Business Chiefs At Odds On Forecast Of Depression

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 17. — Some of the country's economists and industrialists took a look today at a prediction another depression may be just around the corner and said something can be done about it.

In a survey of opinion on a prediction of General Charles G. Dawes that a business recession is due in 1939, many agreed with him. Others did not. Those who did advanced a variety of reasons as to how it might be prevented. Generally they said:

Cut national and local expenses and balance the budget;

Revive building;

Rehabilitate factory equipment;

Arrive at the "proper value of the dollar in terms of commodity prices and keep the value permanently."—In other words, have a "managed dollar."

Maintain freedom of individual enterprise.

Create more wealth;

Revalue the dollar and increase interest rates.

Doctors of economics, lawyers, merchant chiefs and statesmen, drawing upon experiences of hard business competition or economic theory, considered the Dawes views and gave their opinions.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the reconstruction Finance corporation, disagreed entirely with General Dawes, who made his prediction in a book, publication of which was announced at Chicago.

Jones said: "I don't believe it. Conditions are good, they will continue to be good for many years, because the country has been on half rations for five or six years. We've got to catch up."

Scott Loftin, former United States senator, said he believed another depression was bound to come, but he thought it "can be postponed many years by drastically cutting national and local governmental expenditures and balancing the budget."

Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of banking and finance of New York university: "I doubt very much if there will be another severe business slump in 1939, but trying to fix dates for such a thing is like calling telephone numbers at random. Four important factors should make for sustained industrial activity. They are revival in business, rehabilitation of factory equipment and public utility and railroad spending for plant improvement. How long these will keep industry going at brisk pace I would not attempt to guess."

Three Spectators Are Killed And Four Others Injured In Accidents At Auto Races

(By The Associated Press)

LANGHORNE, Pa., May 17.—Racing cars killed three spectators and injured four others yesterday in the 50-mile feature event on the evening day program at the Langhorne speedway.

Two boys who attempted to cross the track to the infield, witnesses said, were struck by the racer of Ted Henderson, of Akron, Ohio, fighting in last place to keep from being lapped by the leaders.

Roaring along at better than 100 miles an hour, Frankie Bailey, 22, of New Brunswick, N. J., swerved his racer to avoid Henderson's car, lost control and the racer crashed through an outer fence into a group of spectators, killing the third.

The crash occurred during the 58th lap of the race.

The dead were:

Lewis W. Tanner, 18, of Bristol, Pa.

Robert Samson, 13, of Philadelphia.

Anthony Zukes, 19, of Philadelphia.

The injured:

Bailey, driver, possible internal injuries.

Francis Piechowiak, 23, of Philadelphia, fractured skull and internal injuries.

Harry Hey, 19, of Philadelphia, possible internal injuries.

Jesse Jacobs, 13, Philadelphia, possible fractured skull.

Henderson jammed on his brakes and swerved his machine to avoid the youths, witnesses said. He escaped injury.

Frankie Beeder, of St. Louis, was declared the official winner. His time was 18 minutes, 35 seconds.

King May Announce Betrothal Of Duke

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 17—The British press today brought out into the open the controversy over a royal recognition of Mrs. Wallis Warfield by a controversy of its own over the possibility of formal announcement of her engagement to the Duke of Windsor by King George VI himself.

While the Sunday Referee reported the king was ready to extend the royal family's sanction of the match by announcing the betrothal of his brother and the woman for whom Edward gave up his throne, the Express said such a move was impossible.

Action Said Blocked

"Ecclesiastical objections" to Mrs. Warfield as a twice-divorced person, the Express said, prevented the king from taking any such action.

The Sunday Referee, which has not always been correct in its information concerning the abdicated monarch and his American fiancee, predicted King George would announce his brother's engagement this week.

Even the Sunday Referee, however, did not fill out the style with which Mrs. Warfield would be designated, a question vexing court circles almost as much as the romance which brought about Edward's abdication and paved the way for George's coronation last Wednesday.

Is Up To King

The king alone, court circles agreed, must determine whether or not Mrs. Warfield will become merely Duchess of Windsor or will take precedence as "her royal high-

Brutal Murder Spurs Police In Search

Incoherent Talk Of A Young Boy Only Aid In Search Of Police For Torch Killer

(By The Associated Press)

BROOKHAVEN, N. Y., May 17—The incoherent talk of an injured 4-year old boy today was the only aid to Suffolk county police in their search for a solution to the brutal murder of the boy's 8-year old sister.

The children remained unidentified. Raymond Cataldo of Riverhead, who thought they were his children whom he had not seen for a number of years, later found that his children were safe with their mother in Brooklyn.

Body Is Burned

The girl's body was found yesterday afternoon in a thicket a hundred yards east of this south shore Long Island village. Her throat was slashed and her body was burned. Gasoline had been poured on her clothing and ignited.

MOTHER IS FOUND

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Police announced today that Mrs. Helen Tiernan, 28, said she was the mother of the little girl found slain in a woods near Brookhaven, N. Y., yesterday. She said a strange man attacked her and her two children.

Mrs. Tiernan was taken to a police station for questioning by Detective Frank Naughton after an official of a west side nursery said a picture of the small boy who was found badly wounded near the body of the girl resembled one of her children.

The little boy, who said he was her brother, was found a few feet away. He lay as if asleep. He had been stabbed and also burned.

The identification of the girl and boy, who was found nearby alive, but with his throat cut, was difficult.

Both Intended Victims

Police said an effort apparently had been made to kill them both with a knife or ax, the slayer attempting to cover up evidence by burning both bodies.

The girl's throat was cut, and her body was badly blistered across the shoulders, along the back and down the legs. Her hands were lacerated. Police said they believed she had died of the burns.

The boy had a four inch gash in his throat, but at the hospital attendants said he was expected to recover. His clothing was singed, but he was not seriously burned.

The girl's body was found by a young couple walking through the thicket. Investigators found the boy lying down as if asleep about two hours later. Medical men believed the attacks had been about 12 hours before.

The only clues the police had at first were the feverish replies of

Farmers Are Excused Here From Serving On Juries

All except 12 of a panel of 30 petit jurors called for the opening of a new term of county court this morning were excused by Judge J. J. Dillard because of pressing farm work.

Farmer members of the panel explained that wind and heat is drying the soil so rapidly that they must get work immediately or face serious crop losses. Qualified jurors reassembled this afternoon when two pending civil cases were set for call.

The entire civil docket for the court term was set by Judge Dillard for call at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Resetting of civil cases occupied the attention of Judge E. L. Pitts in 99th district cases. No cases of outstanding importance are set for early trial, officials said.

Bombing Of Kermit Night Club Being Probed By Officers

KERMIT, May 17 (AP)—Officers today investigated the bombing of the Tascosa night club in the outskirts of Kermit yesterday.

They said a fuse was found in the wreckage and it was believed dynamite had been used. John Haley, club owner, offered a reward for the arrest of the bombers.

The place was closed but the owner's family was asleep in the back of the building. No one was injured, however.

Minor Offenses Clutter Official Records Over Week-End; Officers Remain Busy

Misdemeanor offenses over the week-end cluttered the books of enforcement and judicial authorities.

Infractions included speeding, drunkenness, theft, and simple assault.

Mate Jones reported a wreck five miles from Lubbock Sunday, but none was injured. George Williamson asked that a truck driver be picked up after his automobile had been brushed, but no arrest was announced.

John Williams of Lubbock hotel said a pair of his shoes had been stolen.

Negroes got into several jams. Theo Stanley, 24, was accused by Inez Taylor, negro woman, of simple assault. She said he stabbed her in the neck. Another negro man was accused of taking the clothing of a negro girl in an attempt to force her to "move to the country with him."

Authorities gave several speeding tickets when traffic became congested Saturday night, from 11 o'clock until Sunday morning.

No bonds had been posted by several persons charged late last week with liquor law violations and several had not been

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 17. — The house joined the senate today in support of an appropriation of $750,000 for an international park along the Big Bend of the Rio Grande.

The allotment was inserted as an amendment to the departmental appropriation bill, the third of the five major money measures.

The senate began debate on a house bill limiting the length of freight and passenger trains failed to get the needed two-thirds majority.

Warning Is Given

With the legislature beginning the last week of the general session—the senate Saturday concurred in a house resolution fixing sine die adjournment for May 22—Governor James V. Allred warned again the state needed more revenue and could not meet its obligations without it.

He made the declaration in messages vetoing bills to replace several school buildings which had been destroyed by fire or flood.

In vetoing appropriations of $8,000, $2,731 and $420 to replace school buildings in the Old Glory, Leesville and Dewitt districts, destroyed by fire or other causes, the governor spoke of the large deficit in the treasury, increased appropriations and the fact new revenue had not been provided.

"The state is heavily in debt," he said. "Its income is limited. It must continue to function and retire its deficit. We cannot continue this

Texas Labor Backs Policies Of AFL

(By The Associated Press)

TYLER, May 17 — Texas State Federation of Labor delegates arose en masse and took an oath of allegiance to the American Federation as their convention opened today.

The oath was administered by President W. B. Arnold of San Antonio who had announced that all C. I. O. sympathizers would be unseated. There was no demonstration.

Only One Man Leaves

Only one man, identified as a Henderson oil field worker, walked quietly from the hall. A few in the crowd did not stand, but labor leaders said it was impossible to tell whether they were visitors or delegates.

William H. Burke of San Antonio, chairman of the credentials committee, said that no CIO sympathizer was protested to him in the presentation of credentials.

Right To Be Pleased

Attorney General William McCraw told the delegates that workers have a right to be pleased at the "good breaks" labor has received during recent months during which the greatest changes in any generation have occurred, resulting in wider sanctioning of organized labor.

"When the 'old men' unpacked themselves recently, they did a good day's work," McCraw said in referring to the recent Wagner act decision. He said persons who opposed organized labor were "misguided."

Tax On Chain Stores Today Held Valid

Corporation Contends Era Of National Chain Is Over If Huge Levies Are Made

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The supreme court held constitutional today a 1934 Louisiana statute imposing a graduated license tax on chain stores based on the number of units operated throughout the nation and elsewhere.

A ruling by a three-judge federal district court at New Orleans sustaining the levy was affirmed. Justice Roberts delivered the 4 to 3 decision. Justices Sutherland, McReynolds and Butler dissented. Justices Vandevanter and Stone did not participate in the decision.

Attacked By Corporations

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and 12 other corporations attacked the law which levies taxes ranging from $10 to $550 per store.

NO ACTION TAKEN

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — The supreme court failed today to pass on constitutionality of the federal social security act.

Because it had 15,085 establishments throughout the nation and in Canada, the A. and P. company said it was taxed $550 for each of its 106 stores in Louisiana. It added that one of its competitors, H. G. Hill stores, inc., which operates 87 stores in New Orleans, has to pay only $30 per store.

Era Of Chain Is Over

The A. and P. contended that if the act were upheld "the era of the national chain is over" and "it may perhaps also be said that the era of national corporations and of firms or individuals doing busi-

Lewis Is Speaker Before Graduates

"Dying to Live" was the theme of the address delivered to 263 graduates of Senior High school yesterday at their baccalaureate exercises held at the high school auditorium by Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Graduation exercises for the class are to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening when Dr. C. Q. Smith, vice-president of Southern Methodist university will deliver the address.

That life today is thought to be a survival of the fittest in most phases was the assertion of Dr. Lewis as he began his talk. However, the speaker told the graduates that if they would realize that the process of dying produces a fuller living they would reap more happiness.

Led By Officers

The graduates, clad in gray caps and gowns, were led into the auditorium by Harriet Jarrett and La Wanda Sherrod, officers of the junior class. The concert before the exercises, the processional, and the recessional were played by the Senior High school orchestra, directed by Miss Beulah Dunn.

Following the invocation by the Rev. C. J. McCarty, L. E. Waite directed congregational singing. The Rev. L. N. Lipscomb read the scripture.

"The Lord's Prayer," a capella arrangement by Charles B. Macklin, was sung by the Senior High Girls Glee club, directed by Mrs. E. Waldo Trotter. Rev. Lipscomb gave the benediction.

Seniors are out of school as far as regular class work is concerned this week. Tonight they will attend the junior play, "New Fires", and tomorrow will go to Buffalo Springs for their annual Senior day.

Other students in Senior High school will take examinations on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. School will be out on Tuesday afternoon, May 25.

Five Additional Boys To Be Allowed Scout Council

South Plains Boy Scout council will be permitted to register five additional boys if registrations are received during the present week for the national jamboree starting at Washington, D. C., June 30, according to a message from James P. Fitch of Dallas, regional executive, to Earl M. McClure, council executive, this morning.

Tom Carter, area jamboree chairman, said that 65 boys already have registered, as compared with an assigned national quota for the council of 33. Eight adults also have registered, additional to McClure and Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive.

Fitch explained, according, to McClure, that a limitation now must be placed on total registrations to keep within national encampment facilities. McClure expressed belief that final tabulations will show South Plains near the top among council areas in its registration record.

WOMEN WHO ARE AILING

MANY women both young and middle-aged suffer from periodic pains in side or back, from nervousness, irritability and discomforts associated with minor functional disturbances, some from "heat flashes," they should take that vegetable tonic favorably known for nearly 70 years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stimulates the appetite and this increases the intake of food, helping to build up the body. Read this: Mrs. J. W. Spohr of 709 W. 26th St., Texarkana, Texas, said: "For weak women, and to relieve nervousness associated with functional disturbances, I heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic." But who will provide the Cornerstone for your Castles-in-the-air?

PROBABLY you, like everyone else, have your castles-in-the-air. Dreams of security. Dreams of leisure.

Anyone can dream dreams, to be sure. But there is a man right here in town whose business it is to make dreams a reality—to provide cornerstones for castles-in-the-air. And he is doing it—every day!

Thanks to him, a work-weary man is closing his desk for the last time. Now carefree years are his to enjoy.

Thanks to him, a boy whose father is no longer here, will stride proudly across a platform in June to receive a college diploma.

Thanks to him, a young widowed mother and her three small children are facing the future unafraid, because they have a regular monthly income.

Who is this man? Some call him a life insurance salesman. But millions of Americans know him as the man who helps to make dreams come true!

No matter what your hopes for the future may be . . . no matter how modest your present income—this man can show you how to start a life insurance plan—how to make your hope of security, for yourself and those you love, a living reality!

WHO BENEFITS FROM AMERICA'S LIFE INSURANCE?

Since the end of 1929, American life insurance companies have paid to policyholders and beneficiaries over $18,000,000,000—enough, for example, to provide an income of $150 a month to more than a million families for 10 years.

In 1936 alone, the amount paid out was $2,400,000,000.

Upsetting the old idea that "you have to die to win," $1,460,000,000—more than 60% of the total amount—went to living policyholders.

This year, payments to both policyholders and beneficiaries are being made at the rate of more than a quarter of a million dollars every hour of every day.

"Red" Doherty Wins Over Leonard Warren In Meadowbrook Tourney

Perfect Shots Mean Victory For Champion

BY R. C. HANKINS

The booming drives and near perfect approaches of Edgar "Red" Doherty swept him into another championship Sunday.

Anyone except young Leonard Warren, Doherty's opponent, probably would have been demoralized by the sub-par belting of the golfing collegian.

Playing Sub-Par Golf

As it was, however, Warren was playing steady sub-par golf himself when he went out on the 28th hole, 9 and 8.

Coolness of the 18-year-old sharpshooter who was playing his first major tournament since quitting the ranks of Country club caddies was exemplified by his halving the first five holes in the afternoon round after being seven down in the morning session, his firing of seven birdies during the day and in general his exhibition of good golf in all departments.

It was the redhead, however, who stole the show—as usual. He shot a brilliant 62—one over the course record held by himself and Alfred Holton—in his morning round. Had he not been for two poorly-seated cups, which were too low in the sand, he would have lowered the record. Two putts, on 11 and 14, span down and then jumped out. One was less than the length of his putter, and the other five feet.

As it was, he birdied half the holes he played.

Out Round Is 29

His out round was 29, one stroke higher than the record held by himself and several others jointly. His in round of the morning, however, was three strokes over the rousing 29 (or six under par) record of Manson Allen.

His rather astonishing score carried him home on the surge of more birdies than par holes. He canned his putts for 14 birds, 12 pars and two bogies.

The light gallery in the afternoon watched with concern something happen to Doherty's cannon shot driving game. His drives hissed like rockets but after screeching far down the fairways began taking "tail-end" hooks that forced him in almost every recovery to have to wade out in the deep roughs and play bad lies. Its concern changed to wonderment, however, when, time after time, the redhead lifted the ball with ease to the greens.

Doherty's trophy, a $16 golf bag, will be added to numerous others he has won in recent years, including another Meadowbrook championship, one Meadowbrook open championship, two South Plains championships and the Country club invitational.

"What next, Red?" he was asked by a newspaperman.

"I'm gunning for the city open." He grinned ruefully.

Open Proves A Jinx

"I've been in that open every year since '30, and I've never got to the finals yet. It's a jinx to me."

Prizes, ranging from golf shoes and slacks and shirts to golf balls and clubs, went to the medalist, Holton, and to winners and runners-up in the regular and consolation flights.

J. D. Hinson swept into a win in the first flight when he was five under par for the 16 holes required for him to beat Jack Trammel, 3 and 2.

In the second flight, J. B. Galland and Bert Pinson will meet today by agreement, since Pinson reputedly had to be out of the city Sunday.

Strange doings are recorded on the score sheet for the third flight.

Winner By Foul

"Vic Weber the winner by a foul," the sheet is listed. Tracing from the beginning of the evident "frame-up", the record shows the 166-pound popular wrestler who knows just about as much golf as a pekingese does a piano, took G. H. Tosh, links manager, 6 and 5, J. W. Byrne, club professional, 10 and 8, then, pitted against Sled Allen, wrestling and dance impresario, won 2 and 3, "by an Indian stakehold."

Garland Allen won, 1 up, from Burnette in the championship consolations.

Carl Nail could not resist his burning urge to go fishing, and M. Aughett won by default in the first flight consolations.

W. T. Rogers won, 8 and 7, from Nichols in the second flight consolations.

The earliest banks on record were the national temples at Delphi and Delos, Greece.

Hubbers Go Wild In 36-1 Victory

Early Season Blues Songs Being Heard

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just four weeks ago today, big league baseball lifted the curtain on its annual follies — and already a lot of the production heads are yelling for more aspirin.

To mention only a few, there's suffering Steve O'Neill, who can't do a thing for the far away from home jitters of his Cleveland Indians, and Bill Terry, who wonders why the second division clubs always pick on his Giants; and Charley Grimm, whose injured list is so long and still growing that he's thinking of installing hospital cots in the Cubs' clubhouse.

More Pains Added

The week-end added a few more pains to these sufferers and a lot of others, but for Pie Traynor and the moguls — particularly the latter — everything was beer and skittles. The faithful turned out all over both circuits yesterday, with some 180,000 cash customers through the gates.

Traynor couldn't find a thing to worry about even if he looked for it. His Pirates, for years one of the outfits that had the stuff and didn't know what to do with it, have reversed themselves completely, and, at their current pace are going to be about as easy to catch as Jesse Owens. Continuing to show their new-found "zip" they knocked off the Cardinals again yesterday 2-1 to take a 3 1-2-game hold on first place in the National league.

Yanks Return To Form

Joe McCarthy, whose Yankees didn't give him any cause to smile on their just concluded western whirl, found the clouds disappearing as his revamped lineup regained first place in the American league by topping the Athletics 8-4 before 38,728 fans, largest Shibe park crowd since the championship days of '29, '30 and '31. Rookie Tom Henrich did the heavy clouting and Red Ruffing made a seven hit 1937 pitching debut.

Cleveland's Indians, by dropping a 6-4 decision to the White Sox in Chicago, maintained their record in their away from home games this season. So far, they've played four, and have lost four times.

The Giants, still third in the National league, would be a lot higher if they could get by those second division outfits. Claude Passeau blanked them 6-0 for the Phillies yesterday, marking the eighth time out of 11 losses this year that the league champions have been belted around by second division troublemakers.

Cubs Lose Decision

For a few moments, things looked brighter for Charley Grimm yesterday, with Catcher Gabby Hartnett and Pitcher Tex Carleton returning to the Cubs from the hospital list. But Hartnett went right back on with a split finger, and Carleton, as relief pitcher, lost a 3-2 decision to the Cincinnati Reds. Chick Hafey, at bat for the first time in two years, drove in the winning run with a fly in the ninth.

Two distance battles marked the program, with the Boston Bees nosing out Brooklyn and Van Mungo 3-2 in 12 innings, and the Boston Red Sox socking Washington's slipping Senators 6-5 in 11.

Detroit's Tigers finally clicked against the St. Louis Browns with a 5-4 win as Roxie Lawson came through with his fifth pitching triumph.

Kemas Club Falls Before Los Ratos

The Rats unseated Kemas club as intramural baseball champs at Tech Sunday taking a ragged game, 10-9. Tight pitching that has featured the series in previous games was lacking.

Chapman and Trenary were starting hurlers, but neither lasted. Chapman had pitched an entire game Saturday and Trenary has been overworked during the title rounds. Bullock relieved Trenary in the fourth after the Rats had scored nine runs and gave a good account of himself, holding the winners scoreless until the eighth. Tox Wiginton spelled Chapman in the seventh with the score knotted at 9-all.

Lewis Jones, Rat right gardener, had a perfect day with five safeties, and batted in the winning run with one down in the eighth. Stevenson, Hutton, and Bullock for Kemas and Chernosky, Rats, each got a trio of bingles.

Amherst Club Is Defeated

AMHERST, May 17 (Special)—A baseball show like the folks of these parts never saw before kept approximately one thousand fans in an uproar here Sunday and caused them to forget the one-sidedness of the final count.

The long-whiskered Israelite House of David traveling semi-pro club, featuring the first base play of Manager John Tucker, whitewashed the Amherst Reds, 8 to 0. The Davids collected 11 hits off Lefty Gaut Hambright and took advantage of numerous Amherst bobbles for their victory. The bearded men played real baseball, while putting on a highly entertaining show.

The antics of Tucker at first base had the crowd in stitches. He caught the ball between his legs, blindly behind his back, and in ways too "impossible" to describe.

Famous "Pepper Game"

The famous House of David "pepper game" was staged after the fifth inning, and was a demonstration of ball handling and throwing rarely seen in baseball.

Pitcher Lewis let the Amherst team down with four hits. Anderson, Cato, Laski and Lewis each collected two bingles off Hambright, with Deck, Mack and Tucker getting one each.

Perfect baseball weather prevailed and Welch Park was overcrowded.

Florida farmers are cooperating in a federal-state screw worm control campaign to reduce livestock damage.

Littlefield Is Smothered By Local Team

BY TOM MILLER

In a comedy of basehits Lubbock dumped all over three Littlefield hurlers Sunday at Parris field to pound out a 36 to 1 triumph. Lefty Blanchard, forkhand Hubber hurler, took the leading role in the show with his hitting and pitching.

Scoring in every inning except the sixth the Hubbers climaxed the orgy with fourteen markers in the eighth. They counted eleven times in the fourth.

Good Day For All

Every local batter except Fincher, who relieved Anderson behind the bat and Bill Holloway, who got a single pinch-hitting for Toby Pair, got at least two hits.

Blanchard, who usually fattens the opposing pitcher's strike out average, was not "out" all afternoon. In six official trips to the platter he drove out a single, two doubles, a three-bagger, and a home run, to drive in six runs. He scored seven times on his own hook.

All the other players took part in amassing 4 hits to increase their batting averages.

Crites Gets Four

Harold Crites drove across seven counters with four safeties, including a circuit clout and a two-bagger. Lefty Bettes tagged Littlefield hurling for six singles in seven stances at the plate.

Win Breedlove, "Puss" Ballard, and Blue Graham each got a quartet of blows during the afternoon. Two each of Ballard's and Graham's knocks went for two bases.

Littlefield twirlers had seven misques to contend with, but nearly every ball that left a Hubber bat was hard hit and labelled for a hit. After first baseman Turner allowed one to get by him in the first stanza, not a single infield error was committed by either team. The visiting inner corps played heads-up and most of the mistakes were made by outfielders who found trouble locating the ball in the sun. Every Littlefield gardener erred at least once.

For 53 Bases

Lubbock's thirty-four bingles went for 53 bases, including 9 doubles, a pair of triples, and 2 circuit swats.

Blanchard did not confine his fine play to swinging the bludgeon. Only four visitors found him for hits, one for two bases. The only score chalked against him was unearned as a result of the only Lubbock error following a double by Manager Dick Ratliff.

The southpaw retired Littlefield in order in five of the nine innings. In only one inning, the fifth, were there two men on base, those not at the same time. Only one man reached second base.

Fast Double Killing

Walker trickled one past third for a hit starting the game, but was retired on a fast double killing, when Art Mueller hit to Graham. Ballard and Crites singled to start things for Lubbock. Toby Pair forced Ballard at second and Jack Thompson forced Crites. Pair scored after Graham had walked, when Turner at first base let Pitcher Glazner's try for Graham get through him.

The Hubbers counted twice in each the second and third innings, and started the massacre in the fourth with eleven tallies. Every Hubber got a hit during the inning. Blanchard's homer found Fincher and Bettes on base in the fifth. It cleared the right-center barrier by feet. Ratliff had doubled for Littlefield in the first half of the canto and scored when Thompson's throw to third went wild.

Bettes singled after two were away in the sixth, but died at second when Fincher grounded out. Successive doubles by Blanchard, Ballard and Crites produced a brace of markers in the seventh.

14 Times In Eighth

Ten bingles, three passes, a hit batsman, and a couple of errors allowed Lubbock to count fourteen times in the eighth. Every man in the Hubber line-up batted two times. Crites hit his round tripper with two on during the spree.

During the last four innings Blanchard kept Littlefield off the base paths except for singles in the seventh and eighth by Durwood Howell and Glossett. Holloway gathered in Taggert's drive to left field. Edgar whiffed, and Breedlove tossed Allen out at first to end the game.

Rampaging Indians Are Making Drive

(By The Associated Press)

Beaumont's Exporters could feel the breath of Oklahoma City's rampaging Indians on their necks today in the topsy-turvy Texas league race.

The Redskins scalped San Antonio's Missions in two games yesterday, 6-2 and 10-5, to advance within a half game of the Exporters, who have been leading the drive for some time. Beaumont managed to win the second tilt of a double bill with Tulsa and remain in front.

Lefty Jack Brillheart pitched his sixth victory of the season in the first game against San Antonio. He held the Missions to eight hits while his mates pounded out eleven, taking a 5-run lead in the third. In the nightcap, Clay Touchstone was hit freely but thirteen hits behind him put him over. Five San Antonio hurlers tried to stem the tide in the two games.

Clyde Lahti was invincible against Beaumont in the first game, allowing but five hits for his third straight shut-out, 10-0, but in the afterpiece Harris duplicated Lahti's feat with a five-hitter. Beaumont bounced in four runs in the first inning and was never headed in winning 5-1.

Fort Worth's Cats went into undisputed third place, breaking a tie with Galveston for that post by smashing the Bucs 9-1. The Panthers rode with Jackie Reid, who limited Galveston to six hits for his sixth victory of the season. The Cats thereby made a clean sweep of the three-game series. Fort Worth has won seven of their last nine contests.

Red Harvel went on a hitting splurge to lead the Dallas Steers out of the cold regions of the cellar. Harvel smashed a homer, double and three singles to lead a 17-hit assault that brought Dallas victory over Houston 11-4. All the Steers connected for at least one hit. Frank Papish, young southpaw got his first chance to start a game and responded by holding Houston to nine hits and two earned runs.

Just how close the Texas league race is to date is shown in the fact that but six games separate the last-place Tulsa Oilers from the leading Exporters.

WE SHALL DELAY our proposed vacation trip to Hawaii—until we are definitely assured that the islands are actually there.

Nor did we decide definitely to go to Borger yesterday until we were quite certain that the Hawaiian baseball club was there, as scheduled. It was, and we did.

We had a personal hankering to meet this fellow, Buck Lai, and his tribe of hula dancing ball players, face to face.

So, half a dozen hours before this is written, we saw Buck Lai and his Hawaiians (yes, they actually exist, and play ball) take to an old-fashioned cleaning the Phillips "66" team, the same which fixed up the Hubbers two weeks earlier—and we had our little meeting with Mr. Lai himself. It was quite an interesting conference.

As humble and apologetic as any person you ever saw, Mr. Lai earnestly endeavored to explain why he and his team did not show up here Saturday for a scheduled and contracted game with the Lubbock Hubbers.

As politely as possible, your agent suggested to Mr. Lai that he and his club still owed Lubbock a visit, and indicated that formal invitation for said visit would be presented today by one of Hutchinson county's successful political candidates.

It stands to reason, therefore, that the Hawaiians will be with us yet, either as baseball players or guests of Judge Pitts' district courtroom. And maybe both.

It is not the first time a baseball club has been sued for breach of schedule contract. But it is the second time it has happened in this section. If the case is won by the plaintiffs, it will be the second such decision on record. Baseball teams, and men connected with baseball, generally come through as scheduled. Professional, semi-pro, independent or sandlot, the persons connected with the game, as a rule, are the "straightest shooting" in all sports.

"Ironhead" George Gibson, one-time manager of the Pirates but who is no longer manager of the Pirates or anybody else, once refused to send his team out to the Amarillo field to play a scheduled game with the White Sox. The teams were in an Amarillo hotel at the time, but there was a slight breeze a-blowing, bringing a touch of sand. So Ironhead Gibson kept his team inside. For that, he was sued. The Pittsburgh team was sued and the White Sox were sued. They lost, in three courts of appeals.

ARIZONA PORT OF ENTRY REFUSED HAWAIIANS

Through their U. S. booking agent, one Tom Bairo of Kansas City, Mo., the Buck Lai Hawaiian baseball team was scheduled, nearly a month ago, to appear in Lubbock on Saturday, May 15. Contracts were made and duly signed and exchanged. The word went out, and how! From Buck Lai, no later than Wednesday, came a letter, telling of the club's success in California and stating that "we'll be on deck in Lubbock for the 3 o'clock game Saturday."

No more was heard until about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Your agent was aroused at that hour by a call from Pueblo, Colo. "We are off the track, and can't get there today," said Lai. His explanation was quite blurry. He said they had been forced to cancel games at Douglas, Ariz., and Carlsbad, N. M., but would be at Borger to play Amarillo on Sunday. (The Amarillo team plays at the Borger park until the Amarillo park is rebuilt.)

At Borger yesterday, Lai told us the following pitiful story, told it positively, sorrowfully, apologetically, humbly. He at least was not like Jerry Malin's Ironhead George Gibson.

"We finish our California schedule, and we start to Douglas, Ariz., for a game," says Lai, with all the Chinese gestures. "We get to the state line outside

Rites Will Be Read In June

Revealing the engagement and marriage date of her daughter, Miss Marguerite Power, to Denzil Probasco of Old Hickory, Tenn., Mrs. O. B. Power entertained with a five o'clock tea at her home, 1002 Avenue X, Sunday. The wedding will take place in Nashville, Tenn., on June 30.

Tall white tapers burned in silver candle sticks at either end of the table. The engagement was announced on miniature gold wedding rings tied with pink satin ribbons that hung from old-fashioned hatpegs attached to pink and white rosebuds.

Lewis Is Speaker Before Graduates

"Dying to Live" was the theme of the address delivered to 263 graduates of Senior High school yesterday at their baccalaureate exercises held at the high school auditorium by Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Graduation exercises for the class are to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening when Dr. C. Q. Smith, vice-president of Southern Methodist university will deliver the address.

That life today is thought to be a survival of the fittest in most phases was the assertion of Dr. Lewis as he began his talk. However, the speaker told the graduates that if they would realize that the process of dying produces a fuller living they would reap more happiness.

Led By Officers

The graduates, clad in gray caps and gowns, were led into the auditorium by Harriet Jarrett and La Wanda Sherrod, officers of the junior class. The concert before the exercises, the processional, and the recessional were played by the Senior High school orchestra, directed by Miss Beulah Dunn.

Following the invocation by the Rev. C. J. McCarty, L. E. Waite directed congregational singing. The Rev. L. N. Lipscomb read the scripture.

"The Lord's Prayer," a capella arrangement by Charles B. Macklin, was sung by the Senior High Girls Glee club, directed by Mrs. E. Waldo Trotter. Rev. Lipscomb gave the benediction.

Seniors are out of school as far as regular class work is concerned this week. Tonight they will attend the junior play, "New Fires", and tomorrow will go to Buffalo Springs for their annual Senior day.

Other students in Senior High school will take examinations on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. School will be out on Tuesday afternoon, May 25.

Five Additional Boys To Be Allowed Scout Council

South Plains Boy Scout council will be permitted to register five additional boys if registrations are received during the present week for the national jamboree starting at Washington, D. C., June 30, according to a message from James P. Fitch of Dallas, regional executive, to Earl M. McClure, council executive, this morning.

Tom Carter, area jamboree chairman, said that 65 boys already have registered, as compared with an assigned national quota for the council of 33. Eight adults also have registered, additional to McClure and Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive.

Fitch explained, according, to McClure, that a limitation now must be placed on total registrations to keep within national encampment facilities. McClure expressed belief that final tabulations will show South Plains near the top among council areas in its registration record.

WOMEN WHO ARE AILING

MANY women both young and middle-aged suffer from periodic pains in side or back, from nervousness, irritability and discomforts associated with minor functional disturbances, some from "heat flashes," they should take that vegetable tonic favorably known for nearly 70 years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stimulates the appetite and this increases the intake of food, helping to build up the body. Read this: Mrs. J. W. Spohr of 709 W. 26th St., Texarkana, Texas, said: "For weak women, and to relieve nervousness associated with functional disturbances, I heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic." PROBABLY you, like everyone else, have your castles-in-the-air. Dreams of security. Dreams of leisure.

Anyone can dream dreams, to be sure. But there is a man right here in town whose business it is to make dreams a reality—to provide cornerstones for castles-in-the-air. And he is doing it—every day!

Thanks to him, a work-weary man is closing his desk for the last time. Now carefree years are his to enjoy.

Thanks to him, a boy whose father is no longer here, will stride proudly across a platform in June to receive a college diploma.

Thanks to him, a young widowed mother and her three small children are facing the future unafraid, because they have a regular monthly income.

Who is this man? Some call him a life insurance salesman. But millions of Americans know him as the man who helps to make dreams come true!

No matter what your hopes for the future may be . . . no matter how modest your present income—this man can show you how to start a life insurance plan—how to make your hope of security, for yourself and those you love, a living reality!

WHO BENEFITS FROM AMERICA'S LIFE INSURANCE?

Since the end of 1929, American life insurance companies have paid to policyholders and beneficiaries over $18,000,000,000—enough, for example, to provide an income of $150 a month to more than a million families for 10 years.

In 1936 alone, the amount paid out was $2,400,000,000.

Upsetting the old idea that "you have to die to win," $1,460,000,000—more than 60% of the total amount—went to living policyholders.

This year, payments to both policyholders and beneficiaries are being made at the rate of more than a quarter of a million dollars every hour of every day.

Hubbers Go Wild In 36-1 Victory

Perfect Shots Mean Victory For Champion

BY R. C. HANKINS

The booming drives and near perfect approaches of Edgar "Red" Doherty swept him into another championship Sunday.

Anyone except young Leonard Warren, Doherty's opponent, probably would have been demoralized by the sub-par belting of the golfing collegian.

Playing Sub-Par Golf

As it was, however, Warren was playing steady sub-par golf himself when he went out on the 28th hole, 9 and 8.

Coolness of the 18-year-old sharpshooter who was playing his first major tournament since quitting the ranks of Country club caddies was exemplified by his halving the first five holes in the afternoon round after being seven down in the morning session, his firing of seven birdies during the day and in general his exhibition of good golf in all departments.

It was the redhead, however, who stole the show—as usual. He shot a brilliant 62—one over the course record held by himself and Alfred Dolton—in his morning round. Had he not been for two poorly seated cups, which were too low in the sand, he would have lowered the record. Two putts, on 11 and 14, ran down and then jumped out. One was less than the length of his putter, and the other five feet.

As it was, he birdied half the holes he played.

Out Round Is 29

His out round was 29, one stroke higher than the record held by himself and several others jointly. His in round of the morning, however, was three strokes over the rousing 29 (or six under par) record of Manton Allen.

His rather astonishing score carried him home on the surge of more birdies than par holes. He canned his putts for 14 birds, 12 pars and two bogies.

The light gallery in the afternoon watched with concern something happen to Doherty's cannon shot driving game. His drives hissed like rockets but after screeching far down the fairways began taking "tail-end" hooks that forced him in almost every recovery to have to wade out in the deep roughs and play bad lies. Its concern changed to wonderment, however, when, time after time, the redhead lifted the ball with ease to the greens.

Doherty's trophy, a $16 golf bag, will be added to numerous others he has won in recent years, including another Meadowbrook championship, one Meadowbrook open championship, two South Plains championships and the Country club invitational.

"What next, Red?" he was asked by a newspaperman.

"I'm gunning for the city open." He grinned ruefully.

Open Proves A Jinx

"I've been in that open every year since '30, and I've never got to the finals yet. It's a jinx to me."

Prizes, ranging from golf shoes and slacks and shirts to golf balls and clubs, went to the medalist, Dolton, and to winners and runners-up in the regular and consolation flights.

J. D. Hinson swept into a win in the first flight when he was five under par for the 16 holes required for him to beat Jack Trammel, 3 and 2.

In the second flight, J. B. Galland and Bert Pinson will meet today by agreement, since Pinson reputedly had to be out of the city Sunday.

Strange doings are recorded on the score sheet for the third flight.

Winner By Foul

"Vic Weber the winner by a foul," the sheet is listed. Tracing from the beginning of the evident "frame-up", the record shows the 166-pound popular wrestler who knows just about as much golf as a pekingese does a piano, took G. H. Tosh, links manager, 6 and 5, J. W. Byrne, club professional, 10 and 8, then, pitted against Sled Allen, wrestling and dance impresario, won 2 and 3, "by an Indian stakehold."

Garland Allen won, 1 up, from Burnette in the championship consolations.

Carl Nail could not resist his burning urge to go fishing, and M. Aughett won by default in the first flight consolations.

W. T. Rogers won, 8 and 7, from Nichols in the second flight consolations.

The earliest banks on record were the national temples at Delphi and Delos, Greece.

Early Season Blues Songs Being Heard

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just four weeks ago today, big league baseball lifted the curtain on its annual follies — and already a lot of the production heads are yelling for more aspirin.

To mention only a few, there's suffering Steve O'Neill, who can't do a thing for the far away from home jitters of his Cleveland Indians, and Bill Terry, who wonders why the second division clubs always pick on his Giants; and Charley Grimm, whose injured list is so long and still growing that he's thinking of installing hospital cots in the Cubs' clubhouse.

More Pains Added

The week-end added a few more pains to these sufferers and a lot of others, but for Pie Traynor and the moguls — particularly the latter — everything was beer and skittles. The faithful turned out all over both circuits yesterday, with some 180,000 cash customers through the gates.

Traynor couldn't find a thing to worry about even if he looked for it. His Pirates, for years one of the outfits that had the stuff and didn't know what to do with it, have reversed themselves completely, and, at their current pace are going to be about as easy to catch as Jesse Owens. Continuing to show their new-found "zip" they knocked off the Cardinals again yesterday 2-1 to take a 3 1-2-game hold on first place in the National league.

Yanks Return To Form

Joe McCarthy, whose Yankees didn't give him any cause to smile on their just concluded western whirl, found the clouds disappearing as his revamped lineup regained first place in the American league by topping the Athletics 8-4 before 38,728 fans, largest Shibe park crowd since the championship days of '29, '30 and '31. Rookie Tom Henrich did the heavy clouting and Red Ruffing made a seven hit 1937 pitching debut.

Cleveland's Indians, by dropping a 6-4 decision to the White Sox in Chicago, maintained their record in their away from home games this season. So far, they've played four, and have lost four times.

The Giants, still third in the National league, would be a lot higher if they could get by those second division outfits. Claude Passeau blanked them 6-0 for the Phillies yesterday, marking the eighth time out of 11 losses this year that the league champions have been belted around by second division troublemakers.

Cubs Lose Decision

For a few moments, things looked brighter for Charley Grimm yesterday, with Catcher Gabby Hartnett and Pitcher Tex Carleton returning to the Cubs from the hospital list. But Hartnett went right back on with a split finger, and Carleton, as relief pitcher, lost a 3-2 decision to the Cincinnati Reds. Chick Hafey, at bat for the first time in two years, drove in the winning run with a fly in the ninth.

Two distance battles marked the program, with the Boston Bees nosing out Brooklyn and Van Mungo 3-2 in 12 innings, and the Boston Red Sox socking Washington's slipping Senators 6-5 in 11.

Detroit's Tigers finally clicked against the St. Louis Browns with a 5-4 win as Roxie Lawson came through with his fifth pitching triumph.

Amherst Club Is Defeated

AMHERST, May 17 (Special)—A baseball show like the folks of these parts never saw before kept approximately one thousand fans in an uproar here Sunday and caused them to forget the one-sidedness of the final count.

The long-whiskered Israelite House of David traveling semi-pro club, featuring the first base play of Manager John Tucker, whitewashed the Amherst Reds, 8 to 0. The Davids collected 11 hits off Lefty Gaut Hambright and took advantage of numerous Amherst bobbles for their victory. The bearded men played real baseball, while putting on a highly entertaining show.

The antics of Tucker at first base had the crowd in stitches. He caught the ball between his legs, blindly behind his back, and in ways too "impossible" to describe.

Famous "Pepper Game"

The famous House of David "pepper game" was staged after the fifth inning, and was a demonstration of ball handling and throwing rarely seen in baseball.

Pitcher Lewis let the Amherst team down with four hits. Anderson, Cato, Laski and Lewis each collected two bingles off Hambright, with Deck, Mack and Tucker getting one each.

Perfect baseball weather prevailed and Welch Park was overcrowded.

Florida farmers are cooperating in a federal-state screw worm control campaign to reduce livestock damage.

Kemas Club Falls Before Los Ratos

The Rats unseated Kemas club as intramural baseball champs at Tech Sunday taking a ragged game, 10-9. Tight pitching that has featured the series in previous games was lacking.

Chapman and Trenary were starting hurlers, but neither lasted. Chapman had pitched an entire game Saturday and Trenary has been overworked during the title rounds. Bullock relieved Trenary in the fourth after the Rats had scored nine runs and gave a good account of himself, holding the winners scoreless until the eighth. Tox Wiginton spelled Chapman in the seventh with the score knotted at 9-all.

Lewis Jones, Rat right gardener, had a perfect day with five safeties, and batted in the winning run with one down in the eighth. Stevenson, Hutton, and Bullock for Kemas and Chernosky, Rats, each got a trio of bingles.

Littlefield Is Smothered By Local Team

BY TOM MILLER

In a comedy of baseblits Lubbock jumped all over three Littlefield hurlers Sunday at Parris field to pound out a 36 to 1 triumph. Lefty Blanchard, forkhand Hubber hurler, took the leading role in the show with his hitting and pitching.

Scoring in every inning except the sixth the Hubbers climaxed the orgy with fourteen markers in the eighth. They counted eleven times in the fourth.

Good Day For All

Every local batter except Fincher, who relieved Anderson behind the bat and Bill Holloway, who got a single pinch-hitting for Toby Pair, got at least two hits.

Blanchard, who usually fattens the opposing pitcher's strike out average, was not "out" all afternoon. In six official trips to the platter he drove out a single, two doubles, a three-bagger, and a home run, to drive in six runs. He scored seven times on his own hook.

All the other players took part in amassing 4 hits to increase their batting averages.

Crites Gets Four

Harold Crites drove across seven counters with four safeties, including a circuit clout and a two-bagger. Lefty Bettes tagged Littlefield hurling for six singles in seven stances at the plate.

Win Breedlove "Puss" Ballard, and Blue Graham each got a quartet of blows during the afternoon. Two each of Ballard's and Graham's knocks went for two bases.

Littlefield twirlers had seven miscues to contend with, but nearly every ball that left a Hubber bat was hard hit and labelled for a hit. After first baseman Turner allowed one to get by him in the first stanza not a single infield error was committed by either team. The visiting inner corps played headsup and most of the mistakes were made by outfielders who found trouble locating the ball in the sun. Every Littlefield gardener erred at least once.

For 53 Bases

Lubbock's thirty-four bingles went for 53 bases, including 9 doubles, a pair of triples, and 2 circuit swats.

Blanchard did not confine his fine play to swinging the bludgeon. Only four visitors found him for hits, one for two bases. The only score chalked against him was unearned as a result of the only Lubbock error following a double by Manager Dick Ratliff.

The southpaw retired Littlefield in order in five of the nine innings. In only one inning, the fifth, were there two men on base, those not at the same time. Only one man reached second base.

Fast Double Killing

Walker trickled one past third for a hit starting the game, but was retired on a fast double killing, when Art Mueller hit to Graham. Ballard and Crites singled to start things for Lubbock. Toby Pair forced Ballard at second and Jack Thompson forced Crites. Pair scored after Graham had walked, when Turner at first base let Pitcher Glazner's try for Graham get through him.

The Hubbers counted twice in each the second and third innings, and started the massacre in the fourth with eleven tallies. Every Hubber got a hit during the inning. Blanchard's homer found Fincher and Bettes on base in the fifth. It cleared the right-center barrier by feet. Ratliff had doubled for Littlefield in the first half of the canto and scored when Thompson's throw to third went wild.

Bettes singled after two were away in the sixth, but died at second when Fincher grounded out. Successive doubles by Blanchard, Ballard and Crites produced a brace of markers in the seventh.

14 Times In Eighth

Ten bingles, three passes, a hit batsman, and a couple of errors allowed Lubbock to count fourteen times in the eighth. Every man in the Hubber line-up batted two times. Crites hit his round tripper with two on during the spree.

During the last four innings Blanchard kept Littlefield off the base paths except for singles in the seventh and eighth by Durwood Howell and Glossett. Holloway gathered in Taggert's drive to left field. Edgar whiffed, and Breedlove tossed Allen out at first to end the game.

Rampaging Indians Are Making Drive

(By The Associated Press)

Beaumont's Exporters could feel the breath of Oklahoma City's rampaging Indians on their necks today in the topsy-turvy Texas league race.

The Redskins scalped San Antonio's Missions in two games yesterday, 6-2 and 10-5, to advance within a half game of the Exporters, who have been leading the drive for some time. Beaumont managed to win the second tilt of a double bill with Tulsa and remain in front.

Lefty Jack Brillheart pitched his sixth victory of the season in the first game against San Antonio. He held the Missions to eight hits while his mates pounded out eleven, taking a 5-run lead in the third, in the nightcap. Clay Touchstone was hit freely but thirteen hits behind him put him over. Five San Antonio hurlers tried to stem the tide in the two games.

Clyde Lahti was invincible against Beaumont in the first game, allowing but five hits for his third straight shut-out, 10-0, but in the afterpiece Harris duplicated Lahti's feat with a five-hitter. Beaumont bounced in four runs in the first inning and was never headed in winning 5-1.

Fort Worth's Cats went into undisputed third place, breaking a tie with Galveston for that post by smashing the Bucs 9-1. The Panthers rode with Jackie Reid, who limited Galveston to six hits for his sixth victory of the season. The Cats thereby made a clean sweep of the three-game series. Fort Worth has won seven of their last nine contests.

Red Harvel went on a hitting splurge to lead the Dallas Steers out of the cold regions of the cellar. Harvel smashed a homer, double and three singles to lead a 17-hit assault that brought Dallas victory over Houston 11-4. All the Steers connected for at least one hit. Frank Papish, young southpaw, got his first chance to start a game and responded by holding Houston to nine hits and two earned runs.

Just how close the Texas league race is to date is shown in the fact that but six games separate the last-place Tulsa Oilers from the leading Exporters.

SPORTOGRAPH

by COLLIER PARRIS

Copyright, 1937

WE SHALL DELAY our proposed vacation trip to Hawaii—until we are definitely assured that the islands are actually there.

Nor did we decide definitely to go to Borger yesterday until we were quite certain that the Hawaiian baseball club was there, as scheduled. It was, and we did.

We had a personal hankering to meet this fellow, Buck Lai, and his tribe of hula dancing ball players, face to face.

So, half a dozen hours before this is written; we saw Buck Lai and his Hawaiians (yes, they actually exist, and play ball) take to an old-fashioned cleaning the Phillips "66" team, the same which fixed up the Hubbers two weeks earlier—and we had our little meeting with Mr. Lai himself. It was quite an interesting conference.

As humble and apologetic as any person you ever saw, Mr. Lai earnestly endeavored to explain why he and his team did not show up here Saturday for a scheduled and contracted game with the Lubbock Hubbers.

As politely as possible, your agent suggested to Mr. Lai that he and his club still owed Lubbock a visit, and indicated that formal invitation for said visit would be presented today by one of Hutchinson county's successful political candidates.

It stands to reason, therefore, that the Hawaiians will be with us yet, either as baseball players or guests of Judge Pitts' district courtroom. And maybe both.

It is not the first time a baseball club has been sued for breach of schedule contract. But it is the second time it has happened in this section. If the case is won by the plaintiffs, it will be the second such decision on record. Baseball teams, and men connected with baseball, generally come through as scheduled. Professional, semi-pro, independent or sandlot, the persons connected with the game, as a rule, are the "straightest shooting" in all sports.

"Ironhead" George Gibson, one-time manager of the Pirates but who is no longer manager of the Pirates or anybody else, once refused to send his team out to the Amarillo field to play a scheduled game with the White Sox. The teams were in an Amarillo hotel at the time, but there was a slight breeze a-blowing, bringing a touch of sand. So Ironhead Gibson kept his team inside. For that, he was sued. The Pittsburgh team was sued and the White Sox were sued. They lost, in three courts of appeals.

ARIZONA PORT OF ENTRY REFUSED HAWAIIANS

Through their U. S. booking agent, one Tom Bairo of Kansas City, Mo., the Buck Lai Hawaiian baseball team was scheduled, nearly a month ago, to appear in Lubbock on Saturday, May 15. Contracts were made and duly signed and exchanged. The word went out, and how! From Buck Lai, no later than Wednesday, came a letter, telling of the club's success in California and stating that "we'll be on deck in Lubbock for the 3 o'clock game Saturday."

No more was heard until about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Your agent was aroused at that hour by a call from Pueblo, Colo. "We are off the track, and can't get there today," said Lai. His explanation was quite blurry. He said they had been forced to cancel games at Douglas, Ariz., and Carlsbad, N. M., but would be at Borger to play Amarillo on Sunday. (The Amarillo team plays at the Borger park until the Amarillo park is rebuilt.)

At Borger yesterday, Lai told us the following pitiful story, told it positively, sorrowfully, apologetically, humbly. He at least was not like Jerry Malin's Ironhead George Gibson.

"We finish our California schedule, and we start to Douglas, Ariz., for a game," says Lai, with all the Chinese gestures. "We get to the state line outside

A. Judd, the jovial gardener who has an irrigated place just out of town on the Slaton highway and who annually gives a watermelon and cantaloupe feed for Avalanche-Journal staff members, was in the other day with some good news.

"I have planted five acres of cantaloupes especially for the newspaper party this year," he declared, "and while they are Burrus Perfections I have renamed them 'Avalanche-Journal specials'. The reason is the Burrus advertising slogan, 'they never take rust'. I thought that was highly appropriate!"

Mr. Judd has 65 acres under irrigation, most of them devoted to the production of vegetables.

THE recent flurry of pneumonia in Lubbock and in various other sections of the country has been unfortunate and extremely hard to combat.

People usually think of pneumonia as a winter disease, but the fact that many a local physician has been battling it during the past three weeks proves that it is nothing of the kind.

Doctors say frankly that pneumonia cannot be cured; it can only be treated and the patient cures himself or dies.

The Plainsman doesn't want to worry any parents, but for their own information and protection is passing the word along that there is both pink eye and chickenpox among Lubbock school kids at the present time.

While neither of these diseases is generally regarded as serious, they can cause a lot of unpleasantness, changing of family vacation plans and are especially likely to cause Willie or Mary to lose some school time when they need it most—just at the tail end of the term.

SPEAKING of school, members of the Lubbock School board are certainly being driven from pillar to post by applicants for the job of superintendent, vacated by resignation week before last of Dr. K. E. Oberholtzer.

According to some dope given The Plainsman by a trustee Saturday, the Lubbock superintendency is a very, very inviting job—judging from the number of pedagogues who would like to have it.

The board is "taking its time", as Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president, said it was going to and is not going to be stampeded into hiring somebody in a hurry, even though as individuals its members would "like to get it all over with."

If you're making any bets on Doctor Oberholtzer's successor, bet he'll be a young man—well under 50 and, from all indications, even well under 40. And in all likelihood, he'll have a doctor's degree or be mighty close to having it.

MAYBE you didn't notice it, but The Plainsman was not in his accustomed place from Tuesday through Friday of last week. He went down to Brownwood for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting and, on the way home Wednesday was intercepted by a phone call received at Abilene and had to turn around and beat it to Austin. As a result, he didn't get back to the job until a little after noon on Friday.

The hard driving, plus being stuck in Central Texas' gooey mud in a hurried dash to the capital was all worth it, though, to see the wild flowers and the verdant shrubbery which is lining the highways all the way from Abilene south and from Austin, northwest, as far as Big Spring.

In many different shades and colors, the flowers look like they have been strewn by some giant hand. Even though The Plainsman couldn't give you the name of any of them, he could appreciate their beauty. The only fly in the ointment was that it was too late to enjoy the traditional bluebonnets. They were all gone from their regular South Texas haunts.

Because the whole of Central Texas had been drenched by rain, we came back via Fredericksburg, Mason and San Angelo, which is fully hardsurfaced and for the benefit of the hunters here and about can say there'll be plenty of bucks to stalk in the Fredericksburg-Mason country next winter.

We stopped for gas at a filling station and general store on the banks of the Llano river and having seen three deer on the road a few miles back asked the German gent running the joint how the deer population was making out down there.

He estimated that in Mason county at the present time there are at least 10,000 of the animals running over gardens and crops, much to the dislike of the farmers in that area.

In fact, the filling station man said the deer had been doing so much damage that the farmers were threatening to "do something about the situation."

AUSTIN, even more than usual, is booming, booming, booming. It's a city which has never known of the recent economic unpleasantness save for reading about it in the newspapers.

The Austin hotel is adding five more stories and whenever there is a road letting, or something in the way of a big meeting, getting a room at either the Austin or the Driskill is about as easy as jumping from here to Shanghai.

One clerk told The Plainsman the other day that he had 400 more requests—by advance telegram—than he could fill on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

In fact, Austin hotels are more often filled than those in Lubbock—and as local hotel men will tell you, that's sumpin'!

Trailer Adventure

BY NARD JONES
Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARTHA BRITTAIN and BETTY HAYNES overspend on their California vacation trip and find themselves stranded in San Diego. They answer an ad of the Airspeed Trailer Company and obtain an assignment to travel up the west coast, demonstrating the new de luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ARNOLD SLOSS of the Airspeed company fails to ask for either bond or references.

They return to their apartment to pack. At their door they surprise a handsome young man trying to enter. Apologetically, he tells them he stepped off at the wrong floor and that he is GERRY NEAL.

They start north. And then on the outskirts of a little town they pick up Neal, hitch-hiking. He tells them he is to meet a friend, JACK SPEDDON, at Long Beach. But at Long Beach auto camp, Neal has disappeared from the trailer. Speddon appears, says he can't understand Neal's behavior and drives off with Betty to check if Neal is at the last gas station visited by the girls. Hour and a half later, Betty and Speddon are still missing. Frantic, Martha calls police. Soon after a loud knock sounds on the trailer door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Martha opened the door.

"Somebody here to see you," the auto camp manager said meaningly, and the burly man put in, "You telephoned headquarters?"

"Yes . . . please come in."

The camp manager hesitated. "I guess you won't be wanting me any more." He looked at Martha. "I would like to say, if there's going to be any trouble I'd just as soon you got your outfit away from here. My wife—"

"That's okay. I want to talk to the lady." The burly man shut the door and turned to Martha. "My name's Sloan. What's all this story you 'phoned in?"

Hurriedly, sometimes a little incoherently, Martha told him—beginning with the time they had met Gerry Neal in the apartment hallway at San Diego. Sloan allowed her to go on without interruption, but when she had finished he chilled her with a statement and a question: "Looks to me like you're connecting up a lot of things that don't make sense. And what makes you so sure your friend was snatched?"

Martha's jaw dropped. "Why, I—I saw them leave!"

"Sure. I get that part of it all right. But she left of her own free will, didn't she? So how do you know she didn't cotton to this fellow? How do you know they didn't decide to take in a movie or something?" Sloan got up, bending his head a little to accommodate his height in the trailer. "I'll bet she turns up before morning."

For a moment Martha was without words. Then when she found words she was almost too angry to utter them. "It might interest you—if facts do interest you — that Betty wouldn't do that. . . . Oh, you've got to believe me, Mr. Sloan! She—"

"Now don't get excited. Just put yourself in her place. Miss Brittain. You were adventurous enough to start out in this trailer clear up the coast. You took a chance on picking up a fellow on the highway. You wouldn't yell and scream just because you'd told somebody you'd be back in an hour." He paused a moment, perhaps warned by Martha's rising color. "Anyhow, give this thing another 12 hours. If she's not back by that time we've got something."

"Twelve hours?" repeated Martha aghast. "Why, in 12 hours that blue roadster could be four or five hundred miles from here."

Sloan shrugged. "I don't think you need to worry a bit, Miss Brittain. They're taking care of that down at headquarters."

"Is—is this all you're going to do?"

"It's all I can do," Sloan said. "I just came out to get your story, and I'll make a report. If this does turn out to be something screwy, then all the pieces will fit together. Good night, Miss Brittain. You better get a little sleep and quit worrying about your friend."

As Sloan's broad back disappeared into the darkness Martha slammed the door of the trailer furiously. Yet as she stood there with her hands clenched so tightly that her knuckles showed white, Martha slowly realized that her fury would do nothing for Betty. She must do something—something more. But what would it be? She was so helpless. The police seemed phlegmatic, and she knew no one in Long Beach or Los Angeles to whom she might appeal for advice. It occurred to her grimly that the one person she had met—the manager of the auto camp — had only one suggestion: that she leave if there was to be any trouble!

But as she sat there thinking of this dubious acquaintance she heard his voice once more outside the trailer. "Miss Brittain? . . . Here's a telegram for you."

Martha leaped up, swung open the door, and snatched at the yellow envelope. With shaking fingers she tore it open, and read:

MARTHA BRITTAIN
GOLDEN STATE AUTO PARK
LONG BEACH
MEET YOU PALACE HOTEL SAN FRANCISCO. CONTINUE ITINERARY AS BEFORE. CANNOT EXPLAIN NOW BUT DO NOT REPORT TO POLICE. EVERYTHING IS ALL RIGHT. BETTY.

Martha dropped wearily to the trailer's settee, read the puzzling message again. The telegram had been sent from Los Angeles. Was it really from Betty, or had Speddon sent it? There was no way for her to know. She read the wire for the third time, slowly, vainly trying to hit upon some word which would unalterably sound like Betty Haynes. But over her came the dismal realization that it could have been written by Betty or a thousand others.

Martha came to her feet suddenly with a decision. She'd assume it was from Betty and go on to San Francisco—at once. Already she'd notified the police, and she wouldn't retract that. Betty's reason for wanting the disappearance kept quiet—if, indeed, she'd sent this wire—would be to save her family from worry. She'd be afraid that the news would drift east into her home town. But that wasn't as important as—as Betty's life. Yes. Martha decided, she'd let the police watch for Speddon and a blond in a roadster, while she herself went on to San Francisco.

"Everything all right, Miss Brittain?"

She looked up to see the auto camp manager. In her preoccupation she had forgotten his existence. "Why—yes. Only I'm afraid I'll have to leave at once instead of staying overnight as I planned."

He seemed more relieved than not. But he managed to say, "That's too bad. I hope you've heard from your friend."

Martha didn't answer. She was putting on her leather jacket.

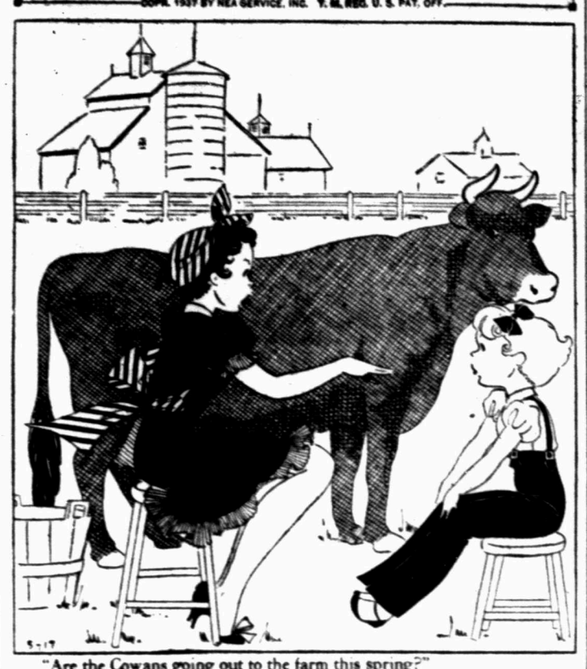

How long she would be able to drive without succumbing to weariness she did not know. It did not even occur to her that by leaving Long Beach she had put her job in jeopardy, and that the next word from Arnold Sloss of Airspeed Trailers would undoubtedly be one discharging her. Martha's one thought was for Betty's safety, and her disgust with Sloan's attitude had strengthened her resolve to start out on her own. And as she drove the wide highway into Los Angeles and began the long, tedious meandering through the heavy traffic, she kept hoping against hope that in San Francisco she would really rejoin Betty Haynes.

For hours she paid no attention to the time, holding the wheel in nerveless fingers, her eyes glued to the road. Once beyond Santa Monica and into the straightaway she increased her speed dangerously, grateful for the fine smooth run stretching northward. But eventually she could stand the grind no longer, found herself swerving dangerously into the shoulder of the road and realized she had momentarily dropped asleep. At Santa Barbara she dropped into an all-night cafe, hoping that coffee would revive her enough so that she could go on. But as she climbed from the little coupe she knew at last that her brain and body were at the rebellion point. Wearily she returned to the wheel and drove the car and trailer beyond the business district, down toward the wide stretch of sand that skirted the city's yacht harbor. In another five minutes she had taken down the trailer's berth, dropped into it fully clothed, and was asleep.

INCOME, $799,000; INCOME TAX, $0000

To The Journal the disclosure that John J. Raskob, with an income in 1930 of $799,000, still paid the government no income tax is disquieting. Such disclosures, all too frequent in tax law proceedings, always will be disturbing to those who have the best interests of the government—and of fair play to all Americans—at heart.

This is not to prejudge the legitimacy of the deductions by which Mr. Raskob whittled down his taxable income. The Board of Tax Appeals may find that his and Pierre S. duPont's private stock sales were wholly within the law as claimed.

Quite apart from that, however, no sensible person will ignore the bad feeling that must be created by these revelations. The fact that the deductions may be legal does little to assuage the resentment of the wage and salary earner who has no such means of escaping the tax collector.

It needs noting that for this situation we may thank, almost wholly, the capital gains tax. If capital gains were not taxed, there would be no deductions for capital losses and fewer cases of wealthy men reporting less taxable income than their stenographers.

The result is another argument for repeal or modification of this levy, which already is under indictment by economists as a deterrent of enterprise.

The least that may be said on this subject is that Congress should authorize or make on its own account a new study of capital gains and losses taxation.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—On one of the big sets for "The Firefly," Napoleon is marching into Bayonne, France. On an adjoining set—this one for "Madame Walewska"—Napoleon is retreating from Moscow.

There are two Napoleons, two armies. When rest periods coincide, Sergei Arabiloff, the Bayonne Napoleon, often strolls over to ask Charles Boyer, the other one, how the retreat is coming along. The soldiers intermingle, to the distraction of assistant directors who always are trying to boss the wrong armies. But nobody ever mistakes Miss Garbo for Miss MacDonald.

"The Firefly" set is the Bayonne market place, and there are about 400 extras in the scenes. Peddlers, monks, merchants, beggars and the usual number of pretty girls. It's strange that there never are any ugly girls in movie market places.

While not before the camera, these women, in their costumes of 1808, huddle in patches of shade and puff anachronistic cigarets. The soldier extras aren't afraid of the sun, though; they strip to the waist and lie on the cobblestones.

Scrambled Eggs

The set first was used in the war picture, "The Big Parade," and more recently in Spencer Tracy's "They Gave Him a Gun." So the buildings were full of holes where big guns were supposed to have riddled their plaster and roofs.

For this picture, the lower parts of the houses have been repaired, but the upper stories still are in partial demolition. It wasn't necessary to repair the whole town because the camera will catch only the lower stories.

The market place is well stocked with real vegetables, bread, eggs, utensils, cheese and the like. Favorite gag among the players is to filch an egg and put it into a pocket of some unsuspecting victim. Then the victim is provoked into a scuffle, or pushed against a wall. It's hard on costumes, and is beginning to be a bit trying to the patience of Director Robert Leonard, who likes a joke as well as the next man for the first 10 or 15 times.

Leonard always surrounds himself with ribbers, chief of whom is the actor, Albert Morin. When Albertina Rasch arrived to direct the dances, Morin was introduced to her as a distinguished ballet master. He pretended never to have heard of her, and looked at her short, broad figure in amazement.

"You dance!" he exclaimed. "You never could dance! You are not built for the dance; you are too fat."

The celebrated ballerina grabbed a pop bottle and chased Morin off the set. He went to the Garbo location and tried to sell Director Clarence Brown one of Brown's own dachshunds. The dog had just been brought out from a kennel for Brown's inspection, but Morin got hold of it first. Brown was just about to write a check when an assistant whispered that the dog already belonged to him. He had four husky Cossacks throw Morin in the river.

Sentimentalists who go to see "The Firefly" on the screen will find nothing of the original story that's familiar. This one has been written by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich, and was adapted by Ogden Nash. But some of the well-remembered songs have been retained, among them "I Need Sympathy" and "When a Maid Comes Knocking at Your Heart." Rudolph Friml, who with Otto Harbach wrote the original operetta, was hired to do some new tunes.

"Topper" In Ghosts

Out at the Hal Roach studio everyone is walking carefully for fear of bumping into Constance Bennett and Cary Grant. They're ghosts. Of course you really can see them on the set, but the trick effects of invisibility which are used in filming the Thorne Smith fantasy, "Topper," are making everybody a little jumpy.

For example, you'll see Miss Bennett taking a bath, but she'll be invisible except for a faint outline of her feet and ankles. The towel, though, while briskly used, will be in plain sight.

Cary Grant will get out of his car, jack up a wheel and change a tire. You'll see the jack, the wrench, and everything but Grant himself. It's really ghostly.

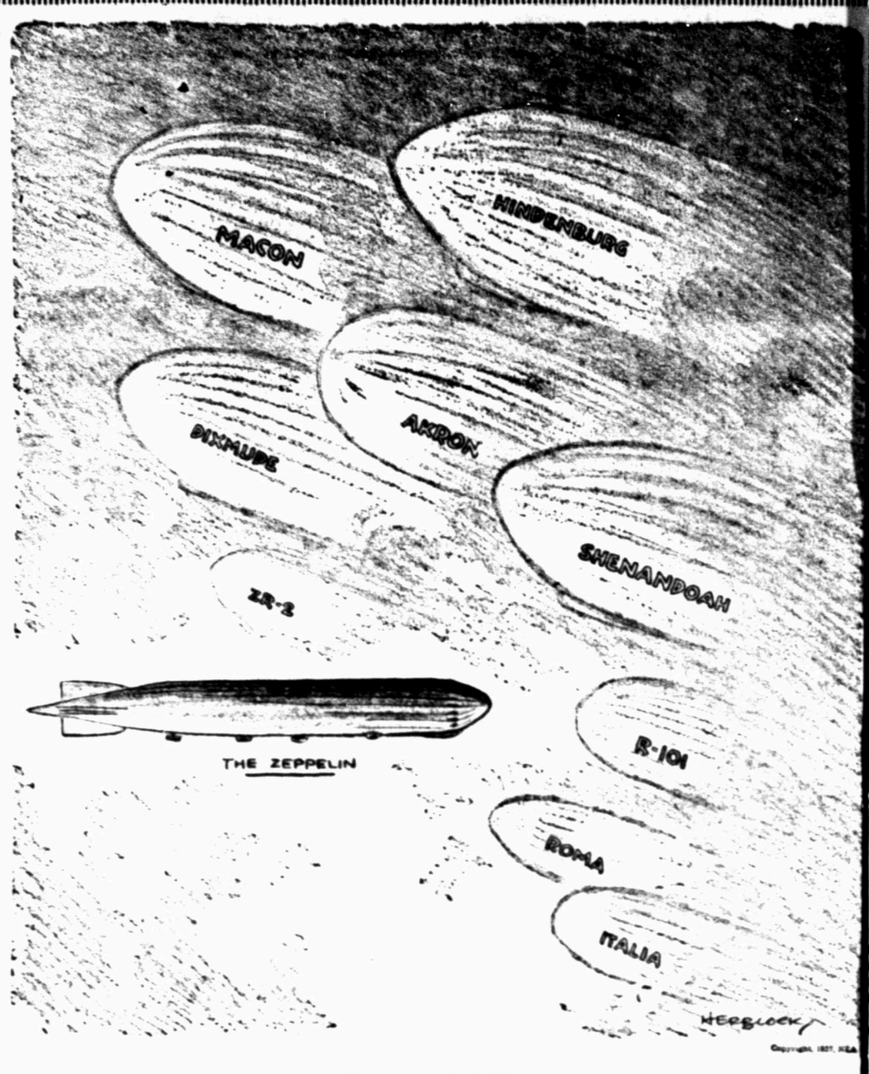

Electrical devices now carried on handcars quickly measure strains in railroad rails.

Proposed Measure Gives President Authority Of Dictator During Progress Of Any War

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 17.—It has become more fashionable to warn against dictatorship and Fascism in this country since the bombardment massacres in the Basque country began. Senator Borah of Idaho, although his words are heeded more in other nations than in the United States, has delivered an especially powerful denunciation of Fascist ruthlessness.

Dutcher

Another warning of a sort, receiving an increasing amount of attention here, is the Sheppard-Hill bill which purports to take "the profits out of war." After much study most experts have concluded that it's impossible to eliminate war profits, but the Sheppard-Hill bill has been making progress in Congress despite objections that its sole effect would be to throw the United States under a rigid military dictatorship in the event of war.

Dictatorship, repression and suspension of civil liberties have come to be regarded as inevitable when a nation gets into a war where its national existence is threatened. The Sheppard-Hill bill, however, has raised a number of questions:

1. Whether our national safety is ever likely to be threatened by a foreign foe to the extent that a framework for dictatorship should now be prepared, or whether Congress should be left free to legislate according to circumstances.

2. Whether the War Department supporting the bill as a pathway for its industrial mobilization plan, is basing its war plans on anticipation of another overseas war rather than a defense war in which America's geographical isolation would make invasion most unlikely.

3. Whether existence of such an act would be an invitation for some future President of dictatorial bent to foment an inconsequential war as a pretext for jamming a war declaration through Congress which would give him unprecedented power over American life.

4. Whether, once under the yoke for war purposes, the country could depend upon those in power to get out from under it at any time subsequently.

Over To President

The Senate Military Affairs Committee, urged on by the American Legion, has favorably reported the bill and sent it to the Finance Committee. Originally the bill would have turned the country over to the President and the War Department upon declaration of war or even upon congressional declaration of an emergency due to war's eminence. It would have permitted the President to draft all men between the ages of 21 and 31 into the military service and to draft industry, labor and materials at any time Congress declared a "national emergency," whether or not war clouds loomed. These "emergency" provisions have been eliminated by both the Senate and House Military Affairs committees.

The Senate bill now provides in case of declaration of war:

1. Presidential power to freeze prices, rents, other rates and—according to army officers—wages.

2. Presidential power to change prices.

3. Control of material resources, industrial organizations and public services—and, by implication, labor.

4. Power to require registration of and to draft persons engaged in management or control of any industrial establishment.

5. For licensing of any designated type of business, making it unlawful to operate without a license.

6. Power to determine priority in which orders shall be filled.

7. A fine of $100,000 and-or a year in prison for any violation of the act.

8. A 95 per cent tax on all income above the previous three-year average, with adjustments for capital expenditures for war purposes. (The 95 per cent tax offers an incentive to manufacturers to engage in war boom trade, so they may later realize actual war profits.)

The House committee has knocked out some of the pretense as to elimination of war profits by discarding the 95 per cent provision and providing that the Treasury shall, within 30 days after declaration of war, work out a "system of taxation which, without preventing a fair normal return to labor, management and invested capital, such return to be fixed by Congress, shall absorb all surplus profits above such return." This appears to mean congressional fixing of wages. The question of war profits is left to executive discretion.

The House committee also voted to exempt newspapers and magazines from the licensing provisions. Control over the press, however, could be exerted through the government's power to control all supplies.

Domestic Dictatorship

Whether or not the Sheppard-Hill bill passes, experts agree that American participation in a general war will mean a domestic dictatorship and that large war profits can't be eliminated. The present issue is as to whether it's wise to pass such a law now and whether the law should be permitted to go under its title as "a bill to prevent profiteering in time of war and to equalize the burdens of war and thus provide for the national defense, and promote peace."

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3 to 4 points higher on trade and spot house buying. Offers were small. July 12.80; Oct. 12.61; Dec. 12.59; Jan. 12.63; March 12.67.

With foreign markets still closed trading was small. A little trade and continental buying as well as an absence of selling pressure were regarded as the principal stabilizing factors.

Washington reports regarding new agricultural legislation to be introduced in congress this week attracted considerable attention but inasmuch as the provisions would not be applicable to cotton at least until next season they were not regarded as an immediate market factor.

During the first half hour fluctuations were within a 3 point range and shortly after that time, July, which had sold up to 12.63, was quoted at 12.60 and prices generally were 1 to net higher.

The weather over the week-end was considered generally favorable with light showers reported in Northwest Texas.

The market turned easier late in the morning under scattered selling credited to Wall street and New Orleans account. Favorable weather in the cotton belt and absence of fresh bullish incentives influenced sentiment. Spot house said there was little spot demand and trade buying was limited.

October sold off from 12.63 to 12.46 and at midday was quoted at 12.49 when prices were 9 to 11 points lower.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 17 (AP)—Cotton opened quiet but steady today and first trades showed gains of 2 to 3 points.

In the absence of Liverpool, which remained closed in continuation of the Whitsuntide holidays, there was little desire to do business in the early trading.

July opened at 12.68, bid, Oct. at 12.59, Jan. at 12.71 and March at 12.74. Towards the end of the first half hour the market was extremely quiet and prices moved around the opening levels.

Official reports of the appearance of the army worm in northwestern Mississippi and eastern Arkansas were studied with interest by the trade. The department of agriculture, which reported the outbreak of the pest, said early appearance might mean that the worm would prove destructive this year. The present development may lead to additional outbreak through the south and east the department said.

Support lagged during the morning and favorable weather in the belt over the week-end induced a flurry of selling which carried prices off 5 to 9 points near mid-session.

July traded down to 12.58, Oct. to 12.48, and Dec. to 12.62. Other positions were inactive at the opening figures.

The opening demand was attributed to buying by spot and trade interests. This was supplied on moderate advances. Recent buyers sold and some offerings were received from the interior.

Aside from the favorable weather there was nothing in today's news to affect prices one way or the other. Cloth and yarn centers continued quiet under a limited demand.

Trading was moderate during the morning, but became quiet toward mid-session.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—The stock market's pulse beat feebly today and efforts at a rally were unavailing in most instances.

With the ticker tape barely moving, declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Business and industrial news, while not especially depressing, apparently lacked sufficient sparkle to inspire trading forces to step out on the buying side of the market. Labor questions also continued to dim the picture.

Smallness of volume and the generally restricted range of losses was encouraging to boardrooms, although brokers seemed unable to impress customers with the constructive elements attached to apathetic dealings.

Bonds and commodities were uneven, but grains inclined to do better.

Among new lows posted for the year or longer were those of American Tobacco "B", Reynolds "B," Standard Oil of N. J., Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., and National Biscuit.

First Inspection Of Yards In City Is Made Today

More than 30 representatives of member clubs of Lubbock Federation of Women's clubs made their first inspection of front yards of city homes today in furtherance of the eighth annual cleanup-paintup drive.

Each of the 11 member clubs in the federation was assigned to a district of the city, and before the day is over will have attempted to inspect the front yard of every home in the city. Mrs. Clark M. Mullican is chairman of the group.

Before starting on the inspection, women posed for a photograph.

Anderson Funeral Services Conducted This Morning

Funeral services for Mrs. Hugh Anderson, 32, and her infant son were held at First Christian church this morning with Rev. Walter P. Jennings, of Plainview, officiating assisted by Rev. W. R. Vivrett, Lubbock pastor. Burial was in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Among the survivors is Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney. Most of the offices in the courthouse were closed during the funeral hour.

Houston Is First In Construction

DALLAS, May 17 (AP)—Houston ranked first and Corpus Christi second in the total building permits issued last week. Houston issued a total of $556,630 to bring its total for the year to $9,026,150. Corpus Christi issued $1,96,935 during the week to bring the year's total to $1,381,557.

Other cities reported as follows:

	Week	Year
Dallas	$136,950	$3,166,086
Fort Worth	109,486	3,580,959
San Antonio	98,236	1,726,259

Chain Store Tax

ness in more than one state is over." It asserted that sustaining the levy would "open the door to the application of a similar theory to franchise, income and other taxes."

Roberts asserted that "the policy Louisiana is free to adopt with respect to the business activities of her own citizens she may apply to the citizens of other states who conduct the same business within her border, and this irrespective of whether the evils requiring legislation arise solely from operations in Louisiana or are in part the result of extra-state transactions."

"It is not a denial of due process," he added, "to adjust such license taxes as are here involved to meet the local evil resulting from business practices and superior economic power even though those advantages and that power are largely due to the fact that the taxpayer does business not only in Louisiana but in other states."

Beyond Reach Of State

Justice Sutherland, in his dissent, said that "the exaction here involved is not a tax upon Louisiana property or business, but is essentially a penalty imposed upon an operator of business wholly beyond the reach of the law of that state."

A number of states have levied special taxes against chain stores but they were based on the number of units operated within the state. The supreme court has upheldd such taxes.

Other challengers of the Louisiana law included F. W. Woolworth company, J. C. Penney company, Montgomery, Ward and company, Sears, Roebuck and company, and Liggett Drug company.

government and meet its obligations without additional taxes, which have not as yet been provided, and at the same time pay off our debts and deficit."

The other bill vetoed appropriated $3,847.95 to Clemone Leonard Bradley and Cecil May Bradley Adams, heirs of David Clinton Bradley, deceased, as result of a claim filed in Jack county. The governor said the money had escheated to the state and it was not sound policy to permit appropriations for claims of that character after such a lapse of time.

Wants Revenue Action

In a press conference, the governor voiced hope the legislature would stay in session until it had passed the major appropriation bills and would not carry them over into a special session expected to start Monday. He reiterated he would submit only the subject of repealing the race betting law until that had been disposed of.

With reference to whether there might be a second called session before fall, or one at the latter time, the governor commented that "congress always is in session until hot weather" and "we also have important work to do."

The largest unsolved problems before the legislators, he said, were financing the government and balancing the budget, but he added he thought appropriations, revenue raising and "race repeal" would not mix well at a special session.

"I can't imagine getting rid of race repeal quick enough to handle an intelligent tax program," he said.

LITTLEFIELD, May 17. (Special)—Glenn Burgess will arrive here today from Gonzales to assume duties as secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Joe W. Hale who recently resigned. Mancil Hall is president of the organization.

Burgess is a graduate of the University of Texas. He has been in chamber of commerce work for about two years.

He taught at Estacado and was principal of the school; a year at Canyon in the same posts was followed by a year as principal of the Ropesville high school.

Taught At Amherst

For a while he taught at Amherst, completing part of a year, then went to Center, Texas, where he served some months as secretary of the chamber of commerce, going to Gonzales in February, 1936.

During an interval between teaching jobs he spent four years or so with the travel department of the Conoco tourist bureau, at Denver, where he contacted many towns.

Three Persons Are Injured In Mishaps Near City

Two of the three persons injured in motor accidents in or near Lubbock Saturday night remained in hospitals today, but both were reported much improved.

Mrs. S. L. Eason of Abernathy remained at Lubbock sanitarium for treatment of head injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding overturned near Abernathy. Mr. Eason escaped with minor injuries.

Undergoes Operation

At West Texas hospital, Garrett Parsons, 2416 Thirteenth street, a student at Texas Technological college, underwent an operation for a knee injury received when his motorcycle crashed at Main street and Avenue K.

Improvement was reported at Lubbock sanitarium in the condition of W. D. Pierce, 62, Lubbock Poster company employe, who received a fractured skull when his automobile overturned near Floydada Thursday. Attendants said he regained partial consciousness this morning for the first time since the accident.

the little boy to their questions.

"Joe did it," the boy mumbled. "Mommy's hurt too."

But later he said, "Mommy hurt us," and then "Joe bought us ice cream and then hurt."

"Where did you go after dinner today?" he was asked. "In the woods," he replied, struggling with his words.

The shoes of both children had been removed, leading to the belief they were taken away to hide possible identification traces. Despite this apparent precaution, the fact the bodies were not wholly burned caused police to conjecture the slayer had left the scene in haste.

From the rambling replies of the little boy and bits of material evidence, police believed the children were brother and sister, "Helen and Jimmy."

A butcher knife and a pair of scissors, both bloodstained, and an unstained ax were found near the children. A bottle partly filled with gasoline also lay nearby.

Edward, feeling such a style was due his bride, was reported to have insisted his younger brother make it clear she would take her husband's rank and be "H. R. H."

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, backed by the church and some court circles, was generally considered to be leading the opposition to conferring royal status on the woman for whose love Edward stepped down off the empire's throne.

Announcement of the wedding date and list of wedding guests was expected tomorrow afternoon at the Chateau De Cande where the couple are guests.

Minor Offenses

reported arrested at noon.

Earnest Love, negro, wanted at Navasota for theft, was held by the sheriff's department, as was a Snyder man charged with federal liquor law violation.

Two juvenile boys, each 16, were held this morning pending disposition of complaints they had stolen wheels and tires.

SON FINED FOR FATHER

For an offense committed by his father, Auguste Gourlain of Dannes, France, has been fined 50 cents, although his parent has been dead 26 years. A policeman stopped Pierre Gourlain 31 years ago and took copious notes because this otherwise good citizen had his dog out for a walk without a leash. The offender passed away in 1911 and soon afterward the dog died. Recently the police decided to clear their docket, and among the unsettled cases they found the one against Pierre Gourlain.

Specialists of the Texas agricultural experiment station have isolated the poisonous principle in the loco weed and named it "locoine."

Junior Class Play Offered Tonight

Combining excitement with comedy, the junior class of Senior High school presents Charles Quimby Burnette's "New Fires," a drama in 3 acts, tonight at 8 o'clock in the Senior High auditorium.

In her last dramatic presentation, Miss Lulu Mae Cravens directs the comedy which is centered about a well-known novelist who inherits a homestead in the valleys of Missouri. He decides that a life away from the city would be an ideal situation for his family of seven. The complications which arise when he reaches the homestead tend to make "New Fires" a play of suspense and entertainment.

The junior play is one of the important events which terminates each year's school term. The proceeds of the play will be used in the publication of the 1938 Westerner annual.

The cast includes fifteen junior students: Edith Ausmus, Amy Jane Atkins, Raymond Fletcher, Darrel Carpenter, Edgar Shelton, Jack Giles, Mary Burk Yeager, Arnette Halsey, Jane Prickett, Dorothy Kelly, George Weiss, L. D. Venable, Louise Sullivan, Drucella Morrison, and Dorothy Sanders. The production cast includes: Roger Kuykendall, Robert Allen, Margery Hills, Marjorie Lacy, Juanita Gowin, and Donelda Mills. How to obtain Love, Happiness Success. Being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear . . . than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love, life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. Men are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men . . . even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

of Yuma and what do you think? The officers at the port of entry won't let us pass. We are American citizens like you or anybody, natives of Hawaii. But we cannot bring our bus over the line. The officer gets very tough when we try to argue. He says we must have an Arizona license for our bus. We offer quickly to buy one. 'You must leave your bus here three, five, six days or so, until we can get license plates,' he tells us. He will not give us written receipt for money. We argue for hours, but no good. 'You have to go back to California, through Nevada and Utah and Colorado, before you get to New Mexico and Texas, the officer say, 'unless you wait here three, four days or week.'

"We cannot leave bus, we cannot wait. He will not consider bus as private transportation. So we go to San Bernardino, then through Nevada and Utah and Colorado. We think we get to Lubbock in time for game, but we have engine trouble, which holds us up nearly a day. We drive three days and three nights without sleeping or stopping. We think we reach Lubbock yet on time, Friday night or Saturday morning, but we get to Pueblo Saturday morning and see we cannot make it. So I telephone you. I am very sorry. I know how it hurts you and how it hurts baseball in your town. But we cannot help. We do bes' we can. I could easy and with happy conscience keel officer at Yuma, but that no help either. We not through with him, though. We feex, if there is a legal way to feex."

Mr. Lai called us from Borger late Saturday night, soon as the club arrived there. Again he apologized, carrying it further yesterday in personal conversation. There is no doubt that he tried to get here. There is no doubt that he is really and truly sorry he couldn't make it.

Our quarrel with Lai is that he did not let us know earlier that he couldn't make it. He could have communicated with us Friday night in time for newspaper and radio announcements, calling the game off. He didn't. So the quarrel goes on.

But Buck has a ball club, no foolin'. It is made up largely of young fellows, with a scattering of old heads, including Lai, to hold down the young tempers. The boys play a nice, snappy game of ball, at field and at bat. They slug the apple, and hard.

"We all stove up tired, sluggish, after so much of riding," explained Lai when the Phillips team got a 2-run lead in the first inning. But when the young Hawaiians started hitting "Bump" Hadley in the late innings, tying the score and going on to win, 9 to 3, he felt better, and so did the boys.

If and when the Hawaiians do come here to play ball, the fans can be assured that they'll get the job done. They play it smoothly, without waste of effort, with calm and confidence, like a Class A ball club.

EN GARDE!

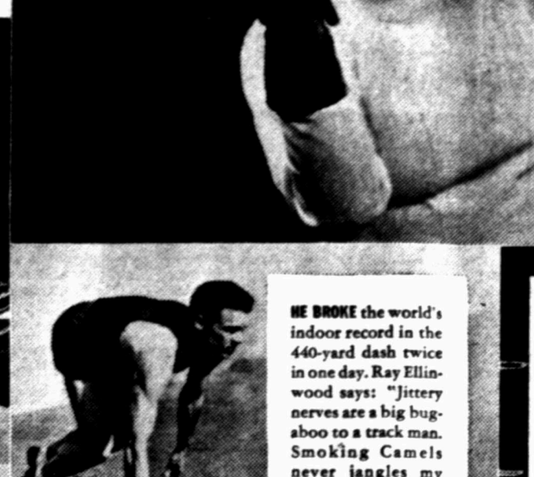

Presenting Joanna de Tuscan—ideal American Girl Athlete—talented, attractive, fond of dancing, and WOMEN'S FENCING CHAMPION OF THE U. S.

DOROTHY KILGALLEN, girl reporter, was assigned to break the women's globe-circling record. She did—in 24½ days! "I was glad to have Camels with me," she says. "I know they don't frazzle the nerves—ever!"

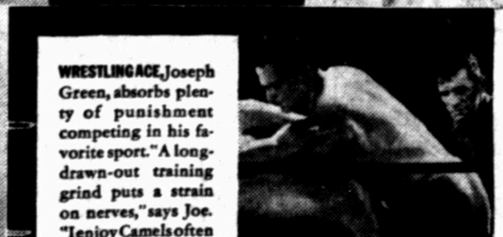

A THROTTLE MAN of the 20th Century Limited, C. J. Chase says: "I don't take chances with my nerves. I smoke Camels—smoke 'em all I have a mind to, day in and day out! Camels don't get on my nerves."

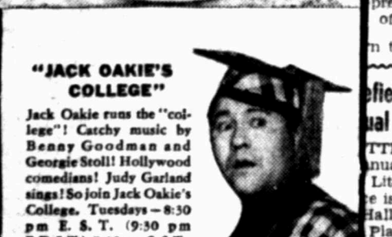

Today the sport of fencing puts much the same value on healthy nerves and unfailing alertness as did the deadly duels of long ago.

ONLY slow motion movies could show you all the brilliance of Joanna de Tuscan's darting sword play. Attack—parry—riposte—happen too quickly for the eye to follow. In Joanna de Tuscan's own words: "A person who didn't have nerve control would never stand out in fencing. My No. 1 reason for smoking Camels is—they never jangle my nerves. Camel is the cigarette that I find permits me to smoke as often as I please. It's Camels for me 'for digestion's sake' too. They're so mild they never make my throat harsh."

HE BROKE the world's indoor record in the 440-yard dash twice in one day. Ray Ellinwood says: "Jittery nerves are a big bugaboo to a track man. Smoking Camels never jangles my nerves. I find that I can enjoy Camels without stint."

WRESTLING ACE, Joseph Green, absorbs plenty of punishment competing in his favorite sport. "A long-drawn-out training grind puts a strain on nerves," says Joe. "I enjoy Camels often—they help to ease tension and never jangle my nerves."
