VOL. 3 NO. 21. WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1921. FIVE CENTS EVERYWHERF

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Hon. Frank C. Davis of San Antonio is chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee. He was a district delegate to the San Francisco Convention and the State Convention in 1920 elected him state chairman. Chairman Davis says the senatorial race will be one of the warmest in the history of Texas. These are his views: "I do not recall having ever known brighter prospects for a keener scrap. As the head of the party organizations it would be improper for me to become a partisan of any aspirant for the senatorship. As a sovereign Democrat, however, I shall of course vote for my own choice. That is a matter I have not yet determined. I am waiting for the lists to close before admitting my choice even to myself. Of one thing I am, and all others may be, assured and that is that, though the fight may be intense, it will be just a family affair with outsiders barred from interference. And when it is over we will have a candidate worthy the highest traditions of Democracy and the Senate and no scars to tell the tale of the row. Senator Culberson and Messrs. Love, Thomas, Parrish and Mayfield are already opening with their longest ranged was doing some shelling, but an interview he gave the press a few weeks since virtually took him out of the race. Now I hear he may re-enter. Whether he does or not, there will be enough of rival aspirations to prevent any staleness. There will not be any political ennui anywhere in Texas until after July next. In addition to those named, I know that friends of M. M. Crane of Dallas, of former Governor Thomas M. Campbell of Palestine, of Cone Johnson of Tyler, of former Governor William P. Hobby of Beaumont, of Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks of Waco and of Congressman John N. Garner of Uvalde are insisting that they make the effort to succeed Culberson. From political gossip reaching San Antonio, supplemented by a whole earful of it I gathered a few days ago in Dallas, I do not believe Dr. Brooks will become a candidate so long as Mr. Thomas is running, or that Congressman Garner will think of doing aught than support Mr. Culberson so long as his intimate friend and colleague keeps his name before the Democratic electorate. And I have no suspicion that either Thomas or Culberson will quit except for death or other inevitable cause. The truth about the matter so far as Mr. Garner is concerned is that, should he stay on his present job, he will very probably be the next speaker of the House of Representatives. The Republicans would have trouble carrying any State of the Union today and I expect their political fortunes to go still lower before November, 1922. With a Democratic majority in the House, it is easily probable John Garner's splendid career would be rounded out by his elevation to a great post several Texans have tried to win, but none has achieved. I have not seen Mr. Garner recently and I do not pretend to know his own feelings with reference to any race. I only know the things I speak of are likely to come to pass. A Texas Democrat in the speaker's chair would be next to having one in the White House. From friends at Dallas, though, I gather that the active candidacy of Cone Johnson for the Senate is very probable and, if he runs, I know a contest already attracting nation-wide attention will be even more likely to fasten and hold high interest. As State chairman, it will be my province to pray for the best man, to see that he is given the formal nomination if he wins it at the polls and then to bring about the election of every man on the Democratic ticket by even more than the usual and old-time majorities. For a week or two, after the election last November our Republican friends possibly believed they had won a foothold in Texas. But when Republicans are concerned about the situation in New Hampshire and Pennsylvania they are likely to lose no sleep and spend no work anywhere down South. And if any of them ever supposed Congressman Wurzbach would be more than a one-termer his supposition has probably gone glimmering in the face of administration methods in removing local Democrats who did their duty courageously and decently. That alone, outside the general internecine strife that prevails inside the Republican organization in the Fourteenth District over the question of pie, makes a Congressional certainty of the man who wins our party's nomination at the polls. We Democrats here have a particular and a very pleasing duty to perform in redeeming our own district from a Republican success, due to causes that occur about once in a century, and I'd like to pledge the next Representative from the San Antonio district to vote for John N. Garner for Speaker here and now. There can be no doubt about that outcome. The Senatorship? I have said all I should on that score. Besides, there are so many interesting angles to it that the situation cannot possibly be compressed within the limits of one newspaper article."

"I noted yesterday, various ads and posters—in Dallas—'Dallas wants you to go to school,'" said P. G. Swanson. "Good stunt. Notwithstanding progress of schools, there might be two sides to a question like, 'Resolved that relatively schools are losing ground.' That is they may come no nearer with increased demands upon them because of marvelous progress of invention to provide the minimum requirements of growing citizen for meeting his future problems, than did the little log school houses, in days of greater simplicity in business and manufacture. Hence, rather than crow over any absolute

DOMINION STATUS NOT SUGGESTED

—DAIL EIREANN

Irish Rejection of Lloyd Georgge's Peace Proposals Assert Form of Government Not Offered.

De Valera Leaves Way Open for Further Negotiations by Willingness to Name Delegates.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The reply of the Irish republican parliament to Prime Minister Lloyd George's latest communication rejects the British government's proposals for settlement of the Irish question on the ground they are not based on a dominion status for Ireland. It leaves the way open for further negotiations, however, by offering at once to appoint plenipotentiaries on the basis of the principle of government by consent of the governed.

The reply, which is addressed to Mr. Lloyd George and signed by Eamonn DeValera, was given out at No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's official residence, tonight. It says the differences between Great Britain and Ireland can only be reconciled on the principle of government by consent of the governed, "and on this basis we are ready at once to appoint plenipotentiaries."

Text of Reply.

The text of the communication follows:

"We, too, are convinced it is essential that some definite and immediate progress had been made toward a basis upon which further negotiations can usefully proceed, and recognize the futility of 'a mere exchange' or argumentative notes. I shall therefore refrain from commenting on the fallacious historical reference in your last communication. The present is the reality with which we have to deal.

"The conditions of today are the results of the past. Accurately summing up and giving in simplest form the essential data of the problem, these data are:

AGED SINGER NOW OBJECT OF CHARITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—She is old, Sidonie Vichat, once La Grande Vicardi, of opera days gone by, and she looks down the river from her little window in the almshouse on Blackwell's Island to the sunlit mist that is the harbor where ships go out to France—her France. She was discovered yesterday and she told her tale.

But she cannot leave her home on the island. She has no money, no place to go, even though she is the granddaughter by marriage of James Fenimore Cooper, the romancer of Indians and pioneers.

"Mon dieu!" she shrugs her shoulders in disdain, "I cannot stay here; these women, they swear. I am from fine family; my father was le grand General Vichat, who came to Mexico under Maximilian."

This little lady with delicate hands that bespeaks the artiste, spurns money, everything, except her opera.

"Ah, I had the tremendous voice," she exclaimed in French to her visitor. "I sang contralto. I sang with Schumann-Heink in the Metropolitan."

Her story, touched here and there by fanciful recollections, is the history of a dying nobility. But she is hopeful.

"See, I got $2 yesterday from the actors' fund. Would I, if I had not been the great diva?"

As she looked again toward the mist that marks the pathway to her past—to Paris, Rome, Madrid—her eyes flashed hope and defiance.

"They must come and get me, my people. Ah, I do not think I should end here!"

A nephew in Boston has notified the almshouse that he wil come to the assistance of his aunt. She was removed to the island two weeks ago when found starving and penniless in the shadow of the Metropolitan opera house on Broadway.

BRITAIN'S FIRST AERIAL ARMORED CAR APPEARS

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Britain's first aerial armed car, which has just been completed, is an etirely new type of aeroplane, constructed entirely of steel.

It is a formidable fighting craft and actually it is no heavier than the ordinary airplane.

It is fitted with a 300-horse-power engine, and is capable of a very high speed, as well as being extremely manouverable.

MELON CROP GOOD

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 4.—The melon crop in Hall county has been good. The late rains will bring in a large fall yield. One farmer near town has already sold $153.00 worth of melons from less than one acre of ground.

The Weather

Oklahoma: Monday partly cloudy, cooler; Tuesday, generally fair.

West Texas: Monday and Tuesday, generally fair.

"NO WEDDING BELLS FOR ME TILL FEET GIVE OUT," SAYS ANN

Ann Pennington.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—No wedding bells for Ann Pennington!

A lively rumor that she had married a wealthy Wall street broker has been cavorting on the Rialto of late.

"The idea!" exclaimed Ann as she entered her dressing room at the Liberty theater.

"Who says so?" she demanded, as she threw her hat on the table.

"Not so long as I have my dancing feet and can work!" she continued, sitting down and taking off one of her dancing pumps.

"I get a proposal every day, sometimes two," she went on, taking the pins from her long brown hair and sending it shimmering down her back with a toss of a piquant head.

"It's funny?" she added, untieing her sash, "scarcely a day passes that I don't get a love letter from Cuba, a different Cuban, too. My pictures made a big hit in Cuba."

"A Wall street broker!" she mused, slipping off a yellow chiffon stocking, "I know a lot of men in Wall street. But no one down there has been monopolizing me. How these stories do start!"

"How about your engagement to George White that the papers had a year ago?" she was asked.

The tiny star of the "Scandals of 1921" fubled with the buttons of her blue georgette shirtwaist.

"We were both very good friends, you know," she said. "And when our engagement was gossiped about neither of us wanted to hurt the other's feelings by denying it. But I'm not engaged and won't be."

There was a pause. Miss Pennington called her maid:

"Marie, hang these things up."

The interview was over.

KILLED IN FALL OF AIRPLANE

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 4.—Stephen B. Ravenel, 24, of Charleston, S. C., who was discharged from the United States merchant marine two weeks ago in Galveston, was killed at 11 o'clock Sunday morning when an airplane in which he had started to Galveston with Randolph H Clement, also of Charleston, fell 500 feet in a tail spin at Cox field.

HAWAIIAN JAPS WOULD DISARM

HONOLULU, Sept. 4.—At a mass meeting attended by more than 500 Japanese members of this community a resolution was passed strongly favoring disarmament. The text of the resolution follows:

"In view of the deplorable consequences of the World War and for the sake of permanent peace among the nations, and the future welfare of humanity, we declare our hearty endorsement of the principle of disarmament and earnestly desire that it be realized by international co-operation."

COAL IS CONGLOMERATE OF DEGRADED CELLULOSE

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Coal has been defined at last.

After considering the subject for eight years the Department Committee on the spontaneous combustion of coal in mines has issued its report. The report includes a definition of coal.

"Coal," the report states, "is a highly complex conglomerate of the degradation products of cellulose of stance."

So now we shall know the next time when we prod a complex conglomerate of degraded cellulose with the poker.

RAIN-PRAYERS END WHEN BOLT STRIKES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 4.—One man's meat is another's poison. F'rinstance:

A pastor, tired of suffering from the continued heat spell, gathered his flock together and for three hours prayed earnestly for rain. Evidently his prayers were answered, for the rain came and—in torrents.

However, an electrical storm preceded it and a bolt of lightning, striking a manufacturing plant one square away from the church, started a $150,000 conflagration.

FANS YAWN, SO UMPIRE GIVES PROD TO PLAYERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 4.—Here's a hint for a song entitled "Come Out of Your Lethargy, Baseball Fans." Give part of the credit to Umpire O'Connolly of the American League.

The Browns and Washingtons were lagging along through the slowest game of the season here. O'Connolly stopped the game, discarded his mask, stepped to the front of the grandstand and yawned longingly, stretching thoroughly at the same time.

"That's the way the game is running," he shouted to the players. "If the fans in the stand are not asleep, by Jimminy, it's not your fault."

The players came out of their lethargy.

OKLAHOMA CITY GETS LIGHT RAIN

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 4.—A gentle rain fell tonight over Oklahoma City, which today was the hottest city in the United States, with a temperature of 98.78 degrees, according to the official bulletin of the federal weather station here. Phoenix, Arizona, came next, according to the bulletin with 98 degrees.

CONFISCATE BEER AND FAGS

A gallon of Choc beer and three cartons of cigarettes were confiscated and a man giving his name as D. Smith was arrested by Policemen Humphris and Hembrie Sunday night at his shack near the ball park.

The man is being held in the city jail for investigation. When arrested officers said he explained possession of cigarettes by saying he had found them in a garbage can. The "choc" was in a common water bucket when found by the officers.

LIBRARY CLOSED ON LABOR DAY

The Kemp Public Library will be closed all day Monday, which is a holiday, according to an announcement by the librarian. The announcement is an indication that the practice of closing on holidays will be continued, despite protests that holidays afford the best opportunity for many to avail themselves of its facilities.

NEVER HEARD OF BABE RUTH; SUCH IS FAME

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—"Babe" Ruth's fame as King of Swat is not as widespread as some people imagine. Frank Doherty, of Allston, a ball player of note himself, found that out when he picked up a passenger who turned out to be a sailor. The mariner mentioned the fact that he was "a graduate" of a reform school.

"Don't let that worry you," said Doherty, "so is 'Babe' Ruth."

"Who is 'Babe Ruth?" asked the innocent shellback. "An admiral?"

POULTRY TEAM EXPECTS TO TOUR WEST TEXAS

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Sept. 4.—E. J. Kazemier, poultry development expert of the A. & M. College of Texas, will accompany the team of agricultural experts which is to tour West Texas under the auspices of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in the campaign for increased dairy development, poultry and pork feeding expansion in West Texas.

OFFICERS FIND STILL.

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 4.—Another still was found in the Estelline neighborhood Friday night. It was a rather crude galvanized iron affair holding about ten gallons. Attached to it was a copper pipe coil to condense the liquor. This coil was improvised from the gasoline feed pipe of an automobile. No arrests have yet been made, but officers are investigating.

"SOUTHERN SLIM" GIVES SELF UP

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept 4.—Sam Graddington, alias "Southern Slim", a negro, surrendered to Sheriff Dancy here today, and according to Dancy confessed to the fatal shooting a few days ago of George Munson, proprietor of taxicab company here. Graddington was taken out of the city tonight because of fear of mob violence, according to county officials.

TROOPS TAKE FULL CHARGE IN VIRGINIA

United States Soldiers Assume Complete Control in Districts Where Disorders Have Occurred.

Malcontents Rapidly Dispersing and Leaving Boone and Logan Counties for Their Homes.

By Associated Press.

LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 4.—The scene of armed disturbances in the southwestern tier of West Virginia counties shifted today from sections where government forces were sent, to Mingo county on the west side of the state where renewed firing from the southern side of the Tug river was reported, Mingo county volunteers, Major Davis said, are being sent back into Mingo. A detachment of West Virginia state police under Captain J. R. Brockus also returned from Boone and Logan counties.

By Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 4.—Federal troops are in complete control of the troubled mining districts of West Virginia and the armed bands that have been defying the state and county authorities on the boundary line of Boone and Logan counties are rapidly disappearing, according to reports received at military headquarters here today.

DISORDERS IN COAL FIELDS NEARING END

By Associated Press.

MADISON, W. Va., Sept. 4.—Disorders which for a week have raged along Spruce Ford Ridge near the Boone-Logan county border in which bands of armed men have been opposed by state, county and hastily organized volunteer forces, were fast approaching an end today, it was believed.

Reinforcements to United States troops already in the field arrived in the little coal river valley this morning.

As the troops arrived by rail in Sharples, just behind the area which had been the scene of the clashes for a number of days, scores of men from the hills were marching into the village and handing over their fire arms to the military authorities.

After surrendering their weapons the men were allowed to leave for their homes.

While reports to military headquarters did not indicate how many armed men remained in the section, it is known in well informed circles here that a considerable number are still in the mountains.

While military authorities reported quiet along the Little Coal valley other reports said firing was still in progress.

Federal troops, it is expected, will be ordered into the regions of Spruce Ridge, Blair mountain and Beach Ford early tomorrow morning.

Will Disarm Men.

When the soldiers go into the hills it was generally believed here they will disarm the men found there and send them out of the region at once. With this accomplished, military authorities felt conditions will quickly revert to normal.

Three hundred soldiers of the 26th infantry who came from Camp Dix, N. J., arrived here just before day break. They were despatched immediately to the nighborhood of Blair, beyond Sharples, a region in which heavy exchanges between forces of men armed with rifles have been reported. It was expected that troops of the 19th infantry encamped here would join forces with those of other regiment in the early morning and that the combined force would then set out for the mountains to police the district.

Soldiers today were in control of the entire valley from Madison to Blair. Regulars are located between these two towns in the villages of Clothier, Jeffery and Sharples.

GETS BROKEN HEART PRICE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 4.—The value of broken hearts varies. Miss Florence Beebe, twenty-two and pretty, declares her heart—broken, as she alleged it to be, by Grady Greene, auto salesman—is worth $25,000.

Her suit, filed in Pulaski Circuit court here, charges Greene with breach of promise. Greene is named as the father of Miss Beebe's unnamed baby. He denies the allegations.

MEMPHIS GETS FIRST BALE

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 4.—The first bale of new cotton came to Memphis gins this week. It was brought in by O. E. Burk of Newlin. It was ginned by White & Walker free and weighed 510 pounds. J. A. Whaley bought it and paid 18 cents for it. The chamber of commerce paid a premium of $25.00.

BOOZE PROFITS GROW

LONDON, Sept. 4.—England is drinking more. Arthur Guiness & Son, Ltd., made $13,000,000 this year and paid 25 percent dividend, against 20 percent last year.

BOYCOTT WEAPON OF SINN FEIN

South Ireland Finds Refusal to Purchase English Goods Effective in Fight for Freedom.

Agents in Dublin for London Houses Feel Effect of Restricted Buying by Irish People.

BY VICTOR M'NAUGHT.

DUBLIN, Sept. 4.—The boycott has proved a most effective weapon to Sinn Fein, who has developed a far-reaching and marvelous-working system of espionage and control of economic factors.

The case of an English dealer in automobile tires, with a distributing agency in Dublin, affords a striking example of the efficiency of this branch of Sinn Fein activity.

The manager of the Dublin office was waited upon by a young woman representative of the de Valera government, who proceeded to enumerate the conditions on which the English firm would be permitted to contin in business in Ireland.

Anyone who knows the English resentment of intrusion, and of the cold and deadly anger with which the Englishman repels what he considers to be unwarranted interference in his affairs, will need no information as to the agent's reply.

"Well, for that you are fined one thousand pounds," retorted the young woman crisply. "And since you refuse to pay any attention to our conditions, we will let you wait and see what is going to happen to you."

The Englishman did not have to remain in suspense very long. Within the week every ordor for tires outstanding in southern Ireland was cancelled, the total of these cancellations running to 18,000 pounds sterling. Then followed a deluge of tires, sold previously to dealers all over Ireland with provision that they might be returned for credit. The dealers wrote that they were sorry to cancel their orders and return stock, but that they had no choice. After all the tires had been returned and credit given, and the tires had been stored in a warehouse, it came about that the warehouse caught fire and was burned to the ground. Thus was one recalcitrant Englishman wiped out.

An American manufacturer maintains a number of sales brances in Great Britain. In order to make them seem like home enterprises, to a degree at least, the branches are locally incorporated as limited liability companies. Two of these branches are located in Belfast and in Dublin.

Not long ago the manager of the Dublin office was visited by a Sinn Fein agent, who wished to know about the connection existing with the branch in the boycotted city of Belfast. "The two branches are on an equal footing under the parent company," explained the manager. "But you have your bank account in Belfast," objected the Sinn Fein agent. "If you want to stay here you must cut off all connection with the Belfast bank and move your account to Dublin." "If you will arrange to get a Dublin bank to give us the same credit accommodation that we have in Belfast," replied the manager, "we'll move our account." To which the agent retorted: "We are not interested in that end of it. Go out and take your chances with the banks here."

They will tell you in Belfast that the boycott has not hurt Ulster appreciably; that Belfast's chief industries are shipbuilding—Sinn Fein Ireland buys no ships—and linen manufacture. Only three per cent of Ulster's linen has ever been sold in the south, and the loss of this business, they tell you, is not serious. The fact remains that the wholesalers and jobbers in any manufactured articles of ordinary use have lost practically all their business in the south, and Ulster banks have suffered with them.

Such articles as it cannot manufacture itself, southern Ireland likes to import from other countries. American automobiles, for example, are bought in preference to those of English origin.

"OLD KENTUCKY HOME" SITE WILL BE PARK

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 4.—The old Southern mansion, Federal Hill, near Bardstown, where "My Old Kentucky Home" was written by Stephen C. Foster, has become the property of the state.

A state commission recently appealed to "Kentuckians at home and abroad" for funds with which to purchase the property and maintain it forever as a state park. More than $60,000 was subscribed.

The property was purchased for $50,000, and the balance in the fund will be used to maintain the place until the state can make other provision for its upkeep.

REGAL BATHTUBS SOLD AT $37.50

HONOLULU, Sept. 4.—Pathos mingled with comedy as the furniture and household fittings of the late Queen Liliioukalani, deposed monarch of Hawaii, went "on the block" and were "knocked down" by the auctioneer to the top bidder here recently.

A large crowd, representative of many nationalities, gathered to witness the auction, and many a Hawaiian eye was moist with tears as some particular piece of furniture brought back memories of the old days and the vanished glory of a kingdom. Three of the late Queen's bathtubs went for $37.50 apiece to a Chinese contractor.

LINER CUTS WHALE IN TWO

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The White Star liner Ceramic rammed a whale when 200 miles from the English Channel, cutting it completely in half.

COOLIDGE HAS NARROW ESCAPE WHEN STAND FALLS

By Associated Press.

WILLIAMSBURY, Mass., Sept. 4.—Vice President Calvin Coolidge and ten other men escaped without injury when a speaker's platform on which they were standing collapsed here today.

The vice president, unperturbed by the mishap climbed out of the debris, made his way to another platform and delivered the address which he had prepared for celebration of the 150th anniversary of this town.

SQUEEZED LIVER DENOTES OCCUPATION OF DECEASED

LONDON, Sept. 4.—How a doctor was able to determine what had been the occupation of a man whose dead body he examined was disclosed at an inquest on a man found dead on a London sidewalk.

"Without being told what was his occupation," said the doctor, "I came to the conclusion that he had been a shoemaker, because the liver was badly indented and squeezed by pressure of the stomach, and I put it in my report."

GREAT VEIN OF GOLD FOUND IN CANADA

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 4.—Sensational reports reaching here of the gold discovery at Elbow Lake have caused a rush of prospectors to the region.

From surface showings, many believe the largest body of gold ore on the continent has been tapped. The containing dyke has been stripped of overburden for a length of 350 feet and a width of fifty feet without encountering the walls of the vein. The outcropping near the edge of the lake has developed, it is said, into a rich pocket of gold.

LOST RADIUM SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 4.—An electroscope is being used in an effort to recover two small needles of radium which were removed by a nurse from the body of a patient at the Columbus Radium Hospital and burned with refuse. The ashes from the incinerator are being closely searched by means of the instrument. The little needles were valued at $2,500.

TO RESUME OPERATIONS IN TAMPICO

Agreement Reached Between Mexican Government and Committee of Producers Permits work.

Mexico Agrees to Lift Embargo on Petroleum in Storage Enabling Export Shipments.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Sept 4.—Immediate resumption of oil operations in the Tampico region by American petroleum companies and the payment of postponed taxes, with the lifting of the government embargo upon the companies funds and oil in storage, will result from the agreement reached by government officials and the heads of five American oil concerns" which was reported last night.

There will be an immediate movement of oil from Mexico and after minor details have been adjusted a settlement will be reached of all the great petroleum problems which have vexed the Mexican government and American development companies for years.

The agreement reached in conferences which terminated late Saturday night has the complete sanction of President Obregon who has described it as a "happy and satisfactory solution of all concerned." The American oil men who participated in the conferences asserted they were contended with results obtained were prepared to leave immediately for the United States.

"Conferences between the Mexican government and five great oil companies looking toward an adjustment of problems growing out of recent decrees regarded the export of oil from Mexico have been terminated," said a formal statement given out early this morning by Adolph De La Huerta, secretary of the treasury.

"The result of these conferences has been satisfactory, without damaging the interests of the Mexican nation nor the international policy of Mexico and a decision favorable to both parties has been reached."

Will Pay Back Taxes.

"It has been agreed that in new regulations on charges for export taxation of oil, created by the decree of June 7 last, it will be arranged that payments may be made up to December 21, next. Payment of these taxes will be made every three months, and not monthly as was established by the decree. There still remain a few points in detail to be discussed, but which the oil companies have agreed to accept after studying certain information and data after their representatives have arrived in New York City. When they have

HOUSEWIVES RESENT BATHING SUIT BAN

MILADY NO LONGER PERMITTED TO DO SHOPPING IN TOGGERY OF THE BEACH.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 4.—Long Beach is pouting—at least the feminine contingent is. For a young community Long Beach has some rather settled traditions. And one of these is that marketing may be done in a bathing suit. And now along comes a notice from the village authorities stating that it's all off on marketing in swimming togs. In fact, no one will be permitted to appear on the streets in a bathing suit unless it is covered by some suitable cloak, coat or bathrobe, states the ordinance.

This new ruling applies to the whole of Long Beach, including the fashionable East End, Westholme and the West End. But it is the West Enders who feel the shoe pinch worst—that is, the bathing shoe. The dignity of the East End and its nearness to the railroad station have naturally precluded shopping in costume, so to speak, among the fashionables. And Westholme rather apes the East End in many of its social expressions.

But with the West End it's different. Life out there is somewhat freer. One does as one pleases.

Therefore the custom has arisen among housewives to do the marketing to or from the beach as they pass by with the children. After the breakfast dishes are done and the beds made mother puts the children into their suits and then gets ready herself.

At Beach street she nods brightly to her favorite vegetable man. She pinches cucumbers. She examines blueberries. She sniffs critically at melons. She watches the scale when the potatoes are being weighed. And then, having made her selection, she buys the children a plum each, and with an injunction to "leave the things under the back step if I'm not at home," she proceeds unruffled on her way.

But now all that has been changed by the ordinance. It is most unpopular. Women who have spent a neat little piece of pin money on their stylish bathing suits don't care particularly about covering them up with a nondescript bathrobe. And one wonders how the butcher boys feels now who remarked: "No wonder I can't get around any earlier. The sights take my mind off my work."

BOOK SPACE FOR COTTON SHIPMENTS

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Sept. 4.—Many advance bookings for movements of cotton abroad have been made this week, 300,000 bales having been slated for shipment to the Far East and between 400,000 and 500,000 bales for Havre,

CONDITIONS CHANGE NONE IN TRADING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Commercial and economic conditions in the South American Republics underwent but little change during the past month, according to cabled reports from foreign representatives made public tonight by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

German competition to American trade with Latin-America was reported to be lessening in importance, while the reduced purchasing powers of the German republic was declared to be still acting unfavorably on all exporting countries.

"Altogether," the bureau said, "it appears that many reports of ruinous German competition in South America have been exaggerated. Even admitting the present advantages of German exporters, they are apt to be of a temporary nature in view of the artificial basis upon which many industries in Germany now operate."

The commercial situation in Argentina remains about the same as last month, according to Buenos Aires report, but "the political situation is very unsettled."

Reassuring signs in the Brazilian situation, the Rio de Janeiro report asserted, were in the increase in imports and the strength of the federal government. It is felt that the worst of the dangers of the financial crisis has passed in Chile, the Valparaiso reported, although credit is still difficult to obtain. American sales in Peru are suffering from the exchange situation, the Lima report declared, although owing to the cotton sales, a slight improvement is anticipated.

The salient features of Mexican economic developments during August, according to the Mexico City report were general attempts to lower production costs, increased unemployment, a continued handicap to business because of the transportation situation and a stimulating effect of the coming centennial celebration, the importance of which would be increased now that the oil question is settled. The general condition of government finances is more unfavorable, the report added, it being reported that short time loans aggregating $1,000,000 secured by oil taxes for July have not been paid.

TO RESUME OIL OPERATIONS IN TAMPICO

done this, the full details agreed upon will be definitely arranged.

"The decree of May 24 of last year did not suffer any modification and the payment of taxes due in accordance with that decree will be made by the companies represented in the conference on Monday of next week when they will renew operations. I can also affirm without false modesty that the satisfactory results arrived at was in accordance with instructions received from the president, to which I added my approval during the conferences."

There were many indications at noon Saturday that things were not moving smoothly behind the closed doors of the treasury department, and there were many hurried conferences between secretary De La Huerta and President Obregon in the latter's office. After a four hour conference there was an adjournment until 6 o'clock at which hour the oil men appeared promptly. They were closeted with the secretary for almost three hours, and then newspaper photographers were suddenly called into the conference room, giving a hint that personal relations between the conferees were cordial.

Secretary Announces Agreement.

A few minutes later the oil men filed out of the chamber, but maintained their previous policy of silence. They said Secretary DeLa Huerta had been appointed the official sole spokesman. The secretary later admitted than an agreement had been reached and that it lacked only the president's signature to make it official. The secretary left immediately for Chapultepec Castle, and within an hour he was joined by the oil men, who called to pay their final respects to President Obregon. Formal announcement of the successful termination of the conference was delayed until after midnight.

Oil Men Silent

The oil men declined to give out a formal statement, but in casual conversation they indicated that they were pleased with the conferences. Later they said they had nothing to add to Secretary De La Huerta's statement. They were unanimous in expressing themselves delighted with the manner in which the discussions were conducted, and were especially enthusiastic in their praise of Secretary De La Huerta. Article 27 of the Mexican constitution which nationalizes oil deposits did not enter into the discussions they said, as this subject was considered purely a diplomatic matter to be taken up by the American and Mexican state departments.

The statements of President Obregon, Senor De La Huerta and the oil men failed to give details of the tax agreement, other than that new arrangements for payment had been made. It is understood here, however, that the ad valorem basis fixed with the Mexican decree of June 7 is abrogated.

Senor De La Huerta's early morning statement, that a satisfactory agreement had been reached was supplemented later by President Obregon who said:

Show Good Will

"I believe the arrangements that have been made will be highly advantageous to our country. They show the good will which has animated both sides throughout the conference in an effort to resolve the difficulties that have arisen on the oil question.

"The fact that work in the petroleum region will be resumed immediately, is indeed the cause for great satisfaction. It will benefit the whole of the republic. Besides that, the precedent is established that no matter what difficulties may arise on the question they may be able of adjustment directly with the government, without any intermediary. It is easy to understand that this constitutes a great advance over what has been done in the past.

"The presidents of the oil companies were here to bid me farewell, as I was under the impression that have been attained."

Reports received here from Tampico say that that city, which has been in the doldrums throughout the entire critical period of the oil controversy was the scene Saturday night of impromptu celebrations when news was received of the settlement. According to Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, several oil tankers which have been anchored in Tampico for weeks will begin unloading tomorrow.

DOMINION STATES NOT SUGGESTED

with Great Britain and claiming as their fundamental and natural right to choose freely for themselves the path they shall take to realize their national destiny, have by an overwhelming majority declared for independence and to set up a republic and more than once have confirmed their choice.

"Second—Great Britain, on the other hand, acts as though Ireland were bound to her by a contract of union that forbids separation.

"The circumstances of the supposed contract are notorious. Yet on the theory of its validity, the British government and parliament claimed to rule and legislate for Ireland, even to the point of partitioning Irish territory against the will of the Irish people and killing or casting into prison every Irish citizen who refused allegiance. The proposals your government submitted in the draft of July 20 are based fundamentally on the latter premises. We rejected these proposals and our rejection is irrevocable.

Inferior To Free State.

They are not an invitation to Ireland to enter into a free and willing partnership with the free nations of the Irish commonwealth. They are invitations to Ireland to enter in the guise of, and under conditions which determine a status definitely inferior to that of these free states.

"Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand all are guaranteed against domination of the major state not only by acknowledged constitutional rights which give them equality of status with Great Britain and absolute freedom from the control of the British parliament, but by the thousands of miles which separate them from Great Britain. Ireland would have guarantees neither of distance nor of right. The conditions sought to be imposed would divide her into two artificial states, each destructive of the others influence in any common council, and both subject to military, naval and economic control by the British government.

Threaten Resistance

"The main historical and geographical facts are not in dispute but your government insists on viewing them from your standpoint and we must be allowed to view them from ours. The history you interpret as dictating union, we read as dictating separation. Our interpretation of the fact of 'geographical propinquinity,' is no less diametrically opposed. We are convinced that ours is the true and just interpretation and as proof are willing that a neutral and impartial arbitrator should be the judge. You refuse and threaten to give effect to your view by force. Our reply must be that if you adopt that course we can only resist as generations before us have resisted. Force will not solve the problem and it will never secure the ultimate victory over reason and right.

"If you again restore to force and if victory be not on the side of justice the problem that confronts us will confront our successors. The fact that for 750 years the problem has resisted solution by force is evidence and warning sufficient.

Prompted by Wisdom

"It is true wisdom, therefore, and true statesmanship, not any false idealism, that prompts me and my colleagues. Threats of force must be set aside. They must be set aside from the beginning as well as during actual conduct of the negotiations.

"The respective plenipotentiaries must meet untrammelled by any conditions save the facts themselves, and must be prepared to reconcile subsequent differences, not by appeals to force, covert or open, but by reference to some guiding principle on which there is common agreement. We have proposed the principles of government by consent of the governed, and do not mean it was a mere phrase, it is a simple expression of the test to which any proposed solution must respond if it is to prove adequate and it can be used as the criterion for the details as well as for the whole. That you claim it as a peculiarly British principle, instituted by the British and now the very life of the British commonwealth should make it peculiarly acceptable to you.

"On this basis, and this only, we see hope of reconciling 'the considerations which must govern the attitude' of Great Britain's representatives with the considerations that must govern the attitude of Ireland's representatives and on these basis we are ready at once to appoint plenipotentiaries."

HERRICK OF OKLAHOMA NEARLY GETS SELF WHIPPED BY SWEETHEARTS AND HUSBANDS OF BEAUTY CONTEST WINNERS

girls have male relatives. And the male relatives are out for blood—Herrick's blood.

John O'Brien, a husky machinist and husband of the young woman who until recently was Miss Thelma Spencer, was so enraged at the treatment his prize winning wife received at Herrick's hands that he spent two days looking for the congressman. He found him at his office toward the close of the second day. With O'Brien was C. A. Harbaugh, the father of another beauty who had been receiving attentions from Herrick.

A Strategic Retreat

When Herrick saw the pair he bolted for the door, and Harbaugh, a short elderly gentleman, swung at him with his umbrella. O'Brien tried to grab him, but Herrick got away, with the two men in hot pursuit. Help came to Herrick in time to prevent bloodshed.

What started all the trouble was an anonymous letter written by Mr. Herrick inviting forty-nine prize winning beauties of the capital to enter into a contest for his heart. The letter which was accompanied by a questionnaire, reads in part:

"Dear Miss: You have entered into one prize contest. You are now entering the second prize contest in which you may win. Do you wish to enter a third prize contest, the contest for the greatest prize on earth that any woman could ever win—the contest for the whole heart and soul love, and hand in marriage of one of the fifteen men who is now living on earth who can look God and all humanity square in the eye and say, 'Against my body and against my soul there rests no moral stain, for I have kept my soul and my body free from all moral stain in order that I may look my virgin bride in the eye without guilt and shame in my heart.

Modesty, Thy Name is Herrick!

"The girl who is the winner of this contest will have won the love of a man whose love will be so great that if that was the one and only prize that would purchase your soul salvation he would ransom your soul out of hell with the price of his own, and if you should enter this contest and be the winner it would go a long way toward assuring you of being the inner in the contest to become Miss Washington, for this man now holds one of the highest offices in the nation and will at a time not to exceed eight years hold the highest, and the girl who wins his love can rest assured that he will exert every atom of his powerful influence to have his sweetheart selected to be Miss Washington."

After describing himself in glowing terms the congressman closed by inviting the recipient of the letter to fill out the questionnaire which accompanied it. Some of the girls assert that they signed the questionnaire out of curosity or for the purpose of getting information to turn over to the postal authorities. On complaints from several of the families whose daughters had received communictaions from the congressman, the postal authorities informed Herrick that he must bring his "love contest" to an end.

FIND POET IN FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 4.—A poet in prison—what could be more romantic? But, unfortunately, dungeons are more alluring to those who are on the outside looking in than to the prisoner who longs to be free.

In Leavenworth prison is a young man, Charles Ashleigh. He writes poetry—good poetry, judging from the indications of "When I Go Out," written in prison. And he does not care for Leavenworth at all. In the first place, he is found of freedom. Then, he would like to see again his mother and sister in England. His friends, including some prominent in science and literature are seeking to interest President Harding in his case.

Sentenced in Chicago August 30, 1918, to a term of ten years and a fine of $30,000, he entered Leavenworth prison September 10, 1918, with about a hundred other members of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Ashleigh is 33 years old, and was born in London. His father, long since dead, was an architect and composer of popular tunes. At an early age young Ashleigh manifested literary talent. He went to private schools in England and French special courses in literature at foreign universities.

WHEN I GO OUT.

O be to me tender, leaves that wait outside
This sullen wall, and keep inviolate,
Until I come to you with love-dumb lips
From out of this dull tenement of hate.

Out of the fresh breathing of the earth
To draw allayment of my rasping fear.
My wonderings and my frettings, till my mind
Is soothed by winds that draw like nurses near.

To tend me on my bed of living grass
And all the bush of spring shall be my cover;
The hills shall stand as guards about my peace,
And the audacious sun shall be my lover. * * *

When I go out. * * * O roads of all the world!
O beauty, fields and cities, do not fall!
Wait, strong friends, my coming —let my heart
Once more drink glory on a careless trail!

CHARLES ASHLEIGH.
Leavenworth Prison.

West Adventuring.

Then, like many young literary people, he began to tire of the familiar hearth. He flung himself into the world—went to South America, became a member of the staff of the Buenos Aires Herald, an English daily newspaper, and literary critic of the Standard, another English sheet of the Argentine capital. Not that he remained in Buenos Aires for the entire time of his stay. He traveled extensively in his ardor for adventure, and crossed the Andes on foot, mule back and by canoe.

Perhaps it was because Ashleigh had savored George Bernard Shaw and William Morris that he acquired such eagerness to make the acquaintance of tramps. At any rate, on one of his expeditions he ran across a chalk sign on a rock by the trail side. It read: "Mike Going West." He followed the sign maker for four months, tracing him by his marks, at last found him wiping glasses in a saloon, and became his buddy.

It has been said that Ashleigh came to the United States because of Mike. His curiosity excited, they say, by the tales of the itinerant underworld told him by his friend, he decided to see the life for himself. Whatever the lure, he landed in America in 1912. He worked for the El Paso Herald, then for the San Francisco Bulletin and half a dozen other journals, did publicity work for various philanthropic agencies, gave readings of his poems, lectured on South America. In a word, he did anything and everything he could to make a living.

In 1913 the I. W. W. needed a publicity agent for the defense committee in the trial of one Tracy, committee in the trial of one Tracy, at Everett, Wash. Ashleigh was a clever journalist and he needed money. He was engaged by the organization. He became a member of the I. W. W., but held no official position.

Charged With Conspiracy.

The trial ended May 5, 1917. Ashleigh was no longer needed, so went to San Francisco again and got a job as financial and shipping writer for a business newspaper. He continued to work in San Francisco. He registered under the selective service act June 15, 1917. Then he was indicted for conspiracy to prevent the execution of the selective service act, the espionage act and other statutes.

He was amazed, but he went to the federal building, San Francisco, and surrendered himself to United States Commissioner Krull. After a month's confinement in the county jail he was taken under guard to Chicago. During his six months' imprisonment there he developed serious nervous trouble and was put under the care of a physician.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, learning of the condition of this young writer, sent his own nerve specialist for an examination. After the doctor's report the judge reduced Ashleigh's bail from $10,000 to $2,500, making it possible for the poet's friends to furnish the bail required.

When released, he was sworn in at the federal court at Chicago, as Spanish interpreter, there being a number of Spanish-speaking witnesses for the defense. Both the judge and the counsel for the government consented to have Ashleigh a defendant, interpret the questions of counsel during the cross-examination by the government.

August 20, 1918, Ashleigh was sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary and a fine of $30,000.

CLOSE MINES TO KEEP PRICES UP

TRUST ADMITS PLAN TO RESTRICT OUTPUT SO SLUMP WILL NOT AFFECT GEMS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The world has been put on diamond rations to regulate the price of diamonds. This announcement comes from South Africa.

South African mine owners recently decided on a restricted output of gems. Of the limited amount turned out the De Beers mines will supply 51 per cent ,the Premier Mine, 18 per cent, and the mines of the Southwest Protectorate 21 per. cent. Some of the famous mines have been closed down. Others are operating on only part time.

Announcement of this restricted out put was followed by another from the London Diamond Syndicate, the selling organization of the De Beers Mines, Ltd., which is the diamond trust, thta present diamond prices will be maintained. This ultimatum applies to rough diamonds. But as the South African mines supply 98 per cent of all the world's diamonds, the price of rough will be reflected in the price of polished gems.

The stand of the South African mine owners and the London Syndicate to prevent any cheapening of diamonds by reducing prices has been backed up by the allied diamond crafts of Amsterdam, the great market for polished gems. These tradesmen and brokers have offered financial help to small dealers to prevent forced sales and declare they will do everything in their power to keep diamond prices at present levels.

INDICATIONS POINT TO GENERAL RAIN

Threatening skies and electrical display with some scattering sprinkling of rain was general over this section early Monday morning, according to reports from the dispatchers' office of the local railroads and also from the Western Union.

While no report of actual rainfall to any extent was made, indications that a good general rain would result before day break were said to exist.

Local rainfall up to an early hour this morning was confined to intermittent sprinkling.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.

Cannelon of Beef.—Wipe tone and one-half pounds of lean beef, cut from round and finely chop. Add one-third cup finely chopped fat salt pork and season with salt and pepper Shape into a roll, wrap in buttered paper, place on rack in dripping pan and bake in a hot oven thirty-five minutes, basting every five minutes with buter mteited in boiling water, using three tablespoons butter and three-quarters cup water. Remove from paper to serving dish, surround with tomatoe sauce and garnish with parsley.

Templeton Stuffed Peppers—Wipe four long green peppers and parboil ten minutes in one quart of boiling water, to which has been added one-quarter teaspoon soda. Drain, cut in halves, lengthwise, remove seeds, stuff, arrange in pan, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown.

For the stuffing cook one-half tablespoon chopped onion, and one-half tablespoon green pepper, cut in small pieces, in two tablespoons of butter five minutes, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons flour mixed with one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, and a few grains of cayenne. Pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one-half milk; bring to boiling point, add one cup corn (grated) and cook five minutes; then add one egg, slightly beaten, and two-thirds cup dry bread, broken in very small pieces and fried in butter until well browned.

Egg Salad—Separate yolks and whites of four hard boiled eggs. Chop whites. Serve with French dressing.

MUSHROOM RECIPES.

Mushroom Catsup—Arrange layers of mushrooms and salt in preserving kettue; let stand on back of stove for twelve hours. Press through a sieve.

For each quart of mushroom liquor, add one pint vinegar, one tablespoon each of cloves, allspice, mace and mustard seed.

Pickled Mushrooms — Sufficient vinegar to cover the mushrooms; to each quart of mushrooms, two blades pounced mace, one ounce of ground pepper, salt to taste.

Choose some nice young button mushrooms for pickling; rub off the skin with a piece of flannel and salt, and cut off the stalks. If very large, take out the red inside and reject the black ones, as they are too old.

Put them in a stew pan, sprinkle salt over them, with pounded mace and pepper in the above proportion, shake them well over a clear fire until the liquor flows, and keep them there until it is all dried up again; then add as much vinegar as will cover them. Just let simmer for one jars for use. When cold, tie down with bladder and keep in a dry place. They will remain good for a considerable time, and are generally considered delicious.

FOOD AND BEAUTY

The chief source of grace of body, charm of countenance and a clear complexion is health. It has been said that "muscle is the plastic material of beauty." The reason so many thin persons are angular and uncomely is to be attributed to a poor development of muscle. Thin people often assert that it is impossible for them to make fat even through a specialied diet. But I have never met the man or woman under middle-age who is incapable of adding muscle to the frame.

The gawky girl of 17 who is distressed by her lack of rotundity may not be able to add much fat to her tissues by means of milk, buter and bacon. But she can develop muscle by sensible feeding and sufficient bodily exercise.

When I advised a Spanish woman to ride a bicycle for health, she said her countrywomen feared cycling "because it makes women fat." In a sense she was right; that is to say, proper exercise will undoubtedly increase the bulk of a thin figure by adding muscle.

Spare figures can certainly be improved by food and exercise. Many thin people are flabby and not wiry, and that is why their outlines are unesthetic.

The thin man or woman should dismiss the idea that physical inaction will assist in their case in an increase of weight. Laziness may be the cause of thinness.

Many thin persons have indigestion and poor appetites. Both of these are factors of malnutrition and an ill-developed form. If the inert thin woman can be induced to take plenty of exercise out of doorh she will correct the dyspesia and gain a healthy appetite. We cannot hope to build tissue if the appetite is feeble and the digestion impaired. Exercise necessitates an increased intake of food.

The foods for the thin are fats, starches such as potatoes and rice, and sugar. In some cases it may be advisable to double the quantity of fluid taken daily.

The corpulent must avoid free indulgence in fats, starch foods, and liquids and take exercise that will induce perspiration.

Under-feeding and over-feeding are both foes to beauty.

The complexion of the over-nourished person is coarsely colored and unwholesome, while the under-fed are pale, anemic, or yellow-tinted.

The utterly groundless fear that sunshine produces freckles prevents a host of women from breathing the outer air and benefitting by the restorative and beautifying influence of sun upon the skin.

Fresh air is an absolute essential of beauty. It is almost useless to prescribe a diet for beauty if the system is starved for lack of pure air and the circulatory and digestive functions are working only at half-time rate. Beauty is the product of pure blood and the right quality of red corpuscles.—Walter M. Galihan, Dietician, in The oCntinental Edition of London Mail.

PRACTICAL SHOWER FOR FALL BRIDE

In way of novel ideas this sort of a party for a fall bride may be different and create much merriment.

Twelve intimate friends of one bride and groom got together and made out a list of articles often forgotten in the best of regulated families, then on an appointed date they had a little "movie" party and afterward went to the home of one of the girls for a supper. After the feast a huge paper sack was brought in and deposited at the feet of the happy pair, who were seated with much pomp and ceremony under a huge floral horseshoe on a divan. They were told to open the bag at any time in their honeymoon, which was to be spent in their own new bungalow, and they would find many "missing" articles. Here are a few of the things the bag contained: Paper of tacks, ball of string, ice pick, paper of needles, a box of "bachelor buttons," labels of all kinds, box of matches, tack hammer, cork screw, memorandum pad, bottle of ink, pen points, pencils, rubber bands, bit of art gum, tube of paste, pair of kitchen scissors and a broom brush. Nearly every package was accompanied by some sentiment or bit of advice as to how to be happy though married.—From the Chicago Daily News.

FURS INDICATE TREND OF STYLES

The coming winter will find milady favoring fur even more than she did last year. Although almost every one boasted a fur coat or fur trimmed wrap last season that will stand as nothing compared to the fur frocks and fur shoes which have been added to the list of fur things this season. Pictured here are three styles in wraps which show the trend of the new fur fashions.

A strikingly beautiful coat of Persian broadtail and monkey fur combined makes the youthful model at the left, which the debutante will like for both afternoon and evening wear. In the center is a lovely coat of the finest eastern mink. Wide sleeves and a deep collar make for its graceful lines. The extreme wrap for the woman of fashion is shown at the right. It is a voluminous cape of fitch for evening wear.

The long wraps cut on plentiful lines are much more popular just now than the shorter sports models, but as the winter approaches the sport models will undoubtedly hold their own. Beaver, broadtail, squirrel and seal are among the most wanted pelts. The short fur seems to be a favorite this season, the shorter the better.

Fur trimming, which is different from the pelts used in the fur coats, is another feature that marks the new wraps. Black collars and cuffs on gray coats is smart and brown and gray on black. Fitch is also used on black.

With the Women of Today

Miss Florence Baker Child.

The fact that Boston has a million-dollar corporation that has started plans for a combination woman's hotel, club and recreational center is partly due to Miss Florence Baker Child, who is executive organizer and vice-president of the corporation. The recreational center was the heart of the Durant plan which is the name of the organization.

On January 4, 1921, The Durant, Inc., received its charter from the commonwealth of Massachusetts. During the three months from March to June the membership had a phenomenal growth of from 200 to 5,000 and plans are now being made to increase the number to 10,000 and ultimately to 20,000. It is hoped to have the building ready for occupancy within two years.

It was as president and active worker in the Durant Gymnasium club, the oldest club in the United States, composed of over ninety per cent. business and professional women that Miss Child realized the need of such a recreational center and club home for women. As a member of the organization committee she devoted many months to the working out of plans and the investigation of gymnasiums, and women's social and athletic clubs throughout the United States. The slogan of the women interested in The Durant, is "A sound mind in a sound body."

Miss Child although a New Englander by birth and heritage, is not bound by the traditional reserve and conservatism, but has somehow been endowed with the so-called western spirit and enthusiasm which shows in all her endeavors.

BACK TO THE KITCHEN.

The British ministry of labor reports that the tide finally has turned and that girls who had become accustomed to war service in factories are again seeking places as domestics. Parlormaids, mothers' helpers and children's nurses are the three most popular positions, but a few applyications are also being made for the place of cook and even for the despised job of cook and general houseworker.

The ministry has established training centers where girls after spending thirty hours a week for thirteen weeks get places through the ministry's employment agencies. The first set of graduates was sent out to fill places last week and the housewives are besieging the agencies for more of them.

HOUSE CLEANING TIME IS IN FALL

As the time for fall house cleaning approaches, one thinks of brightening up dingy rooms with new furnishings. The cretonnes shown in the early autumn sales are just the thing to give tone to the room in which the furniture is beginning to show wear. For overdrapes at windows nothing is prettier than the soft-toned floral patterns, while for that doorless doorway richer tones in parrot and bluebird designs and autumn scenes are artistic. Even that sanitary couch that serves for the occasional guest would look more inviting if its one time charming tapestry cover, now worn and faded, were replaced with cretonne. Six yards will be required for the cover. The width of the material in couch length will form the upper section. To three sides of this the remainder is attached slightly full.

Recovering chairs with cretonne will not be found difficult if in removing the wornout material one notices how it is put on and follows this plan.

NEW WOMEN IDEA IN CHINA

About the only thing of modern times to which China has not laid claim as being so old in that country that it was outworn and discarded centuries ago, is the new woman with a magazine of her very own published in the interest of her development. This publication, called the New Woman, boldly states as its object the reform of the old society to give a more honorable place to women, and the new woman is described as "a joyous being, of honest occupation, complete personality, free, independent and mutually helpful."

Yet the new woman of China comes in for some criticism, for among the things she is exhorted to cultivate are plain living and dressing, which, the writer goes on to say, was the rule in old China, but that now women wish to keep up with the styles and wear jewels. They are reminded that the chief thing about good dressing is to wear clean clothing. Another admonition to the new woman of China which might indicate she is prone to err, just like the new woman of any other land, is that she put far away from her the desire for empty glory of "face."

In other respects the things commended for the new woman seem to be along the same lines as in other lands—the cultivation of strength of will to go outside the home and mingle with others and take part in public affairs, and to discard the clinging vine habit of looking to the men for everything.—Pitsburgh Dispatch.

CHINESE BUILD "WIDOW ARCHES"

Scattered over many of the hills of China are curious monuments of stone called "widow arches," each one standing alone usually by a roadside in commemoration of faithful wife who, in ancient days, killed herself at the death of her husband. A widow who wished to make this sacrifice would, after a short lapse of time, announce her intention of committing suicide. The members of her family would erect a high stage for her and invite relatives and friends to attend the ceremony. At the chosen hour the lady would hand serself, and a high stone arch would later be erected as a memorial of her devotion and heroism.

In the Chinese family the widow who does not remarry receives honor and veneration second only to the mother-in-law. With age she acquires added authority. She is not forbidden to remarry, but the conditions of second marriage are made difficult enough to discourage any but the most intrepid. The children of her first husband remain in the house of his people and the family of her second husband do not give her any too cordial a welcome.—M. T. F. in September Asia.

MOVIELAND

Charlie Chaplin, photographed a few days ago in New York.

The west coast must be a rather dull place these days with Doug and Mary, Theda Bara, Charlie Chaplin, and Jack Dempsey all parading up and down old Broadway. Chaplin is on his way to Europe. He expects to sail soon for England. He will visit London, Paris, Madrid and Turkey, resting several months before returning to these United States to start his next picture. Cahrlie, by the way, says his next picture will be filled with pathos, not comedy, something on the lines of "Pagliacci."

Mr. Chaplin's big salary or his hard work must worry him, for he has accumulated a crop of gray hairs worthy of any statesman or retired banker. His smile, however, is far from a worried one.

POLA NEGRI AGAIN

That Pola Negri, brilliant continental actress, and Ernest Lubitsch foremost of European directors, are destined to retain for some time the prestige which they have gained on the screen in America is indicated by the latest news.

What is described as the most ambitious production in which they have yet figured will be released this fall in the theaters of the United States under the tiltle of "One Arabian Night," according to announcement just made by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which has imported the film.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

ARLINE'S NEW PLANS.

After that first meeting Ned and Arline met quite frequently. Now for dinner or again for the theater. She was always at her brightest on these occasions, and becomingly dressed. There was no keeping up with her high spirits.

"A vacation certainly does you a world of good," laughed Ned one night as they were coming out of the theater. Arline had been her most hilarious all during the show and kept him in gales of merriment.

"I feel like sixteen again. It's wonderful just to be happy and young and care-free—and with—with someone——" Here she stopped herself quickly, and instead of "someone you care for" she added, "someone who is an old friend."

"I'll say so," answered Ned quickly. This girl always made a fellow feel that he was the whole world. That she was having the best sort of a time just because of being with with him. No wonder she was popular with men.

They went in for a bite of supper and here again Arline seemed alive and happy. Munching and forgetful of time, the two sat telling each other of the day's events. Ned had had a letter from Cherry in which she told him the home news and how much she missed him. With what pride he mentioned this to his companion may be imagined. It was the most loving letter he had received from his wife and Ned had been properly touched. After all, they were deeply in love. Their little differences could be adjusted.

Arline listened to his outburst with smiling lips, although inwardly she was seething. How could she ever hope to fight this? All very well when things went wrong between them. But if a letter from Cherry could make Ned so joyful, he must really love her.

Then she spoke of her income, lightly! Her father had increased it. She felt that she would like to do something worth while with such an astonishing sum. Maybe sink it into some business. She even hinted at becoming a future member of Burroughs and Randall? Surely the two would welcome a substantial sum. It would be such fun for her to feel that she was a little bit boss as well as secretary.

At this new howled with amusement, called her a baby, and assured her that for her own sake she had better keep far away from the business world, save in her present capacity. It would only cause another good man's heart to ache. He spoke from experience.

The wily Arline said nothing in response to this. Merely smiled and looked away.

It was at this point in their tete a tete that an old friend of Cherry's walked into the restaurant with her escort. She saw New and came sailing up to the table with a radiant smile.

"Well, of all people, Ned Randall. Where's Cherry," as she saw a stranger seated opposite him.

"Too busy to come with me this trip; have her here next, though," he assured Daisy, as he introduced her to Miss Bates. The two girls nodded, then Daisy excused herself and went back to her own table.

"Dear me, I hope this will not make trouble for you, Ned," burst from Arline as soon as the girl was gone.

"Trouble? Why on earth should there be trouble?" asked Ned in astonishment. "Can't two old friends meet by accident and have a bite or a few happy hours together without expecting trouble?"

"I should certainly think so, but you never can tell," answered Arline, looking a little bit mournful.

WELCOME
VISITING TEACHERS

—Our ready-to-wear department is replete with new garments for Fall. The suits have many new style points and fabrics and colors are unusually alluring. Fur-trimmed garments are more than ever in vogue, though prices are much lower than they were last season.

—Our assortment of street and evening dresses should appeal to you, especially as they combine the style and finish of high priced apparel with very moderate pricings.

—Millinery styles abound in feathers, bright colors and novel shapes, and these, too, emphasize the radical difference in the prices of this year when compared with the prices you have been accustomed to.

—Our piece goods department will be a treat to you. There is a wide range of patterns and colors—silks, satins, Georgettes and as pretty a lot of ginghams as you have ever seen.

—We will greatly appreciate a visit from you.

VIEWS OF A TEXAS KRUPP GUNMAN

(Dr. Atticus Webb in the Home and State.)

The Wichita Falls Record News says: "Dr. Atticus Webb has whispered in the large ear of the senate committee on criminal jurisprudence how hooch is handled." And further says: "Dr. Atticus is always springing something sensational and able to catch the scent of hooch a hundred miles away and knows that county officers everywhere are in combination with hooch sellers. If the doctor had as large a stock of vision as he has imagination he would be the ninth wonder of the world."

Well, well, well! So it has come to this at last, that in the mind of The Record News Texas is approaching the date of producing the ninth wonder of the world. However, it may be possible that Dr. Webb's vision is larger and his imagination smaller than The Record News thinks. The Anti-Saloon League is in touch with conditions in the state of Texas and is not unmindful of the fact that Wichita Falls is within the state of Texas, and investigations repeatedly prove that the scent of hooch may be caught in this little city and not from a hundred miles distant.

It is also true that the Anti-Saloon League is keeping close on the trail of civil officers and is keeping well informed as to their actions relative to the enforcement of our prohibition law. It is a well established fact that moonshiners and bootleggers are scarce in the counties where county officers do their best to enforce the law, but in counties where the officers are not in sympathy with the prohibition enforcement, bootleggers and moonshiners flourish.

The Record News further says: "There is only one legitimate way to handle it. Pour it into a large size glass container. If there is no container present or near by, drink out of the bottle. That's the way they did in 'the good old days'." We take it that The Record News must be familiar with this method of disposing of that which is known as hooch. However that may be, such editorials give encouragement to those who seek to make such disposition of it.

The Record News also says: "Gone are the saloons, the distillery and the brewery, never to return. There are bootleggers and moonshiners, of course, but why shoot Krupp guns at sparrows?" Yes, they are gone. They won't come back. But the power by which they were supported in the "good old days" is still alive and full of energy. This power is the pro-genitor of the bootlegger and moonshiners and their supporters and these are not "sparrows," they are carefully organized, heavily financed, seeking as in all past, to corrupt public morals, destroy human society, and the best qualities of American citizenship. Sparrows; no, but vultures seeking not that which is decayed for their food, but for their prey seeking the fairest and brightest and best in our American homes, heeding not the cries of the helpless innocents nor the sobs of threatened virtue, caring only for the achievement of their own selfish ends in destroying that which is right and pure and good.

We extend our heartiest thanks to The Record News for saying that we shoot "Krupp guns," the most terrible implement known to modern warfare. With the famous Krupp guns the old world was made to tremble when they discharged their mighty and far-reaching missiles of death.

Thank you, Record News, thank you. Again we turned our batteries upon the liquor power and shall not be satisfied until the last defense has been destroyed and its last power placed in chains until the echo of the shout shall be heard around the world that in America the Lord God Omnipotent reigns.

THOMAS A BITING CRITIC

Administration of federal government in the United States was attacked in an address before the annual convention of the American Bar association by former Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, who declared this country had turned from "representative republic to a continental democracy."

Encroachment of federal authority on states' rights was criticised by the former senator and federal expenditures were declared a "riot of waste and profligacy which has long disgraced the country's affairs. Republicans and Democrats are not meeting upon a common ground," Mr. Thomas said, "with even the tariff a basis for common plunder."

Both great parties, he said, practiced identical methods of administration which has so altered the American government that its transformation is threatened. Public opinion only, he added, could remedy the "sinister conditions" before the country and urged the American bar to foster such opinion.

"MOST PEOPLE HAVE MADE THEIR LANDING"

"The vital point in the general business situation today is that there has been improvement," says a report today by the Liberty Central Trust Company of St. Louis. A questionnaire was sent to 275 banks, chiefly in Southern Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma.

Conditions are usually better than at the beginning of summer, says the report. It will be a cause for still further encouragement to note that 76 per cent of the replies to our questionnaire sum up general conditions as "fair," and 8 per cent "good," leaving only 16 per cent viewing the situation as "poor."

This perhaps may seem a bit too optimistic; but it is the verdict of those whose daily duties require a close knowledge of the true state of affairs.

Localities reporting "good" conditions, as well as those reporting "poor," are for the most part scattered, although in a considerable portion of Southern and Southeastern Missouri our correspondents join in taking a rather less favorable view than the average.

The report continues that the main cause for this improvement is the harvest. In parts of the territory, the cotton sections for example, there has been no harvest as yet. Where crops have been marketed, however, and sufficient time has elapsed, the great majority of replies indicate a change for the better.

This is in spite of a strongly expressed conviction that prices of farm products are still well out of line with the cost of commodities in general.

Crops, the report shows, are satisfactory in the main, the outstanding feature being a fine outlook for abundant feed, corn in much of the territory promising a record yield.

The poor condition of the livestock industry is emphasized, although hog-raising is on a profitable basis here and there. In the southern sections, dairying is on the increase, in line with the growing tendency toward a more diversified agriculture.

Regarding other points in the general situation the report goes on to say:

Retail buying is showing some improvement in many, although not the majority, of the localities from which data came. With a handful of exceptions, it is far below the August, 1920, mark; in some cases, 50 per cent or even more.

The building outlook is relatively bright. Building is on the increase, according to 40 per cent of the replies received. Where it is not increasing, in many cases it is already fairly active. The outlook is described as "fair" in 60 per cent of the reports.

Both present activity and future prospects appear to be best in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Coal mining is generally quiet. The lumber industry is "poor" to "fair", with many complaints about high freight rates. The oil business is quiet.

As outlined to us the situation today furnishes no justification for great optimism as to the immediate future. There is no cause for pessimism, for there has been improvement, and it is likely the situation will become still better when the effects of harvest have been fully felt.

As expressed by one of our correspondents, "Most people have made their landing and realize where they are."

"LEST WE FORGET"

The Dean law as amended by the bill which received executive approval relieves the state of negative exceptions in indictments for violation of the law; thus the burden of proof that liquor is used for medicinal, mechanical, scientific or sacramental purposes now lies upon the defense and not on the state, as has been the case heretofore. The bill also amends the law so as act of sale, when the purchaser or possessor of liquor not an accomplice in the prohibited purchase of liquor is entirely repealed. Hence it is now no longer a violation of the state law to purchase liquor, but those who advocated passage of this bill believe it will hereafter be extremely embarrassing for the seller and consequently much more difficult for a purchase to take place. The bill also contains a section taking away the benefits of the suspended sentence from those over 25 years of age who are convicted for violation of the Dean law. Legislation of this character was requested by Governor Neff in his message to the first called session of the Thirty-Seventh Legislature. A bill with a similar purpose was sought by the governor at the regular session, but was defeated in the house. The bill passed was introduced by Representative Morris of Medina and amended by Representative Crumpton of Bowie. The bill goes into effect November 14, 1921, or 90 days after adjournment of the first called session.

BEFORE THE FLOOD GATES CLOSED

Immigrants admitted to the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30 numbered 805,228, as compared with 430,001 for the previous fiscal year and with an average of 1,034,940 during the pre-war years from 1910 to 1914, it is shown in figures made public by the Bureau of Immigration. Non immigrant aliens admitted during the year numbered 172,395, making a grand total of 978,163.

Departures from the country during the last year included 247,718 immigrants and 178,313 non-immigrant aliens, a total of 426,031. In the preceding fiscal year 288,315 immigrant and 139,747 non-immigrant aliens departed.

During the fiscal year 4517 aliens were deported from the United States to the countries from whence they came. These included 1268 Mexicans, 389 English, 380 Russians, 252 Germans and 246 Italians. Of the total, 446 were deported on charges that they were anarchits.

Commissioner General Husband in announcing the figures said immigration was rapidly assuming its pre-war rate when the new percentage immigration law went into effect. The new law barely affected immigration for the fiscal year, he said, as it did not go into effect until June 3. The commissioner estimated the law probably reduced immigration that month about 50,000.

"LOCHINVAR HERRICK"

"The folks of the Eighth Oklahoma congressional district should arrange to come up to Washington and take Congressman Manuel Herrick away," says the Philadelphia Ledger. "He ought to be back on his farm near Perry with his Herrick's Giant Yellow Corn and his Herrick's Copper-Faced Hereford Steers, Manuel is about to get into trouble; in fact, he is neck-deep in trouble right now.

"His colleagues of the special session of congress are seriously worried about where and how Manuel may break out next. At present he is being chased in and out of offices of fellow members and generally hustled and chivied around town by irate husbands and fathers. In brief, Manuel is getting a lot of fat, black headlines. It seems that he is the Love-Letter Lochinvar of the Great Southwest and has been making himself highly obnoxious to several of the good-looking young women of Washington.

"Summed up, Manuel of the Copper-Faced Herefords has been making an empurpled ass of himself. He is not doing the people of the Eighth District of the state of Oklahoma or the congress of the United States any good. Post-office inspectors and policemen are being worried by him and about him. He is likely to be beaten out flatter than a thin dime most any hour of most any day. That is how popular Manuel has become in Washington.

"The serious side of the affair is that this person from Oklahoma's Eighth District can and does cast just as weighty a vote as Mondell, Madden, Longworth, Kahn or any other congressman. His vote will and does affect serious matters that are of vital interest to every man, woman and child in the United States. His mental capacity may be guessed from the sort of silliness that he has been carrying on.

"Manuel ought to be back between the serried rows and the waving tassels of his Giant Yellow Corn. He should be keeping the company of his contemplative Copper-Faced Herefords in the back pasture. Doubtless the Copper-Faced Herefords are more or less accustomed to him and won't mind. Manuel should never have left the 'Cherokee Strip.'

"Will the folks in the Oklahoma Eighth District please come up and take Manuel back to the Yellow Corn and the Herefords? Or will they put some sort of a restraint upon him? He is too much for Washington and the Atlantic seaboard."

Rippling Rhymes

THE HAPPY FACE

Put on your happy face, my friend, and seek the thronging marts, and, as on sprightly limbs you wend, cheer up desponding hearts. One bouyant, cheerful, whistling chap, helps others by his mood; some delegate who sees your map may find his hope renewed. I know I've felt at divers times that life's a ten-cent game, that like a grapevine trouble climbs around the human frame. And, feeling thus, upon the fence I'd lean and shed some brine; ay, though it had no lick of sense, this dippy course was mine. And then some joyous jay appeared, with shunshine in his glim; I'd wring the briny from my beard and go and prance with him. Contagious is the cheer-up smile that happy people wear; contagious also is the bile that makes you seem a bear. Put on your happy face, old scout, and see it's rightly clamped, and as you chase yourself about you'll have the people vamped. They'll be ashamed of little griefs o'er which they used to sigh, when viewing one who never beefs as he goes whizzing by. Put on your happy face, my boy, and tie the strings behind, and try to show that life's a joy, and not a dreary grind.

Breakfast Stories

When George Ade and Ort Wells went around the world together, a steamship agent at Rangoon "done 'em dirt." They had paid extra fare on a stateroom to hold it all the way from Calcutta to Singapore, but the British agent at Rangoon crowded another passenger into their cubby-hole.

Clear up to the middle of sailing, they fussed with the agent, but he was a snarling, sallowed wreck of human kind, and they were in a strange land; 'twasn't any use.

It was a desperately hot morning and the agent was the only white man in sight. Just before the gangplank was pulled in, Wells walked over to the agent and said:

"You have played us a contemptible trick, but we are going to get even with you."

"Oh, you are, are you?" says he. "I should jolly well like to know how you intend to get even."

"Well," replied Wells, solemnly, "we are about to leave this place and you have to stay here."

All the way out of the harbor they could see him still standing there trying to figure it out.

"Why did you put the sign over your desk, 'This is my busy day?'"

"It makes a good impression," answered Senator Sorghum, "when an influential constitutent calls."

"But it might give offense."

"Not at all. It adds to a visitor's sense of importance when I give him a cigar and tell him I want a long chat with him."

Sunday school teacher asked a small girl the other day why Ananias was so severely punished. The little one thought a minute, then answered: "Please, teacher, they weren't so used to lying in those days."

Who's Who

KING ALEXANDER OF SERBIA

DOINCE ALEXANDR

Alexander, son of the late King Peter of Serbia, soon is to be crowned king of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. He is the great-grandson of the first Prince of Serbia, Karageorge who left his occupation of herding pigs and led the peasants in their first victorious fight for independence from the Turks. One hundred years later sees al lthe south Slavs united into one great independent state, nearly as large as France, with Karageorge dynasty in its fourth generation firmly established at the head.

The new king, Alexander, was born in exile in Montenegro in 1888, before his father was called to take up the throne of Serbia. His education, like that of his father is thoroughly French. On the accession to the throne of King Peter, in 1903, French influence and culture were introduced into Serbia for the first time to any marked degree. Alexander, during his regency, has consistently carried this on, broadening it to include English and American institutions and western culture in general to replace the oriental and German influences that had been so long the curse of the people.

Alexander is a man of pleasing appearance. Dark, of course, with frank kindly eyes that look at you openly through eyeglasses; about 5 feet 7 inches tall and straight as a ramrod, he has a soliderly bearing. His manners are at once courtly and democratic. He has led campaigns in three modern wars and has lived abroad and traveled through every country of Europe.

progress, effort should be directed to secure maximum citizenship co-operation with teaching forces, to achieve better results. Either—home, school and church—in combination fail, or there might be allegations made that people no longer respect law and order or that anarchism is growing. The combination of home and home community and school, might get together and make 1921-1922 best year yet in Texas educational progress. Mighty little interest and work on part of all, would more than offset the lack of the extra money the legislature refused to vote."

"If industry be the highest achievement of the people, as it is, what higher duty can the law have than to protect the fruits of industry for all classes alike" said Chief Justice Nelson Phillips in a recent address. "It is the highest duty of the legal profession to keep the law respected. It must be kept so high that none will be above it; so far reaching that none will be deprived of its advantages. There is no security without law. But to keep the law respected we must keep it respectable. It must be founded on common sense and justice; it must be of the people. We are coming to trust the moral sense of the public with nothing. We are writing laws to covr everything. The Romans tyrant wrote his laws so high the people could not read them; we are writing ours so voluminously that none can understand them. We owe it to the honor and integrity of a great race to end this regime of paternalism. It is breednig disrespect for the law and reducing man to petty state subserviency. We want the people to love the government, but no one has ever yet loved a paternal government. I would vastly rather this country should be a free country than that it should be a rich or powerful country Let us prove that this age has as high ideals and sets as much store by human liberty as that race on which the Republic was founded. The Chief Justice declared that he believed thoroughly in a high standard of admission to the bar, but has no patience with the claim that a man must have a college education before he can be admitted. I would have a high standard, but I would make it possible for the young man who would study at night or in an attorney's office to be admitted to practice," he said. "The ancients had their Babel of tongues, but we're pressing them close. We are turning from a thinking Nation into a talking Nation. Attorneys who once thought, as a class, that they alone were endowed with the power and privileges of oratory now find themselves out-classed at every luncheon club meeting. Greatest Extra Vote Offer of the Campaign Now Open

100,000 EXTRA VOTES FOR $30.00 CLUBS OF SUBSCRIPTIONS

—In order to assist each and every energetic candidate to get an early start, The Record News has decided to present the following liberal offer: For each and every club of $30.00 worth of subscriptions sent in on or before Saturday, October 1st, 100,000 extra votes will be given. These votes are in addition to the regular number given as shown on the cover of the contestant's receipt book. Candidates will not be limited to the number of clubs they secure. Every $30.00 worth of subscriptions will count as a club. Candidates should turn in all subscriptions as they secure them, as the campaign department will keep an accurate record of all the subscriptions received at the end of this period.

—The Campaign Manager will issue a special vote ballot to cover the extra votes due and mail them direct to the candidate. The regular votes will be issued as the subscriptions are turned in and by turning them in as you secure them the subscribers will receive their paper promptly. This offer is positively the BIGGEST SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY of the entire campaign. Subscriptions will be worth more votes now than they will be later. Do your best now! Every subscriber is of vital importance! Try to make this offer place you safely in the winning list. Remember don't hold your subscriptions—turn them in as fast as you get them. This is for the subscribers' benefit as well as your own.

SPUDDERS LOSE ONE AND GIVE ONE AWAY AT DALLAS; AFTER MONTH IN LEAD DROP BEHIND

Skipper Salm and his smitten but Struggling Spudders were decorating second place last night for the first time since August 3, when they went into the lead by one point, by virtue of dropping both ends of a bargain bill to Dallas Sub-Marines while the Panthers were mauling Billy Smith's crew to the tune of 8 to 1. The Spudders are a little less than one game behind.

The double loss made five games in a row dropped by the Spudders—the worst set back they have experienced since before pulling out of the cellar in the last days of May.

The first game was a clean cut win on the part of the Hampats, Lefty Swartz having the Spudders on his hip all the way through the session to the 3 to 1 win. The Spudders were able to nick Swartz for only one tally, and that by the grace of an error. Errors contributed toward two of Dallas' three markers.

Second a Gift.

Loose battery work, chiefly in the receiving end, accounted for the second loss, which was taken to Dallas 5 to 4, after Cecil Griggs and other members of the wrecking crew had pulled it out of the fire a couple of times.

Skipper Salm continued to suffer at the hands of fans by reason of his over abundance of ball players—getting the razz from the fans when he did make a substitution and when he didn't when the player in question failed to deliver.

Dallas pushed one over on the go in the opening game when in the first Munson, first man to face Ramsey, drove a hard one to the box, being safe on first before Ramsey, after stopping the drive, could recover and throw him out. He scored immediately after when Skinner doubled to right. Robertson, however, ended matters for an inning when he hit into a double play, and Galloway followed with an easy out.

Dallas annexed another in the next round on Mattick's single, Segrist's sacrifice and Clark's error, the Spudder second sacker throwing wild to first after fielding Falk's grounder, allowing Mattick to cross the platter.

Spuds Lose On Errors.

Galloway's error was responsible for a Spudder tally in the seventh. Allen singled and took second on a passed ball. Griggs laid one down, sending Allen to third; Miller walked and Kitchens grounded to the shortstop, forcing Miller, but allowing Allen to score when Galloway dropped the throw for completion of the double play.

The Marines annexed their last in the eighth when Segrist was safe at first when Johnston allowed Tanner's throw to get through him, Segrist going to second. Falk sacrificed him to third, and Stow scored him with a sacrifice fly.

Hollingsworth had the Marines on his hip until the fourth inning, after which his own wildness, coupled with loose work on the part of his battery mates, Bischoff and Kitchens, and aided by a timely knock or two on the part of the opposition, proved his undoing. Cliff Hill was never a mystery to the Spudders, although they were unable to make their hits count in the early innings. Harper was little better, but Snipe Conley proved effective in the closing chapters.

Spudders Take Lead.

The Spudders took the lead in the fourth inning when Griggs singled to left field, and scored on Miller's two sacker to center. Jake crossed the pan himself when Bischoff repeated with a double to left. Hollingsworth laid one down sending Bischoff to third, but Smiler was caught at the plate when Johnston on an attempted squeeze dumped the ball directly in front of the plate.

The Marines came back with three counters in their own half of the same inning. Skinner opened the round by lofting out to Griggs, but Shangling followed with a single to right. Galloway beat out a hit on a slow rounder to Tanner, Shangling, Galloway taking third.

Both Galloway and Mattick were scored immediately after by Segrist's single to left. Segrist took second on Griggs' vain attempt for Mattick at the plate. Segrist took third on a passed ball, and Hollingsworth parked one in Falk's ribs, putting that individual on first.

Stow lifted a fly to center field, and further scoring was stopped by Allen, who threw Grist out at the plate.

Spudders Hit Some More.

The Spudders came right back to regain their lead in the next inning, Tex McDonald blazing the way with a double to left field. Tex advanced on Clark's sacrifice. At this juncture Harper relieved Hill. Knowing Jack's great love for pinch hitters, possibly, Walter sent Josefson in at this point to bat for Allen, and the Dallas flinger was only able to get one good one across in five tries, putting Red on first. Red stole second after the count was two and two on Griggs, and both he and Tex romped home a moment later on Cecil's healthy wollop to right field. Griggs was caught off first a moment later, and Miller popped to Falk, ending another promising Spud rampage.

It was at this point that the Spudder battery completely blew up. Nokes, who went in to hit for Harper, was struck out by Hollingsworth, but got to first when Bischoff let the third strike get through him. He took second when Bischoff fumbled a pitch. Kitchens relieved Bischoff. Nokes took third on a passed ball. Munson drew four wild ones. Skinner singled to right field, scoring Nokes, Munson going to second. Sewell took the slab at this juncture. Shangling sacrificed and was out, Sewell to Clark, the latter covering first. Munson moved up to third and Skinner to second. Munson scored on Galloway's infield out to Tanner, and Mattick ended the inning with a fly to Josefson.

DALLAS DEFEAT REFLECTED HERE BY BLACK CATS

While the white Spudders were taking a double beating at Dallas Sunday, the black Spudders of the colored Texas league also went down in bitter defeat in two games to the Fort Worth black Cats, 10-3 and 6-3 at the local league park. The black Cats lived up to their name as trouble makers and outplayed the locals in every department especially in the fielding.

Errors contributed chiefly to the defeat by the locals, while inability to hit in the pinches kept the Spudders scores down.

Batteries for the first game were: Fort Worth: Reed and Gee; Wichita Falls, Robertson and Pardee. Second game, Fort Worth, Haynes and Prince; Wichita Falls, Bennett and Bagbee.

Another bargain bill will be offered at the local park today, the first game starting at 3 p. m. Reserved seats are available for white fans and returns from the Dallas-Spudder games will be given at the park each inning.

BEAR CATS TAKE TIGERS' SCALPS

The Wichita "Bear Cats" easily defeated the Wichita "Tigers" Sunday, the score being 11 to 3. R. Pearson pitched a good game for the "Bear Cats," holding the opposition to four hits, and was also accorded better support than was Williamson, the opposing pitcher.

ON A RISING SCALE

"Yes," said the old man to his visitor. "I am proud of my girls and would like to see them comfortably married, and as I have made a little money they will not go penniless to their husbands.

"There is Mary, 25 years old, and a really good girl. I shall give her $1,000 when she marries. Then comes Bet, who won't see 35 again. I shall give her $3,000, and the man who takes Eliza, who is 40, will have $5,000 with her."

The young man reflected a moment and then asked, "You haven't one about 50, have you?"—Glasgow Herald.

CATS CLIMB INTO LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 4.—Playing brilliant ball, behind Bill Whittaker's classy twirling, Fort Worth won the opening game of the series from Shreveport 8 to 1, and forged into the lead in the race for the Texas league gonfalon. Timely hits, coupled with Meis' wildness and infield errors, helped the locals to annex the contest. The score:

INCREASED RAIL EARNINGS GIVE STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Increased railroad earnings, more activity in many of the essential industries and encouraging reports from various trade centers were accelerating factors in the higher range of prices on the stock exchange this week.

According to commission houses, however, there was only a moderate revival of public interest, the bulk of the dealings again representing curtailment of short contracts. Board room gossip credited one of the most prominent bear operators with a complete reversal of position.

In the bond market improvement was even more pronounced aside from the success which attended the underwritings from Brazil and Uruguay old time bonds and many of the European state and municipal issues denoted investment accumulation.

Trading in securities was overshadowed occasionally by the furious activity at higher prices in the cotton market. A very large part of the week's shifting or transfer of bank funds was due to enormous operations in that staple.

The advent of September marked the expiration of many large industrial and commercial loans. These were extended in most instances at original rates, but western and southern banks reported further liquidation of loans on grains and cottons.

With the exception of United States steel, which continued to produce at about 30 percent of capacity, conditions in the steel trade were unchanged. The smaller buying power of the country in general lines of merchandise was seen in the returns of mail order companies. These revealed shrinkages of 35 to 40 per cent in sales for the first eight months of the year.

Speculation evidently contributed largely to the rise and fall of foreign exchanges, British and French, together with Dutch and Scandinavian bills advanced buoyantly on purchases to meet September obligations. As soon as the requirements were met, however, sharp reactions ensued.

"RAZZING" WALTER SALM AND HIS CRIPPLED CLUB WILL NOT ENCOURAGE THEM TO WIN GAMES

Now that the Spudders are off the top for the first time in over a month, they are providing a demonstration of an age old truth—that everyone is a friend in prosperity, but few in adversity. Or, to put it in the time-worn baseball terms—when you win you're a hero; when you lose, you're a tramp.

That is a fact that the Spudders have not had called sharply to their attention since the present campaign was a month and a half old, and they had pulled out of the cellar and started on the magnificent drive that carried them to second place in the first half and held them in the lead for most of the second half.

"Have we got a ball team?" is the derisive way that some of the Spudders' fair weather fans have within the last week signalized their flopping—fair weather fans and those whose only sportsmanship is in their pocketbook, aided and abetted by other fair weather fans who take their cues from the first bunch.

"Have we got a ball team?" The Record News thinks we have. This thinking is based on its record of coming from behind in the first half, and the manner in which it has blazed the way in the second. It has stood in the lead in spite of a series of paralyzing blows in the shape of injuries which no other team has had to withstand; in face of the most adverse kind of a schedule which has kept them on the road almost constantly for a month and which will keep them on the road for a week more—meeting strengthened teams at every point when the club is in weakest shape to meet them. Rainy days earlier in the season have aggravated the hardship of the road campaign through the piling up of games to be played off on this trip, cutting out for the Spudders the hardest proposition which has been tackled by any Texas league team in years. The fight the club has shown through all this is the fight which will carry them over in the remaining games.

Now, after suffering the worst reverse which they have met since early in the race when they seemed destined to be a cellar fixture, they are less than a single game from the lead.

Two more series on the road, five games remaining in Dallas, and six in Shreveport and they come home. Then they meet Fort Worth in four games here, with three others to be played in the home town of the club which is then leading.

A tough proposition. Particularly tough for the Spudders, with several of their brightest lights hardly recovered from injuries sufficiently to take part in a game.

But it is a proposition which the Spudders can handle. There is no reason for Spudder fans to lose faith for one moment. Although wavering in the last five games, they have demonstrated, in spite of off color fielding, that they have the kick yet. And that kick is going to win ball games, and can and will win the second half and the pennant.

And the effort will not by any means be made any harder by the loyal backing of the Spudder's home town fans. In fact, if it is to be put over, loyal and faithful backing will help more than any other one thing. Cussin never accomplished anything.

And the Record News has faith in the sportsmanship of the people of Wichita Falls, just as it has faith in their civic loyalty and business aggressiveness. It knows that many will waver, razz the skipper and cuss the club, but it believes that the majority will give to the baseball team the same loyalty and faith that it has accorded every other Wichita Falls undertaking.

Now, let's take a doublehader.

SHRINEDOM WILL DESERT WICHITA FALLS

Local Shrinedom will desert Wichita Falls today in favor of Vernon, which has prepared an elaborate program of entertainment for the visitors to start with the arrival of the Shrine special on the Fort Worth and Denver in that city at 10 a. m. Final rehearsals of the Masket temple band were held Sunday and everything is in readiness to celebrate the Labor day holiday in full style and completeness.

Several hundred Shriners, their ladies and wives will make the trip, according to advance ticket sales and the muchly decorated special train, with its fezzed passengers and train crew will leave the union station at 8:15 a. m. On arrival at Iowa Park at 8:40 a. m., and at Electra at 9:40 a. m., special parades will be given for the benefit of the Shriners in these respective towns.

Vernon's entertainment of the visitors includes a parade through town, a big barbecue, swimming, golf, dancing and other attractions at the country club. Mayor Harry Mason, of Vernon, will deliver the address of welcome, Noble R. D. L. Killough will greet the visitors on behalf of the Vernon Shrine club and Potentate W. D. Cline, of Maskat temple, will respond for Wichita Falls.

M. D. Rowe will act as captain general of the train, with Noble J. W. Mode, trainmaster of the Denver, superintending the movement of the special. The all Shrine crew will include R. R. Huggins, conductor; F. G. Robertson, engineer; F. W. Michael, fireman, and E. H. Kettner, brakeman.

Besides the special train a number of local Shriners and ladies will make the trip in automobiles.

SUCKERS MORE ON WHITE WAY CON MAN SAYS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—London is soft, Paris is softer, but the "suckers" of Broadway are the softest in the world, says Harry Silberberg, confidence man de luxe with many aliases, one time husband of four wives, each with a fortune of not less than $200,000.

Harry has returned to New York from Paris to acquire money. Although known to the police in almost every corner of the earth, he has had little difficulty in making his many prison terms paying propositions as soon as he got out.

Known as the "Wolf of Society," Harry has confined his operations chiefly to relieving gullible women of their money. At various times, however, he has branched into other fields, such as attempting to float a $20,000,000 railroad for the King of Siam.

Anything involving less than a quarter of a million dollars is a niggardly operation to Silberberg. And he always takes cash. His dupes include millionaires, financiers and high officials of foreign governments. Attractive to women, he never has neglected to use them as his agents.

He has been run out of England, France, India, Germany, Peru, Chili and several states of the American Union, including Texas, where he got over the border into Oklahoma ahead of bullets.

Every time Silberberg returned from foreign shores he came under a different name. He never made an effort to disguise himself, however, relying on feigned dignity to carry him by.

KLANSMEN WARN LOAFERS AGAINST REMAINING IDLE

By Associated Press.

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, Sept. 4. Three hundred masked men headed by a man suspending a fiery cross and banner of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan paraded the streets of Nacogdoches Saturday night. The paraders arrived here in a special train and departed after posting placards warning loafers to get jobs or leave town, assuring all law abiding citizens, regardless of race or creed, that they need have no fear.

MANY MOTOR CARS STOLEN

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 4.—Twenty-five business men have organized here to start an offensive on motor-car thieves. So many automobile thefts have been reported in recent weeks that only one-third of the insurance companies operating in this city will now insure motor cars. The members of the new organization are pledged to answer an alarm at any time, day or night, and will be deputized to make arrests.

MARCHING WITH THE LEGION

Miss Ethelyn Meter.

Miss Ethelyn Meter of Benton Harbor, Mich., demonstrated that a girl can paddle her own canoe. She recently won a prize in the Belle Island canoe carnival at Detroit. Miss Meter served in the United States navy during the war as a yeomanette. She denies that her experience with the bureau of navigation gave her the advantage in the canoe carnival. "I think a girl can 'paddle her own canoe,' literally as well as figuratively," declared Miss Meter, who is the ony girl accredited with having organized a post of the American Legion.

John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, who fought with the First division in France, has joined the First division post of the Legion in New York city.

Only ex-service men and women are permitted to advertise in a newspaper conducted by members of the American Legion at Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Many of the large universities and colleges are forming their own American Legion posts. The University of Washington has formed a post with 1,500 members.

Nineteen thousand acres of land in the Shosshone and North Platte, irrigation projects in Wyoming, will be open for entry September 9 and 10. Ex-service men will have the preference right for sixty days.

The American Legion post at Aberdeen, South Dakota, found jobs for 617 men during the harvest just closed.

After a fruitless search for employment in Boston, Armand T. Baudreau, a university graduate and ex-service man, put on his collegiate cap and gown and went out on the streets to sell newspapers. The American Legion employment bureau has found work for him.

The wanderlust of service men is shown by the fact that the South

Dakota soldiers bonus commission has received applications from ex-service men wh oare now in Africa, Alaska, China, South America, Mexico and several European countries The records of the distant applicants are being verified by the foreign posts of the American Legion.

The Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago will be taken over by the American Legion for the housing of unemployed ex-service men.

More than a thousand members of the American Legion in Alabama will form an honor guard for President Harding when he visits Birmingham in October.

SMOKE DRESS NOT ENOUGH FOR BOTHAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Tastefully clad in nothing but thin wisps of cigarette smoke, Miss Leona Schultz, 23 years old, paraded through Bronx streets early this morning until she encountered a horrid policeman.

The officer wrapped his coat around her and hustled her to the station.

"Where's your clothing?" he gasped as he buttoned his coat tightly around her.

"Don't bother me," she cooed as she flipped the ashes from her cigarette.

This afternoon she was arraigned. She said she belonged to a well-known family in Chicago, but refused to tell her name, admittins Schultz was not her real name. She was sentenced to serve 30 days in the workhouse.

"PRAYERS" IN CHURCH WERE SAID FOR DICE

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 4.—Prayerful entreaties, which lacked a spiritual flavor, floating from the Sunday school of the Howard Methodist Episcopal church here, caused Patrolman O. J. Cox to investigate.

He found William J. Sadler Jr., and Harry Hendrickson Jr., sons of prominent members of the congregation intent on shooting craps. There was 35 cents in the game. In the Juvenile court Judge Milliken fined the youths $5 each and ordered that they earn the money.

"Oh, yes—delightful! We stayed away a week longer than the Smiths next door."—London Punch.

HASTILY CHECKED TRUNK EXPLODES; HOME BREW

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 4.—"Check my trunk for Lockport, N. Y., its weight is under the limit." So saying, the hasty traveler dropped a local expressman's check into the hands of the baggage master. The latter found the trunk. It weighed twice the "excess limit." A helper was called to move the trunk onto a truck.

Crash! The trunk slipped with a thud from their strong hands. A soapy substance oozed out of the trunk. A "drumfire" was heard within. It was the "popping" of home brew.

The trunk was "checked," but after the "oozing" ceased the weight had fallen below the "excess limit."

CASE PROVED

Those who are feeling depressed at the labor troubles through which we are passing would receive a good tonic if they took a walk through White-chapel, on the notice board of a certain church there the following piece of anatomical pleasantry has been painted:

"It is easier to smile than to frown!

"To frown, you use sixty-four muscles, but only thirteen to smile!"—London Morning Post.

Town Topics

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grayson and children, accompanied by Mrs. Grayson's relatives from Oklahoma City, have returned from a trip to Medicine Park.

Alfred Allen is a guest at the Ambassador at Los Angeles, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Bullington and children, G. C., Jr., and Josa Lou, have returned from a California after spending the summer with Mrs. Bullington's parents. On their return home they visited Mr. Bullington's relatives at Tucumcari, New Mexico.

H. E. Sutton of the Texas Company left Saturday for Des Moines, Iowa, where he will visit his parents. From there he will go to Chicago to join his family who are visiting in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rochan will leave Monday for a visit to Mr. Rochan's parents at Arthur, Canada.

The theft of a Ford roadster from in front of the Kemp hotel was reported to police Sunday by employees of the Lone Star Gas company.

THE PESSIMIST

"Wouldn't it be fine if we could live our lives over?" said the optimist.

"What good would it do us?" sneered the pessimist. "It would merely enable us to make our mistakes easier."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ARDENT LOVER IS JAILED.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 4.—Efforts of Justice Winfred H. Whiting to patch up a quarrel proved unsuccessful in district court when John H. McGahey, nineteen years old, was arrainged on a charge of accosting on complaint of his former sweetheart, Annie Smith, of Parish Place. Miss Smith is seventeen years old. McGahey told the police they would have to lock him up to keep him away from Miss Smith, and they locked him up. The case was continued.

"WILD PARTY" WAS ONLY STORK VISIT

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 4.—The entire neighborhood, it seemed, was aroused. People were unable to sleep. It was an ady hour in the morning when someone phoned police headquarters that a "wild party" was being held at the home of J. V. Rich, No. 564 Lexington avenue.

When the policemen reached the Rich residence the "party" had arrived. The stork had brought it.

There is no word for strawberry in classical Greek, that fruit being practically unknown to them.

HOME BURNS DAY BEFORE PURCHASER IS TO OCCUPY IT

Just one day before the new owner was to occupy his home, fire of undetermined origin destroyed a two-room box house in the northeast edge of the city limits monday morning at 1:30 o'clock.

The house had recently been purchased by a man by the name of Parker, firemen reported. An estimate of the loss could not be obtained.

SWAYING CORPSE FAILS TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 4.—When police were called to the home of Peter Bakoney by a report of a suicide, they mistook the victim for one of the bystanders, and one of the officers asked him a question. When no answer was received the officer stretched out his hand and touched the body lightly on the arm. It swayed.

Police found that Bakoney had fastened a cord about his neck, threw the other end over the grape-arbor frame, and leaped from a seven-inch box. The weight of the body stretched the cord until the body dangled, the feet being a bare half inch from the ground.

REGISTRATION OF TEACHERS IS COMMENCED

With the registration of approximately 250 out of county teachers and practically all the city teachers known to have arrived, County Superintendent Burl Bryant Sunday night announced everything in readiness for the first inter-county teachers institute to be held in Wichita Falls.

The institute will be formally called to order at the senior high school auditorium, Monday morning at 9 o'clock by E. L. Donchey, superintendent of the Vernon schools and chairman of the inter-county teachers institute executive committee. The welcome address will be delivered by Mayor Walter D. Cline to which George W. Alexander, county judge of Archer county, will respond.

Superintendent Lee Clark of the city schools announced Sunday that the public is cordially invited to attend all sessions of the institute, a full program of which was published in the Sunday morning issue of the Record News. Mr. Clark also asked that the attention of the public be especially called to the public addresses to be made at the First Baptist church on Tuesday evening by Miss Anna Webb Blanton, state superintendent of education and on Wednesday evening by Dr. H. W. Natt of the University of Chicago.

ASK ME

Milton.—You are mistaken. Rex Beach is writing for the stage. A forthcoming production of United Artists adapted from a story of his by the same name "The Iron Trail." Not so long ago, I received a letter from a fan in which he wrote: "Seeing Rex Beach mentioned on the screen somewhere, I would like to know where it is located and if the bathing there is as good as it is in ——— city." A very observing young fellow—eh, what?

Sally—Mrs. Lydig Hoyt prefers to be known as Julia Hoyt to screen fans. She plays with Norma Talmadge in "The Wonderful Thing." Harrison Ford is her leading man. Eugene O'Brien is not married, but he has a sweetheart—his mother. Eugene thinks his mother the best woman in the world. And we think he's perfectly right.

Dorothy Classen.—Pola Negri is 25 years old. Joe Moore is a brother of Owen, Matt and Tom Moore. He was married to Grace Cunard, but has since been divorced. Conway Tearle is 40 years old and is married to Adele Rowland. He was Miriam Cooper's leading man in R. A. Walsh's "The Oath." Mirian is Mrs. Walsh in private life.

Jennings.—Marjorie Daw is to be featured in "Fifty Candles." This production will be Marjorie's second starring vehicle. Wonder whose fiftieth birthday it is, for I believe it must be somebody's birthday. Jack Holt is co-starring with Lila Lee in "After the Show," Charles Ogle is also in the cast. The picture is another of William De Mille's extravaganzas.

Old Timer—The National Star Popularity Contest, which was conducted some time ago throughout the United States, was won by Norma Talmadge and Wallace Reid. Constance Talmadge and Charles Ray came out second. Charles Chaplain's latest picture is called "The Idle Class." Edna Purviance is again his leading lady.

Devotee.—Corliss Palmer was the first-prize winner of the 9201 Fame and Fortune Contest, sponsored by the Brewster publications. She is now appearing in a two-reel comedy entitled "From Farm to Fame." Must have been a chicken farm she came from. Bebe Daniels has completed "The Speed Girl" written especially for her by Elmer Harris. You know, Miss Daniels was recently "doing time" at the Santa Ana jail and I think kthis picture will be a suitable record of that episode. Latest reports from Los Angeles say Bebe is still unmarried. Remarkable, isn't it?

Busybody.—Louise Huff is appearing with George Arliss in "Disraeli." It has just been released. Bessie Barriscale is going back to the stage. However, it is said that she might do both screen and stage work at the same time. We give three cheers for Bess if she can do this.

Miss Blonde.—Gladys Walton has just finished "The Ark Angel." We think she is one, if you want our opinion. Colleen Moore is doing some splendid work in some of her recent pictures. She has just been selected to play the leading role in "The Wall Flower," a Rupert Hughes story. Recently she finished playing a prominent part in Oliver Morosco's "Slippy McGee."

PARRISH WILL SPEAK IN HALL COUNTY

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 4.—Congressman Lucian Parrish will address Memphis citizens Thursday morning, Sept. 15. He comes as one of the attractions of the Hall County Fair, which opens Sept. 14.

There is a movement to secure the attendance of the governors of Texas, New Mexico and Colorado on the fifteenth, when a great mass meeting will be held looking forward to a hard surface highway from Galveston to Denver following the Colorado to Gulf highway through these states.

RAIN AT MEMPHIS

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas., Sept. 4.—A fine rain fell over Hall county Friday night. It will be of great value as the drouth was hurting late feed. This will insure a good feed crop and finish out late cotton. Early cotton is about made and is opening fast. The yield will be cut short to some extent.

REDUCE TAX VALUES

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 4.—The tax valuations for Hall county for 1921 are shown on the assessors books at $8,425,928. This is a reduction of $77,4742 on 1920 values. This reduction was brought about by the decline in cattle values. Land values remain the same.

Nick's Sport Page Most Popular With Average Newspaper Reader

Most men like the sport page of the Record News better than any other department of the paper and the personal interest and local stories and the "Mainly About People" daily column by H. N. F., while most women seem to be divided between the society page "Mainly About People" column and the moving picture feature page, according to questions directed at random to both sexes on the streets of Wichita Falls, in the banks, drug stores, and other public and semi-public places.

There are men who do not follow the sports with very live interest, it must be said some people cannot conceive of a "man with a soul so dead who never to bath said—they are my own 'Spudders'," but nevertheless there are a few.

The next largest number almost without exception see in the intimate daily chat of H. N. F. the most appealing feature of the paper, with the local news stories next and the syndicate features such as "Walt Mason," "Dog Hill Paragrafs" coming closely behind.

Some women are as unnaturally indifferent toward the society page as some men are to the Sport Page (be quiet Nick). One woman said that "Town Topics" column, which enabled her to keep up with her neighbors doings and meanderings was the feature she liked best.

Among the women interviewed to form the general concensus of opinion were a stenographer, bookkeeper, society girl, secretary of the travelers' aid, and a cigar girl.

From the findings of the rambling reporter among the women a comic artist of the type of our old friend Carey Orr, of the "Chi Trib" who perpetrates the daily "Kernel Cootie" would be forced to devote his time to fashion drawings or society layouts. For without exception they all agreed that there was nothing in a comic strip that gave them any "thrill."

But the Old "Kernel" in his "I hate that kind of a guy" attitude, in which he comes to grief by his exaggerated idea of his own importance, finds a ready audience with the men and boys. Every man with whom the reporter talded had some prototype of Kernel Cootie in every day life. So Carey should not feel too discouraged with his yearly royalty from his creation.

One thing brought out by the investigation was that women, as a rule read the editorial page more than men do. In fact, women read the entire paper, with the possible exception of some parts of the sport page.

One young lady said the average sport page bored her to tears, because she did not know anything about the technique of the game, but that she liked the foolish way C. F. C. versified the ups and downs, mostly ups, of the Spuddegs.

Saturday Night Bath Custom Relegated to Dead Ceremonies

The old custom of the Saturday night bath as a regular weekly and almost religious "week end" ceremony is dead in Wichita Falls, general manager of the city water works department is authority for this fact and as custodian of the city's entire water dispensing program is deemed qualified to know. Mr. Lawton declares that the heavy run on the water supplies come every morning and evening without apparent variation, except for Sunday when it is slightly lighter.

The regular morning preparation of some 40,000 breakfasts was declared to occasion the heaviest strain on the city's water pressure. At this hour not only, it was pointed out, are the many breakfasts being prepared and innumerable pots of eatables for the noon luncheons put on the stove, but thousands of daily morning baths are being taken. The heavy run, he said, usually lasts from 6:30 to 8 o'clock.

"Father" Boosts Consumption.

The next heavy run comes with the preparation of the evening meals and the return of "father."

The effect of "father" on the water supply, it is pointed out is no wise connected with that used by the director generals of the cook stoves, but to the fact that "father" so often and regularly insists on getting his daily breath of air by watering the lawn and pottering around looking after his precious plants and perhaps watering them.

The middle or hottest part of the day is declared by water company officials to register the lightest run of the city mains. This, however, is said to be largely occasioned by the fact that most of the population is employed by occupations which keep them in the city and that many of their meals are prepared earlier in the forenoon, either by restaurants or at home, as the majority have only a short period of time for the lunch hour and must eat quickly and return to the desk, counter or forge.

Sunday's Load Lightest.

Sunday always registers a smaller return of water consumed than any other day of the week. The desire of practically every one to rest and gain slight recreation from their week of labor in preparation for another one equally as arduous, is the only known reason that could be advanced for this, as on this day housewives and even boarding houses attempt, in many instances to escape with the preparation of but two meals.

The family flivver also came in for one blame for the small amount of water consumed on the Sabbath, as on this day, if no other, can almost every one finds time to sally forth for a drive, all of which has its effect on the amount of water left in the city reservoirs.

The average run of water supply the citizens of Wichita Falls during the hot months of the summer is about 25,000,000 gallons, according to Mr. Lawton, while the average during the colder months runs 2,000,000 gallons.

According to the schedules maintained by the water department, railroads and other large consumers of water are required to fill their reservoirs during the night in order that the pressure will not be weakened during the time it is being used most freely by private citizens.

Guild of Good Shepherd Plans Extravagant Fall Style Show

"From Morn 'Til Night" could very appropriately be the name of the fashion show and style extravaganza which the Guild of the Good Shepherd has under preparation to stage as the grand finale for the 1921 Autumn Style Show of the merchants of Wichita Falls on September 15, at the Palace theater. For in the some half dozen scenes that will be staged the correct wear for all ages, boys and girls, and men and women from early morning to the evening social function will be shown, as the Wichita Falls merchants are ofering them this season, with the assistance of a number of charming and handsome models.

The fashion parades will be introduced as acts in a play, with specialty numbers, including chorus and solo dances, to set off each change in the model show. One of the most unique numbers of the bill will be a scene contrasting the old and the new styles, for which special arrangements are being made for genuine models from the fashions of other days, as well as the cleverest and most extreme 1921 modes.

The juveniles will lead off the program, with a "Bunny Chorus Dance," and a parade of juvenile garments, for both boys and girls. Then the school children's clothing will be shown, while a school chorus and dance is given and progressing upward, with the age of the scholars, college togs will be modeled, for the afternoon, and for the street and the class rooms.

The succeeding parades will show clothing for the debutante and her older sister, and mother as well, and the grand climax will be supplied in a ball room scene, for which the merchants are planning a display of some of the most elaborate and handsome evening gowns ever shown in Wichita Falls.

Men's correct evening wear will also be shown.

The ball room scene will be centered around a solo dance by Miss Leslie Davis, a young artist recently added to the talent of the city. She is a pupil of the Ruth St. Denis school in California and a dancer of considerable note in Nashville and St. Louis, where she has participated in fiestas and fetes, while in the school at Ward Belmont. Miss Davis is supervising the chorus dances.

The second soloist of the program is Miss Elvia Allman, graduate pupil of Mrs. E. L. Fulton of this city, and also her assistant. Miss Allman will sing in the school chorus.

The personnel of the models will be ready for announcement within the coming week, also the names of the merchants participating, and their individual displays in the fashion show. Rehearsals of the choruses and the models are taking place at regular intervals the committee from the Guild reports, and very satisfactory progress is being made.

EMPLOYMENT ON INCREASE REPORTS SHOW

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—An increase of 1.08 per cent in the number of persons employed in 65 principal industrial cities in August as compared with July was shown by statistics made public today by the department of labor. The figures were taken from the payroll of 1,428 firms, each usually employing five hundred or more persons. Industrial classifications showed that increases occurred in the number employed in food and food products, textiles and their products, iron and steel, leather and its finished products, stone, clay and glass products, metals and products other than iron and steel, tobacco manufacturers and railroad repair shops. All other industrial classifications show decreases.

While it is true that the country had 'at last definitely set out on the long uphill climb to normal conditions,' the statement said, "it would be a mistake to imbue the figures with a significance not strictly in accordance with the facts. It must be borne in mind that the improvement shown can be traced in great measure, to the vast agricultural activities and that as yet the major manufacturing, mining and transportation interests have given less conclusive evidence of the value and permanency of such small gains as they may have experienced.

"A happy augury is the very general increase in building operations, the survey showing that present activities in this line are greater than at any time since the nation entered the war."

COTTON HAS STRONG TONE DURING WEEK

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 4.—The cotton market this last week was more active and stronger than it has been for many months previous and prices were sent to new high levels for the season and to the highest points registered since early last winter, October rising, at its best to 17.56 and May to 18.22. January touched 18.00 cents a pound and the latter months crossed that mark. The opening session saw the lowest levels of the week and the closing session the highest. New high levels for the season were made daily. At the highest the trading months were 221 to 235 points over the close of the preceding week and at the lowest they were 3 to 5 points under. On the close the market showed net gains of 214 to 227 points. October closed at 17.49 and May at 18.10. In the spot department middling gained 212 points in the net results, closing at 17.00 cents. A year ago middle closed at 28.75.

The one great factor back of the advance was the governments report on the condition of the crop on August 25. Prior to this report there was heavy buying after it was issued because it was more bullish than expected, the percentage of 49.3 being the lowest condition report ever issued by the government. This condition pointed to a crop of but 7,037,000 bales and some of the buying of the last two session of the week was due to the claim that the crop had deteriorated since August 25 and that the chances were for another bullish report in September which would send the indicated crop figures below the seven million bale level.

Supplementing the crop report as a bullish factor were accounts from the cotton goods centers of this country, telling of an increasing demand and very strong prices. Some of the strength on the close was derived from reports that many mills and wholesalers were withdrawing lines of cotton goods from the market and that, in many other instances they are refusing to sell large quantities of goods at the prices prevailing. Manchester sent over more hopeful reviews of trade there and at the end of the week Hester placed world mill takings of American cotton at 232,000 bales aginst 138,000 the same week last year and 215,000 the same week two years ago.

A review of the market circulars issued at the end of the last week indicate a general opinion that the trade the near future will not be able to get very far away from consideration of weather conditions and their affect on the crop. There were many predictions of 20 cent cotton in the event of continued severe crop deterioration The market will be closed Monday.
