Arrest protest

NEW WAVERLY, Texas (AP) — Several demonstrators have protested near a grocery store where they say a police officer used brutality in arresting a man, a witness said.

About 12 protestors marched Thursday carrying signs and objecting to Walker County Sheriff's Deputy Paul Thornton's arrest on Saturday of Michael Ross, said Terry Otto, manager of Clint's Supermarket.

May surrender

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP) — Two days after his stunning prison break, drug lord Pablo Escobar says he's willing to surrender — but left authorities wondering what conditions he may impose.

In a taped message to Colombia's Radio Caracol on Thursday, the leader of the Medellin cocaine cartel demanded the United Nations guarantee his safety.

However, Escobar gave no other immediate hints on whether he will insist on new terms for his custody or prosecution.

In the radio message, he assured Colombians that his escape did not mean a return of the murderous bombing campaign of 1989 that forced the government to abandon its policy of extraditing suspected drug kingpins to the United States.

POW-MIA families heckle President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush was roundly heckled and interrupted today when he went before an audience of POW-MIA families to defend administration efforts to get information about Americans who did not return from combat.

The episode began when one woman stood up and yelled at the president, "No more lies."

Then, a good portion of the audience of about 300 stood up and shouted at Bush, "Release all files; tell the truth." Some people held up pictures of missing relatives.

It took five minutes before order was restored. In the meantime, Bush walked away from the lectern at a suburban hotel and talked with Jeff Donahue, the brother of an Air Force major missing in Laos and a member of the National League of Families of American MIAs-POWs in Southeast Asia.

Returning to the microphone, Bush angrily told the group he did not like the suggestion that he would sit on knowledge about missing servicemen.

He said such charges were "totally unfair."

"What kind of allegation is that to make against a patriot?" Bush demanded.

"Would you please be quiet and let me finish?" Bush said when he was interrupted again. "Would you please shut up and sit down?" he said to applause.

"To suggest that the commander-in-chief that led this country into its most successful recent effort would condone for one single day the personal knowledge of a person held against his will, whether it's here or anyplace else, is simply totally unfair," Bush said.

Bush told the audience that Donahue had urged him "go over there and bring them back." Bush said he would do just that "if I knew of one single person."

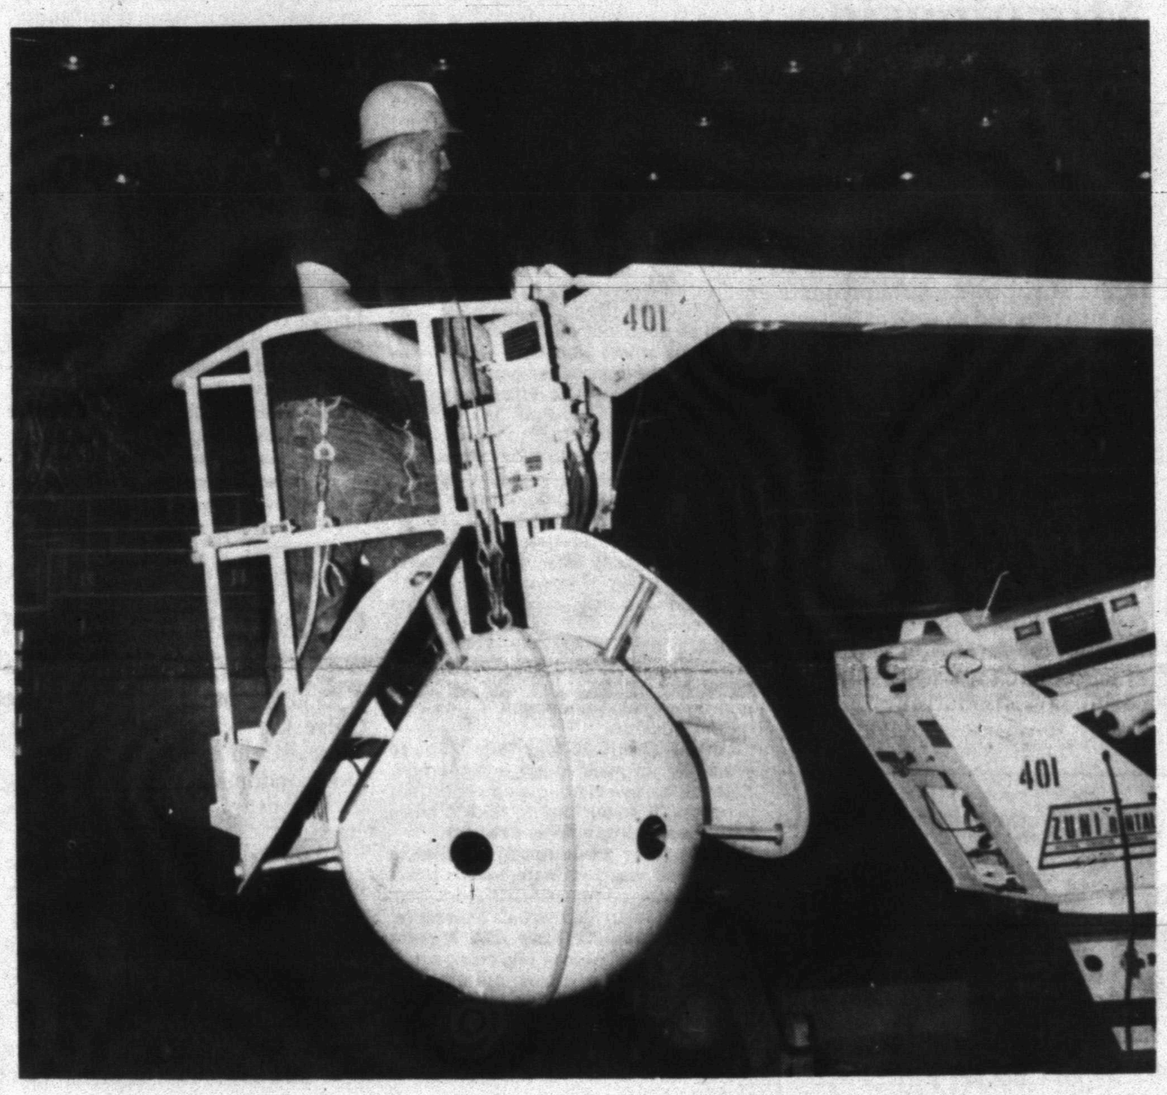

At one point, as they talked away from the microphones, Bush was heard to ask Donahue "are you calling me a liar?" His answer could not be heard.

Bush also angrily denied the suggestion "that we left people prisoners in Iran in order to win an election."

Bush pointed to his own military service in World War II as a naval aviator. He said seven out of 15 in his squadron died in action.

The scene for turmoil was set even before Bush entered the room. During the wait, the audience sang patriotic songs, including "The Star-Spangled Banner." After the words "home of the brave," some in the group shouted "why aren't they home?"

During the shouting, Secret Service agents suddenly stood between the audience and the president, who was on a podium. Many in the room implored others to "let him finish."

New sound system in place at Scurry County Coliseum

Installation of a new state-of-the-art sound system for Scurry County Coliseum began Thursday, as workers hung speakers on either side of the scoreboard in the center of the facility.

The installation is to be finished today, according to Coliseum Promoter Bernadette Stephens, who added that the system will be used for this weekend's Best of Texas Steer and Lamb Show.

"Work will continue this afternoon with the installation of the mixing board and additional speakers in the ag building," said Stephens.

The Muzak brand reinforced sound distribution system includes speakers that will radiate sound to every section of the coliseum, and capabilities for nine microphones, including one wireless system.

The system is being leased on a 10-year contract from Business Music, Inc. of Lubbock, which was approved by county commissioners July 6. The agreement calls for a 10-year lease at $300 per month with a 90-day termination clause if funds are not available for the lease.

A $2,800 installation fee was included, with $1,400 paid upon signing of the contract. The balance of the installation fee is due Jan. 1, 1993.

At the July 6 meeting, Stephens told commissioners that the $300 per month would be met by charging a fee for use of the system. Anyone needing a sound system for an event at the coliseum will be required to use the house system at a cost of $50 for the first day and $40 for each additional day of use.

Stephens projected a profit margin of $2,400 per year on the system, based on 150 event days at $40 per day. The profit margin would be cut to $1,000 for the first two years due to payment of the installation fee.

'Best of Texas' opens Saturday

Livestock begins arriving this evening for the third annual Best of Texas Steer and Lamb Show at Scurry County Coliseum.

"Go For The Gold" Olympic Coverage Page 9

The lamb show opens at 9 a.m. Saturday with over 325 lambs expected. The event will continue at 8 a.m. Sunday with over 200 entries in the steer show.

The show will involve 4-H and FFA members from across the state. Over 400 participants are expected.

Entries for the lamb show will be open until 8 p.m. today and entries for the steer show will be open until 12 p.m Saturday.

Both the lamb and steer show will be broken down into three classes. Each will have a progress class, a prospect class and a breed class. The steer show prospect class will consist of steers weighing 900 pounds and below. Grand champion in this class will receive $1,000 and the reserve will receive $500.

The progress class will be steers weighing more than 900 pounds. Grand champion for this class will earn $500 and the reserve will receive $250.

The breeds class will consist of 14 breeds. Belt buckles will be awarded to the winner of each class. Other participants placing in the show will receive prize money and ribbons.

The lamb show will also consist of a progress, prospect and breed classes. The prospect and progress classes will be determined by the weight of each breed. The prospect grand champion will receive $500 and the reserve will receive $250.

The progress class grand champion will receive $100 and the reserve will receive $50.

There will be four breed classes and a belt bucklm will be awarded to the winner of each.

Awards will also be given for those excelling in the area of showmanship. These classes will be divided into junior and senior division.

Make sure voter card still valid

In addition to the high profile presidential race, the November elections feature a number of races which directly impact Scurry County. Therefore, the county clerk's office is urging residents to check their voter registration certificates now for validity.

According to County Clerk Frances Billingsley, current voter registration certificates should be blue and white with an expiration date of Dec. 31, 1993.

All certificates that are not corrected by the middle of August will be cancelled at that time, and persons will have to re-register to vote in the November general election.

Over 925 uncorrected certificates were returned to the county clerk's office last year because the post office could not deliver them as they were addressed.

Billingsley said this was caused by persons moving within the county and not changing their address, moving out of the county or even changing their names.

Prosecutor says CIA took part in coverup

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA spymaster Clair George and other agency officials engaged in a massive coverup of a secret White House-run weapons network to the Nicaraguan Contras, a prosecutor alleged today at the opening of George's criminal trial.

Iran-Contra prosecutor Craig Gillen said George was inundated with cables from CIA outposts informing him that White House aide Oliver North was overseeing the Contra resupply operation in 1985 and 1986.

Gillen said Director William Casey, George and CIA officer Alan Fiers discussed whether to reveal to Congress in October 1986 who was behind the operation. They decided not to, Gillen told the jury.

When he testifies at George's trial, Fiers "will tell you" that he hid North's network from Congress, Gillen told the jury.

Fiers "was trying to protect himself, he will tell you that he was trying to protect the CIA and that he was trying to protect Clair George," Gillen added.

Russell Skiles, in the Lamesa Press-Reporter, indicates it's better to worry about the important things in life.

"Have you ever bought a pant? Or purchased a slack? Did you put on a jean this morning?

"No? Then how about a pair of pants, a pair of slacks, or a pair of jeans?

"Since slacks, pants, jeans or whatever you call them are a single item, did you ever wonder why we talk about them in pairs?

"You've got on a pair of socks, but of course those are two separate items — two, a pair. And we have a pair of glasses because normally there are two separate pieces of glass — or plastic nowadays.

"So why do we wear a pair of pants? They're one item.

"Some folks claim it's because jeans have two legs. But have you ever been able to buy a single jean? Shirts have two arms, but we don't call each shirt a pair.

"And if you claim it's because pants have two legs, then how are you gonna explain a pair of underwear? Because they have two holes? Holes are nothing. Do you go in a store and pay money for three pairs of nothing?

"Nope.

"But how about a pair of binoculars? Aren't binoculars really a pair of monoculars? Maybe that's a whole 'nuther story..."

O.G. Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, told about watching some kids in his neighborhood skate up and down the sidewalk in front of his house.

One youngster carried with her a small, stuffed toy while skating.

Nieman said the youngster gave him one of those withering looks that only kids can offer when dealing with hapless adults.

"Of course not," she said. It helps me when I fall down."

Southwest successful in California

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Airlines, which already has a Texas flag painted on one of its planes, may have to add a Golden Bear-model to its fleet.

The Dallas-based airline has thrived the last two years in California, dropping Texas, its home state, to its second-most profitable intrastate market.

The airline's growth within California, whose flag has a Golden Bear roaming on a grassy patch beneath a red star, has made Southwest the state's second-most used intrastate airline.

In the final quarter of last year, only United carried more fliers within California than Southwest. It flew past American with 24.1 percent of the market.

"It's almost as though the airplanes we order from Boeing and put in service in California come with people already in the planes," Don Valentine, Southwest's vice president of marketing, quoted Southwest chairman Herb Kelleher as saying.

Airline officials estimates Southwest will capture 30 percent of California's market in 1993. That likely would pass United, which held a 32.7 percent share at the end of 1991.

Most of Southwest's Northern California flights stop in Oakland, helping that airport move past San Jose as the area's second-most used. San Francisco leads the region.

"Their introduction into Oakland has really expanded the market at the time when other markets throughout the country are going the other direction," said David Ulmer, vice president for planning at Roberts & Associates and author of a study by the Hayward, Calif., consulting firm.

U.S. Department of Transportation statistics indicate that Southwest's traffic in California has more than doubled each year since 1988.

Bad Breath May Mean Bad News Elsewhere

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Halitosis," written by a woman who brushed her teeth, flossed and gargled daily, and still no one wanted to kiss her, prompts this letter: I, too, had this problem. I tried everything, plus chewing gum and breath mints, but nothing helped.

I later discovered that I had infected sinuses, and the constant drip down my throat caused me to have a chronic bad taste in my mouth. I was also told by a few kind friends that my breath was "strong." I finally took the hint and went to my dentist, who checked my teeth and sent me to a physician. Sign me ...

FOREVER GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: You were indeed fortunate. Masking one's halitosis, which is often a symptom of a serious problem, only delays searching for the cause. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the woman who complained about chronic halitosis was right on the button. My dentist sent me to a specialist, who sent me to another specialist who dealt with stomach disorders. I was told, after numerous tests, I needed colon surgery. That operation confirmed that "something" was seriously wrong. It was cancer, which they said they caught in time. Praise the Lord! That was five years ago, and I'm still here. Please warn your readers.

...These books come addressed to me at my home address, and a letter accompanying the books always begins, "Dear Member." Abby, I did not join a book club. This is getting ridiculous. What can I do?

They had a large formal wedding, and received many cash gifts from the groom's side. Should that money be evenly divided between the bride and groom? Or should all of it go to the groom?

Condom distribution plan opposed

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A local organization has asked the Galveston school district to reverse an earlier decision to provide condoms and sex counseling to Galveston Ball High School students.

Larry Maxwell, director of the Bay Area Family Association, said Thursday a group of local residents asked him to take action in hopes of stopping the Galveston Independent School District from providing such services.

Maxwell said letters have been sent to Galveston Superintendent James Pickett and school board members, saying that the school district will be contributing to the delinquency of a minor child and conspiring to commit a criminal act if the condoms and counseling are offered.

The signal is misunderstood

By Phillip Alder

Most players know how to give a suit-preference signal when they are returning a suit that partner will ruff. But there are other times when a suit-preference signal may tell partner which suit to lead.

Defending against four spades, West led the diamond king. After winning with the ace, declarer had several options. He could draw trumps and hope for a favorable club division — either 3-3 or J-10 doubleton. Or he could draw two rounds of trumps and then start on the clubs. However, as you can see, neither line would have worked.

Instead, South returned his second diamond at trick two. Under his partner's queen, East was careful to signal with the 10. He knew the diamond situation and he wanted to tell his partner to lead hearts, not clubs.

Now West had to find the right play. If East had a singleton heart ace, West had to lead a low heart. But with the actual distribution, this would have allowed declarer to make the contract. When East wins with the heart ace and returns a diamond, South discards his second heart. Eventually South throws his club loser on dummy's diamond jack. However, West got it right. He cashed the heart king before leading a low heart to his partner's ace. Now a diamond through promoted a trump trick for West to defeat the contract.

Give a suit-preference signal when you have several cards to choose from, all of which are unnecessary either for tricks in the suit or for signals about that suit.

Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper. They can be answered only through the column.

Chicago finally gets Hollywood star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After selling more than 100 million albums over the past 25 years, the rock band Chicago got a star in the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

"If it weren't for the fans we wouldn't be working," band member Lee Loughnane said during Thursday's ceremony on Hollywood Boulevard.

Loughnane and band members Jason Scheff, Walt Parazaider, James Pankow, Robert Lamm, Billy Champlin, Dawayne Bailey and Tris Imboden were in Los Angeles for a 25th anniversary concert.

The star was placed in front of a lingerie shop, the band said, because Chicago's music "has been the soundtrack for lots of wild romance."

Dallas postal worker wins $1 million

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — When Carolyn W. Moore opened a safe containing the message that she'd won a million dollars in the Texas lottery, she had seen it all before — in a dream.

"I dreamed the dress, I dreamed the (pre-lottery) dinner, I dreamed the safe," she said, explaining the premonition she had the night before. "You know how stuff just comes to you?"

On Thursday, $1 million came to her during a Texas lottery drawing among seven finalists at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

The 42-year-old supervisor with the U.S. Postal Service had bought one lottery ticket each payday since the lottery began May 29. She became Texas' sixth million-dollar winner.

Ms. Moore, who appeared quiet and reserved leading up to the drawing, raised a clinched fist and tossed a cowboy hat into the air when she learned she had won.

"You just say 'Thank you.' You just say 'Thank you,' " she said, describing her thoughts as she opened the safe that contained the million-dollar message at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

Ms. Moore said she rubbed a lucky necklace and prayed as the drawing began.

"I honestly plan to invest it and use it on my family, donate a little bit and be happy — buy all the little things I always wanted but couldn't afford," Ms. Moore said.

She said her son, Ornate Black, turns 16 in October and wants a car. Ms. Moore smiled and said that doesn't necessarily mean he'll be getting one.

Ms. Moore lives with her son, sister and nephew in Dallas.

As for buying only four lottery tickets in all, Ms. Moore said her father, the late George Hawkins, taught her that kind of restraint.

"And, I'm not a gambler," she said.

The first runnerup in Thursday's drawing was Vivian Fisher, 76, of Sweeny, who had her son Richard Fisher represent her. She won $50,000.

Other finalists winning money were Daniel S. Pesina, 24, of San Antonio, $25,000; James A. Smith, 31, of Killeen, $15,000; Gilbert C. Rendon, 51, of Austin, $15,000; Billy McCraw, 72, of Honey Grove, $10,000; and Bill Winters, 33, of Fort Worth, $10,000.

As Ms. Moore won the million dollars, her mother, Pat Hawkins of Wichita Falls, rushed to the stage with other friends and relatives, shouting, "Yes! Yes!"

What was she thinking about?

"That my husband just passed three months ago and the gods are looking down on us," Ms. Hawkins said, fighting back tears. "He was such an articulate person, and he would have been very proud of Carolyn and his children and everything like this."

Later, Ms. Hawkins could be heard using a pay telephone in the Institute of Texan Cultures calling long-distance relatives and shouting, "We're a millionaire, we're a millionaire!"

Ms. Moore said she plans to keep working, at least for a while.

"I don't know any other life. I really don't," she said.

And Ms. Moore said she'll keep buying Texas lottery tickets.

"I will," she said. "One every pay day."

Librarians angry over new law

DALLAS (AP) — A law dividing Texas' 10 regional library systems into as many as two dozen regions would close the book on efficient service, angry librarians told a state agency Thursday.

The Texas State Library and Archives Commission, responding to the protests, voted 6-0 against taking action on the reorganization. Commissioners urged the 1993 Legislature to exempt libraries from the new law.

Representatives from rural areas told the commission in Austin they would be cut off from urban libraries' massive resources if the new regions were established.

"This would be absolutely devastating to our libraries," Wayne Sellers of Palestine said. "This is the greatest threat to our libraries in more than two decades."

Currently, libraries in rural areas are combined with those in big cities and suburbs in each of the regions.

But the Legislature last year passed a law ordering uniform service regions for all state agencies to improve their operations.

If lawmakers do not exempt libraries before the March 1993 deadline for implementation, the commission would be forced to reshuffle libraries into as many as 24 regions under the Uniform State Service Region rules.

"There is a widespread feeling this would weaken some libraries because the present regions were organized so that there would be at least one good library system in each of 10 regions," said commissioner Jimmy Banks, who made the motion to indefinitely postpone the reorganization.

Dallas libraries' director, Patrick O'Brien, said he opposed the new regions because of what they would do in rural areas.

Betty Henderson of Pampa said state funding for her area, the Texas Panhandle Library System, would be drastically cut with the reorganization since existing funds would be spread among more regions.

Man pleads innocent to charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man accused of stalking singer Janet Jackson has pleaded innocent to sending threatening mail.

Frank Paul Jones, 33, of New York, entered the plea Thursday in federal court and was held without bail.

Jones allegedly sent Miss Jackson up to 40 letters with threats against her, her boyfriend, her brother Michael Jackson, movie director John Singleton and President Bush, according to the FBI.

Jones was arrested June 22 outside the Jackson family compound in suburban Encino and was charged with trespassing and stalking. Those charges were dropped Wednesday after federal prosecutors took over the case.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For about 10 years I've been plagued with "attacks" of dizziness, faintness, vertigo and chest pain. They are accompanied by an upset stomach and occasional back pain. Tagamet or Zantac lessen the intensity of the attacks but don't cure them. During the attacks, the circulation to my extremities seems to be impaired. In the last few years I've developed a pituitary tumor, shingles, deep venous thromboses and have a persistent duodenal ulcer. Is there some sort of medical condition at the root of most of my problems?

DEAR READER: There probably is, although space restrictions do not permit me to detail the inter-relation of your various afflictions. This is a job for your doctor, with whom you need to have a thorough discussion.

I'm particularly concerned about your "pituitary tumor" and how it was treated. Certain glandular malignancies are associated with immune deficiencies (explaining your shingles), accelerated blood coagulation (causing your deep venous thromboses), and ulcers. Return to your doctor for clarification.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Viruses and Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 30-year-old woman who has had four children. After I stopped nursing my last baby, I noticed my breasts had lost their shape and size. Exercise, vitamins and hormones have been recommended to me; yet I'm not sure which route to take. There must be something I can do so I can be the same as I was prior to four children!

DEAR READER: I'm sorry to disappoint you, but there is no way — short of plastic surgery — to return your breasts to their former state.

While exercise will make you feel better, vitamins are necessary for good health, and hormones may be appropriate when you near menopause, these methods will have little effect on your breasts, which have been severely stressed by pregnancy and breast feeding.

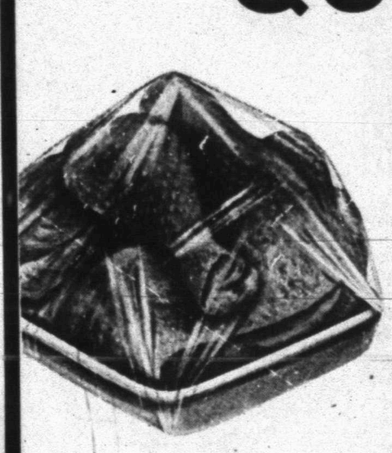

With such a large family, I think you should accentuate the positive: Stop bemoaning the fact that you no longer look 20 years old and emphasize your new role as a mother, caregiver and more mature woman.

If this doesn't work and you're still troubled by a body image that includes sagging breasts, see a plastic surgeon for advice and possible reconstruction.

Freeman injured in NFL workouts

Snyder's Kyle Freeman sustained a torn Achilles tendon in workouts with the Los Angeles Raiders Tuesday at St. Edward's University in Austin.

The former SHS and Angelo State University standout injured the tendon while rushing Dallas Cowboys punter Mike Saxon in a special teams drill.

Freeman was a free-agent linebacker for the Raiders, who acquired the Snyder native after he was released by the Houston Oilers in 1991.

He is expected to miss the entire 1992 NFL campaign.

Freeman, 6-2, 220 pounds, was flown back to Los Angeles Tuesday night and underwent surgery Wednesday at Beverly Medical Center.

Freeman was an All-Lone Star Conference defensive end at ASU where he also competed in track, earning national recognition in the shot put, the discus and the hammer. He was the 1989 NCAA Division II national shot put champion.

McLane agrees to buy Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros owner John McMullen says he is doing the city "a great favor" by agreeing to sell the National League club he has owned since 1979 to Temple businessman Drayton McLane Jr. for an estimated $115 million.

McMullen said Thursday that the two had struck a deal that would close at the end of October.

He disclosed no financial terms, but he and McLane scheduled a news conference today to discuss the sale.

The Houston Chronicle reported today that McLane will pay $115 million for the Astros and the Houston Sports Association's lease on the county-owned Astrodome complex.

Ethan Cartwright, a spokesman for the Houston Sports Association, said shareholders have agreed in principle to sell McLane the Astros ballclub and HSA's lease on the Harris County-owned Astrodome complex.

"I've done you a great favor, bringing him here," McMullen said of McLane Thursday night at a benefit hosted by the Astros' wives.

"It's a sad moment, in a way, but I've done the right thing," he said. "After all, I spent 14 years building this place up, and it's beautiful, and I hate to leave."

McMullen bought the team for about $18 million.

The sale must be approved by 75 percent of the National League owners and a majority of the American League club owners.

McMullen said although he also had wanted McLane to buy some of HSA's three hotels, they were not included in the deal, reportedly because McLane refused to buy them.

McMullen told Houston television station KRIV that he "really did not obtain my objectives" in cutting the deal. "I always felt that I wouldn't do it unless the hotels were included and they're not included," he said.

However, he said he decided to sell because he felt McLane was the right buyer.

"McLane's a very, very fine man. He was sensible and he was courteous and he was correct, and he was a pleasure to deal with," McMullen said.

Christi Lucksinger, a spokeswoman for McLane Co. Inc., would not confirm or discuss the agreement Thursday. McLane was in his Temple office but was unavailable for comment, she said.

McLane is the second-largest stockholder in Arkansas-based Wal-Mart Corp. and president of McLane Co., a grocery distribution business.

"We're glad it's come to a finish, so to speak. Now we'll find out exactly what direction we're going to be going," Howe said.

"I have no problem with John (McMullen). He's done a good job, as far as I'm concerned. He's always tried to win. And we're going to miss him, believe it or not."

Some Astros players who also attended Thursday night's benefit for the Houston Area Women's Center said McMullen had treated them well, but they hoped the sale would bolster flagging fan support for the team.

"I guess it's good for Houston. Maybe the change will bring more fans out, maybe get a renewed interest in the Astros. I mean, there haven't been that many people attending games," outfielder Steve Finley said.

Teammate Craig Biggio, a 1991 All-Star, said: "I think there was a lot made of Mr. McMullen being an owner in New Jersey and so on and so forth, and the fans held it against him."

"It's clear to me I lost the public relations battle in Houston and there's not too much I can do to overcome that. So it's no fun," agreed McMullen, who lives in Montclair, N.J.

"I did this for joy and happiness and it hasn't been that way for a number of years. There's a time to come and a time to go. It's time to go."

Rangers rally past Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Texas Rangers were headed for another loss, and then some strange things started happening.

Light-hitting Jeff Huson homered. Jose Guzman dared Baltimore to hit his best pitch, and the Orioles couldn't. Then, when Guzman faltered, the Rangers' bullpen bailed him out.

It all added up to a 4-2 Texas victory Thursday night, only the Rangers' third in their last nine games. Combined with Minnesota's rainout, Texas moved within eight games of the Twins in the AL West.

"Every win for us is important," Huson said. "We've got a slim chance, but you never know. It's only the end of July."

The Rangers' bullpen has blown several games of late, but this time Edwin Nunez and Jeff Russell shut down the Orioles without any difficulty.

"The worm's turning, as we like to say," Huson said. "We've run into some bad luck. But tonight, we got out of it when we needed to."

At one point between the third and sixth innings, eight of 17 Orioles who came to the plate reached base — but not one of them scored.

"We need to cash in on those type of opportunities," said Baltimore manager Johnny Oates. "We just didn't execute."

Guzman won his first game in nearly a month, limiting the Orioles to two runs over 5 1-3 innings. In his last start, Baltimore ripped him for seven runs in 4 2-3 innings.

"My changeup wasn't working good today and I didn't want to get beat by my slider," he said. "That's what happened last time. If I was going to get beat, it was going to be with my best pitch — the fastball."

Guzman (8-8) was touched for eight hits and two walks, but he battled out of trouble to earn his first victory since June 27. He left with the bases loaded and one out in the sixth.

Nunez came in and got Bill Ripken to bounce into a double play, then retired the side in each of the next two innings before Russell worked the ninth for his 24th save.

Taylor reports to N.Y. camp

by The Associated Press

While the New York Giants left the door open for Lawrence Taylor, the Chicago Bears are about to close it on William "The Refrigerator" Perry.

The Giants' wait for their 10-time Pro Bowl linebacker came to an end Thursday evening when Taylor arrived in training camp after missing the first four days of workouts and meetings.

With his stroll into camp, Taylor walked into a new defensive scheme engineered by incoming defensive coordinator Rod Rust. Taylor has played the right end on the Giants' defensive line even though he was listed as a linebacker playing in a 3-4 scheme.

"I talked football with him one day and I was very impressed with his football knowledge," Rust said.

Taylor did not attend any of the Giants' off-season meetings and his absence at the start of training camp was not surprising. He traditionally reports late, although last year he was in by the end of the opening day.

For the past few years, there have been questions about how long Taylor will continue to play. He is entering his 12th NFL season and has frequently hinted that he is close to quitting.

Taylor, 33, missed two games last season and was not selected to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career. He statistics included 67 tackles and a career-low seven sacks.

Meanwhile, Bears coach Mike Ditka expressed dismay with Perry's perennial weight problems and said it might be time for a trade.

Ditka said the unsigned Perry won't take the field in training camp unless he passes a physical, a stress test and a running test. If he fails, Ditka said, the Bears probably will try to get him in shape without putting him on the field.

"What it comes down to is whether it's time to trade him or what," Ditka said. "We can't trade someone until we sign him. I don't know what else we can do. It wouldn't make sense to keep a spot open on the roster and not trade him."

Perry weighed close to 400 pounds last season. Ditka hoped that Perry would trim down to 320.

Bills

Strong safety Leonard Smith, cut by the Bills after failing his physical Thursday, said he plans to sue the team for causing the knee infection that ended his career in Buffalo.

Rams

The Rams made an effort to get all their players into camp on time this year, but four players remained absent on Thursday.

Second-round draft pick Steve Israel, veteran running back Bobby Delpino, safety Michael Stewart and tackle Jackie Slater remained holdouts.

Jets

Raul Allegre and Jason Staurovsky are battling for the New York Jets' placekicking job to replace the retired Pat Leahy, the NFL's third-all-time leading scorer.

Staurovsky, 29, and Allegre, 33, both have experience and coach Bruce Coslet is confident both can make field goals from 45 yards and in.

Organized crime charges...

11 high-profile El Pasoans acquitted

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Some of El Paso's highest profile citizens celebrated with attorneys late into the night after a jury found them innocent of a theft conspiracy charge.

But a few said the verdict could not erase the damage the charges caused to their personal lives.

The federal jury, after hearing six hours of closing arguments, deliberated nearly six hours before reaching the verdict at about 11 p.m. Thursday.

Some of the defendants exchanged hugs and handshakes with attorneys, while others let out audible sighs of relief when their names were read with the innocent verdict.

Seven El Paso business executive and attorneys and four corporations were indicted in June 1991 and accused of conspiring to steal millions from buyers of insurance annuities in a six-year insurance fraud scheme.

"Tomorrow is the first day of the rest of my life," said Maury Kemp, whose crumbled financial empire was the centerpiece of the case.

Kemp still faces civil lawsuits filed by investors in annuities a former Kemp-owned life insurance company sold. He also is appealing a federal check-kiting conviction, which carries a 40-month sentence.

"I have many obstacles, but this was the greatest one and it's over and now I can start my life again," Kemp said.

Compromise formulated to end stalemate in Iraq

U.N. officers, meanwhile, said six inspectors who were on a vigil outside the Agriculture Ministry would leave Iraq later today. Earlier, five members of the original 19-member team left the country.

The U.N. regional office in Bahrain refused to say how many inspectors remained on the team, which held a 17-day vigil outside the ministry. U.N. officials believe the building holds information on Iraq's weapons program. But the inspectors abandoned the vigil on Wednesday and returned to their hotel in Baghdad amid growing protests and the attempted stabbing of an inspector.

Iraq denies holding any weapons-related material inside the Agriculture Ministry and has accused Washington and its allies of using the standoff as a pretext to interfere in Iraq's internal affairs.

Iraq's U.N. ambassador, Abdul Amir Al-Anbari, was expected to consult with Iraqi officials on a compromise plan to allow small groups of inspectors into the ministry rather than all together.

Officers make burglary arrest

Snyder police made two arrests Thursday, including one for burglary.

Twenty-two-year-old David Brinklen Sellers of 2700 Ave. F was arrested at 2 p.m. and charged with burglary of a vehicle. According to police, Sellers is suspected of stealing a socket set from a pickup on July 3. The socket set has since been recovered at Mulligan's Mall.

Bond has been set at $5,000.

At 12:40 p.m., police arrested a 30-year-old woman in the 1600 block of 30th Street for driving with a suspended license.

At 9:27 p.m., officers worked a two-vehicle accident in the 500 block of East Highway. Involved were a 1989 GMC van driven by Valeria Delaughter of Indiana and a 1982 Oldsmobile driven by Scott Leatherwood of Rt. 3.

Police filed an report for a dog bite after Elida Guerrero notified officers at 10:25 p.m. that her son had been bitten by a dog. The bite was not serious and the animal was taken to West Texas Animal Clinic for observation.

The Treaty of Portsmouth ending the Russo-Japanese War was signed in 1905 in New Hampshire, President Theodore Roosevelt having mediated the settlement.

"Go For The Gold"
1992 Summer Olympic Games

NBC plans coverage changes

More videotaped telecasts are scheduled from Barcelona

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Same network, different look.

NBC, whose coverage of the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul got poor reviews and disappointing ratings, is planning dramatic changes this time around in Barcelona.

Tape instead of live. Bob Costas instead of Bryant Gumbel. More sports, less news. Fewer features, more action. New music, new graphics, even a new camera.

Almost everything will be different except the NBC peacock.

"I admire a lot of the things we did in Seoul, but obviously we think there is room for improvement," says Dick Ebersol, NBC Sports president since 1989. "We're not changing just for the sake of change. We're changing because we want to present a better product."

The biggest change will be the taped telecasts. Because of the six-hour time difference between Barcelona and New York, virtually all of the 161 hours of coverage will be prerecorded. Four years ago, almost everything was live from Seoul.

The taped format worked well for CBS at the Winter Olympics in France, and NBC hopes to duplicate that success in Barcelona.

"When you're on tape, the emphasis is on the story instead of the results," Ebersol says. "A lot of people will already know the results when we go on the air. So we've got to capture their attention by tightly editing the action and turning it into a compelling story."

To maintain suspense — or the illusion of suspense — NBC won't reveal the results of an event before it is telecast.

"Absolutely not," Ebersol says. "Anybody who wants to find out the results before we go on the air can do it very easily. All they have to do is watch CNN or ESPN or call one of those sports-phone numbers."

While viewers won't get results right away, they won't have to wait long for action each night.

"Within 61/2 minutes after we go on the air, you'll be seeing Michael Jordan dunking or Carl Lewis jumping or some other athlete in action," Ebersol promises. "We're not going to waste a lot of time with canned stories or advance buildup. We'll give you the basic information you need and take you right to the arena."

NBC is going to use far fewer "up-close and personal" profiles in Barcelona than it did in Seoul, replacing them with stories on past Olympians and Olympic controversies.

"We've got one on the U.S. basketball team that lost in Munich, one on Olga Korbut and another on Rey Robinson, one of the U.S. sprinters who was disqualified for showing up late for the 100-meter race in 1972," Ebersol says. "We've also got a piece on swimmer Rick DeMont, who lost his gold medal because he took a banned medication for asthma."

NBC created controversy in Seoul with its aggressive coverage of stories like the mini-riot at the boxing venue, the Ben Johnson steroid scandal and the tensions between North and South Korea.

While the network remains committed to covering breaking news in Spain, Ebersol doesn't expect as many non-sports distractions this time.

"I think these Games will be a pure sports celebration," he says. "Nobody is boycotting, the South Africans are back for the first time since 1960 and Germany is one nation again. Hopefully, we can forget politics for a couple of weeks and just enjoy the sports."

OLYMPIC STADIUM in Barcelona is the scene of the opening and closing ceremonies at the XXV Summer Games. It will also be the site of competition in track and field. The stadium, which holds about 70,000 people, is located in Barcelona's Montjuic district, where much of the Olympic action is being held.

Spanish officials hope to keep order at games

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Four years after fears the Seoul Olympics would be attacked by North Korean agents, the main threats to peace and order at the Barcelona Games come from within.

Groups calling for independence for Spain's Basque and Catalan regions could cause disruption, or destruction, at the Games. Tens of thousands of police and soldiers are being mobilized to thwart any such attempts.

While security analysts and public officials believe the police are under continuing threat from such groups, they think athletes and Olympic visitors have little chance of becoming direct targets.

But there's another element in security measures here that South Korean authorities did not have to deal with — street crime.

Spanish security officials are counting on their recent experience with major events — including the 1982 World Cup soccer tournament, the Middle East peace conference last October in Madrid and this year's Expo '92 in Seville — to help them cope with the challenge of the Olympics.

The task for security forces in Barcelona is far different than it was in Seoul.

Though there were anti-government protests by South Korean students, the main threat four years ago was from North Korea, whose agents had been implicated in airplane bombings and assassinations.

South Korea, a country isolated at the end of a peninsula, battled that threat by closely guarding its border with North Korea and carefully screening international airport arrivals.

Spain may not face such a direct threat, but it has much more ground to cover. It has long land borders with France and Portugal, and is a short boat ride from North Africa. More than that, it's terrorists are home grown.

Spanish soldiers will be in charge of protecting essential services — ranging from electrical substations to telecommunications centers — and will help monitor air and sea traffic entering Barcelona.

The Barcelona Olympic Organizing Committee also has poured more than $40 million into security, about 2.5 percent of its entire budget.

Long jump entrant...

Lewis has only one gold medal shot

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Lewis will have only one life to live at the Barcelona Olympics, a sharp contrast to his multi-faceted soap operas of recent Games when he was young and restless.

It's a role the 31-year-old Lewis doesn't relish, but one that could work in his favor.

Instead of concentrating on the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes, the 400-meter relay and the long jump, as he did at the 1984 and 1988 Games, the energetic, competitive Lewis' preparation will be solely for the long jump, the only event for which he qualified during his shockingly disappointing performance at the U.S. Olympic trials.

The long jump has long been Lewis' pride and joy.

He nursed a 65-meet winning streak over 10 years, before losing to Mike Powell's world record jump of 29 feet, 41/2 inches, at last year's World Championships in Tokyo. It was not a total loss, however.

Lewis produced the first three 29-foot jumps of his career and missed 29 feet by one-quarter of an inch on another attempt in the best series by any long jumper in history.

Despite those brilliant efforts, Lewis said there were some technical flaws is his jumping, and he would correct them by the Olympics.

It didn't upset him too much that he lost to Powell again at the trials, because the streak already was broken. He has vowed he will jump farther at Barcelona than he did at Tokyo, and the sole preparation for the long jump, rather than dual preparation for that event and the sprints, should make Lewis that much sharper at Barcelona.

Lewis, always a firm believer in perfection, had an admission before the trials. "I'm not the perfect athlete," he confessed.

If not perfect, the enigmatic Lewis had been the closest thing to perfection in major international meets, the Olympic Games and World Track and Field Championships.

In seven Olympic finals, he had won six golds and one silver, and in nine World Championships, he had won eight golds and one silver. That was a total of 14 golds and two silvers in 16 events.

Perfect? Well, nearly.

To get into those competitions, Lewis also had to be nearly perfect in the qualifying meets, the U.S. championships or the trials. He was just that, until this year's trials, when slowed by a sinus condition and perhaps age, he finished sixth in the 100 meters and fourth in the 200, declining an alternate's position on the relay. He did make the team in the long jump, placing second to Powell.

Lewis was at his perfect best at the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics, duplicating the great Jesse Owens' feat of winning four gold medals, in the 100, 200, long jump and relay. At the 1988 Seoul Games, he received the 100-meter gold, after Johnson's disqualification, and won the long jump, and he hoped to match his remarkable Los Angeles feats at the Barcelona Olympics.

After winning the four golds at the '84 Games, Lewis' publicity was enormous. The riches, however, did not come quickly.

For various reasons, corporate sponsors failed to immediately approach Lewis. Even after his other magnanimous accomplishments in the next seven years, Lewis did not receive the commercial endorsements that an athlete of his stature demanded, at least not in the United States. He did get numerous offers from Japan and Europe.

MUSIC TO STILL THE SAVAGE BREAST!

THE FIRST MENTION OF DAVID IN THE BIBLE IS TO BE FOUND IN I SAMUEL:16. KING SAUL, HARD AT WAR WITH THE PHILISTINES, HAS BEGUN TO SHOW THE FIRST SIGNS OF HIS MENTAL ILLNESS, DEEP MELANCHOLIA, IF NOT OUT-AND-OUT SCHIZOPHRENIA! IN THOSE TIMES, IT WAS FELT THAT MUSIC HAD A SOOTHING EFFECT ON THIS AILMENT, WHICH INDEED IT HAD, AND SAUL'S ADVISERS SENT FOR YOUNG DAVID, WHO WAS KNOWN TO BE AN EXPERT PLAYER. THEREAFTER, WHEN SAUL WENT INTO DEPRESSED FITS, DAVID WOULD PLAY AND SAUL WOULD BE SOOTHED AND REFRESHED, AND SOON CAME TO LOVE DAVID AS HIS OWN SON. HOWEVER...

...DURING THE NEXT SIX YEARS, AS THE LAD GREW FROM YOUTH TO YOUNG MANHOOD, SAUL'S ATTITUDE BEGAN TO CHANGE—FOR DAVID SHOWED A FINE APTITUDE AS A WARRIOR AND LEADER, GAINING GREAT POPULARITY WITH THE PEOPLE. SAUL, IN HIS DEPRESSED MENTAL STATE, BEGAN TO SEE DAVID AS A THREAT TO HIS OWN RULE, LET ALONE THE FUTURE RULE OF JONATHAN, HIS SON, WHOM HE TRIED TO ENTICE INTO KILLING DAVID—WHICH JONATHAN WOULDN'T DO BECAUSE HE WAS A CLOSE AND SINCERE FRIEND. BUT, UNDERNEATH THIS GROWING OBSESSION TO SEE DAVID DEAD, LOVE FOR HIM STILL REMAINED WHICH BECAME QUITE EVIDENT, IN THIS WRITER'S OPINION, WHEN, THE LAST TIME DAVID PLAYED FOR HIM, SAUL TOOK UP HIS JAVELIN (I SAMUEL:19) AND HALF-HEARTEDLY ATTEMPTED TO PIN DAVID TO THE WALL. THE TRIBE OF BENJAMIN, OF WHICH SAUL WAS A MEMBER, WAS RENOWNED AS THE GREATEST OF LEFT-HANDED MARKSMEN (JUDGES:20-16) WITH SLING, SPEAR, OR ANY OTHER WEAPON OF WAR AND, FOR A WARRIOR OF SAUL'S GREAT CALIBER, TO MISS HIS MARK IN THE CLOSE CONFINES OF A ROOM, OTHER THAN ON PURPOSE, WAS IMPOSSIBLE! BUT IT DID SERVE AS A SIGN TO THE ESCAPING DAVID THAT FROM HENCE HIS LIFE WAS ENDANGERED, EVEN THOUGH THE KING DID NOT, PERSONALLY, INTEND TO HAVE DAVID'S BLOOD ON HIS OWN ROYAL HANDS!
