For Taking Part In Demonstration...

Poland's Regime Threatens 'Most Severe Punishment'

The Associated Press

Poland's martial-law regime, battling strikers with troop assaults and mass arrests, threatened "the most severe punishment" for anyone taking part in demonstrations today on the anniversary of a 1970 labor rebellion. Violators will "pay according to the ruthlessly binding letter of martial law," the army newspaper said.

In other developments, reports from Poland said troops backed by armored vehicles broke into the Gdansk shipyards Wednesday to crush a strike and Poland's powerful Roman Catholic Church challenged the government's martial law decrees and the policy of mass arrests.

The army paper, Zolnierz Wolnosci, said that documents seized over the weekend from the Warsaw chapter of Solidarity called on soldiers to kill their officers and for the labor federation to take power in the event of martial law. The article, broadcast by Warsaw Radio, said there was only one choice for Poles:

"No support whatever for the madmen and political cheats frenzied with the lust for power." Referring to the documents allegedly found at Solidarity's Warsaw chapter, the paper said that not one drop of Polish blood must be spilled and anyone wanting this "deserves the most severe punishment."

Martial law regulations call for summary trials of soldiers and civilians in militarized industries violating the rules, with punishment ranging from two years in jail to execution. Warsaw Radio said that demonstrations were planned for the anniversary of the 1970 food riots in Gdansk, harbinger of the labor rebellion a decade later that the Communist Party is now trying to contain.

Meanwhile, the White House said Wednesday, for the first time publicly, that apparent pressure from the Soviet Union caused the martial law crackdown on the Solidarity union movement.

"It is clear that Soviet pressure very likely contributed to the Polish decision," said White House spokesman David Gergen.

And officials repeated warnings that any intervention in Poland by Soviet troops would have "a severe and lasting effect on East-West relations," including the likely imposition of a trade embargo.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said if an embargo is imposed it will not be limited to agricultural products as was the case of the grain embargo ordered by President Carter in 1979 after Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said the United States is imposing the same restrictions on Polish diplomats as have been applied to foreign diplomats in Poland.

The leader of Poland's powerful Roman Catholic Church, breaking his silence on the Communist government's military crackdown, accused the regime of terrorizing the nation.

"Our suffering is that of the entire nation, terrorized by military force," said a statement issued by Archbishop Jozef Glemp, the Polish primate, according to reports from Poland.

Martial law "constitutes a blow ... to the hopes and expectations of society," said the statement. "The uncertainty and powerlessness of the workers have caused emotions, bitterness, disgust."

The statement said that prisoners should be freed and that until they are, "they should have human conditions of imprisonment, for we know of numerous excesses concerning the imprisonment of certain people in cold places without warm clothing."

Reports from Poland said the church was engaged in high-level talks with the Communist regime aimed at resolving the crisis.

Pope John Paul II appealed for a "return to the road of renewal" in his native Poland, and said "the force and the authority of power is expressed in dialogue and not through the use of violence."

Budget Cut Wipes Out Snyder's TEC Office

Budget cuts will wipe out the Texas Employment Commission office in Snyder at the end of the year.

Jerre Howard, TEC office manager in Sweetwater, announced that Charles Crockett, Fort Worth District Director, had advised that budget cuts by the Department of Labor will make it necessary to close the Snyder sub-office of TEC effective Dec. 31.

"It is with deep regret that our agency will no longer be able to furnish Snyder residents with this service," said Mrs. Howard. "We wish to express our appreciation for the cooperation of both employees and applicants, but at this time there is no other choice."

Bi-weekly unemployment claims service will continue until further notice, she said, and the Sweetwater office will continue to offer all services to Scurry County. She urged employers and applicants to contact the TEC at 114 West Broadway at Sweetwater. The telephone number is 915-235-4324.

Bill Warner, Snyder Chamber of Commerce manager, said the closing of the TEC office here would be a blow to Snyder. It will be a particular handicap to firms such as Northern Electric Co. who depend on the TEC service for testing of applicants. When the office here closes, applicants will have to drive to Sweetwater and return, a total of some 80 miles, for testing.

The TEC sub-office here grew out of an employment office operated by the city and county in cooperation with the West Central Texas Council of Governments, which was established after prolonged efforts to obtain a TEC office here failed.

Warner said the possibility of providing some type of service locally would be investigated, but it was not known immediately whether this would be feasible, or the scope of such service if it should develop.

The SDN Column

Someone said we should listen to our enemies, because they will tell us things that our friends won't.

Paul Sizemore says it also pays to watch your friends closely as well as your enemies.

It seems that Paul was doing his duty as an active Goldcoater at one of the playoff football games played recently in Tiger Stadium when he discovered that one of his friends had set him up. Paul was assigned to selling game programs, and he sold out. He inquired about a new supply and this friend promptly handed him a bundle of programs. Paul sold several more before he discovered that his new supply of programs consisted of leftovers from the previous week's game--different teams, different dates, and, of course, different lineups.

Nolan Richardson continues to attract representatives of the media as his Tulsa University basketball team moves along on the victory trail, and since he formerly coached at our own Western Texas College, people keep us supplied with information about his progress.

Bill Forbes was in Tulsa the other day and brought back a copy of the Dec. 10 issue of the Tulsa World. This was the morning after Tulsa had defeated Oklahoma State University in OSU's famous Gallagher Hall. This installation was the site of Hank Iba's dynasty during his amazing career at OSU, and it became noted for its noise level during basketball games.

Many coaches over the years have dreaded trips into Stillwater because the noise factor always worked in favor of the resident OSU team.

But Richardson had a different outlook after his Hurricane won. He figured the noise worked to Tulsa's advantage.

"I think the reason we won is that our players could not hear what I was saying (from the bench)," Richardson told reporters.

One of the paintings exhibited in a Roswell, N. M., art show by Linda Miller, formerly of Snyder, was titled "Last White Buffalo." It sold to Leonard and June McCutcheon of Big Spring for $6,500. Miss Miller's show was acclaimed by some as the best ever held in Roswell, and it was held over until Christmas.

Oh, those miserable second quarters! Both the varsity and junior varsity basketball teams of Snyder High School were defeated Tuesday night by Lamesa teams. But, erase the second quarters and both Snyder teams would have won.

For the varsity, it was a rerun of sorts. Back on Nov. 19 they had another icy spell when they got only two points in the second quarter of a game at Big Spring and then they duplicated the performance at Abilene High on Nov. 25. They did get four points in the second quarter against Lamesa, but the Tornadoes were making hay with 20. So, in three of their four losses this season, they have scored an aggregate of 8 points in the second quarter. Hopefully these things come only in threes and the string has run out.

United States Expected To Support Resolution

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States is expected to support a Syrian resolution in the Security Council declaring Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights "null and void" and calling on the Jewish state to reverse its action.

A Western council source said the U.S. delegation was awaiting instructions from Washington on how to vote, but "there seems to be a broad measure of agreement" on the revised Syrian draft.

The first draft of the Syrian resolution would have required the council to "take necessary measures," meaning sanctions, if Israel did not comply. Since the United States was considered certain to veto any call for sanctions, Syria amended the draft to provide that the council would "consider taking necessary measures."

In the Golan Heights, Arabs began the second day of a general strike that shut down shops, schools and services on the disputed plateau overlooking Northern Israel.

Suleiman Kanj Abu Salah, a Moslem elder in the Golan town of Majdel Shams, said the three-day strike was designed "to let the Israeli government and the world know we are against this annexation."

On the other side of the U.N. buffer zone separating Syrian and Israeli forces on the disputed plateau, the vapor trails of two Israeli reconnaissance jets were the only outward sign of military activity following Israel's annexation Monday of most of Syria's southernmost province.

Although Israel reinforced its border forces, "the state of alert for Syria's military appears to be completely normal," a well-informed Western diplomat in Damascus said. "Syria appears to be going the diplomatic and political route, but this could change quickly with little advanced warning."

The Israeli parliament approved a government proposal Monday to extend Israeli law to the Golan and end nearly 15 years of military occupation on the land captured from Syria in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The territory has a population of 15,000 Arabs and 6,000 Jews who settled there during the occupation.

Syria called the annexation "an act of war" and asked an emergency session of the Security Council to pass measures punishing Israel. Syrian Ambassador Dia Allah el-Fattal told reporters as the council began debate Wednesday he had made his resolution "very mild" in an effort to get U.S. support.

White Runs For Governor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White says he wants to be governor because Gov. Bill Clements' administration "has forgotten about people and their problems."

White formally announced Wednesday as a gubernatorial candidate in the Democratic primary. He appeared first at his hometown of Henderson and then held news conferences in Houston, Austin and the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Orders Records Handed Over

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the Texas Department of Corrections to hand over all records requested by the special master overseeing court-ordered reforms of the prison system.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice told prison officials Wednesday his order giving Special Master Vincent Nathan access to prison and inmate records "is quite clear and admits no exceptions."

Nathan complained recently that TDC officials were withholding records about two inmate stabbings and a third complaint by an inmate who claimed he was forced to cut his hair in violation of his religious beliefs.

Sales Tax Rebate Continues To Gain

Snyder's city sales tax rebates have gone past the $850,000 mark for the year, according to the latest figures announced by Bob Bullock, state comptroller of public accounts.

The December rebate, which covers the period ending Dec. 7, amounted to $41,217, pushing the total for the year to $852,146. At the same time last year, Snyder's total had reached $654,948.

Snyder's increase for the year of slightly more than 30 percent is considerably greater than the statewide average increase of 17 percent, according to Bullock's report.

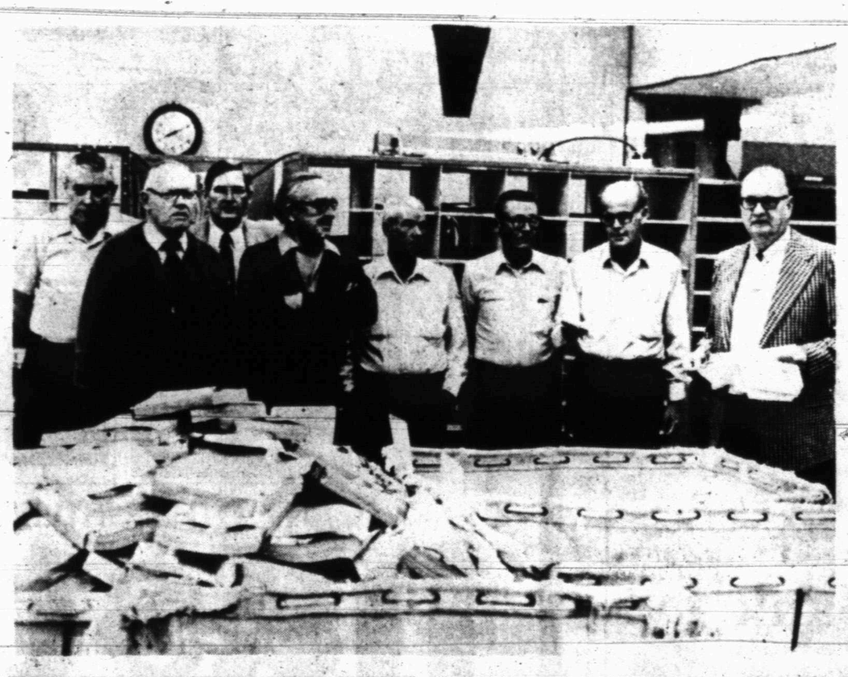

Figures for other area cities in Snyder's population bracket, with the total for the month and year, in order, include Lamesa, $45,828 and $468,791; Monahans, $38,655 and $480,753; Andrews, $37,595 and $515,510; Pecos, $35,775 and $488,432; Levelland, $32,563 and $641,177; Sweetwater, $29,898 and $579,855; and Brownfield, $27,094 and $416,991.

In neighboring towns, Colorado City received a sales tax rebate of $13,022 for the month and $193,747 for the year; Post, $12,167 and $170,916; Rotan, $2,662 and $55,305; Roscoe, $1,052 and $33,349; and Roby, $701 and $13,279.

Ask Us

Q.—Why was it reported in your column that no school in Scurry County dismissed for the holidays as early as December 18th when in fact Ira does?

A.—Dates we obtained at the beginning of the school term listed Ira's holidays as "Dec. 21-Jan. 1." Subsequent to the original inquiry about the holidays, we learned that in this case, it meant that Dec. 21 was the first holiday and not the date that classes were to be dismissed.

BCD Continuing Its Ad Program

The Scurry County Board of Development Wednesday approved the renewal of an advertising schedule in an industrial publication which produced encouraging response the past year.

Bill Warner, consultant to the BCD, reported that 58 inquiries were attributed to the program this year.

Renewal for the coming year will cost $3,400.

"We don't have much unemployment now and our rental housing situation still is a problem when we consider attracting new industry, but we need to keep in touch and keep our name before the industrial world," Warner said. "Conditions will change in the future."

Warner also reported briefly on 1981 activities, noting that the BCD had helped host recreation vehicle rallies, the American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals and other events.

He also reported that the BCD and Chamber of Commerce are keeping in close touch with American Magnesium, whose plant has been shut down a little more than a year. A prospective purchaser still is taking a day-to-day option as negotiations continue, Warner said.

Special guests at the BCD's final session of the year were County Commissioners Eldon Perry and B. J. Bartels.

Guy Sullivan, chairman, presided, and other BCD members present were Morris Light, Clyde Hall and Arel Faver.

Anti-Abortion Amendment Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foes of legalized abortion have won a victory in a Senate subcommittee, but the gain demonstrates there are still deep divisions within the ranks of the right-to-life movement.

"The movement is split now more than ever," Norm Bendroth of the Christian Action League said Wednesday after the subcommittee approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow state legislatures to regulate or prohibit abortion.

The amendment, pushed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, would override the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

State legislatures would be permitted to enact more stringent legislation than Congress if the amendment is ratified by two-thirds of the House and Senate and three-quarters of the states.

An estimated 1.5 million abortions are performed in the United States each year.

Abortion opponents supporting the Hatch amendment, including the National Right to Life Committee and the U.S. Catholic Conference, said they fear the nation is becoming accustomed to the idea of legalized abortion, so they are willing to accept any proposal that might clear Congress.

Back Extension Of Voting rights

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the suprise of one of its leading opponents, a proposal to extend the 1965 Voting Rights Act is being backed by 61 senators — enough to shut off a potential filibuster and pass the bill next year.

Sens. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., expressing fresh optimism for prompt action on the measure early in 1982, listed the names Wednesday of 59 other senators who are co-sponsoring a House-passed version of the extension.

It takes 60 votes, or three-fifths of the Senate, to shut off a filibuster and limit debate on any bill.

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., leader of the conservative opposition to the bill, said he was surprised at the development when a reporter told him about the number of co-sponsors of the bill.

"After the matter is explained and how unreasonable it is, they may agree to changes," he said. Asked if he intended to filibuster against the measure if it is not amended, Thurmond said, "I have no further statement."

Thurmond has scheduled hearings on the law for next January. Although opponents could use stalling tactics other than a filibuster, including keeping the measure bottled up in committee, Mathias and Kennedy said they hoped the large majority supporting it would be enough to overcome any obstacles.

The law now covers all or parts of 22 states, many in the South, which must apply to the Justice Department for approval of any changes in voting laws or regulations.

For example, a state or city in the affected areas may not adopt at-large voting for local offices unless the Justice Department decides the changes won't reduce the voting power of minorities.

The House-passed bill would extend the preclearance procedure indefinitely but would allow a state to "bail out" if it met stringent rules that showed it has not discriminated against minorities for 10 years.

Critics of the voting rights statute say it was passed to eliminate such abuses as poll taxes and discriminatory literacy tests directed primarily at blacks. Those conditions no longer prevail, they say, and it is now unfair to single out the South and other areas that no longer practice voting discrimination.

Fire Breaks Out Inside

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A fire burned at a Thurston County fire station for at least an hour before four volunteer firefighters who were sleeping inside were alerted by a passing state trooper, officials said.

The blaze broke out Sunday in the shop, at the other end of the station from the sleeping firefighters, said Jack Munger, chief of the Thurston County Fire Protection District No. 9, near Olympia.

The firefighters moved their equipment outside the firehouse and put out the blaze, Munger said, No one was hurt.

South's jump to five notrump was a modern version of the grand slam force.

He knew that his partner had cue bid diamonds and South wanted to be in seven if his partner could show just the queen of trumps. North's six club response showed poor trumps. With better trumps he would have bid six hearts. With two of the three top honors (an impossibility), North would jump to seven spades.

In any event, South is in six hearts. He wins the diamond lead in dummy and plays the deuce of hearts. East plays the five and now comes the safety play. South must cover with the six and not play the ace or king.

His only worry is a 4-0 trump break. The play of the six guards against this.

Suppose that West held all four trumps. In that case East would have shown out. South would play his king and lead toward dummy's back.

Suppose that West had led from a seven-card diamond suit and could get in with the queen, 10 or nine of trumps to give his partner a ruff and set a cinch contract.

Possible, but a 7-1 diamond break is a 3 percent chance; a 4-0 trump break a 10 percent one.

DDT Traced To Pesticide Plant?

MISSION, Texas (AP) — Locally high levels of the toxic pesticide DDT could be traceable to a former pesticide manufacturing plant that closed 15 years ago, a television station reports.

The former Hayes-Sammons plant site in west Mission continues to show high levels of toxic pesticides which may drain off after rains, KGBT-TV in Harlingen reported Wednsday.

"We know the plant site itself contains some (pesticide) material. What we're interested in is if the material is going off the site and into the Arroyo Colorado (a natural drainage waterway)," Walter O'Brien of Black & Veatch consulting engineers told the station.

He said more studies are needed before engineers could determine if the DDT from the plant actually is seeping or running off into drainage canals or possibly the Rio Grande, source of drinking water.

The engineering firm was hired by the Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council to find the source of high DDT levels in area drinking water and waterways.

O'Brien's second theory is that the DDT residues are left over from a time when the pesticide was widely used in the heavily agricultural region. Several farms tested showed higher levels of DDT in the soil than in water samples checked.

The Hayes-Sammons plant opened in 1952 and was operated by two other companies before closing. A company now manufactures oil field equipment inside the main building.

The EPA has sued to have the present owner seal the site to prevent DDT-laden dust from blowing over the area.

Part of the chemical plant was purchased by the Mission Consolidated Independent School District and is used to maintain school buses.

Following the EPA suit filed in 1980, the district paved its section, scrubbed the buses and treated any exposed soil that was not paved.

Some residents living across the street from the plant have complained of headaches, seizures and other reportedly unexplained illnesses they blame on the pesticide plant.

The Texas Department of Health reported this year that the plant poses no health hazard.

However, the television station reported an EPA toxicologist has warned of serious consequences from the plant.

"A farmworker could be exposed in one day to more pesticide at the Hayes-Sammous chemical site than he would in a year working in the field," toxicologist Bill McAnneny said in an affadavit.

He reported finding large quantities of other toxic pesticides — lindane, chlordane, dieurin and toxaphene — still present after 15 years.

Andy Hill, president of Tex-Ag Chemical which once operated the plant, says he questions EPA's claims about the plant. He said his company, which was named in the EPA suit, is considering a proposed consent order to clean up the site.

Catgut does not come from a cat. It is usually made from sheep's intestines.

Dear Abby

Reader Says Smokers Are Unfairly Roasted

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: For some time now I have been amazed at your lack of fairness toward people who have not been able to quit smoking. It is so totally at odds with your usual efforts to lean over backward on behalf of every "sicky" in the book: drinkers, dopers, teen-age unwed mothers, and all the irresponsible, self-indulgent sex-gluttons who have brought VD back from near extinction to epidemic proportions. These threaten us all with much more horrible futures than cigarette-smoking could ever cause!

As far as I'm concerned, there is no excuse for the kind of vulgar rudeness that is so characteristic of non-smokers and their totally inappropriate, self-righteous hysteria.

I hope your own halo is not too tight, Abby. But if you are really honest in your efforts to be fair-minded, it has to be pinching a bit.

EVELYN IN N. J.

DEAR EVELYN: My halo fits fine; it's my slacks I'm worried about.

DEAR ABBY: For Christmas this year I've received a notice of a gift subscription for a magazine that I consider to be completely imcompatible with my religious and political philosophy. I would never buy it myself, and don't even want it in my home.

What do you think of someone who would attempt to shove his views down my throat?

SAN DIEGO

DEAR SAN: He's both presumptuous and foolish. A good rule to follow: Don't send reading matter of a controversial nature (religious or political) to anyone unless you're sure that he is sufficiently open-minded to welcome it. (P.S. If we read only one side of a controversial issue, we never learn anything.)

DEAR ABBY: Would you like to know how an 83-year-old relic feels about Christmas?

I dislike exchanging gifts because most people give only in the hope that they'll get something. If I could get off everybody's Christmas list I would rejoice. I don't need anything, and everything I get is either the wrong size, not my style or something I have already.

I can't go shopping myself, so I have to impose on others to shop for me, which is asking a lot. Also, a dollar doesn't buy nearly what it used to, and I resent spending all that money just so people won't think I'm a cheapskate.

I don't like those annual Christmas letters describing where people went last year. It's a lot of bragging and showing off.

Neither do I like Christmas cards with the sender's name printed on it. If a person can't even sign his own name in ink and add a personal "Hello," who needs it?

Also, somebody who notifies me that she has sent a contribution to her favorite charity in my name is somebody else I can do without. I like to pick my own charities.

Merry Christmas, Abby!

Life Sentence Imposed On Man

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — A life sentence has been imposed on a Libyan student convicted of killing a waitress by beating, burning and stabbing her.

Abdullah Ben-Hamid, 20, received the life sentence Saturday after a jury recommended mercy. He could have received the death penalty. His defense attorney, John Robinson, was hired by the Libyan government.

Karen Dillingham, 22, was killed May 2 at her home.

Libya's Public Enemy No. 1

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The mighty colored poster plastered on hundreds of walls throughout Libya's dusty capital shows a skeleton draped in the Stars and Stripes holding a large, curved dagger marked "U.S.A." "America is the leader of the terrorists," the poster proclaims in Arabic.

They have been up for two months, and residents say the ones before it were just as harsh. In Libya, the United States surpasses even Israel as Public Enemy No. 1.

"The Reagan Administration has been criticized for going too far in its attacks on Libya, but the Libyans say just as bad things about the United States, and sometimes worse," said a West European diplomat who asked to remain anonymous.

There is a marked similarity between the charges hurled back and forth by the two governments.

President Reagan and Col. Moammar Khadafy each accuse the other of plotting to assassinate him.

The State Department says Libya is a leading supporter of international terrorism and arms and finances dozens of violent revolutionary groups around the world. Khadafy and his news media hang the terrorist label on the United States because of its support of Israel, its stockpile of nuclear weapons and repeated accusations of CIA plans to murder foreign leaders.

While the two government's accusations are similar, there is a key difference.

wits end

by erma bombeck

All you "undecideds" out there, and you all know who you are...are going to have to shape up. You're screwing up the polls.

How can we tabulate percentages of people who are for or against something when the majority of the people are checking the little box marked, "Undecided," "No Opinion," "Don't Know," "Don't Care," "Don't ever want to discuss this again?"

How long does it take to make up your mind about something of grevious importance? Recently, there was a poll asking whether or not the public favored Prince Charles and Lady Di having a baby the first year or waiting awhile. Thirty-three percent said Yes, 12 percent said No, and 55 percent didn't have an opinion.

Prince Charles and Lady Di couldn't wait around forever, so they're having a baby anyway and taking a chance that some of you will swing over and make it unanimous.

Sometimes I get the feeling marking the undecided box is a habit we slip into to keep from making a commitment to something. I offer as evidence a recent polling where Americans were asked if they favored clean air. Seventy percent said Yes, 2 percent said No, and 28 percent hadn't made up their minds yet.

I have never in my life met an "undecided" face to face. On the contrary, most of the people I know carry placards and bullhorns.

In my mind, I visualize them as quiet pacifists who never make waves and play it safe and conservative. They sit around evenings watching whatever the Nielsen family watches. They eat vanilla ice cream, and don't know how they feel about anything until they see a bumper sticker on it.

The difficulty in making a decision is overrated. There's nothing to it. You don't even have to know what you're talking about. I saw a show once where people on the street were asked how they felt about Mendacity. (A word meaning dishonest.)

One person said she thought they should do a telethon for it. Another said he thought he was becoming a dictator and should be removed from office by force. Fifteen people said they were undecided about how to get rid of it and would have to think about it.

My question to "undecideds" is, "When will you know?"

Napoleon escaped from the island of Elba in 1815, and within three weeks France had rallied to the former emperor. The Battle of Waterloo on June 18 dashed Napoleon's last hopes, and the British government banished him to the remote island of St. Helena, where he died in 1821 at the age of 52.

Your Birthday

This coming year you are likely to become involved in three important projects or ventures. Although they won't be related to one another, each has a good chance of succeeding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Just because you may be uncertain of achieving total success regarding a goal which is important to you, you should not use this as an excuse to discard it. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An ambition you've been keeping to yourself has a good chance of being fulfilled today, but be very careful not to hurt another's feelings in getting what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to spend time today with persons who stimulate your thinking, even though your beliefs may conflict. Each can learn by exchanging ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be afraid to stand up for your rights today if you feel you're not being treated fairly regarding something to which you are entitled.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Considerable give-and-take may be required today in several important one-to-one relationships. Don't get off to a bad start by making unfair demands.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This should be a very productive day, provided you don't do things in fits and starts. Having too many irons in the fire will hamper your efficiency.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be very careful today not to turn activities which should be fun into competitive situations. Should you become too assertive, it will arouse the ire of your companions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) For sake of peace in the household today be sure there's agreement on ways the youngsters should be managed. Eruptions are likely if there are two sets of rules.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though you may feel your ideas and suggestions are better than your peers today, be careful how you present them. Use the soft sell.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In your material or commercial affairs today you are likely to use prudent judgment in some instances while in others you could be far too extravagant.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons in accord with your way of thinking will find you a very pleasant and amicable companion today, but any who challenge your ideas will see another side.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though you may deem it distasteful, it would be wise at this time to remind one whose obligation is overdue of his or her indebtedness.

Which poison is better?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I know that being overweight is bad for you. And I know that smoking cigarettes is bad for you. I am overweight and smoke more than two packs of cigarettes a day. Now, I think I can quit smoking or I can lose weight, but there is no way I can do both.

My wife is after me because she thinks I'm a prime candidate for a heart attack. She may be right. What I would like to know from you is which is worse, smoking or being fat? If I stop smoking I know I will gain even more weight and if I go on a diet I'll need to smoke more than ever. Have you any suggestions?

DEAR READER — I hate questions like that as you know perfectly well that both are important medical problems for you. It is like asking me which poison will harm you less.

You've asked it so I'll tell you that within reason cigarette smoking is a bigger risk for you than being moderately overweight. That is an average generalization with many exceptions. If your blood pressure is high or you tend to have high blood cholesterol levels, then losing weight could be more important. We are [illegible] saying you need to individualize, not generalize, and it depends upon what your health findings really are.

Why don't you quit smoking first just to get started on a program. After you have stopped smoking you can then make a bigger effort to control your excess body fat.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-2, How to Measure Your Risk of Heart Disease, to give you some solid figures on risk factors. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. The three main risk factos are blood pressure, cholesterol and cigarette smoking. Both of the first two are often influenced by body fat.

Now, you don't have to wait to start a fat-control program. Start a walking program right away. When you feel the urge to smoke, go for a walk. The walking will make you feel better and will help you keep from smoking. It will also start using some calories for you. As you build up your walking program it may solve the weight problem in time for you, too. In other words, walk, don't eat.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a widow, age 70, and have lived in Oregon for two years at over 4,000 feet. I feel I should be acclimated to the high altitude by now. But sometimes I feel I do not get enough oxygen into my lungs. I often have spontaneous spells of sucking in several bits of breath, while just sitting reading or being quiet. I moved up here from Los Angeles to get out of the smoggy conditions that existed where I lived. I thought it would be better for my lungs. I don't smoke and never have.

DEAR READER — You might want to have a medical examination to see if you need your lung capacity checked. If you are having any problem it is not caused by the altitude.

At 5,000 feet or less the decrease in oxygen in the air is so slight that it has little effect on the body. Our blood oxygen uptake system is engineered so that it will still pick up almost as much oxygen as it normally carries at sea level, even though there is a slight decrease in oxygen in the lungs.

Cause Of Death Not Known Yet

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Authorities haven't determined what killed the co-captain of the University of California-Davis basketball team, who collapsed after being taken out of a game and died about an hour later.

Leon Richardson, 21, of San Francisco, was taken out the game Saturday during the second half becauase he appeared "to be running out of gas," said university spokesman Jim Doane.

Hospital officials say a former mental patient brought to them after he threatened bus passengers with a knife was tranquilized and released from a psychiatric ward three days before he was shot to death as he attacked a group of policemen.

We couldn't predict he was going to do this on Monday," Dr. Lane Cook, director of Ben Taub Hospital's emergency psychiatric unit, said Wednesday. "We felt his psychotic symptoms had cleared enough for him to be discharged."

Eddie Lee Johnson, 22, was killed about 6 a.m. Monday when he rushed a group of about 30 officers gathered outside police headquarters. The group had been trying to calm Johnson for about 10 minutes as he made martial arts gestures, waved knives and screamed obscenities.

Johnson was arrested about 11 p.m. Dec. 10 and admitted to the hospital at 12:30 a.m. Friday, records show.

Anderson To Lead AFC 'Bowlers'

NEW YORK (AP) - Ken Anderson of Cincinnati, the National Football League's top-rated quarterback, heads the American Football Conference Pro Bowl squad announced today.

The San Diego Chargers and the Kansas City Chiefs each had five players picked for the team, which will play the NFC squad in Honolulu Jan. 31.

Anderson was one of four Bengals chosen in balloting by the AFC's head coaches and NFL Players Association members. Other teams with four representatives included the Denver Broncos, the Houston Oilers and the New York Jets.

The NFC team, announced Wednesday, will be led by San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana, one of six 49ers picked. He will be joined in the starting backfield by Tony Dorsett of Dallas, the NFL's top rusher, and Billy Sims of Detroit.

Wide receiver James Lofton of Green Bay and defensive tackle Randy White of Dallas were the leading vote-getters in the NFC, while New England guard John Hannah topped the AFC balloting.

The NFC leads the AFC in the series, 7-4, including victories in six of the past seven games.

Picked with Anderson for the AFC's starting backfield were Houston's Earl Campbell, the conference's leading rusher, and Kansas City's Joe Delaney. The starting wide receivers were Denver's Steve Watson and Buffalo's Frank Lewis, with San Diego's Kellen Winslow at tight end.

On the offensive line, the voters picked Pittsburgh's Mike Webster at center, Hannah and San Diego's Doug Wilkerson at guards and the Jets' Marvin Powell and Cincinnati's Anthony Munoz at tackles.

The starting defensive line has the Jets' Mark Gastineau and Joe Klecko at ends, with San Diego's Gary Johnson and Miami's Bob Baumhower at tackles. Linebackers picked to start were Robert Brazile of Houston, Ted Hendricks of Oakland and Jack Lambert of Pittsburgh.

In the secondary, the starting cornerbacks were Oakland's Lester Hayes and Pittsburgh's Mel Blount, backed by Gary Babaro of Kansas City and Donnie Shell of Pittsburgh at safeties.

Pat McInally of Cincinnati will handle the AFC's punting, while Nick Lowery of Kansas City does the place-kicking and Carl Roaches of Houston

Claiborne Takes Kentucky Post

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - Jerry Claiborne learned his football from Paul "Bear" Bryant as both a player and coach.

But Claiborne says he will be himself as he tries to turn around a University of Kentucky football program that has struggled in the shadow of Bryant for nearly three decades.

Claiborne, head coach at Maryland for the last 10 years, was signed Wednesday to a five-year contract as the new Kentucky coach after receiving the unanimous approval of the UK Athletics Board.

Kentucky never rediscovered the glory it knew under Bryant - the Alabama coach who has a record 315 career victories in the late 1940s and early 1950s. Fran Curci, the fourth coach since Bryant, was fired Nov. 24 with three years remaining on his contract after his fourth consecutive losing season and 35 overall 47-51-2 record in nine years.

"I would like to see the Kentucky program back on top again," Claiborne said following his appointment. But he said he would have to accomplish that with his own natural atributes and not anything copied after other people, including Bryant.

"It's good to be home," said Claiborne, a native of Hopkinsville, Ky. who played at UK under Bryant from 1946-49.

Claiborne served as an assistant to Bryant at Kentucky, Texas A&M and Alabama before becoming head coach at Virginia Tech in 1961 and compiling a 61-37-2 record over the next ten years.

After being unexpectedly fired at Virginia Tech, Claiborne was an assistant at Colorado for a year before taking over a moribund Maryland program in 1972 that had posted a 7-25 record over the previous three years.

Snyder Youngster Featured In Issue Of Sports Illustrated

Eric West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monte West of Snyder, is spotlighted in the December 14 issue of Sports Illustrated magazine.

West, a second grader, is in the "Faces In The Crowd" section of the publication, which is currently on the newstands.

In recognizing his achievements, the magazine reads, "Eric, a second-grader, scored 23 of the Rockets' 26 goals in pacing them to an 8-0 record and the championship of the Snyder Soccer Association's 6- and 7-year-old division. He had six goals in a 6-0 win over the Sneaky Snakes."

Eric was received a trophy cup from Sports Illustrated this morning. He had learned of the honor only recently, after his parents obtained a copy of the magazine and showed it to him.

Eric and his teammates on the Rockets were coached by Emmitt Hataway and Abe Rodriquez.

Cosby Formulates Boxing Plan For Aging Ringsters

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Entertainer Bill Cosby was twirling his television dial the other nigh, when what to his wondering eyes should appear but 36-year-old Earnie Shavers, climbing into the ring once more.

A few minutes later, right after Shavers did his thing, why there was Muhammad Ali, age 39, acting out the Drama in the Bahamas.

Being a sensible sort of guy, Cos decided then and there that senior citizens like Shavers and Ali should be protected from reaching back for one more springtime when autumn has clearly set in. So he has come up with a solution which he offers, at absolutely no charge, to boxing's Social Security set.

"You know how tennis has tournaments for age classes like Men's 45 And Over, or Men's Seniors?" Cosby said. "Well, they should do the same thing in boxing. If you get older and you still want to fight, then you ought to be able to fight only against your own age group."

Cosby has a whole list of aging candidates for his tournament.

"There's Ron Lyle and Kenny Norton," he said. "Shavers, Ali, Joe Frazier, Scott LeDoux. We could even get Ernie Terrell and maybe Floyd Patterson. I don't know, though. Floyd might be past this."

There would, of course, be different rules for this group, in deference to their advanced years.

"The way I see it," said Cosby, "we would have two-minute rounds. Up till the eighth round, we'd have one-minute rest periods. Then, after that, we'd go to two-minute rests. If both men are still alive by round 11, we go to one-minute rounds with a two-minute rest."

The punches won't hurt much because Cosby's rules will require large, pillowy gloves to reduce the chance of injury to the aging. And in the corners, there will be no stools.

"Noooo," said Cosby. "We'll need recliners or maybe cots."

Cosby knows a little something about boxing. He is a ringside regular at all of the big fights in Las Vegas and, in fact, he had a ring career of his own.

"Yeah, I boxed for about one minute," he said. "I retired undefeated. I was 1-0."

His only fight came at age 12 in a Police Athletic League tournament in North Philadelphia.

"They put me in against my friend, Edward Randall. Now in the first round, Edward threw about 7,000 punches. I just covered up. In the last 30 seconds of the round he was charging forward and I was covering up but there were no punches. He was punched out. In the second and third rounds, I bounced and jabbed and won the fight."

Why didn't he continue?

"I had this terrible headache and I asked somebody why. He said 'That other man was hitting on you.' I said, 'Does that happen all the time?' and he said 'Yes.' I decided then that it wasn't a good idea."

Snyder Cagers Face Pecos Eagles Friday

Pecos High School, at one time a pushover in the gym, promise to give Snyder basketball teams all the want Friday night.

Snyder's girls entertain the Eaglettes at the high school gym, while its boys play in Pecos. Both varsity games are scheduled for an 8 p.m. start and both will be preceded by a junior varsity game at 6:15.

Coach Ken Housden's Felines, 6-5 on the season and 1-2 in 2-AAAA play, hope to go .500 for the district season against the Eaglettes. Pecos is 3-6 for the year and 1-1 in conference play. The Eaglettes beat Monahans in Monahans and lost to Lake View at home.

Top scorer for the Eaglettes is 5-10 Debbie Crumnow, a returning all-district choice who averages 14.6 points a game. She's flanked by Renee Shorter, who averages 10 points.

Meanwhile, Coach Larry Scott will attempt to get his Tigers rolling after Tuesday's district loss to Lamesa. The Tigers are 10-4 for the season and 0-1 in loop play.

Pecos will be coming off of an 86-65 non-conference win over Van Horn. The Eagles, 7-4, will be playing their first district game Friday, but have already met up with two loop opponents in tournament play. Pecos defeated both Sweetwter and Fort Stockton in the Sweetwater tournament earlier this season.

Efrain Valeriano, 5-10 and averaging 16.4 points, paces the Eagles. Other keys are 5-10 Mike Hall, 11 points, 6-5 center Dave Michaelis, Bobby Jenkins and Mike Lawson.

Moore Receives Raise, Extension

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech regents gave head football Coach Jerry Moore a one-year extension on his contract and a raise, it was announced today.

Moore's contract will now run through 1986. He took over the Texas Tech coaching duties in January.

Pro Bowl

takes kick returns.

The rest of the NFC starting offensive lineup included Mike Kenn of Atlanta and Pat Donovan of Dallas, tackles; Herb Scott of Dallas, guard, and Rich Saul of Los Angeles, center. On defense, the starters were Lee Roy Selmon of Tampa Bay and Ed Jones of Dallas, ends; Doug English of Detroit, tackle; Lawrence Taylor and Harry Carson of the New York Giants and Matt Blair of Minnesota, linebackers; Ronnie Lott of San Francisco and Roynell Young of Philadelphia, cornerbacks, and Gary Fencik of Chicago and Nolan Cromwell of Los Angeles, safeties.

BYU Favored Over Huskies

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Coach Jim Walden, only half kidding, says Washington State's Holiday Bowl strategy Friday night against free-scoring Brigham Young University and quarterback Jim McMahon is simple: "Somewhere along the way, we've got to make them punt."

Washington State, one of the nation's surprise teams with a 5-2-1 record in the Pacific-10 Conference, is a three-point underdog to 14th-ranked BYU, 10-2, and McMahon's "army of targets," as Walden calls them.

Kickoff for the nationally televised game is 6 p.m. PST, but the telecast will be delayed two hours.

If 20th-ranked Washington State, 8-2-1 overall, is going to make good on its first bowl appearance in 51 years, the key is keeping the game close, says Walden.

Stopping McMahon is not a realistic goal, he allowed.

"You don't stop Brigham Young's passing attack," says Walden. "Limit it, hopefully ... take away the passes they want most, maybe ... delay it, possibly. Stop it? No."

McMahon, whose destroyed the NCAA record book by setting marks in 55 categories, helped Brigham Young lead the nation in scoring for the third year in a row and passing for the second consecutive year.

Western Athletic Conference champions for the fourth year in a row, the Cougars averaged 38.7 points per game behind an awesome offense that averaged 480.3 total yards per game.

Cooney Fight Set

NEW YORK (AP) - "There's somebody on the horizon to take Larry Holmes," says the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion, "I'm getting the opportunity to shut up more mouths."

The somebody is Gerry Cooney. The horizon is March 15, when Cooney will become the 12th man to try to dethrone Holmes.

The pertinent information about the Cooney-Holmes bout already was known, but the two unbeaten fights got together Wednesday at a news conference to kick off the promotional campaign for a fight at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev., in which each reportedly will receive $10 million and which stands to gross more money than any bout in history.

It is a fight which has all the ingredients needed for a big event - two unbeaten boxers, age vs. youth, age vs. experience, and enough questions to be answered to make any fight fan drool in anticipation.

Dennis Rappoport, who manages Cooney with Mike Jones, pointed out the age difference - Cooney is 25, Holmes 32. "Gerry's young, but he's not smarter," said Holmes.

"My prediction is to win," said Cooney who will go into the fight with just 3 minutes, 43 seconds of actual fighting in 17 months. The 6-foot-5 power puncher knocked out Ron Lyle at 2:49 of the first round Oct. 25, 1980, then ran his record to 25-0, with 21 knockouts, by knocking out Ken Norton at 54 seconds of the first round May 11.

Won't the fact that many of his fights have ended early adversely affect him if he doesn't get to Holmes early, Cooney was asked?

"I hope when I get through, and I come to a press conference like this, you'll ask me the same question," replied Cooney.

Contending that Cooney has gained his No.1 ranking by both the WBC and the World Boxing Association against generally weak opposition and has kept it with only the Norton fight this year, Holmes said. "This is a justice fight," said Holmes. "Wherever Cooney is today, we all know he doesn't deserve to be there."

"I promise you. I promise myself," said Holmes when asked if he thought he would knock out Cooney. "No prediction (on a specific round), but he's a 6-round fighter."

The first Ladies' Day in the history of major-league baseball was held by the Chicago Cubs in 1929.

NCAA Considering Pitting No. 1 In Season Start

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The National Collegiate Athletic Association is considering a proposal to pit the reigning national college football champion against another top team at Giants Stadium each year, according to published reports.

Both The New York Times and The Star-Ledger of Newark in today's editions said they had learned that the proposal calls for the game to be the annual opening event of each college football season. The game would be nationally televised.

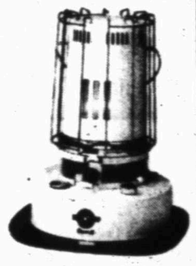

The plan was sponsored by the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. Dick Kazmaier, a former Heisman Trophy winner at Princeton and now president of the Hall of Fame, said the first game could be played as early as Labor Day 1983.

"I don't know of any negative reaction to the proposal at this time," Kazmaier said. "But the nature of the NCAA being what it is, with so many schools involved, you can never be sure if you'll get the broad base of support you need."

The NCAA's Football Television Committee is studying the plan, the report said. The committee is expected to poll schools at the NCAA meeting next month in Houston and act on the plan in January 1983.

The two schools would get about $500,000 each, The Star-Ledger said.

Serious Concern Shown About Polish Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is "seriously concerned" that large numbers of workers, intellectuals and students have been interned in Poland and that Solidarity union leader Lech Walesa is "not a free agent."

"If this is true, it will be hard to reconcile with the Polish government's commitment to continuation of the reform process and to political solutions," said State Department spokesman Dean Fischer.

Department sources say unconfirmed reports indicate some of those arrested under the Polish government's martial law decrees are being mistreated and not given warm clothing to ward off the winter cold.

Meanwhile, the White House said Wednesday, for the first time publicly, that apparent pressure from the Soviet Union caused the martial law crackdown on the Solidarity union movement.

"It is clear that Soviet pressure very likely contributed to the Polish decision," said White House spokesman David Gergen.

And officials repeated warnings that any intervention in Poland by Soviet troops would have "a severe and lasting effect on East-West relations," including the likely imposition of a trade embargo.

At the State Department, Fischer said the Polish and Soviet governments have been told once again that the United States believes "the Polish people should settle their current difficulties through a process of negotiation and compromise, without outside interference."

A "special situation group" headed by Vice President George Bush and created by President Reagan met to monitor events in Poland and to draw up options for possible U.S. responses.

Existence of the group was not disclosed until after it held its second formal session Wednesday. Its members include the secretaries of state and defense, the director of the CIA, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the president's national security adviser and Reagan's three top White House aides.

United Nations Ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick also attended Wednesday's 90-minute session.

At the State Department, spokesman Fischer said, "The Polish military remains active but we have not seen evidence of unusual Soviet military activities."
