East Coast in preparation for Gloria

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Coastal residents from South Carolina to Maryland boarded up homes and businesses and moved inland today ahead of Hurricane Gloria, packing near-130 mph winds and billed as one of the most powerful hurricanes to threaten the East Coast this century.

The National Weather Service issued a hurricane warning for the coastal area from Cape Romaine, S.C., to Cape Henry, Va. The bulletin said hurricane-force winds were imminent and coastal flooding of up to 12 feet over normal tides could be expected when the storm hits land as early as tonight.

Gale-force winds ahead of the hurricane's eye were expected to hit the North Carolina coast by early afternoon.

Schools were closed today in two North Carolina counties, boats were moved to safety along the entire Eastern Seaboard as far north as New Hampshire, and businesses reported heavy demand for canned food, batteries and plywood.

At 9 a.m. EDT, Gloria's eye was near latitude 30.1 north, longitude 75.7 west, or about 350 miles south of Cape Hatteras, N.C. Latest reports suggest that a gradual turn toward the north with an increase in forward speed may have begun, the National Weather Service said. It was moving north-northwest at 15 mph, with gale-force winds extending 200 miles to the north and 150 miles to the south of the eye.

There was a 45 percent chance that the center of the storm would pass within 65 miles of Wilmington, N.C., by 2 a.m. Friday, with Morehead City at 42 percent, Myrtle Beach, S.C., at 38 percent and Cape Hatteras at 31 percent, the weather service said.

"It is a strong storm," said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami "Everyone along the East Coast needs to pay attention to it."

"If it continues on the track it's on right now, we expect it will hit the North Carolina coast Thursday night," Gil Clark at the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla., said Wednesday.

"If this storm continues on this track, we're looking at another Hazel," Robert E. Muller, chief meteorogist at the weather service forecasting center at Raleigh-Durham Airport, said, referring to the October 1954 storm that killed 347 people with its 150 mph winds and 17-foot tidal surge.

Gloria, once packing 150 mph winds and among only five known Category 5 storms, weakened to 130 mph as the sun set and water temperature dropped.

Fair award given

The Hugh Taylor Award, presented to the local family gaining the most overall points from competition at the Scurry County Fair, was presented Wednesday to the Jimmy Ritchey family.

The combination of points from events won by Jimmy and Karen Ritchey plus their two children, Tammy and Kimberly, was sufficient to earn them the sweepstakes prize.

A second sweepstakes prize was won by Kimberly, who had the top entry in the Flower Show competition, a satin sassy African violet.

In addition to the flower show, other events entered by the Ritchey's were the foods and photography divisions.

The award is presented each year by the family of the late Hugh Taylor, the father of Mrs. Fred Bullard. Drew Bullard made the presentation Wednesday to the Ritchey family.

The point total is counted for placing first through third in any of seven events, agricultural, textiles, baked goods, canned goods, art, handicrafts and the flower

Sentence upheld in McCaulley bus wreck

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld Wednesday a six-year prison sentence for a former Snyder resident found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the McCaulley High School bus wreck.

Five McCaulley students were killed in the Dec. 8, 1978 accident. It occurred east of Snyder just over the Fisher County line on the Roby Hwy. (U.S. Hwy. 180).

Attorneys for William Clarence Dixon Jr. had appealed his conviction by a Mitchell County jury. Dixon, who has since moved from the city, was working for an oil transport company when the wreck occurred.

He was driving an oil field service truck weighing more than 30,000 pounds as it ran through a stop sign and collided with the school bus at the intersection of FM 611 and the Roby Hwy.

In addition to the five deaths, 21 others were injured in the collision. The bus was carrying McCaulley High School basketball teams to a tournament in Hermleigh.

Pending 'funds in sight'...

Baptist building on hold

The membership of First Baptist Church has now voted to alter the construction schedule of their planned-for $1 million education building addition — choosing to postpone the project until "sufficient funding is in sight."

A formal vote of the congregation approved the construction last May and the project was announced by church leaders May 16.

These plans have now been altered by another church vote conducted Sept. 15.

At a projected cost of $1 million, the plans call for the addition of a two-story education building to be built north of the existing church plant.

In preparation for this, a home has been moved formerly located north of the church where a proposed outdoor area is to be developed. In addition, the building which housed Louise's Coffee Shop — now relocated across the street — was torn down.

Two other houses to the east of the church are still to be moved to allow for additional parking space.

The only other work already completed toward the project is the preparation of architectural plans. This was being done by the Lubbock-based firm of Whitaker, McQueen, Jones and Associates.

With the recent church vote, "architectural development" of the planned-for building has been suspended also.

The Rev. Ken Branam, church pastor, said Tuesday he feels the recent vote is only a temporary delay in the ultimate construction of the facility.

"Our fund raising committee is proceeding as planned," he said. "The wording of the church ballot was to delay the development of plans pending sufficient funding."

He explained that the church is trying to avoid any long term

19 downtown stores extending hours for United Way kickoff

As of Thursday morning, 19 downtown merchants had agreed to stay open until 7 p.m. next Tuesday in conjunction with the kickoff "Jamboree" scheduled for this year's United Way campaign.

The Jamboree, with 67 musicians or singers scheduled to entertain, will begin at 5 p.m. and continue for more than two hours at the newly built courthouse bandstand.

The local businesses have agreed to extend their hours of operation that day to accomodate what is expected to be a large crowd downtown.

Other features of the Jamboree will include free balloons for the youngsters and a special United Way offer of both a hot dog and a Coke for 25 cents.

"We're going to feed and entertain anyone that wants to come," said Mike Banta, drive chairman for this year's effort.

"How can we make money by selling a hotdog and a Coke for 25 cents? We can't, but our idea is to get a big crowd out to start our campaign off right."

Downtown businesses who have agreed to remain open until 7 p.m. Tuesday are Cox Jewelry, Margaret's, Express It, Sunshine Fabrics, Mildred's, Thompson's Shoe Store, James Reis, Western Auto, Dryden's Shoes, Whites Auto, Four Seasons Hallmark, Sunnyside, Casa de Blanco, Jack's Jewelry, Bennett's Office Supply, The Carriage Wheel, Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio and Botique, Snyder Bookstore and Gift Shop and Blanche's Bernina.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A neurotic is a person who is self-employed and isn't able to get along with his boss."

Tomorrow night, the Snyder Tigers have an open date prior to next week's district opener against Sweetwater.

Just to keep our mind on the game of football, booster club president David Holt told us a football story that we think you'll like.

The story is somewhat like past years in Snyder. The game featured the little animals against the giant animals. And at halftime, the giant animals had dominated the tilt and enjoyed a 42-0 advantage.

On the first play of the second half, the big animal team handed the ball off to the elephant. He was hit for a loss behind the line of scrimmage.

Someone in the stands yelled, "Who made that tackle?"

"I did," said the timid centipede.

On the next play, the giraffe got the call and was again hit hard for no gain. Again an excited small team fan wanted to know who got the tackle, and again the centipede answered.

On the third play, the rhinoceros started up the middle and was cracked at the line of scimmage. The ball squirted loose and the small team recovered the fumble. Again the vocal fan wanted to know who made that jarring tackle.

"I did," said the centipede.

"Where were you the first half," inquired the exuberant fan.

"Getting my ankles taped," replied the centipede.

We noticed that Ted Crenwelge teammed up with fellow SNB bank director Max von Roeder to win the Scurry County Fair Domino championship, and that was an opening for bank president Roger Mize to gig Crenwelge.

When Crenwelge graduated from TCU, he came to Scurry County and became a successful farmer. "One of the best," said Mize. "He was hard working, got up early and stayed late. Now he's interested in fishing, golfing and dominoes and running around with guys like von Roeder, John Reed, Rex Robinson and Mickey Nunley."

The banker further joshed Ted whose wife and daughter are operating the Clothesline. "I warned him about spending too much time on the golf course. Now his wife and daughter had to go to work."

Ask Us

Q. — WTC offers a two-year associate degree in petroleum technology and mechanical technology, and colleges and universities offer a four-year bachelor of science degree in petroleum or mechanical engineering. How are they related and what's the difference?

A. — College officials say the WTC degree is a "middle ground" between an engineering degree and skills learned by field workers in the oilpatch. It is designed to teach technical skills for specific oil field areas, a kind of "engineer's assistant."

2 more dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Two blacks, one a teen-age boy, were shot dead by police in anti-apartheid violence, police said today. Affidavits submitted by detainees in a Cape Town jail alleged more police torture.

On Wednesday, a government doctor presented evidence that many of her prison patients had been abused by police.

Cogdell bids

The board of managers for Cogdell Memorial Hospital are scheduled to review proposals for renewal of the institution's liability insurance coverage at their regular September meeting Thursday.

Consideration of the insurance program — which includes medical malpractice coverage — is the only item on the board's agenda other than routine approval of the monthly administrator's and financial reports.

The meeting is set to begin at 6:30 p.m. in the hospital conference room.

Play reset

The Peguin Players-Adventure Theatre perfomance of "Hansel and Gretel," originally scheduled for Monday, has been rescheduled for Oct. 10 at 7 p.m.

The show, sponsored by the SHS Drama Department, was postponed due to scheduling conflicts with elementary school open house set for Monday evening.

Ad update

Members of the Board of County Development were told Wednesday that only two replies were received during the past month from the Snyder industrial advertisements featured in trade publications.

The board was told, however, that the drop in responses can likely be attributed to a miscue by one of the major publications used. The magazine's recent issue failed to include a reply card for industrial ads.

All BCD board members were present Wednesday to include Clyde Hall, Morris Light, Dale Stuard, Red Faver and David Thompson.

3 babies alive, well...

Miracle discovered in ruins

MEXICO CITY (AP) — It seemed like a little miracle, three times over.

In the smashed concrete and warped steel beams that were once the Juarez Hospital, earthquake rescuers found three baby girls, alive and seemingly well.

There were cheers, joy and astonishment.

"It's difficult to imagine," said a pediatrician, Dr. Mario Arredondo, shaking his head in wonder. "I just don't know how they lived without water and food. Probably the babies adapted by not receiving anything for days."

It was 7:19 a.m. last Thursday when the walls and ceiling came tumbling in on the tiny daughters of Sarah Perez Corona, Lucia Ruiz Mendez and Adriana Sandoval Hernandez, born just a day earlier.

No information was available immediately on the fate of the mothers.

The quake that collapsed the 12-floor hospital where the little girls slept ravaged the Mexican capital and killed at least 4,000 people by official count.

Other babies and adults had been pulled earlier from the collapsed structure of the Juarez Hospital, now a 100-foot-high ruin of crumbled concrete and wreckage.

But few, if any, expected three newborns to survive for almost seven days in the choking dust created by rescuers' picks and shovels.

Making their way to a voice heard earlier, workers spent all day Wednesday digging a tunnel. They hacked through the rubble also making tunnels from one floor to the next, and from left to right.

They used torches to cut through steel and gloved hands and shovels to move crumbled concrete as they made their way to the voice. They wore masks to keep away the dust, the smell of death and germs.

"Silence!" a worker at the entrance of one tunnel shouted, raising his hands. "Nobody talk, nobody move."

At about 5:30 p.m., they found the first infant, and brought her down from the ruins. Wrapped in a blanket, she was placed in a basket and rushed to a makeshift emergency room 200 yards away.

Under green canvas, nurses and doctors huddled over the child, vaccinating her, tenderly cleaning her and placing her in an incubator. She cried as she was being handled, and doctors said that was a good sign.

She was then rushed to an ambulance which took her to another hospital. As the red lights atop the ambulance spun and the siren blew, rescue workers triumphantly shouted, "Viva Mexico!"

Two hours later, the same joyous scene occurred. Then, after another half-hour, they found the third baby.

"It shows what youth can withstand," Arredondo said. "They have been without water for days and that may cause complications later. But for now, they are in great condition."

Willie Nelson says 1st FarmAid funds to feed hungry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first check from the proceeds of the nationally televised FarmAid concert will buy food for hungry farm families rather than support legislative lobbying, country singer Willie Nelson says.

Nelson, a principal organizer of last Sunday's musical extravaganza in Champaign, Ill., said Wednesday he is standing by his pledge that no money raised through the event will be used for lobbying.

Instead, the first check is to be a $100,000 donation to the National Council of Churches. The council will channel the money to hunger projects serving poor farmers, Nelson said.

"I'm just trying to take care of what I think is the most important and serious need, which is, naturally, hunger, and this is the reason the first check was written for that purpose," Nelson added.

In a telephone interview from his Texas home, Nelson said he had intended to make a $25,000 contribution to the League of Rural Voters so that about 15 of its members could travel to Washington for debates starting this week on a new national farm policy.

But Nelson said he changed his mind when he learned Tuesday that the league, based in Minnesota, was a lobbying organization and had been involved in the drafting of legislation sponsored by Sen. Thomas Harkin, D-Iowa.

That legislation, which calls for production controls, has generated controversy in the farm community and is opposed by some agricultural groups.

Although Nelson and other performers involved in the FarmAid endorsed Harkin's bill, Nelson had said before the FarmAid concert that none of the proceeds would be spent on lobbying.

Adulthood's Hardest Lesson: To Thine Own Self Be True

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, when I was a young boy, I memorized a poem titled "The Man in the Glass." Since then, I have included it with my gift to many boys on their 13th birthday. (According to the Jewish religion, a boy officially becomes a man at 13.)

I have been told by many who have received it that the poem itself was a priceless gift. I am enclosing the poem and hope you feel it is worthy of printing.

MILTON R., TRENTON, N.J.

DEAR MILTON: It is, and I thank you for it.

THE MAN IN THE GLASS

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day,
Just go to a mirror and look at yourself
And see what that man has to say.

For it isn't your father or mother or wife
Whose judgment upon you must pass,
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the one staring back from the glass.

Some people might think you're a straight-shootin' chum
And call you a wonderful guy.
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum
If you can't look him straight in the eye.

He's the fellow to please, never mind all the rest
For he's with you clear to the end
And you've passed your most dangerous test
If the guy in the glass is your friend.

You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years
And get pats on the back as you pass
But your final reward will be heartache and tears
If you've cheated the man in the glass.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a middle-aged man who is going bald that letting the few remaining strands of hair grow long, then wrapping them around his head, does not give the illusion of having hair? It just makes him look ridiculous!

I know that everyone has the right to wear his hair the way he wants to, but I'm sure if men knew how bad they look when they try to cover their baldness in this way, they wouldn't do it.

I love this man dearly, but there is no way I can tell him what I've told you. So please print this, Abby. Not only for the man I love, but for other men who make this ridiculous effort at covering the obvious.

SPLITTING HAIRS IN FLORIDA

DEAR SPLITTING: Here's your letter. Don't keep it under your hat.

DEAR ABBY: A rather new friend of mine has asked me to be the godmother of her son. My question: Exactly what are my obligations as a godmother? I have heard that I have to pay for the child's christening outfit, as well as the church fees for the christening.

Also, what obligations will I have to this child throughout his lifetime?

Hurry your answer. I may not be able to afford this honor.

NEEDS INFO

DEAR NEEDS: The broad definition of a "godmother" is one who sponsors a child at its baptism. You would be wise to ask your friend what she perceives your responsibilities to be. If she is vague, ask her to please consult her clergyperson and then let you know.

Vietnamese given life sentence for murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A Vietnamese man who told police he stabbed a 9-year-old boy in hopes of being sent to his native country or a mental hospital faces a life term in prison.

State District Judge Joseph Guarino on Wednesday read the sentence to Huy Nguong Duong, 25, who one day earlier was convicted in the Jan. 10 murder of Shane Smith.

Testimony during Duong's trial showed Smith was stabbed more than 60 times as he waited for a school bus outside the west Houston apartment complex where he lived.

"Whatever happened here wouldn't bring my son back," the boy's mother, Becky Smith, said after the sentencing.

Police said Duong told investigators upon his arrest that he stabbed the boy so he would be sent back to Vietnam or to a mental hospital.

By James Jacoby

It was not surprising that the bidding got as high as it did on today's deal. That usually happens when both sides have a good fit and the high-card strength is evenly divided. That five spades was not doubled was unusual, but logical. East's jump to four hearts described a hand with great playing strength in hearts, but not necessarily great defensive values. So when North and South were forced to play five spades, the opponents were happy enough to have them that high. Fine if South went down, but if he was going to make it, it would not be in a doubled contract.

South can make the contract if he applies bridge logic. West led the club ace and switched to a heart. East won the king and tried the ace, but declarer ruffed. South could now draw trumps and make a diamond play, but that line is both simplistic and lazy. Whenever there is a key play to be made in a side suit, you should search for more information to lead you to the right decision. Here it was best for South to trump a second club in dummy, play the spade ace and a spade to the queen, and then trump the last club. West would reveal that he had started with the A-Q alone of clubs. Thus East had started with seven clubs. Surely East had four hearts for his four-heart jump over North's takeout double. And of course East had followed to one spade play. What's left in diamonds? Only one.

Declarer can now play his diamond king and take the marked finesse against the queen to land his contract.

Convict one for murder

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — A San Antonio man faces a possible death sentence after being convicted in the slaying of a Mexican national who was shot and stabbed in an attack on five illegal aliens near Bulverde last spring.

The jury returned the capital murder guilty verdict against Rudolfo Hernandez, 36, after deliberating six hours on Wednesday.

The punishment phase in Hernandez's trial was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. today at the Comal County Courthouse. He could be sentenced to execution by injection.

Courthouse officials said Hernandez appeared "smug" when the verdict was read.

Victor Serrano Cervan, 20, was slain in March after he and four other Mexican nationals hopped a San Antonio-bound freight train at the international border in Eagle Pass, then accepted a ride after arriving in San Antonio.

The five were driven to the countryside, reportedly robbed and attacked. The four others survived.

Wednesday, the seven-man, five-woman, all-Anglo jury began its deliberations at 12:35 p.m. after defense attorney John Chunn failed in his attempt to elicit a directed verdict from District Judge Robert Pfeuffer.

During his 45-minute summation, Chunn hammered away at District Attorney Bill Schroeder's case as being "riddled with reasonable doubts."

As the defendant sat listlessly, hands in lap, Chunn attacked the testimony of Adolfo Mata and Genaro Coronado, two of the Mexican nationals seriously injured in the March 7 attack. "Who killed Cervan?" Chunn thundered at the jury. "You don't know who killed him. There is no evidence he was robbed."

To prove capital murder, the prosecution had to prove there was another felony involved, such as robbery.

"If it wasn't robbery," Schroeder asked jurors, "why in the world would you get in a car and go out in the country? "There was an intent to do something. You don't do things like that without expecting a result."

2 men arrested in slaying of banker's wife

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Bond has been denied for two San Antonio men charged with capital murder in the alleged extortion slaying of a banker's wife.

John Lawrence Rogers, 31, and Lesley Lee Gosch, 30, were arrested at a northwest side apartment complex early Wednesday in connection with the shooting death of Rebecca Jo Patton.

Mrs. Patton, 42, was found shot in the head several times at her home in fashionable Alamo Heights, a suburb of San Antonio.

Minutes before her body was found, her husband, Castle Hills National Bank President Frank Patton Jr., received a telephone call from an alleged extortionist demanding a large amount of money in return for Mrs. Patton's safety. No money was exchanged in the extortion plot.

The arrests came less than two days after University National Bancshares Inc. of San Antonio, the holding company for Castle Hills National Bank, offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the crime.

Alamo Heights Police Chief Roger Terry said the suspects were arrested after he met with an informant early Wednesday.

"We received very good information — good enough to obtain a search warrant," he said.

Officers surrounded the apartment complex and arrested Rogers on foot nearby. Gosch was arrested after talking for several minutes to officers from behind his locked apartment door.

Officials said the two were picked up without incident and taken to the Alamo Heights police department for questioning.

Assistant District Attorney Ray Fuchs said the men would be taken to the Bexar County Jail and likely would not face federal charges immediately.

Terry said officers searched the apartment and removed some items, but he refused to elaborate.

He also said an automobile had been seized. Officers did not find a white van, which they earlier reported had been seen in the neighborhood at the time of the slaying.

Gosch had been ordered to appear for sentencing last Friday for manufacturing a silencer, but he did not appear in federal court, an official with the federal district clerk's office said.

How to manage symptoms of PMS

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently I've had severe menstrual pains. I also have backaches and bloat up like a balloon around that time of the month. I'm 23 and have been off the pill for two years. Could these be side effects from the pill or does this just happen with age? I've never had these problems before.

DEAR READER — Based on what you have said, I would conclude that you have a form of premenstrual syndrome. You are gaining unacceptable amounts of body water and your uterus is contracting forcefully under the influence of powerful body chemicals. I suggest you make an appointment with your gynecologist.

Until he or she can advise you, here are two treatments you might try. Stop eating salt for 10 days before your period. By doing this, you will be providing less salt for your body to retain; hence, less water will be retained and you will notice less bloating and aching. Second, use ibuprofen — now available over the counter as Advil or Nuprin. This drug blocks the uterine contractions that you perceive as cramps.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've begun to have difficulty swallowing, even saliva. I've been told that nothing can be done. I take Hydroxyzine Pamoate (25 mg.) after dinner, but it makes me very sleepy and I don't feel good the next day.

DEAR READER — Swallowing problems (dysphagia) can result from irritation or blockage of the esophagus, as well as from a loss of efficiency of the swallowing mechanism. I assume you have had all the appropriate tests, such as an esophogram (barium swallow) and esophagoscopy (in which the doctor examines your esophagus with a lighted tube). Therefore, you probably need to see a gastroenterologist, a specialist who can proceed with more sophisticated examinations with which to evaluate the mechanics of your swallowing.

I think you should know that the medicine you have been taking (tradename: Vistaril) is a tranquilizer whose major side effect is a dry mouth. Ask your doctor if you can stop it, and then plan to see a specialist if your symptoms don't improve.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can be done for Peyronie's disease? My urologist can only suggest an operation.

DEAR READER — Peyronie's disease is an often-devastating development in men. The disease causes scarring within one set of the erectile cylinders on either side of the penis. This results in crooked erections, which can make intercourse difficult or, in extreme cases, impossible. Although some victims have claimed success with large doses of oral vitamin E, I am not convinced that this treatment makes much difference. However, surgery can be quite useful. If you have reached the point where your sex life is seriously hampered, have another talk with your urologist.

Youth catches stereo thief during the act

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The $160 car stereo cost Jonathan Engelke a week's pay from his job as a surveyor's helper. When it was stolen Engelke embarked on a plan to get even with the burglar.

The car stereo was stolen from his car Sept. 14 while his car was parked outside a theater in a Fort Worth shopping mall.

Engelke, 16,set out last Friday to either get back his stereo or at least catch the person who stole it.

"(It) cost me a week's pay, and a week's pay is pretty important. I couldn't afford another $160 stereo so I bought one for $80" to use as bait, Engelke said.

Wearing a flak jacket for protection in case the thief was armed, Engelke carried a camera with a flash unit to catch the thief in action and handcuffs to hold him.

He parked the car in the theater parking lot in almost the same spot where it was parked the week before. He walked to the front of the theater, but instead of buying a ticket and going inside he went outside and hid behind some trash cans where he could see the parked car.

It didn't take long.

As Engelke crouched behind the trash cans, he saw a youth walking through the parking lot looking inside cars. He stopped at Engelke's car.

The gleaming new stereo was apparently tempting and so was the unlocked door.

"When I saw him getting into the Jeep, I ran up and told him to freeze and put his hands over his head," Engelke told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Engelke whipped out his camera and began using the flash as both a diversion to blind the would-be thief and to record the act on film. He put the handcuffs on the youth.

"He said he was just looking at the stereo, but all the knobs were off, so he wasn't just there looking," Engelke said.

It turned out the youth was a theater ticket taker, 15, who had apparently been taking more than tickets.

German prostitutes infect U.S. soldiers with AIDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — German prostitutes have infected some U.S. soldiers with AIDS, and those soldiers appear to be spreading the disease to wives and girlfriends, as heterosexual transmission of AIDS moves from theory to reality, a Harvard researcher testified today.

Dr. William A. Haseltine of the Harvard Medical School told a Senate hearing that an Army study found that 5 percent of the U.S. soldiers in Berlin seeking treatment for veneral disease are infected with the AIDS virus.

He said they apparently were infected by local prostitutes. Among prostitutes surveyed, he said, 20 percent to 50 percent were infected with AIDS.

Blood samples by the Army have shown that an infected male soldier can transmit the AIDS virus to a female sexual partner, and that she in turn can transmit the virus to other males, Haseltine said.

And, he added, there are some reports indicating lesbian women can spread the disease to other women.

"A lethal veneral disease is now spreading through our population, all the more dangerous because infections may remain inapparent for a long time," Haseltine said in testimony prepared for the Senate appropriations subcommittee on health.

Public awareness of the dangers of AIDS is spreading also. A Washington Post-ABC News Poll, released today, said eight of 10 Americans consider AIDS a threat to the general public and that it now equals cancer as the greatest perceived health threat.

But there is no panic among the populace, the Post said, noting that three of four people suveyed said they were not afraid of picking up the virus that causes the disease and were not taking special precations to avoid exposure to it.

More than six in 10 adults would allow AIDS-afflicted students to attend public schools if health officials said there was no danger, the poll said.

The poll, conducted by telephone Sept. 19-23 among 1,512 adults nationwide, had an estimated margin of error of 3 percent, the Post said.

AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, kills its victim by destroying the immune system, leaving the body fatally vulnerable to diseases that ordinarily could be overcome easily.

Homosexual men have been its principal victims, and many have thought of it as a disease of homosexuality. But, said Haseltine, "in retrospect it appears that the original focus on the sexual practices of homosexuals ... was misplaced."

Introducing Aggie Play-Like contest

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Two subjects this week, both dealing with football predictions.

I should have known when I went to bed Saturday night thinking I had missed only two picks in 19 games that something was going to go terribly wrong.

Even my Upset Special, Baylor to beat USC, was right. I was proud of myself. I was feeling great.

It wasn't until Sunday that I learned Lake View had beaten Lubbock Dunbar and Andrews had lost to Levelland. Okay, I thought, make that FOUR misses out of 19. Still, it was almost 80 percent. I was still happy.

Then Mother Disaster really turned on me. I was sacked. I fumbled. The other team scored a touchdown. I was carried off the field in a stretcher.

How was I to know that the Redskins, the Cardinals and the Lions would all embarrass themselves? Could I be expected to believe that New Orleans would actually win a ballgame?

I was decimated. Out of 11 pro games, I got four right. Just four. For the week, I was a lowly 19 of 30 for .633. The season is 59-31 for .655. I know I said it would get better. It will. Trust me.

Three weeks and several years of making these predictions has forced me to come up with something different, if only to save what sanity I have left. I call it the Texas Aggie Play-Like contest. In years past, the most undependable team on the football field each weekend has been the Aggies. I pick 'em to win, they lose. I pick 'em to lose, they win. It don't matter if they play Podunk High School JV or Notre Dame (They did play Podunk once, didn't they? Sure, I remember now. They tied.).

I'm 2-for-2 with the Aggies in 1985, a somewhat amazing feat. But the fact remains, no team deserves the recognition more.

Here then, is the up-to-date list of hardest teams to predict. In short, Aggie Play-Likes. Some of them I haven't done that poorly with so far, but I can see it coming.

1. University of Houston (inconsistancy in motion), 2. Washington Redskins (follow the bouncing ball), 3. NY Giants (a worm in the Big Apple), 4. Notre Dame (Faust's Follies). Teams I think may be added soon include South Carolina and ANY team from California or New York.

On with the picks...

Estacado at Monahans: The Loboes appear to be tough, but the Matadors are tougher...ESTACADO 21, MONAHANS 7.

Pecos at Dunbar: When Nelson Pearson is in the lineup, the Panthers are a different team...DUNBAR 21, PECOS 14.

Weinert at Borden County: The Coyotes' home opener is spoiled by a highly-touted foe...WEINERT 45, BORDEN 28.

Ira at Paint Creek: Injuries have hurt the Bulldogs, but they are getting stronger...IRA 28, PAINT CREEK 21.

Texas Tech at Baylor: Both teams have played close ballgames this season, but Baylor's have been with stronger opponents...BEARS 28, RED RAIDERS 21.

SMU at TCU: You can't lose four starters off your defense and an All-American running back and plays heads up with the Ponies...SMU 35, TCU 20.

New Mexico State at Arkansas: It would be a good upset special, but no THAT good...ARKANSAS 28, NMSU 14.

Tulsa at Texas A&M: Pick the Aggies in a close one...A&M 23, TULSA 21.

Texas at Stanford: This is liable to be a blowout one way or the other. It'll probably have to be high-scoring if Texas gets a victory...LONGHORNS 31, CARDINALS 24.

Also pick Oklahoma over Minnesota, 28-17; Iowa over Iowa State, 35-14; Penn State over Rutgers, 19-14; Auburn over Tennessee, 24-17; USC over Arizona State, 19-17; Washington over UCLA, 21-7; Georgia over South Carolina (maybe), 24-21; and Michigan over Maryland, 17-15.

Choose Dallas to hook Houston, 24-13; the Plunket-less Raiders to nuke New England, 21-17; San Diego to can Cleveland, 28-24; the NY Giants to freckle Philadelphia, 21-20; Seattle to sauce Kansas City, 31-27; Chicago to whack Washington, 21-14; Miami to demoralize Denver, 23-17; St. Louis to gong Green Bay, 31-10; Minnesota to belittle Buffalo, 28-14; Detroit to tromp Tampa Bay, 23-21; San Francisco to numb New Orleans, 41-17; the Jets to jam Indianapolis, 14-7; and the Rams to asassinate Atlanta, 21-17.

District 2-4A wrapup...

Tigers enjoying idle weekend

While most of the district takes the week off to prepare in earnest for upcoming loop wars, Monahans and Pecos carry the 2-4A banner Friday night. Neither team is expected to have an easy time of it, however.

Monahans is at home against seventh-ranked Lubbock Estacado. Pecos will be on the road to face Lubbock Dunbar.

Other teams, like Snyder, are taking advantage of the weekend off.

"The open date has helped us," said Ragin' Tiger Coach Dennis Tomlin. "It's given us time to emphasize some areas we had to neglect before in order to get ready to play. And it gives you a rest before you start in on the district race."

Tomlin defined "areas of neglect" as "just things like fundamentals. When you have to prepare for a game, you can't spend as much time as you'd like on the fundaments."

Snyder opens the 2-4A slate with Sweetwater.

"We've had a good week's work. We've accomplished what we set out to accomplish. We're getting ready now for game week. It's always a lot more exciting working out during game week. We're looking forward to it," the coach said.

District 2-4A teams are 1-1 against Dunbar this season. The Panthers defeated Snyder 12-8 two weeks ago and lost to Lake View last week, 10-7. Nelson Pearson, Dunbar's all-state candidate at running back, is expected to play when the Panthers and Eagles tee up Friday. Pearson injured an ankle against Snyder and sat out last week's contest with Lake View.

Both Pecos and Monahans are putting undefeated, 2-0, records on the line this weekend. District 2-4A's only other undefeated team is Lamesa.

Estacado is 3-0 with wins over Class 5A schools Midland and Big Spring. Dunbar is 2-1.

In addition to the Snyder-Sweetwater game as 2-4A opens action Oct. 4, Monahans will be at Fort Stockton, Lamesa will entertain Andrews and Lake View will be at Pecos.

Yarborough sets lap speed record

HARRISBURG, N.C. (AP) - Cale Yarborough eclipsed the Charlotte Motor Speedway lap record with a lap of 166.067 mph to upset Geoff Bodine and win the Miller Performance Trials and a $10,000 prize.

Underclassmen vie on gridiron tonight

Snyder underclassmen get out in full force tonight, both at Tiger Stadium and Travis Field.

Snyder eighth grade travels to Lamesa for games at 4:30 and 5:30.

Highlighting tonight's action will be a 7:30 game between Snyder junior varsity and Loraine varsity at Tiger Stadium. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Meanwhile, Travis Field will host four games involving freshmen and seventh grade teams.

The seventh graders open the agenda at 4 by entertaining Lamesa. A seventh grade A-team game with Lamesa is scheduled at 5:30.

At 6:30, Snyder freshman B-team is scheduled against Coahoma B-team. The Cat freshman A-team will host Lamesa at 7:30.

South Zone looks to add some wins

District 4-1A South Zone members chalked their first wins of the season last week and will try to even things up at .500 Friday night.

Ira, Borden County, Highland and McCaulley all chalked victories last weekend after the South Zone had suffered 11 straight defeats to open the season.

Grady remains winless in three ballgames this season and the prospects for marking up a victory this weekend look poor, as the Wildcats entertain defending state champion Jayton.

Hermleigh, playing a junior varsity schedule this season, also lost last week. The Cardinals entertain Blackwell Friday.

Ira will look for victory No. 2, however, when the Bulldogs trek to meet Paint Creek. Paint Creek is also 1-2 on the season.

Borden County celebrates its first home game of the season this weekend, but the Coyotes aren't too adament about the opponent. Enroute to Gail will be undefeated Weinert, ranked No. 3 in the state in six-man ball.

In other games, Highland will be at Trent and McCaulley will entertain Rochester.

WTC ready to open 1985-86 golf season

LEVELLAND -- Western Texas College opens the fall golf season here Friday, playing in the first of three Western Junior College Athletic Conference tournaments.

The tournament was to have been played a week ago, but heavy rains forced its postponement.

The competition includes defending WJCAC champion Odessa, New Mexico Junior College, Midland, South Plains and New Mexico Military Institute.

"On paper, NMJC (New Mexico Junior College) would have to be the favorite. They return four sophomores," said Western Texas Coach Dave Foster, who begins his 5th year as Westerner golf coach.

Western goes into the 18-hole tournament at a disadvantage since the Westerners' first tournament, in Pensacola, Fla., was rained out.

"This will be our first competition since we didn't get to play in Florida but the guys are excited," said the coach. "They have been playing real well in practice. It's hard to say how we'll do because we haven't had any competition against outside teams. I think we'll be respectable. Everyone is real confident and we're ready to go."

Playing for WTC in the first conference meet will be sophomores Bo Kay and Pat Fitzpatrick - both co-captains. Kay, from Amarillo, finished 12th in the WJCAC individual rankings last season with a 72.7 average. Fitzpatrick placed 22nd with a 75.8 average.

Freshmen are Matt Smith, Austin; Frank Schuster, Austin; Michael Harrison, Pecos; and Adolph Garza, Stanton.

The four lowest scores of the six players will be used to determine WTC's team total.

Other members of the WTC golf program are sophomore Barry Fletcher, from San Angelo; and freshmen Craig Calabretta, Austin; Scott Sawyer, El Paso; Brad James, Seminole; and Ken Livingston, Seminole.

"We've got some good leaders back in our sophomores. The freshmen are all experienced players as far as summer programs go. A couple of them won major junior tournaments this summer," said Foster. "I feel like the freshmen we have going this weekend are capable of stepping in and doing well. I feel like we are ahead of our scheduled as opposed to last year."

The conference format has been changed but the end result is the same for the 1985-86 season. The conference will declare a fall champion, a spring champion and an overall champion.

This, according to Foster, allows teams to bring in extra players at midterm and allow them to play.

"Before, anyone who came in at midterm was ineligible until the next season," said Foster. "There really isn't any change, but by designating a fall champion and a spring champion we can bring people in at midterm and have them eligible to play the spring semester. We were just about the only conference that was doing it the other way. Almost everybody else does it the way we'll be doing it this year."

The rest of WTC's fall schedule has them playing in the second WJCAC tournament at Midland on Oct. 4 and the third in Snyder on Oct. 19. In between, they go to the Annual Coca Cola New Mexico State Golf Classic on Oct. 9-12. Also on the schedule is the Elkins Lake Intercollegiate on Oct. 31-Nov. 1 and the Bahamas Am Intercollegiate from Nov. 7 through Nov. 10.

Arkansas back demoted to JV

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield says he doesn't know if senior running back Bobby Joe Edmonds, who faces drunk driving charges, will play next week.

Edmonds, who has been the team's No. 1 punt returner and second-team halfback, was demoted to the junior varsity earlier this week by Hatfield.

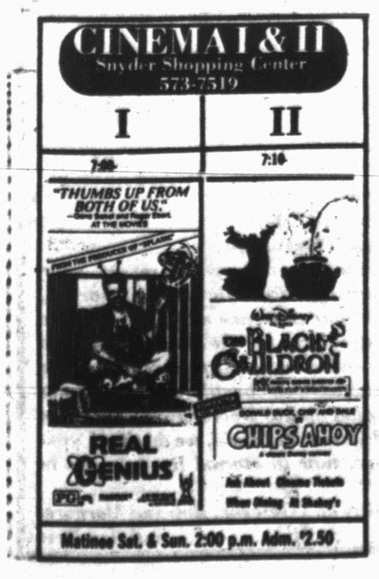

Edmonds was arrested on the charge of driving while intoxicated Sunday night, a day after the Razorbacks defeated Tulsa in Little Rock. He pleaded guilty and appears in court Dec. 9, after the Razorbacks' regular season ends.

Some TCU players bought autos after signing to play

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - As an NCAA investigator began an on-campus inquiry into the school's recruiting scandal, a newspaper reported that it had learned that three of seven suspended Texas Christian University players bought new cars in 1982 before playing for the Horned Frogs.

Records at the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles show that all-America running back Kenneth Davis, Egypt Allen and Gerald Taylor purchased new cars and that Davis' car was purchased with cash, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Davis was being billed as a Heisman Trophy candidate before he was booted off the team last week.

Davis, Allen and Taylor were dismissed from the team last week by head coach Jim Wacker when they admitted receiving payments from boosters, an NCAA violation. But the three players denied that money from alumni was used to purchase the cars, the Star-Telegram said.

Davis said a girlfriend bought his Camaro. Allen said he paid for his car by selling some livestock. Taylor said his mother helped him with a loan he obtained to buy his car.

"Let's call her Lady X," Davis told the Star-Telegram about the girlfriend who purchased the car. "She paid cash. (The car) was an Indy 500 pace car. It was $14,900 in cold cash."

Meanwhile, athletic directors from the nine SWC schools were convening in Dallas for a two-day meeting, and conference commissioner Fred Jacoby said ways to curb overzealous boosters would likely be discussed.

TCU's recruiting scandal broke after one player, thought to be Davis, admitted to an assistant coach after a team meeting last week that he and others had been accepting money from alumni, an NCAA violation.

Herr slams 3 home to pace St. Louis win

by The Associated Press

Other than knocking in three more runs, it was an uncharacteristic game for Tommy Herr.

The St. Louis second baseman committed only his 12th error of the season in the first inning as Philadelphia scored two runs, then hit his seventh homer in the bottom of the inning to put the Cardinals on their way to a 6-3 victory over the Phillies.

Herr, who could become the first player in 35 years to knock in 100 runs with fewer than 10 homers, now has 105 RBIs.

"I don't anticipate hitting three home runs," Herr said, looking ahead to St. Louis' remaining 10 games. "I still think it's a pretty safe bet."

The Cardinals lead the second-place New York Mets, who lost 5-4 to the Chicago Cubs, by four games in the National League East and have a magic number of seven. St. Louis has won six straight and 13 of its last 14.

In the West, Los Angeles lost 6-4 to Houston in 10 innings, but second-place Cincinnati fell 4-2 to Atlanta in 11 innings, keeping the Dodgers' lead at six games while lowering their magic number to six.

In other games, San Diego whipped San Francisco 7-4 and Pittsburgh rolled to an 8-2 victory over Montreal.

Cubs 5, Mets 4

Chicago, which had lost its previous eight games to New York, rallied from a 4-1 deficit to further dampen the Mets' pennant hopes.

Astros 6, Dodgers 4

Los Angeles missed an opportunity to take a seven-game lead in the West when it blew a 4-0 lead against Houston, which won in the 10th inning on Kevin Bass' two-run homer.

The Reds' loss to Atlanta cut the Dodgers' magic number for clinching the division to six.

AL showdown 4 days away

by The Associated Press

The showdown series in the American League West is four days away, and the California Angels and Kansas City Royals are doing their best to keep things tight until then.

Both teams won Wednesday night - the Royals 5-4 over Seattle and California 7-4 over Chicago.

The Angels are a half-game in front with 10 to play - all on the road, four in Kansas City. California has played one more game than Kansas City and won it.

The two teams meet for four games in Kansas City, starting on Monday.

In the AL East, Toronto's magic number remained at six and its lead was cut to six games over New York. The Blue Jays lost to Boston 4-2 in 13 innings while the Yankees beat Detroit 10-2.

In other AL games, Minnesota beat Texas 5-1, Milwaukee shut down Baltimore 3-0, and Cleveland dumped Oakland 7-2.

Farmer's Co-Op Gin.
A Good Place To Do Business

It makes sense to stay involved with your cotton after it leaves the farm. That's why taking your cotton to your co-op gin is a good idea—for a couple of reasons:

First, when you take your cotton to a co-op gin, that gin becomes a part of your business. You have a voice in how it's run and you share in the profits. The more cotton you bring, the more it pays.

But, even more importantly, when you bring your cotton to your co-op gin you become part of a system that takes your cotton all the way to the market. A system that joins your local co-op gin with other co-op gins to give you a voice in the market. Being a part of that system is important to you now and it's even more important to the future of cotton farming.

Take your cotton to your co-op gin. After all, it's just good business to do business with yourself.

Thank You

To Our Friends
To Rev. Ken Coffey and First Christian Church,
Whom She Loved
To the Ladies Who Stayed With Mother
To Doctor Pierce and the Cogdell Hospital Staff
To All Who Remembered Mother and The Family
We give you our sincere thanks for all you did - your prayers, your kind expressions of concern shared in words, flowers, memorials, food and in many other ways. Just your presence and a hand shake were deeply meaningful to us. Particularly for the last two years, to the ladies who stayed with Mother and were so faithful in caring for her at home, to the hospital staff who were so considerate in the times when she needed to be in the hospital and to Doctor Pierce who not only was her doctor but a kind and Christian friend, we do thank you. We know that Mother, Velma Baxe, now in eternal life joins us in these words of appreciation.

Would-be heirs waiting for riches in Spindletop case

BEAUMONT (AP) — A federal magistrate says he will decide by Nov. 1 whether to dismiss two lawsuits in which thousands of people claim they are entitled to royalties from the legendary Spindletop oil field.

At stake are billions — possibly trillions — of proceeds stemming from the gusher credited with launching the Texas oil boom in 1901.

Five oil companies named as defendants in the suits are asking U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher to drop the litigation and contend the royalty claims were filed too late.

U.S. Magristrate Earl Hines said he will make a recommendation by Nov. 1 to Fisher, who then will make the official ruling on the dismissal requests.

The lawsuits, like one dismissed by Fisher in March, contend the descendants of a man named James Meadors — sometimes spelled Meadows, Meddors, Medders or any one of several other ways — should have been getting proceeds from Spindletop royalties since 1911, when Meadors allegedly bought an interest in the field.

Spindletop — the first salt dome oil discovery — erupted near Beaumont in 1901, spewing thousands of barrels of oil before it could be capped. The gusher produced more than 17 million barrels of oil in 1902 alone for a state whose 1900 oil production totalled less than 1 million barrels.

Brady Sparks, a Dallas attorney who represents about 2,800 people who believe they are descendants of Meadors, said Meadors never had to place a claim because he didn't own a majority of the mineral rights involved.

That lawsuit contends that Meadors purchased a one-eighth interest in a large portion of the Spindletop field in 1911 after the first boom had played out.

Attorney Tim Hatton represents Jewell Robbins of Lexington, Ky., and more than 430 other people who claim to be the heirs of Meadors.

"We have now found the true heirs of James Meadors," he said.

But during a recent hearing before Hines, Mike Powell, a Dallas attorney speaking for five oil companies that are defendants in the case, argued for dismissing the case, saying James Meadors and his descendants should have staked their claim decades ago.

Hines said he will decide the fate of both lawsuits at the same time.

Meanwhile, land in question remains in the hands of the Beaumont-based McFaddin family, which has successfully upheld claims in court that it owned the land long before anybody thought of drilling for oil near Beaumont.

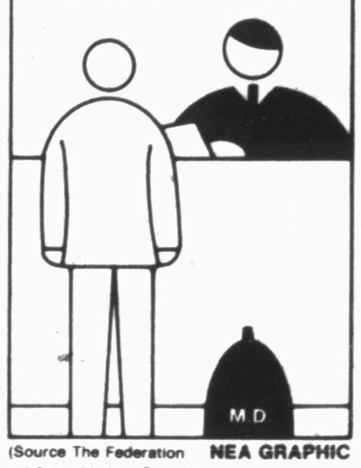

Countless lawsuits have challenged the overship of the property over the years, but none so far has been successful.

Rep. says earthquake will help to create more jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexico's earthquake might have a "positive side" — creation of thousands of construction jobs that could slow, at least temporarily, the influx of Mexican citizens illegally entering the United States, Rep. Kika de la Garza said after a trip to the disaster area.

Most of the illegal aliens crossing the U.S.-Mexico border are not from Mexico City and the other areas hardest hit by last week's earthquake, de la Garza told a news conference Wednesday.

"But in the demolition and reconstruction, there will be thousands and thousands and thousands of jobs," he said. "So I think it would behoove us, rather than spend the money trying to stop them at the border, to send the money down there and put people to work."

De la Garza, D-Mission, said he spent all day Monday in the Mexican capital meeting with U.S. and Mexican officials who told him that the city has enough food, medical supplies and volunteers but needs drinking water and money.

He was there the same day as Nancy Reagan, who presented the government with a $1 million check.

Congress is talking about millions of dollars more in aid for Mexico, which already was in serious debt before being struck by the major earthquake and an aftershock that leveled many buildings in the capital's downtown and left several thousand people dead or missing.

De la Garza said he thought monetary aid should be withheld until the full scope of the disaster is known.

"The symbolic gesture has been made by Mrs. Reagan from our government," de la Garza said. "Now we need to sit back and let them assess and then find out how much is going to be needed and see where we fit in with all the other nations of the world that are going to be donating."

De la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and House chairman of the U.S.-Mexico Interparliamentary Council, represents a district that borders Mexico.

He said the thing that most surprised him was finding that Mexico City was functioning.

"I somehow expected everything shut down," he said. "I had expected curfew, no people on the streets. But it was Mexico City, same traffic jam I was in two months ago. Except now you saw all these trucks moving rubble and ambulances."

Tape: air traffic controller gave incorrect instructions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say the near-collision between a helicopter and an Eastern Airlines jet at National Airport resulted from an air traffic controller's clearance instructions to the chopper.

The controller's takeoff clearance allowed the helicopter to fly toward the takeoff path of the Eastern Boeing 727, forcing the jetliner to abort its liftoff and skid within 40 yards of the Potomac River, federal officials said Wednesday. No one was injured in the Tuesday incident.

The controller in question, whom officials did not identify, has been restricted to administrative duties pending recertification as a controller allowed to handle air traffic, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Fred Farrar. He said that action was standard.

The controller was directing only helicopter traffic and was standing near another controller who was directing incoming and departing jet traffic at the time of the incident, officials said.

Tapes of communications between the airport tower and the helicopter were examined by National Transportation Safety Board officials who said the controller thought she had given the helicopter pilot clearance to depart in a direction away from the main runway where the Eastern jet was about to take off.

But the tapes indicated the chopper received a general departure clearance — and no specific instructions to avoid the main runway — for a route that would have taken him across the runway, said NTSB spokesman Bill Bush.

"She believed she had given a specific northwest instruction, but the tapes don't indicate that she did," said Bush.

The pilot of the Eastern jet — the 5 p.m. shuttle from National to New York's LaGuardia Airport with 182 people aboard — aborted the takeoff when he saw the helicopter and skidded to a safe stop in a grassy area beyond the runway.

Investigators have not determined how close the two aircraft came to one another. The Eastern pilot, J.C. Goachee, told authorities he feared a collision with the helicopter, officials said.

Helicopter pilot Jesse Hadaway, who works for Whirlybird Inc. of Baltimore, said he veered away when he saw the jet.

"I never crossed the path of the jetliner at any time," he said in an interview with WDVM-TV in Washington. "We were separated by at least 150 or so feet."

He said both he and the jet pilot took "evasive action that prevented the collision."

NTSB investigators were particularly interested in the incident because of concern about the number of cases this year in which pilots have had to take evasive action during takeoff or landing at busy airports.

Last summer the NTSB and the FAA acknowledged a troubling increase in the number of such incidents — from 41 during the first six months of 1984 to 54 in the first six months of this year. In July, the NTSB began a special inquiry into such cases and FAA Administrator Donald Engen urged controllers to increase vigilance when directing airport traffic.

Seven businessmen hit with judgment

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Seven businessmen who bought the downtown 24-story First National Bank building in late 1982 — 10 months before it was declared insolvent and closed — have been ordered to begin paying $31.8 million plus interest to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton issued the ruling Wednesday in a federal lawsuit involving the $75 million sale of the building in December 1982 to a partnership of the seven known as Eagle Properties Ltd.

During a non-jury trial last March, the Eagle Properties partners — who were all among the bank's most prominent customers — said they believed at the time of the purchase that it was only a short-term venture designed to keep the bank from reporting a loss in 1982.

They said they understood some type of permanent long-term financing would be forthcoming to cover any debt they might owe. However, the bank, once the state's largest independent bank with assets of $1.4 billion, was declared insolvent and closed Oct. 14, 1983.

RepublicBank Corp. of Dallas bought the bank for $51.5 million and reopened on the next business day as RepublicBank First National Midland.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., as receiver of the defunct bank, sued Eagle Properties and its seven partners in February 1984 for $25 million plus interest, alleging the group failed to make a $2.5 million interest payment due Dec. 31, 1983.

The seven partners are Charles Perry of Odessa and Tom C. Brown, M.W. Branum, J.L. Davis, Gene Sledge, Clint Hurt and Charles Lawrence, all of Midland.

Bunton ordered Brown and Branum, Eagle Properties general partners, to each pay the FDIC $7.96 million plus 7.91 percent interest until the amount is paid.

Band Boosters contest preparations underway

Preparations are underway for the "Buffalo Kid and Calico Cutie" contest being sponsored by the Snyder Band Boosters. The contest is being held to coincide with the White Buffalo Days Celebration.

Snyder Band Boosters is a non-profit organization whose main purpose is to aid in the development of the character and talents of the students in the band program–both high school and junior high.

Funds that are raised will provide many opportunities for the students. The major expenditure is providing scholarships to help students attend a two week summer band camp. Other expenditures include providing Cokes during halftime for the marching band at all football games, the junior high band festival and the senior high band banquet.

Various other activities are also sponsored. A program initiated by the Band Boosters is the recognition of outstanding band students each month for their achievements. One student is recognized from each grade–junior high through high school.

To enter the contest, complete the accompanying form and send it with $1 and two pictures (print name on back of each picture) to: Contest, Snyder Band Boosters, P. O. Box 931, Snyder, Texas 79549. Pictures will be returned.

Winners will be determined by money vote, the child whose picture receives the most money will win.

There are two categories: infants to two years and two years to five years. Winners and runners-up will be announced in each category. Prizes will be awarded. Each child entering will receive a certificate of participation.

Winners will be announced Saturday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. The ceremony will be held on stage in the Scurry County Coliseum just prior to the Whirlygig.

Minor damage to police car

A City of Snyder police vehicle was involved in a minor accident Wednesday, one of two mishaps reported in the city.

The police vehicle was involved in a 10 a.m. accident on the dorm parking lot at Western Texas College. A 1984 Chevrolet driven by Kevin Wayland Fritz of 2809 Ave. D struck a Southwestern Bell guard pole at one of their installations. Only minor damage was reported to both the pole and the car.

The second accident was reported at 10:45 a.m. in the 2600 Block of College Ave.

Involved in it was a 1982 Mercury driven by Catherine May McGregor, 213 33rd St., which struck a parked 1984 Cadillac owned by Vonseth Adams of 4009 Houston Ave.

Failed brakes said wreck cause

Failed brakes were said the cause of a minor one-vehicle mishap investigated northeast of Snyder at 5:35 p.m. Wednesday by Department of Public Safety highway patrolmen.

According to reports, a truck driven by Kelvin Morris Stagner of 711 32nd St. ran off the road and struck a culvert at the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 — just west of the old Snyder Cemetery.

The involved vehicle was a 1981 Chevrolet truck-trailer rig owned by C.A. White Trucking of Lubbock and headed westbound on Farm Road 2763

Stagner reportedly told officers that the brakes on the truck failed as he approached the intersection. The vehicle crossed Ave. E and finally stopped when it hit the culvert.

Stagner was not injured in the incident.

debt committment which might be required with interim funding of the project.

He said that discussions have centered around a "three-year payout" for any debt required with the project.

Branam noted that the recent vote did not change plans to move the remaining two houses to allow for added parking facilities.

As first envisioned, the church had hoped for a bid letting on the work by January or February of 1986. Actual construction is projected to take up to 12 months.

The announced construction of the project was the first building phase undertaken by First Baptist since 1979. At that time, the church added its chapel at a cost just under $1 million.

These monies were raised among the church membership over a two-year period.

Arrest made for missing bicycle

Police reported Wednesday clearing a recent bicycle theft and the arrests of two shoplifting suspects.

Investigators recovered and returned a bike said stolen Sept. 21 from the Jesusa Herrera residence at 811 27th St.

A 15-year-old suspect was identified in connection with the theft and the case has been turned over to county juvenile authorities for disposition.

City officers also arrested a 13-year-old juvenile suspect on shoplifting charges shortly after 5 p.m. at Munden's Discount Center.

That arrest came as a result of a call from store employees. The young suspect was later released to the custody of his parents.

An arrest of an adult suspect was noted also in connection with a shoplifting incident reported Monday at the C&W convenience store at the intersection of Huffman Ave. and U.S. Hwy. 84.

That case was referred to municipal court for disposition.

Woman arrested for disturbance

Police jailed an 18-year-old woman on four misdemeanor charges following a disturbance at the Pizza Inn Restaurant on the East Hwy.

At 7:58 p.m. officers responded to a call from the restaurant manager who told them that the woman was creating a disturbance and refused to leave the premises.

When police arrived she was arrested for public intoxication, disorderly conduct, criminal tresspass and misdemeanor theft.

The theft charge reportedly arose from an attempt by the suspect to take a small amount of money from the restaurant's check out counter.

City officers also jailed one local man for driving with a suspended license Wednesday night.

5-year rewrite considered...

Farm subsidies: who pays?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawmakers considering a $141 billion, five-year rewrite of the nation's farm and food policy must decide how much of the burden taxpayers and consumers should be asked to bear to support farm subsidies ranging from milk to peanuts.

The question of who should pay for what always is present when Congress debates farm policy, but this year is different. The debate this time takes place against a backdrop of financial depression in some rural areas unlike anything since the 1930s.

While they do not dispute the hardships on today's farm, the Reagan administration and some consumer groups contend Congress is poised to help farmers who don't need aid along with those who do.

With the House scheduled to take up the 1985 farm bill today, more than 200 possible amendments to the massive legislation already had been introduced. Some of the most controversial, dealing with dairy and sugar subsidies, were to open the debate.

The first test, on whether to keep sugar price supports at their current 18-cent-per-pound level or to reduce them, was regarded as a bellwether of how well the traditional farm coalition will hold together to protect other crop programs.

Among other amendments was a move to do away with a proposed farmer referendum on wheat and corn that would institute substantial marketing restrictions along with higher price supports. Another amendment would scrap the peanut program, which grants franchises to farmers to grow a limited quantity of peanuts at a high support price, while another would rescind the Agriculture Committee's proposed freeze on "target price" income supports.

Robert Thompson, the assistant secretary of agriculture for economics, says the bill's provision freezing income protection payments is "an extremely blunt instrument" for helping farmers.

New department figures show that in the past year, only 17 cents of every dollar in income subsidies went to farmers defined as in financial stress because of heavy debt.

"All these people who talk about helping low-income farmers are simply missing the mark," Thompson told reporters Wednesday.

House Democrats, who controlled writing of that body's farm bill draft, have insisted farm income should at least be held constant in any new legislation. As written, the bill contains a virtual four-year freeze on income support payments, and even liberalizes the subsidies by creating new exemptions from the current $50,000-per-farmer annual payment limit.

Rep. Tom Downey, D-N.Y., and Rep. Willis Gradison, R-Ohio, sent around five-pound bags of sugar to House colleagues on the eve of the voting, with a letter attached arguing that Canadians are paying only half the price Americans bear for the same item in the grocery store. Downey and Gradison will attempt to cut the support price by a penny a year over the next three years.

The House dairy provision revives an earlier program paying farmers to refrain from milk production and taxing all dairy farmers to underwrite the diversion's cost. It also establishes a new price-support formula that would increase support levels, a move consumer groups argue would be an incentive to produce even more surpluses.

Rep. James Olin, D-Va., and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., will propose a simple cut in the support price instead, with future cuts dependent on the size of the surplus.

USDA criticized for promoting policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department agency that handles farm programs is under fire for using its network of state and county offices to promote the Reagan administration's "market-oriented" farm policies.

But the agency, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, says its actions are legal and not out of the ordinary. Farmers union officials also chided the agency for easing travel restrictions so state and local officials could spread the word.

"The loosening up of federal funds to peddle the Reagan administration's farm policy positions through the ASCS offices is unacceptable, especially at a time when this administration claims to be so budget conscious," said Cy Carpenter, president of the National Farmers Union.

Carpenter, reached Wednesday in St. Paul, Minn., through a spokesman, acknowledged that there had been similar charges in the past when Democrats were in office. In any case, it's "a bad practice," he said.

The complaint began in Kansas where state Farmers Union President Ivan Wyatt said the use of ASCS personnel was "a desperate move" to build support for the administration's farm policy, which seeks lower price supports on major crops and a gradual easing of government in agriculture.

Wyatt said Reagan and Agriculture Secretary John R. Block "have stooped to an all-time low" by using the agency's network in such a way.

The Kansas farm leader said a nationwide teleconference was held on Sept. 5 between Block and the agency's state officials. Also, the ASCS headquarters in Washington mailed material to use in support of the administration's farm plans.

Wyatt said all of the actions followed a Sept. 4 memo from ASCS Administrator Everett C. Rank to state directors of the agency saying that travel restrictions were being temporarily eased, allegedly to "sell the administration farm bill line."

At the Agriculture Department, agency spokesman Ray Waggoner said the actions had been cleared ahead of time by department lawyers, who said it was all right for politically appointed officials to advocate policy as long as they did not urge people to put pressure on members of Congress.

"Their job is to go out and advocate the policy of the current administration, whichever political party it is," Waggoner said.

Historically, the ASCS system, which reaches into virtually every county, provides the delivery of federal farm programs. Allotments, quotas, acreage bases, program signup and federal payments are handled through state and county offices.

The state operations are overseen by a politically appointed chairman and committee. County offices are overseen by locally elected committees.

Copies of the material in question were provided by the agency at the request of a reporter, including the Sept. 4 memo from Rank to state committees and state executive directors.

Rank noted that Block would be talking to the officials the following day, Sept. 5, on a teleconference hookup and that the secretary "is expected to ask you to assist him in informing interested groups about the administration's position on farm bill issues."

Trade lawmakers defying veto threat turn to textile bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defying veto warnings, the House Ways and Means Committee appears set to approve a massive rollback in textile imports, the storm center of the congressional debate over trade.

As the panel prepared for action, House caucus chairmen clashed in debate Wednesday over proposed tariffs to drive down overseas barriers to U.S. exports. House GOP leaders produced sweeping trade legislation.

"We need a stick in the closet" to punish countries that erect trade barriers, Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus, told the debate sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers.

"We should bash down their doors — diplomatically, not on the floor of the House," retorted Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., chairman of the House Republican Conference and a critic of a Gephardt-sponsored tariff bill.

An early floor vote on the textile measure, strongly opposed by the Reagan administration, appeared likely following today's Ways and Means hearing, at which extraordinary steps were planned to shrink the number of spectators.

Abandoning its spacious chambers in the Longworth House Office Building, the committee planned to meet in a cramped room in the Capitol with little seating available, officials said.

The tight seating reflected intense pressure over the bill, which is favored by U.S. textile and apparel makers as well as two major labor unions. Lobbyists lined the halls last week as the measure won approval from the committee's trade panel in a closed-door session.

The Reagan administration, as well as anti-protectionist business forces, have been campaigning against the measure, which would roll back imports 25 percent to more than 40 percent in areas ranging from raw silk to stuffed animals. The White House has threatened a veto.

The measure has 292 House cosponsors, and there were early predictions that such heavy support was a guarantee of passage once it reached the floor.

In recent days, however, signs of waning enthusiasm have surfaced. Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., has spoken of bringing it to the floor under special handling that would assure an early vote — with amendments ruled out. However, such a move also would require two-thirds of the House, or 290 votes, for passage.

And other industries have been eyeing the textile bill as a vehicle to protect them from foreign competition.

Maine Sens. William Cohen and George Mitchell, major supporters of the import-battered shoe industry, reached agreement last week with South Carolina Sens. Strom Thurmond and Ernest Hollings, co-sponsors of the Senate textile measure, to combine forces.

Thurmond planned an effort to harness the combined textile-shoe bill to an obscure pact revising U.S. ties to the Pacific atolls of Micronesia when that measure reaches the floor, possibly today, press secretary Terry Hill said Wednesday.
