Hope For Solution To Money Crisis Revived

AUSTIN (AP)—New hope that the Legislature will work out the state's money crisis without another special session blossomed Saturday.

Swiftly-developing compromises in tax and spending conference committees and blunt word from Gov. Price Daniel that another special session will cost taxpayers money fed the optimism.

Daniel said "The people of Texas are tired of deadlocks, delays and expensive special sessions." If efforts to meet the state's fiscal needs deadlock, he said, he will call a new special session Wednesday.

The present session automatically ends at midnight Tuesday.

Ten-member House and Senate conference committees worked late Friday night. They were back on the job early Saturday. They will continue Sunday morning.

The best sources let this word leak out from behind the locked doors:

We will have a tax bill and a spending bill ready when the Legislature comes back Monday.

The big question still is:

Will the House and Senate be able to agree on a fiscal program that will dissolve the general fund deficit, appropriate operating funds for 1960-61, pass a tax bill that will in one package furnish the money?

Gov. Daniel said:

"The main point of difference on the tax bill is that the Senate upset the balance voted by the House between taxes on individuals and taxes on natural gas and interstate corporations.

REBELS SURRENDER—These rebels raised bedsheet near Santo Domingo, Nicaragua, as white flag of surrender which was voted by 46 of their group of 62. National guardsmen picked them up afterwards. (AP Wirephoto)

"I believe even a partial restoration of this balance in a conference report would receive the approval of a majority of the House and Senate."

In essence, the original House tax bill called for about a 50-50 balance between taxes on big business-natural gas and specialized sales levies. The Senate bill made it about 80 per cent sales tax.

Will a strong House faction dedicated to increased natural gas levies take any compromise that may be worked out? No final answer is possible until the last vote is counted.

Roadblocks in the appropriations conference committee are also under strong dissolving pressures. They are based on such hard-to-reconcile differences as long-standing disagreements over Insurance Department salaries, college appropriations, hospital funds.

"Daniel's early-morning statement urged that the session complete "at least some portion of the tax and deficit problem."

"Part of the problem solved would be better than none at all," he said. "This might at least prevent the need for a third special session."

The money troubles must be worked out before the 1960-61 fiscal year starts Sept. 1. If not, vital state services will be seriously crippled.

Daniel said that if the present session does not finish some of its job, all of its work in effect will go down the drain. "The Legislature will have to start from scratch again Wednesday morning," he said.

"There is still time to break the apparent deadlock between the House and Senate if reasonable men in each house will continue their efforts to resolve the differences between the House and Senate tax and appropriations bills," the governor reminded lawmakers.

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

BY WACIL McNair

Climaxing a three-year study, the Colorado River Municipal Water District has made its move to develop one of the last known surface water sources in this area. The huge lake which the district proposes to build in Mitchell County may come in just the nick of time, according to growth trends in the cities served by the district.

Lake J. B. Thomas, the district's first reservoir (and only one so far) was designed to provide 30 million gallons of water per day over the long haul. Present estimates are that the three member cities of the CRMWD, Snyder, Big Spring and Odessa, will be using that much water by 1960.

So, if the territory is going to have sufficient water for development beyond that year, the water district must get the ball rolling.

Of course the district has some well fields in Martin County, which have been used heretofore mostly to help supply Odessa, it is not unlikely that the CRMWD will be called upon to serve some other cities in the future.

Indeed, there have been inquiries from other cities several times in the past. As the water demands continue to soar, while supplies become more limited, those who have adequate supplies will be extremely fortunate.

The new reservoir in Mitchell County would impound floodwaters from Deep Creek, incidentally. At present, the creek which flows through Snyder is one of the few remaining in West Texas that is capable of producing good water for domestic use which has not been developed.

Houston Officers Nab Bank Robber

HOUSTON (AP) — An armed man robbed the Airline State Bank Saturday but police arrested the man and recovered the $7,000 loot a few minutes later when the escape automobile crashed into a police car.

Police placed the amount stolen as $7,000 nearly two hours after the robbery. A bank official earlier had said only a modest amount was taken.

The vehicles collided two blocks from the bank.

The man had barely missed crashing into a customer's vehicle as he fled from the bank's drivein window.

The man gave his name to police as Charles Wood, 26, and said he was a citizen of British Honduras.

Both Wood and Patrolman Glover Seale were rushed to hospital after the collision. Wood was treated for a head cut, Seale for chest injuries.

W. S. Pobworth Jr., president of the bank, said the amount taken was modest.

E. M. Hudson, a witness, chased the robber until the automobile collision and told reporters an FBI agent had placed the loot at $7,000. Eugene Hawkins, FBI agent in charge, agreed with Pobworth that the amount had not been determined.

Hudson said he had just made a deposit and was in his pickup truck in the bank parking lot when he saw the man get in a large automobile and speed away. Hudson said he decided to chase the man.

A short distance from the bank, the robber changed to a smaller automobile. Hudson said the man threatened him with a gun as he pulled up beside him during the vehicle change. He said he began the chase again and reached speeds of 70 to 80 miles before the escape automobile crashed into the patrol car.

Mrs. Elise Miller, 34, said she was working in the teller's cage with seven other women when the man walked inside the cage.

"I thought he was a workman or repairman or something," she said. "I jokingly asked him, 'you going to rob us?' he replied: 'Yeah, that's right'."

Mrs. Miller said she turned away "still thinking he was kidding."

NAACP Leader Raps Houston Vote Plans

DALLAS (AP)—An official of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People criticized the Houston School Board Saturday for calling an election on integration.

The election can serve no good purpose and could have a bad reaction, said Clarence Laws, NAACP field secretary.

"The surprising decision of the Houston School Board to hold an election can serve absolutely no good purpose and could do serious harm to the integration program when it is eventually initiated.

Nobody Giving Ground

By TOM OCHILTREE

GENEVA (AP)—The crisis-ridden four power foreign ministers conference may wind up next week. Western officials Saturday saw only a slender chance that some Berlin agreement might be salvaged from the talks.

The British camp professed more hope than the United States and French delegations that something can yet be pulled out of the bag. The Soviet line remained unchanged—that there remained a prospect of agreement on Moscow's terms.

In the last few days the Western powers and the Soviet Union made slight pullbacks which kept the negetiations barely alive. Now all four governments have a weekend to reflect on what a complete failure would mean. They may find a way of ending the talks under a recess arrangement.

There has been no rush by either side to break off the talks completely. The implications of the Berlin issue show that both the Western powers and the Soviet Union are in a tight corner.

If the conference finally collapses, the Western powers expect a greatly amplified Soviet propaganda campaign to take the Berlin and German problems to a summit meeting regardless of the disagreements uncovered by the foreign ministers.

U.S. officials stressed that the West would turn down Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's bid for top-level talks unless the Soviets come through with proposals preserving Western rights in Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France firmly agreed that the Soviets' one-year deadline on Allied rights in West Berlin never can be accepted.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko remained in Geneva to study possible ways out of the diplomatic maze. There was no plan for them to meet.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd returned to their capitals for consultations.

Lloyd got off an airplane in London Friday night urging patience. He arranged weekend talks with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan—the Western leader most disposed to go to the summit.

Extension Of Pact Is Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said Saturday that U.S. and Mexican negotiators have decided to recommend a one-year extension of the present temporary civil aviation agreement while talks continue.

The current interim arrangement is due to expire June 30. Negotiations on a final agreement under way now in Mexico City are slated for renewal this fall.

Recommendation for the one-year extension was passed on to officials of both governments, who are expected to confirm the deal by an exchange of diplomatic notes.

The State Department statement said renewed discussions would involve a further study of operations under the present arrangement and expansion of current air routes between the two countries.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday, 95 degrees, low, 65 degrees; reading at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, 73 degrees.

Forecast for all Texas: Partly cloudy through Sunday, with isolated late afternoon and evening thundershowers. No important temperature changes.

IT'S TIME TO CLEAN UP, says Mayor Harold Bennett, seated here as he signs a proclamation for Paint-Up, Fix-Up, Clean-Up Week in Snyder, and Stanford Land, who is cleanup chairman for the Jaycees. The Jaycees will lead the annual campaign here. (Lee Watson photograph)

Cooperation Urged In Clean-Up Drive

Paint-up, Fix-up, Clean-up Week will begin in Snyder tomorrow, and the Jaycees, who are leading the campaign are urging cooperation of Snyder residents in making the annual drive successful.

"The success of the drive depends almost entirely upon property owners," Stanford Land, Jaycee cleanup chairman, said as he urged residents to clean up around their homes and property.

In connection with the cleaning up and making things brighter around homes, the Jaycees are organizing their own members and other civic clubs in Snyder, working with the health and sanitation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, to pick up trash which has been gathered by residents in the campaign. Chairman of the chamber health committee is Phil Burns.

Almost every residence, Land said, has weeds, tree limbs, old boards or other trash which needs cleaning up. This is the opportunity for the residents to gather them up and have them hauled off free by civic clubs.

Land reminded homeowners in the area of north Snyder hit by the severe windstorm several days ago that the cleanup campaign is a good time for them to gather up debris on their property and leave it where they leave their garbage so it can be picked up this week.

Jaycees and other civic club members who will participate in the pickup later in the week urged residents to place their trash in containers so they can be picked up easily. Tree limbs should be bundled. The trash should be placed at the alley or at the same place the city sanitation department picks up garbage.

Monday and Tuesday will be paint-up and fix-up days in the campaign, while Wednesday and Thursday have been designated as the best days for clean-up. Friday will be pick-up day.

Mayor Harold Bennett has issued a proclamation setting aside the five days for the special week:

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, with the passage of time, a city, like a house, may become cluttered and may fall into disrepair and,

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the people of Snyder to avoid the onus attendant upon maintaining cluttered and dilapidated premises by means of a concerted annual effort to maintain our city in a state of gleaming repair,

NOW, THEREFORE, by the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Snyder, I, Harold Bennett, proclaim the period beginning with the sunrise on June 15th and lasting through sunset on June 20th, PAINT-UP, FIX-UP, CLEAN-UP week during which period the residents of Snyder shall abandon all trifling pastimes and dedicate themselves and direct their energies to removing trash, rubbish and dirt from their city and repair and restore whatever has fallen into a state of dilapidation or disrepair.

Harold Bennett, Mayor

Testimony Ends In Assualt Trial

By ARTHUR EVERETT

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Testimony came to an end shortly after noon Saturday in the Tallahassee rape trial of four white defendants. Final arguments and the judge's charge were scheduled before the case goes to the jury later in the day.

The windup of the testimony produced a conflict of medical opinion over the sanity of the eldest of the four white youths accused in the May 2 rape of a 19-year-old Negro university coed.

He is Willion Collinsworth, 23.

Three court appointed psychiatrists testified for the state that he was legally sane and knew right from wrong at the time the girl claimed she was attacked.

A defense psychiatrist pronounced him sane as of three weeks after the crime. But that doctor said that under the influence of drink, Collinsworth would have been insane at the time the girl was raped.

Collinsworth is on trial for his life with three other youths, Ollie Stoutamire, 16, Patrick Scarborough, 20, and David F. Beagles, 18. He is the only one pleading insanity.

No white man, as far as Florida records reveal, has ever been executed for the rape of a Negro. But a finding of guilty without a recommendation of mercy by the male white jury would mean a death sentence for the four.

Trial began Wednesday in the second-floor circuit court room of Judge W. May Walker in the Leon County Courthouse. It has drawn a capacity crowd of more than 300 spectators daily with Negroes in the balcony and whites downstairs.

Collinsworth, who had shown hardly a flicker of emotion during three previous days in court, broke down and wept Saturday as relatives and his wife sketched in his bleak childhood and a manhood clouded by stormy, raging drink-induced blackouts.

The defendants' trail wife, Pearlie, 23, herself gave way to tears repeatedly while testifying that her husband wasn't responsible for his actions the night the Negro girl was raped.

"He was very well on his way to being dead drunk," she said of her last sight of him a few hours before the rape occurred.

She testified Collinsworth when not drinking was a good husband, a good father to their two small children, a steady worker and a good provider.

On the night of May 1, the woman continued, Collinsworth came home tired after a week of work as a telephone company lineman, and for that reason she yielded to his pleas for money to buy a bottle of whisky.

U. S. Woman Tops In Longevity

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, (AP)—At age 116, our last Civil War veteran is far shy of the record for human longevity.

If, that is, you accept claims of some past and present oldtimers.

The Soviet Union proudly reports a raft of ancients, including a few aged 130 to 166. An Iranian gentleman declares he is 185.

Then there was a Dane, Christian Jacobsen Drakenberg, who married a widow of 60 when he was 111 and outlived her. He was reputed to be 146 when he died in 1772.

Despite doubts over reliability of records, a couple of facts about longevity stick out.

One is that the American woman is the longest-lived mammal on earth, with an average lifespan of 73 years.

American men trail the women by six years.

A second fact: Average lifespan is going up. Some experts foresee a potential human average span of 100 to 150 years.

Medicine now is helping the longevity climb of Walter Williams of Houston, Tex., last Civil War survivor. Perhaps he could live even longer than he will if he had had the benefits of present medical knowledge all his life.

Again, perhaps not. His amazing age could stem primarily from heredity — Williams says his grandfather reached 119.

Heredity and good luck will take one of every 33,000 Americans to the century mark or better, authorities estimate.

In perilous caveman times, average life expectancy was a cut-on-the-bloom 18. Romans reached the low side of 30. Americans born in 1900 could expect only 50 years, average.

Always there have been long-lived individuals — Methuselah aside.

By its word, the Soviet Union houses the greatest number of remarkable oldsters. Moscow reports 30,000 Soviet citizens over the century mark, and (three years ago) listed the king of them as a Caucasus farmer reported to be 166 years old then.

In the province of Dagestan, says Moscow, are 2,000 persons aged 100 to 147. Two years ago, Moscow reported the death of the "oldest man in the world," 157-year-old Igor Koreyev, a kitchen boy in a Russian army that battled Napoleon.

Javier Periera, a Colombian Indian, died last year at the self-styled age of 168. New York doctors had examined him earlier, couldn't fix his age, but said he might be 150 for all they knew.

U.S. experts are cautious about trying to say who is the oldest living American, or who lived the longest. Old records are unreliable, they feel. A news item in 1957 told of the death in Chicago of Annie Biggs Williams, who had said she was 125.

Long Favors Sen. Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana favors Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas for the Democratic nomination for president.

Long expressed his preference in a talk prepared for radio broadcast in Louisiana.

He said Johnson is "probably the ablest man in public life in America."

"I think he would make a great president and I imagine if I had anything to say about it — which I perhaps will not — he would be the man I would look to," Long added.

Coalmen Support Import Controls

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coal industry, seeking to benefit from curtailed oil imports, formally voiced support last week for the government's newly imposed import controls.

The National Coal Policy Conference, holding its first meeting, commended the Eisenhower administration's mandatory curbs on fuel oil imports as a policy designed to protect domestic industry and "maintain a self-reliant multi-fuel base in event of war."

The new coal organization is made up of mining, labor, railroad and related groups.

Expanding on the organization's stand, Joseph Moody, its president, declared: "President Eisenhower and his advisers issued the order limiting fuel oil imports only after months of study of the situation, the needs of the country, and the availability of bituminous coal." Moody also is president of the Southern Coal Producers Assn.

Oil import levels for the rest of this year, recently announced, brought approval from the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America as "encouraging and commendable."

Navy Capt. M. V. Carson Jr., administrator of the program for controlling oil imports, recently gave this appraisal of the program:

"We are off to a good start, and the progress to date indicates that the national security objectives of the program are being met."

There have been objections to import quotas from importing companies and many hearings have been held to consider them. Some protests have been allowed, others rejected.

Scurry Wildcat, Kent Field Try

Humble Oil and Refining Co. staked No. 1 J. J. Belew as a 6,800-foot rotary wildcat one mile southwest of Fluvanna in Scurry County.

Location spots 660 feet from the north and east lines of Section 463, Block 97, HTC Survey.

Sun Oil Co. No. N-1 Bilby Wallace North will be a 6,800-foot rotary project in the Clairemont, North Lower Pennsylvanian Field.

Location is 560 feet from the north and 467 feet from the west lines of Section 20, Block 98, HTC Survey, two miles north of Clairemont.

Garza Producer, New Project

The Justiceburg, Northwest multipay field of Garza County gained its third San Andres producer with completion of McCrary & Franklin of Post No. 3-130-B McCrary, 14 miles east of Post.

It was finaled for a daily pumping potential of 64 barrels of 36.8 gravity oil, plus 42 per cent water, through perforations between 1,948-958 feet.

Location is 940 feet from the north line and 990 feet from the east line of 130-5-H&GN.

The Sierra Corp., San Angelo, will drill the No. 3-B Connell ½ mile north of production in the O S Ranch (Glorieta) field of Garza County, 15 miles southeast of Post.

Location is 330 feet from the south and east lines of the northeast quarter of 39-5-GH&H. Scheduled depth is 3,000 feet.

239 Oil, 20 Gas Wells Completed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Saturday drillers brought in 239 oil wells last week and 20 gas wells.

Some 8,350 oil wells have been completed this year compared to 6,146 a year ago. A total of 896 gas wells have been drilled against 1,099 this date in 1958.

Wildcatters drilled 11 oil wells. For the week, 120 dry holes were plugged.

The daily oil allowable increased 16,164 barrels to 2,892,815 barrels a day.

Monkeys Soon To Pioneer Space Return

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP) —Monkeys soon are going to pioneer man's safe return from trips into space, officials said Saturday.

They will be rocketed 100 miles up inside the full-sized capsules being developed as man's home while in space. Then the capsules will parachute down for recovery at sea, or on land.

On May 28, the monkeys Able and Baker rode 300 miles into space on a 1,700-mile-long trip in the nose cone of a rocket. But their compartment was just big enough to hold them, not like the man-sized compartments in which other monkeys will ride in the projected tests.

The goal is to prove out absolutely reliable methods for recovering the capsule and its human or animal occupant—everytime. It is one more step advancing the day of man in space.

This is one project at America's third and newest space-port here at Wallops Island, the others being Cape Canaveral, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Wallops is an isolated strip of sand on the ocean side of the toe of the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia Peninsula forming Chesapeake Bay.

Operated now by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, it will start putting scientific rockets into orbit late this year.

Project officials said rhesus monkeys and a chimpanzee will zoom up beginning late in July or in August in rockets dubbed Little Joes. These are combinations of Sergeant and Recruit rockets, developing about 250,000 pounds of thrust.

Rhesus monkeys will ride up 10 to 100 miles high, landing 10 to 150 miles out at sea for recovery by picket ships and perhaps helicopters.

A chimpanzee in one capsule will test a special rocket escape mechanism, the officials added.

Whittled Aid Measure Due House Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house takes up Monday a whittled-down and redirected version of President Eisenhower's $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

Leaders predicted passage about Wednesday, but foresaw tough negotiations later to reconcile the House bill with a still different version taking shape in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The House bill would authorize a $3,642,600,000 program for the year beginning July 1. This is $266,800,000 less than Eisenhower proposed, but the net reduction does not tell the whole story.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee cut $366,800,000 from military and grant economic aid items but added 100 million to Eisenhower's 700 million dollar recommendation for the development loan fund. This is the source of loans for hard-to-finance projects in underdeveloped countries.

Demo Leaders Back Drive For Compromise Labor Bill

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders are backing a drive to try to bring a compromise labor bill to a vote in the House next month.

Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, in a move to end bickering in the House Labor Committee, has spurred the speedup effort by according at least tentative backing to methods proposed by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif).

The Roosevelt approach, embodied in an eleventh-hour bill, would limit the legislation to antiracketering controls which reflect some suggestions already put forth by various labor union spokesmen.

Any consideration of controversial amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act would be postponed until next year, and made subject to recommendations of a joint Senate-House study committee.

Rayburn told newsmen Saturday that Congress must act this session on antiracketeering legislation. But he said he did not want to involve the House in irrelevant controversy over Taft-Hartley revision.

Roosevelt's proposals, drafted after consultation with House leaders, appeared to conform in part to Rayburn's standards. The Californian said most labor committee members have agreed informally on a target date of July 15 for approving a labor bill—"although I think we can beat this," he said.

Committee Republicans, a minority of 10 on the 30-member committee, have teamed up with one Democratic faction in the effort to get a bill to the floor. Rep. William H. Ayres (R-Ohio) said he thought this could be done in 10 days.

Roosevelt said he regarded the general provisions of his bill acceptable to organized labor.

"In all honesty, I must say that some labor leaders don't want a bill of rights," he said. "But they can live with it, and the rest of the provisions are completely acceptable."

Roosevelt has adopted almost verbatim a so-called "Bill of Rights" put forward by spokesmen for James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union at committee hearings last week.

This would require by law that all union constitutions spell out rules of order, disciplinary provisions; the right of members to seek redress; the right to vote on dues changes and elections, and the right of members to voice opinions on all matters "directly or indirectly" affecting their union.

Another major provision of Roosevelt's bill was taken in its entirety from New York State law prescribing rules for financial reporting and fiduciary obligations of union officials.

Violations, however, would be misdemeanors rather than felonies, and would be punishable by no more than a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

His bill also includes some amendments to Taft-Hartley which Roosevelt said are noncontroversial. These include repeal of the non-Communist oath requirement.

Most Crops Are Making Progress

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Crops, except for 350,000 acres of cotton hailed or washed out in the South Plains and lower Panhandle, are reported by district agents of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as making excellent progress.

Director John Hutchison said, "The battle against grass and weeds and insects is on but with more sunshine and the favorable moisture situation farmers are optimistic over prospects for a good production year."

Range and livestock conditions were reported as good to excellent in all sections.

Recent heavy rains have filled stock tanks, said Roy Huckabee from San Angelo, W. H. Jones, Lubbock, and J. G. Simmons, Vernon.

The condition of crops was varied—ranging from the replanting in West Texas to a heavy set of fruit in the earlier areas. Early insect control was general in most areas.

Corn is in the roasting ear stage in South Texas and has reached the "lay-by" stage north to the northern blacklands. Grain sorghums are being planted in west and northwest areas and is mostly headed in the coastal areas.

The small grain harvest was delayed by rains. Wheat yields in North Texas were good but oat yields were short. The wheat harvest in the Rolling Plains was 5 to 75 per cent complete.

Hay baling was stopped by the rains. Rains in East Texas area have been excessive and all crops there, especially tomatoes, are suffering from too much moisture.

Vegetables were being harvested in Harris, Hardin and Waller counties and rice was making good growth.

All destroyed cotton will be replanted as soon as weather permits, said W. H. Jones from Lubbock. Rains ranged up to 7 inches in some South Plains counties.

Shearing is about completed in far West Texas and lambs are moving to market at good weights. Ranges are improving and cotton was making good progress.

Little rain damage was reported from San Angelo. The small grain harvest was stopped and crop cultivation delayed, but the rains filled stock tanks and improved range conditions, he said. Lamb marketing is increasing as sheep shearing nears completion, he added.

Oats were ripe in Central Texas but harvesting had been delayed by rain. Yields were about average.

The rains stopped all farming in notheast Texas. All crops are making rapid growth.

Texas Onion Rank Appears In Danger

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' high rank as an onion producing state is in danger.

"The outlook for Texas onion growers this year is not especially encouraging," the Bureau of Business Research said in a report on the 1959 crop Saturday.

Onion acreage harvested in Texas usually accounts for about one-third of the total U.S. acreage and about 10 per cent of the total U.S. production.

Currently the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates the state's early spring crop at 1,788,000 pounds—30 per cent below 1958 production and 20 per cent lower than the 1949-57 average.

"A wet planting season followed by cool, damp, cloudy weather during January and February prohibited much needed field work and retarded plant growth," the bureau report said. "The Winter Garden and Coastal Bend areas were hardest hit, but blight, thin stands and small plants were prevalent in all areas of South Texas. To complete the early spring disaster field work was delayed in most areas by showers in mid-April—the height of the early spring harvest season."

'Today' Producers Can't Find Woman

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—You won't find it in the help wanted columns. But if the producers of Dave Garroway's "Today" show ran an ad, it would read something like this:

"Girl wanted. Young, attractive, poised; some knowledge of world affairs, fashion; good speaking voice; sales ability. Five-day week, unusual hours. Salary $750 week upwards."

For the last eight months the producing staff of Today have been hunting a permanent female addition to the three male regulars on NBC's eyeopener program. Since then almost 25 young women, billed as Today's "Girl of the Week," have plugged the hole on a temporary basis, but the search for someone to slip into the shoes of Helen O'Connell and Betsy Palmer continues.

"We've been looking for a long time, and we haven't thought of any of the girls we've used as temporary," says producer Robert L. Bendick. "But for one reason or another, none of the girls so far has been just right."

A number of them—including Gretchen Wyler, Doretta Morrow, Ludi Claire and Jeanne Bal—met all the requirements, but had conflicting theatrical commitments.

"A girl is essential to the show," Bendick continues. "You need a woman's face to brighten up things. And you also need a woman for some types of features—fashions, beauty and talking to certain guests. And there are some products which require a woman salesman on the show."

The production staff is making a systematic search for the ideal girl. They are looking at Broadway shows, movies and television programs — network and local shows all over the country. The show's talent coordinator has seen between 200 and 300 girls. Bendick has been interviewing at a rate of four or five a week.

"We are not looking for any one type," says Bendick. "After all, both Helen O'Connell and Betsy Palmer were great, but they were not the least bit alike. But the girl has to wear well—be pleasant to have around. She has to have a pleasant voice—a shrill voice can bother you at 7 a.m. And, important, she's got to be bright and cheerful early in the morning, vivacious and she has to look well-scrubbed."

The girl should have some professional experience to have given her poise, timing and an easy manner before audiences.

Convicted In 1933 Slaying

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arthur J. Eisenman, 51, was convicted Friday of first degree murder in the slaying of Nadine Vogel Love, 6, in April, 1933. Her death was unsolved for 25 years.

A district court jury which brought in the verdict recommended life imprisonment. Judge O. Q. Claflin III said he would pronounce sentence after ruling on a motion for a new trial June 18.

Following his arrest on a bad check charge in San Francisco last October, Eisenman confessed killing Nadine and said her death had been on his conscience.

But he said then—and maintained during his trial—that he accidentally struck her with his car and then panicked, disposing of her body on a wooded hillside.

The state said the child was raped and strangled.

Eisenman's former wife, Elizabeth, shared the secret of Nadine's death through the years and is awaiting trial as an accessory after the fact. She testified against her ex-husband.

Collision Kills Two

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP)—The collision of two trucks near here killed one person and injured three Friday. Mrs. G. A. Helpenstill of Livingston, Tex., died at a Waxahachie hospital.

Showmen Starting '59 Summer Tours

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Show business is off on its coast to coast summer swing with acting galore.

Variety is the keynote in the theatrical array of pageants, plays and musicals. The style ranges from big time sheen to small town charm.

Several new events, more stars and recent Broadway hits feature the fare on display from now through mid-September in amphitheaters, tents and re-made barns.

Among name performers joining the silo trek are Jane Russell, Joan Fontaine, Doretta Morrow, Bert Lahr, Bert Wheeler, Joe E. Brown, Pat O'Brien, Franchot Tone and Michael O'Shea. Also June Havoc, Lisa Kirk, Susan Strasberg, Virginia Mayo and the two Bennetts, Constance and Joan.

Shirley Booth, a one-spot summer stock performer in the past, is making her first vernal swing about in "Nina." Missing from the suitcase company will be one of its most stalwart members, Tallulah Bankhead, out of action because of a recent fall that fractured several ribs.

The trend to tents for major summer entertainment, a phenomenon that celebrated its 10th anniversary last season, continues with four more canvas carnivals opening at Rosecroft, Md., Pine Brook, N.J., West Springfield, Mass., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

The musical bigtops' trade association, with 23 members across the land, forecasts an attendance of almost 6 million and a gross of 12 million dollars for such bills as "Babes in Arms," "Show Boat," "The King and I," "The Boy Friend," "Silk Stockings," and an oldtimer relabeled "The New Merry Widow."

Among more recent Broadway items being packaged for bucolic display are "Say Darling," "Li'l Abner," "Bells Are Ringing" and "Jamaica."

A big batch of straight scripts are similarly being submitted to pre-Broadway trial. These include "A Piece of Blue Sky" with Shelley Winters, "Red Letter Day" with Gloria Swanson and Buddy Rogers; the aforementioned Miss Fontaine in "Hilary"; and "The Law and Mr. Simon" with Menasha Skulnik.

Grandmother Has Perfect Record

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP)—A grandmother was graduated from San Luis Obispo Junior College Friday with the first perfect scholastic record in the school's 24 years.

She had straight As and was made a life member of Alpha Gamma Sigma, junior college equivalent of Phi Beta Kappa.

She is Mrs. Natalie Wolfe, 50, grandmother of four and wife of an electronics professor at California Polytechnic College here.

Another Leader Of Rebel Band Captured

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—One of the leaders of the fading rebel bands in Nicaragua has been captured and is being brought to Managua today, the chief of the nation's armed forces announced.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza identified him as Freddy Fernandez, a Dominican. He was one of a group of 16 rebels who refused to join their comrades in a mass surrender near Santo Domingo earlier this week and fled into the jungle as guerrillas.

Local Sailor With Squadron At Malta

Walter J. Martin, aviation machinist's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Martin of Snyder, is serving with Attack Mining Squadron 13 which departed Norfolk, Va., in early May for the Island of Malta.

The squadron, which flies the P2V-5F "Neptune," a jet equipped patrol plane, is based at Halfar, Malta, and will participate in operational exercises with the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Stock Market In Retreat During Week

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again this week, continuing its "correction" of recent historic highs.

It was the second straight weekly decline. The drop was less than half the amount of last week's setback, which was the sharpest weekly drop in a year and a half.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.10 to $223.70. The record high, reached May 29, is $230.30.

Volume, though still comparatively low, expanded to 15,468,114 shares compared with 14,785,757 the week before.

Among all 1,410 stocks traded, losers outnumbered gainers by 722 to 542.

The worst damage to prices was done on Monday when Wall Street experienced the worst shakeout in half a year. President Eisenhower's official request that Congress scrap the interest rate ceiling on government bonds was deemed the "excuse" the market had been looking for.

U.S. government bonds closed higher for the week but it was a very uneasy advance on extremely light volume. Corporate securities continued to drift downward.

The corporate market ended the week lower on balance. Rails were off sharply and investment quality issues declined. Utilities closed unchanged. Foreign dollar bonds advanced and 86 did industrials, spurred by acrobatic performances by some industrial convertibles.

Star Shortage Is Plaguing Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film industry's biggest headache is not television nor the sagging box office. It's the star shortage.

That was underlined again with the cancelling of "Bachelor's Baby," which Dick Powell was to produce and direct for 20th Century-Fox. Reason: the studio couldn't find a female star to appear opposite Bing Crosby.

Bing has long had a policy of insisting on strong names to co-star with him.

One of the few times he agreed to be the sole star of a picture was "Man on Fire." It was a flop, and Bing is more firm than ever in his conviction that he should have one or more top names opposite him.

A British movie about Hollywood? It could happen. Robert Kirsch, book editor of the Los Angeles Times, reports interest from an English film company in his new novel, "In the Wrong Rain." The story is about a business manager for film stars who gets involved in a romance with a young acting hopeful.

James Cagney is submerging his Cagneyisms to portray Bull Halsey in "The Gallant Hours." Says he: "I've had to unlearn all the tricks and shortcuts I've collected over the years. The truth is that Halsey is such a direct, no-nonsense guy that any mannerisms would seem phony."

Price Goes For Money Making Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The most unlikely prospect to be king of the shock movies is debonair Vincent Price.

Yes, the same Price who once played Prince Albert to Helen Hayes' "Victoria Regina." The vulture for culture who has displayed his art knowledge on TV quiz shows, who owns one of Hollywood's finest collections of paintings.

His current movie is "The Tingler," which is guaranteed to win no plaudits from the longhair critics.

Price couldn't care less.

"Sometimes I think most stars make movies to impress their friends with an artistic triumph," he remarked. "I'd rather be in pictures that make money."

His record has been pretty impressive. He started in the chillers a few years back with "House of Wax," which he reported made 9 million dollars for Warner Brothers.

Last year he swatted out "The Fly" — "The only picture besides 'Peyton Place' that made money for 20th Century-Fox in 1958." Then came "The House on Haunted Hill," which is now racking up fantastic grosses. He just finished "The Bat," a reworking of the old stage thriller. Now "The Tingler," whatever that is.

"It's the best gimmick for a horror picture yet," Price explained. "The monster is actually in all of us; it's the inner fear that can actually scare us to death if not given some release.

"I think people are fed up with problem pictures," he said. "That is why 'Auntie Mame' and 'The Shaggy Dog' are so successful. And that's why horror movies are, too."

Grand Jury Due Monday

The June-July Scurry County grand jury will be impaneled here tomorrow.

A grand jury panel is to report to the district courtroom at 9 a.m.

Wayland G. Holt, district attorney, said the grand jury will have at least nine felony cases to consider, including four burglary charges, one and possibly two forgery cases, two theft charges, and two of child desertion.

Members of the grand jury panel are H. F. Billingsley, L. R. Stuckey, G. E. Parks, Glen E. Foster, O. M. Martin, T. B. Scrivner, George J. Webb, Fickas Bell, Russell Jones, Jr., Bill Eiland, C. V. Thompson, Jr., W. T. Layfield, Jess Koonsman, Mozell Roggenstein, G. C. Brumley and H. D. Moreland.

Borgnine Is Wife-Beater, Says Spouse

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Ernest Borgnine, who won a 1956 Oscar for portraying a lovable butcher, is a wife beater, says his estranged wife.

And Mexican actress Katy Jurado is a home wrecker, adds Rhoda K. Borgnine.

Mrs. Borgnine, 34, heavy-set and matronly looking, made the accusations Friday in asking Superior Court to set aside the interlocutory divorce decree granted her last Aug. 29.

Borgnine, 42, denied the accusations, and said he hopes to marry Miss Jurado. He denied she had anything to do with the breakup of his marriage.

In her 26-page affidavit, Mrs. Borgnine charged:

Borgnine coerced her to file for divorce while she was highly nervous and under the influence of tranquilizers.

"He said he would say his sex life was unsatisfactory," the affidavit added, "and that I refused to have more children.

"He didn't realize I had an answer to all his allegations. He didn't know a woman never forgets getting beat up—lips swollen, eye blackened, black - and - blue marks so that the dress for the Academy Awards back in 1956 had to be changed in style so the marks didn't show."

The Borgnines were married in 1949 and have a 6-year-old daughter.

Foundation Board To Meet Tomorrow

The board of directors of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation will hold its monthly meeting Monday.

The meeting will be at 3:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce office.

One item on the agenda will be appointment of a new director to fill the unexpired term of H. H. Eiland, who resigned.

Child Is Killed In Freak Accident

FRANKLIN, Mass. (AP)—Four-year-old Cheryl Mulvey was killed Friday in a freak accident. She was run over twice by the family car in the driveway of her home. Police said Cheryl was playing in the driveway when her sister Susan, 3, climbed into the car, the automobile rolled backward and passed over the child. Then it rolled up an incline that sent it forward again and ran over the little girl a second time.

TOURNAMENT MEDALIST—Frank Mackey of TCU and Colorado City, above, won medalist honors in the Snyder Invitational. Mackey and three others tied for medalist honors Friday with Mackey capturing the prize in a special playoff yesterday with a 67.

ENDURANCE MATCH—Pictured are the principals in the longest match of the first round of play in the Country Club Invitational yesterday. Gus White, Jr., of Lamesa is admiring his putter that finally wore down Don Gandy of San Angelo, right, on the 23rd hole. (Lee Watson photographs)

Scott, Mackey, White, Rains To Semi-Finals

Defending champion Donald Ray Scott breezed into the semi-finals of the 5th annual Snyder Country Club Invitational Tournament yesterday with two convincing victories.

Scott, the local hotshot, was joined in the semi-finals by Frank Mackey of Colorado City, Gus White, Jr., of Lamesa and Bernard Rains of Big Spring.

In today's semi-final matches, Scott will battle Mackey and White will meet Rains. The Scott-Mackey duel will begin at 10:15 while the White-Rains match will begin at 9:10.

Winner of the two semi-final matches will clash for the tournament championship at about 2:45 p.m.

Scott took out John Pickering in the first round Saturday, 3-2, and then scored a surprisingly easy victory over Abilene's Dan Winters in the afternoon quarter-finals, 5-4.

Mackey, playing perhaps the best golf of the day, eliminated Bobby Brown of Lamesa in the opening round and then came back in the afternoon to overwhelm Dr. R. J. Kidd of Snyder in the afternoon by a whopping 6-5 count.

—Scott, the only local player to survive both rounds yesterday, was still the man to beat in this his bid for a second straight title something that no other defending champion has accomplished.

But the Snyder realtor has a tough customer in this morning's semi-finals in Colorado City's Mackey.

Frank Mackey, young TCU links star from Colorado City, captured medalist honors in a special playoff. Mackey and three others tied for medalist honors in Friday's qualifying rounds, each with one over par 71s. The playoff was then set for first round matches Saturday morning.

Mackey fired a 67 in his first round match yesterday morning to win the medalist prize of one dozen golf balls.

The other three involved in the playoff for the medal prize yesterday were Buster Tuttle of Lamesa, Gene Spurgin of Midland and R. S. McCullah of Big Spring.

Mackey put together rounds of 32-35 Saturday morning to win the title.

All of the three "co-medalists" bowed out in first round play. Spurgin lost a 2-1 decision to Dr. Kidd. Tuttle lost 2-1 to Winters and McCullah dropped a 3-2 decision to Snyder's Coker.

There were no major surprises in the first round matches. The feature match of the opening round was Gus White's 1-up victory over John Gandy of San Angelo in a 23-hole thriller.

The Lamesa polo star and ex-Tornado grid great finally wore down Gandy with a par on the 23rd hole. Gandy missed on a 4-foot putt for a par on 23.

Only three Snyderites survived the first round of play. Joining Dr. Kidd and Coker was defending champion Don Scott who defeated fellow-townsman John Pickering, 3-2.

Seventy-two golfers posted qualifying scores. Five flights are included in the field including the Senior Flight which has eight entries. The Senior Flight is made up of men 45 years and up. The Senior Flighters are playing 54 holes medal.

Red Alston of Sweetwater is leading the Senior Flight with 144 after 36 holes, followed by Cecil McClatchey of Snyder with 148. The final 18 holes will be played in the Senior Flight Sunday.

Alston evened par yesterday at 70 to go with his first round of 74 Friday. McClatchey has a 77-71.

Following are results of the first and second round matches:

3 HOMERS PROVIDE SPARK

Yanks Turn Back Tigers By 6-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Home runs by Mickey Mantle, Marv Throneberry and Tony Kubek helped the New York Yankees defeat Detroit Saturday 6-4 in a game stopped by rain in the first of the ninth.

After Frank Bolling led off the ninth with a single, it started to rain.

Mantle's 13th homer, following a single by Norm Siebern, gave the Yanks a two-run lead in the first. After Lou Berberet's two-run homer in the second tied the score, the Yanks took the lead for keeps on Marv Throneberry's homer leading off the third.

The third Yankee homer off loser Jim Bunning was hit by Tony Kubek after Bill Skowron singled in the fourth.

IN PONY LEAGUE TILT

Tiger Duo Hurls No-Hitter, Lose

A no-hit pitching performance by two Courthouse Tiger pitchers last night was to no avail as the Von Roeder Red Sox beat the Bengals, 4-3, in a Pony League contest.

The Furr Yankees exploded for 10 runs in bottom of the first inning and coasted home with a 14-7 victory over the Snyder Savings Braves in Friday's Graduate Pony League contest.

Ed Carl Foree and Ronnie Bennett of the Tigers combined in hurling the no-hitter for the Tigers but 15 bases on balls and one hit batsman proved their undoing.

The Red Sox pushed over a run in the first and three in the third for a 4-0 lead and then staved off the Tigers in the late innings.

Jimmy Wilson of the Red Sox turned in a fine mound performance for the Red Sox, limiting the Tigers to two hits — both singles. Wilson walked six and struckout six.

The Red Sox executed a double play to end the game. With a runner on third and one out in bottom of the seventh, Joe Smart whiffed but raced toward first when catcher Riley Boothe dropped the ball. Boothe fired to first to retire Smart and on the play the runner at third, Bob Hart, broke for the plate in an attempt to score the tying run but first baseman Larry Smith's return throw to the catcher was in time to catch Hart sliding in.

The Yankees unleashed a 12-hit attack to smother the Braves in the GPL tilt. Two of the Yank hits were homers, both coming in the nightmarish 10-run first inning.

Before the Yanks broke lose for their big rally, the Braves had taken the lead with a three-run rally in the top half of the hello frame.

But the Yanks bounced back quickly. Big Charles Gladson homered with two on to put the Yankees ahead, 4-3. Then later in the inning, John Weaver blasted a homer with the bases loaded to climax the 10-run uprising. Both homers were over the left field fence.

Weaver, who went the route for the Yankees, added two singles and drove in a total of six runs to aid his own cause.

Bubba Fleming pounded a homerun for the Braves in the fourth with the bases empty.

Weaver pitched 3-hit ball but the Braves took advantage of 10 walks to do most of their offensive damage.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Braves, Indians Win On 2-Hitters

Jay Williamson of the Kiwanis Braves and Shorty Bennett of the Von Roeder Indians hurled two-hitters Friday night to lead their teams to Little League victories.

Williamson blanked the Rotary Cardinals in the National League, 1-0, while Bennett beat the Legion Yankees in the American League, 4-1.

In the National League game, the Braves scored a run in the first inning and then made it stand up for a 1-0 win.

Ray Kizer of the Cards blanked the Braves the remaining distance but the damage had been done.

The Cardinals put together three hits in the first inning for the game's only run. With two away in the first and Mike Williamson on base via a single, John Flynn and Randall Hales hit back-to-back singles to send Williamson across with the only run of the game.

Ray Kizer blanked the Braves on one hit from the first inning on but the Cards were unable to solve Williamson's serves and the Braves' run in the first was the deciding factor.

No Cardinal advanced beyond second base.

Bennett struckout 15 Yankees enroute to pitching the Indians to victory in the American League. Bennett lost his shutout when Leslie Brown homered leading off in the second.

Brown, in fact, got both of the Yankee hits off Bennett. In addition to his 2nd inning homer, Brown singled in the fourth.

The Indians picked up two runs in the first inning which proved to be enough for the victory but the Tribe added insurance with single runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Blake Roberts collected two of the five hits the Indians garnered off two Yankees pitchers.

W-Sox, Tribe Triumph In Farm League

The White Sox continued undefeated in the American Farm League Friday night with a narrow 9-8 victory over the Yankees.

In the second game of Friday's doubleheader, the Indians overcame a 9-0 deficit to defeat the Athletics, 12-9.

The Yankees led the White Sox after five innings, 7-6, but the Hose rallied for three in the top of the sixth to pull the game out. The Yanks narrowed the gap to one run in the bottom of the sixth and had the tying run on base when the game ended.

D. Smith with two doubles and D. Pace with a single and double led the White Sox to victory.

Stevens and Craddock each got two hits for the losing Yankees.

The Athletics scored six runs in the first and three in the second for a 9-0 lead over the Indians.

But the Tribesmen put together nine walks and five hits for 12 big runs in the third to overtake the Athletic team.

Clayton, Seeker, Foree and Graves led the Indian attack with two hits apiece.

Kimzey was the winning pitcher and Jones the loser.

Boyd's Homer Sinks Chisox

BALTIMORE (AP)—First baseman Bob Boyd's first homer of the season in the eighth inning carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-4 victory over the American League leading Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Orioles moved within one game of the White Sox on Boyd's smash into the right field bleachers with Willie Tasby on base.

The White Sox had tied the score 4-4 in the top of the eighth on Nellie Fox's second homer with two runners in front of him.

The circuit by Fox was hit off pitcher Billy Loes who came out of it with his fourth victory against two defeats. Loes had relieved Skinny Brown in the eighth.

Catcher Gus Triandos of the Orioles jumped his team off to a 2-0 lead in the first with his 14th homer behind Al Pilarcik's double. The Orioles scored two more runs in the third.

Second Bonus Player Signed By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators Saturday signed their second bonus player in two days. He is center fielder-third baseman Lamar Jacobs, of Youngstown, Ohio, who has just graduated from Ohio University.

Fred Bruckbauer, a University of Minnesota pitcher, was signed last Thursday for a reported $30,000 bonus. The reported outlay for Jacobs was $25,000.

Olmedo Takes Kent Net Championship

BECKENHAM, England (AP)—Alex Olmedo, the U.S. Davis Cup star from Peru, Saturday beat Kurt Nielsen of Denmark for the Kent Tennis Championship. The scores were 8-6, 3-6, 6-4.

The women's title went to favored Darlene Hard of Montebello, who conquered Sally Moore of Bakersfield, in the all-California final, 6-1, 7-5.

IN RAIN-DELAYED U. S. OPEN

Casper Overtakes Hogan

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Bill Casper shot into a three-stroke lead over Ben Hogan Saturday at the three-quarter point of the rain-delayed U.S. Open Golf Championship. He fired a third round 69 for a score of 208.

A drenching thunderstorm twice delayed play Saturday morning and finally forced postponement of the fourth round until Sunday.

In a drama-packed day before a crowd estimated at 20,000, Sam Snead, who never has won the Open, stormed back into the picture. He fired a three-under-par 67 which placed him in a tie for third place at 212 with Arnold Palmer, 1958 Masters champion, and bespectacled Bob Rosburg, who matched Snead's 67, best score of the tournament.

Par for the 6,873-yard Winged Foot course is 35-35—70.

Casper, paunchy, 27-year-old touring pro from Apple Valley, had his eye on the back of the cups. He rang in putts from 8 to 15 feet as if they were "gimmes" in a spectacular round of 36-33—69.

Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., former Masters champion, made a strong run for the lead but he went 5-6-5 on the par 4-4-4 finishing holes to take a 72 for 213. This placed him in a tie with Mike Souchak, the ex-Duke footballer, and Claude Harmon, the Winged Foot's host professional.

Souchak took bogeys on the final two holes for a 72. Harmon shot a steady 70.

Young Gary Player of South Africa, bidding to become the first foreigner in 39 years to win the event, couldn't control his driver and wound up with a 76 for 216 which apparently put him out of contention.

Ernie Vossler, from Midland, Tex., remained within hollering distance of the lead with a 72 for 214. He is only six strokes back of the lead.

Shortly after Casper finished, the course was hit by a lashing electrical storm which drenched the greens. A dozen or so players —including champion Tommy Bolt—were caught in the downpour.

Play was suspended a third time.

Sword Dancer Wins Belmont

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer outslugged Bagdad in a bitter stretch duel and captured the 145,500 Belmont Stakes Saturday by three-quarters of a length as two horses fell on the final turn, throwing jockeys Eddie Arcaro and Walter Blum into the mud. Royal Orbit was third by 12 lengths.

Arcaro was taken off the track in an ambulance and when he regained consciousness complained of neck pains. Blum walked off unaided.

Bagdad took the lead midway of the final bend in the 1½-mile race and Arcardo, aboard Black Hills, and Willie Shoemaker, riding Sword Dancer, moved up to challenge.

Black Hills, owned by the King Ranch, was directly behind Howard Keck's Bagdad with Sword Dancer on the outside. Black Hills suddenly lurched, head down and tumbled into the mud. A short time later the King Ranch colt was destroyed. He suffered a compound fracture of the right shin bone.

Lake Erie, Ridden by Blum, was directly behind Black Hills and tumbled over Arcaro's mount.

The spill marred the 91st and richest running of the famed finale of the Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown series for 3-year olds.

Arcaro was seeking a record seventh Belmont victory.

Sword Dancer, a Virginia-bred colt owned by the Brookemeade Stable of Isabel Dodge Sloane, had finished second in the Kentucky Derby, nosed out by Tomy Lee. He also was second in the Preakness, four lengths behind Royal Orbit.

Sword Dancer, the slight favorite, paid $5.30, $3.30 and $2.30 in earning $93,525.

Sword Dancer's time was a sparkling 2:28 2-5.

Victoria Tops In Batting

By The Associated Press

Victoria led the Texas league standings last week and a look at the individual averages showed why.

The Rosebuds led in team hitting and the individual leaders in five divisions were Victoria uniforms.

The worthy Clint McCord led the regulars in batting and doubles in official averages through Wednesday. He had a strong .377 average, a big help to Victoria's team batting average of .300.

McCord also had 15 doubles.

Frank Howard, the Victoria fence-buster showed 27 home runs and 56 runs batted in for the lead in those departments.

Howard Bedell of Austin led in triples with 10.

In the pitching department Carroll Beringer had 10 victories and not a single defeat for Victoria. Ford Young of Victoria had the next most victories, nine against three losses. Another Victoria hurler, Jim Harwell, showed an 8-1 record.

Tulsa's Billy Tolar and Melvin Nelson tied for the strikeout lead with 62 each.

Spahn Takes 8th Decision

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Mc Mahon Saturday saved veteran southpaw Warren Spahn's eighth win of the season as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-2, for their fifth triumph in the past 12 games.

Inheriting a one out situation—with Chicago runners on second and third in the ninth—Mc Mahon retired pinch batter Jim Marshall on an infield pop up and watched Billy Bruton gather in Lee Walls' long fly for the game-ending out.

Most of Spahn's trouble was not of his own making.

Dale Long threw a leadoff walk. Then Hank Aaron lost Earl Averill's pinch fly in the sun as it fell for a single.

Long moved to third after pinch batter Moose Moryn flied to Bruton. Tony Taylor followed with another high fly. Aaron caught up with the ball and was set to catch it when he turned back and the ball fell for a double, scoring Long and sending Averill to third.

Mc Mahon checked in at this point.

Modern Wallboard Uses By-Products

"Every bit of use from every bit of wood." That would make an excellent motto for the paper industry, the nation's biggest users of wood pulp.

In line with this proposition, it was the paper mill chemists who developed one of the most widely used building materials in America today — insulating board.

To make life more pleasant for Americans, more than 2½ billion square feet each year go into sidewall sheathing, roof sheathing, lath, interior wall and partitioning, and into other insulating and sound-proofing materials.

Larger Panels - Lower Cost

These materials are shaped into panels much larger than the natural wood panels they were evolved to replace.

As a result, sizeable savings in labor costs are achieved in installation. For example, a sidewall finished with "ersatz" insulating siding can be built from 30 to 35 per cent cheaper than a similar wood clapboard siding —

Similar savings result when insulating board sheathing is substituted for wood sheathing. Another factor in their favor: their versatility. Two or more insulating board materials (lath, siding, sheathing) can be used in the same wall to DOUBLE the insulating value.

Development and Original Use

In 1900, a paper mill assigned its research staff the job of finding a practical use for the waste products of paper production.

They developed a process of combining pulp from mill screenings with pulp from low-grade scrub trees. They then compressed the mixture, dried it to form lightweight, stiff boards.

They quickly discovered its high insulating value, and soon the board was treated with chemicals to protect it against decay, termites and water.

The product has been constantly improved through the years, and the home owners' modernization problems have been greatly simplified . . . his living conditions made more comfortable.

And all because they wanted to use all the wood!

Let Colors Work Magic In Home

Beautiful, gracious rooms do not, like Topsy, "just grow." They're the result of planning in every detail . . . and this means planning with your head as well as your heart.

While your head is busy picking colors, rearranging furniture, choosing rug materials and selecting accessories, your heart should by cataloging colors preferred by your family, their taste in furniture, and the hobbies of their choice.

Color Scheme Comes First

Colors will be your top decorating tools for making a room bright or a hall inviting!

First, where to begin? Many top-notch schemes are based on colors in a wallpaper design, a carpet, favored fabric — even a picture. The people who designed these furnishings are color experts. Your job is to find a pattern and colors you like, study it, and take it from there.

Today's colors are simple, clean-cut, utilitarian. For example, a room is done in light pastel blue, with brown furniture . . . a bedroom is brightened with chairs, bed spread and curtains in identical chintz, with color-accented walls.

Simplify the Background

Think of your room as a box with the ceiling as top, the floor as bottom, and four sides. Forget the odd arrangements, windows, etc. and concentrate on big areas of color.

Choose one hue — golden yellow, soft grey or sea green — and use it for half or more of all the color areas in a room (paint, carpet, upholstery). Regardless if this color is light or dark — make it dominant! Accent this color with one or two other colors, preferably bright, in small amounts. Repeat this identical color in several spots around the room for balance.

Color can work magic, if used wisely. It can rejuvenate an old room, be a charming deceiver when the shape of a room needs help; and an inexpensive cover-up for an architectural flaw.

By putting color to work for you, you'll be mighty proud of your job when the furnishings are all in place!

Door Mirror Installation

To install a door mirror, first measure the distance from edge to edge of the door itself. The overall width determines which of the five ordinarily available stock sizes of door mirrors will adequately cover the recessed door panel.

While it is usually unnecessary to remove the door, you will find that doing so will facilitate the installation. If you remove the door, set it in a horizontal position over books set at each corner. After centering the mirror carefully on the door so that it completely covers the recessed panel, apply plastic clips to the door with a screw driver (a small hand drill will make application of the screws much easier).

All venetian door mirrors are individually packaged, complete with six plastic clips, screws and an instruction sheet for easy installation.

Cars Sold In Advance

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 7,000 small European cars have been sold in advance of arrival in this country, the Mexican Assn. of the Automobile Industry said Saturday.

Peru produces more than half the world's vanadium, a metallic element to increase tensile strength in alloy steel.

New Fixtures Glamorize Bath Rooms

If you pass over your bathroom with a "Oh, that's just the bathroom" when showing guests around, then you should take a closer look at the decorative possibilities that are yours in up-to-date bathroom fixtures.

Nope, these days when bathroom fixtures are so glamorous, there's just no excuse for a worn-out "eyesore" of a bathroom!

Now, you can turn your bathroom into a interior decorator's delight by installing a new lavatory-dressing table combination and one of the new, low, free-standing toilets. Top it off with a square bath tub with built-in seats for added comfort while taking a shower — and you've the makings of the kind of bathroom you see in your favorite "home fix-up" magazines.

Colored fixtures in soft pastel shades add warmth and cherriness to the bathroom and help you to achieve charming color schemes for the entire room. If white fixtures are your choice, colorful wall tiles and towel-wash cloth sets will help you create dashing color effects.

More than ever now, bathroom fixtures are priced within the reach of the average home owner. With professional installation of the "bigger" items and many "do-it-yourself" extras — you inexpensively can make your bathroom a decorative as well as functional part of your home.

Majority Do Own Painting

Painting it yourself, to attain results you'll be proud of — isn't the easy job it's "cracked up" to be!

However, you too, can become a master painter. Figures show that 60 per cent or more of all American families now do all or part of their own home painting.

Weather Conditions, Tools Important Factors

Authorities recommend that it is best to paint the outside of your home during the Spring or Fall, when you are less likely to encounter temperature extremes.

Most important of the "tools" you'll use, of course, will be the paint. Always buy the best quality paint you can afford. Your paint dealer will be glad to recommend such a paint.

If you do a lot of painting, particularly for large areas, you may want to invest in a spray gun and compressor. These tools make painting fast, easy and muss-free, but it takes plenty of practice to get the kind of results that satisfy. Again, buy the finest equipment you can afford.

Seven In Negro Family Are Killed

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — Seven members of a Negro family were killed when a Missouri Pacific passenger train crashed into an automobile at a rural crossing near here.

State Trooper Dwight Galloway said the train dragged the car 400 feet along the track after hitting it broadside Friday.

Killed were Orange Jones, 64, of West Helena, his 37-year-old wife Willie, and their five small children ranging in age from nine months to seven years. Two of the children were by previous marriages of the couple.

Use Wallpaper To Personalize Room

The newer wallpapers now meet home owners' demands for interesting, dramatic decorative effects for every room in the house!

Wallpapers can be used to balance large and high architectural features through careful color and pattern selection; and at the opposite extreme, a small room can be given a more spacious treatment through use of scenic patterns and lighter colors.

Apartment "shut-ins" can get that outdoor feeling with naturalistic scenes — hunting, wild life, farm scenes, etc. One's eye is led far beyond the confines of the walls into distant landscapes, which tends to make one forget the very existence of walls.

Individuality Keynotes Wallpapers

"Personalized" decor is the order of the day — and wallpaper gives exciting impetus to this trend. Each room can be as individual as the personalities of members of your family. A bedroom papered with garden flowers keeps that Spring-like look all year long . . . Textured papers lend a rustic note — and don't overlook the lessened fatigue, the brighter outlook, of working in a light-bright kitchen!

Color in the Kitchen

No longer is white, king in the kitchen. With the gay new wallpapers, decorating possibilities are as wide as your imagination. With more and more family activity moving to the kitchen-living area, more and more families are catering to the kitchen with wallpapers every bit as gay and distinctive as that used in other rooms of the house.

Hang Your Own and Save!

Most of the "expense" of quality wallpaper is in the labor involved in hanging it. You can select very fine new papers at budget price, and if you hang it yourself, not only will you save — you'll also have the creative satisfaction of creating your own "inside story."

And, remember: use your wallpaper as the basis of your complete color scheme!

Landscaping Hikes Value Of Property

Good landscaping can increase the resale value of a home by 10 to 15 per cent, according to a survey by the American Association of Nurserymen.

Landscaping today follows a natural theme, with the emphasis on utility rather than beauty alone.

It is not difficult to plant your own property attractively. First, it is a good idea to take a look at homes that you admire and see how they are planted. Essentially you want beauty, comfort, and utility.

Privacy can be obtained by hedges and strategic planting of trees so they partially hide your home. You'll want Summer shade for comfort. Plant shade trees on the west side of your home so they will shade the house during the hottest part of the day.

Here are a few pointers on landscaping: (1) Consider the whole property to be landscaped as a problem in art and design, rather than the purchase of so many plants. (2) Obtain advice from your landscape nurseryman on what you hope to accomplish, as well as how to go about reaching your goal. (3) Seek variety in the color and form of your plantings, both of foliage and flower. (4) If you do not find it convenient to plant all at once, plant one area at a time in finished form, rather than scattering your plantings so the property never looks finished.

The Rhododendron, better known as "The Great Laurel," is West Virginia's official state flower.

Aluminum Is Popular For Awnings

Aluminum, the "Miracle Metal" has gone and done it again!

Now — it has gone into (of all things) awnings! Awnings that stay spanking new-looking all year long . . . awnings that require little attention . . . awnings that one put up, are up to stay!

The use of aluminum in awnings adds years and years to their life. Rain and wind do not whip them to pieces, as happens with canvas types — and their color designs can be brought back to vivid newness with a coat of paint.

Made of aircraft aluminum, they do not rust, rot, tear, sag or burn. They provide constant protection from the sun and rain in summer; and window frames and sills are protected against damage by winter snow, ice, sleet and hail.

All sizes and styles are available — for the porch, patio, windows, breezeways and doorways.

Here's ABC's Of Painting

1. Proper surface preparation is tremendously important in obtaining fine results in finishing. All cracks in plaster should be filled with patching plaster or spackling material.

First, the surface should be leveled with sandpaper, then the crack should be filled. You can use a putty knife — or even an old table knife — as a tool. When the patch is dry, sand the surface again.

2. The ceiling, naturally, should be painted before you begin on the walls. Start in a left hand corner (unless you're a southpaw) and work across the narrow dimension of the room, painting a strip two to three feet wide. This will enable you to start on another strip before the edge of the previous one is dry.

Clean up spatters as you go, paint is easier to remove when wet.

3. A four-inch brush is the size to use for wall areas. Be sure to use the best as fine quality brushes give the best results. Starting in an upper left hand corner of a wall, paint a strip from ceiling to floor, three or four feet wide. Apply the paint with a sort of fan-like motion, working from left to right and back again.

Be sure not to dip your brush into the paint more than a third of its bristle length.

4. The woodwork is coated last — usually with a two-inch brush. Gloss or semi-gloss enamel is the type of coating to use because its smooth, hard surface can be so easily rid of finger marks.

When painting a door, do the panels first, then the center rail.

Concrete Walks Look, Wear Well

Concrete walks meet all requirements of a practical footway: they are durable, smooth without being slippery, easy to clean and pleasing to the eye.

Width of walks will vary with use. Main walks from street to house entrance are usually made from 4' to 5' wide, while walks at the side or rear of the house are usually 1½' to 3' wide.

First, prepare the base. If the soil is well drained, the concrete may be laid directly on it. If the soil is not well drained, a 4" sub-base of well-compacted clean, course gravel or clean cinders is called for.

Thickness of walks varies from 4" to 6". If used as a walk only, 4" is thick enough. If heavy vehicles are to be driven over it, a 6" thickness is more satisfactory.

2-by-4's usually are used for side forms, held in place by stakes. Top edges of the 2-by-4's serve as guides in leveling off the concrete.

Build your walk about 2" above grade for good drainage. For example, in building a 4" walk, area to be concreted should be excavated to a depth of 1", plus the thickness of the fill. Slope the walk to one side — a pitch from ¼" to ½" is satisfactory.

Build walks by laying the full thickness of concrete at one time, using the same mixture throughout. Provide for expansion-contraction by dividing a 4' - 6' intervals with partition strips placed at right angles to the side forms. Concrete every other section, removing the cross strips as soon as these have hardened enough to be self-sustaining. Now, pour the remaining slabs.

Another method that aids in building a walk continuously is to place strips of tarred felt against the division or header boards. When header boards are removed, these strips remain permanently in position, providing a definite joint between sections. Place concrete on both sides of the header board before lifting it out. The pressure of concrete from both sides hold the tarred felt vertically in proper position.

When concrete is poured, it is easily leveled off with a strikeboard resting on the edges of the side forms — passing it across the forms in a sawing motion to level the concrete. Several hours after concrete is poured, finish the walk with a wood float to produce an even, gritty surface.

To assist curing, cover with moist sand or earth to a depth of 2" as soon as concrete is hard enough to resist marking. Keep moist for about a week, then remove for a good-looking, useable walk.

Dempsey Gets Oil Property

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP) — A jury awarded a share of a Marion County oil field Saturday to Jack Dempsey, the former world heavyweight boxing champion.

The original suit was filed by Mike Davis, Denver investor, against the estate of Bobby Manziel of Tyler.

Dempsey filed a cross action against Davis. The jury found in favor of both plaintiffs after several hours of deliberation.

Judge Morris Ralston has not yet filed an official judgment.

The oil property is a 1-16th override on a 1,200 acre plot in the Vicky Lynn Field six miles west of Jefferson. The field is reported a wealthy one.

Davis had entered a contract with Manziel to provide funds in oil operations. Dempsey entered the case with the claim that Davis had promised him a share of any producing properties because it was Dempsey who first introduced Davis and Manziel.

Dempsey, now a New York restaurant operator and Texas oil man, attended the hearing throughout the week.

Elephant Is Cause Of Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Dorothy, the once-doomed circus elephant who was saved by a Tulsa zoo has her former owners in a $59,438 damage suit.

An attorney filed the suit Friday against Hagen Bros. Circus. The plaintiff is Mrs. Blanche Lloyd, widow of a circus employe crushed to death by Dorothy near Port Arthur, Tex.

The suit alleges negligence by the circus for keeping Dorothy when she had injured previous employes.

The circus ordered Dorothy executed after the death of Lloyd but a last day intervention by Tulsa's Mohawk Zoo saved the elephant.

She is now kept at the zoo behind an escape proof moat chained by one of her legs to keep her away from other elephants. Attendants said she has caused no trouble.

Asia produces about 95 per cent o fthe world's supply of tea.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE BEACH

QUESTION: What causes an undertow at the beach?

• • •

ANSWER: When the waves roll up the beach they spread out in a thin frothing layer and roll back slowly to where they came. But a new wave rolling in forces the returning water down and it goes back to the sea sometimes several feet below the surface. This is the undertow.

Undertows at some beaches are so strong and swift that they are dangerous to swimmers. Every summer, a number of people are caught in the undertow at beaches and dragged out to sea where they are drowned.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: With the hot beach-going days approaching, it is a good idea for people to make themselves familiar with the safety rules for swimming. Ask your local chapter of the American Red Cross for their list of water safety rules and study them.

50 Persons Seek Reward

HOUSTON (AP)—A lawyer for the family of Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, victim of a 1955 auto-bomb slaying, filed Friday a list of 50 persons seeking part of a $10,000 reward for information leading to solution of the case.

Mrs. Harris died when the bomb exploded as she sought to start a car at her San Angelo home.

Harry Washburn, Houston contractor and her former son-in-law, was convicted of murder and is serving a life sentence.

Federal Judge Ben Connally in Galveston was asked to decide who should receive the reward, now in custody of the court.

Claimants have been notified they have until July 13 to state why they consider themselves entitled to the reward.

They include Capt. Cecil Priest, detective H. K. Thompson and inspector Tom Eubanks, all of the Houston police; Texas Rangers Eddie Oliver and Ralph Rohatsch; Andrew Nelson, a convict at a state prison farm; John McKinnis and his wife Pat, who tipped police about the plot; Charles Brown, who testified he saw Washburn practicing with dynamite, and E. H. Gnam, police chief at Columbus, Tex.

Horse Rears, Threatens To Charge Queen

By RAYMOND E. PALMER

LONDON (AP)—A cavalryman fought with his frightened horse today to keep it from charging into Queen Elizabeth II during her official birthday celebration.

The cheers of thousands of spectators froze into one great gasp as the big black horse reared and plunged toward the Queen, only 10 yards away.

The cavalryman, in glittering silver breastplate and flowing plumed helmet, was in the last row of the mounted escort. Just behind was the Queen, riding sidesaddle on a chestnut police horse.

Dressed in close-fitting scarlet jacket, blue sash and black tricorn hat, the Queen rode out of Buckingham Palace and into the wide, tree-lined Mall.

About 20,000 spectators cheered her. The roar frightened the cavalryman's horse. It shied and reared. Two more horses in the cavalry escort became unsettled.

As the big black horse twisted and turned toward the Queen, the grim-faced cavalryman struggled to regain control.

The Queen just looked straight ahead. Not a royal eyelid blinked.

The cavalryman finally quietened his mount, got back into line and the parade went on.

The short-lived drama was the only incident to mar the annual ceremony, known as trooping the color.

Lize Takes Weekend To Fatten Figure

PARIS (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor took the weekend off from moviemaking to fatten up her figure.

"I'm here for some good food," she told French newsmen when she and her husband Eddie Fisher arrived from London where Liz is filming "Suddenly Last Summer."

With that she and her husband went to a left bank restaurant famed for food and wine. Liz had a plate of assorted hors d'oeuvres, a generous portion of goose liver, a steaming stew which was a specialty of the cook, assorted cheeses, a basket of strawberries —washed down with a white wine, red wine and followed by a special prune liqueur.

Wood Veneers Are Available To All

No longer is wood paneling, most distinctive of interior decorative effects, restricted to the homes of the wealthy. Fancy wood veneers on modern, light-weight plywood, have brought this "luxury" within the reach of almost every homeowner.

The beautifully grained veneer plywoods, light colored and cheerful, have sparked the field of interior decoration with the same vigor as when they sparked the field of furniture design.

The many varities of rare and distinctive grained woods used for surfaces of these modern panels offer you selections as wide as they are attractive.

"Natural" Woods Predominate

The old style dark and somber oak and walnut walls have lost much ground to "natural" or blond shadings, as have informal knotty pine or cypress board.

New notes to decorate your walls: pastel tints to spread light, combined with the pleasant, soft warmth of real wood.

If you're a do-it-yourself enthusiast (and who ISN'T these days!), you'll find it fairly easy to panel a room.

Veneer plywoods, available in handy 4' x 8' sheets, can be wall-mounted over old plaster and nailed through to the studs or you can put them over level furring strips.

If your room is new, the paneling can be nailed directly to the framing to provide a sturdy dry wall. V-bevel the joints between the panels or cover with molding.

Novelty Textures Popular

New and novel textures further have widened selections in plywood veneers. One of the most popular is the striated pattern with fine, straight grooves. Cut into precision-measured and beveled squares or tiles, it produces exciting patterns, made even more fascinating by high-lights and shadows.

Another fancy texture takes advantage of the natural qualities of the wood, and is achieved by embossing the grain of the wood. The panels are run through a machine in which are [illegible] brushes. In this process, the softer spring growth is [illegible] leaving the [illegible] growth standing out in bold relief.

Tree Growth Not Consistent

As in fine furniture, interesting wood effects are caused by the speeding up or slowing down in the growth of a tree. When a log is sawed straight across, the rings representing years of growth are clearly visible. When split into boards, the rings show up as stripes or waves. The light portion represents rapid spring growth, while the dark shows the slower, denser periods of summer growth.

When processed under metal brushes, as described above, depth of brushing is kept to a minimum to bring out the wood grain in subtle relief. In spite of this brushing, however, the surface remains relatively smooth.

The result in walls made of plywood veneers is striking: the texture catches light from any direction . . . offering subtle backgrounds to every decor.

Jay Robinson Starts Serving Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Jay Robinson has started a one-year jail sentence for possessing and selling narcotics.

He was arrested in his home Nov. 13 but insisted he was innocent, claiming the narcotics found were planted by someone else.

Superior Judge Mervyn A. Aggeler first sentenced him to a five-years-to-life term in state prison, but suspended this in favor of the jail sentence and five years' probation. A year is the maximum sentence in jail.

Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn., won the USGA girls' junior golf crown for the second straight time in 1958. She was ineligible for the 1959 event.

Newspapers Are Put To Use In Classroom

By JIM BOWMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The tow-headed junior high teenager took a deep breath and rattled off to his classmates his views on what the prospects of the Big Four were in Geneva.

His arguments rang with authority. Classmates studied him intently.

The boy was wel[illegible] His assignment, a rep[illegible] current international a[illegible] came straight from his daily newspaper.

He is one of thousands of Texas school children taking part in the "Newspaper in the Classroom" program sponsored by the Texas Daily Newspaper Assn.

Educators throughout the state hail the program as a multi-purpose aid to the classroom.

At least 20 Texas newspapers provide thousands of fresh copies free to schools from Beaumont to Amarillo daily.

The TDNA states as its purpose "to relate what the student is learning to what he is talking about at home and in the street. It aims to give vitality to learning and to train the child in habits of newspaper reading and discussion that will be useful long after he has left school. . ."

O. A. Barnes of the Belton public schools put it this way in a letter to the Temple Daily Telegram:

The program he wrote, "is one of the best ways that has been tried to strengthen the instructional program in recent years. Textbooks serve a worthy purpose but it is impossible for them to be current in every respect."

Bob Burns, Tyler principal, was more specific.

"We don't have any textbooks on the recent Cuban revolution," he wrote to the Tyler Courier Times-Telegraph.

The Milwaukee Journal launched the program during World War II. School children, it reasoned, were not properly equipped to interpret the tremendous impact of war on both the community and the world.

It brought newspapers into Milwaukee classrooms to explain why dad was in Europe and mom worked in a factory.

Texas newspapers accepted the idea with enthusiasm three years ago. More enter th program annually.

John H. Murphy, executive director of the TDNA, says "the (Texas) program involves more schools and more newspapers than any other such program in the country that we know of. That is indicative of the interest which daily newspapers in Texas have in education."

Teachers channel the use of newspapers in school through a variety of means.

Students at the former Elizabeth Nixson Junior High in Amarillo participated in a quiz show "Tic, Tac, News," borrowing the title from television. Contestants attempted to answer simple-to-difficult questions gleaned from newspapers by class members. And competition was keen.

Some teachers were skeptical at the outset but were convinced quickly.

"The pupils love it," said Miss Jerry Herod, seventh grade teacher at Amarillo's Sam Houston Junior High.

"They discuss things that are in the paper almost every day. Frankly, I was very surprised that it went over so well."

Teachers everywhere emphasize that young minds are eager to learn and ned, only the opportunity. Some, they say, never picked up newspapers at home simply because nobody suggested it.

A Tyler school survey of 90 pupils showed at least 54 now read a newspaper daily, browsing throughout the edition.

At least 22 of the youngsters, the survey showed, spend at least five minutes a day, 15 spend 10 minutes and 30 spend 15 minutes.

Most pupils, teachers learned, don't stop at the comics but eagerly study the newspaper from the front page through the financial. One group started following the stock market and eventually wrote to the New York Stock Exchange for information.

The project prompted one Dallas class to organize its own newspaper.

Last year the three Houston newspapers, the Chronicle, Post and Press, joined in a pilot program to supply newspapers to classes in a limited number of schools in the state's largest public school system.

In Beaumont, where 30 schools are participating, plans are under way to expand the program next year.

It is "extremely valuable as an aid to English, social studies and home economics teachers and students," Supt. Fred Hunter of Beaumont said.

One-Woman Boycott Set

LONDON (AP)—A lone British woman is planning a campaign to boycott German goods throughout Britain.

Her reason: She wants to win support for German compensation for 1,200 "forgotten" people, many of whom were jailed by the Nazis for aiding the Allied cause during World War II.

A meeting to be held in London tomorrow will be faced with the proposal to call for a nationwide boycott on German goods.

It will come from Sue Ryder, 33-year-old wife of a British wartime air hero, who has devoted her life to helping displaced persons in Europe.

"I am putting forward this proposal for a boycott of German goods in the hope that people throughout Britain will cooperate and hurt Germany's pocket," she said.

Negro Killed In Accident

FORT WORTH (AP)—A Negro truck driver was killed and three members of a San Angelo family were injured a about 6 a.m. Saturday in a collision on Highway 121 about 15 miles northeast of here.

The dead man was identified as E. J. Pullins of Odessa. He was driving a pickup truck.

In fair condition at Harris Hospital were Joe W. Carr and his wife, both 52; and their son, Allen, 14, all of San Angelo.

They had spent the night in Fort Worth with Carr's brother [illegible] Carr. The family was on its way to visit a cousin of Carr's in Cookeville, Tenn.

Woman Killed By Tomahawk

CHICAGO (AP)—The body of a housewife, killed by a broken tomahawk, was found in her Chicago home Friday night. More than 12 hours later state police in Sterling seized a youth believed to be her missing son.

The victim, Mrs. Geraldine Nesius, was found in her Northwest Side home, her skull bashed by the stone. The tomahawk head is part of a family rock collection.

A search was started for her son by a previous marriage, David Pickles, 14, when he failed to appear home at dinner time.

Sheriff Henry Hamilton of Whiteside County said the youth identified himself as the son of Mrs. Nesius but denied having anything to do with her death.

He said the youth told him he was heading West when picked up.

Philip Nesuis, 29, service manager for an auto agency, told authorities he found his wife's body, clad in a housecoat, on the living room floor when he arrived at the apartment.

A woman's stocking was twisted around her neck, police said, apparently in an attempt to strangle her. The victim's underclothing also was found near the body.

News Service Is Now 42 Years Old

FORT WORTH (AP)—Depression-hit farmers turned loose their hogs to the market at 2.95 cents a pound in May 1932. The high price for good fed steers that month was 5½ cents. In July that same year, choice slaughter lambs were worth 4¼ cents.

These are some figures compiled by the oldest livestock market news office in the Southwest.

It was located here just eight months after the U.S. Department of Agriculture established livestock market news reporting. The Fort Worth office marks its 42nd anniversary Tuesday.

But marking historic highs and lows are not the main business of the service.

It provides day-to-day reports on movement, supplies, quality, demand, price trends and quotations on cattle, calves, hogs and sheep.

The information from the serv ice is invaluable to everyone fro the rancher or farmer with liv stock to sell on up through t processing to the supermark manager looking ahead for su plies.

The Fort Worth stockyard i the oldest and largest termin livestock market in the Southwest having been a major market for more than 60 years.

In the 1958 survey of receipts at 59 terminal markets, Fort Worth ranked third for sheep, seventh for calves, 13th for cattle and 28h for hogs.

Record high price at this market was $38.25 per hundredweight for slaughter steers in May 1951, while a high of $30 for hogs was paid in August 1938. In April 1952 a shipment of Green Easter lambs brought the record high of $40 per hundredweight for sheep.

Largest volume of cattle passing through the stockyards was in 1944 when a million cattle and hogs, half a million calves and over two and a half million sheep were marketed.

KEITH PITNER

Pvt. Pitner Is On Leave

Now home on a 15-day leave after completing basic Army training at Fort Chaffee, Ark., is Pvt. Keith Pitner, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Pitner, 2802 Avenue M.

Pitner is in the Army on a six-months special active duty program through the Snyder National Guard unit.

A January graduate of the University of Texas, where he received his bachelor of business administration degree, Pitner was employed in the bookkeeping department of the West Texas State Bank prior to beginning his active duty tour.

Pitner, former track star for Snyder High School, also lettered four years in track at the University of Texas.

After his leave here he will go to Fort Jackson, S. C. When his six months of active duty are over he will return here and will be active in the local Guard unit.

Downtown Area Fights Back

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — What's the best way to lure customers from the neighborhood shopping centers back to the downtown business districts of major cities?

Here's what Kansas City is planning:

Bringing motor traffic at a 60 m.p.h. clip to the downtown area, where vehicles are parked at the edge and passengers walk into the retail shopping district along broad malls exclusively for pedestrians.

Returning several thousands of workers and potential shoppers into the downtown area as residents.

Clearing out the slum areas that usually choke a business district like an iron ring.

Kansas City's formula was suggested to the urban renewal conference of the National Retail Merchants Assn., by Phil Geissal, city planning engineer of Kansas City, and L. P. Cookingham, city manager for 19 years and now on terminal leave.

As part of the slum clearance program, construction of nine apartment buildings with a total of 1,000 units is going on just west of the main business district. Five buildings are completed. Several office buildings, one finished, and two large auto hotels are in the over-all plans.

The expressway system includes a loop around a 17-square-block area of the downtown district with high-speed freeways extending to all parts of the city.

"People are wedded to their autos," says Cookingham. "We could build a monorail system to every part of the city cheaper than the expressway system, but people won't take to public transit.

"When the expressways and loop are completed, you can enter the city from any direction at 60 miles an hour and continue at that speed until you are right downtown. Then you can park and walk to the stores or offices on broad sidewalks."

Two sides of the loop are in use, a third is under construction and land is being acquired for the fourth. Three freeways to outlying districts are in use and others are in various stages of land acquisition and development.

Another 250-million-dollar program still is in the planning stage includes a circumferential highway, or expressway, to encircle the city. This will enable through traffic to bypass the city as well as to provide speedy contact between various outlying areas.

The whole expressway system is tied into the interstate highway program with federal funds helping defray the cost.

The only controversial portion of the program appears to be the downtown mall system, which as planned would close four streets to vehicular traffic for a distance of five blocks.

VOL. 10, NO. 38 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1959 SECTION B

Girls Recreation Program

Ping Pong is another popular sport of girls in the summer recreation program being carried out here for the first time this summer. At left, serving, is Lanis Henslee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Henslee, 2907½ Avenue V, and ready to ping the ball back is Jan Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Johnston, 2107 Twenty-seventh Street.

Bubble gum bubbles of prize winning size are displayed above by three bubble blowing girls in some of the Girl's Recreation Program activities last week. The girls from left won the contest in that order. They are Debbie Raines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Raines; Charlotte Pressler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Pressler, and Jan Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson.

Tennis is one of the more than a dozen different activities and sports included in the Scurry County Girl's Recreation Program just started. James Wesson, tennis instructor, is showing some of the finer points of serving to Grace Ann Mapes, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mapes, 4102 Avenue U, and Sharon Rollins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Rollins, 2904 Forty-second Street.

The trampoline has proven to be one of the most popular gadgets being used in the Scurry County Girl's Summer Recreation Program here. Renee Gladson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Gladson, 3107 Fortieth Street, is the girl taking a seated bounce on the trampoline above, while others eagerly watch from the sideline. NEW BEAUTY SHOP—Janelle Atkins, left, and Leona Williamson, are the stylists in the new Aristocrat Beauty Salon opened last week on the ground floor of the Diamond M Building at Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue I. Mrs. Williamson is owner and operator of the new shop. She has been a beauty operator in Snyder for the past four years and has 15 years' experience in the field, having been graduated from an Oklahoma City beauty college 15 years ago. The new shop has ample parking space in front and on a private parking lot adjoining the building. Completely modern, the new shop will offer the full line of beauty services. 'Best Sellers' List Posted In Scurry County Library

Summer time is leisure time, time for that vacation and time to just be lazy and pick up that good book that you have been hearing about and planning to read all winter. But where to start? What are the "best sellers" and why are they "best sellers"?

The New York Times defines their weekly best seller list as an "analysis based on reports from leading booksellers in 37 cities showing the sales rating of 16 leading fiction and general titles for the past three weeks." Similar lists are published regularly by Saturday Review, Library Journal, Publisher's Weekly and a number of other reliable [illegible] publications, most of which are available in your library. In short, "best sellers" are acclaimed as such by book sellers and [illegible] because they have been [illegible] by more people over a given period of time. Best sellers are [illegible] historical works, books on the field of science, religion, sports, [illegible] current politics, mysteries, science fiction — any and everything that appeals to the reader as entertaining or that might answer the questions and fulfill the needs of an inquiring mind.

Unfortunately best selling books are not always good literature. Many are widely read today and gone tomorrow. The same is true of non-fiction. The volumes on space travel, for example, that are devoured today, will be outdated in a few years to be replaced by advanced knowledge and new trends of thinking. However, it is reasonable to assume that some few of the "best sellers" out of many that are published every year will be the classics of tomorrow.

In keeping with the policy of all libraries, it is the aim of your librarian to have the book on the shelf before someone asks for it.

Most of the currently popular works are already on the shelves of your library, more are arriving steadily and will be available in the very near future. But remember! Some few of the books that you are reading about now! have not yet left the hands of the publishers. These last your library will obtain as soon as possible.

For your convenience, the best seller lists will be posted on the bulletin board in the lobby and a list of newly arrived 1959 books will be available at the desk. Any request, suggestion or criticism the patrons of the library have will be welcomed assistance in determining the preferences and future requirements of the reader, Mrs. Mary Nell Smith, librarian, said.

Find Hidden Secret In Stuffed Tomatoes

Sometimes homemakers forget that fresh fruits and vegetables come well equipped with a precious supply of vitamins and minerals that are so important to our general health.

During the summer months when these fresh fruits and vegetables are in abundant supply, it is only natural that they be included more frequently in the menu plans.

Meat salads are always an interesting entree and can give you an automatic outlet in the use of leftovers.

A home economist well versed in the art of recipe development and testing, Reba Staggs, has this stuffed tomato salad for you to try. Imagine having this list of ingredients combined in a stuffing for a plump red tomato ... ground luncheon meat, chopped celery, pickle relish, minced onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice and dairy sour cream. Place this recipe on the "must try" list of summer experiments.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, ground
1 cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup pickle relish
¼ cup minced onion
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6 tomatoes
Lettuce or endive
½ cup dairy sour cream

Combine meat, celery, relish, onion, mayonnaise and lemon juice. Mix thoroughly and chill. Cut tomatoes through in 6 sections and spread open, flower-shaped, on lettuce leaf or endive. Fill each tomato with approximately ½ cup filling. Combine sour cream and spoon about 2 tablespoons dressing over each filled tomato. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Trinity Methodist Opens VBS June 21

The Trinity Methodist Church has scheduled its vacation church school for June 21 through 28.

Sessions in the school will be from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. daily. Children 4 through 12 years old have been invited to participate.

Theme of the church school is "God and His World," and plans call for stories, songs, Bible games, worship and other activities for each age group.

A picnic for those enrolled is planned for June 27, and a sharing program for parents will be held on the night of June 28, with an open house and refreshments scheduled.

Food Fanciers Attracted By Barbecued Ribs

This is the time of year for the barbecue roundup. Many meat cuts take kindly to a spicy coating of a well-flavored barbecue sauce.

However, it is usually spareribs which receive the nod when barbecue is mentioned.

Sure as shootin', the food fanciers in your family will heartily approve of your choice for dinner tonight ... Barbecued Spareribs.

This type of menus might even be planned as a patio picnic ... be sure there are plenty of paper napkins ready since this cut of meat is usually designed as finger food.

For simplicity in preparation, Reba Staggs, a home economist and meat expert, comments that before baking, make sure the breast bone is cut through to make carving easier.

Classified as fresh pork, ribs are cooked in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until well done.

Barbecued Spareribs

3 pounds spareribs
Salt
Pepper
½ cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup catchup
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup water

Cut breastbone of spareribs so that ribs may be easily carved for individual servings. Season spareribs with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in a shallow baking pan for 1 hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Pour off drippings. Combine onion, vinegar, brown sugar, catchup, Worcestershire sauce, prepared mustard and water. Pour sauce over spareribs and continue baking uncovered for 1 hour or until done. Baste occasionally with barbecue sauce. Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

Chinese Cookery

The great culinary artists in the East ... the Chinese ... will tell us that curried Rice makes an excellent accompaniment for braised lamb cubes. To prepare this rice specialty, simply add 1 cup rice, ½ cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons curry powder to 4 cups boiling water. Cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes or until the rice is tender. Drain the rice but do not rinse.

Wash-and-wear clothing, because of its synthetic make-up, needs to be dried at a low-to-medium temperature setting, not high. The best temperature is from 140 to 160 degrees. Tumble wash-and-wear clothing for 20 to 40 minutes after laundering.

Six Going To Scout Camp

Six girls from Snyder are scheduled to attend the West Texas camp at Boothe Oaks near Sweetwater. First session of the camp, which will last two weeks, begins Monday.

Those from Snyder who have registered include Susan Gracey, Barbara Gracey, Susan Miller, Ann Patterson, Carol Young, and Empress Ann McFarland.

New features are added to the campsite each year as a result of the annual Girl Scout cookie sales. This year, a new archery range will be in use by the older campers, and a new crafts lodge for the use of all the girls attending will be in use.

Pre-camp training for the staff of the camp has been conducted during the past week.

He Grows Up Fast

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

"I WON'T have it. I tell you. He has to be punished, punished until it hurts." Mr. Adams was furiously walking up and down the living room.

"The very idea, going to a joint like that and that's all it is, a joint and drinking beer with that gang of rough necks. Who does he think he is anyway? It's got to stop."

The man's fist came down on the table with such force that now pain was added to Mr. Adam's fury, but he went on.

"That kid is hardly out of diapers. This is outrageous."

"Hardly out of diapers." That gives a big clue both to Mr. Adams and his fury and also to Melvin Adams, his 15-year-old son, the culprit whose escapades caused the present tempest.

Let's take a good look at Melvin and his parents.

Melvin was an only son. The Adams had been married about seven years before this much wanted child made his appearance. He was a healthy baby and grew into a sturdy, bright, attractive little boy. His parents had knocked themselves out for him, and they had been most careful and conscientious about everything.

Melvin's school was five or six blocks from the house, there was a busy intersection to cross. Every single day Mrs. Adams walked to school with the lad and every day was either at school at the end of the day or at the crossing. She did this until he was in the fourth grade and Melvin was almost 10. There had been quite a scene. Melvin refused to go to school at all if his mother insisted upon "nursemaiding" him as he called it. The Adams finally gave in.

Throughout his whole childhood Melvin was surrounded with restrictions which were seldom lifted until there was a real row about it.

Now this last one. Melvin went with a tough gang who spent their time in beer halls.

Melvin was almost grown now. He felt he was practically a man but his father treated him like a little boy. He had to prove to somebody, and most importantly to himself, that he was not a child.

The trouble with Melvin, and it's the same trouble with numerous other teen-agers, is that they have to fight tooth and nail for their independence. It is during the adolescent years that the struggle flares up into its biggest blaze but usually there has been a struggle through all the years of childhood.

From birth on, youngsters are trying to wean themselves away from dependence, in fact that's what growing up is all about.

The wise parent guides with a loose rein and in the long run he does a lot more guiding than the parent who restricts and tries to tie his child down.

If you can see what's coming and help your child succeed in each new step in independence he will not need to demonstrate to himself or anyone else that he is growing up.

Teach your first grader to cross the streets with the lights and let him do it on his own as soon as you are satisfied he is old enough to assume the responsibility.

The child who has had this early training is much easier to handle in adolescence.

But how about a boy like Melvin and a father like Mr. Adams? It is never too late to improve a relationship. But Mr. Adams has to realize that his boy is well out of diapers and needs to be treated like the near man he is.

Bacon Dressing Tops Crisp Tossed Salad

With the arrival of summer, everything takes on a new and fresh color. Even he homemaker's meals are planned with the hot weather in mind.

Featured foremost during this warm season are fresh greens, fruits and vegetables. Cold crisp salads have a way of perking up wilted personalities.

Of course, each new salad combination must be accompanied by an even newer salad dressing.

Home economist and meat expert Reba Staggs has this Zesty Salad Dressing With Bacon to offer. It's a nippy combination featuring bacon, salad dressing, French dressing, vinegar, chopped onion, chopped parsley and capers.

Capers provide that something which makes this salad a standout while the bacon lends a crisp texture different from that of the greens. You'll be so pleased that you tried this treat.

Zesty Salad Dressing With Bacon

6 slices bacon
½ cup salad dressing
¼ cup French dressing
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons capers

Cook bacon until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper. Break into pieces. Mix together salad dressing, French dressing, vinegar, onion, parsley and capers. Chill. Serve over salad greens. Sprinkle with bacon pieces. Yield: 1 cup dressing.

Contrary to belief, dandruff actually results from a too oily scalp rather than a dry one. The oil builds up in layers. When bacteria take residence in this oily home, inflammation may result. Thorough brushing and frequent shampoos discourage such a scalp condition.

Miss Betty McKinney Marries Thomas Melling Here June 6

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McKinney of Snyder have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Lou McKinney, to Mr. Thomas M. Melling, of Arcadia, Indiana.

Mr. Melling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Melling of of Arcadia.

The wedding took place Saturday June 6, in the home of the bride's parents.

A small reception was held after the double-ring ceremony in the home.

Out-of-town guests were from Post, Slaton, and Fort Worth.

After a trip to Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Melling will leave for Japan where he will be stationed as a communications technician in the U. S. Navy. He will leave in about three weeks, and she will follow as soon as he can arrange living quarters in Japan.

For the wedding the bride wore a white linen suit, and carried a white carnation corsage on a white Bible.

Officiating was Glen Pace, minister of the Twenty-fifth Street Church of Christ.

In the reception Mrs. Johnnie Hunt and Mrs. Loia Mae Ryan served, and Mrs. Hunt presided at the bride's guest book.

Mrs. Ferguson Still Does Own Thinking

AUSTIN (AP) — "Live and let live" is still the motto of Texas' only woman governor, who turned 84 Saturday.

Mrs. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson, a gentle, white-haired great grandmother, became the first woman in the nation to win popular election as governor in 1925.

For a quarter century she and her husband Jim Ferguson lived in the vortex of a political tornado.

She maintains a keen interest in politics.

"I keep up with the news and I listen to what my friends say—then I do my own thinking," she said.

Massaging the scalp is a double pleasure. Done properly, massage relaxes tense nerves at the end of a busy day. And it stimulates the scalp to contribute to healthier, prettier hair.

Pie Bakers

One range manufacturer has made it easy for the pie baker whose fruit pies boil over in the oven. A roll of aluminum foil fits into the back of the oven and the thin sheet of foil extends to the front. When a pie boils over all you have to do is to whisk out the soiled sheet and you have a clean, gleaming protective cover over the bottom of your oven.

Depletion Plan Benefits All

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Richard Gonzalez of Houston, treasurer of Humble Oil & Refining Co., said Friday the public gets the major benefits from the controversial minerals depletion allowance tax provision.

He told the National Oil Scouts and Landsmen's convention this public benefit is in the form of ample supplies of oil and gas at reasonable prices.

"Most of the criticisms of depletion seem to be on the belief that this tax provision does not benefit consumers of petroleum products but serves only to make producers fabulously wealthy. Such temporary benefits as are realied by producers from this incentive are quickly reflected in prices under the pressure of competition. As a result, the rate of return on investments in petroleum operations is only about the same as for all manufacturing corporations."

Long before the United Nations, there was a United Provinces of Central America in 1824. It broke up over religious issues.

Circle Meets Thursday Night

The Betty Bowlin Circle of the Bethel Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Sally Lane Thursday evening, the regular missionary program was held.

Six persons were present.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 18 in the home of Mrs. Flora Dell Smith, 114 Browning, when missionary study will be held.

Conference Set Tuesday By Baptists

A Bible conference has been scheduled by the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association in Snyder Tuesday.

The conference will be at the Avenue D Baptist Church.

Main speaker for the all-day meeting will be Dr. E. D. Head, president emeritus of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. Dr. Head now lives at Comfort.

He will head a Bible exposition at 11 a.m., 3:05 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The conference will open at 10:30 a.m. with a song service led by the Rev. Thomas Lynn, pastor of the Ennis Baptist Church, followed by a devotional, "The Bible, Our Guide and Comfort," by the Rev. Kenneth Andress, pastor of the Buford Baptist Church. Special music will be by the Rev. James Callaway, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church at Colorado City.

The afternoon session will begin with a song service at 1:45 p.m., followed by a devotional talk, "Inspiration and Canonization of the Scripture," by the Rev. Gene Henson, pastor of the Westbrook Baptist Church. The Rev. Jimmie Nelson, pastor of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church here, will give a talk on "The Significance of the Dead Sea Scrolls."

After Dr. Head's talk in the afternoon there will be a fellowship period and an executive board meeting will be held at 4:45 p.m. The Rev. A. J. Martin, pastor of the Avenue D Baptist Church is association moderator and chairman of the board.

Supper will be served by the host church at 6 p.m., and the evening session will be from 7 to 9 p.m.

BY FRANCES-ELIZABETH JONES

Two passing travelers from the east who at my house had paused to quench their thirst and ease off their shoes, described this area as the "Vacation Bible School Belt." It seems their Buick swerved onto the curb in every hamlet to allow passage of skipping youngsters clutching bad crayola pictures of Noah.

I can't sense in my two the unslaked appetite I held for a richly colored Bible storybook picture of angels twinkling down Jacob's ladder, though it has been proffered them, as whatever your creed or lack of one, I believe familiarity with the stories of the Bible is a birthright of every child in our culture.

I accompanied as a neighbor transported my two with her small girl to the Presbyterian Church. Thank heaven they never yet have rebuilt it. Churches mostly today race keeping up with the Joneses more than women's shoes. Never a member of that comfortable and pleasant faith, I, however, through the years, have been accepted on sufferance swinging down the steps on the arm of a Presbyterian pal, for whom I had an affinity, headed for an ice cream supper.

Down in the basement, Mrs. Weyel shooed the juniors into their room. A blouse figured with butterflies rushed past me containing a chunky intermediate. Mrs. MacFarland refreshed herself from a teacher's manuel like a lady lecturer before taking the platform. Two little girls in blue-checked sister suits flashed down the hall. Their "days" hung on the wall studded with attendance-stars, and they were getting down to work painting a commandment on a pie plate, when Mrs. Pitner and I departed.

I wonder if the Bible story characters come alive for them, earthy and unsophisticated, in which the sinners sin and saints pray.

All remaining to me at five of a grandfather, Standish Jones, was a tiny pearl-handled pinknife and a big red Bible history book. Something — perhaps the glossy paper smell, maybe the bright-hued paintings, something made the ancient-robed creatures walk right off the pages and into my lonely play hours under the cottonwood trees. On occasion I was Ruth in the barley field, another day the wicked and beautiful Jezabel leaning over the porch railing before my richly-robed body was pitched from my palace onto the streets for the dogs. Soaring over an irrigation ditch in a rubber-tire-swing attached to the rope from a tall branch, I surveyed Earth from the patient, golden eyes of an angel whose wings were whiter than my mother's best-laying White leghorns. Once crawling too close to the hives, I wailed to my grandmother, "A bee stung me on the wing."

I don't believe my two use those wonderful Bible people, in imagination, falling back instead on Baker and Able's trip, after which Able, unsuccessfully operated, is buried in Arlington Cemetery after a flag-kissing ceremony. To my mind, missiles never can come near Joseph's coat of many colors for afternoon play, nor Rebecca with a cup towel drawn tightly over her brow at the well.

Thin legs, mesquito scratched, ran to our waiting car.

"I learned", said Annabel, "to sing 'John Brown's baby had a Coke upon his chest.' I did so. Mrs. Dillaha taught us."

"And I," supplied Leesa, "shall pinch a certain little boy if he gets my chair again."

"Mother", said Buddy, "This afternoon will you read to us about Little Moses in the rushes?"

And, respectfully, gently, that afternoon, we drew down the big red Bible storybook, twice rebound, still resplendent with Esau's birthright, the deep red sea, the wrestling angel, David's harp beside the clear, still waters, and Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego peering perspiringly from the fiery furnace.

Miss Beth McClatchy, Leroy Kendal Minnix United In Double-Ring Ceremony Last Night

Miss Mary Beth McClatchy became the bride of Leroy Kendal Minnix in a double-ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church here at 7:30 o'clock last night.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil V. McClatchy, 3702 Rose Circle, Snyder, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Minnix of Lamesa.

Officiating minister was the Rev. R. Charles Spivey, pastor of the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her traditional gown of white silk organza and chantilly lace, was fashioned with a portrait neckline, with brief sleeves of lace and encrusted pearls. It had a slightly elongated bodice, and shirred skirt banded with lace. Her tripple veil of illusion was caught to a regal crown of simulated pearls. The bride carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

The maid of honor was Miss Susan Cockrell, Snyder, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Ronnie Kidd of Lovington, N.M.

Bride's maid was Miss Sonya Minnix, Lamesa, sister of the groom.

The three attendants wore identical waltz length gowns of orchid silk organza fashioned with softly folded sabrina necklines. They carried colonial bouquets of pale pink elfie roses. The dresses were complimented by large picture hats with velvet trim to match their gowns.

Candle lighters were John L. Jones III of Copperus Cove, Tex., and Jack Jones of Junction. They are cousins of the bride.

The best man was Ronnie Kidd of Lovington.

Groomsmen were Bill Gilbreath and Doyle Chapman, cousins of the groom from Lamesa.

Mrs. James Rosser played the "Bridal Chorus from Lohengrine," by Wagner, and the "Wedding march," by Mendelssohn. Soloist was Mrs. W. A. McClatchy, cousin of the bride, who sang "Ava Maria," and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception for the newly married couple was held in Martha Ann Woman's Club. The club was decorated with white stock of orchids with silver appointments on a white organdy table cloth with eyelet trim.

A three-tier white wedding cake was served by Miss Ann Dyer, while Miss Linda Mize presided at the white guest book.

For a short wedding trip the bride chose a Navy suit, white hat and purse, gloves and Navy and white shoes.

Following the wedding trip they will reside in Ozona.

The bride was graduated from Snyder High School May 25, 1959.

The groom is a graduate of Lamesa High School and the University of Denver, Denver, Colo.

He is employed by Dawson Geophysical Co. of Midland.

Out-of-town guests included persons from Junction, Menard, Copperus Cove, El Dorado, San Angelo, Midland, Odessa, Lamesa, Seminole, Dell City and El Freeda, Ariz.

Prosperity Making Class Lines Dinner

By Cynthia Lowry
AP Newsfeatures writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The American home has supplanted the automobile as the nation's favorite status symbol, says reporter Vance Packard, and with increasing national prosperity there has been "a crumbling of visible class lines."

Packard, author of "The Hidden Persuaders" (which analyzed techniques developed to manipulate American Consumers), now has taken a look at the class structure and status system of a nation which often boasts a classless society.

The book is called "The Status Seekers," and it is Packard's view that Americans, consciously and unconsciously, reveal their place on the social ladder-or the place they want on the social ladder by the houses in which they live, the churches they attend, the clubs to which they belong, the food they eat, the stores in which they shop.

His research, he says leads him to believe the social classes of the nation are regrouping as two great divisions. One he calls "The Diploma Elite" (because the head of the family usually goes to college) and the other "The Supporting Classes." But these two divisions he breaks down into five smaller classes. At the top of the heap, with the upper class" and the "semi-upper class." Below them are "the limited-success class," "the work-class."

The real lower class, says Packard, knows what it is. The working class isn't fighting to jump its wall. It is in the limited-success and the semi-upper class areas that status, status symbols and social climbing are important. And many new, sometimes subtle status symbols have become important, he says, since such oldtime upper-class symbols as limousines, mink coats and power boats have become available to so many in our affluent age.

The American home is one of them. "American families in the past few years have been giving more and more thought to the problem of establishing a home that adequately reinforces the status image they wish to project," Packard says. "And home builders have happily helped the trend along by emphasizing status appeals."

Each community, has its own "status neighborhoods." In some the elite are clustered on high ground; in others, it is nearness to a body of water that counts.

Women, Packard insists, are more conscious of status and its symbols than men. And the stores in which they choose to shop and what they buy reveals a good deal about their location on the social scale. And so, indeed does the way their bills are paid-cash or check. Fast or slow.

"Women who get beyond their status in their ventures into stores feel uncomfortable," he reports. "There is a widespread feeling among women that store clerks endeavor to maintain what they consider to be the proper tone for their store by snooting customers who seem out of place."

Packard says, too, that one's duck, pompano, caviar are much better accepted by the two upper classes than by the three lower ones.

status shows by what one eats. "In general, conceptions about what foods best serve as treats become more elaborate as you go down the social scale." Upper classes like hard, firm bread; lower classes prefer soft bread. Offbeat foods — vension, wild

Packard, as a reporter, knows that status-striving goes on all over America. But he does not approve of the struggle.

"I think we should all be happier, and live more stimulating lives if we judged people, not by the symbols they display and the labels they wear but rather by their individual worth," he concludes.

Snyderite Completes His Novel

A Snyder soldier has just completed a novel, "The Dead Hear Not," which he hopes will be published this summer.

He is Clarence Newton (Buddy or Booger) Townsend, son of Arthur Townsend Sr., who lives west of Snyder. Around Snyder he is known by either of his nicknames and he signs his novel "Booger" Townsend.

Townsend said that he completed the novel May 25, and that it is now being typed in Fort Benning, Ga., where he is stationed in the Army.

The novel was some 17 months in the writing.

"Upon completion of the final draft, I plan to submit it to one of the most outstanding publishing houses in the nation, to be published in both paper-back and hard-bound volumes," he said. He added that he hopes it will be published this summer, about July 25.

"The novel is more or less a contemporary Western writen about actual happenings and actual people along the rodeo circuit. A great deal of action and thought is involved in it, and it has been described to me by some of my proof readers as a West Texas "Peyton Place," he said.

"I am very optimistic about the publication as it is written in a vernacular language and I feel sure the average person will enjoy reading it," he said.

If the novel is published, Townsend has planned a series of short stories to follow, two of which have already been written. They are titled "Le Serpent a Sonnettes:" and "Niger Nation."

Overweight is particularly hard on the blood vessels and heart because each five pounds of fat requires three additional miles of blood vessels, research indicates. High protein lean beef is an excellent mainstay for a reducing diet.

Snyder Soldier Is Promoted In Germany

Jack B. Chasteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Chasteen, Snyder, recently was promoted to specialist four in Ansbach, Germany, where he is a member of the 42nd Transportation Company.

Specialist Chasteen, a production and control clerk in the company, entered the Army in August 1957, received basic training at Fort Carson, Colo., and arrived in Europe the following March.

The 21-year-old soldier is a 1957 graduate of Snyder High School and was employed by Graves Radiator Shop before entering the Army.

The Social Security representative may be contacted at the courthouse here each Thursday there after.

Planes Patrol Forests

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government plans to use planes and helicopters to patrol the nation's forestry zones to prevent illegal cutting. Agriculture Minister Julian Rodriguez Adame said Friday the planes for this purpose will be purchased soon.

Wage Hikes Sought

MEXICO CITY (AP—Informed sources said Saturday leaders of the Petroleum Workers Union are holding out for 15 per cent wage increases. Talks on a new contract between the union heads and representatives of Petroleos Mexicanos have ben held in secret.

For school lunch sandwiches, carefully butter the slices of bread out to the crust. Use two very thin slices of beef (leftover roast is especially good) and put mayonnaise or other dressing between the beff slices. This method prevents the bread from absorbing the dressing, and brings the sandwich to the lunch table as fresh and appetizing as when it was made.

Rev. Raney To Be On Daily Devotions

Peek Attends Institute

Ollie L. Peek, teacher at Snyder High School, is one of 25 teachers from four states attending a summer institute for high school mathematics teachers at East Texas State College.

The institute is financed by a $19,500 grant from the National Science Foundation.

Peel receives a stipend from the foundation of $60 a week plus travel expenses.

The math teacher holds a bachelor of arts degree from McMurry College amd master of education degree from Hardin-Simmons University. He has taught both algebra and plane geometry and has been in the teaching field 10 years.

The summer institute began June 1 and will continue through July 11. Dr. C. B. Wright, professor and head of the ETSC mathematics department, said the foundation supports the institute not only to improve the quality of teaching but because of the inflence of the teachers on others with whom they come in contact.

Carving tip: Plan the serving before carving so that the choicest portions will be divided equally among the guests. Second helpings cool quickly if sliced before they are needed.

OUR VIEW

Time For A Cleanup

Spring housecleaning is a traditional American custom, and in recent years many cities and towns have joined the trend on a community-wide basis.

In this region, late spring is the ideal time for such activity, and Snyder's annual cleanup campaign has been set to begin tomorrow.

The benefits which accrue to a community from such an endeavor parallel those which a family realizes when a single home project is launched. However, a community-wide effort enhances all of the desirable factors, because the healthy, spick-and-span environment branches out.

Spring rains have come to the Snyder area in generous quantity—too generous, in some cases—bringing benefits and the accompanying problems. Some of the problems may remain for the summer, unless steps are taken promptly to eliminate them.

That is the purpose of a city-wide campaign: To rid the city of rubbish and unhealthy growth of weeds, eliminate breeding places and convention sites of house-flies, mosquitoes and other pests from the insect world, and, to use that trite expression, make the community generally a better place "in which to live."

Like a housecleaning project in a single home, a city-wide spring cleaning, of course, requires everyone to do his part.

So, acquaint yourself with the schedule for the week, and prepare to do your bit. Your own property and well-being will profit by it, and entire town will be in good shape for the hot summer months ahead.

Mail By Missile Not New In Texas

HIDALGO, Tex. (AP)—A handful of Lower Rio Grande Valley Texans say the firing of a mail carrying missile from a submarine off the Atlantic coast last week wasn't the first missile mail shipment.

In fact, they say it came 23 years later. They fired a successful international mail carrying rocket July 2, 1936, from Texas into Mexico across the Rio Grande.

"However, our rockets were kinda mis-guided missiles and some didn't go off as smoothly as the one last week," one old-timer recalled.

The Regulus I, fired last week from the USS Barbero, carried 3,000 letters to Mayport Auxiliary Naval Air Station near Jacksonville, Fla. It traveled more than 100 miles.

The Lower Valley group actually fired 10 rockets in all and each contained 300 envelopes. Five were fired from the U.S. side and a like number from the Mexican side. One of the rockets traveled about a mile.

The rocket firings were sponsored by the McAllen American Legin post as an attempt to raise Legion post as an attempt to raise covers were to be sold at $1 each.

Keith Rumbel, now director of the Chemical Engineering Division of the Atlantic Research Corp. at Alexandria, Va., designed the rockets. He was then 16.

The rockets were 7 feet long and 12 inches in circumference. They were made of card and fiber board. The fuel was a solid much like the kind used to fire toy skyrockets.

The firing was cleared with both U.S. and Mexican authorities. It was approved and supervised by the U.S. postal officials. The late Harry Merts, then McAllen postmaster, was on hand for the event.

Garland Adair, now curator of the Texas Memorial Museum at Austin, fired the first rocket.

It zoomed into the air about 100 feet and then exploded over the river. Mail and pieces of the rocket flew in all directions.

Then the second rocket was placed in the launching tube. McAllen Mayor A. L. Landry lit the fuse.

Across the swollen river, the Mexican border town of Reynosa was quiet and peaceful on the warm summer afternoon. Some residents hadn't heard of the stunt. Some were taking their afternoon siesta.

In the U.S. bar in the Mexican city, customers lazily sipped their drinks.

The second rocket screamed across the river and smacked into the tavern. Reports were never clear just what happened next. Some say beer sippers took off at a speed much greater than the rocket. Other reports said many swore off drinking for life. No injuries were reported.

A third rocket left the U.S. side. The group held its breath as it headed for a group of shacks in the Reynosa area. It struck a shack and sent children and adults scattering like quail. But again no damage or injuries occurred.

Two more rockets were fired without incident.

Then the group crossed the international bridge and fired five back to the U.S. side. Four went well but one landed in a corn field and set it afire. The group rushed back and helped a farmer extinguish the blaze.

"It's funny now, but it wasn't so funny then," Bolton Hyde, McAllen real estate man and then commander of the Legion post, remembered.

About 1,000 of the covers were recovered from the flight into Mexico and were taken to the Reynosa postoffice. Slightly more than 900 were recovered from the return flight and taken to the McAllen post office.

One set of covers have been preserved at the Smithsonian Institute and others at the Texas Memorial Museum and the Legion Memorial Hall at McAllen.

Inquiries from stamp collectors from many countries were received by the Legion.

Blueprint For War In Space Being Readied

By ELTON FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's top military planners are beginning to blueprint the weapons needed to fight a war in space.

Among other things, they are exploring the possibility of setting up an attack warning and surveillance system in space.

These are the major developments expected to unfold in the military high command's latest revision of what is known as the "Joint Long-range Strategic Estimate" covering a 12-year-period extending to 1971.

The annual revision, prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, presumably will include a fairly specific definition of the types of weapons and techniques that would be used in space warfare.

The long-range strategic estimate is one of three constantly and routinely revised by JCS. A medium-range estimate, called the "Joint Strategic Objectives Plan," embraces a period from three to seven years from date of revision. The short-range estimate—the "Joint Strategic Capabilities Plan"—is for use in event of war within one year of revision.

The Air Force, which has major responsibility for space weapon planning, has already assembled some date on what probably would be required in weapons and the intricate systems for their support and use.

In normal procedure, these Air Force recommendations either have or shortly will be passed on to the JCS and, incidentally, to the Advanced Research Projects Agency, for technical study.

But what the Air Force of the JCS or ARPA or the Defense Department proposes to do in preparing for space war, is subject to approval by the White House and the State Department. There national policy is established.

Up to now, the emphasis from top administration levels, including statements and speeches by the President, has been on the use of space for peaceful research and exploration. The military still seems to be uncertain what role it will be permitted.

Nevertheless, the Air Force has assembled general requirements on types of weapons and is working on plans to provide training for crews and ground support personnel.

Certainly, the training of the seven astronauts selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the armed forces for the first manned space excursions will provide the basis for training the space crews of the immediate future.

The broad requirements for a military space system, as seen by Air Force officers and scientists, include these:

1. The most urgent need, the highest priority, should be given to providing an attack warning and surveillance system in space, to provide alarm not only of enemy space weapons but of conventional ballistic missile activities. Reconnaissance and surveillance eventually will be carried out by both unmanned and manned vehicles and possibly from land positions in space, such as the moon.

2. Navigational check points are of high value in aiming ballistic missiles. Such bench marks could be mounted in space and used for precise triangulation in measuring distance and direction between launching points and targets.

Present maps are known to be inaccurate, in some instances by many miles, on locations of coast lines, islands and cities.

3. Weather prediction, for use in conventional missile and aircraft operation, could be improved with the use of satellites.

4. New communications systems, required for terrestial as well as space military activities, are a vital necessity.

These are the initial requirements foreseen by the Air Force. Looking further ahead, some years into the future, new situations requiring new techniques and weapons could be required.

The Soviet Union might object to being watched by an American "fixed position" satellite, put into high orbit and its speed adjusted to synchronize with the revolution of the earth—making it hover above a given point on earth. So the Soviets would send up an intercepting vehicle, to drive away or destroy the American surveillance vehicle. The problem of defending the surveillance satellite would arise.

Canada Challenges As Oil Consumer

HOUSTON (AP)—Canadians are challenging the United States for top ranking among oil consumers.

The average Canadian requires 16.2 barrels of oil products a year.

The United States per capita rate is 18.8 barrels or only 14 per cent more than Canada. In 1939 the United States averages was twice that of Canada.

A Canadian oil executive said he believes his country soon may be the largest per capita consumer of petroleum-based energy in the world.

Harold Rea of Toronto says continued rapid increase in consumption for heating purposes, highway transports, and railway dieselization offers such a possibility.

On a recent visit to the United States, the president of Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. said Canada is one of the world's few remaining frontiers of petroleum exploration.

Rea said the Canadian oil industry is comparatively small but already places his country on an equal footing with the United States in proven reserves on a per capita basis.

Canada has a population of 17 million, the United States about 170 million. Canadian crude reserves now approximate 3.6 billion barrels or about one-tenth that of the United States.

Plans Set For Rodeo Here

Plans are almost complete here for the 23rd annual Scurry County Rodeo, which will be held July 15 through 18.

The Scurry County Rodeo Association will again offer $3,600 in prizes to event-winning performers in the show. The purse annually draws about 300 cowboys from a wide area of Texas and adjoining states.

M. F. Bell, long a worker in the rodeos here, this year is president of the association. Vice president is R. J. (Buddy) Trevey, and secretary-treasurer is Joe V. Robinson.

Directors of the association are the three officers and J. N. Eicke, Earl Abercrombie, Martin Parks and L. A. (Louie) Vaughan. Vaughan is a new director. Parks will serve this year as arena director for the show.

Morris Stephens of Quitaque was employed by the association to help promote the show by furnishing stock, announcer and clowns. Stephens, who has a number of years of experience in rodeo promotion, succeeds Goat Mayo of Petrolia, who had furnished stock for the shows here for about 15 years.

M. F. BELL

Also helping to promote events in connection with the rodeo is the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse, which will sponsor a rodeo queen contest.

Any club or organization here can enter a queen candidate in the contest will sell tickets to the the contest will sell tickets to the annual barbecue the Sheriff's Posse has on the first night of the rodeo, and for each $1.25 ticket sold by a club the club gets 25 cents commission and 125 votes for its queen candidate. The queen will be crowned during the rodeo, and all queen candidates will ride in the first night grand entry.

Lynn Fenton, who is in charge of the queen contest, has been contacting organizations concerning the queen contest and has asked that any organization interested which has not been contacted to contact him.

The sheriff's posse will also handle sales of bunting which will be placed on fronts of businesses to help promote the rodeo.

The annual first day parade will be held at 5 p.m. July 15. Fenton and Gene Thompson are parade marshals. Eighteen sheriff's posses are being invited to participate in the first day parade, and trophies will be awarded by the rodeo association to the three top riding groups. Prizes will also be awarded for the best floats in the parade.

Scheduled for each night of the rodeo, beginning at about 9:30 p.m., will be a dance in the rodeo pavilion, with Hoyle Nix and His West Texas Cowboys furnishing music.

Reservations for box seats for the rodeo are already being taken by Mrs. J. N. Eicke at HI 3-4259 or by Robinson at Snyder Abstract Co.

The boxes are $20 for the four nights and contain six seats. General admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Each night's performance will be at 8 o'clock.

The Jaycees will have concessions and programs for the rodeo and will aid with promotion of the show.

A specialty act which proved popular with last year's rodeo fans here was the trick riding and roping of the Grant Family of Little Rock, Ark., and that act will again be included this year.

Events in the rodeo have not been changed, and the show will again include such specialty events as the "little red wagon," wild mare race and goat sacking.

May Rains Improve Summer Ranges

AUSIN (AP)—May rains greatly improved summer range and pasture prospects, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

Summer grass greened up over west and northwest Texas as early June rains covered all the state except the extreme south.

A hot sun plus moisture matured grass rapidly. Needle grass was growing along with the edible varieties. It was giving a lot of trouble in the sheep country, especially to lambs.

All range feed was 87 per cent of normal June 1, a 5 per cent jump since May 1.

Vegetable Yield Under 1958 Rate

AUSTIN (AP)—Spring and early summer vegetable production except potatoes is estimated at 11 per cent under last year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says Texas plantings of vegetables and melons averaged 10 per cent under last year, accounting for most of the predicted drop. Yields are about the same.

The late spring potato crop was estimated at two per cent greater June 1 than on May 1. This was seven per cent under May 1 a year ago.

Cotton Measuring Underway

Cotton measuring has been underway for a week here, and so far cotton reporters have measured in an area of the county in which farmers were not forced by weather to replant.

Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee, said the cotton reporters began work at the west end of the county, where cotton was not affected by the recent intense hail and not badly damaged by blowing sand.

There are 18 cotton reporters measuring in the field, Burchett said.

In the middle and eastern parts of the county, many farmers have been replanting their cotton, as have some in a few other areas. Many have now finished their replanting, however.

Cotton reporters will not pass those farms where planting has been completed when they are working in an area. If planting is not complete when they work in an area, they will be forced to wait until later to go back and complete measuring on the individual farms.

"We hope to be about 70 per cent complete by July 1," Burchett said.

The ASC measures the cotton acreage as a part of the federal cotton allotment program.

Chemicals Can Curb Weed, Grass

COLLEGE STATION — Favorable moisture for cotton production also calls for a close look at good mechanical and chemical weed and grass control practices to reduce or eliminate costly hand hoeing. Of the numerous weed control choices available, three are outstanding, says Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

These include the rotary hoe, lateral oiling of grass and weeds in young cotton and spot spraying with oils and fortified oils or spot spraying of grass with sodium dalapon in water.

The rotary hoe has been and still is the key weed control practice. In 1958, 44,496 rotary hoe equipped tractors were operated in 157 counties, resulting in a saving of over $13 million. The pull-behind or broadcast types proved very popular and easy to operate at the required high speeds. Rotary hoeing alone, not in combination with sweep cultivation, permits fast coverage and getting into fields quicker after repeated rains, Elliott said.

If continued rains prevent getting into the field with the rotary hoe and cause heavy growth of annual grasses and weeds, lateral oiling or post emergence oiling with unfortified naphtha is an excellent way to get out of the grass for about $1.00 to $1.50 for the five gallons of oil needed per acre. This practice was carried out in 47 counties in 1958.

The naphtha is applied with parallel action oiling shoes at 15 to 25 pounds pressure, with 2 fan-type, horizontal nozzles, staggered and placed 10 inches apart — one nozzle on each side of the row. Direct the spray pattern at the lower 1 to 1 and ½ inches of the cotton stem, below the leaves, advises Elliott. Natural wax on young cotton stalks shed the naphtha without injury to the cotton until bark roughens and cracks. Annual grasses up to 3 to 5 inches tall can be controlled, he said.

Spot-spraying established Johnsongrass is faster, easier and cheaper than hand hoeing and Johnsongrass can be eradicated in one year. Use the jet-gun sprayer. Apply the oils in small amounts of the stem of the grass at the ground line. Keros fortified with C-56, ½ gallon to 100 gallons oil, does an excellent job, Elliott said.

Sodium dalapon in water is a systemic foliage spray and the leaves of the grass must be wet. Again the jet-gun sprayer is ideal equipment for the job. The specialist suggests that you ask you county agent for Bulletin 902, "Spot Spraying Johnsongrass," and for other information on how to fight weeds and grass with machines and chemicals.

Soil Tests Result In Pasture Aid

COLLEGE STATION — Seeing is believing, especially when it involves transforming a needlegrass and broom sage field into a highly productive pasture. The change which has taken place has made T. G. Hemby, Jr. of New London a strong believer in soil test recommendations.

Two years ago Hemby purchased a tract of worn-out land near New London that was supporting a cover of only needlegrass and broom sage. The land would not carry a cow to 10 acres and produce a normal calf crop. Hemby set out to do something about the situation and his first move was to take soil samples and have them analyzed.

Back from the soil testing laboratory came a recommedation that both lime and fertilizer be applied. Hemby followed the advice and now has 60 steer calves grazing on 25 acres of crimson clover, oats and vetch. And what is more, the calves are not keeping up with the forage produced.

Hemby reports that those who have seen the change are surprised at what has taken place. He is sure that the application of lime and fertilizer in the recommended amounts, based on the soil test, is responsible and further believes that the lime has stepped up the efficiency of the fertilizer.

Extension Soil Chemist W. F. Bennett, who also is in charge of the soil testing laboratory at Texas A&M College, cites this as another example of what can be done with worn-out cropland in sections of Texas where lime is needed to get the soil acidity up to where adapted forage plants can thrive. Last year, he said, an estimated 143,500 tons of lime were sold in Texas against an estimated annual need of almost 4,000,000 tons.

Demonstrations, such as the one conducted by Hemby, have shown, said the chemist, that an application of lime can return more dollars per dollar invested than the use of fertilizers alone in soils which need lime. A soil test, he added, will give the answer as to the amount needed.

COTTON LOAN RATE NOW SET

Official word has been received here on the Scurry County cotton support rates for 1959, according to Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The rates, based on middling one inch, are 33.97 for choice "A" farms and 28.27 for choice "B" allotment farms.

The choice "A" rate is for outright sale, the rate the federal government will buy the cotton at if it does not bring at least that price on the market. The choice "B" rate is a loan rate. Choice "B" cotton may be sold on the market, however.

A single large steel mill may require as much as 500 million gallons of water a day to maintain operation.

MR. AND MRS. RONNEY MARVIN MASON
. . . married in Sweetwater

Snyderites Attend Relative's Wedding In Sweetwater June 7

SWEETWATER — Mr. and Mrs. Ronney Marvin Mason have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at 1707 Lou Street in Sweetwater. They were married on June 7 at 3 p.m. in a double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Sweetwater. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Dr. W. LeRay Fowler.

Mrs. W. E. Morton, organist, and Dr. A. N. Densmore, soloist, gave the wedding music.

Mrs. Mason is the former Vernie Dell Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Jackson of 905 Crane Street, Sweetwater. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mason of 1517 Josephine Street, Sweetwater.

Wedding attendants include Miss Martha McGlothing, maid of honor, and Patricia Wyatt, Rita Stewart and Roberta Fuqua were bridesmaids. Candle lighters were Lou Wayne Rogers of Snyder and cousin of the bride, and Bette May. Melody Lynn Jackson, sister of the bride, and Debbie Knight, cousin of the bride, were flower girls.

Jerry Miller of Sweetwater was best man. Ushers were Tommy Bridges and Carroll Kearney of Sweetwater and DeWain McQueen of Lubbock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was of hand-clipped chantilly lace and crystal tulle over satin, basque bodice fashioned with scalloped bateau neckline. Her miniature crown encrusted with pearls and sequins held a tiered finger-tip veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was of Sweetheart roses and gardenias, with French knots of white velvet ribbons streaming from a white satin Bible.

The attendants' dresses were waltz-length nylon organdy over over petal pink taffeta. The molded bodices had portrait necklines. They wore petal pink tulle picture-brim hats. They carried lace fans with pink rosebuds inserted.

Miss Judy Davis registered guests.

The wedding reception was held in Fellowship Hall at the church. The bride's table was laid with linen-lace over pink satin. Pink rosebuds in a low crystal bowl centered the table. Mrs. Dwight McBride served the wedding cake. Mrs. F. E. Perdue served punch. Miss Sandra Pitts was at the piano during the reception.

The rehearsal dinner was given June 6 at the Blue Bonnet Hotel by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mason, parents of the bridegroom.

Wedding guests were from Tulsa, Okla., Los Angeles, Calif., Minden, La., Snyder, Lubbock and Colorado City.

Lamb, Celery, Cheese Seen As Peppy Trio

If you're looking for simplicity in meal preparation, here is a recipe easy as A-B-C. You might describe it as Lambburgers but the actual recipe name is Cheese 'n Celery Lamb Patties.

If the children in your household favor ground meat dishes, here is your opportunity to score 100 per cent in the eyes of these critical food judges.

According to home economist Reba Staggs, ground lamb is an imaginative way to introduce more lamb into the weekly menu plans. Certainly for summer mealtime plans, this recipe will act as a real incentive to the waning appetites of children.

Seasonings, celery seed and catchup combine with the ground lamb to make perfectly flavored patties ready for the broiler. Grated cheddar cheese is added just long enough before the end of cooking time to give the patties a frosted appearance.

Cheese 'n Celery Lamb Patties

1 pound ground lamb
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery seed
¼ cup catchup
¼ cup grated cheddar cheese

Combine lamb, salt, pepper, celery seed and catchup. Shape into 4 patties about ¾ inch thick. Place on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan so that the top surface of meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil until brown on first side, about 8 minutes. Turn, broil second side 3 to 4 minutes. Sprinkle grated cheese on patties and continue broiling 1 to 2 minutes, or until cheese is melted. Yield: 4 servings.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Mrs. CATHRYNE HALL and CANDACE LYNN are visiting their father and son, LEONARD L. HALL in Southern Hills, Fort Worth.

Miss FRANKIE JIM STEELE of Dermot is visiting her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. BILL BRANNON, in Lubbock.
