U. S. Loans To Finland Are Okayed

World's Fate May Depend On Battle

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BATTLE on which the destiny of Europe and the world may turn has been raging nearly two weeks on the narrow front of the Karelian area and its outcome is still in doubt.

Conflicting Finnish and Russian versions of what is happening along the vital Mannerheim line make it difficult to estimate the Russian chance of breaking through. All the accounts serve to emphasize that the greatest pitched battle yet fought in either of Europe's two wars is developing a crisis in Finland. Its outcome may reshape the Russo-Finnish war and urge it into the war between Germany and the Franco-British allies.

The Russians are attempting, at any cost, to break through the front more than 30 miles that spans the narrow isthmus. Such an attempt was predicted when the initial Russian attack on Finland was stalled on a front of nearly a thousand miles from the Gulf of Finland to the Finnish Arctic coast.

Where else lay as good a possibility of quick reorganization and movement of the Russian red army to deal a decisive blow at the Finns?

Reports from Finland indicate that Russia has poured 75,000 or more troops into the attacks along the Mannerheim line. Every tongue of land between the natural waterways among which the Finns wove their defense system, has been a point of attack. Ice-locked waters of the gulf of Finland to the south and Lake Ladoga to the north have seen repeated Russian attempts at flanking attack.

Would Rush Decision

Unquestionably, Sweden and Norway are watching that Russo-Finnish battle to the death with gravest concern. It has reached an intensity that foreshadows decisive developments in a few days, at most. Sweden and Norway, as well as the Franco-British Allies, must soon make vitally important decisions as to the attitude they will adopt toward the Finnish developments.

A Russian break-through on the

O'Daniel Is Asked To Probe Liquor Board

Special Session Of Legislature Is Suggested

Governor Is "Out Of Town" To Inquirers; Administrator Of Board Is Upheld By Majority

By RAY NEUMANN
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—A majority of the state liquor control board today exonerated Board Administrator Bert Ford from charges brought by Chairman W. D. Bradfield of Dallas and asked Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to conduct an investigation into the complaints.

Bradfield, 73-year-old former Methodist minister and prohibitionist who was appointed last fall by O'Daniel, concurred with Board Members E. W. Crouch of McGregor and D. J. Decherd of Flatonia in requesting and inquiry but differed with them on other matters.

Might Call Session

The board majority wrote the governor "possibly Dr. Bradfield ... feels that you might want to call a special session of the Legislature for impeachment purposes (of board employes). We would welcome any investigation by or through any authoritative agency. We have no means of anticipating that there will be a called session of the Legislature, but we are respectfully calling your attention to the fact that legislative committees are already in existence competent to investigate any activity of the board."

Asserting they had examined the complaints insofar as it was possible since Bradfield had refused to disclose affidavits of persons the chairman said had come to him, Decherd and Crouch declared:

Confidence Is Expressed

"We have concluded that they (the complaints) amount to no more than a malicious and unjust attempt on the part of disappointed men to discredit Administrator Ford and to disrupt the efficiency of the department for selfish purposes.

"We express our complete confidence in the honesty, integrity and administrative ability of Mr. Ford and unhesitatingly say that we intend to continue his services as administrator."

Dr. Bradfield, reviewing developments of the past week, wrote O'Daniel that he was attaching affidavits of complaints against Ford and C. A. Paxton, chief enforcement

Angry Mob Breaks Into Jail To Seize Negro Women Held In Man's Slaying

(By The Associated Press)

SNOW HILL, Md., Feb. 13 — A noisy crowd of men broke into the Worcester county jail through a window tonight, pulled out a cell block door with a rope, and seized two negro women held in connection with the slaying Sunday night of an elderly Eastern Shore farmer.

The crowd placed the women in automobiles and headed toward Stockton, home of the farmer and his wife, who was wounded seriously when three negroes entered their home demanding money.

For several hours the crowd had milled about outside the little red brick building, apparently had been quieted once by Sheriff J. William Hall, but came back to get the women.

WOMEN RESCUED

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14 (Wednesday) State police headquarters announced at 1 a. m. today that troopers had rescued two negro women from a mob which dragged them away from the Worcester county jail at Snow Hill last night.

State Police Superintendent Beverly G. Ober said the mob was dispersed by 5 troopers but one state officer was badly injured.

The rescue was effected at Stockton, home of Harvey Pilchard, eastern shore farmer who was slain Sunday night.

Ober said the trooper injured was Sgt. W. H. Weber.

Women Cower In Cells

The screaming women cowered in their cells as a half dozen men smashed through the screened window. They carried a rope and a little while afterward those outside seized the line and began tugging and hauling. Within a few minutes they had got the women from their cells and dragged them through the window.

The men talked to the girls and from them ascertained who had done the shooting.

Earlier a negro man who had been taken into custody this afternoon was reported held in the Worcester jail, but when the crowd first gathered Sheriff Hall let them pass through the lock-up. The officers already had spirited him away to an unannounced destination.

Apparently satisfied that the man was not there, the crowd began to disperse, only to gather in greater numbers about an hour later.

"How would you like this around your neck?" some shouted.

Others begged that the women be let alone. "Don't lay a hand on them. Let 'em alone," came cries. There was a division in the ranks, but those determined to get at the prisoners moved across the lawn and began tossing bricks through the window.

Governor Herbert O'Conor, receiving a report of the disturbance at his office in Annapolis, ordered all state police cars to move to Snow Hill at once, but no reinforcements had arrived when the release was effected.

Some state police stood about when the crowd assembled early tonight, ready to aid Sheriff Hall and his deputies.

BLOWING OUR WAY—Black gold spouts over the crown block and prosperity follows in its wake. Scenes similar to the one above are taking place almost every day in Lubbock's trade territory and the spray of prosperity is spreading over Lubbock and South Plains like a slowly settling fog. The photo above was snapped Sunday by Winston Reeves, Lubbock photographer, as the Balsh B-5, owned by Barney Cockburn, Lubbock oil operator, was brought in with a 300-quart shot of nitroglycerin. The well is in the NW¼ of SE¼, section 27-m 175.32 E, Lea county, N. M., 29 miles southwest of Lovington. It is on a 3,200-acre block of government leases owned by Cockburn and is the sixth producer in the extension of the old Maljamar field, discovered fourteen years ago. The well had not been tested Tuesday but was an estimated 300-400 barrel producer. Depth is 4,012 feet thickness of sand is 60 feet. Twelve other locations have been staked by Cockburn on the block, three of which are being drilled. His son, Johney Cockburn, is drilling contractor. Cockburn moved to Lubbock recently from Arp, in East Texas, where he also has oil operations.

Senate Approves Non-Military Aid For Finns

Act, Sent To House, Will Be Of Benefit To China, Also; Opposition Is Expressed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — The Senate approved and sent to the House today legislation to increase the lending power of the Export-Import bank by $100,000,000 and make four available for additional non-military loans to Finland and China.

The bill—by Senator Brown (D-Mich)—would impose a $20,000,000 limitation on the additional amount that might be lent to any one country. No loans could be made for the purchase of arms, ammunition or implements of war.

Purposes Made Clear

Although the legislation named no country specifically, its sponsors made it clear they expected the bank to advance funds to finance exports to both Finland and China which have obtained bank credits before. Finland has received $10,000,000 and China $25,000,000.

The Senate vote was 49 to 27.

In the course of the debate, the Senate rejected two amendments—one by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to cut the proposed increase in lending authority to $50,000,000 and a second by Senator Donaher (R-Conn) to forbid the bank to make loans to governments.

Letter Is Received

Meanwhile, the Senate foreign relations committee received from Secretary Hull a letter opposing the application of the neutrality ace to the undeclared war between China and Japan. Although the letter's contents were not made public, the administration is known to feel that invoking the act would help Japan and hurt China.

At the same time, the Senate banking committee postponed action on a proposal that the treasury abandon its program and policy of purchasing foreign silver. A subcommittee had approved the proposal, but many committeemen felt that the views of the state and treasury departments should be studied before action was taken.

Senator George (D-Ga) took a leading part in the opposition to the Finnish proposal.

Praised As Epic

"There is already a feeling growing up that we may be drawn into the European war," George said. For this reason, he contended, the

Range Program Discussed At AAA Meeting

Plans to interest West Texas ranchers, and particularly South Plains ranchers in the 1940 range program were discussed yesterday at an all-day meeting here of county AAA committee members, range inspectors, county farm agents, county administrators and others at the Lubbock hotel.

It was pointed out that there are in district 2 only about 350 work sheets on ranches, covering conservation payments to ranchers for cooperation with the program. Those who have complied with the work are enthusiastic over it, said J. Lynn Mauk, field man for the AAA.

Fifteen counties were represented by more than 70 men. Bailey, Briscoe, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hockley, Kent, Lubbock, Lynn, Lamb, Motley, Terry and Yoakum counties were represented.

Overgrazing Suggested

During the afternoon J. C. Smith of Muleshoe, Bailey AAA administrator, suggested that there might be "overgrazing" of some ranches and that the surplus could be reduced by "barbecuing" two beeves and holding a get-together of committeemen, agents, administrators and others, to cut down the surplus. Smith was named chairman of a committee including Harvey D. Pool, Levelland, and Jack Bradshaw, Crosbyton, to arrange for a celebration in about 60 days.

E. R. Duke, Amarillo, wheat insurance supervisor, talked briefly on wheat insurance and the AAA program.

Wesley Stephens, College Station, state range inspector, told of the inspection work and the program of conservation of pastures. Several county agents also spoke, including D. W. Sherrill, Levelland; Roy Hickman, Morton; Don Turner, Tahoka, J. Rufus Emmons, Motley; Ralph Howe, Crosbyton; Homer Thompson, Post; Sam Logan, Muleshoe; R. N. McClain, Brownfield; H. B. Horn, Plains and C. C. Jobson, Lubbock.

Questions Answered

Many questions were asked by the audience and informal discussions of problems of administration were held.

Mauk presided over brief sessions and introduced the several county groups. He also talked on problems and answered many questions about details.

Former Crosby Men Sentenced

(By The Associated Press)

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 13—Two youthful bank-robbing brothers were sentenced today to spend the rest of their lives in the state penitentiary, less than 36 hours after they held up and robbed the Espanola state bank of $1,686.

Swaggering 20-year-old Bill Rowse, Santa Fe garage worker, collapsed in the courtroom after pleading guilty to an armed robbery charge carrying a mandatory life sentence.

His brother, Herbie, 22-year-old unemployed carpenter, almost inaudibly pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The younger Rowse asked the court for leniency on grounds he had no previous criminal record. Herbie admitted to the judge he had received a three-year suspended sentence in Texas for car theft.

Officers said all but $26 of the loot was recovered.

The two brothers have lived in Santa Fe for about two years, coming from Crosbyton, Tex.

PLEADS GUILTY

HOUSTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—S. L. Dugan, 56, pleaded guilty to a charge of murder without malice today in connection with the death of his son, Maurice, 34, last November 30. The latter was injured fatally with a piece of timber during a fight.

Influential Tammany Leader And Officer Are Arrested

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—William Solomon, an influential Tammany district leader, and Charles H. Mullens, a Republican assistant deputy state comptroller, were arrested today on an indictment accusing them of having extorted $34,833 for negotiating $750,000 in state contracts for the Burland Printing company, Inc.

They were taken into custody in the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. Both pleaded innocent to a seven-count indictment. Bail for each was fixed at $10,000.

It was the second serious accusation made this week against Solomon.

Youngsters Must Go To Church For Five Years Or To Jail

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP) — Five high school boys who pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile for a "joy ride" were ordered today to stop smoking and go to church every Sunday for the next five years.

If they slip, Judge Harry S. McDevitt told them as he suspended sentences, they go to jail—for a maximum of five years each.

Navy Act Starts Through House

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—A bill providing $966,772,878 for the navy—a record peacetime appropriation despite a slash of $111,699,699 below President Roosevelt's recommendations—started through the House today amid warnings that to guard its wealth the United States must have greater naval power than any other nation.

While cutting deeply into estimates for ship construction, ordnance and naval aircraft, the appropriations committee urged that the projected battleships and new cruisers be restudied with a view to making them the most powerful in the world.

Provided Last Year

The committee also recommended a $1,000,000 start on a harbor project for the Pacific outpost of Guam, near Japan. The navy's proposed development of the island aroused a storm of controversy last year.

Of $28,628,021 lopped from the shipbuilding program, all but $5,522,521 was for four 45,000-ton battleships and four new cruisers.

First funds for two of the capital ships—which would be the navy's biggest — and two of the cruisers were provided last year. The committee said plans for all eight still could be changed to make them

Police listed the death as a suicide.

Sadler Warns Oil Operators

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 13—Oil operators producing under the January proration order face prosecution, Jerry Sadler, member of the railroad commission, warned today.

Sadler said he had received information that a number of operators, expecting the February order to be cancelled had continued to produce under the more liberal January order.

"Unless the February order is rescinded right away, those operators certainly will be prosecuted," he declared.

He said the offenses were reported from several fields.

Hearing To Be Friday

Meanwhile, there was no indication of action on the part of the commission to rescind the order. Chairman Lon A. Smith and Member Ernest O. Thompson were reported to have talked over the situation, and later Thompson left his office on account of illness.

Smith and Thompson previously had favored rescinding the order and returning to the January plan while Sadler has advocated permitting the February order to stand.

During the day Smith commented it was only a short time until the statewide proration hearing here Friday, when all matters pertaining to welfare of the oil industry in Texas would be brought up for discussion.

GOP Convention May Be Held Between June 16, July 31

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Officials at Republican headquarters are of the opinion that the party's national convention probably will be held at Philadelphia some time between June 16 and the end of July.

The situation can change between now and Friday, when the national committee meets to decide upon a time and a place, but preliminary information is said to point very strongly toward the Pennsylvania city.

The prediction is based upon word from Philadelphia that an intensive drive for contributions, probably will enable that city to offer the party something approaching $200,000 for the convention.

Pendergast Machine In Kansas City Loses In Election

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13 (AP)—The once all-powerful Kansas City Democratic machine coasted along in neutral today as cleanup forces drove to a smashing victory in a special election to rid the city hall of Pendergastism.

Unofficial returns from 400 of the city's 462 precincts gave 80,819 votes for the ouster of all city elective officials to 14,496 against.

Efforts of the Fusion group to defeat a proposed amendment to place firemen under civil service also were successful. The count from the same number of precincts was: for civil service, 33,551; against 62,457.

Four other charter amendments proposed by the machine-controlled city council also were defeated by a five to one margin.

Ambassador Kennedy Flatly Refuses To Be Candidate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, tonight declined to permit his name to be filed in the Massachusetts presidential primary on April 30.

The "paramount consideration of public duty" compelled him not to be a candidate, he said.

Postmaster General Farley has consented to filing of a delegate slate pledged to him in the bay state primary, and some friends of Kennedy had suggested he also enter.

The ambassador, in a statement issued at his hotel here, said:

"My attention has been called to newspaper reports that my name might be submitted in Massachusetts and other states for the election of delegates pledged to me for president in the forthcoming Democratic national convention.

Alarm Clocks, Time Bombs Tick Before They Go Off

(By The Associated Press)

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Feb. 13 Time bombs tick before they they explode. So do alarm clocks—that is they tick.

Mayor Chase A. Clark of Idaho Falls received a suspicious-appearing package by mail today. Something inside was ticking.

His aroused office force, fearing an explosion, backed out of the room. Clark went to the window to dispose of the package; but pedestrians were walking nearby.

Desperate, he called Police Chief C. A. Carlson, who removed the outer wrapping to find a tin box. A string protruded from a hole. Written on paper was: "Pull string to open."

That settled it. Carlson rushed to police headquarters and dumped the whole thing in a vat of water.

Finally, with the aid of a long string, Carlson opened the mysterious package.

Wet, but ticking faithfully, was a cheap alarm clock.

Clark said the whole affair must have been somebody's idea of a practical joke.

U. S. Congress Ends Sixth Week With Two Major Problems Far From Solutio

Output Has Not Been Large

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The congressional session which leaders hoped wistfully would be short and harmonious ended its sixth week today, with the two prime topics—federal recovery and foreign relations—still in the talking stage.

The Senate was winding up debate on extension of financial aid to Finland. It scheduled a vote on a measure to double the $100,000,000 capital of the Export-Import bank and thereby make possible additional loans both to Finland and China.

Navy Bill Is Up

The House turned its attention to the navy appropriation bill, which involved not only an important economy test but also the question of how strongly the United States should arm in view of conditions abroad.

After the problem of helping Finland is disposed of, the next big question Congress probably will face is continuation of the reciprocal trade program. The House ways and means and committee approved a three-year-extension, and the House is expected to do likewise next week.

Few Are Complete

Although many measures have traveled part way through Congress since Jan. 3, only a few of consequence have gone to the White House.

Economy advocates have trimmed budget estimates repeatedly in these preliminary stages of the legislative process. They lopped off $19,658,747 from the only major money bill sent to President Roosevelt, a $251,822,588 appropriation for emergency defense needs.

Though the legislative output has not been large, Congress has not been idle.

Several Actions Taken

The House recreated the Dies committee to investigate un-American activities. House committees have considered a new naval expansion program, proposed changes in the Wagner act, and a host of minor measures.

A Senate committee has been bickering over the anti-lynching bill, which the House approved, and indications have pointed to another filibuster if it reaches the floor.

Neither branch has acted on one specific request of Mr. Roosevelt—$460,000,000 in new taxes to keep the federal debt under its $45,000,000,000 limit.

Dickens County Boys Set Top At Fort Worth Wool Market

SPUR, Feb. 13.—Top on choice wooled fat lambs was set Monday in Fort Worth by 25 animals consigned by 4-H club boys of Dickens county. Seven boys sent lambs under management of Cecil Ayers, Spur vocational agriculture teacher, that averaged 91 pounds and brought $8.35 per hundred.

J. R. Stanley sent 6 lambs, Rawleigh Adcock, 3; Harold Cargile, 3; Leonard Wilson, 3; Eldon Reynolds, 3; Boyd Ball, 4; and Marvin Blair, 3.

Only one other consignment of lambs equalled the boy's top, that being a shipment of 242 choice wooled fat lambs from the Texas Agricultural experiment station No. 9 located at Balmorhea.

The total does not include the newspapers in Lubbock and includes only three in New Mexico. Only about half dozen in the Panhandle are on the list.

The list represents an addition of six newspapers in comparison with the subscriptions of last year.

Booted Cowboys Are Hard On Floors Of Art Gallery Housing Painting Of Nudes

By OLEN W. CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Feb. 13.—Art has hit the southwest with a bang.

Folks came from the tall timbers and the suburbs to peep at Thomas Hart Benton's famous nude paintings, "Persephone" and "Susanna and the Elders."

Men in big hats and cowboy boots discuss lighting, background, color and brush strokes. The floors were so scuffed the museum directors ordered them re-waxed right away instead of waiting for spring.

The rush started after Joseph L. Shirley, art enthusiast, said the nude paintings should play to school children under wraps.

That brought art lovers out in droves.

People run to the museum during lunch hour. "It's the strangest thing," said assistant museum Director Everett Spruce.

Before the painting of Susanna, her clothing stripped off and her feet poised in a pool, stood a wide-eyed youngster and his father.

"Oh, looky," the lad chirped "there's mamma."

The scarlet faced father led him to a pastoral pastel.

The old men guffawed.

Two young men in sports coats lectured each other knowingly in front of Persephone—the goddess is relaxed on the grassy banks of a stream.

That's the painting Shirley called "lascivious."

A mother and her small daughter stopped.

"Mamma," said the child, "what has that lady . . ."

W-h-i-s-k. The mother jerked her away.

A few visitors asked bluntly to see Persephone and Susanna. Some assume a casual, aloof manner and ask off-handedly:

"Where are you showing Mr. Thomas Hart Benton's pictures?"

The guide wearily takes his eyes off a Dutch windmill scene and says:

"Over there where the crowd is, mister, and don't shove."

Tech's Joe College Spends About 80 Cents On Dates

Joe College spends an average of 80 cents when he steps out with his girlfriend, a survey at Texas Technological college indicates.

Refreshments, bus fare and a show he may expect to pay for on the average date.

If he's hard up, he may get by on less, however. Some of the students questioned named 25 cents as average amount they spend on a date. One student said he spends $5. (Note coeds: You may get his name from Vivian H. Britton.)

Forty-two students were questioned by Britton, who was gathering data for a speech before the Sociology club.

Who should pay the cost of the date?

That question was answered by Mary White, student from Tahoka, and Thom Murray from Fort Worth.

If the girl and boy "go steady", the one with the most money should pay for the date, said Miss White. Also, if the co-ed invites the man on the date she should pay the dating cost.

Murray, in a humorous talk, placed his stamp of approval on payment of dating costs by the co-ed.

Costs of dating vary widely, as comparison of the Tech figures with costs listed in books indicates. The co-ed may spend far more than the man in preparing for a date than the man spends taking her out.

Vassar's Figures

One Vassar young woman gave these figures in listing cost of preparation for a formal dance necessitating a 200-mile week-end trip: Train fare, $12; taxis and tips, $2; meal on train, $1.75; shampoo, wave, manicure, $5; evening dress (to be worn one or more times in two years), $195; evening wrap (two to three years), $275; slippers (about two years), $37.50; stockings, $4.50; gloves (one season) $6.50; bag (two years), $20; telegrams and telephone, $.75; total, $560.

Then there was the young man who took his girlfriend to the Bucknell-Villanova football game and out for an evening of entertainment. Here's what he spent: Taxi and tips, $.75; two game tickets, $6; program, $.25; coffee at game, $.20; shoe shine, $.25; dinner, $1.50; dancing, $1.75; checks for girl, $.20; total, $10.90.

The speeches on dating were presented before the Sociology club Monday night. William Holt, student from Slaton, spoke on "Why Date?" and Beatrice Buchanan, from Friona, spoke on "How to Expand Dating Opportunities."

The club, which was organized this year and was governed by a steering committee prior to Monday night, elected the following officers: Ed Donelson of Lubbock, president; Sid Spear of Childress, vice president, and Dorothy Casey of Wolfforth, secretary.

Lubbock Blind Get Machines

Two Lubbock young people, both blind, are among 375 in Texas who have been loaned a "talking book," or record machine owned by the federal government, on which they may play records of books, poems, music, etc.

Yesterday these two, R. E. Willis, a Texas Technological college student living at 1649 Broadway and Miss Maude Allison, 1419 Fifth street, were visited by Miss Vera Pike of Austin, placement agent for the state commission for the blind.

Miss Pike, who has visited here before, also visited Miss Coyla Prosser, operator of a news stand in the federal building.

First In 1935

"We have 375 of these machines in Texas," said Miss Pike. "We got our first in 1935 and every year since we have received more. There are many more requsts for machines than we can secure for them.

"The government also loans to those who have these machines, records which are sent them free of charge. These records are of books, music and other subjects and one can secure a very good education through the use of these machines."

During the past year there has been an increase of seven newsstands in public buildings, owned and operated by blind persons. The state, in cooperation with the state department of education, division of vocational rehabilitation, trains persons to operate these stands. Miss Prosser, of Slaton, was trained and has been operating a stand in the lobby of the postoffice.

One At Brownfield

"We have 35 of these stands," said Miss Pike. "That is an increase of seven. They are in courthouses, federal buildings and public buildings. We found that for the first 10 months of last year, they earned an average of $62 a month. Net incomes ranged from $15 or $20 up to as much as $150 a month, with an average of more than $62 for the 35 operators."

The Lions club here sponsored Miss Prosser in opening her stand. Another stand is in operation in the Brownfield postoffice, the operator of which was coached by Miss Prosser.

While in Lubbock Miss Pike conferred with V. B. Watson, director of the vocational rehabilitation work in Northwest Texas.

St. Valentine Modern Goes

The lace and satin heart of yester-year is not entirely extinct, but is overshadowed by the modern trend of today's Valentine.

St. Valentine, a bishop and martyr of the church, whose feast day was Feb. 14 could not know when he started sending cheerful letters to his friends that it would become a tradition.

How About Rabbits' Foot

Shakespeare following this tradition wrote a valentine entitled "Song."

"Good morrow, 'tis St. Valentine's day,
"All in the morning betime
"And I a maid at your window,
"To be your Valentine."

You can have your valentine and eat it too—a chocolate heart with your name on it, to make it a bit more personal.

Perhaps you would like to wish someone a bit of good luck and send a valentine with a rabbit's foot attached. It is guaranteed to be a genuine left hind foot.

Feeling particularly scampish, you might send one consisting entirely of envelopes, just one after another, each decreasing in size.

Write Your Own

Pinocchio, the mythical character now being made into an animated picture cartoon by Walt Disney may be purchased in valentine form, as well as the characters from "The Wizard of Oz."

Of course there always are valentines that are slams in poor disguise.

Candy, in heart shaped boxes or otherwise, always is, acceptable as are flowers.

Perhaps you'd like to send your valentine by wire and compose the verse yourself, such as, "Next to me I like you, Valentine."

You Should Have 2 Miles Of Hair

If you have a fairly normal head of hair and it averages only an inch in length, you will have about two miles of hair to keep well-groomed and free of dandruff. To do this job, and do it well, use Lucky Tiger, the old standby for hair and scalp. Made to allay itching and irritation, to remove loose dandruff and to keep the hair looking fine and the scalp feeling fine.

Lucky Tiger is at all good drug stores and barber shops. Also smaller size at 10c counters. For dry hair, or to keep the hair smooth and well-groomed, use Lucky Tiger with Oil. Same price and same efficiency.

(Special) — Dates for the spring convention of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association have been set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 21, 22 and 23, County Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens, president of the association, announced this week. The convention will be held at San Angelo with headquarters a the Cactus hotel.

Judge Formby said the program is being arranged and will be announced soon. A number of prominent speakers of Texas are being lined up for the three-day program. Registration for convention attendants will begin on Thursday afternoon, March 21, at 3 p. m. Business sessions will be held on Friday morning, Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. New Feature Planned

On Saturday morning it is planned to hold a "question box hour" at which time questions which will have been submitted during the convention will be answered. This feature of the convention is being used for the first time in several years in the West Texas association. It has proven highly interesting in the past, Judge Formby pointed out.

The West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association is made up of the county judges and commissioners in 124 West Texas counties. Besides Formby the officers are Judge O. McDaniel of Baylor county, vice president, and John H. Winters, Potter county commissioner of Amarillo, secretary-treasurer. Winters served as vice president of the association last year, while Formby was secretary-treasurer.

The commissioners court of Tom Green county as well as chamber of commerce and other civic officials of San Angelo are cooperating.

"Well, I don't know."

He gave the first wife $34 a month to care for herself and used the remainder of his monthly wage of $61.60 to buy food for himself and the second wife.

U.S. ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION OFF FOR YEAR'S SURVEY

SLED DOGS...YEAR'S SUPPLY OF SLOW-BURNING CAMEL CIGARETTES ACCOMPANY ADMIRAL BYRD TO ANTARCTIC

OFF TO VOLUNTARY EXILE: Right now if you had to choose the one and only brand of cigarette you would smoke through a whole year—you'd make sure you picked the right brand. The men on the Antarctic expedition were in a situation like that. The expedition took Camels! Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd explained: "Slow-burning Camels are a great favorite with us." You, yourself, may never go near the South Pole, but the right cigarette is important to you, too. Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor—plus extra smoking in every pack. (See below.)

"MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK"...

That's how these three members of the U. S. Antarctic expedition tell of the advantages of their favorite cigarette...slow-burning Camels. Richard Moulton, senior dog-driver (center), sums up when he says: "Slow burning is my measure of a milder, cooler, more flavorful smoke. I'd sledge a mile for a Camel." Nothing destroys a cigarette's delicate elements of flavor and fragrance like the excess heat of too-fast burning. Cigarettes that burn fast also burn hot. Camels are slower-burning...milder, mellower, and—naturally—cooler! Try Camels. Find out for yourself how slow-burning Camels give you more pleasure per puff ...and more puffs per pack—more actual smoking (see panel extreme right).

SMOKERS: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you ate a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

by Margaret Turner

NO man likes to hear a woman talk about how good looking some man is—unless the man is himself.

Note to Imogene Holmes of Hale Center: Mrs. G. L. Musick telephones to inform us you can find the poem, "The Old Wash Place," in Wheeler's Fifth Grade Reader.

GONE WITH, ETC.

IT's almost impossible to keep from blowing off a bit after seing "Gone With the Wind" it's technicolor is so superb, it's characterization so exact, it's animation of the ten pound tome we read for the first time over three years ago so enthralling. We have joined the fast growing list of those who say it's the best motion picture show they have ever seen.

One Pare Lorentz, who writes clever and cynical movie reviews for McCall's, says he does not belong to "the religious sect that worshiped the book. I was not interested in whether or not Miss Vivien Leigh was 'like' Scarlett O'Hara." Well, this writer does belong to that "religious sect" and if Miss Leigh had let us down we would never have forgiven her.

IT so happens that each of the major characters and for that matter the fifty or more minor ones give this picture of the glory that once was the South's and the bitter aftermath of the Civil war all that they have. It's a picture that will thrill you if you have read the book (and who among us hasn't?) and will leave you despondent at its final curtain but convinced that here is the movie of the generation. We walked out with swollen face to an old-fashioned New Orleans deluge that fairly swept people into Canal street. And on all sides we saw those who looked like they would like to join us in an old-fashioned crying spell.

We read Margaret Mitchell's book one month after it's publication and from that day to this that publication has seemed a part of us. Having stood in line for one hour forty-five minutes in obtaining a ticket and gaining entrance, we found we were trembling as the lights dimmed for the first words, in much the same manner we felt waiting for the first talkie we heard or for the first appearance of Zimbalist years ago. Knowing in our heart the picture would be good; fearful lest it not come up to our expectations.

THE audience must have felt the same as we. At any rate when the letters "Gone With the Wind" were first thrown on the screen the house went wild and when Mr. G., the dashing, handsome, beautifully costumed, villainous Rhett, was first shown standing at the foot of the stairs at Twelve Oaks, the Wilkes plantation, the applause was so deafening the first few lines were lost. In fact we have never sat in a more receptive audience. When, in a very true-to-life scene, Rhett weeps, the sobbing of both men and women was audible over the entire house and gasps of breath greeted the pillage of Atlanta and the tragic pictures of the dead and dying. The mention of New Orleans brought brief applause.

You'll love Hattie McDaniel as Mammy and you'll despise and still you'll laugh at Butterfly McQueen as Prissy, the half-witted little negro who was the only help Scarlett had in one of the most serious crises of her life. Incidentally Miss Leigh admitted in an interview we read she lived Scarlett for close to six months from early morning to late night and her every move, every word, every spiteful gesture is so typical of our conception of that green-eyed, black-haired beauty we hugged her to us although we wanted to spank her time and again.

CLARK GABLE has never been our hero. We've agreed with those who thought he had only two facial expressions, to scowl and to show those alluring dimples. But we sweep our deepest curtesy to him after this picture. He, too, tried to know Rhett as well as he understands himself. The public asked for him and we believe the clamor of his reception won't die so long as G.W.T.W. is discussed. And neither he nor Miss Leigh effect a southern accent. Her voice is thinner but reminds one of Margaret Sullavan and Susan Myrick, Atlanta girl who served as technical advisor, did things with Mr. Gable's enunciation that his first wife never achieved.

Olivia de Havilland almost steals the show with her interpretation of the gentle Melanie, representative of all that was cultured in Southern womanhood and Leslie Howard, while he rather remained Leslie Howard where we are concerned, was an acceptable Ashley Wilkes.

Please don't think that the picture is tragic throughout. It has bright moments that will rock you with laughter but war, which overshadows some of the most emotional scenes, and the decay of a civilization with which the latter portion is concerned aren't laughing matters. So if you hear weeping behind you some night during it's showing at the Palace, throw us a crying towel and we'll stifle our sobs. We'll do the same for you.

Officers Seek Hit-Run Driver

Police late Tuesday night continued to hunt a hit and run driver who damaged two automobiles sitting in front of the Bosque apartments 1710 Main street, earlier that night.

One of the cars belonged to Clyde Fleming, the other to F. C. Nichols. Damages to Fleming's car were not reported but Nichols' had a rear fender dented and the license number bracket broken. The only clue officers possessed was a battered hub cap which presumably had been knocked from the suspect's car.

Boys Suspected

City authorities also were asked to keep their eyes peeled for three youngsters who had stolen a box of candy from the supply truck of William A. Davidson, 1903 Tenth street, and had dropped the article when running down the alley.

The day, quiet until nightfall, brought other complaints, most of them petty thefts.

Watch Is Stolen

Nuge Rose, of 2402 Fourteenth street, reported theft of a 17-jewel yellow gold wrist watch. The watch, which has the name, "Nuge Rose" engraved on the back, was stolen from Rose's room at the residence, and was valued at $25.

Description of suspects in theft of a box of spark plugs from Howard's garage, 812 Main street, was furnished police upon report of the offense. Value of the spark plugs was $5.

Navy Appropriations

bigger, adding that under present plans they would be practically the same as to speed, armor and guns as ships now being built abroad.

President Roosevelt told his press conference he hoped the battleship funds would be restored. Meanwhile he signed a deficiency bill providing $252,340,776 for defense and neutrality functions of the navy, army, coast guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation in the current fiscal year.

Presenting the drastically curtailed bill to the House as a "by-product of the unrest in international affairs" and not "a product of militarism," Chairman Scrugham (D-Nev) of the naval appropriations subcommittee declared that because this country owns or controls almost half the world's raw materials it "cannot avoid the issue."

Opinion Expressed

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the naval committee expressed belief the cuts would not impede the ship building program but he scheduled an executive session of his committee for tomorrow to analyze the bill before deciding whether to oppose any of the reductions.

The bill would provide funds to start work on 19 new combat ships and five auxiliaries; to purchase 352 new planes and to continue work on 79 warships and 18 auxiliary vessels already under construction.

To Support Proposal

Its cuts gave the economy drive one of its strongest boosts. Tentative reductions in measures already passed by the House and Senate or pending in the Senate or its appropriations committee total about $150,000,000. The House committee cut the farm bill approximately $120,000,000 originally but restorations by the House left a net reduction of about $66,000,000 below budget estimates.

The appropriations committee recommended the Gaum harbor dredging and breakwater construction as essential to the safe landing of trans-Pacific commercial planes at the island.

Rep. Thomason (D-Tex) protested against extension of naval facilities so far to the east—less than 1500 miles from Tokyo—and contended it would lead to fortification of Guam. Rep. Crawford (R-Mich), who fought the Guam project last year, told the House he was inclined to support the pending proposal.

Fate Of World

Mannerheim line would almost certainly compel the Scandinavian governments to reach such a decision at once. That the Russian attack there, even if successful, will have cost so heavily in lives and equipment as to leave the red army temporarily exhausted seems clear.

Opportunity for direct Swedish and Norwegian military aid for Finland would still exist. Nor can those countries greatly doubt that complete Russian occupation of Finland would imperil their independence.

May Pave Way

A new Finnish success in repelling the red army would tend to delay final Scandinavian decisions as to direct participation in the Russo-Finnish conflict. However, it would almost certainly intensify, both in France and Britain, the public demand that the Allies go directly to Finland's aid before any new Russian attack could be organized.

Both Allied governments are under that pressure already. It might become politically irresistible if the Finns again fought off their Russian foe despite all odds against them.

Any development of the Russo-Finnish war that would give the Allies Baltic bases for a counter air attack on Germany would certainly be welcome to Allied strategists. And the greatest battle of the two European wars to date, the second battle of the Mannerheim line, may be paving the way for that development, whichever way it goes.

Wall Street . .

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Stocks lumber through an indecisive session today with market leaders generally neglected in favor of specialities.

The list pointed moderately upward in the forenoon, as bright sales and earnings statements buoyed individual issues. Buying power in most cases was unimpressive, however, and early gains of fractions to a point or so were erased in many instances at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks and unchanged at 50.4. Transfers amounted to 582,180 shares against 1,-000,740 last Friday when the direction was upward.

Studebaker and Loft were relatively strong performers, both touching new 1939-40 highs.

Martin-Parry made a new year's high but finished all even. Modest advances were retained by Crown Cork, International Mercantile Marine, Chrysler, National Steel, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Gypsum, Union Carbide, American Can, Phelps Dodge, Union Pacific, Standard Oil of N. J. and Texas Corp.

Aviation such as Douglas and United Aircraft dropped a point or so. Pan American Airways lost 2. The latter announced an offering of 525,391 shares of capital stock to present holders at $12.75 a share, with any unsubscribed portion to be sold to underwriters. The issues closed at 18⅝.

U. S. Steel gave ground.

Another dip in this week's estimated mill operations tended to cool the steel group. The rate was off 2.9 points at 68.8 per cent of capacity. President Weir of National Steel expressed the opinion output would go lower in the next few weeks but thought there might be a turn for the better in March.

Among losers were Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Anaconda, American Telephone, N. Y. Central, American Smelting and Goodyear.

Master Electric rose 2½ in the curb and smaller gains were netted by American Cyanamid "B," Electric Bond and Share, Phoenix Securities and United Gas. Axton Fisher Tobacco "B" dropped 5 on a small turnover. Volume of 157,000 shares compared with 204,000 Friday.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Cotton futures broke $1 a bale today before trade buying and local covering halted the decline. Final prices were 13 to 17 points lower.

The market opened lower in line with foreign markets and declines at New Orleans over the Lincoln day recess. New Orleans buying rallied the list back to the previous close but around noon Bombay loosened a flood of selling orders and prices headed downward.

The East Indian offerings, estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000 bales, were attributed to a sharp contraction in Bombay-New York price differences.

Declining prices attracted further liquidation, mostly in the March delivery, but the trade and local buying finally halted the retreat.

Announcement from Washington that parity payments to farmers on new crop cotton would be cut from 1.60 cents a pound to 1.55 was seen as a bearish influence, brokers said.

Worth street reported steady textile prices although not much cloth changed hands.

Exports Monday 10,779 bales; season so far 4,524,133. Port receipts 44,607; port stocks 3,032,893.

candidate."

"Even though consideration for such an honor is most flattering," the statement added, "I cannot forget that I now occupy a most important government post, which at this particular time involves matters so precious to the American people that no private consideration should permit my energies or interests to be diverted.

"For my numerous friends who have been anxious for me to submit my name for the consideration of the American electorate I am deeply grateful. However, the paramount consideration of public duty compels me to decline to permit my name to be presented."

Earlier in Boston nomination papers for delegates to the Democratic national convention pledged to Kennedy were taken out by a Boston attorney, who then said Kennedy would file the necessary authorization to enter his name before the March 5 deadline.

Attorney John F. McCarthy of Boston obtained a complete set of papers for delegates at large and district delegates from the secretary of state, acting, he said, upon instructions received from his father in Washington. His father served as mayoralty campaign manager for former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston.

Kennedy is a native of Boston.

Mann Reveals He Refused To Aid In Santone Lottery Probe

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Attorney General Gerald Mann revealed Tuesday that he had refused to aid the Bexar county grand jury in its current investigation into an alleged "organized policy lottery racket in San Antonio.

Mann in a long distance telephone conversation said a group of citizens from San Antonio which included John Swope, foreman of the Bexar county grand jury, had called at his office about 10 days ago and asked that his department aid in the investigation of "vice conditions in general in San Antonio."

"I informed the group the district attorney was charged with the duty of prosecuting law violations such as gambling and vice in general," Mann said. "For that reason, I suggested they confer with their district attorney."

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Wheat prices quickly stepped up a cent a bushel today, but were unable to hold gains and finished unchanged to ¾ cent under Saturday's close.

May contracts here climbed to $1.00½, up ¾, but at that level selling offers increased and the delivery thereafter remained under pressure, falling to a low of 98⅞. July contracts, representing the new crop, reached 97¼, up a cent, and held up better throughout the session. The comparatively heavier pressure on the nearby month appeared to be partly induced by fears of wheat under government loan being redeemed and sold in the open market.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¾ lower, May 98⅞@98¾, July 56⅞; corn unchanged to ⅛ off, May 56@55⅞, July 56; oats unchanged to ⅛ down; rye ⅛ to ⅜ down; soy beans a cent off and lard unchanged to 3 cents a hundredweight lower.

There was little precipitation in the domestic grain belt overnight while the mid-week forecast for the southwestern portion predicted little if any moisture during the latter part of the week.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13 (AP) — Demand for grain was moderate here Tuesday.

Russo-Finnish War

called something like the 'Summa Miracle,' comparable to the Somme and Verdun, but despite the fact the soviet men are falling by the thousands and tens of thousands, we need help in all forms—men, material, especially airplanes."

The statement told of "enormous heaps" of Russian dead before their lines and said the red army had lost from 30,000 to 50,000 dead and wounded and 200 tanks in three or four days. On one day, the statement asserted, the Russians fired 300,000 shells.

For the first time, the Finns described 70-tin Russian tanks, saying one of these, employed in a battle at Summa, had been crippled and forced to return to the soviet lines.

Worse Than World War

The statement said also:

"The fighting on the isthmus surpasses in intensity even the most strenuous battles of the World war. An enormous amount of material, planes, infantry and artillery has been used. The enemy tries to use every weapon at his disposal but despite this, the Finnish resitance is still unbroken.

"Achievements of Finnish troops are extraordinary.

"The Russians have used very good troops.

"For instance last night there was intensive hand-to-hand fighting in which the Finns prefered to use puukos (long hunting knives.)

Able To Hold Its Own

"Air activity was more intensive than any previous day on the isthmus (today). Hundreds of planes were over our front positions.

"Thus far the Finnish army is able to hold its own but we really rely on civilized nations of the world to relieve us in this situation."

The artillery battle continued tonight on its 24-hour a day schedule.

And over the snowy plateaus of the Mannerheim zone, turned dirty and red-brown from blood of the dead and wounded, the slithering of infantry and the crawling of tanks, patrols felt out one another's lines for new attacks tomorrow.

Finns Losses Small

The Finns were reticent concerning their losses.

A Finnish officer, questioned on this point, said, "we can tell you the Finnish losses are exceedingly small, and you will find it hard to believe. But our losses are small. Our men know how to conceal themselves."

Answering assault with assault, the Finns reported successful advances in three of the most bloodily contested isthmus areas; the Summa sector, the shore of Lake Muloia and at Taipale, on the western shore of Lake Ladoga.

Gun Nests Taken

No positions "of importance" remained in Russian hands, it was said. "The Mannerheim line itself still holds."

A few outlying machine gun nests are the only former Finnish positions remaining in soviet hands, the Finnish command added. "These are of no importance."

The communique was the first admission by the Finns that they had "withdrawn" from some of their steel and concrete positions. Late Sunday, the military said, the Finnish troops had slowly fallen back in the Summa sector.

"This happens in battles of such fury as are now going on," military sources said. The Russian attack, these sources asserted, continues unrelentingly.

More Success Announced

In Moscow Monday, the Russian army announced that its infantry and tank assaults had captured 32 "defensive fortifications" or a total of 61 such positions during last week. Nothing was said about losing any of the captured forts.

On the northeast shores of Lake Ladoga, where the red army has been concentrating its mechanized forces in an effort to win a mainland position, additional Finnish successes were announced.

The Finns contended 23 enemy tanks were destroyed in the war.

To Use Red Tanks

Other accounts of the day's successful operations—there were no reports of losses—listed the forced retreat of a Russian detachment across the frontier near Raate, east of Suomussalmi, where the Finns cut up two enemy divisions several weeks ago.

Among the frozen Pitkaranta islands, on the northern shore of Lake Ladoga, a Russian column of 100 sledges was "smashed" as it attempted an advance. Elsewhere, Finnish fighting planes and anti-aircraft cooperated in bringing down four soviet planes, the communique said.

With Finnish troops reported capturing increased amounts of enemy armament, munition workers behind the lines were putting 200 Russian anti-tank guns into good condition.

United States should take extreme care about any step that could be interpreted abroad as unneutral.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) denounced the proposition as an "entering wedge," which sets "a precedent under a subterfuge and a guise." He asserted that eventually under the policy involved, the United States would have to lend money to France and England.

The author of the bill, Senator Brown (D-Mich) cut into the argument to contend that loans to the Allies would be impossible unless the neutrality act were revised or repealed. Senator White (R-Me), speaking for the bill, praised Finland's defense struggle as an "epic."

Head Of Group Planning New Newspaper Talks With FDR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (UP) — Ralph Ingersoll, head of a group which plans to begin publication of a new afternoon newspaper in New York June 1, conferred with President Roosevelt today.

Ingersoll said Mr. Roosevelt expressed great interest in the publication, which contemplates many departures from traditional newspaper format and content.

He was asked whether he believed Mr. Roosevelt would make a good executive editor for the newspaper after Jan. 20, 1941, when the president's second term expires. Ingersoll laughed and said he thought the president would make an excellent editor.

Motion Picture Of Invasion Of Poland Seized In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (UP)— Police confiscated a three-reel motion picture of the German invasion of Poland last night and arrested Boles Patzkoski, 32, on a charge of exhibiting an uncensored film without a police permit.

Policeman, In Civilian Clothes And Off Duty, Is Slain By Two Other Officials

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (UP)—A policeman, off duty and in civilian clothes, was shot and killed by two other policemen by error last night.

The negro policeman, John A. Holt, 31, was at home with his three small children while his wife was at a movie. Another tenant told him there was a burglar in the apartment house and Holt grabbed his service revolver, and went into the hall.

He found the burglar, called to him to halt, and then ran after him into the street, firing several shots.

Meanwhile, a radio alarm had brought Sergeant Arthur McLaughlin and Patrolman Peter Di Georgic to the scene. They entered the building, and, on reaching the fifth floor, saw Holt preparing to climb onto the roof. Thinking him the burglar, they ordered him to drop his gun, and when he turned to face them, they opened fire.

The burglar escaped.

Roosevelt Thinks Press Should Apologize To Justice Black

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — President Roosevelt asserted today that he thought that the press should offer a modicum of apology for some of the things it had said in the last few years about Associate Justice Hugho Black of the supreme court.

He was asked at a press conference whether he cared to supplement praise expressed by the press for Black's defense of civil liberty. The reference was to Black's delivery yesterday of a supreme court decision setting aside a death penalty against four Florida negroes on the ground that confessions had been obtained by third degree methods.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that some of the press had given Black praise. Then he added his suggestion for an apology.

While he did not explain what he referred to, there was criticism at the time Black was given his supreme court appointment. The former Alabama senator had admitted that at one time he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13. (UP) — Alexander Sparks, first husband of Doris Dazey, today testified at the murder trial of her second husband, Dr. George K. Dazey, that he and Mrs. Dazey spent several nights together after their divorce and before she married the physician.

The Dazeys' son, Walter, was born seven months after their marriage and doubt about the parentage has been advanced by the state as a motive for the alleged slaying of Mrs. Dazey. She was found dead four years ago in the family garage and her death was regarded as a suicide.

the state AAA committee, presided over most of the session. He answered numerous questions on policy. The meeting opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 4:30 o'clock. All three members of the Lubbock county committee, C. E. Lilley of Slaton; John R. Murrell of Shallowater and R. A. Powell of Becton, with C. T. Wasson, administrator, were present.

Program Is Discussed

Howard Kingsberry, Santa Anna, a member of the state committee, discussed the state program. Texas ranchers, he said, run and operate the ranch program. It is different than the regular farm program in that it is a soil building program. Between 75,000,000 and 80,000,000 acres in the state are covered by the range program, operated by 20,000 men, he continued. "These ranchers spend an average of 50 cents for each dollar which the government contributes towards the program. Administrative costs are about 5 per cent."

One new angle this year is control of noxious weeds. Principal parts of the program include the distribution of stock, contouring and terracing of pasture land and the elimination of weeds. Texas, said Kingsberry, received $5,500,000 a year for participation.

Fred Rennels Speaks

Fred Rennels of College Station, assistant state range supervisor, followed the AAA member with a discussion of the situation. In Texas, he said, there are 111,000,000 acres of range land, on which $333,000,000 worth of livestock is grazed. Net profits are approximately $80,000,000. Two thirds of the land area of the state is classed as grazing land.

Rennels said the ranches should have a 1940 farm plan sheet, the same as farms.

No comment was available from O'Daniel whose secretaries said he was out of town and they were not informed as to his whereabouts.

JEWS-WITHOUT-A-COUNTRY FIGHT SUB-ZERO COLD—Sub-zero blasts sweeping across the barren plains of a no-man's-land between Nazi-controlled Slovakia and Hungary bring misery to 10,000 Slovakian Jews, driven from their homes by the German conquerors. Their main shelters against the record cold which has swept Europe are piles of straw and these makeshift tents, in each of which 20 persons live. Greatest sufferers from lack of food, clothing and shelter among Slovakian Jews driven from their homeland by Nazis are women and children. In a frigid strip along the Slovak-Hungarian frontier they live in a few wooden vans, slightly warmer than tents. Above, a baby is handed up to a refugee woman standing in doorway. Most of the 10,000 Jews driven by Nazis out of Slovakia into a no-man's-land between that country and Hungary, were forced into exile with only the clothes on their backs. The small amount of bedding which a few managed to get out is pictured above as it was piled together, to be distributed to the most needy.

Troops In Near East May Be Turned Into Offensive

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The massing of Anglo-French troops about the end of the Mediterranean in the Near East is largely of a defensive nature at this juncture, but the offensive possibilities against either Germany or Russia, or both, are great.

For one thing we know, of course, that the Balkans may become the bark-yard battlefield of the European war.

But a possibility which is even more startling is just now developing. If the Allies, in addition to their Near East front, also establish a new war-theater in Finland in the process of aiding the little republic against Russia, they will have created a mighty pair of pincers about the soviet's European side.

Legitimate Speculation

Circumstances make it quite legitimate to speculate as to whether those pincers might yet be completed and start to close against the bolshevists. The red program as indicated by the invasion of Finland bids fair to get decidedly more attention than the deprecating cough which the Allies gave behind their hands when the Muscovites hopped on Poland.

However, it's difficult to visualize all these things without a map. If you will get out your maps of Europe, and the Near East zone which is likely to play such an important part in the outcome of the war, I'll show you an interesting game of soldiers—live ones.

Turkey Good Ally

First off, please note that Turkey, lying on the Black sea opposite Russia and controlling the Dardanelles—one of the most important strategic points in the world—is the good ally of England and France. Not only is Turkey geographically powerful, but it has one of the finest, toughest armies in existence.

You're about to remind me, I suppose, that Turkey's pact with the Allies excludes war with Russia. Agreed, but that's not so much a matter of affection as expediency. Let the soviet make a pass in that direction and see that the Turks do. They'll fight with Britain on a showdown. Greece also is pro-Ally in sympathies.

Now if you will run down the coast from Turkey toward the Suez canal you will find those massed Allied troops in Syria, Palestine and the Canal zone—some 570,000 of them. Then we come to England's Egyptian ally, also of vast strategic importance.

Near Million Soldiers

So much for the soldiers, who must total close to a million already under arms, including 350000 Turks and the Egyptians. The French plan to throw 700,000 more into Syria and the British are increasing their forces.

Thus, with a million more which the Turks could put into the field, the potential defensive force of the Near East is about 3,000,000. And we shouldn't overlook the many Allied warships which are churning up the blue waters of the Mediterranean.

From the purely defensive standpoint, the spots which the Allies want most to protect are the Suez canal, and Iran and Irad with their vast stores of oil that France and England want and can't afford to let the enemy get at. But the Anglo-French brotherhood also has pledged itself to protect Rumania from invasion. Your map will tell you that this probably would involve transporting troops to Rumania via the Black sea.

Obviously an alliance with Turkey and absolute control of the Dardanelles are essential for accomplishment of these great tasks.

As regards the Balkans, an invasion by Russia or Germany presumably would turn that area once more into the "cockpit of southeastern Europe," with the Allies supporting the small but fiery fighters. Should Russia be involved we might see those pincers in operation.

Every Bite Of Food Caused Her Distress

Sour Stomach, Heartburn Now Relieved; Night Risings Do Not Disturb Her; Gly-Cas Was Just What She Had Wanted

"Gly-Cas has meant the difference between horrible suffering and good and glorious health for me," said Mrs. Ida Holbrook, 314 Artesia St., Corpus Christi, Texas. "Faulty elimination had caused me much suffering and distress. I actually could not eat a single bite of food without awful misery following for everything seemed to turn to a hot soured liquid. Gas formed so abundantly and those spells of heartburn were almost unbearable. Then too, frequent kidney action disturbed me at all hours making my sleep almost as many as four and five times. I was tired-out continually too but to make my condition even worse dizzy spells would attack me and often I was confined to bed I was so distressed. It was terribly discouraging and I could not even see my way out until I began Gly-Cas . . . but it was remarkable.

"I am thankful for the day Gly-Cas was called to my attention," continued Mrs. Holbrook. "It is almost unbelievable but true that now since I am getting regular elimination of those intestinal impurities I am able to enjoy three hearty meals each day without the least distress afterwards. I get full nights of restful sleep without any disturbances too, dizzy spells have been relieved and my strength and energy has returned. No wonder Gly-Cas receives so much praise."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

Negro Scientist Makes Donation

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Feb. 13 (AP)—Dr. George W. Carver, negro scientist of Tuskegee institute, today donated $33,000 in cash and government bonds to a foundation to perpetuate research in creative chemistry.

Carver said he was willing to give his life savings to the perpetuation of this work because he believed that experimentation along the lines of soil building and the utilization of waste as well as the finding of new uses for native products represent an important approach to the solution of the economic ills of the South and the nation.

The foundation also will be asked to preserve the Carver museum at Tuskegee institute, negro school founded by Booker T. Washington. The museum constitutes an extensive expedition of the uses of native materials in hundreds of useful articles. The museum also will house about 100 paintings by Carver, who came to Tuskegee in 1896.

Texas Tech Cagers Rally In Second Half To Defeat Miners And Take Serie

Raiders Locate Basket Late To Win, 31-29

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

For the first few innings last night, the Texas Miners and the Texas Techs tangled in a pitchers' battle which, while slightly on the wilder side, appeared destined to wind up as a scoreless draw.

But the pitchers weakened as the game wore on, and the hitters had their innings, and Texas Tech won, 31 to 29.

The rather spirited contest was billed as a basketball game. In fact, it was a basketball game—a game that would have put to shame the most slam-bang exhibition the Dead End Kids ever attempted to stage. The Kids could have learned something about rough and ready basketball at the Tech gymnasium last night.

But victory is victory, and Texas Tech claimed a clean sweep of the series over the Miners, who are no less than undisputed leaders of the fast Border conference.

Shots Won't Whish

Whereas on Monday night the Raiders hit the basket every time they turned loose of the ball, they found that the iron ring had contracted something pitiful last night. It wasn't until late in the game that Bauman Roper and Marshall Brown began swishing the net with their long and short overhand "push shots," and this was a signal for the Miners to do some pushing of their own. They kept well on the heels of Tech, or maybe it was vice-versa, all the way. The Miners led at the half, 10 to 9, and midway in the last period they were still leading, some 19 to 17.

Tech scored a run in the first inning, Brown sinking a free shot, but the Miners came back in their half to lash out a two-bagger, after missing a couple of foul shots. Brown made Tech's first double and Tech led 3 to 2 after about four innings, or 10 minutes. Hours later, Bud Lasseter made one to give the Mines a 4-3 lead. Then Curly Risinger popped one for Tech for a 5-4 lead.

Failure of both sides to connect with singles corresponded with their lack of aim in long-distance batting. No less than 23 free shots were missed, Tech missing 13 of them. Had either side capitalized on this department of play, it could have won easily.

Officials Kept Busy

Eighteen personal fouls were called against the Miners, and two players used up their quotas, while 10 were called on Tech for a total of 28. Officials Ed Hambright and Hack Miller wore their whistles in their mouths and blew them as they inhaled and exhaled, but they didn't breathe fast enough, at that. Numerous fouls went uncalled, but the officials were fairly out of breath, literally, when the game was over. Had they called all the "bodily contact" miscues, they would have needed a steam whistle hooked to the college power plant.

Getting on with the game, Tech improved its 5-4 lead late in the first half by sinking another free shot, thanks to another foul by Salvador Mora and the shooting of Robert Percival. But Mora came back to tie the count with a field goal, and Lance put the Miners ahead with another. Jake Géron went in for Tech, replacing Risinger, and tied the score at 8-all, and then made a free shot for a Tech lead, but Carrasco made a gratis shot for a tie, and just before the bell ending the round, Bulos made a free shot on Percival's error to give the invaders the lead.

Mines went three points further ahead early in the second verse, then Brown and Roper started. But they couldn't get ahead until the last quarter when touchdowns by Brown and White broke up the fine blocking which the Miners had applied and gave Tech a lead it didn't relinquish. Extra points were added by Gilley and Brown.

In the closing seconds of the fray, with Tech leading 31 to 25—biggest margin of the game—Telford and Carrasco blasted down the court, upset several Texas Tech blockers and scored standing up, although they didn't stand up long.

Tech Frosh Win

Another good crowd of about 1,600 saw the contest, featured by the second half when both sides came out of their corners fighting mad and ready to do damage. And the bell probably saved the Red Raiders, because the Miners were still going strong at the finish.

In a preliminary game, the Texas Tech freshmen defeated Lorenzo High school, 27 to 17. Andis led with 7 points, McCollough, and Goins scored six each for the frosh.

The box score:

Intimate Glances At Golfers

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Feb. 13—Private lives of the professional golf nomads:

SLAMMIN' SAM SNEAD—The West Virginia mountaineer who pays a larger income tax than Joe DiMaggio, revels in tuning in two radios, on different stations and chiming in himself with a few notes on one of Bob Burns' plumbing fixtures.

RALPH GULDAHL—The National Open champion of 1937 and 1938, now in a rut, started rebuilding recently by giving Vic Ghezzi the putter that carried him through both open triumphs and three more major tourney victories.

HORTON SMITH—The boy wonder of 1929, the "Joplin Ghost" from Springfield, is still the greatest putting artist of them all but hasn't won a tournament since his North-South victory at Pinehurst back in 1937.

Biggest Sports Fan

JIMMY THOMSON—The handsome, ox-shouldered king of golf's long hitters, the man to whom Jesse Guilford voluntarily gave his famed "siege guns" title, is golfdom's most ardent sports fan. He can quote batting averages, football scores and famous fight decisions from memory and despite his love of golf, sometimes moans when it keeps him from other sports events.

ED OLIVER—The chubby Hornell, N. Y., boy whose 235 pounds at the start of the winter tour earned him his "Porky" nickname, worries not about winning all those golf tourpaments, but just what he will say at the presentation speeches. Porky admits he is just living these days to get to the Masters' tournament—Bobby Jones' affair at Augusta, Ga.

BYRON NELSON—The National Open champion, the jumpy Texan called "War Admiral" by his touring mates because of his fast style of play, rates as one of golf's longest hitters but admits he won his only driving contest as an amateur back in Texas years ago.

CRAIG WOOD—The blond Adonis who, with Lighthorse Harry Cooper, has finished second more than any man in golf, never complains. Not even his cruel luck in the last National open, which left him runner-up once again, keeps Wood from grinning: "If you can't finish first, I always say its best to finish second." Wood ranks as one of the greatest sportsmen in the game.

Byrd Adopts New Game

CLAYTON HEAFNER—The Linville, N. C., boy who only a few seasons back was a candy salesman, withdrew from his first tournament in 1937 when 11 strokes behind Sammy Snead at the 36-hole mark because he thought there was only one prize! Heafner, after those famous tree-climbing incidents of San Francisco and Oakland on the present tour, is "Tarzan" to his touring mates.

SAM BYRD—The Philadelphia belter who once understudied Babe Ruth in the New York Yankee outfield, confided he quit baseball for golf "because any man who hit only .250 with the Yankees should have quit."

P. S. Horton Smith revealed the cause for his reputation as the game's best putter with: "Tournament after tournament the pros would stalk into the clubhouse and explain their failure with stories about three-putt greens, or missed short putts—never mentioning the rest of their game. I never mentioned my putting so the rest of the boys automatically concluded I must have been a wizard on the greens!"

Cowhands To Entertain Cub Five Here Tonight

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Coach Walker Nichols will send his tough little Lubbock High school Cowhand cagers against the Brownfield club in a regulation game at the Senior High gymnasium.

Paced by such stalwarts as Boland Nabors, Frances Bearden, Joe Dick Hensley, Max Walthall, J. D. Blackwell, J. D. Milner and Carol Claiborne, the Cowhands, understudies to the Westerner charges of Coach "Goober" Keyes, who open a crucial "Big Five" series in the City Friday night against the Plainview High Bulldogs.

Admittance to tonight's promising fray will be 15 and 25 cents, said E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, business manager of athletics at Lubbock High.

Ryder Cup Team Masters Texas Simon Pures

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Feb. 14 — Professional golfdom's greatest players, the United States Ryder cup team, came to the very pillar of American amateur golf today and crushed all doubt that they were masters of the simon pures.

National Open Champion Byron Nelson, who only yesterday won the $5,000 Texas Open tournament at San Antonio, led the pros through bitter north winds with a six-under-par round of 66 to wreck the Texas amateur team in a charity match.

Weather that hindered most of the pro and amateur troupe didn't slow down Lord Byron—around the par 36-36—72 Dallas Country club course in 35-31—66.

Hagen Again Is Master

Final score of the two-ball and four-ball matches played on a point basis, was: professionals, 26; amateurs, 4.

Out in the icy wind today was an old master, Walter Hagen, playing his first competitive round in many years. The great showman, a little stout now and lacking the punch his game knew a dozen years ago, captained the Ryder cuppers and shot two creditable rounds, including a 74.

But Nelson, ill on the Pacific coast swing and just returning to his burning game, was the man with the shots. Over the short 2,970 yard last nine he dropped five birdies and four pars, playing the high wind perfectly.

Snead, Guldahl Low

He teamed with Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., to defeat Harry Todd of Dallas, Western amateur champion, and John Barnum of Edinburg, 4 and 3 in the four ball feature match.

Lowest professional team of the day was that of Slammin' Sam Snead, Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl, the Dallas boy who won the National Open title in 1937 and '38. After feeling their way around the strange course in the coming morning, they stroked a seven-under-par 65 between them to beat Don Schumacher and O'Hara Watts of Dallas, 4 and 3. Snead, who pumped one tee shot 30 feet past the pin on the 327-yard thirteenth hole, just missing his putt for a deuce, was 70.

The only amateur combination able to make a dent in the prelineup was that of Jack Munger of Dallas, former Southern champion, and Bobby Riegl of House, once a member of the Walker cup squad. They defeated Hagen and Dick Metz in the two-ball match, two up but lost their four-ball match, one down.

Pickard Misses Matches

Only member of the Ryder cup team missing from play was Henry Picard, replaced by Hagen, normally the non-playing captain.

Results of the matches:

Four ball:

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill. and Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., defeated David Goldman and Reynolds Smith of Dallas, 3 points to none. (Match score, 4 and 3.)

Byron Nelson, Toledo, Ohio, and Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., defeated Harry Todd, Dallas, and John Barnum, Edinburg, Texas, 3 points to none. (Match score, 4 and 3.)

Sam Snead, Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, defeated Don Schumacher, and O'Hara Watts, Dallas, 3 points to none. (Match score, 4 and 3.)

Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J. and Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, L. I., defeated Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas and Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth, 3 points to none. (match score, 3 and 2.)

Walter Hagen, Detroit, Mich., and Dick Metz, Chicago, Ill., defeated Jack Munger, Dallas, and Bobby Riegel, Houston, 2 1-2 points to 1-2. (Match score, one up.)

Golfing Troupe Practices For Western Open Tourney

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—While some of their illustrious brethren, the Ryder cup team members, were spanking a group of Texas amateurs in Dallas, golfing aspirants in the Western Open field toured the River Oaks course today in chilly weather and a high wind.

Few practice scores were turned in but Craig Wood, runner up to Byron Nelson in the last National Open, reported a 70, one under the layout's 35-36—71 par.

Some of the brigade felt out the course yesterday, and the batch arriving today included Wood, Lawson Little, former British and United States amateur champion; Jimmy Thomson, Tony Penna, and Ben Hogan, the little belter who lost the Texas Open title ot Nelson by one stroke in a playoff yesterday.

The Ryder cup team will check in tomorrow for one day's practice before the event opens Thursday with the pro-amateur competition.

Pictures of the district winners were taken immediately after the boys had dressed after winning their titles, and the marks of battle show on some of them. The other five draw first round byes, do not fight until Friday night or Saturday, and will leave here at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

West Texas-New Mexico League To Convene In Lubbock Next Sunday

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—The West Texas-New Mexico Baseball league will meet in Lubbock next Sunday (10:30 a. m., Hilton hotel) Milton Price, league president, said tonight.

Playing schedules and posting of National Association guarantees will be the principal business.

He explained that previously the meeting date has been set tentatively for February 25, but because Bob Seeds of Amarillo, who is to report for spring training with the New York Giants on Feb. 23, wanted to attend the Lubbock meeting, the date was advanced a week.

Texas Tech Cagers In For Rough Night Here Friday

The nationally famous Phillips "66" quintet, the "Rose Bowl" team of the basketball world, will be seen here Friday night at 8:30 o'clock against Coach Berl Huffman's Texas Tech Red Raiders. A second game between these two teams will be played Saturday night in Borger.

For the last three years Phillips has been one of the top ranking amateur basketball teams in the country. In 1936-37 Phillips was runner-up in the National A.A.U. tournament. In 1937-38 the famous "66" aggregation earned third place in the National tournament. At the close of the 1938-39 season the Phillips team again was runner-up in the National A.A.U. tournament.

Phillips "66" is a member of the Missouri Valley A.A.U. basketball league which has the reputation of offering the best and fastest basketball in these United States. The proof that this reputation is deserved is that for each of the past three years the finalists in the National A.A.U. tournaments have been Missouri Valley A.A.U. teams. In the 1937-38 tournament the four semi-finalists were all Missouri Valley teams.

Six All-Americans

The Missouri Valley A.A.U. league is composed of powerful independent teams from Denver, Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, Des Moines, Milwaukee, Gary and Evansville.

Phillips "66" has a star-studded aggregation. Of the ten players on the team six have been All-Americans or have received All-American mention and the four others received All-Conference or All-State recognition during their college careers. During the last three years the Phillips team has won 110 and lost 23 games for a tremendous basketball average of .827.

One of Phillips' greatest performers is Joe Fortenberry the 6-foot, 8-inch center who weighs 210 pounds. Joe's ability, stamina, and size have made him a great basketball player for many years. While at West Texas Teachers college he was all-league choice for center each of his three competing years. In five years of A.A.U. competition, Joe has twice been chosen All-American center. In 1936 he was a member of the victorious American Olympic basketball team. Joe has always been a strong offensive center and because he has now developed his defensive ability equally many of his followers believe he is playing the most marvelous basketball of his colorful career.

Ray Ebling, Too

Raymond Ebling a 6'3" forward is another Phillips ace. Ray went to work for Phillips in 1936 immediately after his graduation from Kansas University. Since he was All-Big Six forward during his three years of competition at Kansas, was picked on the Coaches' All-American team in 1935, was a College Humor All-American selection, and set an all time Big Six scoring record in 1936, Ray immediately earned a place on the Phillips team. In 1939 he was selected All-Missouri Valley A.A.U. and All-American A.A.U. forward.

Still another brilliant light for Phillips is Frederick Pralle a 6'3" guard who graduated off a great Kansas university team that won the Big Six championship. During his career he has been selected on the United Press' All-American team and was named the most valuable player in the National A.A.U. tournament in 1938 and 1939. Fred was placed on the second All-American A.A.U. team at the close of last season.

Fritz Troutwine, Grady Lewis and William Martin are other Phillips players who have commanded national attention and are recorded in the Who Is Who of basketball as three of the world's greatest performers.

Texas Tech is one of the very few college teams on Phillips schedule this season. Coach Huffman and his Crimson loopers will be the underdogs Friday night against Phillips but it should prove a highly interesting basketball game and will offer local fans their opportunity to see real All-American basketeers in action.

New Deal's Girls Quintet Is Off To Lead In Cage Playoff

MONROE, Feb. 13. (Special)—New Deal's girls tonight jumped away to a good start in the three-way playoff in the Lubbock county playoff to decide two representatives to the district high school girls basketball tourney when they drubbed Idalou, 29 to 19.

The third quarter counter was 26 to 8 favoring the locals, but a spirited fourth stanza drive by Idalou completely drowned out all efforts of the winners in the fading minutes.

In a preliminary, the junior boys of New Deal thumped the Idalou juniors, 28 to 18.

Also seeking the right to advance to the district meet are the Roosevelt girls, who play the New Dealers nxt Tuesday night. Roosevelt and Idalou play Thursday, Feb. 22 in the final game.

Method Of Increasing Oil Yield Per Well Disclosed

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—A "downward withdrawal" method intended to produce a higher yield of oil from marginal wells producing 90 per cent water has been developed by a university of Texas petroleum engineer, university officials reported today.

The engineer, Fred Plummer, vice-chairman of the petroleum division of the American institute of mining and metallurgical engineers, described the process in a paper prepared for presentation before a current meeting of the institute in New York.

Confronted with the fact oil could not penetrate wet sands which often surround well walls in great cones, Plummer three years ago set up a laboratory with five miniature oil wells, each having interchangeable oil sands and variable pressures.

Per Cent Increases

Using a fine-grained oolitc limestone core in his wells and employing the orthodix upward withdrawal method, Plummer's miniature wells in 100 hours yielded 2 per cent oil and 98 per cent water. But when he drilled through and past the oil sands, then turned the flow downward, a 21 per cent yield of oil was obtained, he claimed.

By adding aerosol-phenol, or some other detergent chemical to break the interfacial tension of the water in the sands surrounding the well wall, a still greater yield ranging from 38 to 93 per cent oil, he said, was produced.

Ways Suggested

To get downward withdrawal and minimize the effect of the water cone barrier, Plummer prescribed drilling below the level of producing sand, then casing and cementing the well. The casing was perforated with a few small holes at the top of the sand. The well was pumped in such a way that the fluid level in the casing did not reach the level of the hot sand. In this way the water, if any came through the oil, did not come in contact with the producing face of the oil sand above the level of the cones.

Plummer stated his experiments suggested ways that formation of the water cones could be controlled and that, although his conclusions applied to laboratory conditions, he thought such fluid-flow experiments illustrated principles of water cone behavior and the effect of detergent chemicals on the flow.

The developments might lead to new lines of approach to the solution of some of the water problems confronting production engineers, he said.

Do You Think Your Car Is Too Expensive To Operate? Then Look At These Figures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — Here's one for the motorist who thinks it's expensive to operate his automobile:

The operating cost of the navy bombers, now on neutrality patrol, has been $22.71 an hour—and it's going up.

This cost, Rear Admiral John H. Towers told the House appropriations committee, did not include overhaul and depreciation. The cost was rising, he said, because the newer models require a higher quality gasoline than the older ones.

Plaintiffs and the amounts of judgments ordered recovered by the court as a result of a mishap Jan. 7, 15 miles southwest of Lubbock in Hockley county included the following:

Arthur O. Murphy and wife, Willie H. Murphy, $500; Enoch M. Snider and wife, $500; and Harvey C. Lewis, $243.50.

Bandman Artie Shaw And Lana Turner, Actress, Are Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13. (AP) — Bandman Artie Shaw and shapely Lana Turner—who disagreed about scenes and lines all the way through their one and only co-starring movie—were married early today in Las Vegas, Nev.

Miss Turner, 20, never has been marred before. It was the third marriage for Shaw, who is 30.

Associates at M.G.M. studio, where Lana and Artie appeared in "Dancing Co-Ed" six month ago, expressed amazement over the marriage and then recalled that the newlyweds "didn't get along at all," that they were just about "the most unharmonious pair that ever worked together."

Phillips Still To Fight Dam

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 13 (AP)—Gov. Leon C. Phillips, nettled by the United States supreme court's refusal to consider his flight to block construction of the $54,000,000 Red river dam, indicated today he would reopen the litigation in a lower tribunal.

Asserting that the supreme court's 4-4 decision which denied Oklahoma permission to file an injunction suit against Secretary Woodring to halt further proceedings on the project had left the legal issue unsettled, Phillips declared:

"The way is open for the filing of the case in a lower court."

No Question Settled

He added, however, that the matter of further action would not be decided until after conferences with his special attorneys, William O. Coe and C. C. Hatchett.

Phillips, in a formal statement, pointed out that while the state's contention in the case was not upheld by the supreme court, "at the same time and by the same vote, the government contention was not sustained."

"By this," he said, "I mean that no constitutional question was settled in yesterday's decision and the government's contention of the constitutionality of the Denison dam act and proceedings is still an undecided question."

When the court's decision, removing an immediate legal threat to the government's entire flood control program, was announced, Phillips quickly began consideration of new action.

H. Jerry Sullivan, Grant county farmer, said he had seen some fields showing indications of coming back. J. B. Cockrun, Stanton county farmer, found wheat roots growing in a 7-inch moisture bed and said he believed some fields abandoned last fall would make wheat this spring.

Requests For Pardons Heard

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 13. (U.P.) —The state board of pardons and paroles today held hearings on approximately 200 applications for parole, and cleared the way for a special hearing on the celebrated Scottsboro case Thursday.

The board set 2:30 p.m. (CST) as the time for hearing applications of the five remaining negroes of the original nine convicted in 1931 of criminally assaulting two white girls aboard a freight train near Paint Rock, Ala.

Originally the hearing was set for today, to be treated in routine manner, but the board said so many requests were received from persons desiring to be heard, it decided to hold a special meeting.

To Consider Plea

The board said it would take the plea under consideration and indicated no action would be taken until it had made such investigation and study as it deemed necessary.

The five seeing parole are Clarence Norris, serving life; Andrew Wright, 90 years; Charlie Weems, 75 years; Haywood Patterson, 75 years and Ocie Powell, 20 years. Powell's sentence is for stabbing a deputy during an escape attempt.

Charges against the other four original defendants were dropped in 1935 and the fight to free their co-defendants has gone on ever since.

It's To The Public's Credit

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and Thomas E. Dewey, young New Yorker who aspires to the Republican presidential nomination, have engaged recently in a somewhat pointless debate concerning whether the public debt in the United States has been reduced since 1932.

As might be expected, the President contends that the debt has been lowered and Mr. Dewey that it has not. Both offer figures to support of their contentions, but their figures aren't very convincing. Their controversy is pointless for the reason that the public generally is well aware that involved figures can be twisted about, without departure from accuracy, to support almost any argument that may be made.

However, the fact of their dispute does suggest one fact that does have point. It is:

If the public debt has been reduced, the credit does not belong to the federal government, to any public official, nor to any political party. It has been achieved by the people themselves—by their almost complete refusal during recent years to create new public debts of localized nature.

By the term, "public debt," is meant the total of all of those debts which may be owed by the federal government, by the various states, and by the various political entities of every kind within the states, such as counties, cities, school districts and other districts which may have voted bonds or created other obligations to be repaid over a period of years. There are many thousands of such political entities. Obviously it would be most difficult to list them all and to determine just what they may have owed in 1932 and what they may owe today.

Certain it is that if any real progress in debt reduction has been made, it has not been due to the federal government during the Roosevelt administration under the New Deal. Without possibility of dispute, the federal debt has been increased enormously since 1932. Likewise, it is to be doubted whether the 48 states have accomplished any reductions, because too many of them have followed the example set by the administration.

But a different picture has existed in cities, counties, school districts and the like. Since the depression began to make itself felt, it has been all but impossible to secure voters' approval of any kind of a bond issue—whether by county, city, school district or other entity. Occasional elections have been called and occasionally they have carried, as did those in Lubbock nearly two years ago. But those have been the exceptions.

Meanwhile, very few of the bonds outstanding in 1932 have been defaulted. The counties, cities and school districts have plugged along and somehow have managed to pay their obligations as they have fallen due. Since, with very few exceptions, they have refused to create new debts during that time, it means that over seven years, an enormous total sum probably has been sliced from the debts of the counties, cities and districts.

But that is an achievement for which neither Democrats nor Republicans can claim credit. Nor is the credit due to any candidate nor to all candidates.

The entire credit goes to the mass of the citizenship which has refused, when given an opportunity for direct expression on the proposition, to add further to its back-breaking burden of local indebtedness.

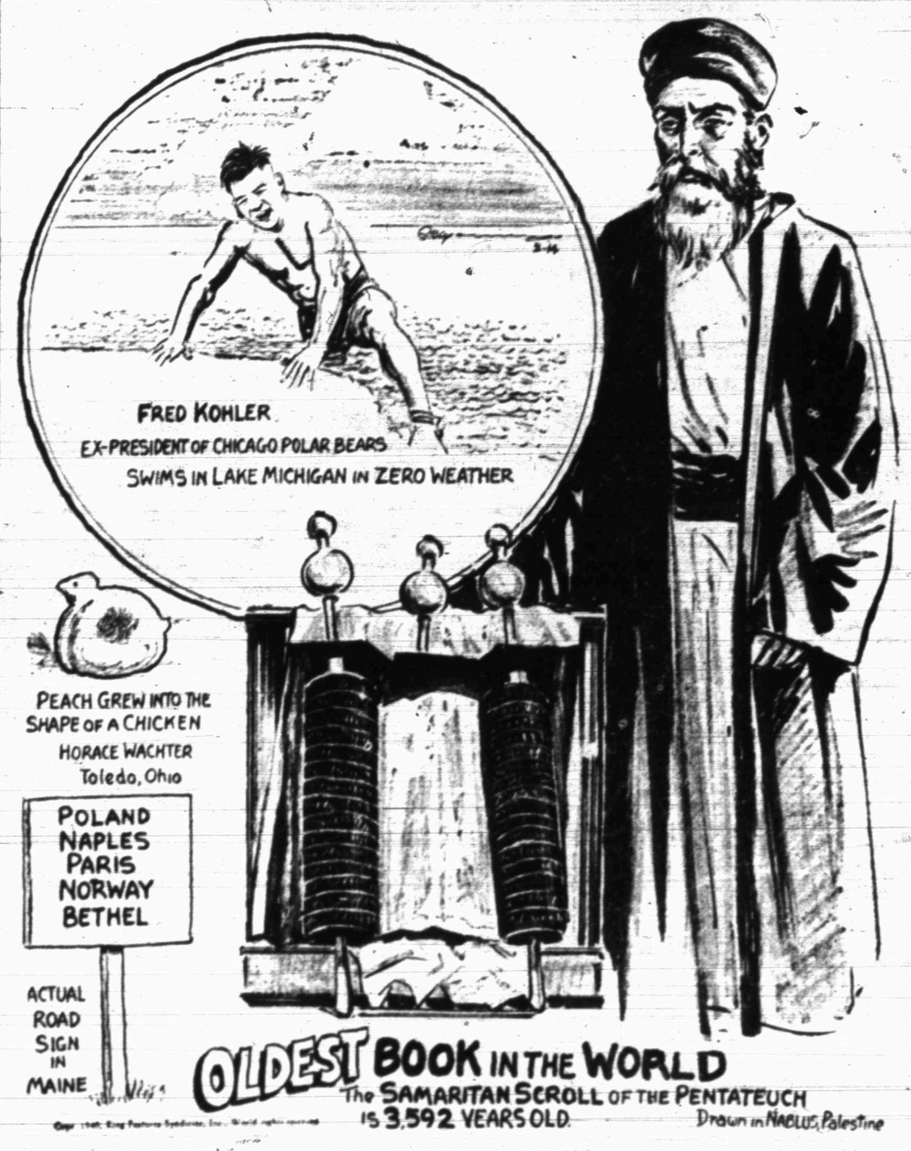

More Stalling Coming Up

ANOTHER of the several unfortunate circumstances arising from revival of the attempt to enact federal anti-lynching legislation is the certainty that an attempt to force passage of the measure will keep the present session of Congress paralyzed during a period of several weeks which otherwise could be devoted to matters of real national importance.

Just as sure as such a measure reaches the Senate—and that seems probable—the deliberations of that body will be "frozen" by this one issue. The opposition already is being organized, and will be of the kind which will fight to the last ditch—just as it properly should to prevent this invasion of state's rights. It is the kind of opposition which can prolong the fight for an almost indefinite period. And while the fight goes on, the senate will be unable to accomplish anything else.

However, the fight must be made with all vigor if diminishing rights of individual states are to continue to have meaning in this country.

OLDEST BOOK IN THE WORLD

The Samaritans, of the same race as the Good Samaritan mentioned in the Bible, are a small religious sect. Their history begins with the Assyrian conquest of Samaria in 1722 B. C. They reject the Bible except the Pentateuch and the Book of Joshua. The schroll of the Pentateuch, shown in my illustration, is believed to have been written by Abishua, who was a great-grandson of Aaron. The text is in Phoenician, and its reputed age is 3592 years.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MARIE LA PORTE—model in exclusive dress shoppe, lives on a barge.

DAN DONOVAN — playboy son of a rich Irishman, in love with Marie.

TOMMY RYAN—leader of the truckers fighting Marie's father.

LYNDA MARTIN—society debutante, wants to marry Dan.

BAPTISTE LA PORTE—Marie's father, owner of a fleet of barges.

YESTERDAY: Mike Donovan calls on Bat, when he sees Dan is determined to marry Marie. Bat is equally angered by the idea. "Your son's not good enough for my daughter!" he bellows at Mike. Finally, Mrs. La Porte stops the quarrel. Mike calls Dan. "You'll not marry that barge man's girl if I can prevent it:"

CHAPTER XII

When Marie La Porte turned into the 59th Street gate to Central Park with Tommy Ryan, she felt she had succeeded in putting Dan Donovan out of her mind. Her spirits rose. There was actually music in the air.

As a matter of fact it was only a street piano she heard, grinding out "The Sidewalks of New York." It brought back sunny spring afternoons when, holding tight to Tommy's hand, she had raced down South Street on roller skates.

The hurdy-gurdy revived early emotions. Ever since she'd been a little girl she had always thought she would grow up and marry Tommy Ryan. They never talked about it, even when they were old enough to, because Tommy wasn't the talking kind, but it had been understood. She remembered the sense of security it had given her to have life settled.

Everything seemed simple until Dan Donovan came along, or perhaps the change had occurred before that. Maybe going to work at Varnet's wearing all those beautiful clothes and seeing the luxurious, easy life of the customers made her dissatisfied. Whatever it was she resented it—Varnet's, Dan and the whole complicated mess.

She glanced at Tommy: If anything, he was better looking than when she first thought she loved him. Tall, six feet and an inch or two, he was deep-chested and muscular. He had on his best blue suit, but she wished he hadn't picked a red necktie. His skin was too sunburned for that. His yellow hair, dampened my perspiration, lay flat and smooth as he took off his felt hat and fanned his face. His hat was new. He handled it self-consciously. He would have been much more at east in his old cap, rough shirt and pants, thought Marie. Then she chided herself for being over-critical. She slipped her hand in his.

"Let's pretend we're kids again, Tommy, out for a good time. The only thing missing is our roller skates."

He grinned. His blue eyes were clear as a baby's, no trace of last night's fight with Dan in them.

"You're not much more than a kid now, Marie, but I get you." He squeezed her hand. "What about a boat ride?"

She nodded, her brown eyes sparkling. Together, they raced down the hill to the boat house on the south side of the big lake, her dark curls flying in the breeze. Tommy was right, she was still a little girl. The round white collar of her blue dress made her seem far younger than 18.

The boat house was crowded with customers. The prematurely warm weather had boomed business. They stopped at the lunch counter and had a hot dog, then joined the waiting line.

"Oh, Tommy," Marie cried. "We'll ride in a red boat and take popcorn and peanuts along. You can row and I'll sit back and feed the swans and admire you."

They climbed into a red rowboat she picked and drifted lazily around the lake, saying little but enjoying the sun, the fresh, warm spring air and the brightness of the yellow forsythia blooming on the banks. Occasionally Marie threw peanuts to the swans and ducks. The lapping of the water against the side of the boat relaxed her until she thought of Dan again and was hurt. She was thankful for the healing present.

"Tommy," she said. "Let's stop the clock right here. I don't want to go back to life."

He smiled and pulled more slowly on the oars. He had taken off his coat and she could see the muscles flex beneath his white shirt. She felt the old thrill for him surge within her and she tried to hold it but it was gone when he spoke.

"Sounds silly to me. S'pose we did stop the clocks, the sun would still set, night would still come, and I would still have to start workin' my truck again in the mornin'. Which reminds me," he glanced at his watch. "We've got to turn this boat in by 5."

Marie frowned. Now, if Tommy had been Dan—She drew herself up sharply. She mustn't think of Dan. He was going to marry Lynda Martin. He was out of her life. Tommy's words snapped her back.

"All right. Let's take the boat in and get at least one ride on the merry-go-round." She held up her hand. "Hear it playing that funny old music?"

He pulled more briskly on the oars, steering the boat towards shore.

"Why do you want to do the same things we did when we were kids?"

"Because that was when we were the happiest together," she answered frankly.

"Aren't you happy with me now?" He slapped the water savagely with the oars, making a resounding splash.

"Oh, Tommy, you're getting me wet!"

He went on rowing. "You didn't answer my question."

She gazed thoughtfully at the tall buildings fringing the southern skyline, their white spires painted rose by the setting sun. "I suppose I'm happy, but in a different way."

He guided the boat to the wooden landing float. When the dockman hooked it, he jumped ashore and reached out his hand.

"Well I'm not happy," he said, as they left the boat house, "and the guy to blame is Dan Donovan." He clutched her arm until it hurt. "Marie, let's get married tonight. We can go to Jersey City—"

She drew away. "Please, Tommy, don't be serious today. Let's go on having fun. Here's the merry-go-round."

She ran ahead to the platform. "I want to ride the pink pony and get the brass ring. Remember the Sunday afternoon you pulled six in succession and the man who took the tickets would let you have only five rides?"

The lights were twinkling on the mall when they left Central Park.

"Let's go to Diamond Jim's for dinner," Marie suggested. "Mrs. Atwood, that widow who owns those barges beyond the Molly, went there the other night with the Flanagans. She told Pop it was swell."

Tommy scowled. "O. K. We'll go to Diamond Jim's, but if this is going to be a holiday, don't bring your Dad into it."

She jerked his arm as they passed a news-stand. "Look, Tommy, there's your name and Dan's in a headline!"

* * *

Together they read. "Young Millionaire Dan Donovan Biffs Truckster Tommy Ryan in Waterfront Bout Over Beautiful Model. Fight to Be Continued. . . . The girl in the case, Marie La Porte, svelte Varnet model, cocktailed yesterday at Larue's with Donovan."

Tommy clenched his fists. "So that's where you'd been when I spotted you two last night."

"That's all past."

Tommy paid no attention.

"Listen to this. 'Donovan's engagement to Lynda Martin, it is rumored, will be formally announced Saturday night at a blowout Mrs. William Martin, aunt of the lucky girl, is giving in their honor'." Triumphantly he caught Marie's arm. "C'mon kid, stick to your own gang. Here's a bus. It'll take us to Times Square and Diamond Jim's."

"Yes, we'll celebrate," Marie said, but she was crying.

Try To Swindle Sportswoman Leads To Arrest Of Two Men

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—An attempt to swindle Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, wealthy Chicago sportswoman, by a plea for aid in the name of Johnny Gilbert, the jockey, has resulted in the arrest of two men by Nassau county police.

Mrs. Mars, in Los Angeles, received a telegram presumably signed by Gilbert, saying that his wife was ill, and asking that $250 be sent to a Valley Stream address.

Gilbert happened to be on the west coast, and Mrs. Mars notified authorities, who told her to send the money, anyhow.

Two men who went to a telegraph office and allegedly asked for the money were arrested. They were booked as Harold P. Odom and William Manning. Charged with attempted swindle, they were held in $1,500 bail each.

Their liaison men have broached a prospective compromise to key men on Capitol Hill with some measure of success. Despite Vice President Garner's leadership and inspiration, Congressmen are becoming scared over their own economy gestures.

Under the new scheme the debt limit increase would be about $2,500,000,000 rather than the five billion originally requested by Secretary Morgenthau. The plea would be sugar-coated with the suggestion that some margin for spending is necessary because of emergencies which might arise while Congress is not in session. Tentative formula for any new tax is to exact 10 per cent extra from personal income taxpayers in the middle brackets. This would produce about $120,000,000 rather than the $460,000,000 proposed by the President.

Congress has been cold to both ideas, figuring that they would be dynamite in a reelection year. But the rather naive argument for the compromise is that individuals and interests who would resent these moves are comparatively limited quantitatively and qualitatively—and never vote Democratic, anyway!

GENEROUS: The Berle idea of distributing our stock of gold among certain foreign nations to rebuild a solid post-war universe has bed-rock foundation within the administration. Although this particular plan has never been advanced specifically, it has been the hidden theme of various pronouncements by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

In 1933, when FDR proposed a 25 per cent slash in armaments, he promised that the United States would furnish the utmost economic cooperation. Again when he asked Herr Hitler to forego war last fall, he repeated this proposal, and Mr. Hull has frequently echoed it. They never blueprinted their plan, but obviously one method was to open American markets through tariff reductions as in the reciprocal trade agreements. But another would have been to supply an impoverished Europe with the wherewithal to make purchases.

Mr. Berle himself conceded that his suggestion had certain "fantastic" elements. But it might easily lose its bizarre appearance if it promised booming returns for American business and industry, as did the unpaid loans advanced to foreign nations after World war 1. Some orthodox economists think it would be a fine bargain if the loan—or gift—of five billion in gold were to stimulate twice or three times that amount of domestic activity. Better to put the gold to work in that way, they suggest, than to leave it buried in Kentucky earth.

EFFECTS: Foreign wars—the Oriental and the European—have had a curious but wholesome effect on the traffic in illicit drugs in the United States. They promise to wipe out the trade and cure the addicts more effectively than all the clinics and hospitals the government has established.

Importations and smuggling have been so reduced that dope users cannot obtain the pure stuff. A diagnosis of arrested addicts, and examination of seized stuff, reveal that pills now on the market contain only about 5 per cent of real morphine and 95 per cent of milk sugar. They are taking about the same amount of drugs which are given them at hospitals in order to wean them of the habit. Officials at the Lexington (Ky.) government hospital report to Washington that victims arriving after a short sojourn in jail show all the signs of having been fully cured. They make very poor laboratory specimens for medical research.

The legal market for opium—a strategic war material—has boomed. In anticipation of a conflict, Uncle Sam has quietly stocked up with a three years' supply for the civilian population and the armed forces. He has about 500,000 pounds in his vaults, and it is guarded as vigilantly as the gold at Fort Knox. It is worth $5,000,000 on the basis of its legal value, but $75,000,000 at quotations in the drug-starved underworld.

GOOD: The majority of the New York delegates to the Republican national convention have pledged formal allegiance to Thomas E. Dewey, but they are not putting all their eggs in his political basket. They are missing no chance to look over and deal with rival candidates.

It is no accident, for instance, that Mrs. Robert A. Taft was requested to deliver an address at the Lincoln Day dinner in New York. It would have been indiscreet to invite the senator himself into Tom's state, but the same ethical standards apparently did not apply with respect to her. Nor is it a haphazard arrangement under which she has been asked to a private confab with some of the politicos who have already been chosen as Dewey delegates.

Incidentally, the sparkling Mrs. Taft is proving to be the most effective campaigner in her husband's menage. Indeed, she makes such a hit with both large and small audiences that political wags say "the ticket ought to be Taft and Taft, and there is a great deal of doubt as to which member of the family should head it."

NEW YORK
By Richard Waldo

TAMMANY Hall, speaking through the New York County Democrats, has come out with a slate of delegates pledged—in a loud whisper—for a third or even for a fourth term. These 22 men, in a convention list of a thousand, would be just another delegation—if they didn't hail from Tammany and from the bailiwick of the National Democratic chairman, James A. Farley.

Fact is that the Democratic picture in New York state is as murky as was intended by the author of the third-term mystery. Probably the most accurate summary of the 12-year business is that President Roosevelt has won his point. Intimates, friends and the nation are all guessing. In practical politics this means that Jim is not issuing orders of the day to the Democratic battalion of New York until he is sure of his war aims. The fourth-term talk of the waiting troops is just target practice.

Should President Roosevelt declare himself out of the picture, there is general agreement among the politicians that Farley's preferences will swing the rest of the home boys. But if Mr. Roosevelt runs and Farley takes a walk, it is pretty clear that a Tammany majority will follow New Yorker Roosevelt, a minority—New Yorker Farley.

TIMELY: While the economist seers keep grinding out forecasts of recovery or recession, according to the tea leaves, a number of biggish money deals point to a hunch on the part of executives that things are looking up. In a single week New York received announcements that refunding operations totaling nearly a half billion dollars are under way.

Money is being raised today to pay off city and corporate bonded indebtedness that won't come due for one, two and three years. The deals mean an immediate and large loss against the hope that better times will make the present losses a good investment in the long run. Here are samples. Triborough Bridge bonds bearing 4¼% interest are due in 1942. A new bond issue of 70 millions and bearing 3% interest will be sold to pay it off ahead of maturity. The bond owners will be paid 2 years of unearned interest at 4¼% for the city's privilege of refunding for a long stretch of years at 3%. In effect the city fathers are willing to grant a 1¼% premium on the total issue for two years for the chance of refunding now rather than in '41 and '42. Bethlehem Steel is doing an analogous refund job on bonds totaling 100 million dollars—the largest corporate deal of its kind in ten years. A number of utilities companies are climbing aboard in the same rush to refinance their long term debts with the low interest money available in the present market. In each case heavy unearned interest is being paid off now rather than chance the steeper money rates expected in the future.

Louisiana Again Engaged In Mud-Slinging Race; 'Thief' And 'Crook' Watch Words

By MASON DIXON
NEA Service Staff Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 13 — Louisiana, where they take politics like raw gin, is licking its collective lips and holding out the gourd for another shot at the run-off Democratic primary for governor Feb. 20.

It's the kind of a campaign you read about. It's mud-slinging on a titanic scale. "Thief" and "Crook" are the watch words.

Governor Earl Kemp Long, 42, younger brother of the late "Kingfish" Huey Long, is running against Sam Houston Jones, 49, a lawyer.

In the first primary last month five anti-Long candidates polled 327,000 votes out of a total vote of 553,000. Sam Jones, the leader, and James R. Noe, the third best candidate, between them polled 45,000 more than Long's vote. Now Noe is stumping the state to swing his followers to Jones.

Anything Goes

THE SKY is the limit on personalities.

To Earl Long and his stump speakers' staff, Sam Jones became "Higt-Hat Sam, the Corporation Lawyer." In Long's propaganda newspaper, Sam Jones always is cartooned in a high silk hat. Once they cartooned him with big diamond shirt-studs. Then, inadvertently, in a subsequent issue, they left off the diamond studs. Sam Jones smashed through that opening.

"They've stolen my diamonds," he proclaimed. "What would you expect? You've seen them steal everything else that wasn't nailed down, and some things that were!"

Governor Long, hammering at "High Hat Sam" from the stump, pictured him as "smelling sweet from the perfumed soap and cologne he uses when he mixes with his corporation friends."

Jones came back: "You might take a sniff at Earl Long next time he comes around. Earl don't smell sweet, and you only have to look at the court records of his political bedfellows to know why."

Long Family Made Issue

ONE OF Jones' attacks centers on an issue of the Congressional Record in which is sworn testimony of Earl Long that Huey took bribe money. Earl and Huey were bitter personal enemies then, because Huey wouldnt back Earl in his candidacy for lieutenant-governor.

Earl now tries to soft-pedal that "brothers' quarrel." He parades Huey's widow out on the platform and his campaign songsters chorus: "Have you forgotten so soon?" after Earl rehearses the "benefits" Huey brought Louisiana and a hired bugler blows for Huey as the song ends.

Both sides have gone back to World war for campaign ammunition. Long attacked Jones for the infantry outfit in which enlisted didn't go overseas. Jones replied that Long, who didn't see service, was a "slacker."

"Calls me a slacker, does he?" lowed Earl Long. "I'm going to his face for him next time I see him."

They haven't come face to face since that exchange.

Can't Find Words

THE WORD, "thief," "embezzlers" and "embezzlement" have been hurled freely from the stump and printed political literature.

They are the common coin of campaign language, in Louisiana where politics gets down to the lowest common denominator.

Governor Long's reference to opponents as "Jesus No. 1" and "Devil No. 1" have become epithets to keep clear of the issue. One of the administration's chief charges was a part by saying: "Even Jesus Christ couldnt pick twelve honest men for his twelve disciples. One of them turned out to be a gun-toting, a-gun."

Now Louisiana has a new libel law. But, when Louisiana politicians libel law away in cold storage, a sort of unspoken, unwritten agreement among candidates. In the primary the "Convict Pardon" issue successful candidate Jimmy Davis raised the hair of many visitors.

Louisiana takes its politics like raw gin. That gin is beginning to flow like a river as the run-off primary date nears.

Banking Leader Sounds Warning

DALLAS, Feb. 13 (AP) — J. A. Pondrom, bank president of Texarkana, warned in an address before a fifth district meeting of the Texas Bankers association here today that the trend of events in the United States during the past 10 years was leading to the eventual moral and financial bankruptcy of the nation.

He emphasized, however, that he was not predicting that this bankruptcy was inevitable, and that he counted upon the common sense and determined effort of the people to prevent it.

Pondrom said that the expenditures of the general government, excluding sub-divisions, during the past ten years have been approximately $25,000,000,000, or almost double its income. He said "there is not a banker here who would consider making a loan to any one with such a record."

The moral trend toward bankruptcy, he said, is evidenced by "the millions of healthy, able-bodied men and women who, in the past few years, have persuaded themselves it is the function and duty of the state, or their fellow citizens, to support them in comfort and idleness at any period of their lives."

He rapped the California "Ham-and-eggs" plan, the Townsend plan, and others as examples of this attitude.

Other speakers included A. E. Brooks of Fort Worth and General Smedley D. Butler.

Shooting Of Robins Is Federal Offense, Executive Warns

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (U.P.)—"Don't kill robins" was the warning issued here today by Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission after having received reports from many sections of the state that boys are playing havoc with these birds with air rifles and slingshots.

"Robins are protected by state law and since they are migratory birds, persons found guilty of killing them are subject to fine in federal court," Tucker said.

As the mayor's car purred down the main street, villagers stood on the curb and cheered. Heads appeared in windows, shouting greetings. Automobiles, trucks and wagons joined in the parade to the seven-room house the town had donated rent-free until a special nursery could be built for the quadruplets.

Community Welcome

The whole community gathered for the homecoming. Men, women and children stretched across the big yard and sang "Home, Sweet Home," in voices trained at the little church down the road.

Housewives brought out baskets of food—huge platters of fried chicken, pans of biscuits, four- and five-layer cakes heavy with frosting, pies of all descriptions.

"The last three weeks seem like a dream," Mrs. Short said, "and I can't seem to wake up."

Quads To Come Home

The new house is a yellow frame cottage in the middle of a big yard, with three huge trees in the front and garden in back. It has electric lights and a pump, which the Shorts never had before. New curtains flutter from the windows; new furniture is inside and new rugs are on the floor. Friends and neighbors bought the furnishings, and moved them in.

The quadruplets will be brought "home" to Nauvoo when they leave the hospital a few weeks hence.

Mrs. Short herself chose Nauvoo for their home, over attractive offers from Jasper and Haleyville.

Spending Policy Said Obstacle

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP) — The government's deficit spending policy was termed an obstacle to business recovery today by Harley Lutz, professor of public finance at Princeton university, addressing the mid-winter trust conference of the American Bankers association.

"We have before us," Lutz said, "the outline of a beautiful vicious circle. . . the taxes that can be collected from a $90,000,000,000 national income will not suffice to cover the kind of spending program that was launched to build us up to the $90,000,000,000 income level, and we shall be told that the government is shooting at $100,000,000,000, where it hopes to balance the budget.

"This kind of logic belongs in the same class with theories of perpetual motion and bootstrap levitation. . . The needed driving force must come from private economy. It will never come from a policy of governmental deficit financing."

The world's most tattooed man probably was Constantine, the Greek king, who had 388 designs upon his body.

Musician Is Sentenced To Life Term

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13. (U.P.) —The fact he's a fine musician any jail will greet with open arms was Frank Grandstaff's consolation today.

The former accordion-playing star of a Texas prison radio program faced a life term in Tennessee state penitentiary after a jury found him guilty of house-breaking and being a habitual criminal. The last charge made his life sentence mandatory.

Grandstaff, 38 years old and bespectacled, came to Memphis some months ago with Gwendolyn Lynn of Kansas City, who had become an ardent accordion fan while he played from Huntsville. She met him after his release and they traveled to New Orleans where they went broke. Then they came to Memphis, where he was arrested and charged with a number of housebreakings.

He made a personal plea to the jury yesterday.

"Don't sentence me for life to three steps and a turn in a prison cell," he cried. The jury considered his record here, his five feloney convictions in other states, and gave him life.

"The Tennessee prison ought to meet me with arms wide open," Grandstaff said today. "I'm a darn fine musician anyway."

Control Board Moves To Stop Discharge Of Hospital Workers

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The board of control has moved to prevent the discharge of any employes at the San Antonio state hospital, for insane without its consent, its minutes disclosed today.

The minutes of the meeting held yesterday said the board had unanimously adopted this motion:

"That Dr. Johnson be advised that the board will expect him to get the approval of the board of control before making discharges of any employes of the San Antonio state hospital."

Dr. W. J. Johnson, superintendent of the hospital, last Saturday was granted a temporary injunction, by a Travis county district court, restraining the board from discharging him or interfering with his management of the institution.

The board previously had attempted to discharge eight employes of the hospital and had held a public investigation of morals charges brought against Johnson by former women employes at the hospital.

Waco May Be Included In Stops Of Braniff Airway Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — Representative Poage (D-Tex) has received notice from the Civil Aeronautic authority that Waco, Tex., may be included as a stop on scheduled flights of Braniff airways planes.

Heretofore, the CAA disapproved of a stop at Waco because of the condition of the field, Poage said. He quoted Robert Smith, vice president of the Braniff lines, as saying an early morning stop for mail would be put into effect at the Central Texas city within the next few days, and that a more convenient passenger stop would be worked out later.

Rush For Bicarbonate Of Soda Doesn't Stop Speeding Charge

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Officers chased a young man to his home and demanded to know why he had been speeding 50 miles an hour.

"My grandfather has indigestion, and I was rushing him some bicarbonate of soda," he explained.

While grandfather gulped the bicarbonate of soda, the policemen wrote out a speeding ticket.

New Families Are Reported

Records of the Retail Merchants association list 926 families who moved to Lubbock during 1939, according to information announced at the chamber of commerce Tuesday.

On the basis of the federal census bureau estimate that the "average" family consists of approximately 4.5 persons, the figures would indicate a total addition of 4,167 persons to the population of Lubbock during the year.

Those Leaving Unknown

Records of the association would not show accurately the number of families who moved away during the year, but the number was small in comparison with those newly arrived.

Officials of the association explained also that its listings would not include all of the newcomers, although it probably is the most nearly complete of any compiled. The figures were obtained through installations of electric, water, gas and other utility services, the records of which state whether or not the family is newly arrived, through credit inquiries made directly to the association, and from a number of other sources.

Those records, officials said, would not list many families which rent apartments or living quarters where utility bills are paid. The number of such families doubtless is considerable, officials of the chamber said.

The number of families moving to Lubbock, according to the records, ranged from 53 in December to 104 in August.

The totals by months were announced as being: January, 78; February, 82; March, 78; April, 81; May, 86; June, 97; July, 57; August, 104; September, 72; October, 70; November, 75; and December, 53.

Lubbock Lions Get Awards

Honoring Lions who have advanced the cause of Lionism in Lubbock, three groups of awards from Lions International were presented to 11 members yesterday noon, by Judge E. L. Pitts, former district governor.

Silver Lion paperweights were presented to President Marshall Harvey, Secretary George H. Watkins and H. C. Pender, membership committee chairman, for outstanding work. To Dr. R. P. Reeds and Dale Vannoy, membership keys were presented for securing two members and to F. A. Kleinschmidt, Dr. Sam C. Arnett, jr., Wallace Bogart, Clark Wood, Ben Eskridge, Noel Stalnaker, Harvey, Watkins, Reeds and Pender, medallions for outstanding work.

Eleven new members, recently received, were announced as being advanced from cubs to full fledged members. Those present sat at a table in the center of the room and Judge Pitts presented to each a badge, membership card, constitution and membership list. They included, R. B. McAllister, H. R. Sanderson, Dr. Olan Key, H. A. Lattimore, Dr. Elmer Moore and T. M. Jones.

First Aid Demonstration

Harry Fieldman was announced as a new member.

Five scouts from troop 5, under direction of Scoutmaster W. A. Hood, gave a first aid demonstration. The squad, said Hood, has won first place two successive years in West Texas competition and was fourth at Dallas last year in a four-state contest. First aid is the "hobby" of the troop.

With Tom Victor Hodges as the "injured" man, four scouts demonstrated how to put a back splint on him for a supposed" broken back," and how to get him to where he would be given care by a physician. They were, E. L. Thaxton, jr., O. C. Hackett, Dick Cornelius and Maurice Hood.

Young Thaxton briefly told of the start of American scouting from a visit in London by W. B. Boyd, an American and his experiences with an English scout during a fog. Joe Y. Boyd was chairman of the day.

Fleming Nominated To Head Wage-Hour Administration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (U.P.) — President Roosevelt today nominated Col. Philip B. Fleming, trouble-shooter of the army engineering corps, to take full rank as administrator o fthe wage-hour administration.

Technical statutory restrictions previously had made it impossible for Mr. Roosevelt to make the army officer wage-hour chief. These were eliminiated by a congressional act attached to a $252,000,000 deficiency bill which Mr. Roosevelt signed earlier in the day.

Since Elmer Andres resigned last fall, Fleming has been serving as actual age-hour administrator, although technically listed as an assistant to Acting Administrator Harold Jacobs.

Lubbock Company Gets Contract For Courthouse Addition

FLOYDADA, Feb. 13 (Special) — General Building Co. of Lubbock was awarded the contract today for construction of an annex to the Floyd county courthouse.

The Lubbock firm's bid was $9,945. The structure has been designated the agriculture building. Construction is due to start in 10 days.

County commissioners court has given notice of intention to issue interest-bearing time warrants to cover costs of construction. The court had designated $12,000 for the purpose.

It is possible that Works Projects administration funds will be obtained, said an official.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries greatly increased public demand for dogfish as a food by changing the name to grayfish.

Herbert Hoover Announces New Oil Prospecting Way

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 —Herbert Hoover, jr., and a group of west coast associates announced today a new method of prospecting for oil.

A pint of earth, dug from within a few feet of the surface, gives them direct signs of oil fields that may be buried 10,000 feet below.

This is done with the mass spectograph, a recent scientific instrument which outdoes the tricks of magicians and which never before has been put to commercial use.

Size Of Pinhead

The report was made to the American institute of mining and metallurgical engineers jointly by Hoover, jr., as president of the United Geophysical Co., of Pasadena, Calif., and Harold Washburn, research director.

For several years, petroleum geologists have known tiny bits of gas seep slowly to the surface over oil fields, regardless of whether they have been tapped.

But a pint of earth, over a field, will yield not more than a pin-head of gas.

This pin-head, furthermore, is likely to contain 20,000 times more gas from rotting vegetation than from the richest oil that may be buried below. Even chemistry cannot analyze the golden residue in such a tiny volume.

Divides Molecules

But the pass spectograph does the analysts easily, and takes only 10 minutes. The spectograph was invented only a decade ago by Prof. Aston in England to weigh atoms.

When used as an oil field diving rod, it literally can separate the particles of gas, molecule by molecule. The method is simple. Different kinds of gas have different weight, which identify them. The mass spectograph throws the gas particles, one by one, under electrical and magnetic impulses.

The heavier ones travel farther.

The instrument is useful also for analyzing cuttings brought to the surface by prospectors' drills. As oil is neared, the cuttings frequently contain more and more gas.

Cat Climbs Electric Line Pole To Cause Much Excitement

A cat climbed an electric line pole on Twenty-first street Sunday afternoon and quite a lot of excitement was the result, officials of the city electric department related Tuesday.

Report of the cat's plight was made by Garland Nystel, 2412 Twenty-first street, who related that the plaintive mews from atop the pole allowed little sleeping in that neighborhood Sunday night. Just why the kitten had chosen its lofty perch was uncertain, but a dog is supposed to have had something to do with it.

In any event, residents of the neighborhood spent a good portion of Monday attempting to entice tabby to safety. They were wholly unsuccessful. Then someone called the city electric department.

Lineman R. E. Whiteley responded. Using climbers, he ascended the pole and at the top, reached for the cat. The cat leaped into space. It was one cat which failed to land on its feet, witnesses to the episode related. It fell upon its back.

Apparently, however, it wasn't injured because it righted itself instantly and left the spot on a dead run.

Housing Survey In "Flats" To Be Completed This Afternoon

H. C. Pender, chairman of the local housing authority, said Tuesday that the housing survey which was started Monday should be completed in "The Flats" this afternoon.

The crew of National Youth administration enrollees who are doing the work then will be transferred to the white sections of the city. A similar survey also will be made in the Mexican section where pupils from Guadalupe school will accompany the NYA workers to serve as interpreters.

Purpose of the survey, Pender explained, is to obtain the information which must accompany the application if Lubbock is to seek a slum clearance project under the Federal Housing authority. Expectation is that separate units of the project here will be sought for white, negro and Mexican sections.

Those working in the negro section, he said, reported that they have been receiving excellent information and that there have been only two instances of even partial refusal of the data requested. The negro chamber of commerce has given valuable assistance in the work there, he added.
