Encouraged to quit smoking

Elizabeth Fowler, left, director of guest services at Hereford Regional Medical Center, and Peggy Fitzgerald, right, hospital PBX operator, go to the aid of two co-workers on Thursday during the Great American Smokeout. Barbara Finley, second from left, of the insurance office, and Mary Alaniz of data processing, are offered "survival kits" filled with nutritious snacks, hard candy, encouraging pins and stickers and American Cancer Society pamphlets in hopes that they will quit smoking entirely. The Smokeout is a day-long effort of the Society to try to get people to stop smoking for the day, then keep off tobacco for good. About 50 people stopped by the hospital's Smokeout booth and 15 employees of HRMC stopped smoking.

Gulley clears motions pending in Reid case; trial set to start Nov. 30

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A 4 1/2-hour session in 222nd District Court Thursday cleared out most of the 26 pretrial motions filed by the attorney for a woman accused of murder in the death of her daughter in 1984.

The case is docketed for trial to begin on Nov. 30. A jury panel of 225 citizens has been called for selection of 12 to hear the state's case against Tanya Thaxton Reid.

The 36-year-old defendant was indicted for murder last March in the death of Morgan Reid, then eight months old. The baby reportedly stopped breathing on Feb. 7, 1984, was treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital, then transferred to an Amarillo hospital. She died the next day.

Judge David Wesley Gulley began hearings on pretrial motions Monday but held over several for the Thursday session.

He denied a motion from the defense to bar evidence of episodes in which Morgan Reid allegedly stopped breathing prior to her death. And, he ruled the prosecution may enter evidence about two other children.

In another ruling, the judge agreed to "seal" a "Statement of Facts" from an Iowa trial entered in the file of the case by the prosecution. The document was the basis for a judgment against the defendant in 1989 when she was convicted of endangering a child.

The document will not be available for public or media to read as a result of the ruling.

Judge Gulley agreed to permit use of a questionnaire of about six pages for prospective jurors to complete. Attorneys for both the state and defense believe the information sheet may save some time in the initial stages of jury selection.

A motion by the defense for dismissal of the case against Reid was held over until Nov. 30.

The Des Moines, Iowa, case centered on the defendant's son, Robert Reid, who had a record of breathing episodes similar to the history of the dead baby. Reid was tried before a judge for child endangerment, convicted and sentenced to a 10-year prison term.

Expert witnesses in the case claimed both Morgan and Robert Reid were victims of Munchausen Syndrome by Proxy, a disorder in which adults allegedly draw attention to themselves by harming children. Robert Reid reportedly suffered no more breathing episodes after he was removed from his mother's care, according to testimony in Iowa.

Information about Robert Reid's health may be admitted into evidence, according to Judge Gulley's ruling Thursday.

Another incident in the life of the defendant will be admitted, also, the Judge ruled. As a teenager living in Dumas, Reid was babysitting a child who stopped breathing. She called emergency personnel in that 1974 incident who reportedly revived the youngster. Later she was cited by a community group for her quick action in called emergency personnel.

Clinic access bill passes House on 246-182 count

WASHINGTON (AP) - Legislation cracking down on violence at abortion clinics cleared the House without being weakened by abortion opponents, and Congress is trying to rush it to President Clinton before Thanksgiving.

Voting 246-182, the House beat back a Republican bid Thursday to send the bill back to committee to delete language opposed by anti--abortion lawmakers. Then it passed the chamber on a voice vote.

Since the House rejected efforts to soften the bill's penalties, the differences with a Senate bill passed earlier this week are relatively minor. The two chambers hope to work out differences within a few days.

Clinton has said he will sign the bill; supporters want it in effect before the December trials of the protesters accused of the fatal shooting of a Florida abortion doctor and a separate shooting of a Kansas doctor who was injured.

The House passage sends a message about the bombings, arson and other violence directed at doctors and abortion clinics, supporters said.

The legislation creates new federal crimes for threats, use of force, intimidation and obstruction at abortion clinics and lets the Justice Department seek court orders to stop blockades.

"It's going to tell those extremists who thought their own moral authority allowed them to take the law into their own hands, they cannot do it anymore," said the chief House sponsor, Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y.

The 246-182 margin was bigger than expected, since the House is usually conservative on abortion issues. Schumer said he picked up at least 30 votes from abortion opponents.

It was a welcome change for abortion rights advocates, who lost some key battles this year, including failure to win passage of the Freedom of Choice Act to protect a woman's right to abortion. They called the clinic access bill the first progressive legislation on abortion rights to pass Congress.

"We really needed a win," said Pam Maraldo, president of Planned Parenthood.

House critics said the bill interferes with free-speech rights and imposes too stiff a penalty on those who stage nonviolent sit-ins or try to block a clinic.

Repeat offenders would face up to three years in jail and first-time offenders would face one year under the House bill. The Senate penalties are not so severe but still make blockades a felony.

"If these groups ... were in front of another killing place - let's say Auschwitz - you'd be honoring them, you wouldn't be making them felons," said Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., a key abortion opponent in the House. "Political protest has been at the forefront of social change, from the Boston Tea Party to Selma."

An attempt by Rep. Chris Smith, R-N.J., to amend the bill to make obstructing a clinic a crime only if force or threat of force was involved lost on a 255-177 vote.

Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., noted Congress had passed a law last year to protect against crimes at laboratories, rodeos and dog shows.

"For heaven's sake, if you did it for bunny rabbits, can't you give women at least equal rights?" Schroeder said.

Abortion rights advocates recounted the tide of violence that has recently hit many abortion clinics.

"This list is long and sad - arson, bombing, gassing, physical attacks, death threats and murder," said Rep. Louise Slaughter, D-N.Y.

Under the bill, picketing, handing out leaflets and "sidewalk counseling" would be legal as long as it did not get in the way of a clinic's business.

Eight indicted by grand jury

Indictments were returned against eight persons during the November session of the Deaf Smith County grand jury Thursday. Names of two defendants were not released, pending their arrest.

Two men were the subject of two indictments each.

Two felony driving while intoxicated indictments name Rolando Rene Ramirez of 404 Star. He posted bonds of $1,000 and $2,000.

Carlos Munoz Sr., 25, of 835 Brevard, is charged on separate indictments for felony driving while intoxicated and injury to a child. He posted bonds of $1,000 on the felony DWI charge and $5,000 on the second indictment.

Indicted for bail jumping and failure to appear, Jose DeLaLuz Esparza, 27, is confined to jail in lieu of bond.

Bond of $5,000 was posted by Gilbert Cano, 18, of 415 Avenue E, who was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Tony Rodriguez, 35, of 403 Long, was indicted for possession of a controlled substance, namely cocaine. He is free on $5,000 bond.

Charged with aggravated assault, Rudy Martinez, 26 of 440 Avenue B, No. B, is free on bond of $2,000.

City gets $63,000 in state tax rebate

State Comptroller John Sharp has mailed out November sales tax rebate checks to 1,072 Texas cities and 109 counties, including Hereford.

The Hereford check -- which represents the city's 1 percent share of the overall 7.75 percent sales tax -- is for $63,881.20.

That is 0.89 percent less than the amount received in November 1992.

For the year, however, Hereford's tax rebate has been $630,225.71, which is 3.89 percent more than the $606,609.07 paid out the first 11 months of 1992.

Overall, Texas cities received $171.6 million for November, which was up 16 percent over last November's payment.

Counties received $16.7 million, up 17.4 percent over last year.

"The economic climate in Texas continues to show improvement," Sharp said.

The following area towns also received tax rebate checks. Shown are the November payments, change from November 1992, year-to-date payments and change from last year:

-- Dimmitt, $28,701.67, down 10.18 percent, $275,839.81, down 0.21 percent.

-- Borger, $231,442.17, up 8.83 percent, $2,074,091.35, down 3.2 percent.

-- Amarillo, $3,121,569.35, up 12.13 percent, $27,908,532.21, up 8.72 percent.

-- Canyon, $52,886.74, up 13.35 percent, $448,067.41, up 5.74 percent.

Festival of Trees auction nets more than $20,000

Sales of decorated Christmas trees at the Hereford Senior Citizens Festival of Trees topped $20,000 Thursday night as local residents gathered to see who would take home which tree.

Center executive director Margie Daniels said the total raised, $20,650, was about $6,000 more than collected from the tree auction last year.

This year, 26 trees were provided and decorated by local sponsors and decorators.

The top-selling tree fetched $1,650, Mrs. Daniels said, and the second highest seller went for $1,450.

Overall, she said, seven trees sold for $1,000 or more.

The average price of the trees was $794.23, which she was way up from last year.

The Festival continues through Sunday at the Senior Center, 426 Ranger, with a wide variety of activities on tap.

Mrs. Daniels said tickets for all paid events are still available.

She also noted that the festival has been very successful through the first day and a half.

"We just had a wonderful group" for Thursday's Gala and Auction, and "right now we're full of children. All I see are children," this morning.

Mrs. Daniels said about 1,500 children passed through the festival on Thursday and about that many are expected today, all from local schools and child care centers.

Clinton hopes to have global free-trade deal by December

SEATTLE (AP) - President Clinton, a self-described rug-merchant, is out to sell Pacific nations on stronger U.S. ties and to use that warming relationship to try to push Europeans into a global free trade agreement by mid-December.

The setting is the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum of 15 mostly booming economies on the Pacific Rim that together comprise the fastest growing area of the world. Clinton, buoyant from a congressional free-trade victory this week, wants to steer the United States into a more profitable share of the Asian market.

"Someone sort of made fun of me the other day," he said Thursday on arriving at Boeing Field in this eastward-looking emerald city. "They said, you know, President Clinton is almost like a rug merchant out there selling American products. Well, I'm not ashamed."

He referred directly to promoting sales by Boeing, the nation's largest exporter, but the message was far broader than that: The United States does 50 percent more trade with Asia than with Europe; more than half of U.S. trade last year was with other Pacific Rim nations.

And the administration came prepared to deal. It has decided to allow the sale to China of an $8 million Cray supercomputer to help in forecasting natural disasters, U.S. officials said Thursday night.

Tentatively approved, as well, was sale of power turbines for nuclear generators, the officials said, speaking on condition of anonymity. One official said final approval depended on China showing a willingness to respond to U.S. concerns in several areas, including improved treatment of political dissidents, curbs on prison labor and barriers to U.S. imports.

The supercomputer decision surfaced as Clinton prepared to meet today with Chinese President Jiang Zemin. The top item was human rights, along with China's reluctance to accept international restrictions on missile technology exports and its $18 billion trade advantage over the United States.

APEC includes the world's three largest economies, the United States, Japan and China, and has several other fast-steppers, as well, including Taiwan, South Korea and Singapore.

Other airlines helping out to alleviate passenger glut

DALLAS (AP) - Rivals of strike-bound American Airlines have been able to pick up some of the carrier's stranded or delayed passengers, but officials warned seats will get more scarce starting today as the Thanksgiving holiday approaches.

The 21,000-member Association of Professional Flight Attendants began a planned 11-day walkout over pay and other contract terms Thursday, creating the biggest airline strike in nearly five years.

Travelers around the country - some taunted by striking flight attendants - were bitter about delayed vacations, missed appointments and absent luggage, and felt misled by the airline's vows to keep its normal schedule.

"I called in three times this morning to make sure my flight was all right. They told me everything was in line, no delays. That's why I got so incensed. They should just tell the truth that things aren't fine at all," said insurance executive Ed Wilson, who waited in line an hour to have his flight from Boston to Raleigh--Durham booked on another airline.

Many other passengers at Boston's Logan Airport Thursday said they had been reassured there would be no problem when they called American Airlines. But they were handed a printed apology from the airline that suggested they go home and rebook.

American on Thursday night canceled its remaining flights out of O'Hare International Airport, said company spokeswoman Mary Frances Fagan in Chicago. She said the airline was attempting to arrange other travel for people holding tickets.

Empty flights and delays were also reported at Denver's Stapleton Airport, Phoenix, Fargo, N.D., the two airports in New York; Logan International Airport in Boston and Oklahoma City.

At Raleigh-Durham International Airport, 10 flights were canceled and others delayed Thursday. In Minneapolis, most American arrivals and departures were listed as being on time. However, one employee said all flights except one were empty.

At O'Hare International, a woman carrying her wedding dress in a plastic bag sobbed as she told of a nuptial trip to Antigua disrupted by the strike. She and her fiance had arrived at O'Hare at 4 a.m. and were on standby for a flight scheduled to leave late in Thursday afternoon.

"This was so mismanaged by the airline," said the bride-to-be, who would not give her name. "They knew this was coming."

It was unclear exactly how many flight attendants were joining the walkout. The union and the Allied Pilots Association put the strike compliance figure at 90 percent or more.

American refused to divulge figures for disrupted flights or striking flight attendants, but spokesmen said the strike number could be around half.

What was clear was that while some planes got off the ground with little trouble Thursday, others at airports nationwide were delayed for hours, canceled, or sent winging away bearing only cargo, mail and passenger luggage because too few flight attendants showed up for work.

American, which has about 2,600 daily flights to more than 200 cities, said it will try to minimize customer impact, partly through agreements with more than 35 other airlines to carry its passengers.

Beginning Thursday night, American's reservation workers were to begin calling bumped customers and trying to reschedule them on other flights aboard American or other carriers, company spokesman Don Bedwell said.

"We will have better information tomorrow on what flights will be going and what will be cancelled," Bedwell said late Thursday.

Still, the airline must face one of the busiest travel seasons of the year as many Thanksgiving vacationers start leaving home.

"On Friday, the real impact will be seen on what it does to passengers," said William Berry, spokesman for Delta Air Lines.

"It's no mystery that this is probably the busiest 10-day period during the course of a year, so we think that the financial impact is going to be severe," said Rob Clayman, negotiations counsel for the flight attendants' union.

American's Bedwell said, "It is a concern that there is a shortage of seats, but we think it's going to work. We think we'll be able to operate enough flights to take care of most of them ourselves."

The union said it expected to go back to work Nov. 29, even if no new contract agreement was reached.

However, the company began recruiting replacement flight attendants and said strikers would not have jobs to return to. American also has been training other workers in a shortened, 10-day course to fill in for striking flight attendants.

The union is challenging American's right to hire permanent replacements in court, and says the company couldn't have them trained and working before the strike ends anyway.

Meanwhile, the more powerful pilots' union at American is voting on whether to wage a sympathy strike. A decision was expected today or Saturday, Allied Pilots Association spokesman Gregg Overman said.

A year of contract negotiations between American and the flight attendants union failed last month. American on Nov. 1 imposed a new contract with an average 7.8 percent pay hike, or 35 percent over four years including pay raises in the previous contract.

When two days of last-minute talks broke off Thursday in New Orleans, the union said American had added to those terms a 3 percent pay raise four years into a six-year contract - too long for the union.

The union also opposes new scheduling and work rules, lower staffing and prefunding of retiree health benefits.

Suspects in killings have long records

Alleged gang members being questioned by police

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Police say the two men arrested in the slayings of two Fort Worth college students are members of the Crips street gang and have long criminal records.

Fort Worth police say they arrested two men, aged 19 and 21, and were questioning them late Thursday about the killings of Channing Freelove, 19, and Melanie Golchert, 18.

The bodies of the women, who were shot to death, were found in a vacant Fort Worth field Saturday morning.

Sgt. Paul Kratz said that both men are "known gang members" of the Crips gang. When the arrests were made, the younger man was out on bail after being charged with attempted capital murder, police said, and the older suspect was out on bail on a weapons charge, police said.

Early in the investigation of the slayings, an informant told police that on the night Ms. Freelove was killed, she was planning to sell a pound of marijuana to a gang member called "Boot," according to documents.

The 19-year-old suspect is nicknamed "Boot," police said.

The men were each being held Thursday in lieu of $500,000 bail in the slayings.

Kratz said police made the arrests almost on accident.

"This was totally unplanned," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Officers responded to a call at a Fort Worth Sack 'N Save grocery store, which had complained about two men harassing store clerks, police said.

At the store, an arresting officer, Don Hanlon, recognized one of the men as a suspect in the slayings of Ms. Freelove and Ms. Golchert, police said.

Hanlon called detectives, who were busy writing capital murder arrest warrants on two of the men, and was told to take them to the detectives' office, Sgt. Tim Ellis said.

On Tuesday, police arrested two women accused of hiring the killers of Ms. Freelove and Ms. Golchert. Sherrie Lynn Sikes, 24, and Brandi Michelle Cirelli, 20, were accused of trying to hire an acquaintance to kill Ms. Freelove, and of possession of marijuana.

A police affidavit said Ms. Sikes and Ms. Cirelli were former lovers of Ms. Freelove's.

Police said witnesses reported that the women planned the contract killings the day after an emotional brawl involving Ms. Freelove, Ms. Sikes and Ms. Cirelli.

Ms. Sikes and Ms. Cirelli remained jailed on about $60,000 bail. No formal charges had been filed against Sikes or Cirelli as of Thursday night.

Golchert was a student at Tarrant County Junior College, and Freelove, a high school honor student, was studying pre-med at Texas Christian University.

The women were originally portrayed as wholesome athletes who did well in school, but since have been linked to drug dealing.

Kratz would not comment Thursday night on any possible motives for the killings.

"We have a lot more information than a few days ago but I'm not going to talk about motive right now," Kratz said.

Upon hearing of the arrests, Ms. Golchert's mother, Fran Golchert, raised her right arm above her head in a gesture of victory and said, "Yes! Yes!"

She praised the police, saying they had been helpful and cooperative.

Earlier Thursday, Fran Golchert, in her first public comments since her daughter's body was found, said Melanie Golchert was an innocent victim.

"She had an undying loyalty to her friends, which was a strength, but it was also a weakness," Fran Golchert said.

Fran Golchert and the teen's sister, former coach, high school teachers and friends gathered at a Fort Worth church Thursday night to rebut allegations that the 18-year-old junior college student was involved in drug dealing and other questionable activities.

Golchert, according to police, relatives and friends of the women, was not a drug dealer and was not involved in any lesbian relationships.

State Supreme Court ruling to be appealed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Lawyers say they will appeal a Texas Supreme Court ruling rejecting a woman's claim that she suffered emotional damage when her mother revealed on the "Donahue" show that the woman was raped by her stepfather as a child.

After the show was broadcast on Jan. 5, 1989, Nancy Anonsen filed a lawsuit against her mother, Miriam Booher; Phil Donahue; "Donahue" producer Jose Pretlow; and a Houston television affiliate that showed the broadcast.

Without comment, the state Supreme Court on Wednesday upheld lower court rulings rejecting the lawsuit.

Ms. Anonsen's attorney, David Berg, said he will appeal.

"This is a case we anticipated taking to the Supreme Court of the United States and that is the next stop," Berg said. "The issue of whether or not a factually correct broadcast can amount to an invasion of privacy has been reserved by the Supreme Court."

Berg said Ms. Anonsen did not want to talk to reporters but could be identified by name since the show had aired and the lawsuit is public record.

Donahue's attorneys said the decision affirmed First Amendment rights.

"What Ms. Booher did was tell her own life story and it was all true," said attorney Amy Wright. "The Texas Supreme Court's decision basically shows that she has a right to do that."

Ms. Booher said on the talk show that her then-husband, William Booher Sr., an Arkansas state police officer at the time, sexually assaulted Ms. Anonsen when she was 11, impregnating her, according to court records. She gave birth to a son, the records show.

Booher lost his job as a result of the disclosure on the "Donahue" show, according to the records. But he was never charged with a crime, Berg said. The statute of limitations has expired.

Booher was out of town Thursday and could not be reached for comment, said a man who answered the telephone at Booher's home and identified himself as William Booher Jr., Booher's son with Ms. Anonsen.

Court records said Booher acknowledged impregnating Ms. Anonsen. Ms. Booher said on the show that she and her husband kept the pregnancy a family secret and raised Ms. Anonsen's child as if he was their own.

Booher filed for divorce 17 years after the alleged assault, prompting Ms. Booher to retaliate by going public, according to court records.

CHRIST'S CHURCH FELLOWSHIP

Christ's Church Fellowship, located at 401 W. Park Ave., invites you to Sunday school this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. and the worship service at 10:45 a.m.

Dr. Alton Tomlin and his wife, Joan, will be moving to Cincinnati where he will continue his work with the CCF's organization. As CCF has rapidly grown since its inception in 1989, it has become necessary for Dr. Tomlin to relocate to the central headquarters. Sunday, Dec. 5, will be his last day as pastor here. The couple will leave immediately after church that morning.

Alton and Joan have been a source of love and nurture to the people of this church and their time with the Hereford CCF church will always be greatly appreciated and fondly remembered.

The church has called Otto Schaufele as pastor and he and his wife have responded in the affirmative. They will assume the pastoral position on Jan. 1, 1994.

This Sunday evening, CCF will be the host church for a city-wide Thanksgiving service. The service will begin at 6 p.m. The speaker will be Pastor Lonny Poe of Dawn Baptist Church and, Steve Wright of CCF will lead the praise and worship, backed up by a worship team made up of singers from several Hereford and area churches.

The Junior High Sunday School Class is asking each family to bring at least one can of food each Sunday. The food will be distributed to local needy families.

Planning Thanksgiving service

The public is invited to a Community Thanksgiving Service at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Christ Church Fellowship, located on W. Park Ave. The event is being sponsored by the Hereford Ministerial Alliance. Special guest speaker will be Pastor Lonny Poe of Dawn Baptist Church who will deliver the message, "Where Are the Nine?" taken from Luke 17:11-19. Planning the event are, from left, Pastor Larry Cothrin of Avenue Baptist Church, Deacon Jonny Cloud of St. Anthony's Catholic Church who also serves as president of the Ministerial Alliance, and Pastor Lonny Poe.

ST. ANTHONY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

The Feast of Christ the King will be held Sunday. Also, those planning to help prepare and deliver Thanksgiving baskets are asked to meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Antonian Room.

A Family and Youth Conference is planned Dec. 3-4 in Amarillo's St. Joseph Church. Cost is $5 per youth and $10 per adult. An additional $5 will be needed for lunch. Children under 12 may eat free of charge. Music will be presented by the San Jose Youth and the theme of the conference is "Say YES to Jesus." For more information, call Melani Banner at 364-7626 by Nov. 22.

Big rivalries highlight day in college football

By The Associated Press

Notre Dame, Florida State and Miami are playing for rankings. Purdue, South Carolina and Iowa are playing for reputations. Auburn, Alabama, USC and UCLA are playing for both.

This will be the final full weekend of college football, and that means national ratings and regional rivalries. While some teams battle for bowl position on Saturday, others fight for the Old Oaken Bucket, the Beer Barrel and a bronze pig statue named Floyd of Rosedale.

In the East, Harvard visits Yale in The Game. In the West, Cal is at Stanford for The Big Game. In the Midwest, No. 5 Ohio State travels for its traditional game against Michigan, needing a win or tie to clinch a berth in the Rose Bowl.

The other Rose Bowl spot will go to the winner of the game between No. 16 UCLA and No. 22 Southern Cal. All 94,159 seats at the Los Angeles Coliseum have been sold for the 63rd meeting of the Bruins and Trojans.

Southern Cal leads the series 34-21-7. UCLA has won the last two games - 24-21 at the Coliseum in 1991 and 38-37 at the Rose Bowl last year. The Trojans' last win was in 1990, 45-42 at the Rose Bowl.

For an intra-state rivalry, it's hard to beat Auburn against Alabama in the Iron Bowl. This year, for only the second time, the game is at Auburn.

No matter who wins, it's certain what will happen next for both teams. Sixth-ranked Auburn (10-0) is on probation and will play no more this season while No. 11 Alabama (8-1-1) already has a spot in the Southeastern Conference championship game.

In other games, it's No. 17 Boston College (7-2) at No. 1 Notre Dame (10-0), North Carolina State (7-3) at No. 2 Florida State (9-1), No. 4 Miami (8-1) at No. 9 West Virginia (9-0), No. 7 Tennessee (7-1-1) at Kentucky (6-4), Vanderbilt (4-5) at No. 8 Florida (8-1) and No. 10 Texas A&M (8-1) at Texas Christian (4-6).

Also, it will be No. 12 Wisconsin (7-1-1) at Illinois (5-5), No. 14 Penn State (7-2) at Northwestern (2-8), No. 18 Colorado (6-3-1) at Iowa State (3-7), No. 20 Kansas State (7-2-1) at Oklahoma State (3-7), Purdue (1-9) at No. 21 Indiana (7-3), No. 24 Clemson (7-3) at South Carolina (4-6), and No. 25 Virginia Tech (7-3) at No. 23 Virginia (7-3).

The winner of the Indiana-Purdue game gets the Old Oaken Bucket and the Tennessee-Kentucky winner is awarded the Beer Barrel.

Elsewhere, it's Minnesota vs. Iowa for a bronze pig statue known as Floyd of Rosedale, Washington vs. Washington State for the Apple Cup, Mississippi vs. Mississippi State for the Golden Egg and Oregon vs. Oregon State in the Civil War.

And, Lehigh will face Lafayette for the 129th time in college football's most-played rivalry.

Notre Dame, which flip-flopped positions with Florida State in the rankings after beating the Seminoles 31-24 last Saturday, hopes to keep on track for a shot at the national championship. A win over Boston College would probably put the Irish in the Fiesta Bowl against Florida State or Miami, or in the Orange Bowl against Nebraska.

Ags must be wary of Frogs

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum has identified at least two reasons the No. 10 Aggies should not overlook 25-point underdog Texas Christian on Saturday.

No. 1 - "I haven't heard for a long time anyone say they were looking past A&M," Slocum said. "It's TCU's last game of the season so I know they won't be looking past us."

No. 2 - The Horned Frogs (4-6, 2-4 in Southwest Conference games) also have proven themselves capable of upsets.

TCU pulled off a mammoth shocker last year, beating the Texas Longhorns for the first time in 25 years. Now the Frogs have a chance to erase a 20-year drought against the Aggies (8-1, 5-0).

"This is a championship game for us," Slocum said. "We win this game and we have a share of the title. That's motivation enough."

What would it be like for TCU coach Pat Sullivan to beat the Aggies?

"What did it mean when David beat Goliath?" Sullivan asked. "They talked about that for 2,000 years. It would be the same thing."

In other games, Texas Tech (5-5, 4-2) plays Houston (1-7-1, 1-3-1) in the Alamodome with a chance to win its fifth game in a row and earn a bowl berth; Baylor (5-5, 3-3) plays at Texas (4-4-1, 4-1) and Southern Methodist (1-7-2) is at Navy (4-5).

After Saturday, only two regular-season games remain on the SWC schedule. The Aggies and Texas play Thanksgiving night at Kyle Field. The following morning, Rice plays host to Houston.

With a victory on Saturday, the Aggies will have won 21 straight SWC games, tying the all-time conference record set by Texas in 1968-71.

Baylor will be without running back Robert Strait in its bowl-elimination game against Texas in Austin.

Strait, who scored four touchdowns in the Bears' 38-14 victory over Rice last week, was dismissed from the team on Thursday. Head coach Chuck Reedy said the dismissal was for violating team policies, but he wouldn't elaborate.

John Henry will replace Strait in the lineup, Reedy said.

The Bears are on a serious roll with four victories in the last five games. Amazingly, the Longhorns can still play in the Cotton Bowl with victories over Baylor and the Aggies.

Texas suffered from a rugged early-season schedule, but coach John Mackovic isn't complaining.

"I've always said a balanced schedule is best," Mackovic said. "It's best not to always be the underdog, but your schedule should also have some flavor to it and you have to play good teams to do that."

The Red Raiders will be in line for a bowl invitation if they beat the Cougars in San Antonio's Alamodome.

Tech coach Spike Dykes hopes turning Bam Morris loose on the Cougars will be enough for the victory.

"I think he's one of the best in the country and he's still getting better," Dykes said. "The best is yet to come. He does things that really amaze me."

Houston coach Kim Helton will start Jimmy Klingler at quarterback, but he said Chuck Clements should get some action. Clements completed 36 of 66 passes in last week's loss to Cincinnati.

Baylor kicks Strait off team

WACO, Texas (AP) - Baylor running back Robert Strait, last week's Southwest Conference player of the week, has been dismissed from the Bears' football team.

Strait, who scored four touchdowns in last week's 38-14 victory over Rice, is no longer on the team because of unspecified violations.

"Robert has been dismissed from the team for violations of team policies," coach Chuck Reedy said Thursday in a prepared statement. Reedy wouldn't elaborate on the violations.

Strait, who also had been suspended from the Nov. 6 Georgia Tech game for missing a team curfew, has been primarily a backup this year. He had 85 carries for 347 yards and nine TDs this year.

He ends his career at Baylor with 1,856 yards and 32 touchdowns, second-most in school history.

Strait, a 6-1, 240-pound senior, came to Baylor as one of the most highly recruited high school prospects in the nation.

Herd cagers take on 'Dogs

The Hereford girls' basketball team will try to stretch their record to 2-0 tonight in Plainview, while the Herd boys will go for their first win.

The girls, which beat Brownfield in Tuesday's season-opener, will play at 6:30 p.m. The boys, which also played Brownfield but lost, will play at 7:45.

Hereford's junior varsity teams will debut today in Plainview: the girls at 5 and the boys at 6.

Hereford's freshmen teams start their season Saturday. The boys host Caprock in Whiteface Gym for B and A games starting at 10 a.m. and 11:30, respectively. The girls play on the same schedule, but at Caprock.

Troy, Texas, honors Aikman

TROY, Texas (AP) - Injured Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman may not be on the field for Sunday's game, but he will be on the map.

The city of Troy, Texas, has changed its name to Troy Aikman, Texas, for the remainder of the NFL regular season, longer if the Cowboys make the playoffs.

Troy Aikman, the person, wasn't present at Thursday's name-changing ceremony, which included the unveiling of two highway signs on Interstate 35 marking Troy Aikman, the town.

"We have a couple of Redskins fans who don't think much of it, and a couple of Miami fans who weren't thrilled, but everyone's been real positive about it," said Thomas Vanderveer, mayor of Troy Aikman, population 1,400.

The blue-and-white road signs were built free of charge by Dallas sign maker Haywood Ware, and erected by the Texas Department of Transportation.

Residents of the central Texas town seem to like the idea, but some don't want things to get carried away.

"It's all right as long as it's not permanent," said auto shop owner Jim Gilliland. "I don't think we need to make it Troy Aikman forever."

Vanderveer says he's talked to Aikman a few times and the Pro Bowl quarterback was honored and would try to stop by.

But the mayor says he understands if Troy Aikman doesn't visit Troy Aikman anytime soon.

"With the hamstrings and back injuries, he has his hands full right now," Vanderveer said.

Troy Aikman, the town, is about 115 miles south of Dallas.

Blazers beat up on weakened Bulls

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Bulls have known since before the season started that they would miss Michael Jordan. Losing Scottie Pippen, John Paxson and Scott Williams was too much.

The Bulls lost their third straight game Thursday night, and this time it was a serious rout. Chicago trailed by as many as 37 points in the second half at Portland before losing 120-98, the Bulls' most one-sided defeat to the Trail Blazers in their history.

"We were totally unprepared for this game," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "It was very disappointing. It is obvious the Blazers were anxious after the last couple of seasons to give us a licking and they surely did that, and then we seemed to ask for more."

The three-time defending champion Bulls fell apart in the second quarter. The Blazers shot 68 percent from the field and outscored the Bulls 35-15 in the period, taking a 64-36 halftime lead. Chicago committed 10 turnovers in the period.

"It felt like the Blazers of old," said Clifford Robinson, who led Portland with 21 points in 27 minutes. "We were able to defend, get to the boards and convert off the break. We kept the pressure on them, and we kept pushing it down their throat."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Houston 99, Indiana 83; Denver 100, Cleveland 93; the Los Angeles Clippers 88, Dallas 84 and Golden State 103, the Los Angeles Lakers 76.

Steve Kerr scored 16 points and Horace Grant 14 for the Bulls, whose previous biggest loss to Portland was by 16 points in 1983. Clyde Drexler had 19 points and Rod Strickland 14 points and nine assists for Portland, which outrebounded Chicago 59-38.

In the first half, Portland outscored the Bulls 28-2 on fast break points and scored 16 points off Chicago turnovers.

The Bulls, who made 31 percent of their shots in the disastrous second quarter, were playing the second of seven games on the road in 10 days.

Rockets 99, Pacers 83

Houston improved to 8-0 overall and 5-0 on the road behind Otis Thorpe's 24 points and 11 rebounds, including 16 points in the pivotal third quarter at Indiana.

The Rockets, yet to allow 100 points in a game, also got 19 points and 10 rebounds from Hakeem Olajuwon, whose five blocks moved him into third place on the NBA career list with 2,476.

Warriors 103, Lakers 76

Golden State won its first home game in four tries, routing Los Angeles behind Chris Gatling's 19 points and 10 rebounds.

Clippers 88, Mavericks 84

Los Angeles beat visiting Dallas for the eighth straight time, behind Ron Harper's 28 points.

Nuggets 100, Cavaliers 93

Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf had 22 points and Bryant Stith scored seven of his 20 in the final 3:56 for Denver against visiting Cleveland.

Tech women take on top teams in Tip-Off Classic

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Women's basketball takes a giant step forward this weekend with its first Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic, featuring four of the nation's best teams.

Defending national champion Texas Tech and Ohio State, the 1993 runner-up, will be in Jackson, Tenn., as will Tennessee and Vanderbilt, ranked first and second in the AP preseason poll.

ESPN will televise No. 14. Texas Tech against No. 2 Vanderbilt Saturday and No. 1 Tennessee vs. No. 8 Ohio State on Sunday. That should bring women's basketball some overdue recognition, Vandy coach Jim Foster said.

"For whatever reason, ... people making the decisions didn't have a lot of vision," Foster said.

"Some people are starting to look at this game that seems to regionally attract a lot of interest as maybe there's something there we're not quite aware of."

The two games are the first preseason games sanctioned by the NCAA in women's basketball and count in the regular season standings. The classic, being played in Jackson, 120 miles west of Nashville, has State Farm Insurance as a sponsor.

Coaches and sponsors want to capitalize on the TV ratings of last season's NCAA title game that outdrew an NBA matchup of Chicago and Boston.

Foster thinks women's basketball is the not-so-quiet secret sport that will help fill schedules for new cable networks while putting money into colleges' pockets.

"I think every year is going to be a growth year relative to exposure," he said. "If more people choose to give it exposure, the growth would be more rapid. But most people make decisions on women's athletics

Rice bows out of preseason NIT

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - For more than 25 minutes, Rice, a 17-point underdog, stayed even with 10th-ranked Minnesota.

Then the Gophers picked up the pace and hit the boards hard. By the time Rice recovered, it was too late.

Minnesota won 70-61 Thursday night, advancing to the Preseason NIT quarterfinals. Saturday afternoon, the Gophers will play host to Georgia, which beat Alabama State 89-67 in its first-round game.

The Minnesota-Georgia winner will go to Wednesday's semifinals in New York, where the Gophers won the 1993 postseason NIT title.

"When I got in there, I said I was going to set the tempo," said Townsend Orr, a backup guard whose defense and ballhandling sparked a 17-5 second-half run. "I said, 'We're going to show everyone that if you're going to beat Minnesota, you're going to have to keep up with this tempo.'"

Rice tried - and failed.

As a result, the Owls went from being tied at 40 with 15 minutes left to being down 57-45 with 8 minutes to play.

"We had a short stretch when we got away from the way we're accustomed to playing basketball," said coach Willis Wilson, whose Owls were 18-10 last season. "We got into an up-and-down flow, and when we do that we're not as good a team. We value each possession ... and we got away from that."

Orr and Randy Carter were two big reasons Minnesota was able to take control.

Orr had eight points and five assists and was the point man on a full-court press that forced 17 Rice turnovers.

"He understands the game," Wilson said. "He brings you a different dimension, willing to do all the little things to make his team better. That's what helps you win championships."

Carter had 10 points and four offensive rebounds as the Gophers had a 15-8 advantage on the offensive boards.

His biggest rebound came after teammate Arriel McDonald missed a free throw with 35.6 seconds left. Carter fell to the floor but got a pass to McDonald, who was fouled again and made two free throws for a 66-59 lead.

"I like to go to the boards in that situation," said Carter, who also scored six points near the start of Minnesota's big second-half run. "Coach said, 'We need a rebound, go get it.' So I did."

Coach Clem Haskins said Carter excelled despite a bout with the flu this week.

"He played on guts and sheer determination," Haskins said.

Voshon Lenard, the MVP of last spring's NIT, also was weakened by the flu. Haskins said that's why he missed 13 of 18 shots, including eight of 11 from 3-point range. Lenard still finished with a game-high 18 points.

"The legs are so important to shooting," said Haskins, whose Gophers won despite shooting only 35 percent. "I could tell Voshon didn't have the hop. His shot was flat."

Adam Peakes scored 16 points for Rice.

The game was the first played in the refurbished Williams Arena. New banners were displayed, including one for last year's NIT title and another representing the retired jersey of Kevin McHale, who was honored in a halftime ceremony.

Permian fans don't know what to do

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - A somber puzzle is nagging Jack Kimbrow and other Odessa Permian boosters who expected they'd be cheering from the football bleachers well into December.

How will they spend Saturday, they wonder, with no Permian playoff game to watch?

"We'll be doing whatever people do who don't go to the playoffs," Kimbrow said. "I don't know what that is."

Kimbrow, a 1957 graduate of cross-town rival Odessa High, choked with emotion as he recounted greeting the players at the field house after news broke Wednesday that a federal judge in El Paso ruled Permian had used an ineligible player.

Fans of the perennial powerhouse started coping Thursday with U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth's decision, which tripped the Panthers for their first and biggest defeat of the season.

Permian forfeited its district title and chance to win a seventh Class 5A state championship. The Panthers' record sank from 9-0-1 to 3-6.

"It's hard to believe because we worked so hard," said quarterback Nick Keeton. "We never lost on Friday and Saturday. It's not fair to lose like this."

The decision resurrected Lubbock Coronado, whom Permian had beaten 34-17 in last week's playoff. Lubbock Coronado faces El Paso Coronado on Saturday.

Students said they were stunned, generally bummed and groping for an explanation for the University Interscholastic League's sudden crackdown on a longstanding desegregation policy.

UIL rules state that students must sit out a year after they switch schools. But the Ector County ISD since 1982 has used a majority-to-minority policy allowing transfers to immediately join in extracurricular activities.

To receive such a transfer, a student may move to a school at which he would be in the minority ethnicity.

UIL rules state that students must sit out a year no matter how they transfer.

UIL threw Permian out of the playoffs after receiving an anonymous tip that Benji Garcia, who suited out earlier this season for Odessa High, was ineligible to play for Permian even though he transferred under ECISD rules.

Permian, the winningest Class 5A team in Texas during the 1980s and perennially one of the nation's strongest football teams, was allowed to play Lubbock Coronado under a temporary restraining order from Hudspeth.

"No one thinks it's right. It's not our fault," said sophomore Pennye Allgood, a clarinetist in the Permian band.

Students - and people off campus, where Mojo fanaticism runs feverish - spoke of the camaraderie, work ethic and devotion that gives Permian football its one-of-a-kind mystique.

Many repeated the consensus that the team was punished for an inadvertent fluke. Others said UIL targeted Permian because of the win-at-all-costs reputation depicted in H.G. Bissinger's 1990 best-seller "Friday Night Lights."

"Those lights become an addiction if you live in a place like Odessa, the Friday night fix," Bissinger wrote in his book, which described racism and academic sacrifice for football.

Permian, the defending state champion in 1990, was barred from the playoffs that year for holding illegal workouts before the season.

But Principal Steve Chapman emphasized that the school did nothing wrong in following district policy this time.

Chapman met with about 75 parents and teachers early Thursday to answer questions and quell rumors. He knew of no plans to appeal Hudspeth's decision.

The tears and consoling hugs have mostly ended. But out on the school parking lot Thursday, black and white ribbons adorned antennas on most of the vehicles. Several windshields were soaped with messages like "Mojo is 1" and "To Hell with UIL."

"Every place is known for something. We're known for great football," sophomore Kelley Thomas explained.

Cowboys' Coleman beat high odds

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - From arena football to a spot on the roster of the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys. Meet Lincoln Coleman, a one-in-a-million longshot.

"It's kind of crazy," Coleman admitted. "It might be more than a million to 1 odds."

Coleman has been activated to back up tailback Emmitt Smith and fullback Daryl Johnston and to help out on special teams.

It ends his toil on the Cowboys practice squad where he has been the leader of the scouts.

"He was tearing everybody up," said running back coach Joe Brodsky. "He was making some big-time plays on the scout team."

To make way for him, coach Jimmy Johnson had to cut one of the most popular players on the club, Tommie Agee.

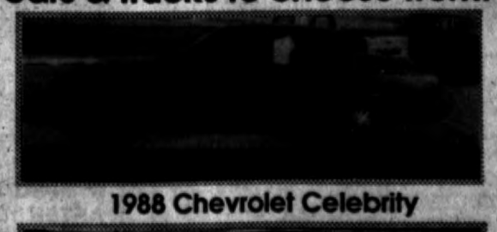

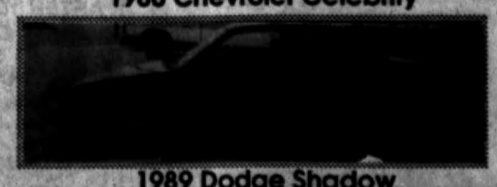

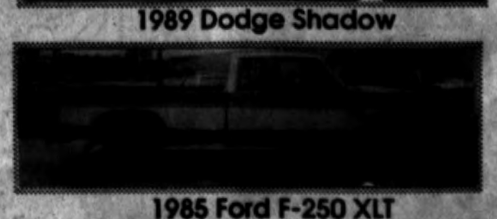

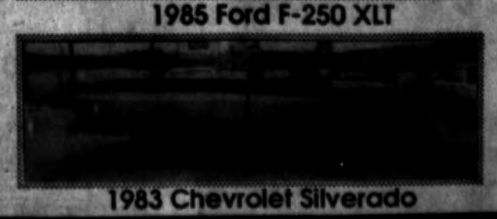

Coleman couldn't believe it.

"Tommie was my best friend on the team," Coleman said. "Talk about mixed emotions. I wanted a chance but I hated to see Tommie go.

For 25 great years I have hunted deer amid the prickly pear, mesquite and senderas of South Texas. The excellent prospects of getting a huge, trophy white-tailed buck will lure me that direction again this year.

However, a recent attack by africanized "killer" bees suffered by my father-in-law, Don Bentsen of McAllen, should serve as a warning for all outdoor activities in that region. Seems that he was checking out a grapefruit orchard when an angry swarm of bees started checking him out. After suffering nearly 50 stings, he finally escaped their wrath by running helter-skelter through the low hanging branches of adjacent citrus trees.

The net result of this unpleasant encounter was: 1) the death of numerous unwanted immigrants from the dark continent; 2) several days of pain and swelling for my father-in-law; and 3) a job search for a new citrus inspector.

Every hunter who hunts out of a deer blind faces the perennial problem of unwanted pests. My brother-in-law, Don Jr., who gets to hunt long before I arrive in the valley, has the thankless task of cleaning out the deer blinds. For nearly 30 years, he has fought enraged hornets, evicted screeching owls and removed angry rattlesnakes.

After witnessing the bee attack, Don Jr. has informed me that my two favorite deer blinds, No. 8 and No. 12, await my cleaning efforts.

My father and I just returned from Lake Texoma, where we enjoyed three great days of striper fishing and observed the 1993 Oklahoma Invitational B.A.S.S. Tournament.

Curgus Lowe, formerly of Amarillo but now residing in Kingston, Okla., was our guide on Friday. After we had a tasty pre-dawn breakfast at Catfish Bay Restaurant, Curgus quickly found some hungry stripers.

Dad and I were treated to a "Texoma shoot-out" where the frantic action of hooking, fighting and landing stripers exceeds the ability of the guide to keep live bait on the hooks. We returned to the cleaning dock, where Curgus turned a limit of stripers into bags of filets ready for the frying pan and the freezer.

The daily limit on stripers at Lake Texoma is a generous 15 fish, with no more than one over 20 inches. Curgus can be reached at (405) 564-3898. If you can't go to Texoma this winter, Curgus invites you to visit his booth at the '94 Outdoor World Sportsman's Show Jan. 18-20 in Amarillo.

In horseracing, a "morning glory" is a horse who works out fast in the morning but is slow in a race.

On the American turf, a horse can win a race by a nose, but in England it's called a short head.

The Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic will feature something for everyone.

Tennessee coach Pat Summitt can pick up her 500th career victory by beating Ohio State and former assistant Nancy Darsch. The Lady Vols want to return to the Final Four after missing it the past two seasons.

Vanderbilt has the tallest team in NCAA history with an average height of 6-foot-5 and is led by 6-10 center Heidi Gillingham. The Commodores are rematched with the Lady Raiders, who are trying to replace Player of the Year Sheryl Swoopes with junior college transfer Connie Robinson.

Why is the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic being held in Jackson?

The city located on Interstate 40 in West Tennessee is a hotbed for women's basketball. Jackson has been home to the NAIA Division I women's tournament for four years and hosts the annual Kodak All-American high school game.

Jackson also is the site of the Women's Hall of Fame with ground breaking ceremonies set for Saturday and an opening date set for November 1995.

NEW YORK (AP) - A new unauthorized biography of Barbra Streisand attempts to lift the veil on the behind-the-scenes life of the reclusive singer and director.

"Her Name is Barbra," published by Birch Lane Press, tells of her sexual attraction for Robert Redford during the making of "The Way We Were," how she prevented publication of semi-nude photos in High Society magazine and her fear of using public transportation and public restrooms.

Despite her riches, the biography claims that Streisand, a 51-year-old Brooklyn native, only sends her 84-year-old mother $1,000 a month.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Remember the column citing pros and cons on marrying an engineer? Well--I have been flooded with letters both for and against.

A reader of the Edmonton Journal in Alberta, Canada, sent the following, which appeared several years ago in Gateway, the University of Alberta student newspaper. The sender added, "I've been married for 42 years to an engineer and agree with every bit of what has been written. Please print it." So, folks, here it is:

Why Not Marry an Engineer?

Verily, I say unto ye, marry not an engineer;

For an engineer is a strange being and possessed of many evils.

Yea, he speaketh always in parables which he calleth formulae.

He wieldeth a big stick which he calleth a slide rule.

And he hath only one bible,a handbook.

He thinketh only of strains and stresses, and without end of thermodynamics.

He showeth always a serous aspect and seemeth not to know how to smile.

He picketh his seat in a car by the springs thereof and not by the damsels.

Neither does he know a waterfall except by its horsepower, nor a sunset except that he must turn on the light, nor a damsel except by her weight.

Always he carrieth his books with him, and he entertaineth his sweetherat with steam tables.

Verily, though his damsel expecteth chocolates when he calleth, she openeth the package to discover samples of iron ore.

Yea, he holdeth her hand but to measure the friction thereof, and kisseth her only to test the viscosity of her lips, for in his eyes shineth a faraway look that is neither love nor longing, but a vain attempt to recall formulae.

Even as a boy, he pulleth a girl's hair but to test its elasticity.

But as a man, he deviseth different devices.

For he counteth the vibrations of her heartstrings

And seeketh ever to pursue his scientific investigations.

Even his own heart flutterings he counteth as a measure of fluctuation.

And his marriage is a simultaneous equation involving two unknowns

And yielding diverse results.

Verily, I say unto ye, do not marry an engineer.--Shakeloose (Northwestern News) Psalm to an Engineer's Sweetheart

And now, dear readers, here's another newspaper clipping:

"Do engineers make good husbands?"

The opinions of the wives of about 7,000 Columbia University engineering alumni were sought as part of the observance of the centennial anniversary program of the university's School of Engineering and Applied Science. Their answer was a resounding "yes!"

Most of the women said engineers make especially good husbands because they are logical thinkers, are orderly around the home and have a talent for fixing things. The only discordant factor cited by wives was the frequency of relocating home and family.

Gem of the Day: For the woman in love, there are no fabulous lovers; there is only the man she is in love with. And she doesn't need to be a genius to figure out that the better his technique, the more he has been out there practicing.

An estimated 60 to 70 million bison, weighing more than all the people now alive in the United States and Canada, once thrived on the Great Plains of the American West and parts of southern Canada, according to National Geographic.

State officials plan guidelines for abortion insurance coverage

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - State officials will adopt policy guidelines next month for a new program requiring insurers to cover abortion costs in cases where the mother's life was endangered, the pregnancy was caused by rape or incest, or the fetus was not viable.

Guidelines are aimed at making health insurance more affordable for small businesses. But during a public hearing Thursday before the State Board of Insurance, the proposed guidelines became the backdrop for a battle over abortion.

Anti-abortion activists claimed the guidelines were too broad and could be used to fund most abortions.

"Each employer will have to decide whether to offer a plan that includes abortion as a benefit or to seek inferior coverage for his or her employees," said Lisa Salcedo, a spokeswoman for the Texas Right to Life Committee.

She said the guideline would provide coverage for most abortions because it would cover the cost if the fetus is not viable, which means it cannot live outside the mother.

But abortion rights activists said the guidelines were too narrow.

Peggy Romberg, executive director of the Texas Family Planning Association, said the policies should have no restrictions to abortion coverage.

"To exclude abortion services from the plan ... would result in imposing one belief on all the employees of small businesses and their families; denying them the choice," she said.

Ms. Romberg said most insurance policies provide coverage for elective abortions.

State Rep. Mike Martin, D-Galveston, the House sponsor of the health insurance bill, and Amy Johnson, chief of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, said the abortion guidelines should be left to insurers to decide what coverage to offer.

"When we place it in regulation or in law then we invite discussion permanently from a political standpoint," said Martin who supports abortion rights. "Considering how complex these issues are already, I don't know if that's a productive thing to do."

The new program would provide moderately priced, basic health coverage for employers of three to 50 people.

Legislators who sponsored the Small Employer Health Insurance Availability Act say it will provide coverage to many Texans who have no health insurance.

Texas leads the nation in the percentage of people lacking health insurance. More than one-fifth of Texans, or over 3 million people, have none.

The State Board of Insurance is scheduled to vote on the guidelines Dec. 7.

Use plants to clear indoor household air

Plants have a much greater value than just decorative. They have a very, very strong value because they clean the air of pollutants.

Three major problem chemicals in the home are benzene, formaldehyde and tricholoroethylene (TCE). Formaldehyde is found in plywood, grocery bags and paper towels. Benzene is present in inks, and TCE is in paints, lacquers and varnishes.

Everything in homes contains pollutants. Whatever you have in your home, you ought to have plants there because they will clean the environment.

The number of plants needed to effectively cleanse the air varies, but it is recommended to use 15-18 medium-size plants for an 800-square-foot home. Less would be needed if plants are large. Popular plants that are effective at cleaning the air include chrysanthemums, African daisies, azaleas, poinsettias, English ivy, spider or airplane plants, snake plants and corn plants.

Some potential home gardeners are intimidated by keeping so many plants alive and healthy but four simple steps can be taken to maintain indoor plants.

Over watering is the most common problem. Wait until the soil is dry and stick your finger down into the pot at a one to one-and-a-half inch depth to check for dryness. Plants with brown leaves might have drowned roots.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ARE YOU ALSO WAITING FOR "THE RIGHT TIME?"

Felix, who knew Christians didn't go around starting riots, told the Jews to wait for the arrival of Lysias, the garrison commander, and then he would decide the case. He ordered Paul to prison but instructed the guards to treat him gently and not to forbid any of his friends from visiting him or bringing him gifts to make his stay more comfortable.

A few days later Felix came with Drusilla, his legal wife, a Jewess. Sending for Paul, they listened as he told them about faith in Christ Jesus. And as he reasoned with them about righteousness and self-control and the judgement to come, Felix was terrified. "Go away for now," he replied, "and when I have a more convenient time, I'll call for you again." He also hoped that Paul would bribe him, so he sent for him from time to time and talked with him.

Two years went by in this way; then Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus. And because Felix wanted to gain favor with the Jews, he left Paul in chains.

Three days after Festus arrived in Caesarea to take over his new responsibilities, he left for Jerusalem, where the chief priests and other Jewish leaders got hold of him and gave him their story about Paul. They begged him to bring Paul to Jerusalem at once. (Their plan was to waylay and kill him.) But Festus replied that since Paul was at Caesarea and he himself was returning there soon, those with authority in this affair should return with him for the trial.

U.S. trade deficit said to be worst since '88

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A surge of automobiles and other imports in September widened the monthly U.S. merchandise trade deficit to $10.9 billion, the government said today.

Also, a rare deficit with Mexico and the largest imbalance with Japan in five months contributed to the 8.3 percent increase in the trade gap from the month before, the Commerce Department said.

A 3.4 percent increase in imports, to a record $49.8 billion, overwhelmed a 2.1 percent rise in exports to $38.9 billion.

For the first nine months of the year, the trade gap is running at an annual rate of $117.3 billion, far higher than last year's $84.5 billion. That puts the United States on track for the worst trade performance since 1988.

Trade was one of the few areas of strength in the American economy during the 1990-91 recession, but it has turned into an economic drag this year. Slumps in Europe and Japan have cut into U.S. export sales while the modest improvement in the U.S. economy has increased Americans' appetite for foreign goods.

In September, the gain in imports reflected increases of $216 million in autos and parts, $192 million in crude oil, $174 million in jewelry, $114 million in food, $95 million in other petroleum products, $94 million in iron and steel, $90 million in computer accessories and $72 million in civilian aircraft.

Exports were bolstered by gains of $476 million in gold; $378 million in food, especially fish and corn, and $124 million in telecommunications equipment. However, exports slumped $376 million for civilian aircraft.

Today's report shows that even as Clinton administration officials were gearing up their come-from-behind campaign for the North American Free Trade Agreement, the United States was recording a $101 million deficit with Mexico, the first since March 1991 and the worst since December 1990.

That whittled the year-to-date U.S. surplus with Mexico to $1.75 billion, compared with $4.4 billion for the same period a year ago.

The deficit with Canada nearly doubled to $1.1 billion, bringing the year-to-date gap to $7.7 billion, up from $5 billion for the first nine months of 1992.

The trade deficit with Western Europe was $395 million in September and $315 million so far this year. Last year at this time, the United States had a $7.2 billion surplus with Europe.

In September, the deficit with Japan was $5.3 billion, the worst since April. Year to date it is $42.2 billion, larger than any other country and up from $34.9 billion for the comparable period last year.

The second-worst deficit was with China. It was $2.5 billion in September and $16.7 billion for the year so far, up from $13.5 billion a year ago.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill launched his "V for Victory" campaign in Europe in 1941.

More than 50 tons of meteoroids enter the Earth's atmosphere every day but most of them burn up before they reach the ground.

The platypus is found only in Australia. It has a duck's bill, webbed feet and a beaver's tail. It lays eggs like a turtle yet has hair like a bear and nurtures its young on mother's milk.

Hebrew and Yiddish are entirely separate languages and do not have the same roots.

VIRTUOUS WOMAN

THROUGHOUT THE AGES A VIRTUOUS WOMAN HAD BEEN REVERED AND ESTEEMED BY ALL NATIONS AND THE BIBLICAL PEOPLE TENDED TO PUT HER IN A POSITION OF HIGH HONOR. ALL ONE HAS TO DO IS TURN TO THE BOOK OF PROVERBS TO FIND THE POETIC DISSERTATION ON THE QUALITIES OF A VIRTUOUS WOMAN. "OPEN THY MOUTH, JUDGE RIGHTEOUSLY..." SAYS THE BOOK OF PROVERBS, "WHO CAN FIND A VIRTUOUS WOMAN? FOR HER PRICE IS FAR ABOVE RUBIES." ACCORDING TO THE SAME CHAPTER OF PROVERBS, "THE HEART OF HER HUSBAND DOTH SAFELY TRUST IN HER..." AND ACCORDING TO THIS VENERABLE BOOK, "SHE WILL DO HIM GOOD AND NOT EVIL ALL THE DAYS OF HER LIFE." THE BIBLE'S PORTRAYAL OF ITS VIRTUOUS WOMAN GOES ON, "SHE STRETCHETH OUT HER HAND TO THE POOR; YEA, SHE REACHETH FORTH HER HANDS TO THE NEEDY. SHE OPENETH HER MOUTH WITH WISDOM; AND IN HER TONGUE IS THE LAW OF KINDNESS." THIS IS BUT A SMALL SEGMENT OF CHAPTER THIRTY ONE OF THE BOOK OF PROVERBS BUT ONE CAN SEE THAT THE BIBLICAL OPINION IS A STRONG ONE IN PRAISE OF A MORALLY CORRECT AND UPRIGHT WOMAN, AND TO GIVE THE BOOK OF PROVERBS THE LAST SAY, "GIVE HER THE FRUIT OF HER HANDS, AND LET HER OWN WORKS PRAISE HER IN THE GATES!"
