Local man arrested in fatal club shooting

23-year-old charged with murder; bond has been set at $1 million

By James Cannon
Staff Writer

A Midland man was arrested Friday in connection with the fatal shooting at Zac's Club on Feb. 26.

Terrance Eugene Neal, 23, was arrested by U.S. marshals on a first-degree felony charge of murder in the incident that happened after he and Derome Williams, 30, fought in the parking lot at the club at 3:35 a.m., according to reports.

Bond has been set at $1 million.

Williams initially survived the shooting and underwent surgery for the head wound but succumbed to his injuries Wednesday.

Several witnesses told police they saw Neal, also known as "Bucky," with a firearm at the club on the 600 block of East Industrial Avenue, according to the arrest affidavit.

One witness told police that while she was standing in line to get into the club, she saw a younger black male take a pistol away from an older black male, the report read. She said the younger black male sold the pistol to Neal for $100.

The man who sold the pistol to Neal told police he took it away from an unknown male who began to fight with him in the line, police said. He told police he did not know what Neal did with the pistol and that he didn't witness the shooting.

Another witness told investigators Neal tried to fight him

Futures vs. posted

Did you know?

Much attention is paid to the daily ups and downs of the crude futures price on the New York Mercantile Exchange, especially when it surpassed the $100 barrier for the first time since late 2008.

Oil producers, however, tend to pay more attention to the posted price given by companies like Plains All-American Pipeline, Holly Corp., ConocoPhillips, Flint Hill Resources, Shell and Sunoco. The posted price is the actual price operators receive for their production. It crossed the $100 barrier Friday, three days after the futures price.

Probation department tests out initiative

■ Program designed to cut taxpayers' costs; probationers to complete sentences.

By Audrie Palmer
Staff Writer

The probation department did a test run of a new initiative this week that it hopes will help cut costs to taxpayers and give probationers the chance to successfully complete their sentences.

Last month, 45 letters were sent out summoning to court those offenders whose probation terms were to expire in the next six months.

Judge Robin Malone Darr of the 385th District Court spent two hours Thursday working with 30 of the offenders in getting them up-to-date on their probation restrictions and putting them in a position where the courts believe they successfully will complete their sentences.

Five of them were given a court order for an extension on their sentences to complete payment of restitution and to finish classes; three were able to pay off their remaining costs and were released early from their sentencings.

Of the remaining 15 offenders summoned, officials said four had been deported by immigration services, two were being held in federal custody and one already had had their probation revoked. Four others had pending motions to revoke their probations, and four were no-shows to the court and didn't provide explanations for their

Center reaches out to women, opens support group

■ Women of all age groups talk out their problems with each other.

By Kathleen Thurber
Staff Writer

For some of the women who attend Centers for Children and Families' lunchtime support group, they said the hour is the only one in which they're able to laugh during the week.

The weekly support group offered on Wednesday has opened recently to new participants and is one they're encouraging any women to attend.

"Women traditionally are juggling a lot of balls in the air," said Sally Flores at Centers for Children and Families. "We try to make sure that we take care of ourselves first."

Flores said the group sets its own theme based on what issues it wants to cover, and this semester is focusing on how to find balance in life.

Whether in their 20s or 70s, Flores said women all have similar struggles and the participants typically find it's helpful to hear they're not the only ones going through something.

"We all pretty much have the same things going on," Flores said.

Women who participate in the group said they enjoy the hour because it gives them an opportunity to talk openly without being judged. While they may have serious problems, one said, it's nice to see they're not the only one who has "big issues" with which to deal.

"We're all coming for support," Flores said. "We're coming because we need outside help."

Topics addressed by women can range from divorce to parenthood to job stress and financial strain to health and loss, according to Centers' Fran Billingsley.

Flores said often participants also are participating in individual counseling

Obituaries

Hal Crabb, Jr.

Hal Crabb, Jr., 88, of Midland, passed away on March 3, 2011 at a local hospital.

Memorial services will be held on Monday, March 7, 2011 at 2:00 p.m. in the Nalley-Pickle & Welch Chapel with his grandson-in-law, Tyler Cline, officiating.

Hal joined the Navy Air Corps and was a fighter pilot during WWII, serving two tours of duty in the South Pacific fighting against the Japanese. He was proud of his service and was a member of the High Hats. Later, he joined a group of veterans that he served with called VF1. He was one of the two last remaining members. He attended Texas Tech University and became a Petroleum Engineer. It was the work he loved and he enjoyed it until his retirement. During his career, he worked for Mobile Oil, Amin Oil, and Phillips Oil. Even after his retirement, he did independent consulting until he decided to become a full-time grandfather and later a great-grandfather.

He loved to travel, and until he got too old to hit the road, he kept it hot. He covered the USA from one end to the other. He traveled to Mexico and the Baja too many times to count. He loved life, loved to laugh, loved to have a good time, and boy how he loved to joke. He always had something funny to say and was never without words. He was truly one of a kind and will be deeply missed by all of those who knew him. During his lifetime he filled the roll of a loving husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, and he loved every one of them. He was everybody's Dan Dan.

In his later years, he reflected on God and read the Bible more than once. He was a believer.

Survivors include his son, Hal Hudson Crabb, III and wife Brenda of Houston; daughter, Sharon Crabb of Midland; grandchildren, Hal Crabb IV, Ashley and Tyler Cline; one great-grandchild, Wren Cline; two sisters, Carol Raines of Ft. Worth and Harriet Wallace of Arlington, TX.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Midland. Online condolences can be made at: www.npwelch.com.

Rev. Franklin Ray Riddle, Jr.

On March 2, 2011, a day before his 94th birthday, Rev. Ray Riddle died after 37 rewarding years as a resident of Midland, Texas. Ray loved life and celebrated its simple joys-like eating. Some of his favorite activities included collecting and cracking pecans, thumping a ripe watermelon, biting into big, juicy sun-baked tomatoes, and studying all the wonders in the fruit and vegetable section of HEB. He loved a good story and was an avid reader, particularly of theological books and financial magazines. He loved people and was famous for his "equal-opportunity" hugging and his habit of addressing women as "darlin" and "sweetheart" in his thick southern drawl. But above all, he loved God and he shared God's grace with everyone he met. With his gentle manner, his sense of humor and his generous spirit, he touched the hearts of old and young alike. We will miss his presence and the warm blanket of love he cast throughout the community.

Franklin Ray Riddle, Jr. was born March 3, 1917 in Monticello, Florida. His parents, Franklin Ray Riddle, a Presbyterian pastor, and Fannie Louise Chandler Riddle moved to Columbia, S.C. when Ray was an infant. He was raised in the rich red dirt of South Carolina and forever referred to it as his "holy land." He graduated from Columbia High School and the University of South Carolina with a degree in economics. He was a member of ODK, an honorary leadership fraternity, a member of Kappa Sigma Kappa, an honorary service fraternity, and Kappa Sigma, a social fraternity. He was president of the student YMCA, and after graduation, accepted a position as Boy's Work secretary at the YMCA in Rocky Mount, N.C.

He attended Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, VA from 1940-1943, where he earned a Bachelor of Divinity degree. In 1959, he earned a Master's Degree in Theology from Princeton Seminary. He was awarded an honorary doctorate by Rhodes College, Memphis, TN in 1964.

In 1943, he accepted a call from Lakeview Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, LA. In October of the same year, he married Jane Montgomery from Kansas City, MO. He served that church from 1943 to 1960, during which period the congregation grew. Together they worked to find the resources to build a new sanctuary.

From 1960 to 1974, he was General Presbyter of the Presbytery of Memphis. These were turbulent times in the South, but Ray was able to bring together various factions of the church and to strengthen its work. The city was expanding and he helped the Presbytery to organize and build new churches.

In 1974, Dr. and Mrs. Riddle moved to Midland, TX, where Ray accepted the position as Associate Minister at First Presbyterian Church. His sermons were laced with stories that connected scripture to life. He forged numerous relationships with members of the congregation and community through his committee work, counseling, baptisms, weddings, funerals, and personal visitations. After ten years, he resigned, then walked across the street to Hospice of Midland and offered his services as volunteer Chaplain. He served in that capacity for 18 years. He was named Pastor Emeritus from First Church and Chaplain Emeritus from Hospice, when he retired in 1998.

He is survived by his wife, Jane (better known as Janie Baby); two daughters, Jann Riddle Hill and Nancy Riddle Dowling; son-in-law, Herbert Hill; four grandchildren, Jennifer Hill Harbour, Chandler Hill, Lynley Dowling and Melanie Dowling; two great-grandchildren, Teagan and Talia Harbour; and a brother and sister-in-law, Robert and Barbara Riddle, all of whom he loved dearly. Rev. Riddle was preceded in death by his sister, Franny Riddle Boyd, and son-in-law, Forrest Dowling.

A celebration of life service will be held in his memory on Thursday, March 10, at 2:00 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Steve Schorr and Rev. Mary Beth Anton officiating. In lieu of flowers, please send memorials to First Presbyterian Church and Hospice of Midland.

US says flaws at another BP well were not risky

By Jennifer A. Dlouhy
Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — Federal investigators on Friday rapped BP for poor record keeping at its huge Atlantis oil production platform in the Gulf of Mexico but said the problems did not jeopardize workers at the site.

After an 11-month probe, the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement dismissed as "unfounded" allegations by a former BP contractor that workers on the platform lacked access to critical, engineer-approved drawings of the facility.

The Interior Department agency issued an "incident of non-compliance," citing BP for not giving the government required drawings depicting changes to components at the site. But the bureau did not seek civil penalties in connection with the violation, after concluding that the issue was swiftly corrected and did not pose an immediate safety risk.

Michael Bromwich, the bureau director, said agency investigators found "no credible evidence" that poor organization of schematics and technical drawings jeopardized workers on the platform about 124 miles offshore.

"Although we found significant problems with the way BP labeled and maintained its engineering drawings and related documents," Bromwich said, "we found the most serious allegations to be without merit, including the suggestion that a lack of adequate documentation created a serious safety risk on the Atlantis facility."

The investigation was launched after Ken Abbott, a former safety consultant, filed a lawsuit in April 2009 under the federal False Claims Act alleging that BP did not have drawings that accurately showed how subsea parts of the platform were built. Those "as-built" design documents may be quite different from engineering documents that illustrate the original construction plan for the platform.

On Friday, a BP spokesman said the London-based oil giant had not yet reviewed the report but stressed that the company had fully cooperated with the investigation. BP believes "that Atlantis is and at all times has been safe and fit for service," the spokesman said.

Abbott said in a statement that he was "disappointed but not really surprised." He took a jab at the ocean energy bureau, previously known as the Minerals Management Service, which he said aims first "to protect themselves and then the oil companies."

"They may have changed their name, but not their way of operating," Abbott said.

Abbott vowed to continue pressing his case, which has been joined by Food and Water Watch, an environmental advocacy organization.

Police: Robbery a likely motive in killing

By Angela K. Brown
Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Church members holding Bibles hugged and cried outside a church in a Dallas suburb on Friday, a day after their young pastor was killed and a ministry assistant was severely beaten in what police suspect was a robbery gone wrong.

Because items were missing from NorthPointe Baptist Church, investigators suspect that robbery was a motive but would not say exactly what things or if any money was stolen Thursday, said Tiara Ellis Richard, an Arlington police spokeswoman.

Authorities continued searching for the injured church employee's car, which was believed stolen after the crime. The woman remained hospitalized Friday.

The Rev. Clint Dobson, 28, who had led NorthPointe, a satellite church of First Baptist Church of Arlington, for about three years, was described as a dynamic and caring pastor whose heart was even bigger than his tall stature.

"He always had a smile on his face and would hug you as you walked in," said Lida Cummings, fighting back tears. "He had joy in his heart. He will really be missed."

The young pastor was a distant relative of James Dobson, one of the country's most influential conservative Christian leaders.

"The family is quite shocked," said James Dobson's assistant Becky Lane, who said the young pastor was the son of one of the elder Dobson's cousins.

Investigators were still trying to determine what time the attack occurred. Police were called to the church at about 4:15 p.m. Thursday after someone went to check on Clint Dobson and the assistant after a relative could not reach one of them, and then looked in a church window and saw the victims on the floor.

Belinda Billings, coordinator of a neighborhood community watch group and a former NorthPointe member, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that the church was kept locked and the assistant would usually let her in after she rang a bell.

The Rev. Dennis Wiles, senior pastor of First Baptist Church of Arlington, said Friday that he was "just trying to get through today" and was not sure if security would be a greater concern for churches.

"We're going to go on. That's what we have to do. That's what Clint would want us to do," Wiles said before hugging some grieving church members who gathered outside the NorthPointe building in Arlington, a city of 380,000 between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Dobson grew up in the Houston area and was an all-American boy who loved playing baseball and spending time with friends, said his former pastor, the Rev. Robert Creech. Dobson decided to become a pastor while attending Baylor University and graduated from the Waco school's Truett Theological Seminary as a top student, several professors said.

Rape conviction dismissed

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A judge has declared innocent a Texas man who spent 17 years in prison for a 1987 rape he didn't commit.

By doing so, State District Judge Belinda Hill on Friday granted prosecutors' request.

Harris County District Attorney Patricia R. Lykos said the ruling fully clears 50-year-old George Rodriguez and "justice has been done."

Prosecutors say DNA tests found on hairs at the scene prove Rodriguez did not commit the crime.

Rodriguez has been free since a court ruled in 2004 that faulty evidence was presented at trial.

Test results verified that the girl's abduction and sexual assaults was committed by two other men.

One of them, 50-year-old Manuel Beltran, is serving a 60-year prison term for those offenses. The other, who never was charged, is now deceased.

Train demolishes 18-wheeler on tracks

Associated Press

BEAUMONT — An Amtrak passenger train struck an 18-wheeler stuck on the tracks in Southeast Texas.

Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputy Rod Carroll said the flatbed truck was "demolished" in the Friday morning accident between Beaumont and China, Texas. No injuries were reported.

Carroll said the Houston driver had left the truck, which was hauling a load of pipe down to the oilfields. When he approached the railroad crossing's steep grade, his 18-wheeler "high-centered" and got lodged on the roadway.

Carroll said the train's engineer saw the truck and was able to slow to about 30 mph before hitting it. The impact knocked the tractor-trailer at least 20 yards down the line, the deputy said.

The New Orleans-bound passenger trained continued on its way after the tracks were cleared.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, March 5, the 64th day of 2011. There are 301 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 5, 1946, Winston Churchill delivered his "Iron Curtain" speech at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo.

On this date:

In 1770, the Boston Massacre took place as British soldiers who'd been taunted by a crowd of colonists opened fire, killing five people.

In 1868, the Senate was organized into a Court of Impeachment to decide charges against President Andrew Johnson, who later was acquitted.

In 1933, in German parliamentary elections, the Nazi Party won 44 percent of the vote; the Nazis joined with a conservative nationalist party to gain a slender majority in the Reichstag.

In 1953, Soviet dictator Josef Stalin died after three decades in power.

In 1960, Elvis Presley was discharged from the U.S. Army.

Bynum School to host workshop for parents

By Sara Higgins
Staff Writer

Bynum School will host a workshop for parents of children with neurological disorders this weekend thanks to connections made by country singer Zac Brown.

Chiropractic neurologist Dr. Robert Melillo, who specializes in brain-based physical rehabilitation for neurological disorders, will do hands-on training with parents for two days using his book "Disconnected Kids."

Melillo's practice, Brain Balance Centers, will donate copies of the book as well as materials called for in the book.

"We developed a program that we were using in our centers and also a home program to supplement what we were doing," he said in a telephone interview from New York. "We're actually going to give them very specific instructions on how to use the book and implement it at home, or if teachers want to use this for the school system, they can implement it as well."

Melillo's attention was drawn to Bynum School — a private, nonprofit school for students with special needs — by Brown of the Zac Brown Band. The two have been friends since about 2008.

The school has programs from preschool up to adult vocational day programs; 42 students between the ages of 3 and 38 currently are enrolled, according to Development Director Tracy Bush.

Brown first learned about Bynum School when it won the Campbell's Labels for Education Star Powered Music Day contest last spring, Bush said. Brown and fellow band member Clay Cook performed at the school in the fall, and the students were able to sing their own version of the song "Chicken Fried" from the band's album The Foundation. Melillo said the album was named for Brown's desire to start his own foundation for children with special needs.

"He was very moved when he was there and wanted to be able to help them," said Melillo. "He's a very humble guy and cares so much about these kids."

The country singer volunteered as a teenager at a summer camp for people with special needs and is building his own camp devoted to children with neurological disorders — Camp Southern Ground in Georgia, Melillo said. The neurologist said that Brown has bought more than 300 acres of land for the camp and will donate $1 from each ticket sold for the band's concerts toward the project.

Melillo said he met Brown through his Brain Balance Centers in Atlanta, and the country singer asked him to speak at the school as part of his desire to provide more resources for Bynum School. Bush said the school has talked with the singer about other plans he could support in the future, but that nothing has been set in stone.

"All of this is Zac's idea," Bush said. "He is a great guy — he does not know how famous he is."

Melillo said his book focuses on a brain-based, rather than drug-based, program to be used at home and includes customizable exercises that parents can use to assess and help their children. He said the program also includes behavioral techniques and cognitive exercises and that nutritional interventions help with isolated weaknesses.

"Many of these diseases are related to an imbalance between the two hemispheres of the brain," he said. "It's a very comprehensive program that the parents will be taught to assess their own children and put together and devise a program for each child, and we'll instruct them how to carry that program through."

Bush said the event's location at Mission Fitness already has reached its capacity of 80 participants, and people requesting to attend were on a waiting list.

"We weren't really sure that we were going to get as big of a response as we have," she said.

Melillo said the weekend program will be special one for him because it will be the first time his centers have donated their time and resources for a workshop.

"We're happy to do it," Melillo said. "I can't wait to go down there and work with the school and the parents."

sessions, though some are recommended just for group therapy.

"A lot of people feel that groups deliver more bang for the buck than an individual does," Flores said. "You can deal with a lot of issues because other people bring them up."

She said women typically see themselves as caregivers and often don't realize they're not making themselves a priority along with their families until it's pointed out, which is part of what can be done through talking to others in similar situations.

"We're just the caregivers," Flores said. "I think we realize that we are the ones who bring up the future in our children."

several times, both inside and outside of the club, and that Neal pointed the pistol at him several times before he was able to leave the parking lot, the report read.

Several other witnesses corroborated the accounts of Neal instigating a fight with another male and that he repeatedly pointed a firearm at the man.

Witnesses said that after the first man with whom Neal tried to fight had left, he began another confrontation with Williams, according to the arrest report.

When Williams left the club and walked past Neal, witnesses said Neal slapped Williams in the face. They said the men were going to fight in the parking lot when Neal pulled out a pistol from his waist and pistol-whipped Williams in the head, causing the weapon to discharge, according to the report.

Williams fell to the ground as Neal fled. Witnesses were asked by police to identify the shooter by photo.

Both Williams and Neal have been arrested for multiple felonies. At the same club in January 2007, Williams was arrested for deadly conduct by discharging a firearm. Williams also was arrested for a shooting during a home invasion in September 2008. Neal has been arrested for several counts of evading arrest and possession of a controlled substance.

The U.S. marshals made the arrest because he also was wanted on a federal charge of violation of probation from a previous drug arrest, as well as the state warrant for murder, said Steve Clark, the marshal's warrant supervisor.

Neal is being held in the county jail. If convicted, he could serve between five and 99 years in prison.

PROBATION

From 1A

absences, Darr said.

"Most probationers want to finish successfully," she said. "The whole idea behind probation is paying your debt to society. These hearings enable us to encourage them to finish what they started and make a success of it."

Darr called the first trial-run of the hearings successful and said it allowed the courts to encourage successful completion without any of the extra paperwork or manpower.

The main things she said she saw with those on probation were that many had not paid their restitution or finished their community service hours before they were set to be released.

It's those technical violations on which probation officers usually have to file a motion to revoke in order to have probationers arrested, incarcerated, appear before a judge and then be in compliance with their sentencing terms.

Thursday's hearing helped prosecutors and defendants to bypass that lengthy process, said Jed Davenport, Midland's Community Supervision and Corrections Department director, and also helped save taxpayers the cost of housing the offenders in jail waiting for their court dates.

"What this allows us to do is bring in those who are not in compliance. They don't need to go to the 'pen'; they don't need to go to jail. But they do need a wake-up call," he said. "We're utilizing a more simple, cost-effective process than using the motion to revoke as a blanket approach."

Once a probationer's term has expired, money for fees, restitution to victims and mandatory classes cannot be collected or completed. Summoning to a show cause hearing those who may be nearing their sentence completion dates helps to keep accountable those on probation as well as the probation officers, Davenport said.

One individual owed about $11,000 in victim restitution and was set to be released from probation in May. The judge extended his probation so that it would be more feasible for him to make the payments before his sentence expired.

Darr said in cases where probationers were given extensions, if payments are made early, probation officers can file with the court to have those individuals released early from their extended period.

The probation department annually monitors an average of 3,000 people who live in Midland County and elsewhere, Davenport said. He began working with Darr before Christmas in an effort to have the first hearing.

"It came from a desire to see more people complete probation without extreme measure or the filing of a motion to revoke," Darr said.

And because of the success of this week's initiative, officials hope to hold these types of hearings twice a year. Other district judges also are looking at holding these hearings for those who have been sentenced in the courts.

"The key is, you just can't sit on probation and not fulfill your obligations that the court has ordered. It's just an experimental way to have them do that without running up unnecessary costs," Davenport said.

Fatal traffic accident happens in Andrews

From staff reports

A fatal traffic accident happened Friday about 1 mile north of Ector County on Highway 385, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The roll-over accident happened in the southern portion of Andrews County and blocked traffic for much of the day as a medical helicopter was on scene, according to reports.

As of press time, information was not available on the deceased or the nature of the accident.

Burst of hiring could mark turning point

By Jeannine Aversa
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Companies added more workers in February than in any month in almost a year — a turning point for the economy that finally pushed the unemployment rate below 9 percent. Economists say the stronger hiring should endure all year.

The 222,000 jobs the private sector created more than offset layoffs by financially squeezed state and local governments. They slashed 30,000 jobs, the most since November.

The unemployment rate sank to 8.9 percent, the lowest since April 2009. The rate has now fallen almost a full percentage point in just three months — the sharpest drop in a generation.

Hiring last month was broad — factories, trucking companies, health care providers, construction firms, hotels and restaurants all added jobs.

Associated Press

LINED UP People stand in line to enter the 32nd annual Spring Career Fair at Cleveland State University in Cleveland on Friday. Employers hired in February at the fastest pace in almost a year, and the unemployment rate fell to 8.9 percent — a nearly two-year low.

"Bottom line: The labor market is turning the corner," said Michael Darda, chief economist at MKM Partners, an economic research firm.

The figures suggest the economy has entered a healthier phase typical of what economists call a virtuous cycle: Americans are spending more, which raises corporate profits, which leads to hiring and then more spending and growth.

At UPS, for example, revenue and profits both have risen because of the growing economy. The company has nearly 250 job openings for salaried positions, up from 100 this time last year, and is hiring hourly workers at 150 locations.

Normally, the company just rehires its temporary employees from the holidays if it needs them. But this year, "we've already hired a lot of those folks back, and we still have more needs," said Matt Lavery, UPS' head of recruiting.

During the recession, the cycle was more vicious than virtuous: Waves of layoffs suppressed consumer spending, which lowered corporate profits and triggered more job cuts.

On Wall Street, another spike in oil prices rattled investors and overshadowed the good news on hiring. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 88 points, one day after posting its biggest gain of 2011.

Other forces still are working against the economic recovery. State and local governments are expected to keep shedding jobs. And inflation and higher gas prices resulting from the Middle East unrest pose threats.

Still, economists now think private companies will feel comfortable enough to add 200,000 jobs a month through the rest of this year. That would be an improvement from the average of 150,000 jobs created over the past three months.

It takes about 125,000 new jobs a month just to keep up with population growth and hold the unemployment rate stable. It could take up to 300,000 to reduce the unemployment rate significantly, economists say.

Stronger job growth should put the economy on track to grow at a roughly 4 percent annual rate in the first three months of this year, economists said. That would be much better than the 2.8 percent pace in the final three months of 2010.

Houston may lose 2,300 city jobs to budget cuts

Associated Press

HOUSTON — More than 2,300 city workers in Houston could lose their jobs through budget cuts outlined by Mayor Annise Parker, according to a newspaper analysis.

The Houston Chronicle reported Friday that Parker sent a memo to city officials Thursday indicating how many employees they could lose. An estimated $130 million shortfall requires "extremely tough, if not brutal" decisions, she said.

Parker said essential life and safety services such as police, fire, municipal courts and solid waste will face a 5 percent cut. However, most other departments, including the mayor and council offices, must cut spending by more than 27 percent, she said.

Parker, who formally proposes the budget in May, didn't specify how many jobs would be lost. The Chronicle calculated that the layoffs could exceed 2,300 based on city employees receiving an average of $55,000 a year in salary and benefits.

City leaders have been forecasting a huge budget gap for the fiscal year that starts on July 1 for months. The crisis stems in part from reduced property taxes, the city's main source of revenue. Houston also lost $10 million in annual revenue from traffic citations because of voters rejecting red-light cameras.

Parker said department heads have engaged in "intense" budget workshops with city council members.

Court orders state to pay exonerated man $66,000

By Sommer Ingram
Associated Press

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court on Friday upheld an exonerated man's claim for an additional $66,000 in compensation that the state comptroller initially refused to pay for his wrongful imprisonment.

Billy Smith was wrongly convicted of sexually assaulting a woman at knifepoint and sentenced to life in prison. Smith spent nearly 20 years behind bars before DNA testing proved his innocence in 2006.

The comptroller denied Smith's compensation request for the first 10 months he was in prison because the false conviction had revoked his parole for an earlier robbery. Texas law prevents the wrongfully imprisoned from collecting full compensation if they were also serving a sentence for another crime. The comptroller invoked that statute to back up her argument.

Smith's lawyer appealed to the Texas Supreme Court last year, arguing that the comptroller applied the law improperly and Smith's parole wouldn't have been violated if it weren't for the wrongful conviction.

While the court found the statute vague enough to lend itself to either party's interpretation, it ultimately determined the state must pay Smith for the entire time he spent behind bars.

The comptroller's argument was rejected based on other cases where the state compensated people whose probation had been revoked only due to the wrongful convictions.

"The concurrent-sentence restriction does not apply when the wrongful conviction is the cause of the person serving a concurrent sentence in prison," Justice David Medina wrote for the court.

Smith already received $1.527 million in compensation.

Joblessness down; some still downbeat

By Jim Kuhnhenn
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Why so glum?

Unemployment is dropping, but the reaction from both the left and right ends of the political spectrum is surprisingly unenthusiastic.

Conservatives fear the improvement will weaken their argument that the way to bring back jobs is less regulation and more fiscal discipline. Liberals worry that better job numbers will create momentum for spending cuts that will cause the fragile recovery to falter.

The divided reaction illustrates the ideological forces pulling at President Barack Obama as he tries to gain economic and political traction out of the positive jobs report.

"Overall, it's a very solid jobs report," said Austan Goolsbee, the chairman of Obama's Council of Economic Advisers. "And overall there's been increasing optimism that despite having a long way to go, we're clearly headed the right direction and we're putting some miles behind us and trying to get back to a good situation."

Indeed, a number of economic markers are moving in positive directions. The U.S. economy has been growing for 18 months. Retail sales are picking up. A Federal Reserve survey released this week showed factory activity rising in all Fed districts except St. Louis.

Still, unemployment is usually the last economic signpost to improve after a recession, and the rate remains high at 8.9 percent. The number of unemployed is 13.7 million, almost double since before the recession. And that's enough to provoke some downbeat assessments.

"We have yet to see the leadership we need coming out of the White House to restore sustainable economic growth," declared Republican National Committee Chairman Reince Priebus.

Economist Heidi Shierholz, at the liberal Economic Policy Institute, weighed in with this: "Some of February's growth is simply a positive rebound effect after bad weather last month, and the trend is modest."

Since the November elections that placed Republicans in control of the House and weakened the Democrats' hold on the Senate, Republicans and conservatives have argued that the path to jobs is through deregulation of industries, fiscal restraint and low taxes. Obama has embraced some of the advice, reaching out to business with a pledge to reconsider some government rules and compromising with Republicans by dropping, for now, his demand that the wealthy pay higher taxes.

So, even as the unemployment rate goes down, Republicans insist Obama's past policies were at worst, counterproductive, or at best, ineffective. Jobs will come faster and with more staying power, they argue, if government simply gets out of the way.

Liberals and their Democratic allies have been pressing for more government intervention in the economy. The fragile recovery still needs to be prodded by public spending, they say, and they bristle at attempts to cut current budgets. Obama has embraced some of that advice, too. He has proposed additional taxpayer money toward education, research and technological innovation while negotiating with Republicans on how far to cut into current spending.

Boehner launches effort to defend gay marriage ban

House Speaker John Boehner said Friday the House may go to court to defend the federal law against gay marriage, which President Barack Obama's administration has concluded is unconstitutional.

Boehner said he would convene a group of bipartisan congressional leaders that has the authority to instruct the House counsel to represent the chamber in court.

PHOENIX

Tucson suspect charged with murders of judge, aide

Federal prosecutors on Friday announced new charges against the suspect in the attempted assassination of Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, accusing him of killing six people and wounding 13 others.

U.S. Attorney Dennis Burke called the 49-count indictment returned Thursday against Jared Lee Loughner "comprehensive and is solid, and covers all the murdered and injured victims" who were at the political event.

Harvard president welcomes ROTC after 4-decade ban

Associated Press

BOSTON — Harvard University officially welcomed the military back to the nation's oldest college Friday as eyes turned to other elite campuses that also may lift their bans now that Congress has voted to allow gays to serve openly in the military.

Harvard President Drew Gilpin Faust and Navy Secretary Ray Mabus signed an agreement that establishes the Naval ROTC's formal presence on campus for the first time since the Vietnam War era. Other campuses, including Columbia and Yale, are discussing whether to follow suit.

"Over decades, and in their own distinctive ways, both the American military and higher education have been engines of inclusion and wellsprings of service," Faust said during the ceremony. "The relationship we renew today marks progress in that common pursuit."

ROTC first exited Harvard amid anti-Vietnam War sentiment, and the school lately kept it off campus and stopped funding the program because of the military policy on gays. But Faust said she had worked toward ROTC's return after Congress repealed the so-called don't ask, don't tell policy in December.

Mabus commended Harvard at the ceremony for being "willing to step out and lead." He said the move re-establishes old ties and helps the military recruit a diverse force. "In order to best serve our nation, the military has to strive to be reflective of the nation it protects, and it does not serve our country well if any part of society does not share in the honor of its defense," Mabus said.

Blast near rebel stronghold kills 9

TRIPOLI — Hospital officials said an explosion at an ammunition depot near Libya's rebel stronghold of Benghazi has killed at least nine people and injured 10.

Dr. Habib al-Obeidi said Friday's blast hit nearby houses, and he feared the toll could rise because ambulances were still bringing people to the al-Jalaa hospital.

The cause of the blast is unclear. Al-Obeidi said it apparently was triggered when people went into the storage facility to collect weapons, but others blamed pro-Gadhafi forces for triggering the blast.

Authorities: Suspect in airport shooting recently radicalized

FRANKFURT — Arid Uka grew up in a well-kept immigrant neighborhood in Frankfurt as the son of a relatively prosperous, not all that religious family of ethnic Albanians from Kosovo — a group notable more for their pro-American outlook than for mosque attendance.

But somewhere along the way, Uka turned very drastically from his upbringing.

German officials said Thursday the 21-year-old temporary letter sorter with the postal service has admitted targeting Americans when he opened fire with a handgun on a bus-load of 15 U.S. airmen at Frankfurt's airport on their way to deployment in Afghanistan, killing two and wounding two more.

Queen to make first state visit to Ireland

Queen Elizabeth II will make her first-ever visit to the Republic of Ireland — the first ruling British monarch to go there in a century marked by Ireland's brutal war of independence from Britain and the grueling conflict in Northern Ireland.

The long-anticipated visit by the 84-year-old queen will highlight Ireland's reconciliation with its former colonial master and the slow blooming of peace in neighboring Northern Ireland.

Buckingham Palace and the Irish government confirmed the queen would visit this year, accompanied by her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. British and Irish officials, speaking on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to speak on the record, said they were planning a three-day visit in May.

JONES DRIVES Midland High's Shelby Jones watches her drive Friday morning at the Midland Girls Invitational at Green Tree Country Club.

Putting work pays off for MHS' Jones

By Len Hayward
Sports Editor

The putting work that Shelby Jones put in earlier this week paid big dividends on Friday during the first round of the Midland Girls Invitational.

Jones, a senior at Midland High, fired a 77 at Green Tree Country Club on Friday and is in third place behind a pair of players from El Paso Eastwood, but more importantly for Jones it showed that her flat stick is coming around at the right time of year.

"I spent about one-and-half to two hours everyday on my putting and that was my problem last tournament," Jones said. "It took about 10-15 strokes off."

Jones said she had a total of 28 putts on Friday, compared to 38 putts in one of her recent tournament rounds. Jones said the difference was focusing on each shot and not looking forward to the next one.

"My whole plot today to shoot good was worry only about the shot I'm on," Jones said. "I just started good, and early on I just didn't think I couldn't make a putt. I was pretty confident."

Jones was behind El Paso Eastwood's Alexia Heist and Laura Barron, who both shot 75s on Friday, and also helped the Lady Troopers open up a sizeable lead after the opening day of the tournament.

El Paso Eastwood shot 313 as a team as the four players who had their scores counted all shot 83 or better, and only an 87 was not counted on Friday.

Eastwood's District 1-5A rival El Paso Coronado is second at 335, San Angelo Central third at 339, and Midland High is in fourth at 344. MHS was ahead of District 3-5A schools Odessa Permian, Odessa High, Abilene High and

FAMILY AFFAIR

Baseball a big deal in the Limon household

By Shawn Shroyer
Sports Writer

Ernie Johnson Field was the setting for a scene seemingly exclusive to baseball.

Friday's game between Lee and Plainview was a genuine family affair. When the coaches met to exchange lineup cards, it was a family conference as Lee coach Hector Limon addressed Plainview coach, and his son, Hector Limon Jr. On Lee's lineup card was another of Limon Sr.'s sons, Mick. In the stands was Limon Sr.'s father, donning a Rebels hat and Lubbock Estacado Matadors seatback, from Limon Sr.'s time coaching the Matadors. Limon Sr. has another son, Marcus, playing baseball at Wayland Baptist.

Limon

The moment was another chapter in the Limon family's baseball history.

"Baseball. Baseball, baseball as far back as I can remember," Limon Jr. said. "He's had high expectations for us as players and he has high expectations for us in our post-high school and post-college careers. That's something we take pride in as a family, our baseball background and our history and our desire for baseball."

LANDING IN THE SAND Big Spring's Devante Lloyd competes in the boys long jump Friday at Memorial Stadium during the Tall City Invitational track meet.

Area athletes shine at Tall City Invite track meet

From staff reports

Lee's Omar Barnes and Midland High's Dutton Watson, and a trio of athletes from Midland Christian each won events in their respective divisions after the first day of the Tall City Invitational at Memorial Stadium.

Watson won the Division I boys discus with a toss of 155-feet, 6-inches as his throw was more than 12-feet better than second place John Mote from Amarillo High.

Barnes, meanwhile, won for the second time in two weeks in the long jump. Barnes out-jumped Midland High's Mercedes Lane for the victory.

Barnes came in with a top jump of 21-7 1/2, and Lane finished second at 21-2. Lee's Corey McPherson missed out on the podium as his leap of 20-8 1/2 was 1 inch behind third place Travis Dunn of Lubbock Coronado.

Midland High was second in the team standings after the first day with 24 points as Lubbock Coronado held the top spot with 34. Lee was third with 17 points.

Midland Christian had a solid start to the weekend as three different athletes won field event titles on Friday.

In the Division II girls pole vault, Midland Christian's Audrey Holmsley won with a vault of 10-3, finishing ahead of her teammate Reagan Volke, whose best vault was 9-0.

The Mustang boys squad had two victories on Friday as David Parkhurst won the boys high jump, and Kevin Gosch won the discus.

Parkhurst won the high jump with a leap of 6-2, and was two inches higher than Abilene Wylie's Kyle Dodd.

NFL, players agree to 7-day extension on CBA

By Barry Wilner
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The NFL and its players are still talking. Soon they'll need to start agreeing.

While failing to reach a deal that would keep labor peace intact for the nation's most popular sports league, the NFL and the players' union agreed Friday on a seven-day extension for their collective bargaining agreement.

It was the second time they had stopped the CBA from running out, though the two sides do not appear to be close to a new pact.

"We're obviously having a lot of dialogue," Commissioner Roger Goodell said Friday after a federal mediator announced the seven-day reprieve. "We met for a lot of days. And we are going to meet for more."

The CBA was set to run out on Thursday before a 24-hour extension was granted. Under the new arrangement, talks will resume Monday and the old deal will expire at the end of next Friday.

"We've got very serious issues," NFL lead negotiator Jeff Pash said. "We've got significant differences."

NFL Players Association executive director DeMaurice Smith noted both sides had committed to giving the talks a chance to move ahead. "We look forward to a deal coming out of that," he said.

That deal still could be a long way off. If the CBA expires the owners could lock out the players, and the union could decertify to try and prevent that through the courts — something the NFLPA did in 1989.

"Talking is better than litigating," Goodell said.

For the moment, talking at least staves off the NFL's first work stoppage since the 1987 players' strike. It certainly indicates neither the owners nor the players are ready to make a bold move to shut down a league that rakes in $9 billion a year and is more popular than ever. The last two Super Bowls rank No. 1 and No. 2 among most-watched TV programs in U.S. history.

The extension doesn't mean, however, that the sides have found common ground on the key issues:

- How to divide the league's revenues, including what cut team owners should get up front to help cover certain costs, such as stadium construction. Under the old deal, owners received about $1 billion off the top. They entered these negotiations seeking to add another $1 billion to that.
- A rookie wage scale, and how much of the money saved by the owners under such a system would go to veteran players.
- The owners' push to expand the regular season from 16 games to 18 while reducing the preseason by two games. The players oppose that idea, citing health factors, especially the number of injuries already sustained during a 16-game regular season.
- Benefits for retired players.

Under terms of the seven-day extension, no player transactions will be allowed while it is in effect and players' health insurance coverage will remain in place.

Gosch won the boys discus, throwing 139-9, which was eight feet longer than second place Greg Marroquin from Plainview.

In fact, all three discus events in boys were won by Midland school competitors as Landon Dory, of the MHS JV, won the Division III Discus.

Midland Christian leads both the Division II boys and girls division in the point standings. The Mustang boys scored 32 points and are leading second-place Hereford by one point, and the Lady Mustangs lead the Division II stasnds with 37 points, four points ahead of Canyon.

PECOS — The Greenwood boys and girls track teams each finished second at the West of the Pecos Relays on Friday night at Eagle Stadium.

The Greenwood boys squad won all three relays, and also picked up victories in the 200 meters, 400 meters, 1,600 meters and 3,200 meters on the way to scoring 169 points. Pecos scored 171 to win the meet.

On the girls side, the Rangerettes had victories in the 100 hurdles, 300 hurdles, the 400-meter relay and the triple jump to finish with 176 points. Host Pecos on the meet with 190 points.

The Rangers were impressive for winning for all three boys relays. The team of Cole Barton, Trey Cave, Cody Coss and Kam Williams won the 400-meter relay with a time of 45.25 seconds.

In the 800 relay, Coss, Tony Navarez, Hunter Rose and Williams combined for a time of 1:34.27.

And in the 1,600 relay, Coss, Navarez, Elam Tavarez and Daniel Vizcaino had a time of 3:38.95.

Williams also won the 200 meters with a time of 23.19, and Navarez won the 400 at 52.19.

Zak Martin swept the distance events, winning the 1,600 meters with a time of 4:57.54 and the 3,200 meters, clocking in at 11:02.87.

For the girls, the 400-meter relay team of Tabitha Fletcher, Adriana Niblett, Baily Ray and Kanada King won with a time of 52.18 seconds.

Flether also won the 100 hurdles, clocking in at 15.78 and the 300 hurdles with a time of 46.76. Janet Erives won the triple jump, leaping 33-1/2 to win.

Kenseth wins Las Vegas pole

By Jenna Fryer
Associated Press

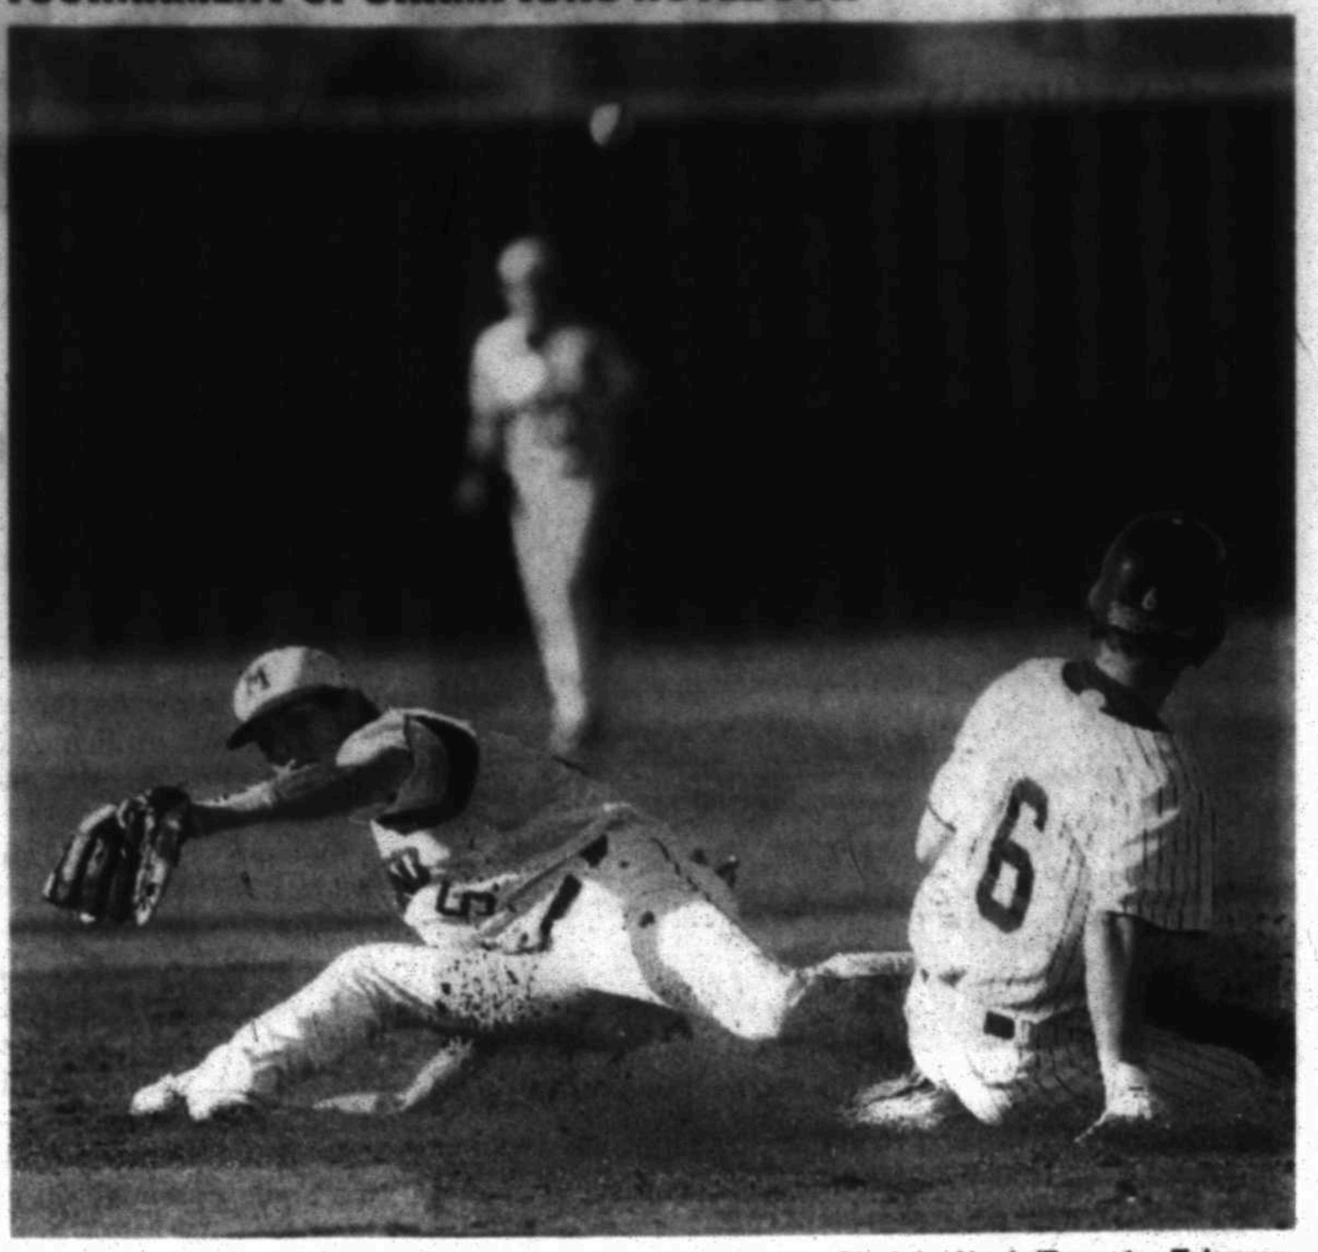
LAS VEGAS — Matt Kenseth has won the pole at Las Vegas Motor Speedway with a track record lap.

Kenseth's lap at 188.884 mph beat the record of 188.719 set last year by Kurt Busch.

Marcos Ambrose qualified second Friday and was followed by Carl Edwards and Greg Biffle as Fords swept the top two rows.

Kyle Busch qualified fifth in a Toyota, and briefly held the pole. But his bid to ensure either Kurt Busch or Kyle Busch won the pole for the fourth consecutive year was dashed when the Fords made their qualifying attempts.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS NOTEBOOK



Cindeka Nealy/Reporter-Telegram

OFF TARGET Midland High's Erick Callier (5) looses the ball, allowing Highland Park's Mark Gottsacker (6) to slide safely in to second base Friday during their game at Zachery Field.

LEE TAKES TWO: Lee improved to 3-0 in the Tournament of Champions with two more victories on Friday.

In Lee's first game of the day, Randy Kidwell pitched a gem and Luke Stice went deep in a 13-2 Lee victory against Plainview at Ernie Johnson Field, which ended after five innings due to the run-rule.

In five innings of work, Kidwell struck out eight and allowed just two runs, one earned, on two hits and three walks. In three of his five innings he faced four or fewer batters.

His one rough inning was the fourth, in which the Bulldogs scored both of their runs. The inning started with a fielding error that allowed the leadoff man to reach and a second error allowed him to advance to third. He eventually scored.

Those two runs weren't nearly enough for the Bulldogs thanks to one swing of the bat from Stice.

In the bottom of the second, Kyle Copeland hit a lead off single and Garhett Avery and Ryan Copeland were hit by pitches to load the bases for Stice. Stice sent the second pitch he saw on a rope over the right field wall for a grand slam.

The Rebels added three runs in the third and six runs in the fourth to put the run-rule in effect. In addition to Stice's efforts, Avery was 2 for 3 with three RBI, Skyler Estrella was 1 for 2 with two runs and two RBI and Tyler Reynolds was 2 for 2 with a run.

In the second game, Lee overcame a 3-0 deficit in the last three innings to pick up a 4-3 victory against El Paso Montwood. Avery got the start and settled down after giving up three runs in the first two innings to make it the rest of the way and pick up the win.

Lee (8-2) scored a pair of runs in the fifth and took the lead in the sixth with clutch two-out hitting. After Stice scored on a wild pitch, Daniel Vargas drove in Ryan Copeland with two outs and a 2-2 count for the go-ahead run with a triple to left.

HIGHLAND PARK BEATS BULLDOGS: Highland Park pitcher Matt Wilson proved too much for Midland High's bats in a 12-0 Scots victory at Zachery Field.

Wilson pitched all six innings, allowing just four hits. Teammate Mark Gottsacker led the Scots offense going 4 for 4 with a pair of doubles.

The Scots jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first and force Bulldogs starting pitcher Blair Beck from the game in the second during a four-run inning. The Midland High (6-5) bullpen, led by Michael Dominguez, held the Scots in check the next three innings, but Highland Park rallied for five runs in the sixth to finish off the victory.

The loss was Midland High's first of the TOC while Highland Park remained unbeaten.

TOURNAMENT LEADERS: Through two days of action, just three teams remain unbeaten. Lee, El Paso Franklin and Highland Park are all 3-0 entering today, but at least one is guaranteed a loss today. El Paso Franklin and Highland Park play at 10 a.m. at Zachery Field and Highland Park plays Lee at 1 p.m. at Ernie Johnson Field. El Paso Hanks is 3-1 entering today and Midland High and Lubbock Estacado are 2-1.

NEAR NO-NOS: Lubbock Estacado's Adrian Adame did it all in a 4-0 Matadors victory against El Paso Hanks at Christensen Stadium on Friday. Adame started on the mound and threw a one-hitter over seven innings. At the plate, he tripled.

Later in the day, Highland Park's Matthew Milburn allowed just three hits over seven innings against Amarillo Tascosa at Zachery Field.

TODAY'S ACTION: With 14 games on the docket today, there's plenty left to see.

El Paso Franklin and Highland Park are both 3-0 entering today and they will square off at 10 a.m. at Zachery Field. Franklin finishes the tournament against Plainview at 1 p.m. at Christensen Stadium.

Highland Park wraps up the tournament against host Lee at 1 p.m. at Ernie Johnson Field. Lee's final game is against Andrews at 7 p.m. at Christensen Stadium.

Midland High will play back-to-back games at Zachery Field. The Bulldogs play Amarillo Tascosa at 1 p.m. and finish with Lubbock Estacado at 4 p.m.

CORRECTION: El Paso Franklin and Lubbock Estacado played a full seven innings on Thursday, not six as previously listed. In that game, Franklin pitcher Ricky Jacquez recorded 16 strikeouts.

FAMILY

coach of the Bulldogs, literally following in his father's footsteps. Limon Sr. coached at Plainview before moving on to Estacado where he turned the Matadors into a baseball powerhouse. Limon Sr. said the same administration from when he coached at Plainview more than a decade ago was still intact. Both coaches even wore No. 24.

Limon Sr. said Friday's game, which Lee won 13-2 in five innings, left him with mixed emotions. But remembering back to the day Limon Jr. was named the Bulldogs' head coach, Limon Sr. said it was a day that filled him with pride.

"I couldn't believe it," Limon Sr. said. "It was unbelievable because he's so young. He's 23 years old and I don't think I was even coaching at 23 years old. It's something I'm proud of and he's got a great opportunity."

And just by watching the Rebels and Bulldogs play, it was evident the two coaches shared the same values on the field.

In every inning the Rebels scored, they amped up the pressure on the opposing pitcher with bunts, steals and even a suicide squeeze. In the one inning the Bulldogs got on the board, they were just as aggressive on the base paths, trying to take the extra base given the opportunity.

"Putting pressure on the defense, that's what we did," Limon Jr. said. "When we've got runners on base, forcing the issue is what we're going to do. I've been around it my whole life. That's all I know."

Following Friday's game, Lee had to rush to Christensen Stadium for its final game of the day. However, father and son made time for a quick chat alone in the infield and posed for pictures together for their family.

It won't be the last time they face each other. But every time they do Limon Jr. will carry with him the No. 1 virtue Limon Sr. instilled in him.

"Perseverance," Limon Jr. said. "He's been at a lot of different places and had a lot of different records. One thing he's always done is keep on plugging, working hard. One thing I've gained from him is a great work ethic. We're going to work hard every day and give our kids every opportunity to be successful and I'd say that's the No. 1 thing I've learned from him as a mentor."

Lady Chaps pick up 2 wins in Northeast Texas Roundup

From staff reports

LONGVIEW — The No. 6-ranked Midland College softball team picked up two hard-fought victories on Friday during the first day of the Northeast Texas Roundup.

The Lady Chaps opened the tournament with a 4-3 victory against Texarkana Junior College, and then followed with a 2-0 win against Paris Junior College.

Yolanda Rios put together two solid pitching performances in the two games, one in relief and the other as the starter, and she picked up wins in both.

Against Texarkana, Rios came on in relief of starter Brittany Serrano and struck out five and allowed one hit after coming on in relief in the third inning.

On the offensive side for MC against Texarkana, Debra Lovell was 2 for 3, and Meghan Macias was 3 for 3 with two RBI.

Rios was just as effective against Paris JC, pitching a complete-game shutout, giving up eight hits with one strikeout. The Lady Chaps (14-6) scored both of their runs against Paris in the first inning as Kishti Kamaka drove in Hannah Raubolt with a single, and later Kamaka scored on a single by Diana De La Paz.

Midland College will continue the tournament today with games against Lon Morris, Navarro Junior College and Trinity Valley Junior College.

Kyle Stanley leads closely-contested Honda Classic

By Steven Wine
Associated Press

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. — Delighted to be 5-under par at the midway point of the windy Honda Classic, Rory Sabbatini predicted the score would be enough to win the tournament.

A few hours later, his lead was gone.

The gusts of more than 20 mph abated some, and Kyle Stanley took advantage with his late tee time Friday, shooting a 4-under 66 for a one-stroke lead over Sabbatini.

Stanley, seeking his first PGA Tour title, was at 6-under 134. Sabbatini shot a 64, matching the tournament's best round since it moved to PGA National in 2007.

Records: Midland High 7-6-4, 3-4-0-0 (9 points); San Angelo Central 10-6-1, 2-2-2-1 (11 points)

Last game: Odessa Permian 2, Midland High 0; San Angelo Central 4, Abilene High 3, SO (3-1)

Last meeting: Midland High 3, San Angelo Central 1 on Feb. 8

Notes & Quotes: The Bulldogs could officially be in playoff mode entering today's game because with nine points in the District 3-5A standings, every point from now on will be big, and multiple points will be bigger. Midland High suffered its fourth regulation loss on Tuesday to begin the second half of District 3-5A play with the shutout loss to Odessa Permian. Not only did the Bulldogs lose but they had to play the majority of the game with 10 players. MHS midfielders Sammy Ibarra was ejected midway through the first half. ... Ibarra will have to sit out today's game. ... The Bobcats won a tight game with Abilene High on Wednesday and was able to stay in the playoff chase in third place. But they need to get points today to stay ahead of both Odessa High and Midland High as the three squads battle to stay in the playoff chase. The Bobcats are one point ahead of the Bronchos and two ahead of the Bulldogs. ... The last time the Bulldogs and Bobcats played was on Feb. 8, Midland High won as Ceaser Natividad, Stephen Reid and Wes Blue all scored.

SAN ANGELO CENTRAL AT MIDLAND HIGH

When/where: Noon today, Grande Communications Stadium

Records: Midland High 14-5-1, 6-0-1-0 (20 points); San Angelo Central 9-3-3, 4-0-1-2 (16 points)

Last game: Midland High 1, Odessa Permian 0; San Angelo Central 2, Abilene High 1, SO (3-2)

Last meeting: Midland High 3, San Angelo Central 2, SO (3-2) on Feb. 8

Notes & Quotes: It's just the second game of the second half of the District 3-5A schedule but if the Lady Bulldogs can have two things happen today, they can punch their playoff ticket. First, the Lady Bulldogs need to win today's game in regulation to get them the full complement of three points, and Abilene Cooper needs to fall in regulation to Odessa Permian. If those two things happen, Midland High will be the first team of either boys or girls to clinch a playoff berth. ... Tuesday, Midland High played another tight game against rival Odessa Permian as Madison Scribner's goal in the 13th minute held up for the game. It was the second time this season the Lady Bulldogs had defeated Permian 1-0. ... Central is coming off a shootout victory against Abilene High on Wednesday, and kept it in second place in the District 3-5A standings. ... In the previous meeting between these two teams, the Lady Bulldogs rallied from a 2-1 second-half deficit to tie the game and then win in a shootout.

No. 8 Horned Frogs shut down Red Raiders

From staff reports

LUBBOCK — No. 8-ranked TCU scored six runs combined in the sixth and seventh innings to complete a 7-0 victory against Texas Tech at Dan Law Field on Friday night.

The Horned Frogs (5-4) held a 1-0 lead through the fifth inning, but in the sixth, TCU roughed up Texas Tech starter Daniel Coulombe for three runs. Then in the seventh, the Horned Frogs' offense was big again as they scored three off reliever Jerad McCrummen.

TCU starter Kyle Winkler pitched a shutout as he gave up four hits over eight innings with nine strikeouts. Reliever Teddy Nowell finished a scoreless and hitless ninth with two strikeouts.

TCU left fielder Jason Coats was 4 for 5 with three RBI, and catcher Jimmie Pharr was 4 for 5 and two RBI in the victory.

For the Red Raiders (8-3), David Paiz had two of their four hits, and former Midland Christian star Reid Redman had had a hit.

The 4,173 fans in attendance represented the largest crowd at Dan Law Field since 2006.

UTPB ROUNDUP

UTPB men beat St. Mary's

SAN ANTONIO — The University of Texas of the Permian Basin men's basketball team pulled out a 61-59 overtime victory against St. Mary's in the semifinal round of the Heartland Conference Tournament on Friday.

The Falcons led by one at the end of the first half, 28-27, but St. Mary's then responded in the second half by tying the game to force overtime. The Falcons outscored St. Mary's 9-7 in the overtime to clinch the victory.

UTPB (16-11) will take on either Texas A&M-International or Newman in the championship game at 5 p.m. today.

Jamal Holden led the Falcons with 19 points, and Eric Martin and Louis Crane each added in the victory.

Lady Falcons move on at Heartland Tourney

SAN ANTONIO — The University of Texas of the Permian Basin women's basketball team moved on to the Heartland Conference Tournament championship game with a 64-59 victory against St. Mary's on Friday.

The Lady Falcons (20-7) recovered from a 21-19 first half deficit to outscore St. Mary's 45-38 in the second half to clinch the victory.

Miesha Blackshear led UTPB with 21 points, and Tammy Acosta added 16 in the victory.

The Lady Falcons will take on St. Edward's at 2 p.m. today in the Heartland Conference Tournament championship.

Thinel's hat trick sends Jacks over Oilers

From staff reports

ODESSA — Sebastien Thinel recorded a hat trick and six total points as the Odessa Jackalopes took a wild 7-5 victory against the Tulsa Oilers on Friday night at the Ector County Coliseum.

Thinel, Mike Ramsay and Todd Robinson combined for 15 points in the victory, as the Jackalopes won for the fourth straight time and remained perfect on the homestand.

Odessa had a 4-3 lead after the second period, but the third period featured an intense finish as the two teams scored five goals in the final 10 minutes.

Odessa began the scoring barrage when Kenny Corupe scored off assists from Matt Gens and Todd Robinson to give the Jacks a 5-3 lead. But Tulsa came back with two goals of their own to tie the game when Mike Wirll and Braden Wells each scored.

The Jacks, though, scored the game-winner with less than five minutes to play when Robinson finished a feed from Thinel. Then Thinel scored his hat-trick goal with :09 remaining on the empty net to clinch the victory.

Goaltender Mike Mole made his first start for the Jackalopes in goal as he stopped 32 shots.

Odessa improved to 24-24-6 with 54 points and moved into fifth place in the Berry Conference standings.

Odessa and Tulsa will return to the ice at 7:05 p.m. today at the Ector County Coliseum.

FRIDAY'S NBA ROUNDUP

SPURS 125, HEAT 95: At San Antonio, Manu Ginobili scored 20 points, Tony Parker made a surprise return to the starting lineup and the San Antonio Spurs handed the skidding Miami Heat their most lopsided loss of the season, 125-95 on Friday night.

In the first meeting between these NBA heavyweights, the Spurs (51-11) improved the league's best record and kept the Heat in a tailspin. A night after blowing a 24-point lead in a stunning loss to Orlando, Miami trailed by 24 after just one quarter and lost for the fourth time in five games.

MAVERICKS 116, PACERS 108: At Dallas, Dirk Nowitzki scored 29 points, Jason Terry added 21 and Dallas pulled away from Indiana in the final 3 minutes to stretch its winning streak to eight games.

Jason Kidd's 15 points and Rodrigue Beaubois' 13 helped the Mavericks to their 18th victory in 19 games.

BULLS 89, MAGIC 81: At Orlando, Derrick Rose had 24 points and Luol Deng added 16 to help the Chicago Bulls hang on for an 89-81 win over the Orlando Magic on Friday night in a matchup of two of the top teams in the Eastern Conference.

The Bulls bounced back from a loss to Atlanta on Wednesday by earning their eighth victory in 10 games. Orlando's loss snapped a four-game winning streak, and a five-game run against the Bulls at home.

CAVALIERS 119, KNICKS 115: At New York, Baron Davis scored 18 points in his Cavaliers debut, leading a stunning rally in the fourth quarter as Cleveland beat the New York Knicks for the 11th straight time.

CELTICS 107, WARRIORS 103: At Boston, Ray Allen scored 27 points and pulled down a crucial offensive rebound with 12 seconds remaining to help Boston hold off Monta Ellis and Golden State.

THUNDER 111, HAWKS 104: At Atlanta, Kevin Durant scored 29 points despite a sore ankle and Russell Westbrook hit a clinching 3-pointer, leading Oklahoma City over Atlanta.

NETS 116, RAPTORS 103: At London, Brook Lopez scored 25 points and New Jersey ended a six-game losing streak by beating Toronto in the first regular-season NBA game played in Europe.

76ERS 111, TIMBERWOLVES 100: At Philadelphia, Andre Iguodala had 22 points, 13 assists and 10 rebounds for his second triple-double of the season, and Philadelphia overcame another stellar effort from Kevin Love to beat Minnesota.

HORNETS 98, GRIZZLIES 91: At Memphis, Tenn., Chris Paul broke out of a scoring slump with 23 points and 14 assists, and Willie Green keyed New Orleans' fourth-quarter rally against Memphis.

SUNS 102, BUCKS 88: At Milwaukee, Channing Frye scored 20 points and Phoenix used a 19-0 run in the third quarter to flip a deficit into a big lead against Milwaukee.

Abilene Cooper.

That score pleased Bulldogs coach Rick Sample, who said that he is looking for his squad to improve today.

"That is a pretty good score," Sample said. "This is a barometer for district. I expect them to do better (today) and I think we need to improve on that. We are a work in progress right now, and we are trying to get ready for district."

Eastwood, El Paso Coronado, San Angelo Central, Midland High, Permian, Odessa High, Abilene High, El Paso Franklin, Abilene Cooper and El Paso Eastwood's II team will make up the Division I field for today's final round.

Lee, meanwhile, finished two strokes from being in 10th with a 381 and will be the top team in the Division II field today. Other teams in Division II will be Midland Christian, Amarillo Tascosa, Lubbock High, Lubbock Coronado, Monahans, Midland High II, Lubbock Monterey, Amarillo Caprock, Amarillo Palo Duro and San Angelo Lake View.

Lee's Libby Thomas led the Lady Rebels with a 79 and was in fourth place after the first day of the tournament.

"I was hitting the ball pretty good, but my putts just weren't really dropping at all," said Thomas, who is a sophomore. "My putter was off a little bit, and it hasn't been recently."

Today's final round will be at Hogan Park's Quail Course with an 8 a.m. shotgun start.

SLAPPED AWAY Kansas guard Mario Little (23) knocks the ball away from Texas A&M forward Ray Turner (35) on Wednesday during the second half of a game in Lawrence, Kan. Kansas defeated Texas A&M, 64-51.

Tech pays Aggies a visit

By Brent Zwerneman
San Antonio Express-News

COLLEGE STATION — Minutes after his team had fought hard but finally fallen at second-ranked Kansas on Wednesday, Texas A&M coach Mark Turgeon pointed to the primary reasons why he believed the Aggies failed to pull off the upset.

"We made about four or five not-very-intelligent plays defensively," Turgeon said. "And when you're playing a great team, they'll make you pay."

That shouldn't be a problem for A&M starting 12:45 p.m. today, however, as the 24th-ranked Aggies welcome 10th-place Texas Tech and Pat Knight, who might be down to his final regular-season game as Red Raiders coach.

"You can't control that stuff," Knight said of speculation surrounding his gig. "I'm the coach of this team until I die or they fire me."

In Knight's third full season, the Red Raiders (13-17, 5-10) are assured of their third consecutive losing campaign in Big 12 play under his direction. Meanwhile in College Station, Turgeon has directed A&M (22-7, 9-6) to what will be its fourth consecutive NCAA tournament under the one-time Jayhawks guard, who was admittedly nostalgic about visiting KU this past week.

"This place makes me feel great," Turgeon said from within historic Allen Fieldhouse minutes after KU had made a late push to prevail 64-51 over the Aggies. "Walking down the halls and walking through the city – it's home. … I signed more autographs today than I've signed all year."

While A&M has enjoyed unparalleled hoops success over the past six seasons – the first two under Billy Gillispie – Turgeon has been disappointed at times this season in attendance at Reed Arena. Especially in comparison to a place like his alma mater KU, where fans lined Allen Fieldhouse hours before tipoff on Wednesday, and many waited long after the game had ended for autographs.

In the midst of a five-game winning streak late this season, Reed was about half full for Iowa State on Feb. 16. When Turgeon was asked about attendance afterward, he pounded his fist on the interview table. That crowd of 7,041 marked A&M's lowest attended league game in five years. Earlier this week, however, Turgeon spoke of his love for A&M, his first coaching job at a major university after successful stints at Jacksonville State and Wichita State.

"This is a great job," Turgeon said. "There are a lot of positive about this place. The university and what it stands for, all of the (high school) players in Texas. The support we've had financially, the new practice gym … and our crowds have been great for four years."

Just not in the past two games against ISU and Oklahoma, with a combined attendance of 15,356 that doesn't equal A&M's one game at KU this week (16,300). That should change today, as A&M students are admitted free as part of a "12th Man Day" promotion, and seniors B.J. Holmes, Nathan Walkup, Andrew Darko, Derrek Lewis and Marshall Carrell play their final game in Reed.

"I'm looking forward to Senior Day," Turgeon said before exiting Allen Fieldhouse on Wednesday. "I just pray we have a great crowd, and they're there to support a team that's had a heck of a year so far."

No. 3 Chaparrals roll past Temple

By Oscar LeRoy
Sports Writer

LUBBOCK — Midland College sophomore forward Jordan Walker always expects his team to win by a big margin. But it's pretty doubtful that anyone could have predicted the way the No. 3-ranked Chaparrals would demolish Temple College in the first round of the NJCAA Region V Tournament on Friday.

The Chaps shot an astonishing 67.2 percent from the floor and had six players in double figures as MC rolled past Temple College 113-58 at the Rip Griffin Center.

Jamaal Trice led the Chaps (28-3) with 19 points, Walker had 16, Guy Landry and Dwayne Davis each had 12, Rodney Milum added 11 and Dwight Miller chipped in with 10.

Chaps	113
Leopards	58

"We just came in here and did what we had to do," Walker said. "It's win or go home, so we were focused. We did this as a team and were making shots because we came out with a good mindset."

It was such a dominating performance for the Chaps that all but one player who played scored and three others had nine points.

Thanks to that victory, the Chaps move to today's 5 p.m. semifinal game against Western Junior College Athletic Conference rival Odessa College, which upset No. 15 Collin County 53-51.

It's hard to believe that at one point early in the game, Temple (19-11) had an 11-7 lead. That probably only made the Chaps angry because they stormed back to outscore the Leopards 48-18 the rest of the half to take a 55-29 lead into the locker room. In the process, the Chaps shot 60.6 percent from the floor.

"We shot well, and it seemed like everything was going in," Trice said. "We just wanted to go out and play hard. If we lose, we make sure we go out and play hard and let the outcome fall where it may."

Jamaal Trice: Led Midland College with 19 points past Temple in the first round of the Region V tournament.

Jordan Walker: Put up 16 points for the Chaps, one of six players to score in double-digits.

Idalou tops Tigers in Region I-2A rout

By Jonathan Hull
Sports Writer

Hico boys basketball coach Drew Coffman knew the Tigers were about to face a very good Idalou team in the semifinals of the Region I-2A Tournament.

But even with that knowledge, Coffman was still left in awe following Idalou's 72-51 trouncing of the Tigers at Chaparral Center on Friday.

Wildcats	72
Tigers	51

"I played Division I college basketball, and I don't know that I would want anything to do with Idalou's speed and their pressure," said Coffman, who played his high school basketball at Lee before spending three years on the hardwood for Texas Tech. "They really get after it and put a lot of pressure on the ball. They get after you all over the place and make you earn your points."

The Wildcats (30-1) move on to face Muleshoe (23-10) in the Region I-2A championship game at 1 p.m. today at Chaparral Center. Should Idalou win, it would be the second consecutive region title for the Wildcats, who advanced to the state title game last season.

Idalou coach Tyler Helms credits last year's deep playoff run as a key reason for the team's continued postseason success this season.

"We're building off of the success from last year," Helms said. "We've talked about it

BATTED AWAY Idalou High School's Luke Buckner (32) gets a hand on the ball as Hico High School's Dylan Turner (43) attempts the shot Friday during their Region I-2A semifinal basketball game at Chaparral Center. Idalou defeated Hico 72-51.

Muleshoe defeats Eastland in I-2A semifinal

By Jonathan Hull
Sports Writer

Free throws are often taken for granted, but Muleshoe made its chances at the charity stripe count when needed the most.

The Mules, making their first appearance in a regional tournament since 1957 on Friday, sank 15 of 19 free throws, including 14 of 16 during the back stretch of the fourth period.

And thanks to their efficiency from the line, Muleshoe now has a chance to play its way into the state tournament following a 46-42 Region I-2A semifinal victory against No. 10 Eastland at Chaparral Center.

"It depends on the game," Mules coach Matt Mason said of his team's ability at the charity stripe. "We've had games where we knocked them down and we've had games where we struggled. We have a lot of seniors on this team and they stepped up and knocked down those free throws like seniors should."

Muleshoe meets District 2-2A rival Idalou in the Region I-2A title game at 1 p.m. today at Chaparral Center. Its the third time the two teams have played this season with Idalou winning both contests.

"This is where we wanted to be," Mason said. "We said that at the beginning. If we're getting to play Idalou then we've had a great season. We've got nothing to lose and we'll put it all out on the line."

Mules	46
Mavericks	42

In a back-and-forth affair, both teams struggled to distance itself from the other with 10 lead changes. The largest lead for either team was six points, which Eastland had after opening the game with a 6-0 run.

That run, spearheaded by Eastland's 6-9 post Forrest Robinson, allowed the Mavericks to hold a 10-9 advantage after the first period.

But when the Mavs needed their star player the most, Robinson struggled to deliver. After scoring 11 points in the first half, the North Texas commit was held to four in the second half.

The lack of good looks visibly frustrated Robinson, and with Muleshoe up 45-42 with 30 seconds to play, Eastland's senior post pushed off, drawing an offensive foul. It was Robinson's fifth foul of the game and he then compounded the problem by saying something to the official, drawing a technical. Eastland coach Doug Galyean sent Robinson to the locker room.

"We finally started to execute the defensive play we had from the start of the game," Mason said. "You can't constantly stop (Robinson). This was just a tough defensive game and we were fortunate to come out on top."

Coach gives birth, leads team to state

By Jim Vertuno
AP Sports Writer

AUSTIN — Amber Branson is one tough basketball coach.

Shortly after coaching Lipan to a regional semifinal victory on Feb. 25, Branson gave birth to daughter Leslie. And about 15 hours later, she was back on the bench guiding the Lady Indians to another win and the school's first berth in the Texas state tournament since 2003.

"I was pretty tired," Branson said Friday, a few hours before Lipan was routed by defending champion Neches 65-26 in the semifinals of Class 1A Division II, the division for the state's smallest schools. "I never felt like I couldn't do it. God's been good to me this week."

Branson knew such a scenario was possible if her team went deep into the playoffs. After her team won its regional semifinal, she went back to her hotel room to rest.

Having two children already, it wasn't long before Branson realized her third was rapidly on her way.

Branson went to the hospital in Abilene shortly after 9 p.m. and gave birth about an hour later. Leslie came so fast she didn't give her mom time to get an epidural for pain.

"If I had the epidural, I might not have been able to make it" to the game, she said.

Instead, by 2 p.m. the next day Branson was back on the bench, exhausted and sore but urging her team on as they rallied from 15 points down to win.

The hardest part was leaving baby Leslie at the hospital. But there was no way Branson was going to let her team play such a big game without her.

"I would have taken her with me if I could have," Branson said.

Les Branson said his wife has taken some criticism in the media for her decision.

"People don't understand what basketball's like in Lipan," Les Branson said of the 400-person town 90 miles west of Dallas. The school has only 76 students, making it the second-smallest in the tournament.

After the game, Branson went back to the hospital "to be a mom for a few hours" and rest. The Lady Indians went to the hospital and took a team photo surrounding Leslie.

Coincidentally, the team motto this season is, "If it's easy, I don't want it."

Still just a week old, Leslie made it to the state tournament. She was in a baby carrier two rows behind the Lipan bench and tucked under a pink striped blanket.

The Bransons plan to put a basketball in Leslie's hands at an early age — she'll play guard, dad says — and they hope to someday return to Austin to watch her win a state championship.

At the very least, Leslie is already part of Lipan lore.

And how will her parents tell her the story of the week? They'll talk about the small-town team that made it to state.

"I tell her how proud I am of the girls who brought her here," Branson said.

MORE THAN A GAME Hico head coach Drew Coffman pats his players on the back as they come off the court as the clock ticks down Friday during the fourth quarter of their Region I-2A semifinal basketball game against the Idalou Wildcats at Chaparral Center. Idalou defeated the Hico 72-51.

IDALOU

since the offseason. I also think the success we had during football season, winning a state title helps a lot since a lot of these guys were on that team. This team plays very well in big games, too."

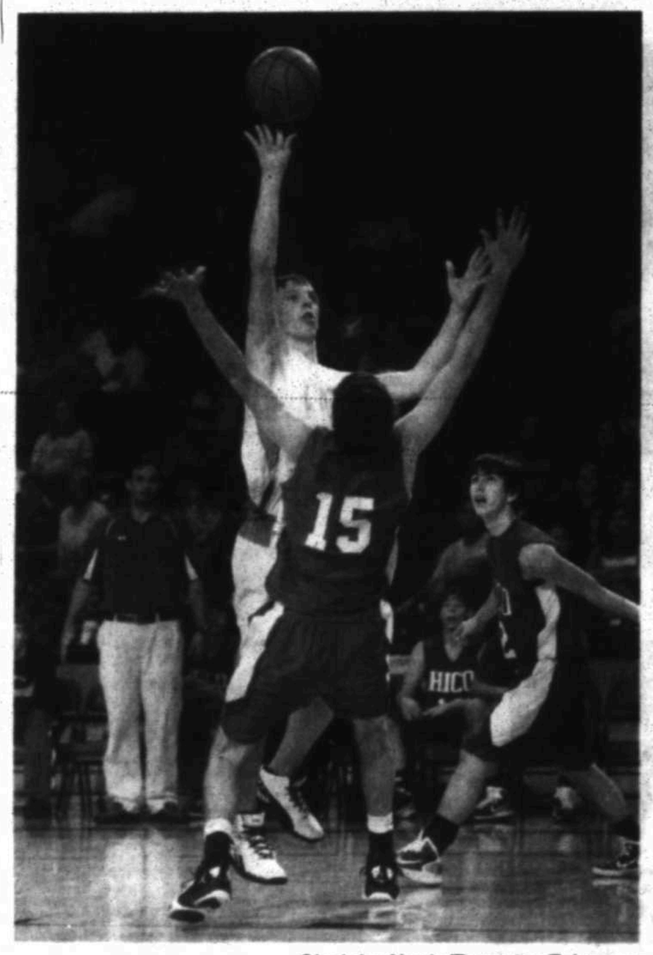
Idalou never trailed in the game and was tied with Hico (35-4) twice in the early stages of the game. The last tie came at 4-4 a mere two minutes into first period.

From there, the Wildcats ripped off an 7-0 run that ballooned into a 14-5 rally in the final six minutes of the opening frame. Senior Luke Buckner led the Wildcats' charge, scoring six points during that span and putting Idalou up 18-9 after the first period.

The Wildcats then got buckets from four different players in an 8-2 run to open the second stanza, extending their advantage to 26-11. They wouldn't lead by less than 10 points for the rest of the game.

And while Buckner led them with a game-high 23 points, Idalou flashed the ability to generate offense in a variety of way as five other players scored at least seven points.

"I was being left open a lot and my teammates do a good job of finding me when I am," Buckner said. "I try to do the same thing when they're open."



Cindeka Nealy/Reporter-Telegram

OVER THE TOP Idalou High School's Luke Buckner (32) takes a shot over Hico High's Coley Howell (15) on Friday during their Region I-2A semifinal basketball game at Chaparral Center.

Junior Riley Payne had 11 with junior Alec Estes adding 10 as the top complements to Buckner. The Wildcats totaled 11 assists as a team.

"They were bringing guys off the bench who were scoring and I was just thinking how nice it would be to have that many players available," Coffman said. "They're a very tough, well-coached team."

Hico was led by senior post Michael Warren, who had 14 points and dominated the boards with 15 rebounds. Senior Chad Karels also had 14, while junior points guard Drew Polk added 10.

Obviously, it wasn't the homecoming Coffman was hoping for, but it still remained a memorable experience for the former Lee standout.

"It was great to be back here and see all the old faces and my family," Coffman said. "It was a great experience. I'm glad we got the opportunity."

NO. 6 IDALOU 72, NO. 20 HICO 51

GIRLS STATE TOURNAMENT ROUNDUP

CLASS 5A

Irving MacArthur 64, San Antonio Wagner 51: Alexis Jones had 22 points, nine rebounds and nine assists to lead Irving MacArthur to a 64-51 win over San Antonio Wagner in the Class 5A state semifinals.

Karmyn Jackson added 16 points for MacArthur (36-2), but it was Jones' dominant performance that propelled the Cardinals to the championship game in their first state tournament since 1986. Jones is rated as one of the top junior players in the country.

MacArthur led 30-16 at halftime after shooting 50 percent in the first two quarters. Wagner (32-7) twice got within nine in the third quarter but never threatened to take the lead.

Eboni Watkins scored 20 for Wagner, making four of her team's five 3-pointers.

Georgetown 56, Alief Elsik 51: Krystal Forthan had a dominating double-double with 27 points and 20 rebounds to lead Georgetown to a 56-51 win over Alief Elsik on Friday night in the Class 5A semifinals.

Forthan, a McDonalds' All-American post player who has signed with LSU, scored Georgetown's final 10 points, including two free throws with 21 seconds left.

Forthan spent last season playing junior varsity after the University Interscholastic League ruled she had moved to Georgetown from Portland, Ore. for athletic reasons and declared her ineligible for varsity play.

Forthan was 11 of 24 shooting, including 3 of 4 on 3-pointers for Georgetown (33-3).

Elsik (31-6) had a chance to tie with 27 seconds left but Jazmine Ocanas' 3-pointer rattled out. Crystal porter scored 16 to lead Elsik.

CLASS 2A

Winnsboro 59, Poth 52: Amber Langhoff scored 19 points and Brea Draper grabbed 13 rebounds to lead Winnsboro past Poth 59-52 in the Class 2A semifinals Friday.

Winnsboro (33-6) reached the finals for the 12th time by outscoring Poth 21-11 in the third quarter and holding on in the fourth.

Hayley Cox added 11 points, and Draper scored eight.

Ashley Fuller led Poth (29-6) with 12 points, and Micah Weaver had 11 points and 10 rebounds. Tara Broyles also scored 11 apiece. Tara Dunn had 15 rebounds, while Jordan Kotara had 11 rebounds and three blocked shots.

Winnsboro will go for its fourth state title Saturday against Brock.

Brock 37, San Saba 32: Kamy Cole scored 24 points, including 12 during a big fourth-quarter rally, and two-time defending champion Brock beat San Saba 37-32 in the Class 2A semifinals Friday.

Brock (34-5) trailed 28-21 entering the fourth but forced 10 turnovers in the quarter and held San Saba to just two free throws.

Cole also grabbed seven rebounds, while Paige Parliament had 11 points and nine rebounds.

Haylee Oliver led San Saba (30-9) with 13 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots. Danessa Vasquez scored 11.

Brock will try for its sixth state title in nine years Saturday. The school has made 17 trips to the state tournament since 1963.

CLASS A DIVISION II

Whitharral 50, Knippa 41: Mia Ochoa scored 16 points and Ashlen Albus scored 12 to lead Whitharral over Knippa 50-41 Friday night in the Class 1A Division II state semifinals.

Whitharral (30-7) led 35-34 early in the fourth quarter before closing the game with a 15-7 run to advance to championship game in the school's first state tournament.

Ashley Salazar, who has signed to play at McNeese State, scored 19 points to lead Knippa (30-5), which forced 21 turnovers by Whitharral but shot just 23 percent.

Neches 65, Lipan 26: Rodricka Patton scored 17 points and defending state champion Neches forced 33 turnovers in routing Lipan 65-26 Friday in the Class 1A Division II state semifinals.

Kristen Green scored 14 points and Kiandra Taylor scored 11 for Neches (36-4), which used a withering full-court press for to build a 41-11 lead by early in the third quarter. Neches scored 36 points off the turnovers and held Lipan to 5 of 34 shooting for the game.

Rhiana Michou scored nine points for Lipan (27-10), whose coach Amber Branson returned to the bench for their regional finals victory about 15 hours after giving birth to her third child.

High school bragging rights: from Beyonce to O'Neal to Konigsburg

AUSTIN —

It is my belief that everyone's high school has produced a distinguished (or semidistinguished) alum or two.

So you can imagine how my world was rocked when, in reading a newspaper listing of distinguished alums of the 24 schools in town for this weekend's UIL girls high school basketball tournament, I came upon "N/A" for Knippa and Falls City.

(That's Knippa High School over near Uvalde, Texas, not Knappa High School in Oregon. And the K in Knippa is not silent. And the district motto is "It takes a little more to be a Rockcrusher." And the girls team is the Lady Crushers. And that's all the Knippa knowledge I know.)

N/A? Is that "not available" or "not applicable?" On Thursday, as I tried to contact the two N/A schools, I found that in the case of Falls City it means "not answering," as in nobody home. How come? No school.

"Because our girls and boys basketball teams are awesome, we have the opportunity to support them as they approach the highest level of competition," said the district website. "They need the Beaver Nation to support their playoff games. We will NOT have school on Thursday ..." (FYI, the make-up day is May 27, which no longer will be a teacher workday.)

Alas, the Falls City boys team lost to Mason 38-33 Wednesday night. And the girls lost here Thursday, 49-31 to Martin's Mill in the state semifinals.

In case you didn't scour the distinguished alum lists like I did (How many times do I have to tell you people that you're missing good stuff if you don't dig deep into the newspaper?), here are highlights to remind us that "distinguished" is relative.

Alief Elsik produced Maria Brumfield, a former WNBA player, and Beyonce Knowles, who — and I really should Wikipedia this — I believe was one of the Supremes who was not Diana Ross.

Canyon produced "Survivor" contestant Clay Jordan. Beaumont Ozen gave us "Top Chef All-Stars" contestant Tiffany Derry. Martin's Mill produced O'Neal Weaver, a former Midwestern State University basketballer known to many (though not me) as the "Martin's Mill Magician." Triple M did his magic at MSU in the mid-50s and to this day is the 11th all-time leading scorer in school history. The Martin's Mill Lady Mustangs play in O'Neal Weaver Gymnasium.

In listing distinguished alums, folks at some schools perceive opportunity to score some points with officialdom. Whoever offered the list for Neches included Randy Snider, the local school superintendent (and brother of girls hoops coach Andy).

FYI, the Austin American-Statesman's listings included one other school that didn't offer a distinguished alum. But Lucas Lovejoy (that's Lovejoy High in Lucas, Texas, not some school named for some guy named Lucas Lovejoy) gets a pass because it opened in 2007.

Wikipedia notes that on Nov. 16, a Lovejoy junior released an iPhone app for the school. The entry says "this application is fairly lame and useless." To me, the app looks like a good way for me to keep up with any goings-on that might be going on at Lucas Lovejoy.

So who are the famous/distinguished grads from your high school? I went to two high schools, Midwood in Brooklyn and North Miami in Florida.

North Miami gave us baseball Hall of Fame lefty pitcher Steve Carlton. Midwood produced Allen Stewart Konigsburg, known to you as Woody Allen.

He's no Martin's Mill Magician, but he's had his moments.

From 1C

Robinson finished with a game-high 15 points before fouling out, while Clint Galyean added 10 for the Mavs. Senior Tyson Turnbow had 14 to lead the Mules with nine of his points coming from the free throw line, including an all-important eight made charity shots in the fourth period alone.

"It was such a physical game. It was hard to get a good shot off," Turnbow said. "I was trying to take advantage of it and draw the foul, then I just had to make the free throws which I did most of the time."

It easily could have been overlooked that the Chaps played solid defense as they held Temple to 35.7 percent shooting in the first half and 37.5 percent for the game. Trice said it all began with his team's defensive play.

"Because Temple is so loose, it makes them dangerous," MC coach Ross Hodge said. "In the first five or seven minutes, we were a step slow on defense and they started making shots. Today we weathered that storm and got a little bit better on the defensive end of the floor, didn't give up too many baskets in transition, got a lot of the shots contested and did a pretty good job of rebounding the ball."

Added Hodge about his team's shooting, "We shot a good percentage. We made 43 shots but we had 29 assists, and you don't see that very often. What that tells you is that the guys are playing really unselfish and they did good job of turning down OK shots to get really good shots."

It would only get uglier for the Leopards in the second half as no matter where they turned, a different Chap was scoring and the score ballooned to 86-46 with 10:50 remaining.

Not helping the Leopards was playing without head coach Kirby Johnson, whose father passed away early on Friday. That meant volunteer assistant coach Alex Nixon had to take over coaching duties.

"My thoughts and prayers go out to (Johnson)," Hodge said. "I lost my father probably seven, eight years ago and I can certainly relate to that. That's a tough thing for any team to go through."

While this performance was very impressive, Hodge said his team needs to put it behind and treat it like it was a one-point victory to get focused for the next game.

"It's about surviving and advancing," Hodge said. "It's either you win by a lot or win by a little."

That next opponent is Odessa College, a team the Chaps have beaten in both meetings during the conference league, including a 61-53 victory in the regular season finale on Feb. 24.

"Really and truly in both games if you took the 80 minutes, I think there were 10 minutes out of the 80 we were able to separate," Hodge said. "But those other 70 minutes were pretty close, and I would imagine (today) would be the same way."

Added Walker about playing OC, "We know what they do and they know what we do. We just have to prepare for them."

TODAY Mostly sunny high 61 low 31

SUNDAY Mostly sunny high 69 low 39

MONDAY Mostly sunny high 83 low 46

LOCAL FORECAST

Expect mostly sunny skies today with a high around 61 and north winds between 10 and 20 mph. Tonight's forecast calls for partly cloudy conditions with a low around 31 and northeast winds between 5 and 10 mph.

Sunday, look for mostly sunny skies with a high around 69, a low around 39 and south winds around between 5 and 15mph.

Monday, look for mostly sunny skies with a high around 83 and a low around 46.

The high on Friday reached 78 while the low dropped to 53. The record high for March 4 is 87 set in 2009. The record low is 19 set in 2007.

Damaging thunderstorms will affect parts of the Ohio, Tennessee and lower Mississippi Valleys today as a series of storms travels northeast along a cool front pressing to the east. The main threat from the storms will be from flash flooding and strong wind gusts. Stream and river flooding is a concern over the Ohio Valley into the Northeast.

Dry and warmer weather will hold along much of the immediate Atlantic Coast. High pressure offshore in the Atlantic Ocean will allow the dry weather and the warm-up, as well as gusty winds. The winds will make for difficult firefighting efforts in Florida.

Girl's fits dampen theatergoers' enjoyment

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a play with my mother and daughter. We were looking forward to an evening together. After we were seated, a young girl and her mother came and sat directly behind us. The girl was sick and she coughed — hacked, really — throughout the entire performance. Not only was it disturbing, but the coughing was so loud we missed a lot of the dialogue.

Those tickets were not cheap and we did not enjoy the play as much as we could have. What would have been the proper way to handle that situation? — ANNOYED THEATERGOER IN CHICAGO

DEAR ANNOYED: Unless the house was sold out, you should have spoken to an usher or the theater manager and asked to be seated elsewhere. And if you were concerned about catching something, you should have asked to exchange the tickets for another performance and left.

DEAR ABBY: I have an ex-boyfriend with whom I have remained friends since we broke up two years ago. We see each other a few times a year, but I haven't seen him in six months.

Last Christmas, as a gift, I bought him a bottle of wine I know he enjoys. I have mentioned several times that we should get together so I can give it to him, but he is making no effort to hang out.

At what point do I put the bottle to better use and drink it myself? — MIKE IN ST. PAUL

DEAR MIKE: How about tonight? And be sure to share it with someone who will appreciate your company as well as the wine.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a beautiful daughter who has never met her real father. I wasn't sure about who he was, a fact I'm not proud of. I tried to convince myself that her dad was the one guy I really liked at the time, but as she has grown older, many of her mannerisms and little habits reflect characteristics of the other guy ("Bobby") who was also in my life then. I parted ways with both men while I was pregnant.

I am currently married, although we are struggling. I am now questioning whether I should try to locate Bobby to see if he is the father. I don't expect anything from him, but I would like a resolution. This could strain my relationship with my husband, but if Bobby is the father, I strongly feel he has a right to know. Please help me figure out what to do. — UNSURE IN ILLINOIS

DEAR UNSURE: Because you are willing to risk straining the relationship you have with your current husband, explain to him that you need to be sure of the identity of your daughter's father because the man's medical history could one day be important for her to have. It's the truth.

Then contact BOTH men you were seeing at the time of her conception, explain the situation, and request a DNA test. If you let them know that you don't expect anything from them but their medical history, they may be willing to comply — and you'll have your answer.

DEAR ABBY: May I share another "pennies from heaven" story you might find interesting?

My oldest sister was very sick in the hospital, and I was heading there during the mid-morning. When I got to my car, I glanced down at the curb. I spotted a penny lying there, picked it up and glanced at my wristwatch. It was 10:30.

When I arrived at the hospital, I saw her son and daughter-in-law holding each other and crying. When I ran to them, they told me Mary was gone. She had died at 10:30. — LILLIAN C., BOCA RATON, FLA.

DEAR LILLIAN: How poignant. It appears she couldn't leave you without saying goodbye.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, March 5, 2011:

This year, curb a need to impress others. Your words without the action will have more impact. Others find you to be ingenious and spontaneous. Note that people often want to brainstorm with you. If you are single, your magnetism speaks. The person you choose today could be a lot different from the one you would choose in two years. Curb committing right away. If you are attached, remember that a relationship is a 50-50 proposition. Be sensitive to your sweetie's needs. ARIES can be possessive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★ Try to relax, even as everything seems to make you tense. Talk about what ails you with a trusted friend. A little spontaneous exercise, even jumping jacks in your living room, could help, too. Tonight: Out on the town, beaming. Feeling better?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ Friends might give you an earful. You could be exhausted by their chatter and want to run away. Hang in there. Friends are friends. A change of plans really does delight you. Go with whimsy. Tonight: Where the action is.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ Imagine what it might be like to be someone else who, in particular, could be unusually annoying. Once you walk in this person's shoes, your perspective could change radically. Be spontaneous with an older relative. Tonight: Find your friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Travel to, or at least initiate communication with, someone afar. When you get outside of yourself, you could be amazed at how different your universe looks. Make that extra effort to be nonjudgmental. Listen to a friend again. Tonight: A force to behold.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Work with a loved one or friend. Know that you have the same goals. You might want to take another shot at realizing a desire. Your timing is right-on. Don't talk an idea to death. Be spontaneous. Listen to another person's sharing. Tonight: Just the two of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Let go of a no-win situation or argument. You might be stunned by how fast another person splits, even without pushing a favorite cause. Allow this person to feel free to communicate and let him or her know that you understand, if you do. Tonight: Where people are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ Clear out some additional work. Your mind also could be on overdrive, going over a situation again and again. Take a break or accept a sudden invitation. Refreshed, you could accomplish a lot more. New ideas will come forth, too. Tonight: Where people are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ Remain spontaneous and forthright. Let go of what doesn't work, which becomes clearer after a conversation with a loved one. Spontaneity needs to be honored. You could have an insightful and fun adventure. Tonight: Don't push. When you are tired; go to bed!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You come from a solid premise, but might be questioning it once more. A family member reveals a well-kept secret that could be a shock. You don't want to let the cat out of the bag. Tonight: Be your mischievous self.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ Mean what you say, as your words could provoke quite a sensation. Discussions are animated. Refuse to challenge another person or attempt to manipulate him or her. In the long run, this type of behavior will backfire, not rewarding either of you. Tonight: Your treat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ Be sensitive to your budget. If you think carefully, you could buy a token of affection without breaking the bank. It simply might take more mental effort. The uniqueness of your choice will make another person smile. Tonight: To the movies or dinner, but out.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Your spontaneity and reputation as someone who is always full of surprises will end soon enough. However, you might want to stop that behavior sooner and note the end results. Someone might feel uncomfortable. Rather than act out, share more of your feelings. Tonight: Indulging is OK. Just know that there is a tomorrow.

EXTREME VEHICLE MAKEOVER: 2011 FORD EXPLORER SUV

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.
Motor News Media Corporation

Nope, we are not talking about another episode of MTV's Pimp My Ride. I'm talking about the Ford Explorer – the vehicle that defined a segment – which has been completely reinvented, raising customers' expectations of sport utility vehicle (SUV) fuel efficiency, safety, technology, capability and quality.

"The new Explorer simply does everything well," said Derrick Kuzak, group vice president, Global Product Development. "It raises the bar for ride and handling on the road and transforms the off-road experience. It's the hands-down winner for towing capability and ease. All this capability – and three rows of seating – with amazing fuel economy will make Explorer the absolute right choice for families with a sense of adventure."

Available in Base, XLT and Limited trim levels, the next generation Explorer SUV is powered by 3.5L Ti-VCT V6 engine mated to a six-speed automatic transmission. Ti-VCT allows individually optimized camshaft timing of valve opening and closing events to improve mechanical efficiency while delivering increased power and reducing part-throttle emissions. Mated to a six-speed automatic transmission, this powerful, flexible and efficient V6 is projected to deliver more than 20 percent better fuel economy versus the previous Explorer V6 model. An available advanced 2.0L EcoBoost four-cylinder engine delivers the power of a normally aspirated V6 without compromising four-cylinder fuel economy. Armed at the SUV buyer whose top priority is fuel economy, this turbocharged and intercooled four-cylinder engine employs direct injection of gasoline, Ti-VCT, direct-acting mechanical bucket (DAMB) valve lifters and four valves per cylinder.

The Explorer SUV is available in front and all-wheel drive configurations. The V6 models are available with an intelligent 4WD system that adds terrain management. Situation-selectable, this powertrain advancement takes the guesswork out of 4WD range choice. A driver need only turn the console-mounted knob to the proper setting among snow, sand, mud and normal modes. This system also includes a hill descent mode.

The shift to a unibody construction platform (as opposed to the body-on-frame platform of the previous model) enabled a reduction in road noise and significantly decreased Explorer body roll in dynamic cornering situations. Independent front suspension is of the short- and long-arm configuration with a 32-millimeter front stabilizer bar. Independent rear suspension is the SRT configuration, so-named for its one-to-one shock absorber ratio, which enables precise ride control.

In addition to its clean, modern design inside and out, Explorer aims to please SUV shoppers with a thoughtful, flexible interior package that abounds with clever storage capacity. The new SUV features more head and shoulder room, three rows of flexible seating and room for everything families want to take along on their adventures.

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
My friend Rose has had great success dating through the classifieds, but it wasn't using the personals. Let me explain. Once, she answered an ad on a car for sale. The car wasn't what she wanted, but the owner was a handsome divorcee' who took her out to dinner that night. Another time she called a real estate agent about a house for sale in the classifieds. The real estate agent not only found Rose a great house, but also arranged a date for her with her brother. They dated for 3 years. I'm a single girl with a garage full of stuff I don't need. How do I place an ad to get a nice gentleman to give me a call?

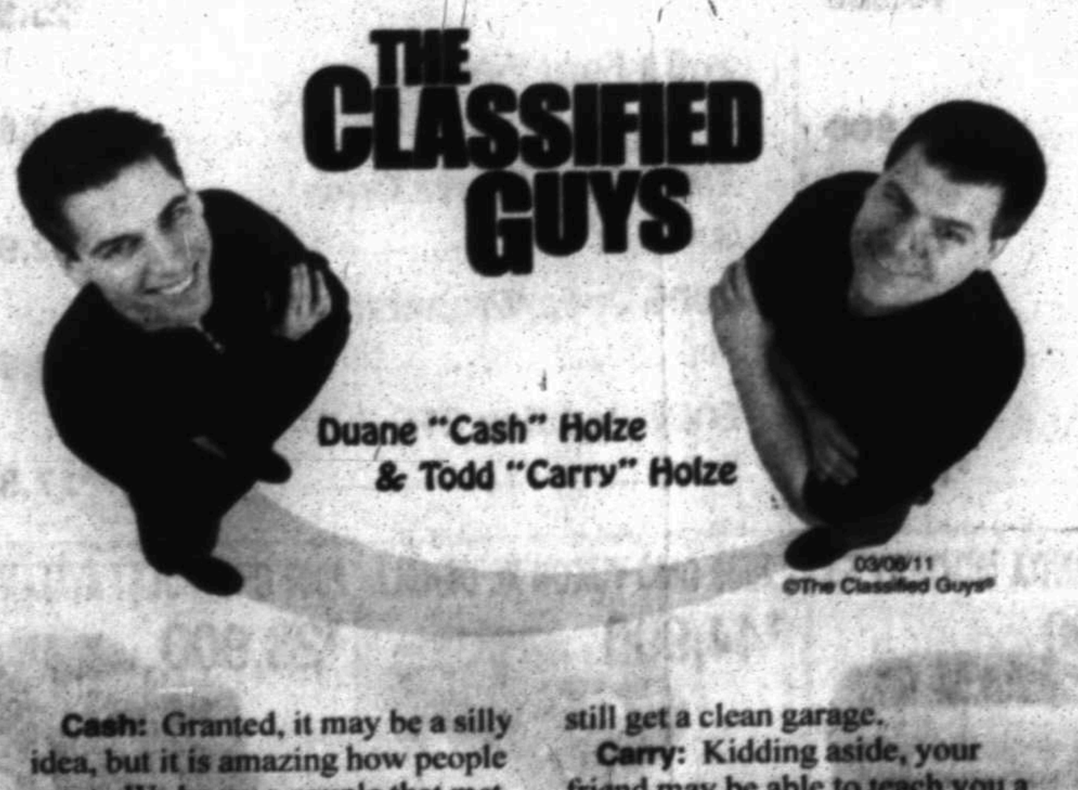
Cash: I think you may have stumbled upon a new classified category, "General Merchandise Personals." It could be the newest method to getting a date and cleaning out your attic at the same time.

Carry: I can see it now. If you wanted to attract the handyman type, you advertise some tools for sale. Or maybe those looking for the sophisticated man could advertise some books.



Cash: Granted, it may be a silly idea, but it is amazing how people meet. We know a couple that met when they had a traffic accident. Talk about getting "hit on". While waiting for the police to arrive, they both got to know one another.

Carry: At the wedding they toasted to "running into each other."

Cash: Since you have a garage full of stuff, maybe you need an ad for a single male with a sense of organization. Something like, "Single woman seeks eligible bachelor for a romantic afternoon of cleaning my garage." At least if the date doesn't work out, you'll still get a clean garage.

Carry: Kidding aside, your friend may be able to teach you a few tricks to meeting someone. She seems to have a great ability to turn almost any situation into an opportunity. How many people find a house and a boyfriend from one agent?

Cash: The next time you're faced with an opportunity to meet someone, make sure you take the chance to strike up a conversation.

Carry: And, next time your friend goes to buy something, go along for the ride. Maybe some of her luck will rub off and the agent will have two single brothers.

Fast Facts

Dialing 911

Do you often meet someone interesting, but stumble on how to get his or her phone number? You're not alone. Many people miss opportunities because they are too shy. If you don't have the nerve to stir up a conversation and ask, we have one piece of advice, do it anyway! You'll be amazed how with a little practice, you can meet all sorts of interesting people. Don't let your shyness stand in the way of meeting new people and having fun.

Budgeting Romance

Many of today's singles beg to differ with the phrase, "You can't put a price on love." Aside from the typical expenses of flowers, dinner and drinks, today's relationship seekers spend countless hours surfing personal ads, filling out personality profiles and chatting with prospective candidates. That adds up to a lot of time and money. However, we're all willing to make the investment in hopes of meeting the perfect match.

Sobering Experience

As I get older, I'm not quite as smooth as I used to be on a date.

A few weeks ago I was waiting for my date at the bar. When she walked in, I was stunned at how beautiful she looked. I couldn't wait to go greet her, so I grabbed what I thought was my beer and headed toward her to say hello.

I thought I was pretty cool, until after a few steps she began to laugh at me. I wasn't sure why until the barmaid tapped me on the shoulder.

"Excuse me", she said handing me my beer, "May I please have that ketchup bottle back."

(Thanks to Sheri P.)
