Three men charged after cocaine bust

Three Aransas County men were up on charges this week after a cocaine "buy" in Rockport on Dec. 2 proved to be an undercover operation.

Charles Harley Walters, 32, was under $50,000 bond and Andrew Leon Deason II, 17, and Deamas Troy Casterline, 18, under bond of $30,000 each after the three were charged with delivery of cocaine.

Arrests were made following a "buy" of two ounces of cocaine at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday on Littron Street, according to an agent with the Aransas County Sheriff's Office. The buy climaxed two weeks of work by the agent and, an officer with the Corpus Christi Department of Public Safety office, a Drug Enforcement Administration officer and two officers from the Corpus Christi police department.

Asked the value of the cocaine, the Aransas County agent said he didn't know the actual street value but the agreed-on price for Wednesday's buy was $5,000.

Walters and Deason were at the scene of the buy, according to the report. An undercover agent made the buy then other officers moved in. At that point, Walters and Deason fled, Walters in a car and Deason on foot.

Walters was arrested at noon following a short chase, and Deason turned himself in to Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes at the county jail at 6 p.m. Wednesday night.

Casterline was arrested at his residence the following day, again by Sheriff Hewes.

The agent added that investigation is continuing on the case.

Casterline and Walters were reported released on bond as of Monday afternoon. The case is expected to go before the next grand jury session which begins Jan. 12.

Goose Island tax rate may be set next week

By Pat Blair

LAMAR — After months of delay, the 1981 tax rates for Goose Island Lake Estates property owners may be set at next Monday's, Dec. 14, meeting of the utility district board that serves the subdivision.

The Aransas County Municipal District No. 1 will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the district's office in Lamar and Board of Directors Secretary Steve Shenk said the tax rate will be on the agenda.

"There will be some discussion on it and it may actually be set," he said.

Although he said the board does not know what tax rate will actually be adopted, at last month's meeting, board members expressed concern that taxes may be assessed at $8 per $100 valuation in the district unless "something" is done to bring additional money into the district.

At that meeting, Board President Skip Hughes said, "If we don't get some outside help, we will have to set a tax rate of approximately $8.06 per $100 valuation."

Herman Little, attorney for the district which provides water and sanitary sewer service to Goose Island Lake Estates, said the district needs to raise some $337,700 in tax revenues to finance its operations.

Little said an $8.06 tax rate would generate those revenues based on a 90 percent collection rate — but warned that in past years, the district has not enjoyed 90 percent tax collections.

"If you based the tax rate on past collections, it could be higher," Little said at that meeting.

Cryogenics plant opens

By Becky Werhan

Cryogenics, the process of obtaining liquefied petroleum gases from natural gas, is a growing industry on the Gulf Coast and has now come to Aransas County.

Tejas Gas Corp has recently begun work on what is being referred to as the Copano Bay Plant, a cryogenics operation with a plant capacity of 25 million cubic feet per day.

The plant is located immediately north of the existing Tenneco site on Copano Bay and plant holdings total approximately 5.12 acres.

Director of engineering for the new plant is Ray Robinson, who explained the cryogenics process as "pretty sophisticated." Natural gas is chilled to approximately -170 degrees to obtain the liquefied petroleum gases (lpgs) present in all natural gas. "The two products being collected at the Copano Bay Plant are an ethane-propane mix and a combination of butane and heavier hydrocarbon," said Robinson.

"The ethane-propane mix will be purchased by the Seadrift Carbide ethylene plant," he said.

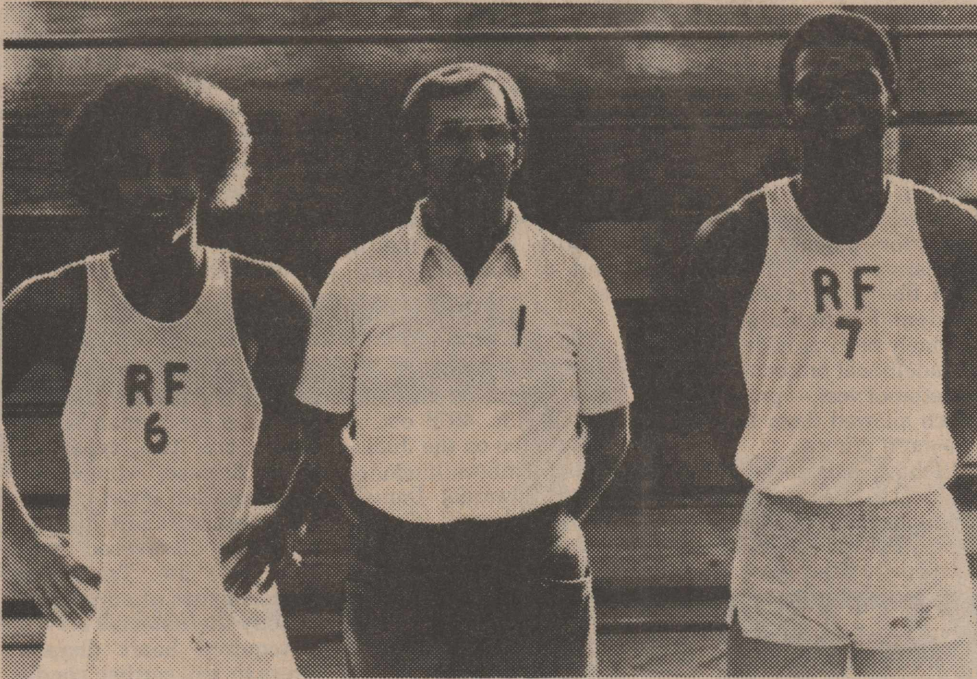

Robinson said that negotiations are still in progress on a buyer for the butane heavier hydrocarbon combination. The mixture is commonly used for home heating and gasoline blending.

The plant will be working on a portion of the natural gas coming into the area from the offshore industry, said Robinson. According to county surveyor Jerry Brundrett, pipelines from several offshore operations transport gas across the property owned by the Copano Bay Plant.

Robinson explained that the Copano Bay Plant is now in the testing phase. "Production should begin by mid-December, I hope," he said.

"It's very natural to have a plant of this type here," said Robinson. "There are lots of little processing plants all up and down the coast."

The engineer described the Copano Bay operation as a "medium size" plant.

Ayers wins first in Voice of Democracy contest

Chuck Ayers, a junior at Rockport-Fulton High School, was named first place winner in the recent VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship program.

Chuck, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Y. Ayers of Fulton, will receive a scholarship of $600 from the VFW and will be eligible to participate in the district competition held this week.

He was among five students from RFHS participating in the contest. The theme the five students were required to write and tape essays on was "Building America Together."

The second place winner in the contest was Alayna Beth Newberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Newberry of Rockport. As second place winner, she will receive a scholarship of $225.

Cynthia Maka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Maka of Rockport was named third place winner and will receive a scholarship of $125.

Other students participating in the contest were Ruby Pena and Mike Arthur. James Hunt is the local chairman of the VFW for the local level of the Voice of Democracy contest.

BUILDING AMERICA TOGETHER

By Chuck Ayers

Woodrow Wilson once noted in his speech in Pittsburgh in 1916, "America is not anything if it consists of each of us. It is something only if it consists of all of us; and it can consist of all of us only as our spirits are banded together in common enterprise. That common enterprise is the enterprise of liberty and justice and right."

Jury no bills Holman

Neither of the two Navigation District matters brought before the Aransas County Grand Jury were true billed in the jury report delivered Friday, Dec. 4.

The case of "official misconduct" against Navigation Commissioner Kirk Holman was no billed. A no bill is presented when the grand jury feels there is a lack of sufficient evidence to make a decision.

In the matter of a possible grand jury investigation of the Navigation District, requested last week by Holman, no decision was reported. According to grand jury foreman Dan Shelton, such an investigation is unlikely.

"I doubt very seriously if that will come before our jury," said Shelton. "If anyone does anything about it, it will probably be the district attorney's office."

Shelton said that Holman's request for an investigation of the navigation district came "too late" for any action during this session of the jury. Holman appeared before the jury with his request on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 1.

"If Mr. Holman's visit to the grand jury is acted on, it will probably be acted on in the future...if action is to be taken, it would be taken at a later date," said Shelton.

"Anyone can come in and talk to the grand jury," said the foreman. "For the jury to actually act on something it usually has to be worked up in a case, coming from the county attorney or district attorney."

The indictments delivered by the grand jury are included in a story inside today's Pilot.

After all, why should an American buy a foreign-made car and help another country, when he can buy an American-made car and help his own country? When a person buys an American product, he is spending money on himself. This is what most people in America like and want.

Another key to a closer nation is national spirit. National spirit can determine the growth and prosperity of a country. The more spirit a nation has the more pride it has and vice versa. The nation with the most pride is usually the nation that is closer together than any other nation.

Growth and prosperity are also other keys to a closer nation. For example, a

Condominiums to be built at City-by-Sea

CITY-BY-THE-SEA — Plans for a 12-unit condominium project on the canal at City-by-the-Sea are being drawn up now, according to Frank Gordon, developer of the proposed Port Royal Resort Condominiums.

Gordon said he is working with architects from the firm of Total Design IV in Corpus Christi on a design and layout "that will be totally compatible with City-by-the-Sea."

The new condominiums will be on Port Royal Blvd., on the canal, and will include more than 216 feet of bulkheaded docking space complete with lighted fishing stations. A large cabana extending over the water will be provided for social/recreational activities.

"We've been planning the project for over a year," says Gordon who is president of the Port Royal Development Corporation of San Marcos. "We found a site that fits our plans about four months ago."

Gordon said the units are being designed "keeping in mind the privacy aspect — to allow as much privacy as possible for each condominium owner."

Two two-story units are developed "with extensive decks within each unit and in the common area," he continued, adding that each unit will have both an upper level deck and one on the lower level.

Units will be offered in two sizes, with eight being two-bedroom dwellings approximately 1,200 square feet in size, and four being three-bedroom with approximately 1,400 square feet of floor space.

All appliances will be General Electric, Gordon said and the units will have microwave. Another feature of all units will be ceiling fans in all bedrooms and living rooms, fireplaces and vaulted ceilings in the living rooms and master bedrooms.

"The units will be professionally decorated by our interior designers in soft sea tones," Gordon added. "And all units will be energy-efficient in insulation and air conditioning."

The condominium project also will have its own self-contained sewage treatment system, Gordon said, "that is ecologically designed with far more stringent standards than current septic tanks in use in this area."

The development will come with a pool and Jacuzzi and a recreational area for volleyball, horse-shoes and other lawn sports. Units will have all masonry exteriors and concrete tile roofs and the landscaping will be "lush and tropical," Gordon said.

Docking facilities will be provided as well as private covered parking.

Marketing of this exclusive resort community is being handled by Ron Hoover & Associates, Gordon added.

Gordon describes himself as a "semi-resident" of this area. He said he has developed multi-family residential properties in San Marcos and plans additional resort property development in this area.

State Of The Region Sobering thoughts

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

Four months spent on research in eight European countries has sent Allen Ketcham, a management consultant, back to the Coastal Bend with a number of sobering thoughts.

Ketcham was studying the history books of four NATO nations and four Warsaw Pact nations, along with those in the United States, used to teach tenth graders about World War II. He will compare fact and propaganda. He is finding in most of the texts omissions and discrepancies, though few outright untruths.

He came back with great concern for the effectiveness of communist propaganda generally in the countries such as West Germany. There he found common misconceptions about weapons which the United States does not yet have there, and a lack of understanding of motives and intentions.

The neutron bomb was the one he found to be the most widely discussed as a weapon to kill people and save buildings. There was little realization that the weapon penetrates the armor of tanks, which are nearby in large numbers, and is designed to stop tanks.

In East Germany, he was constantly aware of the large number of modern tanks, displaying the latest technology, while the farmers he saw had hoes in their hands. The most modern piece of farm equipment he saw was a plow pulled by a horse.

Getting on the wrong train led up to a remarkable experience. Ketcham got off in a station he thought was in West Berlin and found himself in East Berlin, without visa or ticket. Here were no tourists, only residents. Guards and attack dogs were numerous. White lines marked forbidden zones near trains and no one could step over them. The passengers were tense. Trains were searched, even crawls over the ceilings.

Unnoticed, he got on the first train to West Berlin. Tracks and borders were heavily fortified, electrified wires over walls, automatic machine guns which shot any animal or person which moved in forbidden areas, guards, dogs, metal spikes in the ground that anyone would fall on who vaulted a wall. Streets zigzagged so that vehicles could not get up enough speed to breach a wall. His feeling was that he was on a prison train.

Fortunately, the trip across the border was so short that no conductor had reached him by the time he was able to get off in West Berlin. The neighborhoods he had seen in East Berlin were run down, the houses deteriorating, contrasting sharply with the neatness and prosperity of West Berlin. To find out how the view that tourist were allowed to see would contrast, Ketcham went back into East Berlin on a tour bus, this time his papers in order. Tourists were shown only areas prepared for their review. They were taken to a restaurant where no local residents were allowed, served western food, and even entertained with disco music, which is not allowed in East Germany.

Ketcham said that with an exception it is difficult for the East Berliners to get visas to go to the west. The exception is that anyone over 65 can leave at will to reduce the number of aged who must be cared for.

In East Germany, there is only one Communist party, the party of Soviet Russia. But Ketcham found two Communist parties in West Berlin, one oriented to Russia, the other to China. The propaganda follows the party line of each country. It is these party organizations that he says are the nucleus of today's demonstrations and the disseminators of effective propaganda.

Ketcham, who can be reached at 853-2951, is willing to talk to service clubs or other groups interested in the subject. He feels it important for those of us in this country to be aware of the influence of propaganda today in western Europe.

Getting the gold

Kenneth and Dorothy Dumas collect the Gold Stamps donated to the area's Toys for Kids campaign. "Mailboxes" are set up in H.E.B. and at the Circle K in Fulton for the stamps which are redeemed for toys in the annual Lions' Club-sponsored campaign that assures Christmas toys for children whose families would not otherwise be able to afford them. With distribution date for the toys only 10 days away, the Toys for Kids organization still needs stamps, cash or new toys to provide for an anticipated 300 Aransas County youngsters under the age of 12. A collection box for new toys has been set up at the Rockport Pilot Representative Mario Biaggi (N.Y.) "... Today I am introducing legislation which is aimed at keeping bulletproof vests off of criminals in the United States. Under my bill (H.R. 4978) a bulletproof vest would be redefined as a

"Low Down" Congressional Record Criminals shouldn't have bulletproof vests firearm. This would mean that those who sell bulletproof vests must obtain proper licenses.

"Current Federal law now restricts importing, manufacturing, interstate commerce, or dealing in firearms or ammunition by other than those who have properly obtained licenses. By redefining bulletproof vests as a firearm brings them under these same provisions.

"Further, my bill would make unlawful the sale of bulletproof vests to or their purchase by a person under indictment or a fugitive from justice.

"As a police officer for 23 years in the city of New York I feel very strongly about the need for passage of this legislation.

"I find it appalling that hardened criminals have routinely been provided with the additional protection of a bulletproof vest — protection which allowed them to commit more crimes.

"I have introduced a bill identical to one sponsored by my colleague Mr. Moynihan (N.Y.). Both of our bills were developed after close consultation with Mr. Phillip Caruso — president of the New York City Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

"This problem has a long history but one recent case illustrated the need for this legislation. On Oct. 20, one armored car guard and two police officers were killed in what has been called the Brink's robbery. It was disclosed that one of the holdup gang was wearing a bulletproof vest which allowed the assailant additional time to inflict a fatal wound on one of the officers and later he was found to have a spent bullet from the dead policeman's gun in his pocket ...

"I urge all my colleagues who are concerned about law and order to join me in support of this vital legislation ..."

Pet talks by Dr. Hap Lutz

Pets subject to heart disease

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the college of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

The heart is a fascinating and complete pump that is divided into four chambers. By force of its rhythmic contraction, it maintains the blood coursing through the body.

Your pet's heart, although by no means fragile, is subject to disease just as is the human heart. There are two types of heart disease, congenital and acquired.

Congenital heart disease is usually discovered early in a pet's life. Treatment often consists of surgery to remedy the defect.

Acquired heart disease refers to any cardiac condition that develops after birth. The major categories of acquired heart disease are chronic valvular disease, myocardial disease, heartworms and tumors. Approximately 75 percent of dogs and 50 percent of cats with congestive heart failure suffer from heart disease (the malfunction of one of the heart's valves).

Myocardial diseases are those diseases which attack the actual muscle tissue of the heart. The initial signs may be acute or may develop slowly. Abnormal sounds (murmurs), abnormal rhythm (arrhythmia), cardiac chamber enlargement and congestive heart failure are among the signs that indicate myocardial disease.

Symptoms the dog owner can detect: Certain signs warrant a veterinarian examining your pet. These signs include: weakness and fatigue, coughing, respiratory distress, panting, labored breathing, wheezing (that sounds like asthma), weight loss, edema (a swelling of the abdomen).

Although acquired heart disease cannot be completely eradicated in your pet, there are many excellent avenues of therapy that keep the dog as well as possible — often for many years. There are several drugs such as diuretics, digitalis therapy, bronchodilators, antiarrhythmics, sedatives, rest and a salt-restricted diet.

Brown to serve on task force

LAKE JACKSON — State Senator J.E. "Buster" Brown (R-Lake Jackson) has been appointed by Governor William P. Clements, Jr. to serve as a member of his Task Force on Work Related Accidents.

According to statistical information released by the Occupational Safety Division of the Texas Department of Health, Texas is a leader in work related accidents and deaths in the nation.

"The first duty of this task force should be to fully examine the way in which the statistical data was compiled involving Texas and work related accidents," said Brown. "Statistics can be misleading and can often color a situation in the wrong light. We should be certain, beyond a doubt, that these accident statistics are a true reflection of the situation."

The task force consisting of 15 members is charged with the following responsibilities: (1) coordinate and work closely with the Occupational Safety Board; (2) provide specific recommendations to the Governor, Legislature and others that will educate the general public concerning the need for and benefits of work safety programs; (3) develop specific goals and objectives that government and industry could use in their efforts to reduce instances of death and disability in the work place; (4) recommend legislation and executive action to foster the development and maintenance of effective safety measures in industry and enterprise; (5) encourage private sector participation in work safety programs and (6) perform other duties as may be requested by the Governor.

Brown, whose senatorial district and the Texas Gulf Coast include areas which have a large concentration of industry, stated that no one is more interested in the safety of the worker than the industry that employs them. "To automatically assume that industry is not doing the proper job to prevent accidents and to assume that this task force should be a springboard for legislation is placing the horse before the cart," said Brown. "I have written a letter to the chairman of the task force as well as the Governor asking what steps have been taken to thoroughly check the statistics authentically and reliability."

In addition to Brown other task force members include: Dr. Richard W. McBurney, Dallas, chairman; Senator Carl Parker, vice-chairman; Blake Bailey, Tyler; Dean Blackwell, Amarillo; B. Gawan Bonner, Houston; Gerald W. Dorsey, Houston; Roy Evans, Dallas; H.S. Harris Jr. Austin; William Headrick, Houston; Rep. Gerald Hill; John U. Parker, New Braunfels; Lias B. "Bubba" Steen, Texas Department of Labor and Standards; and James T. Wilson, Lone Star.

Machine smocking adds traditional touch

COLLEGE STATION — Love the traditional yet fashionable look of English smocking? Hand-smocking looks difficult and time-consuming, but with the touch of your machine, you can produce a similar smocked look that is just as attractive, says Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist with Texas A&M University.

Machine-smocking is not elastic like hand smocking, but it is very similar in appearance and takes less time. Only four quick steps are required, she says.

1) Press dots from smocking pattern to make stitching lines on wrong side of fabric.
 2) Set machine stitch-length control for long stitches and sew horizontally across the fabric one row at a time.

3) Pull threads to the wrong side of fabric and tie two square knots at one end only.

4) Pull threads at the other end forming gathers to the measurement given on the pattern. Then tie a knot in the threads and trim loose ends.

Before attempting to machine-smock a home-sewn garment, take time to choose suitable materials, the specialist advises.

Fabrics should be made of smooth, evenly woven, natural fibers, such as cotton, silk, linen or wool, she recommends. Other good choices include rayon, challis, cotton/polyester blends and high-quality polyesters, Vanderpoorten suggests. Select light-weight fabrics since they are easier to smock than stiff, heavy ones, she explains.

In addition, choose light-colored fabrics so stitches in the smocking will be more visible. If you want a printed fabric, be sure to use small prints instead of large ones since large designs are distorted by smocking.

When buying thread for smocking, take along a swatch of material to match colors. For prints, choose one or two colors of thread or the dominant color for a subtle effect, Vanderpoorten suggests. For solids, choose two to five colors, with one the color of the fabric. The others should be lighter and darker to contrast with the solid color of the fabric.

Vanderpoorten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Drum, trout to be discussed at hearing

AUSTIN — Senator Carlos F. Truan, a member of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, invites all interested persons to participate in a public hearing scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 10 in Corpus Christi. The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. in Room 221 of the Bayfront Plaza Auditorium, 1901 Shoreline Drive.

The topics to be considered by the Senate Natural Resources Committee, will include red drum and spotted sea trout populations, offshore annexation by coastal home-rule cities and Mexican territorial extension of its national offshore boundary.

Testimony on red drum and spotted sea trout will focus on a comparison of state and federal data on the population decline of the species along the Texas coast. The onshore impact of offshore annexation by coastal home rule cities will be considered.

Truan also said that "the information we gather ultimately will be used in constructing possible future legislation to benefit the people of Texas."

Hunt safety vital this time of year

AUSTIN — Hunter safety officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department urge the state's hunters to be aware of safety rules when they take to the field for the opening of major hunting seasons this weekend.

Officials recorded 13 fatalities among the 69 hunting accidents reported during 1980, and they believe the next few weeks of 1981 will be vital to improving that record this year. "most accidents and fatalities occur from mid-November through December, since deer and turkey seasons bring the greatest number of hunters out," said J.D. Peer, assistant hunter safety coordinator.

Peer said several basic rules can go a long way toward making any hunting trip safer:

Always carry your firearm in a manner which allows control of the direction of its muzzle, whether the gun is loaded or not. Even guns in cases should receive this kind of respect.

Be careful when arriving at the hunting site. Many hunters subconsciously relax their regard for safety during the excitement of moving afield.

Be on guard around hunting dogs, as they can jump up and hit the trigger or safety of a gun, unbeknownst to the hunter.

Walking with a firearm across your arm is comfortable, but it restricts movement of the muzzle and can be dangerous to someone moving to your side.

The only "safe" way to cross a fence or climb a tree is to unload the gun and keep it pointed in a safe direction. To cross a fence, place the unloaded gun on the ground or hand it to your hunting partner before crossing.

When the hunt is over, always unload your firearm and stow it in a case in a secure location in a vehicle, preferably in the trunk.

For more information about firearms safety and hunters safety training, write Hunter Safety, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX. 78744, or call (512) 479-4999.

R-F Pirates capture Taft tournament

Coach Bobby Flanagan's crew had to pull out all of the stops to win the annual Kiwanas Tournament in Taft with an overtime victory over Goliad in the finals, 55-53. The Pirates had made their way past Beeville and Refugio to reach the finals against Goliad. Early in the contest, the Pirates looked as if they had reached the finals against the wrong team as the Goliad team took as much as a six point lead in that opening period before the Pirates cut the lead to 17-13 at the buzzer.

James Walls, the Most Valuable Player in the tournament, kept the Pirates in the game with eight points in the period, but one other factor which must be mentioned was the rebounding of Micheal Simmons who picked off 20 rebounds for the game, and six of those in the opening quarter.

Dennis Hull tied the game at 21-21 following a Simmons offensive rebound basket. Perhaps a hint of things to come, the game was knotted at 23 as the buzzer sounded for half-time.

The Pirates began to dominate in the third period behind Simmon's rebounding and shooting. With both of the big men for the Pirates, Rory Morgan and John Shaw, in foul trouble, Aaron Commander came off of the bench to play some good defense and pass well on offense. Rockport began to pull away following a 22-foot cannon by Tim Redden to make the score 34-27 for the Pirates. As the time ran out in the quarter, the Pirates held that seven point lead 38-31.

Things kept getting better for the Pirates as they kept widening the gap, even to as many as 11 points, but Goliad would not let the game out of their reach. Some outstanding shooting by Sean Brooks from Goliad netted 12 fourth quarter points, and with only seconds remaining in the game after the Pirates had taken the lead, Brooks calmly shot a 20-footer through the nets to tie the game at the end of regulation play. The Pirates had blown the lead. Rockport fell behind in the opening seconds of the overtime period, but Simmons hit a jumper to tie the game at 51-all. James Walls was fouled and he promptly stepped to the line and hit a pair of free throws, giving the Pirates the edge.

Goliad came back, but Hull pulled down a key rebound and made a steal to keep the ball for the Pirates. With just 37 seconds remaining, the Pirates got a four point lead on a 10-foot jumper by Rory "Stickman" Morgan. Goliad scored again, but Simmons stopped all hopes of another tie with a rebound in the final seconds.

Along with Walls, Simmons joined the All Tournament Team, as did John Felkner of Taft, Noal Shaw of Refugio, Brooks and Randy Edwards of Goliad.

In the opening game against Beeville, the Pirates jumped on the Trojans early and established a fair-sized lead, and then pulled away to cruise to a 77-54 win.

The Pirates' quickness struck early as Simmons hit two quick baskets and Dennis Hull tipped in a basket to help the Pirates gain an 8-2 lead. Hull and James Walls made a pair of steals and converted them to stake the Pirates to a 17-5 lead after a quarter.

The Trojans fought throughout the second period and cut the lead to 31-25 by the half as the Pirates appeared to run out of gas.

When the third quarter got underway, Rory Morgan, Simmons and Tim Redden hit buckets to the Pirates out to another comfortable lead of 36-27. Then the Pirates began running and gunning, and they pulled steadily away throughout the remainder of the game. Although Morgan only scored six points, he did it when it counted in the third.

The fourth period was the big period for the Pirates as they poured 27 points through the nets, spearheaded by Walls with 12 points in the final eight minutes.

On Saturday afternoon the Pirates took on the Refugio Bobcats in Round 2 of the Tournament. The Bobcats had the quickest team in the tournament, but after the first period, the Pirates adjusted and played extremely tough defense to win a runaway, 59-42.

The Bobcats got the edge in the first period when Eugene Whitmire and Noal Shaw provided the fireworks for the Bobcats, letting the Cats take a 15-10 lead into the second period.

Rockport came back with determination in the second period behind the shooting of Micheal Simmons, who picked up nine in that period. By halftime, the Pirates had taken over the lead 28-21.

Rory Morgan had his finest game ever, and his best play came in the third period when the Pirates nailed the door shut on the Cats.

Hull, Simmons, Morgan and Walls all hit for at least four points in the last period to help the Pirates run away from the Cats. In that contest, Simmons controlled the boards with 13 rebounds, and Hull pulled down eleven rebounds.

Freshmen take second at Flour Bluff

Leading by seven points going into the fourth period in the championship game, the Pirate Freshmen ran into some bad luck, some bad calls, and some hot shooting as Flour Bluff came back to win their own tournament by a 50-49 score over Rockport.

The Pirates had beaten West Oso and Gregory-Portland to reach the finals, but they played well enough to win if things had not taken a turn for the worse against the home Hornets.

Louis Solis, an All Tournament selection, paced the Pirates with 15 points in the final game, and Tim Arthur added 11 points before he was asked to sit out the rest of the game by an official.

The Pirates had led throughout the contest before the Hornets and the Zebras got hold of them. Flour Bluff overtook the Pirates and won the championship.

Before the finals, the Pirates coasted to a 61-48 win over the Bears of West Oso. Trinelle Walls busted the nets for eight first quarter points to pace the Pirates. Both teams played even for the next eight minutes.

In the third period the Pirates opened up a lead as good defense slowed the Bears down and held them to only seven points. The Pirates, meanwhile, were scoring 20 points in that third period, paced by Timothy Arthur's nine in the period. In the fourth period, Arthur got six more to help insure the Pirates' victory. Bill Mott added 12 points to the 12 by Walls, and the 18 by Arthur.

Against Gregory-Portland in the second game, the Pirates got ahead, lost the lead, but then pulled away at the last moment. Louis Solis and Tim Arthur each led the scoring with 11 points each.

Kingsville waltzes past lady Pirates

Rockport-Fulton's Lady Pirates are still looking for their first win of the season after they made the long trip to Kingsville and came away a 51-25 loser.

Kingsville started slowly, leading the Lady Pirates only 9-4 after a period. Steadily as the game progressed, they expanded the lead to the eventual final margin of 26 points. The Lady Pirates could have been in control of the game in the first half if they had not missed from the charity line on 10 occasions.

Lee Anna Cassel was the leading scorer for the Lady Pirates with 10 points for the game.

In Junior Varsity action, the Lady Pirate JV just couldn't score in large enough quantities to win either of their contests in the Rockport-Fulton JV Tournament held in Rockport over the weekend.

Totalling only 39 points in two games, the Lady Pirates got behind and then didn't have enough firepower to come back. In the opener, Missy Krogsgaard and Jodi Welsch each had five points to lead the scoring.

Veterans to receive increase in compensation

Approximately 2.3 million veterans, along with 240,000 surviving spouses and about 83,000 children of deceased veterans will receive larger Veterans Administration compensation amounts beginning in November.

The increase and other improvements in veterans benefits are the result of a law signed by President Reagan Oct. 17.

It provides for an average 11.2 percent increase in VA compensation rates for service disabled veterans, and dependents and indemnity compensation rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans.

VA officials said the increased amounts will not be reflected in the regular November checks, but will be provided by means of supplemental checks to be issued shortly after the first of the month. The full amount of the increase will be included in the single monthly check, beginning in December.

The rate boost means an increase from $54 to $58 per month for a veteran with a disability rated at 10 percent. A veteran with a 50 percent disability will receive $328 a month, up from $291, and a veteran with a 100 percent disability will receive $1,130 a month, up from the current $1,016.

The legislation also increases the annual allowance made to certain veterans whose artificial limbs cause wear on their clothing. It goes from $274 to $305.

VA's assistance allowance toward the purchase of a specially adapted automobile or other eligible vehicle by certain handicapped veterans was increased by the new legislation to $4,400 from $3,800. VA may now make these payments to certain veterans suffering from service connected ankylosis of one or both knees when specially adapted vehicles are deemed by VA to be necessary in meeting state drivers license requirements.

In another area, the legislation increases to $35,000 the maximum amount of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Veterans' Group Life Insurance that may be purchased by eligible veterans.

The legislation also permits VA to guarantee, for the first time, graduated-payment home mortgage loans, and it increases to $32,500 the assistance the agency may provide to certain disabled veterans for adapting their residences to, for example, the requirements of wheelchair-bound individuals.

VA may furnish a headstone or marker to commemorate veterans whose remains have not been recovered or identified, were buried at sea, were donated to science, or were cremated and the ashes scattered without burial of any portion.

VA officials emphasized that full details of all changes in the compensation regulations and eligibility requirements are available by contacting the nearest VA regional office.

Toy should fit child interest and ability

COLLEGE STATION — Buying children's toys for the upcoming holiday season is fun and important — but it may not be as easy as you might think, cautions Cindy Wilson.

"As a guide in shopping, ask yourself if the toy is appropriate, safe and worth the cost," she says.

Wilson is a family life education specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Know the child, what he's able to do and what he likes to do," Wilson says. "This is the start to wise toy selection."

Choose toys that suit the child's size, age and development level, she continues.

"A toy must fit the child's interests and abilities — not your own — to be a good buy," she says.

Toys are poor buys if they are inappropriate and don't interest the child, she adds.

"In other cases, many toys are poor buys for other reasons. Poorly made toys and dangerous toys are not good buys at any cost," Wilson warns.

"Examine each toy carefully for safety before you buy. Avoid broken or damaged toys."

"Know what toys the child already owns and try to know what other relatives plan to give to avoid duplications."

For more specifics on selecting toys, contact the County Extension Office and request a copy of the leaflet, "Play and Play Materials" (L-924), free upon request.

Panel to air offshore disputes

AUSTIN — The dispute between Texas' coastal cities and the oil and gas companies over the cities' power to annex and tax offshore oil and gas wells will be one of the major topics discussed at a hearing of the Senate Natural Resources Committee slated for December 10 in Corpus Christi, State Sen. H. Tati Santiesteban announced today.

Santiesteban, chairman of the State Senate panel, said the committee will also hear testimony about the controversy generated by the Legislature's decision earlier this year to ban commercial fishing for red fish and speckled trout and will begin an inquiry into the impact upon Texas of Mexico's policy of barring fishing by non-Mexican fishermen in a zone extending 200 miles out from its coastline.

The hearing is the second in a series planned by the Natural Resources Committee during the interim period between legislative sessions and follows a meeting in Bayfront Plaza Civic Center, 1901 Shoreline Drive, in Corpus Christi beginning at 10 a.m. on Thursday, Dec. 10th, Santiesteban reported.

He explained that the committee hopes to determine if offshore oil and gas wells have a fiscal impact on coastal cities, as the cities claim, and, if so, what steps the state government can take to lessen the effects.

"The cities have been annexing offshore oil and gas wells and taxing them to offset what they claim are increased costs to city governments caused by the wells located offshore from their boundaries," Santiesteban explained. "The oil companies have objected because they believe it is unfair to single them out for taxes, especially since they claim that only a small percentage of the oil and gas wells located off the Texas coast are in the three leagues zones where the state and cities have authority over them. The oil companies argue that most of the wells are located in the 'outer continental shelf' area outside our jurisdiction where they are regulated by the federal government and where the city and state are forbidden to tax them by federal law."

"According to the oil companies," Santiesteban said, "this means that the cities are placing an unfair tax burden on a minority of the wells responsible for any fiscal impact on them."

"Although the greatest impact of any decision we might make in this area will fall on the cities and the oil companies," Santiesteban said, "the state government also has a real stake in this dispute because a great deal of the money we use to finance the public schools in Texas comes from the revenues we receive from oil and gas wells located within the three league zone. If the oil companies are discouraged from drilling in that area because the cities will tax them if they do, it could have a substantial impact on the state's ability to support the public schools."

During the last session of the Legislature Santiesteban explained that a bill was introduced which would have forbidden the cities to annex offshore wells and voided existing annexations. "Needless to say," he said, "the cities objected to this idea and the Legislature decided not to take any final action until my Committee completes its study of the situation."

"At our first hearing in Galveston we were able to get both sides talking about their differences," he said. "Now we want to look at realistic solutions to the problem and for ways to compensate the cities for any extra expenditures caused by offshore oil and gas wells without, at the same time, unduly burdening the oil and gas industry with taxes or hurting the public schools."

Beware of flight insurance

COLLEGE STATION — Traveling by air for the holidays? Beware of flight insurance, advises Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Even though some people may feel flight insurance is a wise idea because of the air-traffic controllers' strike, that's no reason to buy air-travel insurance, the specialist says.

"Air-travel insurance is exorbitantly priced. It wasn't worth buying before the strike — and it still isn't," McCormack says.

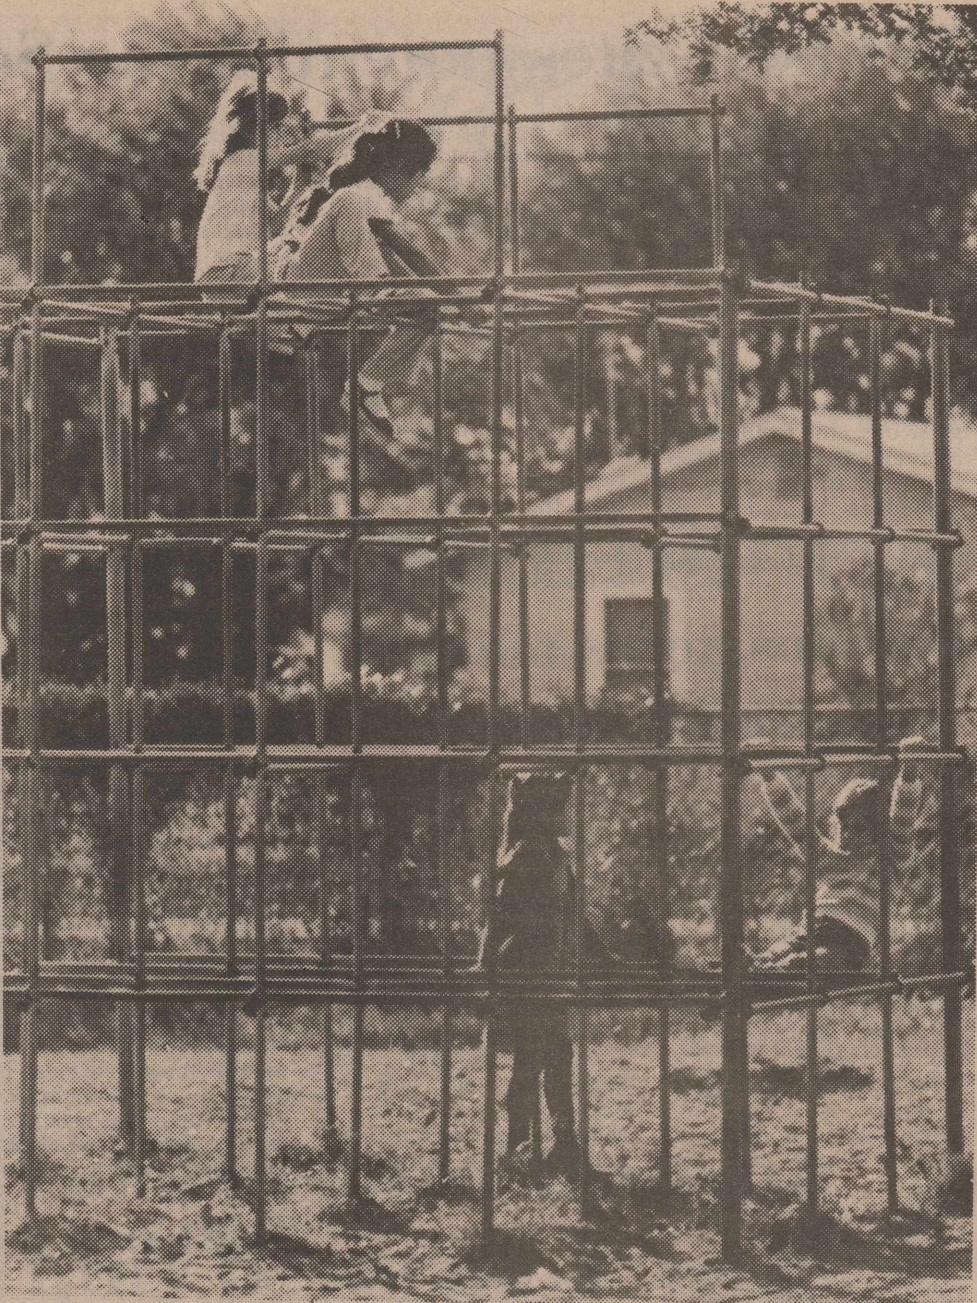

"This insurance offers very limited protection. A passenger pays a lot and gets very little," she says.

On the other hand, the specialist suggests that basic life and medical insurance policies will "do the job" of protecting air passengers adequately.

"If you're afraid of flying because of the strike, make sure your own basic life and medical insurance policies are up to date," she says.

"Don't make last-minute bets against death by air crash — which is why most people buy flight insurance. The chance of dying on a typical air trip is about one in a million," McCormack says.

If you are convinced you need extra insurance due to airline travel, buy an annual renewable "term life" insurance policy rather than air-travel insurance, she suggests. "The cost will be much cheaper for more protection," she adds.

When taking medicine be sure you understand the directions

By Fred Lucas, M.D.

You've gone to the doctor, had your problem diagnosed, now you've had the prescription filled for the medicine to treat the ailment.

The doctor and pharmacist have done their jobs. Now it's up to you to use the medicine wisely. The best way to do is follow a few simple rules.

•Take your medication as directed. Your physician always has a reason, sometimes more than one, for prescribing a particular medicine.

•Be sure you understand directions, such as the times during the day when the medication is to be taken. For example, "four times a day" may mean every four hours while you are awake or every six hours around the clock. If you're not sure, don't guess. Ask your pharmacist or physician.

•If you miss a dose, don't try to catch up by doubling the next dose. Call your physician or pharmacist to find out what to do.

•"Take with meals" means the medicine should be consumed with or immediately after eating a scheduled meal. If it's not possible to eat a meal, the medicine should be taken with some food, even if it's only crackers or milk. This prevents stomach upset that could occur if the medicine is taken on an empty stomach. Food can slow the body's absorption of the drug.

•Take the entire prescription. Even if the symptoms are gone and you feel much better, continue taking the medication as directed until it is finished.

•Be sure the label stays on a prescription container until the medication is used or destroyed. Each prescription box or bottle label displays the name of the patient, physician, pharmacy, prescription number, date of purchase and the dosage directions.

Remember to use the caution when taking medicine and consuming alcohol. Alcohol acts on the brain as a depressant and may temporarily decrease coordination, response to pain, alertness, breathing and sight. Certain medicines also act in a similar manner. Alcohol, in combination with some medicines, may decrease these functions to dangerously low levels, which could lead to unconsciousness or death.

Finally, a word should be said about over-the-counter drugs, available without a doctor's prescription. They can be effective in the treatment of a minor illness. However, when using two or more drugs, such as two non-prescription drugs, interaction can produce un-

'A Night in Old New Orleans' set for Dec. 12

This gumbo is really cajun!

"A Night in Old New Orleans" wouldn't be complete without gumbo, right? That's what the Choir Boosters thought, so for their "Night in Old New Orleans" fundraiser, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Dec. 12, in the VFW Hall, they've enlisted the help of an expert. Bessie Iles [right] will be the chief cook for the cajun feast. Mrs. Iles lives in Fulton but is a native of Cameron, Louisiana and says she's a gumbo expert. With daughter-in-law Frances Iles, president of the Choir Boosters, she prepares to put the "secret ingredient" in a pot of gumbo.

The "secret" is out though — it's fresh ground gumbo file, brought in all the way from Louisiana just for the boosters' dinner. Tickets for the event are $7.50 per person and can be purchased from any booster or at Jerry's Hair Design. Price includes gumbo, chicken and homemade sausage jambalaya, french bread, white beans, tossed salad, desert and coffee. Following the meal, guest will be entertained by high school choir members, "Bourbon street style." [Photo by Becky Werhan]

South Texas discoveries show increase

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that Texas operators reported 103 gas and 31 oil discoveries in November.

One year ago, 53 gas and 56 oil discoveries were filed with the state's energy regulatory agency.

Gas discoveries in the eleventh month of the year included 30 in deep South Texas, 25 in Southeast Texas, 13 each in the Refugio area and West Central Texas, seven in the San Angelo area, four in East Texas, three each in the San Antonio area and North Texas, two each in East Central Texas and the Midland area and one in the Panhandle.

Oil discoveries included six in West Central Texas, five each in the Refugio area and Southeast Texas, four in the Lubbock area, three each in North Texas and the Midland area, two each in the San Angelo area and East Texas, and one in deep South Texas.

In November, operators reported 467 exploratory and field tests wound up as dry holes. New applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests totalled 2,846 in November compared with 2,675 in the same period of 1980.

Applications to drill, deepen, plug back and for service wells in November amounted to 3,112 against 2,946 a year earlier.

Operators filed 825 amended applications to drill. A year earlier they submitted 615 amended requests.

Bentsen cites potential for Social Security fraud

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen said Saturday that thousands of elderly Texans are potential victims of Social Security fraud.

Bentsen said the he is asking the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigative arm of congress, to look into the representative payee program operated by the Social Security Administration. Representative payees are individuals named to receive Social Security checks on behalf of persons unable to handle their own affairs.

"There are disturbing indications that the representative payee program is not being operated as tightly as it could be," Bentsen said.

"In some cases a court order or medical evidence is used in the naming of a payee. But I have received information that the Social Security Administration will take action if a potential payee merely advises them that a Social Security recipient is not capable of handling his or her affairs. In these cases Social Security officials reportedly send a letter to the recipient who has 10 days to explain why a representative payee should not be named. This is one of the things I'm asking the GAO to look into."

"In addition, officials currently do not demand an accounting of representative payees and, as the law is now written, those payees who violate the trust placed in them receive only a slap on the wrist," Bentsen said.

If a representative payee is convicted of "knowingly and willingly" using Social Security payments for something other than the benefit of the intended recipient a year in jail and/or a $1,000 fine can be imposed.

Bentsen said there are roughly 175,000 representative payees in Texas, some 90,000 of them not members of the family of the Social Security recipient they represent. Nationally, according to preliminary figures from the GAO, there are some 2.4 million representative payees, with some 1.5 million of them not related to the people they represent.

"The General Accounting Office is conducting a study of the use of representative payees, but that study won't be completed until 1983," Bentsen said.

"The potential for fraud here is so great that I'm asking them for an interim report so I can determine whether corrective legislation is needed immediately. I have been in contact with the GAO and am advised that they already have quite a bit of information in hand. I am hopeful that they can respond quickly to my inquiry," Senator Bentsen said.

Pelicans, terns marked for scientific study

Birders along the Texas Gulf Coast may notice unusual coloration on some white pelicans and common terns this winter.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists recently marked 50 young white pelicans with yellow dye and green wing streamers in an effort to follow their movements.

Biologist John Smith of Rockport said the birds which nest along the Upper Laguna Madre near here comprise the only coastal breeding colony in North America, although 12,000 to 14,000 white pelicans winter in the state.

Smith said sightings of the marked pelicans should help biologists determine their movements and interaction with wintering pelicans. This is the third year of a five-year study of white pelicans.

Persons observing the marked birds are asked to report the date and location of the sighting to the nearest Parks and Wildlife Department office.

The Canadian Wildlife Service placed pink or orange wing tags and leg bands on a number of common terns in the Great Lakes Area to learn more about their movements.

Any sightings of marked terns, which commonly migrate through Texas, should be reported to Bird Banding Office, Canadian Wildlife Service, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0E7.

company is founded. It makes a product. This product is sold to Americans and around the world to other countries. A profit is made and the company grows. When this happens, the company produces jobs for those who are unemployed. Also, the product of this company must be distributed. Here again are more jobs.

The government of our nation does its best to maintain unity within the country, but for it to be successful, public support is needed. The Democrats and Republicans should not separate on an issue at the cost of unity, but they must agree on an issue. Fellow Americans should not argue. They must propound. This all adds up to a better life among American citizens in unity.

Has America been built together? Yes, America has been built together and America is still building together, but to build America closer together, the nation must export more goods rather than import goods. Also, Americans need to support their government, and American industries must grow and stay alive. To me, these are the ingredients to a closer united nation. I love my country and I value my freedom. In my eyes, America will remain the most idealistic country of the world today, tomorrow, and forever!

8-20 per month register for draft in Aransas

Some eight to 20 Aransas County men have been registering for the draft here since it began last January, according to Rockport Postmaster Pat Tedder.

Tedder said he has no way of knowing how many eligible registrants there are in Aransas County and no way of determining at this time how well the draft is going in the county.

A list posted in the county courthouse however includes the names of some 1,000 Aransas County men who may be eligible for the draft. Under law, all men born since Dec. 31, 1959 are required to register for the draft within 30 days of their 18th birthday.

Draft registration is at the Rockport Post Office and Tedder said, "We provide instructions on how to fill out the forms. Then they (the registrants) fill them out and mail them."

The draft, discontinued for a time, was reinstated effective Jan. 1, 1981.

Troop 49 enjoys holiday

Fresh from an overnight at Camp Grenada, Boy Scout Troop 49 is looking forward to a busy holiday season. The scouts' next meeting is Dec. 15. Two more meetings, on Dec. 22 and Dec. 29, round out the month for the troop.

The troop's November Court of Honor was a big success, with many important awards given out. The next Court of Honor will be held on Jan. 12, 1982. A pot luck dinner will be served and all scout's families are urged to attend.

Also in January, the troop will have another overnight and will be rechartered. January is the Troop 49 membership date.

In February, the troop will take part in the national observance of Scout Sunday. Each year the National Boy Scout Organization designates one Sunday as Scout Sunday. The date this year is Feb. 7. All scouts will be required to attend the services at the First Presbyterian Church that day. Some of the scouts will assist with the service. The First Presbyterian Church is a sponsor for the troop. Scout leaders feel that this event is a chance to show the church how much their support means.

Bill and Ed's Welding Service is the newest welding business in town. Bill Williams and Ed Walker decided to start the business some time ago and as Bill says, "We've been talking about it for six months." They finally decided to go ahead and do it as of last week, they did. Both men have years of welding experience. Bill started welding in 1938 and Ed began in 1957. Bill formerly worked for Delta Gulf Construction in Louisiana and Ed was employed by H. and K. Bill says he's worked for "all the big oil companies" and adds that "there's more oilfield work here in Rockport right now than anywhere else the U.S." "I've built some of the biggest offshore platforms that's been built," he says. Bill's worked extensively as a supervisor and welding consultant and is also an expert in x-ray and ultrasonic testing. He is certified by DOT and DOE as a film interpreter, level III and is also certified to test welders and work on oil and pipeline stations. Bill and Ed are both certified under all major codes and are insured and bonded. What the two are hoping for is increased involvement in the oilfield construction work now booming in this area. Another specialty of Bill and Ed's is "any kind of pipe work," says Ed. Bill and Ed's office is located at First and Magnolia and their welding yard is in Fulton. The business phone is 729-7002 or 729-2631.

Study confirms need for gas decontrol

WASHINGTON — A study just released by the Department of Energy confirms the need for Texas Congressman Jim Collins' natural gas deregulation bill. Collins' bill would provide for a smooth transition to an unregulated gas market, increase domestic gas production and reduce foreign oil imports. Collins, a member of the Energy and Commerce Committee of the U.S. House, introduced his gas decontrol bill — H.R. 4885 — to amend certain "inadequacies" in the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, the current law governing natural price controls and future deregulation. Collins' bill decontrols all natural gas by 1985, but would phase-in deregulation from Jan. 1, 1982 to

Jan. 1, 1985, so that any price increases would not be sudden and the free marketplace would have three years to adjust. "Right now, natural gas prices are controlled at an artificially low level, which means we are consuming a great deal and producing less and less. As decontrol goes into effect prices will start rising; but don't sound the alarm just yet. Let's look at what happened with crude gas decontrol.

"As a direct result of the removal of price controls on domestic oil, drilling is booming. There will be 70,000 oil well completions this year, a 12 percent increase over 1980. Oil well drilling increased 34 percent in 1980, but gas well drilling has been consistently on the decline since 1978 when the price control provisions of the NGPA were adopted. In 1977, gas drilling increased 25.2 percent, but in 1980 that increase was only 5 percent," Collins said.

The Texas lawmaker also noted that with oil decontrol, foreign oil imports dropped from 8,389,000 barrels per day in 1979 to 5,368,000 barrels per day thus far in 1981. Also, energy conservation is increasing, with the demand for petroleum products dropping sharply from 18,513,000 barrels per day in 1979 to 16,455,000 barrels per day so far in 1981.

duction while decreasing its dependence on OPEC oil. Natural gas decontrol will further our goal of energy independence. It has been estimated that gas decontrol could reduce oil imports by 3,000,000 barrels per day, amounting to an annual savings of about $40 Billion. Let's keep American dollars at home creating American jobs," Collins said.

New predator fish being studied

AUSTIN — A cooperative effort between the Texas Parks and Wildlife

Department and the California Department of Fish and Game has gotten underway to study hatchery propagation of the orange-mouth corvina, a prized game fish.

During Oct. department biologists traveled to Southern California's Salton Sea, a unique inland saltwater reservoir populated by the corvina. Volunteers from a local corvina fishing club assisted the biologists in collecting 70 mature corvina with rod and reel.

A total of 52 of the fish, ranging in size from eight to 15 inches, survived the 28-hour truck ride to Texas and resettlement in an indoor tank at the department's Heart O' the Hills Research Station at Ingram.

Biologist John Prentice said corvina resemble the spotted seatrout (speckled trout) found in Texas' coastal waters, but the corvina appear to be harder than specks and grow to larger sizes.

"Our first objective is to attempt to duplicate spawning conditions in the indoor tanks by controlling the light, temperatures and salinities," Prentice said. "This procedure is similar to the method used at our Palacios research facility to induce spawning of red-fish." He added that the brood fish may be a year away from spawning size, since some biologists believe they need to be 18 inches or longer to be sexually mature.

Prentice said if a spawn is produced, the fingerlings will be tested for tolerance to salinity and temperature changes. Results of the studies will be shared with California officials who are interested in propagating the fish.

The ability of corvina to thrive in the Salton Sea is a fairly impressive tribute to the species' hardiness, Prentice believes. The lake was created in an area which is below sea level, flooded originally by overflow from irrigation canals in the area.

"Salinities can get unbelievably high at times, and oxygen contents can get very low," said Prentice. "Oddly, we have indications that corvina can not only survive very high salinities such as that, but also can survive in fresh water."

Biologists don't know how large corvina would grow in Texas waters, but the Salton Sea record is 32.6 pounds, and catches of 15- to 20-pounders are not uncommon.

Newspapers offer enjoyment to young

Can parents lure reluctant readers into an enjoyment of reading? Growing Child, a monthly child development newsletter becomes a family adventure it can help a child learn to enjoy reading more.

Many children are "reluctant readers." They know how to read; they simply don't enjoy it. This happens even when a child has all the "advantages": weekly visits to the library, story hours, bedtime reading, parents who are avid readers.

The scope of information in the daily newspaper offers many opportunities for discussion and learning. For example, the local weather forecast can lead to an interest in the lines, patterns, and numbers on the weather map - an interest that can develop into a desire to learn and read about clouds, the color of sunsets, electricity.

Pictures of a new highway, a flood, the Easter Seal poster child, and Saturn's rings lead to questions about transportation, nature, handicaps, and outer space. And the logical place to find the answers to all these fascinating questions is in the library, in a book.

Newspapers are good for non-factual learning, too. A photo of an unattractive person could lead to a discussion of where physical beauty ranks in your scale of values.

The newspaper's usefulness outlasts its timeliness. (After a few weeks, the ink doesn't rub off anymore.) Your child can paint on the classified pages. He can do potato printing and use the paper to wrap gifts. He can

Why CPL's search for future fuel sources is important to you.

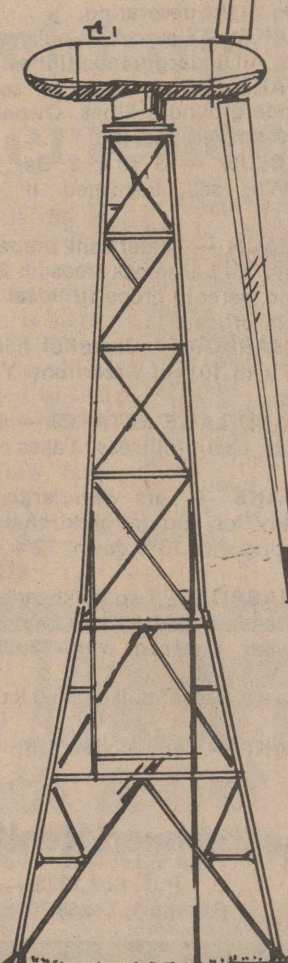

Today, as in the past, Central Power and Light Company provides reliable electric service to you at the lowest possible cost. We're committed to that goal for the future, too - and for that reason it's vital that we continue to sponsor research into supplemental and alternate forms of energy that could be used for the generation of electricity. By helping develop new technologies, we are making sure that we will have fuel sources for the long-range future that are dependable, available and cost-efficient.

This is TEXT—the Texas Experimental Tokamak—the new tokamak at the University of Texas Fusion Research Center in Austin. The machine will be used by scientists from throughout the nation to expand our knowledge of nuclear fusion.

As long as natural gas was plentiful and economical, it was the only fuel CPL used to make electricity. We had to turn to other sources when gas supplies were threatened for both long-term and short-term use - and when gas prices climbed higher and higher.

In partnership with industry groups and research agencies, CPL is examining new sources which have the potential to become practical for power production.

Among the new sources being studied are solar repowering, ocean thermal energy conversion, and geothermal resources in the Gulf Coast area. In addition, we are testing the feasibility of wind energy here in South Texas. The gasification project at CPL's La Palma plant already has demonstrated the technical feasibility of making gas out of abundant solid fuels.

Alternate forms of energy - nuclear fusion and nuclear breeder reactors - that might completely replace those now used for generation of electricity also are being explored, but probably will not be ready before the turn of the century.

Since 1957 CPL has participated in the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, which supports nuclear fusion research at the University of Texas. Fusion offers the promise of satisfying our ever-increasing demands for energy while also protecting the environment: the fuel for nuclear fusion is abundant in ordinary sea water.

Scientists hope that a demonstration plant can be built by the year 2000, with commercial production of electricity possible a decade later.

Another possibility for power generation in the long-range future is the breeder reactor, which could—if fully developed—extend the use of nuclear fuel by several thousand years. CPL helps sponsor research in this field through the Breeder Reactor Corporation.

With steady, ongoing research into new technologies CPL can help develop the new energy sources that will enable us to hold future costs down while continuing to provide reliable electric service for all South Texas.
