All women interested in cooking, foods, and a little fun mixed in, are invited to attend the free show, which is sponsored by local appliance dealers in cooperation with Southwestern Public Service company.

"Calorie Carnival" is a little different from the ordinary cooking school in that it is presented in a fast moving skit for entertainment and education by two experienced home-makers.

These women are Mrs. Xie Collins and Mrs. Eleanor Woodson, both of Lubbock who are trained and experienced in the culinary arts and showmanship. They are former home demonstration agents, and have had considerable experience in radio and TV, as well as in cooking, menu planning, etc.

There will be a number of free electrical appliance prizes for the ladies attending the hour and a half cooking show, and also a 25-pound pail of All Detergent.

Local appliance dealers will also have some of their electrical appliances on display on the stage.

The Three-Way school is a rural consolidated system in southern Bailey county and includes the communities of Maple, Enochs, and Goodland. The school has 15 teachers.

In addition to serving as principal here, Mr. Sims was also in charge of the lunch room operations.

Supt. Otis Spears states that O. B. Wixom of Bokchito, Okla., elected band and chorus director here about a month ago, has also resigned because of the fact that his mother has suffered a "stroke" and he desires to remain near her home in Durant.

Citizens Asked To Plan For Parade During Reunion

Entries are desired for the Old Time Parade which will be held here in connection with the Lynn County Pioneers Reunion on June 24.

The Reunion will be held all day and is open to families who came to Lynn county thirty or more years ago.

The parade, scheduled for 4 o'clock in the afternoon, is open to everyone, and is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of which Mitchell Williams is president.

Three beautiful loving cups will be awarded winners for best entries in the parade.

Individuals or famillies, clubs, and business institutions may enter the parade, and are requested to feature the old timer theme with buggies, covered wagons, old cars, floats, etc.

In charge of the parade are Herman Heck, Fred McGinty, and Alton Cain, but they will need a lot of help from a lot of people.

They hope the various communities, with home demonstration clubs, schools, and Boy Scouts, and other organizations will join in seeing that suitable entries are made for the parade.

Fred McGinty, president of Pioneer Association this year, says registration will begin at 10 a. m., the usual dinner for pioneer families will be served at noon, and there will be a program at 1:30 p. m. in an air conditioned building.

Grass Is Being Planted On School Campus; Other Works Planned

Workmen began last week preparing the soil to plant the remainder of the Tahoka school playgrounds in Bermuda grass.

About three-fourths of the 16-acre campus will be in grass when the program is complete. This will include all the ground used for playgrounds.

Earlier this year, an irrigation well was drilled on the northeast corner of the campus, a 5-inch pump installed, and an aluminum pipe sprinkler system purchased with which to water the campus. The board believes it can save money on the water bill in the long run and also cease to be a drain on the City's water facilities.

When the campus improvement program is complete, Supt. Otis Spears hopes the Tahoka school will have one of the most beautiful campuses in the area.

Some plantings of trees and shrubs were made earlier in the year, and more plantings will be made in the future.

Only minor repairs to the buildings will be necessary this summer, Mr. Spears says. Building floors will be refinished as the principal project.

Grass was planted last year in front of the two elementary buildings, in front of and to the south of the High school. Now, the entire North Elementary campus is being put in grass; all of the South Elementary campus is being sodded except the bus parking lot; a lawn is being prepared for the Home Making cottage; and the area north and west of the high school building is being put in grass.

Congratulations:

Farmers Planting Again This Week

Four Siren Blasts Tornado Worning

Four long blasts from the Tahoka fire siren will be a tornado warning.

This announcement was made Thursday by Fire Chief James Clinton after confering with the City and county officials.

Since the Weather Bureau has initiated its system of determining when conditions are right for tornados, it will now be possible to transmit these warnings through the Fire Department.

However, people are urged not to grow panicky, but simply to remain on the alert. A four-blasts alarm will not necessarily mean a tornado is on its way, but simply that weather conditions indicate that a storm is possible.

Big TV Tower Is Going Up Here

Erection of the 300-foot tower, four miles west and one south of Tahoka, was started this week. A workman told The News the local installation would probably represent an outlay of $75,000 to $100.000.

About 15 days will be required to erect the huge steel tower, according to Gordon Johnson, superintendent of the job for Wickes Engineering and Construction Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, the tower erectors.

Installation of equipment in the communications building will be complete before July 1, when live broadcasts will become possible, according to L. R. McIntosh of Dallas, supevisor for Western Electric, which is installing the relay equipment.

Installation of the station here, a 275-foot tower and station at Lamesa, and a 265-foot tower and station at Lubbock will connect Lubbock television stations with the co-axial cable just south of Lamesa for broadcast of live nationwide programs.

American Telephone and Telegraph is the owner of the three relay stations. Each will be fully automatic and unattended.

Mr. McIntosh said the Lamesa station will pick up the microwave from the AT&T co-axial cable at Lamesa, transmit a horizontal polarized beam over a frequency of 37,000 megocycles to the Tahoka station, which will in turn relay the beam to the Lubbock station. The Lubback station will feed the beam to KDUB-TV and KCBD-TV respectively for broadcast.

BMFP Construction Co. of Lubbock several weeks ago erected the transmitter building and laid the foundation for the micro-wave tower. Each of four legs of the tower will rest on a concret base 10 feet square and sunk eight feet in the ground.

School Transfer Deadline June 1st

Last call for school student transfers from one district to another is being made this week the deadline being June 1.

The date has been moved up by a change in the law made last year by the State Legislature.

Parents desiring to transfer their children must do so now at the office of the County Superintendent.

Miss Ann Wheatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wheatley Buick, visited in Brownfield and Littlefield Friday through Monday.

Farmers over the county, except in some areas that received showers early this week, are busy planting again, and everything seems favorable for a good crop in 1954.

Tahoka received another .66 of an inch rain Saturday and .02 Monday, bringing the year's precipitation to 7.16 inches, about an inch above normal of 6.12 inches.

May rainfall in Tahoka to date has totaled 4.52 inches as compared to a normal of 2.93. April rainfall was 2.62, compared to a normal of 1.29 But, only .02 of an inch fell during January, February, and March, as compared to a normal for the three months of 1.09

Parts of Lynn county, however, have received more rain than Tahoka. Showers early this week which missed Tahoka fell over the eastern and southern part of the county.

This has been the wettest May since 1947, when 5.54 inches were recorded in Tahoka. In 1941, the May rainfall was a record 11.09 inches; 1935, 4.76; 1930, 4.47, 1914, 4.79.

Some farmers are now planting the third time, and many are planting a second time.

Some earlier feed has been saved, but the acreage of cotton which survived the May rains has been minor. A few farmers are scratching out cotton planted earlier.

Mr. Dennis was born February 9, 1875, in Wise county. He was married at Childress on December 29, 1905. He and his wife moved to Tahoka from Hereford in 1932. He was converted fifty years ago.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Ola Dennis, of Tahoka; two daughters, Mrs. Beatrice Hutson of Hereford and Mrs. Blanche McCallum of Lubbock; one brother, and six sisters.

Sylvia Thompson Honor Graduate At Lubbock High

Sylvia Ann Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Thompson, now residing at 3402 31st street in Lubbock but formerly of Tahoka, graduates as an honor student from Lubbock High School tonight.

A former student of the Tahoka schools, Sylvia has completed her three years work in Lubbock Senior High School in only two years.

Sylvia will tour ten countries of Europe this Summer, from June 12 through August 18, following which she expects to enter Texas Tech as a dormitory student this fall.

The Thompsons will drive their daughter to Quebec, Canada, where she will board the USS Atlantic for her trip to Europe. Terry and Ann plan to vacation for several weeks in Canada, and Terry expects to get some fishing done.

Moisture conditions over the state continue to improve and the prospects for a bumper grain sorghum crop are very promising. Producers expecting to benefit from support prices at harvesttime are reminded that storage will likely be the big problem. It is not too early to arrange for storage in commercial elevators or for constructing the needed storage of the farm.

Pastor Compliments Community Spirit

Seems to me, that a wonderful example of genuine Christianity was reported in the News last week.

Do you remember the article, "Neighbors Plant Patterson Farm In Short Time"? The article stated that twenty tractors were used to plant 296 acres of the J. O. (Ott) Patterson farm in the record time of two and one half hours. The article went on to state that this neighborly act was designed to help out Mr. Patterson, whose wife is critically ill.

Three are three things that stand out in this article. First there was someone in need. Second, the need was filled. Perhaps in just ordinary, every day thinking that's all there was to it. Someone in need; the need filled.

Let us now consider very seriously the third, and surely the greatest point. To establish this point, we find in the greatest authority of all time: God's Word; this—"What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? Can faith save him? If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food ,and one of you say unto them, depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; not with standing ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit? Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone."

We are in the midst of a time of denomonational wrangling. On every hand we find men wasting their time, and God's time, fussing and arguing and telling every one else that "I'm right and your're wrong and you're going to hell because you don't believe the way I do." There are preachers wasting precious time in their pulpits doing some other denomination, when they ought to be preaching Christ and Him crucified for the sin of the world and being raised from the dead and living today—Saviour of a sin-cursed world.

Would it be safe to assume that out there in Ott Patterson's field were some Baptists, some Methodists, some Pentecostals, some Nazarenes, some Church of Christ? You bet your life there were. But the thing that ought to strike the deepest is that they were putting the Christianity that Christ taught to work. Some of them might have been doing this unconsciously; some of them might have been Christians; but they were putting true faith which is inherent in all men, to work.

"For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." (James 2:14 17:26) Bro. Bill

Texas farmers are reminded that approved commercial or farm storage facilities are required before grain can qualify for price support loans. Prospects now indicate a minimum shortage of 60 million bushels of storage space. Favorable weather during growing season could easly double this figure.

For the first three months of this year, beef production was up 13 percent compared with the same period last year; veal was up 24 percent; pork was down 14 percent and mutton and lamb was down one percent.

Calhoun county farmers like what they have seen of a new clover. Floranna, which was introduced to the county three years ago by the Experiment Station and Extension Service of the Texas A. and M. Range plants must have top growth before they can put down roots. Plants may take rapid growth when moisture is available but unless livestock are held off and grasses given a chance to reestablish their root systems, severe damage to the plants can occur.

"Garden-fresh" means vitamin-rich. The faesher the fooc, the better the taste, the less the waste. There is still time to plant a garden.

The continuing drouth and changes in the former PMA program are cited as reasons for the drop in total fertilizer sales for the entire state.

Pocket gophers can be controlled with poison grain. The grain must be placed in the burrow. A teaspoon of grain will do the job.

The nation's newspapers carried a total of two billion, six hundred million dollars worth of advertising in 1953. This was more money than was spent on advertising in all other media including magazines, television, radio and billboards combined.

Farm Bureau Plans Club At Wilson

Miss Ethel Calahan left Saturday for Dallas. She and her nephew, Cruse Calahan, will drive from there to Hartselle, Ala. to visit relatives.

Finding storage space for the expected 1954 crops is a major operation and those concerned with the problem are urging farmers to take a look at their individual problem. On-the-farm storage becomes increasingly important as one of the answers to the slowed field work and sprucing ing hand is at the end of your arm. Be careful, says the Texas Farm Safety Committee, for an accident could remove your helper.

Mrs. Hall Robinson attended market in Dallas last week end and also visited from Friday night until Monday in Fort Worth with her sister, Mrs. A. C. (Hazel) Bennett, and husband, and their daughter and grandson.

Range plants which are poisonous to farm animals are proportionally more abundant in times Bette give pasture a once-over of drouth—when livestock can't be too choicy about what it eats. for such plants.

Texas' Longhorn Cavern Is Major Tourist Attraction

Burnet — Sightseeing Texans have "discovered" a spectacular scenic wonder within the state's own bouders—Texas Longhorn Cavern, the third largest in the world.

A trickle of visitors to the giant cave became a flood last year, Manager H. H. (Hob) Galloway said, and a record number of vacationers, tourists and just folks driving by are expected this summer. Over a quarter of a million sightseers from all over the country already have explored the cavern.

ROUTE TO CAVERN

Texas Longhorn Cavern, third largest in the world, and the beautiful hill country which surrounds it, can be reached over excellent paved highways from every section of Texas. The huge cavern is one of the state's great scenic wonders.

Longhorn Cavern State Park and the adjacent Inks State Park are particularly beautiful at this time of year, when the wild flowers are in bloom, Mr. Galloway pointed out. The road to the Cavern from U. S. Highway 281 is six miles of pavement that winds and dips through rolling fields of colorful daisies, black-eyed Susans, Indian paint-bush, gallardia, purple sage, yucca and cacti of various types.

The carvrn country has likewise grown in popularity as a refreshing new vacationland, Mr. Galloway said. Four beautiful lakes have been created as an integral part of the Lower Colorado River Authority's flood control, irrigation and power system. Lake Buchanan, largest of the group, is 32 miles long, a sail-boater's delight and a fisherman's dream lake. Inks, Granite Shoals and Marble Falls lakes lie like jewels in a lovely string among the wooded hills.

Hundreds of public vacation cottages are sprinkled along the shore lines. Boating and fishing equipment are available everywhere. The great scenic region offers almost every conceivable type of recreation.

Many tales of historic interest have their setting in Longhorn Cavern. Rusted revolvers, flattened bullets, human skeletons and Indian arrowheads have been discovered in the cave. It was reputed to be the hangout of the notorious bandit Sam Bass, and the stronghold for warlike Indian tribes. The Confederate Army used the huge 183-foot-long Main Room for manufacturing gun powder during the Civil War.

Guided tours leave the cavern's administration building every hour from 10:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. and the cave is open every day of the year. Over two miles of the cavern have been cleaned out and dramatically illuminated. Eight miles of the cavern have been explored, but no end has ever been reached and cave experts have estimated that the cave runs for many miles more beneath the craggy hills that surround the entrance.

Some of the rooms and passage ways in the cavern are big enough to accommodate four-lane traffic. Every room is different—some with walls of crystallized calcite sparkling like diamond dust, others glowing red with the iron oxide embedded in them.

Gen. Omar Bradley chats with two servicemen at his home in Beverly Hills, Cal., after accepting national campaign chairmanship of United Defense Fund which finances USO and other national agencies giving health and recreation services to those engaged in national defense. President Eisenhower, UDF's honorary chairman, wrote Gen. Bradley that "having moved from a fighting war to an armed peace, the nation has an even greater need for UDF services than was the case during a fighting war." UDF is financed through Community Chests or United Funds.

Mrs. A. M. Bray will direct the intermediate department and will be assisted by Mrs. G. M. Stewart Mrs. Madeline Hegi will teach leather tooling as the handwork.

Mrs. Skiles Thomas is in charge of refreshments. Each department will have assistants other than those mentioned.

All children in the area are urged to attend.

On Friday night, June 19, parents will be invited to the church to see the handwork as well as review other results of the school.

Perhaps the shortest speech ever made at a Texas Press Association convention was delivered by Fred B. Robinson, publisher of the Huntsville Item, at the turn of the century. Entitled "The Pen," the speech in full was "Ladies and Gentelmen: I live in a town where daily is demonstrated the fact that the pen is mightier than the sword."

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Small business knowing corrosive effects of heavy taxation, is interested in reduction of government expenses. But while testimony of the General Accounting Office before a Congressional Committee indicates substantial wastage of taxes in the army due to lack of business understanding, further GAO testimony also indicates lack of business management in the State Department may not only be wasting tax money, but also creating a lack of respect for U. S. abroad.

C.W. Harder

State Department which once controlled a modest budget now absorbs substantial tax money. Last year State Department spent more than a quarter billion dollars, roughly $30 million more than Treasury Dept. spent operating far flung Coast Guard.

But State Department handling of funds could be partial reason why Europeans resist U. S. plans. General Accounting Office reports in 1949 State Department had one of its young men buy the Baron Rothschild mansion in France for U. S. Embassy.

The fact the then Ambassador did not want to live in the place did not deter Washington thinkers.

For $1,600,000 the Baron agreed to sell mansion to State Dept.

But young State Dept. man handling deal utterly neglected to get sale terms in writing.

But before deed was issued to U. S. the tapestries, the oak panelling, marble bannisters, other attachments were removed.

State Department officials in France inquiring at the time were told they were being removed for cleaning. Told that was not a U. S. custom, the Frenchmen apparently shrugged shoulders and said something like, "But messieurs, this is custom in La Belle France."

Before U. S. obtained possession mansion was so gutted it was uninhabitable, GAO says.

State Department official who made real estate deal with Baron Rothschild of famous international banking house without reducing terms of sale to writing, is still on job.

So almost $2 million American tax dollars were spent on a real estate deal in France in a manner that any American real estate broker could not use on the sale of a woodshed without risking license loss.

This could be a reason why French have not ratified European Defense plan. Perhaps the Rothschilds have entertained French officials on how they sold a mansion to the Americans.

This could have set French official brains to thinking along these lines. "If those crazy Americans don't know how to handle a $2 million real estate deal, are they precisely the people to trust with the lives and fortunes of 40 million Frenchmen."

Whether one agrees or not with the policies and philosophies currently propounded in Washington one fact is clear.

In the family, on the farm, in business, and in nations, there is no substitute for sound business management for domestic tranquility, for prestige abroad.

Diplomas were presented 12 graduates at final exercises of New Home High School Thursday night of last week. Supt. C. O. Head certified the class, School Board President B. O. Morrow awarded the diplomas, and Coach Norman Windham presented the special awards.

Manager James F. Vaughn of the Crane schools, former New Home superintendent, gave the address.

"Speaking for my Generation" was the subject of a talk by the valedictorian, Nita Fortenberry, and Gary Dean, salutatorian, talked on "Teen-Age Mind at Work."

"At the End of a Perfect Day" was presented by Sue Cowan and Peggy Hemmeline, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gwen Patterson, who also played the processional and recessional.

The class left Friday for a visit to points of interest in Louisiana and Texas.

Saturday night, they attended the "Louisiana Hayride" in Shreveport, and the group was recognized on several portions of the program. "The Light Crust Dough boys" dedicated a song to the class, and Sue Cowan was a lucky contestant on "Beat the Band" and won several nice prizes.

The group was accompanied by Mrs. Masie Allen, senior sponsor and English teacher, Mrs. Harlan Dean, and Mrs. Floyd Smith. They expect to return home today.

Garza Pioneer Buried At Post

A. C. Howell, 75, farmer of the Close City community in Garza county since 1914, died at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday in Garza Memorial Hospital at Post following a long illness.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the First Baptist Church of Post with the pastor, Rev. Roy Shahan, assisted by Rev. Wiley of the Close City Baptist Church, officiating. Burial followed in Terrace Cemetery, Post.

Mr. Howell was born in Alabama December 1, 1878, but was reared at Stephenville. He was married to Miss Bemah Reeves there in 1900. The couple moved to Donley county, where they lived a short time before buying and moving to their present farm at Close City, when the Post lands were put on the market. He was a charter member of the Close City Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife; four daughters, Mrs. H. C. Among the grandchildren are Mrs. Willie Shambeck and Donna Jo Howell, both of Tahoka, and Duain Howell, now a farm writer for the Abilene Journal.

Mrs. Donald Caudle, who recently moved with her family to Clifton, where they are building a fishing camp and resort on Lake Whitney, was "back home" at New Home last week for her son Pat's graduation. She was accompanied by her three sons, John, Mickie, and Brodie. They returned to Lake Whitney Friday.

Balance May 24, 1954 (after May Bills paid	580.96
Money due from state	1,740 96

Total	2,337.92
Less balance at be-
Less balance at beginning of year	1,037.29
Profit for school year 1953-'54	$1,300.63

In addition to this profit, the school has about $700.00 worth of groceries on hand in addition to the government commodities.

Some of this money will be used to buy needed equipment in the lunch room and to provide better meals for the school children. Lunch rooms are a non-profitable organization.

Despite the fact that our average attendance was more than 100 below last year, there were 81,994 lunches served, or an average daily participation of about 480.

The lunch room personnel would like to thank each child, teacher and parent that cooperated in making this a successful year.

Social Security On Farm Hands

Am I required to pay social security tax on the wages earned by hired man while he works on my farm? This is the question many farm owners are now asking, since their season of planting and harvesting are immediately before them and extra hands will be required to aid in completing the work.

The Social Security Administration advises all farmers that the program of aid-age and survivors insurance now includes under its coverage some farm employees. However, it is pointed out that beet workers, berry pickers, and other persons whose work is of a seasonal nature do not come under coverage, and should be reported on a social security tax return.

To qualify as a regular farm worker under the Social Security Act, the agricultural employee must first work for one employer for a full three-month calendar quarter. However, the social security tax should not be paid on wages earned this qualifying quarter.

The hired hand will, if he continues working for same employer, be covered under the social security laws during the second three months of his employment if he workes during 60 doys or more of the period and is paid at least $50 in cash wages.

Further information on farm coverage may be obtained from your local social security office.

A representative of the Lubbock social security office will be in Tahoka on June 3 at 9:00 a. m. at the Post office and will be glad to assist in all matters partaining to social security.

New Insecticide Takes Spotlight

College Station,— Endrin, a newcomer to the insecticide world, this year takes the cotton insecticide spotlight. Entomologists report that it comes as close to an all-purpose cotton insect control as anything yet tested.

A close relative to dieldrin, endrin is now widely used to control bollmorms, boll weevils, thrips, cotton leafworms, cotton fleahoppers and lygus bugs.

Endrin appeors for the first time this year in the official Texas cotton insect control recommendations. U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers have tried it under a wide variation of growing conditions in Texas, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mexico.

In Texas, endrin is recommended for boll weevil and cotton leafworm control at rates of one-fourth to one-third of a pound to the acre. Bollworm treatments call for application of one-third of a pound per acre.

This welcomed newcomer, however, does not control pink bollworms, aphids and spider mites. And like other insecticides, specialists caution users of endrin to adhere closely to the directions of the manufacturer. It is toxic not only to cotton pests, but also to man and warm-blooded animals.

Mrs. Pearl Calloway of Abilene was here last Saturday on business and visiting friends. She was accompanied by her nephew, M/Sgt. David V. Bryan Jr., who is in the U. S. Airforce stationed at San Angelo.

Odds and Ends

(BY E. L. THE ELDER)

A few weeks ago, you may remember, this column was filled with the story of the Tahoka Daisy. The publication of that story at that time was occasoned by a brief stop-over visit which my daughter Berta and her friend Miss Haberle, both of Seguin, made here while on their way to attend a business meeting in Lubbock in which both of them were interested. In Tahoka they saw many Tahoka daisies in bloom, and Miss Haberle was so thrilled by their beauty that she resolved to procure some of the plants as she passed through Tahoka on her way home a couple of days later and transplant them in Seguin to find out if they could be made to grow and to thrive in that soil and climate. That was on Sunday afternoon. So, we published the story of this beautiful prairie flower in the following Friday's issue. On Saturday, I approached a little group of Tahoka citizens standing on the streets and immediately they mentioned my story about the Tahoka daisy. One of them said that he understood that Tahoka was the only place where the Tahoka dainsy grew. I told him No, that I had seen the daisy in bloom in several counties on the plains, even in the Palo Duro Canyon, but that I had never seen them blooming in profusion anywhere, as they bloom in Tahoka. But that inspired in me a resolution to watch for them as I might have occasion to drive around over the country. I knew that in former years I had seen patches of them in various locations in Lynn county and scattering individual flowers in several other counties of the Plains.

Well, a week or two later, accompanied by my daughter Myrtle and her two daughters of Lubbock and a friend of the girls in Tahoka, I drove down into the sub-caprock country, going by Draw, Gail, on east 20 miles down the Snyder road, thence south and east through the oil fields to Ira, thence across the Colorado River and on to Vincent and then north eight miles to the big artificial lake and back to Vincent, and thus far I had not been able to see a single Tahoka daisy. I had about despaired of finding a single Tahoka daisy, but we drove on to Big Spring and to my great surprise and delight within a few miles of the city we began to see numetrous Tahoka daisies blooming all along the roadside both to our right and our left. By the time we reached the city limits of Big Spring the prairies were literally aglow with them. More surprising still, possibly, we found them blooming in their lavender or sky-blue glory on almost every vacant block and lot in the city. We went out to and around the scenic mount at the southern limits of the town, and there the whole terrain was completely covered with them. I had not seen so many Tahoka daisies anywhere before, not even in Tahoka. But there are two or three times as many of them in Tahoka now as there were when our Seguin visitors were here. Possibly a half-dozen times as many. I took a round over a large part of the south half of Lynn county some ten days ago just to take a look at crop prospects and to find out if the daisies were still doing their duty over the county. At Wells, I found a thick little patch close up to a building, and I suspect that oodles of them could have been found there if nearly all the land had not already been placed in cultivation. I went across to Draw, and there, where we had seen no daisies on our earlier trip to Gail they were blooming in great profusion. Mrs. John Berry declared that they were very proud of their superabundance of Tahoka daisies, which had crept up to the very back doors of almost every business house, residence, and church in this fine little village. I am told that some of the hillsides in the Redwine, Midway, and T-Bar communities and other pasture lands have a goodly share of the lovely flowers. I went out to the North Draw at Tahoka Lake a few days ago, and there I found many individual Tahoka daisies blooming but not in sheets and clusters as may be found in the county capital.

Just as an experiment, I dug up quite a number of Tahoka daisy plants in full bloom just back of my hedge and transplanted them in my garden the other day and not more than two or three out of twenty ever even wilted.

Now, in spite of all the publicity that has been given the Tahoka daisy and in spite of all the publicity that it has made for itself, there are still people living here in Tahoka—new-comers and old-timers alike—who do not know what flower is called the "Tahoka daisy." If perchance you are among that number, just look out upon the mass of purple or lavender colored flowers on some vacant lot near you, and you will have the answer.

It can not cope with some of the demesticated garden flowers, of course, but in my humble opinion it is the most beautiful wild flower that grows. It is one of the means that Nature employs to convert the ugly spots in our town, whether natural or man-made, into places of beauty, The Tahoka daisy is the crowning glory of Tahoka.

In 1937, that world traveler and widely-famed writer Lowell Thomas wrote a graphic story of Mexico, elaborately illustrated by Rex Barton, a copy of which I procured for my own bookshelf a number of years ago. During my visit of several weeks in the city of Mexico two years ago and since that time I have made many references to the pyramids at Teotihuacan, Cholula, and the site of the temple and altar in the city of Tenoctitlan which Cortes tore down, building the Cathedral of Mexico on such site, and have told of the thousands of persons which the pagan Indians offered as sacrifices on these altars to their gods, but I have taken scant notice of the Maya Indians of Yucatan and the manner in which they offered their sacrifices to their gods, together with wonders of their civilization.

In his book just mentioned, Mr. Thomas gave such a vivid and striking portrayal of all these things that I am taking the liberty of quoting him at some length, for it is just such a story as only Mr. Thomas could write.

Senorita Gutierres has just sent in her first "article" on the state of Jalisco, writing in Spanish, and it is too late to get a translation of it in time to embody it in this column this week. It will appear next week. Now I am quoting from Lowell Thomas, on Yucatan, a state of Mexico which I did not visit.

"Soneone once said—I think it was an Englishman—that if the energy wasted by Americans in chewing gum were turned into electricity it would light the city of London! Maybe so. But one thing we can answer him is that the grinding of jaws of American gum chewers is responsible for clearing away the jungle from some of the most interesting spots in America, the ancient cities of Yucatan.

"No visit to Mexico could be nearly complete without a look at the peninsula of Yucatan. So let's take a plane from Mexico City and fly down to Merida, the Capital of the state, and look around.

"The first place that Cortez landed after sailing from Cuba on his great expidition, was Cozumel Island, off the east coast of Yucatan. He found nothing there but hostile Indians, so he did not tarry long to discover that these people lived in beautiful cities whose architecture rivaled that of Tenochtitlan; that the Maya had developed a civilization with its arts and sciences even greater than that of the Aztecs.

"Six years later, after his success in conquering the highland empire, Cortez came back to Yucatan and again he was all but chased out. The Spaniards never did subdue the haughty warriors of the peninsula. In fact, they have not been completely conquered to this day. Although they are now politaically a part of Mexico, they run their affairs pretty much as they choose. And what they have to say about the politicos of Mexico City is scandalous.

"As we fly over the flat peninsula, we see that it is a combination of dense jungle and semi-desert; hot and steamy during the wet season and hot and dry the rest of the year, but always hot, the mercury flirting with a hundred degrees Fahrenheiheit even in the shade. These jungles, deserts, hidden water holes, and stifling climate were the things that helped the Mayas fight off the invaders. It is a great and interesting truth that where soldiers have failed to hack their way to conquest with the sword, prospectors, armed only with picks and machetes, have often won a peaceful victory. And so it has been in Yucatan.

"Toward the end of the last century, a New England sea captain, who traded down the coast of Yucatan, brought back a rubbery substance that somebody had given him as a curiosity. The natives called it chicle. The captain showed it to his friends and gave them little pellets of it to chew. It was much chewier than the spruce resin they had munched as youngsters and they rather liked it. Then it occurred to the captain that if he were to mix the chicle with sugar and a flavoring, such as winter-green or peppermine, he would have a tasty confection; and that one piece of chicle would out last any all-day-sucker or piece of taffy that had ever been invented. He tried it, and chewing gum was invented.

"Its popularity spread. Soon machete-swinging prospectors were penetrating the jungles of Yucatan in search of more and more of the trees whose sap supplied the gum. Now, raising chicle is one of the most impor-

"Hat Tea" Saving To Club Ladies

College Station,—With a "Hat Tea," about $3000 saved, and 330 sparkling hats on their heads, the "glad hatters" of Collingsworth county have outdone the Mad Hatter of "Alice in Wondeland."

Remodeling 330 outdated hats into fashionable headgear, the home demonstration club women of Collingsworth County figured they have saved $3000 by making the most of their old hats instead of buying new ones.

So glad were these hatters that they celebrated with a "Hat Tea" and everyone wore her new hat. Mary Trammel, county home demonstration agent, says some of the hats had been previously discarded, and one of the now fashionable chapeaus was 23 years old.

"When a tree is ready to tap, an Indian climbs it to a height of twenty-five or thirty feet. Then, with his machete, he makes a series of zigzag cuts through the bark, little channels from which the sap will ooze to be collected in a canvas bag at the foot of the tree. It is gathered in much the same way as latax from the rubber tree. The raw chicle is boiled to remove some of the water in it, then cast into blocks weighing twenty five pounds apiece—sticks of gum to satisfy even the most enthusiastic chin waggler.

"Every now and then the chewing gum scouts came across the ruins of great cities buried in the jungle, tremendous stone images that leered at them through matted veils of vine and creepers, huge stone slabs carved with a maze of strange symbols. And often they found artificial hills similar to the pyramids of the Mexican plateau.

"The tales these men brought back to civilization, together with bits of carved stone, jewelry of marvelous workmanship, evidences of the great Maya civilization, stimulated the imaginations of archaeologists and they were soon on the trail of the chicle explorers. Even Colonel Lindbergh came under the spell of this fascinating mystery a few years ago made a flying survey over the country. He located and charted the position of a number of lost cities, heretofore unknown to the white man. Now city after city has been explored and excavated The fascinating story of the past is slowly being pieced together, largely because of chewing gum. I think it is fair to say that the people of the United States have gnawed down the jungles to reveal the cities of America's greatest native civilization."

But the best part of this story is yet to come. We shall probably run it next week along with Senorita Aurora's article on Jalisco.

Truly, "There are more things in Heaven and Earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy;"—and there were so countless thousands of years ago, some of them just over on the south side of the Rio Grande, and many of them no doubt have been, long ago, completely rubbed out. —Good Night.
