Sex ed. curriculum stands for Snyder ISD

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

After both sides of the controversy offered sometimes emotional comments for a full hour, Snyder school board members Monday let stand the implementation of a two-week curriculum for sex education here at three grade levels.

The opponents--called to the meeting by a groundswell of opposition begun by a group of local pastors--called it "making kids 'sex ready' before their ready for sex."

The supporters--a smaller but still vocal group at Monday's meeting--said they believed they spoke for the district's "silent majority" and came out in favor of "educating the kids."

And the school officials whose planning phases of the curriculum dates back three years defended their plan as both timely, well thought out and urgently needed.

"If you want statistics, 52,000 people in 1991 will die of AIDS," said Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

The center of the controversy, board members themselves, had their chance to speak also. "This board does not condone sexual activity," said Mike Jordan, board president. "We're trying to address a problem."

He then asked those opposing the plan to "Stop trying to polarize this community.

"The only mandatory part of this program is it must have parental consent," he said.

Only one individual was on the board's agenda Monday to address the issue, Rev. Ken Branam, pastor of First Baptist Church, who offered the "sex ready" comment during his address which asked the board to delay implementation of the curriculum for further study.

An estimated 200 persons filled the school board room and adjacent hallway, however, and school officials gave each the opportunity to sign their name for a turn at offering comments.

The final list saw some 10 citizens speak out against the plan; three voice their support for it; and two whose comments waivered on both sides of the issue.

The Rev. Danny Williams, pastor of the Lighthouse Assembly of God and an early organizer of opposition to the school plan, said he believes the curriculum will only encourage sexual activity. "It leans to those who are (sexually active). And if we expect them to do it, they will."

Other individuals who offered comments opposing the plan included Keith Hackfeld and Charlie Reynolds, who echoed Branam's request that the board "take a second look" before implementing the plan.

"I think you've gone too far," Hackfeld said, who indicated he had recently read through the curriculum.

Reynolds comments were, "It takes wisdom to back up."

Rev. Steve Smith, minister for the First Presbyterian here, offered what he called an "alternate Christian perspective" in support of the plan.

Spring blizzard hits Panhandle area

By The Associated Press

A surprise blizzard left hundreds stranded in the Texas Panhandle and howling, high winds created problems in the Dallas-Fort Worth area where air traffic was delayed because of a wind shear alert.

The wind, gusting to as high as 60 and 70 mph at times, may have also been a factor in a mishap in which an American Eagle commuter airplane's landing gear collapsed while it was attempting to take off Monday night from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. No one was injured.

In the northeastern Panhandle, motorists, students and others who were stranded in a deep-freeze found warmth and refuge at area schools, community centers, courthouses and churches.

Most of them spent the night huddled in hallways or gymnasiums under donated blankets as the surprise blizzard that blew into the Panhandle Monday morning refused to loosen its icy grip.

Up to 500 cars were stranded Monday night about 75 miles east of Amarillo, on a 17-mile stretch of Interstate 40, between the towns of Lela and McLean, said Sue Gallagher, a dispatcher with the Shamrock Police Department.

"They haven't moved for hours. Trucks, cars, everything," Gallagher said Monday night.

Pampa, about 60 miles northeast of Amarillo, was hit by about 1½ feet of snow on Monday, and the accumulation caused the roof of a drug store in a shopping mall to collide.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan of Pampa called the spring blizzard "the worst I've ever seen, and I've been here 71 years."

Pampa students who live in rural areas found refuge at the Pampa Middle School while stranded motorists in the area were taken to the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Wildflower Day plans announced

Events planned in conjunction with this spring's Wildflower Day observance in Scurry County were announced Tuesday.

It will again include a wildflower path on the campus of Western Texas College, a reception for event participants, a wildflower symposium and, beginning April 11, a Saturday, guided tours of the WTC wildflower path.

Included on the guided tour will be a visit to the WTC greenhouse used by students enrolled in the college's Golf and Landscape Technology program.

The wildflower path will be opened to individuals next Monday. The trail will be marked and walkers may begin the tour south of the Scurry County Museum building.

Displays of identified wildflowers will be ready for viewing inside the museum beginning April 7. Also, a display of work by public school students can be seen beginning April 11.

On April 10, a Friday, from 7 until 8 p.m., a reception is planned in the museum for county school teachers who have 100 percent student participation in art and creative writing activities planned in conjunction with Wildflower Day.

Also at that reception, winners will be honored in the amateur photography contest sponsored by the museum as part of Wildflower Day.

At the April 11 symposium, planned at 1 p.m., Burr Williams of Midland will discuss landscaping with native plants. Zoe Kirkpatrick of Post will also show slides of wildflowers on the Kirkpatrick ranch in Garza County. The symposium will be in the WTC Fine Arts Theatre.

The guided tours of the wildflower path will begin at 10 a.m. April 11. At 11 a.m. that day, the Panhandle Region of the Native Plant Society of Texas will meet.

WTC instructor Britt Canada, chairman of the Wildflower Day committee, is vice president of that group. Anyone interested in learning more about the society is invited.

Additional information about the Wildflower Day programs, photo contest and displays can be obtained by contacting Canada at WTC or staffers at the Scurry County Museum.

3rd break-in reported here

Police took a report Monday afternoon for a third vehicle burglary which apparently occurred at the Latin American Center on 13th St. Saturday night.

John Velasquez of 2804 Ave. F reported at 4:58 p.m. that an electric drill and an extension cord had apparently been taken from his vehicle while it was parked at the center Saturday night.

Two other burglaries involving vehicles parked at the Latin American Center were reported early Sunday morning.

First phase begins for cancer effort

The local chapter of the America Cancer Society is now conducting the first phase of its annual cancer crusade.

Fund raising efforts have begun with the "special contacts" drive in which workers will be contacting individuals who gave $25 or more to the society last year.

Drive workers for the special gifts campaign include Helen Hatter, chairman, Jan Harrell, Jane Crenwelge, Finnie Seale, Sue Reed, Sue Carter and Charlene Light.

This effort will continue through March 26. The residential and business drives are slated April 4-11.

The purpose of the cancer drive is to increase public awareness of the value of regular checkups for the early detection of cancer in addition to raising funds for research, public education, service and rehabilitation.

The local crusade will be emphasizing the benefits of mammography — an x-ray technique now available locally to detect early signs of breast cancer.

American Cancer Society activities in Scurry County in 1985-86 provided services for the community with a value of $35,436. This included renabilitation and services for cancer victims and their families, public education programs, and professional education programs for health care professionals.

Election officials selected at school

Election officials for the upcoming April 4 school ballot were named Monday by school board members, a session which included also one-year contract extensions for five district administrators.

Pat Falls was again named election judge for the school ballot. He will be assisted by Janet Davis and Patsy Taylor, district staffers, serving as absentee clerks.

A one-week absentee vote for the election began Tuesday and will continue through March 31.

A record number 17 candidates have announced for five board seat.

In addition Monday, trustees accepted recommendations from campus and business office administrators to extend the contracts of Lee Presswood, high school vice principal; Ned Underwood, assistant high school principal; Bill Hartsfield, junior high school assistant principal; Keith Gentry, district transportation director; and Bill Sealy, district maintenance director.

Question overheard at a recent public meeting: "What side of the fence are you straddling?"

Seventeen candidates are running for Snyder school board. That's bound to be a record field. The guys in the coffee shop were trying to find out the attraction for a non-paying job...maybe they're going to have a national convention in Hawaii.

One has to be careful what is said these days. One mother over near East Elementary was pounding on a bottle of ketchup when she heard the telephone ring. She asked her eight-year-old to answer the phone.

"Yeah, mom's here, but she can't come to the phone. She's hitting the bottle again."

Did you hear about the fellow who found himself seated on an airplane next to a beautiful young woman. On her blouse were the letters Nan.

During the flight, the man learned that Nan was not the woman's name, but that Nan were the initials of a club she belonged to and she was on her way to a convention.

Asked what the initials stood for, she explained, "Nymphomaniacs--All or Nothing."

The man grew more interested in the conversation and he inquired what kind of men make the best lovers.

"American Indians and Jewish men," she said. "You know, here we are chatting on and on, and I don't even know your name."

"Tonto Silverstein," he replied.

Ask Us

Q. — What is the value of the peso to the dollar and can I exchange pesos for American dollars in Snyder?

A. — Local banks will exchange pesos for dollars, usually by working in cooperation with a larger out-of-town bank which has an "international" department. Since the day-to-date rate of exchange regarding pesos can change daily, a local bank customer's payment may be delayed until the money transaction actually takes place. As of Friday, the Wall Street Journal quoted the exchange rate at 1,088 pesos for one American dollar.

In Brief

Trial sought

HOUSTON (AP) — Texaco Inc. is seeking a new trial in its litigation with Pennzoil Co. on grounds that the trial judge — now deceased — was biased in the case that led to a multibillion-dollar judgment against Texaco.

In a motion filed Monday with the 1st Texas Court of Appeals, Texaco claimed judge Anthony J.P. Farris was biased against Texaco and its chief lawyer.

Farris, who died of cancer in September, presided over most of the trial, but became ill and was replaced by State District Judge Solomon Casseb Jr.

Soviet power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union expanded virtually every part of its military arsenal last year, in the process deploying increasingly advanced weaponry that undercuts the West's ability to deter war, the Pentagon said today.

From nuclear missiles and submarines to jet aircraft and attack helicopters, the Russian build-up throughout 1986 was unrelenting and went "far beyond legitimate requirements for defense," the Pentagon asserted in its annual written assessment.

7 skiers killed

BLUE RIVER, British Columbia (AP) — A remote mountain had been cleared of avalanche danger five days before a wall of snow killed seven members of a helicopter skiing party, the operator of the tour company says.

Numerous allegations made...

NCAA zeros in on UT now

AUSTIN (AP) - The University of Texas has released a letter from the NCAA detailing numerous allegations of football violations over the past seven years, including some admitted by David McWilliams, a former assistant and now head coach.

The allegations made public Monday, also the first day of spring football practice, covered a period from 1980 to 1986 and resulted from an 18-month investigation.

McWilliams, 44, hired in December from Texas Tech to succeed fired Coach Fred Akers, admitted Monday he made mistakes as an assistant and "was wrong in doing it."

McWilliams is mentioned with others as providing cash for athletes or arranging for athletes to receive money, some of which was repaid.

The NCAA also said McWilliams and others arranged for athletes to receive the free use of automobiles and that McWilliams loaned his car to athletes on two occasions - once to drive another athlete to class and another time to conduct personal business.

Asked if he considered the acts serious, McWilliams said, "They were certainly serious because they're wrong.

"Certainly I made a mistake on those things, and I was wrong in doing it," he said. "I apologize to the University of Texas, its alumni and anyone else I caused this embarrassment to."

The university received the Letter of Official Inquiry with the NCAA's preliminary findings Friday and released it Monday at a meeting of the University Council.

Nunnally said UT's response to the NCAA allegations should be filed by April 13.

UT officials will meet with the NCAA Committee on Infractions during its April 24-27 meeting at Hilton Head, S.C., and should receive the committee's decision on punishment within a month of that meeting, he said.

UT would have the option of accepting the decision or appealing to the NCAA Council.

Murray opts for NFL draft; will not remain at Aggieland

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Quarterback Kevin Murray, who helped create controversy and back-to-back Southwest Conference football championships at Texas A&M, will forego his final year of collegiate eligibility.

Murray, twice consensus all-Southwest Conference quarterback, announced Monday he will make himself available for the National Football League draft April 28.

Murray said he made the decision after reassessing his NFL draft prospects and to eliminate any uncertainty for the Aggies, who started spring training Monday.

"After talking with my family again, I've decided it is in my best interest to go ahead and pursue my professional career at this time," Murray said.

"My Aggie heart tells me to stay at A&M and play another year, but logic tells me that I should move on and test myself in the pro ranks."

The NCAA is investigating reports that Murray drove a car leased by an A&M alumnus. Both Murray and Sherrill have denied any violations of NCAA rules.

Murray was The Associated Press' offensive player of the year in the SWC and a third team All-America selection behind Miami's Vinny Testaverde and Michigan's Jim Harbaugh.

Murray announced before and after the 1987 Cotton Bowl he would return for his final year of eligibility, which would have been his fifth year, since he was granted an extra year to compensate for a season-ending injury early in 1984.

"Kevin has given us four good years, and he deserves the opportunity to move on to new challenges," said A&M head coach Jackie Sherrill, who predicted Murray will be remembered "as one of the best ever in the Southwest Conference."

Murray completed 212 of 349 passes for 2,463 yards and 17 touchdowns, with eight interceptions last season for a career total of 534 of 926 for 6,506 yards and a SWC record 48 touchdowns and 32 interceptions.

Murray set A&M records for career completions (57.7 percent), passing yardage (6,506), and total offense yardage (6,455).

TCU hires Moe Iba as basketball coach

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - When retiring Jim Killingsworth said Moe Iba would be the best basketball coach in the Southwest Conference if Texas Christian could get him, it was all Horned Frog Athletic Director Frank Windegger needed.

"I thought that was a pretty strong recommendation," Windegger said.

Iba, 47, the son of legendary coaching great Henry Iba, was the only prospect Windegger interviewed for the job, and now the SWC has another Iba.

Cousin Gene Iba is the head coach at Baylor University.

Iba, who won 60 per cent of his games and in five years at Nebraska took the Cornhuskers to the NIT playoffs three times and to the NCAA playoffs once, got a four-year contract at an estimated $50,000 per year.

He had interviewed at Rice and was under consideration for the head coaching job at Texas-Arlington.

"I'm very proud to be at TCU," Iba said. "I left Nebraska so I could get a job like TCU. I'm honored and excited."

Iba said, "My job will be to maintain and improve the program. Coach Killingsworth did a great job of taking TCU to the top. This is a much better situation than taking a program that's down."

He added "My philosophy is close to Coach Killingsworth's. I try to adapt to my personnel. Just because I'm an Iba doesn't mean I like to play slow. You can't play that these days. You have to play a quicker tempo."

TCU won the SWC title by four games under Killingsworth but lost to Notre Dame 58-57 in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Iba said he would consider assistant Coach Charlie Fenske as a possible assistant on his staff.

TCU has five scholarships next year and Iba said "We'll just have to see who is available. We're looking for quality athletes."

Iba asked Killingsworth what he needed for next year and Killingsworth told him "guards, forwards and centers. I guess that ought to cover it."

Iba is 144-135 overall in major college basketball. He was 107-70 at Nebraska and his teams got one NCAA bid and four NIT postseason playoffs. Iba was 37-65 in four years at Memphis State.

He resigned immediately after Nebraska lost to Western Kentucky 67-59 two years ago in the NCAA playoffs. Iba was an assistant at Drake this year.

Coach resigns to protest rule confining coaches to bench

DALLAS (AP) - A Dallas high school basketball coach has resigned in protest of a state rule that required him to remain seated throughout his team's games.

"If I can't do what (college) coaches like Dale Brown (LSU), Bobby Knight (Indiana) and John Thompson (Georgetown) can do, I'm ineffective," South Oak Cliff coach Alex Gillum said Monday.

"I'm the wildest, craziest coach in the state of Texas because I rant and rave on the court. If I can't be me on the floor, then I'm not effective," Gillum said.

Gillum's team had a 13-14 record this season in his first year at South Oak Cliff, one of the most prestigious high school basketball programs in Texas.

He said he resigned as a way of taking a stand on a new rule in the National Federation of State High School Association rulebook - known as the 10.5 rule - that requires coaches to sit on the bench for most of the game. There are a few exceptions; a coach may stand up to call a timeout or to congratulate a player on a good play.

The legislative council of the University Interscholastic League approved an additional exception to the rule - to allow a coach to stand to coach and immediately return to his seat. Even then, coaches are expressly forbidden to stand during a game in three cases:

- after a foul has been called, until the officials' reporting is completed;
- while a free throw shooter has the ball on that coach's end of the court; and
- during a throw-in on that coach's sideline.

Violation of the rule results in a technical foul.

The rule has been unpopular with coaches, but particularly unpopular with Gillum. He actively protested the rule last season, once wearing a shirt saying "Protest 10.5" and another time having one of his players tie him down with a rope during a game.

The officials made his players untie him, and assistant athletic director Charlie Dyer chastized him for wearing the shirt.

Gillum said he has asked to remain at South Oak Cliff as a sociology and psychology teacher.

Gillum said his decision to quit was influenced by the response he got from UIL director Bailey Marshall when he wrote a letter complaining about the rule.

Ray Robinson won the world middleweight title five times and made only seven defenses of the crown.

2 death row inmates receive execution stays

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Two men facing death this week, including a 36-year-old man scheduled to die by injection before dawn today, won reprieves from federal judges.

Judge David Belew granted a stay of execution Monday for Jerry Hogue about 13 hours before Hogue was scheduled to die for the 1979 fire death of a woman who prosecutors said was raped and stabbed before she died.

Death row inmate Walter Bell, 33, also got a stay Monday from U.S. District Judge Sam Hall in Texarkana. Bell was scheduled to die early Wednesday for the 1974 robbery and slaying of a Port Arthur man.

Belew ruled in Hogue's favor about an hour after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals — in an unanimous decision — refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus and block the execution.

Richard Alley, Hogue's Fort Worth attorney, immediately went to Belew, who granted the indefinite stay. A hearing on the case will be held later, Alley said.

2 Snyder grads form part of revival team

BROWNWOOD--Jay Mayo and Sheri Smith, Howard Payne sophomores from Snyder, are part of a four-person revival team leading a youth revival for First Baptist Church, Bridgeport during spring break, April 1-4. The five-day revival will include music, worship, and fellowship activities for Bridgeport teens from participating Baptist churches.

Mayo is active in the Baptist Student Union at Howard Payne. He is a 1985 graduate of Snyder High School, and also attended Western Texas College. Mayo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mayo of Snyder.

Smith, also active in the BSU, graduated from Snyder High School in 1985 and attended WTC. She is the daughter of Dan Smith of Snyder.

Both are members of First Baptist Church in Snyder.

Ira FFA'ers capture WTC judging event

Ira High School's FFA livestock judging teams earned a total of 1,380 points to take top honors in the Western Texas College competition Saturday.

Top honors in the land judging went to Sweetwater High School FFA with a total of 661 points.

Snyder High School FFA won second place trophies in both cattle and swine judging.

WTC and the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District sponsored the contests, which attracted teams from 31 schools.

Wall High School was second in the overall livestock judging with 1,330 points. Rounding out the top five were Sweetwater with 1,308 points, Abilene High School with 1,301 points and Cross Plains with 1,300 points.

In land judging, Cal Farley's Boys' Ranch was second with 627 points and Haskell was third with 614 points. Benny Cornett from Sweetwater was top individual with 239 points. Second was Scooter Scott from Sweetwater with 234 points, third was Joey Thomas from Haskell with 233 points, fourth was Chad Dill from Hawley with 232 points, and fifth was Jason Whitehead from Haskell with 227 points.

Concho snake study begins

Okla Thornton has begun what may be a 10-year study of the Concho water snake.

Thornton has been engaged by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, with the blessings of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, to learn more about the snake which the service has determined to be a threatened species.

During the first year his surveys of the lake basin and tributaries, to get a better fix on the census, the habitat and habits of the snake, will be only activity in this direction.

His findings will become part of the equation about seeking to protect the creature. Thereafter, monitoring the snake's existence would be added to Thornton's job responsibilities.

Not a lot is really known about the snake, Thornton explained. Hence he is taking immediately to the field and will spend the major portion of his time prowling around the river and tributaries to compile more extensive data.

USFWS has suggested some things such as artificial riffles in the river and tributaries, and rock ramps into the lake to facilitate the feeding for the juvenile snakes. Thornton will make continuing observations to see if these do what they are suppoed to do.

The CRMWD's herpetologist is a graduate of the Texas A&M University with a bachelor and masters degree in Wildlife Management Science with an expertise in herpetology. More recently he has served as a part-time wildlife managment consultant. His home is in Clyde.

Kidnappers say American hostage ill

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem extremists demanding the United States persuade Israel to free 100 Arab prisoners in exchange for an American hostage said they soon would release a videotape to prove their claim the captive is deathly ill.

Also Monday, the Revolutionary Justice Organization, another pro-Iranian terrorist group, said it canceled plans to kill French captive Jean-Louis Normandin. The statement was accompanied by a videotape of the hostage whom it had threatened to kill today.

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine said in a statement Monday that 47-year-old American hostage, Alann Steen, "may die" within 10 days of an undisclosed illness.

The statement, handwritten in Arabic and delivered to the Beirut newspaper An-Nahar, promised to release a videotape within 72 hours making Steen's illness and condition clear.

"We announce that American spy Alann Steen has fallen sick," the statement said. "His physical condition may deteriorate and he may die within 10 days as doctors who advised care for his condition have said.

"Our humanitarian motives require that we free the ill spy in exchange for 100 prisoners in (Israeli) occupation jails. Therefore, the U.S. administration is required to act within this (10-day) period to pressure the Zionist enemy to arrange the swap."

The chief aide to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, Avi Pazner, rejected the demand, saying, "If these terrorists pretend that the man is sick, then they must release him immediately and unconditionally for humanitarian reasons."

In Washington, White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said: "We hold the captors responsible for the safety of the hostages and we will not pressure any third parties into giving in to terrorists' demands."

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine holds Steen, who is from Boston, two other Americans and an Indian. All were teachers at Beirut University College when they were abducted Jan. 24 from the west Beirut campus.

The statement was accompanied by a photograph of another American hostage, 53-year-old Robert Polhill of New York City, An-Nahar said.

The Revolutionary Justice Organization said it canceled plans to kill the 35-year-old Normandin, because of appeals from Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah and Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capudji.

It had threatened to kill Normandin today unless France clarified its policies on terrorism and supplying arms to Iraq. Iraq has been at war with Iran since September 1980.

Fadlallah, a Shiite Moslem cleric, has influence on Lebanon's Iranian-backed militant factions. Capudji was born in Syria and has close ties to the Palestine Liberation Organization of Yasser Arafat.

Iran's official Tehran Radio on Monday said Revolutionary Justice had kidnapped Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, but reported later that the group denied it.

Waite disappeared Jan. 20 while on a mission to free foreign hostages in Lebanon. The radio said the organization claimed Waite was a spy for the United States.

The two other teachers who were kidnapped with Steen and Polhill are Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, and Mithileshwar Singh, 60, an Indian who has resident alien status in the United States.

Twenty-four foreigners, not including Waite, are missing in Lebanon after being kidnapped and are believed held by Moslem extremists. They are eight Americans, six Frenchmen, two Britons, two West Germans, an Irishman, a South Korean, an Italian, an Indian and two men who have not been identified.

Sex ed. curriculum retained

"Education is our friend. It can't hurt us, and I believe I speak for the silent majority," he said.

Gary Landes also offered comments of support.

"I've read through it at all levels and I think the material is doing a good job. I want my kids to be aware and I appreciate your effort."

The most emotional plea came from district mother Alice Guerra, who told the board tearfully "my fourth grader (has) already said they don't want to go to school any more."

Mrs. Guerra spoke with school officials afterward, and only then learned that material brought home by her child last week--and apparently prompting the child's reaction--was not part of the planned for curriculum.

The material handed out at six of the district's eight campuses also caused comments from local parent and junior high teacher Tommy Doyle, who turned to face the audience and said he wanted to offer his comments to whoever handed out this material.

"I resent the incident at the schools," he said. "You stuck it in their hands."

The material, identified as used in a New Jersey sex education class, instructed students to, among other things, "draw the world's largest penis."

Some of the other comments of opposition voiced Monday were from:

—Don Anderson, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, who said he felt the alternative study plan for high school students not participating in the sex ed. curriculum--to include a requirement to write reports--purposely made it harder for students to choose not to participate.

—Connie Williams, who asked "Where are the statistics that it will work?" She referred to a study of the Dallas sex education classes, saying "teenage pregnancy increased" after its implementation.

—Barbara Townsend, who criticized the curriculum "not teaching morals."

—Jackie Kincaid, who said the study plan takes sex education "away from the parents...Instead of throwing all that junk at the kids, you might need to educate the parents."

Superintendent Bob Hawes had near the last word Monday, telling the group that perhaps their concerns should be directed at a different source. In a reference to network television programming which features sexual activity, he commented that students "see the frills and the fun but not the responsibility."

Instruction in the curriculum began at the seventh grade and high school level Monday. It will start at one school campus at the fifth grade level next Monday.

At every grade level, it is an approximately two weeks study plan included in spring semester health classes.

The plan left standing Monday includes some adjustments made based upon the recommendations of the pastor's group. Scannicchio said a revised edition of the sex education material will be made available to the public within the next few days as soon as it is printed.

Bill Stephens wins award

Bill Stephens, with Stephens Office Supply, has been elected as a Gold Level Excellence Award Winner by the Xerox Corporation, as one of the top 50 authorized Xerox sales agents in the country in 1986.

To earn this award, Stephens had to exhibit the highest levels of four standards of performance set forth by Xerox which includes sales achievement, territory management, product of sales training and merchandising.

Stephens was competing with 900 sales agents from across the country, in areas of the country with much stronger economic climates than Snyder is in.

He and his wife, Joyce, will enjoy five days and four nights in scenic Scottsdale, Ariz. as a reward for their efforts.

Country musical slated in Hobbs

HOBBS--On Saturday, April 4, there will be a country music only "musical" in the Hobbs School auditorium.

There will be no charge for admission. The Hobbs Tiger and Cub Scouts will have a consession stand and a cake raffle.

The "musical" will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will probably continue until around 10:30 p.m. This is the third musical to be held in Hobbs in the past few months, and if there is enough interest, it is planned to have them on a regular basis.

The band playing on April 4 consists of Danny Weaver, bass; Gerald Weaver, guitar; Pat Anderson, fiddle; Danny Letz, steel; Gerald Cheek, banjo; Jack Terry, guitar; and Glen Copeland, guitar.

Hobbs School is located in Fisher County, three miles north of the blinking light on Highway 180 between Roby and Snyder. It lies at the intersection of Farm Roads 1614 and 611.

Car bomb blast hurts 31 people

RHEINDAHLEN, West Germany (AP) — Investigators today said they suspect leftist terrorists staged the car bombing at the British armed forces' headquarters in West Germany that injured at least 31 people.

None of the injuries was serious, but police said the 10:30 p.m. blast Monday blew a hole in the ground 10 feet wide, heavily damaged the mess hall, shattered windows in buildings within several hundred yards and destroyed about 20 cars parked nearby.

Officers and their wives were holding a farewell party at the mess hall at the British Army of the Rhine and Royal Air Force headquarters when the 220-pound bomb went off, said Col. Michel Baugniet, chief press spokesman for the British forces in West Germany.

Six German staffers at the base in northern West Germany near the Dutch border and British officer were admitted to local hospitals, but Baugniet said their injuries were not life-threatening.

He said 24 other people, mostly German officers or their wives, were treated for minor injuries.

West German police said 50 people were hurt in the explosion and that most suffered minor injuries. The conflicting casualty figures could not be resolved immediately.

Martin's son is reported missing

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Dean Paul Martin, the son of entertainer Dean Martin who carved out his own identity as an actor, was the pilot of a fighter jet believed to have crashed on a snowy mountain, officials said Monday.

Martin, 35, an Air National Guard captain, and weapons officer Capt. Ramon Ortiz were aboard the F4-C Phantom when it disappeared from radar near the top of 11,500-foot Mount San Gorgonio about 10 minutes after takeoff Saturday, said Air National Guard Maj. Steve Mensik.

Both men were trained in survival techniques, Mensik said.

"If the airplane came down OK, the probability is they could be just fine," he said.

Efforts by civilian and military planes to find the missing plane on the snow-covered mountain in the San Bernardino National Forest, 70 miles east of Los Angeles, were unsuccessful through late Monday.

Wheel covers listed stolen

Monday, police investigated the theft of wheel covers from a vehicle parked at a north Snyder auto repair shop.

Employees of Andy's Paint and Body Shop on Ave. R filed that theft report at 10:51 a.m.

Four wire wheel covers were said stolen from a 1984 Oldsmobile which had been parked outside the shop over the weekend. Value of the missing items was estimated at $400.

Hit-and-run listed cleared

Police investigated and cleared a hit-and-run traffic mishap Monday.

Dorothy Giles of 200 25th St. filed the initial report at 9:34 a.m. She told officers her 1982 Mazda had apparently been struck by another vehicle while parked on the lot at Cogdell Center.

At 5 p.m., police reported that the Giles vehicle had been struck by a 1976 Buick driven by John Sidney Lochabay of 402 33rd St.

"HOW IS ORAL DOING WITH THE FUND-RAISER?"

Events hurt Christian cause

NEW YORK (AP) — Evangelical specialists see the questionable episodes involving television preachers Jim Bakker and Oral Roberts as tarnishing the Christian cause, but not reflecting its reality.

Some also say the affairs may harden attitudes of critics and supporters, while others cite possibly purging effects on TV evangelism.

Generally, however, the impact was seen as sullying the image of such ministries, and reinforcing the aversion of secularist critics toward the Christian faith.

"Inevitably there will be some negative fallout," said the Rev. Carl F. H. Henry of Arlington, Va., considered the country's leading evangelical theologian. "It puts a question mark over the legitimacy of evangelists.

"People out there in the secular city who seal themselves off from the churches are likely to rationalize their non-involvement by appealing to episodes like this."

But he added in a telephone interview Monday night: "It's just rationalization. Among the many good evangelists, some stoop to compromise. But you can't have counterfeits without the genuine originals."

Bakker resigned last week from his PTL ministry, saying he was blackmailed over a sexual encounter. On Monday, he said his resignation was actually an attempt to thwart a "diabolical plot" to take over the 500,000-member organization.

Roberts has said God ordered him to raise $8 million by March 31 to help fund missionary activities. If he didn't, he would die.

"The situations will be used to point the finger at all evangelists," said the Rev. Brien O'Connell of the National Association of Evangelicals in Washington, D.C.

"Some people are going to believe the worst, and say evangelists have no moral integrity. But just because Jesus had a Judas doesn't mean the other apostles were not credible.

"In Jim Bakker's case, he failed, but it shouldn't be characterized as everyone's failure, unfortunate as it was."

O'Connell emphasized that television evangelists are only a small and not typical segment of the broad evangelical community based in the churches, expressed through them, and accountable to them.

This broad movement, he said, would not be significantly affected.

However, he said, TV evangelism may suffer. "People paint with a broad brush on things like this," he said. "It will make for more caution about giving money."

The Rev. Arthur C. Borden, executive director of the Evangelical Council for Financial Responsibility, said the overall effect is detrimental to the Christian cause, making it harder to present the faith to non-believers.

"They'll say, 'Hey, just look at these guys,'" Borden said.

However, he said, the results would have pluses and minuses for TV ministries, intensifying the antagonism of outside critics and the loyalty of supporters.

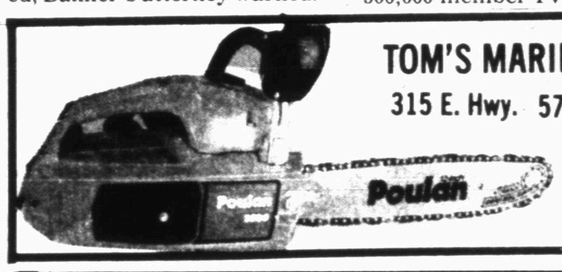

"Those who are supporters will feel as if they're being attacked, and become even more supportive," he said. "They're 'true believers,' and if anyone attacks, it's 'us against them'.

"There's a great deal of skepticism of the secular media," he said, an attitude that "'We knew they'd find something to pick on.'"

Swaggart denies takeover attempt

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — The unidentified evangelist who plotted to take over the $172 million PTL empire by exposing Jim Bakker's extramarital affair risks having his own dirt exposed, Bakker's attorney warned.

TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart, meanwhile, vehemently denied any attempt to take over PTL but said he's certain he is the figure Bakker has accused of plotting to gain control of the 500,000-member TV ministry.

Cyst doesn't need treatment

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a small spermatocele. My doctor says that as long as it's not uncomfortable, it's harmless — but my medical guidebook says they are usually highly malignant. Who is right?

DEAR READER — I think you misread your medical book; if not, you should get another. Your doctor is right. A spermatocele is a benign cyst, separate from the testicles, that contains sperm. It is painless and requires no treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Several years ago a spot appeared on my sister's leg. She went to a skin specialist, who told her she either was a diabetic or was a candidate to become one. He said she had necrobiosis lipoidica diabeticorum, and nothing could be done. Now her whole leg below the knee is covered with spots. Is there a treatment for this?

DEAR READER — Necrobiosis lipoidica diabeticorum — a skin disease of diabetics — consists of shiny, yellowish-red spots that appear on the shins. Your sister should be thoroughly checked for diabetes. If her blood sugars are normal, the doctor will want to biopsy one of the skin lesions so that the tissue can be examined under the microscope and a diagnosis established. If your sister has diabetes, the skin condition will improve as the disease is brought under control.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My fingers crack open at the ends, causing sores. I've been using rubber gloves to do dishes, but the cracking still occurs. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — The lining of the rubber gloves may be holding in the moisture that develops when your hands perspire. This can cause painful cracking of the finger tips. Stop using the gloves, apply a lanolin-containing hand cream three times a day and try to avoid doing dishes for a week or two. (Perhaps you can use paper plates or rely on a considerate helpmate to wash your dishes.) If this doesn't work, check with your doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My friend is in her mid-70s and has been diagnosed as having Creutzfeldt-Jakob. What can you tell me about it?

DEAR READER — Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease is a rapidly progressive, rare and fatal brain degeneration that experts believe is due to a "slow virus." According to theory, the virus enters the nervous system and causes damage many years later. The disease begins in middle age and causes muscle-wasting, uncontrolled movements and dementia. It is untreatable and usually causes death within a year.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING HOMES, offers a step-by-step guide to rating facilities and finding the best care available. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.
