L. S. HOBBS WELL IS BIG GASSER

LOCATED IN HANSFORD COUNTY FORTY FIVE MILES FROM PERRYTON ON J. P. PEARSON LAND

The Hobbs wild-cat test well, forty five miles west of Perryton, in Hansford County will be developed as a gasser, according to information received here.

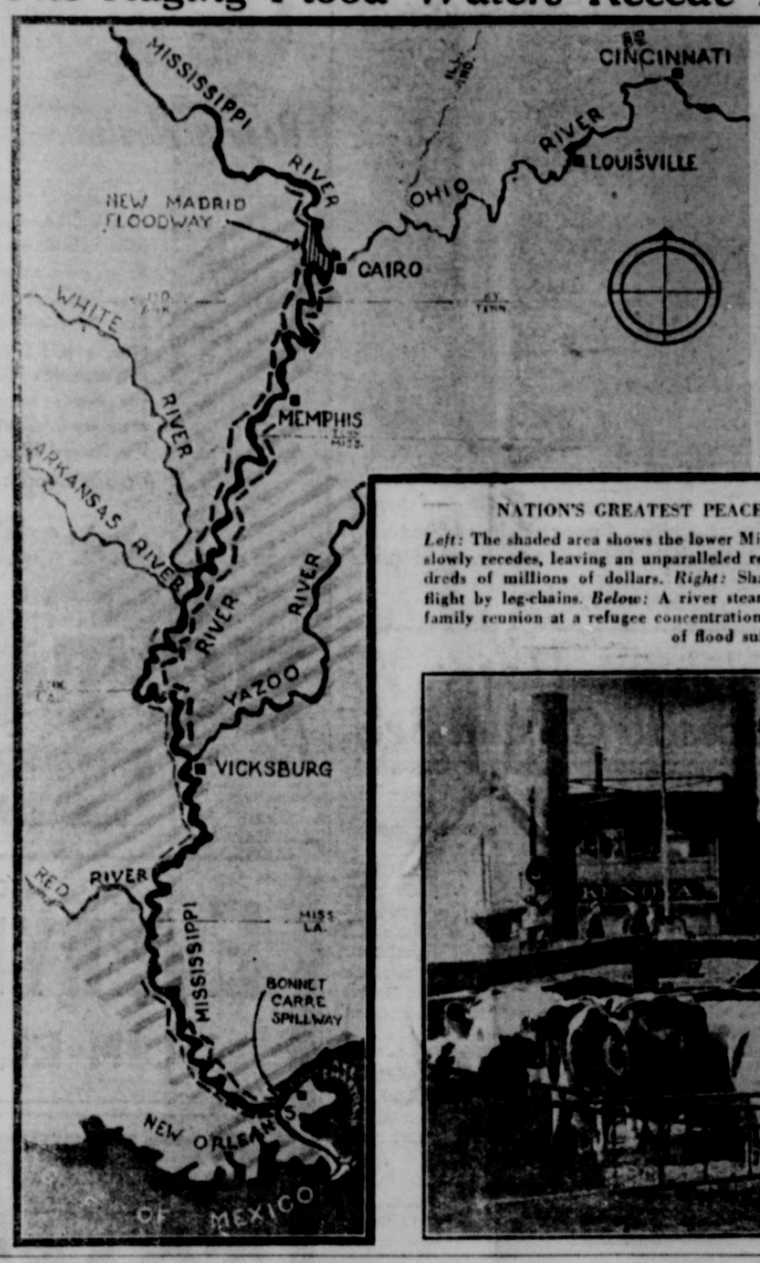

The well, which is located on land owned by James P. Pearson, capitalist of Moline, Ill. was drilled by L. S. (Curly) Hobbs, formerly of Perryton and brother of Chas. Hobbs. Some ten days ago a shot of nitro was given the well, which increased the gas output about twice. It is now estimated as a 5,000,000 foot gas producer.

Following the shot, the hole was bridged and Mr. Hobbs has been busy cleaning it out since then. It is reported this will be finished this week and that hopes are for an increased production.

A number of leases in the vicinity of the well have been bought within the past few weeks, the price ranging from twenty five to fifty cents per acre, according to reports.

The depth of the Hobbs well is 2864 feet and the shot was inserted at a depth of 2840 feet.

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT

Should Perryton change from the antiquated aldermanic form of government to the modern commission and city manager administration? This is a question that has been discussed by Perryton citizens for many years. About a year ago, a large group of voters, taxpayyers and business men, were so thoroughly sold on commission form of government that they were ready to take the preliminary steps necessary to call an election to submit the issue to the electorate. At this time, the question of a municipal electric light and power plant was before the city, so in deference to the wishes of the city council, the group interested in commission form of city government stepped aside. This was the thing to do, for no doubt, many would have confused the two issues.

During the past few weeks, many have expressed themselves on the question and have stated that now is the time to bring the issue to a vote, and taking into consideration the fact that the regular city election will be held in April, it does seem to be the time.

A careful study of the question of commission form of government versus aldermanic form brings out the fact that out of the thousands and thousands of cities, large and small, that have changed to commission form, only a very few have gone back to the old system. This is an overwhelming endorsement of the newer plan.

Briefly, commission form of city government provides for a three man commission to govern the city. The three commissioners are elected by the eligible voters and from these three, the commission selects the mayor. In the change-over, the present mayor automatically becomes a member of the three man commission and serves as mayor until his regular term expires.

There are no other elective offices in the city administration. The commission then employes a city manager. In checking over city managers, it will be found that the greater part of city managers are also civil engineers who as a part of their college training are required to take a course in city managership. Thus cities with engineers as city managers are not required to pay out thousands of dollars in engineering fees for the building and maintenance of civic improvements.

Under the commission form of government a city's business can be conducted just as efficiently as a private business. The city manager is hired and also fired by the commissioners. The administration of the city's affairs is checked squarely up to him. He is the head of all departments with the authority to employ all assistants necessary to an economical handling of the city. In other words, he is the "boss-man" and the days of "buck-passing" so prevalent under the present form is a thing of the past. If a city manager does not produce results, he can be removed without waiting until an elective term expires.

If the commission form of government is a good thing for other cities, then why won't it work and be a good thing for Perryton? We don't have to go far away to find cities that have had commission form for years. Pampa and Canadian are both outstanding examples of the city manager plan.

SOME DAMAGE TO WHEAT IN THIS COUNTY

Reports From North and West Indicate That Damage Much Greater Than Here

Farmers Working Fields

Abundance of Sub-Soil Moisture is Reported by Most Farmers in Perryton Area

Ochiltree county, along with all of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and Southwest Kansas, experienced the first serious dust storm of the year Sunday when the high winds started the dust to rolling from the west. By the time the gale had subsided shortly after nightfall, residents of this county agreed one hundred per cent that the statement made recently by a high-up Soil Conservation official that Ochiltree was no longer in the "dust bowl", turned out to be just another chunk of "boloney".

However, a check-up on all parts of the county indicate that the damage to growing wheat fields is not so great as at first reported, but there is no question but what that a few more storms like the one Sunday, will mean ruin for a 1937 grain yield. There was some wheat destroyed, but many report that they do not consider they had any material loss.

Farmers in every part of the county have been busy this week with harrows, listers, chisels and other tillage tools working the fields in an effort to check wind erosion. With an abundance of sub-soil moisture in most parts of the Perryton area, a few days of warm clear weather will let the wheat grow and spread out, thus giving more resistance to the wind. Moisture, if it fell right now, would almost insure an end to the blow menace.

Other parts of the country to the north and west reported much more damage Sunday than here. Liberal, Guymon, Dalhart, Hooker, Stratford, Boise City and many other places had regular black blizzards with visibility at near zero. In much of the above territory, the land is bare of any vegetation with no prospects for a wheat yield and it is from those places that we can expect plenty of dust regardless of our conditions here.

Scenes as Chevrolet Workers Return to Their Jobs

Approximately 90 per cent of the 40,000 Chevrolet workers called back to work last week reported at their work benches. Above is shown a group of happy Chevrolet workers as they return to their jobs at the Chevrolet Gear and Axle plant in Detroit, in line with the company's program of giving part-time employment to as many employees as possible in order to keep them off relief rolls. Upper right, some of the workers gathered inside the plant awaiting the shift change which will give them the signal to return to their machines. Lower left, Frank Svatora checks in with a big smile while Walter Frost waits in line behind him to follow suit.

12. Never leave babies alone in the house—not even a minute where there is a lighted lamp or open fires.

13. This is an age of electricity—Let's learn to use it with safety. Permit only experienced persons to install or repair electrical fittings and appliances. There are definite rules for wiring, which if known and observed will prevent electrical fires. Keep a supply of fuses on hand. Do not use a penny for a fuse. When a fuse burns out replace it with a new one.

14. Turn the current off on an electric pressing iron or other electrical appliance before leaving it.

15. Two good Safety points: (A) Make it a point to know how to get out of every building you enter. (B) Never sit in a closed room or office. Always ventilate with fresh air. These two precautions may mean the saving of your life and of others in case of fire.

The Panhandle Museum at Goodwell, Oklahoma Has Become One of the Southwest's "Places to Go and See"

Much credit for the recent rapid development of the Panhandle Museum is due to the efficient supervision of Nolan McWhirter, custodian. Mr. McWhirter and his assistants extend a cordial welcome to visitors.

Starting in 1932 with less than one thousand specimens the Panhandle Museum has skyrocketed itself into state and national fame. In its new quarters in Hughes-Strong Hall, one of the largest buildings on the campus of Panhandle A. & M., the museum is rapidly gaining a reputation as one of the Panhandle's chief attractions.

Until October 1934 the museum was under the control of the Panhandle Museum Club. At that time it was formerly adopted by the newly organized No-Man's-Land Historical Society, a group composed of three major organizations, namely: The Pioneers of No-Man's-Land, The Texas County Old Settlers Association, and The Panhandle Museum Club of the College. The purpose of the Society was and is to build a museum as a monument to the early settlers of this section. That this goal is being achieved is shown by the fact that the museum now contains some 15,000 articles.

In September, 1936 the museum was moved from the crowded, inadequate quarters in Sewell-Loofburrow Hall to its present location in Hughes-Strong Hall. The museum occupies the entire north wing of this structure and is ideally located for visitors. In addition to providing more room for exhibits, the present quarters allow departmentalization of the work.

PANHANDLE MUSEUM BUILDING

The Panhandle Museum occupies the entire north wing of the Hughes-Strong Hall on the campus of the Panhandle A. & M. College Goodwell, Oklahoma. The museum is rapidly becoming one of the "places that you must go and see" in the Southwest. Here you will find an evergrowing exhibit of historical interest.

A printing press, over 100 years old made at Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1817, is one of the most valued of the museum's treasures. This press is of the Franklin type and was used by the Rev. Jonothan Meeker, a missionary among the Ottawa Indians. It has the honor of being the first press used west of the Mississippi River and was used in the Oklahoma Panhandle at "Old Hardesty" by Dick Quinn, early Panhandle publisher.

One of the first flags used in this section is also found among the relics of bygone days. This flag is a United States flag containing only forty-six stars, Oklahoma being the forty-sixth state admitted to the Union.

Other articles including spinning wheels, cradles, reels, dishes, cooking utensils, a group of pipes dating some 100 to 250 years ago, clothing, flint lock and cap and ball rifles and revolvers, are found in this room.

The second room on the first floor is already filled to capacity by the divisions of Geology and Anthropology.

Here is found the famous "Kenton Mummy," an individual belonging to the Basket Maker II culture, a race of people who flourished in this section approximately 2,000 B. C. It was a child of about ten years age and was found in one of the Basket Maker caves in the western edge of Cimarron County. This specimen is believed to exhibit the most perfect state of preservation of any that have been found. With the mummy is shown various articles peculiar to this race of people, among these are, shell beads, corn, a strand of yucca fiber tied in the traditional square knot, and a part of an atlatldart.

Flint artifacts of different types and fashioned into various implements help comprise this collection of approximately 7,000 articles.

Geology plays an important part in the work of the museum. This branch containing rock and minerals from almost every section of the United States and from many foreign countries.

Pre-historic animal life is represented by fossil remains of elephants pig, oreodon, and many examples of marine life. These have been collected from the Panhandles of Oklahoma and Texas, Wyoming, the Dakotas, Kansas, New Mexico, Central Oklahoma and various other locations in the United States.

On the second floor of the museum building is found the Natural History collection. This is commonly spoken of as the "best collection of native life of the Panhandle."

Native animals shown here include the deer, lobo wolf, bob-cat, "swift" fox, coyote, civit cat, skunk and others. Among the birds are the pelican, avocet, various species of hawk, eagle, gull, duck, geese, crane, two blue heron, and other rare native and migratory birds. The museum has been granted state and federal permits and employs expert taxidermists in this work.

During the past year several exhibits by noted Panhandle artists have appeared here. Others are planned for the very near future.

The library containing several hundred old books and newspapers printed in Oklahoma is found here together with many others of like interest and value.

Two other rooms, the custodian's office and the combination workshop-storeroom are found on this floor.

During its brief five years of existence the museum has done much to help dig into and preserve the history of the Oklahoma Panhandle and adjacent regions. Unlike other museums this one is being run on the cooperative loan basis. Most of the 15,000 articles contained here have been loaned by residents of this section. The article is entered in the record book, catalogued, the owner given a receipt which entitles him to withdraw his specimen at will, and the specimen is placed on display together with a short written history of the article and the owners name and address. Additional information regarding specimens may be obtained by writing the custodian.

Present officers of the society are: Boss S. Neff, Hooker, president; Dr. Claude L. Fly, Amarillo, Tex., president emeritus; Wm. E. (Uncle Bill) Baker, Boise City, vice president; Maude O. Thomas, Beaver, secretary treasurer; Mrs. Fred Tracy, Beaver, historian; Nolan McWhirter, Goodwell, custodian.

Life Pioneer membership is being conferred upon those who established residence in No-Man's-Land prior to April 22, 1889. Life membership to others is $10.00 and annual membership fee, $1.00.

FIFTEEN FIRE CAUTIONS

1. Keep children and fire safely apart. Children can be taught the dangers of fire. Keep matches out of the way of children.

2. Do not throw away cigars, cigarettes, and matches without first extinguishing them. A careless smoker is as bad as an electric storm to burn the buildings.

3. Do not allow accumulations of combustible waste materials in or near the house. Without them fires from carelessly discarded smoking materials would be less frequent.

4. Keep chimneys and stovepipes clean with all joints and connections tight. Provide separate metal cans for ashes and for rubbish. Never mix.

5. Place substantial fire-resistant guards in front of all woodwork close to sources of heat. The open flames of gas, kerosene, alcohol, and gasoline stoves should be particularly shielded.

6. Keep greasy and oily rags in tightly closed metal cans provided for that purpose.

7. Avoid the filling of lighted lamps. Avoid the use of kerosene to light or quicken firs. The application of hat to kerosene to light to light or quicken fires. The application of heat to kerosene results in the generation of gases which are very explosive.

8. Do not use gasoline, naptha, or benzine for cleaning. Use some of the safer solutions now obtainable and these, in any considerable quantity, out of doors and during the day.

9. Keep all open flames away from gas leaks. Explosive mixture of gas and air are quickly formed in such places, and they only need a lighted match or taper to cause disastrous results.

10. Avoid hanging lace curtains and other draperies near gas-jets or other open flames. The draft from near-by windows may cause fires quick to spread and difficult to extinguish.

11. Avoid toy wax candles. Each year a number of deaths of children due to placing candles on

Trees Will Grow Here

B. L. Rogers, Farnsworth, Proves That Trees Will Thrive on Plains; Has Free Seed

Long before tree planting in this section recieved the attention recently given through highway and CCC plantings, B. L. Rogers of Farnsworth had proven his love and appreciation of trees, by planting many varieties and also propogating them from seeds and cuttings. Raising the trees from seedlings, he has given away, frequently in behalf of the children of neighbors and customers, many small seedling Honey Locust that have since grown to be fine shade trees.

A recent visit to the home of Mr. Rogers, shortly after their return from South Texas, found Mr. Rogers gathering the seed pods from Honey Locust trees which he had raised from seed. He thinks it a shame to burn them and having no more room for trees, said he would gladly give seed to any who would plant them, if they will call for them.

The seed should be frozen or will not germinate till the second year prom planting. Honey Locuts, many of them thornless, are perhaps the most hardy tree for this section Mr. Rogers believes.

Besides the locust, Mr. Rogers has a fifty foot row of Flowering or Desert Willows, from seed secured from the U. S. Dry Land Demonstration Station at Dalhart, which he hopes may be planted by those who will care for them. The so-called Desert Willow is not a true willow, Mr. Rogers says, but a species of Chilopsis, native to parts of California, Texas and Mexico. It is a member of the Bignonia family, has fine leaves and handsome, crimped, trumphet shaped flowers. These are lilac-colored with yellow stripes inside. They grow as a shrub, but may grow to 20 feet.

Mr. Rogers says he will prepare and ship by mail to any who would prefer, but as soon as the ground thaws will dig for you your own selection if you call for them.

WOLF CREEK CLUB

Mrs. Sam Handly, Reporter

" Warm covers lay close, keep out cold, and keep in the heat" said Miss Wertha Tarter, home demonstration agent, at the club meeting, February 4, in the home of Mrs. J. H. Calliham.

Blankets, particularly the wool, are warm covers. Quilts made of fluffy cotton and tacked about every four inches lay close. Also the comforts or quilts padded with wool are light and warm. These wool quilts are tacked or quilted with lines far apart. The covers with close quilted lines are stiffer. The top covers may be quilted with much more quilting.

When finishing quilts, use a bias strip for binding. Cover the ends of all covers with protectors. All covers should be aired at least, one time in each two weeks.

Employers Will Be Assigned Identification Numbers

San Antonio, Feb. 9—Employers' identification numbers which are being assigned by the Social Security Board, will be received by employers well in advance of the time when they are first needed in filing information returns to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, it was announced today by Oscar M. Powell, regional director of the Board. Powell said many inquiries had been received from employers about these numbers.

"These identification numbers will not be used by employers until they file their first information returns in July for the period January 1 to June 30, 1937," Powell said. "Although tax returns must be filed each month, the identification numbers are not required on them."

Employers were urged, however, to make application for identification numbers immediately, if they have not already done so. Applictations (Form SS-4) may be obtained at post offices, field offices of the Social Security Board and from Collectors of Internal Revenue. Completed employers' applications are to be forwarded directly to the Wage Records Office of the Social Security Board, Baltimore, Maryland.

FLOOD INVADES THE SOUTH

Memphis, Tenn. — While flood waters gradually receded in the Ohio River valley, the onrush has now swept into the lower Mississippi, threatening vast areas of farmland and causing the evacuation of many towns along its banks. Flood deaths along the Ohio are estimated at 400, with a property damage of $400,000,000 and 675,176 persons homeless.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, February 14.

The Golden Text is: "Truly my soul waiteth upon God: from him cometh my salvation" (Psalms 62:1)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And I will set my tabernacle among you. . .And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people" (Leviticus 26:11,12).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul, or Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects soul, God, for man is God's image" (page 120).

A Timely Legislative Reform That is Needed Here

By HON. WILLIAM McCRAW
Attorney-General, State of Texas

Always interested in progressive and sound legislation, my attention has been particularly drawn to the proposed measure or measures sponsored by the Texas Press Association, amending the State publication laws. Specifically, the proposal contemplates the compulsory publication of delinquent tax lists of the State, counties, cities, school districts, miscellaneous districts and all local units of government. Other important features of the bill or bills to be introduced at the ensuing session of the legislature are compulsory publication of financial statements by all tax gathering units and agencies; and substantial revision of the existing system of published legal forms and notices.

A mature consideration of the matter and its relation to the public interest and to sound public policy has convinced me, strictly upon the merits, that few more important contributions to the general welfare of the State and its subdivisions have been evolved from any source within the decade. Therefore, I have no hesitation in expressing my full approval and support, and in giving assurance of my hearty cooperation in furthering the success of this important reform in state and local government.

The proposal for compulsory publication of delinquent tax lists is probably the most important of all of Mr. Jackson's suggestions. It will be opposed, of course, but when the objections that will probably be raised are examined and resolved the public benefits will be found to far outweigh private embarrassments and personal resentments. It will be unpleasant, but publicity of the sort always is. Tax dodgers will not relish it, but those whose delinquencies are unavoidable will have no just cause for complaint. A candid and fair public opinion can always be trusted to discriminate between the unfortunate and the predatory.

According to the best estimates I have seen, the total sum of delinquent taxes for the State and its sub-divisions is simply staggering. If one-fifth of the delinquencies were collected there would be no deficit in the general revenue and no prospect of one and the local units would be financially sound and enabled to function as designed. I know of nothing that would probably give more relief, in these particulars, than a law with teeth in it, making it mandatory to publish the names of delinquents, amounts in arrears, years, and other relevant facts for the information of the public. It should prove a powerful incentive and influence in the collection of delinquent taxes, and a deterrant to future delinquencies. I should like to see it tried and, if successful, become the permanent public policy of our State.

Perhaps of equal importance is the suggestion requiring publication of financial statements by all tax gathering units of the government. The taxpayers are vitally interested in where the tax money comes from and even more in knowing where and for what their money goes. Every pertinent fact relating to receipts and disbursements should be embraced in detailed published statements at sufficient intervals. In my opinion this device would not only give information to which the people are entitled and expect, but would be a wholesome check upon wasteful and prodigal spending of the taxpayers money. This feature takes on added importance, in my opinion, with the constantly expanding activities of government. The creation of new state departments and agencies, and their correlation with Federal programs and setups in social and economic fields, calls for vast sums of money, increasing employment personnels and other inevitable incidents. These considerations make the suggestion especially timely, and furnish a strong argument for its adoption as a public policy of great merit.

The matter of revising the laws regulating the publication of legal notices is also worthy of serious consideration. Many of the forms now required or used in publications are antiquated and outmoded. Their length and prolixity have often amazed me. The vice of verbiage characterizes a surprising number of forms, in probate, in ordinary suits, in judicial sales and other notices required or permitted by law. It is not very creditable to a judicial system under which such abuses are possible. On the other hand, it is greatly to the credit of the Press Association that it makes this unselfish reform a part of its program. Here is where the lawyers may be of great service, and I hope they will give of their time and special knowledge, to the end that the costs of publication may be greatly lessened, and unnecessary burdens upon litigants and others affected may be lifted. Often such costs fall most heavily upon the poor and the unfortunate. Upon these premises, I base the conviction that the legal profession will not fail in its duty of cooperation.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

By
MARVIN JONES
Member of Congress from Texas

President Roosevelt stood bareheaded in a steady, cold rain to take the oath of office for his second term. During the delivery of his address, the rain drummed against his face.

After his speech was finished, he rode the length of historic Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House in an open car, waving his hat to the thousands who lined the way.

At the President's own suggestion, the parade reviewing stand in front of the White House was built as a replica of the Hermitage, the home of that earlier day champion of Democracy, Andrew Jackson.

Careful architects had planned a heavy plate glass window to shield the President from the weather while he watched the parade pass, but he asked that the glass be removed.

In his inaugural address, the President outlined the philosophy that will guide him during the next four years. He summed up this philosophy in this statement:

"The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

Kidnapping and other startling crimes that shock the nation all too frequently are a challenge to our generation to stamp them out.

One example of the federal government's activity in the field of crime prevention is the police training school which has been established by the Department of Justice. Here representatives of various state and local police agencies receive instruction in the latest methods of crime detection and prevention, and then carry their knowledge home to their fellow officers.

Crime cannot be conquered in a day, but the steps that have been taken are an encouraging indication of the progressive approach which is clearing the way for future results.

I had the privilege of attending a White House conference last week in which emphasis was placed on the need of a long-range program to preserve and utilize water in order to prevent a recurrence of periodic disastrous floods. The present flood, which has reached record proportions, has brought this need forcibly to mind.

Engineers now agree that the floods that occur in the main river streams could be largely prevented by utilizing the water in a soil conservation program and in a system of reservoirs, small lakes and ponds.

Such a program would take time to develop fully, but it would be well worthwhile. Water now wasted in floods would become a blessing instead of a curse.

There are many angles to the farm tenant problem. Land tenantry has been increasing gradually for a number of years, and every thinking person will agree that it is desirable to check this increase and turn the trend back in the other direction. There are more than two million farm tenants, many of whom desire to be and are capable of being farm owners. But securing a solution to the problem is not easy. The damages of half a century cannot be repaired in a day.

Any approach toward a solution for the tenancy problem must take into consideration these points: It must be made financially profitable to own a small farm home, and a way must be found to finance the purchase of small farm homes by owner operators on long-time payments at low interest rates.

The most important step in making farm ownership profitable is to maintain a fair price for farm products. This question of price is the most important single element in the whole subject. Much progress has been made along this line through the operation of the recent farm acts, but further provision must be made and maintained in order to assure a fair price for the things the farmer raises.

Tenancy is but an outcropping of the real problem. The problem itself is one of price and income. Neither landlords nor tenants have had sufficient income. They have had to compete with a business system which has not taken into consideration their needs.

For a number of years industry received consideration while the farm problem grew. The market for industrial products has been protected to allow prices which brought a profit. Exportation of these products has been encouraged by cheaper freight rates which have not applied to agriculture. Similar discriminations have prvailed. The problem, then, is to bring agriculture into balance with industry.

The question of taxes state, county, and district—is also extremely important. In most of the states an undue share of the taxes has been borne by the farmer. In many instances, a full property levy is made by both state, county and district units against all lands regardless of whether there is a crop failure or any form of income from the land. Some of the states have already taken stps to improve this condition. Much assistance can be rendered if the others will cooperate also.

I believe it is important that any tenant legislation that is adopted should provide for participation of local citizens familiar with conditions in their own section in administering the program. Wherever possible the tenant should be consulted, so he will feel a personal interest and responsibility in his homestead.

We are all familiar with famous old songs about home-"Home Sweet Home" and "The Little Gray Home in the West" and others. These songs were not written about a rented shack or a tenant's temporary abode, but about a home in the real sense of the word. It is in the home that the fine and enduring sentiments, the worthwhile traits of character, are begun. That is why homes for the tenants are important to all of us as citizens.

BONUS FOR SALESMEN IS OFFERED BY FORD DEALERS

The automobile industry definitely has disposed of the old bugaboo "you can't sell used cars in winter" according to Harry J. Burkett, manager of the Oklahoma City Branch of the Ford Motor Company.

"The fact is," Mr. Burkett declared, "that the public is buying more and more used cars every winter, with the seasonal effect upon used car sales becoming less and less a problem each year.

"In cooperation with the factory, Ford dealers now offer the used car buyer a written money back guarantee. Before this guarantee can be delivered, however, the dealer must renew and guarantee a used car to specifications laid down by the factory. The guarantee means that a used car offered for sale under the R & G Procedure has been completely renewed and conditioned.

During the entire month of February, Ford dealers in the Oklahoma City Branch territory will offer unusual bargains in used cars taken in trade on the new 1937 Ford V-8's. Extensive preparations have been made by all dealers and the Ford Motor Company to make this an outstanding used car sales month. A sales contest, known as the "Quota Busters" contest, is under way in all Ford dealerships and splendid cash prizes are being offered to all retail salesmen who qualify.

R. C. Johnson, of the Johnson Motor Co. states, "all of our used cars have been put in tip-top condition so as to insure everyone receiving a real bargain in transportation when they buy in February. We have many makes and practically all kinds of body types to fit the needs of our customers."

THE CAPITOL ONLOOKER

By Charles E. Simons

Austin, Texas, Jan. 27—The appointment of Robert Lee Bobbitt of San Antonio and Laredo as chairman of the highway commission by Governor Allred is being widely acclaimed as one of the best appointments the chief executive could have made. Shortly after the appointment was announced a string of telephone calls, telegraphic messages and letters began pouring into the governor's office, attesting to the widespread approval of his action. Ordinarily, well wishers rush to congratulate the appointee but, in this instance, it is likaly as many congratulatory telegrams were received by the governor as were received by his choice for this important state post.

The designation of Mr. Bobbitt, formerly a Texas attorney-general, came as a distinct surprise to those who had been watching the situation. In preliminary discussions his name had not been mentioned. In fact, it had not been whispered and it is doubted if anyone except the governor and a few intimates knew of the impending appointment.

In appointing General Bobbitt, Governor Allred established a policy that should be continued. It is one that would go far toward improving the general administration of the state government. The Governor believed in making this selection that the office should seek the man and that the man should not seek the office. He literally drafted General Bobbitt for the office after impressing on him the real service that could be rendered by a person in the position of highway commission chairman.

There is an interesting background to the story of the relatonship between Governor Allred and General Bobbitt. When Claude Pollard resigned as attorney general in 1929, Governor Dan Moody appointed Mr. Bobbitt to the vacancy. General Bobbitt sought an elective term but encountered strong opposition in the person of Governor Allred, who conducted a whilwind campaign and nosed out the incumbent by a narrow margin. Out of this campaign, however, the contestants developed an excellent opinion of each other. In 1934, Attorney General Allred decided to make the campaign for Governor. He was having the toughest time of his young career. General Bobbitt rolled up his sleeves and went to work in the interest of his erstwhile opponent. He stumped the state in Governor Allred's behalf and urged the electorate to elevate the young lawyer to the governorship. In 1935 Governor Allred honored his friend by appointing him chief justice of the court of civil appeals at San Antonio. With customary modesty, General Bobbitt declined the chief justiceship but accepted an associate justiceship.

General Bobbitt is a lawyer and his leanings naturally would be in that direction. His acceptance of the appointment to the highway commission is all the more significant when the personal sacrifice is considered. In addition to being an important part in the legal set-up, the place on the court of civil appeals bench carried approximately $1,800 per year more salary than does the highway commission post.

General discussions about the appointment in highway circles following the announcement indicated a belief that Governor Allred had honored himself and Texas as much as General Bobbitt in making the appointment. General Bobbitt will bring to the Highway Commission a background of high accomplishment in other public fields nd a sound knowledge of the problems of this specialized field. Having served several terms in the legislature, one of which he acted as speaker of the house of representatives, he is thoroughly familiar with the highway department and its activities. As the state's lawyer, he also has an intimate knowledge of the legal aspects of the department's activities.

Those interested believe that under General Bobbitt's leadership Texas' program of highway construction will show material progress in the next several years

NEW SHORTER ROUTE

between the MOUNTAIN STATES and the GULF COAST

The Santa Fe is happy to announce the completion and opening to service, on February 1st, 1937, of the longest piece of new railroad undertaken in the United States in the past year—the 112 miles of new line linking Las Animas, Colorado, with Boise City, Oklahoma

The new line carries rail facilities to and through a considerable area of potentially rich country, but it has an even broader purpose—to provide finer Santa Fe service for the shippers and consumers of a tremendous and already developed territory.

In a word, the new road, linking together existing Santa Fe lines, provides to the shippers and consumers of a vast and productive area of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, and of the northern mountain states clear to the Pacific Northwest, through facilities and shorter routings for the rapid interchange of their shipments. It reduces the previous shortest rail distance between Amarillo, Texas, and Denver, Colorado, by over 25 miles. It saves from 142 to 226 miles in the movement of freight over the Santa Fe to and from Colorado, from and to points in Texas, and on portions of the Santa Fe in Oklahoma and New Mexico. Today, Amarillo is placed but 435 miles from Denver, via the Santa Fe. Products of the Pacific Northwest, connecting with the Santa Fe at Colorado points, can now have direct routing to the markets of Texas and the Gulf ports, while producers in the Lone Star State will benefit from similar service in reaching Colorado and the great Northwest.

The new line has been carefully sited and solidly constructed, with every facility for the handling of business offered at new stations located in a territory that had been making progress even in advance of the advent of the rails. Here is good wheat country, and corn, grain sorghums, broom corn and other crops have done well with natural rainfall. In the Las Animas area, where irrigation farming is done with water from the Arkansas River, there is promise of greatly increased production of sugar beets, melons, vegetables, onions, and alfalfa. West of Springfield, Colorado, and Boise City, Oklahoma, and north of Amarillo, general farming and livestock raising are important activities. Among the towns on the new line north of Amarillo, in Texas, are Dumas and Stratford.

In the construction of the new Boise City-Las Animas line, the Santa Fe reaffirms its abiding faith in the future of that vast Southwest in which it pioneered and with which it has grown. Your local Santa Fe representative will be glad to point out how the new line can best be of service to you

Making of Cheese

Neufchatel Cheese To Be Exhibited Amarillo Fat Stock Show February 8 to 11

Cheese may be made at any time of the year, and on farms where there is a surplus of milk during certain seasons cheesemaking offers an exceptionally advantageous means of conserving, for later use, milk which otherwise might be wasted. The making of cheese does not require a great deal of time, and if good milk is used and directions followed no one should have difficulty in making good cheese.

The following is the recipe for Neufchatel Cheese which is very similiar to Philadelphia Cream Cheese. This is a very good meat substitute and may be used as a sandwich spread, in salads, or just served with vegetables. The finished product may be varied by mixing olives or pimentoes with it.

Set 3½ gallons of clean whole milk at a temperature of 78 degrees F.

Add ½ pint of clabber milk free from gas holes or off flavors. Stir into milk well.

Add 6 to 8 drops of liquid rennet or approximately one-third to one-half junket tablet. Either must be mixed with ½ cup of cold water before adding to the milk.

Hold at a temperature of 78 degrees F. for 15 to 18 hours. At this time ½ inch of whey should show on top of the milk. In order to hold milk at approximately 78 degrees F., set the container of milk in a tub or pan of water that is 80 degrees F. and put them in a room where the fire has burned late at night. The temperature will stay near enough to 78 degrees F. for the curd to have formed the next morning.

Carefully dip the curd from the can with a cup and place in cloth to drain. Allow to drain for 1½ hour without disturbing.

At this point the curd should be worked to the center of the cloth with a paddle.

When all of the free whey has drained off, fold the cloth over the Cheese and press for several hours. This can be accomplished by placing the cheese between two boards and putting a 3 gallon bucket of water on the top board.

After the curd has been pressed you should have 4 ½ to 5½ pounds of cheese. Work until smooth. Add one heaping teaspoon of salt and mix well. The cheese is now ready to be placed in containers. Jelly glasses or ice cream cartons serve equally well for the purpose.

The home demonstration club women of the county are going to exhibit this cheese at the Fat Stock Show in Amarillo on March 8 to 11.

TYPES OF QUILTS USED FOR WARMTH AND BEAUTY

Quilts for warmth should be soft, clinging and of medium weight. To produce this type of quilt, avoid using material that is heavy and an over amount of filling, since heavy material and too much padding make hard, stiff quilts which do not give much warmth. Two or three light weight quilts are warmer than one heavy one. Too much quilting has the tendency to stiffen quilts and decreases their use for warmth. For this reason the tacked quilt is preferred to the quilted quilt for warmth. The quilt to serve the warmth purpose, should cover well the two sides and the end of the bed, being allowed to come almost to the head of the bed. A convenient size is 72 inches by 90 inches.

The decorative quilt allows many possibilities in selection of design. This type allows more expression of beauty and may be more elaborate than the quilt of warmth. It is practical for them to be of sufficient length to cover the pillows. A convenient size for a decorative quilt is 90 inches by 108 inches.

HUNTOON 4-H CLUB WAS ORGANIZED ON JAN. 29

"The 4-H's in our 4-H club work stand for health, hand, heart, and head," stated Miss Tarter, the home demonstration agent, "and we pledge each of these, head, health, hand, and heart, to the betterment of ourselves and our community."

At the Huntoon school building on Friday, January 29, a 4-H Club was organized by the demonstration agent. The officers elected were: Ruth Day, president; Elsie Littau, secretary-treasurer; Carrie Nell Brmmer, reporter; and Lorine Littau, council delegate. Mrs. C. H. Black is sponsor of the club.

OCHILTREE CLUB

Mrs. Jim Dodson, Reporter

"Cover wool with cheese cloth before tacking to make substantial padding" stated Mrs. Jim Dodson at the Wednesday meeting of the Ochiltree home demonstration club in the home of Mrs. Kirt Williams on February 3. "Wool can be washed if very mild soap is used and if rinsed several times", further spoke Mrs. Dodson.

Roll call was answered with different quilt patterns. Mrs. Ray Jennings had the most economical pattern. Th president asked for all club members who possibly can to be present for the meeting with Mrs. Mashburn. It was voted to sponsor a cake walk in the near future so as to raise some finances for the club prizes which will be awarded to the pantry and bedroom demonstrators.

Those present for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Claud Crouch, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dodson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Venis, Mrs. W. T. Lackey, Mrs. Jack Dodson, Mrs. Roy Leicht, A. C. Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Kirt Williams.

WAKA CLUB

Mrs. R. G. Burger, Reporter

"Every bedroom should have a place for storing extra bedding," said Miss Wertha Tarter at the Waka Home Demonstration Club, which met at the home of Mrs. G. A. Burger, Tuesday, February 2. "Two or three light coverings are more conductive to warmth than one extra heavy one," further stated Miss Tarter.

During the meeting, interesting and helpful discussions centered around different quilt patterns and bedding.

Visitors present were Mrs. Roy Gibson of Borger, Texas, Mrs. D. B. Stump and Mrs. O. S. Stump. Members present were Miss Wertha Tarter, Home Demonstration agent, Mrs. Ernestine Hohmann, Miss Wilma Coleman, Mrs. J. R. Stump and the hostess, Mrs. G. A. Burger.

CLOVER LEAF CLUB

Edna Huston, Reporter

"Providing the proper storage space for bed clothing and linens is one of our major bed room problems", stated Wertha Tarter at the regular meeting of the Clover Leaf 4-H Club in the home of Miss Edna Huston Monday afternoon.

After a short business session, Miss Tarter gave a demonstration of the different types of light bed covering and the making of these types. Several interesting pictures showing the proper placement of bedroom furniture and the construction of home made furniture were shown. The advantages of removable trays for storing of bed clothing in the closets were also discussed.

BUSY BEE CLUB

Lillian Williams, Reporter

Quilts are made for two purposes, beauty and warmth. The one for beauty is usually pieced and then quilted and the one for warmth is tacked or quilted, stated Miss Wertha Tarter, Ochiltree county home demonstration agent, to the Busy Bee 4-H club at its meeting last Saturday afternoon in the home of Miss Wilma Leicht.

Light covering is the most important characteristic of warm bedding. Heavy blankets tire us out and do not stay next to our body and therefore, do not keep us warm. In a warm quilt there is usually three pounds of cotton. Quilt protectors made from flour sacks and feed sacks are helpful in keeping cold cream and hair oil off the quilt. In saving room when storing quilts and blankets fold them lengthwise and roll up. To store pillows roll up and tie with a string.

CANNING IN A MOTHERLESS HOME

Despite the fact that this man's wife died last spring, leaving him with two little boys to do their own home making, he is slowly forging ahead with plans to give the youngsters a comfortable home. He obtained a loan from the Resettlement Administration and bought a cooker and sealer. The above photo shows that he used the equipment to good advantage. It is the first home-canned food this family ever had. At the present time he is refinishing the interior of his modest home. This family is one of nine thousand who are receiving help from the Resettlement Administration's Region Twelve office at Amarillo, Texas.

NEW HOPE CLUB

Mrs. A. M. Koehn, Reporter

"A quilt should be soft and fluffy" was a statement made by Miss Wertha Tarter at an all day meeting of the New Hope Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. W. L. Lovett, Wednesday, February 3. One light quilt is more comfortable, and just as warm as a stiff heavy one, as it lays closer to the body and keeps out the cold air.

The meeting was called to order after a delicious pot luck dinner. The agriculture report was made by Mrs. Ivan Lovett. Mrs. Alvin Koehn was elected to keep the scrap book for the year 1937. Miss Tarter gave a very interesting talk on making and storing quilts. She suggested trays in our closets instead of shelves. For entertainment, the members made a quilt. Mrs. O. E. Carter drew the attendance prize.

Those present were Mesdames Hugh Riley, O. E. Carter, W. G. Yeary, Charlie Cudd, Jess Cudd, Alvin Koehn, Ivan Lovett, John Johnson. Miss Wertha Tarter and the hostess.

USES OF FEED SACKS AS GIVEN BY MRS. KERSHAW

Mrs. J. H. Kershaw of the Missouri Avenue club has found that feed sacks make good face towels and can be made more attractive by hemstitching a one inch hem in by hand. They make dainty arm chair covers and dresser scarfs with a crocheted edge. The sacks can also be used for mattress covers, mattress pads and quilt protectors. The chicken feed sacks are absorbent and make good cup towels. The heavier sacks, which resemble linen, may be used for small boys' suits or ladies' dresses.

In order to take the lettering out, Mrs. Kershaw makes a paste of baking soda and spreads it over the figures before wetting the sack. She leaves this on for about thirty minutes and then washes them in the machine, lets them hang in the sun for two or three hours, and the printing is gone.

WAKA CLUB WILL MEET TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 16

The next meeting of the Waka Home Demonstration Club will be in the home of Mrs. J. R. Stump on Tuesday, February 16. Visitors are always welcome at the meetings.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

To curb unhealthy expansion of credit, the Federal Reserve Board has raised the reserve requirements of member banks by one-third, the second time in less than a year. Excess reserves, the Board explained will now be reduced to $500,000,000, "ample to finance further recovery and to maintain easy money". . . . All major steel companies continued their rising earnings. Commented President Grace, of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, "We started 1937 with $123,690,000 of unfilled orders on our books. We have never faced anything like so good a situation in peace times. We started the extraordinary year of 1929 with only $86,000,000 of unfilled orders." . . . Involving an expenditure of $50,000,000 and giving employment to 10,000 men for the next 18 months, the Pennsylvania Railroad will push its present electrified zone as far west as Harrisburg, Pa.

TEMPEST OVER STARCH

Toronto, Canada — Because he could find no evidence of malicious conspiracy to injure the plaintiff, Justice Nicol Jeffrey dismissed a suit for $150,000 brought by the Canada Starch Co., against the St. Lawrence Starch Co., over an alleged claim on the latter's part that it was their brand of corn syrup first fed to the Dionne quints. Dr. Allan Dafoe, who brought the five into the world, seemed to think both brands were used; so did a string of other witnesses, including the parents and nurses. "The witness seems a bit confused," remarked the Justice during Papa Dionne's testimony. Said the plaintiff's attorney, "He probably had a lot on his mind."

THE 25-MILLIONTH

HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

IT HAS never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford car rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903 . . . more than one-third of all the cars ever built . . . enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company. That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year — more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price — with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines — the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford — and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

Band and Pep Squad Members Are Guests of American Legion at Festive Affair

Approximately one hundred members of the High School Band and Pep Squad attended the party given in their honor by the Pierce Johnson Post and Unit of the American Legion, Monday evening, at the Legion hall. Special guests were W. I. Byron, band director, and Mrs. Byron; Miss Valda Moore, Pep Squad sponsor, and Supt. and Mrs. W. B. Irvin.

To the decorating committee goes much credit for the success of the affair. The hall was attired in the school colors of red and white. Streamers of red and white formed the ceiling, and appropriate cut-outs adorned the windows. Balloons of many colors, hanging from the ceiling, also added to the appearance. The guests, wearing paper caps of red and white, were seated at small tables, arranged in a semi-circle around the hall, leaving sufficient floor space for the entertainers. Upon arrival each person was given an autograph book and several minutes was spent collecting autographs.

The address of welcome was very ably given by Roy Orrill, entertainment chairman for the Post. Miss Bette Bryan and her pupil, little Marianna McGibbon, gave special dance numbers. The Hill Billies, composed of R. A. Flowers, J. T. Trew, Thurman Trew, Marvin Ferguson and Buddy Trayler, furnished several musical selections. J. H. Woodward's portrayal of Bob Burns was enthusiastically received. The master of ceremonies, H. I. Hudson, also added spice to the program by his novel introductions. Others assisting with the program were Mrs. Ann Cartwright, Robert Lawrence, Mrs. Tom Denman, Miss Valda Moore, W. I. Byron and W. B. Irvin.

Musical Hit Coming

Mirth and Music in New Comedy of Gay Vienna at Ellis Theatre Sunday and Monday

"Champagne Waltz" a brilliant comedy with music, co-starring Fred MacMurray and Gladys Swarthout, and including Jack Oakie, Veloz and Yolando showing at the Ellis Theatre Sunday and Monday.

"Champagne Waltz" is built around the gaiety and charm of Vienna. MacMurray, an American "swing" band leader, captivates the city with the new type music, playing havoc with the famous old Waltz Palace of the Strausses. He meets and falls in love with Miss Swarthout, who is the granddaughter of the musical director of the palace, but doesn't dare reveal his true identity. His success forces the Waltz Palace out of business and when Miss Swarthout finds out who he really is and what he has done, she breaks with him. Remorseful MacMurray returns to America.

Miss Swarthout and her grandfather come to America where they open a Waltz Palace along modern lines which becomes a sensational success. But the girl is not happy. She still loves MacMurray. One day she meets him. What follows brings a happy ending.

The dancing of Veloz and Yolanda in "Champagne Waltz" strikes a new high not for ballroom team dancing and Jack Oakie's typical comedy supplies much of the picture's mirth. The chorus work, in which 350 beautiful girls execute the new swing waltz rythm, is particularly worthy of note.

Pneumonia Follows

State Health Officer Warns that Common Colds Develop into Dangerous Pneumnia

Austin—Pneumonia is always a serious disease, and early treatment is of paramount importance to lessen the severity of the disease and prevent death, is the warning issued by Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"A person previously well may develop pneumonia suddenly," he said, "but most often it occurs in persons who have, or who recently have had, a cold. Yet many people do not take the cold seriously enough. Suspect every cold. Go to bed immediately if you have fever with a cold, call your physician, and do exactly what he says. By intelligently following your physician's advice at the beginning of the attack, you may ward off the after effects which so often follow neglected colds — pneumonia among them.

"Almost any part of the air passage may sometimes be attacked by bacteria. When the nose is affected we call the condition a cold. The tissues of the nose react to such infection by a profuse mucous discharge or mucous liquid. This discharge is really an attempt on the part of the body to get rid of the germs and their poisons. If the infection is lower down, it causes a sore throat. If the voice box is affected, the condition is called laryngitis. If the germs reach the bronchi the disease is known as bronchitis. If the germs get down to the lungs, the person affected has pneumonia. Thus it may be seen that the common cold may be the beginning of one of the most serious complications of the respiratory tract.

"These respiratory diseases may be avoided many times by establishing individual health measures. Help prevent colds and pneumonia by proper personal hygiene. Eat moderately, drink plenty of pure water, and sleep 8 to 10 hours every night with windows open. Do not allow the temperature of your home or working place to exceed 70 degrees Farenheit. Wash your hands frequently, especially before eating. Take some exercise out of doors every day, but aviod fatigue and unnecessary exposure to cold weather and rain.

"Watch your health habits and avoid a cold if possible—but if colds develop, take care of them and avoid complications of pneumonia."

Lily Pons in New Film

World-Renowned Soprano in "That Girl From Paris," Presented Today and Friday at Ellis

Again the golden voice of the world's premier coloratura soprano, Lily Pons, comes to the screen. The little opera star's second motion picture, "That Girl From Paris", is scheduled for showing today and Friday at the Ellis Theatre.

Starred with the vivacious French prima donna are Gene Raymond and Jack Oakie, and Herman Bing, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Lucille Ball, besides other well-known mirth-provokers, are seen in supporting roles.

"That Girl From Paris" is the story of a famed French opera star, played by Miss Pons, who rebels at a marriage of convenience jilting her wealthy impresario, and hitchhiking across the ocean to the United States in pursuit of a handsome American jazz band leader, who has ignited a latent romantic spark in her soul.

The vicissitudes of this charming little singer, who struggles her way into a strange land, incognito, to find herself a fugitive from the immigration authorities, and entangled in an almost hopeless romance, are at the same time heart-rending and highly humorous.

Judiciously spotted throughout the picture is a pot pourri of musical offerings ranging in rhythm and color from a sizzling "swing tune" to "Una Voce Poco Fa", the aria from "The Barber of Seville" sung by Miss Pons.

Raleigh guests live in large, sun-flooded rooms and enjoy cheerful service and a choice location in downtown Waco.

Workers Should Obtain Social Security Numbers at Once

San Antonio, Feb. 9—Employers should not refuse to hire workers who do not have social security account numbers, Oscar M. Powell, reginal director of the Social Security Board, declared today after he had received numerous complaints from individuals who said they had been refused employment merely because they were without account numbers.

"It is not necessary for the employer to have the employee's account number immediately," Powell said. "Employee account numbers will not be needed by employers for their first information returns to the Bureau of Internal Revenue until July, 1937. The monthly tax return to the Bureau of Internal Revenue does not require employees' account numbers to be listed.

"However, all individuals under the age of 65 in employments covered by the Social Security Act who have not already done so should file application (Form SS-5) for an account number immediately in order that they may receive account numbers well in advance of dates they are required for these information returns.

"Employees' applications for account number (Form SS-5) are now available upon request at all post offices, at the field offices of the Social Security Board and at offices of the Collectors of Internal Revenue. They may be returned to post offices through the employer, through a labor organization, or by mail or personal delivery.

"Employers are right in encouraging their employees to obtain account numbers as soon as possible," Powell asserted, "but employment should not be refused to a man simply because he has not received an account number.

FARMERS!

THE "CALL TO ARMS" HAS BEEN SOUNDED! WILL YOU FIGHT OR ARE YOU A SLACKER?

¶ The battle against "wind erosion" is on. It is the farmer's own scrap. Are we going to meet the enemy or be a "slacker"?

¶ Farmers, (and when we say farmers, we include the "town farmer, the business-man farmer, the "tin-can" tourist farmer and every other brand in with the actual dirt farmer who lives on his farm), must unite and work together in this struggle against the elements.

¶ Contact the president of your community agricultural association. Join with him in the organization of emergency crews in every neighborhood to work fields that are blowing.

¶ Have your tractor and tillage tools ready to work on any field in your community at a moment's notice. A battery of tractors and tillage tools can work a field in a few hours.

¶ Present wind erosion laws are inadequate. They are slow in operation. Wind erosion treatment must be drastic. Delays are dangerous. Cooperate with your neighbor and check the blowing in your community.

¶ Get back to dependence on your own efforts. If your house was on fire, would you and your neighbors wait for governmental agencies to put out the blaze? No, you would pitch in and fight the fire. Then why not do the same in this emergency?

Measure Dust in Air

Chemists at Goodwell Agricultural Experiment Station will Measure Dust in Air

During several of the wind storms that occured last year, the amount of dust in the air was measured by instruments similiar to those used in factories for such work, at the Panhandle Agricultural Experiment Station, Goodwell, Oklahoma.

This work was conducted during April and May in 1936 and the average of 0.093 of a pound of soil per 1000 cubic feet of air. The amount of dust that entered buildings was also determined by measuring the soil that settled on the floor. Dust was collected from 4 different buildings and the average was 0.65 of a pound per 100 square feet of floor space.

Such work shows very distinctly some of the other problems besides losses of valuable soil due to wind erosion. If the only injury due to drifting soil was to the homes and their surroundings, its influence on health and the morale of the population, especially the house wife, makes this problem of tremendous importance. Grit and grime must be endured in food, in beds, in furniture and on the floor until the wind subsides. Then it is necessary to clean thick layers of loose soil from everything, knowing that the experience will be repeated with the next wind storm.

Plans are being made by Wright H. Langham and Dr. Richard L. Foster, Chemists of the Station, to repeat such measurments, using various instruments, this year.

TOURING
By ERNIE PYLE

Ernie Pyle, roving correspondent for the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Syndicate, devoted his entire column the other day to the annual banquet of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Pyle was a guest of Gene Howe at this affair. Mr. Pyle's column appears as a daily feature in the Scripps-Howard newspapers, published in practically every large city in the United States. Pyle's contract allows him to roam at will over the world, with no restrictions as to locale or subject material for his daily column.

Now this Texas experience was really something to write about. I don't think I did so well.

Gene Howe hadn't actually misrepresented it to me; he just hadn't told me everything. He had said casually that he was going up to Perryton to make a little talk, and how about me going so he could show me the country.

We got there just after dark and went to a hotel. We'd hardly got in before two men came up to us. They had big gray hats and looked like cattlemen. One was named Daniels and the other was Tom Ellzey. We got in their car and drove down to the high school. Even the presence of this official escorting party didn't make me tumble that we were going to something big.

Inside the door somebody took our coats, and Gene started shaking hands with people, and a couple of men came up and introduced themselves to me. I asked one of them what this thing was, and he said it was the annual banquet of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce. In other words, the Event of the Year in the northern Panhandle.

Then somebody gave the word, and we all marched down to the basement and there stood long banquet tables, as far as you could see, with girls in white standing behind them. Some fellow took Gene and me around to the far side, center, to the seats of the guests of honor!

Now on the way up I had told Gene Howe to tip the chairman off (I thought it would be just a little weekly meeting) not to call on me to say anything. I told him I was born with a horror of making speeches, just as I was born with a horror of snakes. And to impress my earnestness on him I told him about that time I made such a spectacle of myself in college.

They got me up by surprise in front of 3,000 students at a football rally one night, and made me make a speech. I had said about two sentences, and gone into my first extended-arm gesture, when out of that sea of faces I had to pick up Nemo Crowder, sitting way back there laughing at me.

That threw me off. I went completely blank. And there I was, stuck in front of 3,000 students, with my arm sticking out to one side, and not another word would come out. I finally walked off the stage, with my arm still sticking out. Everybody howled. I swore then it would be my last speech.

Well, when I saw the setup of this Perryton banquet, I could sense that things weren't looking so good for me. I whispered to Gene: "Did you fix it up?" He whispered back: "You'll have to be introduced, because everybody wants to know who the stranger is. I'll handle it. I'll just tell that story on you, and then you can get up and bow."

Well, it was a mighty fine banquet. There must have been 300 people there, men and their wives. Perryton is a small town, but the main people for miles around belong to the Chamber of Commerce. And there were delegations from Pampa and Canadian and Borger, in Texas and from Liberal, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

While we ate, the high school band played. Between numbers there would be a little talk. Dave Shanks was toastmaster, and he was good. He razzed the speakers, and told them the shorter the better, and he had an alarm clock and actually rang it on the long-winded ones.

A lot of people in America think that civilization peters out west of the Mississippi. But let me tell you that nowhere have I ever seen a public meeting conducted with more well-balanced sophistication than the one in this little prairie town of Texas. The speakers didn't pontificate. There wasn't this grave self-importance you get in a big city civic gatherings. There was plenty of wit, and it wasn't hick wit.

Finally they got around to the main speaker of the evening, Gene Howe, and I knew my time had came. It had been two hours since we sat down, and I had spent all but about five minutes of it in a cold sweat, trying to think up some little thing to say. For I had decided it would look stuckup for a stranger to sit through the banquet as a guest and then do nothing but bow.

So Gene introduced me, and then told that story about how I couldn't make a speech and got stuck once with my arm out, and then he told me to stand up. I stood up, pale as a ghost, with that sickly one-sided grin on my face while everybody clapped, and then I blurted out the following histroic remarks:

"All I can manage to say, ladies and gentlemen, is that I think the girls of the domestic science class did a grand job of feeding us, and (here I stuck out my left arm) as I was saying to Mr. Howe coming up from Amarillo this afternoon . . ."

There I stopped. Stopped on purpose, you see (although I was plenty glad to stop). I acted good and scared, and then I looked slowly around to my left, and there was that arm sticking out there. And then I looked even worse scared, and then set down.

I still think it was a pretty clever idea if done right. But I was so rattled I went through it too fast, and I don't think anybody got it. At any rate I sat down gracefully.

When we got back to the hotel Gene wanted to know how his speech got over, and I said fine, but I didn't ask him how mine got over. Gene went right to sleep, but somehow I couldn't go to sleep till almost 3 o'clock, and we had to get up at 6 to drive back to Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Perdue, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pierce and Mrs. J. L. Claybrook attended the Legion meeting in Beaver, Thursday evening. The junior high school band furnished music throughout the evening. The entertainment was surely appreciated.

C. F. Gates, Leroy Gift and John Claybrook made a trip to see Dr. D. Karber north of Huguton, Kans., on Friday. Mrs. Gates and Mrs. E. K. Gates spent the day in Liberal.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Seaton were Sunday visitors with their daughter, Mrs. Frank Brooks and family.

Mrs. E. K. Gates was a Thursday night guest with Mrs. S. F. Williams.

Agricultural Meeting

Scott Amend, Soil Expert Speaker at Blodgett, Black, Lakeview and McMillen Meet

The Blodgett, Black and Lakeview Agricultural Association met Friday evening, February 5, with the McMillen association as guests.

A short play was given by the sixth grade children with musical numbers by J. D. Wilbanks and Tony McWilliams. J. T. Stovall, Ochiltree County agent, introduced Scott Amend, principal speaker, who is working in the Soil Conservation Service and with the County Wind Erosion Control district.

Mr. Amend began his talk with these four main purposes: prevention of the expansion of erosion; repairing erosion damage; revegetation of badly eroded land; promotion of a constructive permanent program. A grader and tractor and the services of a conservationist is furnished in this work.

The work will consist of leveling fence drifts, terracing, building diversion ditches and structures. An engineer is furnished for the running of all contour lines in pastures and on cultivated land.

Farmers were urged by Mr. Amend to try border stripping their farms. For instance, two widths of the drill planted in some good coverage crop around each section. The help of Mr. Amend is available to every farmer in the county, and he is anxious to meet and talk with each one.

Ochiltree County is proud to say that it has a 100 per cent paid up membership in the agricultural association.
