Keep Chin Up, Ike Advises

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the wrecking of the summit conference means "we must tighten our belts, keep our chins up" and work harder for peace with justice and freedom.

He spoke informally shortly after receiving a rousing, heart-warming welcome from 250,000 staunchly anti-Communist Portuguese upon arrival here for an overnight stop.

"There is no reason to be dismayed or disheartened. We have had these conditions before in dealing with the Soviets," he said.

"Rather than be dismayed we must tighten our belts, keep our chins up and each of us work a little harder for the great cause of peace with justice and freedom."

Eisenhower spoke to U.S. Embassy workers and members of the U.S. military mission here after riding in an open car through streets lined by thousands of cheering, waving Portuguese.

Crowds showered the presidential procession with confetti from office windows and balconies. Skyrockets exploded all along the line of march from the airport to Downtown Lisbon. Cannons boomed a 21-gun salute.

Eisenhower looked tired after the failure of the summit conference, which he had said before leaving Paris had joined the Western Allies "even closer than before in a determined pursuit of peace with justice in the world."

But despite the gloomy prospects in an anxious world, the President grinned broadly and waved his hat in reply to the cheers of the crowds.

He quickly responded to the warmth after the Soviet chill at the summit.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference he believed the President "feels that it is nice to get away from that sort of stuff." This was an allusion to the tactics of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Paris.

Hagerty recalled he had said in Paris that Eisenhower was "completely disgusted and fed up with the antics and tactics of Khrushchev."

The President arrived from Paris by special jet for an overnight visit before flying on to Washington Friday.

Recalling that he had visited Portugal in 1951, the President told President Americo Rodrigues Tomaz and the nation's strongman ruler for 32 years, Premier Antonio de Oliveria Salazar:

"In coming to Portugal I feel once more that I am visiting old friends. Since the founding of the United tates the relationships between the two countries have been happy.

"From the outset we have worked together without a single difference of opinion. Today, as members of the United Nations and as partners in NATO, we continue to work together in the common cause of peace and justice for all men."

Crowds six and eight deep lined the route of the presidential procession through the capital to Queluz Palace, where Eisenhower is staying.

The President and his hosts rode in an open Rolls Royce surrounded by Republican Horse Guards in blue tunics and white breeches.

Eisenhower looked tired but he had a wide grin as he waved to the crowds.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT—President Eisenhower chats with a Frenchwoman during his visit to Sainte-Chapelle in Paris on a sightseeing tour of French churches. The woman rushed up to the president as he left the historic church and implored him to "be firm, above all stay firm." In the center is a White House security agent. Apology Not Mentioned

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev flew into East Berlin today from the wrecked summit talks, saying the Soviet Union will stick to a policy of seeking "peaceful coexistence."

But, looking serious, the Soviet Premier returned to the attack on the United States in an airport speech. He declared circles that wanted to apply the law of the jungle had regained the upper hand in the United States.

"The government of the United States made the summit conference impossible," he said. "But the questions which were to have been discussed there have not lost their significance. These include the conclusion of a peace treaty with the Germans and a solution of the problem of Berlin which is connected therewith."

"In view of the new situation, we have to talk with Comrades Ulbricht and Grotewohl. I think that the upcoming exchange of views will be useful for the peace of Europe."

Khrushchev made no new threats against West Berlin but said he was going to talk the Berlin problem over with East German Communist leaders.

Hundreds of thousands of East Berliners, released from factories, offices and schools, cheered and waved to Khrushchev on his 25-mile trip from East Berlin's airport to the residence of East German President Wilhelm Pieck.

West Berliners, who had seen Khrushchev on four previous visits, said the reception was the biggest he ever has had in Berlin.

Before visiting Paris, Khrushchev reiterated his statement that he would attend another summit meeting if the United States clears away the obstacles which prevented the present conference from going ahead. This was a reference to his demand for an apology from President Eisenhower for the U2 incident.

In his arrival speech in East Berlin, Khrushchev did not repeat his demand that the United States apologize for the U2 incident. It was too soon to deduce whether this means any change in Russian policy.

His speech was without any threats. It was as if he was being extremely careful not to stir fears among the Berlin population.

More likely, the Communist rulers may decide to hold off on a peace treaty, but create difficulties for West Berlin, isolated 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Khrushchev's plane was careful to avoid flying over Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West Germany. It flew from Paris via Copenhagen.

At the airfield, Khrushchev emerged first from the plane, followed by his defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky.

Communist party headquarters set up a mammoth reception for the Soviet leader. Red flags and slogans decorated the streets.

Panel Talks Labor Peace

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor and management representatives get a chance today to decide whether they want to try to agree on mutual problems or continue to fight them out.

A six-man group—three representatives each from management and organized labor—arranged to meet at the bidding of President Eisenhower to lay out plans for a series of industrial peace talks.

These talks, as outlined by Eisenhower, would be designed to try to reach agreements that would lead to better employer-union relations, curb inflation, increase output, and spur economic growth.

Both sides publicly pledged to work at the job but privately said they had doubts about accomplishing anything. Like the participants at the ill-fated Paris meeting of the world powers, the labor-management conferees are apparently distrustful and suspicious of each other.

The meeting today had an apparently simple goal. That is to agree on an agenda of matters to be discussed at future conferences and what additional men should be invited in by both sides. The administration, having arranged the initial meeting, has stepped out of the picture.

Agreement even on the agenda would be a significant achievement because of long-standing differences of opinion on what needs to be done.

The labor union representatives headed by AFL-CIO President George Meany will oppose any management suggestions for further union control legislation. Management insistence on outlawing compulsory union membership clauses was the issue that upset the last labor-management peace conference in 1957.

On the other hand, management representatives probably would resist labor suggestions for dealing with such problems as unemployment. However, the streamlining of work forces and accommodation of displaced workers is one problem which administration leaders hope can be tackled by the conferees.

The management representatives for the initial planning conference were designated by the National Assn. of Manufacturers. They are presidents William J. Grebe of the J. I. Case Co., a former NAM president; H. S. Peterson, of the Otis Elevator Co., and Robert W. Stoddard of the Wyman-Gordon Co.

On the labor union side designated by the AFL-CIO are Meany and AFL-CIO vice presidents Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, and George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Rudolph Bannow, current NAM president, also was to sit in on the meeting.

Road Bid Of $359,045 Is Submitted

A low bid of $359,045 was submitted to the Texas Highway Department yesterday for the first segment of projected improvements to U.S. 84 in Scurry County.

The low bid was submitted by Bannan Contractors, Inc., of Victoria.

Proposals had been asked on construction of structures and widening of pavement for a distance of 7.8 miles from the Mitchell County line to a point about one mile south of Hermleigh.

This is the first portion of the program to make a divided highway of U.S. 84 through Scurry County. Right-of-way is still being acquired by the county to take the project to the Garza County line.

Meanwhile, there were reports from Sweetwater that Nolan County commissioners plan to acquire right-of-way soon for that country's segment of the road. The new "Super" highway as now proposed will extend from Roscoe to Lubbock and eventually on into New Mexico.

Rites Friday For Drowning Victim

Nearly two hours of work by Snyder firemen, policemen a doctor, two nurses and an ambulance driver plus all portable facilities available from the fire department, ambulance, and Cogdell Memorial Hospital failed to save the life of 14 year old Mike Dennis who drowned in a bathtub at his home Wednesday afternoon.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dennis of 2809 Avenue Q, he apparently fell and struck his head on the faucets. Justice of the peace W. C. Davidson, ruled death by accidental drowning.

An eighth grade student at Travis Junior High and a member of the Travis band, he was born May 7, 1946, in Snyder.

William Michael Dennis is survived by his parents; three sisters, Mrs. Mary June Cessna of Los Angeles Calif., Mrs. Helen Bolin of Colorado City, and Miss Ann Dennis of the home; and four brothers, Bruce of Big Spring, Arthur of Farwell, Clyde, Jr. of Snyder and Jerry Mac of Sweetwater.

Fuheral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, with Virgil Mott officiating.

Pallbearers will be school friends. They are Lonnie Craig, James Nance, Tommy Allen, Danny Mitchell, Ross Wise, Jerry Cabiness, Denver Way, David Hammitt, Jerry Tatum, Gayland Dabbs, and Mark Whitley.

Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Japanese House Ratifies Treaty

TOKYO (AP) — The House of Representatives tonight ratified its new security treaty with the United States after a violent demonstration by leftist members opposed to the pact.

The pact, which authorizes U.S. bases to remain in Japan at least 10 more years, now goes to the upper house. It has 30 days in which to act or let the measure become law automatically.

SOVIETS PRESS U. N. CASE

Gromyko Due Friday

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is due here Friday night to take personal command in pressing Soviet charges on American spy flights over the Soviet Union.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told newsmen today that Gromyko sent advance word of his arrival from Paris. The Soviet ambassador said the Soviet Union would submit a resolution at the first meeting of the Security Council.

In requesting the meeting, Gromyko demanded that the 11-nation council take measures to stop the spy flights. He cabled the request from Paris Wednesday night after the summit conference broke down. The four Communist diplomats is a veteran of cold war wrangling at the U.N.

The Russians charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive flights against the Soviet Union, creating a threat to universal peace.

Sobolev met today with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and said his delegation had not yet set a specific date for the council session. But in any event the Russians got the jump on a U.S. proposal for international aerial inspection against surprise attack.

Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, council president for May, told a newsman he would decide today when to schedule the meeting.

A council delegate said the Soviets wanted the meeting Friday or Saturday, obviously to hold the propaganda stage without competition from the open skies proposal President Eisenhower said the United States would submit to the U.N. But it appeared unlikely a meeting would be arranged before Monday.

The U.S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, planned to go to Washington for weekend consultations with the President and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Sources in a position to know said the United States made no effort to beat the Soviet Union to the punch before the U.N. These sources said the United States wants to avoid any spirit of altercation.

Diplomats at the U.N. privately expressed doubt that the Soviet Union could get the seven votes needed to push a resolution condemning the United States through the council. Only Poland is expected to join the Soviets in voting for the resolution. There was speculation the other nine members would either vote against it or abstain. These nine are Britain, France, Nationalist China, Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador, Italy, Tunisia and the United States.

In turn the Soviet Union seems sure to veto any U.S. proposal for aerial inspection. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev rejected the proposal during the abortive summit conference in Paris.

There was some speculation here that Gromyko might fly to New York to lead the Soviet fight for a U.N. reprimand of the United States.

Gromyko's telegram to Corea did not specifically mention the American U2 spy plane the Soviets brought down on May Day. Instead the Soviet foreign minister charged that U.S. military aircraft had repeatedly encroached on Soviet air space and that the U.S. government had declared these actions which violate the frontiers of other sovereign states to be its state policy.

Soon after the U.N. made Gromyko's message public, U.S. ambassador Lodge issued a statement denying there had been "aggressive acts such as the Soviet complaint alleges."

"Instead of making such charges," said Lodge, "we should all look for the cause of the trouble—which is the danger of sudden death due to surprise attack by nuclear weapons. The United States will, at the proper time, make proposals to protect the humanity against this danger."

RAPID GROWTH FORCES ONE FIRM INTO RECESS

One Snyder firm grew so fast the owners couldn't keep up with the financial obligations of expansion so they sold out, went to work for someone else and "re-started" three years later. They're growing in leaps and bounds again and already have had to separate their business into two segments and take on a partner to carry on.

This is just one of dozens of amazing success stories that will be unfolding in the Futurama issue of the Daily News, coming June 12.

You'll have to see this exciting issue to get the full details and identity of this business.

Orders are pouring in. It seems certain we're going to sell out of the extra issues we're allowed to counter sale, so better hurry.

They're only 25 cents apiece and those ordered and paid for in advance go postage-paid anywhere in the U.S. The postage alone will cost more than after the issue has gone to press.

First Mishap In 44 Years

His first accident in 44 years of driving happened to 70 year old V. M. Minyard of Route 2 near the Plainview school as he was going home from Snyder at about 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

Minyard told officers that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming vehicle and started slowing down, then it seemed to him the car was on his side of the road so he applied the brakes. His 1955 chevrolet skidded for a short distance before colliding with the other car headon.

The three occupants of the other car, also a 1955 Chevrolet, and Minyard were take to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by a Bolger Funeral Home Ambulance.

Admitted to the hospital following emergency treatment, Minyard was comparatively cheerful as he told officers of the accident, adding that while he had an upper plate the bottom teeth were still his own and they were loose. Minyard's lower lip was cut and bruised and both hands badly cut. He operates a laundry at Twenty-sixth Street and Avenue I.

Driver of the other car, Larry Dodson of 1907 Avenue M, and one passenger, Wayne Morrison of 1311½ Twenty-fifth Street were also treated for cuts and bruises and admitted to the hospital. Another passenger, James West of 200 Twenty-third Street, was released after treatment.

Highway patrolmen Will Cleveland and Ivy Daniels investigated.

North Central Texas Hit By Violent Weather Again

By The Associated Press

A tornado destroyed a barn and hail smashed young cotton plants into the ground as violent weather hit North Central Texas Wednesday night.

A metal barn was destroyed by a funnel five miles east of Eastland, he twister caused no injuries.

Rain and hail fell from thunderheads at Olney, near Wichita Falls, and in many other areas. Cotton plants were hard hit by a severe hail storm that struck in a narrow strip north and east of Ploydada, 60 miles northeast of Lubbock. An estimated 50 per cent of the cotton crop in the area was destroyed.

The storms hit while a wide area of North Central and West Texas was under a tornado forecast. The area included Dallas, Fort Worth and was bounded by a line from Gainesville to Terrell to Menard to Colorado City to Nocona and along the Red River back to Gainesville. Another severe weather and tornado forecast was issued later in the evening for most of Northeast Texas. That forecast expired with only a few scattered thunderstorms occurring west and southwest of Dallas-Fort Worth and at Granbury, Itasca and Stephenville.

Early Thursday the weather over Texas was mild. Skies were cloudy to partly cloudy over the eastern half of the state and generally clear over the western portion. Temperatures ranged from 56 at Dalhart to 78 at Laredo and College Station. No rain fell during the morning.

Rainfall totals for the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. Wednesday included Laredo 1.17 inches, Tyler 1.35, Sherman 1.15, San Angelo .93, Wichita Falls .36, Abilene .09, Lubbock .17, Austin, Houston and Mineral Wells .01, and a trace at College Station, Beeville, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas and Amarillo.

The high temperature Wednesday was 101 at Laredo and the low maximum was 80 at Galveston.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Wednesday 94 degrees; low 56 degrees, reading at 7 a.m. today, 69 degrees.

East Texas: Partly cloudy through Friday and scattered thunderstorms mainly in north. Cooler extreme north Friday.

South Central Texas: Partly cloudy and warm through Friday with widely scattered thundershowers mainly in afternoon and evenings.

North Central Texas: Partly cloudy through Friday with scattered thunderstorms this afternoon and mainly in east tonight. Cooler most sections Friday and in northwest tonight.

Northwest Texas: Partly cloudy through Friday. Cooler this afternoon and tonight. Lower to 40s in Panhandle.

Southwest Texas: Partly cloudy through Friday. Cooler most sections Friday and from upper Pecos Valley eastward tonight.

West Texas: Occasional gusty winds 10 to 20 knots through Friday.

Search Spreads For Quanah Area Gunman

QUANAH (AP)—A Texas Ranger and Highway Patrolmen flocked to this North Texas town Wednesday in search of a prowler who shot a young girl and in invalid housewife.

Charlotte Wiseman, 12, was shot in the groin Tuesday night by someone who fired through a window as she prepared to go to bed. Two hours later Mrs. Annie Laura Annis, was shot in the shoulder, by a prowler who talked to her from the back porch of her home.

Neither the Wiseman girl nor the woman was critically wounded.

San Antonio Teacher Fired After Praising Krushchev

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A high school teacher who allegedly called "Nikita Khrushchev the greatest man in the world" and said U.S. pilot Francis Powers should be put to death was fired Wednesday night, the San Antonio News said today.

Columnist Paul Thompson said the teacher, Winston McDaniel of San Antonio Robert E. Lee High School, was dismissed by unanimous vote.

McDaniel said his remarks were taken out of context. He said he is considering appealing the board action, which would give him the right to a public hearing.

Supt. Virgil Blossom of the district said McDaniel has been suspended from further duties as a teacher.

"The judgments used, along with statements made in his classroom, reflect conduct prejudicial to the best interests of the school district," Blossom said.

Blossom, who came here last year after serving as superintendent of schools in Little Rock, Ark. during integration strife, said the board had not authorized him to make further statements.

Thompson said the board based its action on a tape recording made Monday by a student in one of McDaniel's classes.

The tape, Thompson wrote, recorded McDaniel's comments that the United States is lucky that "the greatest man alive today" is in charge of Russia.

The columnist said McDaniel, in answering questions of board members, "took the line that nothing he said in the Monday class should be considered his own opinion."

Thompson said the tape was made with McDaniel's knowledge ad consent.

STUDENTS OF SCIENCE GET SUMMER SCHOLARSHIPS — Linda Sue Taylor and David Wimpy, above, will study this summer under the National Science Foundation Program. Linda will attend Texas Women's University at Denton from June 13 to August 5 on biology while David will study multiple sciences at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater. Both students were chosen from over 200 applicants to the colleges. This year the NSTF will only pay for half the expenses incurred rather than the usual total so the program may be extended to others. Mike Reed was selected as an alternate in math at the University of Texas. Teachers from Snyder High School were also selected to study under the program—Bob Cole will study Chemistry at TCU. Mrs. Roy Carter will study biology at Oklahoma State, and Richard Thomas will study chemistry at the University of Wyoming.

Kennedy Steps Up Drive For Oregon

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy stepped up the pace of his campaigning today on the eve of Oregon's Democratic presidential primary.

His only active opponent, Sen. Wayne Morse, said he still thinks he'll pull in 60 per cent of the vote Friday as a favorite son candidate.

Wherever he went Wednesday, Kennedy kept hearing people tell him they thought he could beat Morse. He kept saying he considered that unlikely and a most difficult task.

But after a day of warm receptions where throngs stood in the rain to hear him and to shake his hand, the Massachusetts senator decided on an earlier start today.

Three other senators are on the Democratic ballot — Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Stuart Symington of Missouri. Humphrey is out of the presidential race. Johnson and Symington haven't campaigned at all here.

Morse put it up to Oregon Democrats to repudiate Kennedy as an intruder.

However, the New England senator told them not to waste their votes on Morse but to award their 17 delegates to Johnson, Symington or himself.

This is the last major primary contest before the Democrats convene in Los Angeles July 11.

Oregon law binds national convention delegates to the winner of the primary on the first two ballots, unless he receives less than 5 per cent of the convention votes on the first try. In that case, they are released.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is unopposed on the Republican ticket for 18 delegates.

Pvt. Cauble Back To Marine Duty

Private William H. Cauble of the U.S. Marine Corps is returning to San Diego, Calif., following a 20 day leave in Snyder with his mother, Mrs. R. E. Stughivant of Avenue O, and his grandmother, Mrs. Roxie Hartman of 612 Eighteenth Street.

He will soon be transferred to the base at Twenty-nine Palms, Calif. for further work in anti-aircraft.

While enroute to California, Cauble will visit with his uncle, Aaron Hartman, and his cousin, Don Harman, in Tucson, Ariz.

Temple's Population Up By 18 Per Cent

TEMPLE (AP) —The population of Temple has climbed to 30,111 and Bell County now has 93,301 residents, a preliminary census report disclosed today.

For Temple, the figure represents an 18.24 per cent gain over the 25,467 in 1950. The Bell County total is up 26.38 per cent from 73,824.

At neighboring Belton, the new population total is 8,057, nearly 30 per cent greater than the 6,244 of 10 years ago.

As in many other Texas cities, the Temple figure was short of expectations. Civic leaders had hoped the census would reveal 34,000 to 35,000.

OFFICERS INSTALLED—The above ladies were installed Tuesday evening in ceremonies held at the home of Mrs. Velia Shiflett, 2803 Thirty-sixth Street, by Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Installing officer was Mike Taylor, out-going president. The ritual of jewels was also held with Peg Gracey and Pat Allen receiving pins. Above from left: Betty Brunken, president; Kay Butler, vice-president; Viola Gracey, secretary; Dawnell Small, treasurer, and Pat Allen, corresponding secretary.

DATE DRESSES—Lynda Staton (seated) and Sammie Hagins take final looks in the mirror to be sure their dresses are in readiness for the style show Saturday by the HE girls of Snyder High School.

Adult Sewing Classes Open For Public

The homemaking department of Snyder High School will offer a course in sewing for beginners and advanced adults this summer.

The courses will start June 13 and end June 22, opening at 9 a.m. each day. Short cuts in clothing construction will be stressed.

A nursery school will be held at the same time for the children of the ladies who participate in the sewing classes. No charge will be made for either the sewing class or the nursery school.

Persons interested in taking the course are asked to call Mrs. Dan Martin at 3-3413 to register or call the school, 3-6301 and leave their name and telephone number.

Mrs. Dan Martin will conduct the sewing classes and Miss Vera Periman, the nursery school.

Man In Street Blames Krush For Blow-Up

By The Associated Press

America's men-in-the-street seem in near accord in blaming Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the breakup of the summit meeting. They are uneasy but by no means alarmed about its portent for the future.

The greatest area of disagreement appears to be the effect, if any, the summit bustup may have on next November's national election. A few think it will help the Republicans, others the Democrats. Some think it won't make any difference.

In a random Associated Press sampling of opinions in article cities, people were asked:

1. Who is to blame for the breakup?

2. Do you think the U2 incident and the summit breakup will have any effect on the November election, and if so, what?

3. What is your personal reaction to the crisis—fear, calm?

In San Francisco, musician Bob Grant blamed the breakup on Khrushchev.

"But our handling of the spy plane was partly responsible," he added. "It was stupid and unfortunate and gave K an out. It's bound to hurt the Republicans and give the Democrats a campaign weapon."

Jonathan Slott, a San Francisco author and TV-radio writer, blamed Khrushchev, but said "I don't think there will be any effect on the November election."

Nine of 10 Chicagoans blamed Khrushchev for the crisis, with one holding the cause debatable. Its effect on the election found no clear definition among those queried.

Elevator starter John Hybiak said "It will have an effect. Khrushchev has said he hopes to deal with a new president. Whoever he will be, he will bear a grave responsibility."

Said tavern owner Lester Block "It will get back to the same situation as in 1959 with appeals against changing the horses in the middle of the stream."

As for Chicagoans' own reactions, mail carrier Edward Breitzman said: "I'm a little fearful. I have five children and I just can't visualize them in a world of war."

Retired postal clerk Fred Walker said he personally is calm but added: "Most people think we will have war soon."

But lawyer Sidney Schiller said "Russia doesn't want war any more than we do."

In Atlanta, bank president Gordon Jones said he doesn't believe politicians will dare use the crisis as a political issue.

"We don't know what to expect if a shooting war starts," he added. "I don't have any fear of it and don't think we should get panicky."

Policeman H. A. Warneke said of the crisis: "Well I worry about it. I wonder if I'll have to go back to the service."

Ivan Allen, head of an Atlanta office equipment firm, said "It could affect the election if misused since Nixon must support the stand the president has taken. I have considerable apprehension because I question the stability of leadership of the Russian government."

And airline ticket agent Betty Smith said she's uneasy, and added of Khrushchev: "I wish he had gone to the United Nations with his protest."

A Denver housewife, Mrs. John G. De Vore, said the crisis shouldn't have any influence on American politics, but added: "Some people may blame the Republicans."

Ed McLaughlin, head of a Denver public relations firm, blamed Khrushchev for the crisis. But he said "we helped start it with our goof about the U2. It should knock the big fat halo off the administration's head. It's damned upsetting."

Executive Richard Zimmerman also thought the situation may help the Democrats but wasn't too concerned. "It was bound to happen," he said.

In New York, businessman Lester H. Wilander said: "I'm afraid we could have a war. Khrushchev is trying hard to save face. He's on a tough spot."

But waiter Benjamin Wright disputed this, saying "Barking dogs don't bite. There's too much respect for each other's potential."

Commercial artist Milt Adelman declared: "I think that Eisenhower's policy is stupid."

In Boston, advertising executive James Cruickshank saw the crisis as "a good tool for the Democrats."

Editor Vic. Bovee blamed both the U.S. and Khrushchev for the crisis. The U.S. for providing opportunity and Khrushchev for using it as a pretext."

Secretary Joan Sumner said the crisis may be a good thing—"It will awaken the American people to the seriousness of world affairs."

Receptionist Joyce Newdick assessed the blame for the crisis as due to "an unclear foreign policy on our part under which this country is engaged in activities possibly without deep thought of the effects which may follow."

And Boston school teacher David Meyers blamed Khrushchev but added: "We did not come in with clean hands. We unfortunately provoked the U2 incident as an excuse. I do not think the action taken necessarily reflects personal views of Khrushchev."

Republican Team Can Take New York Vote, Says Nixon

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon added up the score of a two-day visit and concluded today that Republicans can carry New York in November with a team effort.

The team he had in mind, by his own statement, included Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The governor has been polite but seemingly unenthusiastic about Nixon's expected selection as the Republican presidential nominee.

Nixon himself was a model of circumspection Wednesday every time he dealt with the question of Rockefeller's announcement that he will not attend the GOP convention in Chicago. The question came up during Nixon's appearances in Syracuse, Auburn and Buffalo.

Yes, Nixon said, Rockefeller certainly is a possibility for the presidency. Yes, Nixon accepts as final the governor's statement that he won't take second place on the ticker.

No, he had not presumed to ask county leaders to support him for the nomination in the face of State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse's proposal that the 96-vote convention delegation be kept uncommitted.

Yes, he felt the Republicans could carry New York in the general election by a "major united party effort." This latter, Nixon told reporters later, indicates he thinks Rockefeller will go all out in New York to get him elected after he is nominated.

Nixon was obviously as pleased as a man who had hit a grand-slam homer when he wound up a wound of enthusiastic receptions Wednesday night.

Republicans turned out in numbers that belied any coolness on their part toward the Californian who had crowded their own governor out of the presidential arena.

Returning to Washington on a chartered plane, Nixon told reporters what impressed him most was that crowds clustered on street corners to wave and cheer as his caravan rolled by.

"It was almost as though the general election campaign already was on," he said with an air of near disbelief.

Nixon minced no words about the difficulties he believes lie ahead of the Republicans in winning New York's prized 45 electoral votes.

"I consider New York a major battleground," he told a news conference Wednesday. "It is one of the key close states in a national ly close election."

"There will be a battle here of the greatest magnitude. But with a united party effort we can carry it."

Arlington Stater Is Named To Rifle Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Feuerbacher of Arlington State College, Arlington, Tex., was named Wednesday to the 21st all-America intercollegiate rifle team.

Missilemen Solve Two Big Problems

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Missilemen on opposite coasts of Florida apparently have solved problems which plagued the Polaris submarine missile and Bomarc-A antiaircraft rocket.

Polaris flashed from an underground tube at Cape Canaveral and raced 1,000 miles in a successful test of a compressed air launch on the weapon's inertial guidance system. At Eglin Air Force Base on the northwest coast, three Bomarc-A's demonstrated their ability to intercept flying targets.

The Polaris flight was the first inertial-guided test from a tube since two shipboard launchings in March and April failed to achieve all objectives due to second-stage troubles. The Navy said all objectives were achieved Wednesday.

There were indications another inertial firing may be tried soon from the ship, the USS Observation Island. Compressed air ejects the missile from the tube and it ignites about 70 feet above ground, just as it will when fired from a submerged submarine.

Within two months, Polaris launchings will be attempted from the first of the Polaris subs, the George Washington.

Spy Case In U. S. Causes No Uproar

By TOM BENTON

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The case of a Soviet employe of the United Nations secretariat, caught spying at the time of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the U.S. last year, was handled efficiently and without an international uproar, says Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon contrasts the incident, reported officially for the first time Wednesday, with Khrushchev's use of the U2 spy plane incident to scuttle the summit conference in Paris.

Despite the apparent possibility of a return of the East-West cold war, however, Nixon declared that he doubted Khrushchev would resort to force.

"He believes he can gain his objective of world domination without war," the vice president declared in a speech at a sales executives' convention.

Nixon said the Western nations must prove they have the stamina to resist.

The revelation of the Soviet spy case enlivened the wind-up of the vice president's upstate New York tour. It took Nixon almost the entire day, in fact, to fill in the details of the incident, which ended last January with the expulsion of the Soviet U.N. employe. He was identified at U.N. headquarters as Vadim A. Kirilyuk, a former political affairs officer in the territorial research.

At first Nixon said that two members of the Soviet U.N. delegation had been caught spying in Illinois at the very time Khrushchev was addressing the U.N. in New York. Later, an aide said Nixon meant to say the incident was in Springfield, Mass.

Then Nixon confirmed that the pair, actually had not been arrested. Later, at a news conference, he said one, a U.N. secretariat employe, had been sent home after an investigation by Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary-general.

Another had not been directly involved and is still in this country, said Nixon. An American from whom the pair sought highly classified information at Springfield is in the clear, the vice-president said.

Later, Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said in Washington that Nixon used the report to further his political fortunes. But a Nixon aide said the whole thing was mentioned by Nixon just to illustrate the "method the United States used in quietly handling an incident which has some parallels to the present situation."

In his speech, Nixon said Khrushchev made three errors in judgment when he chose to wreck the summit conference:

1. He misjudged the "intelligence and sophistication of the leaders and people of the world."

2. He misjudged President Eisenhower by thinking he could "blackmail and bully" him.

3. He misjudged the American people by suggesting that a subsequent president might be a better man to negotiate at the summit. Both major political parties, said Nixon, resent such a "flagrant and arrogant" interference in U.S. domestic affairs.

He said the Soviet leader's use of the spy plane was only an excuse for wrecking the conference. "We can only guess what the real reasons are," Nixon said.

But he suggested that Khrushchev might have needed "a foreign devil" to draw attention from economic failures. Or perhaps, he said, Stalinists or Red Chinese leaders demanded an end to the peaceful coexistence policy.

Arctic Area Crops Good

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's Department of Agriculture has found that vegetables can be grown far inside the Arctic Circle.

The department has supervised experimental gardens as far north as the shore of the Arctic Ocean.

F. S. Nowosad, officer in charge of northern agriculture, says farming in the sub-Arctic should no longer be considered a novelty.

One problem is lack of rainfall during the short growing season. But the long hours of sun each day produce rapid growth.

At least a million acres of agricultural land is divided almost equally between the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Permanently frozen soil—permafrost — lies under all the land but it is well below the surface after the land has been tilled a few years.

Peas and lettuce have been grown successfully at Inuvik. Strawberries and eggplants have been produced at Fort Simpson, 150 miles north of the British Columbia border in the Yukon. Broccoli, celery and cauliflower grow at Whitehorse.

Nowosad says the Yukon and Northwest territories may never develop field crop farms but "development of natural resources in the Canadian North definitely includes agriculture."

Heavy Demand Noted For CD Pamphlets

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—City officials here report a heavy demand for civil defense booklets.

A display of the free pamphlets, including "The H-Bomb and You," went largely unnoticed for nearly two weeks, officials said, but since Monday's collapse of the summit conference, 1,000 have been snatched up.

EVERT CARLSSON

New Foreign Student Is Assigned Here

The Snyder High School Student Council will sponsor another foreign exchange student during the 1960-61 school year, and he already has been assigned by the American Field Service.

He is Evert Herman Carlsson, a 17-year-old Swedish youth who lives in Fagersta, Sweden.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sigfird Karlson. His father is employed in a steel factory in Hofors, a village of some 12,000 population located about 25 Swedish miles northwest of Stockholm.

The family home is in Hofors, but young Carlsson is in Fagersta attending secondary school.

Young Carlsson is five feet, nine inches, tall, and weighs 136 pounds. He has a brother and sister (twins) 12 years old.

In his application he listed his interests as athletics, slalom, gymnastics and ice hockey, as well as music and dancing. In academic work he is particularly intersted in languages, history and mathematics, and he speaks German fluently as well as his native tongue and English, which he has studied for 4½ years.

The first foreign exchange student ever to attend school here is Stig-Olof Fernstrom of Skuru, Finland. He is now nearing completion of his year of study here. While here he has lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson, 2711 Avenue F.

Publicity Downfall Of Radio Station

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — Publicity, usually the dream of businessmen, toppled radio station presidents William Mortimer and Edward Wolfrum.

The two, former presidents of radio station WMEW, are 14 years old.

Their station operated from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily on 650 kilocycles with a signal that reached out half a mile.

They sold ads and played records—including ones plugging defense bonds and extolling life in the armed forces.

But a Federal Communications Commission official read a newspaper story about the boys and said the station must go—no license.

The boys built the station from $25 in radio parts and some help from adult buffs.

Pride Takes Lumps In Census Reports

By FINIS MOTHERSHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

Home town pride is taking even more lumps than some may have suspected from Texas findings of the 1960 census.

There have been wails aplenty as the word filters out, mostly from cities registering smaller population advances than they confidently expected.

And only stout growth by urban centers has kept Texas on the profit side—counting more people than before, that is—in the census ledger.

Preliminary reports from 198 of the 254 counties show an aggregate gain of about 400,000 in state population the past decade. The number of Texans in those 198 counties would be fewer than in 1950, however, if about a dozen larger counties hadn't teamed to pick up more than half a million new residents.

Figures are still to come from the two most heavily peopled metropolitan areas—Houston and Dallas-Fort Worth—plus the sizeable El Paso and Galveston sectors. Barring a sharp reversal in the trend, that should assure a tidy net increase in the statewide total.

Data from the remaining 56 counties should finish coming in by late next week, the census takers report.

An unaudited tally puts the 198-county aggregate, drawn from most sections of Texas, at 8,193,204 men, women and children. In the last census 10 years ago, the government counted 4,792,776 people in those same counties.

Austin, disappointed that the state capital failed to hit 200,000, started a drive to enumerate any persons missed by census workers, who counted 184,850.

Expressions of at least mild chagrin came from spokesmen in a number of other cities. San Angelo's Mayor Paul Hudman said his city has "work cut out for us to encourage more people to come here" after learning the city had grown to 58,287, up 12 per cent.

San Antonio learned happily that 176,029 residents in a decade swelled population of the Alamo City to 584,471, around 40,000 more than the Census Bureau anticipated. Some local estimates had ranged past 600,000, but military personnel assigned there permanently were counted only for Bexar County and not San Antonio.

More than satisfied likewise was Corpus Christi, which got credit for a gain of nearly 54 per cent with 166,717 people. For all Nueces County the figure went to 220,049.

From a percentage standpoint, the West Texas oil city of Midland registered one of the most impressive spurts. Its preliminary report listed 59,552—nearly 175 per cent over a population of 21,713 in 1950. The Midland figure was released in advance of the county-wide total.

Abilene found it nearly doubled in size, climbing to 80,428. Beaumont posted a 26 per cent gain with 118,471. Amarillo, sprawling across parts of both Potter and Randall counties, grew from 71,474 to 138,068.

The population of all the Lone Star State enumerated in 1950 was 7,711,194. This included county metropolitan area totals of 806,701 for Houston, 614,799 for Dallas, 361,253 for Fort Worth, 194,968 for El Paso and 133,066 for Galveston.

First reports to Regional Census Director James Stroud in Dallas, all subject to possible revision, indicate gains for no more than about 90 counties. Enumerators found fewer people in the others from which there are preliminary reports.

Leaders in several cities have promised formal protests to the Census Bureau along with requests for recounts.

At Paris, in North Texas, Mayor Bill Hagan declared the city's reported drop from 21,643 to 20,696 people must be in error. "Everything in Paris points to a population increase," he said.

Sweetwater's City Commission voted a protest resolution at a census figure of 13,893, only 274 greater than in 1950. City Manager Garland Franks said officials felt the total "is inconsistent with all other growth factors in the city."

Boosters of Lubbock were disturbed at a count of 128,068, up from 71,474 in 1950 but 30,000 shy of local estimates.

Another bright spot was the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where there were pleasing gains throughout the 13-county 15th Congressional District. Larger cities there by the latest report are Laredo with 60,816, Brownsville with 47,831 and Harlingen with 40,765.

Census supervisors predicted the Far West Texas region from Midland-Odessa to El Paso and the Lower Rio Grande Valley might prove the state's two biggest gainers when all the figures are in.

ELECTRICITY

The comfortable way to cook
... because it's COOL

Every time you cook during hot weather, you'll appreciate the comfort of cool electric cooking. Electric surface cooking units transfer heat to utensil bottoms by direct metal-to-metal contact, with no intervening air space. They heat the utensils and the food, not the kitchen. The electric oven is insulated on all four sides and top and bottom to keep heat inside where it belongs. Result: your kitchen stays almost as cool as any other room in your home. See your electric range dealer soon. Cool electric cooking is another of the many ways in which your dependable, low-cost electric service helps you live better ... electrically!

Cool electric cooking is a feature of all "Live Better Electrically" Medallion Homes

Tigers Score Comeback Victory, 8-5

Jones In Top Relief Effort

By JERRY JACKSON
Daily News Sports Editor

MINERAL WELLS— I don't know. It must've been that crazy water they've got down here that threw everything into such a weird but wonderful state of affairs. Come what may, the Snyder Tigers staged one of the finest come-from-behind victories as can be recalled by this bumfuzzled reporter in several moons here yesterday, as they slipped past the Mineral Wells Mountaineers, 8-5, in eight innings.

The victory, coupled with Monday's 19-3 rout of the Mountain Men, gave the Tigers the bi-district championship of Districts 3-AAA and 4-AAA and advances them into the regional playoff of the week hence. They will meet the winner of the Hereford-Odessa Ector series, which is just getting underway.

Almost everybody got into yesterday's act, with the triumph representing a splendid team effort by all concerned, there being a large number of Tiger standouts who came through in the clutches —which were many—to ring up the series sweeper.

Jones Brilliant

Possibly the brightest star in the Bengal constellation was the Tigers' willowy, lean lefthander, Ronnie Jones, however. The fourth Snyder chunker to stride to the mound in the game, he came on in the do-or-die seventh frame to save what looked to be a lost cause, as he took over the hurling chores with the winning run on second and nobody down.

Lloyd Peery had led off the inning by lining a single to right, after which Jackie Ingle latched on to a Freddy Miller flip and sent a booming double to right center to score Peery all the way from first to tie up the game at five-all and change the entire complexion of the contest.

Jones came on at that point, however, and he's never looked better. The first two Mountaineer hitters he faced went down swinging, and he forced the final batsman of the frame—Glenn Lindsey —to fly out to right and nip the rally in the bud, thus sending the game into extra innings.

Three Tiger runs in their half of the eighth proved to be more than enough, as Jones retired the Mountaineers in order in the home half of the frame. C. J. Hembree and Bobby Mann going down swinging and David Visentine coughing up a foul tip which Ronnie Wylie pulled in near the screen to end the game.

Moffett Makes Right Moves

Coach Speedy Moffett was the other Tiger who contributed more to the victory than any other. His shuffling and re-shuffling of players, positions, and pitchers through out the game—and especially in the late innings—proved to be nothing short of a work of art, as he maneuvered his player pawns to pure perfection. Practically everything that could happen did happen in the latter stages of the thrill-packed comeback contest, and he was on top of the situation in every instance, making each switch a payoff play.

The Snyder nine was dishearteningly slow in getting started, picking up only two hits through the first five innings of play and finding themselves faced with a 4-0 deficit going into the next-to-last sixth frame. The fourth had found them hitting rock-bottom as the side was retired in order on just three pitches, all fly balls which were duly gathered in. The game was all Ingle's through the first five, but Snyder's from there on in.

A nightmarish third frame had put the Bengal Boys into what was beginning to shape up as a deficit too great to surmount, as the Mountaineers chased four runs across to put them in the driver's seat.

Tiger starter Norman Gladson was the victim of the uprising. Clyde Copeland opened the inning meekly enough, dribbling out pitcher to first. The following batter, Peery, was hit by a pitched ball, however, with a walk to Ingle and a Charles Daves single to shallow right loading the bases. Tommy Smith next slammed a double to score both Peery and Ingle, with a sharp grounder to third by Lindsey getting by Jerry Guthrie, resulting in the plattering of Daves and Smith.

Snyder came alive abruptly in the sixth. Leadoff man Mike Moffett grounded out to start the inning but Jones made first as a swinging third strike got away from catcher Eubanks. Jones getting on easily as the ball rolled all the way to the screen with no play being attempted to nail him at first.

Bubba Fleming singled and advanced to second as an unsuccessful peg to that sack was too late to cut Jones down. Pinch hitter Weldon Ware next found a place in the sun as he strode up to the south side of the plate and proceeded to lace a single to left, scoring both baserunners. He subsequently scored himself on a looping single over the infield by Wylie, and the score stood 4-3, Mineral Wells, as Snyder came to bat in the do-or-die seventh.

Fortunately, they "did" rather than "died". Once again the lead-off hitter, in this instance Steve Free went down, Moffett followed by singling over second, the ball barely clearing Mann's leathered fingertips. Jones cracked another single to right, with Moffett holding up at second, both eventually advancing on a wild pitch by David Visentine.

A Visentine error—one of seven costly abortive fielding efforts as registered by the Mountaineers, allowed both Moffett and Jones to score the tieing and go-ahead runs.

Mineral Wells' deadlocking of the game sent the tilt into extra innings, with the Tiger strategy thickening with each decisive move in that frame.

Wylie was issued a pass to start the surge, after which pinch hitter Bob Smith advanced him by drawing a ditto. Jerry Franks being sent in to run for Smith. Spencer Dyer followed by attempting a sacrifice, but was safe as first baseman Peery dropped the throw, there being a pile-up at the sack.

Wylie tallied the initial run by virtue of a fielders choice, Free being thrown out, third to first. Moffett walked, then Jones slammed another single to score Dyer. Moffett dented the platter with the third and final marker as Fleming singled him home.

AND HE SLUD INTO HOME—Full-of-fire Spencer Dyer demonstrates the principal reason behind the Snyder Tigers' storybook triumph over Mineral Wells yesterday, as he collides with Mountaineer backstop Charles Daves during the third inning of the contest. He was attempting to score on a play which saw Mike Moffett crack a grounder to third, Moffett gaining first on the fielders choice and Dyer being called out by the plate ump for the second out of the frame. Snyder won the playoff game, 8-5 in eight innings, to cop the bi-district bunting. (Photo by Jackson)

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

Once upon a time, in a faraway land across the storm-tossed sea, lived a boy. This boy was a lot like any other boy except for one thing. He had a passionate, uncontrollable desire for baseball.

Now, I'll admit that almost any boy likes baseball. But not like this one liked baseball. No sir. He didn't just LIKE it...he was ob-SESSED with it. He lived baseball, and breathed baseball. In fact he practically ATE baseball. To put it bluntly, he was a baseball addict.

His name was a little on what you might call the unusual side, as all of his sidekick teammates and sidekicked opponents got to calling him "Nikita". Nobody knows for sure just where he picked up the name, but there are a pretty big batch of rumors going around concerning same.

The best one I've heard along those lines is that he was a pesky little fellow who was always buzzing around "putting the bite" on people every chance he got, sort of like a mosquito does. So everybody agreed that you couldn't just go around calling him "Mosquito", so they did the next best thing and dug up this name "Nikita", beings as to how it rhymes with mosquito pretty good. And the name has stuck with him to this very day.

Anyway, almost everybody agreed that he was a little too hefty to ever make the starting team, and some even went so far as to suggest that he'd never even get to first base in baseball. Little shy on experience to start out with. Not only that, but he was already getting pretty old by the time he got a shot at the big time and managed to make it up out of the hush leagues. One look at him and everybody agreed with the old philosopher who philosophied: "When you've finally figured out how to play the game, then you're usually too old to make the team."

Good Variety Of Pitches

NIKITA surprised practically everybody, though, as he turned out to be a pretty fair pitcher. He could always be counted on to deliver a curve when you least expected it, and his change-ups kept the boys from the west side of the tracks guessing. His bloopers were out of this world, too.

Well, this uncle of mine named Sam managed a team of pretty fair country ballplayers himself, all of whom hailed from over on the west side of town, and he rigged it up with Nikita one day to play a ball game. Sam knew how he was so crazy about the game anyway, and figured that he might appreciate getting to play against a team of his own caliber.

Nikita said "Sure thing", and they set the date for the big game. Then they all began feverish preparations, as they cleared off a site sort of on top of a hill and christened it Simmons Field in commemoration of same.

Everybody for miles around got to getting pretty interested in the whole business before long, and were looking forward to the game like it was the World Series or something.

Talk about the long-awaited contest got to be a standard household item, just like Brillo pads and recessed filters. Somebody even made up a song about it. Put a rock 'n roll beat to it and sold a million records of the thing before it was all over with. One extra cute line in the song did more than anything else to sell it, I think. Went something like this: 'We'll all get shook at Summit, dad gum it." Now THERE was a real song for you!

I'll never forget the day of the game itself. Everybody had worked themselves into a regular frenzy, and people came streaming in from all around to see it. There was a bunch of those newspaper fellows hanging around with pencils behind their ears, asking about each other's deadlines every chance they got. Also, a pretty good slug of moving picture people yelling "Cut!" and "Quiet, please!" at intervals. A really jazzly little get-together, considering.

And On The Mound For The East Siders . . .

WELL, everybody got settled down in their seats and ready for the action which they knew must be forthcoming and Nikita took the mound and began to fidget around as he got ready to pitch to the first batter up, who was Sam's leading hitter. Guy name of Ike.

Nikita looked in toward the catcher as he gave him the first singal, stretched real big like he was going to throw it, then did a mighty funny thing. Came down out of his stretch, wandered halfway up to the plate, and yelled in angry manner, "Whatcha tryin' to steal signals from my catcher for, Ike?"

To which Ike yelled back "Why you're a cockeyed, knock-kneed, pigeon-toed prevaricator. I wasn't stealin' signals from yer catcher, Nikky. I was just lookin' around to see how the weather was back where he is."

"Hand me dat jazz," Nikky retorted. "I know a signal stealer when I see one, and if you don't stop it I'll just flat take my glove and go home. Cheaters never win."

Then he came right back with, "Well, suit yourself, but I wasn't cheatin'. And even if I was, it's just 'cause everybody else does."

Naturally, just about everybody thought that Nikita was bluffing when he threatened to cut out and didn't take him too seriously as a consequence, so it kind of surprised all the fans when he followed through and headed out for the dugout.

They were disappointed, of course, but didn't squawk too much. After all, they still had their rain checks.

Braves Nip Giants To Tighten Race

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's bombing Braves finally have gained some ground in that National League race—and they did it while being held without a home run for the first time in two weeks.

Using singles and doubles Wednesday night the Braves scored a 3-1 decision over San Francisco that handed southpaw Mike McCormick his first defeat and left the Giants in a first place tie with Pittsburgh. The Pirates gained a share of the lead by beating St. Louis 4-2. It was Pittsburgh's seventh victory in eight games.

Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 5-4 in 12 innings in the only other game played in the NL. Chicago's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

In the American League, Chicago's White Sox retained a half-game lead by beating Boston 6-5. Baltimore reclaimed second with a 5-4 victory at Kansas City while New York climbed past Cleveland into third place with a 4-2 decision over the Indians. Washington defeated Detroit 3-0 in 11 innings.

The Braves beat McCormick, who won his first five, with a seventh inning run that broke a 1-1 tie. Reliever Don McMahon then saved it by getting Willie McCovey on a fly to center with the bases loaded in the ninth. Bob Rush (2-0) won it.

Right-hander Vern Law, who has lost one, became the first six-game winner in the majors, going all the way with a nine-hitter against St. Louis. The Cards, with manager Solly Hemus rumored on the way out, were blanked on six hits until the ninth while losing for the 14th time in 16 road games. Pittsburgh scored twice in the first, then nailed it with two in the seventh against ex-Pirate Ron Kline (1-3).

Frank Robinson made it 4-all in the 10th with his two-run homer off losing Dodger Reliever Danny McDevitt (0-1).

Bill Henry (1-1) won it with one inning of relief after Jay Hook gave up 10 hits and four runs but fanned 10 in 11 frames.

Sox, Yanks Forced To Cut Trio

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox had to do the heaviest chopping to get within the 25-player limit before Wednesday night's midnight deadline. Each had to release three players.

The Yankees gave veteran outfielder Elmer Valo his unconditional release and sent outfielder Ken Hunt and pitcher Fred Kipp to Richmond in the International League.

Hunt was optioned. Kipp was released outright to the Virginians.

The White Sox were three over the limit after buying pitcher Russ Kemmerer from the Washington Senators.

The White Sox optioned outfielder Jim McAnany and pitchers Don Ferrarese and Jaime Serafin to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

The Cleveland Indians sold pitcher Bob Grim to the Cincinnati Reds. The Baltimore Orioles called up their $115,000 bonus baby, outfielder Dave Nicholson from Miami of the International League and sold pitcher Rip Coleman outright to Miami.

FURILLO BITTER OVER RELEASE—Carl Furillo, released by the Los Angeles Dodgers in what he considers an unfair manner, talks with his attorney about his $30,000-plus contract for 1960. He was paid $7,000 on the pact this year. The 10-year outfielder's 11th year with the club. Furillo has been bothered by leg trouble this season. (AP Wirephoto).

Fems Clash Tonight At Winston Park

The Snyder Has Beens, smarting from a 19-10 licking suffered at the hands of the Snyder Gold Jackets here last week will be trying to even up the score at Winston Park tonight at 8 o'clock, with the game going toward an especially worthy cause.

There will be no admission charge to the game, but the "hat" will be passed, and the money collected will be applied toward helping to defray the expenses incurred following a recent playing injury suffered by the Gold Jackets' Rozetta Brandon. Her leg is presently in a cast, and she will be forced to be out of work for several weeks due to the injury.

Peppery performer Helen Ivison will be the jack-in-the-box jill-in-the-box for the Has Beens. She finished last week's game and turned in a very creditable relief job in the process, but a 13-run first inning explosion by the Gold Jackets at the expense of the starting Has Been proved to be too big a bridge to gap.

Opposing Miss Ivison on the mound will be Rose Nell Walker.

The following lineup will be fielded by the Has Beens: Anita Thompson, catcher; Ila Ruth Newton, first base; Linda Ivison, second; Barbara Sojourner, third; Mary Lou Devenport, shortstop; Alma Nell Evans, left field; Allene Stovall, center; and Ellen Shelburne, right.

In starting roles for the Jackets will be Maxine Thompson, catcher; Helen Goosby, first; Louise Archie, second; Jean Anderson, third; Rosa B. Walker, shortstop; Erline Cobb, left field; Jo Cobb, center; and Mary Helen Goosby, right.

Parisians, Tourists Not Shaken By World Tension

By INEZ ROBB

PARIS. — Nothing, short of bombs can diminish the incomparable beauty of Paris in the spring in summer, in autumn, or in winter. Even the terrible anxieties of the moment, with the world situation so alarmingly deteriorated, cannot diminish her beauty by jot or title.

Like Cleopatra, age cannot wither nor custom stale. But Paris sits here in the sunshine, a poignant reminder of all man has a lose in a nuclear war that would destroy mankind and his works.

Would it take only one of the unthinkable new hydrogen bombs to do it? Or two? How is a civilian to know?

But Parisians and the multitude of tourists who infest their city continue to go about their various business with a patent unconcern that speaks well for the nerves and durability of man or else for his inability to grasp intellectually or in imagination the grim new crisis in international politics in which he now is heir.

Among American tourists, at least, there is no rush to return home, in the face of increased international tension, and start digging a foundation for that nuclear shelter in the backyard. At this distance from home, they seem even less interested in civil defense than they do in Paducah or Boise or, for that matter, New York.

The American Express office near the Opera is crowded by swarming and unconcerned Americans, asking for letters from home, chapging money, buying excursions to Versailles and Chartres and trying to wheedle a ticket for the Folies Bergere, a sell-out as usual.

Oh, these Americans are mad all right, that Khrushchev dared be so nasty to President Eisenhower and to the United States. But they're not frightened by the overnight intensification of the cold war.

They are annoyed only that today's tours of Fountainbleau are completely sold out and they will have to wait until tomorrow.

For the French, the brink apparently does not exist. Or could it be that nothing, not even nuclear bombs, can change the sangfroid of taxi drivers in Paris. A footnote here: I do not understand their reputation for sharp practices. In 23 years, I have never been short-changed by one; never treated with anything but courtesy. Could it be that they take pity on one who speaks their language so badly?

I still make it a practice to shout my eyes when I get in a French taxi, pray for the best and commit my soul to the Almighty who watches the sparrow, and must try to keep an eye even on the darting French taxi driver.

When, a few years ago, the Paris police abolished the use of the horn in traffic, there were pessimistic predictions that taxis would disappear from the streets, on the well-founded theory that all taxi-drivers drove with the horn.

But time has proved the pessimists wrong. The horn is not heard in Paris traffic, which is at least as bad as that of New York and London, except for the lyric wail of the ambulance. No, it turned out that Parisians, of whom taxi drivers are only a logical offshoot, do not drive by the horn and never did.

They drive by the voice. As long as the Parisian driver can give tongue to his maledictions at other drivers, a horn is superfluous. In any crisis (and when is Paris traffic not in crisis?) the maledictions exchanged by drivers would curl my hair, if I had only specialized in that branch of the French language.

As it is, I ride with my eyes shut, hoping and believing in the best, even as American tourists and Parisians are meeting the almost-unthinkable tensions of the cold war and the rugged times ahead.

Sure-Cures For Cold Are Plentiful

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—So you are just waiting your turn at the office water cooler, and you sneeze, and a friend says:

"You got a spring cold. If I were you, I'd take some hexylphlojulep."

"What's that?"

"A new miracle drug. Knocks out a cold before it gets started."

So you go to the drug store and the pharmacist says, "hexylphlojulep? Sure. It's $8 an ounce. A word of warning: This is a very powerful medicine. If you get any side effects, better discontinue it at once."

"What do you mean—side effects?"

"Well, for example, you might hear strange sounds."

"Then you go over to the soda counter, get a glass of water and take a big gulp of medicine. The next thing you hear is a plaintive voice in your head saying, "I am Judge Crater. Where is everybody?"

Unnerved, you throw the medicine away.

You should have learned your lesson by now, but you haven't. Over the next five days you try the following sure-cure cold remedies suggested by office pals:

1. Drinking cold buttermilk while taking a hot shower.

2. A jar of pickled herring mixed with equal parts of honey and lemon.

3. Three glasses daily of a concoction made up of bourbon, vinegar, and a tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda.

4. A bedtime slug made of equal parts of vodka, epsom salts and maple syrup.

5. A mixture made by stirring a few drops or pills from every bottle in your medicine cabinet into a glass of steaming sauerkraut juice.

On the eighth day you collapse at your desk. You wake up to find yourself in a hospital, and a doctor standing beside you just putting down a stomach pump.

Krush Is A Ham, But No Windbag

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev is such a ham he'd go good in a delicatessen window. But he's no windbag. The West made its mistake in treating him as one.

The deepest danger in dealing with him—one the West had to learn the hard way—is that he doesn't play according to Western rules. That's what makes him unpredictable.

His performance at the Paris summit meeting and particularly his name-calling — he likened President Eisenhower to a thief—shocked the West which judges by its own yardstick.

Western statesmen are polite, frigidly dignified when angry, and great believers in the traditional, which means formal way of chastising people who offend them. They wear dignity like a charm to ward off voodoo.

In contrast: What Western statesman would ever in public call Nazi sympathizers what Khrushchev did Wednesday at a news conference? The Russian word he used came out in various translations as riffraff, louts and bastards. Western statesmen might think such terms, but they wouldn't say them.

The kind of diplomatic omelette Khrushchev whips up is ham mixed with anger.

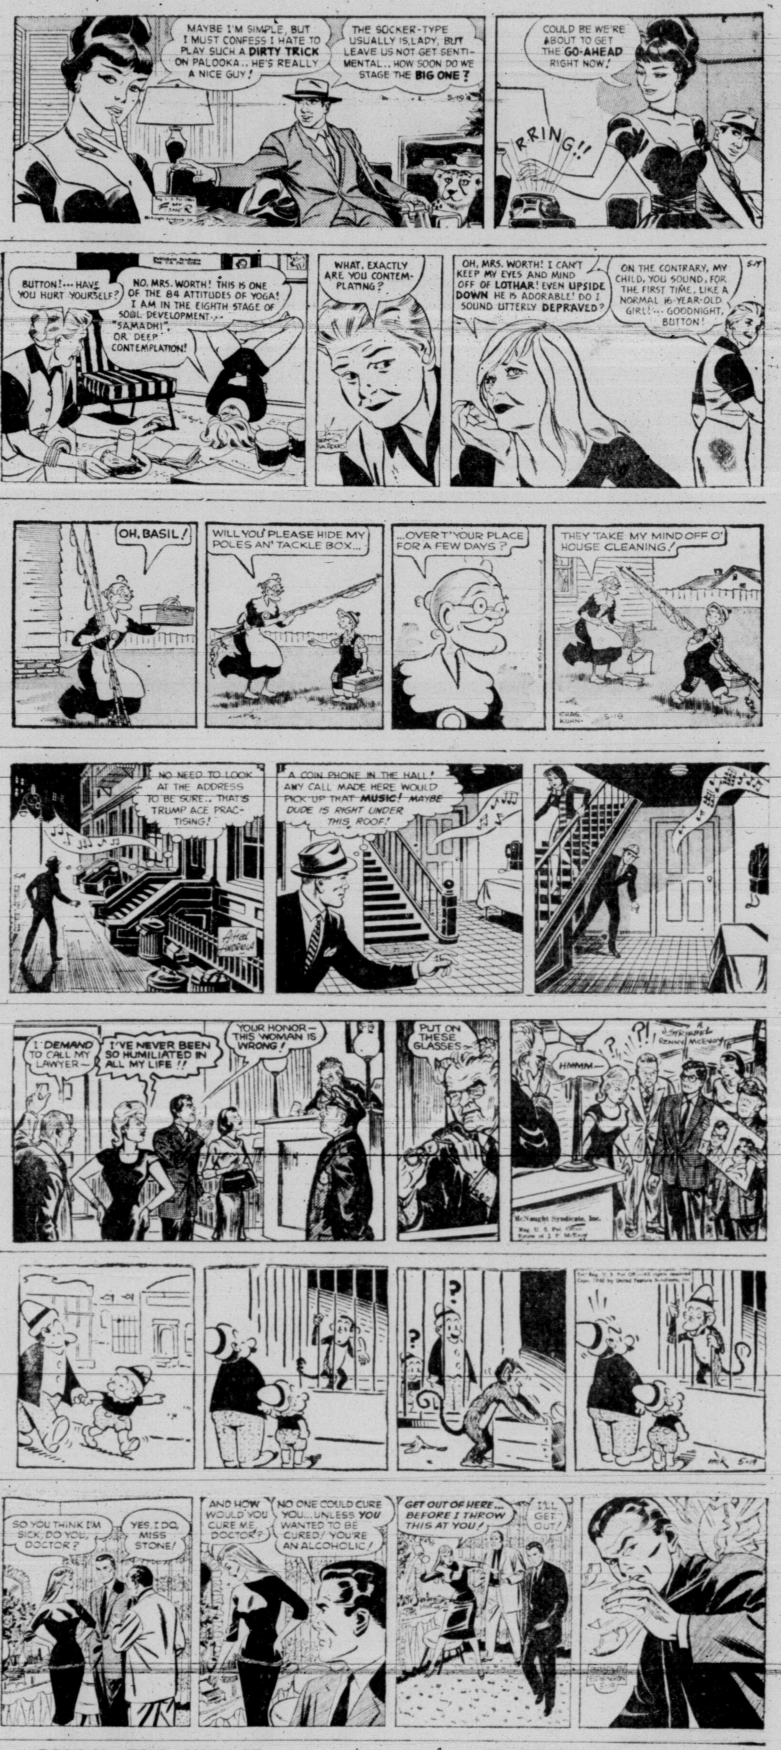

For example: His fish-wife argument with Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Moscow; his temper-tantrums in Hollywood; his verbal brawl with labor leaders; his wearing a longshoreman's cap in San Francisco.

His biggest hamming is in his timing. His arrival in Washington last September came just as the Soviets fired a moon shot; he arrived at the summit meeting as the Soviets launched a space ship.

Desi Leaves Hospital; Visits His Children

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Desi Arnaz '18 out of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after a week's stay for what his doctors said was his annual health checkup.

Wednesday he went to the home of his recently divorced wife, Lucille Ball, and visited with their two children, Lucie, 8, and Desi IV, 7. The actor-producer then went to his Palm Springs hotel.

KNEE-DEEP IN HAIL STONES—Two volunteer firemen at Conemaugh, a suburb of Johnstown, Pa., wade through knee-deep hailstones after the borough was hit by a freak ice storm. The hail stones, some as large as golf balls, caused estimated damage of $150,000 to greenhouses in the area. (AP Wirephoto).

Full-Scale Drive For LBJ Mapped

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will swing into high gear with the opening here probably next week of a "Citizens for Johnson" headquarters.

Shortly thereafter, the Texas senator is expected to make a formal announcement of his candidacy. That may come shortly after the last of the state presidential primaries early in June. Although obviously an aspirant, Johnson has avoided any announcement of his political plans and has stayed out of state primaries. He has said his duties as Senate Democratic leader require his attention.

Johnson's backers believe they can pick up enough pledged delegates between now and the start of the Los Angeles convention on July 11 to assure the Texan "considerably over" 400 votes on the first ballot.

They are counting on 350 or more delegate votes from the Southern and border states on the first ballot, unless some of these states scatter their support to favorite-son candidates on the first tally. Johnson's campaign strategists already have taken steps to head off favorite-son movements in several states.

They already are counting on Virginia's delegation which will be instructed next Saturday at the Democratic state convention, and say they expect the rest of the South to follow Virginia's banner into the Johnson camp.

"It will be over 500 for Johnson on the first ballot," a top Johnson backer said in a interview. "Johnson will be as strong as Sen. Kennedy on the first ballot and will be able to hold his votes on later ballots."

Some of Johnson's campaign leaders are experienced veterans in convention maneuvering. They feel that if their man can't win in three or four ballots, both he and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts will be forced out of the running and a third choice, probably Adlai Stevenson, will win the nomination.

Johnson's forces consider their first and principal threat a blitz nomination for Kennedy before Johnson can pick up additional second or third ballot support.

They expect the additional support to come from delegates now favoring Missouri's Sen. Stuart Symington, who has the backing of former President Harry S. Truman. They are hoping the Symington delegates will switch to Johnson after the first ballot and start a bandwagon movement.

Symington himself, however, has generally been considered to be counting on a deadlock to boost his own chances as a compromise candidate for the top spot.

Failure of the Paris summit conference is considered by Johnson's supporters as a break for their man. With international tensions now unlikely to be substantially eased by July, they believe the delegates will be reluctant to choose as their nominee a man as young as Kennedy, who will be 43 on May 29. Johnson will be 52 in August and has been a member of Congress 23 years. Kennedy is in his 14th year as a member of Congress.

The Johnson forces undoubtedly will emphasize between now and convention time the need for "a man mature in years and in experience" to lead the country in time of crisis.

Scholarships For Teachers Revealed

NEW YORK (AP)—Scholarships for summer study in journalism have been awarded 14 Texas high school teachers by the Newspaper Fund Inc.

The fund announced names of winners Wednesday and said the fellowships were made possible by grants by The Wall Street Journal.

A total of 340 fellowships at a cost of $160,000 were made.

The fellowships are designed to encourage more talented young people to choose journalism as a career by assisting high school newspaper advisors and journalism teachers.

Bernard Kilgore, president of The Wall Street Journal and head of the Newspaper Fund, said, "I am sorry we couldn't do something for every teacher who is seriously interested in better training to teach journalism."

Teachers from Texas who received the fellowships and the college or university selected for summer study are:

James Paschal, Amarillo High School, University of Southern California.

Mrs. Evelyn Underwood Click, Carthage High School, University of Texas.

Miss Rebecca Tumlinson, Channelview High School, University of Houston.

Charles Zapp, Hull-Daisetta High School, Daisetta, University of Texas.

Mrs. Venita Lukens, Lewisville High School, North Texas State College.

Mrs. Billie Wise, Spring Branch Senior High School, Houston, University of Houston.

Mrs. Kathryn Sensabaugh, Killeen High School, University of Texas.

Mrs. Thelma Greene, Lamarque High School, University of Houston.

Mrs. J. D. Bellamy, Lampasas High School, University of Texas.

Mrs. Ruth Gray, Spring Hill High School, Longview, University of Texas.

Mrs. Dimple Hutchings, Longview High School, University of Texas.

Mrs. Gary Minshew, McKinney High School, North Texas State College.

Ralph Scott, Pearsall High School, University of Texas.

Ed Pole, San Angelo Central High School, University of Texas.

Whoopers Whooping Over New Arrival

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Crip and Josephine, two members of the vanishing whooping crane population, are whooping it up for a new arrival.

The fuzzy brown crane appeared here sometime before daybreak Tuesday. He is one of about 30 whooping cranes known to exist.

Josephine is awaiting another arrival. The egg is expected to hatch in two days.

Satellite To Take Up U2 Duties Soon

BY RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Eisenhower has ordered an end to U2 spy plane flights—but the Samos reconnaisance satellite is coming up.

This country is so far along with its Samos program that the first of a planned network of them should be circling the earth within the next four months.

Experts say it will do a far more effective job than the U2 could—and will be much harder to knock down.

"We have done a number of things to lessen the vulnerability of Samos satellites," an Air Force officer disclosed in an exclusive interview. "I won't say what those things are, but Samos will not be an easy target."

The high-ranking officer, who declined use of his name, said there had been no speedup in the Samos program since the U2 incident because Samos had a top priority.

The Samos satellites, containing photographic and television equipment, will be boosted into polar orbit by Atlas missiles from launch pads at Point Arguello, 150 miles north of Los Angeles.

Whirling around the earth's poles, they will be able to scan every square mile of the earth's surface and relay to Allied ground stations the location of Soviet missile sites and any unusual concentration of troops or war material.

Judge Rules Today On Beverly's Future

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge rules today on the immediate future of Beverly Aadland, 17-year-old companion of the late Errol Flynn.

Superior Judge Allen Miller decides whether she becomes a ward of Juvenile Court. She has been confined since April 9, when William Stanciu was fatally wounded in her apartment. Police called the shooting accidental, but since then her mother, Florence, 53, has been charged with contributing to her delinquency.

At a custody hearing Beverly rejected her mother and told the court she would like to live with her half-sister, Barbara McGuire of Palmdale.

Camera Snitched At Church Celebration

DETROIT (AP) — Photographer James Allen of the Detroit Courier went to a church to cover a rally celebrating the sixth anniversary of the Supreme Court's original desegregation ruling.

A man rushed up to the Negro weekly newspaper worker, indicated he was a deaf mute and scribbled a message:

"Our church camera is broken. Could we borrow yours to take a picture of the next speaker?"

Allen turned over his $500 camera.
