Given two months to live, what would you do?

Could you endure three weeks of total blindness, distracted because you could not read and tortured by the sound of others reading to you?

Both of these experiences occurred in the life of Mrs. Marie LaSalle Booth who came to Wichita Falls yesterday to lecture to the women of this city, under the sponsorship of the Record News on poise, power and personality.

Has a Busy Day

Deluged with telephone calls and appointments upon her arrival at the Kem photel, Mrs. Booth went through a busy day, but found time at noon to accept an invitation from the Kiwanis club, where Kiwanians were told by her that achievement and business succes always found fulfillment in the words "Desire, Decide and Do."

"That's the feminine viewpoint boiled down," declared Mrs. Booth in her short talk to the clubmen who were deeply impressed with her eloquence and forceful presentation. Mrs. Booth was presented by D. M. Bernard, business manager of the Record News.

In addition to being an authority on beauty and body development, Mrs. Booth is a dramatic artist. As a dramatic reader she has given programs in all sections of the country. So much in demand were her services that her health failed her. Physician after physician was consulted, but the patient gained only temporary relief.

Breathing Did It

Finally, Mrs. Booth decided to try scientific brenthing and body building and studied the subject physiologically and psychologically, not only from the best teachers in this country but international tutors as well. How she regained her health and the methods se employed form the subject matter of her lectures, stressing also the development of power, poise and personality. Mrs. Booth at her lectures will demonstrate with exercises she has found to be beneficial in body building.

FIRST DENVER TRAIN ENTERS DALLAS DEPOT

Thousands Cheer as The Engine Pulls Into Station

HOLD BIG BANQUET

Whistles Toot And Big Crowd Greets Engine And Train Monday

DALLAS, June 1.—While whistles blew a prolonged blast and thousands of persons cheered in greeting, the first Fort Worth and Denver City railway ever to enter Dallas, arrived at the union terminal station today at 3:04 p. m.

The special train of business cars had on board a group of railway officials headed by Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway company, the Fort Worth and Denver and subsidiary lines. Other members of the party were Howard Elliott, New York chairman of the Northern Pacific railroad and member of the directorate of the Burlington; Frank E. Clairty, Fort Worth, vice-president and general manager of the Denver road; C. E. Spens, Chicago, vice-president and general manager of the Colorado - Southern; Charles E. Perkins, Burlington, Iowa, a director of the Burlington and Denver lines and others.

A banquet was held tonight, as the concluding feature of the celebration. Visiting officials were guests of honor.

City officials, representatives of the Dallas chamber of commerce and other civic bodies and a throng of interested citizens cheered the long train, driven by two locomotives, one a diminutive "wood-burner type," used in the 80's and the other a modern giant of the rails, as it was brought alongside another Denver train which will inaugurate regular service between Denver and Dallas.

Earlier in the morning the business car used by Mr. Clarity left Dallas with a number of Dallas business men and railroad commissioners, Clarence E. Gilmore, C. V. Terrell and Lon A. Smith to meet the incoming train. This car was joined to the big train, and after the small wood-burner, which has been on display here today, and had come out to greet the approaching train was hitched onto the front end, the first regular Denver train proceeded into the city.

FIRE LOSS IN 5 MONTHS HELD TO LOW FIGURE

1925 Has Damage of Only $67,200 in City, Says Fire Chief

Wichita Falls so far in 1925 has sustained a firel oss of $67,200, a report prepared Monday by Fire Chief J. L. McClure has revealed. For five months this is regarded as an exceptionally good record.

Property endangered by fire has been valued at $284,650 and insurance carried has amounted to $182,383 One hundred and forty-one runs have been made and 29,200 feet—nearly five and one-half miles—of hose laid; 728 gallons of chemicals have been used

Biggest in May.

Of the $67,200 loss the first five months, nearly one-third of it was sustained in May when a loss of $24,500 was suffered. Property endangered by fire during the month was valued at $44,800 and insurance carried amounted to $25,888.

No Large Fires.

The low record is explained by the fact that no large fires have broken out within the city limits since January 1. The $125,000 blaze at the Wichita Falls and Southern roundhouse several months ago would have shot the totals sky-high, but they are not counted against the local fire department by reason of the fact they are not inside the corporate limits of the city.

Varied Program at Kiwanis; Report Is Made for Nursery

A varied program which included a report on the day nursery funds was provided Monday for the local Kiwanis club. Rev. F. T. Datson, chairman of the day nursery campaign, reported that with the goal of $20,000 set, $17,017 had already been raised. The drive will be continued until the full $20,000 is realized.

The Kiwanians decided to take no part in the controversy concerning the fencing off of Lake Kemp by W. T. Waggoner and the proposed charge for fishing privileges there. The matter was submitted by D. A. Lundein, but the club concluded this was not a situation warranting official action.

A musical treat of exceptional quality was supplied by Miss Adelle Ray and Mrs. James Baldridge.

Rev. Milo Atkinson introduced and welcomed three new members, F. E. Rigsby, L. O. Brown and J. W. Ferguson.

Vacancies on Movie Board Are Filled

Three vacancies on the board of moving picture censors in Wichita Falls, occasioned by resignations, were filled Monday night by appointment of Mayor R. E. Shepherd and ratification of the city council.

On the board of censors Mrs. W. L. Robertson takes the place of Mrs. B. L. Fain and will serve with Mrs C. R. Hartsook and Mrs. M. M Addicks. Mrs. Fain has accepted a place on the board of appeals, taking the position caused by the resignation of Mrs. Leslie Humphrey. Other members of the board are Mrs. C Joline, Mrs. Charles Pogenpohl, Mrs Fred Barron, Mrs. Bernard Martin Mrs. Abe Marcus and Mrs. T. B Couch.

AUSTIN, June 1.—(AP)—Ten conditional pardons, an extension of furlough and one restoration of citizenship were granted Texas convicts today by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. Ailing physical conditions influenced seven of the pardons, while needs of dependent families won two and recommendations of citizens caused the remaining to be issued.

A wife and six small children in need of support won freedom for Esteban Cantu of Lavaca county, given one year for violation of the liquor law, while Nick Chancetono of Robertson, given 18 months for transporting liquor, was released because he is the sole support of his wife.

Those to receive pardons because of their poor physical conditions were: Richard Mitchell, Red River county, two years for disposing of mortgaged property; W. H. Ware, Sabine, two to 10 years for a statutory offense; John Easterwood, Dallas, two to eight years for assault to murder; George Rios, San Patricio county, life imprisonment for murder; P. H. Roberts, Walker county, eight years, for assault to murder; A. C. Wells, Harris, two to five years for swindling; Louis Robinson, Galveston, two to 10 years for assault to murder.

Ollie Beck of Collins county, given two years for bigamy, was pardoned on recommendation of Collin county officials. Joe Plunk of Van Zandt, serving three years for violation of the liquor laws, was granted a 15-day extension o nhis furlough.

Peter Bayer of Falls county, who served two years for manslaughter, was granted a restoration of citizenship.

Eighty-two executive proclamations granting clemency of varying degrees to Texas convicts were issued by Governor Ferguson during the month of May, records show. This includes 12 full pardons, 24 conditional pardons and 24 furloughs.

Labor Disorders In Shanghai Presage Grave Developments

SHANGHAI, June 2.—A mob of 2,000 students and workmen formerly employed at the Nagai Wata Kaisha cotton mill, closed owing to the labor disorders, this morning attacked a Japanese police constable on the West Soochow ferry road and threw him into a creek. Clamoring out he opened fire, killing one and wounding another rioter. The defense units dispersed the gathering.

The situation here resulting from the riots following the prosecution of Chinese strikers in Japanese spinning mills is more intense today with the court hearing the riot cases and inquests being held in the mortuary under cordons of armed guards on the victims of Saturday's clash between the police and the rioters.

Native schools are closed and thousands of students are gathering in the trouble centers, presaging grave developments. The weather is clear and sunny.

The city remains quiet and the crowds around the court house are orderly.

Police Seek Auto For Running Down Man, But Man Wasn't Run Down

City police here and in other communities of the county spent several hours Monday afternoon hunting for a high powered roadster that was thought to have run down and seriously injured a man in the business section of Iowa Park. A telephone message was received here asking that a close look out be kept for the machine.

Motorcycle officers and car loads of plains clothesmen scoured the county but were unable to find a trace of the auto.

When they returned to the station late in the afternoon they were greeted with an announcement in the form of another telephone message from Iowa Park.

"Never mind hunting that car," it said. "This fellow wasn't hurt. He just had an epileptic fit."

PLANES ARRIVE AT FT, SILL TO BATTLE TODAY

Forty-Nine Machines Are Ready For Sham Attacks

TO TEST AIR ATTACK

Prominent American And French Officers to Be Present

LAWTON, Okla., June 1.—An airplane fleet of 49 machines consisting of D. H. fours, S. C. fives and Martin bombers, arrived at Post field shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon and established a base from which they will participate in the advanced artillery problem at Fort Sill. The problem starts Tuesday morning with more than 300 regular army and national guard officers participating and using a brigade of field artillery, a battallion of motorized Howitzers and the air fleet. The efficiency of the flying machines in conjunction with artillery attacks and defense will be given a thorough test.

Biggest in History.

The fleet of planes which came here today is said to be the largest that ever traveled the same distance as a unit in the history of playing at war. Major General Wm. Snow, chief of the field artillery, will arrive from Washington at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and will be taken into the zone of war where General Dumont, French military attache, will already be among the observers. While the problem to be worked out is all in a day's business at the field artillery school, there are to be some tests made which are considered of prime importance to both the artillery and air branches of service. The Martin bombers will attempt to destroy a battery of caissons drawn by a motor. This will be an actual test to ascertain the efficiency of such methods, but the greatest test is to be in using the planes to illuminate the enemy batteries at night and thereby assist the artillery in its firing.

Is New Method.

This is the new method adopted in lieu of the old method of map firing. At the same time there will be pursuit planes and both sides will engage in artillery and air fighting day and night. In theory there will be an army starting from a point 30 miles away trying to accomplish an objective in the Wichita mountains. This army is to be met about half way by the opposing army. Their actual combat conditions will be simulated. The big military range of 60,000 acres is ideally located for such a combat. All the fighting will be in mountain country and the result will be either a victory or a defeat for the plan of airplane co-operation with artillery. If the smoke screens and illumination of the targets by the planes actually aids the artillery in destroying the enemy, then the air service will come out victorious inland as well as on seas as was demonstrated during the big naval maneuver in the Hawaiian islands recently.

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Mayer, who once called herself by the proud title of Marquise but who of recent years has sunk to the lowly state of scrub woman, came today to occupy a cell on a charge of hacking a deck hand to death with a bowie knife.

In court Mrs. Mayer showed a handful of yellow clippings from newspapers of 1909 recounting her marriage to the Marquis De Clermont Ferrault. At the time of the marriage, according to the clippings, the marquis gave his name as Hubert Nomen, but said that he was a nobleman in France.

AMUNDSEN IS IN DIRE NEED, SAYS VOYAGER

Hammer Who Led Relief Dash in 1923 Pleads Help be Sent Him

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 1.—(AP)—Years of close association with Roald Amundsen, missing Norwegian Polar explorer, familiar with his methods of operation and intimate knowledge of his plans for the flight into the unknown Arctic which started May 21, prompted Haakon H. Hammer, who led the Amundsen relief dash of 1923, to express the opinion here tonight that the Amundsen-Ellsworth party is marooned in the frozen North.

Hammer has been recuperating here and has almost completely recovered from a serious affection which at one time threatened to render him blind. He said:

Knows Conditions

"Taking into consideration conditions in the Arctic in this season of the year, the weight and equipment of Amundsen's two flying boats, his gasoline supply and above all else, the characteristics of the man himself, I am convinced that there are only two tenable theories as to the fate of the party.

"Amundsen has made a landing and cannot get up, either because he has smashed his flying boats or because the ice is too rough for a takeoff with his heavy planes, or else he is in Alaska. The latter is barely possible.

"My opinion is that he is marooned, unable to use his flying equipment and almost certainly unable to hike out of his predicament. The ice starts to break at this season in the Arctic and a tramp over the churning floes to Greenland I consider positively out of the question.

Urges Expedition.

"I also am just as firmly of the belief that the time has come to send an expedition to his relief.

"To say that Amundsen may be taking observations at the Pole is speculative without a knowledge of circumstances. He was not dependent on wind and weather when he went to the South Pole. He had his dogs waiting to take him back to civilization but it required only three days for him to make his observations there. He has been missing 11 days now.

"If Amundsen could have returned to his Spitzbergen base with his planes, he certainly would have done so; therefore I am convinced that the Arctic has him in its grip, for he cannot return without aid, with his planes over hundreds of miles of breaking ice.

"Of the five men with him, not one has had any previous Polar experience.

Too Much Responsibility.

"When Amundsen flew into the North he voluntarily assumed responsibility in so far as he was able, for the safety of these men. To say that he is spending his time taking observations, tempting providence, gambling with weather conditions, is to say that Amundsen is voluntarily risking the lives of his party and any person who knows Amundsen, knows that he would follow no such course.

"He is down, in urgent need of help, or he is in Alaska and as I said before, the latter alternative must be taken only as an outside possibility," Hammer concluded.

TOM MARSHALL PASSES ON AS NATION WEEPS

Vice-President of War Time Follows His Chief to The Eternal

TYPICALLY AMERICAN

His Political Foes Accorded Him Highest Honors Of Praise

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Thomas Riley Marshall, vice president of the United States for eight momentous years of its history, has followed his chief, Woodrow Wilson, into death.

Recurrence of a heart attack, which sent him to his bed last Monday, immediately after a trip from Indiana, brought on the end unexpectedly today, after reports had come from the sick room throughout the week that despite his 71 years, he was steadily recovering from nervous exhaustion and cold.

Death came to him quietly in his room on the fourth floor of the New Willard hotel, where he lived during his two terms as vice president. Propped up in bed, with pillows after eating his breakfast with an enjoyment that strengthened the impression of those about him that he was regaining his health, he was smoking a cigar and reading a favorite passage of the Bible.

Death Comes Silently.

Suddenly, but without haste, while Mrs. Marshall was in an adjoining room, he laid the Bible face downward, open where the courth chapter of the gospel of St. Mark ends and the fifth begins, his cigar dropped and he fell gently back without speaking and apparently without pain. The nurse, who had been at his side, quickly summoned aid. But he was dead.

Brief services, attended by the nation's highest officials will be held late tomorrow in the hotel and then the body will be placed aboard a train for Indianapolis, where the funeral party expects to arrive at noon, Wednesday

The funeral will be held in his home there at 10 a. m. Thursday, under the auspices of the Scottish Rite Masons, among whom he held high degree.

His body will be placed temporarily in a receiving vault at Crownhill cemetery in Indianapolis. It had been planned to hold the funeral at Marion, Ind., and lay his body close to those of his parents and his foster child, Clarence Ignatus Morrison, whose death at the age of ten, brought one of the greatest sorrows into his immensely friendly life. It was decided, however, that Mrs. Marshall should determine later his final resting place.

Condolnces Pour In.

Telegrams of condolence and more personal messages to his widow bore witness to the esteem in which the former vice president was held by those who knew him, regardless of party differences. President Coolidge, who followed Mr. Marshall in the vice President's chair, wrote a letter expressing his sorrow to Mrs. Marshall, as soon as he learned of his death, and later with Mrs. Coolidge, called at the hatel and sent up their cards.

Mrs. Marshall bore the shock bravely and Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, one of the former vice president's closest friends at the capitol, immediately came to render any assistance he could. Others, many of them high in the Wilson administration, called or sent messages to offer their services.

Senator Watson of Indiana, although of different political faith, wired his sorrow, and Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, in telegraphing his sympathy, asserted that Mr. Marshall "represented the highest degree and the best type of American citizens and American statesman.

Simple Funeral Is Probable for Dead Thomas R. Marshall

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—(AP)—Indiana will receive the body of Thomas R. Marshall next Wednesday with all honors that will be permitted by his widow. The state stands ready to pay homage to its former governor and the nation's former vice president. But the wishes of Mrs. Marshall will be respected when the body comes again to the state in which he was born and in which he spent nearly all the years of his life with the exception of the time given to the service of the nation at Washington.

Simple Funeral

If Mrs. Marshall's first expressions in favor of a simple Scottish Rite ceremony are carried out these will be performed at the North Illinois street home, which the Marshalls purchased after their return from Washington upon the expiration of Mr. Marshall's term as vice president. Then the body will be taken to Crown Hill cemetery for an indefinite rest in a receiving vault there.

Mr. Marshall's death in Washington came with shocking suddenness to his friends and associates here. His recovery had been confidently expecetd. Tributes were on the lips of many today. All spoke of his odd sayings, and his quaint philosophies.

Flag Half-Masted

Upon receipt of news of Mr. Marshall's death the flag on the state capitol was set at half-mast. Governor Ed Jackson sent a message of sympathy to Mrs. Marshall and asked if she would permit the body to lie in state in the capitol rotunda. Word from Washington indicated, however, that she would be adverse to this. State officials will attend the services here and show all respects to the former chief executive of the commonwealth.

GARBER AREA SHOWING MUCH DRILLING NOW

One of Oldest Sections In Oklahoma Takes on New Life

By PAUL HEDRICK.

TULSA, Okla., June 1.—While the highest gravity crude oil in Oklahoma is produced just north of Tulsa, in the Delaware and Flat Rock oil pools of southeastern Osage county and on leases of the Barnedall Oil company, the highest gravity oil in a pool whose output is available to any buyers at the market price is that of Garber.

The Garber field is now in the throes of a very intensive development that promises to make it one of the most interesting oil areas in Oklahoma if not in the Mid-Continent. As of the fiscal week its output was 9,311 barrels a day from around 575 wells, comparable with 9,067 from 571 wells the previous week. Its output comes from sands that vary from 1,100 feet to 4,400 feet and the gravity is all over 42.

Because of this difference in gravity the Sinclair Oil and Gas company, which owns approximately 80 per cent of the leases at Garber and has most of the production, has posted a new selling price for Garber crude. Oil from the 2,300-foot sand, which averaged 48 gravity, will bring $2.85 a barrel, and the deep sand oil will command $2.60 a barrel.

Scouts predict that the 2,300-foot sand, which is chiefly the goal of most Garber operators now, will bring Garber's production up to 12,000 barrels and more before the first new well in the 4,400-foot pay is in.

Sinclair's No. 25 Belveal, in the northeast corner of 24-22-4w, which on April 3, at 4,377 feet, opened the 4,400-foot sand, is now doing 1,984 barrels a day.

D. W. Franchot of Tulsa is to drill a deep sand test in the southwest corner of 7-22-3w, which will extend the deep sand area one-half mile to the northeast, and compel the drilling of two offsets by the Sinclair and one the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

The survey for the new pipe line into the Garber field by the Marland interests, discloses that seven four-inch lines, one six-inch line and two eight-inch lines with a stated capacity of 92,000 barrels a day, but with an actual ability to run 45,000 barrels a day are now into the Garber field.

STATE STARTS IN BROWNWOOD MURDER TRIAL

Precaution Taken to Stop Efforts to Lynch Negro

BROWNWOOD, June 1.—After completing the jury and hearing testimony of four witnesses in the case of John Smith, negro, charged with the slaying of Sheriff Dick Pauley of Coleman county, court was recessed until tomorrow. The jury was completed at 5 p. m. today after two venires had been exhausted and more than 150 men examined. The prisoner wa sreturned to the rBown county jail under heavy guard, and will be closely guarded tonight.

Throughout the day there were hundreds of Coleman county citizens in and near the court house, but there was no sign of disorder. The negro prisoner was constantly under guard of a dozen sheriffs from neighboring counties, together with officers of Brown county.

As a result of the threat of mob action here early yesterday morning, when more than 100 Coleman county citizens tried unsuccessfully to sieze the negro, traffic was prohibited on street surrounding the county jail today.

Witnesses introduced this afternoon included physicians who described the wound which caused Sheriff Pauley's death, and trainmen who summoned the sheriff to the Santa Fe station in Coleman for the purpose of removing Smith and Arthur Tebo, young negro companion, from a freight car in which they were said to have insisted upon riding. Tebo has been held with Smith as a material witness for the state. He has been frantic with fear since the mob threat of yesterday morning, while Smith appears to be unperturbed.

It is believd by court attaches that the case will be concluded before adjournment of court tomorrow.

FATHER SEEKS ANNULMENT OF 1921 WEDDING

Injunction Granted to Keep Man Away From Girl's Home

Injunction and annulment proceedings were started in the 89th district court Monday in an unusual case in which a father and his daughter seek to restrain the girl's husband from coming around the home and also to dissolve a marriage relationship that has existed in name only since May 31, 1921. The suit is styled E. L. Windham, acting as next of friend for his daughter, Irene, who at the time of her marriage to Gussie Gregory just exactly four years ago, was only 17.

The petition recites that the girl at the time of her marriage was unsophisticated, unfamiliar with the ways of the world and was easily susceptible to the persuasions of the defendant for whom she formed "a slight attachment but not sufficient to warrant her entering the marriage state with him."

It is further alleged, however, that in May, 1921, the defendant misrepresented the age of the plaintiff to the county clerk here, obtained a marriage license and married her without the knowledge or consent of her parents. They learned of the marriage immediately, though, and have since prevented their daughter from seeing her husband. The young couple have never lived together as man and wife, the petition alleges.

Because of the alleged misrepresentation of age and also because the girl's parents did not give their consent it is contended the marriage is voidable. The injunction is sought to restrain the defendant Gregory from coming to the plaintiff's home. It was granted by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

City Goes Back to Old Times Monday In 2-Hour Parking

Wichita Falls reverted to more ancient ways Monday and went back on a two-hour parking basis in the down town section. It was the inauguration of traffic regulations deemed more advisable than those brought into effect several months ago when the city's new automatic traffic signal system was put in operation.

The police department reported at the close of the day that the public had taken kindly to the new rules and that little difficulty had been experienced in making the change. Less than a dozen arrests were made throughout the day for over-time parking and slightly more than that for double-decking. This latter feature of the new ordinance seemed to be the most troublesome.

Parking of cars at an angle of 45 degrees to the curb instead of ranking them parallel evidently met with almost unanimous approval.

During the strike that tied up a great part of Denmark's industries, transportation workers refused to walk out, thus helping the farmers to get their products to the market.

Inventive Genius Makes Calomel Delightful

Most Valuable of Drugs, Now Purified and Refined From its Nausea And Danger—"Calotabs" The Name.

The medical virtues of calomel are in no way connected with its nauseating and dangerous qualities, as is proven by the fact that the perfected calomel tablet, called Calotabs, is free from objectionable effects yet retains all of the liver-cleansing and system-purifying qualities of the old-style calomel. For biliousness, constipation and indigestion, and wherever calomel was essential, the new denauseated calomel tablet is a practically perfect remedy.

To inspire public confidence in their discovery the manufacturers have authorized druggists everywhere to refund the price if the customer is not "perfectly delighted" with Calotabs. Sold only in trade-marked packages. Prices 10 cents and 35 cents. One tablet at bedtime, with a swallow of water, that's all. No taste, no nausea, no griping, no salts. You wake up in the morning with a clean liver, feeling fine and a hearty appetite. Eat what you please—no danger.—Adv.

Third Payments Due On Welfare Pledges

Because charity work in the city has not yet experienced the usual summer slump and because a part of the pledges already were delinquent, the United Welfare treasury here is greatly in need of funds. For this reason Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr., sec... retary of the board, is making an es... pecially urgent appeal for prompt payment of the third quarterly install... ments, notices on which are now be... ing sent out.

Mhs. Gorsline declared yesterday that handling of welfare cases this year had plaied an exleptionally heavy drain on the treasury and that de... spite the advent of summer weather, there seemed to be little le up in the demands for help. Added to this, she pointed out, is the fact that of pledges made heretofore, not all had been met.

Stephenson was given a change of venue when it was decided a fair trial could not be held in the capital. The presiding judge, Fred E. Dollar's Life Six Months.

Although few citizens of the United States would admit that they could make a dollar bill last six months, this is the record Uncle Sam has hung up. Averaging even those dollar bills which get secreted in vaults and old shoes and other treasure places and are neglected for years, the average lif of a dollar bill is only six months, which means many of the "long greens" last only a few days when they leave the government or bank printing presses.

It is the present plan to maintain a grade school in each of the districts as was formerly done, but to com... bine the higher grades and high school at a centrally located point. Marriage licenses never fail to ex... ceed divorce suits, but their margin in excess is usually not nearly so great.

WHAT THE COUNTRY REALLY NEEDS IS A GOOD FIVE CENT CIGAR

A sparkling sense of humor, a knack for plain speaking, and a philosophy of life rooted in the old fashioned virtues made Thomas Riley Marshall one of the most interesting figures of his time in American public life.

His bubbling wit washed out every suggestion of false dignity and his direct manner of expression reached the understanding of millions. He prided himself somewhat that he was not a diplomat and that he never outgrew the tenets of that simple times his blunt expressions of opinion and his refusal to put on the cloak of an exalted reserve in faith in God and man to which he was born. Somehigh office worried his friends and dismayed his political advisers; but he always insisted that a man must first of all keep peace with his own convictions.

A supreme test of his fidelity to that precept came upon him in the days when Woodrow Wilson lay stricken at the White House, shut off from the nation by a veil of impenetrable mystery. Out of the many whisperings of others in high place in the government there emerged a project to declare the war president incapable of performing the duties of his office, and to elevate the second in command to the presidency. The suggestion even occupied the serious thought of some members of the Wilson cabinet. But when it was broached to Vice President Marshall he declined with characteristic bluntness and fidelity to have anything to do with it.

If he ever lost a moment's sleep from the strain of these tiring months when so narrow a margin separated him from a lasting place among the nation's presidents his close associates never suspected it. From the first to the last in his official acts and in all his utterances he remained devoted to his chief.

Death resulted from a recurrence of the heart attack which he suffered a week before. Tentative plans were made for burial at Marion, Ind., near his father and mother and a foster child who died recently.

When the end came he was sitting up in bed reading from the Bible to which he had turned throughout life for consolation and guidance and into whose passages he often delved in his office adjoining the senate chamber in moments when his presence was not required as presiding officer.

Only a nurse was at the bedside. Mrs. Marshall was in the adjoining room. Suddenly slumping down upon the pillows he passed away without a word and apparently without pain.

In his capacity as presiding officer of the senate he is remembered chiefly for the conceded fairness of his rulings and for the biting rebukes he administered to senators who insisted on taking themselves too seriously. Many a political sham battle on the senate floor, carried on amid a thunder of high sounding words, was broken up by a nicely directed shaft of humor and sarcasm from the chair. On these occasions the galleries always greeted the sally with laughter and handclapping, but the vice president with a straight face always responded by brawling out the cut and dried caution prescribed by senate precedents to curb applause.

It was after an unusually tiresome session of high flown oratory in the chamber with a long succession of senators suggesting a long list of panaceas for the post-war health of the country, that Mr. Marshall delivered himself of the dictum which has become the most celebrated of all his homolies:

"What the country really needs is a good five cent cigar."

Like the president whom he served Mr. Marshall came to high responsibility after but a short apprenticeship in public office. Five years before his election to the vice presidency he was regarded as a permanently established lawyer at Columbia City, Ind., was known to but a limited number outside his own community, never had held elective office and apparently was without political ambition. But in 1908 an unexpected turn of events elevated him to the governor's chair at Indianapolis where he was serving when the democratic national convention at Baltimore selected him as the vice presidential nominee in 1912.

Despite his rapid rise to fame Mr. Marshall never forgot his old friends or put away his old ways. To the end of his days dignity continued to rest lightly on his shoulders and back in Indianapolis he was the same democratic easy-going citizen who had swept into staid Washington like an exhilirating breeze in 1913.

One of the devotions which he carried with him to the grave was to his alma mater, Wabash College at Crawfordsville, where he was graduated at the age of 19 and upon whose board of trustees he served for many years in later life. When he was rounding out his eight years of service in the vice presidency he sent to the Wabash College library perhaps his most treasured memento of the trying period of his service in Washington—an official copy of the treaty of Versailles, used by him as presiding officer of the senate during the historic debate over the League of Nations.

BEND.

Learn to bend before the storm.

The storm passes harmlessly over the bushes which bend before it, while it lays low the rigid oak.

It is all well enough to be firm and to stand squarely on your position, but at the same time it is well to learn how to bend before the blast.

There is no man that is secure from opposition. Disaster and trouble come to all of us. It is found that those who bend before the blast last longer than those who are so egotistic that they wish to retain their position.

This is one of the advantages of courtesy in the world, and politeness. They are qualities that enable one to get far.

We should cultivate flexibility.

If our friends do not meet their obligations promptly, or if someone disappoints us, are we ready easily to adjust ourselves to these misdoings? Or are we brittle, so that the slightest thwarting of our plans breaks us in pieces?

You are not going to have smooth sailing through this world. Storms will come and earthquakes.

There is no use wasting time in tears or imprecations when things go wrong with us. It is best to adjust ourselves as rapidly as we can to the unfavorable circumstances.

Life is made up of shocks and jars. We need a flexible dispsition that can absorb these attacks and not be destroyed by them.

One of the most absurd things is sticking to an opinion because it was yours yesterday. Emerson says that "consistency is the hobgoblin of philosophers, of divines and of little minds."

If your mind is growing and your outlook broadening constantly, there will be necessity for a perpetual alteration of your position.

A good deal of the stubbornness of the world is sheer egotism. We hold an opinion because it is our own and not because it is true.

A readiness to listen to opposing arguments and to modify one's self by them is an indication that one is seeking the truth and not merely seeking to be consistent.

Who are you anyway that you should set so much store by what you thought yesterday? Perhaps the opinion of somebody else is truer than your own.

BROTHER CHARLES ON THE WAR PATH.

Brother Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, former governor and democratic candidate for vice president in 1924, is on the war path again. He says an oil monopoly in Nebraska is taking $11,000,000 annually from Nebraska because of the lack of state competition. Governor McMullen of Nebraska is a republican. Brother Charles says that when he closed out the state gasoline station, thus putting the state out of business, he cost consumers in adjoining states $176,000,000 by enabling dealers to raise gasoline prices.

Brother Charles has another grievance. He says that the effect of the gasoline tax imposed by republican lawmakers is to transfer the cost of road building from the rich to the poor, and that thus the railroads escape their share of the cost which is $2,000,000 a year.

Brother Charles, as in days of yore, says he is speaking for the down trodden; that half of the farms in Nebraska are run by tenants and the landlords are not escaping their road tax, but the renters of the farms are paying their taxes for them on account of the gasoline taxes "which transfer the taxes from the rich to the poor."

This has been the song of the Bryan brothers for 30 years. Only the poor pay the taxes. Only the rich escape tax payment. How do they manage it?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

A One Volume Library.

A traveling man of my acquaintance came into my office the other day full of excitement.

"I have discovered a great book—quite by accident," he said.

"There was a copy of it in the bureau drawer in my hotel bedroom, put there by some society which takes an interest in traveling men.

"I got in one night after I had been sleeping all the afternoon in the train, and naturally I couldn't sleep. I picked up this book and began to run it over, just dipping into it in places.

"I tell you, it's a wonder. The language is sort of hard to follow at first if you aren't used to that kind of English, but pretty soon you get the hang of it and then you find that it is full of human experience, and excitement and almost everything you want. You ought to read it yourself."

"What is the name of it?" I inquired.

"Well, if you must know, it is the Bible. I never got much encouragement to read it when I was a boy. Never went to Sunday school you know, and the family never insisted on my reading it. So really this was the first time I ever took the book up seriously. But I've got a copy now, and I read it right along, and over and over."

I have known a good many people to have this same experience. The time when reading the Bible was a part of every good English education has passed.

It is read in a desultory way by most people, of course, but getting saturated with it, as the great writers and orators of old were, is seldom heard of.

Yet the Bible contains for all classes of people, Jew or Gentile, a wider field for thought than does any other work.

It is the oldest book available, to all sorts of people, which has come down to us, and it tells in wonderful language the story of the struggles and trials and temptations of peoples, living in remote times, it is true, but subject to the same conditions to which we are subject today.

Not to know it is to be sorely handicapped when reading most of the great literature of the past, and is to lack one of the best keys to human nature that can be found.

Parents of every religious belief ought to insist that their children read the Bible and talk to them constantly about it.

As books multiply, and as novels are turned out by the dozens daily, it is easy to neglect the greatest literature that has been written.

But the Bible ought never to be neglected. Familiarity with it is a part of every good education.

And no matter whether one is a modernist or a fundamentalist, a skeptic or a church member, he will be better balanced, better educated and better able to understand and appreciate life if he is thoroughly steeped in this most wonderful of all written works.

The Gideons, which have put Bibles in all the hotel rooms of America, have done a great work for education, and have brought a new vision and a new outlook on life to many a traveling man such as my friend, the newly made Biblical scholar and ex-dead beat.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

Although you will feel full of energy and activity today, the signs denote that there will exist an atmosphere of uncertainty, which will restrain you from attempting to do many things which, under other conditions, you would carry out unhesitatingly. Such are the planetary aspects, and they indicate that no great success can be anticipated from any new plan or project initiated today. It is one of those days when it is not only necessary and essential to "look before you leap," but if practicable, it were better not to leap at all. Deliberative thought and conservative action should guide you, as the signs are very adverse to all that is radical, or that savors of speculation or unnecessary risk.

Children born today will, undoubtedly, suffer much during infancy from ailments of various descriptions. These, with proper care and correct nutrition, will quickly respond to treatment, and there is nothing that indicates that they will not attain physical maturity. Their dispositions will be retiring and unobstrusive. Their characters, although they will all possess very active conscience, will be lacking in courage—both physical and moral. Any stern, disciplinary measures adopted to correct this fault will only accentuate it Rather must these children be rewarded for the good things they do, then punished for the foolish offences they may commit. Only in this way, can they be influenced to acquire strength of character, and made to see the advantage of right over wrong.

Is today your birthday? If so, you are a creature of impulse, and rarely, if ever, give a thought to the consequence of either ill-considered speech, or ill-advised action, until it is too late to remedy the unfortunate results caused thereby. You have never been able to sit down quietly and analyze a situation, weighing with care the "pros" and "cons": rather do you rely on intuition. Success attained by intuition is heralded as a proof of its infallibility. Failure, as a result of intuition, is rarely emphasized.

The signs indicate that you possess considerable literary ability, and, if you could train your mind to be analytical, you could, undoubtedly, write entertainingly and well.

Successful people born on this date are:

Philip Kearney, major-general.
John G. Saxe, poet.
George H. Corliss, inventor.
Willard Saulsbury, statesman.
George L. Curry, governor of Oregon.
George W. Smalley, journalist.

POEMS THAT LIVE

SONG.

I plucked for thee the wilding rose
And wore it on my breast,
And there, till daylight's dusky close,
Its silken cheek was pressed;
Its desert breath was sweeter far
Than palace-rose could be,
Sweeter than all earth's blossoms are,
But that thou gav'st to me.

I kissed its leaves, in fond despite
Of lips that failed my own,
And love recalled that sacred night
His blushing flower was blown,
I vowed, no rose should rival mine,
Though withered now, and pale,
Till these are plucked, whose white buds twine
Above thy bridal veil.

—Bayard Taylor.

HOW IT STARTED

LORD AND LADY

Asked to guess at the origin of the words "Lord and Lady" one would choose an exalted derivation.

But the mill of research grinds on—let the chips fall where they may! What disillusionment to the bearers of the titles to learn that a "lord," from the Anglo-Saxon "hlaford," was originally simply "keeper of the leaf," "hlaford" meaning literally "tread keeper." And since the original lord of the manor fed his tenants at his board or from his hoard, since he was their only source of supply, the name was not inappropriate.

"Lady," too, it is interesting to note, has a similar derivation—the "giver of the loaf" or mistress of the household.

EX-ROYALTY JOINS ARMY.

Former Crown Prince Joins Bavarian Infantry.

BERLIN, June 1.—Prince Albrecht, oldest son of former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, upon passing his college entrance examinations recently, joined the first battalion of Bavarian reichswehr, infantry regiment No. 19. He will serve as a private for one year to keep up the tradition of the Wittelsbach and other royal families.

This unusual course of an avowed monarchist and aspirant to the Bavarian throne has attracted attention, not only because the service oath demands loyalty to the republican constitution, colors and institutions, but also because the reichswehr regulations do not provide for a one-year service. All other soldiers entering the republican army must, by the terms of the Versailles treaty, bind themselves to a 12-year enlistment.

The Berlin Volks Zeitung, commenting upon the enlistment, says: "Rights to all—even in the royal Bavariaan republic."

NEW TENNIS BALL MATCH

Ball Filled With Nitrogen Said to Be Airtight

LONDON, June 1.—A tennis ball filled with nitrogen and claimed to be airtight has been invented by a technical expert of one of the big rubber companies.

It is said the new ball will not lose air, and that for the first time since tennis balls were made, standards of compression and bounce can be established with scientific exactitude.

INCOME TAX UPHELD.

Supreme Court Upholds Bill of Last Legislature.

JACKSON, Miss., June 1.—The state supreme court today held that the Mississippi income tax act passed by the 1924 legislature was constitutional.

Irrigation

A Difference Between This Irrigation Project and All Others.

In previous articles we have discussed the cost of irrigation water to the land owners and the actual cost per acre to the citizens of Wichita Falls or rather or district No. 1, which amounted to the same thing.

It cost almost $100 per acre to build the two lakes and the irrigation canals to supply water to the land owners in district No. 2.

The land owners are paying at the rate of $35 per acre or just about one-third of the actual cost.

This is a most remarkable thing in the annals of irrigation. We believe it to be practically without precedent. A city offers its credit, borrows and furnishes the money to irrigate land outside its borders at less than cost.

Lands are irrigated usually with the thought of gain to the men who risk their money in building the dams and ditches.

The government projects were built without thought of gain or profit to any one but the land owners. These land owners were, however, expected to pay every penny of the cost. Here the matter of gain as well as cost is left out. The water is away below cost.

Wichita Falls has been singularly blessed by the great deposits of oil which have been found at her doors. Oil beyond anything else is responsible for the remarkable growth and continued prosperity of this city.

Oil, from the very nature of things cannot remain with us forever. Each day our our resources grow less and less. But when the oil is gone then we will have the rich lands of the irrigated valled to fall back on. Each year, and every year, there will be fresh crops to pour wealth into Wichita Falls.

Irrigation properly handled is the insurance policy of the future which has been taken out by Wichita Falls.

TARIFF PETITIONS TO CAL.

Reports on Five Increase Applications Sent to President.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Reports on five applications for increases in the tariff bill will be submitted to President Coolidge by the tariff commbission before he leaves for the summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., late this month.

The commodities involved are butter, cotton gloves, cotton warped net fabrics, straw hats and gold leaf. There are indications that the commission favors increases in several cases.

NEGRO HELD FOR MURDER.

New York Girl's Death Results in One Arrest.

NEW YORK, June 1.—After being questioned about the death of Florence Kane, who was murdered early Friday near her home in Brooklyn, Albert Johnson, a negro, today was held by District Attorney Dodd for the grand jury.

The district attorney said that Johnson first was held on a charge of vagrancy and contradicted himself on several points.

HIGHWAY PRESIDENT DIES.

Prominent North Carolinian Succumbs After Short Illness.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a lonely woman living in a small place where there are few men, and these few are all married. In desperation I answered an advertisement in a matrimonial paper. I have received a number of answers, but one especially interests me. Do you think I would be running a great risk to go out west to marry him? He says he is wealthy, and I never have had much. It is very alluring, but I thought I would write and consult you before deciding fully. LONELY.

Answer—Let me entreat you, Lonely, not to do such a foolhardy thing as to go out west to marry some man whom you have never even seen and of whom you know nothing on the face of the earth. There isn't one chance in a thousand that he is even decent and respectable, to say nothing of being the kind of man that you have have always thought that you would marry some day.

The right sort of men don't get their wives through advertising in papers for them. They don't want to marry the kind of women who would answer an advertisement and who would be willing to marry a man, sight unseen, because they are so crazy just to get married that they will take anything in trousers.

How can you have lived to be your age without knowing that the men who advertise for wives are nearly always crooks and adventurers, with some evil purpose in view? Don't you ever read the newspapers? If you do, you must have read of dozens of cases in which men married women with a little money and killed them, and then advertised for other wives and repeated the process.

Goodness knows there is enough risk in marriage anyway when you marry a man you have known for years, and with whose antecedents, and history, and business standing, and family you are familiar, without adding to it by uniting yourself to some man that you know nothing of and whom you will recognize by his wearing a white carnation in his button-hole.

Believe me, you may be lonely now, but you are not as lonely as you will be if you go out west and marry a man who may have half a dozen other wives, or a police record for all you know. You had better sit pretty as you are and wait for somebody to come with whom you have at least a bowing acquaintance.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married more than four years and have two very dear children. My husband is an oil man, consequently we have no settled home, but must follow the oil booms from town to town and state to state. My husband is devoted to me and the children, and is very good to us; but I hate this roving life and want to settle down, and am trying to induce my husband to place me and the children in some place where we can have a home. But if he does, he will not be able to see us for months at a time. What do you think is best for me to do?

PUZZLED WIFE AND MOTHER.

Answer—Stick to your husband and go where he goes, if you want to keep him. Otherwise you will lose him.

I don't think a wife is playing fair to expect her husband to support her unless she sticks to her job as a wife. Your husband is working hard under difficult conditions. He is under a great strain, and it is your part to be a good sport and make him the best home you can under the circumstances and be courageous and cheerful.

I have been in the boom oil towns and seen the life there, and know that it is full of temptations to a man. Believe me, my dear, there is no such safeguard to a man as having a home and his wife and his children on the spot.

RAUB PRESENTS PUPILS IN CLOSING RECITAL.

The closing program of the Stanley M. Raub violin pupils was given last Friday evening in his new studio, 1801 Elizabeth street. This was the last of a series of recitals in which the teacher has presented his pupils.

Part one consisted of a double violin recital by Mesdames Eyssen and Greenwood, with Mrs. O. J. McKnight at the piano. The numbers rendered were taken from a program of a double recital by Elman and Ysae, and included: Consertante by Mozart; Al- Andante, Allegro Molto; Largo monior Concerto by Bach; and Liebestraum by Miegt.

Part two included solos by the young students. Particularly noticeable was the clear and true intonation and the freedom in the use of the bow that was displayed by the juvenile violinists.

Part three consisted of solos by the more advanced pupils. Some of the more popular and better known numbers were included in these offerings.

Gives Free Lectures to Women

MRS. MARIE LA SALLE BOOTH

"My purpose in teaching physical developments is two-fold," said Mrs. Marie LaSalle Booth, lecturer on physical development who will deliver three morning and three evening lectures at the Olympic theatre and Y. W. C. A. respectively on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"I attempt in my talks to women to inspire and educate. I attempt to teach them that to be an all-around woman one must have physical, mental and spiritual co-ordination."

Mrs. Booth, herself, was an invalid once and through patience and perseverance worked out her own salvation as far as health was concerned.

"I bring my hearers, the best that I could obtain," she says. "The woman of today must be alert and wide awake. There is no place for the blaze, disinterested woman in this world of activity."

Bear in mind the time and place of the free lectures. Mornings: Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Olympic theatre at 10 o'clock; evenings, same days, Y. W. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

Suspicious Susie.

Every one of us has at least one suspicious Susie among our friends.

And oh, isn't she one of life's greatest trials.

There's simply no living with her at all. Try as you will, you can't overcome her doubts and fears and dread of being "done."

She lives in a state of abject terror, lest some day somebody will put something over on her.

Each invitation she receives is looked on with a dark and frowning suspicion.

If Edna asks her to come over to the house to spend the week-end, S. Susie confides in me gloomily: "She probably wants to borrow my blue dress this week, and that's the reason I'm invited over to see her. She'll spring it on me, when she gets me in her own house."

Nice cheerful little playmate, isn't she?

The boys shun her as poison. Well, can you blame them?

Johnnie Carr committed the fatal mistake of asking Susie out one evening. He actually had the idea that she was a good sport and would add to the gayety of the party.

Well, he called the fearful lady one evening and he said breezily: "Want to go to a party, Susie?"

Cautiously she replied: "Why, I don't know, Johnnie. What sort of a party?"

"Oh, just a dance, down at Gorry's. We're all going down there tomorrow night."

"Um. I suppose I'm the last girl you've called up—sort of a last resort?"

"Aw no, Susie. No kidding, we just got the party together. We're going to dig up a car somewhere—"

"Oh!" quickly, "I suppose you want to borrow my car. Well, I can tell you right now, dad simply won't let you have it. He's perfectly furious, already at the number of times it's been borrowed lately."

"Well for the love of Harry," expostulates Johnnie, now thoroughly peeved. "Who asked you for your darn old car? I certainly never did. Come off the high horse. If you feel so badly about going to this party—we needn't say any more about it. Good-bye."

Susie's out of the party, and if she continues to suspect the motives of her friends when they make friendly overtures, she'll soon be out of the picture.

Don't go through the world with a magnifying glass, searching and analysing the motives of everyone you know.

You've got to accept some things on credit. You've got to take it for granted that most people in the world are friendly and honest at heart.

If you don't accept that belief you'll find yourself turning into a Suspicious Susie, and that's a very unhappy role.

Miss Audrey Stevens of Houston, popular visitor in Wichita Falls on former occasions, is here for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Len Smith.

THE KATY'S YOUR RAILROAD

What It Takes To Pay Katy Taxes

The Katy's total revenue for handling U. S. mail in 1924 was less than 50% of the railroad's tax bill for the year. In fact, the Katy's total revenue for hauling both mail and express fell short, by $197,939 of providing enough money to pay the Katy's 1924 tax bill.

Railroad Taxes Almost $1,000,000 a Day

American railroads are among the country's heaviest taxpayers. In 1924, Class 1 railroads, alone, paid $340,000,000 in taxes. Taxes paid by short lines, switching and terminal companies brought the total to approximately $1,000,000 a day. In 1924, out of each dollar paid the railroads for freight and passenger service, approximately 6½ cents was used to pay taxes. Railroad taxes for the year were $182,877,000 more than in 1916.

Railroad tax payments in 1924, as in the two preceding years, exceeded cash dividends paid on railroad investment. Out of each dollar paid the railroads for freight and passenger service in 1924, only 5.6 cents was used to pay dividends. Payment of dividends was $8,177,000 less, although since 1916, the railroads have invested many millions of dollars in providing additional facilities to take care of the country's traffic.

The Katy—the pioneer in its distinctive territory, and the only line serving all the more important centers in Oklahoma and Texas through both Kansas City and St. Louis—last year paid 6¾ cents in taxes out of each dollar received for freight and passenger service. In 1916, it required only 4½ cents out of each dollar of freight and passenger revenue to pay Katy taxes. Increased taxes are an important item in the increased cost of providing railroad service.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Steve Van Vorst, a wealthy old rone, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage, and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. In Paris meanwhile Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Lydia, observing the turn of affairs, is none to pleased, especially when the dancer makes evident headway with Landis while Steve, seizing his chance, makes ardent love to Lydia. After a lavish revel in town the three accept Steve's invitation to a party on his yacht the next day, although Lydia would prefer to have Landis to herself.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. While walking she believes she sees the slumbering form of Briscoe—a few minutes later the earth opens and she is plunged in a mysterious underground passage.

On Van Vorst's yacht Marietta and Lydia engage in a verbal fusillade—Lydia's last shot being a question as to whether the dancer was interested in Landis.

"Don't you think it depends just a teeny bit on me? You used to say, Landis, that I was the life and soul of all your parties!"

His lips twisted in a queer little salf-smile, but it seemed to the watching girl that there was pain and sensitiveness behind that quirk of the lips.

"Used to," he repeated. "A good deal of water has run under the bridge since then, hasn't it?"

She thought:

"A good deal of gold has run into the family coffers."

But aloud she said, very softly and gently:

"Don't hurt me, Landis. If you have changed, I haven't. I'm the very same—friend." She emphasized the last word, tenderly.

"Incurably romantic, Lydia." Although his tone was chiding, the very manner of it was caressing.

The rest of the company grew noisier. Under cover of the chatter, Landis and Lydia withdrew a little, moving away from the others.

Landis lit his pipe, it exerted a soothing influence. Landis was at his best and mellowest when smoking the old pipe.

"The improvements at Royal Cliff are quite wonderful I believe?" queried the girl beside him, practically, with a twist away from sentiment. Time enough for that when the house-party was being given! She had a queer impulse to hurt the innkeeper's daughter, since she herself had been hurt, in a manner of speaking, by Landis' sudden marriage.

Pride had been wounded and jealousy aroused.

Of course Landis still was hers. And yet—

Rosilyn Ridgeway bore his name. She had the trump card there.

He spoke, his fine, rather moody eyes straying over the lovely landscape that was floating by them.

"Yes the old place is being done up, and naturally we're pleased about that. Mother loves it."

"And is it true that you're having a brand new, out-of-door swimming pool installed not far from the house?" Lydia's thoughts reverted to enchanting French creations graced by the name of bathing-suit. She would take a couple down with her, and startle everybody.

Her companion inclined his head.

"Yes, it was Rosilyn's idea," and then he added, almost apologetically: "She has some surprisingly good ideas you know. She's clever."

Lydia raised her brows expressively. These remarks, she knew, were made merely as a sop to conscience, on Landis' part. But they irritated, just the same.

"Remarkable in a girl who's led the life she's been forced to lead. She was practically a drudge, wasn't she? With no opportunities? But I suppose one can't hide talent. It crops up despite disadvantages."

She felt that she had neatly filled the bill with the above comments on her future hostess.

But Landis' silence was not reassuring.

Maybe, for the future, it would be better and more diplomatic to leave the subject of the bride alone?

CHAPTER LXI.

The Accident

When young Mrs. Landis Ridgeway, rushing headlong in terror of pursuit on the rough ground that edged the sea, fell into the hidden tunnel and so downwards for at least 30 feet, her head hit a boulder and a merciful unconsciousness overtook her.

Looking back upon the accident, she never could adequately recollect just what had happened.

It had been a sunny morning, and she had strolled for miles along the cliffs, enjoying the breezes and the sense of freedom that solitude gives.

Then, behind some furze bushes, she had seen the recumbent figure of a man. The man's hat had been tilted over his eyes yet the glimpse of what features remained visible had shown a remarkable likeness to Rupert Briscoe.

Rosilyn "came to" in the dimness of the tunnel, conscious of a throbbing head and aching body.

Where was she? what had happened?

She was lying prone amid loose earth, with an accumulation of loose chalk about her.

A trickle of something warm and sticky was upon her arm. It looked like a smudge of ink in the deep twilight of this hole.

Could it be blood?

She closed her eyes. Her head was swimming, and a deadly feeling of nausea swept over her. She lay there, in an almost comatose condition. Vague dreams flitted through her brain, in a befuddled sort of way.

She thought of Landis. The hours slipped by. The sun dropped from its height in the heavens, to form long, lazy shadows of the afternoon.

Rosilyn's blurred brain grew clearer. A sort of terror gripped her. This hateful, dingy cavern! What dark sec[re]t

Naval officials declare the Annapolis film would serve a good purpose of giving the public a better understanding of the navy.

FROSH AT YALE FACE 'PRO' FOR CAMPUS RIOTS

Entire Class Threatened With Discipline For Outbreaks

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1.—The entire freshman class at Yale today faces the possibility of being placed on probation for its riotous action yesterday in the Berkeley oval, the freshman dormitory section. If adopted by the college officials a probationary measure will be far reaching as it will mean the recall of the freshman crew now in practice at Gales Ferry in preparation for the Harvard regatta this month.

Desiring to celebrate the close of the college year, the freshmen first tried to see how many electric lights they could break in the oval. A bonfire was then started and the students, lacking fuel, tore down the old freshman fence which has stood for years.

Locked in the oval by the college officials the student warmed about the enclosure any many tried to scale the iron gates.

The campus police were powerless to stem the outbreak. Professor F. H. Bangs of the English department attempted to check it, but was forced to retreat to his room. Three times he faced the students and left the scene only when a fire extinguisher was turned upon him.

Threats of placing the class on probation and recalling the freshman crew and the appearance on the scene of Registrar John R. Ellis finally put an end to the celebration. The campus was covered with wreckage.

Mrs. Longworth, Leader Of Washington Society, Sells Portrait For a Beauty Ad

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Capital society learned with surprise today that Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, one of its recognized leaders, daughter of the late President Roosevelt and wife of the speaker-designate of the house, is sitting for a portrait to be used to advertise a brand of beauty cream.

If speculation was aroused as to the reason Mrs. Longworth accepted the offer of the beauty cream manufacturer her answer was set forth in stories printed today. The Longworth fortunes will be enriched by $5,000 under the contract, but the money will be placed in the bank in the name of Paulina Longworth, the 3-months-old daughter.

Whatever society might have thought of the development it could say:

"It's being done."

Queens, princesses and noble ladies have permitted pictures and signatures in the advertising of various articles. Among them are the queens of Roumania, Belgium and Sweden, Princess Mary of England, Lady Diana Manners and Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt, society leader.

Former President Roosevelt is said to have authorized a manufacturer to use his name to endorse a product.

Strangers, Brothers, Meet for the First Time In Long Lives

OMAHA, Neb., June 1.—Brothers, but perfect strangers, Joseph and Nick Lohlein, 70 and 53, respectively, met for the first time in their lives here Sunday.

Joseph came from Thermopolis, Wyo., to help his brother, Martin, 71, celebrate his golden wedding. Nick came from Albany, Minn., for the same purpose. Martin introduced the two.

"Nick, I want you to meet your brother, Joe," he said. The two men scrutinized each other rather suspiciously and clasped hands for the first time.

Never before had the two brothers been in the same city at the same time or near the same locality. Never had a letter passed between them. Both were born on a farm near Sun Prairie, Wis., the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lohlein. In April of 1872 Joseph left home to learn the harness making trade in Baltimore at the age of 17. Nick was born in July of that year.

Ed Hughes' Column

Why Jem Mace Was Insulted

Walt MacDougall, dean of American cartoonists, reminisced gloriously on old newspaper days on Park Row in a recent issue of the American Mercury. We blithely "lift" the following in order to construct the best column in months:

"Another grotesque episode was long talked of in the World office. Nym Crinkle, the witttiest writer of his day and then the world's dramatic critic, had written a clever article on Jem Mace, the famous pugilist, in which Jem was referred to several times as a savant. Harry Hill, to whom the pleased fighter shower the story, informed him that the word meant all that was unprintable, unpopular and abhorrent, whereupon Mace started down town.

"Entering the room of the city editor, Sutton, he produced the paper, laid it on the table and placing an enormous and distorted thumb upon the offending article, rumbled:

"'I want to see the blank, blank, blank, that wrote that!'

Sutton informed him that Mr. Wheeler (Nym Crinkle's real name) had written it and that he wouldn't be down until the afternoon.

"'All right; I'll wait for him!' growled Mace, taking a chair.

"Man by man the office force sneaked out silently until only Sutton and the heroic elevator boy remained on duty. The latter would tip off all newcomers and they would immediately descend to the ground floor without disturbing the graveyard peace of the city room. After a time Mace began to manifest impatience by sundry grunts and wriggles, and fixing Sutton with a leer he demanded:

"'Say, does the Wheeler bloke ever lose any of his bloody wheels? You tell me where he lives and I'll go git him!'

"Before Sutton could answer Eddie Plummer, the sporting editor, darted out of the elevator—a short, fat, red-faced man registering intense annoyance and disgust. He hastened to Mace, took him by the ear and as he lifted him from his chair shouted:

"'You big bum! Whatdya mean by raisin' hell 'round a swell joint like this? Who've ya been beatin' up, you dirty plug?'

"'I ain't been beatin' up anybody!' protested the pugilist. 'I'm waitin' fer a Dutchman named Bimshinkle, or somethin' like that. He's been writin' me up in the paper . . . . Here it is . . . . Called me a savant . . . . See here's his name signed to it.'

* * *

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Eddie glanced at the story and then seized Mace's arm and led him toward the elevator:

"'You big tub, somebody's been goosin' ya!' he roared. 'That savant thing means pachydermatous, and that means about as big a'hipponed as they make 'em. You never had as fine a send-off in your life, you blitherin' ape! Get outa here before you get ashamed of yourself.'

"Then he pushed Mace into the elevator, pulled the rickety door shut and said:

"'If you come up here beefing about anything again, I'll lam your bloody conk off ya!'

"Mace's heavy tones boomed from the cage as it descended:

"'Hi, Eddie, tell that Dutchie I thought it was a good piece, all but that savant part.'"

* * *

All this was many years ago, in what the old-timer reverently refers to as "the good old days." Being reasonably tender in years, I have been honored the past as "the good old days." The present looks pretty fair to me.

Still, there are no such scenes in newspaper offices today as good Walter MacDougall describes above. Would there were!

Mace, at least was not computing purses, percentages and gate receipts to the burial of all other earthly interests. His mind was not so commercially engrossed that it could not be aroused by a fancied injury. He had a pride in his calling—enough to seek out his tormentor face to face in the enemy's lair.

True, he "flopped," but that was later.

Mulling over Dr. MacDougall's anecdote scarns up a question in my mind. I wonder how much of the "panning" I've printed about fighters would have been swallowed by the victims in the old days? That is, without a scene in the office as portrayed above.

Times have wrought immense changes in the attitudes of both fighter and sports writer. The latter consistenly writes more good things than bad about fighters nowadays. And such "roasting" as does occur now and then is comparatively mild. The fighter—sometimes—appreciates some of the eulogies that have been penned for him. He owns no overpowering inclination to "beat up" the chap who helps fashion for him a reputation. A reputation means money. These are the days of big business in boxing, as well as in industry's marts. The pugilist of today is not a professional man. He is a business man. A "big business" man, too.

DIFFERENT TODAY

In his travels over the knuckle circuit he comes in contact with many big people so-called. He takes on a veneer of polish—sometimes more than a veneer, too. The business of boxing is a profitable one. He has his motor car, travels first class, and is keen for the most expensive weaves in clothing. Often he spends the winter in Florida playing golf and idling in the manner of the gentleman. Of course there is a certain imprint of the ring which does not vanish with the acquisition of the good things. He cannot receive wallopings without hardening of the features—the flattened, shiny nose; the lumpy, cliff-like eyebrows; the knotted ears.

One cannot expect to shake down fortune's grab bag.

All of which brings us to the conviction that the present day Jem Maces are proud of their business—not of their profession. Perhaps that's why I entertain a certain admiration for Battling Nelson—gamest of the game. One day I wrote or drew something he did not like.

I wasn't in when the Battler whirled into the office, foaming at the mouth. But he waited quite awhile, they tell me. And when Nelson left he had pushed him on the elevator as Eddie Plummer did Jem Mace.

But was a business man who was also proud of his profession.

JACK HAS MEAN DRIVE—LENGLEN

PARIS, June 1.—(AP) — Jack Dempsey left for Berlin tonight after farewells at the station from Georges Carpentier and many other more or less pugilistically known citizens of the Republic.

The American fighter and his wife had Suzanne Lenglen, the tennis star, as a luncheon guest.

"Monsieur Dempsey must have a wicked forehand drive," commented Mlle. Lenglen later.

In Berlin's Luna Park, Dempsey will appear in exhibition bouts for $15,000 a week and part of the gate receipts.

Wichita Falls Overcomes Six-run Lead, But Loses Out

DALLAS, June 1.—Eight innings of consistent hitting and scoring by Wichita Falls Spudders here this afternoon overcame a six-run lead by the Steers, tied a score at nine and nine, but failed to win a ball game when Lou North hooked a long high one over the left field fence and scored himself and Wheat to add another Dallas win to the league standing tabulation.

It was pitcher against pitcher that last inning, Lefty Winn in the box, Lou North at the plate, two outs, and a man on first. North's home run was the outcome of the battle. Dallas 11, Wichita Falls 9.

Winn was thrown in to relieve Jack Reid in the first inning after Reid had allowed five runs by the Steers. Winn is a newcomer on the club, a free agent taken on by Tanner from Shreveport to help out while the pitching staff is sore armed and Bob Osborn is away. Shreveport got him from Little Rock of the Sopthern association. He was with Milwaukee of the American association last year.

Dorman hit best for the Spudders taking first three times. Callaghan, Bodie, Turgeon and Jonnard hit twice each.

Spuds Two in First.

Wichita Falls scored twice in the first inning, Bodie's bunt and a wild throw by the Steer catcher to third allowing Distel and Callaghan both to cross the plate. The two run lead was met and surpassed by Dallas a few minutes later in the same inning when Jack Reid walked two men, threw wild to second and advanced them and then allowed five hits in a string, broken only by one pop fly. Lefty Winn was introduced then, score five and two, Dallas.

The second and third innings were scoreless, as was the first half of the fourth inning. A high wind carried Rabbitt's high fly to the center field fence and gave him a home run in the last half, Dallas up. Two more hits and a wild throw, Dorman to Golvin, allowed two more scores and the end of the fourth saw Dallas with a six-run lead over the Spudders.

Spuds Come Back.

The fifth inning was scoreless, but the Spudders came back in the sixth inning for two runs from two hits and one error. Dorman and Golvin scored them.

The seventh inning netted the Spudder crew four more runs and put them within one of tieing the score. Callaghan scored. So did Bodie, Turgeon and Golvin. Zeigler was replaced at the box by North after he had allowed five hits and the four runs.

Dallas came back in the last half of the seventh with another run. Winn allowed two hits and walked a man in this inning, filling the bases, but struck out Williams of Dallas for the third out.

Spudders took another counter in the eighth when Distel was advanced from first to home plate by Callaghan's sacrifice and Bodie's single. Dallas failed to score and the start of the ninth saw it nine-all and one inning to go.

Wichita Falls was retired quickly, pop fly and two fanned out. Dallas wasn't so easy for Wichita Falls and walked away with the ball game when Lou North's homer put Wheat and himself across the home base.

REAL TILT DUE IN DUKE'S TILT WITH MEXICAN

Rodriquez-McCamas Battle Expected to Prove Stiff One

By BLONDY CROSS

That Renato Torres, Mexican welterweight, will give Duke Trammel, Fort Worth puncher, gobs of trouble in their 10-rounder on the American Legion fistic program Thursday night is foregone, aver many of the closer followers of the game locally. Then there are others who would be willing to wager you that Torres will take Duke's measure. But any way you look at it, the mill should prove a gruelling one.

Both Torres and Trammel are clever, in fact, Duke's a better boxer than many imagine. His skill as a ring general has been overshadowed by his knockout prowess. Trammel, it is practically admitted on all sides, is a stiffer socker than Renato, but the Mexican is tough, and carries possibly the most tantalizing left hook shown here this year. That's been one of Dukes' failings, inability to keep away from a good southpaw jab or hook.

Torres Good Target

Torres is shifty from the hips up, but does not get around on his feet much faster, if any faster at all, than does the Cowtown lad. He should prove an easier target for Trammel to sharpshoot at with his flailing right than a number of Duke's recent opponents.

There is doubt, in fact, very much of it, about Torres' ability to slip over a sleep punch on Trammel. But the stands a great show, many believe, to outpoint Duke cutting him up severely while doing this. On the other mitt, if Trammel can get over his right Torres is expected to mingle with the rosin all sudden-like, for any of them will go down if caught by the Cowtowner's potent starboard hook. Let Trammel land cleanly, and it's the birdies for his opponent, but the question is, can Duke get it over cleau on the Mexican athlete?

Speed in Second Bout

There should be lots of action in the second 10-rounder of the bill featuring Blas Rodiques, flyweight countryman of Renato's, and Joe McComas of Dallas. Blas needs no introduction to Wichita Falls fandom. He strutted his wares in great style here last week with Tabby Levine. McComas has an enviable record, and according to Promoter Wofford, no doubt will give Rodriques a tough run for the decision. They're a speedy pair.

They're bringing Cliff Castleberry, Vernon preliminary boy who has been somewhat of a sensation, down to box Young Murdock six rounds, winner-take-all. Cliff appears to be a bitt too heavy for Murdock, and his Vernon friends are almost sure he will beat the Oklahoma youngster, but Murdock chirps: "Let him come!" Personally, we believe this to be an uneven match, but Murdock doesn't seem to think so.

Vernon promoters, by the way, have become irked to a degree by a bit of talking pulled by Murdock recently at Vernon, and they hope to see the little fellow licked quickly by Castleberry, so we're told. 'Twould be amusing if Murdock surprised 'em by taking Cliff to a neat lacing.

RUTH BACK; YANKS LOSE

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Yankees' losing streak continued today despite the return of Babe Ruth to the line-up, the Senators winning, 5 to 3. Ruth, who has been absent from the game for eight weeks due to illness, played six innings for his first appearance this season in a major league game. Veach replaced the former batter in right field in the seventh, it being considered advisable not to allow Ruth to exert himself. The score:

Lefty Winn, free agent picked up Manager Tanner in Shreveport, urler who was with Milwaukee dur- the season of 1924, performed the relief role yesterday in Dal- s, and will be given a trial this eek with the Spudders.

No Cuts Announced.

No announcement was made last ight as to what players will be ut from the roster in order to make way for the newcomers and keep within the Texas league player limit.

Bob Orborn at present is on the uspended list. The big pitcher is n El Paso at the bedside of his father who is seriously ill.

Both Lefty Stone and Lindstrom are hampered by sore arms, and it is possible that one or both may be put on the suspended list.

President Harvey said last night that the addition of Sutherland to the roster was but one of several deals now pending for the addition of players with which to bolster the Spudders.

Their 1924 Records.

Sutherland participated in 38 games last season, winning nine, and losing 13. He acted as a relief hurler in a great number of the contests he entered. He pitched 218 innings, giving up 255 and 138 runs. He struck out 65.

Winn took part in 41 games with Milwaukee during 1924, won eight and lost nine. He was touched for 180 hits in 147 innings and gave up 116 runs, 105 of which were of the earned variety.

The Spudders return to Wichita Falls today with Dallas for a three-game series. Shreveport comes Friday three games, and then the spudders jump back to Dallas for one, and then Fort Worth for two, returning to the city June 11.

ANOTHER FORFEIT.

Somebody had better get busy in the Sunday School league or she's liable to fall through. The First Christians forfeited for the third straight time Monday. First Baptists, by the way, break into the win column on the streigth of the Christian's inability to turn out a team to play the Baptists yesterday in a scheduled league contest. Many more forfeitures and the league will blow up.

It's a shame that First Christians with all their wealth of material can't turn out a team to cope with anything else in the league. And they's many amateur players in the city who are not attending to Sunday school at all. The Christian leaders should hustle out and bring some of these boys to Sunday school, thereby gaining from two angles, that of having built up a strong baseball nine, and that of bringing new members to the Sunday school.

PLAY ANYHOW.

The Sunday School leaguers had a short game yesterday regardless of the forfeiture. A bunch of lads picked up a team, named themselves the "Hickstown Hicks," and defeated the Baptists, 5 to 3. They played only three innings, however.

Riley Some Pitcher.

Riley Rawls hurled brilliant ball through the three innings and had the Baptist sluggers helpless. Ward's single scored Rawls for the Hick's first tally. Marvin Lewis' single over first in the second netted another score for the winners.

DON HITS TRIPLE.

Don Wofford's triple and Buster Morgan's home run were the only solid hits gathered off the slants of Rawls. Johnnie McMahon starred for the winners with a home run and in the field he caught a nice game from the position behind the platter. O'Deil McDuffy was oung great at short.

ELECTRICS PERK UP.

With the American Refiners and the Texhoma nine pushing out for all the high honors in the Twilight loop for the first half, the other four clubs are building for the last half drive. Skipper Norwood of the Wichita Falls Electric company has announced his team ready and wild to get the hop in the last half. Norwood has signed up a new first sacker by the name of Elmo Johnson of Fort Worth. Norwood is expecting this cow town first sacker to round out his infield.

Red Belcher's insurance club is slated to be a big factor in the deciding of the Twilight loop race. Today they tangle with the American Refiners and next week they meet the Texhoma nine. To beat American Refinery today would throw the tide in favor of the Texhomas. To lose to the Americans would break the tie with Texhoma, who won Sunday. Take it all in all, the Travelers have a mighty good shot to tell who wins the big honors of the race.

The Texhoma club and the Ludlam and Riggs may play off a postponed battle Wednesday afternoon. The Texhoma club is one of the big clubs in the race for the rag in the Twilight loop and are in high hopes of winning out in the race. Len Smith's ball chasers have been improving fast and are hoping to shatter the hopes of the oilers.

Skipper Gordon will likely use his ace, Charles Thompson on the hill against the clothers. Smith will probably use Skinny Griffin on the hillock.

MONTE TAKES UNTO HIMSELF A BRIDE BUT LOSES A GRIP

They're telling one in fistic circles on Wildcat Monte, the Wichita Falls junior lightweight, who slipped it over on his friends Saturday by running off without any warning and getting married.

Monte Deadwiley, that's his real name, wed Miss Estelle Barnes—and lost his suitcase.

It's this way: the Wildcat took his regular workout with Duke Trammel and the rest of the boys up at the legion gym Saturday afternoon, and then set out to get his then bride-to-be. Monte started with his suitcase in his hand. He arrived at his intended destination all right, all right, but somewhere on the voyage he lost suitcase and all. How? He doesn't know. Probably never will.

A six-round battle between a pair of duskies si also slated. Rattlesnake and Deep Valley are the ones to go in this event. There wi be other good preliminaries.

The Southern Revelers, an eight-piece orchestra, will furnish the music for the occasion. "Foghorn Red" Phillips, announced at all Spudder ball games on the home lot will be the official announcer.

Furniture Ordered For Muny Home

Furniture has been ordered for the new Municipal club house, and is expected to arrive in the city inside of 10 days, said Charley Bunnenberg Monday. Light fixtures were ordered yesterday.

The club house is practically completed, and is expected to be finished by time of the arrival of the furniture.

MUNY GOLF SECOND ROUND RESULTS

Results in the second round were: T. J. Ahern defeated Pat Jarratt, 3 and 1; J. T. Yeargin defeated A. C. Wilbern, 3 and 1; George Paull defeated W. F. Bolding, 4 and 3; Larry Smith defeated L. E. Trout, default; I. R. Sheldon defeated C. W. Kiersey, 2 and 1; E. T. Westmoreland, bye; Jack Hale defeated Frank Collier, 5 and 4, and Tim Thompson, bye.

The third round will be played this week and all matches must be completed by Sunday night, according to announcement of Club Manager J. T. Yeargin.

Pairings for the third round are: Ahern vs. Yeargin, Paull vs. Smith, Sheldon vs. Westmoreland, and Hale vs. Thompson.

Muny Tennis Courts To Be Started Soon

Site for the Muny club tennis courts has been selected, and work on the courts is to be started just as soon as other work now in progress at the club can be cleared up, according to Charley Bunnenberg.

Elks See Fast Mitt Exhibition

Following a regular business session and initiation of candidates Monday night, members of the Elks club were treated to a fast boxing smoker featuring Tommy Marvin of Jacksonville, Fla., and Tommy Deal.

Marvin is the light heavyweight who meets Joe Ferguson in a ten-rounder at Lake Wichita tonight. He had Deal outclassed clearly throughout the four-round exhibition. Marvin is scheduled to meet Young Stribling in Oklahoma City later this month.

LOCAL SANDLOTTER IS LATEST OF BENEDICTS

Baseball wasn't thrilling enough for William Henry (Dub) Davis, so Ludlam and Riggs' star catcher slipped off to Dallas Saturday with Miss Maurice Franklin and came back a confirmed married man.

"Marriage shan't interfere with my career," Davis told a reporter yesterday, as he stated his intention to catch again in the Ludlam-Riggs, Texhoma game tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis will be at home in Wichita Falls. They were back yesterday from the Dallas trip.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 1—(AP)—Marking up of the call money rate was followed today by the heavy selling of stocks which developed a reactionary tone after a relatively firm opening. The decline, which ran from 1 to 4 points in many popular shares, was generally described as a correction of a weakened technical position resulting from the recent sustained advance. The absence of many traders was reflected in the reduced volume of business, total sales falling well below one and one-half million shares.

The decline, however, was by no means general as more than a score issues, including several public utility, motor and merchandising shares were lifted to new high records for the year. Included in this list were American Waterworks common and 6 per cent preferred; American Telephone; International Telephone; Nash Motors; Maxwell Motors A; Paige-Detroit; International Paper; Woolworth; Brown Shoe; International Shoe and Frank G. Shattuck.

Steel shares yielded readily to selling pressure which was inspired by rumors of another large decrease in the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation for May, which will be made public June 10. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped 4 points to 160 and then rallied 1, while net losses of 1 to nearly 2½ points were recorded by U. S. Steel common, Bethlehem, Republic, Gulf States and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Weakness also developed in several of the other standard industrial shares. American Can showed a net decline of 2¾ at 188⅛ and Baldwin closed nearly 2 points lower at 117¼ after selling down to 115⅝.

Rails yielded with the rest of the list but not until after Reading common and second preferred had attained new peak prices at 91¾ and 44⅝ respectively. Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, New Haven, Norfolk and Western, Southern Railway and several others showed net declines of a point or two.

A sudden burst of strength in American Smelting, which was run up over 3 points to 105, revived rumors of an early increase in the dividend. Rubber shares rallied slightly in response to the increase in tire prices, effective today, but were unable to maintain their gains. Recent weakness of the International Mercantile Marine issues was explained today by the publication of the preliminary 1924 report, showing another large deficit.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and then advanced to 4½, where it closed. It is estimated that banks called about $15,000,000 in loans in order to supply funds for the first of the month requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Because of the Whitsuntide holiday abroad, trading in the foreign exchange was in small volume with price fluctuations rather narrow. Demand sterling held fairly firm just under $4.86, while French francs were quoted aroundt 5.01¼ cents.

Finger Prints Used To Prove War Vet Only An Impostor

MINNEAPOLIS, June 1.—(AP)—With a declaration by three nationally known identification experts that the finger prints of Arthur Frazier and those of Arthur Lopez-Frazier were not made by the same man, the government rested its case late today in the Lopez-Frazier trial in United States district court. Lopez-Frazier claims he is Arthur Frazier, World War veteran.

Walter S. Kaye, James Herbert Taylor and A. J. Renoe, chiefs respectively, of the identification bureau of the war department and the United States department of justice, were the government's last three witnesses.

All three made substantially the same statements:

"The finger prints of Arthur Frazier taken twice while he was in the army, and the finger prints of the claimant do not tally. They were not made by the same man."

All three said they had looked through the finger print records of Troop D, First South Dakota Cavalry, the regiment in which Arthur Frazier enlisted in 1917, to see if they could find there any finger prints that tallied with those of Lopez-Frazier. They found none, they said.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—Cotton futures closed steady at net unchanged to 1 point down.

Jan.	22.23	22.18	22.20	22.19

Opening: January, 2.12 bid; March, 22.26 bid; July, 23.28; October, 22.03; December, 22.12 bid.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—The cotton today was dull, about the only trading being evening up transactions in advance of the government report tomorrow. There was no particular price trend and the range of fluctuations was narrow. After opening 2 to 5 points down, the market eased off slowly owing mainly to press reports of good Texas rains, until October traded at 22.03 and December at 22.12 or 5 to 6 points under Friday's closing. Later prices rallied moderately, carrying October to 22.16 and December to 22.25. This rally was due mainly to insufficiency of Texas rains. After mid-session prices fluctuated narrowly and within the earlier range and the close showed no change for the day to 1 point net decline.

As Liverpool remained closed owing to the Whitsuntide holidays the local market was without the incentive usually furnished by that important market. As early press reports indicated rather good rains in southern and central Texas, the tone became slightly easier, but the weather map showed no rain of consequences in the west and practically none in the eastern belt.

After rallying on the lack of adequate Texas rains, the market gradually eased off again although the earlier lows were not duplicated, and the moderate trading near the end appeared to be eleventh hour evening up.

Three more private reports were issued today, one making the condition .73 and the acreage increase 4.7 another 75.7 and 7 and the third 74.6 and 5.8. The average of the reports so far issued is 74.9 for condition and 5.6 for acreage increase.

Exports today, 29,738 bales, of which Galveston cleared 20,779.

Weeds Come In for Further Complaints

The perennal complaint against weeds growing in vacant lots of the city was revived with gusto Monday night when Mrs. A. R. Bleakley, representing the civic league, appeared before the city council to request assistance of some sort in eliminating these nuisances.

Mrs. Bleakley spoke frankly and mentioned the names of several large real estate operators here who, she declared, had flatly refused to even co-operate wtih the city league in attempting to beautify the city. One man, she said, turned his back on her and walked away when she approached him on the subject.

Her request was given prompt consideration by the commissioners and the suggestion made that since the city has an ordinance requiring that weeds be cut from all vacant lots, it might be a good thing to test it out and see whether or nit it had any teeth.

Commissioner Patton was requested to take whatever steps were needed to clean up these unsightly spots and, if necessary, call on the police department for assistance.

Motorcops Removed From Roads Because Of the New Statutes

Paved roadways in Wichita county are without motorcycle officers, at least for a time, as a result of the ruling of the 39th legislature decreeing that no motorcycle officer making an arrest could receive a fee for it has been deemed advisable to withcers should work on a straight salary under authority from the commissioners court.

Inasmuch as all motorcycle officers here work on the fee system basis it has been deemed advisable to withdraw them until further investigation of the statute can be obtained. The sheriff and constable have been advised by the court to withdraw their officers for the present.

The law relating to collection of fees also stipulates that no officer may make an arrest by timing a car or by laying in wait, unseen by them,

Wichita Sets a Giddy Pace In Building Work

Wichita Falls continued its giddy pace in the matter of new buildings for the month of May, and with a total nearing the three-quarter million mark has already exceeded in 1925 the mark established during all of 1924. Permits for the month were $733,201, while for all of 1924 they were only $2,343,713 and so far this year have reached $2,690,143.

May goes down as the second highest month of the first five, it being exceeded by March which established a record of $832,790. January was $363,410, February $305,310, and April $455,432. May leads in number of permits issued, 168 being given out by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith.

City officials who keep reports on building matters here profess to see more banner months in store this summer. Two costly new hospitals have just been started, school improvements are to be made and more large business buildings are in sight.

STATE LOSES IN FIGHT TO TAX BEYOND LINES

Supreme Court Decides Inheritance Tax Dispute

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—States in imposing excise taxes on the transfer of estates of deceased persons, can tax only that part of the personal property which is situated within their borders, the supreme court decided today in four cases from Pennsylvania involving the estate of Henry C. Frick, the late Pittsburgh steel magnate.

The estate was roughly valued at $145,000,000. A part of it, in New York, was valued at more than $13,200,000, and a part in Massachusetts at more than $325,000. The federal government imposed a tax of $6,388,898 upon the estate and Pennsylvania sought to collect its transfer or excise tax on the estate also, before this or other such items were deducted and without any allowances for taxes paid in Kansas, West Virginia and other states for the transfer of stocks in corporations under their jurisdiction.

Today's decision by the federal supreme court, rendered by Justice Van D. Vanter, held that the value of the tangible personal property in New York and Massachusetts, should not be included in determining the clear value on which the Pennsylvania tax was computed and in determining this clear value, the stock of corporations of other states should not have been included at their full value without deducting the transfer paid to such states in respect to those stocks. It found, however, that the federal estate tax should not be deducted before imposing the Pennsylvania state tax.

The exaction by a state of a tax which it has not the power to impose, justice Van D. Vanter asserted, constitutes the taking of property without due process of law in violation of the 14th amendment. While a state may so shape its tax laws as to reach every object under its jurisdiction, it cannot give them any extra territorial operation, he explained, adding that the power to tax tangible personal propert rests exclusively in the state where the property is situated regardless of the domicile of the owner.

RAINS RELIEVE MIDDLE WEST OF ITS HOT BOX

Meanwhile East Central States Bake Under A Torrid Glare

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP)—Rains today throughout Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska brought timely relief from a long dry period reflected in reports from several stations that the Mississippi river had reached the lowest stage on record for the last day of May.

Menwhile, east central states awaited their share of the moisture to end an unusual heat wave.

The mercury in Chicago hit 95 for the second consecutive time a new high temperature for both days and indirectly caused the death of Julius Golden, 47, a tailor. At Cleveland, Ohio, the death from heat prostration of Thomas Moran accompanied reports that a 90-degree temperature signified the hottest June 1 on record there. Detroit, Mich., with a mark of 92, also complained of excessive heat.

Rains west of the Mississippi were accompanied by high wind and thunderstorms in parts of Iowa and Minnesota, reports said.

Iowa was delivered from the dryest five months in the history of the state, according to Fred L. Diterdick, United States meteorologist at Des Moines. Fruit, garden and hay crops were declared seriously damaged.

May was the dryest month ever recorded in both Iowa and Nebraska, on the heels of a two week's drought and a May total of only .55 of an inch of rain, near four inches less than the normal amount.

The light rain recorded in South Dakota failed to break a heat wave and brought only partial relief to ranchers whose pastures were dry and turning brown from a death of moisture.

The Mississippi river at Davenport, Iowa, was reported at a stage of 1.4 feet, a slight recovery from the 1.3 feet reported yesterday, which was the lowest May stage on record.

International Arm Conference at Odds

GENEVA, June 1.—(AP)—The International conference on the control of trade in arms and ammunition was in difficulties today over two main problems with the leading delegates seeking accords which might prevent a catastrophe. The first problem related to publicity on the sale of warships and the second to the fixation of special maritime zones, where the right of search would prevail for the purpose of preventing the entry of illicit arms into the prohibited zones of Africa and the Arabian Peninsula.

The United States has taken the lead in the attempt to arrange the warship issue. The earlier conference decision to exclude warships from all control having given rise to considerable misunderstanding, the American delegates became convinced that the problem could be settled by including in the Geneva convention, one of the features of the Washington conference on the limittion of armaments.

Diary of a Famless Man

EDITOR'S NOTE: The wives are leaving town. Most of them, of course, taking the children with them. The husband is home, and alone. And it is with the hope that this, which is (until the wife returns) to be a daily feature in this newspaper, will bring a sympathetic understanding, to the vacationless husband. He is actual, this author who will supply Record News readers his diary until his wife returns. Of course, he will use a pen name. But he is a Wichitan; a well known Wichitan, and in his discourses over the status of a husband when the wife is away The Record News believes "The Famless Man" will relate many a pathetic, amusing and typical incident.

By THE FAMLESS MAN

Dear folks:

The wife left yesterday, Monday. Took Katherine with her. Katherine is our little four-year-old girl. They are going to Iola, Kans., and that's a long ways off. My wife has friends in Fort Worth and Dallas and will visit there a short time before going on north. We almost missed the Denver train yesterday afternoon, because it had changed time, now leaving at 1:30 instead of 2:45 as before. But, they're off, the Lord bless 'em; off in the usual hustle and bustle, and of course I have in my pocket now a notation of the things they forgot. These I will send to Iola in a day or so.

* * * *

She May Be Gone For Six Weeks

They're going to be gone about six weeks. That's a long time.

As I write this at home out in Floral Heights (I won't tell you exactly where) it's just as lonesome as can be. Yet at the same time it does seem sort of good to feel free. Not that I want to tear out, as they say, but don't you know a man gets sort of tired of the routine of family existence. I wonder if its true, what has been said, that every so often the husband and wife ought to separate for at least a month to keep constant association from boring them?

Yet, even as I put these words down, I have a guilty feeling. I mustn't even think such things. I must be lonesome. And I am lonesome, awful lonesome right now.

I am going to tell you everything that happens (almost) while the wife is away. If I behave, I shall tell you about it. If I do not behave, I shall tell you about it—maybe. But I intend to work and work hard every moment of the time. I shall be too busy to play.

* * * *

He Is a Baptist, Which Helps Some

And so, I introduce myself, "The Famless Man" residence, Floral Heights; faith, Baptist; occupation, that's my secret; age 35; looks, just fair; makeup, just a common, average, every day sort of a Wichita Falls citizen.

And with this I bid you goodnight until another day. First I put out the cat; then I leave the key for the ice-man, because I shall be gone before he comes and there is some stuff in the icebox my wife, Ethel, told me to keep fresh and munch on occasionally.

I am undertaking the annual adventure.

Yours,

"THE FAMLESS MAN."

SMU Board Awards Honorary Degree to Methodist Officials

DALLAS, June 1—Southern Methodist university trustees Monday voted the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws to Dr. John H. McLean of Dallas, and Dr. W. W. Pinson of Nashville, Tenn. The degrees were voted as a reward for distinguished service in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and will be conferred upon the recipient Wednesday at commencement exercises at the university.

Dr. Pinson is secretary for oriental field work of the Methodist missions board. He launched the Methodist centenary movement in 1916 and was chairman of the joint centenary commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, when more than $150,000,000 was pledged by the two Methodist churches of America. He is the author of "White and Black," published in 1900 and various other pamphlets on church work. He was ordained a minister in 1878 and served many Tennessee churches as pastor. In Texas he was pastor in Austin, San Antonio and Gonzales. He also served as pastor in Georgia and Kentucky. He was elected general secretary of the board of missions in 1910 and served until 1922. He visited the mission fields of the Orient in 1912 and 1913.

New Notaries File Bonds With Clerk

Filing of bonds and administering oaths of office for a part of the 800 newly appointed notaries public in Wichita county virtually swamped the county clerk's office Monday. Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk, and two deputies were kept on the jump virtually all day attending to the bonds and oaths.

Over 800 Wichita county residents were appointed by the legislature as qualified notahies and all these must make bond and take the oaths within the next ten days. From the rush descending on the clerk's office Monday it appeared most of them were intent on dispensing with these preliminaries the first 24 hours.

Mrs. Miller could not even estimate the number appearing at her office the first day, but admitted there were "plenty."

Report Favors a Change In Water Delivery System

As an example of the cost to Wichita Falls of irrigating agricultural land on the edges of town with water from Lake Wichita, a report was submitted to the city council Monday night by Utilities Commissioner P. B. Curd in which he pointed out that some 260,000,000 gallons of soft water, or 52 days supply, could be saved for domestic use by an expenditure of approximately $60,000.

800 Acres Use It.

Commissioner Curd explained that 800 acres of farming land in and directly adjacent to the city would be irrigated this summer with water from the main supply ditch connecting the lake and the filter and pumping plants. This acreage will use about 260,000,000 gallons this summer. During the same time the city will be using about 5,000,000 gallons a day for domestic use. Therefore, the irrigation will require a 52-day supply.

It has been contended in many quarters that the irrigating of this land should be done with water from Lake Kemp, thus allowing Lake Wichita, a body of soft water, to be drained exclusively for domestic use.

Would Cost $60,000.

The report indicated that for $60,000 a supply main could be built from the lake to the water plant, this to be used for conveying city water and the supply ditch which now carries the water from lake to plant could be connected with the south side canal, divert Lake Kemp's hard water from Lake Wichita and place it at the disposal of irrigating farmers.

A charge of 25 cents per 1,000 gallons would bring a return of $65,000 on the 260,000,000 gallons thus saved.

Masonic Band from Orphanage Coming

An unusual musical treat is in store for Wichita Falls next Wednesday when the 30-piece brass band from the Masonic orphans' home at Fort Worth appears in concert at the Junior college start at 8 o'clock and will follow a tour of Wichita county, including Burkburnett, Electra and a few of the oil fields.

The band is made up of youngsters cared for at the Masonic home and is now on a tour of north Texas to demonstrate to Master Masons of the district just what is being accomplished at the home. No admission will be charged for the concert and no free will offering of any kind will be solicited.

In connection with its appearance, a business meeting of all Master Masons has been called for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Masonic temple. Congressman Guinn Williams, grand master of all Masonic lodges of Texas, will be here as a speaker.

Rio Grande Rising As Loss to Farms And Ranches Soars

SAN ANTONIO, June 1.—Many farms along the banks of the Rio Grande are inundated and hundreds of head of livestock are reported being carried down the river at Rio Grande City, according to long distance telephone reports from those sections late today.

The river was rapidly receding at Laredo, but was rising slowly farther down. Backwater filled the San Juan near Rio Grande City and gave rise to reports of an overflow in that river.

With a flood stage of 15 feet, the Rio Grande showed 24 feet at 6 p. m. today and was still rising slowly. Reports from Zapata on the river above Rio Grande City was that a second rise was on there after a few feet fall Sunday night. Roma reported the river still rising. It was then at 24 feet.

Mission reported 20.6 feet at 5:30 p. m., only 0.6 of a foot rise since 8 a. m. The flood stage there is 24 feet and the river was still rising slowly late in the day.

San Benito reported a crest of 57.2 feet. The record was 54.6 in 1922, at which time the river was bank full. Two minor breaks in the river levee occurred during the day above Halingen, but they were stopped up with sandbags immediately, and before any damage was done.

He Is a Baptist, Which Helps Some

And so, I introduce myself, "The Famless Man" residence, Floral Heights; faith, Baptist; occupation, that's my secret; age 35; looks, just fair; makeup, just a common, average, every day sort of a Wichita Falls citizen.

And with this I bid you goodnight until another day. First I put out the cat; then I leave the key for the ice-man, because I shall be gone before he comes and there is some stuff in the icebox my wife, Ethel, told me to keep fresh and munch on occasionally.

I am undertaking the annual adventure.

Yours,

"THE FAMLESS MAN."

SMU Board Awards Honorary Degree to Methodist Officials

DALLAS, June 1—Southern Methodist university trustees Monday voted the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws to Dr. John H. McLean of Dallas, and Dr. W. W. Pinson of Nashville, Tenn. The degrees were voted as a reward for distinguished service in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and will be conferred upon the recipient Wednesday at commencement exercises at the university.

Dr. Pinson is secretary for oriental field work of the Methodist missions board. He launched the Methodist centenary movement in 1916 and was chairman of the joint centenary commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, when more than $150,000,000 was pledged by the two Methodist churches of America. He is the author of "White and Black" published in 1900 and various other pamphlets on church work. He was ordained a minister in 1878 and served many Tennessee churches as pastor. In Texas he was pastor in Austin, San Antonio and Gonzales. He also served as pastor in Georgia and Kentucky. He was elected general secretary of the board of missions in 1910 and served until 1922. He visited the mission fields of the Orient in 1912 and 1913.

New Notaries File Bonds With Clerk

Filing of bonds and administering oaths of office for a part of the 800 newly appointed notaries public in Wichita county virtually swamped the county clerk's office Monday. Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk, and two deputies were kept on the jump virtually all day attending to the bonds and oaths.

Over 800 Wichita county residents were appointed by the legislature as qualified notahies and all these must make bond and take the oaths within the next ten days. From the rush descending on the clerk's office Monday it appeared most of them were intent on dispensing with these preliminaries the first 24 hours.

Mrs. Miller could not even estimate the number appearing at her office the first day, but admitted there were "plenty."

Report Favors a Change In Water Delivery System

As an example of the cost to Wichita Falls of irrigating agricultural land on the edges of town with water from Lake Wichita, a report was submitted to the city council Monday night by Utilities Commissioner P. B. Curd in which he pointed out that some 260,000,000 gallons of soft water, or 52 days supply, could be saved for domestic use by an expenditure of approximately $60,000.

800 Acres Use It.

Commissioner Curd explained that 800 acres of farming land in and directly adjacent to the city would be irrigated this summer with water from the main supply ditch connecting the lake and the filter and pumping plants. This acreage will use about 260,000,000 gallons this summer. During the same time the city will be using about 5,000,000 gallons a day for domestic use. Therefore, the irrigation will require a 52-day supply.

It has been contended in many quarters that the irrigating of this land should be done with water from Lake Kemp thus allowing Lake Wichita, a body of soft water, to be drained exclusively for domestic use.

Would Cost $60,000.

The report indicated that for $60,000 a supply main could be built from the lake to the water plant, this to be used for conveying city water and the supply ditch which now carries the water from lake to plant could be connected with the south side canal, divert Lake Kemp's hard water from Lake Wichita and place it at the disposal of irrigating farmers.

A charge of 25 cents per 1,000 gallons would bring a return of $65,000 on the 260,000,000 gallons thus saved.

Masonic Band from Orphanage Coming

An unusual musical treat is in store for Wichita Falls next Wednesday when the 30-piece brass band from the Masonic orphans' home at Fort Worth appears in concert at the Junior colstart at 8 o'clock and will follow a tour of Wichita county, including Burkburnett, Electra and a few of the oil fields.

The band is made up of youngsters cared for at the Masonic home and is now on a tour of north Texas to demonstrate to Master Masons of the district just what is being accomplished at the home. No admission will be charged for the concert and no free will offering of any kind will be solicited.

In connection with its appearance, a business meeting of all Master Masons has been called for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Masonic temple. Congressman Guinn Williams, grand master of all Masonic lodges of Texas, will be here as a speaker.

Mission reported 20.6 feet at 5:30 p. m., only 0.6 of a foot rise since 8 a. m. The flood stage there is 24 feet and the river was still rising slowly late in the day.

San Benito reported a crest of 57.2 feet. The record was 54.6 in 1922, at which time the river was bank full. Two minor breaks in the river levee occurred during the day above Halingen, but they were stopped up with sandbags immediately, and before any damage was done.
