No-growth state budget is proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, saying "the days of free spending are gone," today proposed what he called a no-growth state budget that would maintain total tax income at the current level.

Aides said that bottom-line total would include the $2.9 billion that would be raised if sales and gasoline tax hikes scheduled to expire Aug. 31 were continued beyond the deadline.

"The time is past for business as usual, for the old politics of tax, tax, tax, spend, spend, spend," Clements said in remarks prepared for his State of the State address.

"The simple fact is that this budget holds the line on government spending while we get our economy moving again," Clements told the joint House-Senate session.

Clements proposed that lawmakers keep state revenues at their present levels over the next two years.

He proposed widening the sales tax base to include services not now taxed and then actually lowering the rate from its current 5¼ percent level.

And he warned lawmakers he wouldn't approve any additional tax hikes.

"I will veto any plan that increases revenues above current levels," the governor said.

Clements also proposed several key changes in the public education system, including rolling back the no-pass, no-play extra-curricular activity suspension period from six weeks to three weeks.

The six-week suspension has proven to be a "disincentive" for student athletes, Clements said.

The Republican governor took office last month with Comptroller Bob Bullock predicting an estimated budget deficit of $5.8 billion over the next 30 months.

But Clements, in his speech to a joint House-Senate session, said the deficit really only is the $1 billion shortfall pending between now and the end of the fiscal year on Aug. 31.

The remaining $4.8 billion in the deficit estimate includes a "wish list" of programs sought by state agencies, he said.

Clements proposed total spending for 1988-89 at $36.87 billion, an increase of $766 million.

To finance the plan, Clements suggested that lawmakers maintain the current revenue, settle several outstanding tax issues, and use $276 million of the capital gains earnings from the Permanent School Fund and Permanent University Fund, an idea which many lawmakers sharply criticized when it was proposed last year.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Rudd said he isn't certain the House would approve Clements' proposals. He said the House might not even look at it until senators, who in the past favored tax hikes to service cuts, decide whether they like it.

"I can go along with a lot of these proposals, not all of them, but some. I don't think the Senate can go along with many of them," Rudd said.

Clements said he doesn't believe lawmakers can continue to raise state spending during a time of economic recession when people across Texas are being forced to tighten their belts.

WAITING FOR WORD — Debbie and Bob Lang of Snyder were on the telephone much of Wednesday morning, hoping for official confirmation that Debbie's brother — Gerald F. Sieb, a reporter for the Wall Street Journal — had been released by the Iranian government. The Associated Press reported Seib has been "expelled." (SDN Staff Photo)

Sister learns brother freed by Iran today

From Local, Wire Reports

News reports Wednesday morning indicated that Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib has been released by Iranian officials. Seib, brother of Snyder woman Debbie Lang, had been detained in Iran since Saturday.

"We're just thrilled," his sister said Wednesday. "We're still awaiting official word from the state department, but it's still the best news we've had all week."

The Associated Press reported Wednesday that an Iranian news agency has quoted an unidentified Information Ministry official as saying Seib was "expelled" after a judicial probe into his case concluded.

The source quoted the official as saying Seib was permanently banned from Iran.

Mrs. Lang said she and her family learned of her brother's possible release at 6:15 a.m. Wednesday.

They received word of his detention Sunday. Since that time, they have been in frequent telephone contact with her parents in Hays, Kan., where her family is originally from.

She and her husband Bob, manager for McWhorter's Tire Company here, have lived in Snyder more than two years.

In the AP release Wednesday, it quotes a three-paragraph story from the Iranian news agency which said Seib was among a group of foreign reporters who had been invited to file reports on "new Iranian victories" in its war against Iraq. He had been detained on Saturday during a trip by reporters invited by the Iranian government.

Earlier Wednesday, Iranian Prime Minister Hussein Musavi had said Seib would be "expelled" from Iran in the next two or three days.

Musavi said in a Tehran Radio interview that Seib was "engaged in certain investigations and collecting intelligence at the front."

Seib was accused by Iran of being a "spy of the Zionist regime."

His colleagues at the Wall Street Journal have consistently denied these charges since his detainment.

Seib, 30, was among 57 foreign journalists invited to Iran for a tour last week of the war front where Iran has been fighting Iraq since September 1980. He had been in Iran for 10 days when he was seized outside outside his hotel in Tehran.

Tehran Radio on Monday accused Seib of entering the country with a false passport disguised as a journalist.

Journal chairman Warren H. Phillips called the detention a "dreadful mistake" and said Seib

Following year's trend...

January 'slow' for building

The slowest month in Snyder building for the past several years was reported during January.

Only five building permits were issued, four of these for mobile home move-ins. The fifth permit was for construction of a storage building here.

The slow down in new construction has already shaved the year-to-date figure by more than one-half the amount reported in 1986.

With three months now recorded of the fiscal year, Snyder's building estimate stands at just under $686,000 compared to $1.7 million last year.

The month of January produced only $40,800 to add to this.

The four mobile home move-ins during January accounted for $38,800 of the month's total. These permits were issued to Julie Valadez, 1407 20th St.; George Larralde, 507 31st St.; Willie Pacheco, 2004 Ave. N; and David Thurmond, 406 27th St.

For the year-to-date, the city has recorded only four permits for new single family residences and two commercial building projects.

The number of mobile home move-ins now stands at 15.

The exact building total for the year-to-date is $685,850. This time last year, the total was $1,780,388.

Tax review board members renewed

Ross Carroll and Harold Lacik were renamed to the three-member appraisal review board Tuesday during the regular session of the Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors.

Both men were named after agreeing to serve another term on the review committee. Both have served on the board since 1983 and this will mark their third two-year term.

Lacik is head of R.E. Smith operations for Scurry County and Carroll is a retired Sun Oil Co. staffer.

Traditionally, review board members are asked to serve again. Both Lacik and Carroll will join Walter Stirl, who has one year remaining on his two-year term.

Review board members generally hold hearings in July to answer questions or hear complaints from taxpayers who disagree with property assessments made by appraisal staffers.

If the property owner or appraisal officials do not accept the board's ruling, the next avenue of appeal is through district court.

Also at Tuesday's session, board members approved minutes from last month's session and payment of district bills.

Board members attending were Pete Hester, Ross Blanchard and Mairl McFaul. Also present were Chief Appraiser L.R. Peveler, Assistant Appraiser Larry Crooks and County Tax Collector Rona Sikes.

Board members Dwaine Williams and John Reed were absent.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If at first you don't succeed, try looking in the wastebasket for the directions."

Last week we were in Fort Worth for a meeting of the Texas Press Association. Several folks in Snyder asked if we ran into Brent Taylor, former SDN ad rep, who is now publisher of the Lamb County Leader.

One such person was his mother, Bobbie Taylor, who is a fifth grade teacher at Stanfield Elementary. Brent was impressed by the hotel's doorman and the valet parking. "When that guy opened my door, I sure was glad I had worn a suit," Taylor said.

Everything went just fine during the convention, except for the temporary power outage at the hotel. The Scurry County native was stranded on the escalator for almost 15 minutes.

Former SDN Editor Wacil McNair was not at the convention, but his boss, Gilmer publisher Sarah Greene was. She informed us that Wacil and wife, Marj, had just returned from Boston where they hugged around on a new grandbaby.

McNair had noted how the tables had turned. In Boston, one industrial executive told him of difficulties in filling personnel vacancies with the employment rate below three percent.

Several years ago, the situation was reversed. Texas had low unemployment and Boston was the unemployment capital. McNair observed that fast-food chains are begging for order-takers at $6 per hour.

But don't plan on packing up and moving. Housing is still high and tight, and it is impossible to make payments on even the cheapest home in the Boston area.

McNair also observed that the folks in the Northeast are generally unsympathetic to the woes of the oil industry. One New England Congressman observed he was not interested in higher oil prices because he was filling his home heating tank for less than $400 compared to almost $800 in the early '80s. Wacil also noted that gasoline prices are lower in Boston than in Texas.

They call it getting even with boastful Texans.

Ask Us

Q. — How have our local representatives voted regarding the proposed pay raise for U.S. congressmen?

A. — The pay raise, which is apparently going into effect, never came to a vote in the U.S. House of Representatives. U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm has opposed it, however. He has indicated he will not accept the pay raise should it go into effect. The U.S. Senate voted to oppose the measure last week, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen cast his vote against the pay raise.

Midland blast

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — The cause of a propane explosion at a gas plant south of Midland that triggered a fire was under investigation today, authorities said.

The cause of the explosion, which ruptured some pipelines, was unknown, said Midland Fire Chief James Roberts. No injuries were reported.

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Hydrochloric gas leaking from a small tank at an oilfield service company caused the closing of a state highway today for about one hour, authorities said.

The leak occurred at 6:15 a.m. about one mile north of Big Spring on Texas Highway 87. No injuries were reported.

Reagan loses

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, lustily cheered by Congress last week when he urged restraint in federal spending, is losing his first big fiscal fight as the Democratic-controlled 100th Congress moves to override a $20 billion presidential veto.

The president took a lopsided wallop Tuesday when the House voted 401-26 to override his second veto of the popular Clean Water bill to reauthorize and strengthen the nation's fight against water pollution.

Redesigned booster test questioned

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — An astronaut monitoring the redesign of space shuttle rocket engines has questioned whether planned tests of new boosters will be rigorous enough.

Robert L. Gibson, who piloted one shuttle mission and commanded another, said a key test of a portion of the solid rocket booster engine did not include all the stresses the rocket could experience during a launch.

"It doesn't simulate the flight environment very well," Gibson told The Houston Post in a story published Tuesday. "That's the area I know John Young (chief of the astronaut corps) has a little bit of concern (about)."

He said the concern was being discussed with engineers on the rocket redesign team.

A solid rocket joint that leaked flame is blamed for the Challenger accident that killed seven crew members. The spacecraft exploded Jan. 28, 1986, just 73 seconds after it was launched from Florida's Kennedy Space Center.

The rocket joints are being redesigned and tested before the shuttle flies again.

Gibson said his concern was about a test to be conducted later this year at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama.

The test involves burning a small amount of solid propellant loaded into a portion of a booster. The firing is to be in a vertical position and would last just long enough to test the rocket joint seal.

Gibson said the test would not mimic the stresses encountered by weight-bearing struts or braces attached to the rockets.

Changing the test would delay the resumption of shuttle flights, Gibson said. The first flight with the new rocket booster is set for Feb. 18, 1988, but Gibson called that "obviously a very optimistic schedule."

Gibson said another concern was finding a suitable new material for the rubberized O-rings used to seal joints in the solid rocket segments. A leaky seal is thought to have led to the Challenger accident.

Investigators believe low temperatures the morning of Challenger's launch may have played a role in causing the leak. Engineers have proposed putting heaters on the joints, but would prefer to find material that would be unaffected by cold because a heating system "gives you another possible point of failure," Gibson said.

Mandatory AIDS test is proposed

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal agency's proposal for mandatory AIDS tests for anyone admitted to a hospital and even for couples seeking marriage licenses "would drive the disease underground," a medical ethicist says.

Civil libertarians also condemned the tentative U.S. Centers for Disease Control proposal, saying screening would violate fundamental rights to privacy.

Dr. Walter Dowdle, the agency's AIDS director, said Tuesday's proposal and a public hearing later this month were a way to "explore issues related to using the test to prevent further infection."

But Carol Levine, who researchs ethical issues related to AIDS at the Hastings Center in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., said such screening would "drive the disease underground by driving people away from the setting in which they could get the needed treatment and help."

And Nan Hunter, a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union, called mandatory testing "a violation of fundamental privacy rights and, like many coercive measures, counterproductive."

The number of Americans who have contracted AIDS through heterosexual contact has risen from only a few in 1981 to 4 percent of the more than 30,000 confirmed cases. More than 16,800 people have died from the disease, and the CDC estimates AIDS will strike 270,000 people and kill 179,000 through 1991.

Dowdle said the steady increase, especially among heterosexuals, prompted the proposal to sharply expand testing. "We're saying these are the ways the test might be used. Here are the justifications, here are the obstacles."

Mandatory AIDS testing already is required for blood donors, military personnel and State Department foreign service employees and their families.

One obstacle, Dowdle said, might be a concern about confidentiality, and that hospitals and government agencies would have to ensure that test results remained secret to prevent discrimination.

Ms. Hunter agreed that confidentiality would be a concern.

"When you have a controversial political issue you can't assume medical records will remain confidential the way they are when you get treatment for flu," she said in a telephone interview from New York.

Ms. Hunter and other critics argued that research, education and counseling were the way to deal with the deadly disease.

The CDC has invited 250 public health officials and civil libertarians to an Atlanta public hearing Feb. 24-25 to discuss the proposal.

Dowdle said the CDC would decide after the hearing whether to make a formal proposal.

Woman's 'Right' Not to Wear Seat Belt Causes Great Wrong

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My wife refused to wear a seat belt. She said it messed up her clothes, was uncomfortable and, besides, she might be trapped if the car ever went underwater — even though there is no water within 50 miles of here.

Well, she had an automobile accident last May, and now she is paralyzed from the shoulders down. There is no doubt that she could have prevented this tragedy had she worn a seat belt, but she had always said, "It's my right to choose to wear a seat belt or not to wear one; it's my life, and it's nobody's business but my own." (Her exact words.)

Between my job and caring for her, I have no life at all. I'm only 42, and now all our dreams have gone up in smoke. I have all I can do to keep from printing her words on a poster in big block letters and placing it in her bedroom on the wall facing her, then walking out. Abby, at times I feel such hostility toward her, I don't know how much longer I can go on like this. God, give me strength! I've always worn a seat belt; so have our two practically motherless teen-age children.

DISGUSTED IN GEORGIA

P.S. I have a 48-year-old brother in Alabama who is dying from lung cancer. He's been a heavy smoker since age 17, and I find it difficult to feel sorry for him, too, but that's another story.

DEAR DISGUSTED: While your brother's plight may be "another story," the plots are similar in that both tragedies could have been avoided.

People owe it to their families to take good care of themselves. Those who live recklessly — and that includes doing drugs, and breaking the law — will not pay for their selfishness alone; their families and those who love them also suffer emotionally and financially.

Your anger is appropriate, but your wife is the principal victim, so get some counseling and learn how to deal with your anger. And persuade your wife to get counseling, too. Her guilt and anger must be overwhelming.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a grown man with teen-agers of my own, but I can't describe the guilt and shame I felt during my teen years because when I was 13, my mother took me aside and said, "I know you've been 'playing with yourself'" (she couldn't bring herself to use the word "masturbating"), "and if you don't stop it, you will lose your mind and end up in an insane asylum!"

Before Christmas my wife sent for your booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," and she was so impressed with it, she sent for four more for her sisters to use as "stocking stuffers" for their teen-agers.

This morning I read the booklet, and when I read the chapter on masturbation, I couldn't help but recall the tirade of my mother and how damaging it was to my self-esteem. What a pity I couldn't have read your booklet when I was 13.

Please print that portion of your teen booklet in your column. You'd be helping thousands of young people and their parents as well. Sign me ...

BORN TOO SOON
IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR BORN: Here's the chapter:

MASTURBATION

This will be the shortest chapter in the booklet. Why? Because all you need to know about masturbation is: It is normal. Every healthy normal person has masturbated.

Now I will tell you what it is not: It's not depraved, a crime, or harmful to your health. (But if it makes you feel guilty because you've been told it's wrong, don't do it.)

I repeat, all normal boys and girls (and some adults, too) practice this natural type of sexual gratification.

Now, isn't that a load off your mind?

Your Birthday

Feb. 5, 1987

Your long-range prospects for material growth look enormously encouraging for the year ahead. Gains will be precipitated by strange occurrences.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You tend to be a bit more temperamental today than usual. Be careful that if you're angry at one person you don't take it out on another. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If something is disturbing you today it's best to get it out into the open. Talk the problem over with a close friend whose advice you respect.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be hopeful today in a situation where you anticipate material gain. However, keep your expectations within reasonable bounds so you won't be disappointed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The boss may not always be right, but he or she is still the boss. Don't make waves today challenging this person's authority.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unless your plans are well thought out today, there's a chance you'll get into a bind where you have to unravel the fruits of your own poor judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your friends will resent it today if they think you are too possessive or dictatorial. Allow your pals the same latitudes of freedom you want for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being unduly stubborn won't enhance your image today. A failure to appreciate other peoples' points of view could cost you allies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lots of aggravation but little accomplishment could result today if you spread yourself too thin where work is concerned. Plan ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extra careful today in situations where an investment is required on your behalf. Study the matter further if you're not completely comfortable with the arrangements.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Disagreements between you and your mate should be resolved privately today. It will make matters worse if the issues are discussed with outsiders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you have something nice to say about another today, it's best to say nothing. Your comments will be repeated to the target of your attack.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be the one who introduces betting into friendly competitive events today. The wallet that gets emptied could be your own.

By James Jacoby

Although two chances are better than one, you'll want to take your best chances. Cover the East-West hands and plan your play in six hearts.

Certainly you would win with the heart king and play to your ace. Since West is left with a natural heart trick, you cannot afford to lose another trick. Because the diamond suit is a logical source of tricks, you would next play ace and a diamond toward dummy's K-Q. But when West discards on the second diamond, you are apparently left with deciding between the club and spade finesses for your 12th trick. At first glance you cannot take both finesses. Suppose that you cash the ace and king of spades. Maybe the queen will fall doubleton. If it doesn't, then you take the club finesse. That's giving yourself two chances, but playing for the drop has less chance than finessing in spades. What you would really like to do is first take the club finesse without the risk of being set if East holds the king. And there is a way.

After taking the A-K of diamonds (West discarding on the second round), play the diamond queen and discard the club jack. If West ruffs, he must play either a spade (clearly wrong) or a club. If West does not ruff, throw him in with a trump and he will be in the same fix. When he plays a club, you can finesse the queen. Since you have shed your club jack earlier, you will be able to ruff if East has the king and then fall back on a spade play later. That's giving yourself the two best chances.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Committee okays new bill for transplants

AUSTIN (AP) — The widow of former Dallas Cowboys announcer Frank Glieber says she deeply regrets that no one reminded her to donate his tissues and organs after he died.

Kathy Glieber told a Senate committee Tuesday she and her husband were jogging separately May 1, 1985, and she learned later he had had a heart attack.

Ms. Glieber was among several witnesses who testified in support of a bill that would require hospitals to establish procedures for identifying potential organ and tissue donors and for providing family members an opportunity to make a donation.

Lawsuit is filed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine lawmakers joined community food bank officials in filing a lawsuit designed to block the Reagan administration from deferring $28.6 million for a program distributing surplus food to the nation's needy.

Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, said the administration was irresponsible for seeking the deferral of funding because millions of people have come to depend on the program for basic nutritional needs.

The lawsuit, filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington, seeks an injunction to prevent the Agriculture Department and Office of Management and Budget from cutting funding to the Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program.

The TEFAP was allocated $50 million for fiscal 1987 by Congress to help preserve and distribute surplus cheese, rice, flour, cornmeal and other commodities to more than 18 million low-income people.

"Without these federal funds, millions and millions of pounds of surplus food will fail to reach the needy this year," said Robert J. Fersh, executive director of the Washington-based Food Research and Action Center.

"With almost three billion pounds of surplus food sitting in storage, it is a tragedy that the administration is even thinking about stopping the funds to move this food to the hungry."

OMB spokesman Ed Dale said the deferral was one of 25 requested by the administration involving a variety of programs deemed unnecessary as a way to generate $258 million to offset a 3 percent government pay raise.

"The custom has been to request a supplemental appropriation for the pay raise, then along comes Gramm-Rudman which says we can get a supplemental only if it is offset elsewhere," Dale said. "This is one of 25 deferrals where we got the offset."

He said the TEFAP funding was judged inconsequential because it was slated to pay for intrastate transportation and storage of the foods, which the administation believes the states should fund.

Leland, chairman of the Select Committee on Hunger, said legal action is the swiftest way to stop the administration's proposed deferral, which he said would devastate the program if not halted.

"In Texas alone the number of households receiving commodities through TEFAP grew from 100,000 in 1984 to 460,000 in 1986," Leland said. "Close to 1.7 million Texans receive about 86 million pounds of food staples through the program annually. Now this assistance is about to be cut off abruptly."

The Alaska highway across Canada was formally opened in 1942.

Bankers study Mattox ruling

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers and bankers are studying an attorney general's opinion which says out-of-state banks can purchase Texas institutions but must be careful about trying to operate them.

The opinion issued Tuesday said the the new law allowing the purchases is constitutional.

"It's legal, but they had better be careful," Mattox said. "They had better abide by the letter of the law, or we think they will be found to be in violation of the (Texas) Constitution."

The Texas Constitution was amended in 1904 to prohibit out-of-state banks from operating banks in Texas, Mattox said.

In his opinion, Mattox said the interstate banking law approved by the Legislature last summer "authorizes foreign ownership, not foreign operation" of the Texas institutions.

"Ownership ... of bank stock by an out-of-state bank holding company does not violate per se the (constitutional) prohibition against a foreign corporation exercising banking and discounting privileges," Mattox wrote.

"If, however, the holding company acts in a way to disregard the separate corporate existence of individual banks, then we think that courts would conclude that (the constitution) had in fact been violated," he said.

Maximum punishment would be $1,000 per violation per day and possible revocation of a bank's charter, Mattox said.

At a news conference, Mattox refused to say what specific actions might violate the prohibition against an out-of-state company operating a Texas bank.

However, he said, an out-of-state company would be placed in "a delicate legal position" under circumstances such as: "When you come in and control loan policies, when you come in and control all computer hookups, when you come in and control ... the election of all the officers and the placing of officers in the institutions, when you come in and set up a joint advertising program, when you operate these banks in a consolidated fashion ..."

In 1789, North Carolina became the 12th state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

IN GAIL
CALL 856-4386 FOR APPOINTMENT

Wed., Feb. 11, 1987
Borden County
Courthouse
A Service of
Borden County Cancer Society

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of eleven women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, ● even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 856-4386 in Gail.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Gail, Feb. 11, 1987, at the Borden County Court House.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

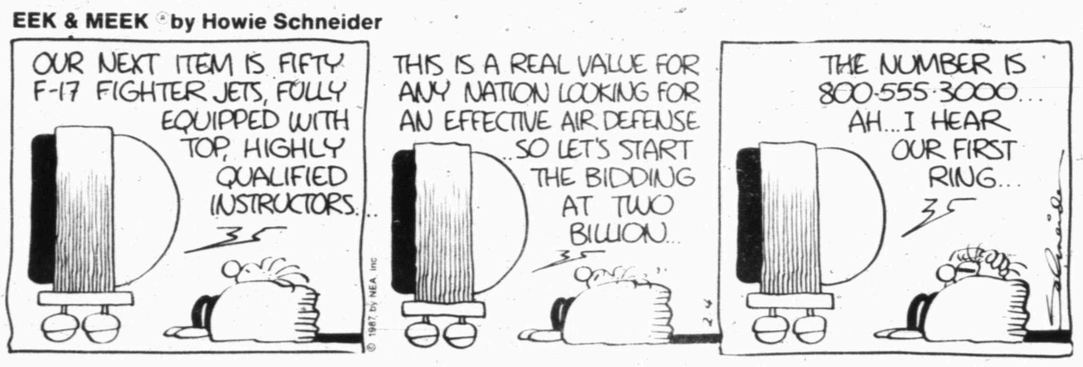

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

For more information or to make an appointment please call 856-4386.

Channels provided

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Scientists scanning the universe for radio signals from extraterrestrials have 10 million more channels to tune in on, thanks to a new computer chip developed by Stanford University graduate students.

The students developed a chip that is 40 times more powerful than current circuit boards and will be used in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence program.

The SETI researchers are reading information from an 85-foot diameter radio telescope in the Mojave Desert in an attempt to find artificial radio signals in the natural noises from gaseous clouds, cosmic debris and stars.

Ivan Linscott, the program's team leader, said the students working with him developed the chip to increase to 10 million the number of radio channels that can be analyzed, while decreasing the size and cost of the analyzer.

Each of the new chips, about one-third of an inch square, contains 34,000 transistors and can perform 80 million arithmetic operations per second.

Former Mexican mayor seeks PAN leadership

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Luis Alvarez, the former mayor of Chihuahua whose hunger strike last year brought attention to charges of election fraud, says he will run for the leadership of his opposition National Action Party.

Several other key members of National Action, known as PAN, also are considering challenging current leader Pablo Emilio Madero for the post, although no official list of candidates has been released.

Since a series of major setbacks in Chihuahua, Durango and Sinaloa state and local elections last year, there have been disputes among the party's supporters about its future direction.

A contest for the party's leadership could be expected to focus attention on those disputes. One faction calls for greater activism against the Institutional Revolutionary Party, which has dominated Mexican government and politics since 1929.

It is not clear yet what Madero, who was National Action's presidential candidate in 1982, will do in the face of a challenge for the party's leadership.

The party's new president, to be elected during its convention Feb. 21 in Mexico City, will lead PAN through the difficult 1988 national election campaign.

The ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, never has lost a presidential election since the party was founded 57 years ago.

But the conservative PAN, Mexico's largest opposition party, charges that the PRI's impressive victories are due to "alchemy," as voter fraud is known.

Alvarez, a respected member of the party and a former candidate for president of Mexico, gained national attention during last summer's Chihuahua elections when he went 41 days without food in an attempt to pressure the government into running fair elections.

But the PRI swept to victory in the gubernatorial and mayoral elections amid claims of voter fraud by opposition parties, the Roman Catholic Church and business organizations.

A tired and weak Alvarez said at the time that the election outcome proved "once again, that Mexico lives under an obvious dictatorship."

In news reports from Chihuahua this week, Alvarez said he resisted seeking the party's presidency because a victory would mean moving to Mexico City.

But he said party leaders from northwestern Mexico urged him to run.

The final decision to seek the three-year term was made, he said, "at the stubborn insistence of my conscience."

Alvarez also rejected the idea that the party has split into "Neo-PAN and traditional PAN" factions.

He told reporters that those terms have been manipulated by the ruling system "with the intention of creating a division in the ranks of the party."

Singer saluted for FarmAid concerts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Willie Nelson, honored for spearheading two concerts that raised $14 million for farmers, says he never made a penny raising hogs years ago.

Nelson received the 1986 Roy Acuff Community Service Award Tuesday night for the FarmAid concerts in Champaign, Ill., in 1985 and near Austin, Texas, last July 4.

Nelson, who wore a tuxedo at the ceremonies instead of his usual jeans, T-shirt and bandanna, said as a young man he bought hogs at 25 cents a pound and sold them for 17 cents a pound.

"The hog business is shaky," he recalled prior to receiving the award at a dinner in his honor at the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The 53-year-old singer-songwriter-actor said he was accepting the angel-shaped sculpture "for all the entertainers and people who put this (the concerts) together. It should be split into 1,000 pieces."

Nelson said $9 million was raised at FarmAid I in Illinois and less than $1 million at FarmAid II in Texas, but pledges totaling "a few thousand a week" continue to be made. The total pledged so far, he said, is $14 million.

"It's still coming in," he said about pledges.

FarmAid III is set for Sept. 19 at the University of Nebraska football stadium in Lincoln, pending approval of the school, he said.

"There's a lot of farmers with their icebox full of (homegrown) groceries and they can't afford a loaf of bread," said Nelson, whose country-styled hits include "On the Road Again" and "Always on My Mind."

"We hope to get more corporate sponsors," he said.

His drug problem shouldn't be yours

DEAR DR. GOTT — What are the physical and psychological effects of long-term (10 to 15 years) use of marijuana? An adult member of our family has used it daily for 13 years and says the world is boring without it. Living with him is like living with two people. What can I do?

DEAR READER — A person who uses mind-altering substances is two people: a real person and a crazy person. You can deal only with the real version. People use drugs for a variety of reasons: It feels good, they want to escape from life or they can't stand themselves.

One fact is clear: A person under the influence isn't playing with a full deck. Alcohol, cannabis and other hallucinogens affect brain function as well as behavior; physical and psychological damage will ultimately result.

You have no control over the adult family member who uses marijuana because "the world is boring." This attitude is distinctly his problem. However, you can alter your behavior: You do not have to react to him. I suggest that you seek out a support group, such as Al-Anon, or call your local hospital to see what groups are available in your community.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The pain from my husband's hiatal hernia has gotten to be almost constant. I've heard that there is now laser esophageal surgery available. Could it help my husband?

DEAR READER — No. The pain from hiatal hernia is due to acid reflux, the backflow of stomach contents up into the sensitive esophagus, which is not protected from acid. Hiatal hernia is treated by taking antacids which neutralize acid, or medicine to reduce production of stomach acid. As a last resort, surgery can be done to correct the defect that allows gastric juice to travel upstream.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on HIATAL HERNIA. Others who would like a copy should send $1 to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is organic brain syndrome?

DEAR READER — Organic brain syndrome means that a patient's mental powers are diminished because of physical changes in the brain. For example, multiple strokes, senility, senile dementia and many degenerative diseases of the central nervous system (such as Alzheimer's disease) are classed under the broad heading of organic brain syndrome. In contrast, there are acute brain syndromes — such as drug or alcohol intoxication — that are temporary. Patients with organic brain syndrome usually show shrinkage of the gray matter in the brain's cerebral cortex, which controls judgment, emotional state, memory and cognitive function. These physical changes are permanent.

On-The-Job Injury

Don't let it keep you off the job a day longer than necessary

"I want to get rid of the pain and get back to work." We hear this a lot.

Temporary pain killers may be okay for temporary pain. But when the pain stays . . . or keeps coming back . . . it's time to try something else. The chiropractic approach to pain is to locate the CAUSE of the pain and correct it. When the cause is corrected, the pain usually goes away in short order. Why not try chiropractic FIRST for on-the-job injuries?

A consultation and preliminary examination can help determine whether chiropractic might help. If treatment, x-rays or other lab tests are indicated, they are covered by most Workers' Compensation insurance plans. CALL US TODAY.

Western Texas College's Dusters moved up a notch in the NJCAA rankings from eighth to seventh this week as they prepare for Thursday's ballgame with Frank Phillips.

The Dusters, 20-3, are one of two Western Junior College Athletic Conference teams ranked in the top 10. Odessa is rated No. 5.

Western's women join the Westerners for a double header in Borger with Frank Phillips Thursday. The women play at 6 p.m.; the men at 8 p.m.

In addition to the 20-3 overall mark, the Dusters are 5-1 in the WJCAC. Frank Phillips is 9-11 for the season and 1-6 in conference play.

Milner comes a long way

...and she's hoping WTC goes farther

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Last year the 5-11 Columbus, Ohio athlete was acclaimed by Coach Kelly Chadwick as perhaps his best defensive player. There was a lot of doubt concerning the future of Wendy Milner, however, because she wasn't a good shooter. Putting her in the game meant the defense would be better, but the offense was likely to suffer.

It appeared she might be relegated to the role of a spot player. But Milner went out and changed all that.

"I wanted to contribute and I thought I was capable of shooting the ball better and playing good defense. I just made up my mind I could do it," said Milner, a sophomore on the Western Texas College women's basketball team, which at 20-3 is ranked seventh in the nation according to this week's NJCAA poll.

She did it by working diligently during the offseason and particularly in the summer. She also got help from WTC Westerner sophomore Alvin Lee, who leads the nation in scoring.

"I would just work over and over on individual moves and stuff and shooting around the perimeter," she said.

After averaging only a few points last season, she's come back to hit double figures as a routine. She is also a strong rebounder for the squad.

"Wendy has improved as much as any girl I've ever coached," said Coach Chadwick. "She didn't have a real good shot and like a lot of freshmen, she didn't really know how to play. Now, I think she is one of the best division I prospects we've got."

Ironically, her defense may have suffered, but only because she has been moved from post to a wing position, where she is now expected to cover a guard.

"She's having to guard girls that are a lot quicker this year," said Chadwick. "She still isn't as intense on defense as I'd like her to be. But I think she could be the best defensive player in the conference and she's working on it.

"She's been a real asset to the team," noted the coach. "She's strong, quick, shoots the ball well, she's easy to coach and she's working on her ball handling skills every day. She's a tough player on the boards and she's the kind of player who can get you the basket when you need it."

Milner takes pride in the Duster defense.

"We've been really concentrating on it as a team. Defense wins the game, that's what Coach tells us. It's the key to winning," said Milner.

Individually, Milner isn't too concerned with points, she just wants to be able to help out where ever she can.

"I want to keep from turning the ball over, and I want to go to the boards. I know if I do that, the shooting will take care of itself. It's a team effort, like tonight (78-53 over SPC) everybody contributed, even the bench. They came in and they kept up the lead we had. It's a total effort. Everybody has their mind made up that our goal is nationals," she said.

And Milner is a major reason that goal is within sight.

Atlanta gets needed victory

by The Associated Press

The Atlanta Hawks needed a pick-me-up before the All-Star break and they got it from Dominique Wilkins.

Five days before making his first start in an All-Star game, Wilkins scored 41 of his 54 points after halftime Tuesday night as the Hawks defeated the Boston Celtics 126-123 in overtime.

"We really needed this one," said Kevin Willis, who had 18 points and 21 rebounds for the Hawks. "We needed to win a big game and a close game. We played smart; we played hard. We needed to win one going into the All-Star break, to finish on an up note."

Kevin McHale had 36 points and Larry Bird wound up with 26 points, 15 rebounds and 14 assists for Boston, but they couldn't overcome Wilkins' dominance down the stretch.

In other NBA games, it was Philadelphia 99, Indiana 94; Chicago 98, Washington 91; New

Connors brings America's Cup back home

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) - Dennis Conner, the man who lost the America's Cup, won it back today as Stars & Stripes swept Australia's Kookaburra III in four races to raise Old Glory over the Auld Mug again.

It was sweet revenge for the 44-year-old San Diego sailor, who dedicated three years of his life to recapturing yaching's biggest prize - which he lost to Australia II in 1983 in Newport, R.I.

Thousands of spectators lined the harborfront, welcoming Conner and his crew. As Conner entered the harbor, he pulled down the sails and raised a huge U.S. flag from the mast. His crew, wearing red, white and blue, waved to the crowds and celebrated with huge bottles of champagne.

He was the first American to lose the cup, which had been held by the New York Yacht Club since the schooner America won it in 1851. He won it in 1980 aboard Freedom.

Kookaburra III was never really in today's race, held in the medium sea breezes known as the Fremantle Doctor. Conner led from start to finish, as he had in the three previous races of the best-of-seven final.

It was the first sweep by an America's Cup skipper since Ted Turner steered Courageous past Australia in 1977.

Recognized as a master at sailing 12-meter cup racers, Conner and tactitian Tom Whidden timed their start to a split-second, brushing by the starting bouy just as the opening cannon fired.

Stars & Stripes crossed the line five seconds ahead of Peter Gilmour, the aggressive helmsman who starts Kookaburra III before turning the wheel over to skipper Iain Murray.

Gilmour had tried to trap Conner, but couldn't. By breaking in front, Conner was able to call the tune the rest of the 24.1-mile race. Kookaburra III never got close enough to use her quick-turning agility in a tacking battle.

Murray's lemon-yellow boat could only trail Conner's blue yacht around the Indian Ocean like a puppy on a leash. Conner put the race out of reach on the third of eight legs when he added 20 seconds to his lead, the equivalent of a 20-run inning in a baseball game.

When Conner crossed the finish line 1 minute, 59 seconds in front, the three-year residency of the trophy at the Royal Perth Yacht Club, which turned this sports-loving nation cup crazy, came to a bittersweet end.

It was the culmination of three years of practice, and planning for Conner and his Sail America syndicate from the San Diego Yacht Club. They built three yachts and spent $20 million - including $20,000 a day to keep the campaign here going - to bring the cup back up from down under.

When Conner ended his personal nightmare and the Aussies' fairy-tale dream, Stars & Stripes, her portly skipper and his flawless crew got a raucous horn salute from the small flotilla of big Yank yachts that had crossed oceans to get here.

Stars & Stripes had to survive four months of elimination against 12 other challengers. Conner used the series as a proving ground to make the subtle changes in hull, sails and rigging that brought Stars & Stripes to what even Kookaburra owner Kevin Parry called "perfect" racing trim.

SPORTS

Murray conceded that Stars & Stripes was the faster boat. His Kookaburra III, which he helped design, had eliminated Australia IV, the hope of Perth millionaire Alan Bond, to defend the trophy his Australia II won in Newport in a 4-3 thriller over Conner and Liberty in 1983.

With the victory in hand, Americans populating the trendy new pubs in this old seaport town broke into dancing with Australians, while both sang "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" to salute the victors.

Conner and his crew hugged, swapped high fives and waved to the big spectator fleet. Betsy, the Stars & Stripes' tender named for Betsy Ross, unloaded a horde of syndicate supporters on board their winner to begin the long-awaited celebration.

Get back in playoff hunt...

Tiger cagers hold on to nip Steers, 81-79

Brian Mayfield put up a five-foot shot with three seconds left but it bounced from the rim and Snyder's Tom Marvin was there for the rebound as the Tigers held off Big Spring in a District 2-4A matchup here Tuesday night, 81-79.

The win put Snyder back in the 2-4A playoff search with a share of third place and a 9-3 record. Now 16-10 overall, the Tigers take Friday off, then challenge Lamesa next Tuesday.

Big Spring had trailed almost the entire ballgame, but refused to give in to the Tigers, who had a 15-point lead with five minutes to play. Snyder, going most of the fourth quarter without starters Reynaldo Gomez and Trey Tippens, had to battle to the wire to hold on and win.

Charles Young was the catalyst for the Steers. He brought Big Spring back with a three-point play at the 2:08 mark, traded buckets with Snyder's Marvin, then followed a pair of free throws with another basket to make it 80-79 late in the game.

A Lewis Wesley free shot gave Snyder a two-point advantage with 31 seconds showing, and when Young was whistled to the bench with a charging foul moments later, it appeared Snyder might have the game wrapped up. It wasn't that easy.

With 11 seconds left, Terry Garza went to the line for the Tigers. His shot missed, and Big Spring rebounded. The Steers got the ball to an open Mayfield but his short jumper came off the rim and Marvin alertly was in position to rebound and run off the final seconds.

The game had been scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start but instead got underway about 8:30 after a series of delays. Big Spring arrived 30 minutes late for a sophomore game, then the junior varsity contest which followed went into overtime. Snyder won both games. Finally, a fuse went out, which caused further delay as coliseum officials attempted to get a full battery of lights on over the court.

If that weren't enough extraneous activity, the game also saw a mini-brawl and the ejection of Snyder's Gomez and Big Spring's Sidney Parker in the third quarter. The two had chased a loose ball, scrambled over one another in the process, and came up fighting. The Tigers later lost Tippens to fouls with 4:49 to go in the fourth quarter. Good bench help from Marvin, Kevin Combest and Daniel Chasteen helped keep the Tigers on top.

Several times, in fact, it appeared as if Snyder might put the game out of reach. The Tigers led by as many as eight points in the second quarter, 10 in the third, and 15 in the fourth.

"Part of it was their (full court) pressure. We turned the ball over too much," said Snyder Coach Larry Scott. "But Big Spring is a good team and they can get points quickly. They penetrate real well. They did what they had to do to stay close but we did what we had to do to win the ballgame.

"I would be a lot more concerned had we dropped a 15 point lead and lost the ballgame. There were several situations there where they had chances to tie the game or take the lead and we wouldn't let them. We're real proud and glad for the win."

Despite giving up several substantial leads, it was one of Snyder's better overall efforts. The Tigers mixed the inside-outside game well, and outrebounded the Steers 41 to 36.

Chris Garrett led the way with 26 points and 15 rebounds, despite sitting out almost all of the second quarter. Garza hit from near and far for 21 points, while Tippens bagged 12, Gomez 10 and Wesley 7.

"We were ready to play," said Garrett, a 6-4 senior who recently made a verbal committment to the University of Nebraska to play football. "We knew we had to bear down and get after it."

He gave special tribute to the guards.

"Their concentration level was really up tonight and when that happens, we play good ball. It's taken time for us to come together, but we knew we were capable," he said.

Young scored 25 for Big Spring, which is 8-3 now in 2-4A play and 16-10 overall. Mayfield, a 6-5 senior, scored 23 and Parker had 14 before being ejected.

SHS girls slip at Big Spring; tied with 'Stangs for second

BIG SPRING -- Snyder's Lady Tigers are in a must-win situation now after falling to Big Spring 49-40 here Tuesday evening.

The loss, coupled with Sweetwater's 50-49 overtime win in Lamesa, leaves the Tigers and Lady Mustangs tied for second place in District 2-4A action. Snyder is idle Friday, then entertains Lamesa next Tuesday and goes to Andrews on Feb. 13 to wrap up its regular season. Sweetwater has dates with Pecos, Lake View and Monahans left.

Tuesday's outcome wrapped up the 2-4A title for Big Spring's Lady Steers, who vault to 12-1 in district play.

Snyder, now 9-5, got off to a slow start and trailed 15-11 after the first quarter.

"We were real tight to start the game," said Snyder Coach Ken Housden. "They had us down 8-0 before we scored."

Snyder began to slowly get back into the game via its defense, but Big Spring held a 30-19 advantage at halftime.

"We were playing better defense, but we still had trouble scoring until the second half," noted Housden.

Lady Steer standout Teresa Pruitt bagged 20 points in the first half, but managed just 3 the rest of the game as the Tiger press took its toll.

Snyder outscored the hosts 16-6 in the third period, and went in front 38-36 with three minutes to play in the contest.

"We did a super job in the third quarter and played good defense in the fourth but, dang it, we just couldn't get the ball to fall in the fourth quarter," said a disappointed Housden. "They got the lead and we had to foul them to try and get the ball back. They scored eight points in the last minute and six of those were on free throws."

Big Spring ruled the foul line, taking 23 trips to the stripe and converting on 13. Snyder was sent to the line only nine times, and made four points.

Pruitt's 23 points led all scorers. Katrina Thompson added 13 for the Steers, who are now 22-4 for the season.

For Snyder, 17-9 now, Stephanie McKnight had 10 points and Teri Sue Henry notched 8.

No rebound totals were available for Big Spring but Snyder had just 29 - led by McKnight and Angie Housden, both 5-3 seniors.

"That really hurt us. We got beat on the boards. You know you are in trouble when your leading rebounders are both 5-3," mused Housden, who hopes Friday's open date will benefit the team.

"I think it will do us good to take a little rest. I usually prefer to play someone but we couldn't find anyone to play. Maybe this will work out for the best," he said.

Big Spring staged a late rally to force overtime here Tuesday but it was all Snyder in the extra period as the Tigers defeated the Steers in a boy's junior varsity basketball game, 59-51.

Big Spring's Ben Gonzales hit an 18-foot shot as time ran out, knotting the score at 51-all after Snyder had given up a nine-point lead. The Tigers took charge early in overtime, however, with Tracy Braziel aceing a quick bucket. Craig Watkins followed on a rebound, and free throws by Van Echols and Braziel sealed the victory.

Braziel led all scorers with 21 points while Greathouse had 12, Echols 10 and Watkins 6.

Big Spring was led by Abner Shellman's 16. Thane Russey put in 12.

Early releases debate set in Texas Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate is ready to tackle the problem of prison overcrowding by considering measures to give quicker paroles when prison units get almost full.

An early release bill, endorsed by Gov. Bill Clements, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the bill would be considered as an emergency matter by the full Senate today.

"The 6-1 committee vote indicates the strong support it has in the Senate," Hobby told reporters afterwards.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, who was the sole opposing vote, said he likely would try to amend the bill during Senate debate.

Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, told the Senate committee the measure had been worked out with the cooperation of Clements, Hobby, the House speaker, attorney general and appropriate agencies in response to federal court demands.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice has threatened to fine Texas up to $24 million a month beginning April 1 if it does not make prison improvements ordered by his court.

"This bill increases the pool to 10,000 inmates that could be considered for increased good conduct time credits or parole if the prison system reaches 95 percent," said McFarland.

Under current law, the prison system can accept no more inmates from counties when the 95 percent limit is reached.

A key portion of McFarland's bill would automatically award up to 90 days of good time credit toward possible parole for nonviolent inmates serving less than 10 years, if the 95 percent limit is reached.

The attorney general would notify the governor, who would declare an emergency overcrowding situation, and the Texas Department of Corrections would credit each of the eligible inmates with good time.

McFarland said a full 90-day credit could move up time for an inmate's parole by at least 30 days.

Rider Scott, general counsel for Clements, said the governor did not advocate early release of inmates.

U. S. House gives itself raise in pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders used fancy parliamentary footwork to give themselves and 3,000 high-level government officials substantial pay raises while still casting a symbolic vote against it.

The House leadership deliberately delayed a vote on the controversial raise past last night's midnight deadline when it automatically took effect, thereby throwing into question the validity of a vote expected today.

No matter what ultimately happens to the $12,100-a-year increase for members of Congress and to the increases for federal officials, federal judges appeared almost sure of having the increase stick for them.

The Constitution says once a judge's salary is raised it cannot be lowered, although that, too, could be open to court interpretation since the rejection is likely to come before the increase actually takes effect, March 1.

Denouncing the tactics which allowed the raise to take effect without an up-or-down vote, Rep. Tom Petri, R-Wis., said, "The House leadership acted like a thief in the night, skulking away with its ill-gotten gains."

House Democratic Whip Tony Coelho of California said the House would pass Senate-approved legislation today to give $50 million to the homeless as well as disapprove the pay raise — but too late to stop it. The Senate attached the pay raise rejection as an amendment to the homeless bill.

Rep. Connie Mack, R-Fla., said, "Every member is going to get a chance to vote against the pay raise, and it doesn't mean anything."

The House had searched at length for a way to secure a raise for lawmakers, setting their pay at $89,500 annually — up from $77,400 — after the Senate disapproved the increase last week and then forced House action by tying the sensitive issue to homeless aid.

Under the law, both the House and Senate would have had to disapprove the increase by midnight Tuesday to keep it from taking effect.

House leaders adjourned early Tuesday afternoon rather than risk a vote prior to the midnight deadline. When House Majority Leader Thomas Foley, D-Wash., motioned for adjournment, opponents quickly called for a vote but lost 221-17. Mack tried to force a roll call vote on the adjournment, but presiding officer Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Md., pounded his gavel and refused to recognize Mack.

Mack denounced the "smoke screen" and said "we've lost credibility" through such back-door maneuvering.

Young boy sentenced in attack on 101-year-old woman

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A judge has ruled that a 10-year-old boy convicted of stabbing and beating a 101-year-old woman should be sent to a facility of the Texas Youth Commission until his 21st birthday.

Tarrant County Juvenile Court Judge Scott Moore sentenced the boy to the maximum punishment, but he said the commission could release him before he is 21.

The boy was convicted last week in the Dec. 28 stabbing and beating of Laura Bell Young, who said the neighbor boy became angry when she accused him of rummaging through bedroom dresser drawers in search of money.

The boy testified that he was at Sunday School at the time of the attack and said he never hurt the woman.

Young said she was happy with the sentence.

"If he's not kept somewhere, he's going to hurt somebody or somebody is going to hurt him," she said. "He's tough. Any child that will hold a 101-year-old woman at knifepoint is bound to be tough."

Woman shoots self while still in custody

DALLAS (AP) — The daughter of an assistant Dallas police chief shot and killed herself in her apartment while in the custody of police from suburban DeSoto, authorities say.

Stephanie Jean Stafford, 25, was at her Dallas apartment Tuesday with officers from DeSoto when she shot herself to death. She had been arrested in DeSoto Monday on a charge accusing her of stealing from her employer, Sanger Harris.

Ms. Stafford was the daughter of Dallas Assistant Police Chief Don Stafford, authorities said.

She was arrested on charges of theft, possession of marijuana and credit card abuse, according to acting DeSoto City Manager Joe O'Briant.

O'Briant said Ms. Stafford had accompanied DeSoto officers Ron Smith and Gary Perkins and a Sanger Harris representative to her apartment where she said they would find "several thousand dollars in jewelry" she had been accused of stealing.

Once inside the apartment, officers said the woman asked if she could use the phone to call a friend and went into a bedroom.

Victim of car explosion was noted businessman

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — A businessman killed when a bomb went off in his car was a prominent civic leader who didn't seem to have any enemies, friends and associates said Tuesday.

Daryl Crouch, 36, was killed Monday night in the fiery explosion that also injured his wife, Jan, and 10-year-old daughter Sandy, authorities said. Police had no suspects and were still searching for clues in the burned-out debris Tuesday.

Crouch was president of Walsh-Lumpkin Drug Co. Inc. and the son-in-law of Pearson Walsh, chairman of the board of the pharmaceutical supply firm based in Texarkana.

In addition to being president of Rickrich Surgical Supply and Joplin, Mo.-based Tri-State Hospital and Surgical Supplies, he was also executive vice president of Humco-Emerson Laboratories.

Ron Hertlein, president of Security Savings Association, where Crouch was on the board of directors, said the killing "almost sounds like an underworld type of thing."

"And certainly Daryl Crouch and Pearson Walsh wouldn't be associated with anything like that," he said.

Crouch was one of four local directors of Security Savings planning to buy that institution from two Dallas men last spring.

Movie presented balanced view

AUSTIN (AP) — Former President Lyndon Johnson received more balanced treatment in the television movie "LBJ: The Early Years" than in other portrayals, say friends and former associates.

"While I would have found personal fault with some of the depictions of what the president did or said or how he acted, it generally treated him with some balance, and I don't think he's ever been depicted on TV or in a movie with any semblance of balance," said George Christian, Johnson's former press secretary.

Church fire said only smoke scare

A fire run to a city church was only a smoke scare Wednesday morning.

Fire department units were dispatched to the Trinity United Methodist Church in south Snyder just after 10 a.m.

According to fire officials, a motor in the air conditioning-heating unit for the building had burned up, filling the church with smoke.

Hospital Notes

ADMISSIONS: Timothy Johnson, 4518 Fredonia.

DISMISSALS: Rebecca Comstock and baby boy; Bessie McCauley, Joann Brake.

Hit-and-run said cleared

Police cleared a recent hit-and-run accident report and logged two misdemeaor arrests Tuesday.

Yvonne Farrar Allen of 2607 Ave. Y was identified Tuesday as the driver of a 1973 Lincoln that had struck a guard post and gas pump at the Taylor Food Mart on College Ave. on Jan. 19.

In addition, officers jailed one man on warrants for unpaid traffic citations Tuesday afternoon and picked up a male juvenile Tuesday night on a charge of public intoxication and resisting arrest.

The juvenile was later released to the custody of his parents.

Car bombing continues to baffle investigators

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — A car bombing that bore the earmarks of an underworld assassination continued to baffle authorities, who went so far as to stop traffic and query passing drivers for help.

Federal, state and local officials pooled notes from their investigations Tuesday night but still had no suspects, motive or a firm description of the bomb, city police spokesman Earl Cox said.

He would not deny, but said he couldn't confirm, reports that a remote control device triggered the explosion Monday night that obliterated or damaged eight cars and rattled windows up and down Texarkana's busiest street, State Line Avenue.

Daryl Crouch, a 36-year-old civic leader and president of Walsh-Lumpkin Drug Co. Inc., died when his Mercedes-Benz exploded.

Crouch's daughter, 10-year-old Sandy, was hurled from the car by the bomb's impact. She was hospitalized in fair conditon Tuesday night with burns on her face, hands and back, and was expected to be released today, Wadley Regional Medical Center spokeswoman Ann Beaty said.

Crouch's wife, Jane, 35, was in her own car when the explosion went off in the Walsh-Lumpkin parking lot.

had been seized "without any cause at all."

In Washington, the American Society of Newspaper Editors protested Seib's arrest in a telegram to the Iranian Ministry of Islamic Guidance.

State of State outlined today

"The simple fact is that we must live within our means," he said.

"If the average Texas household can only spend the income it receives, then why can't state government. If, in times of economic distress, the average Texas household tightens its belt, then why can't their state government?"

The governor also said he would propose spending an additional $520 million to help ease problems in Texas prisons.

He proposed constructing regional detention centers to add another 10,000 beds for low-risk inmates. He also proposed funds to purchase the Michaels Unit and trusty camps now in progress, which would add 4,250 new prison beds.

Besides offering a chance to reform the state tax system, Clements said lawmakers also have an opportunity to streamline state government by merging agencies which currently overlap.

"Let's merge some state agencies. We have overlapping and duplication in the some 240 state agencies," he said.

Clements used his speech to touch on a number of other areas as well. Among his proposals, Clements urged the Legislature to:

— Oppose any state personal or corporate income tax.

— Preserve the state's right-to-work law.

— Make it easier to do business in Texas.

— Overhaul the teacher career ladder that was designed to reward 133 school teachers with higher pay.

— Repeal subject matter testing for teachers.

Number of fires keep units busy

Units of the Snyder Fire Department answered four alarms Tuesday afternoon.

Firemen were first called to the Mike Bailey residence at 3749 Ave. V at 4:30 p.m., finding a small fire in the kitchen stove oven.

Damage to the residence, owned by Ann Davis of Snyder, was confined to the stove.

Firemen were summoned to North Ave. E at 5:57 p.m.

Smoke from a resident burning a yard prompted that call from a neighbor in the area.

Firefighters went to the George Kitchens Jr. residence 5 miles northwest of the city on County Road 243 at 6:15 p.m.

According to fire officials, Kitchens had extinguished a small fire in his garage-shop building before firemen arrived at the scene.

At 6:34 p.m., firemen were called to a location on East 23rd St. were they extinguished a small grass fire.

One wreck noted

A single minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in the 4:02 p.m. mishap in the 1300 Block of 23rd St. were a 1985 Chrysler driven by Mavis Shuler McHaney of 2301 Ave. M and a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Arnoldo Guerro of 317 30th St.

Does Reagan live in fantasy world?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent meetings with President Reagan have convinced House Speaker Jim Wright that the president lives in a "fantasy world," Wright said.

"He has a self-satisfaction with, and fixation with, certain fantasies, things that he believes to be true that just aren't true," Wright told reporters Tuesday at a luncheon. "At times he seems to live in a fantasy world."

The president is well intentioned, but tends to fix on an idea and refuse to accept anything that conflicts with it, Wright said.

The Fort Worth Democrat said he told the president the Clean Water Bill was a nine-year, $20 billion program and not a one-year program as Reagan thought. But Reagan said he didn't believe that was true and said he would veto the bill regardless.

"When you have these fantasies ... how can you reason with him?"

Wright recalled a meeting with Reagan last year during which he said the president refused to admit that he could not raise the defense budget.

Radar center aims at contraband

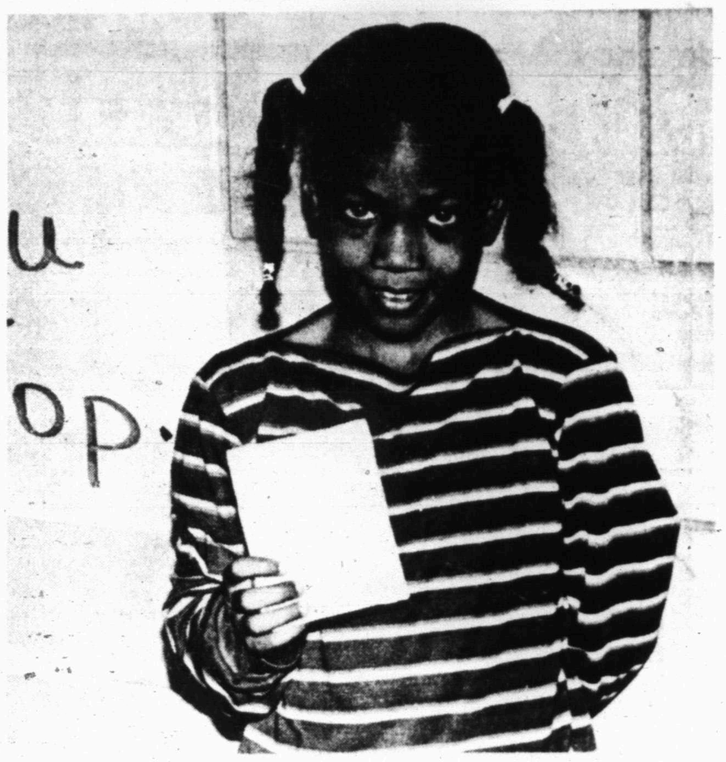

HOUSTON (AP) — Sitting in a room jammed with radar screens is a multimillion-dollar monitoring center aimed at countering the flow of illegal drugs, weapons and currency into the Southwest.

The U.S. Customs Service facility, dubbed the Blue Fire Operations Center, is located behind locked doors where it keeps an eye on marine traffic in the Gulf of Mexico.

It is the tactical center of Customs' participation in Operation Alliance, also based on the top floor of a six-story Houston building.

The center will officially be opened today by Customs Commissioner William von Raab.

By 1989, Operation Alliance eventually will be tied into a string of radar stations.

WRITES POEMS--Veana Clay, a third grader at Central in Mary Jim Floyd's class, wrote a book of poems entitled "Kicking the Leaves Away." Selections included "My Wonderful Friend," "I'm Happy To Be Me," and "You Can Do It." (SDN Staff Photo)

Exxon, family reach accords

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Exxon Corp. and the family of a man electrocuted in a 1983 oilfield accident have agreed to a payment of $250,000 by the company.

Cox's parents, W. Harvey and Dorothy Cox, and his son Perry D. Cox, all of Miles, originally had asked for $2.5 million in damages, claiming Cox died because of the Exxon's negligence.

"The family decided it was best to eliminate the risk of litigation and put it behind them," Frank Guinta, the Dallas attorney for the Coxes, said.
