Faculty Gets New Contracts, Assistant Coach Is Employed

Approval of the books recommended by the Textbook Committee, amendment of the budget, extension of Contracts for members of the faculty and the hiring of an assistant coach highlighted the regular meeting of the board of trustees Monday night.

Teachers in H. P. Webb Elementary receiving contract renewals were Cynthia Price, Eloise Gallaway, Uleta Jenkins, Marsha Johnston, Carmaleta Barnett, Leatha Smith, Freda Worley, Oneta Gary, Rosalyn Sorley, Barbara Tollett, Lea Belle Hooper, Lucille Bley, Pearl Moore, Lillian Rape, Esther Graham, Jane Spain, Gayle Allcorn, Sue Burgess, Wanda Burton, Patsy Criswell, Sue Fuquay, Anne Burkhalter and Brenda Giles.

In Olton High School, those who were granted extensions of present contracts were Jim Curtsinger, John Galaviz, Gene Gee, Ed Miller, Katherine Phillips, Ida May Powers, Jean Rodriguez, Susie Spain, Fred Stockdale, Eva Walden, Jack Williamson, John Paul Jones, Larry Manuel, Evelyn Maxey and Maretta Baumgardner.

Others recommended for renewals were secretaries, Edna Price, Jean Curtsinger, Alva Roberson and Virginia Miller. Also included were lunch room supervisor Margie Slatten and bus foreman Loyd Blackwell.

Amendment of the budget was necessary because of federal money in the amount of $8,085 being made available to the school. The money was budgeted to the Title I Migrant and Title I Regular program, plus Title II and Vocational Education.

Employed as assistant coach was Larry Shackleford who will be graduating from Texas Tech this year. He will also teach Junior High Science.

Coaches Ed Miller and Ben Cates each received a raise in salary.

In other action, the board approved application for a special education class for students in Olton who are "trainable but can't be educated". These students, to be eligible to participate in the program, which is supported with federal funds, would have to have the permission of their parents. Most of the pupils involved in the program have an IQ of 80 or less.

The program will be a requirement by the year 1976. Supt. Joe Turner said that by going into the program at this time, a number of children could be reached that ordinarily would not be.

Littlefield, Springlake-Earth and Olton would be in the plan together with Littlefield assuming the responsibility for the program. Olton would qualify for three teachers and the students would be counted as a part of the average daily attendance, which is important to the school system.

Enrollment was down from 1022 last month to 1010 this month. At the beginning of the school year total enrollment was 1039.

Supt. Turner reported also that the school had made application to the state for funds for a work-study program this summer like the summer program that was in effect last year.

Applications have been placed for 12 students, who are enrolled in vocational agriculture next year, a requirement they must meet.

Total cost to the school would be $1600 for 54 days of labor if all 12 youngsters worked for the school. There is a possibility that two might work at the golf course and two for the city.

The board voted to meet Monday, April 5 at 7:30 p. m. to canvass the votes in the trustee election.

Appearing on the ballot will be the names of Garland De Prang, Burley Faver and Robert Dennis, in that order, for the three year terms. Uil Gunter is the lone man seeking the one year post.

The regular monthly meeting slated for April 12 was changed to April 8 because of the spring holiday vacation which begins April 12.

In final action, the board agreed that the school was in need of a new tractor for pulling mowers and other machinery and decided to take bids on new ones as well as each board member being on the look out for a good used one.

No Man's Land To Be Deeded, Trucks And Zoning Discussed

Discussion of a trash truck, zoning of the city, and the old fire truck were among the topics before the city councilmen at a regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night.

The council had earlier told fire chief Tom Smith to accept bids on the old 1941 Ford fire truck which is no longer used by the city. But after a discussion on the use of the truck at the new city dump grounds, they voted to keep the truck for the time being. No bids had been received.

The trash truck, which was to have been demonstrated to the council, was unavailable but was to be in the city Thursday for a demonstration. No action was taken toward the purchase.

City Attorney Andy Stroebel told the council that what has been known as "no man's land" on the east and west side of the town section was in reality city property.

The council voted to deed the land to the adjoining property owners, reserving a 12 foot right-of-way behind the curb and gutter, provided the city property owners met certain requirements.

These requirements are that the property owner must have said property surveyed and the cost of the survey and the curb and gutter must be paid before the deed would be given.

Zoning of the city was discussed but tabled because of the lack of information concerning the process of zoning.

Drawing for places on the ballot for the upcoming election was the last item on the agenda for the night.

Drawing were Walter Struve and K. Y. Givens. Their names will appear on the ballot in that order. Election is April 3 at the city hall.

My Neighbors

Dear Editor:

We would like to say that everyone has been so nice and wonderful to us. Again, I am glad to be an American, glad to live in this good old U.S.A.

I am thankful to my Lord that people still have big hearts full of love.

I would like to just take a minute to say thanks to our neighbors and friends and to their harried hands. To Delbert Howell, R. L. Hines, Harlan Carson, Elmer Lewis, Marcus Breland, Willie Gene Green, John Norfleet, Aubrey Smyth, Leon Griffin, Benny Dickson, Owen Jones, Floyd Bannister and A. J. Smyth.

In the Bible the question was asked, "Who is my neighbor?"

I would like to say, "Who will I let be my neighbor?" Sometime it might be asked, "Will I be a neighbor to others?"

I would like to say God Bless everyone that had a part in this wonderful thing that has happened to me and my family. I hope we can help someone else in the days ahead.

And I would like to say, if we all could just look at the good in man and not find fault what a wonderful world it would be.

Thanks to everyone,
J. D. Rodgers and family

Coupons For A Life

(Editor's note: Mrs. D. W. Stockham Jr., a former resident and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Elkins, sends this clipping from her Arizona Baptist Beacon.)

Tommy's Life May Depend On Coupons

The idea that coupons may be an important factor in saving the life of a four-year-old boy is not as farfetched as it may sound. The boy is Tommy Davis. His parents are members of Alum Rock Baptist Church, San Jose, Calif.

Tommy was born with miniature kidneys, one of which is non-functioning, the other only partly functions. The one kidney has been enough to keep Tommy alive, even though he has not grown at the normal rate.

Physicians attending Tommy say that within the next six months he will need a kidney machine to take over until a kidney transplant can be performed, and this could take years, since the structure of the donor must be as nearly as possible the same as the recipient.

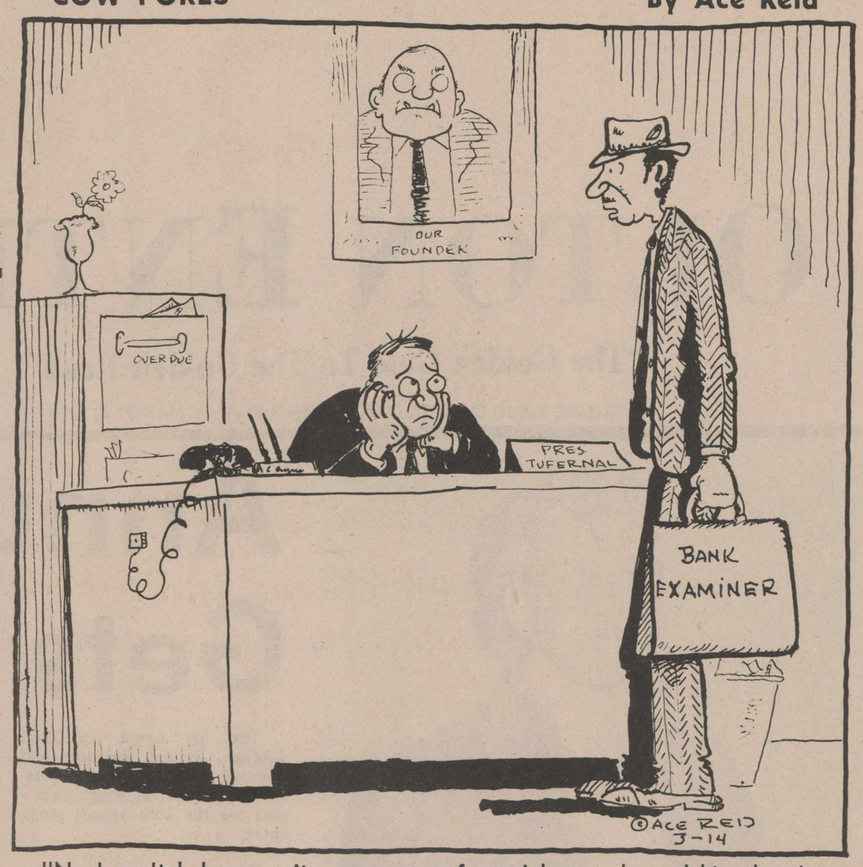

Tommy could use one of the kidney machines at San Francisco U. C. Hospital but there are only three, and if Tommy's life is to be saved he must have the machine the instant he needs it.

General Mills will supply a kidney machine in exchange for 800,000 Betty Crocker coupons, but all of the coupons have to be in by May 31, 1971. To date (Feb. 2) the family has managed to collect 55,000 but much more help will be needed if a sufficient number is collected to pay for the machine.

The Milpitas School System has "adopted" Tommy and is working on the project. Forty thousand of the coupons came from Arkansas and Arizona churches and schools but it will take an average of 149,000 coupons PER MONTH to make the May 31 deadline.

Coupons for Tommy Davis should be sent to him at 6220 Omaha Court, San Jose, Calif. 95123. San Jose Baptist

Sue's Views

Well, are you all set for the annual stock show?

By looking at this week's paper, you can certainly tell that it has the support of our fair city.

Isn't it great to live in a small town where we still can work together for a common cause?

Our kids will be working pretty hard the next few days getting their stock ready for the show and I imagine that it makes them feel better to know that the entire town is interested in the turn out of the show.

Speaking of working for a common cause, I hope all of you have been giving some thought as to what your contribution will be toward a hospital for Olton.

Just since work was begun toward getting medical facilities for Olton, there has been much interest shown and it's been proved over and over again that we need one. So when the fund drive begins, let's all dig and give as much as we possibly can and get that hospital that we need!

And while we're at it, we might drop a letter to Senator Jack Hightower in Austin in behalf of the ambulance service that we are now privileged to have.

This is a mighty important matter and we all need to express our views on it. If we just sit around and do nothing.... then nothing is what we are going to come up with.

Since the story of the threat to the ambulance service came out, there have been two examples of the need for an ambulance (that I know about --- there may be more.)

Gerald Bizzell was spared extensive damage to his heart because of the treatment received at Olton Community Clinic and because he was rushed (by ambulance) to Lubbock in such short time. Another case was that of Thelma Hysinger.

Before the story appeared, the infant daughter of the Ronnie Digby's, was rushed to Littlefield hospital. The family firmly believes that the equipped ambulance, that was available for their use, saved their baby's life.

Who knows who will be in need of an ambulance next?

It could be you or one of your family!

Or me or one of my family!

Let's get those letters off to Senator Hightower and ask him to help preserve ambulance service for the small towns.

SOFTEN CUTICLES

If your cuticles always seem to look rough and are constantly ripping, they need an intensive softening program to restore them to beauty. Every night for a week, buff your entire nail with baby oil, rubbing the oil into the cuticle, and allow it to remain overnight. To keep the cuticles and your hands soft, immerse them in a pan of warmed baby oil once or twice a week.

APPAREL MARKETS

A new specialized marketing service pioneered by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. identifies 117,000 retail and wholesale apparel establishments by line of merchandise and price range. The computerized service evolved as a fast marketing aid to makers of various lines of apparel and acccessories in selected price categories.

MEAT SUBSTITUTE

What's to great about dried beans, peas, lentils, and nuts? Well, they are rich in protein and when eaten with other foods they can be used as a substitute for meat. They're also noted for their iron and B vitamins. But they do lack vitamins A and C. That's why it's so important to serve greens or yellow vegetables, and raw salad when you're having a main dish of beans for supper.

MRS. FLOYD LIGHT

Cook Of The Week

Our Cook of the Week, Mrs. Floyd Light, shares recipes which are favorites with her family. They are very tasty and yet easy to prepare. The casserole is Jo's own "creation" which she came up with rather than take "plain baked ham" to a covered dish supper.

Jo Davis did not have far to move when she married Floyd Light and settled down as a housewife in their new farm home five miles north of Olton.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Davis of Hart, she had just completed her junior year in high school when she and Floyd married. Encouraged by her mother-in-law, who cooked dinner for her young farmer husband, Jo went on with her education and graduated with her Hart High School classmates.

Jo and Floyd have a daughter, Cynthia, 12 and two sons, Jonathan, 10, and David, four.

A member of Farm and Ranch Wives Study Club, Jo served last year as club secretary.

Active members of the First Baptist Church, Jo teaches a Sunday School class for freshman girls and "loves it." She asserts they "must be the best age to teach!"

Sewing is one of Jo's favorite hobbies. She makes all her own and Cynthia's clothes, turning out garments which rival those on the racks in the better department stores. She also enjoys cooking.

Realizing how quickly her children are growing up, Jo's first hobby is her family, supporting them in their interests.

The school is a research center for the newest and best ways of teaching music through the piano and was founded in 1960 by Frances Clark, its president and the person responsible for the publication of the Frances Clark Library for Piano Students.

Students participating this year in the test-teaching program are Judy Quigley, Chris Elkins, Celeste Burton, Diana Stewart, Cynthia Light, Carol Prentice and Cindy Walden.

Each student is given a piece and after learning it, gives it a rating of poor, fair, good or excellent. His rating is based on how well he likes the piece. Carson makes a similar rating on the basis of his opinion on the value of the number as a teaching piece.

You've been spending too much on weeds in cotton!

If you've been just cultivating, or using a chemical weed killer and not getting the control you need — either way you've been spending too much.

There's a better way to get good weed control, and spend less.

It's with Caparol® 80W — your partner, the weed-killer — band applied, at planting.

In just one trip across the field, you plant your crop and put Caparol on in a band. This keeps the weeds out of the rows. Then, all you do is cultivate the middles.

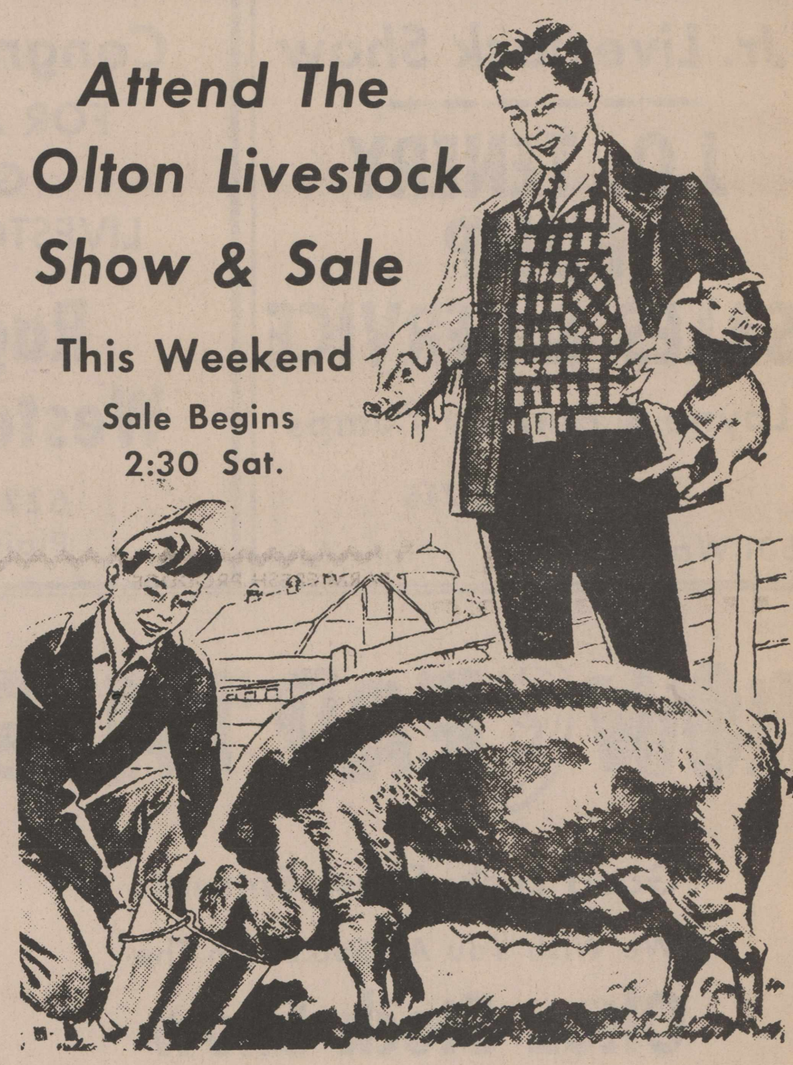

Don't spend too much on weeds in cotton again this year. Apply Caparol, in a band, at planting.

Noted Pianist Heiberg To Appear At Wayland

Noted pianist Harold Heiberg, a resident of New York City, will be presented in concert at Wayland Baptist College during regular chapel session at 10 a. m. Monday, March 15.

The public is invited to hear this outstanding pianist.

Heiberg will also play for a gathering of the Wayland music students and faculty on Monday at noon in Harral Auditorium.

Included in the chapel concert will be "Sonata in G Major, Op 31, Number One," by Beethoven, including "Allegro vivace," "Adagio Graziosa," and "Rondo: Allegretto."

From "Images, Second Series," by Debussy, Heiberg will play "Cloches a travers les feuilles," (Bells through the leaves), "Et la lune descend sur le temple qui fut," (And the moon goes down over the runined temple), "Poissons d'or," (goldfish). Also from Debussy, he will play "L'isle Joyeuse."

For the music students, Heiberg will play "Davidsbundler, Opus Six," by Robert Schumann.

A native of Minnesota, Heiberg began studying the piano at age eight, the organ at ten. He was graduated from St. Olaf College with the degree of Bachelor of Music, magna cum laude, and also holds a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University.

His advance piano study has been with Karl Ulrich Schnabel in New York and Lago di Como, Italy, and with Leonard Shure in Cleveland and New York. He has concertized extensively in Western Europe (including three tours of Germany for the U. S. State Department Information Service) and has also appeared in this country as a recitalist, chamber musician, and as soloist with orchestra.

Now a resident of New York City, where he maintains a studio, he has also attained a certain prominence as a translator of choral music and of opera (his translations have been used in performances in the Juilliard School, the New York City Opera and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Heiberg is a member of the staff of the Summer Vocal Institute in Freiburg, Germany, he last summer played a recital for the "Palace Concerts" in Salzburg, Austria.

In Berlin, the Montagsecho said, "Heiberg's playing is of high technical reliability and great clarity of concept, his tough sensitive and cultivated." The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung of Frankfurt said, "His performance was colorful, alive and eloquent." And in Oslo, the Morgenbladet said, "The pianist is equipped with a very solid technique and can veritably glitter when the occasion demands, but it is his musical personality which interests one the most. His interpretations had the imprint of great plan and intelligence."

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Will Our Country Survive Attacks?

Former Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton said on a nationwide telecast, not long ago, "If this trend continues — if this crisis of understanding endures — the very survival of the nation will be threatened." He was speaking of the unrest on university campuses and the apparent lack of understanding between some of our young people and their elders.

Ford Foundation President McGeorge Bundy, speaking to the students at Mount Holyoke College some time ago, said, "The question whether America will make it is contemporary and real."

Stetson University Chancellor Ollie J. Edmunds, speaking to the students of the University of Richmond (Va.), told about a conversation he had had with a banker in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Swiss banker had mentioned crime in the streets of Washington, D.C., and rioting by university students. "When the University students in California burned down the Bank of America building and then returned to their classes, I was astounded," he said.

Then he asked a question: "What about your country? Can it survive all these internal attacks?"

Is Danger Real?

Is there a real danger? Or are these men all "alarmists"?

Probably the "head in the sand" attitude, preferred by many, is more comfortable, less disturbing — until the event occurs and it is too late.

About a year ago, there was an editorial in Billy Graham's Decision magazine, entitled, "How to Destroy a Country." It said, in part:

"Inculcate general disrespect of law enforcement officers. . . .

"Import vast supplies of hallucinogenic drugs and make them readily available to the youth of the land. . . .

"Divide the country into ethnic groups and then incite insurrections by each group. . . .

"Corrupt the youth of the land by permitting pornography, obscenity, and general immorality to be indulged in freely without fear of arrest. . . .

"Soft-pedal all discussion of loyalty, responsibility, patriotism, duty, and sacrifice, in order that freedom of dissent may be established. . . .

"Split the older and younger generations by encouraging them to distrust each other and to condemn each other's institutions. . . .

"Can't Happen Here"

"Lull the intellectual leadership into believing that Communism is no threat; that the tyranny evident in present-day Czechoslovakia, Tibet, and other occupied lands is not an inherent part of the Marxist philosophy and could never happen here. . . .

"Discourage the practice of prayer and Bible reading by forbidding it in the public schools.

"Indoctrinate the public into believing that Jesus Christ is a myth . . . and the church an institution that mankind has outgrown."

Then, the editorial concludes with this thought, under the heading, "How to Heal a Country":

"If my people which are called by My name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Will anyone heed this message — in time?

Who decides on freedom of speech in this country nowadays? The lefty libs are quick to tell Agnew to shut up. But they think it's quite all right for well-known dissidents like Jerry Rubin, Jane Fonda and Abbie Hoffman, some of whom are paid thousands for a speech, to spout whatever kind of revolutionary drivel they choose! Isn't what's fair for one fair for all? Or are the rights guaranteed by our Constitution applicable only to one side?

In case you wonder where your tax dollars go, take a look at the government figures on food handouts for the last fiscal year. Millions of dollars worth of food stamps have been given not only to the truly poor, but also to strikers, who have simply decided to stop work, and to an odd-lot assortment of hippie parasites, radicals and do-nothings who are pleased to have "The Establishment" they profess to despise pay their way in the world, as long as we're suckers enough to do it. Last year, close to twelve million people marched into supermarkets with food stamps—almost double the number of the previous year's recipients. No wonder we're known as the "give-away nation"! Shouldn't there be stricter regulation of our Food Stamp Program, with at least some basic working requirement imposed by the government, before lavishly dispensing food stamps actually paid for with your money, and mine?

There were riots in Hungary, riots in Poland, riots in East Germany, all symptomatic of ordinary individuals' total disenchantment with the "Peoples' Paradise." Riots have also become commonplace in the Western world. But the distinguishing difference is that dissension behind the Iron Curtain is met with rapid and ruthless suppression.

In a nation whose citizens are taxed by federal, state, county and municipal governments, why are unions tax-free? Even when they invest in the stock market and make huge profits, they're still not obliged to pay taxes like the rest of us. American unions are big property holders. They own many things, including banks, insurance companies and hotels, yet they pay no taxes on the profits from these holdings, either. Yet you can be sure that the lowly rank and file union member must pay "taxes" to the union also. Regularly, his pay envelope is clipped for dues to fill the fat union treasury. In terms of real buying power, his raises, which may seem adequate on paper, seldom go far, because when salaries go up, prices quickly follow. This is what economists call "wage-push inflation." The treadmill is never-ending. But it doesn't seem to bother the unions, who, for reasons unfathomable to me, are exempt from taxes.

For years, it was common practice for the Soviets to grab any book, translate it and reproduce it, completely disregarding the rights of the author or publisher. All the cries of indignation from the rest of the world didn't stop them. The youth in so many Iron Curtain countries acquired their knowledge and education from what they were led to believe were bona fide Russian books, but in reality were only unlawful editions of the American and Western world originals.

Suddenly, the Reds have decided to honor the international copyright laws. Why?

The reasons are best known to themselves. But whatever they are, you may be quite sure that the Russians, first and foremost, will benefit from the situation. That is their habitual method of operation: To twist things to their best interests, and to hell with everybody else.

Quick quiz: Who is responsible for administering our country's labor laws? The answer is the NLRB. Unfortunately, this very limited, politically-appointed, five-man board consistently rules in favor of organized labor —the big unions. A vast majority of its decisions, it seems to me, are contrary to the interests of the man-in-the-street, and also to those of the nation as a whole. For example, the unions are permitted to slap heavy fines against members who continue on the job when a strike is called, even though it may be a wildcat strike begun at an instant's notice, without the full knowledge of all of the workers. Then again, the union can fine rank and file union members when they exceed their work production quota. In plain English, if the men do too good a job, they may be punished for it!

Unfair situations such as these couldn't possibly exist unless the National Labor Relations Board nodded its tacit approval. In my opinion, it's high time to take labor matters out of the hands of the biased NLRB, and turn them over to impartial federal courts which have no axes to grind, no favors to curry from political bigwigs, and no vested interests to influence their decisions.

Did you realize that the name of the powerful Communist newspaper, Pravda, actually means "Truth"? Imagine the irony of it! Very little that appears in this publication reflects the name at all. What Pravda prints is what the Kremlin wants it to—party-line propaganda—and nothing else. And as everybody knows, the Communists are past masters at distorting the truth to suit their particular whims of the moment. Why any intelligent person, or nation, permits himself to be continually duped by the Reds, I'll never know.

Doesn't it strike anyone as ironic that the Swedes, who have been forerunners in free thinking and free living, are now paying an exorbitantly high price for their so-called freedom? Their disappointment and unhappiness is a matter of record —world-high records of suicide, alcoholism, and you-name-it. Communists now hold the reins of the government, and the whole world knows their concept of "freedom." Swedish workers have been hit by inflation, too. The average man makes only $4000 a year, yet pays $1 for a pack of cigarettes, $5 for a pound of meat, and a 17% sales tax on almost everything.

Moral lesson: Sweden is far from a Utopia. It's a pity that living it up, for the Swedes, has evolved into a pathetic attempt to live down the disastrous results of an overdose of liberalism.

Other excessively permissive nations, take heed!

RAINFALL OR NO HAIL and DRY WEATHER

Mr. Farmer:

If you farm in Lamb, Bailey, Hockley or Cochran County, or in the so called buffer zone of last year's Hail Suppression area and you believe the activities of the hail suppression planes in dissipating clouds over your area the past year resulted in a REDUCTION OF RAINFALL, then we need your assistance in submitting this petition NOW!

PETITION

TO: THE TEXAS WATER DEVELOPMENT BOARD
OR: TO WHOM THIS MAY CONCERN

We, the undersigned petitioners, being citizens of Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Hockley Counties, Texas, desire to go on record as being opposed to cloud seeding operation by Atmospherics Incorporated or any other individual, group, firm or corporation, that attempts to interfere with the natural development of cloud formations. We firmly believe that the attempts to supress hail in our area interferes with natural rainfall, and therefore, we the undersigned oppose such attempts to interfere with nature.

We further request that the proper officials of this State refuse to issue permits to any individual, group, firm or corporation who attempts, by artificial methods, to supress the development and formation of atmospheric cloud formations.

It is no concern of the undersigned as to what methods may be used by other counties, so long as the area of our counties is not used as a buffer zone for the hail suppression program.

Precautions Can Prevent Accidental Poisonings

Who would want to hurt a child? Certainly not you, But for every child accidently poisoned, an adult is responsible, says Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension specialist inhome management at Texas A&M University.

Each year, close to one million children accidently ingest medicine and commonly-used household products, such as cleaning agents, furniture polish, kerosine, paint thinner and pesticides.

To prevent a tragedy, learn the potential danger spots for your child. For example, Mrs. Myers says that a child under five is constantly exploring his surroundings. When he learns to crawl, he reaches, touches and tastes everything within reach. Products stored on the floor and in floor-level cabinets, then are potential danger spots for him.

A toddler can reach higher places and is more likely to pull open low drawers or to reach items left on low tables or chairs. As he grows, he learns to climb a chair to reach objects above his arm's length.

A common remedy in protecting a child against household poisons is always keeping them locked up. But other simple rules are vital for your child's safety, Mrs. Myers, adds.

Never describe medicine as candy; call it by name--medicine.

Read the label on the bottle of medicine each time you use it, even if it means turning the light on at night. This practice prevents giving an overdose or the wrong medicine.

Children are tempted to imitate, so don't take medication in their presence.

When the phone or door bell rings, take the furniture polish with you. Don't leave it on the coffee table to tempt your child to sample it. Keep all products in their original container. Don't transfer it to a soft drink bottle or cup.

Beef Cattle Research Discloses Approach To Feedlot Wastes

In Texas, beef cattle outnumber people seven to one. The beef cattle raised in commerical feedlots of the High Plains of Texas produce money in the bank, an attractive economy, and enough solid waste each year " to form a mountain."

In three research papers, Texas Tech University specialists told the American Society of Agricultural Engineers meeting in Chicago Tuesday that progressive cattle feeders, universities, state regulatory agencies and others are experimenting with new design concepts based on a systems approach to the entire problem of feedlot waste.

Involved, they said, are pollution abatement, weight gain in cattle, feed efficiency and profit.

The work of six Texas Tech researchers was reported at the national meeting recently, and other Texas Tech reports on recharge of the Ogallala Aquifer are scheduled for sessions.

Chairman George F. Meenaghan of the department of Chemical Engineering reported on "Gas Production from Beef Cattle Wastes." His research was conducted with Director Dan M. Wells of the Texas Tech Water Resources Center, Animal Science Prof. R. C. Albin and Agricultural Engineering Prof. Walter Grub.

Cattle used in their experiments were held in environmental chambers and wastes were flushed into a two-stage digestion system which produced methane gas as an end product.

The system, Dr. Meenaghan told the engineers, is feasible "and can be used for obtaining nominal treatment of beef cattle wastes" although even with the best conditions, the system "will not be sufficient for complete treatment."

The researchers said that while methane gas is produced in sufficient quantities for sale, the only profit to the feedlot operator would be in efficiency of operation which would contribute to a saving in overall cost of waste control.

Prof. Grub, in reporting on composting waste both in a drum digestion system and in open composting, concluded that this, too, is a feasible solution but "requires skilled management to obtain satisfactory results."

Most waste now is piled in open composting without any system for stabilizing it, the researchers found. It could be treated in specially designed digesters or in exposed compost piles turned at regular intervals. When stabilized the compost could be stored in a wet or dry state without danger of heating, attracting insects or causing noxious odors. While feasible, this also represents added cost to the feedlot operation.

Keeton also presented a paper on the effects of manure depth on runoff from southwestern cattle feedlots. This research was done in association with Grub, Wells, Meenaghan and Albin.

Horticulturist Advises Pros & Cons Of Pruning

Now is the time to inspect woody ornamentals for needed pruning, but don't prune just because it is that time of the year or because you need the exercise.

"If you cannot justify the removal of a limb or branch, you better put up your equipment and go spade the garden for exercise," says Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A&M University.

Some of the reasons for pruning include removing dead or winter-killed growth or balancing the top with the root system when setting out new plants. Diseased or insect-injured wood, as well as storm or accident-damaged limbs, should be removed as soon as possible.

Older shrubs can be rejuvenated by pruning the older branches. Cutting can help develop a desired shape or size; produce better flowers and fruit.

Janne cautions against severe pruning and says that it is better to prune lightly and more often to prevent sunscald to the sensitive inner branches. He also says not to leave stubs that invite insects and disease.

All wounds or cuts over three-quarters of an inch in diameter should be painted with a wound dressing which can be obtained at any nursery or garden center.

Janne says that plants which bloom in early spring with the appearance of new leaves should be pruned after they flower. Those that bloom later in the season may be pruned during dormancy.

More detailed information concerning pruning can be obtained from the publication, Modern Pruning Methods, which is available at any county Extension office, says Janne.

Let Guilty Be Punished

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE SALUTE YOU.

Strong men doomed in Rome's arena so saluted Caesar -- their government. Today, we Texans shout a salute to our Lawmakers.

HELP!

In the name of slain Sheriff's Deputies Sam Infante, A. J. Robertson and Done Reese and eight other American lawmen slaughtered in one week (Feb. 14 - 21, 1971) and in fear of the Almighty, PLEASE:

* Keep our death penalty and for a change USE IT. Our criminals, our lawmen and our Holy Bible agree that it works. Our weaklings, our textbooks and our enemies oppose it.
* Kill the proposed Texas Penal Code designed to pamper and coddle perverts, dope dealers, murderers and bandits. Give us instead sharp teeth in the rubber-gummed 1966 revised Code of Criminal Procedure you forced into our mouths.
*Bridle the runaway parole system which trots back rank after rank of rogue convicts to prey upon our wives, children and our properties....and upon the few true penitents who leave the penitentiary.

Now, now, now. let the guilty be punished as our God ordained and as our forefathers wisely dictated, lest we who have earned order and who love law perish.

'Lazy S' Dugout Restored For Texas Tech Museum

A two-story dugout which dates from the turn of the century has found a final resting place at the Ranch Headquarters outdoor development on the ground of The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Before it was moved from its isolated site about five miles north of Whiteface, in western Hockley County, the little structure had served for nearly twenty years as a line camp for Col. C. C. Slaughter's Lazy S Ranch which sprawled over parts of two Texas counties.

With a high roof and five-foot walls, the sturdy little building can still withstand the gusty winds of the South Plains.

In February, 1901, Slaughter ordered his ranch manager, his eldest son George, to build something "cheap and small" to serve as a line camp on the Whiteface pasture. The half-dugout, typical of the times, was built thirteen miles from the main ranch headquarters in Cochran County.

The walls, about four feet high, were constructed over a hole about three to four feet deep.

A cowboy and his wife could live comfortably in the little dugout. In 1904, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor were occupants of the Whiteface camp, which was used continuously as a line headquarters until the ranch was divided in 1921.

At some time prior to 1912, a box and strip upper level was added, making the structure a two-story dugout. Several additions have been made since that date, including a stucco covering and sheltered entryway.

The building has been used for storage since the early 1920s, when the White Face Farm colonization project began, shortly after Slaughter's death and the break-up of the huge ranch.

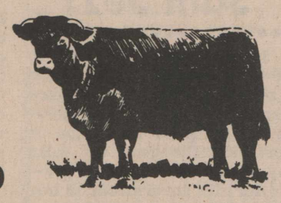

The building was contributed to the Ranch Headquarters last year by White Face Farms Inc. Moving and restoration was made possible by Nelle S. De Loache Properties. Dallas.

The Ranch Headquarters project will utilize a collection of authentic ranch buildings to recreate an outdoor, living museum of ranch life on the Texas Tech campus. Located on 12 acres of the 76-acre site of The Museum, the Ranch Headquarters, destined to become a major tourist attraction, is dedicated to preserving the heritage of a bygone era.

Message From The Director

To All Law Enforcement Officers

Frequently, some belligerent, anti-law enforcement elements of our society refer to police officers as "pigs." Obnoxious four-letter words are shouted at policemen, and the familiar chant "Off the Pigs," meaning "Kill the Police," is a prominent cry wherever these groups assemble. Further, cartoons and publications depicting police officers as pigs are common fare, even for children. The ridiculous statements, "The only good pig is a dead pig," is a slogan of violent protesters. Such deplorable epithets can be gratifying only to little minds.

Self-respect and respect for one's fellow man are hallmarks of civility under any recognized measure of achievement. Further, the proven concepts which enable men of all races, creeds, and backgrounds to live together with a reasonable degree of harmony should be respected. One such concept is the rule of law. Without the rule of law our world would be a jungle. Thus, it is important that the rule of law and all its facets, including the policeman, be respected. In a free society where law-not man-is supreme, the policeman is a living symbol of the freedoms shared by all.

In light of the humanitarian aspects of a policeman's work, I would like to repeat a comment made here a few years ago:

"In any emergency, real or imaginary, the first cry that goes forth is for the police. The officer on the beat must be a journeyman of many trades - an on-the-spot doctor, plumber, or babysitter. Today's enforcement officer is expected to have multifarious ability, explicit judgment, and an unshakable temperament. He performs on a public stage. The audience is 'live'; every observer is a critic. There can be no retakes of his efforts nor pre-taped performances. He is second-guessed, ridiculed, abused, cursed, assaulted, and sometimes murdered. But when he leads a small, lost tot from a dense, wooded area to the arms of a joyously weeping mother, his is a rewarding and satisfying service." Policemen should be respected, at least for what they represent; they should not be called pigs.

We badly need to shore up some eroding ideals and principles in our country today. Community leaders, professional spokesmen, educators, clergymen, and others in positions of influence should take a firm stand to preserve our sense of values. Too many are swayed or intimidated by loud, unruly, and aimless ramblers-people with a lot of dialog but no message.

In a free society, which owes its very existence and prominence to the rule of law, abuse and ridicule of the law and those charged with enforcing it should not be taken lightly. I urge all members of law enforcement-inspite of personal indignities suffered-to serve with dignity and honor. As a rule, a repulsive slur is more descriptive of its origin than its target.

J. Edgar Hoover, Director.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

It is a pretty good idea to sit down now, before the end of the year, and figure out whether your income tax withholding is going to cover you on April 15. The good tax folks say hat most taxpayers prefer for the government to owe them, rather than take any chances on having to pay extra. Many families are faced with a real tragedy when they find that both Mom and Dad claimed the same dependent on their Form W-4. On the other hand, it is not too late to cut down the excess refund by reducing your withholding now. If you have had a major increase in your itemized deductions, if you have already had a hurricane or tornado loss, paid for a major medical expense, or paid an unusually large contribution to your church, you may want to reduce your withholding by seeing your payroll clerk and getting a Form W-4 Schedule A.

ASSEMBLY LINE PAINT

Veterans Administration Benefits Currently Available 580,000 Women

The 1,000 wives of American servicemen missing or captured in Vietnam make up only a small percentage of the 580,000 women eligible for educational benefits, home loans, or both from the Veterans Administration, Jack Coker, Director of the VA Regional Office in Waco, pointed out today.

A law signed by the President last month made wives of servicemen listed for more than 90 days as missing in action, captured or "forcibly detained or interned in the line of duty by a foreign government or power" eligible for VA home loan and educational programs.

The largest group of women eligible for VA programs is 180,000 female veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict.

Their unused expired loan benefits were restored by law last October.

Another 160,000 women now in service, or who served after January 31, 1955, qualify under the current GI Bill for monthly checks for educational purposes and for the home loan program with loans guaranteed up to 60 per cent with a maximum of $12,500.

Under a new VA program 175,000 widows of deceased veterans can go to school, take training or make home loans under VA programs. Some 8,230 thus far have taken advantage of these major programs.

Wives of 64,000 permanently and totally disabled veterans are eligible for VA educational benefits. Some 1,800 have participated so far.

Women who think they may be eligible for benefits under any VA program are urged to contact their nearest VA office for further information.

'Millionaire Crop' Adds Boost To Texas Economy

If there was a squeal in peanuts, scientists would find a marketable use for it.

They've found a use for just about everything else in peanuts. Everyone knows about peanut butter and peanut oil, but there are a lot of other things coming from the peanut, like:

There's a cereal becoming popular with children; salted, in-the-shell peanuts are popular, especially at ball games; there are de-fatted peanuts for the weight watchers; peanuts promise a major contribution in the manufacture of meat substitutes; and now, developments are being made to spin the protein out of peanuts into cloth.

And that's not all. Peanut products are used in cosmetics; and ground peanut hulls are so popular as roughage in livestock feeds, that the demand exceeds the supply.

Furthermore, the peanut has a "week" of its own. March 3-13 has been designated as National Peanut Week.

Commissioner John C. White has announced that the Texas Department of Agriculture, in conjunction with the Texas Peanut Producers Board, will give the peanut its biggest promotion as a quality Texas Agricultural Product (TAP) later this year.

The peanut might have been thought of once as the "lowly peanut", but not now. Wayne Eaves, executive secretary of the Texas Peanut Producers Board, said: "Peanuts are a millionaire crop, meaning about $50,000,000 a year to the economy of Texas."

Texas is the nation's second largest peanut producing state, and peanuts rank sixth in major cash crops for the state.

Texas has 117 counties that produced 317,000 tons of Spanish-type peanuts on 357,000 acres in 1970, with a value of more than $50 million. Comanche County is Number One in the State in growing peanuts with 61,000 acres, followed by Eastland County with 40,000. Atascosa County with 22,000, and Erath and Frio Counties with 18,000 each.

Peanut butter is an all-Texas favorite. A physician seeking an easily digested, high-protein food for some of his patients apparently "invented" peanut butter in 1890. The lucky patients' friends liked the new health food, and its popularity grew.

The greatest scientist, George Washington Carver, more than a half century ago began experimenting with peanuts and gave impetus to the development of peanut butter, the use of peanut oil in paints and other uses.

Nutritionally, peanuts rank near the top in six categories of foods. It has over 26 per cent protein, a percentage higher than eggs, dairy products and many cuts of meats and fish.

No doubt about it, peanuts are the "Fun food" and a mighty important one.

European Tour For Summer Of 1971 Offered For Adults And Students

A European tour last summer proved so exciting, educational, and interesting to some Plainview residents that two of the group, Mrs. John Blaine and Mr. William Fred Webb, plan to sponsor a similar trip to the continent this coming summer.

The three week student and adult economy tour originates from Dallas with the Student Travel Abroad Agency. Air travel will be chartered American Flyers Airlines, DC-8 jetliner. Air travel will be roundtrip from Dallas, a feature not offered in most economy tours. Travel within Europe will be by rail, hovercraft, steamer, and deluxe motorcoach.

The group departs Dallas June 11, 1971, and arrives in London, England June 12. Tours within London will include Palace, witnessing the Changing of the Guard, Piccadilly Circus, the Houses of Parliament. Westminster Abbey, Hyde Park, Tower of London, Royal Exchange, St. Paul's Cathedral, Old Curiosity Shop of Charles Dickens' fame, and other points of interest.

Traveling by rail and hovercraft to Paris, France, the tour group will visit the Paris Opera, Madeliene Church, Champs-Elysees, Montmartre, Notre Dame, and the Louvre Museum. A trip to Versailles to view the Gallery of Mirrors, the Royal Chapel, and the beautiful gardens is also included.

In Italy, the tour will travel to Milan and on to Florence where the Medici Chapel containing Michelangelo's masterpieces will be seen. Also included will be St. Lawrence Church, the Cathedral, Giotto's Bell Tower, the House of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, the Pitti Palace and Gallery, Uffizi Gallery, and the Church of Santa Croce containing the tombs of Michelangelo, Rossini, and Galileo.

Three days will be spent in historical Rome. Sightseeing in the "Eternal City" includes the popular Trevi Fountain, Piazza di Spagna, the Spanish Steps, Piazza Colonna where the Marcus Aurelius Column is located, the Pantheon, a two thousand year old pagan temple. Piazza Navona, built on the ruins of the Circus Maximus, Vatican City, the Roman Forums, and the Palatine Hill where Rome is said to have been founded. The Colosseum, the Church of St. Peter in Chains, including the viewing of the "horned" statue of Moses sculpted by Michelangelo. From Rome, an optional tour to the Isle of Capri is available. This trip will include the viewing of the spectacular Blue Grotto.

Traveling to Venice, the group will visit St. Mark's Square with its famous Basilica, the Doges' Palace, the Piombi Prisons, and the famous Bridge of Sighs.

Departing Venice by rail and motorcoach, the tourists will visit Lucerne, Switzerland. Here the sightseeing includes the Lion Monument dedicated to the Swiss Guard, the wooden Chapel Bridge of 1333, the wooden Dance of Death Bridge of 1407, both adorned with interesting paintings of the period. An afternoon excursion by steamer on Lake Lucerne takes the group to Alpnachstad where they make the fascinating ascent to 7,012 feet Mt. Pilatus. From the top of this mountain, one enjoys a breathtaking panoramic view of the surrounding Swiss countryside.

From Lucerne the group continues by motorcoach, touring via Zurich into Germany by way of Schaffhausen with the famous Rhine Falls, through the heart of the Black Forest in view of the Feldberg Ridge, on to Freiberg, Baden-Baden, Karlsruhe, and on to historic Heidelberg. A rhine steamer trip passing by the many castles lining the river valley and a view of the famous rock "Lorelei" will bring the group to Koblenz. Continuing by motorcoach, the tour will continue to Bonn, capital of West Germany and the birthplace of Beethoven. In Cologne, the famous Cathedral will be the highlight.

Touring through the industrial Rhine-Ruhe districe, the group will cross the border into the Netherlands. Continuing via Arnhem, scene of airborne landings in 1944, and by way of Utrecht, the party will arrive in Amsterdam, exciting city of the Netherlands. Highlights in Amsterdam include the Rijksmuseum with its Rembrandt Rembrandt's House, the Old Portuguese Synagogue, the New and Old Church, and the Stock Exchange.

From Amsterdam the group will depart from Schiphol, Europe's most modern airport, and fly direct to Dallas, Texas.

The tour will be conducted from June 11- July 2, 1971. The cost is $799.00, which includes all transportation, hotel accomodations in excellent tourists class hotels with private bath or shower, two meals per day throughout (Continental breakfast and dinner), transfers, baggage, and the services of a professional multi-lingual tour director from arrival in London to departure in Amsterdam. All of the sightseeing and services of a guide-lecturer and entrance fees are included in the stated tour price.

Persons interested in this tour should contact Mrs. John Blaine, 1809 W. 18th, Plainview, Texas (telephone 296-5996), or William F. Webb, Box 1734, Plainview, Texas (telephone 296-5046).

Horticulturist Explains Benefits Of Green Plants 'Purifiers'

Green plants play a vital role in our survival and well-being.

They, explains Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist, are the great air purifiers of the world. They have the ability to take carbon dioxide from the air and convert it to oxygen which is vital to all animal life, In the process of photosynthesis, plants manufacture the basic carbohydrate materials which we ultimately use as food.

In a season of active growth, Janne notes that the grass in a well-maintained 50 by 50 feet lawn will liberate enough oxygen to meet the needs of a family of four day after day.

He says estimations made by Dr. Karl Boer, University of Delaware scientist, show that each of us requires at least 78 large trees each day to utilize the carbon dioxide given off in the various processes needed to maintain our well-being.

Here is the way he sees it. One tree is needed to take up the carbon dioxide from our breathing; 20 for our automobile; 20 for heating and air conditioning our home; 5 for household electricity; 2 for garbage disposal and 30 trees to utilize the carbon dioxide produced in the manufacture of the industrial goods each of us uses.

These estimations, points out Janne, do not consider the effects of public transportation, forest fires, and other contributors to the CO_2 in the atmosphere. For example, a commercial jet aircraft flying from New York to Los Angeles creates enough CO_2 to require the combined efforts of more than 50,000 trees for one day to utilize it all.

Greater use of plants in home gardens, in home and public landscaping, and in community beautification is suggested by the horticulturist, as a positive contribution for reduced air pollution.

In addition to acting as air purifiers and food manufacturing complexes, trees also improve the environment, says Janne. They cool the air and provie welcome shade. The foliage serves as a filtering system screening out dust from the atmosphere. They can serve as windbreaks, reducing the wind velocity; thereby, reducing heat loss from homes and farm yards. Trees and shrubs also serve as excellent sound barriers against traffic and industrial noises, advises Janne.

For their aesthetic value alone in helping beautify our surroundings, trees, shrubs and ground cover plants are worth the time, effort and expense required to plant and maintain them, contends the horticulturist. Add this to all of the other benefits derived from green growing plants, he adds, and it is easy to see why it is important that we keep America green.

And reminds Janne, the optimum time for tree planting is now at hand.

OK!... you want to be Cool

Get your money's worth

electric air conditioning

OVER 30 YEARS OF PROVEN DEPENDABILITY
Just like your refrigerator, electric air conditioning uses the same experience-proven method of cooling. A dependable compressor keeps on cooling no matter how high the outside temperature.

LOW OPERATING COST
Before you buy, be sure you have complete information. Electric air conditioning saves you money when you buy and because it uses only electricity and free air, your operating cost is low . . . no extra installation costs, either!

HIGH ALTITUDE — NO PROBLEM
Despite our high altitude, electric air conditioning keeps on doing its job because the electric cooling method is completely sealed against the effects of altitude changes.

CHOICE OF BRANDS
There are 58 manufacturers of electric air conditioning and all major brands are available in our area. Brands in your area are listed in the Yellow Pages or identified on your neighborhood dealer's store front.

CHOICE OF SIZES
Electric air conditioning offers the right size for your cooling job. Too large a unit makes your first cost unnecessarily high; too small runs up operating cost. Electric air conditioning can save you money on both counts.

COMPLETE SERVICE
The principle of electric air conditioning is so well understood and the parts so easy to change that any air conditioning man can give you service quickly should you ever need it.

GIFFORD-HILL'S 360 SPRINKLER SYSTEM

GIFFORD-HILL

Beautiful days oft times come at the wrong time. You might just as soon see a gentle, soaking, half-inch rain. But because Mother Nature isn't always as dependable as she might be, Gifford-Hill has stolen some of her thunder.

The electrically powered 360 sprinkler system lets you schedule your own rain. The exclusive sprinkler spacing concept applies the same amount of water at one end of the system as it does at the other. No puddling. No runoff.

The 360 goes in either direction, uphill or down. It will water a quarter-circle, a half-circle, any portion of your field with the exact amount needed. And the positive gear drive motor lets it move only when you want it to.

You should have a 360. On those beautiful sunny days, you'll have everything going for you, including the rain.

Gifford-Hill & Company, Inc.

rounds out a beautiful sunny day.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Aha, I've been telling you that one of these days I would win one of those "lucky number" hanky panky contests. Well, I did!

Our prize arrived this week! Such a thrill!

We are now the proud possessors of five - not just one- certificates good for three dollars off when we buy a fifteen dollar record album - naturally they want us to have every advantage so the five certificates are good for discounts on five albums! See there, what good fortune!

I'm even more ready for the Federal Trade Commission - or whatever organization it is - to check into a few more of these wonderful sweepstakes promotions - - this one wasn't the one they'd announced earlier they were checking. But, it was added to their list a few days back.

Don't know why I keep sending in chances - I couldn't win with the odds even. And, I have already learned, you don't USUALLY get something for nothing.

Paychecks have to be earned, fields have to be plowed, dinners have to be cooked and all that jazz. You can't even loll in the shade if you don't first get a tree.

Meanwhile, I'll keep after that will o' the wisp, I'll keep on a keepin' on and maybe -

Guess all that's good advertising and who ever heard of a newspaper guy or gal running down advertising?

Some companies are sure sharp. Did you know they have people who real ALL papers, clipping out references to their products? You'd better spell their name right, too.

We discovered, a couple of years back, that we were carefully read by one of the world's leading beverage companies when we received a letter scolding us for spelling their popular name with a little "c". (know who they are?).

They assured us that they knew proof readers sometimes overlooked little things but would we please make note to use a big C, PLEASE.

Well, we got a letter a couple of weeks ago. Got caught by another company. In the Cook of the Week column, we'd mentioned a brand name (carefully capitalized) but we failed to add "corn chips" after the popular name. That's a "No No" to them.

Now, that's close reading, don't you think? The first instance was in a women's club report that mentioned the refreshments served.

Still can't fuss much. We wouldn't want our names distorted - unless we're doing the distorting!

Remember, too, it does pay to advertise!

Look what one man did with chewing gum!

ENERGY SUPPLIER

Everytime you drink a glass of milk, it provides enough energy to walk a mile, dance an hour, or to climb 196 stairs, or play cards for 3 1/2 hours. If you are a homemaker, one glass of milk supplies enough energy to house clean for two hours, or sew for a couple of hours. A glass of milk anytime, replaces energy fast.

Ft. Worth's Shick Hospital Employs New Techniques

Probably the only hospital in the Southwest with a well stocked liquor cabinet is in operation in North Richland Hills, a suburb of Fort Worth.

It is Schick Hospital, a half-million-dollar, 42 bed center for the treatment of alcoholism.

Schick employs the "conditioned reflex aversion" technique which develops within the patient a dislike for the taste, smell and sight of alcohol while bringing his anxiety problems and sleep patterns toward normal through deep sleep and relaxation therapy.

Schick Hospital is owned by Frawley Enterprises, Inc., owners of Schick Electric and several other companies in addition to Shadel Hospital in Seattle, Wash. Some 17,000 men and women have been treated at Shadel since it opened in 1935.

One of the patients was Patrick J. Frawley, Jr., the multimillionaire who at 26, successfully marketed the ballpoint pen. When Frawley visited Shadel, he was so impressed with the treatment technique that he bought the hospital and plans to open several others regionally in the future.

Like Shadel and Schick, all the hospitals will employ the conditioned reflex aversion technique. With this approach, the patient develops an aversion to the taste, smell and sight of his favorite drink and other alcoholic beverages.

A four-year follow-up study of patients from Shadel Hospital reveals that more than 60 per cent remain permanently abstinent from alcohol after their initial treatment period.

Director at Schick Hospital is Robert B. Dunn, M. D., who has done extensive research in alcoholism at Schick Pharmaceutical. He and his staff of 35, including registered nurses, anesthetists, medical doctors and psychiatrist agree that alcoholism is not a personality disorder, but an addiction.

The conditioned reflex aversion treatment attempts to break the alcoholic's addiction to alcohol. It makes it possible for him not to drink.

In addition to the medical team, several counselors who are themselves recovered alcoholics, work closely with patients and their families.

THIRD QUARTER REPORT

CATTLE ON FEED -- On Oct. 1, last, Texas cattle on feed numbered 1.4 million head, said the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This was 6 percent more than a year ago. Nationally, the number was up only 3 percent in the 22 feeding major states. Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist, said the report showed that cattle feeding continues to show the most growth in the northern part of the Panhandle with declines now developing in northeastern and Gulf Coast areas of the state.

LOW TEMPERATURE

Cooking meat at low temperatures has many advantages. A low temperature makes the meat more juicy and therefore improves flavor, requires less fuel and results in more servings from a cut of meat.

NUTRITION HAZARD

The candy and soft drink hazard is a real threat to your child's nutrition, especially to his teeth. If he acquires the sweet-snacking habit, he no longer enjoys the good foods in his normal diet, so he is likely to eat less and less of them and become undernourished. Be sure your child is eating foods and snacks that are good for his health and strength. Foods like: fresh fruit, enriched cereal or crackers, ice cream.

UNDERWEIGHT?

Underweight? Your answer is to increase gradually the amount of foods you eat. A little more milk, eggs, meats, vegetables, fruits, enriched cereal and breads in your diet will do the trick.

VITAMIN C

Frozen and fresh juice are similar in Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content.

HOSPITAL DISMISSAL

I. B. Holt was dismissed Monday from the Littlefield Hospital where he had been treated for several days.

Homemakers Are Executives

Every homemaker is an executive in her own right, and her work calls for the most skillful organizing. She must plan and organize her work schedule so that she can make the most of her time and equipment, and keep her home running smoothly and efficiently.

Properly running a household involves so many things, - disposing of the garbage, cleaning the house, caring for curtains and upholstery, freshening arrangement of furniture, pictures, etc. So many things must be done weekly, even daily, and some things like meals, dishes, and floors even more frequently.

It is good to list things to be done according to the frequency of care required, occasionally, weekly, daily, etc. Then priorities and routine can be better established. It has been suggested:

1. Allot time to do the most important things first.
2. Try to be efficient and effective, whether you follow a schedule or not.
3. Plan a reward for yourself after you have finished, so as to provide greater incentive.
4. Take things in order. By systematic. Do not try to do everything at once.
5. Allow for little diversions, during the day, and even for little vacations at the end of certain periods. This will help take care of fatigue, illnesses, and unexpected interruptions.
6. Have a definite quitting time for general chores, remembering that you will have tomorrow, just as a secretary or your husband must leave some work for tomorrow.
7. You are the executive, so organize and systematize, so that uncertainty, confusion and disorder do not make a slave out of you, but that you will be the master of the whole operation.

And good luck, Mrs. Executive Homemaker.

NEEDED MILK

Foods like chocolate pudding, ice cream and cheese give you some of the milk you need every day -- adults and children. Have you served any in your home today?

MEAT FOR BREAKFAST

Meat eaten at breakfast time is one way to fill the day's protein requirement. Instead of serving eggs all the time, why not give your family a change? Give them sausage patties, ham slices or canned salmon in the morning. And there's no reason why the family can't eat a hamburger for breakfast!

Congressman Bob Price Urges Gun Control Repeal

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has called upon Congress to repeal the Gun Control Act of 1968.

In a strongly worded speech Price urged House liberals to face reality and, "consider the fundamental fact that guns and ammunition do not kill people--people kill people," and that, "as long as criminals think they can profit from crimes involving the use of guns, criminals will use guns to commit crimes."

The Texas lawmaker stated that those interested in controlling armed crime and violence would serve their purposes better by focusing attention on reforms of the criminal justice system. "What is needed is upgrading and better equiping state and local police forces, enacting tougher laws to deter potential criminals and to severely punish convicted felons, streamlining criminal court procedures, and reforming for penal system."

Price also introduced legislation removing Federal restrictions on the sale of .22 calibre rimfire ammunition. The last Congress had passed Price's poroposals to eliminate record keeping requirements for shotgun and rifle ammunition, but his specific proposal relating to .22 calibre rimfire ammunition passed the House, then saw no final Senate action.

In support of his second proposal, Price cited Treasury and Justice Department reports that in the first two years since the passage of the Act, there was not one single instance where any of the recordkeeping requirements for sporting ammunition proved helpful in law enforcement or led to the successful investigation and prosecution of a crime.

Price declared, "Repealing the Gun Control Act of 1968 would rid the American people of the burdens of a law that never should have been passed in the first place."

"Repealing the remaining restrictions on the sale of .22 calibre rimfire ammunition would remove perhaps what to thousands upon thousands of freedom-loving and law-abiding sportsmen and merchants is the most aggravating single feature of the Act itself, a feature that has been conclusively shown to have absolutely no bearing on crime prevention and crime control," he said.

MILWAUKEE, WIS. ---This great industrial city on Lake Michigan has been justly renowned as a center of American enterprise and skill. Machines and industrial equipment manufactured here are known worldwide for their excellence and reliability. But the success of manufacturers here--and throughout the United States -- is being seriously jeopardized by a decline in worker productivity.

The problem isn't peculiar to Milwaukee or Wisconsin. A gradual slowdown of workers in plants and factories can be discerned in all parts of the nation. Those who are close observers of the industrial scene are aware that Americans aren't working as hard as they did in years past.

One businessman I spoke with noted that his company has more than a dozen plants in the United States, Europe and Asia. Worker productivity at the company's plant in Japan is two and one-half times as great as worker productivity at the company's factories in the United States. Even the plant in Great Britain -- a country many Americans regard as the land of the tea break -- has a better record of worker productivity than the plants in the states.

That's a shocking revelation. Americans have taken it for granted that they outproduce other countries. That assumption no longer is well-founded. Other people are striving harder for the good life and are aware that their national wealth depends on worker output.

Theoretically, Americans work an eight-hour day. But one company official said: "Today, we figure we get five hours of hard work out of the eight hours a man spends on the job."

One way to gauge worker productivity in a plant where a lot of electric tools are used is to plot the electrical load. At one plant, I was told, the load builds up very slowly after the work force arrives in the morning. The load begins to drop off about a half an hour before the regular mid-morning coffee break and doesn't get back to the normal level until some time after the break. In the afternoon, the load drops off again well before quitting time.

This thoughtless slowdown isn't the only manifestation of declining productivity. Many big plants have a citical problem of absenteeism on Mondays and Fridays. Some companies, faced with this problem, have hired college youngsters in their communities to work on those two days of the week.

Industrial managers also are very concerned about the apparent lack of interest on the part of many young people in skilled factory jobs. One official pointed out to me that new employees in their late teens and early twenties prefer a truck-driving job at his plant at $2.25 an hour rather than an apprenticeship in a skilled trade at $1.75 an hour, though the apprenticeship leads to lifetime employment at top blue-collar wages.

As a result of these developments in U. S. factories, the cost of American-made goods is rising rapidly. Many types of machinery are being priced out of the domestic market. A few years ago, a Japanese automobile was a rarity in the United States. Today, the Japanese are edging out the German automakers. The full extent of foreign competition isn't easily discernible. For instance, many supposedly American-made road-building machines consist of heavy forgings imported from Japan. Many U. S. farmers use tractors produced in Scotland.

The flood of foreign imports will increase as labor unions demand and get unreasonable wage settlements and as the productivity of American industrial workers lags behind the productivity of foreign workers. Declining productvity also is associated with carelessness. Many people complain of poorly constructed motor vehicles and appliances. The manufacturers take the blame for this, but much of the blame should be directed against workers who have lost pride in their work. Ralph Nader, the self-proclaimed "defender" of consumers, regularly condemns manufacturers but ignores the responsibility of industrial workers and unions for shoddy goods. It should be borne in mind that even where a manufacturer recognizes poor workmanship, union rules often forbid transfer or discharge of the sloppy worker.

Unless traditional American productivity is restored and manufacturers are allowed to insist on quality work "or else", great numbers of American workers are bound to lose their jobs to foreign competitors. As a result of slowdowns and slipshod work, the United States is in danger of going the way of Britain -- unable to compete for business.

PLAINVIEW CO-OP COMPRESS INC.

East of City Plainview, Texas

Here it is again, that wonderful time of the year again. It's the time for the stock show. All the work that the boys and girls have put forth for this show will be displayed this weekend at the stock show barn. Every one needs to go and see what everyone has done. The FHA girls will have the concession stand just west of the stock barn. They will also have their clothing, foods, and handwork that they have made within the last year. All of their articles will be judged and then the blue and red ribbon cakes will be sold in the cake auction. Buy a cake!!!

Student council elections are coming up next week, so really get in there and help the nominees out. Seniors, this is your last chance to get some "say" in the government. Even though you can't vote you can boost all the candidates.

Good Luck to the Choir!!!

Connie Hall will be playing in the East-West All-Star Game in Amarillo March 27. Did you ever dream we had a great, I mean a really great, Fillie with us??? We knew she was good, but WOW!!! Good Luck, Connie and Congratulations.

Congratulations goes to the Track Team for winning second place at the Wildcat Relays at Littlefield last Saturday. Our boys are really shaping up. Keep up the good work, Johnny!!! Mike Parsons did not participate in these races because he was in Laredo running his little heart out with everybody, or well, it seemed like a lot of people, didn't it, Mike??

Mike and Mickey: What about "Love Stick"?

Marsha M,: Gotta a Pain??

Marsha P. - Walking is goooood for you!

Jim - It is pronounced "pom".

The devil does a nice business; to have such a lousy location. As soon as there is life there is danger.

Blonde to wealthy Texan: "How much did you say your name was??

Police chief to painter: "We'd like this interrogation room painted in tattle tale gray."

Did you hear about: The termite that favored swanky apartment buildings ---he had a suite tooth.

Or about the executive had a peach of a secretary until his wife canned her.

EXCLAMATION POINTS:

Plumber - "Pipe down."

Dressmaker - "I've got the goods on you."

Orthodontist: "Brace yourself."

Oil Driller - "Well, well, well."

Dictator: "My word."

Men who are afraid of being ruined by success should get a job with the weather bureau.

Any mother can tell you that a teenager's hangups don't include his clothes.

After a wealthy Texan had cashed a check that had come from his oilfield, he received a notice from the bank with the words, "insufficient funds." But below it was handwritten "not you, us!!!"

A Texas lad rushed home from school one day, announcing that he needed a holster, two guns and gun belt.

"What for," asked the mother. "You won't need them at school, will you?"

"Oh, yes," replied the little boy. "The teacher said she was going to teach us how to draw."

On day Mr. Gee went home to find David sitting on the front steps of the house.

"What's wrong, son?" asked Mr. Gee.

"It's your wife, I can't get along with her."

Rudolph had heard alot about his cousin Peter, but had never met him. So when he learned that Peter was coming for a visit, he was overjoyed. But when his cousin arrived, he took one look at Peter and burst into tears.

"I thought Peter was a Rabbit," replied Young Rudolph!!!

Friend: "I see you are teaching your wife to drive."

Mr. Jones: "Yes, but we had a little accident, I told her to let go of the clutch and she took her hands off the steering wheel.

JoEllen -- Didn't see him much over the weekend, did you? Had other things to do??

Linda C. -- We all know that was just an excuse.

Steve -- Why the scared look?

O'Neta -- Who is "half a ton".

Theresa -- Your shirt needed to be washed. It was all in splotches.

Mary E. -- You're getting better...

Andy C. -- Can always find some excuse, can't you?

Alan A. -- Are you missing a handful of hair?

Joe S. -- Handsome???

Mark H. -- Did he hit you?

Ronnie S. -- Now you are old enough to know better.

Darrell M. -- Friendly little thing aren't you?

Mr. Fuquay, worried how to answer an employer's inquiry concerning a lazy student, finally hit upon this solution: "If you can get him to work for you, you will indeed be fortunate."

While two sets of parents sat in front of the television set, there was a special newscast about a demonstration in a nearby town college. All at once, one mother screamed and jumped up saying: "There's Joey."

His father answered: "It's Joey all right. I was just thinking about all that money I spent to have his teeth straightened."

Every morning I noticed one girl who would come to school with her eyes wide open while all of the girls stood back and admired her for it. When asked how she did it, she replied: "I just rinse my contact lenses in ice water."

It's going to be a switch 20 years from now when the class of 1970 has a reunion and discovers what everybody looks like without long hair.

Carved on the desk in the economics room in high school: "LBJ slept here."

Since teenagers are too old to do the things kids do and not old enough to do things adults do, they do things nobody else does.

Probably nothing in the world arouses more false hopes that the first four hours of a diet.

Little Mistakes Can Create Big Problems

Little mistakes can cause big problems, especially when it comes to the family laundry, reminds Bonnie Lyerly, Extension specialist in home management at Texas A&M University.

One re-occurring mistake in laundering, reported by the National Automatic Laundry and Cleaning Council, is incorrect use of bleach. Pouring bleach on garments without proper agitation causes almost one-half of laundry problems.

Miss Lyerly reports that another common error in laundering is leaving crayons in children's clothing. The crayons melt in hot water or in dryers and may spread to other fabrics.

Other laundry problems may be traced to overloading of washers, shrinkage of wool when laundered in too-hot water, and weakening of fabrics due to sunlight and oxidation from heating fumes.

Some laundry problems result from low-quality merchandise, Miss Lyerly adds. When garments are poorly manufactured or are made from inferior materials, disaster in the laundry is inevitable. Bonded garments fall apart, threads pucker, and dyes run and spread to other garments.

The Texas Water Quality Board or any successor agency designated by the Legislature may make such grants and loans to political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas, including municipal corporations, river authorities, conservation and reclamation districts, and districts created or organized or authorized to be created or organized under Article XVI, Section 59, or Article III, Section 52, of this Constitution, State agencies, and interstate agencies and compact commissions to which the State of Texas is a party, and upon such terms and conditions as the Legislature may authorize by general law. The bonds shall be issued for such terms, in such denominations, form and installments, and upon such conditions as the Legislature may authorize.

"(b) The proceeds from the sale of such bonds shall be deposited in the Texas Water Development Fund to be invested and administered as prescribed by law.

"(c) The bonds authorized in this Section 49-d-1 and all bonds authorized by Sections 49-c and 49-d of Article III shall bear interest at not more than 6% per annum and mature as the Texas Water Development Board shall prescribe, subject to the limitations as may be imposed by the Legislature.
