Chm. of the Board and Director of The Burkburnett Bank

HOWARD CLEMENT

William Howard Clement has lived in Burkburnett for thirty-six years and is well acquainted and thoroughly familiar with the business community in Burkburnett.

Mr. Clement has been active in general insurance business since 1948 and has operated his own agency since 1954. He is currently active as a real estate developer and builder of both commercial and residential properties and has various interests in farms, ranches, oil productions, and commercial rental property.

Mr. Clement is a past Vice President and past President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Burkburnett, and he is continually active in civic projects. He resides at 714 Maple Avenue, and his business address is 303 Avenue C. Mr. Clement and his wife, Frances are the parents of one daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Gray, and three sons, Randy, 16; David, 14; and Stevie, 4.

Jack Aaron, Vice Pres. and Cashier

For the past nine years he has been with City State Bank in Wellington, where he was serving as cashier at the time of his resignation.

In addition to attending the Graduate School of Banking at Southern Methodist University, he has studied extensively with the American Institute of Banking. In Wellington he was active in the banking industry, having served as chairman of the Greenbelt Bankers Study group and as treasurer of the Greenbelt Bankers Association.

A native of Wellington, he had farming interests there and in 1952 received the American Farmers Degree, the highest degree that can be received in the Future Farmers of America.

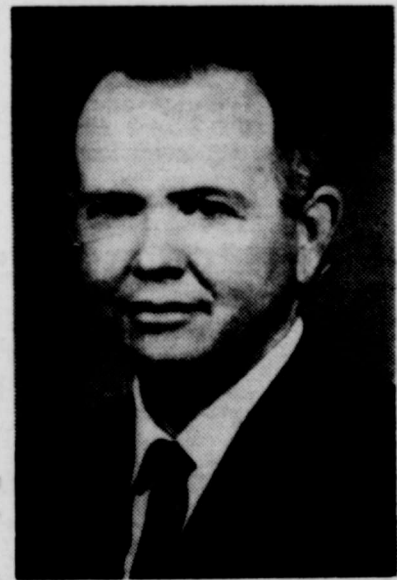

Mr. Aaron was active in the civic life of Wellington, where he was second vice president of the Kiwanis Club, active in the County Fair, a member of the executive board of the Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and a Little League baseball commissioner. In addition, he was assistant secretary of the First Baptist Church Sunday School.

Mr. Aaron is residing at 1009 Janlee Drive in Burkburnett with his wife, Jeannell and their three children, Randy, 10; Kris, 8; and Kim, 7.

Five Dollar Bills In Some Safety Deposit Boxes

Several new five dollar bills will be hidden in safety deposit boxes in The Burkburnett Bank giving the lucky renters a bonus for reserving their boxes. In addition to the safety deposit bonuses, visitors to the impressive new bank will receive free gifts and delicious refreshments, with surprises in the cake.

Each person opening an account of $100 or more during the grand opening will be presented with a special gift. Depositors will have a choice of 4 items from which to select their gifts, including a nine piece stainless steel knife set, an all purpose umbrella, a convenient folding travel iron or a flashlight complete with five batteries.

Located at Avenue D and Third in the heart of downtown Burkburnett, the new bank will celebrate its formal opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Saturday
9 a. m. to Noon

Located in the heart of downtown Burkburnett, at Avenue D and Third, The Burkburnett Bank holds its formal opening to the public, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Howard Clement, chairman of the board of directors, stated "after careful consideration by a group of business men of the Community, the decision was made to form The Burkburnett Bank, which will do much to improve the economy and will effect growth for future development of the city of Burkburnett and the surrounding area. We feel very fortunate to have the capable leadership of J. R. Cummings, president, and Jack Aaron, vice president and cashier."

"The qualified leadership of the Board of Directors and their faith in the future of Burkburnett has enabled us to open The Burkburnett Bank," said J. R. Cummings, president. He continued, "We wish to invite each citizen of Burkburnett and the surrounding area to come by and visit our new banking quarters."

Ribbon cutting ceremonies were conducted at 9 a. m., Thursday, with J. M. Falkner, state banking commissioner; James Frye, mayor; and Jerry Thomas, president of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce in attendance.

Directors and their wives are serving as hosts and hostesses during the formal opening. Hours are 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Thursday and Friday and 9 a. m. to noon Saturday.

Free gifts and refreshments with surprises in the cake, are given throughout the three day opening. Refreshments are served in the large community room which has a seating capacity of 150.

Special gifts, with a choice of four items, are presented to each person opening an account of $100 or more during the grand opening. A nine piece stainless steel knife set, an all purpose umbrella, a convenient folding travel iron, or a flashlight complete with five batteries is the selection for the depositors to choose from.

Several new five dollar bills are hidden in safety deposit boxes giving the lucky renters a bonus for reserving their boxes.

All modern banking services including drive-in window and customer parking are offered by The Burkburnett Bank.

The new bank has two officers and seven employees. Officers are J. R. Cummings, president, formerly vice president of Texas Bank and Trust in Wichita Falls, and Jack Aaron, vice president and cashier, formerly cashier of City State Bank of Wellington, Texas.

Paying and receiving tellers are Brian Hooper and Rita Hudson; proof and drive-in window teller, Eva Stack; loan and discount teller, Audrey Tibbets; bookkeepers, Pat Newman and Charlotte Wallace and secretary Wendlyn Goins.

Directors of The Burkburnett Bank are William Howard Clement, board chairman; Lewis P. Gray, J. F. Hahn, B. H. Presliam E. Burford, Joe N. Sherill, ton, Jr., Gene Robertson, Wil-Jr., and J. R. Cummings, president.

NUMBER 51

Burkburnett Community 4-H Club Youths Are District Winners

ROGER JOHNSON

Johnson placed first in the Texas Electric Awards and will receive a cash prize of $50.00. Last year he was second in this same contest. Electricity has been an interest in the seven years he has been in 4-H. Other projects have been poultry, beef, sheep, farm safety, and wildlife. At present

1964 Football Reserved Seats Now On Sale

Season football tickets are now on sale at the School Tax Office on Glendale St. Tickets are $6.25 each for 5 home games. Come by soon or call 569-3327 and reserve your tickets.

After the season opens, single game reserved seats will be $1.50 per person.

Lake Texhoma Lodge, the couple will go to Tichomingo where both are students at Murray State College. The bride was graduated from Rider High School and the bridegroom was graduated from Burk Burnett High School where he was in the National Thespians Society. FFA was president of his junior class and played football four years.

Another District winner is Ken Johnson. Ken placed in the top four in the Santa Fe Award Program. This is Ken's ninth year of club work. As his projects he has carried electricity, poultry, swine, beef, farm safety, entomology, sheep, wildlife, tractor, horses, public speaking and leadership. He has held all the offices of his local club and several county offices, this year is president of the Burk Burnett Club. Ken was Gold Star Boy of Wichita County in 1961, the highest award any boy or girl can achieve in the country.

Ken is a 1964 graduate of Burk Burnett High School and will enter Midwestern University this fall. He is also the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Johnson.

A total of 106 record books were submitted in the various 4-H Awards programs, all district winners will now go to College Station for State competition.

A 17th century law in Sillesia forbade marriage to a farm worker who could not spin.

Kenneth Gage Enters Race for County Sheriff

Kenneth Gage, 45, chief of police at Burk Burnett since 1960, has applied for the nomination for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in the November election.

A. F. (Prof.) Edwards, secretary of Wichita County Democratic Executive Committee, said he received the application Thursday.

Born in Fillmore, Okla., Gage moved to the Clara community west of Burk Burnett when he was five and was graduated from Clara High School in 1938.

He became chief of police upon his retirement from the air force.

A veteran of the Pacific Theatre, Gage served 11 years conducting investigations on arson, homicide, narcotics, loyalty matters and related cases.

Gage and his wife, the former Lillian Mills, and two children live in Burk Burnett.

His application was the 18th filed for consideration of the committee on Sept. 8 when a Democratic nominee for sheriff will be selected.

Red River Rifle and Pistol Club Schedules Trophy Shoots

Beginning Sept. 1st, members of the Red River Rifle and Pistol Club will get a chance to prove their marksmanship ability. Regular monthly trophy shoots will be held in the following events:

1. Big Bore Pistol — 25 yds. — high score.
2. Small Bore Pistol — 25 yds. — high score.
3. Big Bore Rifle — 100 yds. — high score.
4. Bench Rest — Varminter — 100 yds. — best group.
5. .22 Cal. Rim Fire — Off-hand — 50 yds. — high score.

The pistol events will be shot with a handicap for each shooter, giving the unskilled shooter an even chance to win.

Those desiring to participate in these shoots may do so by joining the club immediately. Club meetings are held the second and fourth Mondays of each month at the basement of the First National Bank.

Schools Offering New Industrial Training Course

WHAT DOES INDUSTRIAL COOPERATIVE TRAINING OFFER YOU?

The basic objective of Industrial Cooperative Training is to prepare high school youth for useful employment in occupations of their choice. Training is made possible by cooperation between the Burk Burnett High Schools and local business and industrial establishments. Students acquire practical work experience in their chosen occupation by training on the job for one half day each school day. The other half of each day is spent at school taking regular classes of which one hour each day is devoted to individual study relating to the technical aspects of each student's job.

TO THE STUDENT Industrial Cooperative Training offers guidance that enables each student to select an occupation which matches his interests and abilities.

It provides for planned and supervised work experiences in the basic operations of a chosen occupation — on real jobs, with real tools, materials and machines.

It provides sufficient high school credit, permitting students to earn diplomas without sacrifice of time.

It provides for full time employment upon graduation or a better opportunity for further education.

It affords an opportunity to learn the "why and wherefore" of an occupation in a special, supervised study class.

It permits a student to "earn while learning" the trade or occupation of his choice.

TO THE EMPLOYER Industrial Cooperative Training, through guidance and testing services, assists the employer in selecting better qualified personnel.

It provides the employer with a student learner who is taught the importance of such assets as proper work habits, job ethics, loyalty, honesty and initiative.

It supplies the employer with potential full time employees already trained in many of the basic processes, procedures and operations of his business.

It assists the employer by providing related instructions of a technical nature which he could not ordinarily afford to provide himself.

The program gives the employer the opportunity to participate in a worthwhile educational enterprise in his community.

TO THE SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY it permits schools to offer training in many of the trades and occupations not normally reached by other education.

The youth of the community who have qualified themselves through ICT to hold full-time jobs as adults, tend to remain seek jobs as beginners elsewhere.

Students, who for economic reasons, are tempted to leave school for fulltime jobs, are encouraged through ICT to remain in school and earn their high school diplomas.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE TO ENROLL?

Junior and senior high school students, 16 years of age or older, who possess the qualifications required to enter the occupation of their choice are eligible for training.

WHAT OCCUPATIONS ARE OPEN TO GIRLS?—TO BOYS?

The following types of work are most frequently selected by girls: Dental Assistant, Nursing, Drafting, Laboratory Technician, Floral Arrangement, Commercial Art.

These are a few of many occupations open to boys: Automotive trades, Cabinet Making, Radio and Television, Sheet Metal, Meat Cutting, Carpentry, Electrical Trades, Plumbing, Trades, Printing Trades, Cooking and Baking.

HOW MANY HOURS ARE DEVOTED TO WORK?

The students must be employed as many hours as he spends in school, usually 20 hours per week. He should not be on the job more than 25 hours per week, Monday through Friday.

Engagement Announced

MISS KARAN KAYE BURTON

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Burton are today announcing the engagement of their daughter, Karan Kaye, to Mr. Donald Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edwards of Denton, Texas.

The wedding will be held Saturday, September 5th at 6:00 p. m. in the First Baptist Church of Burk Burnett.

The bride-elect was Miss Burk Burnett of 1962-63 and is a graduate of Burk Burnett High School. At Burk Burnett High School, she was Freshman favorite; Junior class secretary-treasurer; All-School beauty; cheer leader (4 years); an officer of the Student Council; Miss Howdy of Burk Burnett High School and Sweetheart of the First Baptist Church. She was also active in various clubs and represented Burk Burnett High School at the Interscholastic League contests in ready-writing, spelling, and penmanship, typing, shorthand and tennis.

She is presently a junior at North Texas State University and has attended Midwestern University. At NTSU, she was listed on the Dean's Honor Roll; was treasurer of the Independent Students' Organization; parliamentarian of Junior Mary Arden (honorary English sorority); a member of Alpha Lambda Delta; and served on the Freshman Council of B. S. U.

Mr. Edwards is a graduate of Denton High School and North Texas State University, receiving his B. A., with honors, in mathematics. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Alpha Chi, Talons, Blue Key, Phi Eta Sigma, is president of Kappa Mu Epsilon, senator of USNT, a member of Young Democrats; and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Edwards will receive his master's degree in mathematics in August.

The couple will reside in Denton where both will continue studies at NTSU. Mr. Edwards received a graduate fellowship and will teach several courses at NTSU this fall.

MYF Trip To Six Flags, Wed., Aug. 19

The Junior High and Senior High MYF, of First Methodist Church, made the annual jaunt to Six Flags on Wednesday, August 19th. The Turner bus was filled and overflowed into two cars, as we left the church about 8:30 a. m.

We stopped in Jacksboro at the "Green Frog" for refreshments and arrived at Six Flags just in time for a picnic lunch in the park; then went into the Six Flags world of fun and fantasy, staying until it closed at 11:00 p. m.

Making this trip were thirty-five youth and five counselors, Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Page Brown and Mr. Pete Martin.

One accidental death occurs every five minutes, says the National Safety Council.

Employment on Saturdays and holidays is optional with the student and his employer and is considered "work" instead of supervised training.

WHERE MAY YOU OBTAIN ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT IT?

Weather Won't Worry Family Living In Unique Home Built Underground

Any unsuspecting card-carrying mole is in for a shock if he bumps into one of the most unusual exhibits at the World's Fair. It's an entire 10-room house — with terrace, living flowers and shrubs, and wood-burning fireplace — all entirely underground. Chances are, most humans who visit this exhibit are in for a shock, too, albeit a pleasant one. The idea of living in a house that's 15 feet below the ground takes a bit of getting used to. But the designer-builder has gone to considerable trouble to help you get used to it and even enjoy life in it.

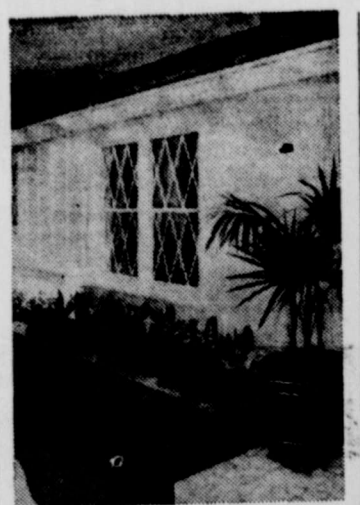

No Living Problems

And this house is designed to be lived in. Texas builder Jay Swayze has lived in one like it for 2 years and so have other families who commissioned him to build similar homes.

The house he now has up (or is it down?) incorporates many features designed to overcome the possible psychological problems of living in this strange atmosphere.

Wood windows, for example, are used generously throughout the house. The owners can sit inside and look out through their windows at the patio and fountain — just as they would if they had a conventional house.

In the bedrooms, illuminated murals of outdoor scenes are placed outside the windows to give a feeling of space and to add interest. The windows used are double-hung units of ponderosa pine equipped with removable grilles. The grilles snap out to make washing easy, but in a house that is virtually dirt-free this doesn't have to be done very often.

The Underground Home is equipped with an array of modern appliances. The kitchen includes a high-oven electric range, built-in dishwasher and an electric refrigerator-freezer.

Natural Lighting Effects

One of the most interesting features of this house is its lighting system—a combination of blue and gold fluorescent lights with dimmer controls. Used together, daytime light is produced. When the gold is dimmed, a night effect is achieved. With only the gold lights used, bright, morning sunlight is simulated. Amber floodlights create a sunset.

The fluorescent lights provide ample energy for growing plants.

Why live underground, anyway? Proponents of underground living list a number of reasons, including low humidity, a dust- and pollen-free atmosphere, maximum security and pleasant weather every day of the year. It costs less since heating and cooling are negligible, and with no harsh weather, maintenance and major replacement costs are virtually non-existent.

On top of this, they point out that an underground-home owner gets double use of his land. The ground above can be used for recreation such as tennis courts or swimming pool, or for a wooded area to be enjoyed when the weather is pleasant.

PRETTY GUIDE demonstrates ease with which grilles are removed from ponderosa pine windows.

KEEPING FAITH

For the production figure to end all production figures consider this:

Before the year is out, a single U. S. manufacturer will have rolled more than seven million vehicles off of his production lines!

Moreover, we are assured these will be 1964 models at 1954 prices — with the same pounds of steel-per-dollar plus up-to-date design.

The scale model toy trucks and construction equipment that are rolling off the quarter-mile production lines at Tonka Toys in Mound, Minnesota (by the shores of Lake Minnetonka) are but a foot or two in length, but, as heretofore, are fabricated from automobile gauge steel, finished with two coats of real enamel and equipped with rubber tires and still sell in their traditional and modest price range.

The record breaking figures of 1964 reflect the application of the last word in production and materials-handling equipment to counter soaring labor and raw material costs and to continue the simple philosophy of giving the toy buyer the utmost for his money.

In fact, the practical operation of this quite old-fashioned attitude has made Tonka Toys a capsule success story of the free enterprise system.

Since the first of these precisely scaled toys were designed and fabricated in a vacated red brick schoolhouse 18 years ago, Tonka employees have grown from a handful to 800 and their wages have been approximately doubled. Sales have grown from

WASHINGTON AND"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Miracles still happen. News-men have achieved bi-partisan condemnation.

Not too many years ago they were accused of bias as fatted tools of selfish capitalistic interests. Now another party is finding them also, and simultaneously, lean and hungry captives of sinister ultra-liberal forces.

There was a time when candidates wrote their own speeches, and thus were prepared to answer plainly and clearly any questions arising from them. Those candidates devoted their energies to be-laboring each other instead of seeking to see which could claim more bias on the part of the news media.

But today no important politician takes to the hustings without a corps of press agents and speech writers. The former assiduously court news media to obtain free space and time for their candidate. Then they howl foul play if the reporting does not follow the guidelines carefully prepared for news-men in the form of advance copies of speeches.

Any competent soul, but perhaps better say newsmen now that they are considered sans soul, wades through these collections of high sounding phrases and well worn cliches seeking to find something that will be of interest to his public. Consider a typical speech on peace. The candidate talks about peace, promises peace. But the newsmen want to report specifically how he intends to achieve peace.

So perhaps news media have a perfect way to avoid charges of bias. In 90% of the time they could, with no appreciable loss to readers or viewers, merely report "Candidate Doe spoke before a large group in Civic Hall today. He expressed the same views he has presented many times before during present political campaign."

Often he either gets a stiff "no comment," or another long dissertation that explains nothing. So, what does he do. He writes the candidate is in favor of peace, promises peace, but has no plan to achieve it. The feathers then hit the fan. This is termed biased reporting.

Or a candidate reading a speech before the Hibernian Chowder Society will say "we will use our influence to unite Ulster to Ireland" and then sensing great apathy, will reach for a burst of applause by adding "even if we have to send over the Marines."

That comment, reported, immediately brings charges of "misquote". Fortunately news media owners understand politicians or the profession of reporting would be as transient as a migratory fruit picker.

In the Roosevelt era, before his death, William Allen White, the sage Emporia Kansas, publisher, pointed out that the then charges of bias were ridiculous. He said that no matter how publishers opposed Roosevelt on the editorial page, they permitted the front pages to be loaded with reports of his activities, those of his family. Without this coverage, he claimed Roosevelt would have not been able to carry elections by such large majorities.

So perhaps news media have a perfect way to avoid charges of bias. In 90% of the time they could, with no appreciable loss to readers or viewers, merely report "Candidate Doe spoke before a large group in Civic Hall today. He expressed the same views he has presented many times before during present political campaign."

zero to $14 million a year, and product quality has been maintained without increasing price.

Proud as they are of these things, Board Chairman Russell Wenkster and President Gordon Batdorf are prouder still of their "fan mail" from customer parents who assure them they are fulfilling the most demanding requirement of any toy manufacturer — that of keeping faith with Santa Claus.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

ALBERT LEA, MINN., TRIBUNE: "A year or so ago President Kennedy proposed to the nation a federal system of mental health aids. At that time, The Tribune cautioned against federal intervention in this sensitive field. Our opposition was based on the observation, that whatever the federal government does it either does badly or extravagantly or both. We think insane people deserve better at the hands of their sanner fellows than to be chucked into a federal pigeonhole and forgotten. There is evidence to support such a prediction if the care of our legally insane passes from local and state hands to the federal."

IT'S UP TO YOU

By

Howard E. Kershner, I.H.D.

EFFECTIVE July 1st, 7.4 million Blue Cross subscribers began paying insurance rates increased by 32.92% — almost one-third. There is little doubt that chiseling is the main cause of this increase.

Because Blue Cross pays, people spend more time in hospitals than they would if they were paying their own expenses. Visiting a friend in a hospital not long ago, I heard through a nearby open door a patient remarking to his visitor, "I could go home, but since it doesn't cost anything, I think I will stay here another week and have a good vacation."

In similar fashion, many take advantage of automobile insurance and in collusion with adjusters and repairmen, collect far more than the damage warrants.

Such practices make insurance far more expensive than it otherwise would be. They are due to a breakdown of moral sensitivity. The Judeo-Christian religion says, "Thou shalt not steal." Collecting more insurance than is honestly justified by the facts is a form of stealing. Of course, it is stealing from ourselves, for we all have to pay more for our insurance. Moreover, the feeling is now prevalent that because the other fellow does it, I must also, for I have to help pay for his cheating and the only way I can get even is to take part in the fraud. Those who break the moral law collect at the expense of those who observe it. That is why socialism can never succeed and, in fact, no form of society can succeed if men and women will not observe the moral law, refrain from coveting, stealing and lying and be fair, honest, just, generous and considerate of one another. If we do not observe these virtues, our freedom will crumble away, and we shall find ourselves governed by a harsh totalitarian state. We must have discipline, and if it be not imposed voluntarily by loyalty to the moral law, we may be sure it will be imposed by the secret police.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

JURY DUTY

Jury duty is an experience everybody ought to have. In a criminal case twelve jurors have a duty to do justice as each one sees it, and yet be unanimous. In most trials both sides have much to say, and the evidence is conflicting. The twelve jurors vary in their ability, temperament, character, education, and their experience in the world, and in the question at stake. Yet a jury made up of both sexes, with wide age and educational differences, jobs and origins must all come up with the same verdict. Upon their verdict much depends—the life or liberty of others, and the public good. So it may take them days of talking themselves all to agree.

Jury duty calls for insight, common sense, courage, tact, fair-mindedness, patience (especially toward the jurors who disagree with you), good humor, tolerance, balance, willingness to hear others out and change one's mind, readiness to go over the facts to find something to bring agreement. In short, jury duty demands a "decent respect for the opinions" of others.

More and more women share civic duties, especially as jurors.

Time was in Texas when women could not serve on juries. They still cannot in four states.

A jury finds facts. It hears and weighs evidence and then comes to a verdict. It does not make the law—the legislature does; and the judge "charges" or instructs the jury concerning the law applicable to the particular case it is considering.

The judge will tell you not to find the accused guilty until he is proved so under strict rules of evidence. If you have any "reasonable doubt,"—not imaginary or far fetched—acquit the accused.

Civil cases do not demand a moral certainty, merely the "preponderance" of what you regard as reliable and believable evidence.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 277 Park Ave., N.Y., N.Y., 10017

Q. I often read about the large investments made by life insurance companies. How much of the money they take in comes from investment earnings and how much from policyholders? How do they use this income?

A. The money that life companies put into mortgages, real estate, bonds, stocks and other investments comes mainly from funds set aside to meet future obligations to policyholders and their families. Investment earnings help to keep down the cost of life insurance to policyholders.

For each dollar that flowed to U.S. life insurance companies during 1963, about 78¢ came from premiums paid by policyholders and 22¢ from investment earnings and other sources.

J. F. Hahn is a native of Henrietta and presently resides at 320 South Hilltop Circle in Burkburnett with his wife Frances.

Have you discovered the thrill of roaring down the quarter-mile drag strip or whizzing around the figure-eight track at 200 miles an hour—right in your own basement? If you have, you're part of the nation's fastest-growing hobby, model car slot racing. And this year you'll invest your share of $120 million in cars, tracks and accessories.

Monogram Models, Inc., long known for the authenticity of its model car kits, has gone into the slot racing field with nine entries converted from its most popular kits. In the 1/24th scale there are the 1934 Duesie SJ, Mercedes 540-K, 1958 T-Bird, 1940 Ford Coupe, 1936 Ford Coupe, 1955 Chevy Hardtop and 1954 Ford Coupe. Cars in 1/32 scale are a Ford Deuce Roadster and a Racing MGA Sports Car.

Newcomers to slot racing soon find themselves "graduating" from the home track to the huge layouts operated by hobby dealers. Or they join racing clubs which build tracks that duplicate Le Mans or Indianapolis. Competition is hot and races are run according to rules set up for the real events.

VETERANS

Questions & Answers

Veterans and their dependents should take good care of basic family documents such as birth and marriage certificates, Glyndon Hague, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, in Waco, advised today.

These documents, needed to support claims for veterans benefits, should be kept where they are protected and at the same time readily available, he said.

Included among these essential records are military discharge papers, death certificates, divorce decrees and guardianship or child custody evidence.

The basic records are needed to support claims for disability or death compensation or pension, veterans burial benefits and similar claims.

The records should be presented to a VA contact representative when a claim is originally made.

Patricia Dulin, William K. Perkison
Married August 9th in Colorado City, Tex.

In a ceremony in the First Baptist church in Colorado City, Tex., Sunday, Aug. 9th at 2:30 p. m. Miss Patricia Dulin became the bride of William K. Perkison of Dallas, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Dulin of Colorado City, Texas, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Perkison of Daingerfield, Texas.

Dr. Billy Smith of Hardin-Simmons University officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Church decorations were carried out in a white and yellow color scheme and included an arch of greenery and shasta daisies, flanked by baskets of gladioli and daisies. White bows marked the pews.

Wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Leon Dulin of Arlington, Texas, sister-in-law of the bride, who sang, Whether Thou Goest, and The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless gown of white peau de soie featuring a scooped neckline, floor length bell skirt and a jacket of French lace with elbow length sleeves.

Her bouquet was of white roses and feathered gladioli on a white ribbon. She carried out the traditional something new, old, borrowed and blue for brides. For something new, she wore pearl earrings, a gift from the groom; something old was a silk handkerchief made by her great grandmother, something borrowed was her veil of silk illusion and something blue was her garter.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Simmons of Smithfield, Texas, a former roommate. She wore a dress of maize peau de soie featuring a scooped neckline short bell skirt and a jacket with elbow length sleeves. She carried a nosegay of daisies.

Miss Karan Burton of Burkburnett, a friend of the bride was bridesmaid. She was dressed the same as the maid of honor. They both wore hats of maize tulle with two small roses of the peau de soie. The hats were made by the groom's mother.

Flower girl was Miss Julie Dulin of Blackwell, Tex., niece of the bride. She carried a white basket with yellow flowers.

Ringbearer was Donald Dulin, Jr., also of Blackwell, nephew of the bride.

Harry McCain of Daingerfield, Texas, served as best man, and Ronnie Thomas, also of Daingerfield, was groomsmen.

Ushers were Don Edwards, of Denton, Tex., and Bill Hicks of Dallas, Tex.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow and featured a cut glass punch bowl on a stand and an all white cake on a silver cake stand. The brides bouquet and the maid of honor and bridesmaid's nosegays formed the centerpiece.

Miss Betty Perkison of Daingerfield, sister of the groom, registered the guests. Serving at the refreshment table was Mrs. Don Karr, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Donald Dulin, sister-in-law of the bride, of Blackwell.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

ROGER W. BABSON

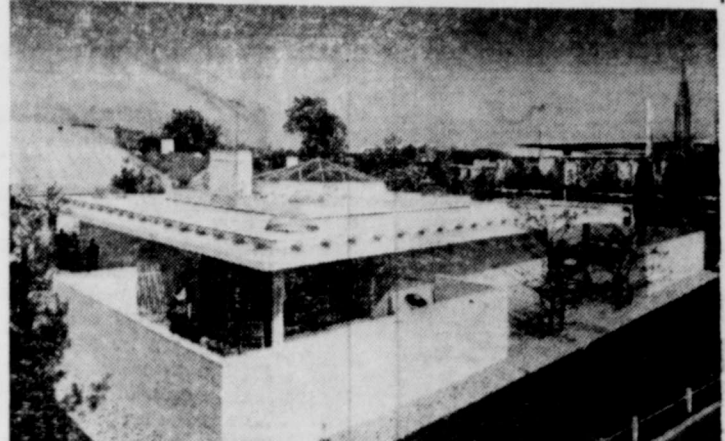

BABSON DISCUSSES MARRIAGES AND BUSINESS
A little more than ten years ago I talked to you at some length about the great impact that the volume of marriages has on business. At that time I was foreseeing dismal prospects, but now I am very optimistic. Let me clarify my reasons for changing from a red light over ten years ago on the matter of marriage totals to a green light today.

Checking Back on Birth Rates
At the beginning of the 1950s formations of families in the U. S. were dependent on the birth rate back around 1930. At that depression time births averaged only about 17 1/2 per thousand of population, approximately 20 percent below the rate of the booming 1920s. At the depression low of 1933, one third fewer babies were born than during the highest year of the 1920s. So you can see why I warned businessmen in the early 1950s that new family formations would be static for at least a few years, with such a drop in the number of marriageable-age youngsters coming along.

At the present time, however, we have to look back into the 1940s to judge the prospects for family formation. The 1940s

New Stone Wall

THE MODERN HOUSE, one of three homes at the House of Good Taste display at the N.Y. World's Fair, has four enclosed patios for maximum privacy even on a small plot. Concrete brick garden walls combine with panels of mineral fiber siding to give house sleek exterior.

Edward Durrell Stone, noted architect who was chosen to design the home of the future at the New York World's Fair House of Good Taste exhibit, was responsible for the development of a new method of house siding application.

It consists of joining 4 x 8-foot panels of mineral fiber with powerful adhesives to give a continuous wall broken only by dime-thin striations. Siding made of mineral fiber panels joined by batten strips for a board-and-batten effect is as familiar a combination as bricks and mortar, but the battenless effect is a completely new one. Architect Stone suggested it because he liked the textured surface of the mineral fiber panels and wanted to emphasize it.

Like other types of mineral fiber siding, both shingles and clapboards, the panels on the home of the future have a permanent acrylic finish that requires no painting for preservation. They will not burn, warp or rot.

making older people healthier, happier and more active. The result is, of course, ever wider markets for this group. Those over 65 will travel more, and enjoy more recreation. Markets will be very active for preventive medicines, health foods, easy care clothing, etc.

Capitalize On Increases At Both Extremes
Hence, while there will not be any great gains in totals of middleagers coming up right away, there will be exceptional advances in the number of babies and young children, and of people over 65. Businessmen who keep up with the times should set their marketing sights and select their products accordingly.

were a time of prosperity, and couples were marrying at a generally younger age. The war years were involved then too, resulting in earlier and more numerous marriages. An all-time high of about 120 marriages for each 1,000 unmarried females over 15 years of age was reached in 1946. As the babies who were born during that marriage upsurge in the 1940s reach marriageable age (starting just about now), there will begin to be a big increase in new family formations.

Effects On General Business

We all appreciate the social importance of the institution of marriage; but its tremendous economic influence is too often disregarded. When a man and woman get married, an entirely new family entity is there by created. This usually involves separate living quarters, and thus accounts in large measure for the continuing construction of apartment units and new houses. This means increased need for lumber, steel, glass, cement, gypsum, paper, electrical equipment, and plumbing. Then come furniture, rugs and household accessories.

Demand rises for electricity, water and gas. And the banks get the business for the mortgages. Every businessman who reads this column is probably affected in one way or another. As the babies come into the world, up goes the need for milk, baby food, clothing, cribs and carriages, toys, and so on. Thus, marriage is one of the great props for business and should act as a powerful support for the economy in the years just ahead.

Give Extra Attention To Birth Rates

Whereas at the start of the 1950s I looked for several years of static figures for family formation, I now feel confident that the next few years will see the exact opposite. The effects will be far reaching. In case recessionary forces should be felt—after the record breaking economic climb of the past few years—the mounting marriage rate would be a great help in cushioning such a correction. And in the normal course of events, more marriages should be followed by a renewed upsurge in the number of births. The new surge in births should take place in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

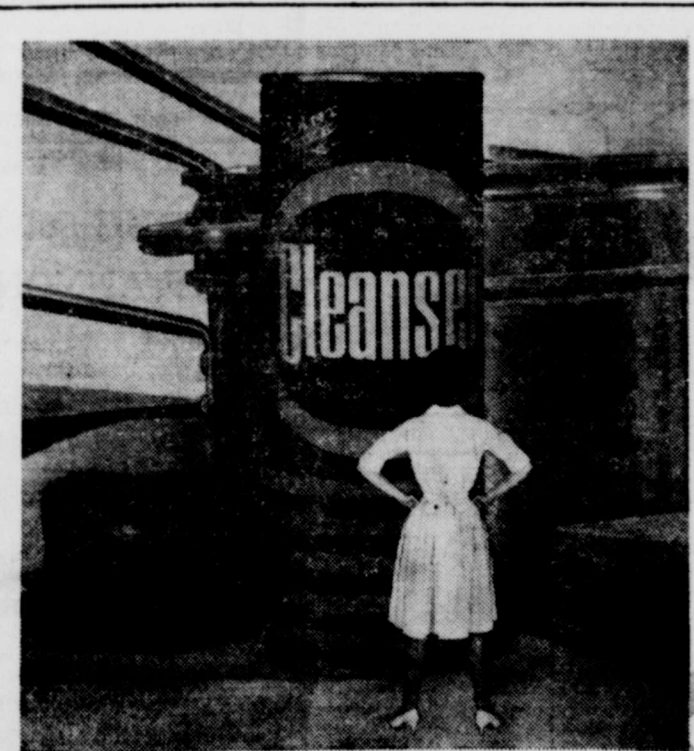

While on the subject of population, I should point out that there will also be a gain in the number of people in the over 65 group. Better medical care, improved foods, and comfortable housing are extending the life span of our citizens.

Kitchen clean-up a BIG chore at your house?

Change to clean flameless electric cooking!

There's no fuel grime to scour from the bottoms of utensils or scrub from kitchen walls and woodwork when you cook the flameless electric way. Electric cooking is clean because electric heat is pure radiant energy . . . as clean as sunshine. There are no by-products of combustion from electric heat. And the flameless electric oven requires no oxygen to operate, so there's no flow of air into and out of it, carrying cooking vapors into your kitchen. Your utensils, kitchen and the range itself stay cleaner with much less washing and care. See your electric range dealer soon and start cooking the clean, flameless electric way!

THE SPIRIT OF '76

At America's greatest entertainment treat, the New York World's Fair, a stunning display of American spirit is attracting thousands of visitors. Vividly re-created at the pavilion of The Continental Insurance Companies are great moments in the American Revolution.

Outside the pavilion, a life-size diorama of the famous "Spirit of '76" greets visitors. Inside, a screen show - accompanied by original folksongs - tells the stories of both famed and little-known figures who made major contributions to the American Revolution. There's Timothy Murphy, the first double-barrel rifleman, and Deborah Sampson, who exemplified American courage as the only woman who enlisted in the Continental Army - as a man!

A series of three-dimensional dioramas and a gallery of oil paintings depict many famous events of the Revolution, and a 25-foot photo display of scenes from the paintings appears along one wall.

Events represented include the winter camp of the American forces at Valley Forge (Pennsylvania); the battles of Bennington (Vermont), Saratoga (New York), and Bunker Hill (Massachusetts).

From the exhibit youngsters and adults alike gain memorable impressions of the spirit that prevailed in America - that patriotism handed down by history and tradition as "The Spirit of '76."

HOMES AT FAIR SHOW FLAIR

Windows Are Chosen For Beauty

At the N. Y. World's Fair, where the best of today is on display, many top-flight designers have made generous use of one of our traditional home-building products—wood windows.

They are even found underground in a house that never feels a drop of rain or a breeze. This is the revolutionary Underground Home which is the brain-child of Texas builder Jay Swayze.

In this case, wood windows weren't chosen for their proven ability to block air infiltration or heat loss, but because of their beauty and the designer's desire to surround the owners with warm, familiar materials.

In the traditional House of Good Taste, designed by Merton S. Barrows AIA, of Royal Barry Wills Associates, Inc., wood windows again were used extensively. Double-hung ponderosa pine units with multiple panes of glass are flanked by louver shutters and are authentically styled elements that are essential ingredients in Barrows' traditional design.

Another model home that is attracting many visitors at the Fair is the Formica World's Fair House. Among the highlights of this exhibit are the "talking rooms" in which an "invisible family" describes the home's various features. Windows in this house are all attractive stock casement units of ponderosa pine.

Versatility is one of the prized advantages of wood windows as shown by their various uses in these houses at the World's Fair.

They are available in a variety of styles that makes it easy to use them with virtually any type of architectural design. This is illustrated by the use of the wood casement windows in the contemporary Formica house and

Roof Color Complements Model House

Probably not one out of 10 visitors to the traditional House of Good Taste at the N. Y. World's Fair could tell you what color the roof is. For the reason it's gray-blue—but the important thing is not the specific color, but the fact that it does its part in creating a harmonious whole.

The late architect, Royal Barry Wills, was a master at building warmth and homespun living into a house. The traditionally styled house, designed by Merton S. Barrows AIA, of Royal Barry Wills Associates, Inc., is in the best Wills tradition. Yet, like the fine homes Wills designed, it also provides the convenience of excellent layout and the durability of modern building materials.

The facade could be that of a charming old New England home. It's at the rear, where a big bay window and sliding glass door open onto a patio and swimming pool, that visitors realize the house is as up-to-date as it is charming.

Blending with both the modern and the Early American aspects of the long, one-story house, the gray-blue roof subtly adds the warmth of color and texture without being dominant or distracting. The heavyweight asphalt shingles bear the Underwriters' Laboratories label for both fire and wind resistance.

The traditional house is one of three models in a group that also includes contemporary and modern styling, each designed by a leading architect.

Leonardo da Vinci designed the first power loom in 1490, although it never was built.

In 1900 Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio was the largest military establishment in the United States.

Galveston, Texas, is located on an island connected to the mainland by two causeways.

Fair Questions

During our visit to the Fair, we plan to stay at the hotel on the West side of the Fair grounds. Will it be easy to get to the Fair from that location? Just a 30-minute subway (the Flushing IRT) takes you to the Fair entrance. Also can get there by express boat leaving from the River pier at 40th Street, Long Island Railroad from Station nearby.

including its base. It is built entirely of stainless steels and weighs 940,000 pounds.

Q. While at the Fair, I'd like to get plans for remodeling our fine 50-year-old home to make it look more up to date. Where can we get such help?

A. The Better Living Center is full of exhibits that may give you ideas for both interior and exterior remodeling projects. If you're sprucing up the exterior, for instance, there's a booth where you can look at color samples of mineral fiber siding and get expert advice from the booth attendants. You'll also find lots of kitchen ideas and many others at the Center.

Try Tuna Chowder

A hearty and nourishing chowder makes an excellent supper for active youngsters. Adults will enjoy it, too, served with tossed green salad and a favorite dessert.

SEAFARER'S TUNA CHOWDER

2 7-oz. cans solid-pack tuna
1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
2 cups sliced carrots
1 cup sliced celery
1 quart milk
1 Tablespoon Lea & Perrins Worcestershire
1 1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
Drain tuna, reserving 1/4 cup oil. Heat 1/4 cup tuna oil. Add mushrooms, carrots, onions and celery. Cook until onions are tender, stirring now and then. Break tuna into pieces. Add tuna, milk, Worcestershire sauce, garlic salt, salt and pepper to vegetables. Cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes, stirring now and then. (Makes 6 servings)

Policyholder Questions Answered
by the Institute of Life Insurance
488 Madison Ave., N. Y. 22, N. Y.

Q. My wife and I are now 60 years old. I have been carrying several life insurance policies for 15 to 20 years. Is there some way I can cash them in now and take out a new policy for five or ten more years?

A. Unless your policies are endowment-type insurance that will mature very soon, it would hardly be to your advantage to replace your present insurance with a new policy. For example, a straight life policy issued at your present age would cost about twice as much as one issued when you were 20 years younger. And, although the new policy might build up cash value a little faster than the old one, this difference would not nearly offset the higher cost. Even if you were to buy a new term policy (which might be difficult, because not many life companies issue term insurance at your age), it would cost as much or more than a straight life policy issued 20 years ago. The term policy would expire five to ten years from now and would have no cash value.

CASHING IN
AT SIXTY

If the idea of replacing your insurance arises from some long-range financial problem, a better answer might be to talk with your agent about converting your policies to some type of paid-up protection plan that you could keep the rest of your life without paying any further premiums. For each $1,000 of cash value, you could now get about $1,500 of paid-up protection.

Q. Agents for three well-known insurance companies have offered me similar policies at very little difference in premiums. How should I decide which policy to buy?

A. Whichever policy you choose, you won't be making a mistake. Perhaps it might be helpful to compare the settlement options, income provisions and conversion privileges offered by the various policies. And you should consider which agent is most likely to give you dependable service in the years to come.

THE CHANEL LOOK FOR FALL

From the lassies boarding the school bus to the ladies running the PTA, American women will favor the Chanel suit for Fall. And we can be grateful! Its slim lines cover the schoolgirls' sometime gawkiness, and do a streamlining job when lack of curves is not the problem.

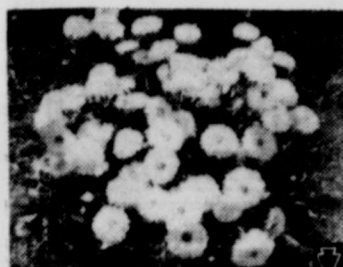

Proof of the prognostication is available in McCall's Patterns' Fall Catalogue, now on view at fabrics and notions counters. Here, among other high-fashion items for the coming season, is Pattern 7392. It includes a slim skirt, an eased-over-the-hips blouse, and a jacket that is straight from Paris. Here are Chanel's narrow shoulders, trim notched lapels, flap-pockets set just at the hip-line, and the cut-away front curves. Jacket sleeves are set high and skinny. But there's more to the Chanel look, as pattern 7392 sees it, than a jacket.

A separates pattern, 7392 is designed to turn into a trim top coat, a la Chanel, that's a logical extension of the jacket. It's slim all the way to the knees and discreetly detailed across the back with a self-belt. The sleeveless blouse pattern, with its high, round neck, in turn extends to make a straight up-and-down sheath. Skirt and sheath feature a sensible center-back walking pleat, so there's no struggle when racing for the bus.

What more can a lass or lady do to be a la Chanel this Fall? There's a new interest in the long necklaces Chanel shows with her clothes. On your 7392 blouse, wear a miles-long sturdy gold chain, looped down through the lowest button-hole of the jacket, and pinned to the right pocket flap with a golden sunburst.

The young sophisticate can vary fashion by wearing the chain around her waist, weighted into a golden loop by large ornamental keys.

McCall's Patterns likes to show 7392 with a medium beret worn on the back of the head... you should try it too!

These round buttons of English daisies; come in pink, rose and white for your spring garden. Time to sow them now.

For pink and white buttons of English daisies to bloom in your garden next spring, you should sow seeds during August. These may be started in pots, in flats or in a special seedbed in the garden.

Where you sow the seeds will depend on the number of plants you wish to raise. Obviously the seedbed is the place to sow if you want many plants; pots if you want only a few.

Regardless of where you sow seeds, a good soil mixture in which to sow them consists of 1/2 of your best garden soil, 1/4 granulated peat moss and 1/4 sand. Mix well and sieve fine. Then fill pots, flats or seedbed with the mixture.

It's easy to make a raised seedbed. Select a partly shaded place in your yard and outline the bed by setting 4 boards on end. Make it any size you please, holding the boards upright by pegging them in place.

Into this enclosure, put the sieved soil, allowing it to settle for a week and then leveling it by drawing a block of wood or board across the top.

Now you're ready to plant and you needn't stop with seeds of English daisies because pansies, violas and forget-me-nots also may be started now for spring bloom.

Sow the seeds in rows or scatter them over the soil surface. Cover lightly with sand. Place a piece of burlap over the bed and water with a fine spray through the burlap. This prevents seeds from washing out of place.

Remove the burlap as soon as the seeds sprout, but continue to water with a fine spray until seedlings are ready to transplant, which will be as soon as they get their second set of leaves.

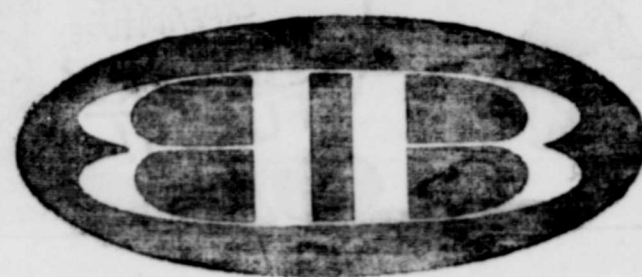

Move the tiny plants to a larger bed where you can protect them for winter or leave them a bit longer, thinning them to stand 6" apart.

If you do this, transplant them early in spring to where you want them to bloom. Protect them with straw over winter.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 488 Madison Ave., N. Y. 22, N. Y.

Q. I read that life insurance companies now have assets of more than $140 billion dollars. Isn't this a terrific concentration of financial power?

A. The figure you cite represents the total assets of more than 1,500 life insurance companies throughout the United States. It involves no "concentration" of financial power. Each life company makes its own investments independently of other companies. In fact, life companies compete vigorously with each other (and with other financial institutions) in their investment activities.

Most of these assets represent funds the life companies are required by law to set aside in order to meet future obligations to policyholders. The funds are invested until needed. These investments help keep the economy humming and to provide jobs in business and industry, while investment earnings help to keep down the cost of insurance to policyholders. Life insurance funds finance homes, factories, office buildings, bridges and highways, schools and churches, public utility plants and many other facilities.

Life companies' investments are regulated by law and closely scrutinized by state insurance commissioners. Only a small fraction of the funds may be invested in stocks, and life companies are prohibited from exercising any control over other business firms in which they hold stock.

Q. When a person changes his address, is it sufficient to notify his insurance company by letter or on his premium notice? Or does he have to send in his policy contract and have it endorsed by the company?

A. No endorsement of the policy is necessary when the policyholder changes his address. A simple notification by letter or on the return portion of a premium notice is enough.

Policyholder Questions Answered

Q. I have two $5,000 life insurance policies for which my wife is beneficiary. I was under the impression that, if I die prior to her, there would be no taxes of any kind on the proceeds of the policies. However, some articles I recently read have raised some questions in my mind. Just what can I do to avoid the possibility of my wife having to pay taxes on my policies?

A. Your wife would not have to pay any income taxes on the proceeds of your life insurance, but your insurance would become part of your estate for purposes of Federal estate taxes. However, the first $60,000 of any estate is always exempt from Federal estate taxes. And, in the case of a wife's inheritance from her husband, only half of the estate is subject to tax—which means, in effect, that the first $120,000 of her overall inheritance would be exempt. So, unless you have a substantial amount of other assets, you apparently needn't worry about Federal estate taxes on your life insurance.

If you do have a substantial amount of other assets, it is possible to remove your policies from your estate for tax purposes by turning ownership of them completely over to your wife. However, if your death should occur within three years thereafter, the transfer of ownership could be construed as having been done "in contemplation of death" and the policies would still be subject to the tax. Or, there might be a Federal gift tax due on the cash value of your policies.

The estate tax laws are quite complex. If you feel that you have a problem in this regard, you should consult an attorney for expert advice.

CATCH 'EM "ACCIDENTLY"

Some fish are caught deliberately, others by accident. How else do you explain the unexpected strikes that occur after unsnarling a first-class backlash that interrupted casting for several minutes? Or the pause to light a smoke that results in an explosion of water and bass?

If these are accidents, comment the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, then we ought to have more of them.

Such catches are not happenstance. They could have been planned that way... provided the angler was a bit more patient, and more tolerant of a fish's fundamental right to carefully consider and inspect its vittles.

As a rule, fishermen using topwater and bottom running plugs are overly anxious to produce action. They not only retrieve too fast, but the retrieve is started too soon.

Granted, there are exceptions to this: those occasions when anything works as soon as it smacks the water. But during a long, dry spell a few intentional rest periods for the lure are in order.

After making a cast, wait! Wait for at least 60 seconds, perhaps longer. This period of inactivity is painful, but productive.

A carefully calculated delay, just like its accidental counterpart, calms down fish frightened by the lure's initial splash. The longer the plug lies motionless the more curious the fish gets.

A slight twitch gives life to the lure, resembling the feeble movements of a momentarily stunned insect or animal starting to revive. No self-respecting fish that's been paying close attention can resist taking a swipe.

And that, buddy, is no accident.

"Do it yourself" rug cleaning may represent false economy for the homemaker, for four recurring problems are apt to develop.

So says Thelma Wirges, county HD agent. A large portion of the claims The National Institute of Rug Cleaning is called upon to investigate originate in problems caused by do-yourself rug shampoo devices.

Problems most prevalent among do it your self rug cleaners are:

1. Heavily soiled areas are "gone over" several times, resulting in streaks and blotchiness.
2. Excessive amounts of liquid are applied causing over wetting which often results in brown stains and or rapid re-soiling due to soapy deposits in the carpet. The re-soiling precipitates another shampooing and the felony is compounded.
3. After the do-it-yourself cleaning, many spots and stains remain. If something stronger than shampoo is used, such as a bleaching agent, the result is usually a disaster.

4. Because the homemaker does not have a "pile-lifter," used by professional cleaners to loosen embedded soil when cleaning wall-to-wall carpeting, the soil in the carpet is merely redistributed and masked with brighteners in the shampoo solution.

The homemaker, startled at the poor and often disastrous results of her endeavor, complains that the carpet is defective, faded, streaked, stained and worn out. She is right, but she did it herself.

Wichita County Home Demonstration Clubs will have demonstrations on 'Selection and Care of Carpets' in September. Thelma Wirges will give the demonstration in all sections of Wichita County.

If interested in receiving this information, contact the home demonstration club in your community and visit the September meeting.

To be or not to be ...a SWEATER GIRL

For a long, long time since sweaters were just a way of keeping warm. But this fall's sweaters are a revelation, a fashion and comfort breakthrough. New knits, new yarns, new colors, and exciting new styles developed by the American knitting industry have opened up whole new vistas. National Sweater Week—September 21-27—will honor this glowing fashion range of sweaters. What better time to select your new sweaters?

America's top fashion designers have created this season's newest sweaters to suit every mood, every need of today's fashion-conscious woman. Going dancing? Going skiing? Going shopping? A sweater, or two, or three, may very well be the most practical and most glamorous answer to your wardrobe needs.

What's more there's as wide a selection of sweaters for men and children as there are for women. Sweaters for sports and casual wear are smarter, more comfortable and require less care than ever before. So do sweaters for school and college. This fall, there are sweaters that are right for every member of the family.

TRAVELING TIPS

While it's fun to plan any vacation trip away from home, one which includes a visit with old friends is even more enjoyable. However, many people frequently let the prospect of a reunion and a holiday trip trap them into agreeing to move in with their friends for the visit.

Few people stop to think about how much more pleasure can be had by all when hosts don't have to interrupt their usual sleeping and eating arrangements, and guests don't have to worry about the bother they may be.

Wise visitors soon learn that these problems can be avoided, and the pleasure of the visit made greater, by arranging to stay at a nearby hotel or motel before they call on their friends. Both the host and the traveler can be relaxed and unconcerned about going to bed early or late, having meals at odd hours; each does as he pleases.

To add even more fun to the visit, these arrangements usually make it possible for the traveler to invite his friends to visit the hotel or motel for a swim or a special dinner. It gives the friends a chance to enjoy a welcome change, too.

Before you call to tell your friends you're coming next time, go to a home town hotel or motel and look through the Red Book there; find the place you'd like to stay, and make your reservations. You can visit as late as you wish or go to bed as early as you like, and please your friends with your thoughtfulness—all at one and the same time.

Q. I am interested in a life insurance policy for my twelve-year-old grandson, who wants to become a physician and is showing a marked tendency in that direction. I would like to assist in furthering his ambition.

A. Your desire to help your promising grandson is most commendable. There are several ways in which you could use life insurance to help him. For specific advice, we suggest that you consult your life insurance agent. But here are some thoughts:

In a case like this, it is seldom a good idea to purchase a policy on the boy himself. The purpose of the policy would be not only to build up cash value for an educational fund, but also to guarantee that the fund would be available if you or the boy's father died. If the boy himself died, there presumably would be no need for the fund.

ASSISTING IN AMBITION

If your age precludes buying a policy on your own life, a simple plan might be to insure the father with an endowment. However, it is only fair to point out that because of the special nature of an endowment, premiums run higher than other policies. For example, if the father is now around 35, a regular 10-year endowment policy for $10,000 (maturing about the time the boy is ready for medical school) would cost about $985 a year.

Of course, you could get a smaller policy at a lower premium or some other type of policy. There are several endowment-type policies designed to help meet college costs.

Or, if you have ample resources, you might consider a life insurance trust funded by other assets that would produce income to pay the premiums on the policy. Such an arrangement could also reduce Federal estate taxes.

S. S. Regers Observe 50th Anniversary Sunday, August 15th

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Reger were honored Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15th with open house on their 50th wedding anniversary in the parlor of the First Methodist Church of Burkburnett.

Mrs. Reger was formerly Miss Virginia Clark. The couple was married in Clarksburg, West Virginia, June 3, 1914, and have resided in Burkburnett since 1919.

Hosts and house guests for the occasion were a son, S. K. Reger of Washington, D. C. and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Crosthwait, Karen and Kent, of Bardstown, Ky. Also Mr. and Mrs. Hupp Clark of Pampa, Tex.

The table was covered with a beige cutwork cloth centered with an arrangement of yellow roses presented by the Wesley Bible Class.

Mrs. Bill McLean presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Jerry Wiley of Wichita Falls and Mrs. J. D. Majors served cake from crystal plates.

Karen Crosthwait, granddaughter, presided at the registry table which was decorated with a bowl of yellow roses. Kent Crosthwait, grandson, helped direct guests to the reception room.

Gifts were displayed on tables presided over by Mrs. Jim Morris and Mrs. G. D. Scruggs.

The guests were welcomed at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Crosthwait assisted by Mrs. A. R. Bunstine and Mrs. Sandy Vanderburg.

Piano music during the afternoon was furnished by Mrs. Maxine Creel and Kent Reger.

Pictures of the group were taken by Mrs. J. T. Lyles of Henrietta, Texas.

A delightful social hour was enjoyed and good wishes were extended to the honored couple by all present.

HOT WEATHER DEER HUNT

A good idea for hot weather deer hunters is to carry a piece of dry ice in an insulated bag. When deer falls, clean and insert ice in chest cavity. Forced cooling of carcass keeps meat fresh.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 488 Madison Ave., N. Y. 22, N. Y.

Q. I hear that life insurance companies pay out more in agents' commissions and expenses than in death claims. Is this so?

A. It is not only factually untrue but is also a complete distortion of the facts.

The facts are that during 1962 (the latest year for which detailed figures are available), for every $1.00 of commissions paid to agents and every $1.37 of home office and other expenses, life insurance companies paid out $2.19 in death payments, plus $3.11 in living benefits to policyholders themselves, and added about $2.95 to policy reserves for meeting future claims.

Furthermore, most of the commissions paid in 1962 were on new policies purchased that year or in the years immediately preceding, while 1962 death payments were mainly on policies that had been in force many years.

Studies indicate that many of the 1962 death payments were on policies purchased at least 30 to 40 years ago, when the entire amount of life insurance in force in the United States was only about 10% of the amount in force in 1962.

Most of the death payments on policies bought in 1962 will not be made until many years from now.

So there is no justification for relating death payments on policies bought in the late 1920s and early '30s to commissions on policies bought in the late 1950s and early '60s.

Q. When I assign a $10,000 life insurance policy as collateral for a $5,000 loan, what happens to my insurance if I die before repaying the loan?

A. If the assignment of a policy as collateral is properly drawn up, your creditor receives only the amount of your insurance proceeds necessary to repay your debt. The rest goes to whomever else you have named as beneficiary.

Green Thumb Tips

Keep tabs on the cauliflower heads. If you want them to be snowy white at maturity, the leaves should be pulled up around the curds as soon as they reach silver dollar size.

Fastening the leaves in place isn't always easy and you may need someone to help, but tie them together with raffia, straw or soft twine, tightly enough to keep off sun, but loosely enough to prevent collection of moisture and to allow air to enter.

Strawflowers and other everlasting should be gathered while they are at their most colorful. Leaves should be stripped from the stems, and small bunches of the flowers tied together at the stem ends and hung upside down to dry.

Choose a warm, dry, but airy place to hang them and in 3 weeks time they will be thoroughly dried. Then remove them to cardboard boxes to keep them dust free until you wish to use them for winter corsages and bouquets.

That scourge of tomatoes, called blossom end rot, is not a plant disease. It is caused by an uneven water supply to the fruits.

To avoid the trouble with your tomatoes, water the plants deeply once a week if weather is dry, and mulch over the ground with any convenient material, like dried grass clippings, an inch deep immediately after watering.

This mulch or covering will help keep the soil more evenly moist during the time between soakings.

Do you know that evening intensifies the perfume of many flowers? You can perform a sniffing test with heliotrope, petunias or mignonette, drinking in their fragrance during the day and again at night. The difference is noticeable.

If you would like colorful annual vines in your winter window garden, plant seeds now of morning glories and black-eyed Susan vine (Thunbergia). Sow three seeds to a 4" pot. If all three plants grow sturdily, you can thin them to leave only one in the pot. Before frost threatens, bring them indoors and grow them in a sunny, south window close to the glass.

An oversupply of green peppers may be frozen for winter use. Wash peppers; cut out and discard tops and seeds; cut into small pieces, ready for use in cooking; place in small, covered, wax-coated ice cream cups and freeze. No blanching is necessary.

FOOD FOR KNOWLEDGE

Approximately 1,980,268 Texas school children enjoyed a variety of good tasting good quality foods served in well-balanced meals under the National School Lunch Programs in 1963-64.

The entire Federal - State program is geared to making maximum use of national, regional and locally abundant foods.

Federal assistance to school lunch programs began in the early 1930's when surplus foods were first donated to schools. In 1946, the National School Lunch Act placed "school feeding" on a permanent basis.

Under this program, each participating school agrees to serve a lunch meeting the "Type A" pattern which includes a protein rich food, a generous serving of fruits and vegetables, bread and butter or fortified margarine and one half pint of milk.

Four-fifths of the food used in the school lunch program is purchased by school lunch managers from their local supplies. Some of the food is purchased by the USDA and comes from supplies of food on the market that are currently plentiful. Some of the food fulfilling the needs of the schools participating in the program are canned applesauce, canned apricots, green beans, frozen ground beef, frozen cutup chickens and canned sweet potatoes.

New foods are also introduced frequently. In 1964 thousands of children will get a chance to enjoy that traditional Southern dish - corn grits. And last year, "bulgur" a dried wheat product, was introduced in 22 states and won quick fame among the students because of its nutty flavor in meat dishes.

The Government, in making purchases of goods for the school lunch program, studies state reports to ascertain what foods the children need most and likes best. In a recent survey, students rated hamburgers, fried chicken, turkey, spaghetti and hot dogs as their favorites.

With a variety of good quality foods as well as many new and different foods, it is hoped that the children will gain the knowledge they need for selecting nutritious, well balanced meals for themselves all thru their lives.

Texans Licensed 5,632,373 Vehicles In 1964

Texas has licensed 5,632,373 vehicles this year, a new record and a 5 percent increase over last year, the Texas Highway Department announced today. Licenses of all types brought in total gross fees of $120,833,000. Of this amount, $84,180,000 goes to the state, $27,862,000 to Texas counties and $2,310,000 to county commissions. The remainder is allocated for various refunds, transfers and penalties, and duplicate receipts costs.

Harris County leads the 254 Texas counties in total registrations, with 747,734. Low county is Loving, in West Texas, with 185 registrations.

Following Harris County in registrations are these: Dallas, 628,323; Tarrant, 338,003; Bexar, 327,595; El Paso, 141,989; Jefferson, 131,955; Neufes, 112,153; Travis, 111,359 and Lubbock, 111,130.

Texas has gained 261,316 vehicles over last year, the Highway Department said. Gross revenue from current licenses increased by approximately $5,808,000 over those for last year.

Current vehicle registrations in Texas break down this way: Passenger cars, 4,016,467; commercial trucks, 752,214; farm trucks, 204,263; truck tractors, 50,730; farm truck tractors, 1,261; trailers, 383,735; house trailers, 29,912; motor buses, 1,215; city buses, 1,739; tractors, 1,408; farm trailers, 129,949; machinery, 12,014; disaster relief vehicles, 46; soil conservation vehicles, 17 and heavy oil machinery, 137.

The Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department is responsible for licenses and changes of titles on all motor vehicles in Texas. In addition to its concern with surface vehicles, the division also is administering agency for registration of motor boats on Texas waterways. There are currently 177,421 motor boats registered in Texas.

Gayla Sue Gieger, Beomes Bride Of Paul Terrel Pope

Miss Gayla Sue Gieger, niece of Mrs. Ray Matherly, became the bride of Paul Terrel Pope in the West Berry Church of Christ auditorium in Ft. Worth, Saturday, August 2nd.

The double ring ceremony was read by the bride's father, L. L. Gieger, who is the minister there. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the ballroom of the Colonial Country Club, where Miss Valaree Matherly, cousin of the bride assisted in the serving of punch.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pope are recent graduates of Abilene Christian College. They will make their home in Austin where he will be an associate Professor of Math at Texas University, while doing work toward his Masters Degree and she will teach second grade in one of the elementary schools.

Attending the wedding from Burk Burnett were Mrs. Ray Matherly, Michael, Dana and Valaree, and Miss Janice Leitter. Mrs. B. L. Gieger of Talco mother of Mrs. Matherly returned to Burk Burnett with them for a visit.

Central Rodeo In Graham Sept. 2-3-4-5

The first annual rodeo for the Central Rodeo Association will be held in Graham, Texas, Sept. 2, 3, 4, and 5th in the Possum Kingdom Roundup Arena under the direction of Mr. Charlie Hipp, Graham, Texas.

The CRA rodeo will feature the top twenty cowboys, according to money won during 1964 in the events of Bareback Riding, Calf Roping, Saddle Bronc Riding, Steer Wrestling and Bull Riding. These one hundred twenty cowboys competing at Graham during the finals come from the states of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. A girls Barrel Race will be held with the top twenty money winners in 1964 for the Texas Barrel Racing Association competing. Rodeo Stock used during the rodeo will be furnished by six outstanding rodeo producers who are also members of the Central Rodeo Association. Each producer will have his outstanding horses and bulls, selected by the contestants for each performance.

To give the public a fast-moving, action filled and colorful four day rodeo the Central Rodeo Association selected 3 outstanding cowboys to carry out these plans. R. L. Richardson, Ft. Worth, Texas and 1963 Steer Wrestling champion will serve as Arena Director. R. L. competes in Bareback, Saddle Bronc riding events as well as steer wrestling. T. M. Smith, Secretary and Treasurer of the CRA, as well as former rodeo producer for many years as a partner in the MS Ranch Rodeos, Ft. Worth, Texas and Ron Conatser, Graham, Texas, former managing director of the MR Rodeo, will be in charge. Both T. M. and Ron are outstanding contestants in the Steer Wrestling event. Lee Mullins, Ft. Worth, Tex., is President of the Central Rodeo Association. Mr. James Jennings, Dallas, will be the announcer of the rodeos to be held Sept. 2, 3, 4, and 5, 1964 at 8:00 p. m.

Janlee Baptist Church

Second Anniversary To Be Observed At Janlee, Sept. 13th

Monday, Aug. 24th, the planning committee for the Second Anniversary of Janlee Baptist Church met to formulate plans for celebrating the Second Anniversary of the fellowship of Janlee Baptist Church. Highlights of the day will be Loyalty Day in Sunday School and Morning Worship, a dinner on the ground, and an anniversary program at 2:30 p. m. Training Union will be held immediately after the anniversary program.

Three committees will formulate the details of the program. Mr. Don Riddle will be the chairman of the Program Committee, Mr. Neil Morris will be chairman of the Physical Arrangements, and Jan Pierce will be chairman of Publicity and Public Relations. All friends of Janlee are invited to bring their Sunday dinner and fellowship with the church during lunch and remain for the program that follows.

Fifteen Young People and Intermediates are making plans to attend the Falls Creek preschool retreat. Their theme for the two day meeting will be "Going Deeper With God." The membership of the Sunday School and Church showered them with food for their stay. Chairman of the enlistment and shower program is Miss Gwen-da Morris.

Sunday Morning will feature worship with the Ordinance of the Lord's Supper. Sacred music, testimonies, scriptures and prayer will culminate in the observation of the Lord's Supper. Pastor H. V. Southerland, Jr., announced that the sermon topic for Sunday evening will be "Looking Over Jerusalem." There were 177 Sunday School members present in Sunday School and 73 present in Training Union Sunday.

The church calendar calls for a meeting of the Finance Committee Sunday evening after church. Wednesday, Teachers and Officers meeting and Girl's Auxiliary at 7:00 p. m. Midweek prayer service at 7:45 p. m. and Choir practice at 8:15 p. m. Saturday, the Young People and Intermediates will attend a Youth Rally in Wichita Falls.

Sunday afternoon Janlee Baptist Church will conduct services at the Harrison Nursing Home, 406 E. 7th St. in Burk Burnett. D. L. Sykes has arranged to have the Junior Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Jim Throgmorton and Mrs. D. L. Sykes to sing choir selections. Three intermediate girls will present the special music. The message will be delivered by the pastor.

A DANGEROUS MONOPOLY IN OUR MIDST
By HARRY BROWNE
Editor, Freedom Magazine

The threat that big business will get too big is continually thrown at us as justification for the harmful anti-trust laws. And yet it has been proven time and again that when any business gets too big to properly serve his customers, other competitors and products move in to take those customers away from it.

But while all this is going on, we are faced with the worst kind of monopoly in our midst. That is the monopoly run by government. One excellent example is the Post Office.

Do you know why no private enterprise company is competing with the Post Office today—despite its high prices and poor service? Let's look at a little history.

Writing in his book "Men Against The State", James J. Martin reports: "From 1841 to 1845, steady inroads on the revenues of the federal post office department were made by private enterprise companies. One of these was the American Letter Mail Company, which (Lysander) Spooner founded in 1844. Originally carrying letters between Boston and New York, the scope of the firm soon included Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Private Firms Better "It was a source of embarrassment to the Democratic administration of the period to see this company, as well as other letter mail companies, making profits from carrying letters for 5 and 10 cents each, while providing service somewhat more expedient than that furnished by the federal postal system.

Increasing complaint by patrons over the dilatory and expensive government operations finally provoked congressional action. A bill calling for reorganization of the post office system and proposing a new schedule of rates drew critical fire in the Senate from objectors who noted that private companies would still be furnishing cheaper service. Senator William D. Merrick of Maryland, sponsor of the bill, replied that there was to be no attempt at competing with these firms; they were to be put out of business by penal enactment.

And so the government could not tolerate competition in its own field and simply ed out of existence postal companies.

Let's Move Forward Today, there can be that profit-seeking enterprise companies compete to provide the best at the lowest cost in of letter carrying. This en by the profit-making Parcel Company. Far high taxes and oppression, United Parcel of a great amount of away from the government Parcel Post system rates at a loss.

There can be no just for the government any business — what bish pickup electricity every case, its only ability to force people for the service, through whether or not the person it.

Meanwhile, private companies — with as their only weapon — aggressively for profits, compelled to find new improving service and costs in order to make profits.

Free enterprise will thing but "free" as permit dangerous monopolies in our midst.

Builders Favor Compacts

The builder's favorite electric range is variously called a one-piece built-in, a slip-in or drop-in. The reasons this type suits the builder so well are essentially the same ones that make it ideal for family kitchen remodeling.

1. It has the built-in look that is just about mandatory these days. It fits into an up-dated kitchen smoothly, with special trim that integrates it with surrounding cabinets and counters.

2. The one-piece built-in is tailor-made for compact kitchens where counter and cabinet space is at a premium. A variety of models is available to fit in a space from 24" to 30".

3. The same extra-help features found in the other types of electric ranges are available in the one-piece built-in. Its automatic timers and heat-sensing devices help take the work and guesswork out of cooking.

4. Installation is quick and uncomplicated. This helps speed up the entire remodeling project, reducing inconvenience to a minimum. It is the most economical way to put a built-in electric range in a kitchen.

Policyholder Questions Answered
by the Institute of Life Insurance
277 Park Ave., N.Y., N.Y., 10017

Q. My sister, who was the beneficiary of my life insurance, died recently. Please tell me what happens to my insurance now. Should I take out an entirely new policy, revise my present policy, or merely name an alternate beneficiary?

A. When the beneficiary of a policy dies before the policyholder, it is usually a very simple matter to name a new beneficiary. There is absolutely no need to replace your present policy with a new one, nor to make any revision in your policy other than naming a new beneficiary. (Your life insurance company may require you to submit your policy contract in order that the change of beneficiary form can be attached to it.) Your life insurance agent will be glad to help you with the change.

About the only exception would be a policy owned entirely by the beneficiary and in which the ownership did not revert to the policyholder if the beneficiary died. However, this apparently does not apply to your policy.

Q. How can I find out what is in my life insurance company's annual statement?

A. Life insurance companies' annual statements are very large volumes which would be prohibitively expensive to distribute to policyholders (most of whom would not care to receive such a massive array of statistics). However, many life companies send each policyholder a leaflet summarizing the most significant figures from the statement. The statement itself is filed with the insurance department of each state in which a company is licensed to do business. As a general rule, the statement is available in the offices of the insurance department, and of the company.

Sighting-In Day At Pistol, Rifle Club

It was announced today that plans are underway for the first annual "Sighting-In-Day," to be sponsored by the Red River Rifle and Pistol Club, and sanctioned by the National Rifle Association.

This event is being held to afford the area hunter a chance to sight-in his hunting weapon on a safe range.

Bench rests, sand bags and targets will be available at the range, and a gunsmithing service stand will be available to help the shooter with scope and sight adjustments and limited gun repair.

This event will be September 20th at the Red River Rifle and Pistol Club Range located one and one-half miles north from Main Street in Burkburnett, off Avenue B to the range.

YOUR FUTURE

Do you want to work in the oil fields of the Near East? Do you want to plan or build floating derricks in the Gulf of Mexico? Would you rather be on hand when a South American jungle is cleared so that a bridge can be erected to span one of the tremendous rivers?

Perhaps you're interested in electronics, or modern jet aircraft. Perhaps you see the tremendous possibilities in nuclear power, or want to make your mark in the future of American space exploration. The men who are helping to accomplish these modern miracles are the welding engineers, welding technicians and welders who plan, design, and fabricate the work.

If you choose a future in welding, you enter one of the most competitive fields in existence, one where metals are used—from conditioning to missiles. An extremely useful guide to your future opportunities, "Opportunities in the Welding Industry," is available at no charge from the American Welding Society, 345 14th St., New York, 17, N.Y.

She is presently employed at Lea's Beauty Clinic in Burkburnett. Her fiancé is a 1961 graduate of Wichita Falls Senior High School and is a senior at Midwestern University, majoring in Music Education. His fraternity affiliations are Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary fraternity for college bandmen, Phi Mu Sinfonia, professional Music fraternity, and a member of the Army ROTC.

By HARRY BROWN
Editor Freedom Magazine

A IS A

Aristotle made the simple declaration that A is for A, and that it always will be—the wishes of men to the contrary.

In Ayn Rand's best selling novel, "Atlas Shrugged," the story is told of what will happen to America if people continue to try to wish reality away. Miss Rand brilliantly carried our present trend to its logical conclusion, and foresaw a nation of chaos, violence and slavery.

Today conservatives, libertarians, anti-communists and others are looking for a way out of the mess we're in. They seek some sort of guiding principle that underlies truth—looking for an anchor to sustain their faith in freedom and to use as a code to decipher the issues and turmoil of the day.

There is such a code. It is that A is A. The standard of value is reality. Not the reality that there are evil men, or that there are crooks in the world, or that there is treason in the land.

Yes, these things exist. But they exist because the men involved try to avoid reality. They believe that they can have things that have never been produced—that they can spend money that doesn't exist—that they can achieve the unearned.

NATURE'S LAWS

The reality that must be our guide is the immutable working of the laws of nature. For example, when man discovered the law of gravity, he didn't create it—he simply discovered that it had always existed.

From that point forward, man learned to use the law of gravity to the advantage of all. Had men tried to go against it or say that it was not right, there would merely have been a rash of deaths by falling.

Every rock that is thrown in the air must come down. It does no good to say—while the rock is still climbing—that this is proof that it won't come down. For it will.

In the same way, even irrational acts will be paid for eventually. It does no good to say that we are temporarily coming out ahead by ignoring reality.

And where is unreality today? It is all around us. As the government attempts to spend money that does not exist, as regulations are created telling people they are different than they are, as men attempt to establish moral codes that are unworkable—these are simply attempts to deny reality, to say that the laws of nature do not exist.

Source Of Happiness

The man who is willing to face himself, then face the truth of nature around him, then live his life according to reality, is the only man capable of finding happiness or contentment in the world. While the irrational people appear to get their way, they are only postponing the day of reckoning—and making the eventual awakening more painful.

WEEDLESS LURES

You can make any lure weedless or nearly so by hooking a rubber band between point and shank. Trick is to get the right pressure so weeds stay off, but fish stay on.

You can do almost anything automatically these days—even save money

If you want to wash clothes or dishes, nowadays, you just put them in a machine... set it... and forget it. If you want to save money you just join the Payroll Savings Plan. It's just as automatic. And there's no machine to buy.

To start, ask your employer to set aside a small amount from your check each payday and put it towards the purchase of a U. S. Savings Bond. Then forget it. As paydays roll by, your savings build up. No effort. Since you don't even see the money you're saving, you hardly miss it. No pain.

Millions of Americans save money this way so you know it works. As well as providing for their own future, their Bond dollars help safeguard America by giving Uncle Sam financial strength to stand up to the enemies of freedom.

You like the things money buys. Why not use this automatic way to get them? Join Payroll Savings—or sign up for a Bond a month at your bank. Soon.

Keep freedom in your future with
U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 488 Madison Ave., N. Y. 22, N. Y.

Q. I am 23 years old, newly married, and would like to get some life insurance to protect my wife. I have talked to quite a few agents in recent months about many policies. Frankly, these conversations have left me a little confused. How can I decide what to do?

A. Obviously you have been "shopping around" for life insurance which you are perfectly entitled to do. Sometimes it can prove advantageous. But you may have expended more time and effort than necessary, because the chances are that most of the agents to whom you have talked could be relied on to help you get started on a good life insurance program. The various plans they offer may differ somewhat in details, but there are probably a number of them that would fit your basic needs at this stage of life. In a case like yours, there is seldom a single, cut-and-dried way to best protect your family. The important thing is to get started on a desirable plan while you are still so young, and then modify it or add to it as your financial needs and resources grow.

To alleviate your confusion, why not pick out the agent with whom you feel you could have the greatest confidence in the years to come—and then be guided by his advice.

Q. As a policyholder, can I get a home mortgage from my life insurance company?

A. If the company has a mortgage office or correspondent in your locality, consult them about a possible loan. They will give you every reasonable consideration and courtesy. But don't expect any special favors simply because you are a policyholder. A life insurance company must invest funds in the best interests of all policyholders and cannot give anyone a loan beyond the mortgage value of his property or his ability to repay. Regardless of who the borrower is, every mortgage property must meet the company's requirements for a loan.
