yellow taxicab came tearing up Beckwith street and stopped with screaming brakes before the house.

From her bedroom, Mary Rose saw Flossie jump out and come running up the walk, followed by the driver, carrying two suitcases. The front door bell peeled loud and long.

"Dear, dear, dear! What a noise! That must be a telegram!" cried Mrs. Middleton, coming out of her bedroom in her corset cover and petticoat. "Run downstairs and see who it is, Mary Rose. I'm not dressed!"

"It's Flossie. I saw her," Mary Rose answered quietly, tying her bathrobe around her waist as she started down the steps.

"What's happened, Baby?" she asked a moment later, when she opened the door. For Flossie's lovely little heart-shaped face was swollen and streaked with tears and her hair was flying.

"I've left Sam!" Flossie sobbed out. "Pay the taxi man, will you? I haven't a red cent!" She passed Mary Rose and flew upstairs to her mother.

By the time Mary Rose had paid the cab driver and lugged both the suit cases up the stairs she was lying on Mrs. Middleton's bed, crying in a quiet, heart-broken sort of way.

"What happened, darling?" her mother was saying, sitting beside her and stroking the soft little hands. It was then that Mary Rose noticed that Flossie was not wearing Dexter's star sapphire.

"Oh, I had some—some trinkets that I had before I was married," she answered thickly, wiping away her tears with a tiny lace-edged handkerchief. "And Sam found them this morning while he was poking through the drawer hunting for his cuff buttons. And I wish you'd heard the row he raised about them, trying to make me tell who gave them to me! He shook me—" Tears silenced her for a minute or two. "He shook me hard!"

"Never mind, don't cry! You can stay here until he comes to his senses!" Mrs. Middleton soothed her. "Don't take it so hard, Flossie. All young married people have these little ups and downs."

"What do I care about ups and downs?" Flossie asked, almost in a shout. "I don't mind a good row. I like rows! What I'm crying about is my stuff! He's got it all—even the sapphire ring!" She pounded the bedclothes in her fury.

Far down the street came a familiar sound—the absurd gasping cough of the bridegroom's car, the Wheezer.

CHAPTER LVIII

Flossie cocked her ear, listening intently. "Yes, that's the Wheezer, all right," she said, drawing a long sobbing breath. "I suppose Sam thinks he's coming to take me home with him! But I won't even see him, I'm through with him forever and ever, amen!"

But the surprise of her life was in store for her. She did not ask to see her, when he came. He did not want to see her. He distinctly said so.

"If your mother's here, I'd like to speak to her," he told Mary Rose, who let him in. His nice young face was very grim, and he spoke with a certain dignity that had always been lacking in him before.

Before Mary Rose could call her mother, she heard her step on the stairs and she came into the room with her hair still in curl papers and her gray flannel kimono pinned around her.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

Under the Snow.

Under the snow lie last year's flow'rs,
Back in the past lie happy hours:
The snow has come and covered them over.
The regal rose and the humble clover,
And time has hidden with mists of gray
The laughing joys of an ended day.

Last year's flow'rs lie under the snow,
Back in the past the long ago.
For time has changed, the year has seasons,
And men have faults, and God has reasons,
And whatever it is the summer brings,
And lovely things are the fragile things.

Under the snow—but the heart forgets
To think of next year's violets.
Under the snow of each December
Life buds of next year's May, remember.
Under the snow lie next year's flow'rs,
And always ahead lie happy hours.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—(AP)—David L. Marshall, confessed slayer of Anna May Dietrich, has threatened to take his life and is under guard in the hospital at Moyamensing prison.

His threat was revealed today by officers who accompanied him to the prison yesterday after he had been held without bail for the action of the coroner. He was said to have made the threat when a detective who had visited the prisoner's wife returned with confirmation of the report that Mrs. Marshall would not aid in his defense or have anything further to do with him.

"That's the last straw," Marshall told the detective. "What's the use? I'll be frank enough to tell you that I will end my life at the first opportunity."

Sheep War Faces Colorado Ranges

MONTROSE, Colo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A range war between cattle and sheep ranchers of western Montrose county loomed today.

The feud was precipitated, according to reports here, by the surrounding of several bands of sheep by cattlemen, armed with dogs, yesterday. The cattlemen claimed that the sheep were grazing on the public domain, reserved for their own stock.

Deputy sheriffs rushed to the scene, however, managed to thwart any outbreak, the sheep men agreeing to withdraw their herds from the disputed grazing lands. A conference to arbitrate the boundaries on the public domain will be held at Nucle, Colo., next Wednesday. Feeling is still strained between the two factions, the authorities reported.

Refused To Salute Flag; Boy Is Jailed

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Russell Tremaine, 10, whose parents refused to permit him to attend school because he was required to salute the American flag today was committed to the Washington children's home at Seattle. The parents refused to come into court for the hearing, but a bench warrant was issued. They said the only court they recognized was "the court of heaven."

STORM GRIPS THE WEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A storm so tremendous in area that its like has been seen but rarely in these regions is over the north Pacific ocean and the Pacific coast today, bringing thick snows, raking winds and drenching rains from a point far beyond the Canadian line to the Santa Clara valley of California. Shipping is harbor bound by the disturbance, while the big passenger and freight liners in the storm area are buffeting mile-a-minute gales and high seas.

Overheard by Julia D. Glettes.

"I was just telling Lucile about the breaking out on little Alice's face. Her face is just covered with—green and yellow stripes on a mauve background, and it has embroidery around the edges. It's the sweetest thing I ever saw, Eleanor. I'm making one just like it for my cousin Edna. She wants to use it for a —salad dish, and I think it will go nice with the rest of the dishes. I broke my best platter the other day. It might have been cracked but I'm pretty sure it's—measles, Lucille, though the doctor was afraid it was smallpox.

"Have you noticed Betty's new dress? I think it's disgraceful! It comes halfway between her knees and —fudge candy, with a marshmellow on top. I'll give you the recipe, Mildred, and you can surprise your husband tonight with a nice batch of—false teeth and pimples. If it wasn't for that I think Mrs. Gigshaw would be good-looking. She dresses well. Yesterday she had on a——dishrag moistened with furniture polish. If you'll try that on your library table, dear, you'll find that in the morning it will look like a—pair of pale blue garters with pink ribbon.

"First you take a cup of flour, put in a half cup of sugar, add a pinch of baking soda, then put in an—old pair of silk stockings. After I darn them I always try them on—the old man who delivers the groceries. He's so very polite and good natured. Only the other day he told me to—drop cigar ashes all over the rugs. I've told my husband about it time and again, but all he ever says is—put it over a slow fire until it comes to a boil. But before you add the egg be sure and —run it through the clothes-wringer and hang it out on the line. Then when you're through it will look like —the breaking out on little Alice's face. I wish I knew whether it was measles or smallpox.

SOCIETY

C. I. A. Speaker Gives Enjoyable Entertainment Before Women's Forum

More than seveny-five members of the Woman's Forum were entertained at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday afternoon when a rare literary treat was given by Miss Astrid Nygren, head of the public speaking department at C. I. A. who was presented in two readings by the literary department of the Forum.

For the first number, Miss Nygren gave the one-act modern drama, "Possessions" by Lawrence Housman and responded to an urgent request for more, with the romantic drama, another one-act play, "The Melting Pot" by Zangwill. Both readings were wonderfully given, and the speaker found it exceptionally easy to impersonate the varied number of characters in the two plays.

Mystic Theme.

In "Possessions," which proved ultra-modern, the imaginary hereafter where is gathered various members of family who have supposedly died and met again, was the theme around which the delightful comedy drama is woven. In this family are both middle aged, old people, men and women, and each character was perfectly portrayed by the reader. While in the second number, "The Melting Pot," the same ability was again manifested in her portrayal of the emigrant Russian Jew and the other characters which made-up this drama filled with the spirit of love for each other and for America their new home.

A Versatile Reader.

Miss Nygren was much appreciated as an unusually versatile reader. She was introduced by Mrs. T. A. Hicks, and following her program, Mrs. P. P. RESOLUTION ON COURT SIGNED

Coolidge Approves Entrance With "Reservations"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP) Another step along the road leading to American membership in the world court was taken today with the official notification of President Coolidge of the adoption of the resolution of adherence with reservations by the senate.

This event was without formality. Edwin P. Thayer, secretary of the senate, attached the official seal to a copy of the resolution done on parchment and dispatched it to the White House by special messenger. Under the law, Vice President Dawes did not have to sign the copy.

To State Dept.

From the White House, the resolution was transmitted to the state department which now takes up the task of advising the 48 nations members of the court that the United States is ready to sign with reservations and of inquiring whether those nations approve of membership on the conditions laid down by the American government.

The refusal of a single state to accept these conditions would operate to prevent the signature of the United States to the protocol and statute now deposited in the headquarters of the league of nations at Geneva.

Opponents Hopeful

Opponents of the court were hopeful that the reservation under which the court could entertain no request for an "advisory opinion" on any question in which the United States claimed in interest, without previously obtaining the consent of this country, might operate to prevent approval of American membership by some of the member nations.

On the other hand leaders of the pro-court forces expressed confidence that the present members of the court would find accptable the reservations and declarations of policy in the resolution of adherence.

ICELESS REFRIGERATION

Automatic Refrigerator

"I never was more pleased with the performance of any refrigerator during the extent of my lecture career than I have been with the Copeland. The foods were preserved perfectly and were always fresh and tasty and I had an abundant of ice always."

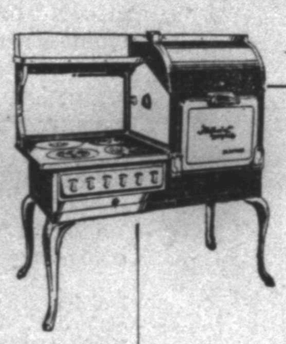

This statement was made by Mrs. Chitwood yesterday afternoon and she uttered it with the most convincing tone.

And Mrs. Chitwood is not alone in her appraisal of the Copeland for every woman who has examined it at the Cooking School has expressed her approval.

An Electric Range Gives More Freedom For Social Affairs

Electric Ranges have proven a most important factor in cutting down the time required for household duties, and in affording women the opportunity to participate in interesting and beneficial public activities, club work and social affairs. Their absolute cleanliness save countless hours heretofore spent in scouring utensils and in constant scrubbing and cleaning of the kitchen. Electric Ranges eliminate all dirt, soot, ashes, fumes and greasy smoke. No repapering or retinting of kitchen walls required after a short time in your new house.

The simple, automatic operation makes it unnecessary to spend much time in the kitchen attending to cooking. The electric timer and heat control which are features of the Hotpoint range can be depended upon to turn the heat on and off just at the right time and to maintain an even, accurate heat throughout the cooking period. Perfect results are assured without watching.

Come in and allow us to explain the unequalled comforts, conveniences, safety and superior cookery offered by the Hotpoint Electric Range.

MRS. CHITWOOD SAYS:

With a Hotpoint Electric Range, you can tell exactly how long a dish will cook and at what heat and being able to leave the kitchen means time for other important things.

WICHITA LEADS TEXAS FIELDS

West Texas Wildcat Area Runs Second for Texas Operations

Oil operations in the Mid-Continent fields, including North Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, reached a total of 2,720 during the week just ended, the Oil Weekly will say Friday.

Oklahoma led the other state fields with a total of 1,352 operations, Texas followed with 814, while 554 operations were reported from Kansas fields.

All states show a decrease in field operations except Kansas which picked up during the past week. The increase in Kansas was insufficient, however, to prevent the total for the entire Mid-Continent falling to a low figure.

The Wichita Falls district led the other Texas fields with 309 operations, the West Texas Wildcat area followed with 267 and the Panhandle fell into third position with 91 wells in the different stages of operation.

Following is the table prepared by the Oil Weekly:

Neither Baker or Reed knew tonight what the first steps will be. They have been informed that the Cuban secretary of state must be consulted.

TAX PAYMENTS LAG.

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—Poll tax payments in Dallas county were lagging Thursday with a total of 35,263 recorded at noon compared with 32,981 on the same date last year. Despite the fact the figures are ahead of those for last year, officials doubt that the total for 1924, an election year, will be equalled.

Oil Gossip

Roads leading through the entire oil district of North Texas, are said to be almost impassable at the present, especially since the snow melted. A number of operators who drove to Holliday yesterday, say they had difficulty in getting back. The road to Archer City is said to be extremely rough but is passable. The bad road are particularly hard on operators who have short time to move drilling rigs onto lease blocks.

News of the bringing in of three big wells in the South Hutchinson area of the Panhandle field, created considerable interest among Wichita Falls operators who hold acreage blocks there. Seven other wells are reported to be on top of the sand and ready to drill in. Over sixty wells are actively drilling in that district and more are getting ready to start. Wichita Falls will get advantage of most of the operations in the Panhandle, for this is the nearest field to the big operations. Most of the supplies are shipped from Wichita Falls, to Amarillo, and nearly all of the big companies operating there, have their headquarters here.

BEHIND the SCENES

DURING the WORLD WAR With Colonel House

In outspoken comment on the leading citizens of the world in those most eventful years between the election of President Wilson and the entrance of the United States into the world war, this work has no rival. ¶So high was the regard felt for Col. House and so highly important the work he had in hand that when he was in Paris, in war time, the Germans never shelled that city from the air. He passed from France to Germany in time of war with freedom and ease. ¶This series is the most important document of its kind ever printed by any newspaper.

FIND BODY OF WIFE IN WELL

Mail Carrier Confesses To Choking Mate to Death And Hiding Her

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Nearly two months of constant subterfuge to throw suspecting persons off the trail were wiped out here today when Harvey Haver, 41, New Comerstown mail carrier, admitted he choked his wife to death the night of Dec. 1, and concealed her body in a well four miles away.

Shortly after he had confessed to Prosecutor James Patrick, coroner J. S. Lewis and Sheriff George W. Stuckey, Haver was arraigned entering a technical of not guilty to first degree murder.

Choked His Wife.

Appearing before the magistrate without the services of an attorney he said:

"I choked my wife to death but I did not do it with malice afore thought nor did I premeditate it but did it in self defense."

Haver was bound over to the garnd jury without bond, and was recommitted to jail.

Haver's plea of self defense was in accord with his confession to three county officials in which he said he choked his wife after she hit him with a shoe.

Industry Prepared For Mobilization In Event of War

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—In the event of war the United States is now prepared to mobilize the industrial power resources of the nation on a moment's notice through the superpower system.

The mechanism which the war department were worked out to permit a rapid transition from peace time production to the intensive program of war time was described to the midwest power conference tonight by Brigadied General Charles Keller, he was designated to address the power officials by the secretary of war. Revealing to prograss of an army survey of power resources that has virtually been completed, General Keller outlined the program of war time legislation which has been planned to meet such an emergency. Such government action would probably include requisition of the entire output of power "pools" like Niagara Falls, he said, the sudden inter-connection of power units and a systematic plan of apportioning power.

The military survey has separated the United States into fourteen zones. Through the engineer corps survey, accurate data on present and undeveloped power resources of the various districts is supplied by the secretary of war.

Confidence Vote Is Given Luther

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Chancellor Luther's second cabinet weathered its first parliamentary squall this afternoon receiving a majority of 10 votes on a motion of confidence introduced by the parties comprising the present government. The vote was 160 to 150, and there were 130 abstentions.

The socialists gave the government the benefit of neutrality by abstraining from voting, thus offsetting the oppositional vote of the German nationalists and communists.

Rum Escapes From Damage by Storm

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The storm which in the last few days has wrecked three merchant ships and taken the lives of twenty-eight honest seamen dealt gently with those latter day pirates, the rum smugglers.

Rum Rorw, or rather the two ships anchored about 40 miles off Ambrose Lightship, where Rum Row flourished a year ago rode out the storm chaperoned by a group of 75-foot patrol boats without apparent discomforts.

When visited by a representative of the Associated Press on the United States costs guard cutter Seminole during the height of the gale the vessels seemed undamaged by the buffeting of wind and wave. Not only that but their crews were as insolently debonair as ever, secure in the treaties which bind the coast guard to watchful waiting.

Senate Proposals For Sidetracking Tax Slice Bill Goes To Defeat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Proposals to postpone tax reduction beyond March 15, when first tax payments on 1925 incomes are due, were rejected today by both republicans and democratic leaders as the senate began consideration of the revenue bill.

In the course of the stormy debate, which involved a fight against the proposed repeal of the inheritance tax and publicity of income tax returns, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, suggested that the date of first payments be postponed until April 1, or that refunds be made later and full payments made March 15.

Smoot Opposes Them.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee in charge of the bill, promptly opposed both proposals, declaring refunds would be impossible since 2,300,000 persons would be relieved of all taxes by the bill and pointing out that the government needed the revenue by March 15 to meet $600,000,000 in short term obligations.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, supported his view, as did others of both parties who assured their support for early passage of the bill.

Launches a Fight.

Senator Norris lost little time in launching his fight against proposed repeal of the inheritance tax and the publicity provision during the debate. He was supported on the floor by Senators Howell of Nebraska and Lenroot of Wisconsin, republicans.

Opening the debate in a speech defending provisions of the committee bill, Chairman Smoot set February 10 as the dead line for final passage if tax reduction is to be assured by March 15.

Senator Norris gave notice he would enter into no agreement along that line and said that while he hoped it would be possible to permit tax reduction by March 15 he did not think this could be accomplished.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A writ of habeas corpus calling for the removal of Gaston B. ENGLER DEATHS STILL UNSOLVED

Grand Jury Makes Long Probe But Fails To Indict

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Although intensive investigation into the Engler triple murder case was made by the grand jury, which made its final report tonight for the term, no indictment was returned in connection with the murder since evidence obtained during the investigation was not sufficient to warrant returning an indictment.

"It is our belief that the officers should diligently pursue their efforts to locate the ones responsible for this crime," the report of the grand jury stated, "and the future grand jury should give attention to this investigation in the hope that the parties responsible therefor may be brought to justice and punished by law.

"We have gone extensively into an investigation of the assassination of the Engler family which occurred near Moore's crossing in the summer of 1925. We have examined all available witnesses, and while we have not been able to secure testimony which we believe made it proper for us to return an indictment, we have endeavored to locate and bring to justice the person or persons responsible for the murder of the members of this family."

ROOT LAMBASTS BLOC SYSTEMS

He Says U. S. Must Speedily Return to Party Plans

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Denouncing the blo csystem of government, Elihu Root, speaking today at a meeting of the national civic federation said it was imperative for the welfare of the United States that it return to the "good old fashioned" forms of pary organization. He asserted that the bloc system had proved a failure in every country where it had been tried, causing discontent and disruption.

Corrupt Enforcement.

"The bloc system was enforced during the most corrupt and disgraceful period in England's history," said Mr. Root. "It has made the government of FFrance virtually helpless because no statesman there can rise to speak on public policy and be sure the bloc system will not pull his chair from under him before he sits down. In Italy the blocs so disrupted the tehory of government that Mussolini with his stern and rigid dictatorship, was heartily welcomed. I assure you that bloc rule will never obtain for us enforcement of the will of the majority."

Advocating the return in this country to a strict party form of government, Mr. Root said:

No Reason At All.

"We have run into a period of government when individuals seem to ally themselves to a party for no other purpose than to get elected. They feel no obligation to stand by the principles of the party in whose name they are elected, or to back up their assistants in that party.

"It appears that our legislative bodies are now acting under the principle that in a free government every man should have his own way.

"Naturally certain difficulties have arisen and the result is government by the so-called bloc with no party organization to shoulder responsibility. None of the bloc has a majority in congress and the result is government by a minority."

The fact that voters no longer throng to the polls was ascribed by Mr. Root to the decadence of the party system throughout the country. This has made it more difficult for a reasonably intelligent voter to cast his ballot on any principle or policy, he said.

TO CUT HOUSTON'S VOTE.

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—When poll taxes today totaled only 2,574 to bring the year's total to 39,088, chances for Harris county's voting strength to reach the 60,000 mark apparently vanished with only two days left in which to secure them.

Amateur's Report On Ship Distressed Proves Unfounded

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Reports that the White Star liner Olympic was in distress were definitely set at rest today by a wireless message received from her commander by The Associated Press. Timed at 10:54 a. m., Greenwich time, the message said:

"Olympic's position 105 miles west of the Scilly Islands. Alls well."

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Announcement by a radio amateur at Columbus, Ind., that he had picked up a distress message from the steamship Olympic caused wide spread excitement this morning.

Nothing developed to show that such a message came from the White Star liner Olympic, which left Southampton yesterday for New York. In fact, all indications were that this vessel was not in distress.

ALL MEMOIRS INCLUDED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—In connection with reports from Washington that Colonel E. M. The Herald-Tribune will publish the remembrances of Colonel House serially before they are issued in book form.

GUARDS WATCH CHICAGO JAIL

Break For Freedom Is Feared From Six Condemned Men

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A report of a plot whereby an army of gangsters outside would abet an armed assault of prisoners on guards in the county jail in a whole sale delivery attempt was given little credence by jail officials today.

The information was received by a morning newspaper which said support was given it by discovery of a hole in a rear wall of the jail and finding of saws, files and dynamite caps in the cell of Henry Fernekes, midget bandit sentenced to die Feb. 19.

Captain George H. Weideling, jailer, admitted discovery of Fernekes' cache, but said the hole had been caused by deterioration of plaster in an old wall of a room only remotely connected with the jail. The masonry was repaired at once.

Armed Guards on Duty.

Because six men in the jail are awaiting the gallows during the next three weeks sentries armed with riot guns have been placed about the jail. This had no connection with any delivery plot, said Warden Weideling, but was merely a precautionary measure.

The newspaper said the plot included smuggling of arms and explosives into the jail to be used by the prisoners on an assault on the guards at the same time the outside attacks and dynamiting took place.

LOST POEMS ARE FOUND.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Discovery of more than 500 poems in three volumes belonging to the "Lost Literature of the Aztecs," the loss of which scholars have lamented for centuries, was announced in a copyrighted story from Mexico City in the Chicago Daily Tribune today.

Love Will Find A Way, and Aged Lovers Prove It

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—More than a half century ago Frank T. Leebrick and Fannie Rodenberg were sweethearts in Richmond, Ind., they planned to be married, but her parents objected when he decided to strike out for himself and take land in Kansas.

So they separated and he took the land, 1,000 acres, near McDonald. In 1873 he heard she had married. Two years later he was wed. Their mates died, her's in 1918 and his in 1923.

A few months ago the girl, then Mrs. Toland, 73, wrote to Mr. Leebrick's sister in Santa Barbara, Cal., not knowing she had died. The letter was forwarded through devious channels to Leebrick in Kansas. He took the first train to Chicago.

Since the two had parted in Richmond they had not seen each other until last Sunday. But Leebrick lost no time in renewing his suit and they were married yesterday. He is 77.

Today they were going back to Kansas, in search of, as the aged bridegroom phrases it, "a lost honeymoon."

Girl Held for Sale By Santone Man

SAN ANTONIO, Jna. 28.—(AP) With the discovery of a 15-year-old girl, virtually held prisoner in a small hotel, the police believe they have discovered a clue which might lead to the breaking up of a band of men, who sell the youthful girls they lure away from home into commercial bondage.

The girl, nothing more than a school girl, candidly told officers her story and was elated at the thought of returning home. Her father is a well to do farmer living near Kenedy.

She gave the officers the name of a man who enticed her and a companion to Corpus Christi. While there he maintained an inescapable vigilance over the pair. Then he brought her to San Antonio, she told the officers, without disclosing the whereabouts of her companion.

ALL'S QUITE.

All's quite along the Spudder front. No marshalling of troops right now—that's already been done, and the Gardner brigade is resting on its arms so to speak, awaiting the call for the initial spring foray March 1. Batteries, pitchers and catchers, will storm the citadel then, it is planned tentatively. They're the shock troops. The entire army marches on the fortress ten days later. A bit of preliminary sparring and practice maneuvers then the drive is on, April 14 with Shreveport, probably, out on the Athletic park battle ground.

No schedule arrangements have been made as yet, but all indications point to opening the 1926 campaign on the home lot with the Sports.

* * *

But, as was said, all's quiet along the front today. Nothing breaking; no startling news. Gardner is said to be on the lookout still for a good right handed hurler, probably has him already spotted, but is saying nothing until the game is bagged, as it were.

SAME OLD SIX AND SEVEN.

Isn't a thing doing. Peter Turgeon's still working away at his handspring, flip-flop training exercises preparatory to jumping into the old grind proper. Dick Morgan's still crippled in region of the larnyx and hasn't much to say since that tonsils' operation Wednesday. Ping Bodie's still on the job making lots of noise with his traffic whistle and bawling out the customers who go awry on the red and green lights. And Skipper Brainard is coming in next week to get "on location" early. He'll be here to confer with President Gardner, find a home and to get acquainted. That constitutes the news emanating from Spudder headquarters at present.

J. A. Luck is warming up ahead of time. Ready to call the turn on the finish of the 1926 gonfalon drive. He's got it all doped out. Also, can give the Spudder batting order right now, which is more than Manager Brainard himself can do at present. It's fellows with the enthusiasm and interest. Luck displays who keep the turnstiles clicking and the game going. It's these boys who make baseball the great pastime it is. More power to 'em, brother. More power to 'em, for if it wasn't for them the diamond game would not be on the high plane it is today, nor would this writer and many others of the same ilk be enabled to surround three squares a day. Too bad?

PECK SPEED MERCHANT.

Peck Warren, the Dallas heavyweight, is in the city training for a ten-rounder with Jack Matlock here Monday night. Peck is long, rangy and exceedingly fast. Tabby Levine opines he's a speedier and cleverer boxer than Speedy Sparks. If Tabby's correct then Jack will find the going quite turbulent.

* * *

Matlock won a host of friends here the first of the week by his sturdy exhibition with Martin, ever forcing the attack, and winning by a knockout in the tenth frame.

WASHINGTON

Washington crossed the Delaware a century and a half or so ago, making it tough for the British and eventually leading to a glorious victory at Yorktown. Washington (another kind) crossed the Rubicon of baseball last Fall and Caesar Harris was forced to send a different kind of message to the Senate from what old Julius sent.

Which brings us to the question of the day among diamond fans and that is what kind of a crossing will Washington make this year? Will it be a successful one or will there be a forced retreat?

Can the veterans of the Senators' roster, which staggered through a pennant or will there be a forced retreat?

One authority on the subject says: "Not if several other teams in the league play the kind of baseball they are capable of playing. I figure the Senators lucky to finish second and third place seems most likely their destination."

Griffith hasn't done much yet in the way of rebuilding the team and his little unpleasantness with Harris over the latter's 1926 financial arrangements is not helping matters any. It may be that the faltering in the last world's series was the beginning of the end for Washington.

After all is said and done, the biggest problem Grif has to wrestle is his pitching staff. Can Johnson, Coveleskie, Ruether and Ferguson duplicate their 1925 performances? Many critics think not. Ruether, you know, is dissatisfied because of the deal he received in connection with the series last fall.

Lefty Thomas, Harry Kelly and Win Ballous look the best of the newcomers on the hurling staff with Marberry and Zachary in the relief roles.

Taken from any angle the Washington situation is an interesting one.

Cue fans, the country over are taking a real interest in the proposed revival of the 18.1 balkline game. A four cornered tournament for the world's championship is to be held, probably some time in April as the result of Edouard Horeman's challenge to Willie Hoppe. Hoppe has held the title for the last four years because the 18.1 game has fallen off to such an extent that no one cared to challenge him.

* * *

The question has been asked quite frequently, among devotees of the thoroughbred, this winter, what has become of Flying Ebony, winner of last year's Kentucky Derby? This horse flashed on the turf horizon suddenly, being virtually unknown to the race goers prior to the big event and dropped out of sight almost as suddenly after Earl Sande had ridden him to victory. As a matter of fact, the Nick son of The Finn and Prin-

HELEN WINS IN HANDY FASHION

American Net Queen Goes Over for Pair Of Victories

CANNES, France, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two one-sided victories marked the progress of Helen Wills, America's woman tennis champion, toward the finals of the Gallia tournament today. She defeated Mlle. Rosine Vlasto in the morning 6-0, 6-2 and Miss Lily Cadle of England in the afternoon 6-0, 6-3, thus reaching the quarter final round.

Miss Wills' play this afternoon was a revelation to Riveria tennis followers and has considerably increased the hopes of those who believe she has a chance to stop the great Suzanne Lenglen in their expected meeting early next month.

TEXAS MAGS MEET FEB. 7

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The winter meeting of the Texas baseball league will be held in Dallas, Feb. 7, J. Doak Roberts, president, announced here last night. The signing of two new umpires was also announced.

Selection of a new secretary-statistician, to succeed William B. Ruggles, who resigned last fall to assume other duties at Austin, is one of the important matters to come before the meeting.

Naturally, He Will Not Star at Third

Already the sharps have started to pick pennant winners for next season, observes Bert Walker in the Detroit Times. In New York, some of the so-called experts have doped it out that the Detroit Tigers will do well to finish in the first division. They base this opinion on the theory that Gehringer may not be a good third baseman and that Burke doesn't quite measure up to major standards as a second sacker.

One might reasonably suppose that the experts who named the Tigers to win the pennant last year could trail along with them another season in view of the fact that they certainly will be a tougher bunch this year, and it doesn't appear that the opposition will be as strong.

However, to fix the Tigers as a second division team because Gehringer might not be a good third sacker is funny. Naturally this player will be neither a good or a bad third baseman for the simple reason that he is not a third baseman at all. He is, however, expected to be a star second baser and because he is looked upon as a brilliant infielder and a powerful hitter. Tiger fans are hopeful the team will finish better because of him.

As for third base, the Tigers have three very likely looking candidates in Warner, Mullen and Harrington.

Dundee to Try Comeback Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Johnny Dundee, who retired from the prize ring six months ago, starts his comeback campaign tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in a ten-round match with a rugged and youthful opponent, Joe Glick.

When Dundee parts the rope it will mark the start of the sixteenth year for the little Italian boxer who held two world's titles at one time during his picturesque ring career.

MISS HATFIELD WINS.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Miss Frances Hatfield of Milwaukee, won the open tournament for women here today. She defeated Mrs. G. H. Stethson of Philadelphia, 3 and 1 in the finals. In yesterday's play Miss Hatfield made a hole in one.

Famed Jewish Rabbi Dead in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Rev. Dr. Kaufman Kohler, president emeritus of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, and honorary president of the Central conference of American rabbis, died today at his home after a brief illness incident to old age. He was 83 years old and left a widow and four children. The funeral will take place Sunday from Temple Beth-el, of which he was honorary rabbi.

She Trains Just Like Sock 'em Duke

The picture on your right should be given front page prominence or at least should be placed in the theater columns, probably all of you will agree. But in order to have run this snappy piece of art anywhere else but the sports page this morning you would have had to whip the sporting editor. He declares it's purely a sports picture and story. And besides the sports page needs prettier adornment once and a while than the usual run of cuts carried displaying the ugly maps of various prize-fighters, wrestling creatures and ball playing persons.

Behold! None other than Miss Lucille Ballantine who heads her own dancing organization and top lines the Majestic this week, and who is not only an ardent sports lover but is an enthusiastic sports woman.

Dainty Lucille has captivated Majestic audiences the past two days with her terpsichorean diversion, but the big point of interest about this young artist, so avers the sports editor, is the fact she trains almost exactly like Duke Trammel, the heavy-punching Wichita Falls fistic favorite. Yessir, all dancers must go through various exercises and conditioning process to stay in shape.

And Lucille does everything Trammel does but punch the bag, wear a pugilistic head guard, and sock it out with a bunch of tin-eared sparring partners.

Overweight and stiffness is the bane of all dancers once demon obesity sets in. Fair Lucille skips the rope in orthodox prize-fighter fashion, does the regulation setting up exercises, takes road work, and shadow boxes just like Benny Leonard.

That, she declares, is now she has developed the form you see to starboard, and stays in trim all the time.

The sporting editor went back stage last night and saw for himself. Picked up a few pointers himself on training. He held the watch on Lucille while she twirled the rope two rounds, shadow boxed a couple of cantos, and enacted various other conditioning and limbering up exercises. She didn't sock anybody, but she appeared to pack a superb right cross, something, by the way, Trammel lacks. She's fast on her feet, has a left jab that shoots like lightning, and a getaway that would make any fighter wild-eyed with envy. But that's only for back stage exercise, a sacrifice to art, as it were.

HANDBALL DID IT FOR ILLUSTRIOUS MR. RUTH

The news that Babe Ruth's equator had been reduced materially was received with great joy in the Yankee baseball offices, comments W. O. McGeehan in the New York Tribune. Handball seems to have done more along these lines than all of the hot waters of Hot Springs, Ark. It is reported that when Mr. Ruth first started training in a New York gymnasium he tired after walking around himself only once. This was because of his diameter and his shortness of wind. Gradually he improved and the diameter increased.

At a trial the other day he ran four times around himself and was not even winded at the finish. This was because his wind had improved and the distance became shorter at each trial. Before he finishes, his trainerhopes to send him on a long race 16 times around himself at top speed for a record. By this time the diameter will have so decreased that the distance will be equal to running only twice around the original diameter, which was quite a distance for a man traveling on foot.

While this is an economical measure for the Yankees, it is very bad news for Hot Springs, Ark.

HAWKS HOOK UP IN BRACE

Brewster Five Plays Clara Tonight, Burkburnett Saturday

The Iowa Park Hawks are all set for two of the hardest games of the season Friday night when they meet the speeding Clara Greyhounds who are rated as the strongest contenders in the county and in district as well.

Saturday night the Hawks play the Burkburnett quint of which little is known. However a hard battle is expected, since the Hawks have a long succession of basketball wins over Burk to uphold, while Burk has yet to beat the Hawks in basketball so a real battle is going to be staged.

Coach Brewster said today that with one or two exceptions his men were in good condition. Enloe is bothered considerable with a severe cough and has not been at himself for two weeks. Fillmore is about ready to go and if this pair get in condition the Hawks will be set.

Extra seating capacity has been provided for since a large crowd of fans are expected for this game. There will be plenty of seats for six or seven hundred fans. Since there will be five teams from Clara play at Iowa Park, senior and junior girls volley ball sub junior, junior and senior boys basket ball the admission charges will be 25 and 50 cents.

Although the Hawks have played some of the strongest teams in the country with a fairly good record of wins they go into this game with a first year green team against a veteran team as understudy but the fans will see a basket ball game.

Out of 21 games played the Hawks have won 14 and lost 7 with 4 yeyt to play befofre the county basket ball tournament here at Iowa Park, Feb. 13 and 14.

ROCKY KANSAS BETTER THAN RICKARD THINKS

Tex Rickard ranks Mandell best of the lightweights, Sid Terris in second place, Rocky Kansas, the champion, third. Kansas won the title by beating Goodrich, winner of the Commission tournament in New York. It may be just possible that Mandell, Ace Hudkins and one or two other lightweights can beat Kansas. But they have it to prove. Kansas has been a tough bird to beat, and although Benny Leonard and Vincentini have stopped him, Kansas has a remarkably clear record. A couple of knockouts scored against him in hundreds of fights only proves that he is human. Anyone can be hit on the chin sometime. Rickard might match Kansas and Mandell. It would be a fight on the part of Kansas, at any rate, and if Mandell won at all it would be on points.

EMIL ST. GODDARD WINS.

TIE PAS, Manitoba, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Emil St. Goddard won the final lap in the three-day dog derby here today in 9 hours, 27 minutes. Earl Brydgess was two minutes behind the winner and Harry Olensky third.

He'll Meet America's Best Sprinters

Hubert Houben, German sprint champion, is training daily for his American debut which will take place soon. He hopes to defeat Loren Murchison and Charley Paddock on their native soil, having already outrun the pair during their foreign tour last year.

Polo Association Raises its Ban On Southpay Players

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The United States Polo association raised its ban on left handed players and reduced the handicaps of three international stars, including two members of America's "big four" at its annual meeting today.

Revision of the association's 1926 handicap list left Devereaux Milburn, veteran back, and Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., brilliant number two player, as America's only ten goal performers. J. Watson Webb and Malcolm Stevenson number one and number three respectively, in America's international line-up, we cut from ten goals to nine, while R. E. Strawbridge, Jr., who succeeded Webb when injuries compelled the latter's withdrawal from the last series with Great Britain, was reduced from eight goals to seven.

The restrictive rule against left handed players, adopted in 1922 to make the game safer was rescinded upon the recommendation of Chairman Louis E. Stoddard, who was re-elected with all the other officers of the association.

QUAKES IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS.—Three earthquakes have shaken Lanecken during the last two months without doing any serious damage.

Gorman Captures World Skate Title

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Charles Gorman of St. John won the world's amateur skating championship today by winning both the 440 yard and five mile races in the world amateur skating meet.

Willie Logan of St. John was second in the five mile event and Duke Donovan of Endicott City, N. Y., third.

Time 18 minutes, 7 seconds.

O'Neill Farrell of Chicago tied in the point score with Gorman when today's races began, lost his chance to head off the Canadian's bid for the championship when he fell while leading in the final of the 440 yard dash.

His claim that he had been fouled by Logan of St. John, was disallowed.

Clas Thunberg, the Finn, who won the Olympic title in 1924, finished down on the list of point winners. Miss Leila Brooks of Toronto won the senior ladies championship.

FARRELL WINS AT TAMPA.

SANFORD, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—John Farrell of Tampa today won the central Florida 72-hole medal play golf championship, defeating Walter Hagen, Pasadena, by one stroke. Farrell turned in a score of 285 and Hagen 286, while Compston, British star, was third with 288.

Compston set a course record of 67 here today. Par is 70.

In Again, Out Schultz Refuses To Stay Down

If Travel Is Education Joe Must be Regular Solomon

No one yet has gained the distinction of playing on every team in one of the big leagues.

One, however, is close to completing this odd record.

Joe Schultz, who finished last season with the Cincinnati Reds, is the man.

All he has to do now is to play with the Giants and his happiness will be complete.

Schultz has collected his pay from every one of the other National League clubs and on one occasion had a taste of American League ball as a member of the Boston Red Sox.

To travel is to be educated and Joe, after his extensive travels through the various leagues, must be all of that.

Started With Pirates

His sightseeing tour through the major loop started back in 1912 with the Pittsburg Pirates. Few young players made good on their first shot at big league ball and Schultz was not one of the few. Pittsburg sent him to Akron of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League and he showed so much there that the spring of 1913 found him back in the National League with the Braves.

Soon after his arrival in Boston, Manager Stallings announced that he had the greatest young player he had seen in years.

Evidently Schultz failed to live up to George's expectations, for in midseason he was again on his merry journey, this time to Montreal.

You can't keep a good man down, and Joe popped up again in 1915 with the Robins. He hung on there until midseason, when he was sent to the Cubs by the waiver route. The Cubs sent him back to Pittsburg.

Releases Come Often

Releases came thick and fast and by that time he must have been used to reading them. His second release from Pittsburg, shortly after the opening of the 1916 season, sent him on a long ride to Los Angeles.

The coast was a long way off, but distance meant nothing, and during 1917 Schultz started on his way back. He finished that season with Kansas City of the American Association after a brief stay with Toronto.

In 1919 he was back. This time with the Cardinals, who gave Kansas City seven players, almost a full team, for the second-sacker. Schultz stuck with the Cardinals until 1924, when he was shifted to the Phillies. Another release last season gave him to the Reds.

Unfortunately for Joe, not once did he catch on to a pennant winning team. He left the Braves before they won the 1914 world's series and was with Brooklyn the year before that team won its first pennant.

When the most glamourous picture is over—and you come outside to the bright lights and the brighter laughter of friends

And what's more, you can't buy choicer tobaccos or more perfect blending, no matter how much you pay.

So, this night as you leave for the brilliant scenes. And when the big show is finished and you've seen life in its tense and purposeful moments—know then the mellowest fragrance that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

No other cigarette in the world is like Camels. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The Camel blend is the triumph of expert blenders. PRO FOOTBALL NO MENACE TO COLLEGE GAME

Grange and Mates Fail To Create Any Heavy Interest

By BOB EDGREN

Professional football isn't a great hit in the far West. A crowd of seventy thousand turned out in Los Angeles to see Red Grange and his team play a collection of college stars thrown together with two weeks practice to furnish the Bears competition. It was mechanically perfect football, but the game lacked the tense interest that goes with any college game. The professionals played cleverly, and at times played a hard, fast game. But for all that something was missing. The headlong, reckless dash of the amateurs gives the real thrill to college football. The professionals, with no other object than to gather in gate receipts, played with a caution that took away much of the usual spectacular effect. Repeatedly they stalled for time until the weary crowd began to hoot. Red Grange would lose himself and his team a lot of money if injured. So Red was covered and protected—wrapped in cotton, to put it figuratively—and there was nothing desperate in his efforts to break through for a long run. When tackled he went down quickly and softly. The less valuable men did the hard playing.

The Grange team played next day at San Diego, and drew only ten thousand people. It's claimed the quarters were cut to ten to 12 minutes, and the play put up by Red's team was anything but strenuous. There was another game ahead in San Francisco. Red played in the first, second and last quarter of each game. He made no long runs.

The great crowd that saw Grange play in his first western game went to see the much advertised Grange. Its curiosity was satisfied. It saw a clever game without many thrills. Probably is the Grange team had played again in the same cities the following week it wouldn't have drawn five thousand spectators.

The colleges can forget the "menace" of profession football. It doesn't exist. Professional football is just as exciting as any other purely business proposition.

MEAT IS TEXT

should give it a scientific study, know how it looks, and know its nutritive values. She then introduced Mr. Hayes of the Sanitary Market who made a comprehensive talk on the grades and qualities of meat and exhibited four different cuts.

"In buying meat, one cannot judge a bargain by the prices," he said. In choosing young meat, he told the women to look for soft bones, for soft buttons down the back, and white suet. "A young round steak has a smooth, uniform covering, a smooth grain of pink meat, fat streaked through, and a pinkish looking bone. "In older cattle, the fat or suet is yellow tinged, the bones are hard."

"What is the difference in veal and baby beef?" a woman in the class asked.

Her question was answered that veal is the meat from a nursing calf, and the baby beef is a calf taken from its mother and fed.

Other questions from the audience of Thursday afternoon's class included: "Why is lamb more digestible than beef?" "Is it safe to eat liver without first parboiling it?" "What is a pot roast?" "How many cuts are there for a pot roast?" and others.

Save Time For Butcher

It was brought out in the round table talk that much time could be saved for the butchers if the women who ordered their meats knew the difference in the cuts and just what they wanted. "Too much bone, too much fat, too much this and too much that," is the delay often caused by an order where the woman ordering is not quite sure of what she wants.

Because of the work of the afternoon and the discussions, the meat pie which Mrs. Chitwood had planned to show how to make was left over for the class this afternoon. How to mash potatoes will be another part of the lesson which Mrs. Chitwood will give the class. A biscuit which if cooked today will be good next week, will also be taught today.

Recipes for the foods that have been cooked in class and discussed in the lectures will be given out at the school this afternoon to women who have registered.

Music Supplied

Music will be furnished by the Brunswick Panatrope through the courtesy of the Phonograph shop beginning at 2 o'clock. Requests for selections may be made by calling the operator at the Record News or the Phonograph shop.

At the close of the lesson Thursday, through the cooperation of the Cheek-Neel Coffee company and the retail merchants, the women were served Maxwell House coffee.

The lesson this afternoon will close the Record News cooking school for 1926, which has been successful and wonderfully well attended.

BURKETT

pany and Hoffman Construction company, declaring he had considered the advisability and usefulness of such construction as carefully as if he had been handling the work for himself.

"I think this surfacing was one of the best schemes ever undertaken for improvement of our Texas highways," Lanham said in his deposition. Moody read the statement, smiling toward the jury and then asked John D. McRae, defense counsel, "Did I read that right?"

"Yes! but you needn't smile. There's no smile in there," McRae retorted.

Lanham took issue with Burkett's statement of Wednesday that he (Lanham) had urged and insisted thirty cents a square yard be paid the Hoffman company, while Burkett held out for 25 cents, until advised by R. J. Hank, state highway engineer, thirty cents was reasonable for two courses.

"At letting of the Hoffman contract there was no insistence by Burkett for 25 cents," he said. "The only price discussion I had with Burkett was at the American Road company first letting, sometime before the Hoffman award. At that time he urged 25 cents, but was convinced by Hank of reasonableness of 30 cents."

Never Saw Such Bid

Specifications for the American Road company and Hoffman Construction company contracts were written by him, Lanham said. He admitted in his contracting experience he had never bid on or seen such specifications.

"Aren't those specifications rather loosely drawn?" Moody asked

"To the pure all things are pure; to others not so," Lanham replied, conceding the specifications reposed unusual confidence in contractors. He explained because of emergency of the work, it would not have been possible to draw specifications with strict requirements.

No bond was required of defendant company, the former chairman said. A large number of contracts, mostly for maintenance, were let but the Hoffman company, American Road company, and Sherman-Youmans company, Houston, were about only companies not required to make bond, he stated. "Bond is not so necessary when a responsible contractor is doing the work. Too, when we let the contracts no law required bonding. The bonding law came into effect July 1, 1925."

Defense objected to Lanham's testifying regarding bond, but was overruled. In arguing right of state to introduce such testimony, Moody said, "let us grant no law required bonding—we can't escape fact law required its highway commissioners exercise good judgment. Certainly they did not do so when they let a $2,000,000 contract to the Hoffman company without bond. We have admission of a man he knew nothing about the Hoffman company, though he was chairman of the body charged with maintaining roads of the state, and with responsibility of spending annually $20,000,000.

"Failure to require bond shows want of good faith. We've heard some talk here by defense the company has not completed obligations to the state. Why wasn't this $125,000 corporation required to give bond for completion of its obligations on a $2,000,000 contract?"

GRAND JURY

tion by the highway commission of Texas. The same party has also been indicted for swindling, growing out of the transaction mentioned."

Ask Future Probes.

The report states that the letting of contracts by the highway commission without competitive bids, and the failure to require contractors to make bonds should be investigated by future grand juries.

"The failure to require contractors to make bonds, in contracts involving several millions of dollars, wherein no bond or other securities was required for the faithful performance of contracts; it appears to us that unusual and hitherto unheard of profits were made under such contracts; that the full payments on such contract prices were made to the contractors under the direction of the members of the highway commission, notwithstanding it appears that the highway commission contends that the contracts are not completed, yet no bond or security was required to insure the state that the balance of the contract would be performed; and it being further developed that none of the companies had sufficient capital to protect the state in the performance of the remainder of the work," the report reads.

Condemns Action.

"We believe the letting of contracts by the highway commission without advertising or any attempt to acquaint the general public with the fact that the contracts were to be let, and without consultation between members of the highway commission and the engineering force of the highway department as to the advisability or necessity of the work or the fairness of the price should be condemned. We believe from the evidence adduced that opportunity was furnished for the accomplishment of acts detrimental to the state.

"Testimony was developed befofre this grand jury which showed that during the year 1925, the expenditures in the highway department exceeded the income of the highway fund by approximately $700,000, and that the highway fund on the first of January, 1926, was approximately $700,000 less than enough to pay the outstanding obligations of the highway commission and this is true notwithstanding the fact that the revenues paid into the highway fund of this state during the year 1925 amounted to the sum of $19,078,276.01.

"The impracticable and incomplete system of records kept by the highway commission prior to 1926 has resulted in the issuance of duplicate payments of same accounts and the further reasonable conclusion that other errors have occurred.

Unreasonable Expenditures.

"In conclusion of these matters relating to the highway department investigation, we believe in view of the fact that the evidence adduced before us shows the expenditure of enormous and unreasonable sums of public money, under circumstances such as indicated that there was gross extravagance of public funds."

The report expressed appreciation to Attorney General Dan Moody and his assistants, who led the investigation into the highway department, and to the county and district attorneys.

It stated tha 32 indictments for felonies and two for misdedmeanors hadd been returned and that the jury members believe they have located and indicted the slayer of the Engler family near here.

VERNON

that in days to come the airplane would take even a greater precentage of the long-haul traffic from them.

Vernon Fortunate.

"Vernon is fortunate in her material resources.'" Mr. Reed said. "You are in the heart of a very rich agricultural section; you have developed less than 10 per cent of your natural advantages and you can, if you will, forge ahead to a business, financial, commercial and civic success you have as yet unsuspected.

He closed his address with a stirring impleading that Vernon bind herself firmly this year with the ties of community enthusiasm and concerted co-operation.

The annual report of the secretary of the chamber of commerce, R. M. Fielder, tells in brief the activities of the organization which have aided in making Vernon one of the most prosperous and progressive cities in northwest Texas.

In addition to a resume of the work of the year just ended, the report also sets forth a program of activity for the year 1926.

The chamber of commerce during the year 1925 exerted its efforts toward general industrial and agricultural development, and to the betterment of community life.

Aided Park Building.

The organization leased the fair pary from the fair association and financed one of the most successful county fairs in the history of the city, later co-operating with civic clubs and city officials to convert the park into a municipal park.

Three farmer's and merchant's banquets were arranged at Locket, Odell and Elliott, which had a total attendance of over 900. The chamber of commerce also managed the county's "more cotton on fewer acres contest," in which 52 farmers were entered. One of the contestants was awarded fourth place in the contest by producing more than 15 bales on 5 acres.

Much interest in the dissemination of correct information regarding highways and bridges in the vicinity is shown in the report. Co-operation also was extended county commissioners in improving lateral roads to rural communities and securing right-of-way for roads to the oil fields near the city.

The chamber of commerce also brought to a successful conclusion a five-year effort to get a bridge across Red river between Vernon and Frederick and efforts now are being made to make this a free bridge which will add materially to the Vernon trade territory.

Sought New Industries.

A vigorous campaign has been conducted by the board of directors and the industrial committee of the business council to bring more industries to this city.

Through the efforts of the chamber of comerce, a building and loan association was organized to help meet the unprecedented demand for houses, consequent of the increased population of the city.

The organization assisted also in the securing of cotton pickers; the finding of homes for new citizens; the distribution of poison at cost to farmers to fight pests; the supplying of publicity matter regarding Vernon and Wilbarger county to newspapers and other periodicals throughout the state. Many other activities toward the aid of farm, community and industrial life also are listed.

Plans for 1926.

"Vernon is entering the greatest year in its history," Mr. Fielder told the membership, in his discussion of plans for 1926. "The statement is verified with basic business facts. Following a most prosperous year the board of directors are convinced that now is the time for Vernon to step out in front and make a most aggressive campaign for new industries and new capital to develop this town and community and by no means forgetting the great amount of co-operative work to be accomplished with local concerns and aid to be given local interest.

"Viewing the situation from this point, the board of directors recommend the following program of work for 1926.

1. In order to protect the health of our citizenship and to improve the beauty of our city, a clean-up campaign for the early spring, followed up with a plan for continued cleanliness.

2. That the City commission be commended for their efforts in securing more water and pledge our support in securing an abundant supply for domestic and industrial purposes.

3. More city paving for the city, especially for the residence section.

4. A county-wide bond issue to finish paving our highways.

5. Realizing keenly the need of a greater pay roll special attention should be given to establishing more industrial plants here. Our citizenship is requested to give liberally of their time, effort and money to this end.

6. Carry on to completion the plans for free bridges across Red river.

7. A city bond election be called for the purpose of securing a city park adequate in size to meet the needs of our schools.

8. The erection of a hotel and office building.

9. To sell Vernon and Wilbarger county to ourselves and our neighbors as well as to the outside world.

10. That the agriculture and rural community committee organize an advisory board composed of two men or women from each of the rural communities of the county that the rural problems may be better understood.

11. To assist the boys and girls' clubs under the direction of the county agent and home demonstration agent.

12. To give our undivided assistance to the county and home demonstration agents in all their endeavors to better the agricultural interests of the county.

13. Sponsor a county-wide school fair to be held in April.

14. To insist that all public utilities keep pace with the development of the city and county.

15. To make Vernon a better market center for all products grown here.

16. To teach and encourage diversified and extensive farming to the extent that our farmers will not have to depend on a one crop system.

17. To keep out things that are not good for our town's best interest and invite those things that are beneficial.

18. To protect the advertisers of our city against unscrupulous and worthless advertising.

19. To lend all assistance and aid possible to the oil fraternity to the end that our oil field may be surely and rapidly developed.

20. To give our business institutions the business that is justly theirs, by encouraging our people to trade at home.

ENFORCEMENT IMPROVING.

Congressional Committee Head Thinks Coolidge Has Helped Situation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the united committee for prohibition enforcement, declared in a statement here tonight that there had been "some improvement in prohibition enforcement since the united committee placed the responsibility at the door of the White House," at its annual meeting here last month.

SUSPENDERS TO BE VOGUE.

Clothiers Convention Reports Extreme Baggy Trousers Passe.

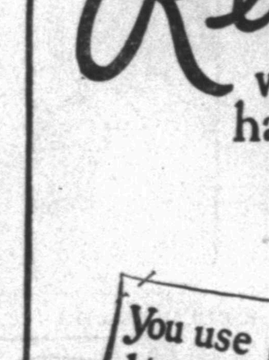

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Return of the popularity of suspenders and a turning away from extreme baggy trousers, are to be the principal changes in men's fashions in 1926. The general style and character of clothes will not be changed to any great extent.

This was the report of the committee on fashions of the national association of merchant tailors at the closing session of its annual convention here today.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE UNDEFEATED CHAMPION.

Although I am not lacking in ambition
And often plan immportant things to do
I always have a fit of inanition—
And drop the job before I'h half way through.
I start with keen and eager animation,
I finish dull and sluggish, like a worm
I wish I had the calm determination
Of a germ.

A germ decides that you or I should suffer
The dismal inconveneince of a cold,
And being no mere crude vainglorious bluffer,
He bares his fangs and savagely takes hold.
You try to starve the brute by meager diet.
Your doctor seeks to knock him for a row—
But you can not persuade him to be quiet
Or let go.

He gathers reinforcements as he labors,
His devastating devil's work to spread,
He sends and gets his relatives and neighbors
Who drive you, feebly fighting, to your bed.
He knew you would be easy when he picked you,
Despite your early show of sullen grit,
And not until you own that he has licked you—
Will he quit.

The bee can sting but once, and he is finished
Yet what a reputation he has won!
The germ, with zeal forever undiminished
Keeps on till what he meant to do is done.
The lion and the tiger no more bite us,
And to their very lives we've set a term,
The only living thing that can affright us
Is the germ!

ONCE UPON A TIME — LITTLE FREDDY WITH HIS FIDDLE—V

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

THERE ONCE WAS A POOR FARMER WHO HAD A LITTLE BOY NAMED FREDDY. HE WAS TOO SMALL TO WORK IN THE FIELDS, SO HE WENT TO WORK FOR THE SHERIFF, WHO AGREED TO PAY HIM A PENNY A YEAR. WHEN THE LAD HAD WORKED FAITHFULLY FOR THREE YEARS HE WANTED TO LEAVE AND THEN THE SHERIFF GAVE HIM ALL HIS WAGES AT ONE TIME. "IT COULDN'T BE LESS," HE SAID, AS HE COUNTED OUT THE THREE PENNIES. SO FREDDY SET OFF. FREDDY GAVE TWO OF HIS PENNIES TO TWO BEGGARS HE MET ON THE WAY.

SO FREDDY WENT ON TILL HE GOT WEARY AND THEN HE SAT DOWN TO REST.

HE HAD SCARCELY SAT DOWN WHEN A THIRD BEGGAR-MAN APPEARED WHO WAS TALLER AND UGLIER AND BROADER THAN THE OTHERS AND FREDDY WAS GREATLY FRIGHTENED.

"NOW, DON'T BE AFRAID OF ME, MY LAD, I'LL DO YOU NO HARM. ALL I WANT IS A PENNY." "I HAVE ONLY ONE PENNY LEFT," SAID THE LAD. "AND WITH IT I WAS GOING TO THE TOWN TO BUY CLOTHES." © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"WELL," SAID THE BEGGAR-MAN, "I HAVE NO PENNY AND A BIGGER BODY AND LESS CLOTHES, THAN YOU." "THAT'S TRUE," SAID FREDDY, AND HE GAVE HIM THE LAST PENNY. "NOW," SAID THE BEGGAR-MAN, "I AM GOING TO DO SOMETHING FOR YOU." TOMORROW—THE THREE WISHES

Velcoff and Rogack Put On Hilarious Battle With Former Winning

They gamboled like two spring lambs, yes, they did not!

Meaning Nick Velcoff, the Bulgarian lion, and Joe Rogacki, the Polish giant, who wrestled part of the time and fought the remainder of it at the American legion hall last night on the interesting card Promoter Alec Ross provided for mat fandom of Wichita Falls. The outcome of it was that Velcoff took both falls, the first with a flying headlock in 30 minutes and 20 seconds, and the second with another flying headlock in 27 minutes.

The match outclassed anything Promoter Ross has brought to the city thus far and even his preliminary Jack Gorman vs. Lee Meyers, was a hum-dinger. Gorman, who has proven himself a classy little wrestler and who has it in his teeth to meet Matty Matsuda, the Japanese terror, lost the first fall. Meyer, outweighing him about 35 pounds, pinned Jack's shoulders to the mat in seven minutes and 30 seconds, with a flying headlock. A groan went up from the crowd and it looked as though it was curtains for Jack. He came back strong, however, and put Meyers down in 42 minutes with a step-over toehold.

This was the first time, so far as it is known, that Velcoff and Rogacki have been matched together, although both have been seen in previous matches here. They were as evenly matched as anything seen in Wichita Falls, both in weight and cleverness. They started out quite friendly. This wore off pretty soon and the affair took on a slightly bloody atmosphere. They roughed it out until Referee Gene Leopold warned them to cut it out.

Soon they were back at the rough stuff and Nick "had a madx." He seized Rogacki in a headlock and threw him to the mat. Rogacki came up and like a bulldog with a bone, the Bulganian was up and at him. This time Rogacki went down to defeat and when it was all over he had to be assisted to his feet. The second fall was a repetition of the first although a little rougher. Rabbit punches were flying left and right and were running a close second with short jabs and uppercuts.

The affair waxed fast and furious, but Velcoff had the shade on his older oppenent. Rogacki was breathing heavily the greater part of the time and glaring and booing his adversary the rest of it. Needless to say the fans sang, "yessir, that's my gravy, no sir don't mean maybe," they ate it up.

Between the two matches, Promoter Ross introduced Frank Yuska, who eight years ago was known as the greatest wrestler in the United States. He took everything his size, and since that time he has been in Slovakia, his home and touring the orient. He wants to meet Ad Santel, Joe Stecker, Strangler Lewis. A match will be arranged here with one of them for him in the near future. Manager Ross also promised he will match Jack Gorman with Matty Matsuda in the near future.

Next Thursday night Ad Santel will meet either Velcoff or Frank Yuska

King and Peasants In Line As 200,000 Mourn For Cardinal Mercier

BRUSSELS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Belgium paid tribute today to Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium and archbishop of Malines. King and peasant marched humbly afoot in the cortege that carried all that was mortal of the beloved prelate through crepe-darkened streets to the great metropolitan cathedral St. Guedle where in a great national service they tetsified to the love and veneration they hold for him.

It was a ceremony of pomp and solemn grandeur, but one in which eevn the lowliest of the Belgians had a part. Two hundred thousand Belgians lined the funeral route and bowed as the plain oaken coffin, surmounted with its simple mitre of gold was carried to the cathedral. And they still lined the way when a few hour later, without military circumstance, it was borne back to the north station, to be taken to Malines, where tomorrow the Catholic church will hold the last rites and consign the body to the crypt in St. Rombaut cathedral.

The coffin rested on an immense catafalque at the entrance to the transept. It was surmounted by the cardinal's purple mantle, with three rows of candles. Immediately facing it was a black covered throne reserved for the king, and on the opposite side of the throne for the papal nuncio. On either side were crepe covered seats for eminent personages—three high officers of state, members of the clergy, senators, deputies, judges, diplomatists, distinguished scholars and others.

With military bands and massed troops outside the service within the church was one of great simplicity. In accordance with the cardinal's wish there were no flowers and no wreaths, and the service consisted only of a solemn requiem mass conducted by Monsignor Micara and chanted by the choir without accompaniment. The funeral oration was delivered by Monsignor Everard, dean of Malines and the papal Nuncio, gave general absolution.

After the services the body lay in state, and thousands—the school children, the workers and the humble of Brussels—passed by in what seemed a never ending stream to bid their cardinal farewell. Then in the late afternoon the doors of the church were closed, and without ceremony the body was taken back to Malines.

SAILORS CRAZED BY LONG WAIT

Captain and Seven Men Are Picked up After 38-Hour Drift

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—(AP) News of the recent rescue at sea of the captain and a crew of seven men of the schooner Mercurio, who had been adrift in a canoe for thirty-eight hours without food or water, reached New Orleans today with the arrival of the steamship Honduras, under charter to the United Fruit company.

Captain John Larsen of the Honduras said that several of the Mercurio sailors were crazed by their ordeal when rescued. The schooner was out of Key West in ballast for Bonaca island when she sprang a leak and sank 35 miles north of Utilla island. James Phillip, the Mercurio's captain and his crew escaped from the vessel in a canoe, which they did not have time to load with provisions.

When the canoe was first seen by Captain Larsen Fifteen miles north of Utilla island the sun was scorching hot. "Our attention was first attracted by firing of guns from the canoe," related the master of the Honduras. "We didn't know," he continued, "whether they were revolutionists or what, but put about and took them aboard, landing them at Telas, Spanish Honduras."

WOMAN SACRIFICES LIFE FOR DUTY TO CHILDREN

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—For seven years Mrs. C. H. Field had made it a practice to go to the nursery at 3:00 a. m. to see that he children were well tucked in. This custom finally resulted in her death for she refused to alter it when she was stricken with pneumonia. Even on the night when the crisis of her illness was reached she refused to heed the advice of her nurse and the pleas of her husband, declaring it her duty to go to her children. The nurse finally helped her into the children's room and then carried her back to bed. A few moments later Mrs. Field passed away.

OREGON CITY, Ore., Jan. 28.—(AP)—After a hearing in which romance, human interest and a dash of sorrow were interspersed, arguments were today being made in the $25,000 libel damage suit against the Canby school board by Mrs. Clifford Samuelson, teacher who was dismissed after marrying a 16-year-old pupil.

The defense sought to show by witnesses that the teacher frequently at late hours visited the boy in a drug store where he was employed. These incidents were admitted with the qualifying statement that they occurred after the eacher and pupil had been married secretly.

35,000 NEEDED FOR HARVESTS

California Valley Requires That Many Mexicans, He Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The San Joaquin Valley of California needs 35,000 laborers from Mexico to harvest its 1926 crops, S. T. Frissell of Kearney Park told the house immigration committee today.

The Box bill, hearings on which were continued today, would virtually stop the seasonal influx of Mexican laborers, he said, urging the removal of the head tax and visa fees.

Man power, not cheap labor, is the primary need of the present emergency he said in response to questions by Representative Box, Democrat, Texas, author of the bill, and other committee members.

Mexican laborers, he continued, are better suited to conditions than the Japanese, because they are anxious to return home after the harvests, removing the labor surplus problem presented by the more permanent Japanese.

Speaking for several farm organizations which he represented he said three state wide organizations were planned to take care of labor movements across the border if restrictions were removed. Californians fear no tenancy or social problems in this connection, he said, in reply to numerous questions, because of the succession of crops in keeping the labor demand steady. The workers themselves, he said, would solve the seasonal problem, returning after the harvest without any government compulsion.

Geneva Pleased As America Adheres To World Court

GENEVA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—As the news of American adherence to the permanent court of international justice, known as the world court, spread through Geneva, which now is the scene of the sessions of various technical commissions expressions of satisfaction were heard on all sides today.

Many saidit meant the definite enrollment of the United States in international affairs in a helpful cooperative sense without political commitments and that the United States by this act has testified to her determination to collaborate in the maintenance of peace.

The American ratification of the court protocol must under the rules be deposited with the league of nations and interest has been aroused as to whether, when the next vagancy on the court bench occurs, the United States will send a representative to sit with the league council and assembly which elect the judges concurrently, or will send in its votes by courier or mail. In the meantime the court itself has been convoked in extraordinary session at The Hague for February 2, to consider the dispute between Germany and Poland.

This dispute concerns the responsibility of Poland for the payment of social insurance contracted with German companies by German residents of upper Silesia and Poland. Germany maintains that she is unable to pay, since she must meet the Dawes reparation obligations.

Red Actors Will Stage Parody On "Evolution Trial"

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A bitter and undestrained satire on last summer's "evolution trial" at Dayton, Tenn., in which the principals imitate the appearance, manners, grimaces and cries of various animals, will be reproduced in Moscow next week. Nearly all the outstanding incidents of the famous Tennessee trial are reproduced in the play.

The actors and actresses are students and working men. A monkey sits as judge of the mock court while other characters include a pig, baboon, a turkey and other animals. The author is D. D. Bogomolov and he makes his satire on the trial, a medium for revolutionary propaganda. The play is intended to show the hopeless disparity between capitalistic doctrines and "the pure sciences" as represented by communism.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The cotton market was again very quiet today with very light trading and narrow fluctuations. Prices eased off during the morning on poor spot demand and light exports crippled with lack of support from speculation but the decline was gradually recovered during the afternoon on moderate short covering. The fluctuations were mainly in near positions, the later months particularly October ruling relatively steady. Following the easier opening prices declined five to 14 points during the morning but practically all of the decline was recovered in the afternoon and the market closed steady at net losses of two points on near positions no change on July and a net gain of two points on October.

The start was irregularly lower owing to less favorable cables than due, first trades showing losses of one to eight points. Prices recovered a point or two during the call with March at 19.58, May at 18.99, July at 18.46 and October at 17.57. These prices remained the highs of the day except that July and October made new highs right at the end with July at 18.47 and October at 17.59.

Prices started to rally near noon and gradually improved during the afternoon, until all the earlier loss was recovered and the close was steady near the highs with little net change in the final results.

Exports for the day totaled 26,101 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet again today, price fluctuating within a range of 10 to 24 points. The opening was higher in response to steady cables, but after selling at 19.60, May reacted to 19.46 or 11 points net lower. That delivery closed at 19.58, the general market closing steady net one point lower to three points higher.

First prices showed advances of one to three points on a few overnight buying orders, but demand was soon supplied and prices eased off during mid-day under near month liquidation accompanied by reports of an easy spot basis in the south west and rumors that cotton was being shipped back here from Liverpool. March contracts were relatively easy, selling off to 20.02 or 14 points net lower while october declined to 18.11 or seven points below yesterday's closing quotation. A little southern selling was insufficient to suggest that the reported easing of the spot basis reflected any material pressure of offerings, and the market rallied several points from the lowest in late trading on covering and trade buying.

The early selling of March was partly against purchases of October, presumably representing the transfer of an old long interest. The near month offerings were absorbed by covering and trade pricing and some trade buying was reported in new crop positions on the decline.

Rumors that cotton was being shipped back from Liverpool were persistent but the most definite report indicated that the shipments represented only three or four thousand bales of certain grades and staples destined for Boston to supply the requirements of a New England mill which had found cotton of that particular description hard to obtain in the south.

Exports today 26,101 making 5,285,049 so far this season against 5,397,776 last year. Port receipts today 24,185. U. S port stocks 1,631,444 bales.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Operations for the rise were resumed in today's stock marke but they lacked the breadth and vigor of those which characterized yesterday's session. One of the principal financial developments of the day was a further shading in time money rates, testifying to the abundance of surplus funds still seeking investment. Closing stock prices were irregularly higher with a number of one to six point gains scattered throughout the list but with the majority of issues showing only fractional changes.

Motors again attracted the most speculative attention in the stock market because of optimistic reports concerning production and sales emanating from the manufacturing centers. General Motors closed fractionally higher at 125⅝ after selling between 124 and 127⅝. Hudson showed a net loss of 1¼ at 111⅝ after having touched 113⅝. Jordan closed nearly two points higher at 58⅛ and Willys Overland crossed 31 for a gain of more than one point.

Steels held relatively steady but some uneasiness was felt over the recent weakness of the metal for scrap iron. The Bethlehem Steel corporation reported earnings of $10,543,136 in the final quarter of 1925, bringing the year's total to $38,988,742, compared with $33,096,480, the year before; U. S. Steel common closed ⅝ higher at 133⅝ as against an earlier high of 134¼ and Bethlehem closed ⅝ lower at 46⅞.

Sugars were again under accumulation in reflection of stiffening commodity prices. Oils showed little change despite predictions of an early increase in Mid Continent crude prices. Farm implement shares showed impressive strength. Advance Rumley preferred scoring 6½ points to 92, J. I. Case jumping five points to 81 and International Harvester showing an extreme gain of 4⅝ at 131⅛ and then sagging a point.

Substantial gains also were recorded by a number of specialties. Cerro de Pasco advanced nearly three points to 66, the highest price in seven years on the reported discovery of a rich ore body. National Biscuit moved up over four points to 92½ on reports that the company was to enter the bread baking business. Union Bag and Paper touched a new high on the current movement at 65 on expectations of increased earnings through new contracts and the proposed segregation of water power properties.

Failure to respond to the publication of additional favorable earning reports, the preliminary statement of the Southern railway showing over $16 a share earned on the common last year while Baltimore and Ohio earned over $12 a share. A gain of over three points in Delaware and Hudson was one of the few features in the rail group.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 per cent for the seventh consecutive day. Time money was quoted at 4½ to 4⅝ instead of 4⅝ to 4¾, but prime commercial paper held steady at 4¼ to 4½.

Foreign exchange rates moved within narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling held steady around 4.85⅝ but French francs ruled about three points higher around 3.75 cents. Japanese yen reacted slightly on profit taking.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Sub zero weather threatening damage to United States winter wheat did a good deal to hoist wheat values today and so likewise did trade estimates pointing to unusual exhaustion of stocks of wheat in all countries before the beginning of the new crop year. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 2½ to 2¾c net higher, May (new) $1.75⅞ to $1.76 and July $1.52½ to $1.52⅝ with corn ⅝ to ⅞c up, oats showing ⅜c advance, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 12c.

Corn and oats were influenced chiefly by the action of wheat and by assertions that the cold wave was likely to bring about diminished arrivals of corn.

In provisions, the advance of grain proved in the end to be more than a counter balance for some wavering of hog values.

When It's Good It's Good, Otherwise—

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A trap set by prohibition officers here last night provided them with valuable information as to the identity of a number of Dallas bootleggers.

Spotting several automobiles parked at a dance near the city, where owners made several trips from the dance hall to their cars to imbibe drinks of liquor, the officers placed a few drops of harmless medicine in the bottles. After taking additional draughts from their flasks, a number of the dancers became nauseated and left the dance early. This morning some 20 persons called up the officers and gave them the identity of a number of the liquor dispensers believing that they had been sold poisonous whiskey.

GOLF GOES HIGHER.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—While the cost of refined rubber used to make a dozen golf balls used to be 51 cents, it is $3.06 today, an increase of 500 per cent, said Douglas Tweedie, western manager of Spalding & Brothers, in explaining the recent advance in the price of balls.

INDIAN CHARGE FOUND FAULTY

Management And Neglect By Burke Disapproved In Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Charges of mismanagement and neglect on the part of Indian Commissioner Burke and Superintendent Allen of the five civilized tribes were found to be without foundation in a partial report submitted to Secretary Work today by the board of Indian commissioners.

Charges against Commissioner Burke alleging discrimination against men of Indian blood were described by the report as "purile." "One need not go outside the limits of Oklahoma to find evidence to the exact contrary," it said.

"Indeed, the rolls of the Indian bureau clearly show its utter emptiness."

The author of this charge and the admitted organizer of most of the indignation meetings of Indians which adopted resolutions containing this particular charge was Mr. O. K. Chandler, a former superintendent of mixed blood, who was dismissed from the service for cause.

Market Gossip

Booth and Burmeister, brokers, basement Waggoner Bldg., today received the following from J. S. Bache and company, of New York and Chicago:

GRAINS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Wheat statistics continue to indicate the closest adjustment of supplies to demand the world over in many years. With importers taking hold on a hand-to-mouth scale, it naturally will take a longer time for the first rush of the new southern hemisphere movement to be absorbed than usual, but the potential demand is so large that any material decline in prices seems out of the question and within a short time the prospect for the new winter wheat crops will be a factor. Reports from the southwest, and central west suggest that there was little or no snow coverine when the present below zero weather came and there is a general and growing fear that considerable damage has been done. With exhausted reserves, both visible and in visible, feel that advantage should be taken of all recessions in order to make purchases.

Coarse Grains: Corn and oats rather dull but firmed up after an early break. Little change in the general outlook is noted from day to day, with the exception of the rather noticeable tendency on the part of low grade cash corn to gain on the May. This readjustment will probably continue as long as the present limited movement is on.

Rye: Decidedly cheap in comparison with wheat and last year's liberal crop in Europe will probably not be duplicated again this season. Feel friendly to buying side of May and on breaks.

COTTON.

Business has been practically nil during the afternoon session, a small order in the hands of one broker to buy some March at 2040 holding the market. We look for a narrow and irregular market with gradually sagging market until some new development comes into the market.

The dead man clutched a rifle and had a shotgun within easy reach.

Poll Tax Payments Only 12,000 With Two Days Left To Go

BIG RUSH WILL STRIKE TODAY

$1,000,000 Yet Remains To Be Collected if Average Is Made

Only a few more than 12,000 Wichita county adults have qualified themselves to vote in the coming city, county, and state elections either by paying poll tax or obtaining exemption certificates, it was announced late Thursday by Guy C. Raley, county tax collector after checking up on the day's collections. About 11,900 have paid poll taxes, and some 800 have taken out exemption certificates.

Although a crowd waited without the collection windows at the court house all day Thursday the day's collections of taxes of every kind was approximately only a third of the collections of the day before, or about $25,000. The reason was that most of the payments were for the smaller items.

Two Days Left.

Two big days are now left at the collector's office, today and Saturday. There is approximately $1,000,000 still out which will be collected on these two days, the majority of the amount expected the last day, of course.

To assist in collections sub-stations fofr poll tax are being operated in the day at each of the four banks in the city and at the Labor Temple. Substations for collections of all kinds are being operated in Burkburnett and Electra, also.

Borglum Will Bring His Old Trail Driver's Art Models To City In March

Plans are being made by the arrangements committee of the University club for the coming of Gutzon Borglum, nationally and internationally known artist and sculptor who will be in Wichita Falls early in March. Ben Dancer is chairman of the committee. Already, several families have offered to entertain Mr. Borglum while he is here.

The exhibits which Mr. Borglum will bring will be placed at the Junior college where he will lecture. His visit in Wichita Falls is expected to extend at least three days and probably longer.

Models of the Old Trail Drivers association on which the sculptor is now working in San Antonio, now being sent to points in North Texas including Fort Worth and Dallas will be returned to San Antonio before the speaker comes to Wichita Falls in March. He told Mr. Dancer in a telephone conversation that they would not be brought to this city while on the present tour, for on his return to San Antonio he had some work to do there necessitating the use of the exhibits.

"We feel that this city is fortunate in having such a well known character coming to a place as small as Wichita Falls," Mr. Dancer stated in speaking of the sculptor's visit here in March.

SUIT TO TEST SIGN VALIDITY

"Not Responsible" Warning Is Assailed by Plea In Court

Whether a "Not Responsible in Case of Theft" sign in a garage actually relieves the garage owners in such a case is to be determined in the eighty-ninth district court today when the suit of E. P. Nevin seeking a judgment of $650 from W. S. Langford comes to trial before Judge P. A. Martin. A jury was selected Thursday afternoon for the trial, and presentation of testimony will start this morning.

According to the pleadings in the case, E. P. Nevin left a Ford coupe at the Langford Motor company garage for certain repairs early in 1924 the repair work was done and the car placed in the street by the side of the garage to be called for. While in the street it was stolen. Nevin's suit is for the value of the car.

The answering petition of W. S. Langford, acting for the Langford Motor company, is that the garage is not responsible for the loss inasmuch as a sign in plain view inside the garage notifies all patrons that no responsibility is assumed in case of fire or theft.

Aerial Torpedo To Carry Gas Supply Presented to House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP) A torpedo carrying a load of gasoline in its interior for use of the bombing plans to which it would be attached, was described to the house military committee today by Lester P. Barlow of Stamford, Conn., who invented the apparatus.

Such a torpedo, he said, would allow an aviator to easily make a 2,000 mile non-stop flight, using the fuel from the torpedo for an outward trip, then letting loose the torpedo and flying home on the regular gas supply. He asserted he had offered his idea to the war department during the war, but that it was rejected.

Japs Build It.

Japan, he said, is building such a torpedo.

The torpedo which would be invisible to the enemy would be fired from the plane within five or ten miles of its objective.

Representative LaGuardia, socialist, New York, told the committee "the only general officer we had who knew anything about the air was kicked out of the army a few days ago," and Representative James, republican, Michigan, member of the committee, said "co-operation and coordination in the army and navy have become synonomous with apple sauce."

M'Lennan County Asked to Provide Ballots for Repubs

WACO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Because several hundred thousand erstwhile democrats cast their ballots for George C. Butte in the last gubernatorial election, McLennan county commissioners face the problem of having to purchase a new set of ballot boxes and provide additional polling places at next July's primary.

The republican state committee has notified County Judge James R. Jenkins that they are expecting to hold a primary, and have furnished him with a list of judges. They have also advised him that they expect the county commission to comply with the law by furnishing proper polling places, guard rails, ballot boxes, etc., the Terrell election law providing that this shall be done at the county's expense for any politica party that polled 100,000 votes or more at the previous general eletcion.

No action has yet been taken by the county commission, the matter being due to come up, according to Judge Jenkins, at the first meeting in February.

COUNTY ROADS NEED SUNSHINE

Four Days a Minimum To Make Unpaved Ones Passable

It will take four or five days of sunshine to put the county's dirt roads in passable shape, according to an estimate by County Engineer J. M. Isbell, Thursday. Snows of last week which have only melted in the last two days have made them practically impassable for ordinary usage, mud-chains and considerable slipping and sliding being the lot of anyone attempting to negotiate them. The county is remarkably free from "holes," however, according to Mr. Isbell, who states that the ordinary impassable mud-hole, except in a few isolated instances, does not exist in Wichita county.

Work on paving the Holliday-Park Lake road, the county's only paving project now, is held up at least until Monday of next week to allow dirt to dry up, while work has been suspended altogether at the scene of the new bridge across the Wichita River east of Indian Heights.

Brownwood Pastor To Speak Sunday

Rev. Charles Spurgeon McClung of Brownwood will speak at Floral Heights Baptist church at both services Sunday, according to announcement from L. H. Franks, chairman of the pulpit committee. Mr. McClung is a graduate of Howard Payne college at Brownwood and of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary of Fort Worth.

Rev. R. A. Scranton of Plainview, who preached at the church Sunday, will return here February 3, and with the assistance of Rev. L. E. Finney, pastor of the First Baptist church of Burkburnett, will conduct a two-weeks revival meeting beginning Feb. 7.

At the opening of the meeting Dr. F. S. Groner of Dallas, general secretary of the Baptist convention of Texas, will preach at the evening hour.

Church Tooting Saxaphone Stolen

Is it a crime to steal a saxophone? The question is likely to be answered in a Wichita Falls court soon, it developed Thursday when a saxophone belonging to Jim Sutton, a negro eleven tor boy, was stolen, recovered, and the thief apprehended all in the same day. A negro man charged with the theft was in custody of the city police Thursday, but will be turned over to the county where charges of theft over the value of $50 will probably be filed against him.

The saxophone is used by Sutton in the orchestra of the church which he attends.

LADIES SEEKING TRIP TO WEST

Vacation Tour This Summer Through California Has Appeal

A great number of young ladies of Wichita Falls are expected to register for the big California tours campaign now being staged by twelve merchants of Wichita Falls. The opening announcements were received with much favorable comment and the first day's opening saw a number lined up, determined to win one of the three free trips to California.

In order to explain the purpose of the trip, twelve merchants have agreed to give votes with each sale—the number of votes being determined by the amount purchased or paid. These votes will be used for the credit of some candidate in the race for the prize trips. Candidates who have been nominated for the trip are requested to call at campaign headquarters in the Harman Drug company, in the Waggoner building.

Mrs. Taubert in Charge.

Mrs. E. H. Taubert will be in charge of the information bureau at Harman's for the next two weeks. Those who desire to enter the campaign are urged to notify Mrs. Taubert. There are no obligations occurred—the rules and regulations having appeared in yesterday morning's Record News.

Three lucky ladies will win this splendid trip through sunny California and as a vacation trip is most ideal. Vote gathering is simply a question of getting all your friends to save votes for you, whenever they make a purchase or pay a bill at any of the participating stores.

No votes can be purchased by anyone. They are simply given with each purchase at the several stores participating.

All white women over 15 years of age are eligible to enter the race.

DOG TAXES LAGGING.

The dog tax business at the city hall picked up Thursday, but it is still a long way from where it should be according to Desk Sergeant C. B. McConnell. Just 46 out of a canine population of between 800 and 900 in Wichita Falls have paid the year's "poll" tax and secured proper license and identification tags.

All dogs caught on the street after February 1 without the license tag will be impounded according to Mr. McConnell.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says Glass of Salts Helps to Overcome Rheumatism Acid

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

Short talks were made on the Stone Mountain memorial drive by Luther Hoffman and Judge Edgar Scurry. Announcement was made of the twenty-first anniversary of Rotary to be celebrated in February.

Says Greatest Rheumatic Medicine in All the World

Hundreds of Bottles Being Sold, Declare Local Druggists Who Guarantees It and Is Dispensing It To Many Sufferers In This Vicinity

"It does not matter to me whether you are disabled with cursed rheumatism or have only accasional twinges," says James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y. "I know that Allenrhu, my own discovery will stop the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and reduce the swollen joints."

"I know it will dissolve the uric acid deposits that have become deeply imbedded in joints and muscles and quickly drive every trace of rheumatism from your body. I know this because I was crippled for years and many times was unable to work, and Allenrhu made a well, robust, healthy man of me.

"I know because since I cured myself, hundreds have taken Allenrhu and speedily rid themselves of this agonizing disease."

Allenrhu is no laggard; it starts right in at once; it goes into the blood, searches out the poisonous uric acid deposits and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that cause rheumatism, out of the body through the natural channels.

"The blessed relief this marvelous prescription quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," say—A—who has been appointed agent in your city. It is Mr. Allen's own discovery. If you live out of town ask him to send you full particulars.—Adv.
