'Reds' Blow Up Pipeline At Overton

Dynamite Blast Wrecks Two Joints in Line In Etex Field

OVERTON, Texas, June 14. (UP)—National guardsmen and local authorities tonight were investigating the blowing up apparently with dynamite of half a dozen joints of the Tyler Pipeline company's line near here.

The twisting of valves from a Magnolia company well also was being investigated. Some of the authorities blamed Communists for both incidents.

The pipeline, a six-inch line running from the lower end of the East Texas field to Tyler, was torn up by the blast some time yesterday but the explosion was not revealed until today when workmen repaired the damage. Oil men said the explosion could not have been accidental as pipelines are welded to prevent the escape of gas.

The line was shattered at a point a mile west of Old London on the Gulf-Turner lease. It was blown up for a length of between 60 and 100 feet, investigators reported.

Guards were placed around Texas refineries and along pipelines in May of 1931 following warnings by Texas rangers of a reported Communist campaign of vandalism but there had been on reports of threats made public in recent months.

GUARDSMEN HAVE CLUES IN PIPELINE BLAST

KILGORE, Texas, June 14. (UP)—There is "no question whatever but that the Tyler Pipeline company's pipeline near New London was dynamited to cause the break under investigation today, Col. L. S. Davidson, militia commandant in the East Texas oil field, said tonight.

Colonel Davidson, who examined the break, said two joints of the welded line were blown to pieces and that 8,000 to 10,000 barrels of crude oil was lost before the break was discovered. The line has been cut out for replacements.

Davidson said indications were that more than one person participated in the dynamiting. He said he was uncertain at present whether Communists or persons with a grudge against the pipeline company committed the act. Several clues have been found and guardsmen are following them.

Amarillo Election To Require Run-Off

AMARILLO, Texas, June 14. (AP)—In the heaviest voting and closest contest ever recorded in a mayor's race here, Ross D. Rogers today failed by 19 votes to obtain the necessary majority over his closest opponent, Lon D. Marrs.

The total vote was 4,676. Rogers got 2,379, Marrs 2,200, and H. A. Daniels 197.

A run-off election will be necessary. Its date was not set.

Condition of Garner Remains 'About Same'

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—A slight fever that developed in the afternoon, kept Speaker Garner in bed today, suffering with bronchitis.

Dr. George Calver, house physician who is attending the 63-year-old Texan, said he was "about the same." He seemed cheered by the fact Garner was no worse and abandoned his plan of issuing an official bulletin after his evening call.

CHAMPION OF VETS DIES TO HALT DEBATE

Rep. E. E. Eslick Succumbs On House Floor While Speaking for Bonus

VICTIM OF 'GRIND'

Death Defers Direct Vote On Payment of Bonus Until Wednesday

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Death struck with dramatic suddenness in the house today to defer until tomorrow the first direct vote on the bonus bill as the tattered "army of occupation" in Washington continued to grow.

In the midst of an impassioned oration demanding the passage of the Patman bill, not as a bonus but as "earned compensation," Representative Edward E. Eslick, Democrat of Tennessee, fell dead from a heart attack on the house floor.

The stricken champion of the world war veterans was carried to the speaker's lobby by his shocked colleagues where all efforts to revive him were futile. The house, which had continued the debate on the bonus bill, adjourned immediately after official word of Mr. Eslick's death reached the chamber. The senate also adjourned out of respect to his memory.

Debate Ended

An agreement among leaders was reached later in the day to end the general debate, which had an hour and 40 minutes to run when Mr. Eslick was stricken, and to take up the bonus bill tomorrow under the five-minute rule. Passage of the bill is assured in the house.

Majority Leader Rainey, acting speaker during the illness of Speaker Garner, one of the leaders urging that debate be shortened, described Eslick as a "victim of the grind" the members of congress have undergone during this busy session. He said the house should avoid a schedule that threatened more casualties.

While Rainey conceded the bonus bill will pass the house by probably a larger margin than the 226 to 175 majority by which the friends of the measure yesterday forced it to a direct vote, he insisted that the bill is doomed because the necessary two-thirds cannot be mustered for it.

Move to Force Action

In the senate, where the passage of the bill is doubtful, a powerful movement to force action developed as Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma, served notice that he will "resort to any necessary measures, however drastic" to bring the question to a vote on the floor.

By a strange turn of fate, Eslick was the 13th member to address the house on the bonus bill. Eight opponents and four advocates of the bonus had spoken when Eslick began a lengthy prepared address, urging the so-called Owen plan which has been agreed upon as a substitute for the original Patman bill.

The 60-year-old house veteran had just finished contrasting the generosity of the less allied nations to the discharged war veterans with the $60 bonus granted by the United States, when he said:

"But, Mr. Chairman, I want to divert from the sordid. We hear nothing but dollars here. I want to go from the sordid side—"

Veterans' Champion

The speaker gasped and clutched at the reading stand before him as he fell to the floor in the well of the house below the speaker's dias. A score or more members rushed to the pale form and bore it to a couch where Representative Larrabee of Indiana and Representative Spick of Pennsylvania, both physicians, and Dr. George Calver, official house physician, worked over Eslick's body. Dr. Calver said death was instantaneous.

Scores of veterans sat stunned in the crowded galleries as their champion fell. The announcement of Eslick's death was made by Representative Davis of Tennessee and Representative Byrnes wiped his eyes after moving to adjourn.

Texas Motor Police to Escort Bonus Marchers

AUSTIN, June 14. (UP)—Texas motor police will escort California bonus travelers across the state, it was announced here tonight.

The action was taken when D. S. Collins, chief special agent of the Texas and Pacific railway notified Adjutant General W. W. Sterling of the expected California movement next week and suggested the action.

Will Rogers Says Convention 'Laid An Egg' In First Session

Senator Dickinson Did the Best He Could Under the Circumstance; Bishop Reads His Prayer

By WILL ROGERS
(Copyright, 1932, by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 14.—In the theatrical business when a thing don't go or is a flop, we say that "It laid an egg." Well, the Republican convention "laid an egg" here today. The house wasn't near sold out. The loud speaking system didn't work, and half of 'em couldn't hear the "keynote" speech. They got mad and got to leaving but not as quick as those that was sitting near and could hear it.

Poor Senator Dickinson did the best he could with the material he had to work with. Like all political speeches any humor in it was unconscious. At the finish he said, "We never been a party of critics and complainers."

Well, for two hours he had been telling us nothing only what the Democrats hadn't done to restore prosperity, or had done to prevent it.

How Talk Was Received

Here is how the speech was received by the cabinet. My press seat was near an exit, just ideal. When he got to the diplomatic relations, Secretary Stimpson went by. I hailed him and asked him why he was walking out. He said, "He is breaking my heart."

Then he got to the budget and by comes rushing Ogden Mills. Ogden says, "I hope he can balance it, I can't."

When he got to the disarmament part, by comes Assistant Secretary Jancke of the navy. He says, "You can sure disarm oratorically anyhow."

Hurly First to Leave

Pat Hurley was really the first to walk out on him. Pat left on the opening paragraph which was "Three score and 12 years ago, our nation was saved by the Republican party." Well Pat's got too much humor for that. So we went out and got a hot dog and had our picture taken with Bill Skelly, another Oklahoman.

Postmaster General Brown was sitting where he couldn't get out so he went to sleep. Secretary Wilbur, who I afterwards went around and called on in his box, he and his wife and I talked about our boys at Stanford. I asked him why he stuck. He said, "Oh, it's not bad here, I can't hear a word." Pretty wise crack for a Stanford man for its never stood out for its humor.

Whooping Things Up

Found "Alice" and had a big chat with her during the speech. (That's when everybody did their visiting—it was just like an intermission). Alice was looking fine only she had the whooping cough. Had caught it from her little daughter, Paulina Longworth. She was trying her best to give it to all the stand pat Republicans she could. And I was cheering her on.

The show run for about an hour, then somebody happened to tell Simeon Fess that an invocation had not been delivered, and that if the Republicans hoped to corral any of the church vote they had better have a little prayer, so they prayed just ahead of Dickinson's speech, but it didn't seem to have any effect on the Lord or Dickinson either, for the Lord just let it go on and so did Dickinson. So the prayer was a total loss. But the bishop had a mighty fine voice and being a real Hoover disciple, he read his prayer.

Mayor Speaks

The mayor of Chicago welcomed the delegates and tried to sell 'em a lot, and said everybody would have protection while here. It was after he finished that they thought of the prayer. But the mayor did a good job.

Silas Strawn thanked somebody

'MA' AND 'JIM' HERE TONIGHT

Fergusons to Speak At Auditorium

Evidence that the wheels of politics in Texas are attaining business momentum was given Tuesday in the announcement that James E. and Miriam A. Ferguson, the latter a candidate for governor, will speak on the west lawn of the Memorial auditorium here Wednesday night, June 15, at 8 o'clock.

Both ex-governors, the Fergusons will appear here on an itinerary which carries them through all of Northwest Texas in the interest of returning "Ma" Ferguson to the governor's chair.

John Davenport and C. C. McDonald, the latter having arrived here Tuesday for a few days, will be in charge of the Ferguson rally. Arrangements have been made for loudspeakers to carry the two speeches to the furthest limits of the spacious lawn at the auditorium. Benches for at least 2,500 persons will be in position before the speakers' stand, it was announced.

Mr. Davenport will be chairman of the Wednesday night meeting.

Sabine River Oil Tests To Start in 60 Days

AUSTIN, June 14. (UP)—Agreements for oil drilling to start in the Sabine river bed in the East Texas oil field within 60 days were drawn here today by Assistant Attorney General Neal Powers and Rice M. Tilley of Fort Worth, representing the Rhoades Drilling company and Farrell & Co. of Fort Worth. These companies have jointly secured the river rights. The state is to receive three-eighths royalty and $5,125 for each well drilled.

Law Regulating Wages on Government Jobs Of Texas Held Unconstitutional

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP)—Labor statutes of Texas requiring contractors on state government projects to pay wages equal to the scale prevalent in the community where the work is being done is unconstitutional, a three-judge United States district court held here today.

Christy-Dolph, Bellows Maclay Construction company, P. O. B. Montgomery, and the Graham and Collins Electric company sought an interlocutory injunction against R. B. Gragg, state labor commissioner, and Bryan Blalock, county attorney, restraining those officials from enforcing the statute attacked as invalid.

The four contractors hold contracts on the construction of six buildings on the University of Texas campus costing more than $1,000,000 and claimed in their petition that their contracts with the board of regents did not call for a salary scale equivalent to the current scale of wages paid in this locality for similar work.

The opinion, sustaining the contention of the contractors, was written by District Judge Robert J. McMillan of San Antonio and concurred in by Circuit Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr. of Houston, and District Judge Duval West of San Antonio following a hearing on application for interlocutory injunction.

BUSINESS MEN MAKE TOUR OF VALLEY TODAY

90-Mile Bus Trip to Show Progress Made By Irrigated Area

75 BUY TICKETS

'Farm Dinner' at Noon To Provide Feast On Valley Products

More than 75 Wichita Falls business men have secured tickets and will board buses at the courthouse at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning for a 90-mile tour of the Wichita valley. Details of the trip were completed at a meeting of the Wichita Valley Development association board Tuesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices here.

Space for All

Large roomy buses have been secured for the tour and adequate space remains to meet needs of additional business men desiring to make the trip. Tickets are being sold at $1 each under direction of Darrold Kahn. The business men will be guests at a farm dinner on the route.

Members of the association directly in touch with progress of the irrigated valley will occupy each bus and will give added information to supplement the evidence of growing products. The tour will cover every phase of development in the valley, revealing evidence of the wide range of produce possible to grow through irrigation in the Wichita Falls area.

Attendance Urged

Business men of the city realize the growing importance of the valley development as a leading asset to Wichita Falls and they owe it to themselves and the city to properly acquaint themselves with the possibilities of irrigation in the immediate area, President B. B. Greever of the board said.

Last Spike Driven On Denver Northern

PAMPA, Texas, June 14. (AP)—The last spike was driven here tonight in the new Childress-Pampa line of the Fort Worth and Denver Northern railway. The line is 110 miles long and cost more than $4,000,000 to build.

Completion was delayed several days by heavy rains. A station is under construction here. Laying of rails began early in the year but was delayed by the necessity of bridging a number of streams. The line was said to be the only one under construction in the United States.

Traffic probably will begin within a month.

Attorney Charged With Slaying Aged Mother

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 14. (AP)—A warrant charging John R. Boyle, 37, prominent Birmingham attorney, with murdering his 66-year-old mother yesterday on Shades mountain was ordered today by County Investigator G. M. Evans.

The investigator's order came after an exhaustive investigation of Boyle's story that a bandit attacked him and his mother, Mrs. Jesse A. Boyle, as they picked flowers on the mountain and stabbed her to death.

Boyle bears half a dozen knife wounds which he said were inflicted when he ran to the aid of his mother.

He is under guard in a hospital here.

East-West Night Flying to Be Inaugurated Today

LOS ANGELES, June 14. (US)—Transcontinental night flying service will be inaugurated tomorrow afternoon when the first American Airways plane leaves United airport at 4:40 for New York by way of Dallas.

The news service will bring New York within 27 hours of Los Angeles, one business day being spent between the two cities. Air mail service will also be speeded up approximately 11 hours.

E. W. Kingsley, western manager of American Airways, will govern operations between Los Angeles and El Paso, which also includes San Diego and Phoenix.

W. T. C. U. Head Attacks Resubmission Proposal

AUSTIN, June 14. (UP)—Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, state president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, issued a statement here tonight saying her organization is against submission of a prohibition referendum.

She accused the state Democratic executive committee of high-handed methods and resort to "unjustifiable political expediency" in authorizing a vote on submission at the Democratic primary election, July 23.

Fee Extortion Trial Of Sheriff Under Way

AUSTIN, June 14. (UP)—The trial of Sheriff John Bigham of Bell county, charged with fee extortion, got under way here in 126th district court today. Bigham is one of several sheriffs who have been charged with collecting fees from the state to which he is not entitled. Fees and travel expenses for serving witness fees in March, 1930, are attacked in the case on trial.

Sleepy Delegates Rouse To Ovation For Abe Lincoln

Damon Runyon Terms Convention the 'Big Clap Trap Handicap'; Speakers Talk to Unhearing Audience

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 14.—They're off!

The big clap trap handicap.

The great flub dub sweepstakes.

The one-every-four-years Guff Derby.

The Republican national convention.

Giddy up!

Mister chairman—the gentleman from—be it resolved. Three score years ago. Let us have order. The grand old party. Herbert Hoo—ver. The pee-pul. The stars and stripes. The economic situation.

Here we go!

Giddy-up!

Words. Words. Words.

More words.

Half a million per day going out over the telegraph wires. Ten million over the radio. More newspaper men than delegates.

"A bum house," says Mr. Warren Brown, the Chicago sports writer, his critical eye surveying the half empty galleries of the Chicago stadium. "A very bum house. Where's the customers?"

The customers are doubtless around town looking for work while the convention gets ready to tell them what ails them, and how the Republicans will cure them sure pop, if the customers will kindly take an additional four years' treatment from old Doc Hoover.

Some of the details of this treatment are eventually exposed by Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, in a loud, stern speech. A "keynote" speech. Or maybe it is "keyhole." Anyway there's a key to it. Some of the 1,154 delegates catch up on lost sleep during Senator Dickinson's thunderations. Life during a national convention is not all beer and skittles. Well not all skittles, anyway.

Celebrities Aplenty

Lookit all the celebrities. Senator This, and Senator That. Secretary So-and-So. Governor What's This. All loaded to the muzzle with words, and liable to go off half-cocked any instant.

There's Mr. Floyd Gibbons, a white patch over his eye, yelling hello kid at this affiant. Who's a kid? There's Mr. Arthur Bugs Baer, the humorist, listening to an admiring literary soul, who tells him he is in a class with Henry James. "What's his other name?" inquires Mr. Baer, naively, and the admirer walks away disgusted.

These sinister looking gents in the lobby, now. Drinking "coke." Some of the famous Chicago gangsters perhaps? But no. The famous ones are all in the cannerino. The sinister lookers are merely New Yorkers, bored by their absence from the big town. Well, they would be Republicans.

But hist!

Also—sh-sh-sh—

Inside the Hall

Something is doing in the convention hall. Let's see.

Flag day—Betsy Ross—Put out that light—Halls of Montezuma—Don't turn that light on again—While I'm on this platform—Heights of Chapultepec—Put out that light, I'm the boss here—Abraham Lincoln—

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, is orating on the Stars and Stripes and he is much annoyed by the blast of kleigs turned on him from a gallery by the movie operators.

Senator Fess is a former school teacher. You might have guessed it. He is spare built, bald, and wears schoolmasterly black. A black string hangs from his nose glasses. He calls the convention to order at 11:26 a. m. but prior to his gavel beats, he postures with his wooden hammer upraised for the movies. He doesn't mind the lights then.

Hail the Flag

Well, Senator Fess' remarks about the flag are impassioned and impressive. "The flag!" he cries, pointing suddenly.

Down an aisle comes a squad of members of a local post of the American Legion, bearing standards. The flags are massed in front of the speaker's stands. A band plays "The Star-Spangled Banner." Everybody stands.

The blinding kleigs come on again so the cameras can register this not unimposing little ceremony.

Silas Strawn, bulky and bald, is presented by Senator Fess. He is representing Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens committee, of Chicago, who cannot be present. Silas Strawn has a few words of welcome, and then he introduces Mayor Anton Cermak, generally mentioned as "Tony" for a more official greeting.

Mayor "Tony" is built like Strangler Lewis, the wrestler. He says Chicago is glad to have the Republicans here. He briefly sketches the

WETS COMBINE FOR BIG PUSH

Factions Battle Over Prohibition Plank

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—A carefully phrased prohibition declaration, with resubmission of the issue to the people as its main theme, was put before the Republican platform workers tonight by administration representatives as the basis for settlement of the wet and dry controversy.

The plank, endorsing resubmission but demanding a substitute for the 18th amendment to protect dry states in event of repeal, was put forward with some dry support to stem the drive of eastern repeal advocates.

The proposal was the result of long hours of work in Washington and here and was unofficially reported to be acceptable to President Hoover who has thrown his influence against the outright repeal campaign.

Air of Tenseness

Nevertheless, there was an air of tenseness as the carefully selected members of the resolutions committee met late in the day with James R. Garfield, of Ohio, the chairman, to meet the prohibition issue.

Sensing a losing fight in the committee, the wets promptly arranged to pool their influence behind a common minority report demanding repeal. They will put that report before the convention for a vote and an open battle on the floor.

The main difference—and it was put up to the committee for settlement—rested on whether the prohibition question should be submitted to state conventions or to state legislatures. The drys demanded the latter.

Other Planks Peaceful

Besides the prohibition controversy, the multitude of other issues facing the resolutions committee dwarfed appreciably. A bundle of hand fashioned Hoover planks on farm relief, the tariff, foreign affairs and the economic problem

CURTIS ON SKIDS

Everybody Gabs While Senator Dickinson Pleads For Loyalty

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—The administration took firm control of the Republican platform committee tonight in the selection of a subcommittee to draft the planks.

Two members of President Hoover's cabinet—Secretaries Mills and Hyde—were named on this all important subcommittee by Chairman Garfield, together with Ambassador Edge of France.

Senator Bingham of Connecticut, leader of the repeal forces, was left off the subcommittee.

The subcommittee was named by Garfield and accepted without protest in the midst of hearings by the whole committee.

The men named to draft the Republican platform included the following:

California, C. C. Teague; Colorado, William V. Hodges; Delaware, Senator Hastings; Illinois, G. D. Kinney,; Iowa, J. N. Darling; Kansas, Charles F. Scott; Massachusetts, William M. Butler; Michigan, Fred W. Green; Missouri, Secretary Arthur M. Hyde; New Hampshire, John G. Wynant; New Jersey, Ambassador Walter E. Edge; New York, Secretary Ogden L. Mills; Ohio, James R. Garfield; Pennsylvania, John J. McClure; Texas, R. B. Creager, and Washington, John J. Sullivan.

Friends of Bingham expressed surprise over the selections.

It was recalled Bingham was vice chairman of this subcommittee four years ago at Kansas City and it was he who made the formal motion tonight for appointment of a subcommittee.

DELEGATES LISTEN FOR HOOVER ORDERS

By ROBERT BARRY
Universal Service Correspondent

CONVENTION STADIUM, Chicago, June 14.—The Republicans assembled in national convention today to listen to the keynote address for their 1932 campaign.

What they actually did was to strain their ears for a word from the White House on the two major controversies dedeviling the party—prohibition and the vice presidency.

While Senator Dickinson of Iowa harangued them on economic issues President Hoover wishes to have stressed in the campaign, they fidgeted and chatted and smoked.

Such was the steady rumble of suppressed conversation, Chairman Fess of the national convention, found it imperative to command silence for the words intended to constitute the battle-cry of the party hosts.

Brown Holds Attention

When Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, the president's chief political strategist moved about the floor, there was greater interest in his huddles and whisperings than in what the keynoter was shouting into a battery of microphones for all the world to hear.

Early in the proceedings Lawrence Richey, confidential secretary to the president, declared some statement as to an agreed text on the prohibition plank might be possible later in the day. It was revealed elsewhere that several tentative drafts had been forwarded to the White House over night and agreement on phraseology was hoped for when the committee on resolutions assembled at the congress in the late afternoon.

The word spread throughout the convention that the administration plank would provide for resubmission with provision that congress should enact a substitute so as not to leave the country without any national legislation for protection of dry states.

Wets Lay Claim

The wets insisted that exchanges among various state delegations strengthened their view that the convention would vote for the wettest proposition first presented to it. By that they meant that if the resolution for outright repeal, pledging the Republican party to exert its best efforts for ratification of the repealing resolution by state constitutional conventions, could reach a vote before the administration proposal, the wetter plank would prevail. They clung to that contention in spite of warnings by White

Texas G. O. P. Delegation Leads Move To Nominate Dawes for Vice President

By FRED DYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 14.—The Texas delegation to the Republican national convention today assumed leadership in a determined effort to supplant Vice President Charles Curtis of Kansas with Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Chicago, as running mate in November for President Hoover.

The convention barely had gotten under way when Capt. J. F. Lucey, Dallas, intimate friend of President Hoover, quietly made his way to the Arkansas delegation and obtained consent of the sister state to waive in favor of Texas when its name was reached on the vice presidential nomination roll call next Thursday. Texas then would nominate Dawes.

With him at the time, but silent, was Patrick F. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover cabinet and administration spokesman at the convention.

The maneuver followed closely the opening remarks of Rene B. Creager, Galveston, last night in addressing the Texas caucus.

"Ninety per cent of the national committeemen with whom I have talked favor the nomination of Dawes," Mr. Creager told his fellow Texans.

The Texans displayed their courtesy in passing to Illinois the honor

Delegates Await News Of Hoover's Wishes

House spokesmen that such a plank would be wholly unacceptable to Mr. Hoover.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, made a gesture to inform the drys in the convention of the deep determination by the wets for a finish fight. He arose just as soon as a resolutions committee was authorized to offer his outright repeal, without a substitute, resolution which John D. Rockefeller Jr., had endorsed.

Creager Persistent

R. B. Creager, national committeeman for Texas and leader of the "draft Dawes for vice president" movement, declared he was undisturbed by the declaration by General Dawes in Washington against being nominated for second place on the ticket and urging his friends in Chicago not to embarrass him by presenting his name.

"We'll draft him," the Texan declared.

Members of the Iowa and Colorado delegations, supporting the nomination of Dawes, made no bones about their purpose in urging his nomination. It is openly and avowedly an anti-Curtis gesture. If they can get the Dawes nomination before the convention and should he refuse to accept it, they feel they will have thrown the whole thing onto the floor and that some compromise nominee then will be chosen. Administration leaders acknowledging the Dawes strength, insisted it would be Curtis if Dawes would not take it.

Age Talking Point

Although the age of the vice president is the chief talking point of those urging another running mate for President Hoover—Curtis is 73 years old this year—the real inspiration back of the move to dislodge him is a desire for a better-balanced ticket.

An eastern wet would about hit the mark for a healthy majority of the delegates here assembled, the hope being thereby to offset Mr. Hoover's established and unshaken dryness.

The president's managers in Chicago have been astonished at the anti-Curtis sentiment in the convention. A handful of wet national committeemen are accused by friends of Mr. Curtis of having incubated the revolt. The Dawes boosters deny that emphatically.

Mr. Creager is especially eager to have it understood that every one has the greatest respect and the highest esteem for the vice president but that the national necessities are such that the Republicans can not pick as a candidate the oldest man since Gassaway Davis was the Democratic vice presidential choice.

Iowa Can't Forget

Among the Iowans who are prancing and rearing to bolt the slate some say Iowa never has forgotten the Curtis rejoinder "You're too damned dumb" to a farmer's question on the equalization fee four years ago. These may be mere smokescreens to shield the purpose of making the ticket a little more acceptable to the wets of the north Atlantic seaboard.

The administration appeared to have its program of convention routine in good order when the convention was called to order today.

The physical accommodations were as near perfect as any might be. The new Chicago stadium offers everything a gathering of the sort could demand.

The picture at the opening could have been a bit more colorful, the occasion more boisterous, if those three tiers of red chairs spread in an enormous oval had not shown so many vacancies. A more generous distribution of tickets to Chicagoans may be attempted. Ordinarily national committeemen and party leaders are overwhelmed for tickets.

Drama Lacking

It was not necessary to be wedded to the glamour of the "good old days" to realize that this Republican convention lacked the drama of former openings.

There was not the slightest reminder of those earlier conventions when the national heroes of the Republican party used to obtain ovations as they walked through aisles to take seats with their respective state delegations.

Postmaster General Brown and, as such, the chief political strategist of the Hoover administration, moved about the floor seeking some one in the New York delegation. Although the delegates were according the most casual attention to the keynote speech of Senator Dickinson, Mr. Brown passed about recognized by few.

Governor Rolph of California shook hands with him but for the most part the delegates did not know the postmaster general, greatest patronage distributor in the land.

Thoughts of delegates, judging by their casual remarks, were on the controversial issues before the convention—prohibition and the vice presidential nomination.

Dickinson Did Well

Senator Dickinson's presentation of the Republican record, especially as it has been made during the economic depression, was regarded as being as skillful as a party keynoter might have made; his facts were marshaled in orderly and effective array; he said the things Republicans should have enjoyed most to hear and to applaud as the text of innumerable campaign speeches to be heard later from one end of the country to the other.

Yet, so casual was interest, so scant the attention accorded the Iowan, Senator Fess found it imperative to walk to the edge of the platform, bang the gavel and demand less noise and more notice for the speaker.

Not once during the Dickinson speech did any Republican delegate feel any impulse to rise to his feet and whoop for the party principles. It was not until he reached his peroration, his exhortation for party loyalty at the close of his address, that Dickinson was able to rouse his hearers to mild excitement. New Jersey's delegations started a rising cheer and Governor Rolph waved the California flag.

The simple truth was the delegates were carrying on a steady buzzing of semi-whispered gossip among themselves as to what was happening about the prohibition plank and the movement to unseat Curtis. They endured the formalities incident to the opening of the convention. They were fidgety for news "from the throne" as to what they are expected to do about the two major problems of the party legions.

Wets And Drys Hammer On Plank

were smoothed over for presentation by the host of cabinet members.

Interest of the administration was evidenced by the sudden arrival on the ground of Secretary Hurley of the Hoover official family. He took a place on the resolutions committee as the representative of Oklahoma.

Drys Confident

Prohibition leaders such as Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, and Dr. Daniel A. Poling, head of the allied forces for enforcement, were smiling and confident as the committee went to work.

MABEL SPEAKS

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, long a leader of the dry cause, said in a radio speech tonight she hoped if the majority of the Republican convention were determined to have the constitution changed the platform would declare for repeal instead of "disguising their real object" behind the "weasly word of resubmission."

The hearings before the resolutions committee were limited to four hours and the first was given over to prohibition with the wets and drys limited to 30 minutes each.

Wadsworth Cheered

James W. Wadsworth, a leader in the repeal movement, entered the spacious committee room amid cheers from women repealers outside.

Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, chairman of the national prohibition board of strategy, headed the group of prohibitionists, including Dr. Daniel A. Poling and F. Scott McBride.

Elbow to elbow were Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the united council; Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the national prohibition board of strategy; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, repeal advocate; Dr. A. C. Millar, Little Rock, Ark., member of the strategy board; and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Butler Speaks

Butler spoke first, saying he found the language admirable in the resolution for repeal adopted by several states. He was not asking for endorsement of repeal, he said, but simply urging the people be given an opportunity to vote.

He said if the resolution he introduced today were adopted it also would be adopted by the Democrats two weeks hence and would put the liquor problem on the high road to solution.

Several members of the committee joined in the applause that followed.

DuPont, speaking for the united repeal council, contented himself with reading a resolution proposed by the council for repeal and then introduced Wadsworth.

Wadsworth told the committee the party that fails to declare its beliefs on the problems of the day and fails to propose action "does not serve and soon must die."

"We cannot fool anybody with talk of modifying or revising the amendment," he said.

"Beware lest an obvious dodging of this question will pin the label 'prohibition party' on what is still the Republican party."

Fred G. Clark spoke for the Crusaders and asserted "prohibition has failed." "We demand repeal," he concluded.

Mrs. Sabin introduced Mrs. Courtland Nicols, the vice chairman of the National Prohibition Reform league, who said:

"The 18th amendment must be repealed and not merely diluted."

Cherrington was the first speaker for the prohibitionists. He said the 18th amendment was entitled to all the safeguards and protection thrown around the rest of the constitution.

"No degree of public clamor of propaganda should deprive the 18th amendment of that protection," he said.

He said the only way the constitution could be changed was by the ratification of a new amendment by two-thirds of the legislatures or constitutional state conventions.

Violation of Fundamentals

"Any short cut that may be proposed would be a violation of the fundamentals of the constitution," he said. "There is no such thing possible as a referendum or resubmission of an amendment. No platform should make use of such terms which would imply the possibility of something which is impossible."

He objected to binding the president on the question by the adoption of such a plank on the ground the president's sole duty was to preserve and protect the constitution.

He also objected to binding Republican candidates throughout the country by a plank recommending a change in the prohibition laws because, he said, such a plank would put candidates in half the states in a position of being disloyal to the party.

As Dr. Cherrington concluded there was prolonged applause from prohibitionists.

W. C. T. U. Leader Speaks

Ella A. Boole, representing the Women's Christian Temperance union, told the committee if the Republican party endorsed resubmission or repeal of prohibition it would lose the support of many of the women in the November election.

F. Scott McBride said the reason "the wets, our opponents, are asking for this plank is in order to coerce the members of congress and the United States senate and thereby circumvent the constitution."

McBride asserted the delegates to the convention were not elected on the prohibition issue and that the sole responsibility for prohibition rested with congress.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, for the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, said women are half the electorate but have very little voice in the government, in the choice of candidates or of platforms.

Others Urge Repeal

Recalling the 18th amendment is only 12 years old Mrs. Peabody said "A 12-year-old law and a 12-year-old boy are alike, each needs time and a mother."

Mrs. Peabody read a resolution opposing any modification of the 18th amendment.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, was the last of the speakers.

He said 1,512,000 men, women and youths had been organized within the last year in the Allied Forces for Prohibition.

"And all of them are for the 18th amendment as it is," he said.

Ralph M. Shaw, representing the voluntary committee of lawyers, urging repeal, said the present law was unsound.

Frank A. K. Boland, counsel for the American Hotel association, urged repeal.

At the conclusion of the wet and dry hearings the resolutions committee adjourned to meet again later in the evening.

WILL ROGERS AT CONVENTION

First Session 'Laid an Egg' Says Humorist

for bringing the convention here, but he didn't get a hand from any one from Chicago. Ninety-six pallbearers all dressed in black, with black ties to match from Columbus, Ohio, sat right behind the speakers. They afterwards developed into a glee club and sang Republican spirituals. Some soldiers marched in with flags, stopped in front of the stand, but Senator Fess wouldn't let 'em stay there long. He was afraid they would ask for the bonus so he shooed 'em on out.

A woman with roses in her arms sang the Star-Spangled Banner, which was a great improvement over any convention I ever saw.

Coolidge Unmentioned

Dickinson is a good orator, under different conditions, and on a subject that he could really feel. Funny thing he didn't mention Coolidge's name, but neither did he mention prohibition. He said there was twice as many men in jail as when Mr. Hoover went into office. We couldn't tell if he was referring to prohibition or politicians who had been caught.

Tonight they are offering $1,000 for the author of the speech, dead or alive. Dickinson swears he didn't write it, that it was slipped under his door at night, and that he had to deliver it.

Louie B. Mayer, a power in our movies, and a power in California Republicanism, came along and I chatted with him during the speech. I accused him of stealing it out of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's scenario department that had been sent in as a comedy. Louie said he didn't but that he would buy it and take it back.

Floyd Gibbons and I fought the Chinese war over again and wished we was back where something really happens.

Congressman Tilson, of Connecticut, earned himself undying fame by asking 'em to please adjourn. What in the world they can possibly do tomorrow, only a clairvoyant can tell. This convention should have been put on between sessions of the Democrats.

Runyon Fails To Find Much Of Show In Convention Stadium At Chicago

various glories of his home town, architectural, and otherwise. When Mayor "Tony" withdraws, Bishop James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, D. C., prays for the Republicans.

No Religious Favorites

They will have representatives of other denominations praying for them at other sessions. The Republicans play no religious favorites.

The delegates listen to the prayer respectfully. Then George Dibicville, of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican national committee, reads the call for the convention, all this business being the customary procedure in conventions since Hickory Slim was a 2-year-old.

Now Senator Fess nominates as temporary chairman, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, and doesn't wait to hear if any one can think of a better man. You know these things are cut and dried long beforehand.

Quicker than you can say Jack Robinson, Senator Fess pronounces Senator Dickinson elected, and names a committee to escort the temporary chairman to the platform.

Gov. Jim Rolph of California, one of the few men left in the country who still wear high boots, is the leading escorter.

The governor of Michigan and General Martin of Pennsylvania are his aides.

"Plow Stride" Stays

Senator Dickinson discloses himself as a man with snow-white hair, horn spectacles, a loud voice and stern demeanor. It is clear that the senator feels the importance of this occasion. He likes to hear himself referred to as "Hell Raising Dick." He retains a stride developed in following a plow.

"Three score and twelve years ago," begins Senator Dickinson, which places him at once as one of the old school. A rip-snorter of the cross roads hustings. You know what's coming next and here it is—"Abraham Lincoln!"

The delegates have to applaud that name. It has the same relation to Republican politics as the waving of the American flag in a vaudeville act. Now, presently, Senator Dickinson pronounces for the first time in the convention the not-so-magic name of Herbert Hoover.

Ovation—1932 Style

There is light applause, most perfunctory, at first, as if the delegates are willing to let it go at that. They are still a bit sleepy. Suddenly they realize that this is no time to be sitting on their hands. The name of Hoover has been uttered aloud. The applause picks up. The California delegation gets up and starts cheering. One of them waves a California state flag. Other delegations are afoot, and exercising their lungs.

The galleries are sparsely occupied, so sparsely that you wonder if the Chicagoans know they have a convention in their midst. Some of the spectators join in the applause. But as a demonstration it is weaker than the local bourbon is reported by southern delegates. It lasts perhaps two minutes.

Then Senator Dickinson, who waits out the demonstration with a pleased expression, remarks somewhat ferociously:

"I am going to depart from the record and give you something to take home and tell your Democratic brethren. I want you to get it. The Republicans offer Herbert Hoover with pride."

Senator Dickinson juts out his chin as he makes this statement, as if some one has doubted it. Now he begins spouting in earnest in what is known as the "keynote" address. It is the usual political guff. The same thing, in slightly different form, will be echoing through this hall a couple of weeks later when the Democrats assemble here.

Dickinson Reads

Senator Dickinson reads his keynoter. One gathers that reading takes something from the senator's customary forensic violence. The keynoting gives us a chance to look around the premises.

The Chicago stadium is a high-white-walled building with three tiers of bright red seats rising above a vast expanse of floor. It is costing the Republicans $2,000 per day and the concessions, such as the hot dogs, and soft drinks.

This Chicago stadium was poor Paddy Harmon's fondest dream. Paddy Harmon was a bluff character who made money promoting various amusements on a small scale in Chicago.

Tex Rickard came along leading the pugilistic gold rush of the twenties and reared Madison Square garden in New York. Immediately every home town promoter had a vision of being another Rickard. In several large cities of the United States, imposing structures were built, dedicated, mainly to prize fighting.

Almost without exception they broke the promoters, Harmon among them. He was to die in an automobile accident, with others in control of his stadium. It is now owned by local millionaires. They probably would love to have some one take it off their hands for what they've got buried in it. Stadiums are a drug on the market just now.

But poor Paddy Harmon would have delighted in the scene in his stadium today. He liked a bit of show.

He would have enjoyed the flag-draped interior with big organ erupting sonorously, and a band spilling sound at intervals.

Fess Demands Quiet

No one is paying any attention to the keynoting. Senator Dickinson reads on, and on, and on with enormous determination. The delegates gossip audibly. Senator Fess feels that this is not the respect due a keynoter. He seizes his gavel and bangs the table.

"The delegates will come to order," he says.

The delegates try. But ere long they are exchanging stories again, and visiting around.

The loud speaker fails, and Senator Dickinson's voice sounds strangely small and squeaky, for a moment, though you can see that his feeling has not abated.

The keynoting lasts some 45 minutes, and Senator Dickinson closes with a little extra pressure on the name of Herbert Hoover. A few shrieks, and some hand clapping awake the drowsy echoes, then the regular business of the convention goes forward.

Mr. Lafayette B. Gleason, bland, bald, very stylish in a gray suit, who is secretary of the convention, reads the list of temporary officers of the convention with the facility of long experience.

"Moved and seconded the list of officers of the convention be approved," shouts Senator Dickinson, and it is so ordered after a feeble response of ayes when the senator calls for a vote.

1928 Rules Hold

Mr. William G. Skelly of Oklahoma offers a resolution that the rules of 1928 govern the convention, and this seems quite all right with everybody.

A delegate from Nebraska, whose name is never uttered, offers a motion that a committee on credentials be named consisting of one member from each state and territory. This goes through on another feeble response of "ayes." The delegates were in weak voice.

Miss Katherine Burns of Connecticut offers the resolution providing for the committee on permanent organization and General Harbord of New York sends a resolution to the desk that takes care of the committee on rules and order of business.

Mr. James R. Garfield of Ohio is responsible for the resolution providing for the platform committee. Mr. William V. Hodges of Colorado put in a resolution calling for the state delegations to send their names of committee members to the platform rather than have them read out. Mr. Hodges is a time-saver. His resolution is adopted.

"The resolution offered by Mr. Butler of New York is referred to the resolutions committee," says Senator Dickinson.

He is speaking of none other than Mr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia university, and a distinguished wet. The resolution offered by Mr. Butler may have something to do with wetness, but we never learn. Not a ripple of applause greets Mr. Butler's name.

Mr. Lafayette B. Gleason reads a job-lot of announcements of meetings of committees. Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut now moves that we adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

"Daylight saving time," yells Senator Dickinson.

This motion carries with the first vocal fervor of the day, leading to the suspicion that the delegates are anxious to escape.

Martyr to Science

FORT WORTH—For 30 years Dr. I. C. Chase experimented with the x-ray and saved the lives of many. Today he is the martyr of his own research in this branch of medical science. When he first began his experiments, such things as lead shields to work behind to protect one from the rays were unheard of. Constant exposure to their energy caused his arm to become infected. The 63-year-old physician recently had to have the arm amputated.

"STICKY" STAMPS CUT LOSS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—New "stick-tight" cigaret tax stamps, designed to prevent re-use of stamps now costing the state considerable loss of revenue, have been distributed by the state revenue department.

OLD MEXICAN FORT CLOSED

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—San Blas, Nayarit, the oldest port on the west coast of Mexico, has been closed and the custom house abolished. It was prominent during the Spanish regime, when it was used in communication with the Philippines.

Recent Bride Is Honoree At Summer Bridge Party

Mesdames Fritz Taylor, C. B. Locke and Grady Taylor were joint hostesses at a pretty bridge at the Forum clubhouse Tuesday afternoon honoring Mrs. A. R. Taylor, a charming bride, who until her recent marriage was Miss Julia Peeler of Elk City, Okla. Summer flowers and wide open windows made the Forum clubroom an attractive setting.

Pink and white were stressed as the bride's favorite colors. A handsome red and gold vase was a gift to her.

In the games, Mrs. R. A. LaBauve was winner of the high score and received an old time spinning wheel lamp; a sewing basket filled with pretty stationery went to Mrs. Hugh Weaver, winner of second score and Mrs. A. K. Dodge was presented with a vase of lovely flowers for the cut prize.

A delicious ice course was served to the lovely honoree, Mrs. A. R. Taylor, and to Mesdames S. B. Heard, Leo B. Smith, D. H. Hyler, R. B. Parker, Zack Hurt, Charles Morgan, R. A. LaBauve, Albert Owen, H. J. Hughey, Thomas R. Vague, J. Truman Stevens, Marvin Edgemon, Charlie Harrison, R. A. Whatley, J. L. Late, Gene Liepold, C. Dabbs, Leore Horn, R. A. Wolfe, A. K. Dodge, E. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Two darkies sat on wheelbarrows on different corners Tuesday morning, in which they were carrying their paraphernalia for cutting lawns. Two other negroes drove a horse that seemed to be suffering from undernourishment and in the one-horse wagon, they also had a lawn mower.

None of them seemed unhappy. White men and women fret over the terrible economic conditions and now and then, one unable to stand the gaff, goes out into a darkness with which he is not acquainted. An ordinary southern negro can just go to sleep.

But we went from places where there seemed to be plenty of happiness to another where the wants of little children were discussed. A grandmother came to the day nursery with her two little grandchildren and asked they be kept until she found work. She had been cooking for their board and her own.

"I will get work," she said bravely. A grandmother carried on in that way.

Another woman brought an 8-year-old son whom she wished to be taken care of while she worked picking chickens. She had made 19 cents the day before. The child had had no breakfast that day. She might learn to pick chickens rapidly.

One woman said her little boy sold papers, when he could. "When he does," she said, "we have milk." "Have you had anything this morning?" she was asked. "Yes," she said, "we had breakfast food and milk also. The woman from whom we bought the milk found we had nothing else, so she divided her cereal with us."

We talked bravely during the late war about carrying on. Wages were high and prices were high. We made bread from all sorts of grains and ate it proudly. We grumbled sometimes because we could not have the sugar we wanted.

But we are enlisted in a much worse war. There are no gay songs sung by marching troops that go through our towns. We have not the thrill of patriotism that thrilled us when we saw the boys in khaki.

The world must live. Democracy —misunderstood as the word has become—cannot perish from the earth. The only parallel between our times and those of the decline and fall of the great Roman empire, is in the agrarian situation. The farmer is always the backbone of the nation.

There are people who have money. They are holding to their money. The greatest menace to the nation today is fear. Black, biting fear! We live today; will we be able to live tomorrow? The question has made men lose all sense of love and all ideals of the future.

The farmer who owns his property may raise something to feed his family. Women have progressed beyond any other period of their history. They take care of the food that is plentiful in the summer; their cellar shelves promise nutrition for their young.

The world is crying for bravery. It is crying for brotherhood in the fullest sense of the word. Each day, we wonder when the great leader will come. There is no time like that of peril in which men and women may prove themselves. The time is upon us. To carry on, is a far greater problem than it was in time of war. This is no time for recrimination, for memories and doubts.

Those who know nothing of a Divine Being, to whom their prayers may ascend, are to be pitied. It is a blessing to be able to pray.

Art Lovers Will Meet In Forum Dinner Programs

The summer opening of the Woman's Forum dining room Monday evening was the signal for several informal parties. Notable among these was the pretty table laid for 16 artists and musicians of the locality. Shasta daisies and butterfly flowers filled the large bowl in the center and the summer motif was made more noticeable by the use of lace doilies on the shining tables. This particular dinner party was an informal affair opening a series of dinners and programs to be continued through the summer.

There is to be no cover charge for the forum dinners and the group of artists interested in literature, music, painting or any of the fine arts, expect to swell the parties to an interesting number. There is no admission fee to the informal gathering. Reservations must be made by 5 o'clock and those who gather with the group must be present by 7:15.

An informal committee was named in Emil Hermann, Misses Mary Fitzgerald and Vanita Williams. At the table a round table discussion was held and it will be held each week. The committee will name the members to take part on the program each evening and volunteers will be welcomed.

Monday evening, Miss Maurice Mount of Henrietta and Charles Kiker played two exquisite two piano numbers. One was a charming arrangement of the Blue Danube and an encore was given. Jack McWilliams of Burkburnett played two of his original piano numbers; Mrs. H. B. Van Emden gave a group of Russian poems; George Williams made a splendid political speech and Mr. Hermann gave an imitation of Mr. Kiker playing one of Debussy's modernistic arrangements. The artists' dinner party included Messrs. and Mesdames Stanley M. Raub, Edwin Bebb, H. H. Ferrell, Mrs. H. B. Van Emden, Misses Mary Fitzgerald, Vanita Williams, Helen Henry, Maurice Mount; Messrs. Emil Hermann, George Williams, Jack McWilliams, Charles Kiker and Baldwin Montgomery.

Judge's Words Misquoted, Governor Murray Claims

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP) —Gov. W. H. Murray today charged Judge Will H. Chappell was misquoted as saying the governor pardoned criminals faster than they could be sent to the penitentiary.

"And I have a letter here from him saying so," Murray said waving the sheet.

Chappell today denied he made any criticism of Governor Murray.

The Republican member of the criminal court of appeals was quoted making the statement before the conference of district and superior court judges in session here yesterday.

Federated Mission Board Makes Interesting Reports

"Hunger is the fundamental reason for helping needy children," said Mrs. Fred T. Datson, superintendent of the day nursery, in making her report at the meeting of the executive board of the Federated Missionary society at the day nursery Tuesday morning. The total number of children cared for in May, according to her report, was 2,243. The largest number in one way was 98 and the smallest 60. The average daily attendance during the 26 days, was 86 and during the month, 125 were enrolled.

Mrs. Datson stressed the fact that the temptation to give, had so often to be set aside, and emphasized the new needs when school was ended and mothers were present with their children for interviews. The building of character and physical strength were spoken of as the policy of the nursery and kindergarten. She made an appealing talk, stressing human interests that interested each member of the board. "We do not stand still here," she said. "This is not a standstill situation." She told of mothers who were working for infinitesimal wages, whose only hope for their children was their care at the nursery, and urged that members of the board continue the work with every bit of pluck and backbone they have.

Reports Given

Mrs. S. E. Trevathan, president, opened the meeting with the eighth Psalm, and Mrs. J. A. Kemp offered prayer. Mrs. J. E. McKinney, corresponding secretary, was first to make a report and stated that she had written five letters of thanks for favors given the nursery. Among the notable gifts, was the ceiling fan donated by A. E. Kelly. Mrs. O. T. Ailes gave an encouraging treasurer's report and Mrs. J. A. Kemp's report on the kindergarten was of usual interest.

The story telling hour was reported by Mrs. M. C. Batey who told of the visit of Lon Howard, assistant postmaster and of the trip made later by the children, under her charge, to the postoffice, where they were shown through the various departments. An amusing incident was related concerning one child finding a special delivery letter that was addressed to his mother. Her address had been changed and the boy wished to deliver the letter himself, but the incident gave an opportunity for the explanation of postoffice work. Postal savings made a strong impression on numbers of children who desire to invest in that manner when they are able. For the summer, it was announced, the story telling hour would be changed from Saturday to Friday afternoon. One interesting feature of the story hour was the ambition developed in the children when children from another kindergarten came to entertain them. "Why can't we entertain?" they asked. Mrs. Batey will be entertained at the next meeting.

Mrs. J. Lem Keevil reported on county farm work and stated that through the summer meetings would be held there twice a month. The Grace Methodist and the Lory Memorial Baptist church will conduct the next two meetings.

Nursery Thesis Wins

Mrs. R. O. Harvey told an interesting story when she announced that Mrs. A. A. Barnard, who has been taking a course in library and sociological work at C. I. A., Denton, took for her final thesis, The Wichita Falls Day Nursery. It roused much interest and received the highest grade ever given in C. I. A. for a graduation thesis.

Mrs. Horace Robbins, general chairman of the spring clinic, told in an interesting manner of the work done when 94 children were examined in May. Expressions of thanks were given to Miss Pearl Rorabaugh and Mrs. West, Mesdames C. E. McCutchen, H. P. Ledford, Q. B. Lee and Mrs. Robbins, who assisted the doctors who officiated in the clinic for two days. Only 15 children were found suffering from poor nutrition; 30 had trouble with their eyes; 55 had tonsil trouble; two had weak hearts and 80 needed dental work. Corrections have already been begun by the dental association which is cooperating with the nursery. Drs. Frank H. Harrison, Walter B. Adams, P. King Smith, J. B. Casey, H. P. Ledford and J. C. A. Guest cooperated in the work. Letters will be sent them, by vote of the board. The assistance of Dr. R. E. Wolford was also acknowledged.

Mrs. A. B. Maples reported on the investigation committee, stating that all cases visited were worthy of support. Mrs. Maples stressed the fact that like Boy Scouts, children of the day nursery were rarely ever found in later trouble. She said that she had found mothers carrying on who earned as little as 10 cents a day and urged the support of the executive board.

Mrs. Trevathan, who had arranged a shower of small gifts for the boys in the nursery, made an inspiring closing talk. All loose ends of the organizations were gathered into her capable and interested hands, and her plea to the board was for their continued support and the help of their prayers.

Approximately 30 members were present for the meeting.

Our Children

Right and Wrong

Only children hold that right and wrong are two distinct and clearly marked posts on the road to salvation. With each year spent on the way one learns of shades of right and degrees of wrong. Toward the end of the journey the once shining marks have been wiped out and in their stead lies a field of action all set about with sparks of light and dots of shadow and one steps now this side, now that in an endeavor to keep the light on his side. Strangely enough it flickers so that what seemed so shadowed an instant before is appearing in the light of truth. Who shall sit at the right hand of truth?

It is right that children be decided about right and wrong. For them let there be no discussion about it. When they sit in judgment upon one of their mates who has broken the accepted code, let it be their verdict that stands—right is right and wrong is wrong. It will do no harm for theirs is a kingdom of their peers—all stand equal before the bar of childhood.

With adolescence the strict law begins to take up exceptions. Black is no longer all black, white is no longer just white. There are shades. It is not as bad to whisper in class as it is to cheat though both are violations of the law.

Next the critical attitude is apparent. No longer are facts and people and events accepted without scrutiny. No longer is authority unquestioned. Why? What for? Who said so? By what right? And now the old landmarks are swept aside and the adventuring child dares to establish a new idea, and a new route to the Celestial City.

Now the shades of truth and untruth are so merged that it requires all his powers of intellect, all his background of childhood's faith, to hold by one and reject the other. And yet, truth prevails. Not the right-wrong, not the black-white of childhood, but the great, wide, wonderful infinite truth that is all of life and all of us. Too big for youth? True. Too big for age is also true. But the search and the adventure is life for both.

Little children learn the rudiments of right living in the hard and fast commandments. They learn them with rigid inflexibility. To them they cling, must cling, throughout their lives. But they are the reudiments of living, the elementary facts, the fundamentals of morality. With maturity comes the wide fields, the uncharted fields. What then is to guide the explorer?

If he was firmly grounded in the fundamentals of morality he is safe so long as he can apply this test: Is this right for me? In the light of my experience, is this right for me? In the broad field of applied morality each must seek his own good in the light of my experience, is this right for me? In the broad field of applied morality each must seek his own good in the light of his best knowledge, his faith, his experience. And it is not for one man to call "Stone him," because another has found good in seeming evil.

Withhold your hand. Lay down your stone. Once beyond the ancient outposts the search is to the individual soul. Right, truth, salvation are found in mysterious ways. So train children that when the test comes they shall be so steadfast of soul that all truth is welcome, all good their own, salvation within themselves.

After an interesting talk on "Stewardship" by Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Horton presided in the business session.

Mrs. A. J. Catlin taught the lesson from the text book, "In Royal Service," after which Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly gave the closing prayer.

CALGARY, Alta.—It wasn't enough for a motorist to run over Ernest Rounding once—he had to run over him again. After the driver had knocked Rounding down and run over him, he got out of his car, saw Rounding under it, jumped in and drove 25 feet further, running over him again with a rear wheel. Then the driver and a companion got out and took Rounding to a hospital.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Pretty Flag Day Service

One of the most impressive and beautiful programs held recently was given in the legion room at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday afternoon with the groups of the American Legion auxiliary headed by Mesdames A. Mogonye and A. A. Vermillion in charge. The two leaders met the guests at the door and ushered them to the desk where Mrs. Brosn presided at the register.

Tall vases of red lilies and other blossoms suggesting the national colors were used with the national flag for effective decorations.

Mrs. W. W. Cook was principal speaker on the program, and told the history of the flag, starting with the flags used by the colonies, then the English flag and stating how on June 14, 1777, congress resolved that the flag of the United States should consist of 13 stripes, alternately red and white, with a white star for every state on a field of blue. "This was the same flag that was made by the skillful fingers of Betsy Ross. Every color means liberty, every thread means liberty, and every form of star and beam of light means liberty—Liberty through law," she said.

Miss Loraine Mathis, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. C. Mathis, played two violin numbers by Elgar, La Capricieuse and Scherzo, by Goens.

Mrs. Murrell Hooper, accompanied by Mrs. M. P. Albritton sang, "End the Day With a Smile" and "Flag of the Free."

Pupils of Mrs. Harry Gross gave a very delightful program, with Misses Virginia Del James, Patsy Connor, Hildegard von Jena, Katherine Uttz, Mary Ella Adams, Marguerite Key, Ardenalia Shaw, and Florence Mooring, participating. Mrs. L. L. Davis was accompanist for the numbers.

The acrobatic tap dance number by Florence Mooring was particularly well received.

Mrs. Pat Crawford, of Burkburnett was a special guest, and invited the legion auxiliary to be the guest of the auxiliary of that city, June 23 at which time Burkburnett will celebrate her 25th birthday. The city is to have a barbecue of 5,000 pounds of beef, and many people from Wichita Falls are expected to attend.

Refreshments consisting of individual cakes in blue, with an iced course in red and white, were served to the following guests: Mesdames H. G. Birdwell, R. E. Benson, Geo. Wiest, Ray Kenney, J. B. McDewell, August Mogonye, A. M. Hutchins, Frank M. Brown, S. J. Schwab, V. V. Musick, E. A. Underwood, W. W. Cook, C. H. Bodine, H. A. Carter, E. W. Duncan, J. R. Grant, C. W. Andress, R. G. Strikingly, Radically New
Phantom★Kotex
SANITARY NAPKIN (U. S. Pat. No. 1,857,854)

Most important improvement in sanitary protection since the invention of Kotex itself in 1920.

AT LAST! A radically new design in sanitary protection. You are scarcely aware that you have it on. Made, of course, by Kotex—originators of the modern sanitary napkin.

It is called PHANTOM ★ KOTEX. Why? Because the ends are so flattened and tapered that it leaves no outlines even under the closest-fitting of gowns. Not the slightest bulk suggested even under the filmiest of summer silks. And—for those who require extra protection—Super-Phantom Kotex is ideal. There's extra protective surface but the ends are so skilfully flattened as to be completely inconspicuous.

Kotex features retained

The special Kotex features you have always appreciated are retained, of course. It is soft after hours of use; wonderfully absorbent; treated to deodorize; can be worn, with equal protection, on either side; disposable, easily.

More than 24 million pads were used in hospitals alone last year.

Insist upon getting genuine Kotex, when you buy it already wrapped. Each tapered end of the new pad is stamped "Kotex" now—so you can't get inferior substitutes.

Kotex prices are today the lowest in Kotex history. This new improvement comes to you at no increase in price. All dealers have the new PHANTOM KOTEX.

HOW SHALL I TELL MY DAUGHTER?

Many a mother wonders. Now you simply hand your daughter the little booklet entitled, "Marjorie May's Twelfth Birthday." For free copy, address Mary Pauline Callender, Room 2140, 180 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The new Kotex is called PHANTOM★KOTEX because—you scarcely realize you are wearing it!

No revealing outlines—The new PHANTOM KOTEX is flattened and tapered so that ends are completely inconspicuous.

Greater security—The smooth, snug fit gives greater wearing ease than you've ever before experienced.

Lastingly soft—disposable—The same softness and absorbency for which Kotex is famous. Disposable always.

New Kotex Belt, narrow, adjustable, only 25c—Wear it with the new PHANTOM KOTEX. The combination makes for complete ease, for completely inconspicuous protection.

NOTE: Kotex—now at your dealer's—marked "Form-Fitting" is the new Phantom Kotex

QUIZ OF FLIER'S DEATH SOUGHT

Robt. Short's Mother Seeks Action by Congress

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Short of Tacoma, Wash., mother of Robert Short, American aviator, shot down during the fighting at Shanghai, arrived here today from China and announced she would demand congressional investigation of her son's death.

She also referred to what she called the failure of American officials in China to take action regarding the matter.

"I have positive proof my son was not shot down in combat with Japanese fliers," said Mrs. Short, who visited Shanghai at the invitation of the Chinese government, to attend her son's funeral. "He was delivering a commercial plane when he was attacked by the Japanese airmen and killed by them."

Memorial Service Held At Cemetery at Smyrna

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, June 14.—An all-day memorial service was held Sunday at Smyrna cemetery, two miles northeast of Sunset and was attended by a goodly number of people from several communities.

During the forenoon a memorial address was delivered by Donald Swaim of Sunset, a pioneer resident of this vicinity. The singing of a number of songs was led by J. K. Willett.

In the afternoon Paul Finn of Sunset delivered a memorial address. The audience was also entertained with a reading by Mozella Brashear of Sunset. The afternoon singing was led by G. A. Brashear.

G. W. Shoemaker, Dan Baker and Harve Miller were re-elected as committeemen of the cemetery association. G. A. Brashear and Mrs. Della Butler were elected as new members of the committee.

Electra Girl Evangelist Preaches at Pilot Point

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—Miss Estelle Barnett, 20-year-old Electra girl evangelist, began a revival at the Pilot Point Assembly of God church this week.

Miss Barnett conducted several revivals last year and was very successful. More than 80 additions were made to the church at Haskell under her evangelistic work. She also went to Cleveland, Ohio, last summer and spoke in various churches there and en route to Ohio. She was graduated from the Bible school in Enid, Okla., last month with highest honors. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Barnett.

Miss Orena Towles, daughter of Mr. adn Mrs. Mark Towles, also a student at Enid, is assisting in a revival at Port Arthur. She is a singer and is assisting with the song services.

Gigantic Income Tax Fraud Is Exposed

CHICAGO, June 14. (UP)—One of the largest income tax frauds of record was charged in a federal indictment returned today against William J. Newman, wealthy wrecking contractor, his two companies, and Paysoff Tinkoff, attorney and income tax expert.

The defendants are accused of "wilful attempts to evade and defeat" payment of tax on $3,041,244 income, amounting to $448,265, during 1926, 1927 and 1928, when, it is alleged, the total income was $3,470,527, but return was made only on $429,262.

FREDERICK, Okla., June 14.—Max Farris, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Farris, from southeast of Tipton, was kicked by a donkey Sunday afternoon, sustaining an injury to his right eye and cheek. He was taken to a hospital at Tipton where several stitches were taken in his eyelid. Max and some companions were playing with the animal when the accident occurred.

Archer Demo Committee May Rule District Candidates From Ballot

Special to The Record News

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 14.—The Archer county Democratic executive committee is confronted with some questions that not only disturb the committee, but involve the right for some district candidates to go on the ticket in Archer county for the July primaries.

The law requires a candidate for district office to file his request not later than the first Monday in June. The first Monday in June this year was on the 6th. The law says that such request shall be considered filed when mailed by registered letter to the county chairman at his postoffice address.

It seems that some candidates for district offices sent their request by mail, but did not register as the law requires. The postmark shows that the envelopes were stamped as mailed Tuesday, June 7, although the request was dated June 6.

There have been irregularities reported in primary elections in Archer county, and the district judge at the last session of the district court in Archer county made a special charge to the grand jury to investigate election irregularities.

The executive committee will follow the law as written, although it may work a disappointment to some candidates that were negligent in making their request.

A full committee will meet the third Monday in June to determine this matter and arrange the ticket for the July primary. The candidates involved have been notified and some have already filed affidavits to go before the committee on Monday, June 20.

NEW COMPLAINT IN BRIDGE SUIT

Oklahoma Seeks Dismissal Of All Charges

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 14. (AP)—A second amended complaint by J. R. Handy, receiver for the Red River Bridge company, and a motion to dismiss all charges against defendants by Atty. Gen. J. Berry King of Oklahoma, were filed in the Durant-Denison bridge controversy today in federal court here.

Attorney General King contended the court is without jurisdiction to hear the complaint, which he said is a suit against the state. The bill of complaint reviews the history of the toll bridge which parallels the new Oklahoma-Texas free span, from the time Chickashaw owners of the land permitted B. F. Colbert to construct a ferry in 1876.

The toll bridge operators are seeking indemnity because of the opening of the free bridge.

Convicted Banker Given Leave by Gov. Murray

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14.(UP)—Travis E. Tartar, former cashier of the First National Bank of Bennington, under 12-year penitentiary sentence for embezzlement, was given an extended leave of absence by Gov. W. H. Murray today to help wind up affairs of the bank. The leave expires Sept. 14.

Tartar was committed April 12 after conviction in Bryan county district court for embezzling school funds. He was school district treasurer.

L. P. King, liquidating agent at the bank, wrote Murray that Tartar's services were valuable in closing up the bank's business, and asked the convicted embezzler be allowed to aid him.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—Electrans who attended the convention of the Texas Assemblies of God in Austin last week have returned to their homes. Rev. E. B. Crump, pastor of the local church, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Texas district. Mrs. Crump was re-elected secretary of the women's department. Those attending from Electra were Mrs. Ida Gowdy, Rev. and Mrs. Crump, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Barnett, Mary Jo, Hershel and Estelle Barnett, Alvin Pierson, Orena Towles, Frank Brouthertin, Jim Swindell, J. C. Swindell, Mildred and Olive Voluar.

Truck Farmer Near Sunset To Produce Heavily From Land

Special to The Record News

SUNSET, Texas, June 14.—W. J. Burrows, a truck farmer in Denver community north of Sunset, has three acres of Irish potatoes which he says are making good and will be ready to plow up shortly. He will cure his potatoes and market them sometime later, probably during the fall months.

Mr. Burrows also has three acres of sweet potatoes which are doing well. Likely, he will make as much as 300 bushels of sweet potatoes.

Three acres of tomatoes are included in the crop of products cultivated by Mr. Burrows. One acre of his tomatoes was destroyed by an overflow a short time ago. He says two acres of his earliest planting are doing well, and he will soon have tomatoes ready for marketing. During some of the past years he sold more than $200 worth of tomatoes per acre from his crop, but doesn't expect to do that well this year.

Two and a half acres of cantaloupes are being cultivated by Mr. Burrows. A recent overflow destroyed two acres of his cantaloupes, but he expects to make as many from what he now has as he will be able to market to any advantage.

Mr. Burrows is also cultivating peas, beans and many other products in the vegetable line. He usually finds a market demand for everything he is able to produce in his garden and truck farm crops.

Scheduled Wool Sale Halted at San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 14. (AP)—The Wool Growers' Central Storage company here today rejected all bids on 350,000 pounds of 12-month wool offered at sealed bids and discontinued the scheduled auction. The firm has six million pounds on hand and opened negotiations for sales by private treaty. The Texas Wool and Mohair company here offers one million pounds Thursday morning.

PLAINS' FIRST WHEAT BOUGHT

Two Cars at Plainview Test 59 Pounds

PLAINVIEW, Texas, June 14. (AP)—Samples of the first two carloads of the 1932 wheat crop received by the Plainview grain exchange today tested 59 pounds. The wheat came from near Matador.

Jackson County Asked For Funds for Fair

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., June 14.—Jackson County Fair association passed a resolution at a recent meeting asking that the county comissioners appropriate $800 for a 4-H club and farm women's club fair to be held in Altus early in September.

Most of the amount, if apportioned, will be offered in prizes while a correspondingly small portion will be used to defray the miscellaneous expenses.

P. W. Walker of Blair was elected president of the Jackson County Fair association; W. W. Williams, Ozark, vice president; and W. B. Forrester, Altus, was re-elected secretary.

New directors of the board elected are Lee Word of Friendship, L. H. Miller, Headrick; J. D. Hunter, Warren; and Joe Dyer, Olustee.

Week's Car Loadings Show 73,575 Decline

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—The American Railway association today reported that carloadings of revenue freight for the week ending June 4 totaled 447,387 cars. Though this was a decrease of 73,575 below the preceding week, much of the decrease was attributed to the observance of Decoration day.

All districts reported reductions in the loading of all commodities compared with the same week last year and the year before.

The total was 313,697 below the corresponding week in 1931 and 448,195 under the same period two years ago. Neither of the corresponding weeks included a holiday.

Dalhart Man Heads Panhandle Bankers

PAMPA, Texas, June 14. (AP)—The Panhandle Bankers association convention was adjourned today after election of L. B. Steel of Dalhart as president of the organization.

Selection of the next meeting place was left up to the directors.

Other officers elected were C. A. Gibner of Spearman, first vice president; Frank Paul of Panhandle, second vice president; Delea Vicars of Pampa, secretary, and Thomas E. Noel of Memphis, treasurer.

The association voted a $1,000 donation to the historical society museum at Canyon.

Speakers at the closing sessions included James Shaw of Austin, banking commissioner; Lyall Barnhart of Oklahoma City, and Tom F. Connally of Clarendon.

1,000 Attend Waggoner Refinery Employe's Picnic at Lake Kemp

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—One thousand people attended the annual picnic Sunday for Waggoner Refinery company employes and their families. The picnic was held at the W. T. Waggoner Jr. camp at Lake Kemp.

The camp was thrown open to the guests and games, contests, swimming, boating and dancing were included on the day's program. W. T. Waggoner Jr. of Fort Worth superintended the picnic and Dave Gray, manager of the refinery, was in charge of the contests. The personnel of the official staff of the "DDD" company also assisted in entertaining the guests. Barbecue and all the fixings were included on the menu.

Contest winners included: Fifty-yard dash for boys and girls under 12, Weldon Patterson; sock race for boys and girls, Bobbie Kellerker; onion race, Mrs. W. R. Webb; race for ladies under 30, Mrs. R. W. Welsh; race for ladies over 30, Mrs. Ben Givens; old men's race, Bill Osborne; young men's race, J. F. Baker; boys' swimming, Ralph Kee; men's swimming, Bob More; ladies' swimming, Marjorie Bright. Music for the occasion was furnished by Blanche Butler and her orchestra from Burkburnett.

One of the most humorous contests was a tug-o-war between the production men and the refinery men with about 40 men taking part on each side. The production men were victorious and were given "life memberships" in the Democratic party" and will support Garner for president. The losers were "instructed" to vote for Hoover.

GOLD SET ASIDE

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The Bank of France virtually completed the withdrawal of its New York balances today when $49,995,100 in gold was set aside for foreign account at the federal reserve bank, it was learned in authoritative banking quarters.

Canada mined 2,212000 tons of coal last year.

State Weddings

MORROW-VANDERGRIFF

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—Miss Beatrice Vandergriff, daughter of Mrs. Bertie Vandergriff of Greyback, became the bride of Ray Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Morrow, Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was read at the Baptist parsonage at Frederick, Okla. The pastor, Rev. H. W. Stigler, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a pink crepe dress with accessories to match. She had attended school at Harrold. Mrs. Jack Robb, sister of Mr. Morrow, accompanied the young couple to Frederick. Mr. Morrow attended the local high school. He is employed by the Fain-McGaha company at Greyback where they will reside.

OMIT DIVIDEND

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Did you ever write a letter to Frederic J. Haskin? You can ask him any question of fact and get the answer in a personal letter. Here is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address Frederic J. Haskin, Director, the Record News Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Please give Hans Wagner's all time all American baseball team.—P. G.

Q.—When did the first New York city directory appear?—M. T.

A.—In 1786. It had 846 names not going above Roosevelt and Cherry streets on the East side or Dey street on the west.

Q.—How many automobile races on dirt tracks are there in this country during the year?—R. B.

A.—The contest board of the American Automobile association sanctions over 100 dirt track races a year. Its jurisdiction covers the whole of the United States and these races are held during the year in the different parts of the country. All motors under 400 cubic inch displacement are eligible to enter in these events unless the promoter limits his field to a certain specification.

Q.—Who invented the portable vacuum cleaner?—E. A.

A.—About 1905 Dr. William Noe of San Francisco constructed the first portable vacuum cleaner.

Q.—Has every period of depression in American history caused a treasury deficit?—R. R.

A.—The panic of 1873, considered by some economists the worst which ever visited the United States, did not cause a treasury deficit. From the end of the civil war until the panic of 1893, the treasury enjoyed 28 years of unbroken surpluses. The treasury balance was dragged dangerously low in the panic of 1873 but no deficit was created.

Q.—Can a person from the United States acquire homestead land in Argentina?—G. E.

A.—Only citizens of Argentina are permitted to secure land through homesteading in Argentina.

Q.—What are some of the fabulous birds of prey?—S. V.

A.—Probably the best known of the fabulous birds of prey were the roc which was a bird so enormous that it obscured the sun where it flew, and carried away men in its talons; the phoenix which was a bird with a beautiful voice and a long tail like a peacock's, which was supposed to rise from the ashes of fire; and the harpy which was a terrible bird with a woman's face and breast and great claws like an eagle's which pursued men who had sinned.

Q.—Whose motto was "Keep cool; don't fret. We may be happy yet"?—H. L.

A.—This is in a story by Joel Chandler Harris.

Q.—Who devised the periodic law of chemistry?—J. C. M.

A.—It was devised by Mendeleev. It states that the properties of the elements, as well as the forms and properties of their compounds, are in periodic dependence on or form a periodic function of the atomic weights of the elements. This law enabled Mendeleev to foretell the existence and even the properties of several unknown elements since discovered.

Q.—What is the speed of a torpedo going through the water after it leaves the submarine?—M. K.

A.—It travels at the rate of about 27 knots.

Q.—What comet has the smallest orbit?—M. L. H.

A.—Encke's comet has the smallest known, since it returns about every 3.3 years.

What to Do About Poison Ivy or Sumac

There are two important things to know about ivy and sumac poisoning: First, how to prevent the affliction by being able to recognize and avoid the poisonous plants; second, the treatment that should be given a victim.

The first is the more important, because practically all cases of this poisoning could have been avoided but for ignorance or carelessness.

Send to our Washington service agency for a copy of the booklet on Poison Ivy, which covers the subject completely, with illustrations as well as descriptions of the dangerous plants. It also tells how to rid a woods of the plants.

Use the coupon in ordering a copy.

Record News' Program for Wichita Falls

1. OIL—Place the Wichita Falls district on a parity with other centers in the marketing of both crude oil and refined products.
2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunities offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the local roads that serve its agricultural community.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first, in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek; third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

So far the only thing the Republicans and Democrats have agreed on is that the farmer should get higher prices for his crops and that food prices in the cities should be lowered.

At that business hasn't gotten to the point where John D. Rockefeller is giving away stocks instead of dimes.

The idea that money makes money brought on speculation and the depression, an economist says. And the idea that nothing will make money keeps the depression here.

The Tragedy of Samuel Insull

AMERICAN business has not in years offered as spectacular a tragedy as that of Samuel Insull.

More than half a century ago Insull came to America from England, the poor boy of tradition, eager to seek his fortune in the growing new land.

His rise was fast and dazzling. The industrial and financial empire that he put together kept on growing, extending itself, throwing out tentacles about new plants, becoming the very epitome of those peculiarly American combinations of physical properties, financial resources and credit. Insull's own fortune was rated at $100,000,000; any list, however brief, of the behind-the-scenes rulers of America would inevitably have included his name.

And now he is going back to England. His properties have gone into receivership, he has lost all of his own fortune in a futile effort to save them, he has some $10,000,000 of debts and his personal income is a modest pension voted at the last minute by directors of his former companies. He is 73 years old.

Here, if ever, were success and failure on the grand scale. Few Americans ever rose higher than Insull, few ever fell faster or harder. And there is something extremely significant about the whole story.

Insull came in at a time of expansion. Everything was getting bigger, everywhere there were new fields to explore and exploit, new worlds to conquer. America was growing beyond all bounds, and the clever and ambitious could grow with her.

But it seems, now that we look at it, that an era has closed. Things grew too fast, too big, perhaps; the giants who were lifted up by the process have been cast down; and the lusty, exhuberant hurly-burly of youth, in which such things are possible, has ended.

A kind of maturity has come to us; a sober, rather dismal kind, just now, marked by contraction instead of expansion. And the aging man who is going back to England to live on his pension is a victim of the passing of the nation's youth.

Keep Fit

JUST how important regular bodily exercise is to the average individual, and how quickly the physical body may become stale and brittle, is exemplified by such incidents as that at Lockhart Monday.

In a baseball game between two groups of business men, a 43-year-old man—the county clerk—dropped dead after throwing a ball from third to first base. Not long ago, in a nearby town, a man of about the same age picked up a hit to center field and threw to the home plate. A sharp snap sounded audibly on the field. The bone in his right arm had snapped squarely off above the elbow.

These incidents are no argument against baseball, nor against the occasional participation of business men in such sport. But they do point clearly the importance of giving some attention to physical well-being as well as to business and professional success. The average man should not allow a decadent physique to render him in his forties too frail for an occasional athletic game.

The increasing devotion of business men to regular participation in athletic sports—notable in the past two years—is a healthy sign. It is worthy of every encouragement, not only for business and professional men, but for many in the employed men's ranks. Regardless of his calling, a man will be rewarded for maintaining a physique capable of withstanding sudden emergencies.

Auto Deaths Drop

ONE bit of good news that has come out of the depression is the fact that the automobile death roll is decreasing.

Figures compiled by the Travelers Insurance company show that there were 8,500 automobile traffic fatalities during the first four months of this year—a decrease of eight per cent from the corresponding period in 1931.

There are, of course, two things to keep one from rejoicing too heartily over this. In the first place, this decrease is probably due chiefly to the fact that because of hard times there are fewer drivers on the roads now than formerly. It is not likely that we have shown any appreciable gain in our ability to drive carefully.

Secondly, there is the sad fact that the deaths still average around 70 a day. Our traffic toll is still a national disgrace, in spite of the decrease.

SO THEY SAY!

I trust that the forthcoming conference at Ottawa may be crowned with success and that the united empire may once more by its example lead the way to a solution of the grave problem confronting the world today.—King George V of England.

Any good citizen today must feel dismayed at the revelations of sheer barbarism in communal and national life.—The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor, Riverside Baptist church, New York.

Mankind, in spite of plentiful evidence to the contrary, is endowed with reasoning powers. There are hopeful signs that he is using the powers to build cooperatively amid the present chaos.—Felix Morley, economist.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Crazy about that new ditty imported from the London show "Bow Bells" . . . A top-hat tune, with a lilt to it, plus intelligent wordage . . . "You're Blase" it is christened and it goes on to say: "You act so bored—when you're adored" . . . Too bad it was wasted on the recent casualty: "Heigh Ho Everybody" . . . Well, show business, it appears, is exactly where I left it. . . . Only they close quicker, which is as it should be. . . . Too bad, too, that George Raft, who leaped into popular favor so hurriedly via "Scarface" and "Dancers in the Dark", was libeled by his flicker firm's promotion bureau. . . . Anything to arrest the attention of the magic lantern item collectors, one presumes. . . . So it was announced that George was formerly a gigolo, which he never was—and now the various newspaper morgues contain clippings about him and that legend . . . Which he never will live down, unless some of us who really admire the newcomer help stifle it. . . . Wonder if New York has been tipped to the popular pepper-upper, a drink now a fad among the glamorous groups on the coast? . . . E. Cantor, they told me, introduced it out there and it is ⅝ gingerale, ¼ cream plus cracked ice—and stir. . . . Loved that crack from the voyager, Jessel . . . Who said that the only difference in European conditions and here is that over there everybody is broke—while over here only our relatives are.

Which certainly belongs among the merciless truths . . . For one of them put on a good act the other day, and after doing a Camille about having frayed shirt cuffs and so forth, finally coaxed a healthy cash gift . . . And then had the chee k to chirp (as he inspected his finger nails): "Now I can go and get myself what I've needed for a long time—a manicure" . . . If there is a depression in California, they try hard to hide it from the visitor. . . . Only once during the stay did I see one mendicant on the boulevards. . . . Even the poorest tribes there have posies growing around their spotlessly clean shacks. . . . The crash of the First National in eBverly Hills, however, clipped Miss Garbo and so many of the others, which is indeed, a short cut to Hell. . . . Wonder if they tittered at me in Albuquerque? . . . They must have. . . . I mean those autograph nuisances. . . . When I spelled the first syllables "Alber" . . . Not until "The Chief" left the state did it dawn on me—how embarrassing. . . . The hinterlanders are so proud of their town's triumphs. . . . That night, frinstance, on the observation platform, when the train man promised me a treat. And then pointed out Kansas City's Power & Ligh Tower—which has numerous masdas, the colors of which change and blend prettily. . . . And all I could think about was the sign at 47th and Longacre on which that litle girl swings so gracefully.

Talk about fun . . . Whee! . . . Went to see my first baseball game in 5 years up at the Yankee stadium on the Sabbath and saw a person named Babe Ruth make a home run in the initial stanza! . . . Golly what a thrill! . . . They used to tell me that one could have a time of it seeing the rest of New York—but I was always under the impression that everything happened between 42nd and Central Park South. . . . As a matter of fact, very little actually happens along Broadway—but those of us who gather patter for the papers must make it appear glamorous, which it hasn't been for ever so long a spell, now . . . Nowhere in the East is there so enchanting a rendezvous as the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles . . . Where the celebrated of the screen and even the lesser prominent sip and sup and stay up until almost 12:30 in the morning. . . . 'Magine.

It should please Tony, the best known of the speakeasy impresarios, to know that his betters consider him one of the best of the literary and dramatic oracles . . . At any rate, so goes the chatter. . . . Of course, they mean he is so considered among those whose works he applauds. . . . Wonder when Albertine Rasch will quit using the now stale snake-hips routine . . . And Vitch, the newest of the expert caricaturists at Ramon's rendezvous, will be embraced? . . . If I were an immigrant and urged a local to direct me to the spots I would be delighted with knowing that Master Columbo is at the breezy Woodmanstien Inn—that Mr. Ziegfeld's revival of Mr. Kern's "Show Boat" is at the Casino—and that the best sun-tanning spot is in a logo behind 3rd base. . . . What a shudder it must have been for those lassies that came up the steps out of a subway kiosk the other sundown. . . . And one of them screamed hysterically because a man clutched at her form . . . Poor chap . . . He apologized as the gallants slugged him—not knowing that he was blind.

Among the other things I mustn't forget to insert into the records is what really happened during the premier at Grauman's Chinese temple of amusement in Hollywood. I mean the farce that failed to click with the premiere-goers — when Wallace Berry draped himself in rags and came out on stage after Will Rogers with a solemn face had announced that Miss Garbo was going to personally appear and make it a real event.

The Chinese theater, frinstance, an elegant entertainment in itself, has a novel sidewalk and foyer. When the place opened, it appears, Mr. Grauman, who reminds you of Morris Gest, found that the pavements had not yet dried . . . And so he urged such personages as Mr. Fairbanks and his wife, Harold Lloyd, the Talmadge girls, et al, to put their footprints, hand their signatures into the wet asphalt—so that they would always be remembered, and so forth . . . Numerous other well knowns have been invited to do the same since the premiere night . . . But one of us refused when it was discovered that not all the stone blocks on the ground are permanent . . . Many of them are removable—and when your fame fades—that block of sidewalk is erased and you probably can't get into the theater without a ticket . . . Praise, some one said, is satire in disguise . . . And one of the most difficult things in the world is to manage the temper of your friends, when you first burst into public repute and leave them behind . . . The nicest thing about being ill is that it helps you find out which of your friends really are . . . And then remorse sets in.

GOP Committees Boast Names Of Familiar Figures

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—There will be plenty of familiar names on the resolutions and credentials committee of the Republican convention.

Three cabinet officers, an ambassador, two senators, one of President Hoover's three secretaries, two former members of the farm board, the sons of two former presidents, and a former postmaster general, are among the cluster of celebrities in the two groups.

Secretaries Hyde, Hurley and Mills, Ambassador Edge, Senator Bingham, C. C. Teague, and Samuel R. McKelvie, former farm board members, and Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general in the Taft administration, are on the resolutions committee. It will be headed by James R. Garfield of Ohio, a son of the former president.

On the credentials committee are Senator Hastings, Walter H. Newton, and Robert A. Taft, son of the former president. This group will be headed by Albert W. Jefferis of Nebraska.

Members of the two committees of the Republican convention include:

Arizona—Resolutions, Frank H. Hitchcock; credentials, James Logie.

Arkansas—Resolutions, Judson N. Hout; credentials, Osro Cobb.

Missouri—Resolutions, Arthur M. Hyde; credentials, William E. Byers.

Kansas—Resolutions, Charles F. Scott; credentials, B. I. Litowich.

Oklahoma—Resolutions, Patrick Hurley; credentials, S. S. Orwing.

Texas—Resolutions, R. B. Creager; credentials, Orville Bullington.

New Mexico—Resolutions, Luis E. Armijo; credentials, Carl B. Dunfan.

Colorado — Resolutions, William V. Hodges; credentials, S. M. Thompson.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, June 14.—But for the many-sided prohibition plank discussion among high-ranking Republicans, it would have been difficult to get out daily stories about the Republican national convention within a fortnight of its opening.

Mr. Hoover's renomination had so long been assured that there was no news in that. On the surface, at least, Vice President Curtis seemed set to ride into another try at that more honorary than exciting job just about as easily as he did at Kansas City four years ago.

Yet those hot-houses where so many political blooms are sprouted, the senate cloak rooms, were busy about quite a different forecast of what might happen at the Chicago Republican convention.

Not So "Cut-and-Dried"

Privately, oh, very privately, senators shook their heads at predictions of a cut-and-dried renomination party for anybody but Mr. Hoover, intimating, at least, that their old friend and colleague, Charlie Curtis, might not find the going so smooth after all.

It may be that attention had been attracted to White House drafting of those two aggressive young Republican" cabineteers, Secretaries Ogden Mills and Pat Hurley, to act as administration spokesmen in assailing the Garner and other Democratic plans for public works bill that run into billions.

That put forward by Representative Hawley of Oregon seemed, from the Mills and Hurley attitude, to have the real "made in the White House" stamp.

Naturally these developments put in motion again gossip about Hurley for vice president, gossip that does not down despite his own stout championship of the Curtis cause.

But there also emerged in the fog of speculation from the cloak rooms the name of Senator Charlie McNary of Oregon as one which might appeal in the agricultural West and Middle West in November.

The basis appeared to be the notion that Mr. Hoover, despite his California background, was going to need aid in the farm territory as he felt he did in 1928 when Curtis was drafted as his running mate with an eye to the corn belt.

As Vice President Curtis has not had much opportunity to heighten his vote appeal in four years, it is argued; while behind that are continued rumblings of factional troubles in Kansas supposed to have had much to do with his decision not to try a senatorial comeback rather than seek another vice presidential nomination.

Opposition in Embryo

As agricultural committee chairman and a far westerner, McNary would undoubtedly be considered were the head of the ticket not a California neighbor.

It is very hard to picture a ticket as badly unbalanced geographically as would be a Hoover-McNary combination.

Yet the fact remains that there are under the surface the makings of anti-Curtis drive at Chicago should an opportunity present itself.

Duncan City Taxes To Be Cut Three Mills

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., June 14.—Duncan city taxes for next year will be reduced at least three mills over this year, according to estimates made by City Manager W. H. Hollingsworth. A budget reduction of $30,000 will be recommended to commissioners by Hollingsworth.

No general fund levy was made this year and none will be needed next year. Sinking fund requirements alone must be met by the taxpayers, all other expenses of government being met by sources other than taxation, principally by profits from the municipal power plant.

DINNER HONORS MEDICAL HEAD

Patient's Desire for Luxury Hikes Cost, Says Cary

Problems growing out of current economic conditions as faced by the medical profession were discussed at a meeting of the Wichita County Medical society Tuesday night at the Wichita club by Dr. E. H. Cary of Dallas, president of the American Medical association.

Dr. Cary deplored publicity given out by committees about the high cost of medical care and added that such information was not approved by the association. He pointed out that the American Medical association has been studying the problem for an extended period and will issue information on the matter in November.

Due Reasonable Compensation

The speaker urged that the public meet its obligations and not depend on charitable institutions, deploring such a tendency brought about by certain philanthropic gifts for the betterment and uplift of the public. Such methods, establishing free hospitalization and medical care, tend to break down the standards the association has taken years in building, Dr. Cary said.

"A member of the medical profession spends about $25,000 for his education and with that much invested the individual is due a reasonable ompensation," Dr. Cary said.

Dr. Cary pointed out that more than a half billion dollars is spent annually for patent medicines, equaling compensation received by members of the profession in the same period. "The high cost of medical care," he said in discussing the desire of patients to demand all the luxuries a hospital affords when it is possible to obtain the same treatment in less costly surroundings.

Scientific Talk

In a scientific talk on "Glaucoma," (increased tension of the eye balls with the member becoming almost as hard as rock) Dr. Cary said the condition is brought about by a great intra-ocular pressure fromaccumulation of fluids in the eye ball. First symptoms are complaints of patients that rings are visible when looking at lights or other bright objects. The patient also suffers with neuralgia pains. When the eye becomes so involved it should be removed at once. The address was illustrated with demonstrations by lantern slides.

Dr. O. W. Wilson read a pare on "Specific Infections and Their Relationship to the Special Senses."

The paper was discussed by Dr. R. B. Wolford and Dr. F. R. Collard.

Members of the local society were accompanied by their wives at the banquet preceding the meeting and entertained Mrs. Cary at the close of the meal with bridge and forty-two games. One hundred physicians and their wives were present.

Old Cowboys To Reunite

Pioneers of Range to Meet At Stamford in July

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, June 14.—Pioneer Texas cowboys, who "won and ruled an empire from the saddle" will hold their annual round-up in Stamford in connection with the Texas Cowboy reunion July 4, 5 and 6. The oldtimers have their own organization known as the Texas Pioneer Cowboy Reunion association.

The pioneers will hold their convention and elect officers on the morning of July 4. However, they will be guests of the Texas Cowboy reunion throughout the three days of the gathering. Membership badges of the pioneer association will admit the veteran cowhands to all rodeo performances, to the chuck wagon dinner each day and the oldtime square dance each night.

Revive Memories

Men who were actively employed on the range or trail 35 years ago are entitled to membership. Widows of men who would be entitled to membership also are eligible. Col. R. L. Penick of Stamford, president of the pioneers' association, is mailing out invitations to some 600 members and prospective members.

The assembling of the pioneer cowboys and cattlemen to renew acquaintances, swap stories and revive memeories of the old West, is one of the outstanding features of the cowboy reunion each year.

As a part of the rodeo program, a contest in calf roping will be held for cowboys over 55 years of age, with a handsome $150 saddle as first prize. The old timers also will be represented in the selection of the two most typical cowboys, one of the selections to be over 55 years of age and the other under 55.

Besides President Penick, the officers of the Pioneer Cowboy Reunion association are Clyde Burnett, Benjamin, chairman of the board; Chas. E. Coombes, Stamford, secretary; Starks Daugherty, Anson, treasurer; Frank Rhoades, Throckmorton, range boss, and Walter Cousins, Dallas, historian.

Thirteen Speakeasies Are Raided in Chicago

CHICAGO, June 14. (UP)—There were 13 fewer places in Chicago where a thirsty visitor to the Republican national convention could slake a pre-Volstead thirst today.

While wet demonstrators paraded through the loop in a noisy celebration, raiding squads of federal dry agents descended last night on 13 places, seven of them in the loop.

Arms Parley Group Suspends Public Work

GENEVA, June 14. (UP)—The steering committee of the world arms conference decided today to suspend indefinitely the public work of the conference.

None of the various committees have been able to achieve any real measure of agreement on the subjects discussed.

SCIENCE LANDMARKS

LONDON—The six outstanding landmarks of science, as reported by Sir James Jeans, British physicist, are: Copernicus' announcement that the earth revolved around the sun, in 1543; Newton's law of gravitation, in 1686; Darwin's "Origin of the Species," 1859; discovery of electricity in the latter part of the 19th century; Einstein's theory of relativity, 1905, and the recent expanding universe theories.

Spanish War Vets Name L. H. Gould And A. A. King as Commanders

SWEETWATER, Texas, June 14. (AP)—United Spanish war veterans of Texas in annual convention here today elected Col. A. A. King of El Paso, and L. H. Gould of Wichita Falls as department commanders.

Other officers chosen were Joe Pechal of Ennis, senior vice commander; L. A. Schroth of Houston, junior vice commander; Dr. Fred Brooke of Waco, chaplain; Frank Roberts of Breckenridge, department judge advocate; and Tom Chilton, commander of the host camp of Sweetwater, leader of the military order of the serpent.

Auxiliary officers elected were Mrs. Helena Treller of Dallas, president; Mrs. Kate Sharfenberg of San Antonio, senior vice president; Miss Margaret Addison of Houston, junior vice president; Mrs. Ola Shearer of Sherman, chaplain; Mrs. L. Brown of Galveston, historian; and Mrs. Anna V. Dalton of Wichita Falls, patriotic instructor.

Fourth Texas volunteer regiment members were entertained at a banquet at noon today. The convention closed with a barbecue and dance tonight.

Texas Delegates Favor Gen. Dawes of placing her favorite son in nomination should that step be desired by the convention host state.

"I think beyond doubt we will want to do that," said Len Small former governor, now candidate for that office and temporary chairman of the Illinois delegation.

"We have been a little delayed in completing our caucus but we are for Dawes for anything," said Small. "I personally would be in favor of nominating him for something bigger."

Immediately after visiting the Arkansas delegation with Captain Lucey, Secretary Hurley called upon the Texas delegation.

Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, secretary of the state executive committee, asserted, however, the effort to replace Curtis, with Dawes was not discussed.

Greene May Go To Trial Next Week

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—C. D. Greene, former Wilbarger county tax collector who was named in six indictments, charging misapplication of public funds, returned by the grand jury here Monday, may go to trial before a 46th district court jury next week. District Attorney John Myers today said that every effort would be made to expedite the prosecution of the cases, and indicated that he would ask Judge W. N. Stokes to call the cases next week. Mr. Greene is at liberty under bonds totaling $30,000 after being arrested Monday night.

VOICE PUPILS GIVE RECITAL

350 Attend Recital Of Mahaffey Students

Under the accepted assumption that songs obviously enjoyed by both singer and audience are well presented, pupils of the A. H. Mahaffey voice studios gave an unusually successful recital at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday night before an audience of about 350 persons.

Measured by the ease of singing, by the quality of voices used, and by comprehensive interpretation, Tuesday night's recital constituted a distinct tribute to the pupils individually, and to the studio by which they were presented.

Among the 13 students presented, all but two were adult singers, a fact which permitted the use of an impressive array of songs. Pleasing variety in voice registration also was provided with six male and seven female voices included in the class.

Accuracy of pitch almost without exception, ease of tone production, and a commendable surrender to the theme of song were outstanding features of Tuesday night's recital.

One ensemble number was used, the program closing with Deems Taylor's agreement of "Waters Ripple and Flow," a Czecho-Slovakian folk song. This number was sung by Mrs. George L. Kelly, Jack McWilliams, Miss Eloise Wofford, Willard L. Underwood and Joe Uttz.

Recital soloists were Miss Dorothy Fletcher, Dwight Elliott, Walters, Okla., Mrs. J. L. Elkins, Joe Uttz, Miss Wofford, John L. Anderson, Burkburnett; Mrs. C. H. Evans, J. S. Minton, Mrs. Kenneth Bebb, Mr. Underwood, Mrs. Kelly, Mr. McWilliams, and Mrs. J. W. McCutcheon. All accompaniments were played by Mrs. Mahaffey.

Shriners Attend Business Meeting

Benefits of a proposed amendment to come before the national Shrine convention at San Francisco in July which would allow increased jurisdiction of state border temples, including Maskat temple of Wichita Falls, were described by Potentate Sydney A. Gaines at a business meeting of the Shrine Tuesday night in Maskat auditorium in the City National Bank building.

Maskat's debt has been cut from $80,000 to less than $8,000 in the last few years, it was revealed in a financial report by Chief Rabban C. A. Rogers.

Potentate Gaines presented a second amendment, which with the jurisdiction proposal are expected to receive approval at San Francisco, changing the national conventions from annual to triennial affairs.

Shrine Director Kindel Paulk reported the recent ceremonial of Maskat temple as one of the most successful held by the uniformed bodies.

Past Potentate Guy Rogers was named chairman of a committee to form a seat of by-laws conforming to requirements of the imperial council. Other committee members are Chief Rabban C. A. Rogers, Past Potentate Walter Caldwell and Noble Wayne Somerville.

In view of the possibility that the July Shrine convention may be the last national gathering for three years, J. Marshall Franklin of the "on to Frisco" committee urged additional participation in the Maskat caravan to San Francisco.

Questions and Answers about Conoco Germ Processed Oil

Q: WHAT DOES "GERM PROCESS" MEAN?

A: The words "Germ Process" describe the scientific method by which this oil is manufactured. Such processing adds immeasurably to the oil's lubricating properties. North American patent rights to this Process are owned by Continental—only CONOCO oils are Germ Processed!

Q: IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER OILS?

A: Yes. It is the only oil of its kind, and does what no other oil can do. The Germ Process gives it the ability to penetrate and combine with metal surfaces in your motor. The Germ Process also gives more "oiliness" than any other oil. Any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed.

Q: WHAT IS THE "HIDDEN QUART?"

A: The "Hidden Quart" is tangible evidence that CONOCO Germ Processed Oil penetrates metal surfaces and gives surer, safer lubrication. During the first 250 to 350 miles after your first fill with Germ Processed Oil, a pint to a quart seemingly disappears. On later fills, it does not. That's the Hidden Quart—it stays up in your motor and never drains away! Other oils drain away when your car is idle, leaving vital parts unlubricated during the starting period, when almost half of all motor wear occurs. CONOCO'S Hidden Quart lubricates before your motor starts—cutting down costly starting wear!

Q: WHY SHOULD I CHANGE TO CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL?

A: Because, by cutting down starting wear, it gives your motor longer life, keeps it sweet-running and saves expensive repair bills. Because Germ Processed Oil's extra oiliness makes your car run better. It forms a stronger piston-ring seal, making starting easier and giving more power. It withstands crankcase dilution and high temperatures. CONOCO Germ Processed Motor Oil gives you the safest, surest lubrication you can buy. Change now to this better oil at any CONOCO Red Triangle station.

ECONOMY BILL REPORT TODAY

House-Senate Agreement Delayed by Death

WASHINGTON, June 14. (US)—The house-senate conferees on the economy bill tomorrow will report that measure out in essentially the same form as passed by the senate, with the furlough pay cut plan included, Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, member of the group, told President Hoover today.

He said the measure will provide for savings of approximately $137,000,000, which is approximately the figure of the senate bill.

There appeared, however, to be some misunderstanding in connection with the matter, as Representative McDuffie, Democrat of Alabama, chairman of the house conferees, flatly denied an agreement has been reached, particularly on the pay-cut-furlough dispute.

Session Called Off

"I do not see why a senator should make such a statement."

Senator Bratton, Democrat of New Mexico, also a member of the conference, told Universal Service that the bill has not yet been completed, but that members are in essential agreement on all points, and that it probably could have been agreed upon this afternoon had a session been held. Such a session was planned, but was called off as a result of the death of Representative Eslick of Tennessee.

Meanwhile, senate Democratic leaders, chagrined at the reported demands of President Hoover for $200,000,000 in additional economies, railroaded through that body a resolution calling upon the president to confer with his cabinet, bureau heads, and independent office chiefs on possible savings.

Asks Specific Suggestions

The resolution requests that he submit to congress, after such a conference, "specific suggestions covering each item that he recommends as a suitable way and place to accomplish the proposed reduction of $200,000,000 in the appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1932."

The resolution, as presented to the senate yesterday by Senator Robinson, Democrat of Indiana, carried the following preamble:

"Whereas the president has announced that it is necessary to bring about further reductions in the costs of government of approximately $200,000,000 or to levy additional taxes."

This was removed from the resolution today, when Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, insisted the president had made no such assertion.

Senate Republicans and Democratic leaders alike definitely abandoned any hopes of balancing the budget today, in view of the new demand for additional economies declaring it is out of the question to obtain $200,000,000 more in savings.

Muskogee Vets Hospital To Have New Supervisor

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., June 14. (INS)—Col. L. H. Webb, medical officer in charge of the United States Veterans' hospital here, was ordered today to proceed to Muskogee, Okla., and assume charge of the veterans' hospital there, effective June 16. The order for Colonel Webb's transfer came from Dr. C. W. Griffith, medical director of veterans' administration in Washington.

SCOT CROSSES AFRICA

Natives and wild animals in the heart of Africa are seeing their first kilt. What they think of it has not been translated. D. B. MacGregor, a Scotchman, is hiking from Durban to Cairo, and may lay claim to the title of "the world's champion hiker." So far his hike has been tame. He had to walk as far as Nyasaland before he saw anything in the way of big game. Even then the leopard which crossed his path showed no interest in the solitary walker or his kilt, and trotted off into the bush. Since then MacGregor has encountered nothing more thrilling than locusts which, seen in flight against the sun, gave the appearance of a blinding snowstorm, but they kept away from the kilt. MacGregor declares that his kilt is much cooler than the "shorts" usually worn by whites in East Africa.

Concerts Planned At Westmoreland

With Jack Williams conducting free swimming lessons for women, Tom Beaty and Morris Lee, two young collegiates who are preparing to pay their way through college with their unquestionably splendid guard and lesson work; with Laverne Malone, Miss Cecelia Terrell and Mrs. C. E. Deaton added to the force of swimming teachers at Westmoreland pool, the season for that swimming resort has started with unusual interest.

John W. Thomas, manager, has announced that twice each month, beginning with Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, the Caballeros band, directed by Paul Seeds, will present a musical program. Other concerts will be given June 30, July 7, July 21, Aug. 4 and Aug. 18 and Sept. 1.

Free swimming lessons for women and children will be conducted Monday and Thursday mornings at 9 o'clock and senior life saving lessons will be given Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings after 5 o'clock. Many women of the city are interested in the activities scheduled.

The opening concert to be given Thursday night includes the following numbers:

Gloria (March) ..... Losey

VERNON STAR FORCED OUT

Foxhall-Parr Battle Goes 20 Holes

By FRED THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—Seven star golfers, including the defending champion, a former champion, and one of the medalists, advanced to the quarterfinals of the Green Belt Golf association tournament here today. Billy Holmes, of Shamrock, co-medalist with Roy Farrell, of Vernon, won the feature match of the second round in the title flight defeating C. E. Haynes of Davidson, Okla., one up in 19 holes. Holmes won the last three holes to win the match, having been two down starting the 17-hole.

Medalist Goes Down

the other medalist, Farrell of Vernon, failed to survive the second round, losing to Billy Bob Coffee, who, though a resident of Fort Worth, is playing from the Electra Country club, of which he is a member. The score was 3 and 2.

L. S. (City) Walker of Quanah advanced to the quarterfinals with a first round victory over R. D. Oswalt, of Crowell, 3 and 2, and second round victory over J. D. Barkley of Childress, by the score of 2 and 1.

Frank Foxhall, champion in 1929 and 1930, beat Jack Parr of Electra in a spirited match in the first round, the score being 1 up, 20 holes. He then won his second round match from Al Kemple of Electra, 4 and 3.

Quarterfinals

Others who went to the quarterfinals included James Smith of Shamrock, who beat Lyle Holmes of Shamrock, one up, in the second round after beating Eugene Smith of Quanah in the first round; Carl Harrison of Memphis, who beat W. Pendleton Jr. in the second round, 2 and 1; and John Marriott of Electra, who won his second round contest with J. D. Michie of Childress 3 and 2.

The second round match between Roy Lebus of Electra and G. R. Greenhaw of Memphis, was not completed on account of darkness. Matches were delayed by the crowded nine-hole course and the sand greens, which had to be dragged.

Three Divide Favor

The closely contested matches today left no one golfer a favorite to bag the 1932 title. High up in the running, however, were Frank Foxhall of Memphis; City Walker of Quanah, and Billy Holmes of Shamrock. These three were regarded as having more than an outside chance.

In the championship flight Wednesday Holmes meets a fellow townsman, James Smith. Carl Harrison of Memphis meets City Walker; Billy Bob Coffee tangles with John Marriott, Electra's sole representative in the title chase, and the winner of the Lebus-Greenhaw match meets Frank Foxhall.

Consolation flights were started late today but only a few finished. These and the runnerup flights will resume play early Wednesday.

A dance at the clubhouse brought activities to a close tonight.

A bridge party for the ladies was an added entertainment feature in the afternoon.

Thrills for Crowd

The first round of the championship flight, completed shortly after 2 p. m. produced some of the finest golf of the day. It was featured by Foxhall's 20-hole victory over Jack Parr, and the par-busting scores of the co-medalists, Billy Holmes of Shamrock and Roy Farrell of Vernon.

The Foxhall-Parr match drew a gallery of over 200. They went into the 18th all square. Foxhall's tee shot was far short and behind a tree but a remarkable pitch landed him dead to the pin and it looked like the match was over. Parr, however, sank a 10-foot putt to again square the match. Parr's putter gave him another halve on the 19th, the Electran sinking a seven-footer after both were on in three. Both shot par fours. Foxhall's deadly approach shots again rang true on the 20th, while Parr's putter failed him. After both were on in two, Parr rimmed the cup from four feet out to lose the match. Both shot under par during the entire match.

Billy Holmes and Farrell maintained their qualifying round pace, Holmes in beating Bill Rogers of Vernon shot one eagle and four birdies to finish four under par. Rogers shot even par, but that was not good enough and he went down, 4 and 3. Farrell also shot four under par in disposing of James Parr of Electra 4 and 3. The Vernon youngster blasted two eagles and four birdies to wilt the Electran down.

A second extra-hole match featured the first round. The victor was W. Pendleton Jr. of Shamrock, who downed Kermit Dees of Davidson, Okla., 1 up in 23 holes.

Writer Fails To Find Trace Of One-Time 'Dizzy' Dean

Year's Loudest Recruit Is Now A Very Serious Young Pitcher

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 14.—What's become of "Dizzy" Dean, the blustering St. Louis rookie who would sign up for a parachute jump on a moment's notice or tell you there wasn't a batter in the National league who could touch his fast ball?

He's disappeared, almost without a trace. In his stead is Jerome H. Dean, a tall, solemn young man who says very little.

Sergeant Gabby Street, who witnessed and, perhaps, did something toward engineering the metamorphosis of the year's loudest recruit, was the attention-caller. He motioned toward a figure stretched out in a lobby chair, eyeing the ceiling.

"If you want a story on my club, there it is," he said. "It's a better story than what I think of our chances to win the pennant or why we aren't any higher than sixth place today. There's a great young pitcher who has learned something the last two months. He used to be a fair game for every reporter that came along, but try to get him to give you a dizzy speech now."

It seemed like a good suggestion. Surely there was a spark or two left in the Dean, who devoted the last two years to running Texas league managers dippy.

"How are you finding these National league hitters by this time, Dean. Are they bothering you any to speak of?"

That, in another day, would have produced something good. But the new Dean only settled deeper in the upholstery.

"They're all pretty tough," he said, "you've got to have something to make good up here. My, how that Chuck Klein and Don Hurst knocked me about up at Philadelphia, and Bill Terry sure can hit that ball."

Not a word about Dean. The Cardinal system has attended to that. Even though the big fellow has been pitching fine ball of late and has won himself a place as a regular starter, he refused to mention the fact. He merely expressed mild disappointment that it was raining and he couldn't take his turn against Brooklyn.

Red River Valley League To Split Season June 26

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—Eight clubs in the Red River Valley Baseball league will play their final games Sunday before the close of the first half pennant chase June 26 with Electra's Oilers, pacing the circuit by one full game, expected to clinch a tie for first half honors when they invade Crowell. Providing the Oilers win Sunday's contest at Crowell, the Electrans can lose their final contest June 26 against Quanah and tie for the title even though Frederick, Okla., should defeat Quanah June 19 and Oklaunion June 26. It is unlikely however that Electra will lose either of its remaining games.

Aside from Electra's invasion of Crowell and Frederick's journey to Quanah Sunday, Vernon will entertain Chillicothe, while Oklaunion will play at Tipton, Okla. None of the games will have any bearing on the flag chase with the exception of the Electra and Frederick contests, Frederick having stepped into undisputed possession of the runner-up position last Sunday by handing Vernon a 9-4 loss at Frederick. Electra also kept pace with its pursuer by taking a 2-1 decision from Tipton, when Sooner errors allowed two Oiler runs to trickle across the plate. It was the second successive Sunday that Electra had won a 2-1 decision because of errors of the opposing team, Oklaunion having lost June 5 when the Card infield blew up in the late innings.

Noble-Little Downs Highway Garage 15-3

The champion Noble-Little Hardware company baseball team of the Commercial league pounded two Highway Garage pitchers for a 15 to 3 win Tuesday afternoon on Dehus field. John Ross Haley led the attack with three singles in four times up. Harry Costley hit a home run for Noble-Little in the second inning with one man on. Score:

Dodgers Release Three To Meet Player Limit

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Brooklyn today announced the release of three players to get within the major league limit of 23 men.

Fresco Thompson, second baseman, was sent to Jersey City of the International league on option; Bruce Caldwell, first baseman, was optioned to Hartford of the Eastern league, and Paul Ricards was sold to Minneapolis of the American association for an unannounced sum.

MAX FAVORITE OVER SHARKEY

Gamblers Offer 10-9 On Heavy Champ

NEW YORK, June 14. (UP)—Max Schmeling is a 10-to-9 favorite to retain his title against Jack Sharkey next Tuesday night in the lightest betting preceding any heavyweight championship bout in 40 years.

Jack Doyle, Broadway betting commissioner, announced the official odds today, quoting 3 to 2 against a knockout in the 15 rounds, and 3 to 1 against Schmeling knocking out Sharkey and 3 to 1 against Sharkey knocking out Schmeling.

"I expect the 10-to-9 odds to carry the men into the ring," said the veteran commissioner. "Of course, heavy money on either man might change the odds. But I think the professional gamblers will come in with their bets fairly evenly balanced about 48 hours before the bout."

The bespectacled, gray-haired Irishman deplored the lack of activity among the betting men preceding what he called "one of the greatest natural gambling fights ever staged." In 40 years of handling fight bets, he claimed there never had been such a scarcity of money.

"In spite of the depression," he pointed out, "this should be a great betting battle. As a gamble, it ranks with the Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard bout at Toledo in 1919, when more money was wagered than on any fight in history. The odds then were 10 to 9 against Dempsey."

Annual Rodeo And Fair Opens July 2 At Craterville

There's one community in Oklahoma where the depression has not yet arrived and its foremost citizen was in Wichita Falls Tuesday inviting Wichitans for a visit.

The community is Craterville Park and the emissary was Frank Rush, "sage of the Wichitas."

Mr. Rush announced his annual rodeo and race program will be held July 2-4 and to prove he hasn't felt the depression he pointed out that he has increased his prize lists and added to the number of attractions. He backed up those statements with illustrated literature, announcing "three days of the greatest show of the season." Rush, himself a veteran plainsman, will drive a wild buffalo to a cowboy chariot each day of the show.

Such rodeo stars as Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Kirman of Fort Worth, the Lyon brothers of Byers, John Lindsay, the famous clown, Sonny Suttle and his little horse, Ne-Hi, of Waurika, Okla., will be brought to Craterville for the exhibition, Rush said.

Science to Provide Prosperity, Edison Says

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14. (US)—Scientific progress and the development of labor saving devices, instead of being the causes of unemployment, eventually will remedy it and provide abundant prosperity for every one.

If the average business man would quit worrying about international finance and the gold standard, and give that time and thought to his own business, the present crisis would soon be over.

Prohibition should be repealed.

Those were among the comments today of Charles Edison, son of Thomas Alva Edison, the great inventor. Mr. Edison is here on a nation-wide business tour.

Elks to Install Atwell Class Tonight

Wichita Falls lodge No. 1105, B. P. O. E., will induct the William Hawley Atwell class of 37 members in the order Wednesday night in a ceremony at the Elks home here.

The class was scheduled to have been inducted last Wednesday night, but was delayed on account of the wind and rainstorm.

The class is named in honor of W. H. Atwell, past grand exalted ruler of the order. The 37 include both candidates for initiation and candidates for reinstatement in the lodge.

RIFLE CHAMP

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 14. (UP)—Jess Berger, Drumright, won the all around rifle championship here at the seventh annual Oklahoma Rifle association contest, tally sheets showed today. He scored 606.

Capt. W. B. Wilson, Ardmore, won the national trophy for the Camp Perry course, the rifle aggregate trophies with a score of 586 and the rapid fire championship.

TEXAS BANKER DIES

EL PASO, June 14 (INS)—George D. Flory, 64, vice president of the State National bank here and prominent in banking circles of the state died here today from a heart attack suffered yesterday.

Flory had lived here for a quarter of a century.

Nash's Single In 11th Gives Cats Win Over Bucs

FORT WORTH, June 14. (AP)—Tom Nash's single, scoring George Loepp in the 11th inning, enabled Fort Worth to defeat Galveston 5-4 here tonight. The blow came after two were down.

Hooks had tied the score with a double in the ninth, chasing Hank Thormahlen, starting Pirate pitcher, from the mound. He was replaced by Thurman. Tom Estell went the route for the Panthers and would have fared better behind better fielding support as the Panthers made five errors in the early innings to stake Galveston to its four runs. Brewing Equipment Seized by Officers

One man was arrested and 80 bottles of "home brew" were taken in a raid Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Taylor street by city police. Equipment taken in the raid included a new type "brew container" allowing speakeasy operators to discontinue use of bottles. The container is used for brewing purposes and is then closed and a pressure method is used to serve the drink direct into glasses, police said. Detectives George Garrett and F. M. Dowdy made the arrest.

VERNON SANDLOTTERS

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—In the renewal of the playground baseball welfare in the Junior council league here Monday evening, D. O. Fulton's Tigers scored the initial shutout of the season, beating the Yankees, 6-0. Fulton's outfit, which was drubbed 13-4 last week by the Tornadoes, was much improved.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—While somewhat irregular at the start, cotton ruled generally higher today for later deliveries influenced by reports of further rains in the eastern belt and talk of probable boll weevil damages.

After selling off to 5.02 at the opening, July rallied to 5.17 and closed at 5.11 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 1 point, with most positions lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and July liquidation.

Houses with Wall street connections were among the buyers, possibly influenced by the earlier firmness of the stock market, but after showing net gains of about 7 to 9 points the demand slowed off somewhat and later fluctuations were rather irregular with December selling up to 5.55 in the late trading and closing at 5.49.

The census report placed domestic mill consumption for May at 332,439 bales compared with 387,280 the previous month and 465,463 May last year.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying and covering but said the Manchester goods market was unsettled with labor uncertainties restricting business. Exports today 10,782 making 8,177,676 so far this season. Port receipts 5,556. U. S. port stocks 3,705,493.

Futures closed steady, 2-4 higher. Spot quiet; middling 5.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 14. (AP)—Cotton was moderately active today and although prices fluctuated they developed a moderate improving trend.

The market opened active when Liverpool cable came in 1 penny point better to 1 worse than due.

After fluctuations the market became firm around the middle of the afternoon owing to strength of stocks and a good trade demand and prices made new highs for the day at 5.18 for July, 5.37 for October and 5.52 for December or 12 to 13 points above the lows of the morning. There was a moderate recession in the final trading on realizing and selling in fear of a favorable weekly weather report tomorrow, prices eased off 5 to 6 points from the best. July closed 3 to 4 net gain for the day of 4 points and October and December at net gains of 2 points.

Port receipts 5,656, for week 15,220, for season 9,773,253, last season 8,876,079. Exports 10,982, for week 34,602, for season 8,010,236, last season 6,312,595. Port stock 2,727,297, last year 2,134,472. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 96,043, last year 90,648. Spot sales at southern markets 3,071, last year 2,391.

Futures closed steady at net gains of 2 to 4 points.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, June 14. (INS)—There was good demand for spot cotton at the opening today with prices steady. Receipts totaled 10,000 bales, including 1,900 American bales.

At midday, middling fair was quoted at 5.19d, strictly good middling, 4.68d; good middling, 4.28d; strictly middling, 4.34d; middling, 4.18d; strictly low middling, 4.08d; low middling, 3.98d; strictly good ordinary, 3.78d, and good ordinary 3.48d.

Futures opened steady with July at 3.85d, October 3.84d, December 3.89d, January 3.91d, and March 3.95d.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—After a lower opening, Chicago cotton advanced sharply in mid-session, but lost a part of the gain just before the close and final prices were 2@5 points net higher. Cables were about as due, but American markets opened off. First prices at Chicago were 7@8 points down. Buying orders inspired by too much rain and reports of heavy boll weevil infestation advanced July to 5.28 and Oct. to 5.50. Rain fell over the Carolinas and Eastern Oklahoma and most of Arkansas and further precipitation is forecast for the Mississippi valley and the Southeast. The census report on May consumption shows 332,439 bales against 465,363 the same month last year.

Security Prices Hold Steady Despite Adverse News On Trade And Finance

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 14. (US)—Security prices today held steady, in the face of generally unfavorable domestic trade and financial news. Railroad loadings were disclosed for the latest week as being down sharply, adverse dividend action was announced by several important companies, and wheat prices slumped to a brand new low.

Nevertheless, an entirely unexpected element of cheer developed during the day in a sudden advance of a sizeable proportions in the prices of German bonds. Whether or not this buying had any direct relation to the forthcoming Lausanne conference was impossible of judging, but its very occurrence served to offset the effects of the domestic developments.

The markets had advance notice of the buying in German bonds, for London had closed with important gains in this group. Hope was expressed, quite naturally, that the strength in German obligations represented a distinct, though at present hidden, improvement in behind-the-scenes events preliminary to the actual convening of what Europe terms its most critical gathering of statesmen since the war.

Trading in stocks was too limited to warrant important conclusions from the day's performance. Nevertheless, it was quite apparent that a good deal of the previous nervousness dominant in the making of quotations has been overcome. It also was indisputable, however, that speculative activity was in good part responsible for the relative firmness of a sizeable group of stocks, whose strength imparted confidence to the remainder of the list.

If restricted to worthy issues, such speculative sponsorship is not at all objectionable; it serves, specifically, to emphasize the changed sentiment in strictly professional circles where for a long time it was considered impossible to undertake any constructive activities in the market. Nevertheless, such activities while making for a demonstration of strength pricewise, do not necessarily represent the achievement of a permanent "bottom."

By its action, the market was overcoming in investors' and speculators' minds fears that adverse developments in industry had not been fully discounted pricewise.

It is universally conceded that the market as a whole will be subjected to occasional outbursts of renewed weakness in specific issues. The major hope of the bulls exists in the completion of broad and indiscriminate liquidation.

Such items for example as the decision today of Western Union's directors to omit dividends, and the formal passing of the New Haven preferred payment, have been fully anticipated.

Western Union action's chief significance lies in the fact that this famous old enterprise had paid dividends each year continuously since the great panic of 1873 and except for a temporary suspension around that time back to the early days of telegraphy.

Wheat's weakness has been distinctly disheartening, but some observers believe that the latest selling represents final liquidation of the long-overhanging government interests in this market. If so, at least the market will be able to reflect more accurately the genuine world condition, instead of reflecting maneuvering inspired in part by political desires.

After the markets had closed it was announced that an additional $53,000,000 loss in gold, through earmarking for foreign account or through export, had taken place.

However, it was simultaneously announced by the most responsible governmental-financial official that the further earmarking by France of $49,000,000 represented virtual completion of that nation's drain on the United States gold supply.

It is now quite probable, in this official's view, that the entire Eu-significance of this may be more ropean drain on our gold stock has reached its concluding stage. The fully appreciated by realization of the fact that with completion of this outward gold flow the world now must come to the inevitable conclusion that the American dollar remains absolutely secure.

If the world's command on our gold stock has ended, then the results of the Lausanne conference must of necessity be favorable to the United States. For, if the conference fails to achieve some degree of success, where else than in the United States can the European investor find safe refuge for his capital?

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, June 14. (AP)—Actual trading in wool is very light, but there is some interest that offers a little encouragement to wool men. The few sales reported this week have been mostly on medium quality basis, including combing and clothing staple of 56s and 48-50's quality. These wools are bringing 12@13¼ cents in the grease depending upon shrinkage. Scoured basis values are estimated at about the same level of the past two weeks.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 14. (AP)—Demand for all grains was reported as good on the cash grain market here today.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads, freight paid, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 51½@59½c.

Sorghums—No. 2 yellow milo and No. 2 white kaffir 71½@73½c per 100 pounds.

Delivered Texas common points or group three:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 41@42c; No. 2 white 41½@43½c; No. 2 yellow 40@50c.

Delivered Texas common points:

Oats—No. 2 red 21½@23½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Overwhelmed by a sudden rush of selling that followed sharp breaks in quotations at Liverpool, the Chicago market for the first time in 1932 plunged under 49 cents a bushel on July contracts representing the new domestic wheat crop now being harvested Southwest.

Liverpool dispatches ascribed the collapse of values to increased uncertainty over the general economic and political outlook, causing severe shrinkage of immediate buying power.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝@1¼c under yesterday's finish, corn at ¼c decline to a shade advance, oats unchanged to ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions varying from 5c setback to 5c gain.

Lowest prices of the day in wheat came in the early dealings but somewhat better tone developed later. Weakness showed itself again at the last influenced by fresh wavering at Winnipeg.

Unusual dearth of aggressive speculative demand for wheat left the Chicago market most of the day devoid of strength enough to make any important rally. Today's low prices, nevertheless did not establish a new all-time bottom record, December contracts having sold down to 44⅝c last October and cash wheat down to 45c in August.

Corn was in better demand than wheat, and after an early dip showed comparative strength. Boston sent word of 16,000 bushels of white corn bought for export. Oats sympathized with wheat weakness. All deliveries of rye imitated wheat, and touched new lows for the season.

Provisions were irregular, influenced by cereals, despite firmness of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 48⅛@¼, 49⅛@⅜; Sept. 50⅝@⅝; 52⅛@⅝; Dec. 53⅜@⅝, 55¼. Corn, July 29½@⅝, 30½; Sept. 31⅛, 31⅝; Dec. 32⅜, 32⅝@⅝.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 14. (US)—Foreign buyers appear completely indifferent to the wheat market at present. Following heavy purchases on the break in Winnipeg prices, the nearby position is very comfortable from the standpoint of the importers and as long as favorable crop conditions continue in the Northwest, buyers abroad see little chance that prices are going to run away from them.

Arrivals of wheat on the continent the past week were 8,608,000 bushels, compared with 7,400,000 bushels a week ago and 11,376,000 bushels a year ago. Belgium, Germany, France, Spain and Italy received fair proportions of the total.

Complaints of drouthy and hot weather in south and southeastern Russia are now being received. Broomhall says, This is in the Ukraine and River Don sections, which are the most important wheat export sections of Russia.

English millers are buying wheat only sparingly and afloat parcels alone are in request, cables state.

Trade Trends

(By The Associated Press)

Cotton—Domestic cotton mills have found developments in some sections of the cloth market a little more encouraging during the past two weeks than in recent months, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service. On some constructions of print cloths and sheetings, a fair volume of goods has been sold, equalling or exceeding the current drastically reduced production.

Newsprint—Stocks of newsprint in the United States and Canada were 92,170 tons on June 1 against 89,321 tons on May 1 and 72,918 tons on June 1, 1931, according to the newsprint bureau service.

Silver—Fluctuations in commercial bar silver and silver futures have narrowed considerably, and speculative interests are marking time for new developments in the silver situation here in the major silver currency nations. Commercial bar silver has remained unchanged at 27¾c an ounce for the past few days.

CASH GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Wheat—No sales.

Corn—No. 1 yellow, 31¼@31½c; No. 2 yellow, 31¼@31½c; No. 3, white, 31¼c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 21¼@21½c; No. 3 white, 20¼@21¼c.

KANSAS CITY, June 14. (AP)—Wheat—Down ⅝@1c. No. 2 dark hard nominally 43½@69c; No. 2 hard 42⅝@47½c; close, July 43¼c; Sept. 45c; Dec. 47⅝c.

Corn—Up ½c. No. 2 white, nominally, 31½@32½c; No. 2 yellow, nominal, 35½@36½c; No. 3 mixed, nominal, 30½@32c; close, July 30⅝c; Sept. 31⅝c.

Oats—Unchanged. No. 2 white, nominal, 21@22c.

Howard Peters, a former Wichitan and contest promoter, and G. E. Myers of this city won second places in the competition. Eighteen Wichitans attended the contests.

Tarry Makes Talk at Shrine Luncheon Club

Operation of warehouses and a historical background of the business was discussed Tuesday at the Shrine Luncheon club at the Wichita club by J. P. Tarry of Wichita Falls. The speaker pointed out the importance of insurance in storing goods and described the origin of bonded warehouses.

Entertainment features of the Shrine motorcade to San Francisco in July were outlined at the luncheon by Recorder Al Ellis, including plans of temples on the route to entertain the motorcade group. Musical entertainment for the luncheon was presented by the Misses Lorene and Ruth Tucker with a piano duet.

Committeemen were named by Chief Rabban C. A. Rogers for a picnic on June 30. C. C. Kirby, P. B. Curd and Wayne Somerville are in charge of arrangements. A picnic will be given by the Shrine divan on July 7.

Candidate Honored At Luncheon Here

C. C. Gumm of Fort Worth was the principal speaker at a luncheon in his honor Tuesday at the Wichita club given by J. H. Allison of the Times Publishing company, a close friend of the Democratic candidate for associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth.

Mr. Gumm outlined the purpose of the higher court and declared that the judiciary should have no place in politics. The speaker deplored the time often consumed in reaching decisions on cases and added that much of the expense could be cut by an organized administration.

Other speakers at the luncheon were A. H. Carrigan, J. T. Montgomery, C. C. McDonald, Judge P. A. Martin and Tarlton Morrow.

$10,000 DAMAGE SUIT

All of Tuesday was consumed before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court by introduction of testimony by the plaintiff in the suit of Mrs. M. A. Love and others against the Wichita County Water Improvement Districts Nos. 1 and 2 for $10,000 alleged land damage due to seepage from irrigation canals.

Presentation of the defense case is expected to begin before noon Wednesday, it was said.

HIGHWAY CHARGES

Three complaints charging violation of highway regulations were registered Tuesday with County Attorney L. V. Abernathy. Two men were charged with driving a car with the wrong license number, and a third was charged with operation of a commercial vehicle without a chauffeur's license.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhino—rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Share, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal. Buck's plans are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore. Later he returns to collect the rare rhinos the Maharajah has captured for him. The most difficult part is transporting them to the rail head in India. After an exciting journey, he arrives in Calcutta with his rhinos.

Of the thousands of monkeys and apes Buck has brought to America from Asia, the most interesting was a female orangutan picked up in Borneo which he named Gladys. In the last chapter, Buck related the experience of a white adventurer named Holter, who gave up the tea business to go on a tiger trapping expedition.

CHAPTER XVII

One afternoon, about a year later, I was seated at a table in the bar of the Harmony club in Batavia, Java. I had just arrived from the Philippines where I had picked up some birds (and where I was the guest of my old friend Major Fletcher at the military post in Zamboanga).

I had not been in the room more than a few minutes when I heard a familiar voice cry out: "I'll be damned if it isn't Buck!"

Looking up I saw Holter, a few tables away, waving to me. I was delighted to see him. I was anxious to hear all about his tiger-trapping venture (and his latest greatest proposition in the world). I thought I should have to wait until Ali, who was to meet me in Singapore, told me of the Holter expedition to rid Sumatra of its striped cats; but the fates had decreed that I should get it first hand from the father of the enterprise himself.

"Come on over!" Holter yelled.

This was a brand new Holter. Usually this energetic adventurer would jump up when he spied a friend, and, fairly hurdling everything between him and the familiar face that had caught his eye, come tearing over on the run, spilling his most recent enthusiasm en route.

I got up and joined him at once, puzzled by the fact that he remained seated as we shook hands. Normally his was an acrobatic handshake, the palm of his right hand meeting yours with a rush as its owner leaped at you. Looking down I saw the answer. Holter was minus his left leg. An old-fashioned pegleg had supplanted it. He either lacked the funds to buy an artificial limb or such luxuries were not procurable in this part of Asia.

"That's tough, Holter," was about all I managed to say.

"Hell! That's nothing," he replied. "Let's have a drink."

I could hardly wait to hear about his tigers but I quickly decided not to have anything to say on the subject until he brought it up himself. The Holters of Asia develop strange reticences about subjects that were once pet enthusiasms and I had no desire to touch this luckless rover in a sore spot.

"I'm glad of this opportunity," he started, "to thank you personally for your boy's services."

"Forget about it. Glad to help you out."

"Forget about it? You don't realize I'd probably be dead if it wasn't for that boy. I can't forget a thing like that."

Then he told me his story.

It was to that section of northern Sumatra which has become what is probably the world's finest rubber and tobacco district that Holter went for his tigers. When he arrived with Ali the tiger rush was in full swing. The news that 50 guilders was being offered by the wealthy planters for each animal killed had had its effect on the natives for miles around. The day Holter arrived the excitement was at its height for only the day before two fine bullocks had been slain by tigers. The hunt was on in earnest.

Holter and Ali established headquarters in a native kampong in that part of the interior which lies about midway between the cities of Belawan Deli and Singkel. They lived in one of the typical houses made of bamboo and nipa palm and built off the ground on stilts.

As soon as he was settled in his quarters Holter was all for getting busy. With Ali advising him in the matter of location, my Dutch-English friend set out his line of traps, stringing them out over a wide expanse of jungle.

A tiger trap of this kind is not baited. The main idea is to place it in a game trail and conceal it under leaves and loose earth. A tiger walking along the trail steps into the trap and his weight springs the trigger. Instantly a pair of heavy jaws, set with long, sharp teeth, close on the animal's leg. The jaws are attached to a heavy log which the tiger drags along with him. The log, in turn, is attached to a long rope which is tied to a tree.

All's expedition, not mine. For three or four days in a row we made a round of the traps together, Ali advising and cautioning me in so many matters as we made our way from trap to trap—(if took several hours to cover them all)—that after a while I found the boy a steady source of irritation. I was aware, of course, that he knew what he was doing but his calm assurance began to tantalize me. I know damned well I had no right thinking so, but I found myself feeling the boy was trying to show me up."

Late one afternoon Holter decided to visit one of his traps a few miles from his kampong. A tiger had been reported in the district and he was anxious to see if he had had any luck. So far he had not earned any of the planters' guilders and he was growing impatient. His cash reserve was rather low and this added to his anxiety.

He had cheerfully given Ali permission to attend the marriage-feast of a village headman—(in fact, he was glad to be temporarily rid of the all-knowing Malay)—and he looked forward to tramping the jungle alone. "I decided," he told me, "that my rifle provided all the protection I needed. It was foolish, I afterwards realized, to go alone into the jungle at this hour; but it gave me a feeling of independence that I could not resist."

He set forth as jauntily as if he were going for a stroll along a boulevard. After all, only one mile of his walk was through actual jungle. He would be out of the forest before dark. The walk from the edge of the jungle to the kampong he didn't mind at any hour. It was a straight walk and with every indication of a repetition of the unclouded moon of the night before he saw nothing but enjoyment in the stretch from the border of the jungle to his little bamboo house on stilts.

"The story of my missing leg," said Holter, "is the story of a bad guess. I've got rotten luck that way. That boy of yours—(thanks again for letting me have him)—always guesses right. In addition to knowing the jungle, he's outrageously lucky . . . Have it your way, Buck. But I stick to my story. The boy's lucky. And I'm not. Who but a luckless devil like me would have had the accident I did? It would never happen to one of your stupid natives. The beauty of the jungle is lost to them. They walk along blindly, as unconscious of the wonders around them as if they were without eyes and ears . . . You're wrong, Buck. They're a lot of blind swine. They don't feel the things I felt as I strolled along. All they experience is the sensation of possible danger. They're all caution. Fear, that's what consumes 'em. That's why they're so damned smart. If you spend all your life fearing death you're bound to learn something about the business of avoiding danger—certainly more than the chap who doesn't give a damn when he croaks.

"I don't have to tell you what happened. I walked straight into my own trap. You know what those infernal things are like. Opened up, ready for a victim, they spread out in a sort of circle, over a door in diameter. As I walked along I brought my left foot down on the trigger that sets the spring into action. The jagged jaws of the trap sprang to. The device seemed to leap up at me as if aiming for my neck. It caught me just below the knee. You'd have thought it was propelled by a million demons. The impact was terrific. The vicious teeth, digging in deep, banged against the sides of my leg as if released by a blow from a 10-ton hammer.

"As steel and bone collided I was flung to the ground. My body was whipped down against the turf as if I was a great carpet-beater being brought down by some tremendous force against the expanse of rug that was the earth.

"It was, in other words, as if some giant had picked me up by the legs, swung me over his head and slammed me down to the ground with all the strength at his command.

"The steel points imbedded themselves cruelly in the flesh of my leg, seemed to eat their way in deeper and deeper as if bent on worming their way through and snapping the limb in two.

"I pushed my free foot against the spring of the trap and struggled as effectively as I could in my weakened condition—(the blow from those jagged steel jaws had stunned me badly)—to force it open. I was wasting what strength I had left, in the frantic process ripping more flesh from my leg. My struggles couldn't have been more futile if I were pressing my shoulders against Gibraltar in an effort to send the great rock splashing into the Mediterranean. I was a prisoner, torturously held captive by the device that was supposed to catch tigers for me and earn me some badly needed guilders.

"I yelled for that boy of yours, forgetting in my near-delirium that I had gone off without him, glad to be rid of him. I cursed him for neglecting me. That's what happens to a man's mind when he's caught in a steel trap.

"Night was coming on. As you know, twilight in the Sumatra jungle finds millions of mosquitoes on the wing. I'd lash out with my arms and drive a swarm away and another army would take their places. They were all over me, digging into me from every angle. They even got into my ears, and on my eyelids, biting away for all they were worth . . . How about another drink? You don't expect me to finish this story without another drink, do you? . . . I'll have the same . . . Breathing heavily as I was after the shock of being thrown, I even succeeded in sucking up a few of those mosquitoes into my nostrils, that's how thick they were.

"And then there were the ants. I needn't tell you what jungle ants are. Attracted by the smell of blood, they swarmed all over my leg in countless battalions, greedily digging into the flesh. It was futile to try to fight them. You know what the little villains are like. Drive off one gang of 'em and another million appear on the scene. And what was the use? How could I wage an offensive against 'em without raising hell with my wound? They had dug down deep into the flesh and it was even more painful to try to dig 'em out than it was to let them gnaw away.

"And then my imagination started getting the better of me. I remembered all the stories I had heard of the murderous performances of ants traveling in great armies—of formidable animals they had killed, swarming around by the billions and billions and digging away until nothing remained but the bones. I myself have seen the bleaching skeleton of a python that had been attacked and vanquished by one of these nations of tiny killers traveling in a great irresistible phalanx." (I knew how Holter felt. I've seen a movement of ants 10 inches wide and a mile long—one of the most terrible forces of destruction in the jungle once it had the inclination and the opportunity to concentrate on an enemy.)

VETERANS AID BONUS ARMY

Wichitans Send $63 To Washington Group

Five hundred ex-soldiers of Wichita Falls contributed $63 for the use of the Bonus Expeditionary Force now encamped at Washington, D. C., at a meeting Tuesday night on the west lawn of the Memorial auditorium. The contributions were taken following an address by O. T. Warlick Jr. of Vernon presenting the importance of full payment of adjusted compensation certificates.

The money was forwarded by wire to Representative Wright Patman of Texas in Washington for use of the B. E. F. Plans were made at the meeting for additional cash contributions for the B. E. F. to be received by Milton J. Gaines at the Gaines Motor Sales company. Contributions of clothing and shoes will be received by Victor Nobles at the Scotch Woolen Mills.

Mr. Warlick, one of a large group of candidates introduced at the meeting, strongly favored the B. E. F. in his address and urged that veterans take more active participation in governmental affairs. He is a candidate for state representative.

Walter Caldwell and Vernon Leggett were named as a committee to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Representative E. Eslick of Tennessee Tuesday while delivering an address favoring the Patman bill for payment of the service certificates. Roy J. Daniel was named chairman of the meeting and introduced speakers.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

REPUBLICANS OPEN THE BROMIDE OLYMPICS

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

THE STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 14.

Consider the life of a convention chairman. On Tuesday he is temporary. On Wednesday he is permanent. On Thursday he is writing his autobiography and on Friday he is back in the roundhouse with the wood burning locomotives.

But that didn't stop Chairman Simeon Fess from smacking the gavel on the donated desk and announcing that the Chicago convention was formally opened and let no man put them asunder.

If you hear screams, catcalls, groans and roars you will know that the Republicans are saving the country again.

If you hear screams, catcalls, groans and roars later in June you will know the Democrats are doing the same thing. Only louder.

We just heard some bad news from Washington. The Anti-Saloon league has taken down Johnnie Rockefeller's picture. Stew bad.

Why didn't they let it hang where it was? And just paint his nose red?

We tried to locate Rockefeller in Chicago yesterday. We figured an interview with him would be a big feather in our chicken soup.

But we couldn't locate sonny boy. He came and went as silently as Greta Garbo's discarded eyebrows. He was only penciled in. We wanted to give him a few lessons in barroom etiquette before Emily Post gave him some bum steers. We hope you boys haven't forgotten that you must lay a nickel on the line for beer before you head in for the free lunch.

The heirs to the old beerenial estate got a wallop when Nicholas Murray Butler was sidetracked so far the hobos can use him for an all-year round home. The last we saw of Nick he was out in Lake Michigan using his beer plank for a surf board.

Make no mistake about this convention. The omnipotent Hoover may not be present in person but he has everything under control like a boy with a milk bottle full of grasshoppers.

The first mention of Herbert's name got two minutes' applause. Then the band joined in to whoop it up.

The tune was, "My Country, Dizzy Thee."

That made 'em sober up. Two minutes' applause ain't much for a president when you figure that old Eddie Leonard used to bow for an hour after singing, "Roll Them Roly Boly Eyes."

Old time Republicans claim the band made an unfortunate selection when it picked "My Country, Dizzy Thee" and that "The Sweet Buy and Buy" or even the lilting strains of "The Prisoner's Song" would have stretched the spontaneous outburst to the yawning point.

The only highspot in the day's work was when Chairman Fess objected to being hooked by the Klieg lights and ordered them turned off. That was all right with the rest of the delegates for it seems that the odor of a frying Republican is even objectionable to his fellow partisans.

The first day of convention was calm and serene. We must hand the Republicans credit. They can be business-like even when there ain't no business.

Today everything and everybody was temporary. Tomorrow they will be made permanent. On Thursday Hoover will be nominated, and everything will be temporary again.

NEGRO HELD IN RAIL THEFTS

Police Jail Suspect in Box Car Robberies

One negro suspect was lodged in the city jail at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Special Officer Jess Leverett of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway in connection with an investigation based on a series of losses from freight cars arriving in Wichita Falls from Whitesboro. The negro was arrested Tuesday morning by City Officer Roy Hart of Electra in that city, and was returned here by Mr. Leverett.

Six freight cars have arrived with seals broken in the past week and quantities of tobacco, cakes and candy have been reported missing.

A second negro arrested Tuesday by local police was turned over to Wise county officers by Detectives O. A. Roberson and Luke Hart to be returned to Decatur to face an indictment on a liquor charge.

Six automobile tires were reported stolen from Max Seretok, Charlie road, Monday night, police said Tuesday. Other losses reported to officers included a burglary at the home of Mrs. M. Finkler, 1610 Monroe, where a window screen was cut and a purse and $1.50 taken. Mrs. M. C. Moore, 1410 Fillmore, reported the loss of a purse in a raid. L. A. Wilson, 2210 Ninth, told officers a burglary at his home included loot of a purse, spectacles, baby ring and house keys.

39 Cases Set for Trial In County Court at Law

Thirty-nine misdemeanor cases have been set for trial before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law during the week of June 20, it was announced Tuesday by L. V. Abernathy, county attorney.

Aggravated assault complaints hold numerical supremacy over other offenses in the list announced by Mr. Abernathy, with a total of seven such charges. Swindling by check holds second place, with a total of six defendants named.

Other charges are as follows: Operatnig motor vehicle without proper license, three; disturbing the peace; violating narcotic law; drunkenness, four; violating secondhand motor vehicle law, two; traffic violations, three; vagrancy, two; failure to procure chauffeur's license; drunk, assault and battery; violating vice ordinance; violating wholesale law; adultery, two; violating peddlers' law, two; fictitious motor vehicle license; theft.

Valley Board Considers Plan For Community Truck Farm For Needy

A community truck farm operated in the irrigated valley by unemployed persons for their own benefit was described by civic leaders at a meeting of the Wichita Valley Development association Tuesday afternoon. The plan was presented by President C. E. Basham of the community chest association and County Judge John P. Marrs of the commissioners court.

Under the plan a community garden or produce farm would be operated in the irrigated valley with a full-time gardener in charge and unemployed labor would be used in developing the tract. The products from the farm would be distributed through relief agencies in meeting the food requirements of needy families.

President B. B. Greever of the association board named J. H. Allison of the board to confer with Judge Marrs and Mr. Basham on the plan. Other members of the committee were invited to meet with Judge Marrs and other members of the commissioners court next Monday for a discussion of the project.

Field Manager Joe Meurer of the association gave a short report on colonization activities.

YOUTH SAVES DROWNING BOY

Child of 8 Pulled From Deep Water of Pool

A small boy was saved from drowning at a swimming pool here shortly before noon Tuesday by Leonard Aldridge, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Aldridge of 1611 Burnett street.

The child, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smallwood, 1602 Burnett street, was accompanied to the pool by several other children, all near his own age. He was riding a water tube, and apparently floated or paddled himself into deep water. The tube slipped from under him.

Shouts of other children in the pool attracted the attention of young Aldridge, who hastily swam to the rescue of the drowning boy. The child himself made no outcry.

The Smallwood boy had gone under several times when Aldridge reached him. The older boy towed him to safety and with the assistance of life guards administered resuscitation.

Although considerable water was pumped from the child's lungs, he seemed later in the day to have suffered no ill effects from his experience.

Witnesses conceded that the boy's life probably would have been lost had it not been for the timely assistance of Aldridge.

Summer "straw" hats are now being made from cotton fabric.

Lions To Elect Officers Today

New officers for the ensuing 12 months are to be elected by members of the Lions club at the weekly meeting Wednesday noon at the Wichita club.

Nominations were submitted to the membership two weeks ago by a committee appointed by Roy Mann, president during the past year. The committee, headed by J. W. Lyle, named two tickets from which new officers are to be chosen Wednesday. They are as follows:

For president, Dr. W. B. Bolding and Tom Vague; first vice president, H. J. Hughey and Ambrose Yeager; second vice president, Woody B. Featherston, J. S. Minton; tail-twister, James King, William Ruggles, K. C. Spell; lion tamer, C. J. Coffey, P. B. Curd; secretary-treasurer, John Elder; corresponding secretary, C. E. Metzger; chaplain, Adj. A. Shultz; song leader, Bill Marshall; directors (two to be elected), Harry ten Brink, A. B. Maples, Milton Gaines, Jim King, L. V. Abernathy and George Bancroft.

Wednesday's election will be conducted by Mr. Mann.

JOINS HOSPITAL STAFF

Dr. H. J. Haynesworth has been added to the staff of the Wichita General hospital as an interne, it was announced Tuesday. Dr. Haynesworth is a graduate of Tulane university at New Orleans, and will assume his duties July 1. The hospital has attained recognition by the American Hospital association and a report is pending on recognition by the American Medical association education council.

HERRING TO FACE CHARGES

Former Official Arrested In Sanitarium Here

Arrested Tuesday noon by Texas rangers and local officers while registered as a patient in a local sanitarium, Oscar Herring, formerly county attorney in Palo Pinto county, was taken to Seminole, county seat of Gaines county, to face a charge of having robbed the bank at Seagraves on May 28 of about $5,000.

ACCUSED MAN PLACED IN ARCHER JAIL

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 14. (AP)—Oscar Herring, arrested at a Wichita Falls sanitarium today in connection with the $5,000 robbery of a Seagraves bank May 20, was held tonight in the Archer county jail. Herring at one time was county attorney of Palo Pinto county.

The presence of Herring, who lives near Seagraves, in Wichita Falls first became known to local officers when Sheriff F. Kuykendall of Gaines county with Captain Wright and Private Pool of the Texas rangers appeared at police headquarters. They told Chief of Police Dick Morris of their belief that one of the men wanted in connection with the Seagraves robbery was in this city.

By the description furnished, Chief Morris soon located Herring in the local sanitarium. Obtaining a search warrant and warrant for arrest in justice court on a charge of theft, the visiting officers went to the sanitarium, accompanied by Chief Deputy Sheriff Pat Allen and a city detective.

In a suitcase allegedly belonging to Herring officers found $22.89 in nickles, dimes and pennies. Captain Wright told District Attorney Sam B. Spence that money believed to be part of that stolen from the Seagraves bank was found in Herring's barn near that town when it was searched late Monday afternoon.

Herring served as county attorney for Palo Pinto county for six years, his last term ending only a few years ago.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL HELD AS ACCOMPLICE

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 14. (AP)—A 32-year-old school principal who registered last week at Texas Technological college was arrested here today by Sheriff Wade Hardy as state rangers and county officers continued an investigation of the Seagraves First State bank robbery May 26.

An unmasked, armed bandit held up Miss Lora Brown, 20, assistant cashier, and Edwin Meredith, a customer, at noon and escaped with $3,298.89.

The man arrested here is held without charges at the request of state rangers, who believe him to be an accomplice in the robbery. Sheriff Hardy said he understood the suspect taught school in Gaines county last year. He was a student at Tech last summer and previously had been enrolled in West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, his record at the college shows.

Committee Named for Junior C-C Picnic-Dance

Fifty members of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce have been named members of a special committee by President Don T. Haynes to arrange groupings of the membership for the June picnic and dance set for Friday. The picnic will open at Weeks park at 5 p. m. and will be followed by games and will close with a dance at the clubhouse.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. SIMS

Aged Seymour Woman Dies of Crash Injuries

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah A. Sims, 79, of Seymour will be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Bomarton. The body will be taken overland Wednesday by the Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Sims died Tuesday morning at a local hospital as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile crash about noon Saturday on a side road leading into the Burkburnett road. She suffered a spinal injury that caused paralysis when the car in which she was riding crashed with another machine as drivers of both were hurrying home to avoid an impending storm. Her son, M. G. Sims, suffered minor injuries in the accident.

The son and three daughters survive. The daughters are Mrs. Ida Steakley of Oplin, Texas, Mrs. Addie Kyle of Brownfield, Texas, and Mrs. Lady Havens of Comanche, Okla.

RAYMOND ANDREWS

Funeral services for Raymond Andrews, 29, 801 Washington, will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning from the Northside Assembly of God church with the Rev. C. C. Robinson, pastor, officiating. Mr. Andrews died at his home Tuesday morning after a long illness. The Hines mortuary will direct burial in Riverside. The widow and a small son survive.

JOHN MORRIS

The body of John Morris, 76, of Hillsboro, Texas, is being held at the Hines mortuary pending completion of funeral arrangements. Mr. Morris died at a local hospital Tuesday morning.

HUNTER RALLY

Wichitans Prepare For Big Meeting Here July 8

Friends of Tom F. Hunter, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas, to the number of about 70 held a short meeting in the 78th district courtroom Tuesday afternoon to further plans for the Hunter rally to take place here July 8.

Mr. Hunter is expected to make a campaign address here on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium on July 8 as part of his tour of North Texas. Tuesday's meeting was called by J. B. Marlow, Shields Heyser and others for the purpose of promoting interest in the candidacy of Mr. Hunter.

Short talks were made by P. B. Cox, Leon Deaton, Mr. Heyser, Arthur Green, J. W. McCloud, Roy J. Daniel and others. Mr. Marlow presided.

CANDIDATE HERE

Wichita Falls received a visit from another candidate for congressman at large, place No. 1, Tuesday when Lawrence Westbrook of Waco spent the day here calling on friends. Colonel Westbrook was greeted by T. P. Duncan, R. O. Harvey, Bob Long and others before leaving in the afternoon for Amarillo.

BANQUET TO HONOR NURSES

Hospital Graduates to Hear Allison

J. H. Allison of Wichita Falls will be the featured speaker at the commencement exercises for seven graduates of the Wichita General Hospital Nursing school at the Wichita club Thursday evening. The public is invited to attend the program, opening at 8 o'clock.

Commencement activities include a banquet Wednesday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the hospital dining room, Miss Mary Smith, hospital superintendent, announced Tuesday. Hospital board members and the educational committee also will be guests. Harvey Harris, board member, will be toastmaster and Dr. C. R. Hartsook, recently resigned board chairman, will be honored with the graduates.

Dr. W. P. Lowry is president of the hospital staff and Dr. C. W. Stevenson is board chairman. Others invited are Mrs. Stevenson, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Bratton and Miss Eliza M. Beals, nursing school head. The graduates are the Misses Billie Faircloth, Barbara Roe, Bernice Snell, Marie Wolfe, Rachael Bennett, Elizabeth Beasley and Rubye Faye Cox.
