Son Reads Message To Conference For Progress In Politics

SAYS TIME IS RIPE

Senator Raps G. O. P. And Demos For "Failing People"

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 4.—Formal acceptance of the invitation to run for president was given to the conference for progressive political action this afternoon by Senator Robert M. La Follette. It was read by his son, Robert La Follette, Jr., introduced as "A chip off the old block."

"To those who gave me the honor of this invitation I owe an unequivocal answer," said the statement. It proceeded to make that unequivocal acceptance of the convention's endorsement.

La Follette declared the nation is facing the "most momentous crisis in our time, with predatory interests in control of American government." The Wisconsin senator took a slap at both the republican and democratic parties, declaring they had "failed the people."

He declared the time ripe for a "militant political movement independent of the old parties and responsive to the needs of the common people."

Old Parties Corrupt

The necessity for an independent progressive movement lies in the failure of the two old parties to purge themselves of the elements that betray the people. Both are under the power of corrupt wealth.

President Coolidge was called "the frank defender of organized wealth" by the message which added that the "democratic platform adopted at New York does not meet the needs of the nation."

"The fact that representatives of organized wealth voted for the platform," he added, "is sufficient proof of its character."

Even if both the democratic and republican parties had adopted progressive platforms, the people would know that neither could be trusted to keep their pledges.

Issues Ignored

"The real issues have been ignored by the two old parties," contended Mr. La Follette, adding that both presidential nominees would owe a debt to bosses and big business.

"Both parties have always regarded the platforms as they regard them today, not as contracts, but as devices to catch votes."

"To break the combined power of big business over government and economic conditions is the paramount issue facing the people."

"If the progressives will but unite with a single purpose to meet this issue, they may rely in the support of the people."

"The people have already given proof in recent elections that they recognize the real issues that confront them. They know that powerful interests confront the government." And he added that the underlying reason why both parties have failed to take the people's side is that neither is in position to attack the evil forces controlling the government.

Profits Fixed

"The markets are manipulated and profits fixed on all farm products," said the statement, which averred that this reacted against both producer and consumer.

"If we would not submit to an emperor, we should not submit to an autocrat of trade," said Senator La Follette.

"The surest prevention of war is democracy," was a sentence that brought extra applause. An assertion that the world war would not have occurred under present governments of France and England was also cheered.

"The present deplorable condition of agriculture is the natural result of

Condition of Coolidge's Son Pronounced Serious

Noted Physicians Called In Effort To Save Young Boy's Life.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Announcement was made at the White House late today after a consultation of physicians that Calvin Coolidge, Jr., younger son of the president, was seriously ill of septic poisoning but doing as well as could be expected.

The illness, resulting from a broken blister on the foot, brought about during a tennis match, reached such a stage today that a consultation of physicians was held.

President and Mrs. Coolidge have called off all engagements for the remainder of the day, and also a planned trip down the Potomac river on the Mayflower. The president kept an engagement this morning, however, to speak before the convention of the National Education association.

Dr. John Dever of Philadelphia was called to Washington last night. He conferred today with the White House physicians, Major James F. Coupal and Lieut. Commander Boone, and Drs. Charles W. Richardson of Washington and Colonel William L. Keeler, in charge of Walter Reed hospital.

DAWES ENDS VISIT TO PRES. COOLIDGE

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 4.—General Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, after spending a week with President Coolidge in Washington and friends in New York, returned home today to prepare for the official notification of his nomination, to take place late this month at his Evanston home.

"A fine visit," was all the general had to say of his stay at the White House with the president when they went over important phases of the campaign with William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee.

Flying Head of Celebrated Gavel Wielded By Walsh Gets Victim

By The Associated Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 4.—Herman Schoernstein of New York, suffered concussion of the brain tonight when he was struck on the head by Chairman Walsh's gavel as it flew off the handle and bounced into the delegate space in the democratic national convention.

Schoernstein, taken to the convention hospital after the accident, was unconscious for five minutes.

Dr. Paul Sahliens of the hospital staff, diagnosed his case as concussion of the brain. The head of the chairman's gavel has been flying off the handle at least once a day under the walloping the chairman has been giving the whacking board in tense moments. Heretofore it has missed any human mark.

Schoernstein's condition was pronounced not serious and the physicians said he could go home in a few hours.

MUST BE TAKEN TO ANNUAL MEET FOR FINAL WORD

Vote Carried After Proposal To Adjourn Threatened Purpose

NORTHERNERS READY

Special Conferences Will Probably Be Called Soon

By The Associated Press.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 4. The proposal for organic union of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal church, south, was approved late today by the general conference of the southern church in special session here. It now goes to the annual conferences for ratification.

The two-thirds majority for adoption had been polled when 277 votes had been cast and the clerk still had nearly 100 more delegates to poll.

Northern Ready.

The Methodist Episcopal general conference at Springfield, Mass., recently accepted the proposal and ordered it submitted to its annual conferences in 1925 if the southern general conference should act favorably.

The official vote was 297 to 75.

Should two-thirds of all the members of the southern conferences ratify the proposal the next step would be a meeting of the bishops of the two churches as one body and notify their respective general conferences of ratification of the union. They also would call upon the two conferences to meet in joint session in the same city.

The regular general conference of the northern church, not meeting again until 1928, a special conference probably would be called in May, 1926, when the regular general conference of the southern church will be in session. Another resolution requesting that the annual conferences vote on ratification by secret ballot was adopted today.

TWO INJURED IN TROLLEY WRECK

Street Cars Collide While Carrying Holiday Crowds

Two persons were injured and a number of others given a shakeup in a rear-end collision of two street cars last night about 11 o'clock near the fair grounds.

Jack Ward, barber, 1208 Kemp boulevard, was struck over the eye at the impact, but it was pronounced not serious by a physician. H. Walker sustained bruises which were said not to be serious at the General hospital.

According to witnesses, the foremost car came to a halt at the lake road crossing and while standing was struck from the rear by another car coming up behind. The front of the second car was smashed in, but the two were pulled loose with little difficulty. The first car was not damaged to any extent.

Deadlock Fails to Be Broken On Seventieth Ballot

McAdoo Has 528½ Votes At End of Hectic Day; Smith Still in Second Place; Leaderr Try to Find Method for Nomination.

By The Associated Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 4.—After balloting seventy times and failing to agree upon a candidate to carry the party's standard in the forthcoming presidential campaign, the democratic national convention adjourned at 12:20 o'clock tonight until 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

During the night, William G. McAdoo had launched a drive which took him to a total of 530 on the 69th ballot, the highest point he had reached since balloting began. He slipped one and one-half votes on the final ballot of the night.

Seek to Break Deadlock.

Efforts were being made after tonight's adjournment to bring some of the principal supporters of the two leading contenders together in a conference with a definite plan for compromise under consideration. Various compromise candidates were to be put forward in the conference should it first be found possible to convince the conferees that neither McAdoo nor Smith can be nominated.

A second and entirely different plan to break "the dead-lock and release the convention from its embarrassment was under consideration in other quarters. Under it increased pressure would be brought to bear to drive out of the running the favorite sons who have locked up large reservoirs of voting strength which might otherwise go to the leaders.

As the delegates assembled for the night session, the band appropriately played, "It May Be For Years and It May Be Forever." The session came to order nearly on time and prayer was offered by the Rev. Paul F. Landis, minister of the John Hall Memorial of New York.

The first business of the session was the calling of the roll of states for the 67th ballot.

Chairman Walsh then had read a communication from William G. McAdoo. It was read by unanimous consent.

McAdoo Wants Smith to Speak.

"The convention today voted quite properly against a proposal to invite all candidates to address it," the letter said. "Subsequently a proposal to invite the governor of New York to address it was rejected by a vote of the convention."

Mr. McAdoo wrote he was sure the action was because of the disposition to conclude the business. But it concluded with a sugestion to his friends in the convention that they invite Governor Smith to make an address.

Gavin McNab, then, on behalf of the California delegation, asked that the vote by which the convention refused to invite Governor Smith, be reconsidered. He proposed a unanimous consent that Governor Smith be invited to speak at 10 o'clock. Meanwhile, Michael Igoe of Chicago, a Smith delegate, was recognized, after much shouting and distress. Meanwhile Chairman Walsh was walloping the celebrated light-headed gavel so vigorously that the end of it flew off again and this time it bounced on the head of a man standing immediately below the speaker's stand. A policeman and a delegate supported the victim while he regained his senses and said his name was Herman Schoernstein, of New York, chairman of the twenty-third district committee.

Roll Call Resumed.

Out of the storm of shouting, gesticulating and bawling which followed McNab's action, followed demands for the regular order, which the chairman sustained, and the clerk was ordered to go on with the roll call.

Sixty-Seventh Ballot.

The roll of the sixty-seventh ballot disclosed that in Florida Davis took on a vote heretofore going to Ralston. Michigan gave seven and a half each to Underwood, Davis, McAdoo and Smith.

McAdoo lost one in Nebraska and gave it to Governor Bryan. North Carolina took a half from Underwood and gave it to Davis of West Virginia. Pennsylvania took one from McAdoo and one from Glass and added the two to Davis.

In South Dakota, McAdoo again got the single vote which has been going to Chairman Walsh and in Connecticut Smith gained a half while McAdoo lost one and a half and Davis gained one.

On the sixty-seventh ballot the leaders stood this way: McAdoo 490, Smith 336 1-2, Davis 75 1-2.

This was a loss of five for McAdoo; a loss of two for Smith and a gain of one for Davis.

Seek Favorite Son Votes.

While the balloting was going the scouts went over the floor to learn if there was any disposition to withdraw on the part of Robinson, Saulsbury, Baker, Davis, Owen, Glass or Underwood. Governor Brandon seemed to sum up the sentiment when he shouted with indignation: "Leave Underwood. Why we will be here voting for him when they kill hogs in the fall if necessary."

There was a challenge on the vote of Tennessee cast under the unit rule and C. M. Bryan of Memphis was recognized for five minutes to explain why the minority in Tennessee contends the unit rule does not apply. It was his contention that the mandate of a convention could not bind a delegate further than a primary, and that each delegate was responsible to his constituency. Each individual delegate has a right to vote his own convictions, Mr. Bryan contended.

Governor Peay followed Mr. Bryan contending for the application of the unit rule.

Chairman Walsh decided that the unit rule in Tennessee bound the delegates by their instructions to vote for McAdoo so long as his name appeared before the convention.

A Colorado delegate, wearied of the monotonous balloting, moved to adjourn so "that the so-called leaders may have more time to decide what they want to do.

The motion to adjourn is always in order and a vote on it could not be dodged. By a heavy majority, however, the convention decided to remain in session.

On the 68th ballot Connecticut took a half vote from McAdoo and gave it to Smith. Massachusetts gave a half vote to Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg, taking it from Governor Smith. Even the Smith democrats laughed at a vote going to a Coolidge in a democratic national convention.

There was a break in West Virginia. The sixteen which had been going solidly to John W. Davis broke up. One went to Baker and one to Glass. The remainder stayed with Davis.

The sixty-eighth ballot showed these results: McAdoo 488.5, Smith 336.5, Davis 72.5.

Votes For Will Rogers.

In the 68th ballot, Will Rogers, the cowboy comedian-reporter, got one vote. It was a newspaper gallery joke, in which a delegate was put up to include his name in a ballot. Whereupon a delegate from Illinois asked unanimous consent to permit Rogers to address the convention. Amid laughter and cries of "We've heard worse," Chairman Walsh smiled at the suggestion and without putting the

SEN. RALSTON QUITS RACE

Goes Against Wishes Of Thomas Taggart And Delegates

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 4.—Against the wishes of Thomas Taggart and the entire Indiana delegation, Senator Ralston today eliminated himself from the democratic presidential nomination contest.

After repeated pleas from the senator by telephone and telegraph to withdraw his name for the sake of party harmony, Taggart called the Hoosier delegation together and they agreed to accede to their candidate's wish.

Not All Satisfied.

Tonight, however, some of them persist Ralston is not entirely out of the running. "The wheels of the sulkies were locked and we got out that the race might go on," Taggart said in explanation of the senator's withdrawal.

At a caucus to consider withdrawing Ralston's name it was agreed to permit Taggart to cast the delegation ballots for the present. The first votes were twenty votes for McAdoo and ten for Smith. There was no certainty that the vote would not switch at any time.

Having decided to accede to Ralston's request that his name be withdrawn, Taggart summed up the situation in trotting belt language.

"We have pulled up our horses and gotten out of the race because party harmony and sacrifice means more to us than winning of a single event," he said.

Still Had Chance.

"The impression must not be gained from our withdrawal that our entry was lame, not game, not out of the running. On the other hand I think we still had a good chance to win.

"Our entry did the big, generous, patriotic thing in withdrawing. The wheels of the sulkies had become locked. It was obvious that for all horses to remain on the track would mean added delay and confusion. Had there been no other good horses in the race we might have stuck. But the field is good and it seemed that it would move along faster if we withdrew, so we did.

"We have no regrets. Senator Ralston by his withdrawal lives up past record—big, generous, kindly, capable and always willing to make a personal sacrifice for the good of his party and his country."

LA FOLLETTE

the failure of the republican and democratic parties to give the farmers the relief to which they are entitled," said the statement.

"The farmer now understands he must make common cause with the wage worker and the consuming public."

"In the co-operative principle lies the best hope of dealing effectively with monopoly."

"The government should be the people's ally instead of an active agent of the enemy."

Ready To Go

"I am ready to enlist with you and wage unceasing warfare until the American people have been restored to full enjoyment of their political and economic rights," said the statement.

"Let's go," yelled the delegates.

"I shall submit my name as an independent condidate for president, in every state of the United States," said Senator La Follette. "I am a candidate on the basis of my public record."

He added that the Wisconsin platform would be the basis of his campaign.

Turning to the third party question, La Follette said that "such movements are born after, not during, campaigns." He said there would not be time to organize such a party before next election.

Nomination Stopped

Herman Wills next offered a resolution for nomination by acclamation. Morris Hilquitt, New York socialist, opposed it as "premature."

Hilquit said the national committee planned to make nominations tomorrow.

Chairman Johnston upheld a point of order that the absence of a report from the credentials committee the convention was not organized and could not act. The point was made by Judge Jacob Pankan of the New York municipal court. This stopped the attempt to nominate La Follette today.

The progressive convention adjourned at 5:45 p. m., until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

CONVENTION

question to the convention ordered the roll call to proceed to the sixty-ninth.

Michigan changed her vote on this ballot, going twenty-five to McAdoo and five for Smith. The McAdoo people made the most of it for a demonstration.

Daniels Re-entered.

North Carolina re-entered Josephus Daniels with 21-2 votes, one-half of which came from the McAdoo column, one from Underwood and one from Davis.

Oklahoma, which had been voting steadily for Senator Owens, switched to McAdoo.

During the demonstration over the change in the Michigan vote, Smith delegates in the Pennsylvania delegation became aroused when a delegate tore down two pictures of Governor Smith and threw them on the floor. In a fight that followed over the state standard Mrs. Maidee B. Renshaw of Pittsburgh was struck on top of the head by the standard. She was slightly wounded and she was removed from the hall after her wound had been dressed.

Texas Start Parade.

Announcement that McAdoo had climbed to the 530 mark gave his supporters opportunity for another demonstration. There was a cheer and a waving of flags and then another march around the hall was started by the Texas delegation in which many other states participated.

On the seventieth ballot, Governor Sweet of Colorado challenged the accuracy of the announcement of the chairman of the Colorado delegation and a poll was ordered at the end of the roll call.

The Missouri vote also was challenged and it was passed to await a poll at the finish. North Carolina dropped Daniels on this ballot, adding a vote and a half to McAdoo and one vote to Davis.

Virginia went back solidly to its native son, John W. Davis, thus taking one vote from McAdoo and one from Smith.

It developed that the trouble in the Colorado delegation was over whether Mrs. Agnes O'Day Beyon, a delegate-at-large, should vote half a vote or a full vote. Governor Sweet objected to her casting an extra half vote for Thomas Le Girault who was absent and his objection was sustained.

As the result of the poll, McAdoo received 21-2 votes, Smith 31-2, Davis 4 and Underwood 1. This was a loss of one vote for McAdoo and a half vote for Underwood, with a gain of half a vote for Smith. One vote was not cast.

Day Session Begins.

When the convention was called to order soon after the appointed hours, the Rev. Paul Mansfield Spencer of the Church of the Strangers, New York, offered the invocation.

Then Mrs. William E. Mills of Helena, Montana, sang the Star Spangled Banner.

A report that William J. Bryan had dropped dead circulated over the country, was disposed of by his brother, Charles W. Bryan, who declared that at 1:15 o'clock daylight time, the great commoner had entered the hall with him, alive and well.

Then as the next feature of the Independence day exercises which opened the convention, Augustus Thomas read the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Thomas prefaced his reading by the statement that the document was not new and that some of the delegates might be interested in it; but that for the benefit of the great listening audience on the air outside, he detailed some of the circumstances surrounding its composition by Thomas Jefferson.

While the reading was going on, William Jennings Bryan dispelled the exaggerated report of his death by appearing among the Texas delegation and taking a seat.

Sixty-Second Ballot.

At the conclusion of the reading the clerk began calling the roll of states for the sixty-second time.

The first change was in Illinois, where Smith and McAdoo each gained one. Ralston gained two, John W. Davis lost one and Cox was eliminated from the Illinois vote. The favorite sons, some of them at least, still were in the balloting. Votes were given in succession for Underwood, Robinson, Saulsbury and Ritchie.

In North Carolina, McAdoo lost half a vote; Davis of West Virginia got a vote and a half; Ralston lost one.

Oklahoma's 20 was cast for Senator Owen; challenged and passed for poll at the end of the roll call.

Pennsylvania's 76 were cast the same except that one vote taken from Ralston was given to Cox.

The Oklahoma challenge was withdrawn to recall and it stood 20 for Owen.

The figures for the 62nd: McAdoo 409; Smith 338.5; Davis of West Virginia 60 1-2; Underwood 40; Cox 50; Glass 26; Ralston 37 1-2; Robinson 23; Ritchie 16 1-2; Walsh 3; Saulsbury 6; Owen 24; Bryan 4. Total 1098.

Today, as on previous sessions when the fight had been hot, each leader of a McAdoo delegation on the floor received a personally signed letter from McAdoo expressing confidence in the outcome and urging the McAdoo delegates not to become discouraged.

In North Carolina Davis gained two and a half. McAdoo and Underwood each lost a half vote and Ralston lost one and a half.

Sixty-Third Ballot.

On the 63rd Indiana decided to stay with Ralston. Michigan changed her vote, going back to Senator Ferris with 28 votes, and giving one to Smith and one to McAdoo. The convention was so busy chatting and apparently uninterested in the balloting that the change did not cause a ripple.

Totals 63rd ballot: McAdoo 446 1-2; Smith 315 1-2; Davis of West Virginia 63; Underwood 39 1-2; Cox 48; Glass 26; Ralston 36; Robinson 22; Ritchie 16 1-2; Walsh 3; Saulsbury 6; Owen 24; Ferris 28; Bryan 4. Total vote 1098.

During the voting on the 63rd ballot the Ohio delegation filed out of the hall in a body to caucus on what they would do if they left Cox.

Further conferences in the Indiana delegation brought out a plan to cast 25 for McAdoo and 5 for Smith when the delegation left Ralston, but the time for the change was not determined finally.

Sixty-Fourth Ballot.

On the 64th ballot, Arizona gave to Robinson the one vote which had been going to Ralston.

Illinois gave Cox five, taking four from Ralston and one from Governor Bryan.

Michigan made some changes which involved a gain of a half vote each for McAdoo and Smith.

The Ohio delegation's 48 were cast for Cox again while it was caucusing.

It became known that the Ohio delegation in its caucus decided to go for a time to vote for Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, and if he failed to develop any strength to go for a while to former Senator Pomarene. There were McAdoo votes in the Ohio delegation but such an arrangement would prevent them from being brought out.

Totals 64th ballot: McAdoo 488 1-2, Smith 325, Davis of West Virginia 61 1-2, Underwood 39 1-2, Cox 54, Glass 25, Ralston 1, Robinson 24, Ritchie 16 1-2, Walsh 3, Saulsbury 6, Owen 24, Walsh (Mass.) 2 1-2, Ferris 24 1-2, Bryan 3. Total 1098.

On the 65th ballot Davis got the one in Arizona which had been going to Robinson; Florida gave the one vote which had been going to Ralston to John W. Davis.

Illinois took the five which had been going to Cox and gave one to Davis and the other four to Smith.

The Kentucky delegation invited Margaret Wilson to cast their 26 for McAdoo. She did it with emphasis.

Michigan passed, polling later.

Nebraska took one from McAdoo and gave it to Smith.

In North Carolina Davis gained one vote, taking a half each from McAdoo and Underwood.

With the withdrawal of Cox the vote of Ohio was cast for Newton D. Baker. He had argued with the delegates not to do it, but they insisted. McAdoo, expecting to get something out of the wreck in Ohio looked very much surprised.

McAdoo Wins Test of Strength and Prevents Smith From Speaking

MANAGER SAYS CHANCES BETTER

Rockwell Asserts Skillful Parliamentary Trick Is Defeated

By The Associated Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 4.—In another hectic session the democratic national convention today saw the withdrawal of Ralston and Cox from the race, failed as usual to make much progress toward a nominee and developed a semblance of unanimity on only one subject—that it wanted to adjourn for dinner.

Accordingly it did adjourn the afternoon session to reassemble at 8:30 o'clock.

McAdoo Wins Test.

In the meantime, however, the McAdoo forces had by the exercise of their one-third veto power defeated a proposal that candidates be invited to exhibit themselves to the convention tonight and speak. Then the McAdoo forces turned and defeated a proposal that Governor Smith have the opportunity to speak.

On the first proposal the Smith forces, and the anti-McAdoo coalition which was in favor of the resolution proposed by General Coe of Massachusetts, failed to poll a necessary two-thirds majority and therefore lost it. On the proposal to invite Governor Smith to speak, however, the anti-McAdoo coalition, including the Smith forces, although they failed to command a two-thirds to put it through, did poll more than a majority of the convention on any subject but adjournment and adoption of the platform.

Deadlock Emphasized.

The developments of the day's session merely served to emphasize the deadlock in which the two leaders fixed themselves.

Senator Ralston of Indiana, withdrawing from the race was quickly followed by James M. Cox of Ohio. The thought probably was that the line of favorite sons which has been commanding quite a vote, might follow the example and give the convention a chance to make a solid choice between McAdoo and Smith. Nevertheless, Saulsbury, Ritchie, Glass, Robinson and the other favorite sons remained in the race.

Realizing that some heroic measures must be made to break up the impasse, the attack on the two-thirds rule was being discussed again, and when the convention adjourned a resolution was ready to be offered proposing an abandonment of the unit rule. The probabilities are that the unit rule and the two-thirds rule are so closely associated in their purposes and effects that they will have to be attacked together or let alone.

Five Ballots During Day.

During the day session there were five ballots during which Governor Smith at his greatest strength polled 338½ votes, the most he has ever polled at any time in the convention. McAdoo's high vote during the session was 495 which was the highest he has mustered since the fifty-eighth ballot.

It was, however, ten and a half short of high water mark reached on the fortieth ballot.

Conferences during recesses apparently had accomplished nothing; the day session's developments merely served to emphasize the deadlock and the convention reassembled for the night session wondering what the next move was going to be.

In Best Shape Ever.

"The progressive - McAdoo forces have withstood another round of concentrated fire, and tonight are in better shape than ever," said David Ladd Rockwell, the McAdoo manager, immediately after the adjournment.

"In the last two hours today, the opposition, for the first time since the balloting began, engaged in tactics calculated only to provide a breathing spell in which they may tighten their lines. It was the first round of open sparring for time, but we expect more in future sessions."

Despite the refusal of Governor Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt to comment upon the convention's decision not to permit the New York governor or any other candidates for the nomination to appear, other of the Smith leaders declared the situation to be more tense as it concerned the line up of candidates than when the convention first began the consideration of a nominee for the presidency.

Smith Favors Compromise.

It was announced by those close to the governor that had he been permitted to address the convention, he would have brought a message of conciliation explaining that he favored some compromise agreement to break the deadlock.

However in the face of the vote against his appearance, it was said the governor would remain firm in his decision to continue his name before the convention, and under no circumstances would consider any move designed to change the situation in which the convention now finds itself.

Rabbi Raps Bryan.

Rabbi Stephen B. Wise, elected a member of the New York delegation to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, said: "Two things interest me as a newcomer to a convention of the democratic party. First, they are the unwillingness to give a hearing to other men on the part of William Jennings Bryan, always clamorous for a hearing and never denied one by his party. The other is the strange and arresting circumstance: That the supporters of Mr. McAdoo should be fearful of his appearance before the convention of the party which is asked to nominate him. If Mr. McAdoo's followers are unwilling to have him face the convention of his party, how can it hope that he can face the electorate of the country, including millions of voters opposed to him. I was profoundly and unhappily impressed by the refusal of the convention to give a hearing to the governor of the state twice elected by overwhelming majorities."

In a statement during the recess, David Ladd Rockwell, McAdoo's field marshall, said the failure to extend invitation to the candidates to address the convention merely indicated the anxiety of the convention to conclude its business and had no further significance.

"It must be remembered", he said, "that it was not the governor of New York for whom a hearing was requested by the second resolution offered, but a leading candidate for the presidential nomination. The convention as an entirety would have welcomed an address from the governor could his address have been disassociated from his candidacy. Certainly the vote of rejection carried no offense either to the governor of New York or to Alfred E. Smith, the man.

"It was solely the defeat of what many delegates regarded as a very skillful parliamentary maneuver."

OIL WORKERS TAKE HOLIDAY

Picnics and General Celebration Feature Day For Company Employees

Yesterday was a quiet "Fourth" so far as oil and oil employees was concerned. Rain served to put the damper in many instances to what festivities were planned, many outing parties being cancelled for fear of the threatened downpour which failed to materialize. All up-town offices were closed and many gangs working in the fields were released for the day.

Several picnics were reported, the rain not being allowed to interfere with long-planned excusions.

About 400 employees of the American Pipeline company, their families, and their friends met early in the day at Cache Springs, near Walters, Oklahoma, and spent a day of real enjoyment. Barbecue and dancing were part of the scheduled features and it is said that they went off big. Everyone returned about seven o'clock yesterday evening.

Employees and families of the Gulf Production company and the Gulf Pipeline company to the number of about 150 spent the day on the Dale land northeast of Electra. Barbecue was served and the men enjoyed a red-hot baseball game. Political speeches were heard in the afternoon, and despite the shower a good time was had by all.

A lone exception to the general holiday came in the case of the driller and the man working on the rig in the case of those which did not shut down. They took their twelve hours just the same, the holiday making little difference in the brief span that marks each pob for them.

CRUISER BLOWS INTO HOME PORT

After Dropping Anchor, Pilot Is Puts In Irons

He evidently wanted to see the officers—and he is.

The only trouble is that it's going to cost him to get out, if he gets out at all this side of a pen sentence.

It all happened about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon when he drove uncertainly down Seventh street. Passing in front of the court house, he veered to one side and scraped the curbing. Then he careened over to the center of the street and lunged back again toward the side.

A front wheel slammed into the curb again, and on the slippery street the small coupe spun around like a top. Skidding uncertainly, the car crashed broadside into the curbing—and kept on. The left rear wheel snapped like a string, and the hub, with jagged ends of shattered spokes protruding, sank into the soft ground of the courthouse boulevard.

Undaunted.

All undaunted, the driver threw her in reverse and stepped on the gas. Turf shot out from beneath the spinning hub and arched half way across the street while the car groaned and shuddered but failed to move. Still determined, the hazy pilot clambered with difficulty from the seat and took to the heel and toe method of navigation. He cruised down toward the corner of Seventh and Lamar, using most of the sidewalk as a testing area.

Near the corner, however, he suddenly bethought himself that the car was unlocked and at the mercy of marauding brigands who might make away with it while a gentleman was out for a stroll. Back he went, locked the steering wheel and pocketed the key.

Hove To.

He was on the second leg of his jaunt to points unknown when Constable Frank Morgan and Deputy Sheriff W. P. Belcher hove into view. They sized up the situation and promptly invited the afflicted stranger to share the hospitality of the county jail. He did, adjuring the officers as he went to "look after ut."

A nearly emptied bottle was rescued from beneath the seat as the machine was hauled away for repairs.

It was remarked that driving a car while intoxicated is a penitentiary offense and that the inebriated one was faced with serious charges.

Claypool Says Open Air Arena Available to All

Due to a certain amount of criticism that is said to have been given to the local post of the American Legion concerning their actions in allowing the Wichita County Democratic club to hold their meetings in the Legion's open air arena, R. J. Claypool, adjutant in the local post, defended the actions of the Pat Carrigan post Friday afternoon. He said that the post as a body was not favoring any party but left that to the individual member.

"The Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion is desirous of pleasing every citizen in Wichita Falls," he said. We are not favoring the Wichita County Democratic club, the ku klux klan, the Holy Rollers or any other organization, but are willing to give any organization in Wichita Fal's permission to use our arena as we did the Wichita County Democratic club. We are out to please the people of Wichita Falls and are always ready to let anyone use our arena if it is possible. We have been receiving some criticism for allowing the democratic club to use the arena and we simply wan to say that the same use will be granted to any other organization."

CALL HALT IN CRIMINAL CASES

Judge H. R. Wilson Dismisses Jury; Wait Until Next Week

No criminal cases will be tried in the 30th district court this week, it was decided Friday by Judge H. R. Wilson in dismissing the jury held on call. Several more criminal matters are still pending but it is expected that these will be taken up next week.

The court has been extremely busy ever since last Monday in disposing of criminal matters. A large number of indictments returned by the last grand jury have been cleared up and fourteen prisoners are now lodged in the county jail with penitentiary sentences ranging from two to seven years hanging over them. They will be transferred to Huntsville in the near future.

CITY COURT HAS BIG MONTH OF IT

A total of 231 cases were handled by the municipal police court during the month of June, according to the report for the period just compiled by C. B. McConnell, deputy city clerk and desk sergeant of the police force.

Sixty fines were imposed during the month and 118 bonds forfeited. Forty-three cases were dismissed and ten not guilty verdicts were returned. Eight prisoners served terms in the city jail. Ten cases are pending.

Threatening Weather Fails To Prevent Outings Of Day

BURKBURNETT, July 4.—Notwithstanding the cloudy, rainy, threatening weather hundreds of people in and around the city attended the celebrations here today. The Magnolia Petroleum company entertained with an all day barbecue and picnic at their Prescott pumping station on Red river, seven miles from the city, where preparation was made for a thousand guests, the employes, their families and other guests.

The Gulf Oil company staged a similar entertainment for the day twelve miles from the city, west of Burkburnett, for their employes and friends.

Other smaller groups went for picnic outings in Medicine Park, to Bain store where a rodeo added to the program of good eats, and still smaller family parties to the Red river.

TODAY'S BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

JULY 5, 1924.

Road to True Riches:—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:33.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

How time and men change! Four years ago in the city of San Francisco delegates of celtic origin fought the Wilson peace treaty and declared it was a scheme of England to destroy Irish liberty and to forever keep the Irish in Ireland political serfs. Now we have the Irish Free State a member of the League of Nations. Now the Irish Free State is to send an ambassador to Washington to handle directly matters which affect only relations between the United States and the Irish Free State.

Professor Timothy A. Smiddy, an accomplished scholar and man of the world may be the first Irish ambassador or minister. Now it is said with the ice broken by appointment of an Irish minister it will not be long before Canada makes a similar arrangement, with Australia and other dominions following if they see the advantage of having direct diplomatic relations.

Four years ago the League was a paramount issue in American politics. James M. Cox made a gallant fight for the cause dear to the heart of Woodrow Wilson. Cox was defeated by Harding by a popular majority of seven millions.

Woodrow Wilson is in his grave. James M. Cox is politically dead. Where is the League of other years and the gallant souls who battled for it?

A MODEST MAN.

Frank T. Johns of Oregon has been nominated for president of the United States by the Socialist Labor party of America. Candidate Johns has a one plank platform. Read it:

"Complete surrender of the capitalist class and substitution of a socialist system for the present capitalist system."

Candidate Johns is modest. He does not expect that his party will send a man to the White House this year. No, not this year. Soviet Russia destroyed capitalism and substituted communism. Now they expect another famine in Russia this year.

People must eat. Communism offers a stone. Capitalism furnishes bread and meat. That is what we are for. Bread and meat and shelter and rainment come first. A man's stomach is his first consideration. After his stomach has been well supplied he is amenable to reason. When he is starving he runs amuck.

Capitalism may have its iniquities but it is the best offering that has been made in the march of civilization. Woodrow Wilson knew this when he declared for universal justice.

Universal justice would demand that the toiler or producer would be given a rightful share of the wealth created by his brain or his hand.

POPULATION OF AMERICA.

Congress has closed the ports to aliens and now an estimate of population has been made by the national bureau of economic research. The population of the United States was 112,826,000 on January 1, 1924. This is a gain of one million nine hundred and forty-three thousand in a year. The official census count of 1920 placed the population of the United States at 105,711,000, or an increase of more than seven million since 1920.

According to the report a low death-rate was a large factor in the remarkable gain. Now the calculators say that in the next fifty years the population of the United States will reach two hundred million. Then the race will be the strong and the cunning, and the masses will be fighting for food as they are in thickly populated ancient lands unless a new civilization has been ushered in by the wise men who are then on earth.

China has a population of four hundred million; India of four hundred million. Men and women do not live in those faraway lands. They starve from the cradle to the grave.

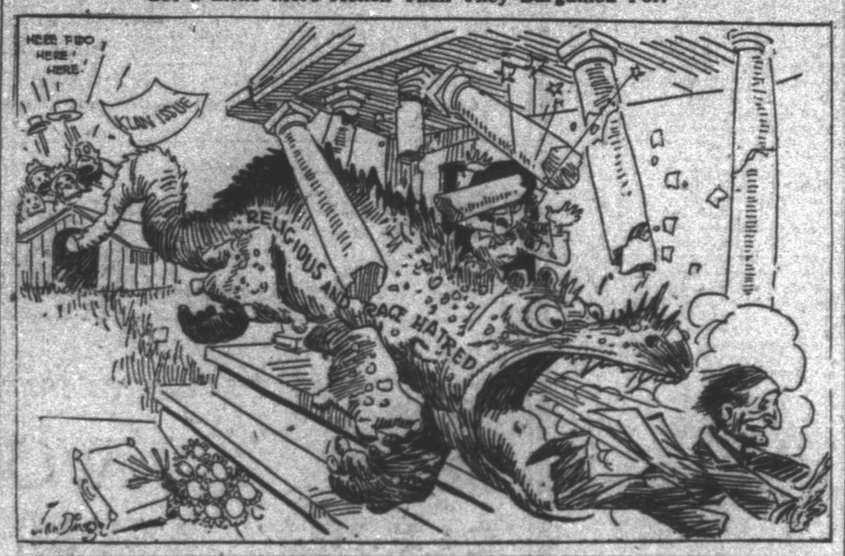

PANTOMIME -:- By J. H. Striebel

THE BOYS WHO "SICKED ON" THE DRAGON

Got a Little More Action Than They Bargained For.

"OLIVER OCTOBER"

"You ought to be kicked all the way home for saying such a thing as that, Joe Sikes." Turning to the slim, pretty girl who walked beside him across the June-warmed campus, he said comfortingly: "Don't mind this old crooker, June dear."

A word in passing about June Sage. Slender, graceful, slightly above medium height, just turning into young womanhood, she was an extremely pretty girl.

She adored Oliver October. There had been a time when she was his sweetheart, but that was ages ago—when both of them were young! Now he was supposed to be engaged to a girl in the graduating class—and Jane was going to be an old maid—so the childish romance was over.

Late in the fall of 1911, young Oliver, having passed the age of 21, packed his bag and trunk, shook the dust of Rumley from his feet, and accepted a position in the construction department of a Chicago engineering and investment concern.

Early in 1913 he was sent to China by his company on a mission that kept him in the Orient for nearly a year and a half. A week before Christmas, 1914, the Rumley Dispatch came out with the announcement—under a double head—that Oliver October Baxter was returning from the far East, where he had been engaged in the most stupendous enterprise ever undertaken by American capital.

When he arrived, he was met at the depot by a delegation.

"I can't believe my eyes—no, sir, I can't," cried old Oliver, quaveringly as he wrung his son's hand. "You're back again, alive and sound."

"You bet I'm alive," answered Oliver October, laying his arm over the old man's shoulder and patting his back. "It's mighty good to see you, and it's wonderful to be back in the old town again. Hello, Uncle Joe! Well, you see they haven't hung me yet."

"And they ain't going to if I can help it," roared Mr. Sikes, pumping Oliver's arm vigorously. "Not on your life! Its all fixed, Oliver. We've got you the appointment o feity civil engineer of Rumley."

On the way up to the old home, Oliver's father turned and eyeing his son narrowly, said:

"You've made a success of everything so far, from all reports, and now, darn it all, they've got you started in politics with this appointment."

"You needn't worry about that, father. I'll not accept the position."

Mr. Baxter brightened. "You won't? Good for you! That'll show Joe Sikes and Silas Link they can't run everything."

Presently they drew up in front of the Baxter residence, and as they did so an uncommonly pretty girl opened the front door.

"Hello, Oliver!" she cried.

"Hello, Jane!" he shouted back, as he ran up the steps. "Gee! it's great to see you. And, my goodness, what a big girl you are."

He was holding her warm, strong hands in his own; they were looking straight into each other's eyes.

"You haven't grown much," she said slowly. "Except that you are a man and not a boy."

"That's it," he cried. "The difference in you is that you're a woman and not a girl."

"Come in," she said, with a queer dignity that she herself did not understand.

When he came down stairs, after having unpacked his bags and scattered the contents all over the room, he found the "company" already assembled. As might have been expected, the guests included the Rev. Mr. Sage, Mr. Sikes and Mr. Link, and one outsider: the mayor of Rumley, Mr. Samuel Belding.

"What's this I hear?" demanded the latter sternly, as he shook hands with the young man. "Your father has just been telling us you won't accept the distinguished honor the city of Rumley has conferred upon you. What's the matter with it?"

"The truth of the matter is," Oliver answered seriously, "I have other plans."

"What plans?" his father inquired anxiously.

"I'm going over there in February with the Canadians. It's all settled. I'm to have my old job back when the war is over."

"But it's not our war!" cried Mr. Sikes.

"It's everybody's war," spoke young Oliver out of the very depths of his soul. "We will be in it some day. Oh, I'll come back, never fear. You see, Uncle Joe, I've just got to pull through alive and well, so that I can be hung when my time comes."

CHAPTER VII

Home From the War.

The war was over. Oliver October Baxter came through without a scratch.

In April, 1919, he sailed from Brest and on the 10th day of May arrived in Rumley, discharged from the army jobless. On the way home he stopped over in Chicago to notify his employers that he would be ready to resume his work after a month's much needed rest. He was blandly informed that as soon as anything turned up they would be pleased and happy to take him back into the concern, but at present there wasn't a vacancy in sight.

Being a captain in the army and used to plain speaking he told the astonished general manager what he thought of him and the whole works besides, and airily went his way.

This time there was no delegation at the station to meet him. His father and Sammy Parr were waiting for him when the train pulled in.

Old Oliver eyed his son narrowly.

"What's this I hear about them not taking you back on your old job?" he demanded. He extended his hand, which young Oliver gripped in both of his.

"Aren't you glad to see me back, alive and well, dad?" he cried.

"Of course, I'm glad you're back, sonny—of course, I am. I've been praying for this ever since you went away. But, didn't I say you were a fool for giving up a $7,000 job to go over and mix up in a war that wasn't any of our business?"

"Oh, I'm not down and out, you know, dad," broke in young Oliver. "So, cheer up! I'm not worrying."

"Course you're not worrying," was his father's sour retort. "You've got me to fall back on, with a good home and grub and a darned fine business to drop into when I'm dead and gone."

His son could hardly believe his ears. He was bewildered, hurt.

Sammy gave Oliver a significant look.

As the two young men hurried across the platform with the bags and bundles, he found opportunity to say to the new arrival:

"Your father will be in a good humor in a minute or two. It's just a habit he's fallen into since you've been away. I guess it's that infernal gypsy business. He's as peevish as blazes a good part of the time."

They drove off in Sammy's car while Oliver plied his old friends with questions.

"Where is Jane?" he asked suddenly.

"Jane Sage? Oh, she's around, same as ever. Things art a lot easier for Mr. Sage now. I guess maybe you haven't heard about his brother dying out in California and leaving him quite a bit of money. It looks like a pretty serious affair between her and Doc Lansing."

"What's that?" demanded Oliver, startled.

"I guess it's all happened since you went away. Doc's only been practicing here since last summer. Fine feller."

"I don't seem to remember him," said Oliver, dully. "You say she's—er—in love with him?"

"Looks that way," said Samuy, indifferently. "He's dead gone on her, that's sure."

Presently Mr. Baxter cackled. He was in high good humor again.

"Serepty Grimes just can't wait to see you," he declared. "You know she's keeping house for me now."

"Aunt Serepta keeping house for you?"

"Yes. I thought that people would be sure to talk if she came over and lived at my house. But the cussed part of it is, nobody thinks there's anything scandulous about it. There hasn't been a derned bit of talk. What the dickens are you laughing at, Sam?"

"I just run over a hen," lied Sam promptly.

CHAPTER VIII

June was well along before Oliver began seriously to contemplate bringing his self-styled "vacation" to an end. May had been glorious. Even the sinister stretches of Death Swamp, across which he looked from the oak-shaded citadel that he would always call home, were not so repelling as they had been in days of yore. The world was beautiful.

During the first week he spent many happy, carefree hours with Jane Sage.

One evening, lounging on her porch, he asked her suddenly:

"What sort of a chap is Lansing, Jane?"

She started, and for a moment her eyes were fixed intently on his half-averted face. There was an odd, startled expression in them.

"He is very nice," she answered, and they both fell silent.

An automobile approached along the tree-lined street, coming to a stop at the front gate.

"Hullo!" exclaimed Oliver. "Here comes the gentleman himself."

"Good evening, Jane," said young Lansing as he came up to the steps. "How are you, Capt. Baxter?" Wonderful night, isn't it?"

"Wonderful," said Oliver, who wasn't thinking of the physical aspects of the night. (Continued Tomorrow)

So Goes It

By BURNS HEGLER

We can't help wondering if those twenty North Carlonia votes which were given to that New York lawyer named Battle, were donated to him because some one thought his initials were L. O. D. (Long Drawn Out).

Of course he'll have to name that dog "Sport."

"Tiny," The Record News fisherman, says if he was wealthy he would hire twenty small boys to go fishing with him and make an agreement that they would turn their poles over to him the minute they got a bite. "My idea of luxury" says "Tiny," is to be able to pull 'em in without having to fish for 'em."

Our impression of the New York convention, after about the fifty-fourth ballot, was that the delegates were trying to establish a new balloting record, rather than endeavoring to make a real effort toward nominating a candidate.

Our impression is justified by the voting at that stage. The votes prove it.

The thory is advanced that, inasmuch as Charles G. Dawes was once president of a gas company he should make an ideal president of the United States senate.

We probably will never know whether Messrs. Smith and McAdoo really expected to be nominated.

We heard a lot about convention leaders during the democratic convention, but as the sessions wore on we began to wonder what these gentlemen are supposed to do.

Charge United Opposition To Public Schools

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Existence of a united opposition to further development of American public schools, led by "tax dodgers, heartless rich, big interests and an arrogant aristocracy," was asserted by J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education association, before a general meeting of the association's convention here today. Many leaders in education, he said, during the past year had felt the force of well organized attacks.

"It is now surmised," he declared, "that some of the heartless interests which are opposing further development of education largely to keep taxes down to the minimum are making cat's paws of some of those who offer objections from a religious point of view. If true that there is a connection of this kind and that an element is being used it will be definitely known in due time and the connection will immediately become ineffective."

GEORGIA REJECTS "20TH" AMENDMENT

ATLANTA, Ga., July 4.—By a vote of 34 to 0, the Georgia senate today adopted a house resolution providing for the rejection of the 20th amendment to the constitution of the United States which would give congress the power to regulate and prohibit employment of all persons under 18 years of age.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

POETRY FOR THE PEOPLE

Be a Man

Forsake the ways of the useless shirk,
No longer repose at ease.
Go out in the world and perform men's work,
On the mountains and plains and seas.
Belay with your hands the bellying sail,
While the spin drift hurtles past;
Bring home the ship through the raging gale,
To the old home port at last.
Or climb to the mountain's topmost crown,
Through the drifting and stinging snow,
And from dizzy and awful heights look down
On a slumbering world below.

Go thread the maze of the jungle lair,
Where the python slinks hissing by,
Seek out a dark-mouthed cave, and there
Meet the man-eater, eye to eye.
Then know the joy of the deadly fight,
Match fang and claw with brain.
Strive unafraid through the long, long night
Till the monster at last is slain.
Or gallantly leap from floe to floe;
Where the waves of the Arctic roll,
And deal the walrus a manful blow
At the foot of the frozen pole.

Beware of the easeful and slothful town;
Beware of its base content.
Go forth and do, e'er the world can frown
On a life that is all mis-spent.
Go forth and wander in alien lands,
Your strength and your youth renew,
Where there's plenty of work for your good right hands,
And some for your left ones, too.
Go conquer the plain and the peak and sea,
With hearts filled with valiant cheer,
Don't pause to ask permission of me,
For I shall remain right here!

What Not to Know

A cultured, truly educated person is not one who knows as much as is in the encyclopedia; he is one whose knowledge, great or small, is in order.

Education is not amassing facts, it is learning to classify them.

The man with the most efficient education is not the one who knows things; he is the one who knows where to go to find out about them.

I am proud to state that I cannot bound West Virginia. I do not know what selenium is, and I do not know the names of the bones of the human body. Why should I mess my intellect up with this knowledge for which I have no use?

My fight is to keep books out of my library, to keep papers off my desk, to keep new furniture from being brought into the house, and to keep from eating what I cannot digest.

The eternal struggle is against the superfluous.

For superfluity kills more people than poverty.

I do not want to know how to operate a typewriter, build an automobile, speak Chinese, name the presidents, repeat the whole of Shakespeare by heart or work problems in trigonometry.

Why should I? It takes all my time and energy to know the trade at which I make a living.

I once made a silly remark to a professor of mathematics to the effect that I did not understand certain intricate calculations. He properly rebuked me by asking: "Why should you?"

It is as good a plan not to learn more than you can use as it is not to bite off more than you can chew.

Efficiency is only half-earned when you know the essentials and do them; the other half is to know what things are non-essential and let them alone.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

CANCER.

Today's aspects are good until noon: thereafter they are adverse. Anything of a conservative nature, anything that demands vigorous action should receive your attention in the early part of the day. In the afternoon and evening only routine work should be done or regular daily duties performed. Under no circumstances or conditions, should any unnecessary risk be taken, or any speculative action indulged in.

A child born today will have a little more than its share of infant sickness, but this will not deter it from developing, later on, into a fair specimen of physical manhood or womanhood. It will have a merry, sunny disposition but rather a volatile character. Great emphasis must be stressed on constancy, and firmness, in order to counteract, as far as possible, the dangers of excessive sprightliness and fickleness.

Is today your birthday? Your character is not altogether reliable as you are too easily swayed by emotion and feeling; your inclinations, rather than your heart or head, more frequently than not govern your actions; your disposition is variable, and, although you have it in you to be attractive and charming at all times, you lack self-control, and allow too much scope to your impulsiveness. Your vanity is easily tickled and gratified by inexcusable adulation; you lack the steadfastness, which is the only sure forerunner of assured success.

In spite of this indictment, you possess many traits that endear you to those with whom you are intimately associated; you are generous to a fault, and though of quick temper, are just as quick to forgive and forget.

You possess the characteristic of perseverance, as distinguished from steadfastness, in a marked degree, and a fair measure of success has, so far, attended your efforts, much better results would have been secured if you had less impetuosity, and more singleness of purpose.

A vessel without ballast is tossed about on the waters: a human being without character ballast, is liable to become an easy victim in a storm of trouble or difficulty.

Former Wife Is Shot By Man In Children Row

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, July 4.—Mrs. C. E. Monroe, Mother of three children, is in a critical condition today at Crosbyton as the result of being shot yesterday on a farm near Crosbyton.

Her former husband, C. E. Monroe, farmer, is in jail at crosbyton, awaiting action of the grand jury. Mrs. Monroe, it is said, had gone to the farm to see her children who in the decree of divorce were awarded the father. The latter was in the field at the time but went to the house when he say Mrs. Monroe. The shooting is said to have followed an argument.

ORIENT ASKS AID FROM PATRONS

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 4.—A crisis in the affairs of the Orient railroad has made necessary an appeal to communities along the road to keep it in operation, it was announced here today. Walter Splawn, state railroad commissioner, and officials of the West Texas chamber of commerce, are to visit interested cities next week seeking aid for the road.

HOUSE OF DAVID NAMED IN SUIT

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 4.—Charging fraud, deceit and immorality, a petition seeking a receivership for the House of David at Benton Harbor was filed in circuit court here today. The petition brands "King" Benjamin Purnell, fugitive colony leader, as a "religious impostor, pious fraud and a bigamist," and charges he taught gross immorality, encouraged immorality, and practised revolting rites.

British Emigrants Assured Of Homes and Employment

LONDON.—It is reported that the cabinet has approved an extended scheme of migration from the British Isles to Australia.

For some time Senator Wilson, representing the Australia commonwealth government, has been in consultation with the oversees settlement committee on details of the scheme, which includes provision for a loan to Australia of about $100,000,000 to assist the federal governments in the carrying out of development work as a preliminary to the acceptance of immigrants.

The new scheme is based on plans for entire families to go out and settle in Australia, and arrangements will be made in advance to insure that immediate home and employment be available.

PROHI NOMINEE MAKES PROMISE

H. P. Faris Says No Oil Or Booze Shall Mar White House

By The Associated Press.

CLINTON, Mo., July 4.—Promising that when he is elected president and placed in the the White House, "it shall be white, indeed, and not splotched with either oil or booze," Herman P. Faris, presidential candidate of the national prohibition party, today responded to the notification committee and formally accepted the nomination.

He called attention to the keynote address delivered at the national convention of the party in Columbus, Ohio, June 5, in which it was asserted that the prohibition party "is the one great party which has originated and promulgated every forward-looking measure that has, since our organization in 1860, been enacted into law." He declared that while the probihition party has elected the "issues," the other parties have elected the "officers," and in urging the voters of America to back the prohibitionists at the polls he called upon them to "dare to do the right and leave the consequences with Gold Almighty."

The problem that faces the prohibition party, Mr. Faris said, is how to get the people who believe in the laws of God and the constitution of the United States and who desire the eighteenth amendment respected and the Volstead law enforced, to put that desire in the ballot box at the November election.

HUNG JURY IN HANNA TRIAL

Discharged After Several Hours' Deliberation Friday

The jury in the case of Luther Hanna, tried Thursday and Friday in the 30th district court on charges of burglarizing a small store at Thrift, was discharged Friday afternoon without arriving at a verdict. The jurors deliberated for several hours and then reported to Judge H. R. Wilson that they were hopelessly hung.

Hanna was indicted by the last grand jury following his arest in connection with the theft of some dry goods and other articles from the Thrift store.

Al Smith Talks On Tolerance

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 4.—Tolerance was emphasized in an Independence Day message from Governor Alfred E. Smith today to Tammany Hall.

"The well springs of our national life," he said, "are in the Declaration of Independence and in the constitution of the United States. The spiritual freedom guaranteed in these documents is more vital to us than the safeguarding of our material possessions. Tolerance is a moral right. Whatever threatens freedom of religion, of speech, of the press, is a body blow at the United States of America. I have such abiding faith in the institutions of our government and the good sense of the American people that I refuse to believe that intolerance can ever gain so much as a foothold in this country once it is fairly held up to the blighted as it should be. Fear and hatred never survive courage and reason. For tolerance we will always battle willingly, because the foundations of peace and progress are rooted therein."

DEMO DEADLOCK AND POP STORK MUDDLE WORKS

NEW YORK, July 4.—Fate alone appears to have foreseen the extent of the Democratic deadlock on the presidential nomination. A mother's democratic club was formed two weeks ago in the New York Nursery and children's hospital and a platform was adopted pledging the members to give their first boy born to one of them the name of the prospective democratic nominee. No nominee, of course, has been chosen, but—and here fate seems to be holding the celebrated scales of justice with uncommon steadiness—neither has a boy been born out of 18 births recorded since the club was formed and the convention met. This also established the hospital's continuity record for girl babies.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells,—and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Color Cut-Outs

The Last Stunt.

"Here comes the performing elephant!" shouted Little Tommy Tumbler, coming into the ring dressed in a ringmaster's suit. In walked Ella Phant, the funny elephant that had led the Color Cut-outs' parade. Tom Cut-up and another boy were inside the elephant, and they danced and galloped and did the most astonishing tricks, while Tommy cracked his whip and shouted directions.

"Ladies and gentlemen," announced Tommy, "this ends our regular show, but I hope you will all stay for the Wild West Show, which will be given right away in this ten..."

The ringmaster's checked trousers are red and white. His tie is red also.

Next week: The Wild West Show.

Policemen Shot By Robed Men

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4. — Two members of the Lower Merion township police were shot and seriously wounded early today when they attempted to disperse several hundred white-garbed men surrounding a fiery cross on the outskirts of Ardmore, a suberb of this city. The policemen, Albert Miller and Charles Roy, had been summoned to the scene by a negro, who expressed fear that he might be attacked. The officers said, however, that beyond a noisy demonstration about the burning cross they found no disorder and heard no threats made against anyone.

None of the men were masked and with two exceptions all dispersed quietly at the command of the policemen. These two, the officers said, were inclined to ignore their orders and in an argument that followed the policemen were shot. Roy was so badly wounded that physicians said he could not live.

C'MON OVER, SAYS CLEVELAND

Hotel Men Invite Demos To Settle Deadlock There

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 4.—The Cleveland Hotel Men's association has extended an official invitation to the democratic national convention at New York to adjourn to this city, should it decide to leave New York because of the deadlock over the nomination of a presidential candidate.

The invitation went forward yesterday to democratic leaders by telephone, but no definite assurances were given the Cleveland hotel men that the convention would be brought to this city.

The hotel men were told that if no nomination is made by the New York convention by Saturday night, the chances are good that the convention will adjourn to Cleveland or some other city. According to reports here today the hotel men were told that the McAdoo forces fear they cannot carry the democratic convention as long as the convention remains in New York, the stronghold of Governor Alfred E. Smith, McAdoo's most serious opponent.

PARKS POPULAR HERE YESTERDAY

Celebrators of Glorious Fourth Seek City Playgrounds

Despite a prevailing chill and threats of rain, city parks Friday enjoyed the patronage of good sized crowds out for holiday fun. Scotland and Bellevue, the principal amusement spots of the city, were crowded around noon and until late in the afternoon when rain drove the picnicers to cover. With clearing skies, however, the throngs came back.

A dozen or more picnic parties took lunches at Scotland during the day. Basket dinners seemed popular in the extreme. The tables provided by the park department were rapidly filled and refilled as one party vacated to make room for another.

In both Scotland and Bellevue the playground apparatus was worked to the limit.

SMALL FIRE IN CALVERT HOME

A small fire in the home of James Calvert, 606 Van Buren street, caused a run for the fire department at 1 o'clock Friday morning. The wall paper of one room was burned away and several books in a case under which the flames started were also destroyed.

Care of the teeth in ancient times was included in the general practice of medicine.

When my children were little I had very high ideals about their behavior; in fact, I expected them to be practically perfect. One time when I was scolding them for fussing, my own mother came into the room and smilingly assured me I was making the same mistake she had made when her children were small—too little praise. She explained that children will do things wrong, but if they are praised for things they do right, they won't feel they are making so many mistakes that it is impossible to please mother.

This compared with fifteen lynchings for the same period last year, thirty in 1922 and thirty six in 1921.

The five this year were divided as follows:

Florida two; Georgia two; South Carolina one.

All were negroes.

ELECTRIC R. R. GAIN GROUND

Industry In Better Condition Than Since War Upset

The bus is finding its place as a supplemental service to electric railways and as such is rendering great help to the transportation problem, C. D. Emmons, president of the American Electric Railway association declared in opening his organization's annual convention.

More than a hundred electric railways are using a total of 1000 buses in which they have invested $6,000,000.00, he said. He also added that unfair bus competition is being eliminated

"The electric railway industry is in better condition than at any moment since the world war upset the equilibrium of the country," Emmons said.

"Interurban roads have suffered not not only from unfair, parasitic bus competition, but also because of the great increase in the number of privately owned automobiles, and many an urban railway has had to face the same situation. Nevertheless, it has been proved that the place of the electric railway is secure. Wherever a test has been made, the inevitable conclusion was that business could not prosper, that manufacturers could not conveniently carry on their enterprises, that home building could not expand, that public comfort could not be advanced without the electric railway.

"Whether the bus transportation business is profitable at present is open to argument. Where buses can be operated in densely populated districts and where the hauls are short, they can be operated profitably at street car fares, but in general transportation they can serve the public only at a higher fare."

Electric Fans Now Servants Of Millions

It was just forty years ago that the electric fan came into general use. This summer there are several millions of them at work in the homes and shops of this country.

Originally designed as a means of cooling the air in summer, the fan has been applied to scores of tasks in the homes, and somebody is always finding a new use for the fan. These added jobs have made the fan an all-the-year utility. Some of these jobs are ventilating, drying fresh paint, drying hair, clothes and dishes, keeping the frost off windows in winter, taking odors out of dry cleaned clothes, and even making a draft for the furnace.

FAMOUS BANKER 'SALTED' FORTUNE

"The banker, Jacob H. Schiff," says Collier's Weekly, "left an estate valued at nearly $35,000,000. The net taxable income from the whole of it worked out at scarcely one and one-half per cent per year. The bulk of his estate was in tax-exempt bonds, because the surtaxes on other investments would have left him a lower rate of return than did the bonds. Tax schedules did not tax him, but only forced his money out of business uses into governmental uses. He had to invest his money not with those who built up industry but with those who spend the proceeds of state, city and national bond issues. The information contained in such wills as that of Jacob H. Schiff is disquieting to those who want to 'make the rich pay all the taxes.'"

When James J. Hill, famous railroad builder, died he left his widow an estate yielding $365,000 a year, but by the simple expedience of converting Hill's securities into tax-free bonds the widow's net income was raised to $730,000 a year. And the difference represented what the government lost in taxes.

EXPERT SAYS TAXES 'COLOSSAL'

Refuting statements to the effect that the American people are not heavily taxed, George Wheeler Hinman, financial expert for the Hearst papers, said in the San Francisco Examiner of April 30:

"The truth is that, after England the United States is the most heavily taxed country on earth.

"The English taxes average between $70 and $80 a person; the American taxes, between $65 and $70.

"The men who figure American taxes at less reckon only the federal taxes of about $3,000,000,000. They forget the state and local taxes, which in this country have mounted to colossal size. With these local taxes included the American tax bill turns $7,000,000,000 a year.

"That is a business fact to be remembered in the present tax debates. The sum is far greater than the business traffic can bear in the long run."

PUBLIC UTILITY COMPANIES INVEST

During April of this year the public utility companies of this country secured $116,000,000 new money for extensions, additions, and betterments. This is at the rate of more than $3,500,000 a day. The April figure is a record.

In the field of corporate financing for the first four month of 1924 the public utilities led all the others with $411,477,000. The public utilities during the period secured new money for capital investments to the extent of more than twice as much as the steam railroads, nearly ten times as much as the iron, steel, coal and copper industries, and more than twenty times as much as the equipment manufacturers.

PHONE COMPANY SHOWED SPEED

To gain 1,000 new subscribers a telephone company ordinarily installs 4,000 telephones and removes 3,000—making 7,000 changes in each a gain. The Dallas Telephone company issues a new telephone directory every six months and in that time about 14,000 changes accumulate.

One Man Is Now Equal to Many In Olden Days

Advances in invention and industrial methods and practices since 1800 have enabled production to increase to meet the needs of the people of this country in a manner that has never been equaled in the world.

The production per day per man has increased during the period as follows:

Iron, from 500 pounds to 5,000 pounds.

Lumber from 100 feet to 750 feet.

Nails from 5 pounds to 500 pounds.

Shoes from one-fourth of one pair to 10 pairs.

Coal from one-half ton to 4 tons.

Paper from 20 square feet to 200 square feet.

The class one railroads of America last year moved commodities aggregating 423,000,000,000 ton-miles with 1,800,000 employes. Under transportation methods of 1800 this movement would have required 70,000,000 drivers and 140,000,000 horses.

Texas Progress Notes

Plainview—Business men of this city estimate that the wheat crop now being marketed here will bring five and a half million dollars to the farmers of this vicinity.

Amarillo — The project for a state park in Palo Duro canyon received a strong impetus when the Texas Press association met here last month and visited the canyon.

Lufkin—The new telephone system for this city has been completed and is now in operation.

Brownfield—Negotiations for the construction of natural gas pipeline 185 miles from Webb county fields to supply this city with gas are likely to be completed soon.

Brownwood—Expansion of the system of the West Texas Telephone company in Central West Texas has necessitated increase of the company's capital stock.

Jacksonville —The movement of the tomato crop has been under way successfully for several days. The quality of the crop is excellent.

Amarillo —Railroad surveying parties in the north plains country are attracting attention. Development of the farming industry in this region is expected to result in better transportation facilities.

Lubbock— More than twenty new cotton gins are under construction in the south plains country in preparation for the increased crop of cotton that is expressed from the larger acreage under cultivation this season.

Dallas —At a meeting of the executive committee in this city last week it was practically decided to hold the next annual meeting of the southwestern division of the National Electric Light association in Hot Springs.

GAS COMPANY EXPLAINS WORK

The third edition of "A House in Order," the year book of the Consolidated Gas Electric Light & Power company of Baltimore, covering its operation for 1921 has been printed.

As stated in the preface of the book by the editor, Arthur W. Hawks, Jr.:

"The issuance of a year book setting forth the affairs of the company during 1923 worked a broadening of the policy of the management in giving the operations of the company still wider publicity. The company desired that its stockholders and customers know as much as possible about its properties, is growth, its policy and its achievements. The gratifying interest displayed in its year book for 1922 led to the preparation of a second publication of this nature."

Believing that its customers were entitled to and would be interested in full information concerning its affairs, the company decided to put every customer on the mailing list for the current year book. The edition has gone into a quarter of a million copies.

RAILWAY NETS HIT BY TAXES

A study of tax burdens placed upon various lines of industry as made by the Institute for research in land economics and public utilities shows that steam railway taxes have taken an increasing proportion of the net income during the past 20 years.

Taxes have almost equaled net income in recent years, and since dividends did not equal net income, taxes exceed dividends paid during 1919, 1924 and 1923. During the latter part of 1923 railroad taxes were accruing at the rate of a million dollars a day.

COUNTRY HAS BIG PAY LIST

Increase In Number Would Reach One Out of Five Soon

It is fair says the Youth's Companion, to think of the annual tax bill as the interest on a blanket mortgage placed on all the wealth of the country. Regarded in this way the tax mortgage amounts to 170 billion dollars. This is more than one-half the value of all the property in the United States.

There are today 544,671 civilian employees of the national government, and the number of officials of all sorts supported by the tax levies is put by the National Industrial conference at 3,400,000. The public pay roll consumes about four billion dollars. There are twice as many as there were twenty years ago, though the population has increased by only forty per cent. If population and the extension of governmental activities increase in the same ratios for another forty years, one out of every five workers will be a government clerk or official supported by the wage-earners and taxpayers of the community.

In a recent address at Chicago Dr. Charles R. Brown, dean of the Yale school of religion, mentioned several of the causes that brought about the fall of the classic civilization and found them all active here and now to corrupt and corrode our own social system.

ACTRESS TO GET ALIMONY—YUREKA

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 4. — Blanee Yureka, actress, is to receive alimony of $50 a week and counsel fee of $1,000 from her actor-husband Ian Keith, pending determination of her counter suit for seperation, under an order signed yesterday by Supreme Justice Flatzek. She had asked for $250 a week and $3,000 as counsel fee, but attorneys for Keith declared that he could not pay such sums.

Keith, who is now in Hollywood in the movies, has informed his attorneys that he is seeking a better engagement to enable him to pay the sums stipulated by the court. Miss Yureka charged her husband with being infatuated with Marjorie Rambeau, actress.

One Recipe Makes Three Delightful Cakes

IN the old days it was the way to keep trying out new recipes for different kinds of cakes. But the best of modern cooks have taught that this is a poor custom. The modern method is to secure a standard recipe and then adapt that to the various needs or desires of the family, changing its shape or its frosting or its flavor, but always when possible adhering to the basic recipe.

Thus it is possible to make plain cake, cocoanut cake, marble cake drop cakes of different flavor and many other varieties all from the best possible basic recipe. The ingredients must be of the best quality. Patent flour is used and rich milk, the freshest of eggs, and the most delightful of flavorings. Here is the general recipe from which all the other adaptations are made:

RECIPE FOR ALL CAKES

Use level measurements. Sift flour one time before measuring.
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups confectioner's sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons cream

Cream butter and add sugar gradually, continuing the beating. Thin with cream until right consistency to spread on cake. Decorate with nuts and strips of angelica, or strips of citron may be used instead.

ORANGE DROP CAKES

Use 1 cup orange juice instead of 1 cup milk in the recipe for the plain cake. Also substitute orange flavoring for vanilla. Bake in well greased muffin tins in moderately hot oven (400 F.) for 20 minutes.

3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups Spring patent flour
1 cup milk

Cream sugar and shortening together. Add eggs well beaten. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Beat thoroughly.

Lastly add the flavoring. Place in two well greased layer pans and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven (350 F). This recipe makes a two layer cake. For a cake of three large layers double the recipe.

BUTTER ICING

1-3 cup butter
Ice with Butter Icing thinned with orange juice instead of cream.

MARBLE CAKE

To one half of the plain cake recipe add 2 squares of melted chocolate. Drop the chocolate mixture in well greased loaf pan alternately with plain cake mixture. Bake 45 minutes in moderately slow oven (325 F.) Ice with Butter Icing and with wax paper spread thin coating melted chocolate over icing.

Other variations may be made by adding spices or nuts to the plain cake and also by varying the kind of icing used.—From Home Service Dept., Washburn Crosby Company Minneapolis, Minn.

What About the School Girls Who Ask Strangers For Auto Rides? Why Mothers Are Usually More Partial to Their Sons. Should a Man Who Is Too Delicate to Marry Declare His Love or Remain Silent?

Dear Miss Dix—Every day I and every other man who drives a car am accosted by hoards of school girls who beg for a ride. These girls are not little children. They are practically grown.

Do you not think that this is a very bold and unladylike thing for girls to do, and very dangerous as well? They have no means of knowing whether the men they ask for a ride are decent and respectable or not. They are quite as likely to strike a villain as a gentleman, and once in the car they are absolutely in the man's power. He can take them where he will. What do you think of it?

An Interested Reader.

Answer:

I also have observed girls doing the same thing, and I have wondered what sort of mothers these girls had that they did not teach their daughters better manners and warn them of the perils they run in joyriding off with any stranger who happened along.

Much might be said of the utter lack of good breeding, of the absence of all delicacy and refinement, and maidenly reserve of the girl who stands on the street curb and shouts like a hoodlum to every motorist to give her a lift. The very foundation of all decent manners consist in waiting until you are asked and not thrusting yourself upon others, or asking favors of them, and it is hard to imagine how any woman who is herself a lady can bring up a daughter who has so little appreciation of ladylike conduct.

But it is not a question of manners but of morals with which we are chiefly concerned in this manner. It is the terrible danger that the girls themselves run when they "hop the cars" of men of whom they know nothing, for, unfortunately, the first name of all the men who drive motors is not Joseph, and not without reason has the automobile lived up to the appelation by which it was first known when it was called a "devil wagon."

To begin with, any girl who accepts a strange man and asks him to give her a ride in his car lays herself open to insult. She has adopted the approach of the woman of the streets and she has no cause for just resentment if men believe her to be one and treat her as such.

An even greater danger to the girl lies in the fact that it is very seldom that the right sort of a man will heed the cry of these girls who are begging for a ride. The gentleman speeds by because he realizes the gravity of the offense against the conventions, even if the girl does not.

He knows the construction that the world puts on a "pickup" on the streets, and the cynical smile that his friends would give if he attempted to explain that he was merely giving a school girl a lift home instead of having a chicken out for a spin. And he knows that the girl's father or mother would be more likely to meet him with a club than a vote of thanks if he delivered the girl at her own door.

It is the men without morals, without principles; the men who prey on ignorance and youth; the sports, the chauffeurs out with their master's cars, who answer the call of the girls who beg on the street for a ride. And once they have their silly little passengers in their cars, who knows where they go? Many and many a time they start down the path of destruction.

Only the mothers can stop this pernicious custom, and they can only do it by putting the fear of God in the hearts of their daughters and by making them realize how great is their danger, and that they literally take their lives and more in their hands when they enter the car of a stranger.

Dorothy Dix.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Will you please tell me why all mothers are partial to their sons? Also do you think an estate should be divided between the children?

Answer:

Mothers deny that they are partial to their sons. They say they love all their children just alike and that their daughters are really more comfort to them. But every outsider can see that a woman has a tenderness for her sons that she never has for her daughter, and that she spoils her boys more than she does her girls.

Scientists say that this is a biological urge, founded on the attraction of the sexes, and that mothers can't help it. It is just nature. Anyway, it is true that mothers are partial to their sons and get along with them more smoothly than with their daughters. And there are many reasons for this.

One is that the son's and the mother's interests never conflict and the mother's and the daughter's do.

The boys never want to take a hand in the housekeeping or change the way the parlor furniture is arranged, or interfere in any manner with the way the mother runs things. The girls do. They come home from school with new ideas and new theories, and want to make over the home and unless the mother is an exceedingly meek and self-effacing woman, there is a perpetual conflict between new ideas and old in the home.

One of the chief reasons that girls want to get married is to get a home of their own in which they can do as they please, and the reason that mother wears the smile that won't come off at the wedding is because she is going to be left in peace to do as she pleases in her own home once more.

Mother concedes personal liberty to her sons. She doesn't try to boss them, or expect them to furnish an alibi for every hour they are away from her. She doesn't arrogate to herself the right to tell them what they shall wear, what hour they shall come home, whom they shall marry, whether they shall go into business or not. But she feels she has a perfect right to supervise every detail of her daughter's life, and unless they let her do all of their thinking for them she feels hurt and is estranged from them.

When a mother says that she is "disappointed" in her daughters it merely means that the girls are not an understudy of her, as she was at their age.

Lastly, a mother is prouder of her sons than she is of her daughters because she hopes that they will do great things and be in the public eye, but she trusts that her daughters will marry happily, and never be heard of again.

I think an estate should be equally divided between the children. If more money has been spent on one child than on the others it should be deducted from his or her part of the estate.

Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix:—I am very much in love with a girl who, I think, cares for me. But I cannot ask her to marry me because of my health, which has been on a decline for two years. Should I tell her of my love, and my regret that I cannot ask her to be my wife, or keep silent?

Answer:

Tell her by all means.

It is best not to bind her to you by a definite engagement when it is uncertain if you will ever be able to marry, although many people who are thought to be seriously sick do get well, you know.

Today's Poem

CLIPPED WINGS.

I have yearned for the perfumed breezes
That blow on Mystery Isle,
Where treasures old
Of jewels and gold
Beckon, entice and beguile.

I have dreamed of ancient temples
Fragrant with ghosts of flowers,
Where brown girls dance
In rhythmic trance
And Love rules moon-drenched bowers.

Though will-o-wisp Romance lures me,
My restless feet never roam,
For in your eyes
Is wond'ring surprise
Then—I want just you and home.

TODAY'S RECEIPTS.

Rhubarb and Raisin Sauce—Two cups cubed rhubarb, three-quarters cup chopped raisins, three-quarters teaspoon of grated orange peel. Three-quarterc cup sugar. Mix well and add one-quarter cup water. Cook very slowly till rhubarb is tender. Nuts may be added. This makes a good pie filling, too.

Baked Macaroni—Cook two cups macaroni in boiling water for fifteen minutes, drain and turn into a buttered baking dish. Heat two cups milk and gradually stir into it three and one-half tablespoons of peanut butter. To this add one-half teaspoon salt, stir mixture well, pour over macaroni, cover and bake in slow oven 40 minutes. Remove cover, sprinkle with three-fourths cup buttered bread crumbs and brown.

String Bean Salad — Cook one pound string beans in salted water until tender, but not too soft. Drain and cook, then add one green or red pepper, cut fine strips, one Bermuda onion. Mix well and marinate with olive oil. A little sugar and a few drops vinegar may be added, if you like.

Butchers' Cookies—Put two cups cracklings (left over from rendering lard) through a food chopper. Mix well with two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, and one-half cup sugar. Mix as for pie crust, add one egg, one-half cup raisins and water to make dough easy to handle. Roll out one-half inch thick and bake in moderate oven until brown. Sugar may be sprinkled over top before putting in over, so as to give a glaze. To be eaten while warm.

Sour Sweet Sausage—Take one and one-half pounds sausage (either garlic or Polish sausage, but sage may be used) and fry on all sides till light brown. Add eight ginger snaps, two small sour pickles, sliced and water to cover. Simmer slowly for forty minutes. This is delicious, the ginger snaps make the gravy and the pickles import a delicate flavor.

Spinach Loaf—One cup chopped spinach, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, one beaten egg, one-eighth teaspoon each of pepper and nutmeg; one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons lemon juice. Mix and pack lightly in moderate oven for twenty minutes.

HENRY YELVINGTON BREAKS HIS LEG

VERNON, July 4.—Henry B. Yelvington, secretary of the Wilbarger fair association, sustained a broken leg at his home here yesterday when he stepped into a hole in the rear yard of his home.

It was reported that his children, in playing about the place, had dug a shallow hole in the yard and that Mr. Yelvington, not knowing it was there, stepped into it.

He was resting easily Friday evening.

BLONDY

Spuds defend charred remains of fortress today against Jakie Atz's Panther advances. The first tilt on the home lot of a scheduled three.

Not so many charred remains, after all. New grandstand about two-thirds completed. That's enough to handle crowd with but little inconvenience, if any.

Fans must do without wire screen up forward. Carpenters haven't arrived at the stage when they can put up proper foul protection as yet.

Bullet Joseph Bush the probable hill selection as far as Spuds are concerned.

Spuds came out of a double header at Dallas yesterday unscathed; it rained both contests away. Much needed rest was gladly accepted.

The two clubs start the new season even up this afternoon. Fort Worth isn't leading the league today—rained also thwarted Kittens in duo with Gassers.

Gotta watch these Dallas scribes closely or they'll surely slip one over on you. They alibied the Steers all the first half season by accusing the Fort Worth aggregation with the heinous offense of being exceedingly lucky. At the end of the split Thursday night, poor benighted Dallasites just had to come out and give Steers preference over the Spudders in loop percentage column.

According to Dallas calculation, Wichita Falls wound up the half in fourth position with Bovines in third. Have to contradict them there, because Spuds held that honored third niche by the enormous point margin of one-thousandth of one. This world sure is getting crooked.

MINOR ACCIDENTS MARK FOURTH HERE

A number of minor accidents took place Friday night on the lake road when automobiles went into ditches or bumped each other without inflicting serious damage. At an early hour this morning no serious mishaps had been reported.

A coupe left the road and bounced across a deep ditch a short distance outside the city limits, miraculously remaining right side up. It was pulled back and was able to proceed under its own power.

Numerous fenders were dished when quick stops resulted in rear end collisions.

COCHRAN CUTS DOWN SIX-POINT LEAD IN LAST 36 HOLES OF PLAY

Amateur State Champ Battles Pro Title Holder Hard—Large Gallery Sees Play on Wet Links

By HARRY McNEILL,
Record News Golf Authority.

Harry Cooper of Dallas, drove his way to the unofficial open championship of Texas here yesterday when he defeated Tommy Cochran in the last half of the 72-hole match by a final score of 2 up and 1. In the first 36 holes played at Dallas Wednesday, Cooper finished six up.

Despite soggy greens and a slow turf caused from a downpour of rain Thursday night, Cochran recovered on his old stomping grounds in fine shape, but the weather handicapped the golfers to no little degree. On the first nine out in a slow drizzling rain both golfers netted a 37 while Cochran gained three holes on the turn scoring a 38 to Cooper's 41.

Halve First Hole.

Cochran's initial drive sliced to the rough but a cool head and niblick placed his next shot about eight feet from the pin. He sunk for a par three. Cooper's drive sailed to the green only 20 feet from the cup, two attempts and he halved the hole for a three. Cooper six up.

The par-5, 485-yard hole netted Cooper a birdie 4 with a long true drive and a spectacular iron shot from a pitted lie. His third shot rose high and settled 12 inches from the pin and he raked it in for a birdie. Cochran's chance at halving the hole was fine when playing his fourth for a five-foot putt but missed. Cooper seven up.

Cochran Takes Third Hole.

Three hundred eighty-five yards of smooth fairway and Coopers' drives gave him the edge on the third. His second shot was over the green and slightly to the right. A short approach from this lie passed the cup for at least ten feet but he came back for a "rimmer" but didn't sink. Cochran's iron shot sailed and fell to the green fifteen feet from the pin. He was down in two and sunk for a four. Cooper six up.

On the sporty 165-yard fourth hole Cooper's effort fell four feet from the pin. Cochran drove to the edge of the green and part the way up a bunker. His chance to halve the hole was good when the professional missed the four-foot putt for a birdie 2, but Cochran also missed a short putt and Cooper took that hole. Cooper seven up.

Tom Wins on Five.

Long, beautiful drives by both men on the 382-fifth led the spectators to believe that both men had settled for real work, but Cooper's iron over drove and he was out of bounds back of the green. Cochran approached in his usual golf manner laying the rubber within seven feet of the cup and sank it to take one less from the professional with a four, six up.

Mashie shots, high and the kind that stick netted both players a green lie on the short 133-yard sixth. Cooper's putt missed, and Cochran's 16-footer rimmed the cup and stopped. They halved the hole in par figures. Cooper six up.

Cochran Shortens Lead.

Four hundred long yards on number seven found the drives practically even for a 240-yard lie. They ironed for an approach and Cochran fell 25 yards short of the green while the Dallas lad dropped short and to the right. Cochran pitched within seven feet of the flag and Cooper a few inches closer. — sank his effort and Cooper missed. Cooper 5 up.

Cochran lost number eight, a 380-yard hole when his putt jumped the hole after a beautiful drive, iron and approach shot placed him 10 feet from the cup. Cooper held more distance on his drive and his approach went high and settled down within a few inches of the cup. He took it on par figures. Cooper six up.

Neither man played good golf on the ninth and took fives. Each overshot the sand green and played their approach from the rough. A wet green caused two attempts for both golfers that netted a five each. Cooper six up.

The Cards for the Out Nine.

Cochran ....354 443 455—37
Cooper ....345 353 545—37

Cooper laid his drive to the edge of the tenth, 140-yards but on the wrong side. Cochran fell short and Cooper missed a 10-footer. Tommy fell off on a four-foot attempt and the hole was halved. Cooper six up.

Much Golf in 11 Green.

Number 11 green saw much golfing. Cooper overshot his drive on a 225-yard hole, par 3 and fell to the right. Cochran made a beautiful iron drive and approached in perfect manner, sinking a five-foot putt for a par 3. Cooper five up. Number 12 saw Cochran drive a 250-yard ball straight down the fairway, followed by a perfect approach to the cup. Cooper was forced to pitch over a bunker after a beautiful drive, and a short-timed approach hooked him there. Cochran shot past the pin on a 14-foot attempt. Cooper's had too much on it and he holed out in a drainage ditch next to a bunker. He went down in two and halved the hole. Cooper five up.

Cochran Again Cuts Lead.

Unlucky 13 caught a pair of well directed drives from 265 yards. Two approach shots laid the golfers about even. Cochran pitched a little short but took the hole in two attempts with a four while Cooper nursed a five to the next tee where he shoved it off much under his usual form. Here he smacked the pill out of bounds and Cochran planted a fine iron shot to the green where it stuck about three feet on. He raked in three more before he sunk for a five and Cooper played out for a six. Cooper three up.

On the longest, sportiest hole in the course, the 585 yard fifteenth, both golfers drove wonderfully well. Cooper attempted a brassie, but a tree caught him and he fell to the rough. Cochran ironed one down the fairway but his third took a trip east for the rough and trees. He came out with a niblick to the back side of a bunker, pitched over and stopped on the very brink of the cup, taking a six. Cooper's second, failing to the rough, cost him another when he attempted to lift it out with a mid-iron. He made up with the next shot by a long iron to the green and two putts placed him a six. Cooper three up.

Amateur Wins on 16.

The sixteenth gave Cochran a well directed drive squarely between two clumps of trees where the fairway narrows down and a beautiful water hazard waits for those unlucky dubbers who fail to pitch. His second placed his ball on the green while Cooper's drive went well and an iron placed him a few feet on the green only not so good. Cooper's 18-foot attempt went by and Cochran holed out. Cooper two up.

Cooper took the seventeenth when Cochran failed to sink a four-footer and they played equal golf to that point. Long and low drives, two masterful approach shots, two good pitches, then Tommy fell on his putt. Cooper took the hole at par, and Tommy nabbed off one more. Cooper three up.

The eighteenth gave each man equal lie on the drive, a 420-yard hole. Each pitched well over the 150 yards and stuck in the bowl-shaped green. They scored a pair of fours and halved the hole. Cooper's putt of a few feet was short, likewise Cochran's. Cooper planted one towards the gap for what seemed like a rimmer, but it toppled in. Cochran sank his majestically.

The In Cards

Cochran ....434 456 354—38-37—75
Cooper ....444 566 444—41-37—78

After a well-earned lunch and rest, play again started at 2:30 and the gallery was larger. The rain slacked, but left the greens and turf in a soft condition. Cooper slapped out a drive for the 268-yard first that was on, Cochran did the same but had to take a four when he missed a long putt. Cooper was content with a par three. Cooper four up. Number two and Tommy got it back when he placed his drive well up the fairway, beautiful iron and approach and parred the hole for a five. His opponent took the six count when he missed a putt. Cooper three up.

Halve Again.

Number three gave each man a pair of fives on a par-four hole when Cochran held his usual driving form and iron shot, but fell off on the green. Cooper stood up under the lost hole wonderfully well when his drive equalled that of Tommy's and his iron edged more distance. However he failed on a long putt and snapped it in the cup from a short distance to equal the former local man's efforts.

The short, 165 fourth netted the players a pair of fours when two drives fell to the edge of the green. Once it looked like Cochran's hole, but he missed a short putt. Cooper fell off on his pitch approach and it took two more to sink it. Cooper three up.

Cooper Down to One Up.

Number five let Cochran find his stride and he slapped out the 382-yard hole in a beautiful birdie after driving by far better than he showed all day. His second fell within two feet of the pin and he sank it on the next attempt, while the Dallas golfer had to take a four on a fizzled putt. Cooper two up.

On the short 133-yard hole Cochran's rubber settled down by the pin. Another stab and he sunk it for birdie 2. Cooper took a par when his ball fell on the green but he failed to sink with his second. Cooper one up.

Number seven gave the edge back to the visitor when he poured over the 400 yard fareway in two well placed shots. His approach stayed and he took a par while Tommy lost a stroke when he failed to putt up to par. A long drive, a clever iron and an approach de luxe and two putts. Cooper two up. Another birdie popped out when Tommy smacked the rubber for 255 yards on number eight, a 380-yard hole. An iron to the green and one putt and it sunk! Cooper took an easy par with his usual nonchalance but close to the rough with a beautiful drive and iron and two putts. Cooper one up. Number nine, the mental hazard hole gave the contestants a pair of pars. Both drove long, but Cochran held the bad lie in a natural trap or ravine. He mashied out and over the green, a pitch and a putt hung up a four while Cooper placed his iron short and it took two attempts for him to hole out.

Still Cooper 1 Up.

The in nine looked better for the homeling, but the Dallas pride held his own and played brilliant golf throughout, with an occasional slice or hook. They both kicked off on number ten for a pair of three's and halved, and it was still Cooper one up. Number 11 at 225 yards saw them halve the hole when Cochran laid one of the prettiest drives behind a bunker, but saved himself with a short pitch and two putts. Cooper snapped out a fast drive for equal distance to the left and was easily satisfied with a four when it was over. Cooper one up.

Number 12 found the men determined, and seemingly they had settled down for blood. Cochran took an easy 250-yard drive on the 310 par four hole and Cooper slid up with him. Pitching to the green, Tommy's ball fell four feet from the pin while Cooper's approach went over and off the green. He lucked out a sinker when he pitched back to the pin for a birdie 3. Cooper two up.

Number 13 was kind to the golfers with a halved four and each man playing his usual form for the day. Three hundred ninety-five yards on the next hole, 14, gave Tommy another count when he sailed a beautiful drive for over two-fifty. Cooper's fell short and Tommy's iron flattened one to the pin liking four feet. Cooper took an iron and fell only to the edge. Cochran barely missed a beautiful down-hill putt and took a par four while the Dallas lad stayed in there for a five when he took two stabs at the cup after a beautiful pitch within four feet of it. Cooper one up.

Number 15, where the wrecking crew meets their Waterloo daily was good to the local man when he spanked out a well-deserved 265 drive as Cooper complained the gallery was crowding him as he swung one into the rough on his drive. Cochran played well up to the green with his iron and Cooper tossed his second to the fairway where he shot a beautiful iron to the green on his third. Tommy approached within three feet of the cup and Cooper made a beautiful approach to 10 feet of the pin. It necessitated Cochran two attempts to rake in a par 5 while Cooper scooped up a par when he sunk a long one from the edge. Cooper one up.

Cooper Wins in Seventeenth.

Both players shot well behind the woods, yet on the fairway on the elusive sixteenth. Cochran came out over the trees to the green and Cooper split the branches and fell short. His pitch shot was exceptionally well placed and Tommy shoved a putt towards the cup in a manner that looked good but too slow. Cooper likewise slowed his next putt and the fourth sunk along with Tommy's who had another chance of winning by a big majority. Cooper one up.

Cochran topped his drive to the seventeenth while Cooper drove his farthest of the day. He gained decided advantage when he rolled out a drive worth 275 yards. Cochran recovered with an iron but the Dallas lad had too much distance and a timely iron back of his second. He fell to the right and Tommy drove what looked like out of bounds, but settled before it cost him. His approach fell just right but the Dallas pride holed out with one attempt when he sent one down from the edge. Cochran missed his chance for a half and shook hands with Cooper who claimed the championship with a 2 up and one to play. Their final drives lay even. The balls were crossed when Cooper shot first and it went clear to the far edge fo the bowl. Cochran gave him another chance with a better lie and the champion made his prettiest mashie shot of the day when the ball rose high and settled 15 feet from the flag.

Tommy put the loft on his for one just as pretty and they both took a pair of fours when each sunk with two efforts.

Short Putts Lose For Cochran.

Notwithstanding the downpour of rain during the night the gallery was unusually good and orderly. Both men played good golf but not near up to their forms. Cooper out drove Cochran for distance in many instances, but his shots had a tendency to hook while the local man's shots were true and straight.

Short putting—and missing lost Tommy Cochran the official open championship. Throughout the entire 36 holes Cochran played better golf. His card read the lowest on the total medal play, yet his opponent won when Cochran failed to sink more than a dozen short putts during the day. Plans are under way to have these two show their stuff again at a later date and local fans have it that Tommy will be in better form.

Their cards the last eighteen:

Joe Denton and Harmon Rich Go 15 Fast Rounds Again to Draw

Jack Denton Gains Referee's Decision Over Battling Jennings in Ten Rounds of Slugging

Fighting in an atmosphere too chilly for comfort and on a floor more suitable for dancing than anything else, Joe Denton of Amarillo, and Kid Rich of Wichita Falls, battled 15 rounds to a draw last night before a crowd of more than a thousand persons at Fair park. The bout came as the feature of the evening holiday card.

Handicapped as they were by adverse weather conditions and by a sleek and slippery canvas floor that rendered footing precarious, neither man was able to put up his best fight. The rains of the afternoon had thoroughly soaked the arena floor and inability to procure resin until the main go was half over left it in woeful shape. Both Rich and Denton complained of the condition before the bout started and for a time refused to begin until the floor was improved. Later, however, they agreed to start. They boxed five rounds, when a small supply of the much-needed resin was brought out from the city and this served to tide them over to the end.

The fight itself found both boys evenly matched. Both were inclined to ride the other, but they swapped punches liberally in the clinches and the most telling blows of the melee were landed on the infighting. Denton's blows hit with more steam but most of them landed about the body and he was unable to shoot in many effective punches to the head.

Rich, on the other hand, directed his attack principally at Denton's face. He opened a cut over his opponent's left eye early in the fight and kept jabbing away with short rights from then until the end.

Denton On Offense.

Denton was on the offensive practically throughout, forcing Rich to cover his head time and again. The latter's defense was excellent, however, and on only a few occasions could Denton break through. Accordingly, he was forced to hit at the body where Rich was content to let him hammer away.

Both boys finished strong, seemingly comparatively fresh. Each weighed in at 143 pounds.

Jack But Slight Edge.

In the semi-windup of the evening, a furious slugging match between Battling Jennings of Henrietta, 138 pounds, and Jack Denton of Amarillo, 138 pounds, the latter was awarded a referee's decision on points. Little kick would have been made had it been called a draw, but Denton's distinct superiority in the first three rounds evidently gave him the lead.

Denton was introduced as former champion of the Asiatic fleet, and whatever else he may be, he proved to the satisfaction of all concerned that he could hit. He packed a terrific wallop in both mitts and punished Jennings good and plenty in the early rounds. Weakening toward the end, however, he was barely holding his own as the 10 rounds wore on to a close.

Jack Scores Knockdown.

Wading in at the tap of the gong, Denton hammered Jennings with both fists. In the second round he sent him down for a count of eight with hard right to the wind. On the rushes, he tore through Jennings' defense by sheer strength.

In the meantime, Jennings had been doing some fighting himself and although his punches did not carry the power of his opponent, he was faster, more shifty on his feet, and danced with more cleverness on the breaks. Jennings was fighting hard in the closing round, apparently the fresher of the two men. He and Denton both nearly ruined a good fight in the eighth and ninth cantos by stalling and waving their gloves at each other but in the tenth both men mixed it with a will.

Kid Ayers Wins.

Jennings used a straight right punch to the jaw to good advantage, while Jennings hit with both hands and landed on the body as well as the head.

Skeeter Williams of Jolly lost a referee's decision to Kid Ayers of Wichita Falls in one of the preliminaries and Kid Norfolk, a negro, hammered Morris Mitchell, another battler of Stygian hue, sufficiently to give him a referee's decision.

A battle royal in which a slim coon whipped four others, all larger than himself, completed the card.

Jimmy Murphy Victor In National Automobile Race

250-MILE DASH CALLED AT 150 POST BECAUSE OF POOR TRACK

Tommy Milton Second, Bennett Hill Third, Harlan Fengler Fourth—Ansterberg Makes Fastest Time

SPEEDWAY, KANSAS CITY, July 4—Jimmy Murphy raced away with the national championship automobile race here today. The race, scheduled for 250 miles was called by officials at the end of 150 miles, because of bad holes that appeared in the track earlier in the race. Tommy Milton was second, Bennett Hill third and Harlan Fengler fourth.

The holes in the track had caused the drivers much tire trouble early in the race and when 150 miles was reached, officials decided that the holes, some of them several feet long, were endangering the lives of the drivers.

The fastest time made in the race was 117.8 miles an hour, averaged by Ernie Ansterberg at the 25 mile mark. Ansterberg held the lead up to the fifty mile mark but was forced out soon afterward with a broken connecting rod.

The bad track was greatly responsible for the slowing down of the speed as the race progressed. Several brilliant flashes of speed were made, one by Jimmy Murphy when he leaped into the lead at 100 miles, passing Bennett and Milton. Another was when Hill spurted up the stretch early in the race to take the lead from Tommy Milton.

No accidents marred the race and only three drivers were forced out permanently.

Besides Ansterberg, Frank Elliott and Joe Boyer were forced out with motor trouble. Other drivers finished as follows:

Earl Cooper, Harry Hartz, Antoine Mourre, Peter DePaolo, L. L. Corum, Lou Wilson, Bob McDonough.

Harry Hartz, who finished sixth, will protest the race, it is said, due to a controversy over the number of laps recorded by officials for him when the race was called.

Pat Corbett Easily Whips Maywood In Afternoon Bout of Fair Program

Monte Completely Outclasses Ennis—Jupiter Pluve Squelches Otherwise Very Good Program

Rain hindered unusually attractive racing and boxing cards Friday at Fair track to such an extent that all harness events, and running races were left out except one impromtu dash around the half-mile track

Billy Cross, a trim tan colt, owned by Carl Newsom, and ridden by J. B. Bailey, on a slow track produced a neat set of hoofs for the remainder of the field to gaze at, and romped off with the dash by a nice margin. This racer, a former Wagner colt, has run the half-mile in 49 2-5, but was not clocked yesterday.

Sliding and skidding about on a wet canvas caused by a steady drizzle, Pat Corbett of San Francisco, took a tame 10-round affair from Ray Maywood of Wichita Falls. The men are welter weights.

On a still more slippery canvas, Wildcat Monte completely outclassed Kid Ennis of Dallas, in the 8-round semi-final.

Rattlesnake Gives Norfolk Decision.

Two dusky maulers, middleweights, furnished the small crowd amusement for three rounds. Kid Norfolk was given a decision over Bat Nelson by Referee Rattlesnake, well known local ebony skinned battler, who refereed far better than his dusky brothers fought.

Corbett Wins Easily

Corbett captured nearly every round in his duel with Maywood, and seemed never in danger himself. The San Francisco glovester apparently enjoyed himself, smiling all the while and taking things easily the greater portion of the route. From the initial encounter it was plain to see the fight would be Corbett's on points. He left jabbed Maywood in rapid fire fashion, alternating with short lefts and rights on the in-fighting.

Maywood seemed in earnest, but never tore loose and fought at any one period for very long. On the whole, it was a good workout for both men, and would have carried over far better had the bout been staged on a gym with merely a coterie of seconds and trainers as witnesses.

Monte Pommels Ennis

Monte slashed and tore at Ennis the early part of their scrap, forcing the Dallas pugilist to take to cover. On numerous occasions the boxers fell to the floor due to the slipperyness of the going. Both battlers seemed endeavoring to do their best, but were booed now and then by the crowd. Resin had been sprinkled on the canvas, but this mixed with raindrops merely made the ring all the more slippery. This bout, a soggy affair, would doubtless have been far better but for the interference of Jupe Pluve. As it was, Monte stayed in and plugged away at Ennis, cutting him above the eye, and mashing his lips, winning all of the eight rounds widely.

Pyrotechnical Display Good

Probably the feature of the program was the daylight pyrotechnical display put on by the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association at great expense. This display, if is understood, was the first of its kind ever staged in Wichita Falls, and carried over well with the crowd

In their match with Randolph Lycett and L. A. Godfree, England, in the semi-finals, the Americans were leading two sets to one and the score 7-7 in the fourth set when Lycett was taken with a sudden cramp in the leg and forced to retire with his partner.

Miss Helen Wills, American woman lawn tennis champion, was defeated in the final by Miss Kathleen McKane, ranking British woman player, who won 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, capturing the tournament in the women's singles.

In the other semi-final of the men's doubles, Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, America, defeated Louis Raymond and P. D. B. Spence, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

This will make the final in the men's double and all-American affair, with R. Norris Williams and Watson M. Washburn opposing Richards and Hunter.

Raymond, limping through the match, was unable to meet the pace set by the Americans. Richards played the finest tennis he has displayed on this side of the Atlantic this year.

Archer City Rodeo Halted By Rain to Continue Today and Sunday

WICHITA FALLS DAY TOMORROW

Contestants From Other Picnics To Swell Affair

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, July 4.—The slow rain which started at one o'clock Friday morning caused the Legion rodeo to be postponed until Saturday and Sunday. Phone calls have been coming in from Seymour, Bowie, Henrietta and other places stating that riders from these places wished to enter the Archer City rodeo since their contests had been rained out. Wide publicity is being given the Legion show and arrangements are made to accommodate all who come if fair weather prevails on Saturday and Sunday.

The Legion park will witness record crowds. The contestants who took part in Thursday's events are remaining in Archer City and together with others coming in will constitute a competition hard to beat.

Sunday has been proclaimed Wichita Falls day and the Legion especially invites the Legion boys and other people of Wichita Falls to come over on that day and witness their rodeo.

Electra Quiet Day of Fourth

ELECTRA, July 4.—Independence Day in Electra was a quiet affair this year. Not a celebration was held, and nearly everybody left town.

About the only happenings of note was the admiration expressed by everyone down town for the American Legion's system of decorating, which was inaugurated today, despite the rain.

Young America was celebrating, and up to the middle of the evening no casualties were reported in the city.

Tillman Co. Dads Stand on Red River Bank and Ponder on It

FREDERICK, Okla., July 4. — Between the devil and the deep blue sea is a fine way of expressing the dilemma of the Tillman county commissioners over the Red River north fork bridge question. Long about a year ago this bridge washed away, or a portion of it did. It connects Tillman and Jackson counties. When Tillman county commissioners consulted with the Jackson county dads, it was discovered that the Jackson county aggregation didn't have any funds with which to reconstruct the bridge. Tillman county commissioners felt that they couldn't do it alone. A five-year franchise was granted a Tipton company to construct a toll bridge across the river at that place. They charge a dollar a "throw" for crossing the fork. A storm of protest arose. Several commissioners are up for re-election.

Now the vagaries of the winds that sweep—and cause sweeping — have piled a huge bank of sand almost against the bridge. The men who built the bridge have offered to turn it back to the two sets of county commissioners for exactly what they put in it. Elections are in August. Whether to appease the Tipton voters by taking the bridge back to the county's charge or to bet that the sand pile and a headrise sweep the pesky thing away again before the elections —leaving it to the individual to repair—is the question.

It's rather acute, for the only outlet from Tillman county without the toll nuisance is toward Oklahoma City and its rather a far jaunt to see a street car from this neck of the land.

HOPPERS STRUCK HARD BY NEWEST FLANK MOVEMENT

FREDERICK, Okla., July 4.—"Big fleas," remarked a poet — more than likely the canny Scott— "have little fleas upon their backs to bite 'um",—and such is proving true with the hoppers that have infested the fields of Tillman county for the past month or so, for the hoppers are being found dead by the thousands in the eastern region.

Hundreds of pounds of arsenic have been put out by farmers who saw their cotton going to waste owing to the ravages of the pest.

Now, the hopper menace is definitely abated, and on the body of almost every grasshopper is found a few score of small eggs which its enemy parasite is supposed to have deposited.

Where the cotton has been ruined by the hoppers farmers are planning to plant feterita. Local banks are advocating the planting of late foodstuffs, owing to recent rains and favorable weather conditions.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

What points of superiority have national bank notes over federal government paper money?

National bank notes are issued by national banks. Federal reserve notes and federal reserve bank notes are issued under the authority vested with the federal reserve board. The government issues other paper money—yellow-backed gold certificates, greenbacks, silver certificates.

There are important differences in the way in which these different kinds of paper money are backed up. The yellow-backs actually represent deposits of gold in the U. S. treasury. The greenbacks are backed by a specie reserve; the federal reserve and the national bank notes by U. S. bonds, the federal reserve bank notes by gold and commercial paper.

But all are obligations of the government to pay gold on demand and are interchangeable. They rest on the people's trust in the government. For this reason national bank notes are in no way superior to federal paper money.

WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, July 4.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow in regard to the wool market:

Holiday dullness has prevailed this week, although prices have been steadily maintained for the most part both here and in the west where wool is being moved fairly steadily from first hands.

Interest has centered chiefly on the sales in London and in Brisbane, Australia. Good merinos have been fully maintained at both points while inferior or average merinos have shown a slight decline of possibly five per cent. Cross-bred wools in the London sales declined, as expected, 5 to 7½ per cent. America has thus far been buying little or nothing abroad.

The goods markets are complicated by the ending of one strike and the threat of another on the part of the Ladies Garment Workers union. Consumption at the mills has continued to taper off. The trade is now awaiting the opening of light weight goods.

Mohair is slow but steady.

More than 1,000,000 female servants and domestics are employed in this country.

TEXAS COTTON GOOD AVERAGE

Acreage Higher Than In 1923 By Eight Per Cent

AUSTIN, July 4.—The Texas cotton crop stood on June 25 to yield a 70% average crop, on a total of 15,595,000 acres, or eight per cent more acreage than in 1923, according to the estimate of H. H. Schultz, crop statistician of the United States department of agriculture, issued Friday.

Central Texas crops are standing at 69% of normal, and east Texas at 68%; this being balanced by the heavy acreage of northeast and north Texas, and west Texas with an estimate condition of 72%. The 2,796,000 acres in the Panhandle stand to yield 75% of a normal crop, the highest in the state. South Texas, with 1,886,000 acres, is standing at 69%, according to the estimate.

Last year's 14,440,000 acres was the biggest cotton crop ever planted in Texas; but that was increased 1,155,000 acres this year.

Good Average

Texas crops stand nearly as high as the average for the country as a whole, according to the statement. With 40,403,000 acres in cotton, the national crop stands at 71.2% normal now.

Here's what the crop estimate of the government says about the central Texas cotton condition as of June 25:

Late

"The late-planted cotton is just up; many fields are still in grass and weeds; there is over two months difference in ages of plants. The old cotton is blooming and has made good growth during the past few weeks. Stands are poor to fair. Some of the late cotton is not chopped yet. Labor is scarce; grasshoppers, weevil, worms and 'fleas' have done much damage in many localities."

BIG CROWD AT JULY 4TH FETE

Street Car Jumps Track, But Hundreds Get There

Undaunted by a damp and chilly night and undismayed by a refractory street car that hopped the track squarely across the entrance to the fair ground drive, a thousand or more persons turned out Friday night for the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association entertainment at Fairpark. The crowd was not as large as had been expected but it comfortably filled the center of the grandstand.

Fireworks Feature.

With a fast boxing bout carded by the American Legion and with a $600 supply of fireworks on hand, the throng began filing into the stands before dark. They straggled in from then on until after 9.

The street car service was interrupted when one of the biggest cars went wrong just where the branch line leading to the fair grounds leaves the factory rails. One whole truck went off the track, sank into the mud, and there she sat. With the two car lines converging there at the exact spot where the lake and fair ground roads also divide, traffic was seriously interrupted. A detour was necessary for autos and a transfer for street car passengers. Hence there were many long waits that naturally cut into the attendance.

Entertainment Enjoyed.

On the grounds, the crowd rooted vociferously throughout the boxing bouts and then lent approval to the fireworks exhibition that closed the evening. The display was excellent and extensive.

Taylor's band furnished music throughout the evening and provided its usual high class of entertainment.

Sugar Enters by the Ton Into Southern Moonshine

COLUMBIA, S. C., July.—The ups and downs of the sugar market have a real meaning for the makers of moonshine, according to Robert Kirksey, United States marshal for the western district of South Carolina. His jurisdiction includes that portion of the mountainous regions of the state known commonly as the "Dark Corner," which had a reputation for producing "good corn" in blockade stills long before the Volstead edict.

Sugar and molasses, Kirksey said, play an important part in the manufacture of moonshine liquor and the higher the price of these staples the higher the price of the manufactured article, which may reach $8 per gallon by the ton.

Laffalot, Girls' Club, Waurika, Revived With Informal Gathering

WAURIKA, Okla., July 4.—The Laffalot club, a crowd of girls which was noted for several seasons for the originality and merriment which always marked its meetings, has again come to life and is meeting regularly, with a membership of 25. The club is a social one standing for good fellowship and informality.

The meeting Friday night was at the home of Miss Anna Snook. A few of the members brought needle work with them and tongues and fingers kept pace. Several games were played and a number of musical numbers enjoyed, the hostess singing for her guests and several piano selections being given by Misses Lenna Vee Watson, Helen Huffman and Fae Pepin.

An iced collation was served late in the evening.

BRIDE HONOREE AT RECEPTION.

Complimenting Mrs. Durwood Bodenhammer, a recent bride, Mrs. Otto Huffman and Miss Helen Huffman were hostesses Monday night to a group of maids and matrons at the home of Mrs. Huffman. A color scheme of white and yellow was carried out, the flowers being white shasta daisies and yellow marigolds, crystal vases and baskets of them being used.

Each guest was given a cup towel to hem for the bride, the one doing the best and the quickest work to be awarded a prize. Miss Bess Hite was the lucky person and was remembered with a linen towel which she presented to Mrs. Bodenhammer. Following this the guests were given pencils and paper and asked to write five rules for keeping a wife and five rules for keeping a husband. The bride was deluged with good advice ranging from the practical "feed him well" of the older women to the more romantic ideas of the maids in the group.

Late in the evening the honoree was invited to the dining room where the dining table was centered with an enormous white pasteboard cake with a tiny bride and groom and innumerable candles lighting their pathway. Mrs. Bodenhammer was asked to cut the cake, which she did and brought to light a number of packages which were presented in the form of a miscellaneous post-nuptial shower.

After the gifts had been opened and admired, iced refreshments carrying out the color scheme of yellow and white were served to the honor guests and Misses Mary Browning, Nora Maupin, Mary Louise Green, Bess Hite, Eva Cashion, Beth Johnston, Ruth Black, Grace Dunkin and Mesdames C. I. Huffman W. C. Bodenhammer, C. A. Surface, C. R. Cashion; Messrs C. I. Huffman, Otto Huffman and Durwood Bodenhammer augmenting the number of guests for refreshments.

DRUMRIGHT GIRL GUEST AT PARTY.

Wednesday morning, despite threatening clouds, found a group of young people assembled at the new park near the city water supply, when Leon Weiss and Miss Nora Maupin were host and hostess complimenting Miss Elsie Stewart of Drumright, who is a house guest at the Weiss home this week.

The cool morning made the fire building enjoyable and there was an even distribution of labor as regards the preparation for breakfast which consisted of bacon, eggs and coffee, with the addition of other edibles not quite as substantial.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Weiss and Miss Maupin were the honor guest, Miss Olga Denney, Marys Tolleson, Loreena and Loretty Putty, Charlotte Bridges, Bess Hite, Mary Browning, Helen Huffman, Mary Louise and Rebecca Green; Messrs. C. L. Burrel, Jesse Phelan, Floyd Miller, Jack Lane, J. C. Glaze, Tyler Carter and Clinton Maupin.

WILL EDWARDS VISITS HERE

Candidate For Lieutenant Governor Gives Public His Views

Will C. Edwards of Denton, editor-publisher of the Record-Chronicle there and candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, returned to Wichita Falls yesterday from Goree, where the barbecue and picnic, before which he was to have talked, was rained out. An inch and a quarter of rain, breaking the threatened drouth, had fallen there when he left with the fall continuing. The good precipitation continued to within a few miles of Wichita Falls.

Gives Out Statement.

In a statement given out here the Denton candidate said:

"I am seeking the nomination for lieutenant-governor for the honor and for the opportunity of rendering some service to Texas. The only pledge or promise I make is to try to represent fairly and justly every citizen and section of Texas and to give to the affairs of the office the very best that is in me to give. If I go to Austin it will be as 'my own man,' beholding only to the whole people and with no pledges or promises outstanding that would embarrass or handicap me in rendering the very best service of which I am capable to the entire state.

Favors Economy.

"As a matter of course, I favor an economical, efficient administration of the state's affairs. I believe Texas needs a better distribution of its tax burdens rather than additional taxes, and that if every citizen were paying his just proportion, there would be available without any additional taxes the means for taking care of the needs of the state government on the plane to which its relative importance and wealth entitles it. Believing that in education lies the solution of the bulk of our governmental and economic problems of the day, I am interested in every phase of education and shall work, as I have worked as a citizen, editor and legislator, for the upbuilding of the educational system of the state, from bottom to top. I have stood always for law enforcement against all law violators."

Edwards has lived in Denton for 41 years and for 25 years has been publishing the Daily Record-Chronicle. He has held numerous semi-public positions, but the only public office he has ever held was that of member of the legislature, for which he was nominated during his absence from town and to which he was elected without opposition. He has served as president of the Texas Press association and the Texas Daily Press league and has wide acquaintance and support among the newspaper men of the state. He is now president of the Denton chamber of commerce and the Denton Country club.

While here he met with a number of former Denton citizens to confer regarding plans for the campaign.
