ANNUAL SUPPER FRIDAY

Pancake Appetites to Aid Needy Youngsters

Pancakes by the thousands will be served at the annual pancake supper for Kiwanis, Friday night. The cakes, complete with syrup, bacon, milk and coffee, will feed hundreds of hungry youngsters in the primary school cafeteria from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m.

But the best benefit won't be from the pancakes and full stomachs. The main good will come from the proceeds. For the money paid for the meals will go into the special Kiwanis fund for underprivileged children within Colorado City community.

This annual Kiwanis pancake supper has become a community tradition over the years with crowds of approximately 1,000 persons attending the feasts.

Kiwanians and Key Club members (students at Colorado High) will handle all the cooking assignments, serving the food, acting as waiters and bus boys, washing dishes and cleaning up.

Hefty assists that enable Kiwanians to turn maximum proceeds directly into underprivileged children's work come from firms and stores who contribute cooking ingredients and supplies.

Special entertainment during the serving hours will be directed by Eddie Kissinger of Radio Station KVMC, who annually serves as master of ceremonies for the Tumbleweed Festival.

Larry Rhoad, recently named Colorado City's outstanding young man, is general chairman of the pancake

TO AVOID CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Grubbs 'Out' as Board Candidate

John K. (Johnny) Grubbs, considered in the realm of politics Thursday, announced "with regrets" he was withdrawing from his candidacy for Colorado Independent School District trustee.

Grubbs, who filed his candidacy only last week, said he was withdrawing to avoid a possible conflict of interest between his position as chief inspector for Texas Highway Department and school board duties.

Grubbs is an employee of the highway department, which has a policy that no state highway department employee can participate in politics. This policy is based on state law governing conflict of interests in state jobs.

Grubbs said his early impression was that school board service was not considered in the realm of politics under the state policy. But further investigation on his part revealed the possibility of conflict.

"Therefore," he told the Record Thursday, "I am withdrawing my candidacy" so there would be no misunderstanding and no embarrassment to the school district, the voters and state highway department.

Grubbs said he regretted his inability to be a candidate and expressed his appreciation and thanks to those persons whose interest in public schools had encouraged his candidacy.

Withdrawal by Grubbs leaves only one candidate for two places on the school board which will be decided in an election April. He is R. Y. Hammond, who has filed for re-election.

Joe L. Blackard, whose term expires with Hammond's in April, is not a candidate for re-election. Instead, he is seeking the office of County Commissioner Precinct 1.

Stinson in Houston For Stock Judging

Kenneth Stinson of Colorado City is a member of the Lubbock Christian College livestock judging team which will compete in Houston Friday.

The LCC team is entered in the junior division of the intercollegiate livestock judging contest of the Houston Livestock Show.

Stinson, a 1962 graduate of Colorado High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stinson, 470 E. 22 Street.

Other members of the team are Dale Moorman, Clovis, N. M.; Larry Lyde, Petersburg, and Shelby Bozeman, Mule shoe.

Deputies Get Prisoner at Indiana Pen

An inmate was freed from Indiana's state prison Thursday, but Mitchell County officers were on hand to take him into custody.

He is Lonnie Gene Reed, who has completed a term for burglary in Indiana. Deputy Sheriffs Bob McGuire and Roy Richard left Colorado City Tuesday and arrived at the Indiana prison Thursday.

They will return to Colorado City to face a felony charge of burglary two years ago in Loraine, the Tarr Impement Company and Wiley Walker Pontiac.

Deadline for candidates to file for a place on the school board ballot is next Wednesday, March 4.

Grubbs is chief inspector for Texas Highway Department's asphalt inspection office here in Colorado City. He's been with the inspection force for 17 years.

His son, Keaton, is a seventh grade student at Colorado Junior High and his daughter, Beverly, is a freshman student at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

IN CLASS SEMI-FINALS

Wallace Defeated By State Champs

Commerce ousted Colorado City's Wallace Wildcats, 64 to 56, in the semi-finals and then went on to win the Class A state championship in Prairie View Saturday.

Commerce won four games enroute to the title, defeating Larue, a towering team from East Texas, 51 to 46 in the finals.

While Commerce was beating Wallace, 64 to 56, in the semi-finals, Larue was whipping Luling, 52-44.

Wallace rallied in the final period against Commerce and scored 22 points. But it wasn't enough as the Commerce sharpshooters counted just enough to keep the lead and move into the championship finals.

Oscar Amos scored 17 points for Wallace and Cleveland Brigham, an all-star, scored 17 for the winner.

The Wildcats led several times but were outscored.

CITY TELLS SIGNERS

Petition Isn't In Legal Form

Signers of a petition submitted to City Hall have been notified their petition does not meet requirements of the city charter.

Notification was in a letter by Mrs. Middle Lou Wallace, city clerk, in letters to Winston W. Smith, R. L. Walker, Manuel Rivera, J. L. Galey and Herman R. West, who headed the list of petition signers.

Mrs. Wallace's letter was based on an opinion by City Attorney John Worrell which stated:

"These petitioners certainly are entitled to prepare, or have prepared, and to submit initiative ordinances covering the matters mentioned in their petition.

"However, the City Charter provides that initiative petition papers shall contain the full text of the proposed ordinance. In my opinion the petition submitted to you does not meet the requirements of the charter."

Mrs. Wallace asked for the city attorney's opinion because the petition, she observed, requested changes in the City Charter, repeal of the City Charter, passage of ordinances by City Council and repeal of ordinances by City Council.

The petition, bearing 254 signatures, proposed either directly by council action or public vote—repeal of the City Charter, wiping out of council-manager form of government, creation of a sales tax within the city on cigarettes, giving of tax benefits to new industry, but not old industry, election of councilmen by districts or wards, reduction of fishing fees at city lakes, return of annexed areas to outside city limits if not furnished all city services.

Final Interviews Here Saturday

Top prospects from 49 applicants will be interviewed here Saturday for Colorado High's head coaching and athletic directorship.

The interviews will be conducted by Colorado Independent School District's board of trustees.

It's the final phase of the selection of a coach to succeed Sam Christy, who resigned the position two weeks ago.

Coaches from over the state have been here for two previous Saturdays in a series of interviews leading up to this last step. These contacts were with the more promising of the applicants and designed to narrow the field.

Hiring of a new coach is expected to be completed within the next week. Two weeks at the latest.

Heading the preliminary phase of the coach's selection is a special athletic committee appointed from the board of trustees—Dr. H. Jene Steakley, Bill Carter and Ben Sparks.

Along with Supt. Frank Wilson, this committee has sifted through the long list of applicants from every level of Texas football — high school Class B, Class A, Class AA, Class AAA, Class AAAA, plus junior college, senior college and junior high.

And it appears the final interviewing—which will probably determine the selection—will be with head coaches from a range of A, AA and AAA high schools.

Supt. Wilson, who has talked personally with more than 50 persons in regard to the coaching job here, said the 49 applicants included 23 high school head coaches, 4 college coaches and 23 high school assistant coaches and three junior high coaches.

Most of the applicants are head coaches and assistants in Class A, AA and AAA—11 head mentors and four assistants from A, 7 head coaches and 2 assistants from AA, 2 head mentors and 7 assistants from AAA.

Representing Class AAAA are four assistant coaches.

The board, as it moves along in the elimination of prospects toward the final selection, is appraising the candidates on an overall basis that includes not only record and know-how, but also character and personality, leadership ability, relationship with players, school and community.

Although the board has made no announcement concerning policy, it is expected that any new head coach will be permitted to name his own first assistant.

Approximately seven applicants also have contacted school officials in regard to the basketball head coaching job—a vacancy created by the resignation of Caddo Matthews this month.

However, the board is moving right now toward early selection of a football mentor. Naming of a basketball coach will not come until after the football post is filled.

C-City Divorce Rate Climbing Up!

1 OF EVERY 3 MARRIAGES
NOW HEADS FOR DIVORCE!

More than one out of every three Colorado City marriages are heading for the divorce court. That's the trend today, backed by actual records at Mitchell Courthouse.

You might think the high divorce rate is a problem peculiar just for the big cities. But a quick check of marriage records and divorce cases here reveals that divorce is a concern for small towns and rural areas, too.

The current trend doesn't imply that for every three marriages now in effect in Mitchell County there will be at least one divorce.

But it does point to the fact that — if the 1963 ratio continues — there will be more than one divorce for every three couples marrying today.

In fact, the exact ratio for 1963 is one divorce for every 2.7 marriages.

And with most of the divorces also will come court decisions for child custody, child support multiplying the problems of divorce even more.

Permanent records in County Clerk Gilbert Leach's office reveal that 129 couples obtained marriage licenses in Colorado City last year, in the 12-month span from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1963.

During the same time, 48 couples filed suit for divorce in 32nd District Court in the same Courthouse.

At certain periods during last year, one divorce was being filed almost every time two couples obtained marriage licenses.

Thirty-four marriage licenses were issued from January through April. During the same first four months of 1963 a total of 15 divorce suits were filed in 21st District Court.

Spring and summer brought an upturn in the number of marriage licenses — 48 being issued during May, June, July and August. Divorces filed in the same period were 14.

Forty-seven marriage licenses were issued in the final third of 1963 — September, October, November and December. And divorce suits were filed at the highest rate — 19 for the four months.

The records reveal not only that divorce is a growing problem for Colorado City, but also indicates that local couples are not too impressed with June as the traditional wedding month.

December, with 19 licenses issued, was the leading month for matrimony, followed by May with 15, October with 13, March and August with 12 each. June, supposedly the bride's choice, was in sixth place with 11.

Some marriage counselors say that quick marriages — those with relatively short courtship — have more chance for ending in divorce than slower romances.

If so, one Colorado couple who married last year should be pretty sure of a lasting marriage. They obtained a license to wed in August 1961 — and, finally, said their marriage vows 17 months later in January 1963.

times during the crucial game, but trailed at the end of each quarter—11 to 16, 22 to 33, 34 to 44, and 56 to 64.

In Friday's play Wallace romped to victories over Coolidge, 101 to 60, and Wills Point, 64 to 49. Frank Biggers meshed 25 points to lead the scoring against Wills Point and Amos was high point player in the Coolidge contest, with 24 points.

Paducah trounced Buffalo 73 to 66 to win the state Class B title.

The two wins and one defeat in the state tourney closed the season for Wallace with a record of 34 triumphs against only three defeats.

Biggers, 6-2 senior guard for Wallace, Wednesday signed a letter of intent with Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. Coach Lou Henson of HSU announced the signing of Biggers, who scored 775 points during the 1963-64 season.

SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION. After 21, common Kidney or Bladder Irritation affects twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itchy urination both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from backache, backache and feel old, tired, depressed, in such irritation. CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

Get something off your chest. Your knees, for instance!

Imagine, unwinding and relaxing in a compact. Now you can! And that goes for backseat passengers as well as travelers up front. Because Dart is a compact in the large economy size. Lots of room for hips, heads, feet and knees. Family-size room all-round. And what goes for Dart in the comfort compartment goes ditto in the performance department. Standard engine is the famous Slant 6 that'll outlast the extra-cost engines in most other compacts. For even more action, there's an optional new Dart V8 that takes no sass from any size car.

But don't let the comfort and sizzle fool you. Dart is a compact. Witness its low price, easy to keep, great gas mileage, and snappy parkability, and you'll know what we mean. If you're tired of cramped, underpowered compacts, talk to the man who can do something about it—your Dependable Dodge Dealer.

Husband Honored At Annual Dinner

Members of the Hesperian Daughters Study Club hosted a husband's night dinner recently with their husbands as honor guests.

Col-Tex Club on Lake Colorado City was scene of the annual affair Friday night.

Decorations followed a theme of America and George Washington's Birthday. Streamers of red, white and blue ran the length of each table in the center. Early American style bowls of red and white flowers were placed at intervals along the streamers. Centerpiece for the head table was constructed of two small American flags and a gold seal.

Dinner was served buffet style from a table centered with a miniature cherry tree. Dr. L. E. Morris, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Midland, was guest speaker for the dinner program. He showed a sound film on missionary work in Japan in which he participated last year. He was one of one hundred ministers in the crusade which lasted two weeks. Ministers spoke in small Christian churches throughout Japan. He also showed pictures of a personal side-trip he made into the countryside to meet some of the Japanese people.

Mrs. Willis Jones, club president, was master of ceremonies for the program. Invocation was spoken by Willis Jones.

Guests of members were Mrs. Bette Skagg, Mrs. Newt Miller and George Womack.

Members and husbands present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Albright, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Brockett, Mrs. Curtis Erwin, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fee, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Geer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ginzel, Mrs. E. V. Grantland, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Ace-McShan, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Rudd, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. John Worrell, and Curtis Baker.

Texas Day program for the club will be March 6, with Mrs. Curtis Baker as hostess. Mrs. Rudd will review the book, "Adventures With The Texas Naturalist," by Dr. Beddichek.

8th Graders To Present One-Act Play

"The Trail of Ain't" will be presented Friday afternoon in the Junior High School Auditorium by boys of the eighth grade.

This is a one-act play featuring nineteen toys. It is designed as a sugar-coated pill to illustrate an amusing point to the junior high audience, reports Mrs. Arnel Smith, speech teacher at the school.

Cast of characters are as follows: Ain't, the culprit; Don Craig; U. Dictionary; the Judge; Johnny; Lindsey; Grammar, the prosecutor; Carl Webb; Ignorance, the defense attorney; Howard Mas singill; Literature, prosecution witness; Donald Smith; Correct Speech; Mike Mc Adams; Aren't, a witness; Jimmie Holguin; Isn't, another witness; Allen Smith; Thoughtlessness; Reckless; Knowlton; Carelessness; Melton Harber; Slang; James Hearin; The Bailiff; John Frank Morgan; The prologue will be given by Jimmie Hagerton.

Jury members are Bennie Marrick, Foreman; Terry Collins, Johnny Harp, Jerry Whatley, Matt Ornelas, Ruben Martinez.

The scene is a court room, and the time is the present. Curtain will rise at 1:30 p. m.

KEEP A SHARP PENCIL

For Maximum Profits

IN GROWING COTTON

This is the first in a series of reports in The Record by agriculture specialists concerning profitable cotton production in Mitchell County. The reports were prepared for the recent clinic in Lorraine sponsored by Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc.

By JOHN J. SEIBERT
Farm Management Specialist

Texas A&M University Extension Department Operating costs, or those which you spend each year for cotton production, must be recovered through income in order for a producer to stay in business. The way in which you the producer, allocate these costs to the various cultural practices necessary for cotton production will determine your profit and/or loss statement at the end of the year. This is to say that too much spent in one area and not enough in another can be doubly costly.

In order not to leave the wrong impression, fixed costs, in addition to the operating expenses, play a vital role in profit or loss but usually are not as easily controlled within any one year. Such things as rent, depreciation of equipment and machinery, taxes, insurance, etc. are to be paid annually. These are normally fixed charges and very little can be done about them within any year.

This leaves us to discuss the out-of-pocket expenditures. These average costs associated with irrigated cotton production are:

Seed bed preparation	8.00	10.00 per acre	80.00 lbs.
Fertilizer & application	4.00	10.00 per acre	14.28 lbs.
Irrigation	8.00	20.00 per acre	26.87 lbs.
Insect Control	8.00	15.00 per acre	26.50 lbs.
Weed Control	4.00	10.00 per acre	14.34 lbs.
Harvest-aid chemicals	4.00	8.00 per acre	10.26 lbs.
Harvesting	25.00	50.00 per acre	83.167 lbs.

$57.00 - $126.00 per acre 190-420 lbs.

These operating costs constitute approximately 50 to 80 per cent of the total production costs on irrigated cotton. Upon further examination of these costs, we find that once land is prepared, ready to plant, it no longer is a variable cost, it is a fixed or sunk cost. This leaves us with the other six major areas outlined above.

FERTILIZER AND APPLICATION. Adequate plant nutrients must be available to foster to produce the yields for which you are shooting. This alone could be a limiting factor, or it could be a bad investment, depending on your farm condition. Too much water and nutrients promote growth and limited fruit. When you add these conditions to purchasing an expensive fertilizer, the loss can be magnified.

IRRIGATIONS. Timing and amount of irrigation (supplemental) water has a vital effect on cotton growth, fruiting and maturity. Too much irrigation water with too small amount of available plant nutrients results in money unwisely spent in supplemental moisture.

INSECT CONTROL. The control of injurious insects is a must in order for the cotton plant to produce and mature quality cotton. Timing, kind and amount of insecticide is critical for economic control. Inadequate control can increase the cost, regardless of the level of other "input factors" employed.

WEED CONTROL. Noxious weeds can greatly reduce the yield and quality of the cotton plant's product. They steal both nutrients and water, as well as influencing grade of lint marketed. Many new herbicides are being sold this year, that can assist in weed eradication. Buy on cost basis and make comparisons with present weed control methods being used.

HARVEST-AID CHEMICALS. Defoliant and desiccants can reduce risk and allow the crop to be harvested when mature. Improper timing of these chemicals can reduce grade and staple.

HARVESTING. This cost is normally directly associated with yield. Mechanical stripping can greatly reduce harvesting costs, but can be determined if not incorporated with variety, type of spindles, etc.

MANAGING THE COTTON CROP. The amount of profit a cotton producer earns will be determined by how well he blends these above items (plus fixed costs) into a production program. You have heard the adage, "A Chain is only as strong as its weakest link." This principle applies to our cotton production and harvesting.

Too little water with excellent management of the other factors will limit income potential. At the same time, insect infestation and damage will reduce income, regardless of how high the yield the management is on the other production factors.

A skip-row pattern of cotton production under sprinkler irrigation can be a profitable use of land—but a more inefficient use of water. If water efficiency is your objective, skip-rowing cotton may not be the route to follow. Where net income from a given land area is your objective, skip-row patterns can contribute to more take-home pay.

The landlord-tenant agreement has a vital effect on net income to the parties concerned. A tenant cannot afford to invest in the amount of fertilizer that will yield maximum net profit if the landlord does not contribute his share of the expenses. Where this occurs, the tenant absorbs all expenses for fertilizer and receives only 1/4 of the gross income. Guidelines for landlord-tenant agreements that yield maximum net income to each party is available from your county agent's office.

Performance records from each crop produced on your farms serve as a yardstick in measuring economic progress. Without these records, your business can become bankrupt before you may realize it. Using this kind of record in your farm planning and executing your plan based on facts from year to year within each year, you can better determine what to spend and how much to spend and still wind up with a profit.

The way you combine your operating costs, along with the fixed costs that you are working with will determine your annual net income.

GOOD PATHS

Have you stopped to remind yourself lately how good things have a way of continuing on and on—acruing benefits for us over and over again?

A little party in the home of Mrs. W. H. Garrett recently re-impressed this fact upon me. It was an ordinary church social, so to speak, except for the fact that it was the 54th annual birthday event of the Daughters of King Sunday School Class at First Methodist Church.

And I wondered if we could ever find a way to count up the good things, the fine influences that have come from this single class since it was organized in 1910.

If there was a way, then we could multiply the total by all the classes in all our churches. Then, we'd be astounded, I'm sure.

Coaching Change Has Two-Sided View

Colorado High soon will have a new football coach and athletic director. The position may be filled within the next week because school board members are in the final process of selecting and hiring a qualified man.

Those who observe public school and college athletic programs know that any major coaching change has rough spots. Some of the community always is sad, some glad. Some seriously concerned, some lightly concerned.

Here at the Record we are concerned with our public schools athletic program—its leadership and accomplishments. Not because we believe athletics to be of paramount interest, but for the fact that athletics have come to be a part of an overall school program.

And it is our view that the overall school system and its students suffer when any portion of its related program is weakened or neglected.

However, the success of an athletic program for schoolboys should not be measured only by victories and championships. Elements of character, leadership, personality and inspiration must be considered along with the relationship of athletics to a balanced school program.

Applause for Dallas News (for a change)

We've never recommended the Dallas News editorial page to anyone who seeks to be fairly and wisely informed.

But the Big D morning newspaper, when not committing the sin of political omissions—has some of the best news reporting in this great state of Texas.

Right now in a series of articles the Dallas News is probing into the conditions of poverty.

And the articles by Dennis Hoover are penetrating piercingly into the facts—erasing many of the cliches and opin-

Therefore, the hiring of a qualified head coach to fit Colorado High's needs and the developing of a worthwhile athletic program in balance with the school system is no easy task. It is trying for school officials, the coach and his staff.

And along about here it might be well for the community to take a look at itself as well as the coaching candidates. For the attitude of the community—onlookers, parents of athletes, students—can be an effective force for a failing athletic program or a good one.

In the last 12 years Colorado High has counted, at least, its share of coaching changes. These have come after a fine championship season as well as losers.

There may be a point of reflection, too, that three of these coaches turned their backs on coaching permanently after tenures here. Another produced championship teams immediately before and after—but not in Colorado City.

So, while deciding which prospective new coach will be best for Colorado High, how about taking a look and deciding what attitude, on our part—individually and collectively—will be best for the athletic program.

ions that have been echoed from generation to generation.

By the very fact of finding, acknowledging and pointing out that poverty is a realistic condition for a great segment of our population, the Dallas News series is lending special credence to President Lyndon Johnson's declared war on poverty.

The facts—which this series reveals—speak louder than most editorials and debunk the oft-sounded opinion that poverty in our day comes only for persons without ambition.

Building For A Higher Ethic

Just about everyone these days seems to be concerned about the problem of ethics. You hear it being talked about in local and national affairs, in private and public discussions.

Government, at the local, state and national level, is talking about establishing a "code of ethics." Educators are trying to impart to a younger generation the "rights and wrongs" inherent in society. Labor and management are searching for fairer ways of dealing with one another. Business and professional people are seeking to build a higher concept of honesty and fair-play into their business.

At a recent college convocation a medical doctor said, "Hippocrates turned from the practice of a profession to a code of ethics, so all men must turn from the rush of life to a reasonable faith."

We are all busy "doing", mostly for self. The question is, are we "doing" for the other fellow, or even better, are we "doing" together.

What you and I "do" depends on our concept of man and his Maker. Only a religiously-based ethic can create in our hearts a better conscience and help us to see that we must love our fellow men or run the risk of losing what we have worked so hard to gain.

IT'S AMAZING!

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

Court Puts Texas 'on Spot' for Redistricting

BY—VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Congressional redistricting is the prime topic of conversation at the state capital. U. S. Supreme Court shook up officials with a landmark ruling in Georgia's apportionment case. Court proclaimed that congressional district must be as nearly equal in population as is feasible.

On October 19 a federal court in Houston held essentially the same thing in a Texas case. It declared that unless the state Legislature straightens out present unequal districts immediately, all Texas congressmen must run at large (statewide).

Texas congressmen, state legislators and top state officials are keeping their fingers crossed, as they await the Supreme Court's final decision in the Texas appeal.

Main hope is that the court will delay the requirement of at-large elections this year and leave present districts intact since the election process already is under way.

This would give the Legislature a chance to draft a redistricting bill in regular session next year.

These principal developments followed the Georgia case decision.

1. Attorney General Waggoner Carr filed a new, brief asking a full hearing of the Texas appeal. He argued that "indiscribable chaos and confusion" would result from statewide election of congressmen this year.

2. Gov. John Connally requested a study of redistricting by Texas Legislature Council. Such a study would necessarily include drafting of model bills. (Equal population for Texas' 23 district would call for 416,000 in each.)

3. Texas congressmen themselves launched plans for special federal legislation to preserve present districts until the regular legislative session in 1965.

Governor Connally has made clear that if the Supreme Court affirms the Houston court ruling, he will call a special session immediately to try and bring some order out of the "indiscribable chaos" referred to in Carr's brief.

Whether the Legislature would pass a suitable redistricting bill in a special session is a serious question.

Redistricting issue definitely is going to figure in the governor's race. Connally already has been criticized for not calling the legislators in to work on the problem months ago. Issue also will be raised in some district contests as challengers charge incumbent legislators with failure to handle the matter in the regular session last year.

HIGHER EDUCATION—Governor Connally's Committee on Education Beyond the High School held the first of a series of closed-door sessions last week. It hopes to produce a policy recommendation on higher education by August 31.

Chairman H. B. Zachry of San Antonio said the most debated issue at this meeting was the need for a single, strong coordinating authority for all public higher education in the state.

WATER PROJECTS—State Water Development Board approved an $8,200,000 loan and a $2,100,000 purchase agreement for Green Belt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority, which covers Childress, Quanah, Garrettsville, Crowsnest and Hiley.

Green Belt authorities hope to gain a peaceful settlement of notices of appeal filed by Collinsworth Water Conservation District No. 1 and the W. J. Lewis estate, which owns most of the land which would be covered by the proposed Green Belt reservoir.

Water Development Board also approved a master agreement with the Sabine River Authority for purchase of an undivided interest in storage space of the Toledo Bend Reservoir, for $15,000,000.

On the same day, W. E. "Buck" Tinsley of Austin was appointed chairman of the board by Governor Connally. Tinsley has been acting chairman for several months since the resignation of Marvin Nichols of Fort Worth.

COURTS SPEAK—State Supreme Court ruled the Port Arthur school district, in constructing an elementary school in its land within the City of Groves, must comply with Groves building ordinances. Decision upheld the Court of Civil Appeals in a long controversy.

Wes-Tex Talk

A Look At West Texas Through Editorial Page Excerpts From Its Leading Weekly & Semi-Weekly Newspapers

Ever so often someone appears to discover that we have been wasting our money on some custom or product that has become a part of American life.

Apparently it makes such a person feel important. It boosts his ego.

Most recent of these people is one Jessica Mitford who has authored a best seller, The American Way of Death. In it, she takes the funeral home operator apart. She would have us believe that he is a shyster who makes exorbitant profits, is quite dishonest, makes capital of grief, and lies awake nights thinking of ways to ensure unsuspecting prospects. She does everything but accuse him of scattering banana peelings on sidewalks to cause blisters to break their hips or slipping cancer germs in the cap when he has coffee with his best friends.

She makes a point, that she is not writing of "those few dishonest shysters in the business." She says she is writing of the typical undertaker.

It is quite true that many people spend more on funerals than is necessary. The fact is, if one does more than cart away his loved one in the back of his pickup to an abandoned toilet pit as he might an expired hog, he is in fact "spending too much" on someone who "doesn't know anything about it anyway." It is true that the deceased is unaware of what is done to his body, that it is dust and will return to dust.

It is true that the deceased can't smell the pretty flowers... so we might as well dispense with those too. It is true that Scripture reading and prayer are of no use to the corpse, so why bother with having it to a church for a few final words?

But since we have become so "practical" minded, since we are in the mood to abandon all "pointless" and unnecessary expenditures, why stop with funerals?

Why spend four or five thousand dollars for an automobile when a wagon and team can accommodate essentially the same service? At least it did 50 years or so ago.

Why spend money on plumbing when a hole through a bathtub and dish pan can offer the same services?

Why build a comfortable and elegant church sanctuary when people could get by worshipping in a garage when it is not in use on Sundays?

Why spend $150 for a suit of clothes when overalls answer the purpose?

The fact is, very few things on which we spend our money are absolute essentials. We pay $150 for a suit of clothes because it gives us a feeling of satisfaction, it enriches life, we get more enjoyment from the suit than in having $150 in the bank.

The fact is, we don't have to have beautiful flowers for funerals or for anything else. In fact, we could get along if God had never even created beautiful flowers. Yet what would life be without them?

SENATOR YARBOROUGH REPORTS

Cut in Imports Not Enough for Beef

BY RALPH YARBOROUGH
U. S. SENATOR

Last year the United States imported a billion pounds of meat from foreign countries—mostly from Australia and New Zealand. The United States has secured from these countries a voluntary agreement to a six per cent reduction in their exports to this country.

Without this agreement, then exports to the United States would have gone up eight per cent in 1964. Not only has that eight per cent increase been prevented but there is a positive decline over last year's exports to the United States.

I have received a letter from Mr. M. Harper, secretary and general manager of the Hebronnville Auction and Commission Company of Hebronnville, Texas, on the plight of the cattle business. He said:

"At the rate in which foreign meat and livestock now are coming into this country, a livestock man doesn't have a chance. The importation of foreign meat and livestock should be cut off by at least sixteen per cent. The livestock business is about the only thing left without competition so let's keep it that way. And if there is anything you can do, it would be greatly appreciated by livestock producers."

Now, fellow Texans, we've been working on this. The new agreement for a reduction in imports is a step in the right direction but it is not enough.

"What does it mean to Texas?" Livestock producers in Texas have been vigilant at about one billion dollars a year in actual meat production. This reduction will mean an improvement of three to four dollars a head on Texas beef, or a total improvement of $30 million dollars.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

More Production Isn't All Good!

Editor's note: The Shinnery Philosopher on his Johnson Grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek starts out on one subject and winds up on another this week.

Dear Editor:

A while back I read an article about a farmer who discovered one of his cows was violating the rules of nature, she was having two calves a year instead of one. Not twins, but a calf every six months.

A neighbor of mine said he was very interested in this, if he could raise twice as many calves a year with the same amount of feed and cows, he could clean up. He hoped some of the stock would be available soon.

I'm afraid I won't work out that way. I mean, while it's true for example that man has perfected hybrid grain where he can grow two ears of corn where one grew before, what this has resulted in is not richer corn growers but two government storehouses where one stood before.

It might be possible to develop a breed of cow that'd produce two calves a year, but she'd be doing a mighty lot of extra work for nothing, because the two wouldn't bring any more than the one, after all the ranchers got switched over to the new type.

It's sometimes hard to figure what progress is. I was reading just last night about an expert who was trying to explain to some idealists that it's impossible for new nations in Africa "to leap suddenly from tribal conditions to twentieth-century governments and economies." It's going to take time, he explained.

I guess what he means by this is that new nations which are now accustomed to fighting tribal wars every month or so will have to grow up and learn that modern man now saves up his wars and puts them all together.

OIL ALLOWABLE—Railroad Commission ordered prorated oil wells to continue on a 25 per cent of capacity allowable in March. But even though February production at 29 per cent averaged an estimated 2,557, 662 daily production, and although March will continue two more days than the 29-day February, production will be less.

Commission's staff predicted production will be down about 6,000 barrels a day. Reason, according to some members of the oil industry, is that increased production from new wells is more than offset by under production from oil wells.

AT METHODIST CHURCH

Christian Perfection Studied By Guild

Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church met in the church parlor Monday evening for the second in a series of study on "Teachings Toward Christian Perfection," being taught by Mrs. Cornelia Martin.

Monday's lesson was on the writings of Francis Fenelon. Meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Tom Glover. Mrs. Martin gave an introductory message and read scripture from 1st John.

Mrs. Tom Coker talked on "How to Become Religious." She said that one should practice religion through reading, meditation and prayer every day. That prayer should be carried into each person's daily occupation. "Review your defects," she said. "Study your duties and hold communion with God."

"Self-love must be uprooted and the love of God take its place in our hearts before we can see ourselves as we are. We must renounce our own will and submit to the will of God," said Mrs. Elmer Martin, as she discussed "How to Judge One's Self."

Mrs. Arnel Smith told guild members "How to Be Faithful And Free," "Be gentle and submissive to the will of God, obey him in everything you do. You cannot resist God and be at peace," she said.

Mrs. Cornelia Martin closed the meeting with prayer.

Those attending were Meses Elmer Martin, Max Caswell, Wilford Fox, J. W. Tommie Verner, J. C. Garrett, Coker, Myrtle Womack, Glover, Mary Post, Clarence Cook, J. L. Basinger, Ethel Hardegree, E. M. Fisher, Dewey Davis, Cornelia Martin, Smith, Wilma Reynolds, and Miss Nelda Garrett.

How to get MORE out of your tax refund

When you get your '63 tax return (Form 1040), take a look at line 23 on the bottom of the page.

It gives you the option of taking your refund in U. S. Savings Bonds instead of a check for the total amount.

There are two big advantages:

1. Taking your refund in Savings Bonds gives you an easy way to hang onto it.
2. When your Bonds mature, your refund becomes 33 1/3% bigger. You get back $4 for every $3.

You also get a nice red, white and blue feeling from knowing you're helping your country's future as well as providing for your own.

Think it over when you ask for your refund this year.

"THE WHEELER DEALERS" (Col.)

"Manners Better Today", Mrs. Girvin Tells Study Club

"What has become of this valley?" asked Mrs. L. S. Girvin, Jr. as she addressed the Zetaganian Study Club on the subject of manners in the home of Mrs. Bob Robinson.

"What has become of the polite bus driver who used to be so kind and considerate?"

What has happened to the porter who used to tip his cap and never snarled no matter how heavy your bags were?

Where are the gentlemen who used to give their seats to ladies in public conveyances and who used to remove their hats in elevators?" she asked.

It is a myth invented by the fanny and perpetuated by the petty that our manners used to be a great deal better than they are now, Mrs. Girvin told her audience. The fact is that manners in America are certainly no worse than they have been in the past and are a great deal better than they were in our grand parents' and especially our great grandparents' day, she said.

Mrs. Girvin told club members that the manners that have collapsed are those of class consciousness and special privilege.

"If we read the records of the past correctly, American manners are not only improving but are well along the way to setting the pattern for a great many other corners of the world," the speaker said.

She said that a person might be impressed with the many sterling qualities of our forebears, after reading about them, but not with their manners. "On the contrary," she said, "You will find that a very high percentage of 19th century Americans were not only bores but snobs. But if the men were bores, the women were both gauche and snobbish."

In speaking of the manners of children, Mrs. Girvin quoted a writer of ninety years ago who said, "Fifty years ago there was a degree of reverence in American children, and at least a show of good manners." Mrs. Girvin continued, "Fifty years before that, in the 1820's, parents were complaining that in the 18th days before the Revolution children had some manners and some respect for their elders. It would seem that children have always looked poor, that is, well behaved, only when viewed from a distance of about fifty years."

The speaker said that the secret of American manners, and also why they are likely to spread, is that they cannot be taught. They are not based on well-established conventions of rank or class, wealth, family tree, or formal education. They are based on the individual's belief in his own dignity, she said.

"Although there is less hat tipping and less getting up to give seats to ladies in subway cars, unless they are old or burdened with packages, it seems that in America, man

BUDDY LOGSDON

County Agent Tells Soil Testing Needs

Three soil testing laboratories operated in Texas by the Agriculture Extension Service analyzed 3,640 soil samples during November and December, 1963, according to a report received by County Agent Buddy C. Logsdon, from C. D. Welch, Extension Soil Chemist at Texas A&M University.

Mitchell County farmers, gardeners and others submitted 23 soil samples for testing during the period, Logsdon said. This raised the total submitted from the county for the past year to 208 samples.

Welch advised the county agent that soil sampling for spring crops was underway. He said farmers should get their soil samples in early in order to get results back early enough for using the test results for the upcoming crop year.

Welch called the county agents' attention to the need for submitting representative soil samples and also the importance of filling out completely the information sheet which accompanies the sample.

Logsdon reminded farmers and other interested citizens that he had available in his office detailed instructions on how to take soil samples as well as containers for shipping the samples collected. He said that he also has leaflets covering general fertilizer recommendations for the area and other publications on many subjects related to soil improvement and crop production. They are free for the asking, he said.

Mitchell County farmers with land coming out of the Soil Bank will want to test soil fertility, says Buddy C. Logsdon, County Agriculture Agent.

Land out of production for some time may be less fertile than regularly cultivated land, depending on what had been growing on it, Logsdon points out.

"Don't guess soil test," is Logsdon's advice to farmers in this situation. If the land coming out of soil bank contracts is to be returned to agriculture production, a soil test should be made even if it is to be used for pasture or hay.

Soil tests are the best way, the agent says, to help decide proper fertilizer applications. Test results help farmers decide the treatment to bring up to most efficient levels of production.

If fields with abundant grass cover are returned to cultivated crops, they may need heavy nitrogen applications to help decompose plowed-under organic matter, according to Logsdon. This is especially true if non-legume crops are planned.

I didn't really mean to get started in this direction this week, but there are times when progress seems to consist of getting up in the morning and seeing how many problems you can ignore.

I was under the weather for a week and during that time discovered there aren't half as many problems as I imagined, which is a good thing, because now that I'm back on my feet I've discovered there aren't half as many answers to the problems that remain.

Trial of Filiberto Salinas, former Starr County deputy sheriff, charged with absentee ballot irregularities in 1962, was set for March 23 in county court at law here. Alonzo Hinojosa, an ex Starr County road foreman, pleaded on contest to one of nine counts involving a similar alleged offense, and was fined $400. State contends they had migrant workers sign absentee ballot requests.

LIQUOR BY DRINK—A San Antonio lawmaker, Rep. Jake Johnson, has called on executive committees of both Democratic and Republican parties to submit to a May 2 vote whether sale of mixed drinks should be legalized.

Come what may with the referendum (which would have no binding effect), Johnson plans to try again in the Legislature next year if he is re-elected to pass a local option bill permitting open sale of liquor over the bar.

Party spokesmen had little comment to make on the referendum proposal beyond noting that both executive committees are due to meet here on March 9. A horse race betting vote was taken on petition in 1962 and the issue defeated.

SHORT SPORTS—Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association President E. Bruce Street announced a special drafting subcommittee is developing a preliminary outline on a pooling bill protects interests of the small operator and royalty and mineral owners in forming drilling units.

Applications of these proposed banks will be considered at a March 5 meeting of the Texas Banking Board. Granbury State Bank, Guaranty Bank of Lubbock, First Bank and Trust Company of Austin and Texas State Bank of Abilene. Maj. Gen. James E. Taylor, former State Adjutant General, was redesignated by Governor Connally as chairman of the Texas Emergency Resources Planning Committee.

The Story of MILK at Mooville

from the Business End of the Cow to the Bottle

First the udders are washed with paper towels in a warm iodine germicide recommended by the U. S. Health Service.

Then a DeLaval milking machine takes the milk from the cow and pulled by vacuum through a glass pipe line to a cooling coil, to the bottle filler. Night milk is stored in cans in a cooling vault and mixed with the morning milk and then bottled and capped.

After each milking a chlorinated detergent is circulated through the pipe line system for 20 minutes and then rinsed in a germicide solution, readying them for the next milking.
