Economic gauges slip

More Texans out of work

DALLAS (AP) — The state jobless rate rose to its highest level in 3½ years last month, 7.9 percent, the Labor Department said Friday.

Nic Santangelo, analyst in the Dallas office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said layoffs that occurred in manufacturing and energy companies during the summer months were beginning to show up in the statistics.

But he cautioned that monthly readings are volatile.

"I know people are going to look at that big jump and say the economy is going down the tube

Mass layoffs hit two areas

■ The Index of Leading Economic Indicators fell 0.1 percent in September.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment worsened to 6.8 percent in October as mass layoffs hit factory and construction workers, the Labor Department said Friday. A separate report showed the government's chief economic forecasting gauge declining for the first time in eight months.

The double dose of bleak news led analysts to suggest the midyear rebound had been a false start — "a blip on an underlying trend of a very sick economy" in the words of Allen Sinai of the Boston Co.

President Bush pushed the Federal Reserve for a new cut in interest rates in hopes of sparking a revival but also said rates were low enough already that "it's a good time to buy" a house or car.

He said the nation's biggest problem is "the economy (and) that people don't have confidence."

Democrats blamed Bush for not doing enough to help the long-term unemployed.

The economy's spring pickup apparently was "Gulf War-related" — boosted by national euphoria after the victory over Iraq — "and not really an indication that

Filibuster in Senate kills oil bill

■ The bill would have encouraged domestic drilling.

WASHINGTON (NYT) — The Senate derailed a major bill intended to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil Friday, effectively defeating the Bush administration's plan to open a vast Alaskan wildlife refuge to oil drilling.

Most congressional officials said they thought an energy bill was likely to return to the floor in some form this year, but without the significant wildlife-refuge drilling provision.

The bill turned aside Friday would have encouraged increased domestic drilling and dropped some regulations that hinder the nuclear energy industry in building new reactors.

The legislation also included measures intended to increase conservation by encouraging the use of alternative energy sources and offered incentives to promote greater efficiency in buildings and appliances.

It would also have required the government to set new fuel-efficiency standards for cars, although it did not set specific targets.

Many of these measures had been proposed or actually tried after the Arab oil boycott of the early 1970s.

But the heart of the bill, and the provision opposed most strongly by environmental groups, would have opened drilling along a 1.5-million-acre coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska, one of the country's last unspoiled wilderness regions.

The refuge is home to one of the world's largest migratory herds of caribou, which give birth in precisely the area where developers had hoped to drill. In addition, many polar bears and rare species of sea mammals live in the Ugly dogs, dignified cats and a lot of silly pet tricks will be the order of the day at Midland Animal Control's grand opening today.

The new facility at 1200 N. Fairgrounds Road is ready for use, and the staff is planning to celebrate. They've set a host of contests to showcase local pets, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

"We've planned a fun thing, so people can see us a little differently, see that we really love animals," said Karen Hoffman, assistant director of Animal Control. "This facility belongs to Midland. We want them to feel that way and be a part of it."

"We really want to get kids involved in this," said Director Coy Willis. "It's geared toward kids, because most of the time, that's why people buy a pet."

Bush dumps economic troubles on Democrats

Bush

DALLAS (NYT) — As White House advisers fret about the sour economy and the voter discontent it has stirred, President Bush is solidly fixing the blame for both on official Washington, and especially on its Democratic majority in Congress.

The strategy, urged on Bush for weeks by some of his leading political advisers, surfaced unexpectedly on Thursday night in Houston, and the president prepared to make his attack on Democrats a main theme again in a talk in Dallas on Friday night.

The president's shift in tactics came after months of near silence on critics' charges that he was neglecting the economy and other domestic issues.

It also followed a turbulent White House meeting on Thursday morning at which Bush's political advisers urged him to tackle the economic issue head on, while his budget director and chief

Upset student guns down 4, then fatally shoots himself

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — A student upset about not being nominated for an academic honor shot and killed four people Friday at the University of Iowa before fatally shooting himself, a school official said. The dead included faculty members and a student nominated for the honor.

Two others were critically wounded, authorities said.

The gunman was identified as Gang Lu, a graduate student in physics from China, said Ann Rhodes, vice president of university affairs. He had filed a complaint with the school's academic affairs office because his doctoral dissertation wasn't nominated for an academic award, she said.

Lu shot and killed three members of the school's physics and astronomy department and another graduate student from China in a classroom, then went to the administration building and shot and critically wounded an administrator and a staff member, Ms. Rhodes said.

Ms. Rhodes said Lu apparently had

Mulanax to preside at sheriff vs. county trial

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

A visiting judge, Virgil E. Mulanax of Gilmer, has been assigned to hear the case of Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter against the Commissioners' Court.

Mulanax, 54, was appointed to the case by Administrative Judge Weldon Kirk of Sweetwater after Judge John Hyde of 238th Texas District Court in Midland disqualified himself from the case.

The lawsuit was filed Aug. 20.

"Since the litigants are part of Midland County government," Hyde said Friday, "I feel that it was appropriate to disqualify myself."

Hyde said "the judicial canons of ethics command" that a judge recuse himself in this type of case.

"It would not be proper for me or any judge in this county to try to preside in this case," Hyde said.

Mulanax was appointed by Kirk, who is the presiding judge of the Seventh Administrative Judicial Region and is judge of the 32nd State District Court for Nolan, Mitchell and Fisher counties.

Mulanax was judge of the 115th State District Court for Upshur County until 1986, when Mulanax left the elected post and began accepting visiting judgeship appointments throughout Texas.

Previously, Mulanax has presided in cases in Midland and Odessa.

In the Midland County case, Mulanax will be hearing evidence and arguments from a retired West Texas district court judge and a former West Texas prosecutor.

Odessans shot

ODESSA — An Odessa man shot his wife and then turned the gun on himself Friday night, police reported. The suspect apparently died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to police reports. The man shot his wife in the face, and she ran down the street to a nearby neighbor's house when her husband shot himself. The man was declared dead at the scene and his wife was in critical condition at an Odessa hospital late Friday evening. Names had not been released by authorities and the case was still under investigation at press time.

Peace talks

MADRID, Spain — Despite harsh attacks at the end of their formal peace conference earlier in the day, Arabs and Israelis said late Friday they will begin face-to-face negotiations here on Sunday. Those talks between the Israelis and members of the joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation will only be procedural, intended to reach agreement on a time and place for follow-on bilateral talks to be held. It was unclear whether Syria would also attend. The Syrian delegation refused late Friday to give a firm answer. But its spokesman noted that Syria never said it would boycott the crucial bilateral talks, which will for the first time thrust Israel into face-to-face negotiations with the Palestinians, Jordanians, Lebanese and the Syrians./6A

After nice day, cold returns

Staff Report

Today's forecast is for clear skies with a high near 60 and winds south 10-20 mph, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight's forecast is for increasing cloudiness with a low near 30.

Sunday is predicted to be colder with considerable cloudiness and a high in the upper 40s, the NWS said.

Yesterday's high was 50, compared to the record high of 85, set in 1946. The record low for today's date is 22, set in 1989.

STATE

Skies cleared across much of Texas Friday, but the reprieve was short and the threat of more rain even snow continued for parts of the Panhandle and West Texas.

In North Texas, inundated with record autumn rains the last week of October, skies were mostly sunny to partly cloudy Friday. A ridge of high pressure continued to bring cold northerly winds across the region, however, and increasing clouds were expected through the weekend.

NATION

Parts of the Rockies, Texas and the Midwest on Friday got a preview of winter, which brought heavy snow, gusting wind and bitter wind chills, and sent the mercury plummeting to record lows.

Among the heavier snowfalls: 21 inches at Minneapolis-St. Paul; 14 inches at Pine City, Minn., 13 inches at Two Harbors, Minn.; about a foot in central Nebraska; 6 to 12 inches northwest of a line from Russell, Kan., to Concordia, Kan., and 3 to 6 inches southeast of the line.

About 11 inches fell at Sioux Falls, S.D.; 10 inches at Onawa, Iowa; 9 inches at Superior, Wis.; 8 inches at Mapleton, Iowa, and Hibbing, Minn.; and 5 inches at International Falls, Minn.

JUDGE: Appointee to hear county case

(From 1A)

sioners' Court. Monahans lawyer Hal Upchurch, former district attorney for Ward County, is representing the sheriff in the litigation.

Though no date has been set for the case to be heard in the 238th District Courtroom.

Painter filed suit on Aug. 20 against Midland County Judge Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer and Commissioners Durward Wright, Guy McCrary, Louisa Valencia and Win Brown in protesting an Aug. 12 Commissioners' Court order. The order was designed to curtail the sheriff's out-of-county criminal investigations, particularly his "reverse sting" operations that have attained nationwide attention.

The lawsuit was filed a week after the Commissioners' Court, under leadership of Seltzer, ordered the sheriff to cease his out-of-county operations.

While the sheriff alleges the Commissioners' Court order to be unlawful, he has pulled in his out-of-county investigators and has ordered them not to carry out assignments in violation the Commissioners' Court order.

The order listed specific exceptions which permitted the sheriff to carry out duties outside of Midland County, including engaging in hot pursuit, serving warrants and subpoenas, transporting prisoners, and working in other jurisdictions under valid inter-local governmental agreements.

The sheriff decried the order, which Seltzer said was broad and held a great deal of flexibility.

"I am the one who calls the shots and not the commissioners," Painter had said of his official duties. "The sheriff needs to run the Sheriff's Department, and the commissioners need to run their business. And there has to be separation (of powers)."

Painter, sheriff since 1985, that year hired his long-time friend, retired Texas Ranger Clayton McKinney, to head up the sheriff's Operations Division.

Seltzer had noted that the five members of the Commissioners' Court are "relieved that we are going to get this (conflict) in a public forum — get this information out in the open — and allow both sides to argue this case in front of a court of law."

One branch of county government suing another branch of county government doesn't look good, the judge has said.

Painter's suit alleges that members of the Commissioners' Court "committed a clear abuse of discretion and have exceeded their lawful authority."

Seltzer disagreed and said that members of the Commissioners' Court did not abuse their discretion.

"The Commissioners' Court is doing its job, which is to be the budgetary officers of county government," Seltzer had said, "and we are trying to protect the purse strings, the pocketbook, of the local taxpayer and also protect the local taxpayer from liability, and that was the purpose for which that particular order was enacted."

The order was not an attempt to play sheriff or to control the Sheriff's Office, said Seltzer, who was elected judge in 1990.

"If we had wanted to be sheriff of Midland County, we would have run for sheriff of Midland County," Seltzer said. "But we do have a responsibility. And our constitutional duty as fiscal managers and as the budgetary team for the county (is) to protect the taxpayers' pocketbook."

This week, the Commissioners' Court launched an active search for an insurance carrier to insure the sheriff's and the constable's deputies and other agents in case liability suits arise when they are carrying out their duties.

"It is our opinion his (the sheriff's) jurisdiction ends at the county line," Seltzer had said. Should the sheriff continue in his out-of-county operations, he will endanger the financial well-being of this county.

"In no way are we attempting to curtail the sheriff's ability to fight crime and protect Midland citizens," Commissioner McCrary has said.

The issue in the case is neither personalities nor politics, McCrary has said, but is about prudent policy.

"Our position is simply that he (the sheriff) should focus his fight right here in Midland County."

CONTESTS: New animal shelter opens today

shelter for the afternoon to show off their talents and strengths. First, second and third places will be awarded for a series of competitions.

Staffers are looking for the ugliest dog — he could be a winner. The dog who knows the best trick will also take home a prize.

For cats, dignity will be on display.

"Since cats are supposed to be so dignified, we thought that would be a more appropriate contest for them," Willis explained. Feline companions will also get a chance to show off their motor skills — a "best purr" contest is scheduled.

Costume contests for both dogs and cats will recognize the best-dressed pet.

Meanwhile, animal control will have a show of their own — about 50 dogs, cats, kittens and puppies waiting for new owners.

"We hope to have a lot of pets over there for the opening," Willis said. "We're going to try to adopt out as many as we can." Even at the new facility, animal control's population could use a little growing room.

T-shirts will be available for a donation to the shelter.

"We'll have tours, and some useful information available," Willis said. "We want people to see the place. It's looking real good."

Community Services Director George Logan said he's proud to be able to unveil the new building, which was built using ideas from the staffers who will work in it.

"Our new facility is a model that has no comparison in the West Texas area," he said. "It's been designed as a clinical setting that incorporates cleanliness and a positive approach to animal control for the city of Midland."

The shelter, painted in bright, primary hues, was built to replace the department's current home — a site plagued with cracking walls, rotting floors and infestations of pests. Officials have said they hope the new facility will boost employee morale and encourage pet adoptions.

In cold weather, the staff has planned to move the activity inside, where each contestant dog can stay in a new pen and cats will have a room of their own.

"We want to remind everybody to bring their pet's identification so we can avoid mix-ups," Hoffman said. "We hope everybody will come on out to the shelter and have a lot of fun."

ECONOMY: Indicators point to further decline

the economy's fundamental problems had been licked," said Robert Dederick, chief economist at the Northern Trust Co.

So weak were the new numbers that analysts expected the Federal Reserve to provide a new round of interest rate cuts. But there was no immediate movement from the central bank, which apparently took a small step on Wednesday by cutting short-term rates that banks charge each other overnight.

Bush, on a fund-raising campaign trip to Texas, indicated he wanted action from the independent Federal Reserve.

"I think we could go down more on rates," he said in an interview with KTRK-TV in Houston.

The jobs report from the Labor Department showed unemployment up one-tenth of a point from September's 6.7 percent, the first increase since it hit a five-year peak of 7 percent in June. The rate had inched down at the end of the summer, but that improvement was pinned more on statistical flukes than any hiring rally.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Economic Indicators, designed to project the economy six to nine months from now, slipped 0.1 percent in September.

Taken together, economists said, the data revive questions of whether the recession ever really ended.

"The economy is wallowing around. It's trying to make up its mind whether to resume the advance or call it quits," Dederick said. "It's sort of balanced on a knife's edge; it's not turning down but it's not going forward."

The Bush administration was decidedly more upbeat. Labor Secretary Lynn Martin said the numbers show "the recovery continues to move forward," although she conceded the turnaround is "frustratingly slow."

Democrats, hustling to craft a compromise on extending jobless benefits to the long-term unemployed, said the jobs report was discouraging.

"Devastating news for American workers," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee. The numbers suggest "the economy is heading back into recession."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., seized the report to beat up on Bush for blocking two bills to extend jobless benefits. Kennedy noted that the White House now faces swelling public discontent with Bush's handling of the slumping economy.

"After ignoring every clear piece of economic data for months, the administration has finally seen a number that concerns them — the president's collapsing rating in the polls," Kennedy said.

Some 140,000 Americans were added to unemployment rolls, which reached 8.6 million in October, the Labor Department said, using figures from its survey of households. There are now 1.8 million more people without jobs than there were when the recession started in July 1990.

A payroll survey showed that hiring last month was virtually flat, with companies cutting 1,000 jobs overall. The service sector added jobs, but they were more than offset by huge losses in manufacturing, construction and retail trade, the Labor Department said.

The unemployment total includes both job losers and people who enter the work force but can't find employment.

In recessions and recoveries of the past, the economy has churned out 200,000 jobs or more a month immediately following the bottom of a downturn.

Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the household and payroll surveys showed "continued weakness in the demand for workers."

planned who he was going to shoot.

"It was not accidental," she said. "It was not random."

The dead were identified as Linhua Shan, a graduate student in the same doctoral program as Lu; Dwight R. Nicholson, chairman of the physics and astronomy department; Christoph K. Goertz, a professor of physics and astronomy; and Robert Alan Smith, associate director of physics and astronomy. All were shot in one classroom at Van Allen Hall, which houses the physics department, Ms. Rhodes said.

Nicholson, Goertz and Smith were members of Lu's dissertation committee and Shan's dissertation was nominated for the academic award, while Lu's wasn't, Ms. Rhodes said. She couldn't immediately say why they were in the room with Lu.

Lu then went to Jessup Hall, an administration building, where he shot T. Anne Cleary, associate vice president of academic affairs, and Miya Rodolfo-Sioson, a member of the academic affairs staff, Ms. Rhodes said. They were in critical condition in University Hospitals, officials said.

The rampage lasted about 10 minutes, police said.

Iowa City Police Chief R.J. Winkelhake said police recovered a .38-caliber revolver. Police found the gunman alive, but with fatal head wounds, he said.

Scott Wollenweber, a graduate student, was conducting a review session Friday afternoon for astronomy students in Van Allen Hall.

"It scares the hell out of me," Wollenweber said. "God, I was in there the whole time. One of my students said they heard shots out here but they didn't know what it was. They just heard four or five what sounded like shots."

Mark Lawrence, a graduate student in geography, was attending a seminar in Jessup Hall when he heard a loud noise.

"A very short time later a cop really burst into the room, and simply tells us, 'Get on the floor, turn off the lights, close the door,' and then vanishes," Lawrence said. "We have no idea what's going on."

Ms. Rhodes said the school was bringing in a team of psychologists to help several administrators and clerical support staff who witnessed the shootings.

in a bucket," Santangelo said.

However, the more stable three-month average has climbed steadily through 1991, reaching its highest level, 7 percent, during August, September and October.

The nation's unemployment rate climbed to 6.8 percent, the first increase since June, when it hit a five-year peak of 7 percent.

In Texas, the unemployment rate was 6.6 percent in September and 5.9 percent in October last year.

The size of the labor force in Texas, both working and unemployed, grew by 38,000 people from 8.515 million in September to 8.553 million in October.

But there were 113,000 more Texans looking for work last month than in September and 75,000 fewer on the job, according to a seasonally adjusted estimate.

There were 672,000 Texans looking for work last month, compared to 559,000 in September, according to the adjusted count.

BUSH: GOP contributors hear attack on Dems

economist urged him to take a lower-key approach.

In Houston that night, Bush transformed what had been billed as a 10-minute pep talk to Republican loyalists into a 50-minute fire-breathing assault on Congress' ethical and intellectual flaws.

Before a crowd of wealthy Republicans, he repeatedly condemned congressional Democrats as "old thinkers" and "small-bore" partisans who were blocking what he characterized as his agenda of fresh solutions for the nation's ills.

Then, with Bush and Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, sitting nearby, Vice President Dan Quayle called for two-term limits on all United States senators.

Bush was geared to repeat the performance Friday night in Dallas, where he was preparing to speak to another $1,000-a-head audience contributing to his still-unannounced re-election campaign.

Bush has sharply criticized Congress before, most notably in a Washington speech last month after the seamy battle over Judge Clarence Thomas' confirmation to the Supreme Court.

But his remarks this week have easily been the most bitter and most partisan in recent memory.

In an interview with a Dallas television station Friday, the president suggested that he was reacting, his patience exhausted, to a stream of unfair attacks from Democrats seeking political gain out of the recession.

"I've been kind of a shock absorber for highly partisan criticism," he said, "and I'm not going to do that anymore. I'm going to say when a guy takes me on in a demagogic way, I'm going to hit him right back."

But both Democratic and Republican political strategists said Friday that they saw a larger meaning to Bush's tactics at a time when public revulsion against entrenched government is running high.

"Whichever side gets to decide who's the Establishment has a leg up" in the coming presidential campaign, one Republican adviser said.

In that political footrace, this adviser said, "The Democrats started earlier, but Bush has a lot more material to work with."

Democrats are already hammering the economic and domestic policy themes in this fall's campaigns, casting Bush and Republicans as the Washington insiders who are responsible for a national malaise.

In the U.S. Senate race in Pennsylvania, an inexperienced Democrat, Harris Wofford, has erased a 40-point deficit in the polls by playing on the close Washington ties of the Republican candidate, Dick Thornburgh, Bush's former attorney general.

As challengers in 1980, Ronald Reagan and his running mate George Bush rode a similar wave of discontent with incumbent Washington into the White House. But after many years in Washington and a decade as a symbol of Republican control of government, Bush faces a much tougher task in casting himself as an outsider battling the capital's bureaucratic mess.

"If the Democrats win Pennsylvania, they'll think they've got a winner" in their attacks on Bush, the Republican adviser said.

One reason the president's political advisers so welcome his change in stump tactics, the adviser said, is that it creates the impression that he is more involved in domestic politics while showing the Democrats "he's no pushover."

Bush also has substantial ammunition for this battle. Public confidence in Congress as reflected in polls has dipped markedly.

ENERGY: Senate filibuster kills energy plan area.

Proponents of drilling argued that the reserve could have potentially provided the country more than a half million barrels of oil a day.

After opponents blocked an effort to end debate on the bill, supporters said they feared it was dead. Sixty votes were needed to avert a threatened filibuster on the bill and move it toward Senate passage.

But the vote to shut off debate was 50-44, effectively ending consideration. Nine Republicans joined 35 Democrats to block the cloture vote.

Environmental activists, who mobilized a letter-writing campaign to defeat the bill, also cited a potential danger of increased sulfur and nitrogen oxide emissions, which contribute to acid rain.

Small and medium-sized utility companies also opposed the bill, saying deregulation would put them at a financial disadvantage to larger companies, and automobile company lobbyists joined the varied coalition, because they oppose automobile mileage standards.

The action Friday was a defeat for Energy Secretary James D. Watkins and Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan Jr., who had both urged passage.

The Persian Gulf war, which underlined the instability of the Middle East, had given impetus to the legislation. But the urgency weakened in the last several months, as oil prices remained stable and supplies appeared to be ample.

Sen. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., and leader of the opposition forces, said that once the Arctic drilling provision was eliminated, he hoped the Senate could reconsider the energy bill before Thanksgiving.

He called for a new energy policy based on "efficiency, alternative fuels, new sources of renewable energy and the abundant, clean supplies of natural gas" from "places like my home state of Colorado."

Gem show whets appetites

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

You might be tempted to touch a dessert dish full of shimmering red Jell-O on a table at the Gem and Mineral Show. But the gelatin won't jiggle. It's made out of glass.

The deceptive dessert is just one of many faux food items spread out on a table set up by Bill and Lois Pattillo of Robstown, members of Corpus Christi's Gem and Mineral Society.

The table is laden with rocks imitating slabs of bacon, a loaf of bread, a watermelon slice, a peanut in the shell, a loaf of bread, chunks of cauliflower, and what appear to be chicken livers.

"The chicken livers are actually gastroites — dinosaur gizzard stones," Pattillo said.

Pattillo and his wife — avid "rock hunters" — have spent years putting together the exhibit of rocks which look like food.

"We don't set out to find rocks that look like food," Pattillo said. "We go out to look for rocks and sometimes one will look good enough to eat."

The Pattillos will have their "food" table on display during the two-day Midland Gem & Mineral Society show today and Sunday at the Midland County Exhibit Building.

Just to "keep folks guessing," the Pattillos will sneak in an edible item into their display. The edible item looks like ... well, a rock.

When not trying to guess which item is safe to eat, attendees at the gem and mineral show will be able to feast their eyes on other fascinating displays of polished stones, silver Kachinas, bolo ties, belt buckles and one-of-a-kind jewelry.

While the Pattillos "food" collection is for display only, almost everything else at the show is for sale.

Huge amethyst crystal specimens, lacy black coral shaped like a tree, geode bookends and sliced lace agate slabs mounted on stands among the decorative items for sale at the show.

Miniature dinosaurs carved from turquoise, larger dinosaur creations and strawberry coral from the South Pacific fill some display cases.

Many items in display cases are for sale from booths, including graceful Kachinas — cast from silver — dancing atop turquoise beds.

The intricately detailed Indians, some with removable headdresses, are the work of Carol Sues of Cave Creek, Ariz.

The artist — who visited Indian reservations for authenticity — has recreated the Indians and tiny pottery from observation.

She said she creates her sculptures using the "lost" wax method which involves using wax, high temperatures and silver casting.

"Many of the large pieces took several days to make," she said.

Other lapidary items in the show are the result of hours of cutting and polishing by artisans.

Some of the artisans will demonstrate their crafts, including mounting stones, making Venetian glass beads, shaping gemstone spheres and faceting transparent stones.

One exhibit sure to catch the eye is the collection of famous diamond replicas — including the Hope and Cullinan diamonds — faceted by the Texas Faceter's Guild.

The Kid's Corner will attract children with a spinning wheel of prizes. And there will be handfuls of polished stones for sale, a popular item with the younger set, according to one dealer.

The two-day show will also feature hourly drawings for door prizes including a Lone Star cut blue topaz (to be mounted for the winner in a 14K gold pendant or tie tack).

Midland Gem & Mineral Society show hours are 9 a.m.-6 p.m. today, and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for senior citizens (65 and older) and 25 cents for students (age 6-12).

China: Countries use human rights to force change

BEIJING (AP) — China on Friday accused other countries of using the human rights issue to try to force ideological change in Beijing, and said they had no business meddling in Chinese affairs.

The accusations were carried in a paper released by the State Council, China's cabinet, that officials had been crafting for months.

While acknowledging improvements were needed, it restated China's position that its primary human-rights concern is providing food, clothing and shelter for its 1.1 billion people.

That position has failed to satisfy Western countries pressing China to improve the treatment of prisoners and political and religious dissidents.

China's hardline position was underlined in an interview with Communist party chief Jiang Zemin published today in the People's Daily newspaper.

"Facts have proved that the socialist road in China is correct," the paper quoted him as saying in an interview with the Washington Times. "We have no reason whatsoever to change this road."

Social stability is essential for social progress, which in turn is essential for "human beings to take their destiny in their own hands," he said.

"Thus, democracy, freedom and human rights are but empty talk."

The human-rights policy paper, excerpts of which were carried by the state news agency Xinhua, said "As a developing country, China has suffered from setbacks while safeguarding and developing human rights. Although much has been achieved in this regard, there is still much room for improvement."

The paper is unlikely to ease increasing pressure China has faced since reforms began sweeping Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Xinhua said the paper "stresses that using the human rights issue for the political purpose of imposing the ideology of one country on another is no longer a question of human rights, but a manifestation of power politics in the form of interference in the internal affairs of other countries."

The document said international intervention is warranted only in cases of "gross human rights violations caused by colonialism, racism, foreign aggression and occupation, as well as apartheid, racial discrimination, genocide, slave trade and serious violations of human rights by international terrorist organizations."

It says all Chinese prisoners receive an adequate diet and necessary medical care. Families and friends of prisoners, however, have described appalling treatment and conditions in Chinese jails.

The paper also took the offensive against Western countries for the suffering they caused to the Chinese in the past.

"Under the imperialists' colonial rule, the Chinese people had their fill of humiliation," it said.

Radio, TV workers strike in Albania

TIRANA, Albania (AP) — Radio and TV workers in the Albanian capital Friday joined a strike by tens of thousands of workers protesting growing hunger and harsh conditions across the impoverished Balkan nation.

Albania, in the throes of transformation from more than 40 years of hard-line Communism, is suffering an acute food crisis. State factories have not supplied any sugar, rice or soap for three months, said Robert Gjini, the deputy interior minister.

In an interview Friday, he said milk supply in the same period was 70 percent below normal, and butter and cheese deliveries were "minimal."

Gjini suggested only food aid from Italy was keeping Albanians fed. So far Albania had received 6,660 tons of sugar, 7,750 tons of oil, and 2,950 tons of flour from its neighbor across the Adriatic.

Italy dispatched hundreds of soldiers to distribute the food aid this fall, hoping it will keep Albanians from fleeing to Italy. Tens of thousands fled on boats across the Adriatic over the summer. Most were sent home.

A general strike that started Oct. 18 in the Puka district, about 90 miles north of Tirana, continued Friday and was involving two other districts.

The Puka strikers are demanding a 30 percent wage increase because of the area's harsh climate and difficult conditions. They also want better transportation and a free trade zone.

A similar strike begun two days ago involved about 40,000 people — mainly industrial workers and copper and chrome miners — in the northern district of Kukes, the newspaper Pasqara said.

About 2,000 chrome miners also struck Friday in the central district of Librazhd, informed sources said. The miners are demanding regular bread supplies to area villages.

Palestinians offer ray of hope as first round of talks come to close

MADRID, Spain (NYT) — The opening phase of the Middle East peace conference ended Friday on a sour note, with Arabs and Israelis exchanging invective and with no indication whether sustained, direct peace talks between the old enemies will take place.

These follow-up negotiations, which are in doubt because of a dispute between Israel and the Arabs over where they should be conducted, could mark the success or failure of the whole peace conference.

The three-day opening session was set up by Secretary of State James A. Baker III for one purpose: to pave the way for the direct talks between Israel and Syria, Israel and Lebanon, and Israel and a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation.

If the direct talks get under way Sunday, and continue, as Baker hopes, the conference will have ushered in something new in Arab-Israeli relations. If the Arabs and Israelis continue to squabble over the site, the conference will not have achieved its aim.

As of Friday night, it was uncertain if Syria and Lebanon would take part even in a one-day meeting Sunday.

The Palestinians insisted that they would attend a procedural meeting with the Israelis on Sunday, signaling a possible split in Arab ranks. What is developing is the possibility of the Palestinians' engaging in talks with Israel while the Syrians boycott further sessions. But it was also possible that talks by all Arabs with Israel might be suspended after Sunday.

With that possibility in mind, Baker summed up the opening session by telling the Arabs and Israelis in the conference room Friday: "This has been a start — a good start — but it is only a start, and that's not enough. You must not let this start become an end."

Whether it was even a good start, however, was debatable. The conference's closing session allowed each representative 15 minutes to rebut Thursday's policy speeches.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir set the tone for Friday's finale by denouncing Syria as "having the dubious honor of being one of the most oppressive, tyrannical regimes in the world."

Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Sharaa used his time at the lectern to pull from his pocket a photograph of a "wanted" poster of a 32-year-old Shamir, dating from when the Israeli leader was sought by the British in 1947 for his activities as one of the leaders of the Stern Gang, a violent underground Jewish group fighting the British. Sharaa also asserted that Shamir had "helped" in the assassination of a U.N. mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, in 1948.

In recent years, some former members of the Stern Gang have acknowledged their own involvement, but Shamir has declined to talk about the episode. A spokesman, Yossi Achimeir, has said Shamir had no role in the Bernadotte killing.

Such denials did not impress Sharaa, who said of the Israeli leader: "He was a terrorist. He practiced terrorism. He kills peace mediators."

The Syrian's personal attack on another delegation leader seemed to embarrass even some of his Arab colleagues, but it was in keeping with the mood of the last three days, in which Arabs and Israelis exchanged insults and conflicting versions of history instead of the beginnings of peace proposals. Before the Sabbath began Friday night, Shamir had already left for Israel.

The Palestinian delegation, by comparison, made an overture to the Israelis, stating their demand for a two-state solution to the conflict.

The dispute over the site of the proposed direct negotiations began with the Syrians and the Israelis. Syria insisted that all these talks take place in Madrid — permanantly. This is to underscore the Syrian view that the direct talks are under the umbrella of the peace conference, with its superpower sponsorship and U.N. cover.

"No one ever spoke to us about transferring these talks to any other venue," Sharaa said in a jab at Baker. "Our view is clear. We would like to continue here."

Israel said it is ready to hold one session of direct talks in Madrid — with Syria, Lebanon and the Jordanian-Palestinian delegation — but only for the purpose of discussing where in the Middle East region the future sessions should be held.

Israelis propose that the talks shift between Israeli and Arab towns, or at least be in the eastern Mediterranean, to underscore that the Arabs really are accepting Israel's existence.

Yeltsin's price plan gains OK by Russian Parliament

MOSCOW (NYT) — The Russian Parliament voted fast and overwhelming approval Friday of President Boris N. Yeltsin's emergency blueprint to free consumer prices for inevitable, painful rises in the search for economic recovery.

In addition, the Parliament, heeding Yeltsin's warning about darker days ahead, granted the Russian leader the increased powers he had sought to overrule anticipated grass-roots opposition by hard-line remnants of the defunct Communist system.

In votes that ranged as high as 876-16, Yeltsin won the sweeping reform powers he proposed on Monday and thereby took on the lion's share of responsibility for trying to generate national reconstruction from the ashes of the collapsed Soviet system.

The reform plans for Russia, the largest and most critical part of the Soviet empire, go far beyond the halfway measures previously considered by President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The Yeltsin program features extensive privatization and land reform, budget cuts for obsolete factories and military plants, and an end to seven decades of Communism's heavy wage and price controls.

Yeltsin's difficulties with such an array of traumatic post-Communist change were clear even as the Russian parliament felt the heat of the issue.

They gave him the latest powers he sought, but once again rejected for now the program he failed to win a year ago, before his popular election, when he sought to legalize the widespread buying and selling of land in Russia.

Yeltsin undoubtedly will try again for that critical element in market economics. His program is designed to go far beyond the borders of Russia, which contains more than half the Soviet population and most of its territory and wealth.

He wants to set the pace for the larger, looser economic association that Russia and most of the Soviet republics agreed to try to form in the next several months.

One key measure in Yeltsin's program is to cut off Russia's financing of the mass of central government ministries that were the heart of the Soviet Communist monolith.

Tens of thousands of jobs have been targeted for closure in Moscow alone, by some estimates, and the patronage backlash of intransigence and sabotage should be considerable as Yeltsin looks to carry out his difficult program.

Gorbachev, who now heads a union staggering daily in search of a relevant identity, saw his own perestroika program end abruptly last August when a hard-line Kremlin coup failed.

Communism was banned and the republics quickly seized sovereignty from the Kremlin, instantly raising the specter of increased disunity that might compound the national tailspin.

Britain moves to reduce immigration

LONDON (NYT) — Joining other Western European nations overwhelmed by a growing tide of immigration, the British government proposed strict new rules Friday to reduce the number of refugees who would be allowed to settle in Britain.

Introducing the legislation in Parliament, Home Secretary Kenneth Baker said the new rules would try to close loopholes in British immigration law, and streamline the processing of migrants' claims so as to reduce a backlog of more than 60,000 cases.

More than 60 percent of those cases involve immigrants from Africa, mostly Angola and Zaire, and 21 percent are from South Asia, including India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. Only about 3 percent of the total are from Eastern Europe, according to Home Office statistics.

Under the present law, thousands of these migrants are now able to remain in Britain, some of them illegally, even though they do not qualify for asylum as refugees who have fled religious, ethnic or political persecution, the Home Office said.

The number of those seeking asylum in Britian has grown tenfold in the last three years, to an estimated 50,000 for the current year, from 5,000 in 1988.

The move by Britain follows earlier steps by France and Germany to address recent surges in illegal migration that has resulted from turmoil and political dislocation in Yugoslavia, Romania and elsewhere.

On Thursday, Germany gained the approval of 26 Eastern and Western European governments, including Britain, for its own plan to tighten police controls at border crossings. German officials estimate that as many as 250,000 people will seek asylum in Germany this year, many of them from Eastern Europe.

Last summer, the French government also endorsed tough labor measures to deal with a surge of more than 50,000 migrants, including many North Africans, who have come to France over the last year seeking permission to settle.

In Britain, the proposed legislation is likely to set off a heated political dispute. Members of the Labor Party, who are hoping to capture Parliament in elections next year, have already accused Baker and the governing Conservative Party of making "a squalid appeal to racism" by proposing to toughen controls on migrants.

Some Labor politicians have suggested that the Conservatives are trying to use illegal immigration as a campaign issue in the coming general election, which the government must call sometime before next July.

Alistair Darling, a Member of Parliament and the Labor spokesman on immigration matters, said he worried that the government was more interested in resolving asylum cases quickly, rather than coming to the proper, humanitarian decision.

Argentine president deregulates economy

SANTIAGO, Chile (NYT) — Argentine President Carlos Saul Menem has announced a vast deregulation of the Argentine economy in an attempt to reverse decades of government intervention and protectionism by the state.

In a 18-minute speech in Buenos Aires on Thursday night over national television, Menem issued a sweeping executive decree that he asserted would "cut through a spider web" of rules and regulations that is "asphyxiating" the country's economy.

For decades, Argentine business has been highly controlled by fixed commissions and fees, import and export quotas and other restrictions set by a host of government bureaucracies.

Farmers were told the maximum amount of meat and grain they could produce and bring to market. Doctors could not freely open up practices. Only drug stores could sell aspirin and other over-the-counter products. Businesses could not negotiate trucking fees, port charges and real-estate commissions, or individual wage agreements with their workers.

Moreover, such control in the hands of bureaucrats and unions led to widespread corruption, the favoring of certain groups of companies and de facto monopolies. That produced inefficient and non-competitive industries, higher domestic prices and major quality-control problems.

In his decree, Menem eliminated all import and export quotas, freed all professional fees and commissions, disbanded 10 government organizations that control critical industries, permitted the open importation of cars and pharmaceuticals and removed from the labor unions management of vast sums of retirement money.

"We are not going to deny any professional or technician the right to pursue his profession in whatever part of the country," Menem said. "We have ended the closed registers. There will be equal opportunity and possibilities for everyone."

The deregulation is certainly unprecedented.

MHS year mercifully over

Coogs hand 'Dogs their ninth and final loss of the season, 52-14

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

The Midland High Bulldogs' season of pain is over, a historic football voyage of tragedy.

Abilene Cooper quickly put the final funeral wreath on this season with a 52-14 thumping, leaving MHS with its worst record in school history at 0-9, the first taste of winless football in more than 70 years.

Yes, it was painful enough and the final outing was just as painful. Cooper's Alonzo Lucas, a part-time player for the most part, broke the first play from scrimmage 57-yards on a reverse for a Cougar touchdown in which several MHS fingers made feeble attempts at a tackle — and, yes, it was downhill from there.

Cooper then intercepted an MHS pass to set up a 14-0 Cooper lead with less than three minutes gone in the game and then marched 53 yards for a 21-0 lead before the first quarter clock expired.

"You can't spot anyone 21 points and expect to win and that's exactly what we did," said beleaguered MHS coach Davis Corley. "It took us completely out of our game plan, and then they could really tee it up on the pass rush when we had to go to the passing game."

By the half it was 31-0 and Midland High fans left in droves after watching the two bands perform

Rebels survive scare, 14-6

■ Upset-minded Abilene High comes close to defeating the playoff-bound Lee Rebels in a chilly Key City.

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

ABILENE — Somewhere along the line Abilene High got the crazy idea it could pull off an upset over Midland Lee.

And though the War Eagles never led in the District 4-5A football tilt here Friday night at Shotwell Stadium, they played the Rebels closer than anybody expected in a 14-6 Lee victory.

The win makes the Rebels, already playoff-bound before the opening kickoff, 8-1 for the season with San Angelo remaining on the regular-season schedule. AHS, meanwhile, dropped to 1-7 with its last game coming at Odessa High.

However, first-year Eagle head coach Carlous Stone was willing to take what he could get.

"Our kids came up and started playing up to their potential. They really came on against a team that was far superior in size and talent," Stone said.

While Stone was as happy as a losing coach could be, Lee mentor Earl Miller was somewhat disappointed in the win over a team Odessa Permian mangled 56-7.

"We played good enough to win. I knew this might happen because we played so well against Odessa High last week. They (AHS) played hard and had two weeks to prepare for us. They deserve a lot of credit," Miller said.

With the opening-kickoff temperature of 40 degrees steadily dropping during the course of the game, neither side was able to pass effectively, though the Rebel wishbone has never been known for its air attack.

But with the nip in the air, the game took on a characteristic from the start that seemed to point to something besides the typical blowout Lee has made a habit of inflicting on AHS.

The Rebs took the first possession for a two first-down ride before having to punt, and the first quarter surprisingly ended in a 0-0 tie with the teams doing little more than trading punts.

The trick was that Stone had used last week's open date to install a stunt package designed especially for the Reb wishbone, and as Rebel running back Sherman Dedrick said, it threw Lee's timing off.

"At first we didn't know what to do against their defense. They were running weird things that we were not used to," said Sherman, who was the game's leading runner with 76 yards and both Lee touchdowns.

The closest Lee came to a scoring threat in the first period was with the Rebs on their own 49-yard line with a first-and-15. Rebel quarterback Jimmy Patton tried to air the ball out down the right sideline to wide open tight end Jeb Honeyman. The ball harmlessly drifted over Honeyman's head, though, and a short run and a sack of Patton forced a Darrell Lucas punt.

Lucas, who is averaging more than 40 yards a kick this season, promptly launched a 45-yarder that pinned the Eagles at their own 9.

Buffaloes rip Forsan for first win

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

STANTON — Before its homecoming crowd, the Stanton Buffaloes demolished Forsan 48-6 Friday night.

The win was the first this season for the now 1-8 Buffaloes. The win was especially gratifying for coach Bill Grissom and senior running backs Jim Bob Kelly and Allen Prough.

Of the 381 total rushing yards for Stanton, Kelly and Prough grinded out 121 and 151 yards respectively.

"We really played well tonight. Our line opened up the holes for our backs and we put a full game together," said Grissom.

Grissom added that his team was extremely motivated because of the homecoming festivities. At least that's what inspired Kelly and Prough.

"It was the last home game for us," said Kelly. "The whole town and the school was really up for this one. We wanted to show them that we really did have a good team."

Kelly definitely showed his stuff before the home folks with his 82-yard kickoff return in the first quarter, which gave Stanton the lead for good.

Before his TD, Forsan had converted an opening game fumble by Stanton into a 27-yard TD run by John Reese.

Kelly also scored on a three-yard run in the third quarter.

Not to be outdone, Prough got into the act with a one-yard TD plunge which culminated a 60-yard Stanton march in

Mustangs manhandle Monahans

■ Quarterback Al Gonzalez carries for 136 yards as Andrews remains unbeaten in District 3-4A with a 21-14 victory over the Loboes.

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

ANDREWS — Al Gonzalez was absolutely dashing Friday night and it had nothing at all to do with his new buzz haircut.

Gonzalez, Andrews' senior quarterback, dashed 25 times for a game-best 136 yards through the Monahans defense and in the process the Mustangs dashed the Loboes' postseason hopes, 21-14.

"Al (Gonzalez) is a great competitor. They all are," Andrews coach W.T. Stapler said of his Mustangs, who tightened their grip on the District 3-4A controls by moving to a 4-0 mark in the league with two games left. "All our backs ran tough tonight," he said.

Andrews — which dropped the Loboes to 3-2 and pushed them all but mathematically out of the playoff picture — had to be competitive. Monahans entered the fray with the league's stingiest defense, and the Loboes put the first points on the board with a 12-play, 69-yard drive to open the game.

But Gonzalez, behind his formidable line, steered Andrews' veer offense right back at the Loboes. The Mustangs scored on their first two offensive possessions, grabbed a 14-6 halftime lead and closed the door on the Loboes' attack.

Monahans, which managed just 195 total yards, got only 126 of them after the game-opening drive. And 70 of those yards came on a fourth-quarter touchdown drive that proved to be too little too late for the team that prefers to run but was forced to pass.

The Mustangs, who like to throw the ball but opted to keep it on the ground because of an injury Gonzalez suffered on his right hand against Pecos, rolled up 271 yards on the ground. Fullback Zach Miller gained 67 yards for the Mustangs, and Bo Haigood chipped in 58 as Andrews stayed a step ahead of Friday night winners Sweetwater and Big Spring in the 3-4A chase.

Sweetwater is 4-1 while Big Spring, Andrews' next opponent, is 3-1.

"We came out fired up like we needed to and I think that's why we did so well," Gonzalez said. "The line did a good job blocking, and the backs

Several teams face important tests today

Associated Press

It's the first big elimination day in college football. Not from the national championship, but from Jan. 1 bowl games.

■ No. 11 Iowa and No. 13 Ohio State are each 3-1 in the Big Ten and one probably will be eliminated from the Rose Bowl race.

■ No. 9 Nebraska and No. 15 Colorado are both unbeaten in the Big Eight and one probably will be eliminated from Orange Bowl contention.

■ No. 24 Arkansas plays No. 21 Baylor in the Southwest Conference and must win in order to maintain its lead for a Cotton Bowl berth.

■ And No. 6 Florida needs to win at Auburn in a Southeastern Conference game to keep ahead in the Sugar Bowl race.

Iowa coach Hayden Fry is 2-7-1 against Ohio State. Moreover, Iowa has won just once in Ohio Stadium in the last three decades.

"We're certainly not proud of the record we have against Ohio State," Fry said. "It's kind of like the way we've dominated other teams. We're not always the best team. It's hard to explain."

Iowa and Ohio State are each 6-1 overall and trail Michigan (4-0) in the conference.

Last year, Iowa was ranked sixth and had beaten Michigan, Michigan State and Illinois — all on the road — before playing the Buckeyes at home. The Hawkeyes led 26-14 with less than seven minutes left, but lost 27-26.

"I don't think there's any way the best team won the ball game," Ohio State coach John Cooper said.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 1 Florida State is at Louisville, No. 3 Washington plays Arizona State, No. 4 Michigan (6-1) plays Purdue, No. 5 Notre Dame plays Navy, No. 7 Alabama plays Mississippi State, No. 10 California plays Southern Cal, No. 12 Texas A&M is at Rice, No. 14 Tennessee plays Memphis State, No. 16 Clemson plays Wake Forest, No. 17 East Carolina plays Tulane, No. 18 Syracuse plays Temple, No. 19 North Carolina State is at South Carolina, No. 20 Oklahoma plays Kansas State, No. 23 UCLA plays Washington State and No. 25 Fresno State is at Utah State.

Nebraska tight end Johnny Mitchell has heightened the emotions in the game between Nebraska and Colorado.

"Colorado is just Kansas State or Kansas to me," Mitchell said. "I don't think they can compete on our level for a long time. We gave them life the last couple of years. I don't think we should have given them that much respect. ... They have gotten some great breaks."

Colorado beat Nebraska 27-21 in Boulder in 1989 and rallied from a 12-0 deficit to win 27-12 in Lincoln last year.

This season, Nebraska is 6-1 and Colorado 5-2.

"I thought we might have their respect by now," Buffaloes linebacker Greg Biekert said, "but I guess the last two years haven't made any difference."

Arkansas is 5-2 overall and 4-0 in the SWC, while Baylor is 6-2, 3-2.

"We're in a position to contend, but I don't think we're playing good enough offensively to contend," Razorbacks coach Jack Crowe said.

Others apparently are in agreement. Arkansas is an underdog for the fifth straight game.

"I don't think I have to mention it because we went into the season accepting the underdog role for the whole season," Crowe said. "It's somewhat of a challenge."

Florida (6-1, 4-0) can clinch a tie for its first official SEC title if the Gators beat Auburn and second-place Alabama oses to Mississippi State.

Auburn (4-3, 2-2) has lost three of its last four games — including two in a row at home for the first time since 1978 — to fall out of the SEC race. The Tigers are a 10-point underdog at home for the first time since 1980.

"Florida is no doubt the best team in the conference," Auburn coach Pat Dye said. "They have no weaknesses and they're playing with a tremendous amount of confidence."

Aggies' goal to contain Cobb

A&M meets Rice, while Baylor travels to the Arkansas hills

Associated Press

Rice's Trevor Cobb no longer leads the nation in rushing, but he's close enough to give Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum a rallying point for Saturday's Southwest Conference game in Rice Stadium.

"We're looking forward to playing Rice, maybe we can slow down Trevor Cobb and speed up (A&M's) Greg Hill," Slocum said. "When you play on the road against a team you've been successful against, it's a challenge to go against the leading rusher in the nation."

The Aggies (5-2, 3-0) have won 10 straight games from the Owls since Rice's 10-6 victory in 1980 at Kyle Field.

In other games Saturday, No. 21 Baylor (6-2, 3-2) plays at No. 24 Arkansas (5-2, 4-0); Texas Tech (3-4, 2-2) plays at Texas (3-3, 2-1) and Southern Methodist (1-6, 0-5) plays at Texas Christian (5-2, 2-2).

Cobb dropped to third this week after leading the nation's rushers the previous five weeks. Cobb has 1,125 yards on 227 carries this season and Hill, No. 6 nationally, has set an A&M freshman rushing record with 791 yards on 142 carries.

Rice has lost two straight games since upsetting Baylor 20-17 in Waco and the effects of a long season have started to show.

"This was the first week I've really been disappointed in our team," Rice coach Fred Goldsmith said. "But I feel they are better people than what we showed last week. We're back to ground zero. We aren't exactly putting the fear in the other teams right now."

SWC Roundup

Arkansas coach Jack Crowe picked Baylor as the SWC favorite in preseason and the Bears' two SWC losses haven't changed his mind.

"They are the strongest team in the conference," Crowe said. "Seeing the films this week of every one of their ball games did nothing to change my mind. The reason I picked them in pre-season was they don't have a weakness on their football team."

The Bears won their first five games in a row before dropping back to back SWC games to Rice and Texas A&M. They got back in form last week with a 26-9 victory over TCU while Arkansas took the week off.

"They got caught up in some things that were happening to them and they have lost a couple of games," Crowe said. "But they are equal now to the team that started out at the beginning of the year with all the expectations they had."

Baylor leads the SWC and ranks No. 17 nationally in total offense, averaging 435.1 yards per game. Arkansas' 285.7 yards per game ranks last in the SWC in total offense.

Stopping Baylor's fullbacks and J.J. Joe's bombs to Melvin Bonner aren't all the Hogs have to contain, Crowe said.

"It's hard to stop both of them at the same time and still handle the plays that J.J. Joe makes on his own," Crowe said.

Joe leads the Bears with 196.4 yards of total offense per game. Arkansas has a 4-1 record with Jason Allen as the quarterback and E.D. Jackson is the leading rusher with 398 yards on 88 carries.

The defending champion Longhorns had a week off to overcome their loss to Arkansas and returned last week to beat SMU, but they still need help to return to the Cotton Bowl.

"We have to hope somebody knocks somebody else off and be ready if we get our chance," defensive end Shane Drontett said. "That's the only thing we can do right now."

The Red Raiders have won two in a row after a sluggish start. Coach Spike Dykes hopes elusive quarterback Robert Hall will help the Raiders continue their streak.

"His nimbleness is a desirable trait against a big defense like Texas," Dykes said. "Each week he gets a little better."

TCU will try to secure its first winning season since 1984 against SMU, trying to win its first SWC game since 1986.

"Every week somebody beats somebody that they weren't supposed to beat," SMU coach Tom Rossley said. "We have to keep playing hard and maybe we'll be the ones to get that surprise win this week."

Top horses on parade at Churchill

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Unbridled and Strike the Gold will compete on the first Saturday in November at the track where they raced to glory on the first Saturday in May.

The winners of the Kentucky Derby, America's greatest horse race, will run in the Classic on the sport's biggest single day — the $10 million, seven-race Breeders' Cup at Churchill Downs.

"To be at the Breeders' Cup with an eligible contender is a great honor," said Carl Nafzger, trainer of Unbridled, who last year won the Derby and the the seventh Classic at Belmont Park.

"This is where we show our best horses for the world to see," said Nick Zito, trainer of Strike The Gold, this year's Kentucky Derby winner.

A total of 91 horses, 28 of them foreign-bred or based, will contest the seven Breeders' Cup races.

The Breeders' Cup

Eight horses are trained by D. Wayne Lukas, who has won 10 races with 65 starters and earned $8,008,000 in the first seven Breeders' Cups.

While the Cup runneth over for Lukas from 1984 through 1989, it was not brimming last year when the best he could do with six starters was a fourth and a fifth for $120,000.

Lukas could have a dismal day Saturday. His most highly regarded starters will be a pair moaning-line 6-1 shots — Dance Floor in 1 1-16-mile Juvenile and Twilight Agenda in the 1¼-mile Classic.

Lukas would have had one of the top choices in the Classic, the day's $3 million centerpiece, but Farma Way injured an ankle Tuesday and was not entered.

The 4-year-old colt is considered a candidate for Horse of the Year despite having failed to win in his last five starts.

The Classic lost another Horse of the Year candidate when In Excess was entered in the Mile on the grass, a surface the Irish-bred colt has not raced on this year but has raced on in 12 of his 19 starts.

Two trainers with bright prospects on a day that is supposed to cold, but sunny, are Ron McAnally and Jim Day.

McAnally will saddle Festin, a leading contender in the Classic, and Tight Spot, who goes into the Mile with eight straight wins on grass.

Day is expected to win the Distaff with Canadian-bred 3-year-old filly Dance Smartly, who is unbeaten in seven starts this year, with wins over colts in the last four. Another Canadian-bred, the 4-year-old colt Sky Classic, is given a good chance of winning the 1½-mile Turf for Day.

Of equine and human interest Saturday will be the farewell races of Housebuster and Summer Squall, the rides of Lester Piggott and Steve Cauthen and the performance of a 2-year-old colt named Tri to Watch.

Housebuster is expected to clinch a second straight divisional title in the 6-furlong Sprint. He will retire to stud at Jonabell Farm in Lexington, Ky.

Summer Squall, a 4-year-old colt who was second to Unbridled in the 1990 Derby, then beat him the Preakness, will cap his career in the Classic. He will stand at Lane's End Farm near Versailles, Ky.

ANDREWS: Mustangs now 4-0 in league

(From 1B)

blocked pretty well too."

They did it as soon as they got their hands on the ball.

Rusty McDonald's three-yard run gave the Loboes the lead, but extra-point try was blocked. Andrews needed just eight plays and the first of three Eric Langehenning conversion kicks to take the lead.

Bo Haigood capped a 61-yard drive with a three-yard TD burst and Andrews was suddenly in control.

Gonzalez' 21-yard TD pass to Chad Tompkins came on the fifth play of the second quarter and gave the Mustangs a 14-6 lead. Gonzalez, was 3-of-6 passing with one interception.

Andrews used the first drive of the second half to up the lead to 21-6 on Xavy Emiliano's seven-yard romp and Monahans was forced to put the ball up in the air.

"They executed the option real well. Their size had a great deal to do with that," Monahans' coach Bren Holland said. "Andrews is an extremely good football team and looked every bit the leader of the district.

"They had the size and we had the speed, and tonight size won out over speed."

The Loboes took the hefty 15-point deficit into the fourth quarter but refused to quit. Quarterback Junior Fuentes completed 5-of-5 passes and the fifth one went to Mario Nunez, who scored on the seven-yard flip.

Randy Ramsey ran in for two points with 5:04 remaining.

But Andrews recoverd the onsides kick try and used three of its 19 total first downs to run out the clock.

"Our people up front did a good job," Stapler said. "We had to have blocked some people to move the ball like we did."

Midland High quarterback Geoff Simmons avoids a sack from Abilene Cooper's Lamahan Shannon during the Bulldogs' final game of the season Friday at Memorial Stadium.

MHS: Nightmare year for Corley, team

on a cold night not fit for man — or football.

For Cooper coach Randy Allen, however, it was a ray of light for his 4-5 Cougars.

"We know all about how bad Midland High is beat up and short-handed, but I'm proud of my kids," Allen said. "We scored four of the first five times we had the ball. We've been telling our team that it was capable of that, but they don't believe you until they do it. Still, you never expect to get that kind of margin so quickly."

It was 45-0 before the Bulldogs struck against Cooper's second defensive unit. The Pack marched 75 yards, their longest drive of the year, to end the third period as quarterback Geoff Simmons hit Dewayne Culpepper with an eight-yard TD toss. MHS came back in the fourth period with a 70-yard TD drive, which ended with junior quarterback Brad Heidelberg scoring from two yards out.

Lucas was the big gun for Cooper, rushing for 149 yards on 14 carries and two touchdowns. It was the best game of his career by far.

"I really didn't expect to get that many chances at the ball. I've just run a couple of reverses before. It was a great feeling to get that much action," said Lucas.

In all, seven Cougars put points on the board while rolling out 300 yards rushing and another 101 in the air. The Cooper defense, which has been porous this season, limited the Bulldogs to only nine yards rushing and 11 passing in the first half. MHS ended up with 176 total yards of offense, but much of that was against Cooper's second team defense. Robert McKee led MHS with 54 yards rushing while Culpepper caught five passes for 61 yards. Culpepper ends the season with a remarkable 34 receptions.

It is a season the Bulldogs are ready to put behind them. The only thing left to do now is look to the future.

"I'll say this is one season I never want to repeat," Corley said. "It was a very frustrating season for me, the kids and the coaches on this staff. We knew we were thin coming into the season and depth really caught up with us.

"We're going to have to take a long look at our program and see where we need to make changes. I do know that we are going to have to become more physical and stronger."

Corley is now 8-20 after his third season at the Bulldog helm. The 0-9 campaign hurt since MHS turned in a 5-4 winning record last year.

LEE: Chilly temps keep passing at minimum

(From 1B)

Three AHS plays came up one yard short of a first down and the Eagles returned a punt 42 yards, giving Lee the ball at the its own 48.

Then the Rebels began a six-play march that culminated with a 23-yard Dedrick touchdown run. Lee was on top 7-0 after Todd Meade's extra point kick with 9:43 left in the half.

Lee's next score again came after Lucas had set up the field position. His 35-yard kick was downed by Scott McLeod on the Eagle 2-yard line. Three AHS plays produced as many yards, and AHS punter Rusty Oglesby was forced to kick from his own 5.

Oglesby let loose a 41-yarder of his own, but Henry Stewart's 14-yard return gave the Rebels the ball at the Eagle 33 with 2:03 left in the first half. As it turned out, the Rebs needed about half that much time.

Kenny Williams ran for 13 yards and Patton hit Roy Robinson on a 14-yard pass before Dedrick carried the ball over from the 6 with 1:02 on the clock.

The only trouble was, that was all of Lee's scoring in the game, and when Bobby Smith scored on a 6-yard run of his own with 7:20 in the third, it looked like AHS was seizing the momentum. Just then, Mark Seidenberger blocked Brandon Baker's PAT kick, and the air was out of the AHS balloon just as quickly as it had been filled.

Though the final 18 minutes of the game may have looked to have been a defensive struggle, both offenses moved the ball well enough to eat the clock up, a result that hurt AHS with each passing tick.

"We should have scored in the second half," Miller said. "We had field position all night long. Abilene did a good job, though."

Morenz to Carroll not enough to beat Mojo

Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — The Shea Morenz-to-Damon Carroll combination struck for two touchdowns for San Angelo, but the Odessa Permian Panthers maintained their hold on first place in District 4-5A with a 21-15 win here Friday.

Malcolm Hamilton led Mojo, 9-0 overall and 5-0 in district play, with 130 yards and three touchdowns on only four carries, while the Permian defense completely stifled the Bobcat running game. San Angelo finished with -20 yards net rushing.

But the Panthers couldn't completely stop Morenz, who threw for 242 yards on 16-for-31 accuracy. Carroll caught five passes for 122 yards and both San Angelo scores, including a 48-yard grab with 4:08 left in the game that put the 'Cats within eight. Ben Montgomery and Brian Butler teamed for the two-point conversion pass to create the final margin.

Midland Christian closes home season with win

Staff Report

The Midland Christian Mustangs closed out their home schedule with a 52-6 blowout of the Balmorhea Bears in non-district six-man action here Friday.

The Mustangs, 8-1, opened up a 36-6 lead over the visitors. Alan Weaver led the way with two touchdown catches and a third score on a bizarre second-half kickoff.

MCS' Aaron Awtry ran the second-half kickoff back to midfield before fumbling, but Weaver picked up the ball and ran the rest of the way into the end zone for his third TD of the night.

Drew Akins added two rushing touchdowns for MCS. The game ended via the 45-point rule with 6:38 left in the fourth quarter on Don Gilbreath's four-yard scoring run.

Rangers fall again in 6-3A

Staff Report

SONORA — The Greenwood Rangers led much of the first half in District 6-3A play here Friday, but Sonora running back Adam Youngblood proved to be too much for the Rangers in a 34-14 Bronco win.

Youngblood ran for 177 yards and three touchdowns on 19 carries, including the go-ahead score on a 15-yard run with 1:01 left in the half.

the second period.

Prough scored on three other touchdowns as well.

"It was a big game for us," said Prough. Most of the seniors on this team had gone through kindergarten together and throughout the school system here, so it was a special win for us."

Stanton's John Eric Wyckoff also had TD passes of six and 30 yards to complete the romp.

The game was made easier for Stanton as they faced the one-dimensional offense of Forsan. Forsan's only offensive threat was Reese.

Reese had 139 of his team's 164 rushing yards and its only touchdown So it was no secret to who the ball was going.

Stanton now has something to look forward to next season. Sophomore Ricky Lucas, gave the crowd a preview of what's to come. Late in the fourth period, he dashed his way to a 70-yard TD run.

"It certainly gives a glimpse of good things to come in the future," said Grissom. When you have a game like this it makes the off season a bit more enjoyable."

Stanton ends its season next Friday in Eldorado for an 8 p.m. contest.

Greenwood, 4-5 overall and 1-3 in district play, took the early lead on a one-yard run by Eric Clutter with 4:30 left in the first quarter. Sonora answered with the first of two Danny Mata touchdowns with 9:42 left in the half, but Greenwood again took the lead on its next play from scrimmage when Ranger quarterback Irvin Welch teamed with receiver Hilbert Ochoa on a 65-yard pass play.

Youngblood tied it again, however, on a 60-yard jaunt with 2:57 left in the half, and added his go-ahead run less than two minutes later.

Greenwood wraps up their season at home against Colorado City, while Sonora, 6-3 and 3-1, fights for a bi-district playoff berth at Crane.

The Red Devils, 7-1 and 3-0, outgained Sanderson 410-136, and scored 21 points in the first period to effectively put the game away.

Denver inks young, old

Associated Press

DENVER — The Denver Nuggets spanned the age spectrum in the backcourt on Friday, signing rookie Mark Macon and reaching agreement with 37-year-old Walter Davis.

Macon, the eighth choice in the NBA draft, signed a reported five-year deal worth about $7.5 million hours before the Nuggets were to play at Golden State in the season opener.

Davis, a 14-year veteran, agreed on a multi-year contract that brings him back to the team where he played for 2½ seasons before being traded to Portland last winter. He was cut by the Trail Blazers this week and cleared waivers on Thursday.

Coach Paul Westhead said the 22-year-old Macon might see limited playing time until he learns the system and works into playing condition. Davis, meanwhile, was expected to join the team on Saturday.

Bulls pick up where they left off, 110-90

Riley loses debut; Spurs bomb Mavericks; Rockets win in double overtime

Associated Press

NBA Roundup

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bulls received their rings, hoisted their first championship banner and opened defense of their NBA title with a 110-90 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Bulls, who got 26 points from Michael Jordan 23 from Scottie Pippen, outscored the 76ers 32-14 in the second quarter and then opened a 31-point lead early in the second half, leaving no doubt to the outcome.

Charles Barkley had 18 points for the 76ers, 12 of them in the first quarter. Armon Gilliam and Ron Anderson had 15 each for Philadelphia.

The 76ers spoiled the Bulls' opener last season with a 124-116 victory, but this time the Bulls were not to be denied despite a slow start.

There were five lead changes early in the first quarter before Jordan put the Bulls ahead to stay, 14-13. A 6-0 run, including a three-point play by Jordan and a pair of free throws by Pippen, opened a 26-19 advantage. Despite 12 points by Barkley, the Bulls led 31-25 at the quarter.

With the reserves taking over in the second quarter, the Bulls went on a 16-6 run to open a 47-31 lead before Hersey Hawkins scored his first basket for the 76ers.

Magic 106, Knicks 96

ORLANDO, Fla. — Nick Anderson led a balanced scoring attack with 22 points and Scott Skiles had 17 points and 12 assists as the Orlando Magic beat New York to spoil the Knicks' debut under coach Pat Riley.

Orlando scored nine consecutive points to open a 13-6 lead early in the game and didn't trail after that. New York rallied to tie the score 50-50 just before halftime, but fell behind by 12 points in the third quarter while shooting only 36 percent from the field.

Anderson scored the last six points of the third period for Orlando, which improved its record against the Knicks to 5-2 over three seasons. He spent the offseason working on his jump shot and it showed as he hit 10 of 15 attempts.

Patrick Ewing led the Knicks with 30 points and six blocked shots. He was virtually the entire New York offense down the stretch, scoring 13 of the team's 26 points in the fourth quarter.

Gerald Wilkins and John Starks scored 14 points apiece for the Knicks, who closed to within seven points on a Ewing dunk with four minutes to go only to see a technical foul on rookie Greg Anthony help the Magic regain the momentum.

Spurs 140, Mavericks 99

SAN ANTONIO — David Robinson scored 24 points and Terry Cummings 22 as the San Antonio Spurs routed the Dallas Mavericks.

San Antonio, debuting a new run-and-pass offense, came within four points of its all-time largest victory margin of 45 points. San Antonio held its largest lead of 43 points with 15 seconds remaining.

The Spurs played most of the game without coach Larry Brown, who was thrown out in the second quarter with two technical fouls, the second for shouting an expletive at official Jim Clark.

But the Spurs were in control all the way, leading 73-45 at halftime and 105-73 at the end of the third quarter.

Sean Elliott scored 19 points for the Spurs, who played without holdout point guard Rod Strickland. Fat Lever led the Mavericks with 17 points, and Terry Davis had 13.

The Mavericks got off to a grim start of a season they will be playing without troubled forward Roy Tarpley, who was banned from the NBA earlier this year for a violation of league drug policies.

Chicago's Michael Jordan, left, pulls down a rebound away from Philadelphia's Mitchell Wiggins (23) and Horace Grant.

Rockets 126, Lakers 121 (2 OT)

HOUSTON — Houston's Otis Thorpe scored six of his 33 points in the final 1:59 of the second overtime period, rallying the Rockets over the injury-plagued Los Angeles Lakers.

Thorpe hit back-to-back baskets in the second overtime to give the Rockets a 123-118 lead with 1:27 to play. He sank two free throws with 9.7 seconds to go, providing the final Rockets points.

The Rockets had to overcome James Worthy's three-point shooting display to claim their season-opener. Worthy's 3-pointer at the buzzer forced the first overtime at 97-97 and he had two more 3-point goals with 37.9 and 11.1 seconds left in the overtime, cutting the Rockets' lead to 112-110.

A tip in by Elden Campbell with .8 forced the second overtime at 112-112.

Bucks 109, Pistons 99

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — The new-look Detroit Pistons had the same old problem — scoring — in their opener against the Milwaukee Bucks.

Dale Ellis scored 24 points before being ejected with 2:19 remaining to lead the Bucks to a 109-99 victory at The Palace. Milwaukee, which shot 42 percent, had a 52-37 edge in rebounding over the Pistons, who shot 43 percent.

Detroit let long-time favorites Vinnie Johnson and James Edwards go during the offseason, picking up Orlando Woolridge and Darrell Walker in an effort to get more offense. The Pistons averaged only 101.1 points last year.

But Woolridge scored two points and Walker four against the Bucks.

Jazz 112, Timberwolves 97

MINNEAPOLIS — Karl Malone scored 16 of his 35 points and Jeff Malone 15 of his 25 in the third quarter as Utah outscored Minnesota 38-23 and went on to spoil the debut of Timberwolves coach Jimmy Rodgers.

John Stockton added 21 points and 12 assists for the Jazz, who are 10-1 against Minnesota, a 1989-90 expansion team.

Bullets 109, Pacers 103

INDIANAPOLIS — Michael Adams, acquired by Washington in the offseason, had 23 points, 13 assists and nine steals, leading the Bullets over Indiana in a ragged season-opener for both teams.

Pervis Ellison and Harvey Grant each scored 18 points for the Bullets, while Reggie Miller led Indiana with 21.

Celtics 111, Hornets 108

BOSTON — Larry Bird scored 10 of his 23 points in the fourth period as the Boston Celtics withstood a Charlotte comeback from a 19-point deficit and held on over the Hornets.

The Hornets, trailing 78-59 midway through the third and 91-79 starting the fourth quarter, rallied to 101-99 with five minutes remaining.

Warriors 108, Nuggets 105

DENVER — Tim Hardaway's three-point play with 1:19 left gave the Golden State Warriors the lead for good in a victory over the Denver Nuggets.

The Nuggets trailed by as many as 18 points in the first half, but they rallied to lead 105-103 with 1:34 left before Hardaway and Sarunas Marciulionis scored the final points of the game.

Trail Blazers 117
Cavaliers 106

PORTLAND, Ore. — Clyde Drexler shrugged off foul trouble and scored 31 points as the Portland Trail Blazers, one of the NBA's preseason title favorites, opened with a victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Drexler was 14-for-20 from the field as the Blazers won their season opener for the seventh time in their last eight years.

Owens, Richmond involved in big trade

Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. — The rights to Billy Owens, the Sacramento Kings' unsigned top draft choice, were traded Friday to the Golden State Warriors in exchange for Mitch Richmond, center Les Jepsen and a second-round draft pick in 1995.

Owens, a 6-foot-9 forward out of Syracuse, was the third player taken in the NBA draft. The acquisition of his rights breaks up the Warriors' potent threesome of Richmond, Chris Mullin and Tim Hardaway. They combined to average 72.5 points a game last season as Golden State won 44 games while averaging 116.6 points a game, the team's best in 23 years.

"The decision to trade Mitch Richmond is the toughest I have ever made," Warriors coach and general manager Don Nelson said. "Mitch has been much more than just a great basketball player for the Warriors. He's been a member of our family. Fortunately, as we say goodbye to Mitch, we know we will remain a good friend for life and become an NBA All-Star for years to come.

"Les Jepsen is also a wonderful man and a hard-working young basketball player. Given some more time and experience, he will continue to develop."

State lottery is a 2-1 favorite to win, pollsters say

AUSTIN (NYT) — Is the lottery a good gamble?

Consumer groups and others opposed to the proposed lottery to be voted on Tuesday contend it's a lemon.

They say that the odds are better that you'll get hit by lightning (a 1 in 1.9 million chance) or find a pearl in an oyster (1 in 12,000) than strike it rich in the lottery.

To some extent they're right, although statisticians warn that the comparisons can be misleading.

The odds against winning Florida's $88 million lottery last week — based on having to correctly choose six numbers from a list of 49 — were 14 million to 1. And pretty true to those odds, six of the 93 million lottery tickets purchased were winners. (The odds work out to about 6.6 winners.)

Other gambling options offer better chances of success.

For instance, in poker, the chances of being dealt a royal flush in the first five cards are 1 in 649,740, according to the late gaming expert John Scarne in his book "Scarne's New Complete Guide to Gambling." The odds of a first-hand four-of-a-kind are 1 in 4,165, and a full house are 1 in 694.

Those who plug their change into one-armed bandits at casinos can count on hitting the jackpot once in every 445 tries, on average — at least on a Twenty-one Bell, three-wheel nickel variety, Scarne wrote.

The odds for pari-mutuel wagering on horses and dogs vary from race to race, wager to wager and animal to animal. If there are eight equal-strength animals in the race — which rarely if ever happens — and a bettor chooses one of them to win, the bettor has a 1-in-8 chance of winning.

Harvard University statistician Hal Stern said one way for would-be bettors to calculate their probabilities of coming out ahead is to determine how much of the betting dollar stays in the hands of the casino, state or other gambling operator.

In lotteries, for example, only about 50 cents of every dollar is paid out in prize money, although in Texas, the prize money will be closer to 45 cents of every dollar. Meanwhile, 81 cents of every dollar bet at Texas horse tracks is paid out in winnings.

"The lottery is a complicated issue, in part because it's big numbers," said Stern, associate professor of statistics at Harvard.

"You don't get millions of dollars at the race track, and so maybe people are willing to risk 50 cents out of a dollar for a prize like that. When they go to a race track, the same person might not be willing to risk $2 on a better bet, one that's going to give them $1.70."

Psychologists who have studied the behavior of lottery ticket purchasers have observed that some people are willing to risk their money even though the odds against them are great because they could win so much.

"When you judge risk, there's the cost and the possible reward," Stern said. "Most people look at the dollar and see zero, they're not risking anything. The possible reward is huge. It's a change in lifestyle."

In their book, "Selling Hope: State Lotteries in America," Charles T. Clotfelter and Philip J. Cook, Duke University public policy and economics professors say that the odds of winning a large prize in a numbers game (i.e., lotto) are infinitesimal, yet many lottery ticket purchasers have no idea the odds they are facing are several million to one.

"For example, someone who spends $20 per week on a 6/49 lotto game (in which a player must choose six winning numbers among 49 possibilities) for his or her entire adult lifetime would still have a chance of less than 1 in 200 of winning a jackpot," Clotfelter and Cook wrote.

The odds of winning are calculated differently for scratch-off and lotto (numbers) lotteries, Stern said. Scratch-off odds are determined by the total number of winners among the total number of tickets sold.

Louisiana, which inaugurated its scratch-off game this fall, published odds and the numbers of winners if all 50 million tickets were sold: they ranged from a 1-in-10 chance of winning a $2 prize (5 million winners), to a 1-in-2,778 chance of winning $50 (18,000 winners), to a 1-in-50,000 chance of winning $5,000 (1,000 winners).

The lotto games, which depend on buyers to choose their own winning numbers — in some cases with the assistance of a computer — have much higher odds and jackpots because the combinations of numbers are seemingly endless. It is also possible for no one to choose the winning combination.

The odds increase as the field of numbers from which to choose grows.

Californians this year saw the odds against them soar when lottery officials changed from a 6/49 game to a 6/53 game. The odds of choosing the six winning numbers among 49 possibilities had been 1 in 14 million, but with 53 choices the odds became 1 in 23 million.

California officials were betting that long odds and big jackpots would lure many people to the game, but sales dropped, and they are considering changing back to the old game.

Decisions on which games Texas might offer will not be made until after the election Tuesday. But odds are better for approval of the lottery than for any lottery game. Pollsters say the lottery is a 2-1 favorite to win.

NWS expected to drop weather briefings in most offices

VICTORIA (AP) — The National Weather Service is expected to cut back on public services as part of a cost reduction program, with most of its weather briefings to pilots being the first to go, an official says.

All but three of the 17 NWS offices in Texas will probably phase out weather briefings for pilots because of a lack of demand.

The phase out may be only the first of several cuts made during the modernization and cost reduction effort, said Bob Head, a meteorologist with the NWS Victoria office

The offices in Victoria, Corpus Christi and Port Arthur are expected to continue the service to pilots, he said.

Most of the briefings are for local pilots, although Continental Express pilots also get briefings during threatening weather, Head said.

"It's a bad deal overall," Head told the Victoria Advocate. "We're in the weather business and we've always briefed pilots. Now we're trying to downgrade the services we provide to the public."

The Victoria office has not been officially informed of the change, said Meteorologist-in-Charge Bill Cain.

Jim Ward, area manager for the weather offices in South Texas, said he had not heard about the plans.

But Head said his union, the National Weather Service Employees Organization, learned of the phase out through a letter from Melvin R. McLaughlin, weather service chief of meteorological services in Fort Worth.

A copy of his Mclaughlin's letter to the union states that the lack of demand for pilot briefings is the reason for phasing out the service.

Offices dropping the briefings include Lubbock, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Brownsville, Del Rio, El Paso, Galveston, Houston, Midland, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.

Victoria was spared because it does an average of 200 such briefings a month, Head said.

Weather briefings will still remain available to pilots from the Federal Aviation Administration Flight Service offices statewide.

D.L, "Danny" Faulkner, right, a defendant in the I-30 condo trial, leaves the courthouse in Midland with his wife Jonelle, Wednesday. Jury deliberations continued Friday.

Jurors for condo trial adjourn for weekend

MIDLAND (AP) — Jurors in the state's largest savings and loan fraud trial ended a second day of deliberations Friday without reaching a verdict.

Four men are being tried a second time, accused of pocketing $165 million from fraudulent land deals east of Dallas in the early 1980s. The first trial, moved to Lubbock because of publicity in Dallas, ended in a mistrial when the jury could not reach a verdict.

The men charged in a 58-count indictment are Dallas land developer D.L. "Danny" Faulkner, former Garland Mayor James Toler, former Empire Savings and Loan Association chairman Spencer Blain Jr. and appraiser Arthur Formann.

Jurors Friday sent several notes to U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton requesting instructions.

"They sent a note asking if they had to agree on every count, and Judge Bunton told them to keep working," said Billy Ravkind, Blain's attorney.

The jurors will resume deliberations Monday at 8:45 a.m.

San Antonio, valley receive new area code

AUSTIN (AP) — Reaching out and touching some South Texas residents will require a different number this time next year.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. announced Friday that phones in San Antonio and the Rio Grande Valley will be given a new area code beginning Nov. 1, 1992.

The new code — 210 — will replace 512 in that region.

The change is needed now "or we will run out of telephone numbers in the near future," said Marc West of Southwestern Bell's Austin office.

"Population growth and the rapid growth of new telecommunications services are the main reasons the telephone number supply is being exhausted," he said.

West said there will be no other change than the area code. Seven-digit telephone numbers for homes and businesses will remain the same, he said.

The 512 area code will remain in use in an area stretching from Lampasas through Austin, San Marcos, Victoria and Corpus Christi to south of Kingsville.

Besides San Antonio, other cities that will be switched to the 210 code include New Braunfels, Seguin, Eagle Pass, Laredo, Zapata, McAllen, Harlingen and Brownsville.

The change includes communities served by Southwestern Bell and other telephone companies.

West said the changeover would take place in two stages.

For the first six months — Nov. 1, 1992 until May 2, 1993 — callers who accidentally dial 512 to reach numbers in the new area code region will have their calls automatically forwarded to the 210 number.

"The six months will give callers more time to become adjusted to the new area code," West said.

Chairman criticizes industry

AUSTIN (AP) — A House committee chairman Friday accused the insurance industry of trying to wreck the state's mandatory auto liability law by gouging customers with high premiums or denying coverage.

"This is an orchestrated effort," said Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi.

Industry officials denied his allegation.

Cavazos has said insurance companies are making it difficult for first-time insurance buyers to purchase coverage because insurers are trying to create a crisis and push for a no-fault auto insurance system.

Under a no-fault plan, drivers involved in an accident would be paid off by their own insurance company and their right to file lawsuits for further damages would be limited.

But in a hearing before the House Insurance Committee on Friday, insurance company officials defended their pricing practices.

The insurers said previously uninsured drivers, as a group, are a higher risk regardless of their individual driving records.

As of Sept. 1, drivers must show proof of insurance in order to obtain or renew a driver's license, license plate or safety inspection sticker.

Clint Gardner of Austin, president of Texas Farmers Insurance Co., told the committee, "The previous lack of insurance shows them to have a propensity for higher losses."

Gardner conceded that some of those motorists probably have better driving records than those that already have insurance.

Minimum auto liability insurance has been a requirement for Texas drivers for more than 10 years. But the issue erupted recently because of a new law to enforce that requirement.

As of Sept. 1, drivers must show proof of insurance in order to obtain or renew a driver's license, license plate or safety inspection sticker.

Before the law took effect, about 3 million Texans, or one in four drivers, lacked the required minimum insurance.

Lawmakers say many of these drivers now face higher-than-normal premiums, large up-front payments or are being denied coverage despite having good driving records.

The State Board of Insurance passed a rule prohibiting insurers from these practices. But State District Judge Scott McCown on Thursday granted a temporary order to stop the board from enforcing that rule.

Charles Worth of Austin, a representative of State Farm Insurance Cos., prompted an angry response from Cavazos when he said his company does not support mandatory coverage because it could force some people to choose between buying food and insurance.

Gunman suffered from fierce anger

DALLAS (AP) — A Nevada woman who claims to have dated George Hennard says he suffered from fierce anger and his shooting spree that killed 23 people in a Luby's Cafeteria occurred on the anniversary of their first date.

The woman, who spoke to The Dallas Morning News on condition of anonymity, said she hoped the anniversary and the massacre in the cafeteria are a coincidence.

"I've gone through all those feelings of guilt and wondering if I could have changed things," she said. "I don't think so."

Hennard's former girlfriend said he was burdened by a tremendous anger and feeling of persecution, which was unleashed by drinking "only a couple of beers."

"When he was sober, he was very quiet. But he thought everyone was against him. He was very irrational," she said.

"He was real big and real scary. I thought he was going to hurt me."

The woman's recollections this week provide a look at the man who barreled his truck into the cafeteria on Oct. 16, murdered 23 people with two semi-automatic pistols and killed himself.

The massacre in Killeen — the nation's deadliest mass shooting — occurred a day after Hennard's 35th birthday.

The former girlfriend said she was introduced to Hennard by his mother, Jeanna Hennard, who was a friend of hers. The mother lives in the Las Vegas suburb of Henderson and is in seclusion.

The woman said she dated Hennard from Oct. 16, 1990, to Dec. 23, 1990, while he lived with his mother in Nevada. She said that period was marked by Hennard's explosive temper and incendiary relationship with his mother.

She described Hennard as having paranoid delusions. She said he did not like American women, and he told her that murderers should not be given the death penalty.

Richards is getting along fine, Bush says

HOUSTON (AP) — President Bush had some kind words Friday for Texas Gov. Ann Richards, a Democrat, calling her "our governor" and saying she's "getting along just fine."

Richards defeated Republican Clayton Williams in a rugged battle last November. She also lashed Bush in a 1988 Democratic National Convention speech, declaring that he was "born with a silver foot in his mouth."

Asked by a television interviewer here to rate Richards' performance in Austin, Bush said jokingly: "Well, I don't want to be too nice to her ... But, look, Ann had to do her thing and she ran a good race. And I'm told that in many areas she's getting along just fine."

"But right now I'm a kind and gentle mood towards our governor. She's helping in a lot of the education initiatives that I believe in," he said.

"So the jury is still out on her. The jury is still out on me," he added.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

A CASE OF "WOMENS LIB" OVER THREE THOUSAND YEARS OLD!

IT IS RECORDED IN JUDGES, CHAPTERS 4+5 THAT DEBORAH (CIRCA 1296 B.C.) "...THE WIFE OF LAPIDOTH, JUDGED ISRAEL AT THAT TIME". THIS WAS BEFORE THE ADVENT OF KINGS. WHOEVER JUDGED ISRAEL WAS ACCREDITED LEADER OF ALL THE PEOPLE. DURING THIS PERIOD, THE ISRAELITES WERE BEING SEVERELY PERSECUTED BY A CANAANITE KING, NAMED JABIN, AND THEY APPEALED TO DEBORAH TO RID THEM OF HIS DOMINATION....

...DEBORAH APPOINTED A MAN OF GREAT VALOR, BARAK, TO LEAD TEN THOUSAND ISRAELITES AGAINST THE VAUNTED ARMY OF SISERA, KING JABIN'S GENERAL, WHO HAD NINE HUNDRED CHARIOTS OF IRON! BARAK, KNOWING DEBORAH ALSO AS A GREAT PROPHETESS AND SEER, INSISTED SHE BE WITH HIM ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE AND, BECAUSE OF THIS, SHE SAID THAT SISERA WOULD DIE BY A WOMAN'S HAND AND NOT BY A MAN'S... FOLLOWING DEBORAH'S ADVICE, BARAK ATTACKED THE CANAANITES FROM THE HEIGHTS OF MT. TABOR, DRIVING SISERA'S ARMY HARD AGAINST THE BANKS OF THE KISHON RIVER, WHERE HIS CHARIOTS COULD NOT MANEUVER AND, IN FACT, WHERE MANY OF THEM BOGGED DOWN AND WERE SWEPT AWAY BY THE WATERS, GIVING ISRAEL A GREAT VICTORY!

THE GENERAL, SISERA, ESCAPED FROM THE BATTLE AND SOUGHT REFUGE BY HIDING IN THE TENT OF HEBER, THE KENITE. HERE, HEBER'S WIFE, JAEL, SLEW HIM WHILE HE SLEPT—THUS FULFILLING DEBORAH'S PROPHECY AND PLACING HER NAME NEXT DEBORAH'S AS THE TWO PERSON'S MOST RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CRUSHING DEFEAT OF THE CANAANITES!

NEXT WEEK: THE MAN WHO LOST HIS HEAD OVER A DANCE!

Winter weather wreaks havoc

Associated Press

Winter doesn't officially begin until Dec. 22, but ...

■ An all-time record 26 inches of snow fell Friday on the Twin Cities.

■ Sioux Falls, S.D., had 11 inches of snow on the ground, forcing schools and businesses to close.

■ In Wyoming, gusting wind sent the wind chill down to 31 degrees below zero.

Heavy snow spread from the Rockies to Texas to the Great Lakes region, causing hundreds of traffic accidents, delaying flights and leaving some wondering whether it was all a warning of chillier days to come.

"I've never known it to be this bad this early," said Vera Welte of rural Danbury, Iowa. "If this keeps up, it looks like it could be a bad winter."

Meanwhile, coastal communities from Maine to Florida began assessing damage from a fierce Atlantic storm.

Despite problems posed by the early onslaught of wintry weather, no fatalities were reported. And in Grand Island, Neb., police were even helped by the conditions. They followed the trail of an armed robbery suspect in the snow to his doorstep. The footprints led police from the crime scene to a motel nine blocks away, where they arrested a 15-year-old male.

A 78-year-old man died while shoveling snow in Grand Island, but the cause of his death hadn't been determined.

Two elderly men died in Sioux Falls, S.D., of apparent heart attacks while shoveling snow, said city police officer Don Rotherham.

The "megastorm" — as the National Weather Service called it — moved into Minnesota on Thursday. The 26 inches that fell broke a Jan. 22-23, 1982, record of 20 inches in a 24-hour period, the weather service said. The previous October snowfall record of 5.5 inches in 1905 was broken with 8.2 inches that fell on Halloween night.

The storm drastically reduced traffic at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport and some flights were canceled.

Rope-tethered workers sprayed hot water to melt the snow on the Teflon-covered fabric roof of the Metrodome, where the World Series was played just last Sunday, to ensure that it didn't sag.

Residents heeded advice to stay off roads unless travel was vital. Most downtown office buildings and parking ramps were empty.

"I'm really lonely," Minnesota Chamber of Commerce spokesman Craig McHenry said. "I've got a window overlooking part of downtown St. Paul and there's just no cars. It looks pretty desolate out there."

House speaker blasts term limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas S. Foley on Friday blasted a term-limitation initiative that could cut short his political career and rejected suggestions that his own reputation was at stake.

The Washington Democrat said proponents of Initiative 553, on Tuesday's ballot in his home state, were pushing term limits for elected officials by waging "a campaign of disinformation."

"I don't take it as a personal matter at all," Foley said before departing for Seattle to begin a statewide media swing against the ballot measure.

The 13-term lawmaker, the most powerful member of Congress, doesn't face an election until next year. But if Initiative 553 passes and is upheld by the courts, that would be his last run for office.

All members of Washington's House delegation would be retired in three years under the initiative. Foley and other members of the delegation have been outspoken opponents of measure.

But only on the eve of the election, after being personally mocked in campaign advertising, did Foley head home to fight it directly.

A radio spot aired by initiative supporters includes an ersatz Foley press conference featuring a pompous-sounding speaker giving self-incriminating answers to questions about check-kiting at the House bank and other congressional misdeeds.

Foley on Friday refused to respond directly to the ad.

"Well, sticks and stones," he said, alluding to the children's verse.

"The people who are running the initiative ... have been guilty of deceiving the electorate, and a kind of election fraud," Foley said. He faulted supporters for telling public they could limit terms with their votes when it was clearly unconstitutional.

Colleagues said the speaker seemed truly confident the courts would rule the initiative unconstitutional. But, privately, they said he was feeling the heat.

ACLU fights court ruling on pinups

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The state chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union says Jacksonville Shipyards workers have a First Amendment right to display nude pinups in work areas and is joining the appeal on a landmark sexual harassment ruling.

U.S. District Judge Howell W. Melton found in favor of shipyard welder Lois Robinson when he ruled in January that sexually suggestive posters and calendars constituted sexual harassment.

Both the shipyard and Ms. Robinson are appealing Melton's ruling. The ACLU and the company are attempting to have the ruling reversed and Ms. Robinson is appealing Melton's denial of back wages for absenteeism due to the harassment.

Ms. Robinson, on furlough from her shipyard job, was awarded $1.

Robyn Blumner, executive director of the ACLU in Florida, said the decision violates the constitutional guarantee of free expression.

"The First Amendment is abrogated when the federal court forces the shipyards to remove legal materials from their walls," Ms. Blumner said, adding the state chapter of the ACLU decided Thursday to join the appeal.

The national ACLU disagrees with its Florida chapter's position, said Phil Gutis, spokesman for the ACLU in New York.

Ms. Robinson's attorney, Alison Wetherfield of the National Organization for Women's legal defense fund, responded Friday: "This has nothing to do with an attempt to undermine the First Amendment. This is a sexual harassment case."

Star Wars flies, B-2 falters in military spending bill

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Congressional leaders agreed Friday on military spending legislation that allows building a "Star Wars" missile defense, threatens to end the B-2 Stealth bomber program and provides humanitarian aid to the Soviet Union.

Leaders of the House and Senate Armed Services committees unveiled their final version of the 1992 Defense Authorization Act, which is expected to pass both chambers before Thanksgiving.

President Bush did not say whether he would sign or veto the $291 billion bill as now written, and abortion raised one potential barrier to the legislation becoming law.

House and Senate drafters of the final version of the legislation did not include a provision requiring that overseas military facilities provide abortions to military families stationed abroad.

That provision passed the House and failed in the Senate only because of a filibuster threat. If House leaders insist that it be included in the bill, House and Senate negotiators will have to revisit the issue next week.

The B-2 was one of the most contentious issues as House and Senate negotiators worked to resolve conflicts between the two bills that passed the two chambers earlier this year.

The Senate approved the president's proposal to buy four more Stealth bombers in 1992, while the House voted to stop with the 15 already authorized.

The final bill allows purchase of one additional plane next year only if both chambers approve after receiving reports from the president and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

Gun-control advocates want makers held liable for injuries

N.Y. Times News Service

In courts, legislatures and voting booths, gun-control advocates are pressing a nationwide campaign to hold gun manufacturers and dealers legally responsible for the deaths and injuries their products cause.

In a referendum Tuesday, voters in Washington, D.C., are expected to approve a measure that is the most visible symbol of that campaign: a law allowing people injured by certain assault weapons to collect damages from the manufacturer or dealer without proving that the company or seller was negligent.

Similar "strict liability" laws have been proposed in New York, Illinois, Minnesota and Oregon. And courts in a handful of states have said that negligent gun dealers can be held liable for the damages their customers cause with the guns they buy.

In 1989, a New York jury handed down a $2.4 million verdict to a widow who sued a K mart in Niagara Falls for selling a shotgun to a drunk man who, hours later, shot her husband.

The campaign to increase liability for gun injuries is raising broad questions about just how far liability should extend. Such questions are becoming ever more common in a variety of legal contexts, from cases against bartenders whose customers became drunk drivers to lawsuits against cigarette manufacturers whose customers died of lung cancer.

Advocates of gun control say it is only sensible to shift the costs of gun injuries from innocent victims and place them instead on those who profit from the gun industry.

Richard Gardiner, legislative counsel to the National Rifle Association, said such arguments turn the idea of justice on its head.

House would let only strong banks expand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only the nation's strongest banks would be permitted to expand nationwide or enter the securities business under a measure adopted by the House on Friday.

The provision, sponsored by Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, was folded into a bill headed for a final vote early next week. Although opposed by the Bush administration, it passed by voice vote and with little discussion.

Leach's amendment potentially could deal a severe blow to some of the nation's largest banking companies, such as Citicorp and Chase Manhattan, which have been weakened by unwise loans to commercial real estate projects, corporate buyout deals and Third World countries.

The measure was attached to a bill replenishing the nearly insolvent fund protecting the nation's 110 million bank depositors by expanding the authority of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to borrow from taxpayers.

Under the Leach provision, all bank holding companies, including the weaker ones, would be allowed to consolidate their subsidiary banks into a branch network, a reorganization potentially saving millions of dollars by eliminating duplicative boards of directors and corporate officers.

But, only banks that exceed minimum capital standards could establish new branches across state lines or enter new business lines such as securities underwriting.

Capital, representing the investment of a bank's owners, acts as a cushion, absorbing losses before the bank fails and becomes the government's responsibility.

"The No. 1 deposit insurance reform this Congress can consider is higher capital standards. ... Everyone in America knows we need more capital in banks," Leach said.

"I think this severely pins back the ears of the weaker banks who wanted to increase their size by moving interstate," said Kenneth Guenther, executive vice president of the Independent Bankers Association of America.

"It protects taxpayers interests by making sure the big sick banks don't continue to grow," said Guenther, whose trade group represents small banks fighting the large bank holding companies.

Meanwhile, the House defeated, 241-152 an amendment by Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy III, D-Mass., that would have required banks to prove they have satisfactory records of lending in poor neighborhoods before expanding across state lines.

Adoption of the Leach amendment hours after the House defeated an attempt to kill the bill and a day after the House blunted or eliminated other major banking law changes proposed by President Bush.

Marine dies after fight for government payment

BOSTON (AP) — An AIDS-infected Marine who fought for years to make the federal government pay for the AIDS deaths of his wife and son died Friday, less than a month after he finally received $3.8 million in damages.

Martin Gaffney, 42, died of cancer at Massachusetts General Hospital, where he had been hospitalized since Sept. 17, said Martin Bander, a hospital spokesman.

"He was a person of absolutely rock solid values," said Jackie McKenney, Gaffney's lawyer. "The way he approached his battle with the government was the way he approached his battle with cancer — with unbelievable courage and dignity."

In a court fight that lasted more than four years, Gaffney said doctors at the Long Beach, Calif., Naval Hospital botched his wife's pregnancy in 1981 by failing to give her a Caesarean section. She was two weeks late delivering the baby and required a blood transfusion, which was tainted with the AIDS virus.

The infant was stillborn. The couple had another son, who died of AIDS at 13 months. Gaffney's wife, Mutsuko, died of AIDS in 1987. An 8-year-old daughter, Maureene, lives with Gaffney's brother in Lowell.

Gaffney, a chief warrant officer, tested positive for the AIDS virus and was diagnosed in September with lymphoma, a form of cancer that sometimes occurs as a result of the AIDS infection.

In April, U.S. District Court Judge Rya W. Zobel awarded Gaffney $3.5 million and $315,000 to cover future medical costs. In October, the U.S. attorney's office filed notice of a possible appeal, giving the U.S. solicitor general time to make a final decision about whether to proceed with the case.

Several days later, the government announced it would not appeal and the money was paid Oct. 21.

Gaffney had accused the government of dragging out the case as he grew sicker. He said he sought the money so his daughter, who does not have AIDS, will have enough to live on when he is gone.

His anger was directed at the Justice Department, not the Marine Corps, which he said had backed him all the way. A red Marine Corps flag hung in the window of his hospital bedroom.

At the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, where Gaffney served until being hospitalized, fellow Marines were shaken by his death.

"There's probably 150 Marines just sitting around here with tears in their eyes," said Marine Capt. Laurence Jewett. "These are some combat-hardened U.S. Marines, but this one hurts."

U.S. Attorney Wayne Budd, who last month apologized to Gaffney for the government, said Gaffney was "a man who served the United States Marine Corps and this nation so admirably."

More youths visit war cemeteries, former officer says

By Mimi Mann
Associated Press writer

EL-ALAMEIN, Egypt — Amir Shavit, an Israeli soldier, was born 29 years after savage fighting at El-Alamein helped turn the course of World War II.

But on this sunny day, as he ambled past endless rows of grave markers with his brother, Yaron, Amir Shavit's thoughts were with the men buried in the sands of El-Alamein.

"We were told if they hadn't stopped the Germans here, they would have marched to us," the 20-year-old Israeli says. "I wanted to see where they were stopped."

Almost 20,000 young men of the British Commonwealth who died in the horrid summer and fall of 1942 are buried or commemorated here.

Last month the cemetery hosted a service of remembrance for all the fallen. Since 1978 the rite has rotated among the Commonwealth and the German and Italian memorials six miles to the west.

The second, pivotal battle at El-Alamein, an inconsequential desert way station in North Africa, began on Oct. 23, 1942, and ended Nov. 4. It pitted Commonwealth troops under Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery against German and Italian forces under the Desert Fox, Gen. Erwin Rommel.

The Commonwealth victory stopped Rommel and dammed the German tide. But the cost of victory was staggering: more than 70,000 dead or wounded.

Many cemeteries and monuments tell the story of youth who went to war, but the message is stark indeed at El-Alamein.

The German memorial bears the message on a courtyard obelisk, open to the sun and stars, flanked by four gothic eagles: "The price of pride is high, and paid by the young."

At the Commonwealth Cemetery, the message is on grave markers. Some bear religious verses, some speak of bravery and the call of duty. But the thoughts that linger are messages from home.

■ A.F. Palmer, Royal Air Service Corps, who died Sept. 24, 1942, at age 24. "We grow old. You stand on the moor with the wind in your hair, young and wonderful."

■ Gunner J.E. Ives, Oct. 26, 1942, age 27. "To the world he was but one soldier. To us, the world. Remembered by Mother, Father, sisters. R.I.P."

Group Capt. Lord Leonard Cheshire has spent his postwar life reminding others not to forget the high price paid by the young in war.

For four years Lord Cheshire flew bombing missions over Germany. On Aug. 9, 1945, he was the British observer when American pilots dropped the atomic bomb on Nagasaki, Japan.

"There was a Nagasaki every six days for six years," Lord Cheshire said by telephone from his home in the English countryside. "I couldn't let them all die in vain. They were so young.

"We're the beneficiaries of past sacrifice. We need to feel it. There are many ways to do it, but perhaps the most dramatic is to visit a war cemetery."

The one change he's noted in visiting war cemeteries and attending memorial services has come about in the last five years.

"Youth," he says. "They're out there. It's astonishing."

Philip Longworth, history professor at Canada's McGill University, tells the story of Commonwealth cemeteries in "The Unending Vigil." He has identified the same phenomenon.

"You know, it's quite poignant to be driving through Europe and pass these cemeteries," Longworth said from Montreal. "What you're finding is a new generation drawn to them, young people who want to know about grandfather."

Spanning the world's lovely and lonely places, 2,500 Commonwealth memorials honor 1,694,930 civilians and military personnel who lost their lives in the century's two world wars.

War cemeteries say different things to each visitor.

In late August, officers and men of the U.S. aircraft carrier Forrestal drove 70 miles down the Mediterranean coastline from Alexandria to visit comrades in arms in North Africa's largest war cemetery.

Capt. S.F. Bloyer, commander of the Forrestal's air wing, recorded his thoughts in the cemetery's register: "A peaceful rest, a place for brave men."

The same day the Riad family of Edina, Minn., left another message: "A nice place, but they were too young to die."

Dorit Shavit, a diplomat at the Israeli Embassy in Cairo, accompanied Amir, Yaron and Eran, her youngest, on their visit to the cemetery. She reflected on the cemetery's meaning for the Middle East.

"We've had so many wars in this region," she says. "Then here in Egypt I heard about the ceremony where everyone joins in the observance.

"It gives me hope that if they can find peace — they weren't together in the war — that we in this part of the world, Israel, Jordan, Syria, can do the same thing."

Christopher P. Mann, 21, who studies international politics and history at the University of California, Santa Cruz, describes the cemetery as "an English country garden in the middle of the desert."

Here, he says, history becomes alive.

"I don't know the agony of each soldier, but I know what happened in the war, and where they ended up. And they're my age."

Lord Cheshire says it's not enough for youth to visit war cemeteries. "They must then go out and decide what I can do about it," he says.

In 1948 he set up the first Cheshire Home for the sick and unwanted. Today there are 270 "Cheshire Homes" for disabled youth and adults, five in the United States.

Smithsonian exhibit looks at Columbus

WASHINGTON (AP) — All Columbus did in 1492 was touch American soil, see some people he called Indians and tell them he'd be back.

"Unfortunately, he kept his word in 1493," said Herman J. Viola, a historian responsible for "Seeds of Change," the biggest exhibit in the 145-year history of the Smithsonian Institution.

Hundreds of scholars and technicians worked on the display for five years before it opened last weekend at the National Museum of Natural History.

The exhibit includes 400 objects — from a column made of an Aztec sculpture to support a Spanish building in Mexico City, to beads and gold traded between Europeans and Indians 500 years ago.

Visitors pass through a large Spanish-style portal made of 14,000 ears of corn — a plant Columbus never saw before he came to America.

"Seeds of Change" takes a different way of looking at Columbus and the events that have transformed the world in the past five centuries.

"It was not a discovery of America, it was a series of discoveries on both sides," Viola said.

In 1493, Columbus brought 17 ships, 1,500 men, horses, cows, pigs, sugar cane, a lust for gold and a contract that entitled him to 10 percent of whatever he found.

Columbus was a businessman, not a philanthropist, Viola said.

"A hundred years ago, for the 400th anniversary, Columbus was portrayed as the great hero," Viola said. "Now some people see him as a kind of a monster. A hundred years from now? He'll probably be seen as someone who did both good and bad — like most of us."

The exhibit focuses the great scene of history on five world-changing things Columbus and his followers took across the Atlantic:

■ European diseases — smallpox, typhus, measles, and syphilis, which Viola thinks came from America to plague Europe, though the evidence is in dispute.

■ Sugar, America's first big commercial product for which the first of 10 million slaves were brought from Africa over the next 300 years. Some historians say every ton of sugar cost the life of one slave.

■ Corn and potatoes, never before seen in Europe or Africa, which became the staple food of people in new industrial systems. Potatoes became the food of masses of workers who gathered in European cities; corn helped bring the rise in Africa's population that supplied the slaves.

■ The horse, which had been extinct in America for thousands of years but was to transform the western hemisphere over the next four centuries.

Columbus thought he had reached the Far East. Scholars say that at the time, China was far advanced over Europe in technology, farming, social relations and other fields.

Eleven-year olds drive car 10 hours to see baby niece

HARRODSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Two 11-year-old girls determined to see a newborn niece secretly borrowed a grandfather's car, piled clothes on the front seat so they could see over the steering wheel and drove more than 10 hours.

They made it from West Virginia into Kentucky without a problem except for getting lost in Lexington.

"Neither one of them had ever driven a car before," said Michael Ray, Mercer County's juvenile case worker. "That baby, they were determined to see it."

The youngsters — who Ray said would not be publicly identified — packed up a Dodge Aries with some pop, snacks and an atlas for their trek to the central Kentucky town of Harrodsburg, The Advocate-Messenger of Danville reported Wednesday.

A few weeks before the excursion in September, they began sneaking cash from their parents and had built up $18 to pay for gasoline, said Ray.

The incident is not being investigated as a police matter, said Leisa Lynn, a spokeswoman for the Kentucky State Police in Richmond.

The pair made it even though one girl left her prescription eyeglasses at home. There was one unexpected detour during their road trip, though.

"They got lost in Lexington," Ray said, adding that they drove three times around a street that encirclel Lexington.

Ray said the girls figured it would be best to stop on several occasions for gas, putting only a few dollars in at a time so no one would figure out children were driving.

"There's not one person who questioned them," he said. "They didn't seem to be scared."

After the girls headed west, their parents filed a missing persons report.

The sister in Harrodsburg informed the authorities of the girls' whereabouts once they safely arrived.

"The parents were shocked. They didn't think they had it in them to do it," Ray said.

"They did get to see the baby," Ray said.

Shortage of auto parts in Soviet Union leads to ingenuity

TBILISI, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Merab Shanidze does a brisk little business reselling used auto parts that people bring into his shop.

"We never ask where the parts come from," Shanidze says with a snicker. "We only sell them."

Shortages are a fact of life throughout the Soviet Union. There are ingenious ways around them and even ways to make them profitable. Some say the need for improvising is especially great now in Georgia, one of four Soviet republics that refused to sign a new economic treaty.

Georgia can't get enough auto parts, gasoline, heating oil and a lot of other things. Demand is high. So is theft.

"Finding a shock absorber (or) a transmission is one of the hardest things to do," Shanidze said last week. "Keeping them on your car is also difficult."

Eight republics signed the economic treaty on Oct. 18. The accord is desgined to ensure they keep supplying each other with necessary goods, and its signers have threatened to reduce trade ties with republics that didn't sign.

Georgia's Prime Minister Vissarion Gugushvili says that may already be happening. Shipments of refined petroleum products, which mostly come from Russia, have plunged, he said.

"We have not received one gallon, one drop of oil from Russia under existing agreements in the past week," he said. "A ship that was bound for the port of Batumi suddenly turned around."

Some Soviets say Georgia, one of the most fiercely independence-minded republics, has only itself to blame. Last month, the Tass news agency said Gugushvili ordered a ban on food, industrial goods and construction materials to other republics.

Gugushvili, however, insisted Georgia was keeping its commitments.

Whatever the reason, while Georgia tries to go its own way politically and economically, citizens are having trouble just getting around.

"It takes twice as long for a bus to come," said Gia Amiranashvili, 29, a lampshade maker who stood waiting for a bus with two dozen other people.

That's because half the buses are usually idle because of the gas shortage, said Alex Tavtavadze, the Transportation Ministry's economy chief.

Campaign aims to oust incumbents

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The founder of a drive called "Throw the Hypocritical Rascals Out" is once again targeting incumbents in Congress and issuing help-wanted fliers for political novices in the 1992 elections.

Jack Gargan, 61, a retired financial planner, drew the spotlight nearly two years ago with a newspaper ad that screamed in big, bold type: "I'm mad as hell, and I'm not going to take it anymore."

Since then, his non-profit group has raised $1.1 million, most of which funded mailings and 245 full-page newspaper advertisements listing reasons why frustrated taxpayers should join the "rascals out" bandwagon.

Recent mailings have urged supporters to circulate "Help Wanted" fliers to induce fresh blood into congressional campaigns. "No experience necessary — please," the brochure reads.

The group is appealing for candidates of all political stripes whose qualifications include love of country, integrity, common sense and backbone. Those who come forward, however, must be willing to back bills to limit congressional terms, roll back the congressional pay raise, eliminate perks and do away with deficit spending.

THRO is pumping up its campaign with a "Wake Up America" rally today at a Tampa high school gym. Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot and 1980 presidential candidate John B. Anderson will lead the charge.

Firefighters in Kuwait hold bash for old flames

AHMADI, Kuwait (AP) — Waving flags and blowing horns, firefighters who battled oil well infernos across the Kuwaiti desert gathered for a farewell party Thursday as their work drew to a close months ahead of schedule.

"Today, we're bidding farewell forever to the smoke that shrouded Kuwait," said Samir Abdul-Mohsen Mohammed, a member of the Kuwaiti oil fire team. "This is a second victory over Saddam Hussein."

Officials said only six wells remained out of control. Retreating Iraqi forces set ablaze or damaged 732 of Kuwait's 940 wells in February, shrouding the emirate in thick smoke and cutting off Kuwait's principal source of income.

The first estimates were that the fires could burn for two years or more, and later Kuwait said it expected them to be put out by March. But the pace quickened after additional firefighters were hired and more equipment and better water supplies became available.

Up to nine wells a day have been capped recently. A total of 27 teams from 10 nations — including the United States — took part in the effort.

About 1,000 firefighters and support workers Thursday rode in a procession of oil-stained jeeps, ambulances and trucks through the Burgan Oilfield, which was filled with burning wells only weeks ago.

Workers exchanged T-shirts and caps and posed for photographs. Kuwaitis and Americans hugged and kissed. Souvenirs included oil-spotted caps, videos of the fires or oil samples.

But for some firefighters, the highlight of the evening came after the barbecue: a party with $600 worth of beer. Some admitted it was not their first taste of alcohol in Kuwait, where liquor is usually banned.

In the field, they brewed grape juice wine called "flash" — because of the speed it made you drunk.

"If I eat one more chicken I will lay eggs," said David Barnett, 31, of Houston, complaining of the lack of variety in their meals.

But Mark Griffiths was sad it was nearly over.

"It was like a wild west town," said Griffiths, a British national who works for the Houston-based BJ Services. "I prefer those days of lawlessness where you made your own rules."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Emotions will run high this month. A positive approach will help boost your earnings in December. Health-oriented activities help you start the new year right. An unexpected legacy or windfall in spring of 1992 will reduce financial concerns. Someone special brings out the best in you next June. Make a determined effort to reconcile with someone who has been out of your life for too long.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: frontiersman Daniel Boone, President Warren G. Harding, actress Stefanie Powers, actor Burt Lancaster.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do not be surprised if someone wants to team up with you. The idea should not be dismissed lightly. Think it over calmly. Find time for a "sports break" later in the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Express your views and sentiments in the most tactful way possible. Taking too brusque an approach could scare people away. In romance, it pays to be an optimist. Play a waiting game.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It may be difficult to stop worrying when you face some tough decisions. A gleam of light can be seen at the end of the tunnel. Take command in a social situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Boost your loved ones' confidence with encouraging words. Tact and patience will help you bridge a generation gap. Avoid bringing up past errors in judgment. Entertain a new friend in your own home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A sincere effort on the part of all concerned will help settle outstanding differences. Soothe someone's hurt feelings by showing more affection. Apologize promptly to a family member.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are in the mood to make decisions and take action. However, be cautious. You have what it takes to be an effective community leader. Try out recipes on friends and relatives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Call a household meeting to discuss money matters, purchases and budgets. You may need to re-evaluate your priorities. Be skeptical of glamorous-sounding schemes and so-called bargains.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Improvements in your career or finances may be due — directly or indirectly — to well-connected or especially helpful friends. Put romance on hold. Decide what you want to accomplish in life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You could find the suggestions of someone close to you either impractical or far-fetched. Be careful not to sound impatient or bossy. Give your loved ones a voice when making vacation plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Recent changes dictate a period of transition. Balance the books and follow through on a promise. Someone may need special reassurance. Offer encouragement. An attractive stranger comes into your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not let others casually toss their responsibilities on your willing shoulders. You will not lose a friend by saying "no." Financial papers are favored. Offer to baby-sit for a neighbor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Short trips, family activities and errands indicate a busy, enjoyable weekend. Your thoughts turn to fun and frolic. Do not let someone's negative mood spoil your evening plans.

Ace pitcher Tom Seaver is ill with Lyme disease

GREENWICH, Conn. — Retired pitching ace Tom Seaver was hospitalized with Lyme disease.

The ailment, contracted by a tick bite, causes rash, fever, aches and other flu-like symptoms, but is rarely fatal.

Seaver, 46, entered Greenwich Hospital Thursday and is resting comfortably said hospital spokeswoman Mimi Grady.

Seaver, who lives in Greenwich, expects to go home in a few days, Grady said.

Seaver, who won 311 games during his career, led the New York Mets to their 1969 World Series victory. He also played for the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago White Sox.

In 1989 Seaver joined WPIX-TV in New York City as part of its Yankees reporting team.

HOUSTON — George Foreman, a scholar in the school of hard knocks, donated $100,000 to Texas Southern University so others can educate themselves with less trouble.

The gift presented Thursday by the mother of the former heavyweight boxing champion will provide scholarships for needy students at Texas Southern's Thurgood Marshall School of Law and its Department of Communications.

Foreman

"George couldn't make it through education, but he's made it through boxing and I'm happy to present this check on behalf of my son," said Foreman's 70-year-old mother, Nancy Foreman.

Foreman, 43, who grew up poor in Houston, is in training for a Dec. 7 fight with Jimmy Ellis and did not attend the presentation.

BANGKOK, Thailand — Prince Philip said industrialists in the last century had no idea they were harming the environment, but that's no excuse today.

And new technology has made it possible harm the environment as never before, the husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II said Friday. He was in Bangkok to receive an honorary doctorate of technology from the Asian Institute of Technology for his work to save the environment and wildlife.

"There is no longer any excuse for owners and shareholders to be unaware of the potential (harm) their developments will cause if they do not specify in advance that the design must incorporate cleaner technology," Philip said.

"These technologies exist," he said. "It just takes the will to see that they are designed into the system."

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana accepted President Roh Tae-woo's invitation to visit South Korea next year and make a little history, the president's office said Friday.

The visit will be the first by the British royal family since Korea's Yi dynasty opened formal relations with Britain in 1883. Roh visited Britain in 1989.

SAN FERNANDO, Calif.— A judge has put Adam Rich on probation after his arrest on shoplifting charges and ordered the former "Eight is Enough" star to complete a drug rehabilitation program.

Judge Nora Manella on Thursday also fined Rich $250.

Rich, 23, was charged with taking $29.75 worth of socks and sunglasses from a department store in April. He pleaded no contest to trespassing.

He still faces burglary charges stemming from a break-in at a pharmacy, also in April. Police said he was trying to steal drugs.

Rich, who played Nicholas Bradford on the ABC series that ran from 1977 to 1981, was treated at the Betty Ford Center in 1988 and earlier this year for drug and alcohol abuse.

NEW YORK — Pop star Prince battles his evil alter ego Gemini in a comic book arriving in stores today.

The battleground isn't the Metropolis of Superman fame or Batman's Gotham City. It's Minneapolis, the 33-year-old singer-guitarist's hometown.

The comic book is published by DC Comics, which is owned by Time Warner Inc., Prince's record company.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.— Opera star Robert Merrill says he owes his success to his teacher of four decades.

"When I was 17 or 18 years old, I found this wonderful teacher in New York . . . and I stayed with him for 40 years," the baritone said.

Merrill, scheduled to sing Saturday with the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, said Samuel Margolis' training was the decisive factor in his career.

"God gave me a voice, but I knew immediately that Margolis' training was right for me," he said.
