Fair shootout leaves one dead

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — An off-duty Dallas police officer fired two shots at an 18-year-old man who died of multiple gunshot wounds after a struggle with another man and an on-duty policeman at the Texas State Fair, officials said Saturday.

The dead man, Bobby Joe Nabors, suffered five gunshot wounds, although police said it was not known how many bullets hit his body or who fired which shots. Officials said Nabors was armed with a pistol.

One man, a witness to the shootings who police would not identify, was arrested on a weapon possession charge later at the Dallas Police Department after police found he had a pistol during an interview.

Capt. John Holt declined to say whether the man was involved in the shootings.

"It's an extremely complicated case," he said. "We have four people that have received gunshot wounds. We have a crime scene that covers a good hundred yards."

Holt said in a news conference Saturday that Officer J.T. Dailey, who was working off-duty security at the Flying Carpet Funhouse after his regular fair shift, ran toward a scuffle after hearing gunshots.

Holt said Richard Vasquez was shot on the east side of the fair midway near a restroom, and two people chased Nabors from there to where he was fatally shot.

Dailey saw a movement in the crowd and began to run toward the altercation, Holt said. "He senses that someone is being chased towards the games area on the midway," Holt said, recounting the sequence of events.

At that point, Sgt. Manuel Vasquez, 37, who was north of there, also heard a gunshot and started moving south, Holt said. Then he heard another shot from the direction of the games area, he said.

As Vasquez arrived at the games tents, Holt said, he saw people running toward him. Then he said he saw Nabors and Joey Henry involved in a fight.

"Nabors shoots Henry in front of Vasquez," Holt said, adding that Vasquez then ran and tried to grab Nabors' pistol.

As the two were struggling, Dailey arrived and saw Nabors point his pistol in the officer's direction, Holt said. Then, the captain said, Dailey fired a shot at Nabors and believed that Nabors fired another round. At that point, Holt said, Dailey returned fire.

Henry, 23, of Dallas, suffered a gunshot wound to the back and was in serious condition Saturday at Parkland Memorial Hospital, said an emergency room nurse who declined to give her name.

Sgt. Manuel Vasquez, who is not related to Richard Vasquez, remained in stable condition Saturday at Baylor University Medical Center, where he underwent surgery. Police said Vasquez, whose gun remained in his holster, suffered a gunshot wound to his left hand.

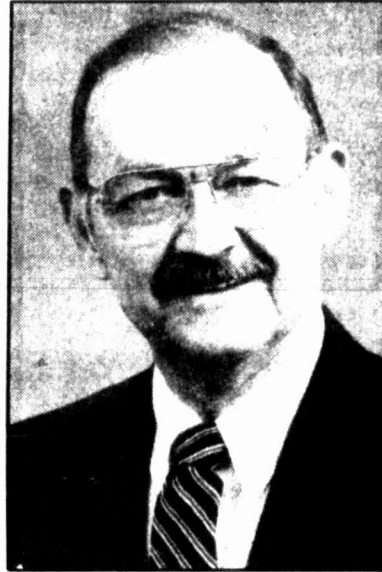

Richard Vasquez, 35, of Dallas was in serious condition at Parkland with a wound in the left chest.

Holt said police had three guns in custody in the shooting investigation. One belonged to Nabors, one to Dailey and the other to the unidentified witness, he said.

Holt said police do not know whether reports of further gunfire

Selecting the commissioner

WILLIAM CROOKER

FAY REED

Once more: Running for re-election

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioner William B. (Bill) Crooker Jr. is running for re-election — nothing new for Crooker, the only Republican member of the current commissioners' court, who was first elected in 1968.

A veteran of the U.S. Army Air Force's Big Spring Bombardier Training School, Crooker served in the European theatre and was a prisoner of war for six months in Germany. Following his return to the U.S. he married and completed a degree in economics with an industrial studies major at Philadelphia's University of Pennsylvania.

He returned to Big Spring in 1954, working for Cosden, where he remained for 13 years, before venturing into business for himself in real estate, insurance sales and an employment agency. He cofounded Big Spring Employment with a partner who later bought him out, Crooker said, and stayed with the insurance business until opening a garden center in 1976. That business closed a decade later, leaving the father of three with no other job than his post as county commissioner.

He represents the county's southwestern quarter as commissioner of Precinct Three and serves as the county's representative to the Downtown Steering Committee.

Crooker says he believes economic development is the most important issue facing Howard County — although he cites economy in government as a photo-finish second.

"I believe it's time our commissioners' court took an active part in bringing new industries into our community."

Since the closure of Webb Air Force Base in 1977, he enumerates the loss of nearly 1,300 civilian jobs in Howard County — the base's civilian workforce of 745 jobs eliminated; Cosden refinery's peak employment of 862 reduced by approximately half since 1969; the more recent losses of 90 jobs when Fiberglas moved to San Antonio and 150 jobs when Cameo Energy Homes folded — and points to the lack of replacement jobs as a major difficulty for the county.

"What we need are the primary businesses, the manufacturing type of jobs," he said, noting that for each job generated in manufacturing, 1.5 to two retail jobs are added to a local market.

A recent Texas Utilities Electric Company survey indicates the city now has a population of Concern, desire to 'give back'

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

A concern for the economic welfare and progress of the community and a desire to give something back are the motivating forces behind Democrat Fay Reed's campaign for county commissioner.

She is seeking the seat currently held by Republican William B. (Bill) Crooker Jr. in precinct three — the southwestern quarter of Howard County.

"We don't know what's coming up next year," she said of county financial concerns. "They have a budget projected for next year, but I would plan to address (spending) on a day-to-day basis as the questions come up."

"I want the citizens of Howard County to feel like they can call me and discuss their problems with me. I feel that's what I'm there for," Reed said.

"By listening, I feel like I can learn more about their problems than any other way," she said, noting that the county "may not always be able to do exactly what they feel needs to be done at that time."

She said she "feels very strongly on running the county government as economically as possible" and cited her more than 20 years' experience in the banking industry as a strength in approaching financial issues.

"I would like to see Howard County be a model county for the State of Texas," Reed said. "We need to keep taxes as low as possible in order to attract business and industry to our city and county."

In addition to low taxes, she said, good county roads will help in bringing industry to Howard County, and said she favors keeping volunteer firefighting units in outlying communities as well-equipped as funds will allow.

She also said she feels a good working relationship between city and county governments is important, since a majority of Howard County residents live within the city limits of Big Spring, and said she would investigate possible cost savings in combining some aspects of the city and county governments' operations, possibly including law enforcement.

She said there are "a lot of areas" where she believes money may be saved. "It may seem inconsequential at the time, but over a period of years savings can be considerable," she said, adding that she had no specific programs or departments in mind.

"I'm not that deeply into the budget process," she said, "and

Class of 1928 has many memories

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Shared memories seemed fresh as morning roses as Big Spring High School's class of 1928 gathered Saturday afternoon to celebrate their 60th reunion.

Seventeen of the 27 survivors were present, and an 18th was represented by her sister.

There were sad moments — confirmation of the deaths of classmates since the last meeting 10 years ago — but many more of the remembrances brought smiles than tears.

Theo Ferguson, class president, has died; in his stead Joe Pickle served as master of ceremonies — and it was Pickle whose recollection of some "home brew" stashed away outside of school supplied the answer to James Robert Hatch's inquiry concerning the 12-year ban on senior picnics that followed the Class of 1928 outing.

Secretary Lucille Rogers Owen was present, as were Lola Lawley Painter, now of Stephenville, and her husband of 55 years, Jim.

She pursued a schoolteacher's career, and mentioned five children, seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren before concluding her brief remarks with, "I never dreamed that I would live to be this old," which provoked applause and laughter.

Also present was Winona Taylor Edwards, who married and moved to San Angelo in 1945. Ida Lee Landers Read and husband Charles D. Read were present.

Lucille Rogers Owen, left, greets Mabel Eddy the Big Spring High School class conducted its Wallace as Malcolm Patterson and Katherine 60-year reunion Saturday afternoon. Bettie Lamb look over their 1928 yearbook when Nettie Arnold Creighton expressed her philosophy for surviving cancer: "I went home and went to work," she said. "Work has always been my therapy." After a 55-year marriage, she was widowed in 1984. Blanche Griffin Brooks runs an antique shop in Big Spring; she and Lloyd Brooks marked 54 years of marriage, and one of her granddaughters was recently crowned Howard College queen.

"I love being here," she said. "I love all of you and I am glad to see you."

Richard D. Hatch recalled being born on Jack Street — now Lancaster — and spending a year in town to attend school.

After 40 years' residence in Aransas Pass, he was attending his first reunion.

Brother James Robert Hatch brought his daughter and told the class he had one son "and I'm looking for a wife." He and Pickle began talking about the senior picnic, prompting Richard to remind them of Ickie Manuel, whose celebrations that day were overdone; Manuel had to repeat his apology to the entire student body three times before it was acceptable.

Elizabeth Northington Drouet traveled from Denver to the reunion. Widowed in February, she had left Big Spring in 1947 with husband Paul.

Pyrle Bradshaw told the class she enjoyed making their senior pictures. Eva Walker Nail — who managed to graduate with her class despite marrying the previous November — also was present.

Katharine Bettie Lamb was present, as was Mabel Wallace Eddy. Marguerite Alderson Wooten came to represent her sister Mary Jo, now a resident of Canada. Reba Leach Rogan and Katherine Thomas attended, as did Pat (Malcolm) Patterson. Lucille Rogers Owen recounted a World War II meeting with deceased classmate Mary Dallas Collins, and John Louis Biles regaled the gathering with his recollection of a Halloween prank.

Bugs was a winner

Clown rumors prompting police, school precautions

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Although Big Spring police have recently received a rash of calls about someone dressed in a clown suit who reportedly solicits children for improper acts, not a single incident has been confirmed, Capt. Lonnie Smith said.

As a precautionary measure, however, Smith said detectives in unmarked patrol cars have been stationed at elementary schools and other areas frequented by children.

The alleged sightings have occurred at elementary schools and day care centers.

"We have heard about it (clown) and it is a little early for someone to be dressing up for Halloween," Smith said.

At this time, police are not officially investigating the alleged incidents, according to the police captain.

"We haven't had one child who has said they have been approached by this person or had anyone tell us they have actually seen a clown," Smith advised.

LONNIE SMITH

The reports may be linked to unfounded rumors in Colorado City recently that a young girl's mutilated body was found there or that someone has begun celebrating Halloween early, he said.

"We had heard that there was a Satanic cult (in Colorado City) trying to get blond-haired children to join," Smith explained.

Because of citizen concerns expressed to police, Smith said he called Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant Thursday who told him the cult-related stories were false.

"The rumors I got so bad about a month ago there and they had so many calls that the sheriff and police chief (Bobby Sparks) had to go to the newspaper and radio station to tell people they weren't true," Smith said Bryant told him.

He added that the police department has received calls regarding alleged clown sightings "all over town."

Although Smith said he has heard that a bus driver at Marcy School has seen the clown, the driver and school officials "never contacted us."

Big Spring Independent School District Transportation Director Harold Stewart said he first heard of the alleged clown sightings Friday and contacted the Marcy School principal who told him he was unaware of any reports at that school.

BILL MCQUEARY

"I've got a feeling it's a rumor, but we have made our drivers aware and to keep their eyes open," Stewart said.

Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Bill McQueary said he has "heard some rumors," although the alleged clown sightings are "a new one on me."

McQueary said he heard rumors that children with specific features would be kidnapped on Halloween and discussed the matter with Police Chief Joe Cook. The superintendent said he has since confirmed that it is unfounded.

"We don't give these rumors a lot of credence, but we don't take them lightly, either," he said.

Teachers and principals are instructed to call the police if they observe any suspicious person near or on the grounds of any Big Spring school, McQueary said.

"We'll do whatever it takes to protect our children," he assured.

McQueary said anyone who would perpetuate rumors about children "is obviously very sick."

Smith suggested that parents emphasize basic rules of caution to their children and said the most important is: Never follow or get in the car with a stranger.

Smith said anyone who can verify the existence of the person dressed as a clown or has information is encouraged to call the Criminal Investigation Division at 263-8311, or the Crimestoppers Line at 263-1151.

Walkers, donors are being sought for Walkathon

The call is out for walkers to participate in the Fifth Annual Northside Community Center Walkathon Nov. 13, according to Marianne Brown, director of the Center.

The 11-mile walk begins at Highland Mall at 1 p.m.

"Last year 12 of our walkers finished the entire 11-mile route," says Brown, "but all walkers are encouraged to join us to walk as far as they can."

Walkers are asked to prepare a pledge sheet of sponsors prior to the event. Many categories of prizes will be given, such as walker with most sponsors and walker with most pledges.

The Northside Community Center assists local residents with emergency rent, food, utilities, medical assistance and clothing. According to Brown, the Walkathon is a major source of funds for the Center's services.

Anyone interested in walking - or sponsoring a walker - can contact Brown at 263-2673.

Airshow

Some of the estimated 5,000 visitors to the first Vietnam Veterans Memorial airshow at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark look on, at right, as the PBY aircraft owned by local resident Connie Edwards takes flight. Volunteers were praised for their work and organizers said they were happy with the show's draw. A related story appears on page 3-A. More photos will appear in Monday's Herald.

Bill Crooker

23,180, Crooker noted. The declining employment and declining population within the city have reduced revenues in both the city and county.

"Getting the most for our money in government is extremely important," he said. "I recently have talked with (County Auditor) Jackie Olson, and she is very much in favor of once a month, during our regular meetings, reviewing all areas of the budget."

"We'd be able to talk about such things as which departments are in line with the budget and which are not, and questions such as 'Are our revenues up or down?'" Crooker continued.

Calling the sessions a mini-budget workshop, he said that was only part of his plan to plot the county's spending and income more closely.

"I think the commissioners' court, with Jackie's help, should develop a three-year budget plan, just so the commissioners can address long-term spending priorities," he said, citing such areas as capital equipment expenditures for graders, trucks and other projects.

"I don't think we'd need to get into it as intensively as we do our yearly budget," he said, "but it would also help us determine what we can expect in Howard County a year, or two years, from now."

"We can look at some aspects that are important and that we do have some control over in the budgeting process," he said, adding that he felt the county's fee schedules are due for a review. Fees, he said, make up about a third of the county's income.

"We need to evaluate our fee schedules and compare them to other counties," he said. "We should be asking, 'Are they adequate?'"

"We should look at where the money goes from fees, to be sure we're getting the full benefit."

He said he believes the county's indigent health care program demands closer supervision, and pointed out that in the current fiscal year it will consume $439,000. The recent change in status from employee to consultant for indigent health care nurse Claudia Turner will produce a savings, he noted.

In the county's $7.2 million budget, revenues from ad valorem taxes account for about $4 million, Crooker said. Fees provide the balance, including notary fees, filing fees for elections, licenses and registrations for vehicles and fees for sheriff's services.

Improvements he said he would support would be road system work including construction of a hazardous cargo loop around the city and widening of U.S. Highway 87.

He also supports a cost-effective "improvement" in the county's library, Crooker said, noting that such things as a modern library and a clean, attractive community are helpful in attracting industry to Howard County.

Literacy training through the library could also help with that challenge by improving the county's unskilled labor pool, Crooker said, thus making businesses more apt to settle here.

"What we have to do is bring in new businesses and expand on the businesses that are here," he said, citing the example of locating businesses in Big Spring to service other industries so that supplies and services may be provided locally.

"If (industrial firms) are having to go out of town to satisfy their needs, we need to look into expanding our existing businesses or locating businesses that can be brought into Big Spring to serve them," he pointed out.

He cites his experience in commissioners' court as a major strength.

Fay Reed

you have to be able to speak to it properly."

"Thank heavens they have settled the library (combination of Howard County and Howard College libraries) issue," she said. "I'm quite pleased. I was not for combining the libraries. I am elated they have made that decision."

The county library and the college library serve entirely different purposes, and both would lose.

Citing a shaky economy and a declining population, she said she did not feel the time is right for a long-term commitment to expand or renovate the existing library.

Saying she is "very aware" of water problems in the Knott and Ackerly areas, although she had not been aware of them before attending sessions of commissioners' court in which the problem was discussed, she said she believes "a concerted effort should be made to resolve the situation."

She called the need to press for state or federal funds to help solve the problem "imperative," citing some farmers' claims in commissioners' court that the problems had begun with the construction of U.S. Highway 87 and noting that if that were true, the state and federal governments should be involved in allocating funds for the repairs.

Reed said she "feels very strongly on running the county government as economically as possible and as efficiently as possible."

"I know the present commissioners are working on it. I think it certainly should be pursued in the near future," she said. "Some of the best farmland in Howard County is in the Knott-Ackerly area. Since our economy is affected so greatly by agriculture, I think it's imperative we get the situation resolved - whatever it takes."

She also said indigent care and related issues were certainly an area she would look into if elected, but said she is not yet familiar enough with the issues to comment upon them.

Her main interest, she said, "is really in all areas affecting government and spending of county funds."

"There is not any one part that I feel more strongly about than any other. Every phase of the county's problems is important to me," Reed said.

"I don't have any bones to pick, and I'm not running out of spite or because I'm mad at anyone," she said. "I'm interested in providing the best service possible to all people in all areas."

She said a big problem now facing the county is trying to stretch current income over the many areas it is required to cover.

"My years as an officer in the bank will be of great help and I won't be completely unaware of budgeting," she said. "I know how to address personnel problems and apply other good, sound business practices."

"I am going to be available to the citizens of the precinct. This will be my only job. I retired from the bank with this purpose in mind; it's something I've been wanting to do for a long time."

"I feel I will make a good representative for the people as a commissioner," she concluded.

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's Department records indicate that a Big Spring man charged with murder has been released on $50,000 bond.

Ricardo Romero Flores, 32, 1205 W. Second St., was released late Friday, records show. Flores faces murder charges in the April 2 bludgeoning death of an Odessa parolee, 53-year-old Manuel Vega Garcia, whose body was found April 7 in a west side trash pit.

Flores' brother Robert Romero Flores, 30, same address, and a Texas Department of Corrections inmate, Leroy Flores Alaniz, also face murder charges in Garcia's death.

Robert Romero Flores is also free on bond. Alaniz was returned to the TDC June 20 after a Texas State Board of Pardons and Paroles hearing officer, Tracey D. Snell of Midland, determined that evidence presented in a May 20 hearing indicated Alaniz had violated his parole in connection with Garcia's death.

Sheriff's officers also report the following incidents as of 6 p.m. Saturday:

• Fidencio Rodriguez, HC 76, 42, was taken into custody on a county court judgment resulting from a driving while intoxicated conviction.

• Texas Department of Public Safety Highway patrol officers reported investigating a one-vehicle rollover on Westbound I-20 Saturday. Sandra Lea Hike suffered slight injuries when the 1988 Ford she was driving left the highway, crossed the north service road and crashed through a fence.

For the record

The position of the Federation for American Reform was incorrectly reported in an Aug. 24 Associated Press article published in the Herald regarding employer discrimination against Hispanics under the new immigration law. The group's position is that proper enforcement of the regulations would prevent discrimination against any ethnic group.

Surviving whales get help; major obstacle remains

BARROW, Alaska — Two California gray whales surfaced in a breathing hole in the Arctic Ocean Saturday. A third whale is missing and presumed dead.

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — One of three trapped whales was presumed dead Saturday, but its companions inched toward open water as Eskimos cut a string of breathing holes and a helicopter battering ram smashed a path through thick ice.

However, a huge ridge formed by colliding ice masses stood in the way of a breakthrough for the California gray whales, members of an endangered species. The big marine mammals were about four miles from open water.

A second ice-smashing Skycrane cargo helicopter was due to join the attempt to create an open path for the whales later Saturday. It also was to bring a crane to remove broken ice before it refreezes.

And at White House direction, the Air Force assigned the largest aircraft in its inventory — the C-5A Galaxy — to ferry more equipment from Prudhoe Bay to Barrow, Air Force Maj. Doug McCoy said

Saturday. The whale nicknamed Bone disappeared beneath the foot-thick ice Friday afternoon. By midnight Friday, rescuers on the ice near this small Eskimo town on the Arctic Ocean had given up hope Bone might rejoin the others.

North Slope Borough biologist Geoff Carroll said the whale was presumed dead.

Something will have to be done about the ice ridge, and soon, if the remaining whales are to be freed, said Col. Tom Carroll, in charge of the Alaska National Guard's two Skycrane helicopters on loan for the rescue.

The ridge lies about a quarter-mile from an area of open water leading to the open sea.

The ridge was believed to be too thick to be punctured by the helicopters' five-ton, steel-reinforced concrete hammers, and demolition experts were on their way to assess the situation, said

Geoff Carroll. "I think we're going to blast," he said.

About two dozen Eskimo volunteers, many of them bowhead whale hunters, led the whales almost a half-mile closer to open water Friday by using chain saws to carve a string of 10-by-30-foot breathing holes.

De-icers, which keep the holes open by agitating the water, freed the Eskimos to work on new holes.

Biologists removed a de-icing machine from the whales' original hole late Friday and started one of the machines in the most distant new hole. They also shined a bright light in the farthest hole.

In a matter of minutes, the whales popped up in that hole, touching off a chorus of cheers from people on the ice.

The first huge CH-54 Skycrane helicopter loaned by the Guard worked in the opposite direction from the Eskimo crews.

at the fair were related to the shooting of Nabors.

He said police do not know what sparked the initial shooting of Vasquez. He said initial reports indicate Nabors and Vasquez did not know each other.

Thousands of fairgoers fled in panic after the shootings, authorities said Saturday.

"I heard two or three shots and people in the center — in the middle — started running in every direction," said Juan Salazar, 37, of Dallas, who was high above the midway on a ferris wheel. "After that, you could see people in different spots just running like crazy — just getting away from this area."

Many bystanders were knocked down or trampled in Friday night's panic, and several pregnant women went into labor, officials said. Two other police officers were injured in related scuffles, officials said.

"All I know is it got wild out there real fast," said police Cpl. D.H.

Boy, who was treated for bruises suffered while arresting a young man with a gun in his waistband.

Nancy Wiley, director of communication for the fair, said the shooting probably would have little effect on the fair, in its last weekend.

"This isn't the first time" so meone has been shot at a State Fair of Texas, she said. "I've been at the fair more than 15 years. This is not the first time there's been an incident, and I've never seen it affect attendance before."

She also said the fair's directors would discuss handling of the shooting and the panic on the midway as part of their general review of the fair.

The police presence at the fair was boosted this year and as of Thursday, crime at the fair was down by 26 percent over last year, police officials said. During the 1985 fair, 230 offenses were reported including 57 rapes, murders, assaults and robberies.

The shooting followed a brawl between black and Hispanic fairgoers, one corporal said, but investigators were unsure whether gang fights were involved or if the brawl and shootings were connected.

A witness to the shooting said Vasquez saved his life.

"If it hadn't been for that cop, I would have got shot. He got ahead of his (the gunman's) hand," Lee Rodriguez said. He and his family were leaving the fair when the shooting broke out and the combatants fell on top of Rodriguez's pregnant daughter.

She was one of seven pregnant women treated at Parkland and Baylor hospitals for injuries or premature labor caused by the fair-goers' stampede. Baylor officials said they treated five other people trampled or bruised in the crush after the shooting.

When Boy, the officer who had made an arrest, and other officers realized an officer had been shot, they began moving through the panicked crowd to help him.

Airshow attracts about 5,000 people

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Some 5,000 people visited the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark Saturday to view the Vietnam Veterans Memorial airshow, according to a preliminary official estimate.

Watching the Dyess Air Force Base C-130 Hercules depart last among the more than a dozen military aircraft shown on display and in flight, coordinator Phillip Welch praised the airshow volunteers.

"We had about 200 volunteers," Welch said, "and they were out here all day yesterday and all day today, and they'll probably be back all day tomorrow. They really worked themselves — they're the ones who made it all come together."

Ceaseless winds prevented the scheduled parachute jumps from taking place, and several small incidents were reported among spectators, but Welch said the show overall was a success.

"I'm real pleased with what we were able to do," he said. "For a first show, we were able to do a lot of things we wanted. It was a good show."

A CH-53 Sea Stallion helicopter from a U.S. Marine Reserve unit in Dallas was the largest rotor-wing aircraft to appear — and this particular aircraft was also among those sent to attempt to rescue U.S. hostages from Iran in 1979.

The smallest passenger craft at the show was also a helicopter, a Robinson R-22 two-place machine dwarfed by the military choppers surrounding it.

Fixed-wing craft included a Pitts aerobatic biplane, two T-37 Tweety Birds and a pair of T-38 Talon aircraft from Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock, a U.S. Navy T-34 trainer and a PBY, a World War II P-51 Mustang and a group of aero club private planes.

Along with the Sea Stallion, a U.S. Army Apache attack helicopter, a Bell Jet Ranger and a Vietnam-vintage UH-1 Huey were on display, as were a Chinook troop carrier, a Blackhawk helicopter, a medical evacuation aircraft and a Kiowa observation chopper — all Army aircraft, most from Fort Hood near Killeen.

Welch said a final tally of funds raised by the show — which will be used to build a Vietnam Veterans Memorial for Howard County residents missing or killed in action — will be available within a week.

No-pass, no-play rule affects area schools

HERALD STAFF REPORT

At least 57 local junior high school students have been ruled ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities as a result of the state's no-pass, no-play ruling.

The no-pass, no-play ruling was instituted as a part of the reforms brought about by House Bill 72. The ruling requires students participating in extracurricular activities in grades 7-12 to receive passing grades in all classes.

Students who receive one or more failing grade are ruled ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities for six weeks.

At Runnels Junior High School, the following numbers of students were ruled ineligible, according to Tom Henry, principal: nine members of the 76-member band, 17 members of the 79-member football team, and 6 members of the 64-member choir.

None of the members of Runnels girls' athletic teams or the cheerleading squads were affected by no-pass, no-play, Henry said.

At Goliad Middle School, 7 members of the 97 member-football program were ruled ineligible as a result of no-pass, no-play, said Jim Holmes, principal. None of the members of the 52-member girls' volleyball program were affected, he said.

The number of students ruled ineligible in Goliad's other extracurricular activities were not available as of this morning, Holmes said.

At Forsan Junior High School, 15 students involved in extracurricular activities have been ruled ineligible as a result of no-pass, no-play, said Doug Parker, principal. Of the 126 students at the school, 22 students failed at least one class, he said.

At Coahoma Junior High School, only three students participating in extracurricular activities were ruled ineligible as a result of no-pass, no-play, said Al Phillips, principal. Of the school's 146 students, 130 participate in extracurricular activities, Phillips said.

Death under investigation

Police are investigating the death Friday night of a 19-month-old girl who died after being airlifted from Big Spring to a Lubbock hospital, Chief Joe Cook said.

Samantha Lee Smithwick was pronounced dead of head injuries at Lubbock General Hospital at 9:27 p.m., according to a nursing supervisor.

Because the parents drove a private vehicle to Lubbock to be with their daughter, police have not yet been able to question them about how the child sustained the injuries, Cook said.

The parents have been identified as Carlos Carbajal and Maria Smithwick, according to police.

Details are sketchy, but the injured child was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center between 6 and 7 p.m., although police were not notified by hospital officials until about 10 p.m., a fact that displeased Cook.

"They (hospital personnel) said they got real busy. I think someone at the police department needs to meet with someone at the hospital to get this thing worked out," he said.

The child was apparently in a vehicle with his parents when the child's injuries occurred and was driven to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, Cook said.

When the child was airlifted to Lubbock, the parents drove by private vehicle to the hospital, he said.

The vehicle driven to Lubbock was not the one in which the child sustained injuries, Cook advised.

The police chief said when he was notified of the incident late Friday he ordered the vehicle impounded.

Cook said he was unsure of the location where the child was injured and explained the police will conduct a thorough investigation of the incident before deciding what — if any — charges would be filed.

Campaign oozing with mediocrity

With little more than two weeks to go before Americans select their next president, the campaigns being waged by George Bush and Michael Dukakis more closely resemble a bare-knuckled pursuit of power than a clearly formulated clash of ideas.

The voters, understandably, find the 1988 contest to be less than edifying. Indeed, many perceive that both candidates have failed the first test of presidential leadership — projecting a manifest vision of America's future.

A number of factors have helped transform the quadrennial playing field of American politics into an oozing muck of mediocrity.

One is the unavoidable reliance on 30-second sound bites on the evening news as the prime medium to convey the candidates' messages. By its very nature, television emphasizes symbols and simplicity over substance and complexity. The entire transcript of a half-hour broadcast would not fill the front page of the average newspaper. This means television journalism must reduce an array of complicated issues into very brief, visual presentations with no time for detailed explication.

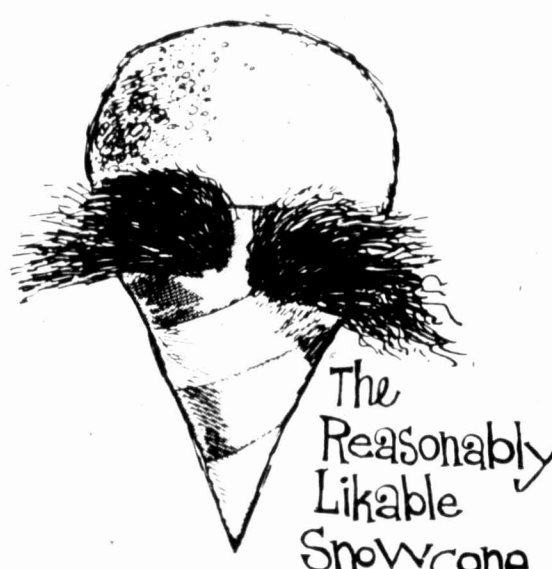

Accordingly, Vice President Bush visits a flag factory in a crude bid to portray his opponent as un-American, and Gov. Dukakis is filmed riding in an M-1 tank in response to charges of being soft on defense. As long as most voters depend chiefly on television for news that shapes their opinions, such will be the tenor of presidential campaigns.

Another reason for the current fuzziness is Mr. Dukakis's apparent strategy to blur the gaping distinctions that separate him from his Republican rival. Mr. Dukakis has tried to portray the election as a choice between the relative competence of two individuals rather than between competing ideologies — as though ideas were unimportant in choosing a president.

For his part, Mr. Bush has done too little to define where he would lead this country in the post-Reagan era. He has failed to inspire, largely because of a lack of specificity on a range of troublesome issues and an apparent inability to articulate his world view in clear-eyed political terms.

The danger arising from such a visionless campaign is that the winner may enter the White House without a strong mandate to govern for the next four years.

Subject: Discipline versus punishment

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

There may not be many things sweeter than waking to a sunny Saturday West Texas morning the day after a football homecoming victory. The sky seemed as clear as you could imagine. It wasn't.

There was a cloud in Big Spring's sky — Thursday evening's fight at the high school — and remnants will remain until we learn from it or forget about it. We can forgive, but let's not forget quite yet.

The incident between football players and band members, when the players apparently used belts on the backsides of their taunters, resulted in suspensions for three days, I understand. In some respects, students who take such matters into their own hands may consider three days out of school a reward and not a punishment. Without question, missing a homecoming football game is true punishment.

Trying to glean the truth or understand just why the confrontation occurred is no simple task. It did happen and why it happened must be understood if we hope to avoid it again. That's not what we're about today; I leave that to the authorities and parents of the students.

However, the similarities of this eruption and another favored schoolhouse punishment, licks, seem too striking to dismiss offhandedly. Licks, generally applied on a backside with a wooden paddle, apparently have been part of the education process for some time; learning that has been part of my education since moving to Texas.

"Discipline" its called and discipline is what it's supposed to do.

Less than a year ago we took a look at discipline procedures in Big Spring and other Howard County schools and licks were a main cog in the process. Licks were frequently identified by students as the favored choice when punishment time had rolled around. Repeatedly, students told us they favor licks to the alternative of isolation from classmates and the daily stream of activity.

It seemed puzzling at the time and puzzles even now; not the choice, but the fact they had a choice and what that choice tells us. That we should perpetuate such a farce as giving the violator of the rule a choice of punishment and then repeatedly provide them with that punishment tells more than we may like to admit about the way we attempt discipline.

It is easier for both punisher and punishee — a few quick licks and the deed is done, the punishment is delivered and one step closer to discipline. Right?

The primary definition of discipline is: Training expected to produce a specific character or pattern of behavior, especially training that produces moral or mental improvement. Who can argue with moral or mental improvement? The secondary definition in the American Heritage Dictionary is: Controlled behavior resulting from disciplinary training. Is the backside the best path to mental improvement?

Clearly, there are specific differences between punishment and discipline but it could be soundly argued that our system is teaching our children. Just weeks ago we were alerted to the local use of a longtime practice of coaches administering licks to punish players for failing grades. Forty in one day on one practice field. Coaches... punish... failing grades? Seems like a bad combination in several ways.

Thankfully, school administrators appeared to agree when they were told of it and immediately issued guidelines stipulating that the procedure is not an accepted policy. We've not heard another word of it.

Please don't dismiss this as breezy thinking by someone who believes all physical punishment is wrong. I've been on both the receiving and the dispensing ends of that business and I realize that it has its place. However, who, where and how its delivered are major considerations.

Don't doubt, our system is teaching our children. Sometimes it's what we want them to learn, sometimes it is not. You can bet, however, they are always learning. If we do not want them to learn to strike someone for punishment, perhaps we shouldn't strike them for punishment, especially once they've reached the teen years.

The incident between the players and band members shows that you can learn punishment without learning discipline and reinforces the notion that to properly administer punishment takes a great deal of discipline.

Assessing damage of Cisneros revelations

By JESSE TREVINO

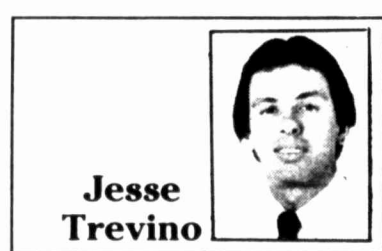

Unlike the instant polls conducted after a presidential debate, no survey is measuring public reaction to the revelations that San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros had an extramarital affair.

Absent that data, all is a guessing game — much like the guessing game that went on about his private life for months. What the public feels will come more clearly into focus the next time someone conducts a poll that pits Cisneros against other state officials in hypothetical head-to-head contests for any number of public offices.

Until then, no one is going to force an opinion on the public. They are digesting the news and forming their own reactions.

I believe the ultimate resolution to Cisneros' standing will revolve around the reaction of Latinos. Without them, he has no base. Yet it is precisely his fellow Hispanics who will rally to Cisneros' side.

The Cisneros story is vital to Hispanics. Having just lost another talented Latino figure in Willie Velasquez, also of San Antonio, most Mexican-Americans will not be eager to lose another Latino leader of that caliber. Neither should many Texans.

As the first Latino to reach those heights, Cisneros carried a burden that was weighty and perhaps unfair. Not only did he carry the aspirations of Latinos in and beyond Texas, he had to pass muster before the Anglo majority.

He had to prove that here was a Hispanic who could perform. When Cisneros did perform, he became something of a hero to Latinos and to many Anglos as well, many of whom worry about the ethnic future of Texas. In Cisneros, they saw a man whose politics were not defined first by ethnicity.

Cisneros clearly fixed his political star on the future, and on everything that word implies. He is, for Hispanics, the emodiment of their future. Not that they consider him a savior so much as a symbol of Latinos' liberation from the racial constraints that hampered their contributions to Texas.

For Anglo Texans, he not only did not threaten their image of Texas, but made them believe that, yes, someone like Cisneros, even with his Hispanic surname, could help lead Texas into the new world of sciences, technologies and industries, helping to put Texas in its rightful place among the states.

Texans view their state with a unique nationalistic sense. In whatever form, nationalism evokes large measures of Fate and Destiny rolled up in its passion. Texans, especially Texas Hispanics, have a lot of both.

Cisneros, I would suggest, will ride that passion to obliterate the negatives being cited to me personally about how Hispanics will turn against him. The most volatile possibility lies in Latino reaction against Cisneros because the other woman was Anglo. I don't think ethnic divisions in Texas go that deep.

Cisneros has sustained a blow. But he has handled the initial phases of this test valiantly. Unlike political and religious leaders in extramarital excursions, Cisneros admitted his transgression. He apologized once the truth was out and has left the public to make up its own mind.

That courage is what leadership is about. That quality attracts, not detracts, because Cisneros are not so numerous as to be found by the bushel. If they were, Americans would not be going to the polls on Nov. 8 holding their noses, unexcited about either the Republican or the Democratic presidential nominee.

George Bush, J. Danforth Quayle, Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen make up the totality of their choices. Texans mulling over Cisneros' predicament should stop and realize that of the presidential and vice presidential lot, most Americans think it is Bentsen who should be elected in November. Texans should be proud of that. They should be proud that Texas is producing real leaders.

Everyone must form his or her own opinion, whether in a presidential race or in a controversy engulfing the mayor of the country's 10th largest city. But I have little doubt that Latinos will support their brightest star.

helpless babies after they are born. I suppose that is possible, if "Anonymous" gets her information from the likes of McCall's and the evening news. To set the record straight, there are literally hundreds of "anti-abortion groups" around the country helping "these helpless babies" in many tangible ways: operating crisis pregnancy centers and counseling agencies to provide spiritual, emotional, and material help to mothers with difficult pregnancies; operating homes and providing other services to meet the needs of unwed mothers; providing adoption services, among others. I suppose McCall's doesn't often report such things.

Even though the list of loving couples wanting a child and eager to adopt is miles longer than the list of babies available for adoption, concerned "Anonymous" apparently would rather "help these helpless little babies" by killing them! Not long ago, 60 loving couples capable of caring for the child without taxpayer assistance pleaded for the privilege of adopting "Baby Jane Doe," born with Downs syndrome, while the parents allowed the baby to slowly starve to death over a period of nearly a month. Let's hear it from the handicapped. Wouldn't it be better if your parents had been compassionate enough to kill you before you were born?

Second, "Anonymous" reminds us of various human sufferings: "babies that are born who don't get enough to eat, are not warmly clothed or don't have a place to live and the hundreds of abused children who cry in pain." (One would think that the United States is a Third World nation steeped in squalor.) And then, there are the "several born with AIDS..." The compassionate solution offered by "Anonymous"? Kill those babies!

Next, a long litany of social problems is recited. "There are children who are on drugs, children who sell drugs and children who steal other children's lunch money at school. A college campus isn't safe. You can't be sure you're safe in your own home... Our prisons are already full..." Further, "There are children wandering the streets who become prostitutes who have more babies..." And how does "Anonymous" propose to solve these problems? Kill babies!

What utter nonsense! By what magic can "Anonymous" be certain that the destroyed babies are the ones who would grow up to contribute to the ills she lists? Abortion on demand has been legal in our nation since 1973, and since then more than 22 million babies have been killed. By the contorted logic of "Anonymous," we should already be seeing a dramatic decline in the incidence of the social ills she is concerned about. Yet, they actually continue to increase. What about it, "Anonymous"? Are we not killing enough babies, yet?

In truth, it does not require much intelligence to realize that a society so desensitized to the value of life that its mothers can at will slaughter their unborn babies will also become desensitized to the value of life in general. Child abuse cases have mushroomed right along with the increasing practice of abortion. And already there are loud calls for killing of the elderly (active euthanasia). How about that, "Anonymous"? Are you next?

In praise of committee

To the editor:
It was my privilege to be present when our Big Spring Independent School District met Oct. 13 and voted 6 to 1 in favor of an advisory committee on minority concerns. The one person who voted against the formation of the committee is strongly committed to the concerns of the minority community. He just did not, as I understand it, feel the need for a committee because any person has the right to make an appeal to the school board.

The formation of this committee seems to me to be an important continuation of our district's progress toward equal opportunity for all children to receive a quality education. To many of us, this committee indicates a harmonious expression of faith in our school district's ability to move forward in the area of minority concerns. Board president, Ford Farris, who initiated the idea of the committee and appointed Billy Pineda as chairman and our school board members deserve our appreciation for providing this avenue of expression and communication between the district and the minority community.

The six people chosen by Mr. Pineda to serve on this committee are outstanding leaders in the community.

His response to 'Anonymous'

To the editor:

This letter is not satire — I possibly should not even be writing it. Today I received a three-page, hand-written letter in response to one (or more?) of my letters published in the Herald's pages of late. The envelope had no address on it, and the author never identified herself — I presume the author is female, because of a reference to McCall's.

Anonymous! At least when I speak out on an issue about which I feel strongly, I have the courage to fully identify myself. "Anonymous" would not deserve the courtesy of a reply were it not for the horrible nonsense by which she seeks to justify the slaughter of millions of unborn children each year and were it not possible that others in our city have arrived at the same awful conclusions.

First, "Anonymous" says she has "not once... read or heard that the anti-abortion groups help these little

Battleship recommissioned

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — The USS Wisconsin, which received a nearly $449 million overhaul, was recommissioned Saturday as officials lauded the World War II warship as a mighty defender.

"When the Wisconsin was originally commissioned, it was the most powerful warship on the seas," said Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. "With the new modern weapons systems that were ably installed at Ingalls Shipbuilding, it is once again the standard for blue water military strength around the world."

The USS Wisconsin will join three other World War II battleships that were modernized and returned to service — the Iowa, New Jersey and Missouri.

It will be based in Norfolk, Va., until construction is completed on a new naval base in Texas. It will have a crew of 1,600.

Indian Congress sets agenda

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Representatives of 300 Indian tribes will meet here this week to set a national agenda of Indian concerns to be presented to the next president of the United States.

The National Congress of American Indians, one of the nation's oldest and largest Indian organizations, begins its 45th annual convention Monday.

"Basically, we're going to develop a blueprint of what we would like the new administration and the Congress to do," said Suzan Shown Harjo of Washington, D.C., the executive director of the organization.

Among the issues to be discussed are hunting and fishing rights, gaming regulation, health care, economic development and promotion of treaty rights. The Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska is host of the convention.

Marcos case likely to be lengthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The racketeering indictment of former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos signals the start of a lengthy legal process that is likely to include several rounds of plea bargaining with the Justice Department.

Federal prosecutors allege Marcos embezzled more than $100 million from the Philippine government and used the money to buy three buildings in New York City. The main charge carries a maximum prison sentence of 20 years.

As part of what they promise will be a vigorous defense, Marcos' lawyers will embark on an extensive legal process of pre-trial discovery.

In Honolulu on Friday, Marcos attorney Richard Hibel referred to the matter indirectly, saying President Reagan was responsible for Marcos being brought to the United States, that Marcos considered himself loyal to Reagan and expected some loyalty in return, including safe haven in this country.

Analysts say voters indecisive

NEW YORK (AP) — Polls are illuminating an electorate in turmoil, with voters still groping — some of them dispiritedly — toward a decision in the presidential election, analysts say.

While surveys indicate a healthy George Bush lead, striking differences in gauging the size of the lead underline a certain unhappiness with the choices, some pollsters said in recent days.

And that means things still can change with just over two weeks to go, they said.

"People are having lots of second thoughts," said Andrew Kohut, president of the Gallup Organization. Even in polls that have found stable results for weeks, he said, "I term it stable uncertainty."

Several pollsters — but not all — agreed with such an analysis: That a good number of voters, even at this late date, remain loosely committed to either Bush or to Democrat Michael Dukakis, and could change their minds.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — An unidentified protester is carried away by police Saturday. Approximately 100 members of Connecticut PLAN (Pro-Life Action Network) were arrested Saturday after delaying the opening of the Summit Women's Center for more than an hour.

Shiite leader condemns threats to hurt hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Shiite Moslem leader said Saturday that kidnappers holding foreign hostages and threatening to hurt the American ones were committing an "unforgivable crime."

Nabih Berri, who heads the mainstream Shiite Amal militia, spoke in an interview with The Associated Press after the Islamic Jihad, a pro-Iranian fundamentalist faction, warned it would punish American hostages it is holding.

The Islamic Jihad threat was in retaliation for Friday's Israeli air raids on Lebanon that killed 21 people and injured 34. Officials had said 16 people were killed in the attacks but police reported five more bodies were found in the rubble Saturday in the southeastern town of Mashgara, one of the main targets of the Israeli raids.

Israeli warplanes flew over the pro-Iranian stronghold of Baalbek in eastern Lebanon Saturday but no attacks were reported.

Berri's Syrian-backed militia has been locked in a fierce struggle with pro-Iranian fundamentalists for mastery of the Shiite community. It has no influence on the kidnappers.

In Milan, Italy, police said Saturday they arrested a Lebanese woman at the airport who was carrying pictures of three American hostages in Lebanon in a false bottom in her suitcase.

The woman stopped Thursday was carrying photos of Terry Anderson, Thomas Sutherland and Alann Steen to be given to an Italian businessman, said Fortunato Finoli, deputy director of the Milan police anti-terrorist unit.

She also carried a handwritten letter signed by Steen, he said. She was arrested and charged with carrying $1,000 in counterfeit U.S. bills and 50 grams of heroin, Finoli said.

Police refused to say who was to ultimately receive the pictures and documents, or why they were being sent.

They said the U.S. Embassy was notified.

In Lebanon, Berri said Lebanese "are against America's policy, against America's support of Israel and against the American administration. But we are not at all against the American citizens."

He called the kidnapping "an unjustified, unforgivable crime."

Hurricane slams into Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Hurricane Joan blasted across Nicaragua on Saturday with 125 mph winds and torrential rains, flattening buildings and setting off floods and mud slides. Fifteen people were reported killed in Nicaragua and 140 were missing.

In Costa Rica and Panama, authorities reported 10 deaths, raising the toll from the storm to at least 51 in Central and South America. Thousands of people were left homeless, dozens were injured and more than 30,000 were evacuated in the three Central American countries.

At 3 p.m. EDT, Joan's winds were down to 50 mph, tropical storm strength. Hurricane warnings were discontinued.

Freighter, cruise ship collide

PIRAEUS, Greece (AP) — Authorities detained the captain of an Italian freighter and accused him of ramming a Greek cruise ship in an accident that killed two Greek seamen, injured 34 passengers and left two people missing.

Italian officials on Saturday denied the Greek allegation and said the freighter was at a stand still before the crash.

Officials had reported a British teen-ager was missing and feared dead after Friday's accident and on Saturday sponsors of the tour of British students said a teacher also could not be accounted for.

The collision involved the freighter Adige and the 6,300-ton Jupiter, which was carrying 486 British students and teachers. Most of the schoolchildren arrived in London Saturday for tearful reunions with their families.

The crash tore a gaping hole in the port side of the Jupiter, which sank less than a mile from shore. All others aboard the Jupiter were rescued, and no injuries were reported from the Adige.

Troops clash with Palestinians

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops shot and wounded 12 Palestinians on Saturday in scattered clashes in the occupied territories, hospital officials said. The army said a soldier was injured when he was struck in the head by a rock.

Also Saturday, 21-year-old Lt. Moti Shtaiar died of wounds suffered Wednesday when a suicide car bomb exploded in southern Lebanon, the army said. His death raised the number of Israeli troops killed in the explosion to eight. Two other soldiers were hospitalized in critical condition.

The bombing prompted Israeli air raids over southern Lebanon Friday that killed 21 people and injured 34. Police initially said 16 people were killed but reported five more bodies were found in rubble in the southeastern Lebanese town of Mashgara, one of the main targets of the raids.

Most of Saturday's rioting in the occupied territories was confined to the Gaza Strip, where 650,000 Palestinians live, many in refugee camps.

Soviets agree to return church

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Tens of thousands of Lithuanians carrying torches and their national flag marched Saturday to a cathedral the Soviet government said it will return to the Roman Catholic Church.

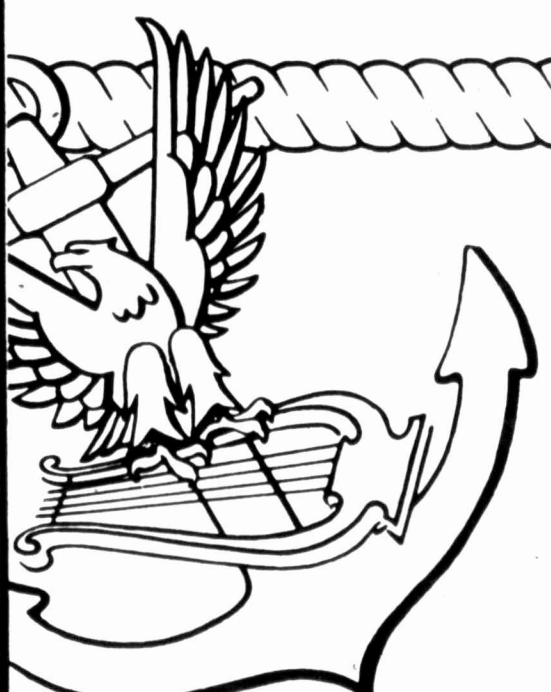

The procession began immediately after a Lithuanian nationalist group was told the government had acceded to demands to return the 14th Century Vilnius Cathedral to its original use.

Members of the audience took to their feet, clapping and cheering in the direction of the republic's new reform-minded Communist Party chief, Algirdas Brazauskas.

The Vilnius Cathedral was a center of Christianity in the Middle Ages and its confiscation by the officially atheist Soviet government had angered many Lithuanians.

The announcement came at the end of the first day of a two-day conference of the Lithuanian Restructuring Movement.

100th Congress: Besides laws, Bork and Ollie North

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The 100th Congress, which adjourned with a parting salvo in the war against drugs, may best be remembered for its wrestling over two national controversies — the Iran-Contra affair and the nomination of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

Both dramas, played out in ornate committee rooms before national television audiences, involved the lawmakers in bitter feuding among themselves and with the White House.

A host of other issues produced a lengthy list of accomplishments over a two-year session that brought to a close the first 200 years of congressional history.

For the first time since 1976, the House and Senate, working furiously, passed all 13 appropriations bills before the start of fiscal 1989 — an event accomplished at three minutes to midnight on Sept. 30, the end of fiscal 1988.

"I think it's been one of the truly great Congresses in my experience and in this century," said House Majority Leader Tom Foley, D-Wash. "It's turned out to be not only a historic Congress, but also an extraordinarily productive one."

Other major legislative accomplishments included:

- A multibillion dollar attack in the "war against drugs" that features money for rehabilitation, up to $10,000 in civil penalties and loss of federal benefits for personal use of even small amounts of drugs, and a death penalty for drug dealers who murder during drug-related crimes.

- A complex tax package whose main purpose was correcting errors in the 1986 tax overhaul, but also included dozens of tax benefits to one group or another as well as the tax increases to pay for them. It has a three-year price tag of $4.1 billion.

- The first complete overhaul of the federal welfare system since its inception during the depression of the 1930s.

- Ratification of the first U.S.-Soviet arms reduction treaty. The Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces, or INF, treaty requires elimination within three years of all missiles with a range of 300 miles to 3,400 miles.

- A sweeping revision of the trade laws, to reduce the trade surpluses that other countries run with the United States.

- The $18 billion Clean Water Act, passed after two vetoes by President Reagan and designed to improve the quality of many of America's waterways.

- Catastrophic health insurance for millions of elderly or disabled people who receive Medicare, providing free hospital care for lengthy illnesses after the recipient pays the first $564.

- Two civil rights bills, the Civil Rights Restoration Act and the Fair Housing Act.
- An $800 million health package designed to fight the AIDS epidemic, including money for testing, research and home care.

- A $1.2 billion bill providing individual payments of $20,000 to Japanese-American survivors of World War II internment camps established in Western states after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

- Drought relief for crop and livestock producers hit by the summer drought, with a price tag estimated from $3.9 billion to $5.1 billion.

Dukakis charges 'fear and smear,' Bush disavows brochures

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush accepts a copy of the book "Against All Hope" from author Armando Valladares, who wrote about his 22-year sentence in Cuba for "anti-state activities."

NEDERLAND — Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis greets supporters at the Pipefitters Hall in Nederland Saturday during a Texas campaign swing.

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis pressed his counterattack against front runner George Bush Saturday, blaming a Bush campaign "of fear and of smear" for distorting his image to voters. Bush disavowed Illinois GOP ads asserting rapists and murderers vote for Dukakis.

The two presidential candidates were making separate appearances at an Italian American banquet in Washington Saturday night.

Democrat Dukakis, touching on criticism of his campaign style in a race in which all polls show him trailing, said, "I may not wear my heart on my sleeve." But he promised that in the remaining two weeks he would "fight my heart out for the things I believe in."

His remarks came in a five-minute speech his campaign paid to air on ABC-TV at 10:55 p.m. EDT.

Earlier, Dukakis and running mate Lloyd Bentsen campaigned in Texas and Dukakis joined state party officials in a show of solidarity in Georgia — two Southern states where polls suggest Bush has made headway by portraying the Democrat as soft on crime.

Dukakis took on the issue in his speech, saying simply, "In their TV ads, the Republicans accuse me of being soft on criminals. That's a lie."

Bush, in a brief appearance at his Washington home, dissociated himself from one printed ad along that line.

He was asked about brochures distributed by the state Republican Party in Illinois with a headline saying, "All the Murderers and Rapists and Drug Pushers and Child Molesters in Massachusetts Vote For Michael Dukakis."

Asked if he approved, Bush said, "No I don't, and I don't back some of the stuff they're saying about me. . . . No, I disapprove of that." He didn't say what he objected to on the Democratic side.

On another matter, Bush was asked to comment on the racketeering indictment of former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos.

"That speaks for itself, and let the justice system go forward; that's what I say," he said.

Bush's running mate Dan Quayle, who was out of the public eye Saturday, said in an interview Friday night that the two campaigns' concentration on producing 15-second "sound bites" for evening news shows wasn't so bad because "one-liners say a lot."

"The information is out there" for voters to make their decisions, he said.

Dukakis' televised speech was part of a concerted effort by the Dukakis campaign to reach a wider audience.

He also is airing a tough new set of commercials accusing Bush of distortions and lies and is planning a number of other television appearances, including an interview Tuesday on the ABC show, "Nightline."

Bush has repeatedly criticized Dukakis for a former Massachusetts prisoner-furlough program under which an inmate failed to return after a weekend pass and later attacked a Maryland couple.

Dukakis, in a speech Saturday in Beaumont, recounted the crimes of a prisoner who raped and murdered a pregnant young mother after being released on furlough from a federal prison.

"I would never use that kind of human tragedy to accuse the president of being soft on crime," Dukakis said. "Maybe that's the difference between me and George Bush."

National polls show Bush leading Dukakis by margins ranging from seven to 17 points. And state polls show Dukakis trailing in such key states as California, Texas and Ohio that are critical to his hopes for victory on Nov. 8.

Dukakis said in the taped TV speech that he enters the final two weeks of the campaign an underdog and that "some of you don't know much more about me than a name and a set of labels."

"Part of the fault may rest with our own effort," he said. "But I think it is also fair to say that the other side has pursued a campaign of distortion and distraction — of fear and of smear."

He cited Bush campaign ads attacking him for the Massachusetts prison furlough program and for pollution in Boston Harbor.

"Are you satisfied with what you are hearing this year?" he asked. "Do you think this is the way to pick the president of the United States?"

"It isn't easy for the truth to catch up with the lies," he said. "And to clear up the fog of deception that has been spread across the campaign."

"But I am determined to fight this fight."

"I may not wear my heart on my sleeve, but I hope tonight you have some sense of what is in my heart. And in the remaining days of this campaign, I intend to fight my heart out for the things that I believe in."

Lawyers see two sides to rush defense

ATLANTA (AP) — Rep. Pat Swindall is attempting to beat an election Day deadline with his one-man, rush-to-justice defense in a federal perjury trial that will climax one of the country's most bitter congressional elections.

If everything goes as expected, the two-term Republican congressman will deliver his opening argument in U.S. District Court on Monday, just one week after his indictment was handed up and just 15 days before the Nov. 8 election.

Swindall, a lawyer, is representing himself in the perjury case and hopes a quick acquittal will bring victory at the polls.

He has admitted to a mistake in judgment in negotiating an $850,000 loan last year with an undercover agent posing as a financier, but denies criminal wrongdoing. Eventually, Swindall accepted a $150,000 check from a middleman, then returned it uncashed.

The perjury charges brought against Swindall stem from his testimony before a grand jury in February. Among other things, Swindall testified he could not recall any mention of drug money; tapes of the meetings have the agent saying the loan money was probably drug-related.

Swindall is facing the same challenger he did in 1986 in his bid for a third term in the House. He calls it a race between "a Dukakis liberal and a Bush conservative."

Voters in the suburbs east of Atlanta will choose between Swindall and Democrat Ben Jones, a one-time "Dukes of Hazzard" TV star who has had to answer repeated questions from Swindall about his admitted bout with alcoholism.

Homecoming parade

The 1988 Homecoming Parade once again snaked its way through the downtown area, drawing thousands of viewers to see the floats and participants. (Above) With the theme of "Cartoons Through the Years," the Big Spring High School seniors won the high school float competition with their "Smurf" float. (Left) A group of sophomore girls follow their "George Jetson for President" float, carrying signs in support. Their effort got the sophomores second place in the high school float division. Third place went to the freshmen with "Galaxy High," and the juniors took fourth place with "Peanuts." In the overall division, Goliad Middle School won first place, with Runnels Junior High taking second place and the high school Spanish Club receiving third.

Halloween is bad time for black cats

HOUSTON (AP) — Black cats — long linked to witches, magic and Halloween — have animal welfare advocates extra concerned as their popularity this time of year increases.

"Many people like to use black cats as props" at Halloween parties or give them as unwanted gifts," said Joe LaPalomito, an executive assistant with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Because of horror stories he has heard about the treatment of black cats when Halloween nears, LaPalomito is refusing to allow the adoption of black cats at this time of year.

If the cats survive the nightmares they are put through on Halloween, LaPalomito said they often end up back in an animal shelter after the holiday.

People advertising free kittens in the newspaper classifieds this week say they have received several calls from people asking for black cats.

"I got a real weird call from a guy this morning who asked for a solid black cat," said Sandy Siegel, who had advertised free kittens in the Houston Chronicle. "When I said I didn't have one, he hung up. He didn't sound like the kind of guy who would want a cat."

The association of black cats with magic comes from medieval European witchcraft practices that were founded on anti-Christian symbols, said Munro Edmonson, a Tulane University anthropology professor.

Black is the opposite of white, and cats' night prowling tendencies associated them with darkness. A black cat was the ultimate symbol of witchcraft.

Occult store owner Mac McGee said three teen-age girls recently walked into his shop and asked to buy a black cat to sacrifice. "The wanted to see if they could call the devil," he said.

David Delos told the Chronicle that as a young teen-ager he used to sacrifice black cats on Halloween to make his wishes for money come true. "I used to drown them in motor oil," he said.

Delos, a supervisor at Power of the Saints Occult shop in Houston, said he no longer sacrifices black cats but knows that many people still do.

"They make a wish, and they kill the cat to get the wish to come true," he said.

But McGee, who is a devotee of good magic and owns the Occult Shoppe, denounces sacrificing any animal for magic.

"This comes from the movies, I'm sorry to say," McGee said. "There's no magic in it. No one has that right, to sacrifice anything."

Texas briefs

Texas team leads bridge winners

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The United States team, lead by Texas competitors, won the championship of the World Contract Bridge Team Olympiad for the first time ever, defeating Austria 289-247 Saturday in the 96-deal final.

The United States has won every other world title at least once, and it now holds the championship in every world event except the Women's Olympiad.

Seymour Deutsch of San Antonio,

Texas, was the only member of the team who had never won a world championship.

"It's fantastic, it's unreal," he said. "It's the thrill of a lifetime."

Bobby Wolff of Dallas was worried when he finished play. "They played absolutely perfect bridge against us over the final 16 deals, and I thought we were 2-1 to lose. What a relief to discover that our teammates did so well."

Pilot killed when plane crashes

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — A pilot was killed Saturday when his single-engine plane crashed and burned in a pasture on the northern edge of Gregg County, officials said.

Cliff Floyd, a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper, said John W. Conford, 44, from San Augustine was the only person aboard. Gregg County Sheriff Bobby Weaver said the origin and the destination of the flight were not immediately known.

Floyd said the accident occurred about 10 a.m. Saturday. Eyewitnesses reported that the plane came in low, skirted the top of a row of trees and then came to rest in a clump of trees

Town manages to save hospital

MEMPHIS, Texas (AP) — Soon after crossing the Hall County line, you begin seeing the red-and-white bumper stickers on passing pickups.

And by the time you reach the county seat, "Save the Hospital" decals are in every store window of this quiet farming town. But that doesn't begin to measure the lengths this rural county's residents have gone to keep the doors of the Hall County Hospital open.

Over six weeks, they and others reached deep into their pockets to donate $366,000 to put the county-supported facility on sound financial footing. At a myriad of fundraisers, supporters elicited contributions by stopping truckers on the highway, going door to door and holding raffles, auctions and a radiothon.

A sense of pride among Hall County residents marked a turnaround from early September, when an analysis team from Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital found that the hospital wouldn't survive much longer in the face of declining patient loads, fewer doctors and shrinking Medicare payments, problems that have caused the closure of more than two dozen rural Texas hospitals since 1984.

Communications to be redesigned

DALLAS (AP) — Federal Aviation Administration officials say the emergency communications system at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport will be redesigned so the primary unit and first backup aren't powered by the same source.

Both systems were disrupted Thursday and the world's fourth-busiest airport had to switch to an more unwieldy backup after a contract laborer inadvertently started an electrical power and threw the wrong switch to help halt the blaze.

The resultant disruption in communications crippled air traffic for 45 minutes, causing 111 flight delays, some flight cancellations, 20 flight diversions and about $1,500 in smoke and fire damage to the control tower.

'Dapper Bandit' gets ten life terms

DALLAS (AP) — The bank robber once known as the "Dapper Bandit" who squandered every penny of the $757,314 he stole has been sentenced to 10 life terms in prison after admitting he robbed 19 thrifths.

Mark Ervin Reeves, who shot himself in the mouth as police closed in on him after a North Dallas robbery May 4, later suffered a stroke that left him partially paralyzed. He will go to prison in a wheelchair.

State District Judge Richard Mays sentenced Reeves to the 10 concurrent life sentences in connection with nine Dallas County robberies.

As part of the plea agreement negotiated with state and federal prosecutors, Reeves also admitted 10 other robberies in Tarrant, Travis, Harris and Bexar counties.

Police have linked 25 robberies over the last decade to the Dapper Bandit, who wore dark suits, fake mustaches and sunglasses and carried a briefcase in each heist. His trademark business suit and briefcase and dashing counter-hopping antics earned him his legendary nickname.

On Thursday, U.S. District Judge Robert B. Maloney sentenced Reeves to nearly 21 years in federal prison, fined him $1.75 million and ordered him to pay $757,314 in restitution when he is released from prison.

Defense attorney Brad Lollar said Reeves will do his time in federal prison, which has superior health facilities.

Lollar said Reeves began robbing banks because he could not find a job after his release from prison on an auto-theft conviction. He spent every penny of the $757,314 he stole, in part to support a cocaine habit, Lollar said.

Although Maloney sentenced Reeves to 20 years and 11 months without parole, the 35-year-old man could earn 50 years of good time per year after the first year served.

Delos, a supervisor at Power of the Saints Occult shop in Houston, said he no longer sacrifices black cats but knows that many people still do.

"They make a wish, and they kill the cat to get the wish to come true," he said.

But McGee, who is a devotee of good magic and owns the Occult Shoppe, denounces sacrificing any animal for magic.

"This comes from the movies, I'm sorry to say," McGee said. "There's no magic in it. No one has that right, to sacrifice anything."

Mexican workers demand raises

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Workers are demanding a salary hike to match the increases in the official prices of eggs and meat under an inflation-fighting economic austerity program.

The Worker Congress, a huge labor confederation, expressed what it called "surprise and indignation" Friday at the latest hikes.

It said buying power has dropped 15 percent this year under the Economic Solidarity Pact, a wage-price agreement among business, labor and government.

The pact, which began in December and will be in place until at least the end of the year, is credited with drastically cutting last year's record inflation of just over 159 percent.

Chevron plant reduces staff

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — Chevron USA Inc.'s announcement that 400 jobs at its Port Arthur refinery are being eliminated has ended months of rumors that the entire plant would close, putting 2,200 people out of work.

Overstaffing, sagging profits and tight competition along the Gulf Coast are reasons the company gave for its first layoffs in 20 years.

Chevron's Port Arthur plant has a refining capacity of nearly 407,000 barrels a day, which will fall to 329,000 barrels a day after the streamlining.

Chervon will change its production mix to put more emphasis on the production of petrochemicals, premium unleaded gasoline and lubricating base oils, Spencer said.

Production of other light oil products, such as lighter fluid and some specialty lubricating oils and heating oils, will become a lower priority, Spencer said.

Byrum's 65 gives him lead by four

GULF BREEZE, Fla. (AP) — Tom Byrum shot a 7-under-par 65 Saturday for a third-round score of 201 and a four-stroke lead over four other golfers in the $400,000 Pensacola Open.

Trailing Byrum at 11-under-par 205 were Bruce Lietzke, Andrew Magee, Ray Stewart and Ken Green.

Four more golfers were five strokes back at 206 on the 7,033-yard, par-72 course at Tiger Point Golf and Country Club: John Cook, Tony Sills, Bobby Wadkins and Lance Ten Broeck.

PGA

Three golfers went into the third round tied for the lead: Cook, Mark Hayes and Scott Hoch.

While Cook fell five strokes behind the new leader, Hayes dropped eight strokes back and Hoch nine.

Byrum's 65 was the second-best score of the tournament. His 64 Friday was the best, also the lowest he has ever scored in competition.

"Believe it or not, I hit the ball better today than I did yesterday," Byrum said.

Byrum, looking for his first victory on the PGA Tour, has never had such a large lead going into the final round. He said he kept an eye on the leader board all day, something he usually doesn't do.

"It didn't make me nervous to watch the board so I kept doing it," Byrum said.

He said he's not usually a very aggressive player but doesn't plan to become more conservative in the final round because of his large lead.

"I don't feel like I have a lead on anybody," Byrum said. "There are a lot of experienced players behind me. Maybe I'm experienced now and I don't realize it."

The 28-year-old from Onida, S.D., is a four-year pro.

He started the day in a group of four golfers, including his older brother Curt, at 8-under-par 135, one stroke behind a trio of second-round leaders.

But he quickly shot to the lead with birdies on each of the first three holes. The rest of the way he sank five more birdies, offset by a bogey on the 470-yard, par-4 sixth hole.

Lietzke, Magee and Sills had the second-best scores of the day, each shooting a 67.

This is the first year the tournament is being played at Tiger Point after 10 years at Perdido Bay Resort.

The field was trimmed to 79 golfers Friday with the cut coming at even-par 144 after two rounds. Among those failing to make the cut was defending champion Doug Tewell, who finished the second round at 6-over-par 150.

Porkers hold off Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Arkansas' Kendall Trainor kicked four field goals and senior quarterback John Bland made his first career start, leading the 13th-ranked Razorbacks to a 26-21 Southwest Conference victory over Houston Saturday.

Trainor extended his field goal string to 15 in a row with first-half kicks of 29, 46 and 23. He added a 49-yarder in the third quarter.

The Razorbacks improved to 7-0 overall and 4-0 in the SWC. Houston dropped to 4-2 overall and 1-2 in the league.

Arkansas' regular starting quarterback, Quinn Grovey, sat out most of the game because of an injury. He made a cameo appearance in the fourth quarter, driving the Hogs 95 yards to a 9-yard touchdown run by Joe Johnson with 1:53 left in the game. Split end Tim Horton recovered a fumble in the end zone and Trainor kicked three field goals, giving the Hogs a 16-7 halftime lead.

Houston's offense didn't get in gear until the second quarter when sophomore Andre Ware replaced starting quarterback David Dacus and drove the Cougars to a score on his second series. Chuck Weatherspoon completed the drive with a 5-yard touchdown run.

Ware returned in the third quarter with a 5-yard touchdown run after completing passes of 12 yards to Jason Phillips and 22 yards to Paul Smith.

Bland directed the Hogs to the Cougar 9-yard line on their first drive of the game. Barry Foster gained 8 yards and fumbled into the end zone where Horton grabbed it for the score.

Trainor's 49-yarder in the third quarter equaled his longest of the season.

HOUSTON — University of Arkansas split end Tim Horton raises his hands with the ball as the referee signals touchdown after Horton recovered a fumble in the end zone. The first quarter score came after a run to the goal line by Razorback Barry Foster, who lost the ball.

Rice Owls played hard but lost again.

Texas A&M rolled to a 24-10 Southwest Conference victory over the Owls behind sophomore Lewis,

"Darren has been running great," said A&M coach Jackie Sherrill. "Rice had a good game plan. They obviously wanted to run the clock down and keep the ball away from us and Darren."

Sherrill added: "We didn't play well offensively, but I don't know how emotionally charged we were going into the game. I think we've done a great job turning things around after an 0-3 start. It's tough to turn that train around when it gets heading in the wrong direction."

Lewis played despite a bruised hip.

"My performance was limited somewhat, but I believe I did OK," Lewis said. "Rice hit hard. On my touchdown run, they over-pursued me, and I used my speed to take advantage of it."

Rice coach Jerry Berndt said it was another case of playing hard and losing.

"We tried to keep A&M's offense off the field," he said. "We kept it close and had an opportunity to win. But we didn't put it in the end zone when we had a chance."

Berndt said Lewis' 47-yard run for a touchdown hurt the Owls in the third period.

"It was a big play," he said. "We thought we had things going our way, then that big play really pumped them up."

Lewis has 1,563 career yards, placing him 10th on A&M's career rushing chart.

Steers rally to exciting win

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Steers spotted Pecos a 17-point lead, then roared back in the second half to take a 31-24 homecoming victory over the Eagles Friday night in Memorial Stadium.

The second-half comeback was fueled by running backs Dennis Hartfield and Rodney Brown and a Steer defense that limited the Eagles to only three first downs and 43 total yards in the final half.

Brown rushed for 85 yards on 17 carries, while Hartfield proved to be the offensive star for the Steers, gaining 170 yards on 18 carries and scoring three times, twice in the decisive final quarter.

It was a game that saw the teams switch roles at halftime. During the first 24 minutes, it was the Eagles who were dominant, while the Steers had trouble getting untracked.

After the two teams traded opening possessions, Pecos moved to the first score of the night, a 25-yard field goal by Frank Orozco. The big play of the drive was a 36-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Ray Smith to Eric Bradley.

The second quarter would prove to be a wild one, as both teams combined for 33 points. Pecos opened the scoring in the second stanza when fullback Tommy Valdez bulldozed over two yards out. Four minutes later, Valdez repeated his score, this time from the five to give the Eagles a 17-0 lead with six minutes left in the first half.

The Steers would come roaring back on their next drive, though. Big Spring marched 72 yards in six plays. Facing fourth down and one at the Steers' 37, quarterback Rance Thompson ran for four yards to keep the drive going.

From there, the Steers scored quickly. Thompson first found tight end Joe Downey for a 35-yard completion, then Hartfield dashed over from 24 yards out on the next play to give the Steers their first score of the night.

Big Spring would strike again quickly, with the defense doing the scoring honors this time. Facing a heavy rush, Smith floated a pass toward Bradley that Steer cornerback Fred Reid picked off easily at the 40.

From there, it was a footrace to the end zone, with Reid edging past Smith for the score. The try for two failed, but Big Spring had narrowed the margin to 17-12 with less than three minutes left in the half.

A Steer turnover would allow the Eagles to score once more in the half, though. On second down from Big Spring's 19, Hartfield lost control of the ball and the Eagles recovered on the Steer 21. Two plays later, Smith found receiver Doni Talamantez open in the end zone for the final score of the half. Orozco's PAT made the halftime score 24-12 in Pecos' favor.

As noted earlier, however, the teams appeared to switch character in the dressing rooms at halftime. The final 24 minutes would see the Steers come roaring back to score 19 unanswered points.

LENORAH — The Grady Wildcats hosted the Klondike Cougars in a key matchup, with both teams boasting a 2-0 record to determine the leader in District 6-A Six-Man football Friday night at Tunnell Field.

The visiting Cougars took home an impressive 36-22 victory to set the stage for a showdown against archival Sands Friday night.

Grady won the toss and junior Scott Glaze directed a 63-yard scoring drive on seven plays, chewing off almost five minutes off the clock with two fine pass receptions, one going to junior standout David White and the other to teammate Michael McKaskle to put the Wildcats inside the visitors' 20-yard line.

With 7:11 left in the period Julian Valle scored from 17-yards out to give the home team the lead as the PAT was no good to stand at 6-0. The Cougars offense sputted in the first quarter as they could only muster one first down, while the defense of Grady were stopping senior Steve Cope. Cope has been one of the Cougars' main offensive weapons this year.

With both teams not able to move the ball in the second quarter, the Cougars with 3:07 left before halftime, began on their first scoring drive from the 18-yard line with a pass from Corbett Foster to Clint Kirkland that covered 56 yards all the way down to the six-yard line. Gilbert Guerra took the ball down to the four-yard line on second down.

Steve Cope received the handoff from Foster and passed to Roddy Oaks for a four-yard score.

The PAT was good and Klondike led the surprising Grady Wildcats 7-6 as the first half ended.

With the option to receive the ball, the Cougars started again on their own 18-yard line. Cope received the call and he slashed his way right through the line for 62 yards. The PAT was good and Klondike led 15-6.

Grady received the following kickoff, on the next play Scott Terrell broke for 60 yards after fumbling the handoff, but a clipping call brought the ball all the way back to the ten-yard line nullifying any score. With 4:14 to go in the third quarter Valle again ran it in from the eight-yard line. The PAT was good and the Cougars still led 15-14. The touchdown was set up by a fine 28-yard pass from Glaze to Terrell.

After a fine defensive stop, the Wildcats let their guard down and Kirkland streaked down the left end and Foster found him all alone for 48-yards. The PAT was blocked, and Klondike led 21-14.

The Wildcats would not quit as they began another scoring drive with Glaze directing a mixed passing-running game plan. Valle scored his third touchdown from six yards out and Grady took the lead 22-21 as the PAT was good.

Klondike received the ball on the 20-yard line. Cope found the end zone as he went 47 yards with 7:53 left in the quarter to put the Cougars on top for good at 29-22.

With Grady unable to move the ball, Klondike took over on their own 24-yard line on downs. Cope and Guerra ran the ball down to the 27-yard line of the Wildcats, they made crucial yardage to keep the clock running. Foster again found his favorite target as Kirkland was all alone in the end zone.

Sweetwater 55 Snyder 6

SWEETWATER — The Snyder Tigers were able to stop Kenneth Norman, but the remaining Sweetwater Mustangs had little trouble with the Tigers, as the state's top-ranked team waltzed to a 55-6 victory here Friday.

Norman, the number-one ranked rusher in the state, was limited to 87 yards on 13 carries, but aided the Mustang cause with a 54-yard scoring pass to Chris Taylor in the first quarter.

Mustang Toby Tobias was the leading rusher in the contest, gaining 119 yards on two carries. Jason Presley gained 112 yards in a losing effort for the Tigers.

Sweetwater runs its unbeaten record to 7-0 overall and 4-0 in district, while Snyder falls to 1-6 and 1-3.

Rankin knocks G-City from unbeaten ranks

By STEVE BELVIN

RANKIN — The Rankin Red Devils don't throw the football much, but when they do, they make it count.

Just ask the Garden City Breakers.

The Red Devils passed for three touchdowns as they whipped the Garden City Breakers, 26-6, in a matchup of District 8-A unbeaten Friday night.

Rankin quarterback Doug Braden hooked up with James Watson for three touchdowns as the Red Devils — ranked number seven in the state — moved to the front of the district race with a 2-0 record. Garden City, number nine in the state, falls to 1-1 in league play.

Noted for its strong rushing attack, Rankin attempted only six passes. But the Red Devils completed four of them for a whopping 179 yards. Braden teamed with Watson for scoring plays of 79, 76 and 21 yards. He also caught the other completed pass on a two-point conversion.

Garden City coach Sam Scott said Rankin's passing plays wasn't a surprise to him. "Throwing the football is part of the game. You expect people to throw the football. Tonight they did things right for 48 minutes — we didn't," said Scott.

Indeed the Red Devils did do things right.

They managed to come away with a 14-0 halftime lead in a first half dominated by Garden City.

In the first 24 minutes of play, Garden City managed three substantial drives, moving three times into Rankin territory. Once, Garden City lost the ball on downs at the Rankin 24, and another time, "Codie Scott's pass was intercepted by Terry McCravy at the Rankin four."

Rankin scored when the elusive Braden hit Watson for TD's of 79 and 76 yards. Both times the swift sophomore simply outran the Garden City secondary on fly patterns, and Braden was right on target.

In that half, Rankin accumulated 198 yards total offense, 155 coming on those two plays. Meanwhile, Garden City had managed 122 yards.

"At halftime, we coaches and the kids felt like we were in control, but behind 14-0. We had two mental mistakes and it cost us," said Scott.

In the second half Rankin's ground attack began to produce and the Red Devils controlled the clock. In the third quarter Rankin added another touchdown while limiting Garden City to only seven offensive plays.

Joe Abalos' 17-yard scoring jaunt capped off an 85-yard eight play drive. Behind the blocking of 230-pound center Jim Bob Bearden and 265-pound guard Lance Criswell, Abalos scooted for 87 second half yards, finishing the game with 115 yards in 21 carries.

Rankin ended its scoring midway in the final quarter, driving 51 yards in nine plays. Twice it converted fourth down situations. Facing a third and 12, Braden hit Watson for the 21-yard scoring pass.

Garden City responded with its only scoring drive of the game. The Breakers moved 74 yards in five touchdown pass to Jay Johnston. Gillespie followed that later in the quarter with the first of his TDs on a one-yard run.

After a scoreless second quarter,

Gillespie struck again on a 26-yard run. Johnston's extra-point kick gave the Mustangs a 22-0 lead that held until Armando Casas scored on a 35-yard dash for the Longhorns' first score.

In the final quarter, Gillespie and Damian Zarate both scored for Sands — Gillespie on a 23-yard run, and Zarate on a dash of 38 yards.

According to Sands' coach Randy Roemisch, the key to the game was the Mustangs' line blocking and the variety of runners used by the victors.

"The offensive line did a good job of blocking, plus we were able to mix it up offensively," Roemisch said. "We had three running backs gain more than 50 yards. That kept Loop off-balance."

The victory now sets the stage for a district showdown between the once-beaten Mustangs and district leader Klondike next Friday at Patricia. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Miners whitewash Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Pat Hegarty passed for 235 yards and three touchdowns as Texas-El Paso overpowered New Mexico 37-0 in Western Athletic Conference football action Saturday.

The Miners won their fifth in a row to stay alive in the WAC race with a 4-1 mark, and raised their overall record to 7-1.

The Lobos, who have lost 14 straight conference games, dropped their ninth straight home game before a sparse crowd of 11,441. New Mexico is 1-7 and 0-4.

The Miners held the Lobos to just 100 passing yards, 132 yards below their season average, to register their second straight shutout over

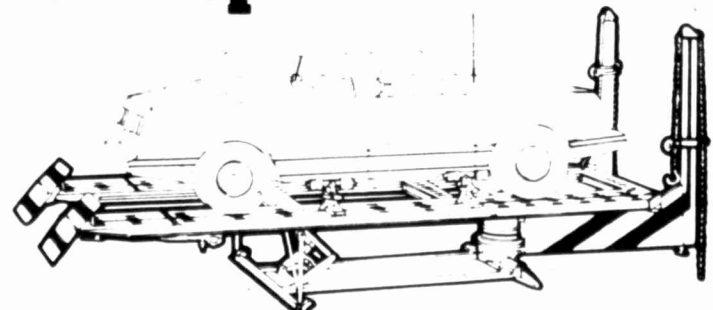

New Mexico and their first victory in Albuquerque in 19 years.

Injuries continued to hamper the Lobos, with starting quarterback Jeremy Leach leaving the game in the first quarter with a pulled muscle in his left shoulder.

Hegarty, who was 15 of 25 passing, threw scoring passes of 55, 44 and 20 yards to Victor Bailey, Reggie Barrett and Arnie Adkinson before leaving the game in the third quarter.

Chris Jacke kicked two field goals of 51 yards and another of 47 yards.

Wolves in first place

ABILENE — Mark Russell again was the hero as he led the Colorado City Wolves to a 21-10 victory over the Abilene Wylie Bulldogs in a battle of unbeaten in District 7-3A football play Friday night.

Russell scored two touchdowns while leading the Wolves to their third district win without a defeat. Wylie drops to 2-1 in district play.

Russell sealed the victory for the Wolves when he picked off David Blackburn's pass at the C-City goal line, and returned it 100 yards for the score. It was the free safety's seventh interception in three district games. He now has nine for the season. Russell's theft came with 1:10 left in the game.

Russell also teamed up with quarterback Chris Perkin for an 86-yard scoring pass in the third period. C-City's other touchdown was a three-yard run by Pat Ridge. Wylie scored on a 27-yard field goal by Mike Chapman and Blackburn's 21-yard interception return.

Beau Rees led Colorado City in rushing with 103 yards in 20 carries. Tillis caught two passes for 60 yards and Perkin was three of 11 passing for 146 yards.

Colorado City is now 7-1 overall while Wylie drops to 4-3-1. The Wolves will host Ballinger Friday.

Badgers nip Bulldogs, 16-13

MERKEL — Corey Hines booted an 28-yard field goal with four seconds left in the game to lift the Merkel Badgers past the Coahoma Bulldogs 16-13 in Friday night in 7-3A action.

The contest was a defensive struggle all the way as the score was tied 7-7 in the second quarter and 13-13 going into the final quarter.

Merkel struck first on a one-yard scoring run by Sean Leamon with 2:22 left in the first half. Hines added the extra point. Coahoma tied Merkel punt and Dale Coates recovered the loose ball in the end zone for a touchdown. The PAT failed, but Coahoma led 13-7 with 2:30 left in the quarter.

But the Badgers scored a minute later, on an 18-yard run by Tommy White. Hines missed the extra point, leaving the game tied, and setting the stage for his last quarter heroics.

Coahoma falls to 0-3 in district play and 2-6 overall. Merkel advances to 1-2 and 2-6.

Coahoma will host Wylie Friday.

Coyotes overcome Dawson to gain first league victory

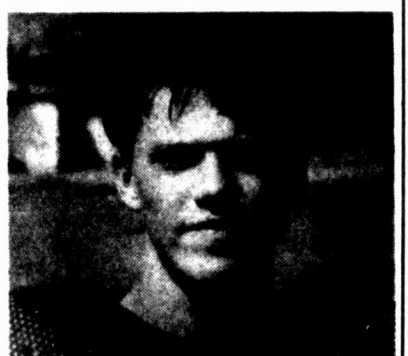

DAWSON — The Borden County Coyotes got into the District 6-A, Six-Man column Friday night by defeating the Dawson Dragons 20-16.

The Coyotes scored the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter, rallying from a 16-14 deficit. Lance Latimer scored from nine yards out, sealing the victory for Borden County.

Latimer got Borden County on the scoreboard in the first period, scoring on a 10-yard run. The Coyotes' second TD of the night came in the third quarter, a 10-yard run by Jimmy Rios.

Latimer led Borden County in rushing with 17 carries for 85 yards. Rios, who suffered an ankle injury in the fourth quarter, finished the game with 51 yards in eight tries. Shane Kemper caught two passes for 85 yards to lead Coyote receiver. B-County quarterback Brian Bond completed five of nine passes for 95 yards.

Borden County is now 2-6 for the season and 1-2 in league

Prep gridder sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — A high school football player could miss a game this season because he'll be in jail serving part of his sentence for killing an 82-year-old man in an automobile accident.

Joseph Curette, 17, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced Friday to 10 years' probation by State District Judge Brian Rains. Rains also ordered the Crosby High School football lineman to spend 15 days in the Harris County Jail and do 250 hours of community service, including some time in the Ben Taub Hospital emergency room.

Assistant District Attorney Mike Anderson said the judge became incensed when Curette's attorney asked that the teen be let out of his December jail term if the Crosby football team makes the playoffs. The judge refused the request.

Anderson said Curette was driving a Corvette last Jan. 17 when he rammed into a car carrying Henry Barnette. He died from injuries received in the crash.

Field goal boots Forsan

ELDORADO — Carter Edmiston kicked a 28-yard field goal with 6:09 left in the game to give the Eldorado Eagles a 17-14 win over the upset-minded Forsan Bulldogs in District 6-2A play Friday night.

Edmiston's field goal climaxed an Eldorado rally, which had them trailing the heavily underdog Bulldogs 14-7 midway through the third period.

Eldorado scored first in the game on a 12-yard pass from Edmiston to Justin Paxton.

Eldorado tied the game in the third quarter on a 45-yard pass from Bradley Bass to Trey Preston, setting the stage for Edmiston's winning boot.

Forsan was hampered by turnovers. The Buffs threw one interception and lost six fumbles.

Forsan drops to 0-3 in league play and 1-7 overall. Eldorado advances to 4-3-1 and 1-1-1.

Forsan will host Winters Friday.

Hurricanes bounce back

By The Associated Press

After their emotional battle last week, Notre Dame and Miami had ready-made excuses for a letdown Saturday. They didn't need them.

The second-ranked Irish, who stopped Miami's 36-game regular-season winning streak 31-30, shut down Air Force's powerful wishbone and got plenty of offense from Tony Rice and Ricky Watters in a 41-13 victory.

Meanwhile, Steve Walsh threw for five touchdowns as the No. 4 Hurricanes pounded visiting Cincinnati 57-3.

Walsh tossed scoring passes to five different receivers, tying Bernie Kosar's school record for touchdown throws in a game. He completed 19 of 23 passes for 286 yards with no interceptions.

The Hurricanes, whose loss to Notre Dame knocked them out of the No. 1 spot, improved to 5-1 while Cincinnati suffered its fifth loss in seven games.

At South Bend, Ind., Rice rushed for one touchdown and passed for sas State 3; No. 6 West Virginia 59, Boston College 19; No. 7 Florida State 66, Louisiana Tech 3, and No. 10 Auburn 33, Mississippi State 0.

In the Second Ten, it was No. 12 Wyoming 61, Utah 18; No. 13 Arkansas 26, Houston 21; No. 15 Oklahoma State 49, Missouri 21, and No. 19 Syracuse 38, East Carolina 14.

No. 8 Oklahoma played Colorado Saturday night. Third-ranked Southern Cal., No. 16 Louisiana State and No. 18 South Carolina did not play.

No. 1 UCLA 24, Arizona 3. At Tucson, Troy Aikman passed for 283 yards and three touchdowns as UCLA improved to 7-0 for the first time in 22 years.

It was the fifth time in seven games Aikman passed for at least three touchdowns, raising his total for the season to 19. His performance helped the Bruins extend their record NCAA scoring streak to 200 games. UCLA hasn't been shut out since 1971, when Michigan beat the Bruins 38-0. Doug Pfaff's field goal inside the last minute extended Arizona's own string to 187 games, second-longest ever.

The victory moved UCLA into a tie for the Pac-10 lead with Southern Cal., which also has a 4-0 conference record. The teams meet Nov. 19.

No. 5 Nebraska 48, Kansas St. 3. At Manhattan, Kan., Tyrese Knox scored four touchdowns as Nebraska set an NCAA record with its 27th consecutive winning season.

Nebraska, 7-1, had shared the Division I-A record with Alabama and Penn State. Penn State established the major college mark of 26 straight winning years from 1939 through 1964 and Alabama matched it from 1958 through 1983.

Knox scored on runs of 2, 6, 2, and 26 yards as the Cornhuskers beat the Wildcats for the 21st straight time. Kansas State dropped to 0-7.

No. 6 W. Virginia 59, BC 19. At Morgantown, Major Harris passed for three touchdowns and ran for two as West Virginia moved out to its best start since 1955.

Reserve tailback Udra Johnson rushed for 111 yards and scored twice for the Mountaineers, 7-0. Boston College fell to 2-5.

Harris, who passed for 297 yards, threw touchdown passes of 6, 61 and 33 yards.

lead of the night, 25-24, with 6:54 left in the game.

A Rye Bavin interception would set the stage for the Steers' final score of the night, a one-yard plunge by Hartfield.

Thompson had plenty of praise to pass around after the victory. "I thought the spark was the running of Brown," he said. "He ran hard and the line gave him places to run." Thompson also had special praise for the blocking of Jason Davis, Kenny Everett, John Wofford, Downey, Jesse Rios, Ronnie Payne, Pete Buske, Adam Rodriguez and Terry Ward.

Payne, Buske, Ramirez and Mayfield were thrust into starting roles after six Steers were suspended for disciplinary reasons earlier in the day.

"After all they've been through the past day, I think they showed a lot of character," Thompson said of his team's effort.

He also had praise for the entire defensive unit as well, saying they played "super the entire second half."

The Steers, who have evened their district record at 2-2, travel to Andrews next Friday to take on the Mustangs. Game time is 8 p.m.

His scoring runs covered nine and 13 yards.

No. 7 Florida St. 66, Louisiana Tech 3.

At Tallahassee, defensive backs Deion Sanders and Dedrick Dodge scored on interception returns, and Terry Anthony and Bruce LaSane each caught two touchdown passes for Florida State.

But the Seminoles, 7-1, suffered a setback when senior quarterback Chip Ferguson, who was ranked sixth nationally in passing, left the game in the second quarter with a mild separation of his left shoulder.

Ferguson's status for the South Carolina game Nov. 5 is uncertain. Florida State scored five different ways in the first period en route to a 28-0 lead.

N. Carolina St. 10, No. 9 Clemson 3.

At Raleigh, Chris Williams' 5-yard touchdown run with 10:04 left in the fourth quarter gave North Carolina State its third straight victory over Clemson.

It was the first time Clemson has lost three games to the same team under Coach Danny Ford.

N.C. State is 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Clemson dropped to 5-2 overall and 3-1 in the league.

No. 10 Auburn 33, Mississippi St. 0.

At Auburn, James Joseph ran for 126 yards and Shan Morris intercepted three passes as the Tigers handed the Bulldogs their sixth straight loss.

Bulldog quarterback Tony Shell tossed five interceptions and lost a fumble in the first half against Auburn's top-ranked defense. Mississippi State also muffed a kickoff that resulted in an Auburn safety.

The Tigers, 6-1 overall and 3-1 in the Southeastern Conference, have beaten State seven consecutive times. The Bulldogs dropped to 1-6 overall and 0-4 in the league.

Kentucky 16, No. 11 Georgia 10. At Lexington, Georgia native Alford Rawls sprinted 48 yards for a third-quarter touchdown to spark Kentucky.

The touchdown by Rawls, who finished with 128 yards on 15 carries, gave Kentucky a 13-10 lead as time expired in the third period. Kentucky's victory ended a 10-game losing streak against Georgia and improved its record to 3-4 overall and 1-3 in the SEC. Georgia dropped to 5-2 overall and 4-1 in the league.

No. 12 Wyoming 61, Utah 18. At Laramie, Randy Welniak threw three touchdown passes and ran for another score to help Wyoming remain undefeated.

Wyoming, 8-0 overall and 5-0 in the Western Athletic Conference, checked the nation's top-ranked offense with a tenacious rush that repeatedly forced quarterback Scott Mitchell from the pocket.

Utah, 2-5 overall and 1-4 in the WAC, gained 356 yards — 186 below its nation-leading standard.

SWC

halftime lead and sailed to their fourth straight home victory.

TCU safety Falanda Newton scuttled a mild third quarter Baylor uprising with an interception at the goal and the Frogs made it 4-for-4 by driving 81 yards for a security touchdown.

The Horned Frogs, 4-3 and fliriting with their first winning season since 1984, moved to 2-1 in SWC play while dealing Baylor, 4-4, its fourth league loss in a row.

Ankrom raced 21 yards for a quick touchdown, but Baylor responded with a 66-yard drive and tied the score on quarterback Brad Goebel's 1-yard quarterback sneak.

Petry skyjacked a Goebel pass and returned it 22 yards late in the second period. Quarterback David Rascoe guided the Frogs 44 yards and scored himself from a yard out.

With just seconds left before halftime, TCU end Tracy Simien tipped a Goebel pass into Washington's hands and Lee Newman came in to kick a 29-yard field goal.

Baylor's bid to climb back into the game ended with Newton's interception at the TCU 12 early in the third quarter.

Rascoe winged a 29-yard pass to flanker Jarrod Delaney for TCU's final TD and Ricky Vestal wrapped up Baylor's scoring with a 10-yard toss to end John Simpson. Vestal had just come in for Goebel, who was helped off the field after he was knocked groggy by a TCU pass rusher.

Frosh take two from Pecos

The Big Spring freshmen Steers swept two games from the Pecos Eagles in Thursday night football action at Memorial Stadium.

The freshmen B team defeated Pecos 16-0, evening their record to 3-3 for the season.

In the second quarter quarterback Jimmy Voight scored on a one-yard run. Gilbert Sanchez ran in the two point conversion.

In the third quarter Sanchez scored from 10 yards out. Augustine Hernandez ran in the two-point conversion.

Randy Doggett intercepted a pass for Big Spring.

The Freshmen A team overwhelmed Pecos by a 36-6 score.

The Steers passed for four touchdowns in the game. Abel Hilario passed 53 yards to Nick Roberson. Pat Chavarria booted the PAT.

Hilario hooked-up with Chavarria again for a 40-yard scoring strike. Hilario ran in the conversion. Hilario threw his third TD of the game, a 28-yard pass to Roberson. Chavarria booted the PAT. The fourth Big Spring TD pass was a 12-yard strike from Roberson to Travis Sinclair. Sinclair scored the other Big Spring TD on a one-yard run.

John Pearson and Kevin Rodgers combined for a safety for the Steers.

Roberson led the Big Spring defense, picking off two passes.

The Steers are 6-2 for the season.

Football officials to meet

The Big Spring Chapter of the Permian Basin Football Officials will have an organizational meeting Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the Big Spring High School library.

All current football officials and anyone wishing to become a official should attend.

Pro wrestling coming to town

The Big Spring Humane Society will be sponsoring professional wrestling Saturday Nov. 5 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum starting at 8 p.m.

Admission to Super Clash III is $5 per person.

On the card will be Junkyard Dog No. 2 against Ted Heath for the television title championship; a grudge match pitting Super Destroyer I against Super Destroyer II. The loser must take off his mask.

Also on the card will be a women's match pitting Black Diamond against Candi Lee. In tag team action, Bobby Rose and Johnny Angel, known as The Lone Star Rockers, will take on the U.S. Express, managed by Professor Bobby McGee. The losers will get 10 lashes.

In a battle of midgets, the karate Kid will go against Mancho Midget. There will also be a Texas Street Fight match, with no disqualification, pitting Spike Huber against the Eliminator.

The main event, titled A Bad Street Match, will have Free Bird Terry "Bam Bam" Gordy taking on Killer Tim Brooks.

Tickets can be purchased from any Humane Society member, at B&M Bail Bond Co. or Mary Thomas Bail Bond Co.

No. 1 Pecos thumps Lady Steers

PECOS — The Big Spring Lady Steers were defeated by the number one state ranked Pecos Eagles in 4-4A volleyball action Saturday afternoon, 9-15, 4-15.

"We played well the first game," said Big Spring coach Lois McKenzie. "We stayed ahead of them until it was 8-6. Then this one girl started serving and they started scoring. Her serve wasn't unique or hard. We just didn't handle it."

In the second game Big Spring led 4-2, but the rest was all Pecos and the Eagles scored the next 13 points to win the game and match. McKenzie said it was a controversial call on a ball hit out, but was called in, by a Pecos player that turned the game around.

"The girls got shook, I got shook and I wasn't very happy to say the least. After that they just ran it from there," said McKenzie.

Big Spring falls to 4-8 in league play and 8-18 overall. Pecos also won the junior varsity and freshmen games. The Lady Steers JV falls to 2-9 and 6-17.

Midland run and relay scheduled

MIDLAND — There will be 350 runners from across the Lone Star State in Midland Nov. 5 to take part in the Fourth Annual Midland Reporter Telegraph-YMCA Run and Relay.

The competition will consist of both a half-marathon for individuals and a half-marathon for four-person relay teams. Awards will be presented in various age categories for men and women. Entry fee is $10 per person. For more information call 682-5311.

another as the Irish won their seventh game without a loss. Notre Dame also got an offensive boost from Watters, who caught four passes for 108 yards and two touchdowns.

But Notre Dame's most impressive achievement was stopping Air Force quarterback Dee Dowis and his wishbone attack.

Air Force, which had scored at least four touchdowns per game, managed only one against the Irish. The Falcons' rushing attack, which had produced an average of 432 yards per game, was limited to 170.

While Notre Dame and Miami breezed, four other Top 20 teams lost.

North Carolina State beat ninth-ranked Clemson 10-3. Kentucky topped No. 11 Georgia 16-10. No. 20 Michigan downed No. 14 Indiana 31-6, and Oregon beat No. 17 Washington 17-14.

Steers

came late in the third quarter. A Hartfield fumble gave Pecos the ball deep in Big Spring territory at the eight-yard line. Two rushes by Valdez would put the Eagles at the Steer three before disaster struck for Pecos.

Pulling back to pass, Smith bobbled the snap. The ensuing turnover would give new life into the Steers.

"That was the turning point of the game," Big Spring head coach David Thompson said after the game. "We got the ball on our own one and drove the length of the field. If they had scored, it could have been bad for us."

Hartfield and Brown did yeoman's work for the Steers during the drive, which was aided by a 15-yard facemask call against the Eagles. The Steer running backs would account for 48 of the drive's yards, but the final 24 came on a pass from Thompson to flanker Neal Mayfield.

After forcing a Pecos punt on its ensuing drive, the Steers would score again quickly. On the drive's fifth play, Hartfield broke through the middle of the line and outraced the Pecos defense for a 62-yard score to give Big Spring its first lead of the night, 25-24, with 6:54 left in the game.

A Rye Bavin interception would set the stage for the Steers' final score of the night, a one-yard plunge by Hartfield.

Thompson had plenty of praise to pass around after the victory. "I thought the spark was the running of Brown," he said. "He ran hard and the line gave him places to run." Thompson also had special praise for the blocking of Jason Davis, Kenny Everett, John Wofford, Downey, Jesse Rios, Ronnie Payne, Pete Buske, Adam Rodriguez and Terry Ward.

Payne, Buske, Ramirez and Mayfield were thrust into starting roles after six Steers were suspended for disciplinary reasons earlier in the day.

"After all they've been through the past day, I think they showed a lot of character," Thompson said of his team's effort.

He also had praise for the entire defensive unit as well, saying they played "super the entire second half."

The Steers, who have evened their district record at 2-2, travel to Andrews next Friday to take on the Mustangs. Game time is 8 p.m.

Moan.
"How much better can we play?" asks Mike Ditka of the Bears. "A lot better. We can be more consistent. We can't play much harder but we can play better."

Groan.
"We're not a dominant team," says Bill Walsh of the 49ers. "We have a lot of things that are out of synch. I don't think there is a dominant team in the league this year."
Call it the Unhappiness Bowl when San Francisco visits Chicago in what promises to be a slightly more competitive Monday night game than the Bills-Jets last Monday. Also call it a game between the two teams who at this point are probably the best the NFL has to offer.

San Francisco, which could set an NFL record with its 12th straight road win, probably needs the game more — at 5-2, the 49ers are tied with the Rams for second in the NFC West, a game behind New Orleans.

The Bears, meanwhile, have won four straight since a 31-7 drubbing by Minnesota and have a two-game lead over the sliding Vikings in the Central. They have allowed a league-low 74 points — 43 in six games if you exclude the Vikings loss.

But the 49ers present a difficult offensive test.

Roger Craig, who ran for 190 yards in San Francisco's 24-21 win over the Rams last week, is in his best form ever. And Joe Montana, bruised ribs, sore elbow and all, presents a far greater threat than the Randy Wrights, Rusty Hilgers, Chuck Longs and the other NFC Central luminaries Chicago has been facing.

Montana is playing in pain — last week after taking a series of shots. "The only way I can explain it is it's like raw skin being drawn over piece of wood that has a lot of splinters on it," he says. "And after throwing a ball I get a burning sensation in the elbow area. But so far, it hasn't affected my throwing strength."

If Montana goes out, it will be like old times — the 49ers routed the Bears 41-0 last year after Steve Young relieved him and threw for four touchdowns.

"Revenge is no factor," Ditka says. "We will try not to make the mistakes we made last year and play better. We've established a good mark this year and we'd like to keep it up."

In Sunday games, Dallas is at Philadelphia; Denver at Pittsburgh; Detroit at Kansas City; Houston at Cincinnati; the Los Angeles Raiders at New Orleans; Minnesota at Tampa Bay; New England at Buffalo; the New York Giants at Atlanta; Washington vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; the New York Jets at Miami; Seattle at the Los Angeles Rams; Indianapolis at San Diego and Cleveland at Phoenix.

Houston (5-2) at Cincinnati (6-1)
The Bengals' 27-21 loss at New England last week, a game in which Boomer Esiason threw five interceptions, tightened up the three-team AFC Central race and a Houston win could tighten it up even more.

Given the Bengals' tendency toward streakiness, that's a distinct possibility, particularly since the Oilers again have Warren Moon, who had two touchdown passes in his return against Pittsburgh.

"We haven't lost any confidence in this ballclub. But we learned the hard way how fragile the margin of victory is," Bengals' Coach Sam Wyche says.

"You can't go into a game and just play. You have to play your very best. When we do that, I don't think there's anybody we can't beat. When we don't play our best, I don't think there's anybody in the league that can't whip us."

Cleveland (4-3) at Phoenix (4-3)
Another returning quarterback as Bernie Kosar starts for the Browns, the AFC Central's pre-season favorite.

"I'm sure there's a sense of relief that Bernie is fine and that he is going to be able to continue to play," says Coach Marty Schottenheimer, who was down to his fourth quarterback. "But everybody has to realize, regardless of who's playing, that everybody has to do his own job."

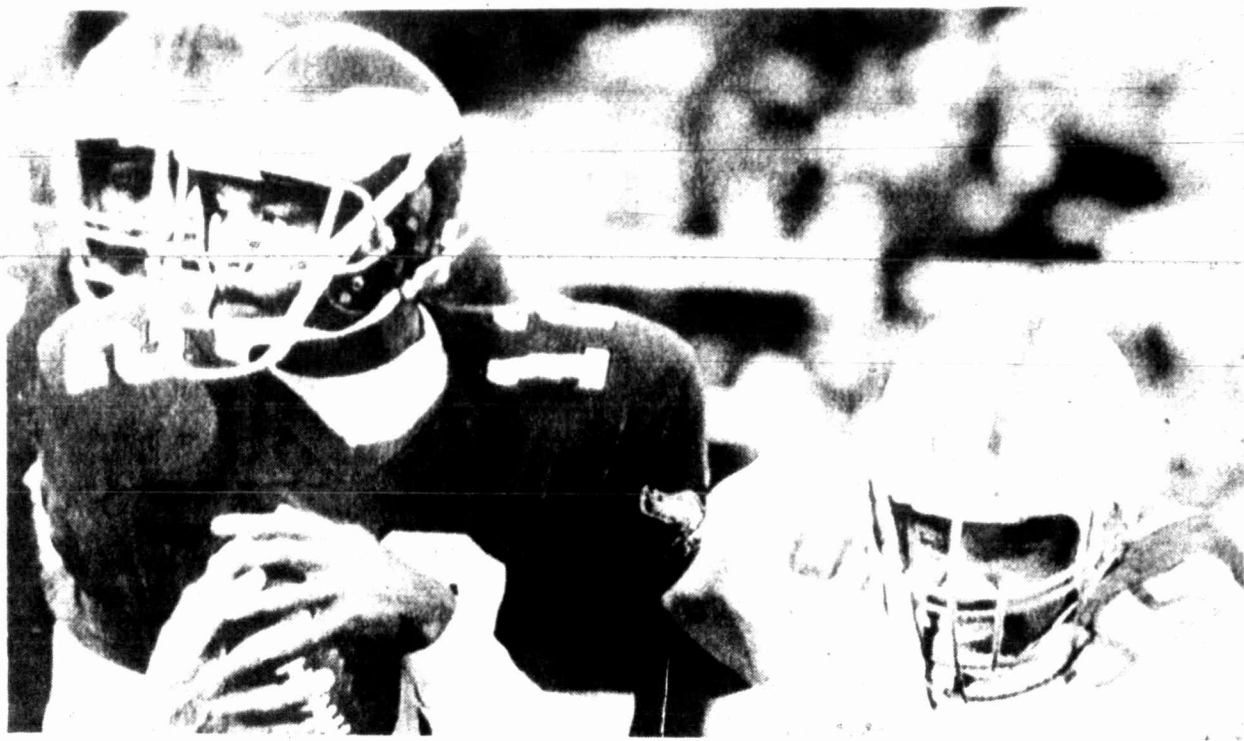

Last week the others did — sacking Randall Cunningham nine times in a 19-3 win over Philadelphia.

At the same time, the Cards lost some sheen in a 33-17 loss in Washington that broke a four-game winning streak. But they remain tied with the Redskins and Giants atop the bunched NFC East.

"To be 5-3 would be a pretty good first half," says Coach Gene Stallings. "I still think we've got a good chance to get to the playoffs. We were in a position to help ourselves last week and we didn't take advantage of it. We have to this week."

Washington (4-3) vs. Green Bay (2-5) at Milwaukee

Two weeks ago, this would have looked like a pushover for the Redskins. But the Packers, with Don Majkowski at quarterback, have risen up to smite the Patriots 45-3 and Vikings 34-14 and while they're still short of contender status, they're up to being a spoiler.

Doug Williams is back for the Redskins after his appendectomy. Mark Rypien, who threw 12 touchdown passes in four games as his replacement, would have got the starting assignment from Coach Joe Gibbs, but bruised ribs put Rypien back to second string status, behind the Super Bowl hero, Los Angeles Raiders (3-4) at New Orleans (6-1).

Despite a spate of injuries and their musical quarterbacks, the Raiders are only a game out in the watered-down AFC West and got a lift from Bo Jackson, who can only get better after rushing for 70 yards in a 27-17 win over Kansas City with barely three days of practice.

Jay Schroeder, just 7 of 17 for 68 yards before being lifted for Steve Beuerlein against the Chiefs, will start again for the Raiders against New Orleans, which has won six straight by a total of 30 points against teams whose combined record is 12-27.

"A lot of good things are happening, but so are some bad things or less than good things," says Coach Jim Mora. "So that we feel like we can play better — have to play better."

New England (3-4) at Buffalo (6-1)
The Bills, fired up for their first Monday night appearance in four years, a 37-14 win over the Jets, should note what happened to Philadelphia, which fizzled against Cleveland after winning their first prime-time since 1981.

The object will be to flatten Doug Flutie, whose scrambling (36 yards in 7 carries) helped beat Cincinnati. The Patriots, who lost the first encounter 16-14 on Scott Norwood's 41-yard field goal with 11 seconds left, are erratic but dangerous.

"I think we'll be all right," says Buffalo nose tackle Fred Smerlas. "I don't think we get too high and I don't think we'll get too low."

Seattle (4-3) at Los Angeles Rams (5-2)

Coach John Robinson is playing down the Rams as a contender, though they are. So are the Seahawks, tied with Denver for the lead in an AFC West which may be won by default.

Seattle Coach Chuck Knox seems satisfied with rookie quarterback Kelly Stouffer, who won his first two games as a starter, then threw for 370 yards in a losing effort against New Orleans last week.

That seems to indicate a return to handing off to Curt Warner and John L. Williams, a strategy that may work against the Rams, who gave up 245 yards on the ground in their 24-21 loss to San Francisco.

New York Jets (3-3-1) at Miami (4-3)

Two teams going in opposite directions — Miami has three straight wins; the Jets have begun their December swoon in October, going 0-2-1 in their last three, including the 37-14 loss to Buffalo Monday night.

Miami, which plays six of its next seven games against division opponents, finally got its offense going after relying on defense all season. Dan Marino, suffering through an off-year, had his first 300-yard game in the 31-28 win over San Diego, completing 26 of 45 for 329 yards.

New York Giants (4-3) at Atlanta (1-6)

The Giants' season may have turned at halftime last week when they were trailing 10-7 to Detroit. Then Harry Carson threw chairs and his teammates went on to limit the Lions to 13 second half yards and just 113 for the game.

This week, they might get to see Chris Miller, who has missed 3½ games with a sprained ankle, at quarterback for the Falcons. But Miller doesn't seem too enthusiastic about the prospect of facing a team that had seven sacks last week, three by Lawrence Taylor.

"It depends if I can run," he says. "It feels better, but against the Giants defense I'm going to need to be able to run at full speed."

Dallas (2-5) at Philadelphia (3-4)

Steve Pelluer is back at quarterback after a concussion against the Bears in a renewal of last year's two grudge matches.

First, the Eagles accused the Cowboys of running up the score in a replacement game, then the Cowboys accused the Eagles of retaliating in a 37-20 post-strike win when Randall Cunningham faked going down, then threw a long pass to set up an extraneous touchdown with one second left.

Cunningham, All-World in the win over the Giants, was sacked nine times, threw two interceptions and had just 114 yards in the 19-3 loss in Cleveland last week. "I've coached high school, college and in the pros, and it happens at all levels," Coach Buddy Ryan says of the letdown. "It's nothing you want to happen but it does."

Denver (4-3) at Pittsburgh (1-6)

If the Broncos are hurting (John Elway's sprained knee and ankle will keep him out), pity the poor Steelers, who have lost six straight and are without Bubby (broken thumb) Brister. Their 1-6 start is the worst since they went 1-13 in 1969, the year before they began building the dominant team of the '70s.

So not only is Terry Bradshaw, the quarterback of the past, taking shots at the team, so is Brister, the quarterback of the present, who says the Steelers have the worst talent in the NFL. "We might as well punt on first down," he says.

Gary Kubiak will start at quarterback for the Broncos.

Minnesota (4-3) at Tampa Bay (2-5)

"There's leadership missing on this squad," says Vikings Coach Jerry Burns, who has reinstated Wade Wilson at quarterback in place of Tommy Kramer, who has been ineffective as the Vikings have lost two of four since seemingly taking control of the NFC Central by beating the Bears.

One of the wins was a 14-13 decision over the Bucs that could have been a loss had Ray Perkins avoided the sideline confusion that allowed the clock to run out with his team in field goal position. Tampa Bay's last four losses are by a total of nine points, the sign of an improving team that hasn't learned how to win.

Indianapolis (2-5) at San Diego (2-5)

Just think where the Colts might be had they not made the trade for Eric Dickerson. Albert Bentley as a capable running back; Cornelius Bennett and Duane Bickett at outside linebacker; a first- and second-round choice from last year's draft; the first-round picks they gave away for Freddie Young, and, probably Ron Solt and a happy Chris Hinton in the offensive line.

The Chargers may actually have made a trade that helped if Mark Malone can duplicate his first start — 25 of 38 for 294 yards and two touchdowns in a 31-28 loss at Miami. The Chargers also got a lift from Leslie O'Neal, the 1986 defensive rookie of the year, who played for the first time in 22 months following a severe knee injury.

Detroit (1-6) at Kansas City (1-5-1)
"Offensively, our situation boils down to not being able to protect the quarterback and not being able to move the ball," says Coach Darrell Rogers of the 1-6 Lions.

That applies to both teams in this game, which may have a bearing on the first choice in next year's draft. Both are semi-respectable on defense, but... guess the identities of the only teams in the NFL with less than 100 points this season.

PATs a real pain for Patriot placekicker

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The extra point is about as automatic as anything in football. The play-by-play man's litany is familiar: "The ball's snapped, placed down, it's up, it's good."

So New England rookie placekicker Teddy Garcia trots on to the field after a touchdown. The drone starts: "The ball's snapped, placed down, it's up, it's... Well, at least it was close."

Too often this NFL season, a simple task that seemingly could be done blindfolded has been performed by Garcia as if he were. He has missed four of his 13 attempts.

"It's mind-boggling," he said. "I don't like it one bit."

The man he beat out for the Patriots' kicking job, nine-year veteran Tony Franklin, tried 166 extra points in his four years with the club. He missed only three.

But the Patriots are sticking by their erratic kicker who has yet to prove in his first seven games that he has a long-term NFL career. They said they didn't bring any kickers in for tryouts last week and Garcia will be back for Sunday's game at Buffalo.

"I'm a Teddy Garcia guy. I think the guy has a great leg," special teams coach Dante Scarnecchia said. "You can't push the panic button."

In Garcia's first game of the season, a 28-3 victory over the New York Jets, he missed two of three extra point kicks. In his fourth game, a 31-6 loss at Houston, he missed his only attempt.

In last week's 27-21 upset of Cincinnati, he missed his third try, leaving the Patriots with a 20-0 lead that quickly dwindled to 20-14. Had Cincinnati scored one more touchdown and an extra point, it would have won.

"We were all sweating that one point for a long time," Scarnecchia said. "I told him that's two games he's gotten away with that, the Jets in the first game when he misses two and this game (against Cincinnati)."

"Those are experiences you've got to learn from and consider yourself lucky."

Garcia, a fourth-round draft choice from Northeast Louisiana, may be having trouble with extra points but the entire focus of his rookie year isn't on that. He's also missing field goals, having made just six of 10.

District court activity

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A bowling supplies business has filed a $10,000 suit against Highland Lanes, an energy firm has sued for receivership against two mineral rights owners in Howard County and a settlement has been reached in a $10,000 personal injury suit filed Monday in 118th District Court.

Don Dickinson's, doing business as Bowling Supply, sued Highland Lanes, citing vice president Paul Graves, for $10,262.04 plus $2,500 in attorney's fees, alleging that bowling supply had sold items to the business and not been paid.

Attached to the petition in the suit is a check on First National Bank of Big Spring in a Highland Lanes account for $8,771, stamped Returned Not Paid, NSF.

Trend Exploration Company sued for receivers' appointments for 1/32nd mineral rights' interest in the north half of Section 34, Block 26 of the H & C Railway Company Survey Lands in Howard County.

According to the suit, 1/64th undivided interest is claimed by J.D. and Belle Poe and 1/64th undivided interest is claimed by R.F. Burks and their unknown heirs and assigns, and the Poes and Burks have been absent from Texas or have an unknown residence in Texas, and have not paid mineral rights taxes upon that property for five years.

The suit alleges that Trend, as well as the Sterling Cattle Company as a result of its contract with Trend, and other land or mineral rights interest owners in the area, could suffer damages or injuries if receivers are not appointed because other oil and gas development in the area could drain reserves from beneath the acreage.

• In a "friendly suit" settled Oct. 17, Thomas Uranga and Tosefa Gutierrez Uranga have agreed to pay $20,000 to Phillip Carlton Anderson, a minor, and to Joe Anderson.

Joe Anderson filed the suit as next friend and natural parent of Phillip Carl Anderson, alleging that a July 1, 1988 accident in which Phillip Anderson was injured resulted from Tosefa Uranga's negligence.

According to the suit, Uranga failed to yield the right of way, and Anderson, to avoid a collision, turned his motorcycle over and slid it under her car.

The car was owned by Thomas

Uranga, according to the suit, which alleged he knew or should have known that Tosefa Uranga had shown a history of being an irresponsible driver and of reckless driving and that Tosefa Uranga was an incompetent and unfit and inexperienced driver.

The settlement awarded $2,547.13 to Joe Anderson for future medical expenses, $7,452.87 to Joe Anderson and Scenic Mountain Hospital for a hospital lien, and $200 to Big Spring attorney William Dale Dupree, who was appointed by the court to represent Phillip Anderson during the suit. The settlement also awarded Phillip Anderson $10,000 for a single-premium whole life insurance policy to be used for his benefit.

• In other court action, a suit against Cowper Clinic and Hospital, R.B.G. Cowper M.D. and Neely Joe Ellis M.D. has been settled.

Jeannie Moser, individually and as next friend of Johnny Kay Moser and Brandy Annette Moser, and as community survivor and representative of the estate of Bill Alex Moser, deceased, filed suit along with Bill Moser and Juanita Moser against the clinic.

Harvey Hooser was appointed by the court to represent Johnnie Kay and Brandy Annette Moser, minors, as guardian. No jury heard the case, in which the defendants agreed to pay $100,000 to the plaintiffs.

Big Springer's book A 'crowning' achievement

Jo Thompson, Miss Texas 1987, left, and Cathy Castro, Miss Texas 1988, right, both supplemented their pageant training with the book "How to Win Pageants" written by Ginie Polo Sayles, center, a native Big Springer woman who was crowned Big Springer 1963.

Twenty-five years ago, Virginia Morris was crowned Miss Big Spring 1963. Today, Ginie (Morris) Polo Sayles, author of "How to Win Pageants," is working on a revised edition of the book — "to give every girl an equal opportunity to win."

She writes to help the small-town girl, who may be just as talented as girls from big cities, to provide them with an equal opportunity to win scholarship money.

Sayles, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Morris, was told by her mother "that a quitter never wins — and a winner never quits."

She took her mother's advice and entered the Miss Texas pageant in 1963, although she didn't receive the title, she didn't quit.

Sayles, who was named to Who's Who of American Women 1987-88, received a bachelor of arts degree from San Angelo State University in 1969. She went on to become editor of the Houston Grand Opera Magazine.

Her parents encouraged her to go after what she wanted, and she credits her junior high and high school journalism teachers who inspired her to write and create.

Mrs. Morris said her daughter has always been talented. She recalled when her daughter entered a contest at the age of 10. "She drew a picture of Katy Keene (formerly a popular children's magazine) sitting in a swing, wearing a full skirt and a big hat."

Her entry, which included a poem, won — and was published worldwide.

For her efforts, she gained 113 pen pals. "I wrote letters all summer," Sayles said.

"How to Win Pageants" is the product of a 10-year study of common characteristics of pageant winners.

Sayles notes that there are three basic types of winners:

The first is the intense, driven girl; and the serendipity girl, who stumbles into opportunities and realizes and discovers more about herself; and then there is a blend of both. This girl is interesting because she is strong-willed and determined — but very easy going.

Does she believe a Big Springer girl has a chance to win a major pageant?

"You bet I do," she excitedly said. "Every major winner is a small-town or farm girl."

She credits this to the fact that "they need a place to showcase their abilities."

Sayles said she wrote the book for the Big Springer girl because, "I was that Big Springer girl."

At the Miss Texas pageant, she wore a big puffy formal, something "nobody else wore," noting a difference in detail. She also realized that the interview is a major portion of the pageant.

She also believes pageants don't exploit women. "It's not exploitation for being rewarded for becoming the best you can be."

"Although most pageant girls are feminists — they want equal rights. Pageants aren't an anti-feminist movement — they reflect what's going on in society. It has to or it would die."

Sayles' daughter, Audrey Plog, who won Model of the Year in the Cinderella pageant when she was 12, also was named as the Texas Miss National Teen-ager Talent in 1983. She also was one of the 15 finalists for the pageant crown.

A revised, expanded edition of "How to Win Pageants" will be released in early 1989 and will be sold internationally. The book, which includes interviews with Christy Fichtner, Miss USA 1986, is a resource for girls to help them prepare for pageant competition.

Miss Texas 1988, Cathy Castro, and Miss Texas 1987, Jo Thompson both supplemented their training by reading Sayles' book.

Two women out of 62 who progressed to the state level of competition used Sayles' book. Cathy Castro and her first runner-up, Leah Kay Lyle, according to a news release.

Castro's win made her the second Miss Texas in a row who had used the book.

Sayles noted that the book contains helpful information from several top winners including, Miss Canada, Tina May Thompson; the current Canada Mother and Daughter, Marilyn and Carolyn Haskell; Mrs. America, Jill Roach; Mrs. Texas, Gail Gray; Mrs. World, Pamela Nail; Miss Universe, Porntit Nakhirunkanok, and Mr. Male America, Kevin Zeiglar.

Sayles credits her parents and her love for God for her accomplishments.

"Nobody makes it alone. It's vain to think we can do it by ourselves."

Story by Lynn Hayes

Glass blower limited only by imagination

ODESSA — Joe Pyle, an Odessa glass blower concentrates on his craft in his shop.

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Walking into Joe Pyle's West Odessa Lab Glass Blowing shop, one might think he had stumbled into a machine shop.

There are lathes of varying size and description, acetylene and oxygen tanks and torches such as welders might use.

But a quick look around reveals a stock of glass tubes and rods of varying sizes and types. Shelves and tables hold glass containers of every size and description. Most of the containers would be familiar to anyone who has ever been in or seen a chemical or testing laboratory, replete with odd shaped glass containers, tubing and distilling devices.

Nearly all will be the handiwork of a glass craftsman, or a glass blower, if you prefer.

Working with glass is an art of several dimensions and one need only watch Pyle, 52, to realize that the things that can be done with glass are limited only by the imagination.

He first began working with glass about 1967, while employed as a technician in the El Paso Products Co. research laboratory.

The company brought in a Polish glass blower who had immigrated to the United States, via England, after World War II and was playing his trade in the North Carolina Research Triangle Park.

"He came down here and spent a couple of weeks and taught me the basics of the art," said Pyle. After that, Pyle worked about two years, applying the basics and then went to North Carolina and worked another two weeks with the Polish glass blower, further honing his skills.

Pyle soon discovered he had developed to the point that he could earn money repairing glass equipment and fabricating glass on order for various uses.

While blowing is usually required to shape heated glass, much of the shaping is done on lathes not unlike those used by machinists shaping metal.

But, while a machinist uses various metal tools to cut and shape cold metal, a glass craftsman, such as Pyle, uses graphite rods and graphite-coated tools to work molten glass into desired shapes.

As Pyle explains, "molten glass can only be worked with graphite tools because uncoated metal sticks to the superheated glass."

Glass globes of varying sizes begin as simple tubes, which are heated to red hot, then placed in special forms, where they are blown and expanded to the desired shape.

If a neck of particular length is required, Pyle simply places the globe in the lathe and meticulously "welds" and shapes the neck and globe until it is virtually impossible to tell two different pieces of glass were used to make the flask.

Pyle first became interested in moving beyond the creation of glass vessels for laboratory work after he'd been doing it for about two years and attended a symposium in Denver, where glass blowers displayed some glass figurines.

"When I got back (to Odessa)," he said, "I started practicing. The first things I did were so small you could hardly tell what they were. They were really crude, but the longer you work, the better you get."

Today, examples of his "art" work abound in glass showcases and on shelves and attest to the skill he has developed over more than 15 years.

To demonstrate the art of glass blowing, Pyle picked up a piece of glass tubing about 1 1/4 inches in diameter, cut it off to the required length, heated and sealed each end, then extruded a slim, hollow "handle" on each end.

"I think I'll try making an elephant since it's the political season," he said.

Bathroom cleaning products

Focus on family

By NAOMI HUNT
County extension agent

Tub, tile and sink cleaners are specialty products formulated to remove not only the normal soils introduced during normal use, but also hard water deposits, soap scum, rust stains and discolorations due to mold growth, which are most often encountered specifically on bathroom surfaces.

Tub, tile and sink cleaners, in general, are liquid. They are marketed as pump-activated sprays, liquids and aerosols. Because many soiled surfaces are vertical, some sprays are dispensed as foams to prevent excessively fast run-off of the cleaning product.

Almost universally, such cleaners contain surfactants to penetrate and loosen soil. In addition, they may contain special sequestering agents to dissolve and keep in solution calcium (hardness) deposits, soap scum and metal discolorations. Products designed to remove mildew stains found on the grout between tiles may also contain a chlorine bleach or antimicrobial agents.

Depending on the soil, both acidic and alkaline conditions promote cleaning. Tub, tile and sink cleaners which target primarily at removing soap scum and water hardness deposits may contain, in addition to the ingredients mentioned above, acids such as phosphoric, hydrochloric or hydroxyacetic.

Products that target at removing mold contain hypochlorite bleach and may also be formulated with an additional alkaline material such as sodium carbonate, sodium metasilicate or sodium hydroxide.

Toilet bowl cleaners have experienced a great expansion in recent years. As a result, the category comprises many different product forms. Whatever the form, the products are designed to maintain a clean and pleasant smelling toilet bowl. Some products also disinfect.

Included in this category are thickened liquids that cling to the sides of the toilet bowl, fresheners that keep the bowl smelling fresh, and various forms of in-tank cleaners that release active ingredients into the bowl with each flush of the toilet.

Surfactants, chlorine bleach and/or acids are the primary ingredients for soil removal. The presence of acids or sequestrants facilitates removal of stains caused by hard water deposits. Specific organic stains are cleaned by bleaching agents present in some products. Products with disinfecting action may contain antimicrobial agents. When quaternary ammonium salts are used for this purpose, the products are often acidic in nature and may contain strong acids such as hydrochloric acid.

Products containing chlorine bleaching agents contain alkalis such as sodium hydroxide, sodium metasilicate or sodium carbonate. Most toilet bowl cleaners contain a pleasing fragrance.

Because of the incompatible nature of these products, manufacturers often warn the consumer not to mix the products.

Drain cleaners are chemically strong products formulated for a demanding cleaning job. Clogging of kitchen drains is often caused by plugs of solid grease which may have all manner of materials imbedded in them obstructing the free flow of water. Sodium hydroxide is often used as a chemical in the formulation since it generates heat to melt fats breaking them down to simpler substances that can be rinsed away. Some products also contain agents to promote evolution of gas which provides agitation in the drain, a further help in cleaning.

In bathroom drains, problems can result from hair, soap particles, toothpaste or combinations of these materials. On these problems, liquid drain cleaners containing sodium hypochlorite and sodium hydroxide can work well. Liquid drain cleaners are designed to be effective on hair because they contain an oxidizing agent.

In addition to crystal and liquid drain cleaners, another product type is an aerosol which contains an inert gas under pressure, which can force clogs out of the drain pipe, and enzyme-containing products which act on specific matter of clogs.

Farrier carries tools of trade through West Texas

GOLDSMITH (AP) — Tex Wilson is the horse's friend. "I'm just an old ranch-hand, cowboy and horseshoer, because I've done it all — just about," he said. Wilson is a farrier, shoeing horses for a living.

He travels across the West Texas plains and escarpments in his old "beat-up and worn-out" buckskin-toned Chevrolet pickup truck with the tools and wares of his trade — anvil, hammer, hoof knives and nippers, rasps, nail pullers, nail clippers, nails and horseshoes.

His job is to make ranch working and pleasure riding more comfortable for horse and rider. Before he fits a horse with steel shoes, Wilson seeks its trust and confidence. Then he will start cleaning, nipping, clipping and rasping the hooves for a perfect shoe fit.

"If you don't trust a horse, how is he going to learn to trust you?" asked Wilson who, at 61, has been shoeing horses since he was 13.

"If you're nervous or scared, the horse will pick up on it, and it will transfer to him," he said. "If he's hyper, he'll climb the wall — go into orbit and get you in trouble in a second. If you're afraid of a horse, he's subject to kicking, butting, pawing you or bucking you off or what-not." Wilson said he usually gets his shoeing done without flak.

"If you're nervous or scared, the horse will pick up on it, and it will transfer to him. If he's hyper, he'll climb the wall & go into orbit and get you in trouble in a second. If you're afraid of a horse, he's subject to kicking, butting, pawing you or bucking you off or what-not." — Tex Wilson

"Ordinarily, you rasp that foot perfectly flat, shape the shoe to fit the foot, then you nail the shoe on," Wilson said. "It's a lot of physical work, but you've got to know what you are doing."

"You've got to hold that foot up, and you've got to know how to make the horse hold up part of his weight. You've got to be a pretty strong old boy," he said. "They can put a bunch of weight on you in a hurry. Some of them horses don't mind throwing all of their weight on you."

Wilson respects horses.

"I love them — always have," he said. "They are real intelligent in my books," he said. "I've seen horses I thought was smarter than some people. I'm not kidding. If you can find a horse that can out-think and out-smart you, how can you call him dumb?" he asked. "I've seen horses that out-figured and out-smarted a lot of people."

Wilson has wrangled with some wild horses.

"I have shod some rank doozies — wild and mean," Wilson said. "They had sooner kill you than look at you. This is true. Some had just as soon stomp you in the ground or bite an arm off."

Wilson recalled taking a rope to a wild horse, laying him down and tying him up in order to fit the critter with steel shoes.

"It didn't hurt him. It hurt his feelings," Wilson figured. "He didn't get by with having his fits."

Wilson has a few battle scars from his years of shoeing.

"I've got nail scars from the top of my head to my ankles," he said. "I've been dinged up by (kicking) horses a bunch of times."

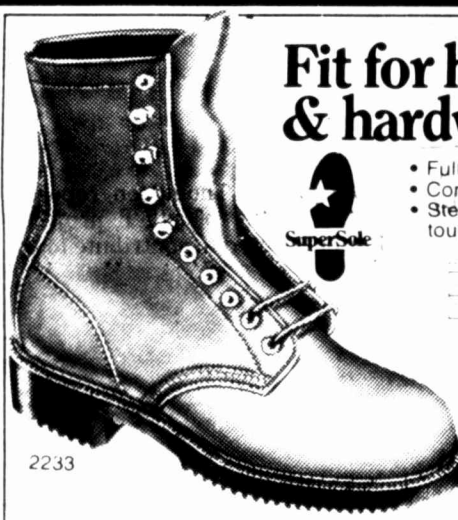

GOLDSMITH — Tex Wilson, 61, puts the rasp to a newly-shod horse. Wilson travels across the West Texas plains with the tools and wares of his trade.

Weddings

Brooks-Wheeler

Melanie Ann Brooks, Andrews, and James Dean Wheeler, Westbrook, were united in marriage Sept. 24, 1988 at a 10:30 a.m. ceremony at Jefferson Street Church of Christ, Hobbs, N.M., with Dwayne Wheeler, minister, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Brooks, Andrews.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wheeler, Robstown.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with one 15-branch candelabra, and two nine-branch candelabra on either side, entwined with greenery and silver blue bows. A unity candle decorated the center.

Vocalists sang selections from ACU acappella.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional white satin gown with imported embroidered trim. The dress featured a wide V-neckline with a deep V back, fitted sleeves of English net, imported embroidery and bridal pearls with a cap of satin at the shoulders. A fitted shirred bodice, fashioned with bridal pearls and sequins on embroidery, accented the dress. The full skirt was edged in embroidery. Her chapel-length train of satin, was edged in embroidery.

She carried a cascading silk bouquet of white roses, accented with greenery.

Maid of honor was Angie Brooks, bride's sister, Andrews.

Bridesmaids were Pam Zeigler, Waco; and Susan Harrison, Ft. Collins, Colo.

Best man was Kelly Long, Big Spring.

Groomsmen were Rick Wheeler, bridegroom's brother, Corpus Christi; and Bruce Dennis, Big Spring.

Usher was Tye Brooks, bride's brother, Andrews.

Candlelighters were Tye Brooks and Rick Wheeler.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's table featured a white, four-tiered wedding cake, topped with two doves. The table also featured a blue bell, mints, wedding cookies, and crystal accents. Pineapple sherbet punch was served. The bridegroom's table featured a German chocolate cake, inscribed with the couple's names, and a silver coffee service.

Firra, and David Firra, bride's brothers, Dallas.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's three-tiered cake was topped with fresh flowers. The bridegroom's cake was a chocolate Black Forest cake.

The bride is a graduate of Lake Highlands High School, Dallas; a graduate of Texas A&M; and a graduate of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, Dallas.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Forsan High School, and the University of Texas at Arlington. He is employed by TU Electric.

The couple will make their home in Arlington.

Robinson-Stephens

Versy Kay Robinson and David Dalton Stephens, Abilene, were united in marriage Aug. 20, 1988 at a 7 p.m. ceremony at Wylie Baptist Church, Abilene, with Kenneth Huggins, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Virginia Crawford, Lubbock, and Archie Crawford, Como.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. D.L. Stephens, Big Spring.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with an arch-shaped candelabra, entwined with greenery and peach bows, highlighted by brass pedestals that held arrangements of peach roses and white carnations.

Instrumentalists were Tricia Hogan and Celeste Bailey.

Vocalists were Mike Collier and Celeste Bailey.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a tea-length gown of candlelight Venice lace, featuring a front and back V-shaped lace overlay collar and tapered sleeves. A mantilla of illusion net with lace motif, edged in ribbon framed the bride's face.

She carried a bouquet of peach roses and white carnations.

Matron of honor was Judy Dancer, bride's sister, Corpus Christi.

Bridesmaids were Darlene Carroll, bridegroom's sister, Big Spring; and Sharon Richey, Abilene.

Flower girl was Kristina Carroll, bridegroom's niece.

Best man was James Ashely, Lubbock.

MRS. DAVID STEPHENS
Formerly Versy Robinson

Groomsmen were Kenneth Carroll, bridegroom's brother-in-law, Big Spring; and Lee Richey, Abilene.

Ringbearer was Clayton Robinson, bride's son.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's cake, accented with peach roses, was topped with blown glass hearts. The bridegroom's chocolate cake featured blue roses.

The bride is a graduate of Roosevelt High School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School, and Texas Tech University. He owns Stanley Steamer in Abilene.

Gray hair a fact of life

The age at which hair turns gray is more likely determined by genes, says Dr. Arthur K. Balin, assistant professor in the laboratory for investigative dermatology at Rockefeller University, New York City, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Although first signs of graying show up more clearly in dark hair, by the age of 25 nearly 25 percent of women, whether blonds, redheads or brunettes, will have some gray hair. By age 35, about 65 percent will be partially gray.

Prematurely white hair can occasionally have a medical cause. Vitiligo, a condition in which the immune system destroys pigment cells in skin and hair, may run in families or appear after emotional or physical stress. Because vitiligo actually occurs in the hair follicles, any new-growing hair turns white.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

Jack and Toni Watkins have just returned from Tucson, Ariz., where they attended the 17th annual reunion of the World War II 36th Fighter Group.

The men of the 36th were together in Europe for the D-Day invasion. And they shared the honors when their Fighter Group was awarded two presidential citations. "We got one citation when 80,000 troops surrendered to us in Normandy, France," recalls Jack. "And the other citation came in Berlin when we downed 163 Luftwaffe planes in one day."

Jack said that 146 members of the 36th — representing 37 states — attended the four-day reunion. "We had a lot of fun."

Reba Baker's houseguest is her longtime friend, Margaret Bainbridge Maples — they graduated from Big Spring High School together in 1919!

Margaret will leave Wednesday for her home in Longview after a week's visit. The pair attended the BSHS Homecoming activities this weekend.

Cathy Hallman, West Palm Beach, Fla., saw West Texas for the first time on her recent visit here with her daughter Lynn Hayes and husband J.R. (She says she'd like to retire here!)

Cathy will fly to Bowie, Md. to spend a few days visiting her other daughter, Rhonda O'Donnell, before returning home.

a carpenter in his spare time, just took a minute away from his latest job — and didn't even bother to change his overalls!

"The family said our marriage wouldn't last six months," Ruth recalls. But it has lasted 56 years — Jack and Ruth celebrated their latest anniversary with a family get-together at the Oddfellow Lodge last Sunday.

Their five daughters attending were Jean Crowder, LaGrange, Ky.; Sharon Rose Husson, Sachse; Barbara Clark, Coahoma; Carylon Rodgers and Joy Lee Howland, Big Spring.

The couple's four sons are Billy Doran, Colombia, SC; James Roy, Wharton; Rexie Ray, Gonzales; and Bobby Dale, Navasota.

The McNews have 29 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Former Big Spring residents Joe and Angie Awtrey were in town recently to visit their children and families, Rodney Sanders; Mike and Tessa Higdon; Rich and Robyn Grove; and Abel and Dorothy Carrillo.

The Awtreys, who now live in Aztec, N.M., also visited Angie's family in Mason, including her mother, Mary Reed; brother Rickey and Carolyn Bailey; and sister, Carolyn and Gordon Airhart.

'Mistresses' take time from wife

DEAR ABBY: Like many other women who write to you, I have a husband who has a mistress. Her name is Television. If it isn't Television, it's her sister, Radio.

Television entertains him every night during our evening meal when our family should be sharing the day's events together. Don't suggest rescheduling dinner, because the news is on for an hour and a half, and my husband watches all of it.

He's a minister and prides himself on "saving people." He keeps the TV tuned to a religious channel when he's not watching the news. I hear preaching morning, noon and night. Many evenings I go to bed while he's embracing his other mistress, Radio. When I get into his car, the radio is always tuned to gospel music. We can't carry on a conversation in the car because he listens with one ear. He never inquires about my day, my feelings, or anything concerning me or the children. I realize that he is serving the Lord and saving souls, but what about his family? When I complain, he says, "Wives, submit yourselves unto your husbands." (Colossians 3:18.) What can I do?

DEAR WIFE: You can also quote Scripture: "Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them." (Colossians 3:19.)

Dear Abby

Doctors sometimes need a doctor, and ministers sometimes need to be reminded to practice what they preach. You both would benefit from counseling. If he balks, go alone. What doth it profit a man if he saves souls and loses his wife?

DEAR ABBY: How does one break a child (now 6 years old) of lying? This child started to "fib" as soon as she could talk. We know that all children exaggerate and make up stories, but this child has become a very accomplished liar, and we are concerned.

Do you (or others who have had to deal with this) have any suggestions on how to break a child's habit of lying?

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: First, focus on why the child lies. To attract attention? To avoid being punished? ("Who broke the vase?") Then never allow the child to get away with lying. Say, "That story you told was just 'make-believe' or 'pretend,' wasn't it?"

Explain, without being critical or hostile, that one should not "make up" stories and say that it actually happened.

If the child persists in lying, discuss it with your pediatrician. Perhaps an evaluation by someone who specializes in child behavior should be considered.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your definition of success. Let me add another, by Martin Buxbaum: SUCCESS

You can use most any measure. When you're speaking of success, you can measure it in fancy home.

Expensive car or dress. But the measure of your real success

Is the one you cannot spend. It's the way your kids describe you. When they're talking to a friend.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if your planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. CARLOS DIMIDJIAN Podiatrist

TO JOG OR NOT TO JOG

A few years ago, jogging was considered a fad. Many people who pooh poohed it, who thought it silly or boring, have since taken it up and are finding that it enriches their lives in a variety of ways.

This is particularly true for people who have been leading sedentary existences. Also, they are the ones who probably should be most cautious. It's important to remember that the entire body should be gradually involved in exercise. But no where is quick, increased movement felt as painfully as in the feet.

The feet must be gradually initiated. Tendons and muscles may lack muscle tone or strength, or the tendons may be stiff and tight. Sudden exercise after a long, sedentary period puts a terrific strain on them. Unused muscles will ache and pain if they are put to work too long too soon.

Begin slowly and build up. And to minimize stress and jarring, it would be wise to run on a cinder track, dirt, or grass, rather than on concrete. Most importantly, visit your podiatrist if you experience any foot pain that won't go away.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Steel siding eliminates frequent painting tasks

Fall is the time to take a good, hard look at your house, suggests Owen Johnson, owner of Big Spring Siding.

Do you really like what you see? Is the paint peeling, chipped, faded, slightly outdated or shabby?

If you've been putting off the inevitable, you have three choices:

A) You can re-paint the house yourself — for weekend after weekend.

B) You can hire a professional housepainter to put your house in tip-top shape — an expense that will have to be repeated in just a few years.

C) You can make a modest investment in new steel siding — and scratch house-painting off your list of chores forever.

Siding gives homes a just-painted look that is as durable as it is attractive.

"We install only the top-of-the-line siding — Alside Steel Siding Siding," says Johnson. "This siding carries a lifetime warranty which is transferable, should you ever decide to sell your home. The warranty guarantees that the siding will not crack, peel, rust or discolor."

Of course, a warranty means nothing unless the siding is properly installed, Johnson adds. Big Spring Siding has the equipment and skills to do the job right.

"Unlike many siding companies, we have no commissioned salesmen, nor do we use sub-contract installers," Johnson says. "By doing business this way, we keep our job costs way below that of even our competitors' sale prices."

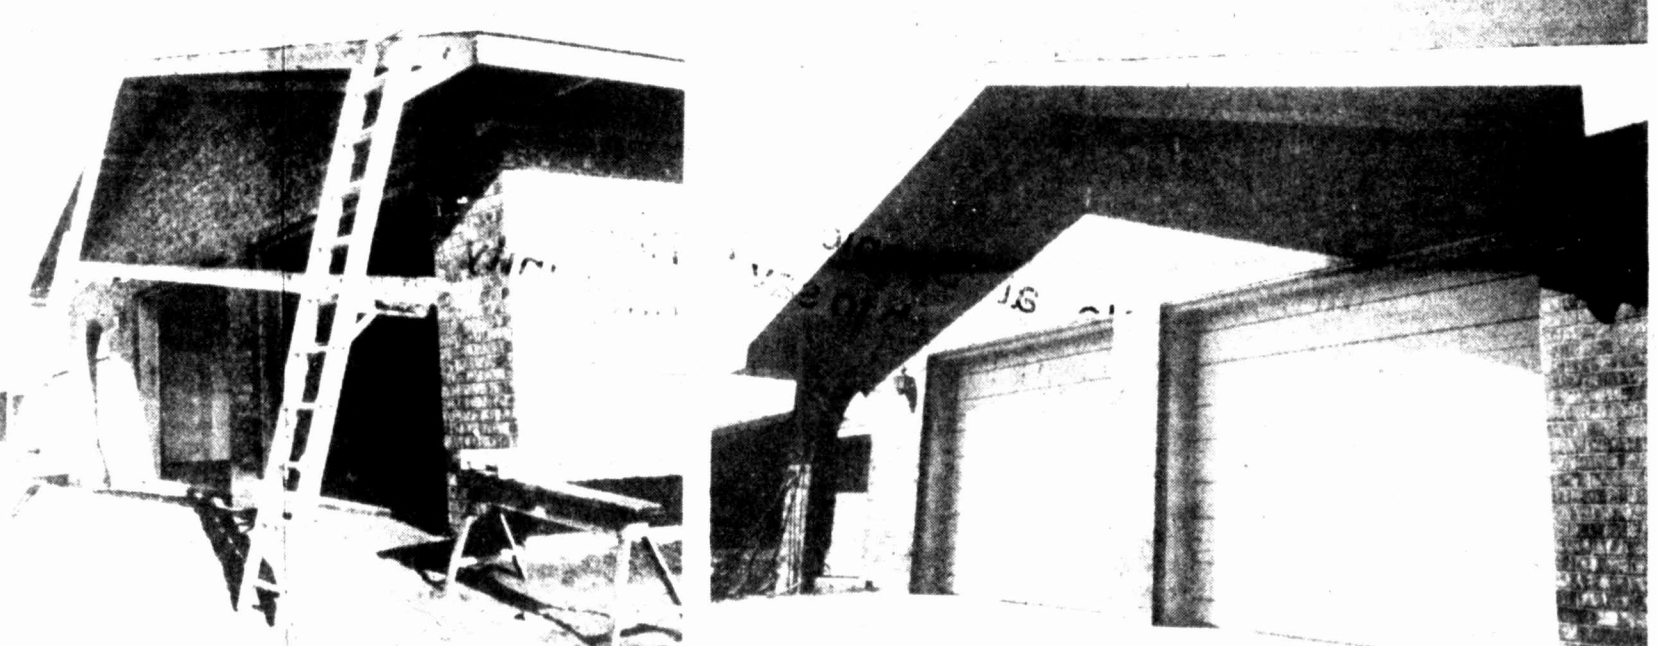

Johnson says his company will never call residents' homes "at all hours of the day and night with spectacular sales gimmicks." Big Spring Siding has no need for that, relying on referrals from satisfied customers and a modest advertising budget to promote business.

"Our marketing approach keeps our costs down, so that we are able to install siding on a customer's home for about what it costs for two or three professional paint jobs."

Big Spring Siding has a good selection of shutters, storm windows and doors to dress up your home; and a variety of insulation materials for weatherproofing. The variety of siding colors and trim products are sure to appeal to the taste of the most discerning homeowner.

Owen Johnson personally prepares all bids, and he is on the job site working with his crew every day — "from start to finish."

For a free estimate, without obligation, call Owen at 267-2812.

Big Spring Siding, specializing in whole-house steel siding installations, is now working with building contractors on new homes. For the brick home shown, the firm installed steel soffit and fascia (trim and overhang) while the home was under construction. Photo at right shows completed installation.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and caloric reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free (800) 527-9700, ext. W842.

Woman remembers spooky tales of Halloweens past

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Phoebe Armstrong, Woodville, recalls the dog days of August as the time when dogs go mad, snakes go blind, creek water gets stagnant and birds don't sing. She has captured some of her childhood experiences in a book titled, "From The Forks of Turkey Creek."

"She tells me trick-or-treat hadn't yet been invented when she was growing up in the '20s. On Halloween boys pulled pranks that amounted to nothing more than minor mischief, including turning over outhouses (they checked to make sure they were empty). And of course there was ticktacking."

Ticktacking was handed down from father to son. It was only practiced late at night when sensible people were asleep. One end of a stout cord was tied to the screen wire of a window. The other end was threaded through a hole punched in the bottom of a tin can then knotted around a stick. When the string was pulled taut, someone rubbed resin up and down the string. It made the most eerie caterwauling you ever heard. And it could be heard a mile away. Even bedcovers piled high over your head couldn't blot out the noise.

Tumbleweed Smith

Some guys used a rawhide string attached to a nailkeg to get the ugly, scary sound. Every youngster who heard it knew that all the screaming banshees in the world were gathered right outside their window and were coming after them with blood in their eyes.

Years ago, Halloween began with a street dance or party.

Phoebe recalls one special Halloween dance that occurred during the horse and buggy days.

About sundown on Oct. 31, a street was roped off in downtown Woodville and fiddlers began gathering and tuning their instruments. Soon the dust was flying as couples danced.

There was a combination hardware and feed store nearby owned by Mr. C.M. Davis. He enjoyed providing good benches for old timers to sit on in front of his store. He built a concrete porch just for that purpose and put an awning over it. He kept the area clean. On the west end of the porch Mr. Davis displayed the latest wagon on the market. It was brand new and shiny. Its bed and spring seat were sparkling green. Its metal wheels were painted red, as were the wagon's body and tongue.

The wagon was there in all its magnificence when the evening began. As darkness grew near, boys started slipping away, one by one. Soon kerosene lanterns appeared around the area of the wagon.

The boys came back within a short time and danced until the fiddlers got tired. As the crowd left for the evening, some snickers were heard.

As you may have heard, news travels fast in small towns.

When Mr. Davis arrived to open his store, he noticed his precious wagon was missing. He ran to where the wagon had been, walked back and forth along the porch, then searched around the entire building. He was about to panic when the crowd decided to let him in on the joke.

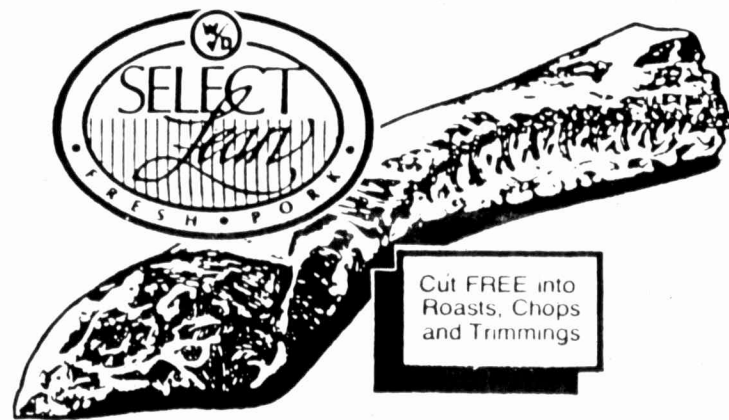

On the roof of his building sat his precious wagon completely assembled. After a good laugh and congratulating themselves on pulling off a successful prank, the town boys brought down the wagon piece by piece and re-assembled it in its original location.

Mr. Davis checked on his wagon several times that day.
