Today's closings

The U.S. Postal Service will be closed today in honor of a state and national day of mourning for former President Richard Nixon. There will be no street delivery, post office box delivery or retail window service. Delivery of Express Mail and collection of mail will continue as normal. All post office service will resume Thursday. The U.S. Federal Courthouse clerk's office also will be closed today. The Midland County Courthouse and city offices will be open. President Clinton declared the day a national day of mourning; Gov. Ann Richards declared it a state day of mourning.

Serbs comply

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Bosnian Serbs have effectively complied with a NATO deadline to withdraw heavy weapons from around Gorazde, averting any need for new air strikes for now, a top U.N. official said. NATO gave the Bosnian Serbs until 7 p.m. CDT Tuesday to withdraw their big guns 12.4 miles from the center of the eastern Muslim enclave or face air strikes./5A

'Choice' out; cluster stays

MISD vote rejects controversial school plan

■ Trustees go against public opinion — as expressed in survey of parents.

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

Controlled choice is out and the cluster system stays, so said the Midland Independent School District's board of trustees at a Tuesday meeting that packed the board room with concerned Midland citizens.

Trustees voted against public opinion — as expressed in a statistical survey of Midland parents — in deciding against installing a controlled-choice pilot program.

The controlled-choice pilot would have taken one of Midland's eight clusters — consisting of three schools each — and produced three magnet schools offering different specialities.

Parents would have been able to choose which of the three schools their child would attend, as long as racial integration was maintained.

Many at the meeting were hoping to sway the board against controlled choice and were pleased with the outcome.

As she was leaving the building, one parent said, "This is one of those victories where you want to shout 'hallelujah!' "

The majority of those citizens expressing opinions at the meeting were against controlled choice on the grounds that it would promote resegregation by changing the court-mandated cluster system.

Board member Gary Willis reiterated that the plan does not do away with desegregation.

"Controlled choice does not resegregate the schools

Tornado socks Texas day after storm kills 4

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A tornado slammed through this north Texas town Tuesday, ripping apart a mobile home park and turning the sky black as night. It came a day after a storm killed four people elsewhere in the state.

Fewer than a dozen people were injured in the Gainesville tornado, none seriously.

Marilyn Dowling, manager of the Sunset Trailer Village and Park where nearly all of the 67 trailers were damaged and about 15 were demolished, said many people were at work or school when the tornado hit around 3:45 p.m.

Also damaged were a motel, a restaurant and several cars.

"The Comfort Inn next door lost nearly most of its roof and it is holding water," said Denny's manager Jackie Voyles. "A car parked near the doorway has its doors bent open. A gas station near it just got totally demolished. There's tin and signs laid over and bent apart. Wood is strung everywhere,"

She said the seven people in the restaurant were uninjured.

"It just turned real black. I was watching the Exxon sign across the highway and when it bent over, we all went in the big walk-in refrigerator," she said.

Conditions were further complicated by hail as big as golf balls that fell during the afternoon and by wind so strong it flipped several 18-wheel trucks on Interstate 35.

Meanwhile, 70 miles south in Lancaster, officials said that a twister that struck Monday night destroyed as many as 525 homes and 60 to 70 businesses. Forty to 50 people were hurt and the town's business district, which dates to the Civil War, was in ruins.

"I think there's a lot of hard days ahead, a lot of them," said Mac McGuire, police chief of the former cotton-farming town, which has become one of Dallas' fastest-growing

In final irony, D.C. honors Nixon

Ex-president returns in death to his California roots

By Julia Malone
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Richard Milhous Nixon is laid to rest today, his contradiction-filled career ending in one final irony.

The nation's 37th president was never truly embraced by the capital city he left in disgrace 20 years ago. Yet in his death, official Washington is flocking to his birthplace in Yorba Linda, Calif., to pay tribute.

Leading the eulogizers will be President Clinton, who as a student joined protests against Nixon's policies in the Vietnam war.

In just over a year at the White House, the new president forged a close bond with the only president ever forced to resign. The friendship was a crowning accomplishment for Nixon, who until the end of his 81 years worked single-mindedly to restore

3 candidates square off for Place 6 school-board position

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is Part 3 of a four-part series summing up individual races in the May 7 city election.

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

Three candidates are to square off for the Place 6 position for the Midland Independent School District's board of trustees in the May 7 election.

The candidates are Dianne Anderson, incumbent Gary Willis and retired principal and educator Leonard Monroe.

Ms. Anderson, a San Antonio native, has been in Midland since 1964 and graduated from Lee High School. She and her husband, Edmund T. Anderson IV, have two children in MISD and another in private school.

Ms. Anderson strongly supports teachers saying, "I think teachers are not respected enough."

Providing good salaries to teachers is important, she said. "More for less is the wrong attitude. You get what you pay for when it comes to teachers."

Ms. Anderson served on the MISD Long Range Planning Committee six years ago and is serving on that same committee now. She has served as PTA president and on the executive board of the City Council PTA.

Plane crashes, explodes at Japanese airport, kills 261

■ Crash of Taiwanese jet is Japan's second worst aviation disaster.

Associated Press

NAGOYA, Japan — A Taiwanese jet apparently trying to abort a landing crashed, exploded and burned beside an airport runway Tuesday night, killing 261 people. Ten people survived.

The crash of the China Airlines A300-600R Airbus was Japan's second worst aviation disaster.

Minutes before the crash, pilot Wang Lo-chi radioed that he would abandon his landing attempt and try again, a Transport Ministry official said. The pilot gave no reason.

In his last tranmission, he said only: "Going around."

Only one survivor, a Philippine citizen, was known to have been able to speak after the crash. Sylvanie Detonio was quoted by Fuji TV as s ying passengers received no warning that the plane was in trouble.

Flight 140 carried 256 passengers, including two infants — both killed — and 15 crew, bound from Taipei, Taiwan, to Nagoya. Most were from Japan or Taiwan.

The survivors, who included a 3-year-old boy, were critically injured and were hospitalized. Officials said a Filipino, two Taiwanese and seven Japanese survived.

Witnesses told the Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK) that the plane seemed be trying to climb out of an aborted landing approach when its right wing hit the ground and the plane exploded.

Chang Tai-hsih, chief of the China Airlines branch in Japan, and others discounted reports of engine trouble in Taipei before the 1,180-mile flight to Nagoya.

About 3,000 police, firemen and troops cautiously lifted wreckage with cranes and searched by hand for bodies.

"When I got to the plane, it looked so bad that I thought everyone must have died. But then I heard a woman calling in pain for help and I called for a stretcher and we rescued her," said Takahide Miyagi, an assistant fire chief.

The plane crashed several hundred yards to the right of the runway. Had it gone 200 yards more straight ahead, it would have hit a housing area.

The jet ended up just short of hangars of an Air Self-Defense Forces base at the airport. The airmen's quick response was credited with saving lives.

Kenji Hayashi, airport manager for China Airlines, said the passengers included 153 Japanese and 101 foreigners, many from Taiwan. The two infants aboard were believed to be Japanese.

Fire official Yoshihito Horiba said many bodies were too badly mangled to identify even by age or gender. The bodies, wrapped in blankets, were placed in four large tents set up near the wreckage.

They were removed from the crash area Wednesday, and officials allowed relatives to go to the crash site.

A spokesman for Airbus Industrie said the company plans to send an investigative team to the site in Nagoya, 170 miles west of Tokyo.

The A300-600R, a twin-engine wide-body jet, has not been involved in a crash before, but other A300 models have been involved in six accidents.

Airport officials recovered a flight recorder Wednesday and began analyzing it for evidence.

The worst aviation accident in Japan — and the worst single-plane accident anywhere — occurred on Aug. 12, 1985, when a Japan Airlines Boeing 747 crashed into a mountain on a domestic flight, killing 520 people.

U.N. aid worker tells of constant terror, tragedy in Gorazde

By Maud Beelman
Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bullets whizzed through hospital corridors, and wounded people lay in the rubble of shell-shattered buildings, screaming for help that never came.

In the everyday hell of Serb-besieged Gorazde, people were too terrified of dying to try to rescue their neighbors.

"There were times there were shells falling in the inner city and the hospital area every two seconds. There was constant sniper fire," Dr. Mary McLoughlin said Monday.

McLoughlin, who works for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, spent her last five days in Gorazde huddled in a basement with her colleagues, fearing shelling would collapse the building and entomb them.

"People's houses were shelled, and if any of the survivors managed to get out in the streets they risked being shot down by snipers," she said.

McLoughlin was one of four U.N. refugee workers who suffered along with tens of thousands of residents and refugees in the Muslim enclave during nearly a month of Serb bombardment.

She was flown out Sunday evening in the first wave of medical evacuations from the eastern Bosnian town, where Serb shelling stopped over the weekend after NATO threatened air strikes. On Monday, she told her tale of terror.

The 36-year-old native of Cork, Ireland, said she had seen suffering before during her work in Ethiopia, Kurdistan, Sudan and Somalia, and in Baghdad, where she was held hostage.

But Gorazde, she said, "was horrifically difficult."

"We felt absolutely impotent to do anything for these people," she told reporters in Sarajevo.

"We were very traumatized ourselves to see the carnage that went on around Gorazde, to be at the hospital and see so many injured, see the bodies being brought in constantly.

"The wounded were sometimes left among the rubble for five or six hours until it was dark and they could be ferried to the hospital," she said.

"We heard stories about wounded people moaning and screaming in their houses and nobody knew whether to help them."

McLoughlin said a disproportionate number of the more than 700 people killed in the siege were women and children, because Serbs deliberately targeted civilian sites.

"The hospital was targeted incessantly for the last few days," she said. "This was no accident."

McLoughlin said a lack of U.N. action in the early days of the Serb offensive cost lives and turned the populace against aid workers.

"We certainly feel that there was a delay and this delay cost many, many lives, and could also have cost us our lives."

At Gorazde's hospital, surgery had to be done with unsterilized equipment and no water. Patients lay on blankets in the basement.

"The upper floors were a mass of rubble. There were hails of sniper bullets up and down the hallways," McLoughlin said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On December 1, 1992, TU Electric filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) to make a refund of the estimated reduction in TU Electric's 1993 state franchise tax liability resulting from tax legislation passed during the 72nd Texas Legislature. This refund was made using an interim refund factor that was applied monthly beginning January 1993 and which continued until the effect of the tax legislation was permanently included in TU Electric's base rates on August 3, 1993.

As required by Commission Substantive Rule 23.21 (d), the interim refund factor is subject to additional refund or surcharge to the extent it differs from the factor finally set by the Commission based upon TU Electric's actual reduction in 1993 state franchise taxes. Through the interim refund factors, TU Electric refunded a total of $8,102,278. However, for the period January 1, 1993 through August 3, 1993, TU Electric's reduction in state franchise tax was only $7,636,852. Thus, there was an overrefund of $465,548. Under the Commission's Rules, this overrefund, including interest at the rate set by the Commission, is subject to surcharge by TU Electric.

TU Electric has proposed that the overrefund, including interest, either be included in the next fuel refund/surcharge proceeding to be filed pursuant to the Commission's Rules, or be included in Commission Project No. 12497, involving the refund of bonded rates in Docket No. 11735.

This matter has been assigned Docket No. 11632. The deadline for intervention in this proceeding is June 20, 1994. Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission by June 20, 1994. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone.

IRONY: Washington goes to honor Nixon

his reputation.

But even the master of comebacks could not have guessed that, at least in the initial reaction to his death, he would be so successful.

Wary of controversy, the deeply proud Nixon eschewed lying in state in the U.S. Capitol. His casket was taken directly to the friendly surroundings of his presidential library, where he will be interred next to his wife, Pat, who died last year.

He need not have been so cautious. In Washington as across the nation, Nixon's passing has evoked an outpouring of appreciation for his foreign policy achievements. Commentators admire the flexibility of the Cold War hawk who opened the door to China, the staunch supporter of business who instituted environmental and safety regulations.

Journalists, once Nixon's adversaries, are now "like an old tiger with no teeth," rued columnist Russell Baker. "They seem engaged in a group conspiracy to grant him absolution."

The Washington Post, whose exposures of the Watergate scandal undid the Nixon presidency, declared that the 20-year span since his resignation gives fresh perspective to his career. "He was willing to think big and take big risks on some notable occasions," the paper editorialized.

Even Alger Hiss, imprisoned for five years after Nixon attacked him as a Communist spy 46 years ago, offered condolences to the Nixon family.

The funeral, far from the scene of Nixon's triumphs and downfall, has captured the attention of the nation. With most government offices and stock exchanges closed, all four major television networks are broadcasting the one-hour ceremony live, beginning at 6 p.m. CDT.

The ceremony, just yards from the modest white house where Nixon was born, will be attended by 1,800 invited guests and officiated by his steadfast confidant, the Rev. Billy Graham.

All four surviving past presidents — George Bush, Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford — will attend, as well as delegations from 55 foreign nations and many members of Nixon's cabinet. Even Spiro T. Agnew, who was forced to resign as Nixon's first vice president, is expected.

The highly public funeral will not close the debate over Nixon's legacy, however.

Among those watching on television today will be Marvin Kalb, who 20 years ago as a CBS diplomatic correspondent made Nixon's famous "enemies list" and whose home was wiretapped by the administration.

Kalb, who has a book coming out this fall on the last two years of Nixon's life, said he was not surprised that coverage of the ex-president's death has had a positive tone.

"I know the way in which he strove so mightily and doggedly to resurrect his reputation," Kalb said. "And then the man dies, and there is a normal tendency to ease off at that moment anyway."

In the end, Kalb said, Nixon learned how to use the press that had once been his nemesis. Through opinion pieces in newspapers and television appearances, Nixon became "the master manipulator of the press," he said.

Gusty, high-near-80 day on tap

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with winds southwest to west at 15-25 mph and gusty. The high is expected to be near 80, according to a forecaster at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is expected to be partly cloudy with a low in the upper 40s to 50.

The forecaster said Thursday should be mostly sunny with a high in the upper 70s.

After an overnight low of 50, Tuesday's high reached 88, compared to the record high for that date of 97 set in 1959. The record low is 36 set in 1946.

VOTE: Black South Africans make history

(From 1A)

rows. Many broke down in tears after making their mark.

"We need freedom," said 72-year-old Florence Ndimangele, voting with other elderly people near Cape Town. "We are tired of being slaves."

Underscoring the epic change, a new South African flag was raised at midnight in ceremonies at nine regional capitals after the old flag that many blacks viewed as a symbol of white rule was lowered.

The anthem of the anti-apartheid movement, "God Bless Africa," was sung for the first time as one of the two official national anthems, along with "Die Stem" (The Call), a hymn of the Afrikaners whose five-decade rule is about to end.

Despite late-arriving ballots and lines so long in some places that people collapsed, the mood among blacks casting the first vote of their lives was jubilant.

Tuesday's voting was reserved for the aged, invalids, people in hospitals and the military. General voting begins today, when African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela and President F.W. de Klerk will cast their ballots.

"Today marks the dawn of our freedom," Mandela said.

For Gladys Shabalala, a 62-year-old retired nurse voting near Durban, it was a day of immeasurable significance.

"There have been so many white elections," she said. "I used to pass the posters on the road and dream about whether I would be able to vote. That's why I came so early, to see if this is really happening."

Her seven daughters, she said, will see "a real new South Africa."

After two days of bombings by suspected right-wingers that killed 21 people and injured more than 150, no major violence was reported Tuesday. Election officials said they were generally pleased with the voting, despite some glitches.

In one of the few violent incidents, police guarding a polling station in the northern Orange Free State returned fire after assailants cut power to the building and sprayed gunfire that damaged doors and windows. Police said the attackers escaped in a vehicle.

Ballot counting from the three-day election begin Friday. Preliminary results are expected about noon Friday

SMOKE: We have gone too far, many feel been unfairly treated by being granted fewer and fewer privileges, as well as fewer locations where they are permitted to light up.

The remaining 235 respondents feel that smokers should refrain from firing one up in public places out of respect for the wishes and health of nonsmokers.

Of the more than 100 callers who left comments, there were just as many callers with anti-smoking sentiments as there were callers who support smokers' rights.

Several callers who oppose smoking cited lung problems, allergies and complications from secondhand smoke as reasons why smoking should be prohibited at businesses, retail outlets and restaurants.

A handful of callers who identified themselves as nonsmokers felt that smokers were unfairly treated, and rights of smokers should not be tampered with.

Barbara Killman, who identified herself as a college-degreed librarian of 18 years, said, "I am not pleased at being considered a criminal, a low-life and a drug addict. I have always been careful not to smoke around those to whom it is offensive. I don't object to going to a designated area to smoke, but I do object to the people who are holier-than-thou. Everything in the entire world we eat, drink, touch or breathe is harming us, so let me go to my little corner and smoke and leave me alone."

One caller said Midland is in need of an ordinance similar to one in Houston where, "when the rights of the smoker and the nonsmoker are in question, it's always the rights of the nonsmoker that prevail."

A female caller was angered at what her child was being told in school: "I'm totally opposed (to continued bans on smokers) because my 8-year-old child is constantly told by her teachers that I am killing her on a daily basis by continuing to smoke my cigarettes," one female caller said. "If the schools don't have anything better to do than to attack the parents, they need to move on and get out of my face."

Several callers cited government intervention as being an inappropriate method in which to curb smoking in the country.

"My basic belief is in freedom," one caller said, "and I think the government is going too far in removing our freedoms from us."

"I usually leave my name," another caller said, "but this is getting ridiculous. The government has moved in on just about everything. We don't have any rights anymore. They can't control crime. They can't control the horrible, illegal drugs, so they're starting to pick on the little people."

Ed Cook, of Andrews, said, "It's just another step in banning our rights. Next thing you'll know they'll be banning everything we have."

Judy Murphy countered, saying, "It's not a question of individual freedom to smoke, but it's a matter of when smokers do smoke they endanger the lives of nonsmokers. It's been proven scientifically that second-hand smoke does cause cancer in others, so it's really a matter of the rights of the nonsmokers."

One caller cited another problem caused by smokers: litter.

"If people use Kleenex and throw them out the window, it's littering," the female caller said. "When they throw their cigarettes out the window, it's not considered littering. This is another good reason to ban smoking in our country."

One nonsmoker said, "All I can say is the smoking ban is probably 25 years late. There are a lot of people in the grave today who shouldn't be."

Another anonymous caller disagreed: "I just think a good exhaust fan would solve the pollution problem about 80-to-90 percent of the time in most buildings."

suburbs.

A building that once housed a bank robbed by Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker lost all of its second floor except for a corner facade. A mattress dangled from a tree in front of the 119-year-old Odd Fellows Hall.

Rebekka Henderson, 19, was at home with her mother and younger brother when the tornado tore through her neighborhood on the edge of the town square.

"We saw what was coming, so we closed ourselves off in an inside hall with the dog," she said. "Sirens went off. We were sitting with the dog, covering our heads. The house fell all around the hall."

Ronnie Mitschke and his family took refuge in a closet.

"A 1,400-square-foot house is now 2 feet tall," he said. "The more I think about it the more I figure I should be dead."

Three fatalities occurred in a residential section of the town of 24,000. One person apparently suffered cardiac arrest and two others were killed in their homes by the storm, said Trooper Robert White of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

A fourth man found dead Tuesday apparently had a heart attack after taking shelter in his storm cellar in Mesquite, 15 miles northeast of Lancaster.

The tornadoes were part of a storm system that stretched from Texas to the northern Plains on Tuesday.

Another tornado ripped through Talihina, Okla., damaging houses and injuring at least six people. About 25 homes were destroyed in the town of 1,300 residents near the Arkansas line.

In Nebraska, a tornado hit the outskirts of Central City, ripping roofs off several buildings. Several tornadoes were also spotted in South Dakota.

In Minnesota, homes and other buildings sustained heavy damage Tuesday when a tornado touched down west of Stillwater, authorities said. No serious injuries were reported.

In Wisconsin, tornadoes destroyed several barns and mobile homes near Canton, while high wind toppled trees and tore apart a billboard near a Milwaukee highway. No injuries were reported.

By Tuesday morning, the weather on the northern Plains had reverted to winterlike conditions. Up to 8 inches of snow fell in northeastern Wyoming and a foot fell in the Black Hills of South Dakota, closing some roads and schools. Blizzard conditions clogged roads across North Dakota

CHOICE: Board rejects controversial plan

(From 1A)

— that's what the word 'controlled' is there for," he said.

Community leader Alma Marshall outlined the history of a "traumatic" desegregation process in MISD that began in the late 1960s. "We submit to you that our trust has not been earned," Ms. Marshall told the school board.

"We may lose this battle, but it will not be because we gave up," she said.

Holding his young daughter, Michael Wallace told board members, "When I was this small, we were segregated." Wallace warned against any attempt to return to the neighborhood schools of the 1960s.

Although a majority of board members at one time had supported following the path to controlled choice, Willis was the meeting's sole supporter of the option.

"I don't think we should decide policy on fear . . . or threats of lawsuits, but on what is best for the children," he said.

Others at the meeting were opposed to controlled choice because it involves the busing of some children in grades one through three. Parent Jim Harris said the survey did not adequately explain this.

Still others were against the controlled-choice plan because they did not believe it was academically beneficial.

Parent John Warren said the pilot would not be a good use of taxpayer money. The choice of school is not important, Warren said. The board only need concern itself with providing for students' safety and education.

He said the board should use the KISS system, "Keep it simple, stupid. In this case I would call it 'keep it simple, school board,' " he said.

Willis said controlled choice alleviated two of the worst facets of the cluster system. With the cluster system there is "a lack of continuity," Willis said. "Kids bounce from building to building to building." Controlled choice is not nearly as coercive as the cluster system, giving parents six choices while maintaining the proper racial mixture, he said.

Although the recent survey indicated that more than 70 percent of those Midland parents who had a preference were in favor of controlled choice, none of those attending the board meeting spoke in favor of the pilot program.

Willis said controlled choice has been a boon to the quality of education in many U.S. cities. If the pilot were unsatisfactory, it could be ended, but not trying it leaves the school district forever ignorant of the program's effects, he said. "If we forgo this opportunity to pilot the program, we will never know."

based and district-based decision-making committees for MISD. "I am truly committed to improving the quality of education, improving the educational environment and improving the support teachers receive," she said.

"I believe MISD should request unitary status. . . . should oppose inclusion to the extent it affects academics. . . . should oppose outcome based education. I believe schools should be made more challenging and exciting for the average student.

"In a day when many feel that no one person can make a difference, I have the energy and the commitment to try to make a difference. I'm committed to doing it for the children," she said.

Ms. Anderson is finishing her degree in international marketing with a minor in Spanish.

"I am willing to work hard, do research and be an advocate for teachers as well as parents and students," she said.

Monroe is a 30-year Midland resident and retired educator, having served as both teacher and administrator in the MISD system since 1963.

"I feel like the greatest resource we have is our children and it is an awesome responsibility (to serve on the school board)," Monroe said.

"I'd like to be part of the planning — developing the rules, regulations, standards and policy that goes with being a school board member," he said.

Although board members must deal with many areas of concern, the learning process is of primary importance, Monroe said.

Monroe points to his experience as educator and administrator as his main strengths as a prospective school-board member. "I think I can make good decisions for the kids," he said.

"If a school has strong, effective educators, all students can learn. Teachers are crucial to the success of a school system and they excel with consistent administrative support.

"Enthusiasm and high staff morale are critical at all levels. An educator needs to be fair and consistent in the solving of problems. An effective educator must be visionary and proactive," Monroe said.

Monroe began his career as a teacher at Lee High School. He served in administrative capacity as assistant principle in two schools and later as principal of two secondary schools. He decided to return to the classroom and served as a Lee High School department chairman.

In his tenure, Monroe has amassed several awards including including Teacher of the Year from Texas Junior Achievement. He received a master's degree in education from Texas Tech University in 1968.

He and his wife Sue have two sons who graduated from the Midland school system.

Willis is a certified public accountant with the Midland firm of Eddins-Walcher Co. He and his wife Carol have lived in Midland since 1982 and have two sons attending MISD.

Willis is finishing his first term representing District 6.

He has struggled to control spending and worked to stop deficit spending within the school board, he said. He has been selected by the Texas Association of School Boards to serve on two committees dealing with the finance and funding of Texas schools and has been recognized as a master trustee by the TASB.

"I bring to the board the analytical skills of the accountant businessman, to watch the taxpayer's pocketbook, and the heart of the teacher in the passion to see children learn," Willis said.

He also has served as MISD's Audit Committee chairman, a member of the Bond Issuance Advisory Committee and the Redistricting Advisory Committee.

Willis holds a bachelor's degree in education and a master's degree in business administration from Abilene Christian University and has studied at Southern Methodist University and the University of Texas.

Willis said his experience as a teacher and as a businessman is a valuable asset. "Even though it's been a long time, I know what it's like to be a teacher," he said.

With his business experience, Willis said he knows what kinds of policies produce successful graduates.

Willis is cubmaster of Pack 83, a Pioneer Club coordinator and guide, director and treasurer for Big Brothers/Big Sisters and on the small business committee of the Texas Society of CPAs.

"I seek schools where teachers and students awaken mornings eager for the school day to begin. Schools where learning is exciting, challenging and satisfying. Our common purpose must continue to be creating the greatest measure of school excellence and equity achievable at the least reasonable cost possible," he said.

The Place 6 race is the only contested school-board race. Robin M. Hightower is running for the Place 5 seat held by George Staley, who is not seeking re-election; board President Jack Hightower is running for re-election to Place 3.

Early voting or the city election continues through May 3.

U.N.: Serbs withdraw weapons, avert need for air strikes

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian Serbs have effectively complied with a NATO deadline to withdraw heavy weapons from around Gorazde, averting any need for new air strikes for now, a top U.N. official said.

NATO gave the Bosnian Serbs until 2:01 a.m. today (8 p.m. EDT Tuesday) to withdraw their big guns 12.4 miles from the center of the eastern Muslim enclave or face air strikes. The Serbs claimed full compliance Tuesday night.

"On the basis of information available right now and subject to further verification, I have come to the conclusion there is no need to ask NATO for air strikes at this time," Yasushi Akashi, the chief U.N. official for former Yugoslavia, told reporters in Zagreb, Croatia, shortly before the deadline expired.

"There is effective compliance at this time," said Akashi. The United Nations must consent to any bombing runs.

A NATO statement early today also ruled out air strikes for the moment, citing "evidence of compliance" with the alliance's ultimatum of Friday.

But NATO and the United Nations said that efforts would be made today to learn if the Serbs had fully complied, and both said air strikes could be used in the future if the Serbs did not continue to comply.

The NATO ultimatum issued Friday followed a three-week assault on the U.N.-declared "safe haven," in which Serbs overran much of the enclave. Brutal shelling of the town crowded with refugees killed more than 700 people and wounded 1,900.

The Serbs belatedly complied with a NATO deadline early Sunday to pull their troops and weapons back 3 kilometers, or 1.9 miles, from the city center. They were given three more days to move their heavy weapons back farther.

Akashi said U.N. military observers had visited more than 30 sites in the 12.4-mile exclusion zone on Tuesday and had found weapons at just two of them. At those sites, he said, the weapons had been immobilized.

The U.N. observers got full cooperation from the Serbs, said Akashi, and would make more checks today. He said he was also relying on NATO air surveillance to verify compliance.

Before the deadline, U.N. spokesman Cmdr. Eric Chaperon said that all known Serb weapons sites were clear of weapons.

First voter has new life through ballot

By John Daniszewski
Associated Press

TOKOZA, South Africa — At 4 a.m., an early-morning chill lingering in the air, Christiana Vanqa lifted her stiff 80-year-old body from bed in a matchbox house in this violence-wracked black township.

She put a thick brown sweater over a pink shirt and black skirt, blue socks over frayed black stockings, and carefully wrapped a patterned brown kerchief around her head.

Passing up her morning cup of tea so she wouldn't lose her place in line to use the bathroom, she headed out.

Today was her day. Today she was voting. And today, she would be first.

On the trash-strewn streets, Mrs. Vanqa passed soldiers in armored cars finishing their night patrols. She thought of the friends she had lost on these pavements to AK-47s, poverty and hatred, and of the six decades she had spent cleaning up after white families.

By the time the blood-red sun peeked through the factory haze, Mrs. Vanqa had been waiting more than an hour in a corridor at her polling station at Natalspruit Hospital. She was the first one there.

"I didn't want to lose my chance," she said. "That's why I came early."

Mrs. Vanqa has lived since 1956 in this township of corrugated tin shacks and three-to-a-textbook schools, under white laws that crushed her chances but not her spirit.

The hospital, where doctors are the most experienced in the region at treating bullet wounds, this time was the venue for a birth: of democracy for all South Africans, regardless of color.

It was a long labor. Mrs. Vanqa outlived the "pass" laws that made it illegal for her to go to Johannesburg, 20 miles away. She outlived rules that forced her to step off the pavement when a white person came the other way and that dictated where she could live, eat and bathe.

"I never thought that I would reach this time," she said.

The polling station was supposed to open at 7 a.m., the start of three days of voting that will transfer power to South Africa's overwhelming black majority. But ballot papers hadn't arrived, so Mrs. Vanqa waited patiently with 50 others.

By 9 a.m., more than 500 people lined the corridor and snaked out the door. Outside, would-be voters sat on low brick walls lining hospital walkways.

Most were elderly, with canes, crutches and wheelchairs. Men wore their best homburg hats. Women wrapped themselves in colorful blankets. The very old, bent and hobbling, had to be helped along.

At 10 a.m, voting officer Nester Pfoofolo called for quiet and a hush fell. Mrs. Vanqa was led down the dark corridor to a sunlit assembly room.

She took out her tattered I.D. with a faded photograph and her first name misspelled. A voting officer stamped the back of her hand with invisible ink to ensure she did not vote twice.

A young man handed her the first ballot of her life, a colorful sheet with 19 parties to choose from.

"I know who I'm going to vote for but I'm not going to tell you," she told a reporter. "It's a secret."

Standing at a table, she used a stubby pencil and slowly made her cross. She struggled to refold the ballot before pushing it through the slot of a metal ballot box.

Mrs. Vanqa turned away. Satisfaction was written on her lined, leathery face, creased by a smile revealing several missing teeth.

"I feel happy," she said. "I have chosen the path of my life. I'm not the same Christiana anymore.

"I've done my job. Now I'm going home."

Burns best choice in mayor's race

Midland may well be at a crossroads as far as its future short- and long-term economic development is concerned and in the current race for mayor we believe Bobby Burns, who is challenging incumbent J.D. Faircloth, will best provide the kind of leadership needed at this time.

We came to that decision after visiting at length with both candidates as well as with others in the community who, like us, have felt the cohesion needed on key issues has too often been missing in our city government.

Today, there are factions on the council. Those factions should draw together more often than they have if the best interests of all our citizens are to be served. True, honest differences of opinion will and should always exist. They can be healthy. They even should be anticipated in government by single-member districts but there are times when unity must be given some priority if challenges facing the community are to be met and real accomplishments are to be made.

It is among the responsibilities of a mayor to provide the kind of positive leadership that will build bridges between those with opposing viewpoints and help create consensus when it is needed. We believe Burns will make a serious and honest effort to do that.

While he has not served as a council member he is current chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission and is a member of the airport board and the experience he has had in those areas certainly would serve him well if he is elected. Zoning issues and the future of Midland International Airport are closely linked to this city's future economic development.

While we share concern about Burns' past federal tax problems we do not see this as being detrimental in his ability to serve and to lead and we recommend that voters give him an opportunity to do so.

Vogler for District 3

The race for the District 3 seat on Midland City Council pits two candidates with sharply differing viewpoints — Ed Vogler, a 44-year resident of the city perhaps best known as a long-time member of the Airport Board, and Tom Dollahite, corporate pilot.

Both are fiscal conservatives and articulate about their positions, but they differ strongly on their approaches to providing guidance for Midland's future.

Vogler, for example, supports construction of a new terminal building at Midland International Airport, calling it good business and the only way taxpayers can get their tax money back from the FAA trust fund. Dollahite says a new terminal would be a waste of taxpayer funds and supports renovation of the existing terminal building that he says federal money can be used to finance. He also believes the use of city tax dollars by the Chamber of Commerce for economic development is wrong, that such development primarily aids chamber members.

While all of that may sound good, we believe a city has a vital role in development and that growth, when it happens, is in the best interests of all citizens by providing jobs, a broader tax base, etc.

Vogler has been an advocate of responsible spending and a harsh critic of what he has viewed as unnecessary spending, but he is also a visionary.

We believe that both qualities are needed today if Midland is to remain a progressive and dynamic city and we recommend District 3 voters cast their ballots for Ed Vogler.

Our policy on letters

The Reporter-Telegram recognizes the "Letters to the Editor" format as an important forum for citizen opinion and encourages participation of all readers. To that end, we have set as few rules as possible. However, we must have some, and they are:

- Letters must be signed and include a street address and daytime phone number for verification. Letters not including this information will not be considered for publication.
- They should be no more than 350 words in length. While some lengthy letters are published, we reserve the right to edit when necessary due to space limitations. The shorter the letter, the better its chance of publication.
- Only one letter per month per writer can be published.
- Letters will be edited for length, taste and legal reasons and are accepted only on that basis.
- We do not publish 'open' letters or copies of letters sent to others.

Because we cannot research and verify all information in letters, by publishing them we neither imply nor guarantee the accuracy of information stated by writers.

Letters should be sent to: The Editor, Midland Reporter-Telegram, P.O. Box 1650, Midland 79702.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Nixon refused to accept personal defeat

WASHINGTON — Late one night in the White House, working on a speech, Richard Nixon tried to encapsulate his more recent predecessors in a single word or phrase: "Truman — a fighter. Eisenhower — a good man. Kennedy — charisma. Johnson — work. Me — what?"

Safire

I did not have a good answer that night in 1970; I do now. Nixon — an inspiring resilience.

In the 60s, he rose up after his political obituary and employed his unique combination of grit, guile and greatness to seize the moment that had been denied him before. He expressed the secret of overcoming adversity in a private note to Ted Kennedy after Chappaquiddick: "A man's not finished when he's defeated; he's finished when he quits."

Nixon liked "the comeback theme" because it identified his return from defeat with the careers of Churchill and de Gaulle. During another break in speech collaboration, he recalled a meeting with de Gaulle at which Nixon aides took notes.

"They got everything down of substance. But then de Gaulle said, in a kind of an aside, 'All the countries of Europe lost the war, but only two were defeated.' They never wrote that down. And that's the one thing I'll never forget from that meeting."

He instructed those of us in the Five O'Clock Group to "get the word out" about his 60s comeback, which made the media all the more resistant to our image-making. But as Henry Kissinger once said of a selling argument, "it had the added advantage of being true."

We had no idea how true it was, or how soon the essence of Nixon's character would be put to the test again.

From the pinnacle of success — the vote of confidence of a 49-state landslide — he plunged to the nadir of forced resignation. After Watergate, he stood naked to his enemies, who had become legion.

Stripped of power, denuded of honor, deserted by supporters rightly dismayed at the cover-up, he had no reservoir of public trust and no visible means of defense. His only assets were his mind, his pride and his hard-bought experience.

I visited him at San Clemente during one of the most depressing moments. It was April 29, 1975, the day the capital of South Vietnam fell to the Communists, and he took personal responsibility for the debacle.

"Terrible day for freedom, and all my fault," he said, his phlebitis-inflamed foot elevated on a cushion. "The fall of Saigon is the direct result of the way I messed up Watergate."

Then the second and even more difficult comeback began. He thought, he traveled, he wrote. He took no fees for speeches and ended the public expense of Secret Service protection.

Despite the glares of the guardians against his feared "rehabilitation," he slowly, over two decades, worked his way back first to a tentative acceptability, then to grudging respect, finally to an honored role as leader to opinion leaders and adviser to presidents.

How did he resurrect himself? By learning a great lesson and by living an example.

That's why, to sum up Nixon in a phrase, this former aide would choose: an inspiring resilience. By resolving a second time to earn his way to political redemption — and then by doggedly, brilliantly triumphing in that second comeback — he justified the faith of all those millions who ever believed in him.

Defeat be not proud; in Richard Nixon, ruination met its master.

MIKE ROYKO

Chivalry may be dead, but lechery remains

It is only fitting that Barbara Wine, a Chicago resident, would come to me with a question on etiquette.

Royko

As she put it: "Since you are Chicago's finest arbitrator of good taste, I'd like your opinion."

Modest as I am, I can't disagree with her assessment of my keen sense of good taste. And anybody who disagrees ought to shut their fat, drooly mouths and stick their opinions in their wax-infested ears.

But let us get on to her question.

"It gets me mad if I am waiting at a bus stop with a man or two and the bus comes and they board before me.

"Common courtesy to me as a woman tells me they should defer to me.

"I don't care if men on the bus are seated before me and I have to stand. But little things like letting me board first or holding the exit door open for me, or opening any doors, are still things I expect as a woman.

"But some people say that if I want and expect equal rights and equal pay, I can't expect these courtesies.

"I say being treated as a woman in social instances has nothing to do with these other issues.

"What do you think?"

That is a difficult question. On the one hand, I agree with Ms. Wine. On the other hand, I disagree. And if I had a third hand, I'd say I'm not sure. (And if I had a third hand, I would run for Congress and set a new record for grabbing contributions.)

As Ms. Wine concedes, modern women demand equal rights and equal pay, as they should. They deplore sexist remarks in the workplace and many do not hesitate filing lawsuits and calling in federal agencies when they think their sensitivities have been violated. They serve in the military. Many swear as creatively as men, switch significant others when bored and demand good tee times on the golf course.

So it is something of a contradiction for them to expect men to open doors, stand aside while getting on and off elevators, surrender a seat on a bus, or pick up the tab for dinner or drinks.

In fact, many women resent these old-fashioned gestures. Some look exasperated when a male person, acting out of habit, dawdles on an elevator, waiting for female persons to get off first.

And if you think about it, such well-meaning behavior is kind of silly. Why should a man closest to the door of an elevator stand there like a mope until a woman in the back of the elevator gets off? What if the elevator cable breaks just after she has reached safety? Why should the man plunge to his death while the woman flounces away? That's not equality. Equal rights, equal risk, I say.

Yet, many women, such as Ms. Wine, still expect men to extend these outdated courtesies. And I believe it is because of the deplorable condition of their toes.

Ask any foot doctor and he will tell you that the majority of his patients are women. Why? Because many women still persist in wearing dumb shoes designed by wimpy guys. At the end of the workday, or even the beginning, the average female toe hurts more than the average male toe. And these painful toes are why they want to get on the bus to sit down first.

Well, I say that if you want respect and equality, throw away those silly dabs of Pucci or Gucci leather and go to Sears and buy yourself a set of sturdy work boots. You don't see female Air Force pilots walking like storks with their toes sticking out.

Maybe we should still celebrate Patriots' Day

We don't celebrate the 19th of April, Patriots' Day, anymore. "Who remembers that famous day and year" asked Longfellow in his poem about Paul Revere's ride.

In Colonial America, each man from the age of 16 to 60 was a member of the militia. The militia trained on the "village green" or "common." The militia provided protection for individuals and property of the village against all threats. The militia, each man, was required to keep and bear his own arms.

On the night of April 18, 1775, Governor Gage, of Boston, ordered the "redcoats" to march to many surrounding villages to seize and destroy all stores munitions and arrest the country leaders. British Major Pitcairn led the march into the countryside. The objective was to still the voice of the people, disarm them and make them more servile. So Revere took to horse to give the alarm: "The redcoats are coming!"

Early on the morning of the 19th of April, 1775, Major Pitcairn's "redcoats" arrived at Lexington and met captain John Parker's company of colonial militia drawn up on the "common." And as Emerson wrote in 1837:

"...Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
"Here once the embattled farmers stood
"And fired the shot heard round the world."

The shot heard round the world, the first shot in our fight for the independence from King George's slavery, was fired to protect and defend the natural right of men to protect themselves, to keep and bear arms for the purpose of preserving liberty. This right was codified on the 15th of December 1791 as the Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America.

We don't celebrate Patriots Day anymore, maybe we should...The redcoats are coming.

Oil industry doesn't have true spokesman

Hazel is right! The industry does not have a spokesman that can represent the true needs of the independent. Most of them head to Washington with self-serving motives. Major oil companies hate independents and vice-versa. The gas industry's needs may not benefit oil's needs. Louisiana's needs may not fit Texas'. The independents' needs may not fit the refiners'. Too many ideas, tangents and motives. The true independent is dying today. The independent of the 90's is the guy that sticks out in the crowd. Clean hands, pressed suit, smooth as silk...can promote a car salesman with ease. Bids out all his business and still squeezes his vendors. He is always looking for a lawsuit to increase income. Takes his company public to promote the naive. His company hasn't turned a profit in years...and continually rolls over his debt. He pays his royalty and non-operating working interest below market. Frauds the state of severance tax. Has damage control down to perfection...always positive news in the newspaper. A real solid citizen. How true Hazel.

What's being done with MISD tax dollars?

What is going on in Midland Independent School District (MISD)? We have trustees indicating lack of faith in the system. Maybe the following will shed some light on the mistrust or at least make people go "hmm."

MISD has allowed two male students with a failing grade in a previous semester to try out for cheerleader. Remember last semester when a Hispanic female was not allowed to try out? Why them you ask? It's believed they hired lawyers and MISD caved in and allowed them to try out! "HMM."

The survey for a controlled choice program cost taxpayers $5,400. No wonder it had positive results. Who really received a questionnaire?

South Elementary is due for renovations. The total cost per square foot equals that of the new schools built in northwest Midland. Why not build a new school? "HMM."

Are our tax dollars being handled responsibly and students being treated fairly? "HMM."

Good luck to Lady Rebs golf team

Congratulations to the Lee Lady Rebs golf team, runners-up in District 4-5A. There are five returning seniors: Kaimi Fuller, Kim Fisher, Jennifer Dickson, Heather Albright, and Kelly Thompson, who was the alternate on the 1993 State 5-A Champion golf team. Kaimi, Kim, Jennifer and Kelly made the 1994 All-District team. They had four of the 10 lowest scores in District 4-5A, which includes San Angelo, Abilene, Odessa and Midland.

All five girls have worked very hard this year to be a team in spite of the pressure of being the defending 5-A State Champions. Good luck at Regionals in Lubbock on April 29-30, and on to State!

Supreme Court rules employment bias law isn't retroactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court limited the reach of a 1991 civil rights law restoring and expanding workers' protection against employment bias by ruling Tuesday that the law doesn't apply to thousands of older cases.

The decision disappointed civil rights activists, who called it "a real big loss" and "a miscarriage of justice."

But businesses praised the ruling.

By a pair of 8-1 votes in cases from Texas and Ohio, the court said Congress did not intend to apply the Civil Rights Act of 1991 to cases that were pending when it was enacted.

Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the court in both decisions that there was "no clear evidence" that Congress had such an intention.

Only Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissented.

In a separate decision, the court reaffirmed its standard for determining when criminal suspects are entitled to be warned of their right to remain silent and have an attorney during police questioning.

The court set aside a California ruling that appeared to take into account police officers' subjective opinions when determining whether a suspect was "in custody" and entitled to those warnings.

Congress passed the 1991 employment bias law, reluctantly signed by President Bush on Nov. 21 of that year, to undo several of the conservative high court's job-bias rulings that had outraged civil rights groups.

Previously, people alleging on-the-job bias only could get back pay and reinstatement.

The 1991 law allows those people to collect compensatory and punitive damages, and for the first time makes jury trials available in bias cases.

The law also allows lawsuits for illegal racial bias in all phases of an employment relationship — hiring, promotions and firings.

Everyone agreed on those aspects, but the law's wording is ambiguous on the issue of retroactivity. Democrats in Congress wanted the law to be retroactive; Republicans did not.

"As a matter of simple justice, workers subjected to such acts whose cases were still pending at the time the law was enacted should have the benefit of the law," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Tuesday. He had been one of the law's principal sponsors.

But Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., the law's principal Republican author, said the question of retroactivity "was not answered in the final bill with complete clarity." He said he was "gratified" by the court's ruling.

Stevens wrote that Congress "has the power to amend a statute that it believes we have misconstrued. It may even, within broad constitutional bounds, make such a change retroactive and thereby undo what it perceives to be the undesirable past consequences of a misinterpretation of its work product."

But Stevens said Congress must clearly state what its intentions are — something it did not do in the 1991 law.

Wade Henderson of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called the decision "a real loss," adding, "The court's original decisions were certainly a reflection of a conservative view on civil rights, and that view continues to dominate today."

Ellen Vargyas of the National Women's Law Center said, "People's rights are going to be determined completely by timing. Employers are going to get off scot free. It seems to be a miscarriage of justice."

Plan would give FBI more control in spy cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by problems investigating Aldrich Ames, Clinton administration officials have tentatively agreed to give the FBI more control over investigations of spying in this country, senior officials said Tuesday.

White House Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers said President Clinton had ordered the National Security Council to review counterintelligence measures after Ames, a 31-year CIA veteran, and his wife were arrested as Russian spies two months ago.

"The plan is in development, per the president's request in the wake of the Aldrich Ames arrest," she said, declining to provide details of the plan.

FBI Director Louis Freeh said Monday that the CIA and FBI are "on the brink" of instituting methods for the CIA to share espionage information.

The administration hopes to unveil its plan during a public hearing scheduled May 3 by Senate Intelligence Committee. The panel's chairman, Sen. Dennis DeConcini of Arizona, and ranking Republican, John Warner of Virginia, are sponsoring legislation aimed at the same problem.

Freeh said that as a result of the agreement with the CIA there is no need for this legislation. CIA Director James Woolsey has told the Senate panel he opposes the legislation as turning over too much counterintelligence authority to the FBI, according to a congressional official, who declined to be identified by name.

Two administration sources, requesting anonymity, described the plan agreed to orally last week by the CIA, FBI, Justice Department and National Security Council. Draft versions are being circulated for final approval before Clinton is given a proposed presidential directive implementing the plan.

The three key elements:

—The FBI will replace the CIA as the primary agency for supervising counterintelligence investigations in the all U.S. spying agencies.

—A senior FBI agent will be assigned to work in the CIA's counterintelligence office and a senior CIA official will be assigned to work at the FBI's counterintelligence office.

—A new structure to set governmentwide counterintelligence policies, such as how much to rely on polygraph tests in hunting traitors, will be established under the White House's National Security Council. Now, the Director of Central Intelligence has this responsibility.

Judge to reopen gang-rape case

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — A judge agreed to reinstate first-degree rape charges against five men who were fined $750 after they had sex with a woman they found unconscious in a restaurant bathroom.

Acting state Supreme Court Justice Eugene L. Nicandri issued his decision Tuesday, clearing the way for a possible trial.

"This is a victory for all victims," Krista Absalon said. "There is justice in the world after all.

"It shows if you work hard enough and cry loud enough, someone will hear you."

"We're hurt, but we're not slain," said Michael Vavonese, who represents one of the men, George Streeter. Options include appealing the ruling and arguing for dismissal of the charges, he said.

In October 1991, Absalon passed out while drunk in a restaurant in Gouverneur, a talc mining center with 4,300 residents about 20 miles south of the Canadian border.

She learned a week later that five men dragged her from a restroom and took turns having sex with her while she was unconscious.

The men — Mariano Pistolesi, David Cummings, Michael Curcio, Mark Hartle and Streeter — were charged with felony rape and faced up to 25 years in prison.

The men pleaded guilty to misdemeanor sexual misconduct. They were fined $750, with no jail time.

The plea bargain set off such an uproar that Gov. Mario Cuomo appointed state Attorney General G. Oliver Koppell as special prosecutor and Koppell sought to have the rape charges reinstated.

He argued that the original indictment was illegally dismissed by Nicandri, at St. Lawrence County District Attorney Richard Manning's request, and that the village justice had no legal authority to accept the men's pleas.

Panel votes to limit gifts to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee approved strict new limits Tuesday on gift-giving by lobbyists to members of Congress, but frustrated lawmakers said they doubted it would help their tarnished image.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee adopted the bill by voice vote.

"People believe we're just simply too cozy to the paid lobbyists, and we've got to change that perception," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., sponsor of the new rules.

But Sen. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., said a "cottage industry" has grown up to find flaws in Congress and hold them up "in as glaring a way as possible.... I'm not sure all the disclosure in the world ... does much to change the perception."

Levin's bill would change House and Senate rules to put a flat ban on accepting gifts from lobbyists and a $20 limit on gifts from just about anyone else. It would end lawmakers' travel to lobbyist-sponsored retreats and ban participation in charity tennis, golf and ski outings.

It also would ban gifts by lobbyists to a lawmaker's legal defense fund. There would be exemptions from the ban for home-state products given for promotional purposes, and for meals and entertainment in a lawmaker's home state.

There was an air of confusion as senators peppered Levin with questions about how the new rules would affect them. What would happen, asked Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, if his brother-in-law invited him for a dinner that was co-hosted by a lobbyist?

"Eat only half the food," cracked Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss.

And Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., noted that he had attended a golf tournament to benefit the United Negro College Fund. "Can somebody tell me what's wrong with that?" he asked, adding he would prefer to simply disclose the travel and let his constituents decide whether it is proper.

But Levin said if senators did not adopt his approach they were likely to be forced into voting for other — and more unwieldy — gifts legislation. Sens. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., and Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., have been promised Senate floor consideration next week of a competing gift-ban bill.

All the maneuvering is aimed at strengthening gift limits contained in a broader lobbying registration bill that is due to be sent soon to a House-Senate conference committee.

The panel rejected, on a voice vote, an effort by Sen. Robert Bennett, R-Utah, to raise the $20 gift limit to $100.

"We currently get carried away in efforts to show how pure we are," Bennett said, noting that lobbying the government is a right protected by the Constitution.

IRS looks for bombs

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials at the Internal Revenue Service center in Austin have instructed workers to inspect envelopes carefully after receiving two explosive devices disguised as tax filings in the past week.

Kenneth Vargas, an IRS spokesman in Austin, said Tuesday that two business-sized envelopes contained "apparent incendiary devices" that were set off by an automated mail processing machine.

Chiropractor is convicted

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A chiropractor has been found guilty of five counts of sexual assault involving female patients at his Brownsville clinic.

DeWayne Williams refused to comment after the jury's verdict Tuesday. He was acquitted of two other sexual assault counts.

Oscar Ponce, assistant district attorney, said his office will consider taking 10 additional complaints against Williams to a Cameron County grand jury.

Williams was convicted of inserting his ungloved fingers into the sexual organs or rectums of four of his patients.

His attorney, Denis Downey, contended that Williams was practicing legitimate new chiropractic methods for aligning tailbones or reaching the muscles inside the pelvic cavity.

Downey denied the women's testimony that Williams didn't use gloves.

District Judge Rogelio Valdez scheduled sentencing for May 27. Williams faces a maximum of 20 years in prison.

Liquor store robbery trial begins

Well clerk cites assailants who tied, gagged her with duct tape

■ Lamont Ephriam is charged with robbing The Well, 4200 N. Midland Drive. During robbery, store clerk was tied up, held at gunpoint with her 8-year-old daughter present.

By Tonie Miller-Uzzel
Staff Writer

A Pecos man is on trial on charges of participating in the Aug. 25 aggravated robbery of a Midland liquor store.

Lamont Ephriam is charged with robbing The Well, 4200 N. Midland Drive. During the robbery the store clerk — whose 8-year-old daughter was with her — was bound with duct tape and held at gunpoint.

Police arrested Ephriam and four others within minutes of the robbery. Also arrested were Julius Smith, also known as Gerrell Brooks, Jadson Ephriam, Raymon Matta and Michael Barnett.

Smith has been indicted for aggravated robbery. Jadson Ephriam and Matta have not been indicted. Barnett's status was unavailable.

During the trial Tuesday in 142nd District Court, the clerk testified about the robbery.

Teresa Gillis said her 8-year-old daughter was sitting behind the counter watching television when the robbery occurred.

She said three men entered the store about 3:45 p.m. on Aug. 25. She said they argued with her when she wouldn't let them purchase beer because they didn't have identification proving each was 21.

Ms. Gillis identified Lamont Ephriam as one of the men who participated in the robbery, but indicated he was not the gunman.

She said that after she refused to let them buy beer, one of the men — whom police officers later identified as Smith — pulled a gun on the clerk and demanded the money from the register.

All three men came behind the counter and began taking the money, Ms. Gillis said.

The clerk testified that the men also took a bank bag of rolled change and a bundle of $1 bills. She said two of the men — including the defendant — then bound her wrists and ankles with duct tape and then forced her and her daughter to a back room.

Ms. Gillis said that as two of the men took her to the back room, she heard a shot behind her and the gun-

Texas ranks No. 2 in nation for teen births

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

The rate of teen-age births in Texas is second only to California, despite a recent Associated Press report from Washington, D.C., that seemed to indicate otherwise.

The report stated that the "Kids Count Data Book" showed Texas posted lower rates of pregnancies by unmarried teens than all but two other states in the nation.

"That's not so. We didn't even gather any data on teen pregnancies," said a spokeswoman for the Kids Count office in Washington, D.C.

In 1992, Texas fell behind California in births to girls age 14 and under.

"We only recorded live births, and we are aware that our numbers are skewed on that because we counted a lot of women as married, when they were in fact unmarried, and had just listed fathers' names on birth certificates," she said.

"Texas health officials have told us all mothers are encouraged to put down the father's name even if they are not married, in case they decide to try to collect child support later."

Citizen Police Academy cites spring graduates

Staff Report

The 10th session of the Midland Police Department's Citizen Police Academy graduated Tuesday at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

The academy was established about five years ago as a way for residents to learn more about the Police Department. Conducted twice a year at no charge, each session is 14 weeks long, with residents attending every Tuesday from 7-10 p.m.

During the session, residents hear from officers from each of the department's bureaus and Crime Stoppers, participate in a Ride-Along program and are taught firearms safety.

Midland inventor bathes in shower of ideas

■ Ex-Marine Gaylon Moore creates Shower Buddy back scrubber, envisions factory between Midland and Odessa with lots of jobs.

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

In an effort to get his invention manufactured, Midland County resident Gaylon Moore traveled to Hong Kong, Los Angeles and Mexico City.

Finally, a stroke of luck sent Moore to a manufacturer in Seminole and now his invention, the Shower Buddy, can be found in Odessa's Albertsons and Town & Country stores.

Moore said it was a surprise to find his product in Albertsons because he hadn't worked with company officials in Boise, Idaho, where Albertsons is headquartered.

The Shower Buddy is 17 inches long, 6 inches wide and sealed in foam rubber and plastic so it's waterproof. It has a hard corrugated plastic back with heavy-duty suction cups attached. The front is made of "Tuff Stuff," an indoor/outdoor hardware carpet that's used in yachts. It can be attached to a shower wall or bathtub and the bather applies soap and water to the front, the scrubbing part of the Buddy.

"One day I was out mowing the yard, came in and told my wife I was going to invent something to scrub my back," recalls the ex-Marine, who came to Odessa in 1971 after finishing a tour of duty in Vietnam.

He came up with the Shower Buddy. About 18 months ago he gave his invention to 50 people as a test, and he said response has been good.

"I have a friend who put his on his refrigerator door and uses it to scratch his back," Moore said.

Council considers roads, Vietnam memorial

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

The City Council on Tuesday authorized the preparation of a resolution to contribute $15,000 to the Midland/Odessa Transportation Alliance.

Coupled with equal amounts from Odessa, and Midland and Ector counties, the alliance — through the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission — plans to secure engineering and economic consultants.

"They (the consultants) will represent this area in terms of trying to develop a good argument or case . . . to have the Interstate 27 extension here," alliance chairman Charles Perry said.

The alliance was organized to promote the route — between Midland and Odessa — for the anticipated extension of I-27. Two other routes to the east also have been proposed.

A federally funded study that will make a route recommendation is expected to be completed by August.

The local alliance hopes to show that the Midland-Odessa route is the most ideal. "I think these efforts are absolutely critical" in competing for the most westerly route, Perry said.

Other activity at the City Council meeting included:

■ The council approved a sole bid of just over $1 million from Jones Brothers of Odessa for the city's annual sealcoat project. Streets in northwest Midland will be sealcoated this summer. The city does the roadway maintenance on a rotating basis — one-sixth of the city each year.

■ The council discussed a draft of a lease agreement for the airport-site of the Permian Basin Vietnam Veterans Memorial and an adjacent park planned by the Rotary clubs of Midland and Odessa. Groundbreaking for the memorial is scheduled for Memorial Day.

■ The council heard a presentation from Edna Walger, representing Citizens Against Taxpayers Abuse, concerning the city's allocation of funds

Private school students to learn logic behind lights out

Staff Report

Midland seventh-graders will get a lesson on protecting the environment.

Midland Christian School Superintendent Eddie Lee and Trinity School Head of School Margaret Simmons are to introduce a new course today on how students can help the environment by changing the way they use energy.

The course will be launched today at seventh-grade assemblies with the help of TU Electric. At the assemblies — 8:45 a.m. at Trinity and 1:30 p.m. at Midland Christian — demonstrations will be presented on environmentally sound uses of energy.

Called "In Concert With the Environment," the course teaches a new concept, EcoWatt, to calculate the environmental impact of daily energy use. Students will learn that EcoWatt Benefits result whenever energy is used more wisely, water is not wasted or air is not polluted. Examples of wise energy use include carpooling, changing thermostat settings, using less hot water and recycling.

Midland Christian, Trinity will be first private schools in Texas to implement new energy conservation course with environmental focus that's being sponsored by TU Electric.

The interactive computer-based program is a science curriculum course that was developed three years ago by EcoGroup Inc. The program, to be used in partnership with electric utilities, so far has been taught to approximately 70,000 students in 250 schools in 15 states.

TU Electric brought the course to Texas schools as a pilot for the 1993-94 school year. Midland Christian and Trinity will be the first private schools in the state to use it. This year TU Electric has made the course available to 30 schools in its service area and plans to offer it to more than 100,000 seventh-grade students over the next four years, including those in the Midland-Odessa area.

"This educational program is a continuation of our long-term commitment to support programs with the potential to protect the environment," said LuAnn Morgan, Midland district manager for TU Electric.

"By encouraging energy conservation, the program also meets TU Electric's goal to keep growth in peak electric load down in order to reduce the need for future power plants and other generating facilities," Ms. Morgan said.

"In Concert with the Environment" provides students with comprehensive information about how natural resources are converted into energy for home, transportation and other uses and how these conversions affect the environment.

DEATHS

Ernesto Chavez

PECOS — Mass for Ernesto 'El Chief' Chavez will be celebrated at 2 p.m. today at Santa Rosa Church. Burial will be at Greenwood Cemetery under the direction of Martinez Funeral Home in Pecos.

Chaves died Sunday.

He was born Aug. 14, 1938 in Toyah. He was an U.S. Army veteran and a carpenter. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include a son, Gene Chavez of Austin; a brother, Tomas Chavez of Midland; two sisters, Elvira Valdez of Pecos and Nora Jaramillo of Seagraves; a grandchild; and 23 nieces and nephews.

Kenneth Carter

BIG SPRING — Services for Kenneth Rowe Carter, 51, of Odessa are to be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Nalley-Pickle and Welch Rosewood Chapel with Randy Cotton officiating. Burial will follow at Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home in Big Spring. Visitation will be from 6-8 p.m. today at Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

Carter died Sunday in Tulsa, Okla.

He was born Aug. 4, 1942, in Coleman. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1960 and attended Howard and Odessa colleges.

He married Judy Butler on March 17, 1961, in Big Spring.

He worked for Pioneer Natural Gas Co. for several years. He moved to Odessa in 1974 and worked for Jet-Lube, Inc., and then Stockham Values.

Survivors include his wife of Odessa; a son, Jeff Carter of Lajitas; a daughter, Kenny Kay Hudson of Campbell; and a sister, Linda Jones of Dodd City.

CREATION: Moore leaps hurdles

(From 1B)

Moore was unsuccessful at having his invention manufactured in Hong Kong, Los Angeles and Mexico City. Then one day, Moore — who also owns a painting and remodeling business — was roofing a house. He told his customer, Bill Norman, about problems getting his product manufactured. Norman steered the inventor to his brother, Jerry — also an inventor — who owns a manufacturing plant in Seminole.

Moore completed the patenting process and, with help from Odessa entrepreneur Bobby Cox, he found a commercial artist to help with the logo and labeling.

He is in the process of phasing out his painting and remodeling business to concentrate on Blue Mane Enterprises, the company he formed to handle Shower Buddy and other products he develops.

Moore will be setting up a stand in Midland Park Mall May 13-22 to introduce his product and try to expand the market.

He has talked with Furr's Supermarkets about placing the product in that company's stores. He also has applied to have his product carried at Wal-Mart.

Though he has several other inventions on the drawing board, Moore's interests range far and wide.

He writes stories and music for children and has submitted a demo tape to the Gatlins.

After coming to Odessa in 1971, he worked as an operator for the old T&P Railroad. He then ran into trouble with alcohol. After sobering up, he attended Odessa College and got involved in alcohol- and drug-abuse counseling.

It has been a long road from Lubbock — where he was born — to Midland County, where he lives with his wife Dottie and started his new career as an inventor.

After his father's death, he and his mother moved to Littlefield. His mother died when he was 10; he then lived in Hamlin — just north of Abilene — and Sweetwater. He attended Cisco Junior College and then joined the Marine Corps.

It is this past history that fires Moore's enthusiasm for the potential of his new company.

"We're already employing some people," he said. "And that's neat to see because I love to help people anyway I can, and I'm especially fond of Vietnam vets."

His goal is to build "a big plant between Midland and Odessa and put a lot of people to work.

"I'm not trying to get filthy rich, I just want an opportunity for others to benefit from this and also see a return on our hard work."

TRIAL: Liquor store robbers fail man yelled an obscenity. But she said she did not see what happened. Police later learned that Smith accidently shot himself in the hand.

Once in the back room, she heard a bell indicating that someone was entering or leaving the store. She said she left the storeroom and called police.

Ms. Gillis said she was scared for her life throughout the robbery and is still frightened about the incident.

Matta also testified. He told the jury that he was in the car with the other four suspects, but didn't know about the robbery until a police officer started to pull them over a few minutes after the robbery.

He said the men, who are all from Pecos, came to Midland and stopped at the 7-Eleven next door to The Well. He said he and Jadson Ephriam went into the convenience store and when they returned, the other men were not in the car.

Matta said a couple of minutes later he saw the three approach from the direction of The Well but didn't actually see them leave the store. He said Lamont Ephriam was carrying some beer and liquor. Smith had his hand wrapped in his shirt and was obviously in pain, Matta said.

He said the three got in the car and headed toward Midland Park Mall, then turned around and headed back to Pecos. He testified that at the time he still didn't know a robbery had occurred.

He said he first became aware of trouble when the group saw a police officer and someone said not to stop if the officer tried to pull them over.

Matta said Jadson Eprhiam — who was driving — asked why and someone said they had just robbed a store.

Officers recovered money, liquor and the gun used in the robbery. Matta testified that the gun was his, but that he had left it in the car when he went into the 7-Eleven.

Testimony will continue this morning.

ECOWATT: TU Electric sponsors

(From 1B)

They will complete a personal plan that outlines how many energy dollars can be saved and how many EcoWatt Benefits can be created by changing the way they and their families use energy.

For example, one student's report might show that recycling his family's cans would result in an energy dollar-savings of $1 a month and an environmental benefit of 194 EcoWatts. Another might show that weatherizing the family's home would save $100 a year.

Course materials and computer data have been customized to reflect the energy use, fuel resources, residential electric rates and weather data in this part of Texas.

Seventh-grade science teachers Jack Crockett at Midland Christian and Bill Fleischmann at Trinity received state-accredited training to instruct the "In Concert" classes.

to the Chamber of Commerce for economic development.

Ms. Walger criticized the financial records of how the money was spent by the chamber. "The reports are so convoluted that it is impossible to detect exactly which disbursements are from tax revenues," she read from a prepared statement.

City officials maintain all financial records are in order and have been reviewed by an internal auditor. Nevertheless, the chamber is reformating the reports to be easier to read, an official said.

State law permits the City Council to allocate up to 1 percent of the general fund to organizations for economic development.

nually to keep tabs on child welfare trends. It is produced and funded as a collaborative effort of the Annie E. Casey Foundation, the Children's Defense Fund and the Center for the Study of Social Policy in Washington, D.C.

According to Pam Hormuth of the Austin-based Children's Defense Fund, there was no attempt made to gather information on the number of pregnancies reported by women in any state. Ms. Hormuth has the data in her office and has analyzed it along with the University of Texas School of Social Work.

A reporter at the Associated Press in Austin wasn't able to locate the source for the pregnancy rate and assumed it had been taken from a press release.

"Not from our office. We sent nothing about teen pregnancy rates," the Kids Count spokeswoman said.

"We only collected data on live births," Ms. Hormuth said. She noted that those who analyzed the data also "realized births to unmarried teen-agers were seriously undercounted."

"Texas records things differently than other states. If a mother could name or give some information about a father, his name was put on a birth certificate (and) they were probably counted as married," she said. "We are trying to get a new item on Texas birth certificates to ask if the parents are married."

In a joint news release from the Center for Public Policy and the CDF, it was stated, "There are very serious concerns that the number of births to single Texas teens in our report represents a dramatic undercount. Texas is one of only a handful of states that does not specifically ask a marital status question on its birth certificate. In Texas, a woman is considered married if any information about the father is included on the birth certificate. So, we ask Texans to examine this number carefully."

Leslie Lanham, a spokeswoman at the Children's Defense Fund in Austin said it plans to work with the Texas Department of Health so all organizations can get more accurate numbers in the future.

"We are now breaking down the state figures to put out a county-by-county data survey for Texas," she said.

A spokeswoman in the vital statistics office at the Texas Department of Health in Austin said the information given to the 72nd Texas Legislature in a report on teen pregnancy was correct. According to the report, for data reporting on 1991:

- Texas led the nation in births to girls age 14 and under. In 1992, Texas dropped to second in the nation, with California in the lead.
- Texas moved from fourth place in 1991 to second place in 1992 for births to girls age 15-17.
- Texas ranked second in the nation in the number of births to girls age 19 and under in 1991 and 1992.

Several local and state health officials, counselors and persons from the Department of Human Services called the Reporter-Telegram Tuesday questioning information in the Associated Press story.

A representative of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers in Austin sent a facsimile to the Reporter-Telegram, saying they stood by figures reported by the Texas Department of Health, and several other health organizations.

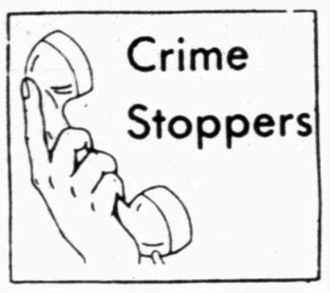
"Teen-age pregnancy is a statewide concern of epidemic proportions," the Texas PTA said in a statement about the issue. "We are all familiar with the statistics that show Texas is in the tragic position of being second in the nation in births to teen mothers. Those who work in the health fields, in the delivery of human resource services and in education can speak eloquently to the needs of these young mothers — and to the young fathers — whose lives have been so altered. Let's not minimize the problem."

Officials for Kids Count said their other national statistics are more accurate, especially those rating trends in child poverty and juvenile violent crime.

A facsimile copy of the Kids Count report sent to the Reporter-Telegram from the CDF showed no statistics on teen pregnancy rates.

Odessa Crimestoppers offers reward for burglary information

Staff Report



ODESSA — Odessa Crimestoppers is seeking information to solve a burglary which occurred at the Texas Department of Human Services, 3016 Kermit Highway.

Suspects broke into the building between 7:30 p.m. March 29 and 6:45 a.m. March 30. They gained entry by removing burglar bars from a southeast window, taping over the glass in the window, and using a glass cutter to remove the window pane.

Once inside the building, suspects ventured into one office after another, removing items including two H-P Laserjet Series III P printers, one Grid 386 computer and monitor, three Dell 486 computers and monitors, computer discs, Panasonic and Zenith video cassette recorders and a Zenith television. The estimated value of items taken is $7,800. Damage caused to other equipment in the building is estimated at $3,700.

The first caller with information that leads to the arrest of a person or persons involved in the crime could receive up to $1,000 in cash this week only.

Call Odessa Crime Stoppers at (915) 333-TIPS. Callers may remain anonymous.

Students to learn EMS techniques

Staff Report

At some accident scenes, getting the victims out is harder than treating their injuries. That's why the Midland College Emergency Medical Services students have an entire day for their mandatory extrication exercises. This spring's training is set for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Health Sciences Building parking lot.

Working in three-person teams, the EMTs will experience training in gaining access and removing victims from wrecked vehicles. Victims will be made up to simulate injuries, which EMT students must analyze, provide stabilizing treatments for and prepare them for transport to a hospital emergency room. Teams will be critiqued after each scenario.

During the day, the Midland Fire Department will demonstrate the "jaws of life" and other related equipment used to gain access to trapped vehicle crash victims. A rescue truck, fire engine and ambulances will be utilized.

The public is invited to attend. The Midland Chapter of the American Red Cross will provide refreshments during the day.

POLICE REPORTS

Monday

Vandalism: Deborah Tryon reported vandalism at 1116 E. Parker Ave. It was reported at 4:10 p.m.

Robbery: Kenneth Gibbs, a delivery man for Pinnochio's Pizza, reported that a man told him to hand over his money bag. The man reached into his pocket, but before he pulled his hand out, Gibbs handed him the bag, containing $100, in cash. The incident was reported at 3602 Travis Ave. at 10:22 p.m. The man was described as a black male, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, wearing a dark blue hat, blue-and-gold striped shirt and cut off jeans.

Survivor cites eerie moment when twister hit

By Charles Richards
Associated Press

DALLAS — It was just another storm, Preston Ludlow thought. That was until something happened that struck fear in his heart.

"It was raining hard, and the wind started picking up, and the lights started flickering on and off. And then, you know how everyone always says it sounded like a freight train? Well, we heard it," he said from a hospital bed Tuesday.

Seconds later, Ludlow said, "the whole house just exploded. We went with it. I was airborne."

Ludlow, 22, suffered head injuries and assorted cuts and bruises and was in fair condition Tuesday at Dallas Methodist Hospital from the tornado that hit the south Dallas suburbs of Lancaster and DeSoto about 9:30 p.m. Monday, killing three and injuring more than 20.

Ludlow's father, Clarence, 45, was in critical condition at the same hospital with a broken arm and other injuries. His mother, Vivien, and sister, Amanda, suffered minor injuries.

"It was a low 'mmmmmm,' a continuous sound. The house began to shake. You could hear the windows rattling. We grabbed sofa cushions — me, my sister, my mom and dad — and we huddled in a hallway. Then the house started shaking. We had the door shut, but pieces of wood started coming through it," he said.

"My dad yelled for us to get in the bathroom. Within a matter of seconds, the house exploded. I was just cast into the air, a good 15 feet. I was doing what I could to cover my head," Ludlow said.

He said he lay there, praying, for about 10 minutes while the storm raged.

"I glanced up and I didn't see anything but trees and debris. No house," he said.

His father, a diesel mechanic, was yelling for help.

"I was covered with mud, trash and everything. I was groggy and dizzy. I made it to my father. He was bleeding and in pain," said Ludlow, a money collector for a quick-wash laundry outlet.

Residents struggle to clean up after tornado

By Pauline Arrillaga
Associated Press

LANCASTER — The eerie silence engulfing this Dallas suburb Tuesday was broken by the shrieking sounds of chain saws slicing away the loose limbs dangling from fallen trees.

Pieces of a Bible were found in a tree that was still standing near homes ravaged by a devastating tornado that claimed at least three lives.

In part, the Bible verse read, "Praying always with supplication."

Trash bags and overturned cars littered the front yards. A bicycle, its tires twisted and pulled from the frame, was left along a curb for sanitation crews to remove.

From the alleys running behind homes left standing, young men were hoisted upon ladders raised to damaged rooftops. Some chatted back and forth and drank sodas while they worked.

A man picking up trash in his yard paused momentarily to cast a fleeting glare at the annoying helicopters circling overhead.

Down the street, a family worked together to repair the splintered, white picket fence that surrounds their home. Right across the street, a child's red and blue swing set stands untouched.

"Our front door was just covered with leaves and stuff that we don't even know where it came from," resident Betty Womack said while continuing to rake leaves.

A 10-foot tall tree, which was split down the middle, had trashed her back fence.

Amazing pectin

Grapefruit contains a special type fiber that does more than lower cholesterol. The pectin in grapefruit may actually help reverse heart disease by sweeping away some of the plaque in arteries that cause clogging, heart attacks and strokes. So finds James J. Cerda, M.D., of the University of Florida. In a new study, he first gave pigs a very-high-fat diet for more than a year to induce plaque-damaged arteries or atherosclerosis. Then he fed half of the pigs grapefruit pectin for about nine months. The others got a different type fiber.

When Dr. Cerda examined the pigs' arteries, the difference was "incredible." Pigs getting the grapefruit pectin had only 40 percent as much damage to their aortas, the heart's main artery, and half as much narrowing of the arteries. The exciting fact is grapefruit pectin seemed to help clear out arteries that were already badly clogged and damaged.

You can get the pectin by eating the rinds, white membranes and pulp of grapefruits. There is very little in juice. In cooperation with the university, Dr. Cerda has also developed a pectin powder called ProFibe. For more information, you can call 904-481-3999.

Vitamin C

Want your good-type HDL cholesterol to go up and your bad-type LDL cholesterol to go down? Then be sure you get lots of vitamin C. Especially if you are a man.

That's the message from new research by Paul Jacques at the Department of Agriculture's Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University.

In a new study, Dr. Jacques analyzed the blood levels of HDL cholesterol in 477 men and women between ages 20 and 65. As vitamin C went up, so did the HDLs - up to a point. The HDL type carries away the bad-type cholesterol to be destroyed by the liver. Generally, the higher HDLs you have, the less apt you are to have heart disease.

In women, the more vitamin C in the blood, the higher the HDLs until they reached a peak and leveled off. All it took for maximum HDLs was the amount of vitamin C taken in by eating five fruits and vegetables a day. However, in men, HDLs continued to rise steeply in concert with higher blood levels of vitamin C. What's more, men with higher vitamin C also had both lower total cholesterol and damaging LDL cholesterol. Whether the C came from diet or pills did not matter.

Strong bones

There seems to be no end to how the trace mineral chromium can improve health. The latest: chromium picolinate may help prevent the bone disease osteoporosis, according to Gary Evans, Ph.D., a chemist at Bemidji State University in Minnesota and expert on chromium, who gave 200 micrograms of chromium picolinate to a small group of postmenopausal women. Their levels of estradiol, a form of estrogen, went up and their excretion of calcium dropped by about 50 percent. This means much more calcium was left in the body to strengthen bones. High levels of calcium are known to retard the development of crippling osteoporosis that primarily affects elderly women.

Recently, Dr. Evans also found that feeding rats modest doses of chromium picolinate actually stretched their life spans by one third! "I wasn't surprised," he says. He credits chromium's well-known benefits on the hormone insulin for the longevity impact.

Dr. Evans favors the mineral in this form - chromium picolinate -which he says is better used by the body than other forms. It's available in health-food stores.

Eschew plastic

In 1991, an Ohio man with numbness in his fingers and palms, ringing in his ears and possible mental impairment was found to be suffering from lead intoxication, according to the April Reader's Digest.

It turned out the man was an electrician who for 20 years had been chewing on bits of plastic insulation he had stripped from the ends of wires. Lead compounds are sometimes used to color plastics.

Those who use plastic-coated wire should stick to chewing gum.

'Painless prescription' offered

By Carolyn Poirot
N.Y. Times News Service

Dr. Joe Goldstrich supplied the bread, wine, garlic and baby aspirins. I provided my own olive oil for dipping the bread. He called it "The Cardiologist's Painless Prescription for a Healthy Heart and Longer Life."

I called it a great picnic.

The dust cover of his new "Painless Prescription" book (self-published and available for $19.95) pictures the picnic fare, a pair of running shoes and a bottle of antioxidant vitamins.

Goldstrich contends that good-for-you food plus antioxidants — a "painless but powerful combination" — will keep you healthy. Add a little exercise and boost benefits even more. The book outlines exactly how to use antioxidants, low-dose aspirin and moderate alcohol — all beneficial according to latest scientific studies — to help protect the heart.

Former national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association, Goldstrich prescribes a low-cholesterol, very-low-saturated-fat, moderate-monounsaturated-fat (including olive oil, avocados and nuts) diet.

He recommends substituting olive oil for butter to lower LDL ("bad," artery-clogging) cholesterol, raise HDL ("good") cholesterol and bring your coronary risk down to the level of people living near the Mediterranean Sea, where the risk is low.

Coincidentally, the American Heart Association recently issued the first in a series of nutrition advisories. Primary purpose of the advisory is to answer the question "Is butter better than margarine?" The answer is, "No."

The advisory also reminds us that monounsaturated fatty acids, like olive oil, are better than either butter or margarine and actually seem to lower blood cholesterol.

Butter is rich in both saturated fat and cholesterol, and most margarine is made from vegetable fat, which has no cholesterol. The softer and more liquid the margarine is, the better. The Heart Association recommends that we stick to tub or squirt-bottle forms and shop for margarine with no more than 2 grams of fat per tablespoon.

More than 52 million Americans have high cholesterol. Of these, 11 million have had heart attacks or suffer from atherosclerosis, heart disease that clogs and hardens the arteries.

High cholesterol (above 200 milligrams per deciliter of blood) can be a life-threatening problem, especially for heart patients, who now are advised to keep their LDL at 100 milligrams per deciliter of blood or less while the goal for the rest of us is about 150. Total cholesterol should be under 200 with good, artery-clearing HDL of at least 35 if we have none of the known risk factors for heart disease, at least 60 if we do.

One problem is that most heart patients still have no idea what their LDL level is. A new Gallup poll of 527 heart patients found that the majority are taking steps to reduce their cholesterol, but do not know their own HDL and LDL levels or what those levels should be.

More information about "The Cardiologist's Painless Prescription for a Healthy Heart and Longer Life" is available by calling (800) 9 HEART 9.

Bloodless surgery conforms to beliefs

"That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well." (Acts 15:29)

By Pauline Arrillaga

CARROLLTON (AP) — To refuse a blood transfusion even in the face of death may seem a parallel to suicide. To Jehovah's Witnesses, it is an affirmation of their faith.

Jehovah's Witnesses hold a deep religious conviction that blood is a sacred substance and should not be donated or transfused during surgery or other medical procedures.

That doctrine has posed a problem for many Witnesses who have been unable to find physicians willing to treat them in accordance to their beliefs.

But as the medical profession becomes better informed on blood transfusions, including the risks involved with blood transmitted diseases, a method of surgery targeting the unique needs of Jehovah's Witnesses is becoming more common.

Known as "bloodless surgery," the procedure has become the basis of about 20 programs in the United States that aim to provide health care to Jehovah's Witnesses without forcing them to compromise their beliefs.

"This was designed to offer a program to people who have religious reasons not to accept blood transfusions," said Dr. H. Jane Chihal, chief of staff at Trinity Medical Center in Carrollton.

"The Jehovah's Witnesses are not against medical care at all ... it's just this particular issue sometimes prevents them from getting the quality medical care that we try to offer to all of our patients," Chihal said.

Trinity began its bloodless surgery program in September after hospital executives were approached by a committee of Dallas-Fort Worth Jehovah's Witnesses. About 20,000 Witnesses live in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The program outlines specific guidelines by which Witnesses are treated at the hospital. When a Witness comes in for treatment, they sign an agreement that no blood or blood products will be administered under any circumstances.

A nurse liaison then is on call 24 hours a day to find a doctor who will treat a Jehovah's Witness under the guidelines.

"Individuals might think this means that Jehovah's Witnesses are anti-medicine, but Jehovah's Witnesses have a very high regard for life," said Jared Hardie, who represents Jehovah's Wit-

Avoid asthma triggers at home

By Dr. Anne Davis
Associated Press

Home is where the heart is. But for some children with asthma, home can also be where the problem starts.

Asthma is a chronic lung disease typified by episodic tightening of the airways known as bronchospasms and induced by many different kinds of triggers. The disease can be triggered by substances in the home such as smoke, dust, pet animals, fumes and plants. Taking steps to pinpoint and avoid those that affect your child can help the entire family cope with the disease. But it can be difficult to identify which triggers cause a flare-up.

There are often two phases to an asthma attack: the initial tightness or wheezing may clear. A second, more prolonged and intense reaction may also occur a few hours later but may not be recognized as a reaction to the original trigger.

Working in partnership with the child's doctor is an essential part of controlling asthma. Identifying those substances that may touch off an asthmatic attack can help the physician prescribe the most effective medications and other suggestions for treatment.

Parents can also take some steps to avoid problems in the home. For example, tobacco smoke is one of the most common asthma triggers, and children living in households where parents smoke tend to have higher incidence of asthma than children of nonsmokers.

Dust mites are another common asthma trigger in the home. These organisms tend to proliferate in a warm, damp atmosphere, and keeping a clean house helps get rid of them. It is important to be careful when using cleaning supplies and personal hygiene products because some of the chemicals and scents contained in them can trigger an asthma attack. A child who cannot tolerate scented products is often unaffected by those that aren't. Parents also should use nonspray materials around the household.

Child baseball injuries preventable

By Bill Hendrick
N.Y. Times News Service

ATLANTA — If your kids play baseball or softball, don't let them slide head first. It's not worth looking like Deion Sanders if they're going to wind up like Chipper Jones — badly injured, the journal Pediatrics advised. What's more, the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends in a new set of guidelines for young athletes that on-deck circles be eliminated and "breakaway bases" installed to reduce injuries.

The academy's Committee on Sports Medicine and Fitness said 4.8 million boys and girls ages 5 to 14 play baseball or softball, and that recent reports of injuries had raised "safety concerns" among a panel of pediatricians.

The physicians described a condition called "Little League elbow," which results when children throw balls too hard and too often for young muscles. This condition can lead to permanent elbow injury, the article said.

The academy recommended that batting helmets with polycarbonate faceguards be used, which also protect the chin and teeth. It also recommended the use of goggles by fielders and said young children "seem to be uniquely vulnerable to blunt chest impact because their thoraxes may be more elastic and more easily compressed."

Other recommendations:

- Make sure dugouts are protected with fencing, and keep kids in dugouts away from those swinging bats to warm up.
- Require catchers to wear chest and neck protectors, and allow only rubber spikes.
- Restrict the amount of time kids are allowed to pitch.

Single-dose vaccine for children sought

By Warren E. Leary
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Researchers say they are rapidly moving within reach of one of the long-standing goals of vaccine research: a single-dose inoculation that would protect infants against all major childhood diseases.

Spurred by advances in molecular biology and new methods of stimulating the body's defensive immune system, scientists say finding childhood immunology's "Holy Grail" of a supervaccine could be possible within as little as five years.

Scientists who are designing the vaccine say it should provide lifetime immunity with a single dose, should be easy to administer, store and transport, and should be effective at any time after birth.

"If we can combine all of these things, we would change immunization forever," Dr. William H. Foege, director of the Task Force for Child Survival and Development of the Carter Center in Atlanta, said at a symposium here last week. "There is no part of this that would require some quantum leap in information or technology that we can foresee now."

The symposium was sponsored by the Children's Vaccine Initiative, a program that was started in 1990 to increase childhood vaccination throughout the world and has set the goal of creating a supervaccine. The initiative's sponsors include the World Health Organization, the World Bank and the Rockefeller Foundation.

Among the recent developments outlined were advances in encapsulating antigens, proteins and toxins from disease organisms. Such biodegradable microcapsules or gels, injected into the body or absorbed through oral or nasal passages, could release their inoculating contents gradually so as to enhance the immune system at recommended stages, mimicking the current approach of giving primary shots and periodic boosters, scientists said.

In addition, there is promising work toward putting genetic material from disease organisms into harmless viruses that could "infect" the body and immunize it. Another approach depends on injecting raw DNA from viruses and bacteria to inoculate people against disease.

Experts said the ultimate goal is to create a single injection or oral vaccine to be given shortly after birth that would protect against all major child killers, including diphtheria, polio, pertussis or whooping cough, measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus, tuberculosis and hepatitis.

In addition, they said, a booster would be added to protect against local or regional infectious diseases, like diarrhea, pneumonia, malaria, cholera and others that afflict children in developing countries.

VACCINE: Children will benefit

(From 4B)

Eighty percent of the world's children have access to vaccination services, although many do not get all the recommended immunization and six million to eight million children die each year of preventable infectious disease.

Simple-to-use, multipurpose vaccines would make it easier to reach and treat all children, including the 20 percent who get no benefit of immunization today, Foege said.

Where vaccines are available, the greatest number of children receive inoculations on their first visit, but return rates for boosters drop with each subsequent required visit. An all-in-one vaccine given at birth would greatly reduce this problem, they said, even in economically advanced countries.

In the United States, experts say only 40 percent of 2-year-olds have all the recommended immunization and the number does not reach 95 percent until children reach school age, when proper vaccination is required.

"Certainly reducing the number of shots and therefore the number of office visits required before a child is 2 years old would help to increase the immunization compliance rate," said Deborah Clark, field director for the National Immunization Campaign, a coalition of private and government organizations working to improve vaccination rates by educating parents and increasing access to health care.

An important requirement of the new vaccines is that they be stable and easy to transport and store, said Dr. Philip K. Russell of the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health. "A major problem that adds to the expense and use of many vaccines is the requirement of continual refrigeration from manufacture to use," Russell said in an interview, "You have to break this 'cold chain.'"

An example of progress in this area, Russell said, is the recent discovery by French researchers of a way to improve the heat stability of oral polio vaccines, whose potency is reduced by one-third for every 24 hours they are kept uncooled at tropical temperatures.

Karl Simpson of the Benezech-Simpson Co. in Vion and Radu Crainic of the Pasteur Institute in Paris found that the vaccine remained potent without refrigeration for more than a week if it was made with "heavy water" instead of ordinary water, he said.

The researchers found that heavy water containing deuterium, a nonradioactive heavy isotope of hydrogen, forms a protective shell around the weakened polio virus in the vaccine that slows its deterioration.

Work is also advancing on developing more combination vaccines, like the common DPT shot, which protects against diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus. Dr. Francis E. Andre of Smithkline Beecham Pharmaceuticals in Rixensart, Belgium, said a combination that adds hepatitis B to DPT would soon be available in some European countries. And French scientists recently developed a "pentavalent" vaccine that adds protection against polio and Hemophilus influenzae type B, a cause of meningitis, he said.

Injecting pure genetic material, DNA or RNA with complete instructions for making a protein, from pathogens into muscle is also a promising approach, Andre and others said.

Research with animals shows that this genetic material can stay in muscles for months, making proteins that stimulate a broad immune response without becoming part of the genetic material of the recipient, researchers said.

Dr. Jerald C. Sadoff of the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington said his organization had developed a malaria vaccine that put the genes of seven antigens of that disease organism onto a harmless virus. When the virus spreads in the body, it produces the antigens that set off an immune response against the malarial parasite.

The vaccine, which will be tested in people this summer, is the first combination vaccine made in a single virus, he said. Unlike previous vaccine attempts that targeted the malaria parasite at a particular stage of its changing development in the body, he said, the new one is designed to attack every step in the organism's life cycle.

Researchers at Walter Reed have also joined forces with a company in Cambridge, Mass., the Virus Research Institute, to make an oral vaccine against cholera that will also undergo its first human tests this summer.

Made from one of the most virulent stains of cholera known, the bacteria in the vaccine was altered through genetic engineering so that it would provoke the immune system without causing diarrhea.

Genetically altered cholera and salmonella bacteria could be the basis of oral vaccines that offer protection against other diseases whose antigens they carry, Sadoff said. "Oral vaccines are safe, easy to deliver and cheaper than injectibles to make," he said.

A biotechnology company in Cambridge, Mass., Oravax Incorporated, working with the University of Maryland Center for Vaccine Development in Baltimore, is began human testing recently of an oral vaccine to protect against traveler's diarrhea.

This disease, caused by a waterborne organism called Shigella, not only plagues millions of travelers each year but is also endemic in parts of the developing world, where it is particularly severe in young children.

Dr. Lance K. Gordon, president of Oravax, said researchers had genetically modified one of the most virulent strains of Shigella so that when it attacks immune system cells in mucosal membranes, as it normally does, it is not able to spread from those cells and soon dies.

The organism itself thus provides the antigens used by the host to produce antibodies for defending against future attacks.

'Treasures' not so hidden or treasured

By Linda Anderson

If you don't believe that "there's nothing new under the sun," take a walk down the breakfast cereal aisle of the supermarket.

Anderson

Sure, you'll see a lot of different sizes, shapes and colors of cereal — manufacturers are constantly trying new ways to draw children's interest to their products — but once you look closer you'll find that most cereals are based on the same grains and taste a lot alike.

One of these "new" cereals is Hidden Treasures from General Mills. According to the description on the box, this is a "sweetened corn cereal, some with artificially flavored fruity centers." What this means is, this cereal is hollow puffs of corn, some of which have fake fruit in the middle.

I bought a box and let the young taste-testers check it out. They are usually brutally honest when it comes to food preferences.

A 13.75-ounce box of Hidden Treasures costs $3.15.

Label advertising on the back of the box is done in cartoon style. In this advertising, a robot and three kids are talking, and it goes something like this: "New Hidden Treasures cereal is amazing. Some pieces have fruit flavor inside...Some don't! That's the FUN of Hidden Treasures...not knowing when you'll discover...a yummy blast of cherry, orange and grape flavor!!!" It goes on from there, but you get the picture.

Nutritionally speaking, Hidden Treasures doesn't seem to be any better or any worse than other highly-sweetened, kid-oriented breakfast cereals. According to its nutrition label, the cereal contains 120 calories per ¼-cup serving (15 of those calories from fat), and 25 percent of the vitamin A, vitamin C, iron, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, vitamin B6 and folic acid suggested in the Recommended Daily Allowance.

The taste-test was very interesting. At first the tasters didn't even want to taste the cereal, but they did — straight out of the box — and decided it was OK that way. (They kept picking out the filled ones, though.) But neither one liked the cereal once milk was poured over it. They preferred the cereal eaten out of the box — like candy. Maybe that was the point.

Anyway, we've tried Hidden Treasures and found out that it tastes a lot like other sweetened corn-based cereals. In spite of the "hidden" pockets of artificial fruit flavored sugar stuff, there's really nothing new there.

Price listed is from a local supermarket. Prices at other locations may vary.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Practical matters will dominate in discussions with partners. Exciting personal trends develop in midsummer. Originality counts big at work! A bold stroke in August could result in a promotion or raise. November brings new financial gains. Welcome an opportunity to travel at year's end. A wedding that takes place early in 1995 should usher in a period of great happiness.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Jack Klugman, civil rights advocate Coretta Scott King, singer Sheena Easton, deejay Casey Casem.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Sweet reason helps you find logical answers to problems. Discard outdated concepts and try something new. Your generosity to a young person will be rewarded in tangible ways. Cultivate a serene disposition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Friends play a major role in today's plans. Call for the help you so richly deserve. Your psychic impressions could lead to a financial bonanza. Easy does it on the home front; soft-pedal disagreements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Listen to an intelligent friend's suggestions, then act accordingly. Jeopardizing your financial standing would be a mistake. Avoid purchasing nonessentials, even if bargain prices prevail. Steer clear of further heartache; beware of romance on the rebound.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Unexpected financial gains are featured. A long-sought goal moves within reach. Realize that each step you take brings you closer to the finish line.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Remember, a faint heart will win nothing. By being more assertive, you can convince others that you are in earnest. Academic work could be an uphill struggle right now. Hang in there — you will succeed!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Work is great therapy when your emotions threaten to overwhelm you. Let higher-ups know that you are eager to carry out a tough assignment. A sense of humor will help you get through anything.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Friendship, travel and good will are the keynotes today. A voice from the past could bring welcome news. Romance could complicate a long-time acquaintanceship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do not look askance at someone who expresses unusual ideas. You may be able to make use of this person's more practical suggestions. Higher-ups may be skeptical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sticking to the familiar will bring you good fortune this week. Family life, home offices and outside income are favored. Remodeling or decorating makes your surroundings much more comfortable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Rule out unnecessary risk-taking. Following a tried-and-true path will produce the best results today. Favoritism in business could lead to heavy financial losses. Guard against putting all of your eggs into one basket.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Put family needs first today. Help an older relative who has been very kind to you. Routine tasks do not have to be boring. Keep your schedule flexible in order to entertain unexpected guests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep your eyes on your goal and work towards it at a steady pace. Procrastination is the enemy of progress. Make decisions promptly and carry out your plans without delay. Adventure beckons tonight.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are thorough, accurate and scholarly. A strong thirst for knowledge makes these children voracious readers. They are curious about almost everything! Opening lead: Jack of ◇

From some articles we have written, it might seem that rubber bridge involves far more skill than duplicate. That is not so. In particular, the struggle for an overtrick, or an extra undertrick, can prove fascinating at the tournament game.

North added 12 points to South's announced 21-22, arrived at the magic number of 33 minimum and bid the small slam. Note the same bid would be made if you play a 22-24 range for two no trump.

At rubber bridge, you can claim at trick one. You have nine tricks outside of the spade suit and it makes no difference which defender you finesse for the queen. Even if the finesse loses, there are three spade tricks and 12 in all.

Duplicate is another matter. Here, a valuable overtrick can be scored if you can bring in the whole spade suit. Considering only the North-South holding in the suit, how would you play this combination?

One way is to cash the king and hope the queen drops singleton. If it does not, you are limited to three tricks in the suit because you are missing the high spot cards.

A better way is to hope West started with Q x or Q x x in spades. Win the diamond lead in hand and immediately finesse the ten of spades. If it wins, cash the king, return to hand and play the ace of spades. If the queen comes down on either of the last two tricks, you have your overtrick. (Note that it doesn't help if East started with Q x x. You can score only three tricks as long as East covers the ten.) Yes, there are squeeze possibilities, but this is still the best way to manage your spade assets.

Prosecutors continue Jackson's child molestation investigation

LOS ANGELES — Prosecutors thought they were close to wrapping up the child molestation investigation of Michael Jackson. This week, they said they were wrong.

Prosecutors don't know when Michael Jackson investigation will be completed.

"The investigation is continuing and there is no estimate as to when it will be completed," two prosecutors said Monday in a joint statement.

District Attorney Gil Garcetti of Los Angeles said earlier this month that he and Santa Barbara County District Attorney Thomas Sneddon Jr. expected to make a decision at the end of April on whether criminal charges would be filed.

"As with all allegations involving possible criminal conduct, the interests of justice mandate that an investigation be thorough," they said. "It would be unfair to Mr. Jackson, to any alleged victim and to the people of California to make a decision prematurely as to whether or not criminal charges will be filed."

The investigation began last summer when a 13-year-old boy accused the pop star of seducing him. The boy filed a lawsuit against Jackson and it was settled out of court for a reported $15 million.

NEW YORK — Aerosmith's Steven Tyler is out to save lives.

He recounts for ABC's "Turning Point" how he overcame heroin addiction eight years ago and talks about the resurgence of the drug among rock's new generation.

"Kurt Cobain, when he did his videos, you look in his eyes and he couldn't even face the camera; he was in pain," Tyler said. "And I'm angry about Kurt. This guy didn't have to die."

Cobain, lead singer of Nirvana, committed suicide April 5 at his Seattle home.

Tyler said he agreed to appear on the "Turning Point" segment "Hooked: From Hollywood to Maine Street" in the hope that telling of his own experience "would save at least one life."

The segment will be broadcast Wednesday.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — An 18-year-old from Tennessee wants to become Patsy Cline for a new musical.

Mandy Barnett, from Crossville, was chosen for the lead in "Always . . . Patsy Cline." The show will run for five months at the Ryman Auditorium, the original Grand Ole Opry.

"I want to be as real as possible," Barnett said. "I want people to believe for two hours that I'm Patsy Cline."

She was picked from more than 400 women who auditioned in Chicago, Los Angeles and Nashville.

"Although Mandy Barnett is quite young, she has the voice and the presence to play Patsy Cline," said J. Ted Swindley, creator and director of the musical.

Cline, who had hits with "Sweet Dreams" and "I Fall to Pieces," died in a plane crash in 1963.

LOS ANGELES — Roseanne Arnold wants to make two things perfectly clear: Husband Tom never beat her and "Leave us alone."

The TV star on Monday took back last week's accusation that she is "a classic battered and abused wife."

"I am not a battered wife in any way, although reports continue to circulate that I have not withdrawn the charges of being abused," she said in a statement.

On April 18, Mrs. Arnold filed for divorce from her husband of four years, and obtained a restraining order against him, claiming he had "hit," "struck" and "pinched" her.

"I signed an uncorrected, unread letter from my divorce lawyer in anger and haste. I made a mistake," she said Monday. "Although I know it's a titillating story to many out there, it is untrue and insults women who are really battered.

SURGERY: Hospitals offer service for some patients

(From 4B)

nesses on a hospital liaison committee. "We are not desirous of being martyrs of our faith; we very actively seek the best medical treatment."

While some individual doctors have been practicing bloodless medicine since the early '80s, it wasn't until 1987 when a hospital developed an entire program dedicated to the issue.

The Center for Bloodless Medicine and Surgery at Our Lady of the Resurrection Medical Center in Chicago has been a leader for bloodless surgery programs in the United States.

"There are 22 programs in the United States and about 10 to 15 hospitals are in the process of setting up centers," said Jan Castro Graziani, coordinator of the Chicago center. "Many have had to travel so far for treatment, our goal is to have at least one in each state."

Three Texas hospitals have bloodless surgery programs: Trinity, Doctors Hospital in Garland, and Metropolitan Hospital in San Antonio, Hardie said.

While some individual physicians refuse to perform bloodless surgery, others say it may actually be safer than receiving transfusions in today's world.

"Nowadays, we try not to transfuse anyone if we don't have to because of the risks of AIDS," Chihal said.

At Trinity, she said, some doctors have chosen not to take part in the program because of the risks involved.

"Hopefully, we'll never be in (a life-or-death) position, but you agree that you will not transfuse this individual — no matter what," Chihal said. "It's their life, they have the right to determine if it's right for them. It's a difficult ethical consideration."

For Jean Thomas, a Jehovah's Witness living in North Pole, Alaska, the possible risks involved in bloodless surgery are outweighed by the religious issues.

Ms. Thomas, 74, came to Trinity to undergo bowel surgery under the bloodless surgery guidelines. She chose Trinity because she couldn't find a specialist to perform the surgery in Alaska in accordance to her beliefs and because she has relatives in the area.

"I had no qualms at all," Ms. Thomas said. "I wouldn't have taken the blood, regardless.

"When they put one of those IVs in your hand, they're feeding you. The Bible says to abstain from blood. To abstain means to leave it alone."

Hardie adds: "This whole matter is not an expression in any way of a right to die, but rather it's a right of choice that Jehovah's Witnesses are expressing."

DEAR ABBY

Visitors try patience of hospital patients

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Having been a patient in various hospitals, I have learned that very few people know how to visit the sick and comfort them. They usually come at the wrong time and sit in positions that make it awkward for the patient to see them. Some visitors thoughtlessly sit on the bed, or jiggle it, disregarding the possibility it may be painful for the patient.

Van Buren

Some visitors will recall having known someone who had exactly what the patient has and, after suffering for a long time, finally died!

Abby, you are in a position to provide some sensible guidelines for your many readers. Please do. — THE REV. ROBERT M. LORIS, ST. JOSEPH PARISH, YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR MR. LORIS: What a fortunate coincidence. I received the following letter today:

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print a set of rules for people to follow when they visit someone in the hospital. When my mother had surgery last year, friends and relatives flocked to the hospital to see her. They wore her out! She had a "No Visitors" sign on her door to which nobody paid any attention. My poor mother didn't get a decent night's sleep until she went home. — ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS AND MR. LORIS: How's this?

■ No one (including relatives) should visit a hospital patient without telephoning first to inquire if the patient can receive visitors.

■ Visiting hours should be respected, and there should be a limited number of visitors in the patient's room at one time.

■ Visitors should keep their stay brief and their voices low. Some visitors feel that because they have traveled a great distance, they are entitled to stay for several hours — or longer. Fifteen or 20 minutes should be the limit.

■ Some hospitals have signs saying "No Children." (Children include babes-in-arms, toddlers and children under 10 years of age.) Respect the rules. The hospital is teeming with germs that small children have trouble fighting.

■ Smoke only in designated smoking areas. Do not smoke around oxygen!

■ Do not eat the patient's meals. The nurses must check to see how much the patient has eaten when the trays are returned to the kitchen. And never bring a patient anything to eat or drink without first clearing it with a nurse. Do not "sneak in" any homemade goodies the patient "just loves." Ditto, alcohol, cigarettes or medicine. If you feel you cannot show up empty-handed, bring a large box of candy — for the nurses and kitchen help.

■ Visitors should wash their hands after using the bathroom. (The Mayo Clinic has a slogan: "The 10 Greatest Carriers of Germs Are the Fingers.")

Boxer Evander Holyfield ...announces retirement

Boxer retires

ATLANTA — Evander Holyfield, diagnosed with a congenital heart condition, announced his retirement from boxing Tuesday, four days after losing the world heavyweight title to Michael Moorer.

Holyfield's personal physician, Dr. Ronald Stephens, said the condition was diagnosed after Holyfield lost a 12-round decision to Moorer on Friday night in Las Vegas. It was not life threatening, he said.

"Mr. Holyfield fought this fight in heart failure and it's an absolute miracle he could fight this fight for 12 rounds in this condition," the doctor said. "It's hard enough to fight in perfect condition."

In a conference call, Stephens said Holyfield could live a normal, active life, but he could no longer box. Stephens said the condition, diagnosed as a non-compliant left ventrical, prevented sufficient oxygen from being pumped to Holyfield's muscles and body tissues.

NACOGDOCHES — Stephen F. Austin baseball coach Tres Womack has agreed to resign at the end of this season, according to Lumberjack athletic director Steve McCarty.

McCarty made the announcement Tuesday, adding that a search would begin in May for Womack's replacement.

The Lumberjacks are currently 13-37 this season, including a 7-14 mark in the Southland Conference, which puts them in ninth place.

Womack is 34-69 in two years at SFA. His best season came in 1993, when the Lumberjacks finished 21-32 and sixth in the conference.

Earnhardt still feels NASCAR miles left

■ Racing star Dale Earnhardt turned 43 in Midland Tuesday, but he plans to be on the oval until the year 2000.

By Amy Wolfenbarger
Staff Writer

Surprisingly, for six-time NASCAR champion Dale Earnhardt, complacency has no meaning.

Earnhardt was in Midland Tuesday signing autographs and meeting fans at Jack Sherman Chevrolet for the Make-a-Wish Foundation. And with his 43rd birthday coming up Friday, he was also treated to a birthday cake.

While Earnhardt is at the very top of his profession, he dispelled any thoughts of retirement any time soon.

"Guys are retiring at 50 or 53, so I feel like I can win championships and win races until the year 2000," Earnhardt said. "As long as I'm competitive and healthy, and I think I have a shot, then I'll keep on racing. After that, I may slow down and just run in individual races."

Now, though, Earnhardt said he can't think of anything more than a seventh Winston Cup, which would tie now-retired Richard Petty for the most titles.

Through the Hanes 500 last weekend, Earnhardt is second on the Winston Cup points standings with 1,249, trailing Ernie Irvan with 1,274.

Perhaps one of the things that has given Earnhardt the continued drive to attain more titles was his sixth title, which came after what was his worst year with the GM Goodwrench/Richard Childress Racing Team in 1992.

After winning is fourth and fifth Winston titles in 1990 and 1991, Earnhardt only won one race in 1992.

"We had a great race team in 1992. We just struggled like everybody does from time to time," Earnhardt said after winning last year.

After that season, long-time crew chief Kirk Shelmerdine retired and the team revamped with new chief Andy Petree. The team, with more than 40 years of combined experience, regrouped and prepared for another season.

From the start of the 1992 season, Earnhardt began to win again and while Rusty Wallace put on a valiant comeback in the points race by eventually winning more races than Earnhardt, the Childress team pulled out a

Somewhere in the pep talk by Midland coach Rick Wood, he must have told his players to go out with a bang.

Wood cannot fault the Bulldogs for listening to his every word.

Midland High hit three home runs in a 15-hit attack to defeat Abilene High 15-6 in the District 4-5A finale for both teams at Zachery Field Tuesday.

Midland ends its season 6-6 and in fourth place in league play and 10-14 overall while Abilene High ends 6-17 and in the league cellar at 1-11.

Sophomores Jason Rogers and Clay Johnston hit round trippers as did senior Gabe Lawson. Johnston had hit an inside-the-park home run earlier in the year, but it was the first conventional homer of the season for the Midland team.

Rogers home run was a grand slam to break open a 2-2 tie.

"When I made contact with it, I thought it was gone," said Rogers, "I got under it a little bit, but this park is small and the wind helped."

The shot came after a bobbled ball by Abilene shortstop Jacob Martinez misplayed a sharp hit by Benson.

"We went up there with nothing to lose and just to have some fun," said Midland coach Rick Wood. "Chad Ben-

Lee five for the defense

■ The Midland Lee girls golf team is the defending Region I and state champions, but now the time has come to defend those titles.

By Amy Wolfenbarger
Staff Writer

It has taken a little while for the Midland Lee girls golf players to get their feet back on the ground after last year's fairy tale Class 5A state championship.

After all, last year's team of Paula King, Kaimi Fuller, Kim Fisher, Jennifer Dickson and Heather Albright were the first Lee girls team to advance to the Region I golf tournament since 1987. It was a fairy tale just to get to the state meet, not to mention winning the whole thing.

All but one of those five are back to defend their title. The team's lone senior last year, King, went on to play collegiately for Oklahoma and Kelly Thompson took her place in the group. The newest version of the Lady Rebel golf team, all seniors this time, is ready to write its own chapter in the Lee golf history. They're hoping the Region I Golf Tournament Friday and Saturday at Reese Air Force Base Golf Course in Lubbock will be a good place to start.

"Last year, we didn't expect to win state," Fisher said. "We had no idea. Because of that, we've had a lot of added pressures to go back and do the same thing this year."

Not to mention the sobering effects of losing the District 4-5A title that they were looking forward to taking easily. Instead, San Angelo put together its best team in several years and led all but one of the four rounds to score a total of 1,347 to upset the Lady Rebels with 1,373.

"This year, district wasn't a cakewalk like it was last year," Fuller said. "We won every tournament we played in last year. The only competition we had all year was when we got to state."

In fact the Lady Rebels have yet to shoot scores this season like they

Lee ends 4-5A play unbeaten

■ The Rebels sweep District 4-5A at 12-0 after a wild 19-16 win over Abilene Cooper.

Staff Report

ABILENE — After three disastrous innings here Tuesday, the Midland Lee baseball team found its chances rapidly escaping to go through District 4-5A play undefeated.

Abilene Cooper jumped to an 8-0 lead after three and the Rebels could only manage three hits.

But the Rebels stormed back furiously and scored 16 runs in the fourth to take a 16-8 lead which they never relinquished as they went on to defeat the Cougars 19-16 and finish loop play undefeated.

Lee improved to 21-3 overall and 12-0 in district play while Cooper fell to 9-3 and 12-12. The Rebels get a bye in the bi-district round of the playoffs.

Cooper finished second in district and will play District 3-5A third place team Amarillo Tascosa in the bi-district round of the Class 5A state playoffs.

Odessa Permian defeated San Angelo Central 2-1 Tuesday and finished in second place. The Panthers will play 3-5A runner-up Lubbock Monterey in bi-district. The times and sites of the playoff games will be determined at a later date.

Trailing 8-0, things still didn't look good for Lee after shortstop Eric Benavidez popped out to left field to start the fourth inning. The next 12 Lee batters, however, would reach base in an inning

Morrison slows Missions, but Park next on list

■ The Midland Angels break a slide, but South Korean Chan Ho Park pitches tonight.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

While most Midland Angel fans are awaiting the arrival of Chan Ho Park today, the Angels pitching staff pulled out their own young gun in right-hander Keith Morrison Tuesday night.

Morrison tossed his second complete game in as many outings by holding the Missions to six hits in a 7-2 win at Angels Stadium.

The win halts a three-game losing streak for the Angels. Midland will conclude its five game series with San Antonio tonight with the young South Korean phoenom Park starting for the Missions against Kory Keling (2-1, 2.86) for the Angels.

Park played briefly for the Los Angeles Dodgers before being sent down to San Antonio.

Morrison made all 3,483 in the stands forget about Park, at least for one night. He allowed just eight base runners and kept San Antonio guessing with control of his breaking pitches and fast ball.

"It's always great to win, especially when you lose three in a row at home," said Angels manager Mario Mendoza. "The morale of the team should be different. Hopefully, we will start playing good, like last week. We are going to face a tough pitcher, that Korean kid is supposed to be good.

"At any point, it is good to cut the losing streak quick. Hopefully, we can start a winning streak so that we can keep up with El Paso."

Midland trails El Paso by four games after Tuesday night's play. The Diablos defeated Wichita 7-0 late Tuesday.

"Mechanics has always been a big problem for me," said Morrison, who has allowed just three earned runs over his last 18 innings of work. "Now, I think I've ironed them out. I feel real smooth and I feel comfortable with my control with all pitches.

"Actually, I felt kind of tired early, but that's a good sign because things usually pick up at the end."

Morrison's strong outing took some of the pressure of the Angels offense, which leads the Texas League with a .298 average prior to Tuesday's game. The Halos took advantage of four San Antonio errors to break open a 3-2 Midland lead after five innings.

In the sixth, Mike Wolff walked to begin the inning. Chris Smith stroked a double just inside the first base bag to score Wolff. Smith scored on an error by Missions' catcher Ken Huckaby to give Midland a 6-2 lead. Midland's Tim Harkrider hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Emmitt Cochick later in the inning to give the Angels a 7-2 lead.

ANGEL NOTES: The minor league pitching debut of Korean Chan Ho Park has drawn the nation's media spotlight. A Korean radio station from Los Angeles will broadcast the game back to California as well as print media from southern California on hand to watch

Baltimore's Brady Anderson had a big day Tuesday with two homers, two doubles and scored four times against Oakland.

Orioles' Anderson joins record books

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Brady Anderson hit two homers and two doubles as the Baltimore Orioles beat Oakland Tuesday, 10-4, the Athletics' eighth straight loss in their worst road trip in 15 years.

Anderson, who never before had four extra-base hits in a game, tied a club record by scoring four runs. Rafael Palmeiro and Chris Hoiles also homered in the Orioles' seventh win in 10 games.

The rare weekday afternoon game drew 47,565, the second-biggest crowd in Camden Yards history behind only last year's All-Star game.

Rangers 6, Tigers 1

ARLINGTON — High winds blew winning pitcher Rick Helling off the mound, forced fans to be moved from the upper deck and caused a 45-minute delay in Texas' victory over Detroit.

Wind gusts estimated at 45-50 mph uprooted several trees in the parking lot and blew down a street light. A popup by Jose Canseco fell near the feet of Tigers first baseman Cecil Fielder for a single, and the field was left littered.

Earlier in the day, a tornado hit the north Texas town of Gainesville. On Monday, a tornado touched down in Lancaster, south of Dallas, and killed four people.

In the top of the sixth, Helling (2-0) was about to start his windup when the wind blew him off-balance.

Play was stopped in the bottom of the sixth when the winds caused dirt and debris to blow up in the faces of the players and spectators. Light rain also was falling when crew chief Rich Garcia halted the game with the Rangers ahead 3-1.

Angels 6, Yankees 3

NEW YORK — California lefthander Brian Anderson, making only his fifth career start, handcuffed New York Tuesday as the Angels ended the Yankees' six-game winning streak, 6-3.

Anderson, (3-0), struck out five and walked two and pitched shutout ball over the first eight innings. Gerald Williams' two-run double knocked him out in the ninth and after Pat Kelly singled home another run, Bob Patterson got the final out.

Dwight Smith drove in three runs with his first home run, a sacrifice fly and a single as the Angels collected 11 hits off Yankees starter and loser Melido Perez (2-1).

California scored a run in the second when Jim Edmonds, beating out an infield hit, was struck in the neck by a throw from Yankees shortstop Mike Gallego. Edmonds was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to Columbia Presbyterian Hospital where preliminary x-rays indicated no neck injury.

Tim Salmon ran for Edmonds, moved to third on Eduardo Perez' single to right and scored on Jorge Fabregas' single to center.

Fabregas, a former Midland Angel, also singled in the fourth, giving him hits in each of his first three major league at-bats but struck out in the sixth and grounded out in the eighth.

Indians 11, Twins 3

CLEVELAND — Rookie Manny Ramirez hit a three-run homer and Albert Belle doubled twice as Cleveland beat Minnesota, ending a four-game home losing streak.

Candy Maldonado also homered for the Indians, 8-3 on the road but just 3-4 at new Jacobs Field. Kenny Lofton tripled, doubled, drove in two runs and scored twice.

Mark Clark (2-0) gave up three runs and eight hits in 6⅓ innings and Jose Mesa pitched 2⅓ innings for his second save. The Indians backed them with flawless defense after committing 10 errors in their previous four games.

Dave Winfield homered and doubled and Scott Leius homered for the Twins.

■ AL Roundup

Minnesota center fielder Rich Becker misjudged both of Belle's doubles.

The first one, a line drive that nicked the top of Becker's glove, drove in a run in the first against Pat Mahomes (1-1) and extended Belle's hitting streak to 11 games.

The second one sailed over Becker's head and started Cleveland's four-run fourth and made it 5-2. Eddie Murray followed with a single, sending Belle to third, and Paul Sorrento hit an RBI single. One out later, Ramirez hit his fourth home run.

Maldonado, a pinch-hitter, hit his second home run of the season on Mark Guthrie's second pitch in the seventh inning, and Carlos Baerga hit a sacrifice fly later in the inning. Baerga went 0-for-4, ending his 15-game hitting streak.

Leius led off the third inning with his third home run, and Chuck Knoblauch's two-out single drove in another.

Winfield hit a solo home run in the sixth, his second of the year.

Tony Pena doubled home a run, Lofton had a two-run triple and Mark Lewis had an RBI single in the Cleveland eighth.

White Sox 3, Brewers 0

CHICAGO — Alex Fernandez pitched his second shutout of the season and Chicago ended Milwaukee's five-game winning streak.

Fernandez (2-3), who had lost his previous two starts, allowed six singles to the team that beat him five days ago. He has five career shutouts, including a six-hit blanking of Boston earlier this month.

Fernandez pitched only one shutout in 34 starts last year. He struck out one and walked two, and became the first pitcher in the majors with two shutouts this season.

Darrin Jackson doubled in the second, went to third on an infield out and scored when Ozzie Guillen's bloop to right field into a swirling wind dropped between three players for a hit.

Robin Ventura hit an RBI double in the third and Guillen made it 3-0 with another run-scoring single in the fourth off Cal Eldred (2-2).

Milwaukee had two runners on in the first, but Fernandez got Brian Harper to hit into a double play.

The Brewers had first and third with no outs in the third. But Alex Diaz was caught stealing and first baseman Frank Thomas made a diving stop of Billy Spiers' grounder.

Blue Jays 8, Royals 6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Joe Carter tied a major league record with his 29th RBI in April, sending Todd Stottlemyre and Toronto over Kansas City.

Carter is the fourth player to drive in 29 runs in April, joining Ron Cey (1977), Dale Murphy (1985) and Dave Winfield (1988). Carter is on a 13-game hitting streak and has eight homers in the month.

Devon White went 4-for-4 with a triple, was hit by a pitch and scored three times. He leads the league with 25 runs scored.

Stottlemyre (3-0), who began the season in the bullpen because of an injury to Duane Ward, won in his first start of the season. He gave up four runs on seven hits in five innings.

Mike Timlin pitched the ninth for his second save. He allowed a run on a single by Wally Joyner.

Chris Haney (1-1) threw 45 pitches as the Blue Jays sent nine batters to the plate in the first inning and four times, including Carter's RBI double. Haney threw two wild pitches and hit a batter in the inning.

White was hit by a pitch leading off the game and Domingo Cedeno singled. After two wild pitches, Carter doubled. John Olerud and Randy Knorr added RBI singles.

Felix Jose hit a two-run single in the Royals first.

Astros blow another late lead

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Doubles by Brian Hunter and Carlos Garcia capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning Tuesday night and led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

Jeff King led off the eighth with a single off Todd Jones (0-2). He took third on Orlando Merced's single. After a walk to Don Slaught loaded the bases, he scored on Al Martin's sacrifice fly to left field.

After a runner was thrown out at home on a grounder, Mitch Williams relieved. Slaught then scored on Scott Servais' second passed ball of the inning before Hunter, a pinch-hitter, and Garcia hit RBI doubles.

Mark Dewey (2-0), who got the final out in the seventh, was the winner. Rick White pitched the last two innings for his fourth save.

Steve Finley's fifth homer, a two-run shot in the fifth, had given Houston a 4-3 lead. Finley, who hit his fifth home run in his last 10 games, had 21 career homers in six seasons entering this year with a career-high eight last season.

Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the second after King walked and scored on a double by Merced.

Houston moved ahead 2-1 in the bottom of the inning. Luis Gonzalez led off with a double and scored on a double by Ken Caminiti. Servais then followed with an RBI single.

The Pirates went ahead 3-2 in the fourth and forced Houston starter Brian Williams from the game. Merced doubled with one out. After Slaught walked, Martin drove in Merced with a single.

■ NL Roundup

Slaught scored on a single by Kevin Young.

Padres 6, Mets 3

NEW YORK — Hours after he was charged with soliciting a prostitute, Scott Sanders returned to the mound and earned his first career save for San Diego.

Sanders and teammate Derek Bell were arrested at 2 a.m. EDT Tuesday for allegedly agreeing to have sex with undercover policewomen for $70 each. They were arraigned late in the afternoon and arrived at Shea Stadium about 30 minutes before gametime.

Sanders, who pitched 1⅓ innings, originally was to start. But Padres manager Jim Riggleman said Tuesday he had changed his mind Sunday and made the switch to Whitehurst.

Bell did not play. After the game he congratulated Sanders, his arm around the pitcher's shoulder.

Whitehurst (2-3), a former Met, matched his career high with nine strikeouts and walked three. Mark Davis faced two batters and Sanders finished for the save.

Pete Smith (1-3) lost his third straight start, allowing four runs and six his in seven innings with three strikeouts and two walks.

San Diego trailed 3-1 in the sixth but went ahead on Phil Clark's RBI single and Ricky Gutierrez's two-run double.

Phil Plantier's sixth homer put the Padres ahead in the second, but Todd Hundley's fifth homer tied the score in the third. Concecutive RBI doubles by Jeff Kent and David Segui put New York ahead 3-1 the following inning.

Plantier added a two-run double in the ninth off Mike Maddux.

Cardinals 2, Rockies 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Tewksbury cooled off the National League's highest-scoring team, striking out a career-high 10 and becoming the first five-game winner in the majors as St. Louis beat Colorado.

Tewksbury (5-0) allowed five hits, including a home run by Andres Galarraga in the fourth, and walked none in his second straight complete game. He has won nine of his last 11 starts dating to Aug. 28, 1993.

He also made an acrobatic play to end the eighth, knocking down Howard Johnson's line drive, rolling to get the ball and then tossing it to first while on his back.

The Rockies entered the night averaging 6.3 runs per game. Galarraga's home run was their league-leading 30th and ninth in four games, but Tewksbury didn't allow any other runner past second base. In one nine-batter stretch ending in the seventh, he had four strikeouts and five infield outs.

Galarraga leads the league with 28 RBIs, one short of the major league record for April held by three players — Dave Winfield in 1988, Dale Murphy in 1985 and Ron Cey in 1977. Joe Carter of Toronto entered the night with 28 RBIs.

Expos 7, Giants 3

MONTREAL — Shortstop Royce Clayton's two-run throwing error and Cliff Floyd's sacrifice fly in fifth inning helped Montreal rally past San Francisco.

Billy Swift (3-2) had a 3-1 lead entering the fifth after retiring 12 consecutive batters.

Darrin Fletcher walked, and Sean Berry and Wil Cordero singled to load the bases. Expos pitcher Jeff Fassero (2-1) hit a bouncer to Clayton, whose throw to catcher Kirt Manwaring sailed to the backstop as two runs scored. Floyd's sacrifice fly gave Montreal a 4-3 lead.

Braves 9, Marlins 6

MIAMI — Rookie Mike Kelly collected his first major-league RBIs with a three-run double to break an eighth-inning tie, lifting Atlanta past Florida.

Kelly, who entered the game in the seventh as a pinch runner, pulled a 3-2 pitch from Yorkis Perez down the third-base line with two outs and the bases loaded.

Rookies Javier Lopez and Ryan Klesko homered for the Braves, who came back from a 5-1 deficit and avoided what would have been their sixth loss in seven games. Lopez's homer, his fifth of the season and his second in two nights, landed in the upper deck.

Lopez's blow off Jeff Mutis scored two runs to tie the game 5-all.

Reds 8, Cubs 2

CINCINNATI — Tim Pugh pitched a five-hitter and Thomas Howard and Tony Fernandez each drove in three runs as surging Cincinnati beat Chicago.

The Reds improved to 13-5, best in the major leagues, with their seventh victory in eight games. The Cubs have lost nine of 11 to fall to 5-13, worst in the majors.

MHS: 'Dogs end year

son did a great job pitching. It was a similiar outing as in Abilene when he threw some pitches they hit off their fists for bloopers. I have to give Chad a lot of credit."

Benson improved to 4-2 in league games, pitching out of several jams as Abilene left two runners stranded in four of the seven innings.

Saturday, Midland defeated San Angelo 6-5 to stay in the playoff race, but later in the day Odessa Permian clinched the final district playoff spot with a nine-inning win over Abilene Cooper.

"I think the seniors went in trying to go out with style. I thought we have been playing pretty well throughout district. Things just didn't go our way this year. I think next year the sophomores and juniors are going to come up and do really well."

Every spot in the batting order picked up a hit. Rogers' 2-for-4 with four RBI, led the offensive attack. Johnston scored four runs and designated hitter Kyle Carrasco went 2-for-4 with three RBI.

which lasted 45 minutes. Two Cooper fielding errors prolonged the inning.

In all, Lee had pounded out 11 hits and scored 16 runs to take the lead for good.

The Rebels put the game away in the fifth when catcher Mike Phillips hit a two-run double and Benavidez had a RBI single.

Senior hurler Alex Hale got the win in relief for the Rebels and kept the bases clean of all but one Cooper runner in the sixth and seventh innings to preserve the Lee lead. Hale (1-0) pitched four innings, backing up starter Mark Holly and Sean Low, and gave up eight hits and five runs.

Cooper jumped to the early lead on a two-run home run by David Anderson and a RBI double by Zac Allen in the second. Then Cougars Craft Hughes, Anderson and John Hirsch each had RBI hits to pad Cooper's lead.

Allen (0-2) got the loss on the mound for the Cougars in relief.

Chaps take 18-stroke lead at Region V golf

Staff Report

HOBBS, N.M. — Chad Campbell and Shawn Savage led the Midland College golf team to an 18-stroke, first-round lead in the Region V Junior College Championships here Tuesday at the Ocotillo Golf Course.

Midland shot a 573 over the first 36 holes to lead New Mexico Junior College with 591. Odessa College was a close third with 593. The Chaparrals finished three-under on the par-72 course despite fierce winds, said MC coach Delnor Poss.

Campbell, from Andrews, started the day with a 72 on the first 18 holes then finished with a blistering 68 on the final 18 to score a 140 for the medalist lead. Savage, from Plainview, shot a 72 and 71 to tie at second with Odessa College's Tracy Ellis at 143.

"Chad and Shawn had a sensational day," Poss said.

Monahans freshman Jason Garduno led MC and the field with rounds of 69 and 68 for a 137, but had to play as an individual since he wasn't placed on the first team this week.

"Good coaching," is the way Poss put it. However, Poss said, "We didn't need it and having an 18-stroke lead really looks sweet."

The top two teams earn berths in the national tournament in Scottsdale, Ariz., in June.

Here are results Tuesday from the first round (36 holes) of the Region V Junior College Golf Tournament played at the Ocotillo Golf Course in Hobbs, N.M.:

Team Standings: 1. Midland College, 289-284—573; 2. New Mexico Junior College, 292-299—591; 3. Odessa College, 295-298—593, 4. Grayson College, 298-296—594; 5. Western Texas, 301-293—594, 6. Weatherford, 309-294—603, 7. New Mexico Military Institute, 311-295—606; 8. McLennan CC, 309-304—613; 9. Cisco JC, 324-301—625.

Medalist Standings: 1. Chad Campbell, MC, 72-68—140; 2. (tie) Shawn Savage, MC, 72-71—143 and Tracy Ellis, OC, 143.

MC Results: Campbell, 72-68—140; Savage, 72-71—143; Graham Davidson, 73-72—145; Luke Mongrain, 80-73—153; Jason Brooks, 72-77—149.

MC Individuals: Jason Garduho, 69-68—137; Lance McCullough, 71-77-148.

Harvey out 15 days

MIAMI (AP) — Bryan Harvey was a relieved reliever Tuesday.

The Florida Marlins said Harvey will be sidelined only 15 days with a strained pitching elbow.

Harvey's elbow required surgery in 1988 and 1992, but the latest injury — a strained flexor muscle mass — was unrelated to those operations.

DRIVER: Earnhardt wants more points titles

narrow victory.

"I've been fortunate to win a lot of races and championships, so I have so many memories, it's really hard to pinpoint one greatest thrill," Earnhardt said. "All of the titles had special memories, but I guess the sixth was especially great since we had a bad year before and we got a new crew chief and he came in and we immediately started winning."

Earnhardt, who drives a Chevrolet Lumina, said that while he feels he is on top of the racing world, he's not satisfied with that position.

"If I'm not on top, I can't wait to get there," he said. "If it's any better than this, then I don't know what I would do. My goals are to win more championships and more races."

Since starting his first Winston Cup race in 1975, when he finished 22nd at the World 600, Earnhardt has found that being on a good team is perhaps the most important element to being a consistent champion.

Most of his early career was spent with several different teams and he spent three full seasons with Rod Osterlund's team before hooking up with Childress for a brief stint in 1981. He had recently been named Rookie of the Year in 1979 and won his first Winston Cup in 1980, becoming the first driver to accomplish those feats back to back.

After two seasons with the Bud Moore team, Earnhardt rejoined Childress in 1984 and went on to win five more titles, in 1986, 1987, 1990, 1991 and 1993.

"It takes a lot of dedication on the team's part," Earnhardt said. "A lot of the success comes from being part of a great team."

Now he's focusing on the Petty mark and it's not a challenge he will back down from.

"Being competitive is one thing. Staying on top is another."

With that kind of "never satisfied" attitude, a strong team and a desire to race for several more years, Earnhardt could just wind up leaving that mark in the dust, just like he has done the rest of the NASCAR field over his long career.

Eastwood makes Toronto's playoff day

Associated Press

TORONTO — Mike Eastwood, playing because of an injury to Doug Gilmour, made the most of an opportunity.

With only 13 seconds left in a Toronto third-period power play, Eastwood scored the game's only goal Tuesday night, giving the Maple Leafs a 1-0 victory and 3-2 edge over Chicago in a best-of-7 first-round NHL Playoff series.

"It's a tremendous relief," Eastwood said of his goal at 10:07 of the third period, his first goal of the playoffs. "I was just happy to be in the right place at the right time.

"Wendel (Clark) made a great play behind the net to get the puck over to Dave (Andreychuk) and I just got a piece of it."

The way goalies Felix Potvin of Toronto and Ed Belfour of Chicago were playing, it was obvious by the third period that power plays would offer the best chances to score goals.

Chicago got the first such opportunity in the third period after Toronto's Mark Osborne was sent off for goaltender interference at 6:13. The Blackhawks came close when Joe Murphy got off a wrist shot that appeared destined for the back of the net, but Potvin somehow snared the puck with his glove.

■ NHL Playoffs

Gilmour was out after straining a muscle in his right leg eight minutes into the third period.

Toronto's opportunity came when Gary Suter was penalized for hooking at 8:20. With 13 seconds left with the man advantage, Andreychuk took a pass from Clark and moved the puck out of the corner to Eastwood, who put it over Belfour's shoulder.

"We really bounced back," said Potvin, who had lost the two previous games in the series. "It was tough mentally for me because there were not that many shots.

"Going into the third period, I knew they would get at least one good chance so I had to stay focused."

Game 6 of the series is Thursday night at Chicago.

Toronto outshot Chicago 37-17 for the game and 26-10 for the first two periods. A combination of Belfour's acrobatics, poor shooting by the Leafs and wasted manpower advantages kept the game scoreless.

In the first, Clark was alone near the net on a power play but missed the open net.

In the second, Mike Gartner stood in the slot with the puck on his stick but put the shot against Belfour's chest pa Toronto outshot Chicago 14-3 in the period, but Belfour was rock solid.

More Sports/8C

At the other end, Potvin was rarely tested seriously.

Both teams were 0-for-5 on the power play as they returned to the ice to begin the third. Chicago had managed but one shot on Potvin during its five extra-man opportunities.

"It's always tough when you lose a one-goal game," said Belfour, who also was on the short end of a 1-0 decision one week ago. "I think we have to learn from it.

"They have a good club. They compete very hard and we have to play our style of game. Tonight, we didn't do that.

"But we're not down in here at all. We have to go back in our own building and play the same type of game we did to win the two games back there. That's what the guys are going to do.

Prices retreat

NEW YORK — Oil prices finished lower on Tuesday amid signs that the United Nations and Iraq are moving closer to lifting the global embargo on Iraqi oil exports.

West Texas Intermediate for delivery in June settled at $16.91 per barrel, down 33 cents, at the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Local crude purchasers lowered their posted price 25 cents to $15.50 a barrel.

The U.N. chief weapons inspector and Iraq agreed to speed the development of an arms monitoring program that could lead to lifting the embargo. Iraq's potential to add oil to the heavy supplies already on world markets has weighed on prices.

Also, some analysts cited signs that the disturbances in Nigeria that have slowed exports from the world's tenth biggest oil producer in the past week may be abating.

After the market closed Tuesday night, the American Petroleum Institute released domestic inventory figures that showed virtually unchanged supplies of crude oil last week.

The API said crude oil inventories rose 271,000 barrels to 339.15 million, gasoline stocks were up 4.22 million barrels to 216.76 million and distillates, which include heating oil, rose 436,000 barrels to 102.58 million. Refineries increased production to 94.2 percent of capacity from 90.9 percent.

Natural gas prices were lower, with contracts for delivery in June settling at $2.103 per 1,000 cubic feet, down 4.9 cents.

Dollar falls

NEW YORK — The dollar was mostly lower against major foreign currencies Tuesday, confounding traders who expected the greenback to rise after the latest batch of U.S. economic news.

The dollar closed at 1.6755 marks in New York, down from 1.6800 late Monday.

In New York, the dollar fell to 102.85 yen from 103.05 yen.

In New York, the pound closed at $1.5075, up from $1.4915.

Other dollar rates in New York, compared with late Monday: 1.4305 Swiss francs, down from 1.4340; 5.7570 French francs, down from 5.7675; 1,609.60, Italian lire, up from 1,608; and 1.3733 Canadian dollars, down from 1.3785.

Stocks slump

NEW YORK — Stocks finished mostly lower Tuesday as the market steadied after the previous session's surge and investors reviewed mixed financial results from corporations.

The Dow Jones industrial average meandered at modestly lower levels throughout the uneventful session before closing at 3,699.54, off 6.24. The popular market indicator advanced 57.10 points Monday to end above 3,700 for the first time in about a month.

The NYSE composite slipped 0.06 to 250.41 and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index shed 0.84 to 451.87.

Workers' compensation gains drag

Slow growth in health insurance, other benefits holds increase to lowest on record

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Slower growth in health insurance and other job benefits helped hold workers' overall compensation gains to the smallest on record in the year ended March 31.

The Labor Department said Tuesday its Employment Cost Index rose 3.2 percent for the 12 months, down from 3.5 percent a year earlier and the tiniest increase since the government began tracking wages, salaries and benefits in 1982.

The index is considered one of the best gauges of wage inflation pressures. And since employment costs represent about two-thirds of a product's cost, it suggested price hikes will be held in check in the near future.

"But it's a two-edged sword," said economist Robert G. Dederick of the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "While it's reassuring on the inflation side, it shows wages are just keeping up with inflation. There's no increase in purchasing power."

President Clinton "continues to be somewhat concerned about the slow growth of wages," White House Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers said. "Wages have been stagnant for more than a decade now."

But she said the economy is healthy and jobs are being created in record numbers.

She also said Clinton has no immediate plans to push for a minimum wage increase, although it is "something he's expressed support for."

"It's a wonder people feel so good," Dederick said, alluding to a survey released Tuesday showing that consumer confidence jumped in April to its highest level in nearly four years.

"I suppose they're more confident about their job situation. They're not getting paid much, but they have a job," he added.

The Conference Board, a New York-based research group, said its index of consumer confidence rose five points in April to 91.7. The index is now at the highest level since a 101.7 reading in July 1990.

"Basically, it finds consumers are believers in the expansion," Dederick said.

Analysts believe the increased confidence will translate into continued consumer spending, which represents about two-thirds of the nation's economic activity.

The Employment Cost Index showed wages and salaries — 72 percent of total compensation — rose 2.9 percent in the year ended in March, slightly more than the 2.7 percent advance a year earlier.

But they were barely keeping up with inflation. According to the department's Consumer Price Index, inflation rose 2.7 percent last year and, so far in 1994, is advancing at a 2.5 percent annual rate.

Benefit costs rose 4.1 percent, down from 5.4 percent a year ago and the smallest 12-month increase since a 3.7 percent gain in the year ended Dec. 31, 1987.

The department said the moderation in benefit costs reflected in part a continuing slowdown in health insurance costs.

The small overall increase in employment costs "has to be the sort of thing the Federal Reserve should be impressed by," Dederick said. "Inflation remains a problem for tomorrow."

The central bank has nudged short-term interest rates up, to 3.75 percent from 3 percent, in three moves since early February in an attempt to prevent any inflationary spiral.

During the first quarter of 1994, employment costs rose a seasonally adjusted 0.7 percent, down from 0.8 percent during the October-December period.

Bivins upbeat on bill to open state trucking

By John Paul Pitts
Business/Oil Editor

The next session of the Texas legislature could produce pro-business legislation, says State Senator Teel Bivins.

Speaking to the Permian Basin Chapter of the International Association of Drilling Contractors, Bivins the outlook for total deregulation of trucking in Texas looked good.

He called the Texas trucking industry an elite club that costs every Texan, and said it is time to end a system that dictates who can enter the industry and who can haul what and where.

Bivins, a fourth-generation rancher from the Panhandle, said it was disgraceful that Blue Bell, a Texas ice cream company, was locating its new national plant in Oklahoma so it wouldn't have to deal with Texas trucking rules.

One of the major backers of deregulated trucking in the state, Bivins said the regulated trucking system was anti-competitive and has more deadhead (empty) truck miles than any other state because of its system of granting authority.

"Nobody should have to go to the Texas Railroad Commission and ask for authority to haul in Texas," he said.

With Tom Craddick as chairman of the House Ways & Means Committee, the state senator whose district includes Midland, said Texans would not face any new taxes in the next session.

"Craddick is convinced that nobody in Texas needs his taxes raised for any reason. Everybody else in the state has had to cinch up their belt during hard times, but not the state. Now, it's their turn."

He said that state spending has increased from $38 billion to $77 billion annually since he entered public office in 1988.

To stem the growing intrusion of regulators into the affairs of private property rights, Bivins said legislation would be introduced to codify a Supreme Court decision that said a South Carolina man must be compensated for property whose value had been diminished by regulations.

Economic forum on tap for Friday in Lubbock

The West Texas chapter, IAFP and Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas has scheduled a daylong presentation Friday entitled "Free Enterprise, Capitalism and the American Economy." The presentation will be at the Lubbock Plaza Hotel in Lubbock from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A continental breakfast will begin the day at 7:30 a.m.

At 8 a.m., Wayne Hast, director of economic education, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, will speak on "The Federal Reserve and the Economy." He will be followed by Beverly Fox, associate economist at the bank. Her topic will be "Inflation: Causes, Consequences and Cures."

Following a 20-minute break, W. Michael Cox, vice president of research and policy advisor at the bank, will speak on "These Are the Good Old Days." He will be followed by William Gruben, research officer and policy advisor. His topic will be "Less Free Enterprise Means Corruption."

Lunch will be served from noon to 1 p.m. Then Fox will speak on "Free Trade: U.S. Trade Policy Past and Present."

She will be followed by Cox, who will speak on "Capitalism: Paradox of Progress."

After a 20-minute break, a panel discussion will center on "Free Trade, Free Enterprise, Employment and the Economy."

Andrews sweeps I-4A golf titles

SAN ANGELO — Derrick Pursley fired a second-day score of 70 to win the medalist race and lead the Andrews boys to a 12-stroke win in the Region I-4A Golf Tournament here Tuesday at Bentwood Country Club.

On the girls side, Andrews' Tori Hester dropped out of first place in the medalist standings by shooting an 81 in the second round, but her third-place finish was good enough to give the Lady Mustangs another trip to the state tournament as they won the title by a whopping 22 strokes over rival Snyder.

Andrews won the girls title with a 661 over Snyder's 683. The Lamesa girls were seventh with a two-day total of 775.

Pursley led a torrid attack by the Mustangs, who found themselves with a narrow one-stroke lead after Monday's first round. Andrews has three players shoot 75 or better on Tuesday — Brandon Parnell (74), Marcus Mainord (75) and Pursley — to finish with a second-round total of 297.

Plainview was tied at 304 with Borger after the first round, but both teams fell back at 308 and 311 on Tuesday to finish way behind Andrews.

Mustangs to face WF Notre Dame

Midland Christian will open the TAPPS state baseball playoffs Friday in a bi-district matchup against Wichita Falls Notre Dame at 1:30 p.m. at Abilene Wylie High School Field.

MCHS is 11-13 overall this season, but finished 3-1 in district play.

Eight Mustangs were named to the All-District 2-2A team. Being named to the first team were Chad Bayley, pitcher; Patrick Kuzmich, left field; Alan Awtry, shortstop and Kyle Jackson, designated hitter.

Named to the second team were Neil Truex, second base; Jody Allred, first base; Coby Welsh, catcher; Lane Hill, centerfield.

Dixieland Dash takes third place

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Dixieland Dash, a three-year-old sorrel stallion owned by Mike Abraham and Gwendoly Eaves of Midland, recently placed third here in the Southwest Derby at The Downs.

Dixieland Dash was ridden by Troy Crissup and trained by Richard Fry, and finished the 400-yard race in 20.40 seconds to win $3,774. Treacherously won the race and Miss Sports Roll was second.

Big Spring netter comes up short

SAN ANGELO — Big Spring's Greg Biddison, the No. 2 seed, was sidelined from a Class 4A state tennis berth by way of the playback rule at the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament here Tuesday.

Biddison, the District 3-4A boys singles champion, defeated two opponents to roll to the finals of the two-day tournament before losing to the No. 1 seed Rob Hogan of Wichita Falls, 6-3, 6-4. Fort Stockton's Jason Lester, however, won the playback over Plainview's Zach Gibson, a player Biddison had earlier defeated, and earned a chance to play Biddison for the second-place spot.

Unseeded Lester, who qualified for state last year, then proceeded to oust Biddison 6-4, 6-4 to earn a trip to the state tournament in Austin in two weeks.

The Big Spring girls doubles team of Lara Stevenson and Amy Dominguez advanced to the semifinals but were defeated by No. 2 Mindy James and Mind Goff of Wichita Falls, 6-2, 6-3. In the playback, the Big Spring duo was defeated by Brooke Weishaar and Cara Sandoval of Hereford, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Here are area results from the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament played Monday and Tuesday at the Angelo State University courts:

Girls Singles: First round — Heidi McIntyre, Big Spring, def. Stacey Wyatt, Fort Worth Brewer, 6-3, 7-5; Lisa Hicks, Fort Worth Boswell, def. Ivana Villareal, Big Spring, 6-2, 7-5. Second round — Lindsey Woodworth, Fort Worth Arlington Heights, def. McIntyre, 6-0, 6-0.

Girls Doubles: First round — Lara Stevenson-Amy Dominguez, Big Spring, def. Khamtan Naphaphone-Kathy Hutchinson, Mineral Wells, 6-0, 6-1. Second round — Stevenson-Dominguez, def. Lyndee McNeese-Lacey Jordan, 7-6, 1-6, 6-3; Semifinals — Mindy James-Mindy Goff, Wichita Falls, def. Stevenson-Dominguez, 6-2, 6-3; Playback — Brooke Weishaar-Cara Sandoval, Hereford, def. Stevenson-Dominguez, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Boys Singles: Second round — Greg Biddison, Big Spring, def. Jonathon Zonowiak, Mineral Wells, 6-2, 6-2. Semifinals — Biddison def. Greenwood tops Crane in baseball

GREENWOOD — Bucky Smith and Andy Watzl each nailed a home run as Greenwood defeated Crane 20-10 in District 6-3A baseball action here Tuesday.

The Rangers improved to 1-3 in district play and will host Kermit Friday at 5 p.m. in another loop battle.

Josh Jones (4-3) was the winning pitcher. Besides the home runs, the Rangers were led offensively by Casey Otho, Rusty Purser and Damon Cumba, who each hit two doubles. Andy Smith and Michael Smith each hit one double.

Buffs tab coach

CANYON — Morris Stone was named as head football coach at West Texas A&M University Tuesday by the school's athletic director Mike Chandler.

Stone has served as WTAMU's interim head coach since Ron Steele resigned on March 28. He becomes the 23rd head coach at the school.

Stone has also been an assistant at Midwestern State, Texas Tech and Galveston Ball High School.

Two Toronto players face felony charges

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Attorneys for Toronto Blue Jays pitchers Dave Stewart and Todd Stottlemyre said today the two are innocent of felony charges arising from a scuffle with police outside a Tampa nightclub.

The pitchers were formally charged Monday for battery on a law enforcement officer and resisting arrest in the February incident that Stewart said began as a dispute over his refusal to wear a wristband showing he was of legal drinking age.

"We are here to categorically deny these charges and to tell the public that Dave Stewart and Todd Stottlemyre are absolutely innocent of these charges," Stewart's attorney, Ron Cacciatore, said at a news conference.

"We think that maybe, since we sat quietly by while we were doing our own investigation, that perhaps there are those in this community, in Toronto and elsewhere who believe that these players have done something wrong since their attorneys have not spoken out aggressively for them. Nothing could be further from the truth."

Cacciatore was joined by Paul Levine, an attorney for Stottlemyre, and Dave Runyan and Dan Burton, lawyers for the Blue Jays who read a statement of support from Pat Gillick, the club's general manager.

Gillick said he was "shocked and surprised" that the charges had been filed and that the Blue Jays "stand behind their players 100 percent."

Each athlete could spend up to five years in jail and be required to pay a $5,000 fine on each of the third-degree felony counts if convicted.

Stewart also faces a misdemeanor charge of disorderly conduct, which carries a maximum 60 days in jail and a $500 fine.

"They're all just plain, simple lies," Stewart said in Kansas City late Monday after the Blue Jays lost to the Royals 4-3. "I guess they just want to clear their name. They're wrong, and it will be proven that they are wrong."

Stewart, 37, and Stottlemyre, 28, were arrested Feb. 20 during an altercation with police outside a nightclub in Tampa's Ybor City section.

Authorities say Stottlemyre pushed a police officer and Stewart punched another officer in the face. Both players deny they struck anyone.

Two Padres arrested by N.Y. policewoman

NEW YORK (AP) — Eighteen hours before they were due at Shea Stadium, two San Diego Padres players were arrested Tuesday for allegedly propositioning an undercover policewoman on a Manhattan street corner.

Pitcher Scott Sanders and outfielder Derek Bell were arrested around 2 a.m. on a misdemeanor charge of patronizing a prostitute.

Sanders and Bell, who was wearing the World Series championship ring he won with the Toronto Blue Jays, appeared "shocked and bewildered," Capt. Michael O'Neill of the Public Morals Unit said.

"They told me they were baseball players and I told them they were under arrest," O'Neill said.

Both players were scheduled for arraignment Tuesday afternoon. They were expected in uniform at Tuesday night's game, Padres spokesman Jim Ferguson said.

Sanders had been listed as the probable starting pitcher, but Ferguson said the team had decided before the arrest to start Wally Whitehurst instead.

"The ballclub is investigating the situation to see what all is involved," Ferguson said. "They will presumably both be at the ballpark and available to play."

According to police, the players committed an error by visiting a neighborhood frequented by both prostitutes and undercover cops trying to catch customers in ongoing "john operations."

At 2 a.m., two female officers dressed in miniskirts were strolling near the corner of East 30th Street and Lexington Avenue when a yellow cab approached.

Bell and Sanders, both 25 and single, rolled down the window and beckoned to the officers, police said. The players struck a deal to have sex with the women for $70 apiece, police said.

The exchange was captured on tape through concealed listening devices worn by the undercover cops.

"They were gentlemen throughout the process," O'Neill said.

Fifteen other men, including a gynecologist and a retired transit police officer, were arrested in the anti-prostitution sweep. If convicted, all face up to three months in jail and fines up to $500.

Sanders is 1-2 with a 3.93 ERA in three starts this season. He was 3-3 with a 4.13 ERA in nine starts for the Padres and 5-10 with a 4.96 ERA in 24 starts for Las Vegas of the Pacific Coast League last season.

Bell, who hit .262 with 21 homers and 72 RBIs in his first full season in the majors last year after joining the Padres in a trade with Toronto, is hitting .296 with five homers and 12 RBIs in 71 at-bats this season.

Trinity wins SCAC all-sports crown

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Trinity University has won the President's Trophy, the all-sports championship of the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Trinity brought its conference championship mark to seven this academic year by winning three titles — in men's and women's tennis and men's golf — at the conference's Spring Sports Festival in Atlanta that concluded Saturday.

The Tigers also won conference titles in football, women's soccer and women's volleyball and shared the men's soccer championship with Rhodes College.

Rhodes won the President's Trophy last year.

The Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference is an NCAA Division III conference.

Marshall coming out

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Donyell Marshall is going into the NBA draft.

The All-American who led Connecticut scoring for two years, announced Tuesday he will passing up his senior year in a bid for the pros.

"I just feel this is a very good opportunity ... I can go out and grab right now," he told a news conference at the university.

Marshall, the Big East player of the year, met with coach Jim Calhoun on Monday and decided to put an end to speculation about his future. He had until May 15 to make his decision

He is expected to be an early pick in the June 29 NBA draft.

The 6-foot-9 junior led the Huskies to a 29-5 record. He averaged 25.1 points a game last season, while scoring a school-record 853 points.

Marshall could have extended UConn's season. Against Florida in the NCAA tournament Sweet 16 game, he scored only 16 points. Fouled with 3.4 seconds left and needing to make one free throw to break a 57-57 tie, the 76 percent free-throw shooter missed both and the Huskies lost in overtime.

Calhoun has said he did not believe Marshall's performance in the last game would affect his standing among NBA scouts.

"I don't believe that his stock has dropped at all," Calhoun said recently. "I can't take that from what other people are saying. I can only tell you what NBA general managers and directors of player personnel tell me."

In 34 games last season, Marshall made 51.1 percent of field goal attempts and 31.1 percent of 3-point attempts. He had 302 rebounds, an average of 8.9 per game.

The list of underclassmen declaring themselves eligible so far includes Juwan Howard and Jalen Rose of Michigan, Clifford Rozier of Louisville, Jason Kidd and Lamond Murray of California and Yinka Dare of George Washington. Another top player, Glenn Robinson of Purdue, has yet to announce his intentions.

Massage-The Body/Mind Connection

What athletes do to their bodies in the heated pursuit of victory, time does too...slowly but surely... to all of us. Wear and tear on the body over the years is inescapable but, like athletes, even senior citizens can find salvation in the hands of a trained professional massage therapist; many age related health problems and illnesses are associated with the circulatory system, which is improved by massage.

Therapeutic massage by a trained professional is designed to stimulate both the nervous and lymphatic systems, release the body's natural tranquilizers and pain killers - the endorphins, increase blood circulation, relax muscular tension and break down scar tissue.

As more is learned about attaining and enhancing good health through proper nutrition, vitamins, minerals, herbs and exercise, more people are tuning into the relaxing and healing therapeutic effects of massage performed by properly schooled and state licensed massage therapists. To become licensed, massage therapists must graduate from a state approved school and then pass a rigid State Board examination given by the Texas Department of Health. Therapists not licensed by the State of Texas may not practice in Texas. After being licensed, having studied anatomy, physiology, hydrotherapy and reflexology as well as a myriad of massage techniques such as Swedish, Japanese Shiatsu, Chinese Chi balancing, Polarity Therapy, stretching and joint range of motion, therapists are qualified to work with clients from a physician's prescription and also file insurance claims. An added incentive is that massage treatments prescribed by a physician, and not paid for by insurance, are tax deductible as a medical expense.

Patsy Sayers is a Texas licensed Massage Therapist professional who works with many different kinds of clients, using a variety of massage modalities on clients who suffer from various illnesses and symptoms such as arthritis, fibromyalgia, migrane and other types of headache, stroke, stress, water retention, muscular tension and pain, and those recovering from illness and/or injuries, and many others. The principle benefits of massage are that...it improves circulation, causing the blood to flow three times faster than normal and thereby lessening work required by the heart and relieving congestion throughout the body... it pushes movement of lymph through the body, strengthening the immune system that is so valuable in fighting disease...and, it helps the body to eliminate the many harmful toxins which enter our bodies daily. Patsy uses a particularly soothing and healing massage cream containing ivy and arnica, as well as a paraffin oil which enhances skin moisture. She also gives hot oil scrubs, ridding the body of dead, dry, flaky skin. These are quite popular in this West Texas dry climate where nearly everyone has a dry skin problem. Now is the perfect time for Spring Cleaning your skin - off with the old and on with the new!

Patsy practices at three locations for the convenience of her clients, and by appointment only. Call her at 686-9691 for an appointment. The gift of a massage for a birthday, an anniversary, Mother's Day, Father's Day, or just because you appreciate and care for someone, is a loving, thoughtful, and much appreciated gift. Call Patsy for an appointment! If you'd like to learn more about massage, give her a call...she'd love to tell you all about it! If her answering machine answers, just leave your name, your number and a short message and she'll call you back as quickly as possible.

Religion, politics: Christian Coalition targets '94 elections

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (AP) — The neon postcard is eye-popping, but the message is quite serious: "You can help protect your family values and Christian heritage by voting."

Courtesy of the Christian Coalition, such postcards will arrive at hundreds of thousands of homes this year — timed to arrive the weekend before elections and designed to maximize voting by religious conservatives.

The coalition, the offspring of religious broadcaster Pat Robertson's 1988 presidential campaign, has become the most active political player in the diverse Christian right movement.

It is targeting many of 1994's major contests, including several Republican primaries that pit moderates who favor abortion and homosexual rights against conservatives who share the coalition's views on those and other issues.

The effort offers a glimpse at the often bitter internal struggle within the Republican Party in dozens of states, as traditional suburban moderates vie for influence with Christian conservatives, both on the ballot and in contests for party posts.

In one such race this year, Minnesota's Republican governor, Arne Carlson, is in danger of losing his party's endorsement to a former state legislator Allen Quist, a candidate with strong ties to religious conservatives. In another, the coalition is viewed as an ally of Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad, who faces a primary challenge from moderate Republican Rep. Fred Grandy.

"We'll play a big role in Iowa and Minnesota," said Ralph Reed, the coalition's executive director and chief political strategist.

The work of the Christian Coalition also could serve as a case study in the political activities of organizations — liberal, conservative and in between — that try to influence races but cannot directly advocate the election or defeat of any candidate because doing so would violate their tax-exempt status.

This year, Reed said the Christian Coalition will spend between $3 million and $5 million on elections. That spending is in addition to its budget for policy debates, including a major effort to promote voluntary prayer in public schools and a $1 million campaign against President Clinton's health care plan for reasons including its treatment of abortion services as a basic benefit.

More than in any past election cycle, the coalition says it will target a modest number of Democratic contests, as well as look to broaden its influence by distributing its materials beyond its traditional network of evangelical churches.

Policeman testifies against colleagues in King beating trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A policeman tearfully testified Tuesday that he tried to stop Rodney King's beating and implored fellow officers across the courtroom: "Is it only me that's admitted something wrong happened out there?"

Theodore Briseno, who broke rank with his colleagues early on and called the beating unjustified, was choked with emotion as he blurted out his feelings on being a pariah in the Los Angeles Police Department.

"For three years I've put up with this and it hurts," said Briseno, a defendant in the punitive damages phase of King's civil lawsuit over the March 3, 1991, beating.

"Look around this courtroom at these officers," Briseno said. "Not one of them likes me. No one across the street (at police headquarters) likes me. What I'm telling these jurors is I did what I thought was right."

At another point, he said: "I don't know if it was right or wrong. I don't have the answers. I'm sorry."

Briseno was one of four officers tried on state and federal charges in the beating. Larry Powell and Stacey Koon were convicted of violating King's civil rights and are serving 30-month prison sentences.

"I look over at Larry and Stacey and I think, 'Is it only me that's admitted something wrong happened out there?' " Briseno said Tuesday.

At a break in the trial, the gaunt, thin Briseno sat with his head in his hand, apparently distraught.

Briseno's testimony was most damaging to Powell, who testified Monday that the beating was justified, and that he came close to shooting King.

Briseno said he tried to stop Powell's baton because he felt the officer was unjustified in continuing to pummel King when he was down.

"When I looked at Officer Powell, I saw a frightened man," Briseno said. "His eyes were — he was scared. . . . I don't know if you'd call it a trance. I saw his eyes as wide as they could possibly be. I'd never seen that look before."

HAPPINESS IS AN EXTRA

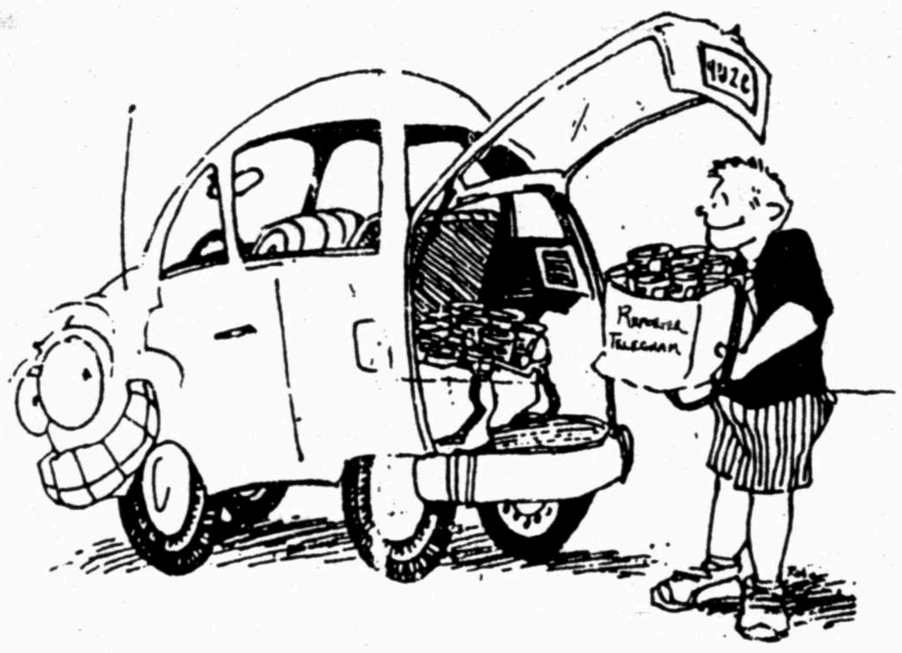
$350-$800 A MONTH!!!



As a Midland Reporter-Telegram distributor you're an independent contractor running your own small business. Depending on the size of the route(s) you can earn from $350 to $800 monthly, and in some cases, even more!

Actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, depending on the size of the route. Papers must be delivered by 6 a.m. on weekdays and 7 a.m. on weekends.

You'll need a valid driver's license, and a dependable vehicle. A modest cash bond is also reqired to get your small business started.

For more information call the Circulation Department

DOES YOUR TEACHER DESERVE AN "A"?

Teacher Appreciation Week is the perfect time to tell your teacher he or she deserves an "A" grade. Your teacher's "A" grade printed in The Midland Reporter-Telegram is the perfect way to let them know how much you appreciate him or her!

All entires will be printed on a special page honoring the grade "A" teachers on Sunday, May 1.

The teacher receiving the most "A's" will receive a dozen red roses and a complimentary dinner for two. In case of a tie, we will conduct a drawing.

The cost is only $3 per entry

To give your "A" grade, complete the form below, using 15 words or less to tell why your teacher deserves an "A". Mail or bring your entry to The Midland Reporter-Telegram Classified Department by 4 p.m. Friday, April 29 and include your $3 per entry.

Childcare DIRECTORY

As a childcare provider, you are well aware of the vital concern for today's children by their parents and loved ones. For this reason we will be publishing our semi-annual Childcare Directory in the Midland Reporter-Telegram on Sunday, May 15, 1994.

Midland area parents have come to rely on this directory as a guide to good, safe, quality childcare. This section focuses on just that and gives the basic "who, what, where and when" of the quality providers in our area. As a provider you can reach parents with more information about the services that you provide by placing an ad in this Childcare Directory on Sunday, May 15th.

We offer advertising packages that range from 8" to 65" and include not only your advertisement but a photo about/of your facility, a story about your facility and a dot on the area map that indicates where you are located. We also offer rates for an advertisement only without the package plan. Plan to advertise you childcare facility on May 15th. To reserve space please call:

687-8813

Deadline for this section is May 9, 1994

State laws forbid discrimination in the sale, rental or advertising of real estate based on factors in addition to those protected under federal law. In the District of Columbia, discrimination based on age, marital status, personal appearance, sexual orientation, family responsibilities, physical handicap, matriculation, political affiliation, source of income or place of residence or business almost always is illegal. In Maryland, discrimination based on marital status or physical or mental handicap is prohibited. In Virginia, discrimination based on elderliness, parenthood or handicap is illegal.

We will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which is in violation of the law. All persons are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised are available on an equal opportunity basis.
