WHAT PRICE FAME YOUR FRIENDS?

"My husband and I moved to New York," says a woman in a recent magazine article, "because we could not stand the community life of the small town, its incessant drives, and too intimate spirit."

She and her husband it appears, had both been trained for special work, she for writing, he for a certain branch of the law.

Well, they moved to New York and both made a success of it, as they knew success, but in spite of their increased income they came to grief.

The demand of the large city, keeping up the appearance people of their class were supposed to, and a thousand unexpected expenses, left them poorer than ever.

But be that as it may, suppose the money question had not entered into it, were they better off for the change?

The large city does offer freedom of action. One is unhampered by public opinion and uninfluenced by close contact, and the writer and the lawyer may make greater names for themselves.

They say, "a fair exchange is no robbery," but was it a fair exchange for the things they left behind? They left old neighbors, neighbors kindly and human, ready at any time to help ease of need. They left old friends, to replace them with the more casual acquaintances of the metropolis—friends they had had no time to choose or study or understand—or love.

And they left other things! I am fond of saying that real culture depends upon truth of thought and truth of living. I have lived in cities. I have lived in small towns, and I am here to relate that I have found a refinement and intelligence and culture in the latter that might make the larger cities open their eyes.

As for community life, it is a decidedly fine thing to be able to adjust one's self to others. It is the highest of economic attainments. I believe in the cultural quality of loneliness, but not the kind of loneliness that looks down.

Rotarians Grab Civic Club Title With 8 To 4 Win Over Tossers Of Exchange Club; Triple Play Made

The Rotary club's baseball team is the 1926 champion of the Lubbock Civic club league. The nine representing the strictly gentlemen's organization swept the last barrier out of its way yesterday afternoon when it defeated the Exchange club's diamond artists by an 8 to 4 tally but it took plenty of base-hits and fast fielding in the latter part of the tilt to do it and the Rotarians had no "cinch" at any time during the contest.

The Rotarians counted three runs in the opener when an error and two base hits, coupled with a walk resulted in Sensabaugh, Guy and Allen denting the platter. Taking the field in a fine battle as the result of their three run lead the Rotarian infield had a stormy session and three errors and two hits accounted for four runs before the smoke of battle cleared away.

Rotarians came back however, two innings later, and scored the tying tally through an error on Allen's ground ball and Hilburn's two ply wallop and again in the final frame scoring four runs on solid smashes coupled with one misplay.

Facing an 8 to 4 defeat the Exchangeites came to hit in the last inning and Stewart, the first man up gained life through an error and Felty sent him to third with a clean smash to right. Felty stole second and Gammill walloped what looked like a clean hit to center. Oscar Sensabaugh, however in the middle garden for the Rotarians made a shoe-string catch and turned the smash into a triple play; Sensabaugh, to Guy, to Allen to McAfee, to close the game.

Allen Leads Good
Playing minus the services of their hurler, Coach E. Y. Freeland, the Rotarians found that Sled Allen was a pitcher of merit. He held the opposition to four hits, as did Chester Sheppard, hitting for the Exchangeites, and better support and more "stuff" in the pinches enabled the local baseball boss to breeze through with flying colors.

ROTARIANS WILL PLAY AT SLATON

Flushed with victory as a result of their 8 to 4 win over the Exchange club and with the 1926 Civic club flag securely nailed to the mast, the Rotarian diamond artists will journey to Slaton in the near future to contest the Rotary nine there, it was decided yesterday.

Just when the game will be played is not yet known, the local delegation wishing, if possible, to await the recovery of E. Y. Freeland, star hurler, who is convalescing following a rattling snake bite.

The game at Slaton will be a return engagement, the Slaton delegation having lost to the Lubbock club here last year by a 15 to 2 count. The Rotary team is as yet undefeated, having beaten the Kiwanians 9 to 3, and the Exchangeites 8 to 4 in the two tilts played this year.

BOSSSES LAMENT HAVING TRADED STAR PLAYERS

YANKS FEEL STING OF SENATOR LASH WHEN YOUTH PERFORMS

(By the Associated Press)
Many a baseball manager's heart is aching this season because of successes scored by players they have allowed to go to other clubs.

There is Hack Wilson of Chicago and Billy Southworth of St. Louis, who would be desirable in the New York Giants outfield. There is Bill Jacobson, sent to the Boston Red Sox by the Browns, and Howard Eganke, who escaped from the Red Sox and allied himself with the Athletics. Miller Huggins of the Yankees, now leading the American League, undoubtedly would appreciate the services of Carl Mays, who is pitching splendid ball in Cincinnati's bid for the National League pennant.

There are many other cases, but the transfer who looms today is the youthful George Murray, obtained by Washington from the Yankees. Yesterday the league leaders fell before the Senators for the third time in two days, 5 to 2, and Murray was the man on the Washington mound. He granted the sluggers only three hits, none of them by Babe Ruth, in fact, the Babe struck out once.

Philadelphia presented Ehmeke against his former teammates in the first contest of a double header and the veteran scored tremendously with a 5 to 1 decision. He permitted five hits and only Jacobson could find him twice. Then in the second game Eddie Rommel was his old powerful self and gave the opposition the same number of safe blows for a five to nothing decision. Al Simmons of the Macks hit two doubles and singles for a perfect average in this contest.

Cleveland gained ground on the Yankees by shutting out Chicago, 5 to 0, with Miller keeping nine hits well scattered. Manager Tris Speaker of the Indians issued three doubles while Jamieson and Summa added triples to the attack.
St. Louis bunched hits in three innings to down Detroit, 7 to 2. Wally Schang, former Yankee, hitting a home run. Lil Stoner was the victim of the Browns onslaught.
Cincinnati and Philadelphia played the only game in the National League and honors went to the Reds, 5 to 2.

Billy Evans Says

Greater Than Felch
What outfielder in the major leagues covers the most ground?

Since the opening of the season, I venture to say that question has been put to me 100 times by fandom. I am inclined to think that Johnny Mostil of the Chicago White Sox can go farther and get them, than any other outfielder in the majors.
Mostil is very fast, gets up speed quickly and is an excellent judge of fly balls. He is one of the few outfielders who turns his back at the crack of the bat, races out and then faces about, usually right under the ball.

Ira Flagstead of Boston is another great ground coverer. Like Mostil he is fast and has excellent judgment on flies.
I thought "Happy" Felch about the closest rival Tris Speaker ever had, but I am about ready to concede that honor to Johnny Mostil.

Manager Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox says Mostil is certain to develop into an even greater outfielder than Felch ever was. "He likes to play the game more than Felch did," is the way Collins explains it.

Rookie Crop Good
Good second basemen are greatly prized. The American League has been particularly fortunate this year in developing recruits for that important position.
There is Fred Spurgeon of Cleveland, Tony Lazzari of New York, Oscar Melillo of St. Louis, Charley Gehring of Detroit and Bill Regan of Boston, all regulars, while "Stuffy" Stewart at Washington and Morehart at Chicago are proving excellent understudies to Managers Harris and Collins of Washington and Chicago, respectively.

After being tried at third, Fred Spurgeon found himself at second. His fine play at that position is one of the reasons why Cleveland has been a dangerous ball club this summer.
Lazzari, Melillo and Gehring are destined to be stars. They have already won their spurs in their first year. They lack only experience in the fine points of second base play.

Need for Catchers
There is a crying need for more and better catchers in the majors. Every club in the two big leagues would welcome a backstop capable of taking hits regularly.
There has been a dearth of high-class catching material for several seasons. Few of the many highly-touted rookies have delivered.

Catchers who can think as well as receive are in great demand. There is so much more to catching than the mere mechanical stuff.
I believe I am conservative when I say that with a brainy receiver like Ray Sobalk doing the catching, most any pitcher is at least 20 per cent more efficient than with just an average backstop giving the signals.

DENVER TOURNEY BECKONS NOW TO HUBBER MACHINE

$600 WILL SEND ALLEN'S CHARGES TO ANNUAL BASEBALL MEET

Now that the necessary funds have been raised to send the team to Amarillo for the first annual Panhandle Baseball tournament, Lubbock fans are making preparations to rally around the Hubber standard and raise enough money to keep the team intact the rest of the year and send the boys to the Denver Post tournament, in the "Mile High" City. Manager Sled Allen, local baseball boss, told The Journal this morning before he left for Amarillo.

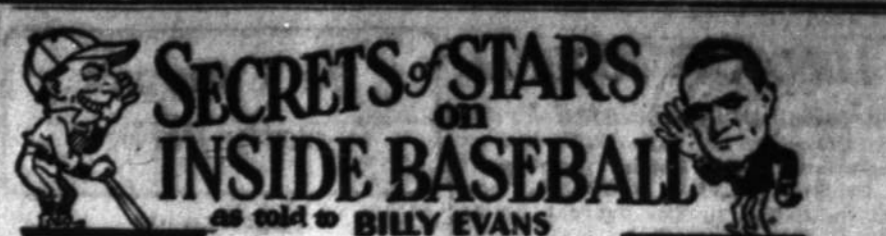

According to Manager Allen the Amarillo tournament will last for nine days, opening on tomorrow and extending through August 22. The Denver Post tourney will open on August 27, arriving on through Labor Day, which is September 6th, giving the boys a two day rest before they will have to start their drive to Denver.

Hudspeth Coming Back.
Frank "Stingy" Hudspeth, whose good right arm and dazzling curve ball played a prominent part in the winning of the Denver title by the Hubbers last year will be a member of the local team again this year if the club makes the jump. Manager Allen said. Hudspeth, however, has turned his talents to the Amarillo club for the tournament there.

Hopes that Frank Jones, former Hubber shortfielder, would get into condition in time to make the Denver trip, have faded to an improbability but the services of Doc Dean, former league player here, have been secured for both tournaments. Dean, while not considered as good an infielder as Jones when the latter is in condition, is one of the best shortstops in baseball circles of West Texas. Red Hamilton, Tech collegian, who has been playing most of the year at short, will be kept on the roster as a utility player and understudy to Manager Allen behind the log. With the exception of first base, now held down by Hoot Gibson, who recently joined the Hubbers the rest of the roster remains unchanged with Quattlebaum, Cow, Bell and Hale doing mound duty.

Approximately $600 more will have to be raised through subscription here before the Denver trip is assured but from the aspects this money will be raised and Lubbock will be given another opportunity to gain favorable publicity as the result of more baseball victories at Denver.

World's Greatest Ball Player

All great batters in a sense conform their swing to the style of pitching the opposition offers.
It is rather foolish to try to pull any so-called brainy stuff at the bat with a star pitcher working who has lots of stuff.

It is foolhardy to try to pull or place hits when Walter Johnson is the opposing pitcher and going at top speed. It just can't be done with any degree of certainty. When Johnson was in his prime it was practically a physical impossibility.

When an opposing pitcher has a world of stuff, simply hit straight away. In other words, make an effort so to time your swing that the ball will be driven directly through the pitcher's box.

After all, under most conditions, the greatest open space on the infield is the vacant territory between the positions assumed by the shortstop and second baseman.

Great hitters, also noted for their speed, have a distinct advantage in pulling base hits. My speed enabled me to turn in many a base hit that otherwise would have been an ordinary out.

The batsman who has speed can fake a bunt and then, after pulling in the third baseman on the fake, can hit through him.

Pick the ball you like best to hit. I often refuse to swing at a ball which I realize is going to be called a strike, simply because it is practically impossible for me to carry out my batting intent when swinging at such a ball!

When you get a pitcher in the hole, never fail to take advantage of the situation. I am strong for hitting the "cripple." That is the baseball slang for the next ball pitched with the count two balls and no strikes.

The pitcher being in the hole, he must come over with the next ball. Most pitchers have a habit of cutting down on their stuff at such a time. In other words, the two and nothing ball, should be easier to hit because it isn't quite up to the pitcher's standard.

Batters who take the next ball, if it is over the plate, when the count stands two balls and no strikes, seldom achieve much of a reputation as batsmen. In so doing, they let the pitcher crawl out of the hole his wildness has dug for him.

HATS OFF! Hats off to Mrs. Ferguson—or rather to Governor Jim, who does her thinking for her... His statement concerning his wife's candidacy and side-stepping her promises to Mr. Moody and to the voters, was a masterpiece and worthy of the approbation of even the bitterest foes of Fergusonism.

BE ON GUARD

An "educational" campaign to teach the citizens of this district and this county how to vote will likely be staged between now and the second primary election. From looking over the results of the balloting in the first primary it does not appear that the voters of this county or this district need much instruction on how to select the best public officials.

MUSSOLINI AND USEFULNESS

Every day, it seems, we pick up the papers to read that Mussolini, Italy's premier la carte, has put his foot down on something else. Mr. Mussolini has been so busy lately that to find a phase of Italian life which has not been touched in some way by the ban, you'd have to dive very deep.

MAWKISH MARTYR

We never did like heroics, particularly the synthetic kind. So it was no wonder that we gazed a bit and ran for the rail when a Philadelphia forger asked to be sent to the electric chair for the benefit of humanity.

A THOUGHT

Speak not evil of one another, brethren—Jas. 1:11. I take it as a matter not to be disputed that if all knew what each said of the other there would not be four friends in the world. This seems to be proved by the quarrels and disputes caused by the disclosures which are occasionally made.—Fascal.

CLEANED UP When your working day is over, and you're just about to quit, can you say "sit in clover"? Is your conscience feelin' fit? 'Course the answer to the question much depends on what you've done since you first sat down to labor when the day was first begun.

IN NEW YORK SEE SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw J. P. McAvoy, satirist and writer of things come, at the opening of his new musical review, "Americana."

Stopped to watch "the world's largest building" rising at 44th Street and Madison... The chains of the "cloak and suit" belt from 56th Street up now challenge it, while the skyscraper apartments make one consider renting out sleeping space in airplanes.

BE ON GUARD

Notice that half of Broadway and most of the rest of the town now wears those strapped Helen Willis eyeglasses... The sign advertising the sale running into the hundreds of thousands... The other day, a motorist, arrested for speeding, wore one into court.

STORY OF A YELLOW DOG

The Marietta police force has been brought to the verge of complete disruption, if not farther, because of the violent death of a little yellow dog named Rudy. Rudy came limping into the police station with a broken leg one winter night some three years ago and immediately was adopted by the force.

THE VANITY CASE

BY CAROLYN WELLS COPYRIGHT 1926 N.E.A.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS PRENTISS, who suffers from insomnia, sees lights mysteriously appearing and disappearing in the HEATH household next door one night and the next morning HARBOR GARDENS, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY, an artist.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN and BUNNY MOORE. Inman might have a motive because he is heir to Myra's considerable fortune, she having made her will in his favor and cut her husband off. Suspicion also points toward Bunny, a vivacious, golden-haired beauty, because of her refusal to answer questions at the inquest and the fact she had apparently known of the murder before the maid, who went to her room to inform her.

Myra Heath was a peculiar woman, beautiful but cold. She did not love her husband; she never used cosmetics, never wore colors; she had a mania for collecting rare bits of glass, and it was an old whisky bottle that was the instrument of her death—a bottle from her own collection.

Candles were burning at her head and feet when a maid discovered her body, and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangely of all, she was made up heavily with rouge and dressed in gay colors.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, AL CUNNINGHAM and others, some believing Perry Heath the murderer, others disagreeing. The strangest thing about Heath's appearance is the fact that all the doors and windows had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning.

Finger prints of Inman and Bunny Moore are found on the bottle, and the coroner declares his belief that the murderer will be found in the household. Inman has seen a vanity case near the body, but that has disappeared. Physicians declare the rouge was applied to Myra Heath's face after death.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the case, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Others, including Anderson, disagree. Cunningham, believing Bunny Moore is concealing something, calls on Mrs. Prentiss, who tells him of the mysterious lights. TODD HUNTER BUCK, Mrs. Prentiss' nephew, suggests that Perry Heath also may have been murdered.

With Buck, Cunningham makes an inspection of the Heath home.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XX

The bedroom was beautiful, done up in pale grey and silver, quite in keeping with the exquisite taste and love of simplicity that had characterized Myra Heath in life. Carter sat by a window, doing a bit of mending and she looked up inquiringly as the two came in.

"Where is Mrs. Heath's vanity case?" Cunningham asked, without preliminaries.

"She has several," the maid returned. "Get them all out," was the order, and from some cupboard and drawer Carter produced three, all beautiful and costly, and all in such a state of newness that it was plain to be seen they had never been used.

Scanning the three, carefully, and noting their newness, Cunningham said, looking about, "Where is the one she used? These have never been even opened."

"Mrs. Heath never used a vanity box, sir," Carter told him. "She had this powder-puff box, here on the dresser, but she never used rouge or lip salve."

"Ah, yes, I see. Go and bring me one from Miss Moore's room. The one she habitually uses."

Carter hesitated a moment, and then catching the austere glance of the man's eye, she went on the errand, and returned with an elaborate gold affair, that had many dangling chains and accessories attached to the main box. "This is the one Miss Moore uses," Cunningham asked. "It is the only one I have seen her use since she has been here," Carter returned.

"I'll keep it," Cunningham said.

When Cunningham and Toddy Buck came downstairs, they learned that Bunny had concluded to go home with Mrs. Prentiss and stay for a time. The combined persuasion of that insistent lady and Larry Inman had resulted in Bunny's acquiescence, and she was about to go up for a suitcase and some necessary belongings.

"I needn't take much," she said, pausing at the foot of the stairs, "for I can run back and forth for whatever I need."

She ran along up, and Cunningham, after a few words of farewell, took his departure.

A few moments later, Bunny came down from upstairs, followed by Carter, with a small suitcase.

"I'm ready," she said, slowly, to Mrs. Prentiss. "But I can't find my vanity box. It's the queerest thing—I had it in my room just before dinner. I usually have it about with me, but—I left it upstairs, and now I can't find it!"

Toddy Buck hesitated. He knew Cunningham had taken it away, but he was uncertain whether to tell that or not. He concluded to keep silent on the matter for he had told Cunningham he would not interfere with his detective work, and he felt he was not at liberty to divulge the detective's secrets.

Bunny said no more about it, though it was plain to be seen it worried her.

With a quietness unusual for her gay little self, she said good night to Inman and went with Mrs. Prentiss across the lawn to the house next door.

It was also unusual for Bunny to pay so little attention to a presentable and attractive young man, as she showed toward Toddy Buck.

But Bunny was not herself. Small wonder, considering the shock she had sustained.

Once in Mrs. Prentiss' cheery if old-fashioned living room, Bunny stood, irresolutely, by a table and faced the other two.

Her big blue eyes were appealing. She looked baby-like and helpless.

But Bunny Moore was not helpless. If she looked so, it was nature's fault, not her own.

A more wise, canny, sophisticated little piece than Bunny could scarcely be imagined.

But she was troubled. And, if truth were known, she had reason to be.

"Mr. Buck," she said, speaking almost for the first time directly to Toddy, "I know perfectly well, you and Mr. Cunningham are shadowing me. I think that is the term the detective use."

"Why, why, Miss Moore—" Toddy was dumfounded at this, "why, you must know if I could do anything to help you—"

"You would do just the opposite! Yes, of course I know that!" Bunny's eyes blazed now, and her voice quivered. The poor child was all wrought up, her nerves were on edge, and she felt she must take it out of somebody.

But she looked so lovely, so like a bruised blossom or a broken butterfly, that Toddy Buck forgot all about Cunningham and detective work, and wanted only to enlist in the service of Bunny Moore for the rest of his mortal career.

"Now, you just wait!" he exclaimed, eagerly. "I'm for you—all for you! And I'll put all my cards on the table, Al Cunningham did take your vanity case, or whatever you call it. And I'm expecting you to tell me why he took it, and why you care so much that he did take it."

Buck looked at her straightforwardly, and to his delight, Bunny returned the glance with equal calmness.

But Mrs. Prentiss, as she herself would have expressed it, could see through a ladder with a hole in it, and she realized that Miss Bunny, whether naive or sly, could wind Mr. Toddy Buck round her adorable pink little finger, and that she was quite ready to proceed with and enjoy the process.

Also, Mrs. Prentiss had the somewhat unusual quality of a fine sense of relative values. And she stood up accurately and truly; Bunny's sudden little spurt of defiance and she knew that there was something back of it, more than a missing vanity case. She knew that Bunny had something to conceal, and that in her present mood, she would either blurt it out, or would tell some egregious lie.

And good Mrs. Prentiss wanted to save the pretty child from either contingency.

So she said, quite casually, "You clear out, Tod. Go to bed, or go down town to the movies, or do whatever you like. Miss Moore and I are quite ready to excuse you."

Rotarians Invited To Port Arthur Meeting

Lubbock Rotarians, along with members of other Rotary clubs in the state, have been invited to attend the port opening in Corpus Christi, September 14 and 15. Many clubs in the state adopted resolutions endorsing Corpus Christi for the location of additional harbor facilities six years ago, following an appeal from the city. The resolutions were considered of great value in securing the government's sanction of Corpus Christi as the city on the gulf coast to obtain the greater port.

GRANBURY SPEAKS TO LEAGUERS ON BOOZE

Of the two sets of people in Lubbock—the young folks from 15 to 30 years of age, and the older set, from 30 to 50 years old—which does the more drinking in violation of the Volstead act?

What is the significance of the booze question to the young person of today? Can booze be tempered with and leave no ill effect?

Does the average young person who drinks beer and other booze have a taste for it, or does he drink it for the novelty of the act, and for having a kick in getting by the law—for getting a kick from it in "showing that he is a man" before his associates? Is it real, or superficial?

Of such nature will be the program for the Senior Epworth league of First Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30; and these factors will be considered as applying to our own town, when Dr. J. C. Granbury, of the Tech, will be the speaker of the evening with the subject of his choosing, "Young People and Booze."

Dr. Granbury stated that his choice of this topic was the result of a statement made recently to the effect that only one out of twenty young people in Lubbock did not drink booze at one time or another, and he has taken issue with that statement.

Dr. Granbury states further that the issue for so long in church circles and church "politics" has been dancing, card-playing, and the like, but that today, such issue was out of date. It is not these activities, which are harmful or not according to circumstances under which they are carried out, that are the basis for a real battle for morals. In such, booze has been overlooked and it is up to the young people of Lubbock to grapple seriously with the big problem that faces them today, and face it as being representative of the citizenry of their own home town.

Brunks Comedians Open Here Monday

The Fred G. Brunks Comedians will open a week's engagement in Lubbock on Monday August 16th, showing on the regular show lots two blocks north of the court house.

Since the popular company has played here they have changed all of their plays and have many new vaudeville acts and several new faces will be noted in the acting cast. Owing to several requests Mr. Brunks has announced that he will repeat "Why Men Leave Home" during the engagement here. "Why Men Leave Home" will be the opening play for Monday night August 16th. The play was written by Avery Hopwood and had a years run at the Broadway Theatre in New York. Some of the other plays that will be presented here are "Meet The Wife" The "Unmarried Mother" and the Irish Jewish comedy "Murphy and Goldstein" Inc.

The doors will be opened at seven forty-five each evening and the show will start promptly at eight forty five.

Methodist Board In Annual Session Today

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 12. (AP)—Recommendation that the general board of lay activities of the Southern Methodist church be incorporated to facilitate borrowing of $25,000 for a period of four years was made in a report submitted to the board by G. L. Morelock, secretary. The board is in annual session on Mount Seayyah.

M. E. Lawson, Liberty, Mo., former vice president of the board, was named as chairman to succeed W. E. Williams of Fort Worth, Texas, retiring chairman. Other officials are John R. Pepper, Memphis, honorary president; Bishop W. H. Beauchamp, honorary general secretary; J. M. Way, Nashville, Tenn., treasurer; Harvey W. Cox, Georgia, first vice president; J. H. Moore, Lubbock, Texas, second vice president; Little Rock, Nashville, third vice president; S. H. Bhan, Troy, Ala., secretary.

12 DIE IN TRAIN WRECK

BERLIN, Aug. 11. (AP)—A train from Berlin for Munich was wrecked at Langenbach, near Freising, Bavaria, today. Three coaches were overturned. Twelve persons are reported to have been killed and 30 injured, seven seriously.

VANITY CASE

Toddy, catching the gleam of his aunt's commanding eye, immediately said his straggled good nights and left the room.

"Now, my dear child," Mrs. Prentiss said, after a moment of tactful silence, "you may go right to bed, or, if you choose, you may talk things over a bit first."

Bunny looked at her with the glance a wise owl might give a country sparrow, and said, courteously:

"Please, Mrs. Prentiss, I think I'll go to my room. You are so good to me,—and I do appreciate it,—but it has been a hard day, and—oh, I'm sure you understand! I want to be alone!"

"Of course, you do, you poor dear. Now, you come right along with me."

And for the next half hour, Mrs. Prentiss was more like a matron of an orphan asylum or head nurse in a charity ward than anything else.

And little Bunny, exhausted by the unaccustomed strain on her nerves and emotions, tucked herself between the nice parental sheets, which Mrs. Prentiss "preferred to linen," and, after her kind hostess had departed, thought things over:

Meanwhile, though Toddy Buck had fallen under the spell of Bunny's charm, he had not entirely taken leave of his senses, and he went out for a walk, thoughtfully turning his steps toward the funeral parlors, where now reposed all that was mortal of lovely

Myra Heath. Buck was a methodical sort. He arranged his emotions and predilections in order, as another man might his business affairs.

Toddy saw at once,—he was nobody's fool,—that he was either in love or about to fall in it, with Bunny Moore.

He knew, too, that Detective Mott, as well as the amateur Cunningham, strongly believed that the exquisite child knew more than she had told about the fearful tragedy at the Heath bungalow.

This, to Buck's mind, did not make the girl any less desirable, or attractive as an inamorata, but he did feel that he had to know.

That was one strong differentiation between Mrs. Prentiss and her nephew, Mrs. Prentiss, with her almost uncanny intuition knew things, Toddy Buck in his blundering but pig-headed way, believed things, and—had to find out. So, to the rooms of the Co-operative Casket Co. he went, being sure that beyond the great palms and floral vases of their entrance, he would find the man he was looking for.

Nor was he disappointed. In a private room, of which there were several, he found clustered Al Cunningham and Detective Mott in earnest consultation.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 16 to 24 points on firm Liverpool cables, reports of better prospects for a settlement of the British coal strike, reiterated reports of increasing insect activity in the south and covering by shorts. A little trade or investment buying may also have contributed to the advance which carried prices up to 16.45c for October and 16.41c for January during the first few minutes or 21 to 27 points net higher.

There was reselling by some of yesterday's buyers at the higher prices, however, while there also seemed to be some selling by southern spot interests and as soon as the initial demand had been disappointing and probably encouraged a renewal of local selling. Some southern selling and liquidating of old accounts was also reported on the decline which by mid-day had extended to 16.16c for October and 16.10c for January or about five to six points net lower, and into new low ground for the movement.

The market was easier late in the morning. Failure of numerous complaints of increasing insect activity and deteriorating crop prospects in the south, bringing a more general demand was disappointing and probably encouraged a renewal of local selling. Some southern selling and liquidating of old accounts was also reported on the decline which by mid-day had extended to 16.16c for October and 16.10c for January or about five to six points net lower, and into new low ground for the movement.

Novel Advertising Car, Telling Of 'Mrs. Tucker's Shortening', Is In Lubbock For 1926 Business Visit

Telling of the wonders of their product, 'Mrs. Tucker's Shortening', two young men, J. M. Kendrick and Marlon Sanford, both of Sherman, representing the Interstate Cotton Oil Refining company of that city, are in Lubbock with the organization's advertising car. The men are conferring with retail grocers, giving out advertisements of the shortening, dressing windows and conferring with Manager Douglas Irvin, of the Radford Wholesale Grocery company here, distributors of the product.

According to Mr. Kendrick they are travelling over Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma and in their 'ford car, 'dressed up' to resemble a car of 'Mrs. Tucker's Shortening', have already traveled 2,500 miles of their summer total of 3,500 miles. They came here from Plainview and will leave here on Sunday for Sweetwater.

Mr. Kendrick will return to Lubbock in the fall when the Journal has its annual cooking school. He is to make the trips with Mrs. Ida Chittwood, the Journal's culinary expert, who is widely and favorably known here as an expert of household managements and economics.

While Wall Street generally was of the opinion that the higher rediscunt rate here was not aimed primarily at stock speculation but merely reflected the expanding demand for funds in connection with increased industrial activity and heavy crop movements, trading in the stock market was of a nervous character. Loose Wiles common broke 7 points and the second preferred 10 on official denial of merger and dividend rumors involving that company. Initial losses in other issues ran from 1 to 5 points, but partial recoveries set in when the first batch of selling orders had been absorbed. On the rally, Norfolk and Western crossed 182 to a new record high price and United Cigar Stores attained a new peak for the year on an earlier gain of 1 point. The early rally lasted but a short time, the fear of another drastic break in prices which as took place in February and March tone to prices at the opening of today's stock market. General Motors opened a point lower at 29 1/2. Dupont broke 4 1/2 points and net declines of a point or two were recorded in the first few minutes of trading by U. S. Steel common, American Can, American Smelting, Hudson Motors and Baldwin Locomotive.

In The Spot-Light Of Fashion Are New Dresses Which Foreshadow The Correct Modes For Fall 1926

The new season's fashions have decreed and in keeping with the policy of this institution, to show the newest as soon as they are released, this exhibition upholds this policy in a most gratifying manner.

There are bloused types — some bloused at back only — others at sides only and some models are bloused in an all-around fullness — new sleeves with contrasting fabric effects are featured — sleeves show fullness at elbow, fancy cuffs or turned back flares and many with deeply cut armholes. Most necklines are collared in a variety of high and low effects.

Favored dress fabrics are Canton Crepe and Canton Faille.

Colors that are considered smartest are vivid greens, such as Jungle Green, Reds in Claret, Channel and Beet Root, lively Blues, Browns in Rust tints and some in the neutral tones.

Be sure to see this most extensive showing ranging from — people as expected at the ballot box. The Moody statement says that the Ferguson attempt to raise the issue "is another illustration of the crowning man grasping for a straw," and declares that the claim that Moody never accepted the Ferguson challenge to resign is "ridiculous" and has provoked general disgust at the hands of both the Ferguson and Moody supporters.

Judge Wilcox said that a large number of voters who supported Mrs. Ferguson in the first primary have notified Moody headquarters here that they will no longer support her. The run-off campaign on Moody's part moved forward with evidence that crowds are coming from all over the state to his statewide rally in Dallas tomorrow. Special cars have been reserved at Houston and other cities to carry Moody supporters.

Girl, 13, has Party For 13 Friends, 13

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Kathryn Hurt did not let superstition interfere with the celebration of her thirteenth birthday Friday the 12th. To prove that she holds no fear of flax day, Kathryn, who was born in 1912, and who weighs 113 pounds, invited thirteen year old girls to her party.

And each guest had to prove that she was not superstitious either by walking under a ladder and raising an umbrella in the home before she was admitted to sit at the table around which were 13 chairs and on which was a cake with 13 candles.

Two Killed When Officers Raid Still

WINGAR, WIS., Aug. 12. (AP)—Geo. Rutherford, constable, and William Stanley, alleged moonshiner, were killed last night when Vilas county officers raided a moonshine plant run by Stanley and two others near here. George Brandenburg, moonshiner, and a deputy were wounded. Brandenburg is still at large, but Charles Borhn, third member of the trio engaged in the manufacture of moonshine, is in jail at Eagle River, Vilas county seat.

ball artist, has turned in his uniform and has gone to his home in Vaughn, New Mexico, where he will operate a hotel. Business reasons were his alibi for leaving the club.

The managers of the seven teams entered will meet with tournament officials tonight at six o'clock and will draw for pairings. The first game will follow Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, and the teams will play each afternoon through August 22nd. Following the drawing the Amarillo Board of City Development will entertain team managers with a banquet.

Teams entered in the tournament include Lubbock, Amarillo, Canyon Lamesa, San Jon, Big Lake and the Panhandle Refinery team from Wichita Falls. Umpires include Alex DeLong, Elton McCullough, Wellington Jacks, Taboka, and McNally, Amarillo. DeLong and McCullough will carry the most of the arbitration burden.

The Hubbers will enter the tournament as one of the favorites, due to the team's record, the acknowledged managerial superiority of Sted Allen and the Denver Post championship of last year. In spite of the fact that Frank "Stinky" Hudspeth, star right hander, will hurt for Amarillo. Manager Allen, however, with Hale, Cook Dell and Quattlebaum, is certain that he has a formidable second crew and was highly optimistic when leaving here this morning. A large list of prizes will go to the winning club and players at the completion of the tournament.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12. (AP)—Joseph Lock, 52, private guard for Jackie Coogan, juvenile screen star, who was shot and injured in a gun fight on the grounds of the Coogan home here last Tuesday, was reported slightly improved today. Lamesa Farmer Is Buried Thursday

Ezekiel Walls, 79, who died at his home near Lamesa Wednesday, was buried yesterday at Lamesa, with funeral services at the First Baptist church there. Mr. Walls was the father of fifteen children, nine of who are living, and all but two, one of whom lives in southern Louisiana, and the other in Colorado, were at home at the time. He had lived for 25 years on one farm, some four miles from Lamesa on the Big Spring road.

A. V. WEAVER OUT TO SUCCEED R. W. BLAIR

A. V. Weaver, Lubbock cotton broker and capitalist, and a vice president of the Lubbock National bank, will be a candidate for a place on the city commission in the special election, called for Tuesday, September 14, 1926. Mr. Weaver is asking for the place made vacant by the resignation of R. W. Blair, who is leaving the city to make his home in Dallas.

Mr. Weaver is widely and favorably known all over Lubbock county as one of the city's leading business men and his addition to the commission will be a boon to the city, his many friends here believe. Mr. Weaver is not making the race of his own volition, his friends have pointed out, and it was only at the insistence of many of friends that he consented to make the race. Mr. Weaver is the first candidate to file for the office. —Political Announcement.

Leaverton Is Given Warehouse Contract

D. N. Leaverton was yesterday awarded the contract for the erection of a city warehouse, to cost $7,500, near the City light plant on the city's land. Blair, Street Commissioner, who is leaving soon for Dallas, was accepted and an election to fill the vacancy will be held September 7 under Bob Penny, Will E. Bailew and T. W. Sawyer. Those who wish to enter the election race are to file their names with the city secretary not later than 10 days before the election. The paving program was discussed at the meeting. The warehouse is to be of brick, concrete and tile and will be 50 by 120 feet. All machinery belonging to the city will be stored in it.

Brownsville Gas Line Survey Soon Starts

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 12. (AP)—Survey for construction of the 12-inch natural gas line from Webb county fields to Brownsville will begin within a week. John W. Gaines of San Antonio, representing a group of financiers, said today.

The surveyors will meet in Brownsville Monday or Tuesday and shortly thereafter start their work. Gaines said, adding that two weeks later they would meet here with representatives of the financial interests backing the project. Construction will start within 30 days, and the line will be completed within six months, according to plans.

The gas main, which will be 100 miles in length, will serve concurrently 14 valley towns with domestic and industrial gas.

The syndicate is headed by F. M. Longin, manager of the Mexican Seaboard oil company.

New Climax Reached In Beaumont Muddle

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 12. (AP)—A new climax was reached in the muddle which has been waged for several days over possession of Beaumont's new City Hall when A. D. Carroll, who seized a portion of the building in the name of the "United Friends of Temperance," was placed in the city jail charged with trespassing. Carroll's property, consisting of an early make of typewriter, one rocking chair and two trunks of belongings are resting on the sidewalk in front of the building.

Though the building was guarded from the front, Carroll is said to have gained entrance through a window and was found installed in the lodge rooms of the "United Friends of Temperance" when the city's workmen arrived on the job this morning. Carroll's case will probably come up in corporation court this afternoon.
