BATTLE ENSUES WHEN DOCTOR REACHES OFFICE, HOWARD CO.

Special to The Avalanche

BIG SPRING Jan 21.—Formal charge of murder was filed here tonight against P. E. Little, Howard county farmer, in connection with the fatal shooting at 10 a. m. today of Dr. Guy Longbotham, chiropractor. Little is in the Mercy hospital recovering from bullet wounds in hip and neck suffered during the gun battle which occurred when Dr. Longbotham drove up to his office, in front of which Little is said to have been waiting. Two charges of buckshot from a double-barrelled shotgun struck Longbotham in the left side. Little was shot with an automatic pistol, three shots being fired from the pistol and two taking effect.

5 Shots Fired
Eye-witnesses say they do not know who fired the five shots which came in quick succession. Little, they say, was standing by his automobile when Dr. Longbotham got out of his car. The chiropractor got back in his car after the shooting started, it is said, and then stumbled out on the far side, staggering a few steps before he fell.

Both Are Married
Longbotham was 26 years old and was married, with two children. He had lived in Howard county since 1924.

Little is 29 years old. He is married and has one child. Dr. Longbotham is said to have been treating members of Little's family. Little is said by eye-witnesses to have been waiting in front of Dr. Longbotham's office for some time this morning before the chiropractor, who is said to have spent the night in the country, drove up to the office.

Dr. Longbotham is survived by a brother, three sisters, his father and his parents, as well as widow and two children. Little will recover of his wounds, it is said. He is a half-brother of Jimmy Little, county attorney.

Death Knell Sounds for "Neckers" in Lubbock as Police Chief Inaugurates Campaign to Halt Wholesale "Petting"

When in next spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love his fancy will be about as inviolated in the procedure in Lubbock as it present phase of the police department are carried out. For last night Chief of Police T. E. May announced to the Avalanche that that popular pastime referred to as "necking," "petting," and "mugging" must be stopped and stopped quick, else the officers will act in no uncertain terms. When the lads and lassies saunter up and down the shadowed walks or, if they are lucky, hang merry—or the pavement in a more or less comfortable "letzer," they must dispense with all manifestations of affection if they wish to steer clear of official displeasure. Just how the Chief expects to completely enforce the ruling without the swearing in of several hundred additional officers, remains to be seen and just what decision concerning the "petting" will be made by the city commission is also a matter for conjecture. Jim Says 500 More Should Be Pardoned

HOUSTON, Jan. 21.—James E. Ferguson Friday discussed Governor Dan Moody's message to the legislature and the pardon record of Mr. Ferguson's wife who has just relinquished the governor's chair. He ridiculed the pardon recommendations of the new governor. "Why, he wants to turn over the pardon power to the sheriffs and constables and county attorneys of Texas," he said. "He thinks the governor of the state backed up by a board of pardons hasn't enough sense to exercise that power. Mazie he has a lower estimate of the ability of governor than I have." The former governor then added emphatically, "You know there are about 500 persons in the penitentiary who should be out."

RIG BUILDERS IN BORGER ON STRIKE

200 OIL WORKERS WALK OUT WHEN WAGE CUT IS REPORTED

(By the Associated Press)
BORGER, Jan. 21.—A walkout of rig builders swung into full force here Friday on the decision of the Panhandle field rig builders Thursday to demand an increase in pay and protest a reported cut of two dollars a day by the contractors. There are some 200 rig builders in the Borger, Farnham and Amarillo fields, and the walkout is said to be almost 100 percent. The walkout is declared to be the first of its kind in the history of the Mid Continent field. The men are not organized and have no connection with any branch of union labor.

Confederate Sees
"We have no quarrel with the contractors, but the present Borger-Panhandle is the largest in the world, located in the most dangerous country in the way of poisonous gases and yet our men are drawing less pay for their work than the men in fields in other parts of Texas." Frank H. Bissok, one of the leaders of the walkout, said Friday. A conference with the contractors will be held by the rig builders soon.

To Discuss Mullican's Charge at Tech Today

MEN'S CONVOCATION IS CALLED FOR 11:45 A. M. COLLEGE TODAY

To discuss that portion of Judge-Clark Mullican's recent charge to the grand jury in which the judge declared that "Tech College should be made safe for Lubbock" by the elimination from the student body all law breakers, a convocation of men students of the college has been called for 11:45 a. m., today in the stock judging pavilion by Dean J. M. Gordon. Paul W. Horn and Dr. Gordon, conferred recently with the judge and together they are delving into the problem. Dr. Horn and Dean Gordon in official capacities and Judge Mullican merely as a friendly advisor.

Students Expelled
Students have been expelled from the college, unknown to the general public, for various offenses and the college authorities are planning to continue the "weeding out" process of those students who have been causing both college and city authorities trouble. Quite recently a number of students were dropped from the rolls and others are under investigation. Lubbock would be surprised at the number of students expelled from the college since the opening. Dean Gordon said yesterday, stating that the faculty was by no means asleep on the job.

PASTOR IN TEARS RECITES HOW HE SHOT D. E. CHIPPS

FIRE WHEN LUMBERMAN STARTED TOWARD HIM HAND ON HIP

STATE IN REBUTTAL

WITNESS SAYS HE SAW MRS. PARKER LEAVE TRAGEDY-SCENE

(By Associated Press)

COURT ROOM, Austin, Jan. 21.—After Dr. J. Frank Norris had told his story of the killing of D. E. Chipps in the pastor's office last July 17, the defense rested in the Norris murder trial here today. Defense witnesses have occupied five and a half days in presenting to the jury Norris' evidence on his plea of self defense. The state promptly began its rebuttal witnesses being Dr. Clarence E. Wisecup, a dentist of Thorndale, Texas, who corroborated a part of Mrs. Roxie Parker's testimony. Mrs. Parker was the state's star witness.

A preacher's tears mingled with the recital of the Chipps killing as Norris ended the defense case with his personal story of the tragedy that occurred in his office last July 17 when Chipps went there to protest against Norris' actions—on Mayor H. C. Meschery of Fort Worth. During his narrative of the actual killing, Norris wept and was under such apparent emotion he told his story with difficulty.

Fearful For Life
He testified he shot Chipps because he believed Chipps was about to kill him. He described how Chipps came to the office in an angry mood after he had telephoned he was coming up to kill him.

He shot, he said, only after Chipps had wheeled about and was coming at him with his hand on his hip pocket. The pastor held a handkerchief to his face at times. He had a cough and his voice at times was hoarse. The packed court room was tense during the recital. The state will probably close tomorrow, but the attorneys do not expect to start arguments until Monday. There is possibility of lengthy debate over instruction to the jury on "passional anger" and similar points raised in the trial.

Find Traces That Make Certain That Steamer Was Lost in Storm; 27 Men Were Aboard

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—Fears that the steamer John Tracy had foundered off Cape Cod in the blizzard of January 11, changed to grim certainty today when the name plate of the vessel, parts of her hatch covers and an empty life boat—were picked up near George Shoal, off the Cape Cod coast. The steamer carried a crew of 27 men.

May Valentine's Woman Assistant Says Feminine Touch Is Necessary to Success of Operatic Ventures

Although May Valentine is the only woman impresario in America, it isn't such an exclusive profession for her, Miss Mabel Day, who plays the part of Serpette in "Chimes of Normandy," believes. For it is a woman who can mend a rent in a costume at the last minute and a woman whose intuition may help in times of stress when a man would be a complete failure, she said last evening. "And I work harder for her than I would for a man," Miss Day confided, "because it is a woman working another woman."

Miss Day's comic opera is an all-American organization with a chorus of girls, many of whom are wearing their security pins and some of whom have interrupted their college careers with plans to return for their degrees. Miss Day said yesterday. She had some on to Lubbock ahead of the remainder of the company, from Plainview yesterday. Miss Day plays the part of the village madcap, a vivacious character.

There are 25 members of the cast with Marguerite Hubbard playing the prima donna role and Miss Day singing the other principal feminine part. Henry Thompson and George Ebel, famous tenor and basso, sing the leading male roles in this comic classic. All members of the cast are young and are exceptionally good singers, having received a great deal of praise for the beauty and blending of their voices and for the high class performance that they present.

The story of the play is presented in three acts, telling of the return of Henrietta, the Marquis de Valleur, to France, the restoration of the castle which he believed to be haunted, and the events that surround the discovery that the village miser, Compadre, is hoarding his wealth in the castle, playing the role of a ghost to protect his money.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

The Queen And the Infant
Queen Mary will keep the baby. This announcement comes forth from Buckingham palace just as the queen's second son, the Duke of York, and his wife, sail for Australia. The two grandmothers of the little Princess Elizabeth, infant daughter of the twin, squabbled with dignity of course, as to which one should care for the child. The queen won. At least she is first in line. They see she's had a great time shopping for nursery, trappings and reading modern tomes on baby care.

What a terrible thing for even a queen if something happens to the infant while its mother is away! Not even the vicinity of queenhood would protect her much from the late parades, we waver! And mothers and mothers-in-law of lesser rank may not envy the queen her job over much.

Horror and Purple Gait
I blush to tell it, but facts are facts and they do say that four million women of these United States of America never use cosmetics. A lady speaks man for the National Convention of Beauty Shop Owners says that "these women are the type who still cling to cosmetics, worn on short skirts, and believe in witches."

Their again they may be mothers of daughters whose marcel and manicure bills must be met somehow with out another member of the family adding more woe into the family exchequer!

The Clinging Vine
If someone should just say to me, someone whom I always had catalogued as a sort of dandy, "Oh, this modern woman stuff is the bunk. We're all miserable and would be better off if we had the same viewpoint our grandmothers had, what we ought to do is stay home and wait for the Lord and Master," I'd probably walk away and leave her and think, "What the use of wasting time with such a notion?"

But I must confess to having been arrested by a current magazine article entitled "Feminism Destructive of Woman's Happiness," by Gina Lombroso Ferrero, author of "The Soul of Woman." Perhaps if I had seen the title first, I wouldn't have read it. But I happened to open the magazine at random and was interested before I had time to antagonistic.

For the first time in all my years, I admitted that the anti-feminist might have an argument. The point is that this lady writer uses her brain instead of slushy unthinking sentimentality.

BAPTIST STUDENTS HOLD MASS MEETING

Gathering for the first time this year, the Baptist students held a very interesting mass meeting in room 203 of the administration building last night. A good number of students attended and much interest was shown in the meeting.

The program given last evening in all probability it will serve to stimulate interest among the student body and in time these meetings, if continued, will act as a connecting link between the students and the church.

A talk was given by J. I. Kilpatrick on "The Challenge of Youth," this was followed by a clever one act play entitled "The Trial of the Roberts." Irvin Coleman gave the students an idea of the B. S. U. convention which is to be held at Houston, Texas, February 18-22. It is the plan of the Baptist Students Union Council to send a large representation from Tech this year.

CADETS ENTERTAIN SPONSORS

One of the most delightful affairs of the term was held Friday night in room 205 of the administration building when fifty cadets entertained their lady sponsors with a lovely party.

Hale Center or Abernathy was the question asked each couple as they entered the beautifully decorated room. It was hard to tell which side was going to win, with Hale Center winning first one contest and Abernathy another. A lovely cup was presented in the final contest.

A grand march led around and around the room and wound in and out the clock and finally led into an adjoining room where lovely refreshments all decorated in red, white and blue, with little silk flags as favors were served to the guests.

MEN'S CONVOCATION TODAY

A convocation, called for the men students of the college only, will be held this morning at 11:45 in the Stock Judging pavilion, Dean J. M. Gordon announced yesterday. All men students are requested to be present as matters of vital importance to the welfare of minimum wage of 21 shillings or about $2.25 a week for servants who "live in" and two weeks' annual vacation with pay.

Surly, none of these demands seem at all unreasonable, and not only for the sake of the servants but for the sake of all those who want domestic help. It is to be hoped that mistresses will not quibble about supporting the union. Many of us don't blame girls for refusing to go into "home service," as it has always been haphazardly carried on.

Do Times Change Any?
Not so many years ago a girl was hooted by hoodlums on the street as she went on her way to medical college. Just a day or so ago a riot broke out between men and women medical students in a theater of Paris.

A play called "Vocation" based on the idea that women should not enter the professions, especially the one of medicine, brought war whoops from a delegation of 60 women medical students who attended the theater.

The male students battled them, and a sweet time was had by all until police ended the fray.

Whether one does or does not uphold the war of these modern Amazons, one can hardly blame them for being riled by a theme so hopelessly out of date, when women doctors have proven themselves able and necessary for about half a century.

APPROVED LIST OF SENIORS ANNOUNCED

After a series of conferences, the senior committee of the faculty have announced the approval list of seniors for the first commencement of the Tech. Plans are being made for the commencement and reports are that it will be a great affair. Commencement day will be May 30, the seniors having their examination earlier than the remainder of the students. The graduation exercises will be held preceding the examinations and every student in the college is to be present.

Below is the list which was approved by the faculty:

Those who will finish in June, 1927: Mayne Alexander, E. M. Barnett, Mrs. Mary Dale Buckner, Mrs. Vivian Burman, Mrs. E. T. Groves, Annie Wood Howell, Kathleen Ingram, C. W. Those who will finish in August, 1927: Albee Alverston, Rosale Beth Bennett, H. R. Carroll, Edith Carter, L. T. Green, R. T. Groves, Eldon M. Thorpe, Sylvia Wilson.

CAFETERIA RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION

In the January issue of the School Feeding magazine, a national publication, the Texas Technological college cafeteria received a good "write-up," telling of the work of the unit and its place as a social center for student affairs and campus activities.

Much progress had been made by the cafeteria this year under the direction of Miss Katherine Harper and indications are that more students will make it their eating place as the school grows.

CAFETERIA RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION

In the January issue of the School Feeding magazine, a national publication, the Texas Technological college cafeteria received a good "write-up," telling of the work of the unit and its place as a social center for student affairs and campus activities.

Much progress had been made by the cafeteria this year under the direction of Miss Katherine Harper and indications are that more students will make it their eating place as the school grows.

BUDGET BEING PREPARED FOR REPORT

Administrative officers of the college are busy working on the budget of the college for the next two years and preparing their report for the state legislature. The report will be submitted when the appropriations bill is brought up, which will likely be in the special session, this summer.

Do Your Own Manicuring? Then Do the Job Right

Every night, before retiring, use an orange stick on the cuticle.

By NINON For NEA Service

Careful manicuring is a beauty rite that can't be neglected without unpleasant and obvious consequences. Hangnails are not only unsightly and embarrassing, but are actually sources of infection and discomfort.

The weekly manicure is not nearly so important as the daily care, or is the pink and polished nail as important as the well-shaped cuticle.

Each night, after you wash your hands before retiring, rub your fingers with cold cream, vaseline or olive oil and when the cuticle about the nail is well lubricated, push back the cuticle with an orange stick dipped in medicated cotton so that each little nail nail is revealed.

Never cut the cuticle unless it has been neglected for so long and allowed to grow up so far that it can't be pushed back and then use very fine scissors and do not cut deep enough to cause bleeding. Should you be careless enough to do so, stop the bleeding with a wet pencil and disinfect the area.

Manicure Weekly
Manicuring when the cuticle is regularly pushed back becomes a simple matter of cleanliness. If you do not go to a professional manicurist, you should have a weekly session of your own.

Before you begin to polish or file the nails, dip your hands in soapy water to get them in a soft receptive mood for treatment. After filing the nails, use an emery board to remove the rough edges. Very fine finger nails are appropriate only for Chinese gentlemen and for such women as lead lives of leisure and inactivity. Stenographers, musicians, golfers and housewives must keep their nails short enough so they are not always being broken or registering their hard knocks.

Good taste dictates that nails be filed to follow the shape of the finger with a rounded point extending over the tip.

In these efficient and busy days, few manicurists use anything but liquid polish and this polish, expertly applied, is quite adequate and lasts for a week. Heavily and unattractively applied, it is positively offensive. The highly colored finishes that leave the nails a deep red are anything but lovely. For myself, I prefer to go over my nails each day with the buffer and a little powder, instead of this readiness shine.

Liquid Bleach Good
If you use nail white under the nails, apply it with discretion. A liquid bleach that is introduced under the nail on a cotton tipped orange stick is very good. Nothing is better than orange juice, or a combination of equal parts of juice, peroxide and ammonia.

If your nails are so brittle they break often, or are unduly ridged or chipped, this indicates an acid condition of the blood that a doctor should treat. In case you bruise your nails severely dip the finger tips in hot water—as hot as you can stand it—and keep them there for 15 minutes. This will keep the bruise from being black and unsightly.

Keep your manicure implements immaculately clean and your pastes and lotions covered.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SCORES FERGUSON

DECLARE JIM USURPED WIFE'S OFFICE AND COMMERCIALIZED THE JOB

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Jan. 21 — Charging that James E. Ferguson during the two-year gubernatorial term of his wife, Miriam A. Ferguson, dominated and "commercialized" the governor's office, the house investigating committee declared Friday that impeachment is the only recourse under existing laws. The report of committee of nine, appointed last fall at a call session of the 39th legislature was read to the house of the 40th by Representative Lee Satterwhite of Potter county, chairman.

As it carried no recommendations, the report likely will not be debated. It is of about 7,000 words, and is the committee's summary of at least 600,000 words of testimony compiled during the six weeks the committee sat as a court.

To Print Report
The report will be printed in the journal and will serve as a guide to the house, Representative Claude D. Keer of Williamson county said. "The report shows clearly what evils of the past must be avoided."

The report declared that James E. Ferguson, though practically usurping and dictating "for political favoritism and financial gain," the power and prestige of governor's office, was a private citizen and therefore "beyond the pale of the law."

Not Anticipated
"It was never anticipated by any previous law making body, or by the framers of legislation of this state that such a conditions would ever arise that is, that the governor's office would so completely come under the power and domination of a private individual who would take advantage of the opportunity to commercialize this great and sacred public trust to the enrichment of himself, and members of his immediate family, and porters."

"We, therefore, now have no law, or laws, to prohibit such usurpation of power by a private citizen. Otherwise, there is no doubt in our minds but that the investigations made by the grand jury of Travis county, and by this committee, would have resulted in the return of indictments for criminal offense."

"It is our opinion, further, that the only recourse under our existing laws is by impeachment for the wrongs done to our state by the chief executive."

Police Warn About Breaking Funerals

A warning is being sent out to all motorists by Chief of Police T. E. Kelly against breaking a funeral procession. Complaints have come to the chief from local undertakers about the practice and Chief Kelly said yesterday that it must stop. A city ordinance prohibits the breaking of a funeral line by any sort of vehicle.

Drunk Snoozes on Railroad Track

John Barleycorn was personally responsible for the addition of $25 to the city treasury yesterday, when four "drunks" paid fines of $15 each. One of these, according to Officer John Leonard, who arrested him, had driven his automobile on the railroad tracks and had there gone to sleep. Another, arrested late Thursday night, was alleged to have thought he was a confederate and to have twisted one leg around his neck. The other two were just plain "drunks."

Lad Is Hog-Tied and Thrown Into Ditch

"Hog-tied" and thrown into the ditch, a 11-year-old Malon boy was found Wednesday night bruised but otherwise unharmed, by his mother near his home. When she heard his cries, Deputy Sheriff Terrill Williams and Sheriff Crum investigated, and were told by the boy that as he was walking home from a basketball game in Malon, a "big man" came up behind him, roped and tied him, and carried him down the road a little way on his shoulder before dumping him in the ditch. The identity of the boy's assailant is still unknown to the officers.

Fair Association Directorate Meets

Directors of the Panhandle South Plains Fair association met late yesterday at the chamber of commerce office in the city hall. Only routine matters were transacted. The following are directors: Walter Myrick, president, E. L. Robertson, A. W. May, H. W. Stanton, Alex McDonald, Dr. I. E. Barr, Norton Baker, Spencer Wells, and S. E. Cone.

EL CAPITAN TAKES LUBBOCK LEASES

ANOTHER MAJOR OIL COMPANY ADDED TO THOSE IN THIS FIELD

Another major oil company added Lubbock county to its list of holdings yesterday with the filing of assignments of oil and gas leases by the El Capitan oil company, of San Angelo and Amarillo to the Magnolia Petroleum company, of Dallas, in the office of Amos Howard, county clerk. The leases were made by the El Capitan people several months ago and recently purchased by the Magnolia company. Leases in Hockley county were included in the assignments also. With the Magnolia company buying holdings here, seven of the major companies have shown an interest in the developments of Lubbock county, the Humble oil company, of Houston, having the largest holdings.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Mrs. Louie F. Moore, who has been confined in a local hospital, is convalescing nicely. Mr. Moore said yesterday.

Vaughn E. Wilson, who has been ill with the influenza for several days, was able to be up yesterday.

A number of children are being confined to their beds, suffering with their arms following vaccinations last week.

K. L. Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Durbin left yesterday for Lincoln county, N. M., to be gone several days.

Miss Joe Noah, who teaches near Meadow, is spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Noah.

Mrs. Will Fletcher is ill in a local hospital and her daughter Miss Irene Fletcher, is ill at her home.

Ernest Conley, Jr., small son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Conley, of the A. B. Conley store, here, is recovering from severe scalds, received when he fell into a tub of water, recently. The left arm and leg of the child received severe burns, and although his condition was considered serious for a while, he is reported better.

Members of the sheriff's department aided Hale county officers again late Thursday night when they arrested Johnnie Terral, wanted in Plainview on a charge of theft. Mary Neale, negro, is also in the county jail for the Hale county officers.

C. D. Eaves, member of the history faculty of the Tech, returned yesterday from Austin where he attended the inauguration of Dan Moody.

"Free Pass" to Show Gives Entry to Jail

Four small boys between the ages of 12 and 16 years were arrested by police last night as they were attempting to slip into a local theatre. Officers say one of the boys had his way paid to the show and then went to the five exit and let the others in. The older boy was locked up while the other three were sent home because of their recent vaccination.

HURLWOOD MEETING DISCUSSES RURAL SCHOOLS

A Lubbock party composed of Judge E. L. Klett, Claud Hurlbut and A. H. Leidigh, of the Tech, went to Hurlwood last night where they attended a community meeting there. Consolidation of rural schools was the subject discussed, in which the Lubbock men took part.

TO NAME RETAILERS' "MAJORS" TODAY

FOUR MEN WILL ASSIST RIX IN PUSHING FIGHT FOR MEMBERS

The four majors who will serve under Colonel W. W. Rix in the Retail Merchants association campaign will be announced today and will be called into a meeting early Monday morning to select captains to work during the campaign. Each of the four majors will select three captains to work in the drive. Rix said and the captains will meet later to select five lieutenants each to complete the organization.

Prospects Good
Prospects for a successful campaign are good, Rix said last night. The present membership is realizing the value of the association more all the time and are using the association more each day. Hundreds of new ratings are being added to the files of the association daily and a bigger per cent of Lubbock firms are checking the credit rating of each customer before extending credit.

The pay promptly advertising campaign which the association has been conducting for some time has been highly commended by many members of the association, Rix said. For the past several months the association has run advertisements in Lubbock daily papers each month urging Lubbock people to keep their credit ratings good by paying their accounts each month. Many firms have traced collections to the effect these advertisements have had on their customers, Rix declared.

307 Men in South Plains Scout Work

An evidence of the advance interest in boy scout work over the South Plains area, Scout Commissioner L. S. Harkey yesterday pointed out that whereas two years ago only three men in this area had been working for the scouts, now 307 were actively engaged either as scout masters or in other capacities.

Cates Acquitted on Cold-Check Charge

R. V. Cates was yesterday adjudged in county court "not guilty" on a charge of swindling in connection with the giving of a check in payment of a debt already in existence, which the payee cashed with a third person, after which the bank refused to honor the check.

WESTERNERS OVERWHELM AMHERST HIGH LABARBA FLOORS CLARK FIVE TIMES AND CINCHES TITLE

PACIFIC COAST LAD PROVES HIS RIGHT TO FLYWEIGHT CROWN BY WINNING OVER EUROPEAN CHAMP FROM GLASGOW

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Fidel LaBarba, young Los Angeles flyweight, clinched his right to the world's championship tonight by decisively whipping Elky Clark of Glasgow, the European champion, in a one-sided 12 round bout at Madison Square Garden. Clark weathered a storm of five knockdowns to stay on his feet.

Round One
LaBarba opened up at a fast clip and shot a stream of lefts to the head. Elky backed to the ropes, and ducked away after taking a stiff left hook. The curly, dark-haired LaBarba was a marked contrast in fighting style to the little Scotchman, who seems unable to fathom the American's speed. LaBarba floored Clark for a count of seven with a left hook. Elky arose to take a barrage of punches to the head and wobbled about the ring. The Scotchman sagged at the knees from a stiff right "header," but was saved from punishment by the bell.

Round Two
Clark blinked his eyes and still seemed groggy as he came out of his corner. He covered up but failed to block a stiff left to the cheek. Clark chopped a right to the head. LaBarba danced around looking for an opening and shot over a straight right to the nose. Clark was showing more aggressiveness, but he was a mark for the American's left jab. LaBarba missed a left hook just before the gong.

Round Three
LaBarba walked out of his corner and nailed Clark with a right to the jaw. Elky was showing more fight but found LaBarba's punches too heavy. The Scotchman employed a peculiar crouch, but took a left to the jaw that floored him for a count of seven. Another left sent him down on his back. He got up after a short count and sagged toward the Americans. LaBarba hammered away with both fists but Elky covered his face. The Scotchman took two stiff lefts to the head without a return. Elky went down again and was flat on his face when the bell sounded, at the count of six. Referee Patsy Hays picked him up and carried him to his corner, where his handlers worked feverishly over him.

Round Four
LaBarba swung a wild right to the chin as they met in the center of the ring. Clark swung both fists to the head. Clark took a steady stream of rights and lefts to the head, but seemed in for more. LaBarba seemed over anxious and missed many of his attempts to land a decisive punch. The Scotchman ducked and dodged, but when he tried to rise, LaBarba poked away with his left but Elky jumped in and connected with both fists just before the bell.

Round Five
They got off to a slow start, both sparing for openings. The crowd roared for action. Clark was outfitted in most of the exchanges at close range, but succeeded in blocking most of LaBarba's punches. Elky struck his left to the chin twice but there wasn't much steam behind them. LaBarba backed off from a left hook to the head, then countered with a right to the chin as the round ended.

Round Six
After sparring about, Clark connected with a right uppercut and followed with a sharp left to the jaw. LaBarba jumped in and landed both fists but they spent most of their time sparring. Elky tried his uppercut again, but it bounced over harmlessly. LaBarba smacked Clark on the nose with a sharp left. The Scotchman swung both fists to the head and blocked his rival's counter. They were in a clinch at the bell.

Round Seven
Elky took a sharp left to the jaw after a mild sparring session. The Scotchman's peculiar bobbing and weaving style seemed to bother the American champion. Elky was jolted by two stiff blows to the head. His knees sagged after an overhead right to the cheek. LaBarba landed hard with both fists, but Elky kept his feet and bled back in. The Scotchman was hanging on in a clinch when round ended.

Round Eight
Clark landed a light right to the head, but seemed shaky and slow. He backed away from LaBarba's hands and when he did attempt to counter his punches, had little power. LaBarba staggered Clark with a hard right to the head. Clark fell flat from a stiff left, but arose after a count of eight. LaBarba hammered away with both fists and took a left to the head as Clark swung wildly. LaBarba tried hard for a knockdown but Clark hung on gamely. The Scotchman was on his feet when the bell sounded.

Round Nine
Both sparred cautiously with LaBarba circling his opponent, intent on a knockout. Clark swung a right to the chin and shot his left to Clark's stomach. Elky swung wild with a right. Clark landed his left to LaBarba's head, but took a stiff left hook in return. LaBarba drove both fists to the head. Elky shot his left to the chin as they met at a lively pace for a few seconds before the bell rang.

Round Ten
LaBarba smashed his right to the chin as they came together. Elky's knees sagged from a straight left to the jaw, but he backed off as LaBarba missed a right uppercut. Elky's right eye was half closed from the steady jabbing he had received. LaBarba hooked at the head and shot Clark with a right cross. They were sparring at the bell.

Round Eleven
LaBarba danced and jabbed, stinging Clark with a right to the head. The Scotchman swung with his right but

Rockne-Meanwell Coaching School Will Be Held at S. M. U. This Year, to Begin on June 6, Lasting Two Weeks

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Katie Rockne, the wonder coach of Notre Dame, and Dr. W. H. Meanwell, basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin, will conduct a two-week coaching school at Southern Methodist university beginning Monday, June 6, according to an announcement made today by Dr. R. N. Blackwell, business manager of athletic affairs at S. M. U. The school will be held in the newly completed sports and will probably draw the largest attendance of any coaching school ever held in the southwest. The Rockne-Meanwell school will be devoted to actual play and demonstration as well as the theory of both sports, the school running daily from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. Rockne will have his own classes in the O'Connell Stadium at S. M. U. The school will bring together the two great authors of basketball in their respective ball pavilion recently completed on the S. M. U. campus. The school will be open to all ath-

EXCEPTIONAL staying power has always been a most important quality in Ray-O-Vac radio batteries. Now a new type of construction makes these long-life batteries last from 10% to 15% longer yet!
This new construction does away with the pitch-filled top, making the 45-volt heavy duty battery four pounds lighter. Short circuits are practically eliminated, and each cell gives all its strength in service.
Ray-O-Vac batteries are also famous for their low internal resistance. In "B" batteries this means less distortion in signals and therefore better reception.
There are twice as many radio owners who know these facts, using Ray-O-Vac batteries, as there were a year ago. Leading radio dealers everywhere handle Ray-O-Vac batteries. If you have any difficulty getting them write us.

Westerners Meet Tatum Five Tonight

Tonight the Westerners will meet with the Tatum, New Mexico high school basketball club at the new assembly hall at eight o'clock. The Tatum aggregation are taking a barnstorming tour of a weeks schedule and are fully prepared to give the Lubbock high school a good contest. According to announcement made last evening by Coach L. J. von Tungen, all student tickets will be good for the evening contest. This is the first time the Westerners have had the occasion to work on the Matador floor and will no doubt be able to achieve more in their scoring attempts with the advantages that are afforded in the new assembly hall. The probable line-up for the Westerners will be: Hays and Adkisson, forwards; Smith, center; and Bleakley and Ater, guards.

Let's coaches and students in high school preparatory schools and colleges. Normalcy facilities will be available at S. M. U. for those registering for the courses. The fee for the coaching school will be twenty-five dollars with two dollars additional for registration which will cover locker rental, showers and towels, each man registering for the course being required to furnish his own gym-suit, but having his football equipment furnished by the university. Those interested in the coaching school may address the business manager of athletics or the Registrar at S. M. U. S. M. U. will offer an exceptionally fine line-up of regular summer school courses this year and the men taking the coaching courses, who desire college work or graduate work, can register at the university about the same time for other courses in the regular school.

Sing Sing was named after the Sing Sing Indians, who originally lived in the neighborhood where the New York prison now stands.

LOCAL QUINTET HITS ITS STRIDE AND ROMPS AWAY WITH BULLDOGS TUNE OF 38 TO 13; TATUM NEXT VICTIM

At last the Western basketballers have struck their stride and found their system running smoothly to record an overwhelming victory over the Amherst high school Bulldogs last evening at the local high school gymnasium with a total score of 38 to 13. Although the Westerners did not take advantage of the "crip" shots they worked wonderfully well with Captain Rupert Hays as the leader in their offensive attacks.

Dickson, forward of the Bulldogs crew, rung up the first two counters for the evening, with a free pitch and a field goal; after this, however, the Westerners started a scoring spree which continued the remainder of the game. At first it appeared that the visiting quintet would administer another drubbing to the local five as the Bulldogs, in their first few minutes of play, passed and worked their way to the goal in a very excellent manner; but as soon as their lead was cut down and the local cagers started chalking up field goals their machine was broken and became unorganized. Lack of handling the passes and experience was quite evident in the visiting crew.

One Substitution
Coach L. J. von Tungen used only one substitution in the evening contest: that was, Hill for Bleakley, in the second half. This is very unusual for the high school coach as in the previous games a stream of substitutions have always been sent in during the last period, but since the original line-up had things going their way the mentor, in doubt, thought it best to keep it going. But likewise, Coach Homer Pools, of the Amherst club only sent one substitution in, and that was Clark for Briscoe.

Baseball Squad Is Out in Aggeland

Special to The Avalanche. COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 21.—While the fall baseball squad is not expected to report until the first of March, preliminary warming up practice on the part of some of the A. and M. players is being held whenever the weather permits. Pitchers and catchers have been working out for several days and equipment has already been issued to the players.

The Aggie baseball team, which has a better men back from last year, will have a large squad of promising players from the 1926 freshman team. Claude Rothgeb, head baseball coach, has pointed out:

Among the members of last year's "fish" team who should make the regular squad this year are:

- A. C. Bryant, pitcher; E. Brosscha, pitcher; W. W. Brown, pitcher; H. W. Childers, Houston, infielder; "Short" Davis, Stephenville, infielder; G. A. Kaloon, Houston, outfielder; W. E. Kinper, Beaumont, outfielder; Johnny Konecky, Bryan, catcher; W. L. Mitchell, Fort Worth, pitcher; "Red" Petty, Decatur, infielder; G. A. Wilmoth, Diloot, infielder.

Cowboy Band Will Play in Floydada

Special to The Avalanche. FLOYDADA, Jan. 21.—The Simons Cowboy Band will be in Floydada, February 25 and will give a concert under the auspices of the fifth school. This band was the official band at the inauguration of Dan Moody as governor of Texas.

Will Go to Slaton to Register Autos

In order to complete the registration of cars in that territory, A. J. Clark, assistant tax collector and J. A. Philip, Jr. and W. T. Rayboth deputies will go to Slaton today where they will collect auto license taxes. The branch office of the collector has been opened at Slaton for the past two Saturdays and a great many cars registered both days. Meanwhile the office here will endeavor to register at least 400 cars today. At the last count last night, 4200 cars had been registered.

JOHNNY MAYO, WHO BROKE JAIL BECAUSE HE THOUGHT WIFE DOUBLE-CROSSED HIM, BETRAYED BY PARTNER'S WIFE

(By Associated Press)
TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21.—A woman's fear that her husband, a paroled convict, might "hold up" a bank of some-thing, led to the capture near here early today of John Mayo, who escaped from the Tulsa county jail Sunday.

Mayo and Nat Green, the husband, were arrested in an old cabin in the rough hills of the Osage country by Sheriff R. D. Sanford. Mrs. Green had told the officers to try to find her husband. She feared he was with Mayo.

At 8 o'clock this morning Sheriff Sanford left with a selected posse of officers and surrounded the place. Mayo was found standing behind the door of a bedroom.

"All right, Johnny," the sheriff said, aiming his revolver at Mayo. "You've got me. No trouble."

Mayo nodded. The fugitive held up his hands, dropping a bundle which contained the two revolvers he took when he escaped from the jail. An automatic rifle, stolen from the jail, was found under a pillow. "Now Johnny," the sheriff said as the party started back to Tulsa, "we've got no handoffs with us, and we trusted you once. If you try to get away, you know what it means."

Mayo was carried up the same elevator in the jail that he piloted down in escaping.

"Hello, boys," he said, waving to the jail inmates.

Then he took off the brown overcoat he had taken from the jail and hung it up remarking, "Well, I guess I'll hang this back where I got it."

Mayo, a prisoner from the Kansas penitentiary was brought to Oklahoma to testify in the trials growing out of the Osage "reign of terrors," in which it is alleged that nearly a score of wealthy Indians met death. He has been serving a 21 year sentence for robbery.

Early Sunday morning Mayo, a trusty at the jail, became enraged by reports that another man had been admitted to his wife and because he had not received a pardon he thought due from the government. He approached two jailers with a revolver in each hand and locked them in the "bull pen."

Then he took two more revolvers and the automatic rifle and escaped.

In a taxicab he went immediately to the hotel where his wife and 11 year old son were staying. He rushed into the room of W. C. Holt, battery station employe and holding a gun at Holt's face, demanded that he leave town in three hours.

Monday night he appeared again on the streets of Tulsa and threatened J. L. Sykes, an attorney, who had been employed by Mayo.

HUNG JURY IN LUCERA TRIAL

PRO LAW CHARGE AGAINST
MEXICAN BRINGS DIS-AGREEMENT

Judge Clark M. Mullican discharged the jury in the case of M. Lucera, Mexican, charged with the violation of the pro law, yesterday after the body had deliberated from Thursday night until yesterday morning. The body stood six to six at the final count.

A new trial has not yet been announced and the defendant is still in jail, but he will likely make bond today, officials say. Lucera was represented by Marshall and Stewart.

The case of J. W. Dillon, who is charged with pro law violation, was granted continuance until by the court yesterday.

Officials said yesterday that the case of M. C. Nevels, who is charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, will likely come up this morning.

Other pro law cases are to come up next week, including the trial of Grady Burch, local youth, who is charged with driving a car while drunk. He is also charged with assault with intent to murder along with S. A. Hamilton, growing out of an attack of two men on an aged filling station proprietor last fall.

Texas Banker Comes Clear of Charges

BONHAM, Tex., Jan. 21. (P.—E. H. McClasmon, former vice president of the defunct First State Bank of Paris, was found not guilty here Friday of assaulting and accepting of funds for deposit while knowing the bank to be in a failing condition. The case was tried here on a charge of venue ordered by Judge George P. Blackburn who presides over both courts.

The First State Bank closed its doors in May 1926 by order of the board of directors and was taken over by the state banking department and Mr. McClasmon has made his home in Houston since.

C. H. Noyes, Paris president and Robert Coleman cashier now of Amarillo were indicted on similar charges. Noyes case recently was continued, while Coleman's was transferred here.

Marland Oil Plans Shop in Chalk Field

Special to The Avalanche
BIG SPRING, Jan. 21.—The Marland Oil company who represent active drillers in the Chalk oil field which is located 20 miles southeast of Big Spring are planning the erection of a huge machine shop which will cost approximately $20,000. In this shop all tools will be dressed and all emergency equipment either made or carried in stock. Since the deepening of the Tyler well on section 139, the activity has increased rapidly. The Magnolia company who also owns considerable holdings in the Chalk field as well as in other localities in Howard county has made a number of new locations. There are approximately 20 producing wells in the Chalk field and new wells are being brought in almost daily.

Jack Lockwill at Rocklake Academy By Patten

As he marched Jack forcibly toward the house, Mr. Lockwill was astounded to see the boy struggling to break away and return to the fight. For the first time, the man had a glimpse of the true spirit that dwelt within his son, whom he had thought so weak and spiritless. Twisting around, Jack shook his fist at the bully, and screamed: "You didn't make me beg, and some time I'll fix you for that!"

That night Robert Lockwill, who was a secret diplomatic agent of the Government, had a talk with his wife, "Henceforth," he said, "Jack needs a man's care and training. Tomorrow I must start on a dangerous mission abroad. Before I go, I want you to sign this agreement. He placed a paper before her.

NORRIS

The witness then described a woman of the age and appearance of Mrs. Parker, who said she saw the killing and was almost run over, as she tried to escape. She said she saw the woman appear to have come down the Norris office stairs. She saw the ambulance arrive and carry away Chips body.

He said a bystander told him, "Fletcher Norris has killed him a man."

State's witness, H. H. Rains, has testified Norris remarked "I've killed me a man," just after the killing.

Court Adjourns
Court adjourned shortly after four p. m. until tomorrow because the state had no witnesses for today.

Dr. Norris' testimony was delayed for more than an hour this morning while attorneys argued over the admissibility of evidence tending to show an alleged conspiracy on the life of Norris, his attorneys said existed in Fort Worth.

The jury was dismissed from the room, while Norris, attorneys advised the court on the question of admitting the jury to hear testimony of numerous "inquiries" which Dayton Moses, for the defense, said were links in a chain connected with the killing of Chips.

Norris sat in the witness chair as this argument proceeded, hearing his own attorneys defend him, and the state's attorneys, William McLenn and District Attorney Jesse Martin of Ft. Worth, attack him. He was pale and frowned on the state's attorneys.

The judge ruled against the defense.

declining to permit evidence which he said was too remote.

Norris told some of his early history and schooling, and then launched into events leading up to the killing, about 20 of the telephone conversation about 20 minutes before Chips was killed.

"I heard a man's voice over the telephone," he said. "I said, 'Who is this?' I couldn't understand what he said. I heard him say in a hoarse voice, 'I am coming over and get you on that sermon.' I said, 'Who is this?' he replied, 'It don't matter, and cussed. 'I'm hot going to stand it any longer. I am coming over to kill you, you.'"

"I said, 'who is this?' I asked him his name. He said, 'This is D. E. Chips. I said, 'I don't want you to come over here. I don't want any trouble with you.'"

"He said, 'Well, I'm coming over.' Norris said he called his stenographer in on the line.

"Chips then said I would find out what he wanted when he got there and ripped out an oath.

"Soon afterward, L. H. Nutt came into my office. I asked him if he knew D. E. Chips and he said he thought he knew him at the bank.

Chips Enters
"I was intending to get away as soon as my sermon was completed, but Chips appeared. He opened the door without knocking.

"He said he was D. E. Chips. He closed the door and stood a moment. He then walked over to Mr. L. H. Nutt, who was in the room, and said, 'I know this man, I have seen him in the bank.' He sat down and clinched his fist.

"He looked at me and said, 'I've got something to say to you,' and turning to Nutt, said, 'And you can hear it too.'"

"He then continued: 'If you say anything about my friend, Meacham, I'm going to kill you. I mean every word of it. If you say a word about my friends I'm going to kill you.'"

"The witness testified to him for the first time. 'You don't mean that, I said, 'what difference does it make to you?"

"It makes a lot, he said, getting to his feet.

"I arose and looked at him," said Norris. "I saw he was very mad. I told him I did not want any trouble with him.

Demands Retraction
"You have got to retract your sermon on Meacham or I'll kill you."

"I said that the sermon was already published and told him he was making an impossible demand. I told him I didn't want any trouble with him, and asked him to go.

"He looked at me and I opened the door. I said, 'I don't want another word out of you.'"

"He went in the ante room and just outside the door he said 'remember what I told you—I mean every word I said.'"

"I told him that I repeated all I said that I didn't want any trouble out of him. I turned and went back to my desk and sat down. Then I heard him say 'I'll kill you.'"

"I saw him coming rapidly." Attorney Moses asked, Norris paused and bit his lip and tears came to his eyes.

"Shot Him?"

"I opened the door of my desk," Norris paused, "and grabbed my pistol and shot."

Norris said that he could not remember how many shots he fired. Said that Chips held his right hand toward his hip pocket, Norris illustrating the movement with his own hand. He said it was his best recollection that he had the pistol in some way at the shooting. He then called his wife on the telephone and told her "out the truth." At 8 o'clock he was wearing tears from Mr. Ler eyes at this point in the testimony.

Cross examination of Norris by Prosecutor McLenn occupied about an hour of the afternoon session and Norris—apparently was "unshaken in his main testimony. He denied under cross-examination that he said, 'I've killed me a man,' as witness H. H. Rains had testified.

Norris was unable to say whom he handed his pistol to, explaining that he was too excited at the time of the shooting to remember. He denied that Chips was backing away from him when he shot. Norris admitted he preached the next day after the tragedy and knew that Chips' funeral was that same afternoon. When asked what he did as Chips staggered back into his office, he said, "It has never been clear in his mind."

"Isn't it a fact that Chips said when you shot him, 'Oh you should not have done that?'" asked McLenn.

"No, sir," replied Norris.

Norris was then dismissed without further questioning by either state or defense. He took his seat with an air of relief, the examination having been unexpectedly brief.

Monday night he appeared again on the streets of Tulsa and threatened J

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE?
To the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1898, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, arrives in the World War. He dies and covers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Finally he is identified at a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him, to find that his memory is gone, that he is like a living dead man.

The day before his parents are to take him home, Jim wanders away from his nurse, NELLIE DOWNING. Late that night he is found in Bellevue hospital with his skull fractured, expected to die.

The twins are in Indianapolis at the home of their uncle JOHN CLAYTON, the mystery of their identity having been cleared up while Jim was in France. Some time later Mollie Elwell writes to them, saying that Jim will live, but his memory will never come back.

The day before the Elwells are expected back, the twins have an unpleasant encounter with FREDDIE LAWRENCE, a society nuisance, and Rusty hits him with her shoe. John Clayton comes in with a telegram shortly after, saying it is from MIKE HENNEGAN, the soldier who had identified Jim.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII
"You mean," Rusty asked, "Mike Hennegan is coming here?"
"Precisely. But before I go into detailed explanations, suppose you enlighten me as to what Mike Hennegan is here for. He has your place in here, Freddie. I see, has he, and both of you wear guilty looks. I am suspicious. Has Freddie been acting up again?"

Freddie, Betty explained had met the "sneaky" and had been vanquished.
"The sneaky," he snarled, "seems fond of doing just that to Freddie. Come, now, what happened?"

"Well," began Rusty, "he had an awful nerve. There I was sitting at the piano, playing for his benefit—"

Hardly for his benefit, her sister contradicted. "I don't know, but the atrocities you were committing."

"Well, you know I don't play very well."

"I am interrupting you," he acknowledged. "Tell your story in your own way. I beg your pardon."

"As I said," she went on gathering confidence, "he had an awful nerve. What do you suppose he tried to do to Betty?"

"Are you inviting me to guess?"

"Yes, sir."

"He probably tried to kiss her."

"Exactly. And after what she had done to him the time he tried it before. You remember that?"

John Clayton did. He nodded, smiling, but his eyes held something of a resentful glint. Freddie Lawrence would hear more from this.

Betty picked up the story. "I never expected it, of course. The first thing I knew he was trying to bend my face up to his. He grabbed me and held me so tightly that he hurt me. And—and he had been drinking. I'm sure of it."

"Yes, her sister supplemented, he had smelled like a distillery."

"And I don't know what would have happened if it hadn't been for Rusty and her shoe."

"Eh? Her shoe? You surprise me, my dears."

"Rusty was sitting at the other end of the room. She turned around and saw us and then she slipped her shoe off her foot and threw it at Freddie."

"And Freddie got hit," said the young pitcher.

"Oh, he did?"

"Yes, sir," Betty informed him, "rather hard. He sat down all of a sudden."

joined him.
"Well," he said finally, "you did exactly right under the circumstances. I congratulate you. And now about Mike Hennegan."

To go back to Mike Hennegan and his elevator job at the hospital on Long Island, Mike, as Nellie Downing well knew when he has been given his job, had a great falling. That was his weakness for the game known as craps.

In several of his letters Prof had mentioned Mike's kindnesses to John Clayton and the twins and Clayton had made up his mind that here was another person who had done something that entitled him to some kind of reward.

On one morning when he should have been running his elevator, Mike was down in the basement shooting craps with some of the engineer's best assistants. It was not the first time since he had been on his raw job, and the superintendent reflected sadly when he came upon them, it was not likely to be the last, and that was why he would have to fire him.

Mike was in the midst of an eloquent appeal to the dice to turn over and be good and to show eight spots for him.

"Eighty from Decatur," he coaxed. "Is I shoot the four dollars."

"Man," came from one of his "fad-ers," "stop cratin' so much. You is talkin' all the spots off'n 'em."

"I am," announced Mike, "about to throw an eleven. Come on, little dice, rise up and—"

He got no farther. Contending him was the superintendent. The other offenders had fled.

The superintendent shook his head sadly. "I am afraid, Mike," he said, "that you've had your last chance. A week from today we get a new man for the elevator."

"Yes, sir," and Mike saluted. "Don't blame you."

That evening he was in Bellevue hospital, talking to Prof and Mollie Elwell. He had plenty of time on his hands now, he announced cheerfully, and they could call on him at any time if they wanted him to do something.

Prof began to think. "Mike," he said, "Mr. Clayton of Indianapolis—that's the uncle of the twin girls we raised, you know—has written me that if there's anything he could do for you he'd like to do it. He suggested that you come home with Jim and act as a sort of male nurse and body-guard for a while. Now, since you're out of a job, would you like to do it?"

"When," asked Mike, "do we leave?"

"Tomorrow."

"I'll be right there, Captain. Any further orders?"

"Oh, just pack up your things and be ready, Mike; that's all."

Mollie ventured, a little timidly: "Perhaps it will be very tiresome for Mike."

"If it is," said Prof, "Mr. Clayton has a job down in Indianapolis that would fit Mike like a glove."

"Yes, sir," said Mike, "and now I want to see Jim. It's been a week since I've had a good look at him."

"So that's why Mike's coming along with Jim," John Clayton was explaining to his niece. "I wired the young man myself and this is his reply."

He exhibited it. The twins read: "Absolutely and much obliged, Mike Hennegan."

"And now," said John Clayton, "that Freddie has been disposed of so nicely, and you're already to go tomorrow, I want you to kiss me good night. I must go out and I shall be late. Remember, now," he added hastily, "don't throw any shoes."

They kissed him and he moved on. The butler helped him on with his coat, handed him his hat and closed the door behind him.

"Now," said Rusty, "we'll tell Martha Dalton and then forget all about Freddie. Perhaps she'll get a laugh out of it."

Martha Dalton most certainly did. "How well I remember," she said, "the night you two and Jim sneaked into my house for supper because you didn't want to exhibit Jim's black eye with the beefsteak on it to Mollie and Prof. That was the day that Rusty threw the croquet ball. My dear, please don't go in for bombs."

Up in Bellevue hospital the room which had been occupied by Jim Elwell for several weeks was now vacant. That day he dressed himself, ambled a little here and there by Prof and then walked out. A little weak, Jim was, still, but getting stronger every day.

That night Dr. Lawson, sitting alone in his study in a fashionable Park avenue apartment, was contemplating the uncertainty of the medical profession. He thought of Jim Elwell and Mollie and Prof, and a puzzled little frown creased the skin above his eyes. He tapped with his pencil on the table.

That same night Nellie Downing, suddenly confronted with the reflection that she had not seen Jack Nevin for a week now, called up the city room of the Planet.

Presently he was on the wire. "Yeah? This is Nevin."

"This is Nellie Downing, Jack." "Oh, by golly it's good to hear your voice again. Haven't seen you in a month."

"A week," she corrected. "Is that all? Seems like a month, anyway. Could a fellow call tomorrow night? It's my night-off."

A fellow could, it seemed. "By the way, Jack, I called you up to tell you I was prepared to make amends."

"Amends? What do you mean?" "You remember that I once cheated you out of a good story?"

"Well, cheated was hardly the word. I remember paying my respects to a lovely pair of eyes."

"Behave Tomorrow night when you call, Jack. I'll have another story for you—much better than the first. With names and everything."

NAME WINNERS TON LITTER PRIZES

HAY GETS FIRST AWARD AGAIN IN A. AND M. PIG CONTEST

Special to The Avalanche
COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 21—Out of sixty entries in the 1926 ton litter contest, conducted by the extension service of the A. and M. college of Texas and the Texas Swine Breeders' association, twenty-nine contestants stepped into the ranks of winners, according to announcement of the results just made here by E. R. Eddley, swine specialist of the extension service, and secretary of the Texas Swine Breeders' association.

Twenty-four of the contestants won gold medals by showing litters weighing 2,000 pounds and more at the end of the 180-day period of the contest. Three won silver medals with litters weighing 1,800 to 2,000 pounds and two won bronze medals with litters that weighed 1,600 to 1,800 pounds.

H. M. Hay of Waco, heads the list of winners with a litter of 11 Duroc Jersey that at the end of the 180 days weighed 2,077 pounds. This was the heaviest litter of the lot and in addition to winning a gold medal for Mr. Hay brought him three cash prizes totalling $100 as follows: $50 offered by H. E. Ritchey, manager of the Purline Mills at Fort Worth, for the heaviest litter in the state; $25 by the National Duroc Jersey association for the heaviest Duroc litter; and $25 more by the same association in case the heaviest Duroc litter should be the heaviest litter in the state.

Of the twenty-nine winning litters, fifteen were Duroc Jersey (ten Postland Chinas, one grand Poland China, one Hampshire, and two Chester Whites).

Gold medal winners in the contest in addition to Mr. Hay included: George P. Hillard, Arlington; Joe J. Hughes, Center; J. E. Rigler, Plainview; Henry Marwitz, Indian Gap; J. W. Glasgow, Van Alstyne; H. Hester, Waco; E. E. Hartman, Rockwall; E. C. Judd, Waco; Henry Rottach, Le Grange; Litch Sparks, Spearman; J. L. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

General Topic:—What Jesus Taught About Prayer.

Scripture Lesson—Mark 1:35; 14:32-36; Matt. 6:9-13.

Mark 1:35: And in the morning, a great while before day, he rose up and went out, and departed into a desert place, and there prayed.

14:32 and went up into a place which was named Gethsemane: and he saith unto his disciples, sit ye here, while I pray.

33. And he taketh with him Peter and James and John, and began to be greatly amazed and sore troubled.

34. And he saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful even unto death: abide ye here, and watch.

35. And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that it if it were possible, the hour might pass away from him.

36. And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee, remove this cup from me: howbeit not what I will, but what thou wilt.

Matt. 6:9. After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.

10. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth.

11. Give us this day our daily bread.

12. And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.

13. And bring us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one.

Golden Text—Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. Matt. 7:7.

Introduction Jesus came for one thing, to bring men nearer to God; if possible, into close communion with him. Hence the vast importance in his economy of prayer, which is one of the chiefest means of communication between man and God, the language which men speak in intercourse with God. We can be intimately with God when we are not praying, just as we can enjoy one another's company in silence; only when we talk with God we do it by prayer, or song, which is really musical-praying. There stands out Jesus' own impressive experience, who often talked with the Father in prayer. And there are few religious acts in regard to which Jesus gave us full instructions, as he did to this matter of praying.

The Model Prayer, Matt. 6:9-13. "The Model Prayer" is a most fitting designation of the one recorded here in Matthew's Gospel; for Luke in his record says that it was phrased by Jesus in answer to a request of his disciples, "Lord, teach us to pray." Clearly, then, Jesus wants us to pray "after this manner."

1. In secret, just God and you, quietness would be implied, for being quietness mortals we can not help being distracted by the world's noises and confusions. And true devotion is never ostentatious. This applies, of course, to intimate, private prayer, and not at all to praying in larger or smaller groups, which has its own rules and benefits.

2. No vain repetitions. The word means, literally, "to repeat uselessly." Prayer that is really a talking with God, and from the heart, will never be like that; but sincere, direct, repeated fervent. We can scarcely avoid the use of the same words and phrases in our prayers, our vocabularies and command of language are not sufficiently extensive. Jesus' strictures is not aimed at that; but rather, say, at the Roman Catholic practice of an hundred or a thousand paternosters, or at the absent-minded, half-sleep night and morning prayer of many of us; in short, at mechanical praying.

3. God, his name, glory, and kingdom shall be thought of first, before ourselves. The prayer that puts self-interest first, will not be likely to have any thought at all of God.

4. You shall pray for the body's needs. But bread is a large and figurative term in the Bible, and assuredly the mental and spiritual needs are included, especially the latter.

5. Confession, and the prayer for forgiveness. We can hardly expect to receive the blessing until we are on good terms with God; have "made it all right" with him—and them, our fellow men.

6. Then Jesus seems to remember that our greatest need of all will be defense against the devil and his temptations; and so he tells us to pray for that.

The Reasonableness of Prayer. Matt. 7:7-11. Jesus states, first, the general principle that we get only what we go out for, find only what we seek; that doors don't open for us unless we knock at them. That is a truth of which we have constant demonstration. It would be strange indeed if it did not hold in the sphere of religion. God doesn't force his gifts into our hands; and if they are worth having, they are worth the asking.

Jesus' designation of God as Father has an important bearing upon prayer. You fathers and mothers, he says, walk, selfish, human, as you are, find your greatest joy in planning and telling of your children's welfare. Almost any wish or whim of theirs is granted, if it be within your power. Don't you suppose, then, that this great and good God Father, who loves you with an infinite love, you bestow the good things you ask for? Jesus' restriction, "good things" is often overlooked. That which would be but for us, Jesus emphasizes. God doesn't give, may how we may. As the heavenly Father is greater and better than you are, so his gifts are vastly larger and richer than yours to your children.

The Spirit of Prayer, Luke 11:9-14. The true attitude for prayer is set forth in this very interesting parable recorded only by Luke. Humility and confession are marked in that spirit. The publican's single petition is for mercy. It was a miserable thanksgiving that the Pharisee was rendering God; and when a man is self-righteous as he was his prayer is likely to be to himself rather than to God. "I stood and prayed thus to be not with himself." To look down at others is not to look up to God and hence nullify our praying. Many Christians need to be reminded that boasting is not praying.

Persistence in Prayer, Luke 11:5-8. The "hanging-on virtues," as they have been called, seem to have stood very high in Jesus' estimation; patience, perseverance, "stick-to-itiveness" (Matt. 10:22; John 8:31; Luke 8:52). In this other parable he teaches that they count in prayer. If we want anything very much, we will not be put off with a refusal or two. God tests our desire and faith in this way. The time that Jesus prayed the whole night through, upon the mountainside, he must have fairly wrestled with the Father for heavenly wisdom wisely to select his apostleship. The power of prayer is largely to be determined upon whether the prayer has Jacob's determination, "I will not let thee go except thou bless me."

The Confidence of Prayer. 1 John 5:14-15. This is really the most important thing of all about praying, from a practical point of view. Prayer means nothing to me if I do not believe that it is effective, and my praying is a farce if I am not confident that it is being heard and answered by a God who loves me. Without this faith, moreover, we shall lack "the boldness" to go on praying. John's assurance here must always be taken in the light of those words "according to his will." They were the undertone of our Lord's Gethsemane prayer. "God's will is always for his children's good, and therefore it is only when they ignorant by ask for what is not for their good that their prayers are denied."

Within the secret place, Shut out from every face, Thou, Father, art with me!"

$1,550,000 Tax Lien Against Chaplin

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Lien against more than $1,550,000 were filed today in the United States district court against Charles Spencer Chaplin, motion picture comedian, and the Charles Chaplin film corporation of Los Angeles. The step was taken by Frank J. Bowers, collector of internal revenue in this district, and like similar liens filed in San Francisco, is based on allegedly unpaid income tax assessments, with penalties and interest added.

PLAN FIGHT ON DOPE League May Call International Conference at Washington To Study Means Of Drug War

GENEVA, Jan. 21 (AP)—An international conference in Washington to study means of combatting the growing illicit trade in habit forming drugs was unofficially suggested here today as a practical step toward meeting an evil which is causing growing apprehension. Members of the league of nations undoubtedly would prefer Geneva, but it is believed that Premier Mussolini of Italy, for one, is ready to go to Washington or anywhere else unless the league succeeds in achieving results by stopping over production in accordance with the Tague convention.

Engineers Get Data Lockney Contracts

LOCKNEY, Jan. 21—Representatives of two large engineering firms have been in Lockney this week looking over the field and gathering data in order that they may have first hand information when contract is let for the city's water main extensions and sewer lines. Contract will likely be awarded for these improvements before the close of the year.

NINE OF FIFTEEN FARMERS NAMED AS BEST IN LONE-STAR STATE ARE FROM TERRITORY SERVED BY WEST TEX. C. C.

Special to The Avalanche STAMFORD, Jan. 21 — Nine of the 15 farmers named as Master Farmers of Texas in the recent contest of The Progressive Farmer are men who live in the territory served by the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Though West Texas entrants in the state-wide contest were rather noticeably in the minority, more than fifty per cent of the winnings were carried off by the western section.

West Texas' repeated winnings within the last months continue to disprove the "tradition-worn" report of "widespread western plagues" and prove truth of West Texas' possibilities and undeveloped resources as presented by the West Texas chamber of commerce. The naming of more than one half of Texas Master Farmers as West Texans is a fitting climax to previous West Texas honors at the Texas State Fair and at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition at Philadelphia where the West Texas chamber of commerce exhibit won over national competition.

The nine Master Farmers of the West Texas chamber of commerce territory are: C. M. Carroway, Comyn, Comanche county; T. D. Porcher, El Paso, El Paso county; A. C. Wurzbach, Hondo, Medina county; Fred Love, Plainview, Hale county; K. A. Holkamp, Comfort, Kerr county; Herman Schultze, Kerrville, Kerr county; Frits Fuehes, Abernathy, Lubbock county; T. F. Nabors, Big Spring, Howard county; A. C. Ilse, D'Hanis, Medina county.

Medals will be awarded to each Master Farmer of Texas at a banquet to be tendered in their honor at Dallas, February 7, by The Progressive Farmer, R. M. Martin, field editor of the farm journal, has written the West Texas chamber of commerce complimenting the West Texas showing and urging that every Master Farmer of the regional organization's territory make special effort to attend the Dallas banquet in February.

Texan Balked of His Revenge on Partner

OMAHA, Jan. 21 (AP)—A Texas salesman, O. E. Walcott, who obtained appointment as deputy sheriff for the special purpose and "privilege" of returning his former business associate to Dallas on an embezzlement charge, arrived in Omaha today to find that his man, L. L. Smallwood, had been surrendered by police to the sheriff of Sherburne, Ala.

Both officials raced to Omaha to get first claim on Smallwood, who has been held here for several days. Both arrived today but the Alabama sheriff's charge that Smallwood had swindled a Sheffield man out of $15,000 in a furniture deal was given priority.

Walcott said he and Smallwood sold automobiles jointly for a Dallas concern about a year and a half ago that Smallwood had left with the proceeds of two cars, leaving him to answer embarrassing questions.

Rotary School Now Under Way at Slaton

Special to The Avalanche SLATON, Jan. 21—A Rotary school is in session here for the members of the Slaton Rotary club, of which Floyd C. Rector is the president. The principles of Rotary will be taught the members through a period of four weeks by the following teachers: W. H. McKirkhan, A. J. Payne, Rev. B. B. Holloway and R. A. Baskin. Classes are conducted on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. The club's membership was divided into groups before the school began, each group attending one night session each week.

Group records, when the school closes, will show which class maintained the highest attendance percentage.

FIND PITTSBURGH WOMAN MURDERED IN NEW JERSEY CAPE MAY, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—The body of an elderly woman, well dressed, found on the beach here during the snowstorm last Saturday night, was identified today as that of Mrs. Mary E. Clark, believed to have been a woman of independent means of Pittsburgh. Police believe the woman was murdered.

DAILY MARKET

BROADSTREETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)-Broadstreet's tomorrow will say: Wholesale trade this week was spotted, with some future business booked in certain lines, especially cotton goods, but with most orders of a fill-in nature. Some centers reported that although it was expected that a good spring business would develop, eventually, retailers were backward in building up depleted stocks. At Chicago a better business was done with buyers from the southwest than had been anticipated, in view of the low price of raw cotton, wholesaling was held back somewhat by heavy falls of price and low temperatures early in the week, over the northern sections of the country, an this factor retarded retail trade to an even greater extent. It was further noted that response to "Reduction sales" at retail was not as strong as earlier in the month. Jewelry and millinery showed perhaps, somewhat more than seasonal dullness.

Weekly bank clearings $10,337,063, a decrease of 4.1 percent from a year ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21 (AP)-The cotton market was moderately active today but prices were rather two-sided, advancing during the morning and reacting during the afternoon following an irregular opening price advanced 12 to 13 points, owing to bad weather in the belt and good Liverpool cables. Near noon Hester's mill ledings for the week of 35,400 bales proved disappointing and the market eased off 12 to 9 points on liquidation and disappointed further on two private ginning estimates, one making the ginnings for the last period 1,250,000 bales and the other 1,346,000. About the middle of the afternoon, however, prices rallied 7 to 9 points on covering. The market again turned easy in the late trading, dropping to levels 14 points on all positions below the highs. The close was near the lows, showing net unchanged to 2 points up.

Prices opened irregular, one point down to 4 up, but as cables were better than due and the weather in the belt continued, had prices soon rallied and eventually March traded up, to 15.52, May to 13.79 and July to 13.35. Averaged noon prices eased off on disappointing mill takings and declined further during the afternoon on two private ginning estimates, March dropping to 13.38, May to 12.58 and July to 12.78, or 12 to 14 points under the highs. Later prices started to rally on covering, gaining 7 to 9 points, but eased off again to new lows at 12.58 for May and 12.11 for July. The close was practically at the lows. Exports for the day totaled 47,526 bales and for the week 329,815 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)-After holding steady the greater part of the day, cotton eased off during realistic March declining from 12.53 to 12.23.

LOCKNEY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL HOLD BANQUET AND GET-TO-GETHER MEETING ON TUESDAY OF NEXT WEEK

Special to The Avalanche
 LOCKNEY, Jan. 21—Members of the Lockney chamber of commerce realize that they can not hope more out of the organization than they put into it, and that is why they are now planning for a banquet and get-together meeting for a time they will raise a $2,000 budget for the coming year. There is no doubt but that the necessary amount will be subscribed immediately, and there are some who feel that the amount shall be increased.

The city is now enjoying a splendid growth, and while there are a number of reasons for this, the building of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway into the city has been largely responsible. For with the coming of the Denver a number of large enterprises were announced; some of the more prominent being a new $450,000 cotton mill which will be erected by Anderson-Clayton company of Houston, a modern compress, steam laundry and other important firms.

At the meeting Monday it was decided that two additional vice-presidents were needed and Carl McAdams and Ray C. Ayers were chosen.

At the secretary's request the chairman appointed the following to serve as permanent committees during the year: Membership, H. P. Coleman and Tom Stewart; entertainment, A. P. Barker and J. W. Monroe; finance, Robert Baker, Zack Riley and W. C. Watson; social service, H. B. Adams, and Artie Baker; extension, W. C. Watson, J. B. Downs and Ray B. McCorkle. It is probable that additional workers will be added from time to time, though those named above are to serve for the entire year.

The body voted to hold its banquet and get-together meeting on Tuesday night of next week. Tickets will be supplied all members and their wives, as well as a number of out-of-town guests, free of charge. The secretary has completed his work of outlining the 1927 program, and the program will be made public at the meeting.

There is no doubt but that Lockney is in better shape financially than in many years, and citizens of the city and community are going to take advantage of the condition. New buildings may be seen going up on almost every street in the city, and some large and substantial business houses are to be erected during the coming months.

Colony Is Immoral Civil Suit Charges

LEESVILLE, La., Jan. 21 (AP)—Charges of immorality at the Llander cooperative colony near here, made in a civil suit asking receivership were discounted today by Vernon Parish officials.

No such charges have been reported to the sheriff's office for criminal action. The general opinion was said to be that the colonists are peaceful, law abiding citizens, although some of the members hold what are considered locally as visionary theories of government.

During the fourteen years of the colony's existence, officials said that, with the exception of one or two equity cases, there had been no arrests among the 150 members.

J. R. Allen of Healdton, Oklahoma, a stockholder, filed civil suit Wednesday asking for a receivership. The petition charged that the affairs of the colony had been "grossly mismanaged" and that the interests of the stockholders had been jeopardized by directors by "permitting acts of immorality to be countenanced in the colony."

No answer to the Allen suit has been filed yet.

Funeral Thursday for Mrs. Walter Hitt

Mrs. Walter Hitt, 41, who died about 6:40 o'clock Thursday morning in a local hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis a few days ago, was buried yesterday afternoon in the local cemetery, following services in the Rix undertaking chapel. She is survived by her husband and 11 children, all of whom were here for the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Hitt had lived near Lubbock for the last six years and have lived about four miles south of Wolfarth for two years.

SENATE WAITS FOR FULL LIST MOODY APPOINTEES

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Senatorial consideration of Governor Dan Moody's partial list of appointments submitted Thursday probably will not be set until the remainder of the appointments are officially tendered.

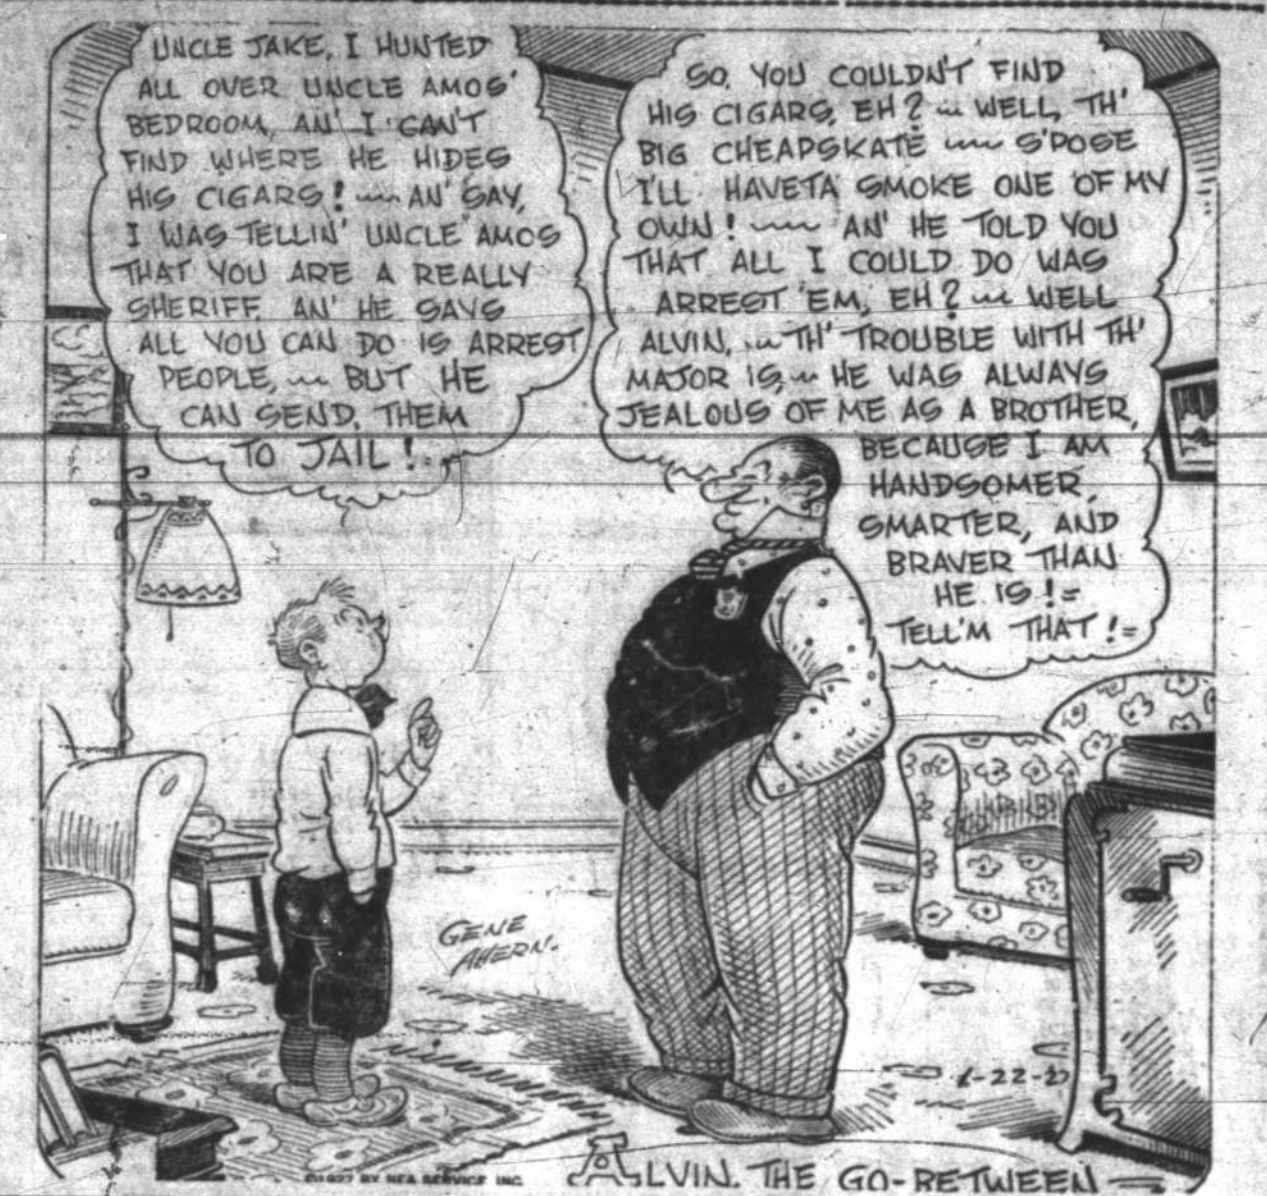

No opposition to confirmation is anticipated.

In sending up his list Thursday, Moody withdrew the nomination made by former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson which had not been acted upon. They were: H. A. Wroe, Austin, member of the Texas University board of regents, and Miss Fannie Daniel, Austin, state labor commissioner.

Appointments: Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, Austin, Secretary of State; former Governor J. D. Sayers, Austin, and former Assistant Attorney General George E. Christian, Austin, members of the board of pardons advisors; R. L. Robertson, Gonzalez, Adjutant General; Dr. J. C. Anderson, Hale county, health officer; H. N. Fitzgerald, Austin, member of the board of regents of the College of Industrial Arts; James L. Young, Kaufman county, and P. L. Downs, Jr., Bell county, members of the board of directors of Texas A. and M. college; Ashton G. Carter, Post Worth; E. O. Thompson, Potter county; and R. A. Underwood, Hale county, members of the board of regents of Texas Tech.

BAPTISTS OF PLAINVIEW DISTRICT WILL HOLD ALL-DAY RALLY MONDAY IN AUDITORIUM AT WAYLAND COLLEGE

Special to The Avalanche
 PLAINVIEW, Jan. 21—An all-day district rally will be held at the Wayland college auditorium in Plainview Monday January 24 by the State Baptists convention, beginning at 9:30 a. m.

Among the notable Texas Baptists who will be present are Dr. George W. Truett and Dr. L. R. Scarborough of Dallas, H. L. Kokenut of San Antonio and T. C. Gardner, state B. Y. P. U. secretary. Rev. J. Pat Horton of Plainview, who is the district organizer of the 16th district will have charge of the rally, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Williamson, head of the W. M. U. work.

The rally of the 16th district is one of a series of rallies being held in the sixteen Texas districts in connection with the Conquest Campaign to pay off outstanding indebtedness of the Baptist causes and institutions of Texas.

The district forces will be assembled Tuesday under the direction of J. Pat Horton and will start on a short tour of the district. Mrs. L. W. Williamson, E. B. Morgan of Paducah and M. C. Bishop of Post will be members of the party.

Lita Chaplin Gets Order for Alimony

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Lita Chaplin, through her attorneys today obtained an order from Superior Judge Guerin ordering receivers for property of Charles Spencer Chaplin, film comedian, whom she is suing for divorce to pay her temporarily alimony, and attorneys' fees of $14,000 out of funds or property now in their hands.

Earlier today solicitors representing the government, which has filed income tax liens against Chaplin for more than a million dollars, stated the government's claims would not be released unless a bond of that sum was posted by the comedian. Chaplin has seven days yet with which to comply with the government's demand. Despite the court order, Mrs. Chaplin will have to wait for temporary relief and attorneys' expenses until the liens have been satisfied, it was pointed out.

MYSTERY SHROUDS SLAYING OF COUPLE

BIRMINGHAM RAILROAD OFFICIAL AND WOMAN FOUND DEAD NEAR AUTOMOBILE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 21—Mystery tonight surrounds the slaying of A. A. B. Moore, 40, superintendent of safety and sanitation of the Southern railroad and Mrs. Ruby Thornton, 33, Birmingham late last night. Her shot to death on a lonely road near bodies were found today. A shotgun charge had blown away Moore's face. His body was found beside his automobile in a pine thicket a mile and a half from the road.

Shot in Back
 The woman's body was found about seventy-five yards away. She had been killed by a shotgun charge in the back of her head, leading police to advance a theory that she had been slain while fleeing from the car. A discarded shotgun and several empty shells were found near her body.

The double slayings, authorities believe, occurred about 9 o'clock last night, as residents near the scene of the shooting reported hearing gun shots at that time.

Although $50 in cash that Moore was known to have had last night was missing when the body was found, police discounted the robbery theory.
