

Plans Made For Sellout of Wilcox Oil Co.

Tennessee Gas Transmission To Acquire Stock, Holdings

Officials of Wilcox Oil Co., and the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. were to meet in Pampa today to complete plans for presenting a sellout offer from TGT to Wilcox stockholders, according to Erving Chase, superintendent of the Pampa district.

The transaction will not, if approved by Wilcox stockholders, immediately affect area employees of Wilcox, according to company officials here.

Another Dies in Cleveland

By United Press International
The current school segregation controversy in Cleveland, Ohio, has claimed its second life.

A five-year-old girl, Randy Gaskin, was killed Monday when she darted in front of a city bus after leaving a "freedom school" set up by a civil rights group.

The girl was one of the 50,000 to 60,000 students who boycotted Cleveland public schools Monday in a protest against de facto segregation. Earlier this month, the Rev. Bruce Klunder, a white Presbyterian minister, was killed accidentally by a bulldozer during a demonstration at a school construction site.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Monday, a white bus driver was attacked by four brick-slinging Negro youths in that city's first racially connected violence in three weeks. The driver was not hurt seriously.

Congressional civil rights leader Emanuel Celler said in a speech in New York City Monday night that a threatened "stall-in" at the opening of the World's Fair was an act of irresponsibility. An integrationist group has threatened to tie up traffic on all roads leading to the fair Thursday as a means of dramatizing the fight against racial discrimination. A New York state judge Monday issued a temporary injunction against a "stall-in."

Elsewhere:
Jackson, Miss.: A state Senate committee Monday passed a bill to drop biracial Tougaloo Southern Christian College from the state's accreditation.

Hillsboro, N.C.: Eighteen racial demonstrators pleaded no contest Monday to charges of blocking a highway and resisting arrest and were given sentences ranging from 60 days to six months in jail, suspended on condition they not participate in any further demonstrations.

Notasulga, Ala.: State Fire Marshal J. V. Kitchens said Monday the destruction of a recently segregated high school by fire over the weekend "definitely appears to be a case of arson."

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY—Continued generally fair tonight and Wednesday morning. Partly cloudy, cooler Wednesday afternoon. Low tonight in mid-40s. High Wednesday near 80.

Commissioners Act On Street Opening

Acquisition of right of way for the opening of Ford St. from S. Gray to Somerville was authorized by a 3 to 2 vote of the city commission today.

The move was a preliminary step to the proposed closing of Thut St. to permit expansion of the Pampa Foundry.

An ordinance to close Thut St. to permit the foundry expansion at Gray and Thut Sts. has been pending before the commission following its second reading early this year.

The commission voted to pay a $1,462.50 right of way grant from the Fort Worth & Denver Ry. from S. Somerville to S. Russell and $1,000 to Texas Pipe & Metal Co. for right of way from S. Gray to S. Somerville.

Commissioners L. P. Fort and Leon Holmes voted against the resolution. Commissioners MacField, McDaniel, Jim Nation

Wilcox directors agreed to submit to a sellout offer from Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, to Wilcox stockholders, last Monday.

The proposal involves exchange of TGT stock worth about $25 million, based on current prices, which equals to about $35 a share for the 694,234 outstanding shares of Wilcox. A. L. Chapman, president of Wilcox, and Wilton Scott, president of Tenneco Oil Co., subsidiary of TGT, announced the offer.

Under the plan, a housekeeping subsidiary of TGT would acquire all the assets of Wilcox on a tax-free exchange of 1.6 shares of TGT stock for each share of Wilcox. TGT has been quoted at some $22 a share in recent trading, making 1.6 shares equal to about $35.20 for each share of Wilcox, for a total of $34.4 million.

Chapman said, "Upon approval of stockholders, they would own direct TGT stock."

Tax Ruling is Key

The transaction is subject to a favorable tax ruling, but no difficulty is expected.

Wilcox, founded by the late Homer Wilcox 46 years ago, has become strictly a producing company in recent years following the closing of its refinery at Bristow and sale of its marketing facilities.

In 1953, the firm's record year, it produced 3,481 barrels of oil and 13,337 cubic feet of gas daily. Net income totaled $1,419,720 or $2.04 a share compared to $1,222,633 or $1.81 a share in 1952.

Wilcox directors announced, following a meeting last week, that they had increased the cash dividend for the second quarter to 25 cents a share from the usual rate of 15 cents, but had passed the usual 2 1/2 per cent quarterly dividend.

Membership Drive Starts for Concert

The annual membership drive of the Pampa Community Concert Association was under way today with some 150 workers in the field in Pampa and eight or nine surrounding communities.

The 20th annual campaign for new members opened at 9 o'clock this morning from the concert association headquarters in the Southwestern Public Service Co. lobby.

The memberships will be available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily at the headquarters until the seating capacity of the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium is sold out.

Mrs. Eben Warner, drive chairman, said shortly before noon today the demand for tickets was exceeding expectations.

Exact progress of the drive will not be known until the first check-in meeting of workers is held at the headquarters at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Workers in Perryton, Spearman, Wheeler, Miami, Panhandle, Clarendon, Canadian and White Deer were asked to attend tomorrow's check-in session.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of Columbia Artists, here to assist in the drive, expressed the association's appreciation for the surrounding area interest in Pampa's concert season.

Adult memberships, covering admission to all concerts, are $10 each and student memberships are $5. Two attractions already have been signed including Zizi Jeanmaire and her French Hit Revue and the piano duo of Ferrante and Teicher. There will be a minimum of three concerts and possibly four, concert officials said.

Mrs. Taylor addressed more than 100 workers at last night's kickoff dinner in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

Dudley Steele, concert association president, presided at the dinner. The invocation was given by Jack Skelly. Mrs. Malcolm Brown headed the committee on banquet arrangements.

The telephone number at concert headquarters is MO 9-9361. The office is open until 5 p.m. daily.

Pampa Red Cross Chapter Host for Area Convention

Pampa's Red Cross chapter was among 24 chapters of the Panhandle Association of Red Cross chapters to be honored this morning by the Amarillo Air Force Base for work with retraining group parties at the base.

The award was made by Lyle Heide, field director for the Amarillo Air Force Base hospital, as the bi-annual meeting of the association got underway at Coronado Inn.

The day-long meeting attracted some 40 persons from the 24 cities represented by the association and featured a number of major reports on programs held in the Panhandle area by Red Cross chapters.

Following presentations of plaques, denoting the work with Amarillo AFB, the group heard Heide give an outline on the operation of the base hospital.

Two films were scheduled for viewing of the delegations, one entitled "Discovery" and the second "Down to Earth." They were to follow election of officers in the afternoon business meeting.

Mrs. Marilyn Williams, physical education director of the Amarillo YWCA, was scheduled to discuss the Red Cross water (See PAMPA, Page 3)

The group held brief discussions on quarterly meetings of the association.

Britain Joins in Cutback of Arms

By DONALD MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Britain today joined the United States and the Soviet Union in cutting back on the production of uranium and plutonium for use in nuclear weapons.

In announcing the U.S. move Monday, President Johnson said he believes the action will help speed the day when "nation shall not lift up sword against nation..."

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home followed up the U. S. and Soviet moves today when he told parliament in London that the British production of military nuclear fuel is being "gradually terminated."

He said that any plutonium produced by civil reactors will not be used for nuclear weapons, and added: "her majesty's government have already adjusted their supplies of fissile material to the minimum necessary to maintain our independent nuclear deterrent and to meet all our defense requirements of the major step toward curbing the arms race, the biggest move to ease East-West tensions since the signing of the nuclear test ban treaty last August, were made simultaneously Monday by Johnson in New York and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow."

Leaves-Only France
Douglas-Home's announcement today left only France of the original four nations engaged in all-out nuclear production effort. French President Charles de Gaulle has insisted that an independent nuclear force is vital for his country, and its creation is one of his major aims.

Johnson's decision received warm endorsement today from Democratic legislative leaders, who met with him at the White House.

Speaker John W. McCormack told reporters that "solid steps which mean progress toward peace but still maintain the security of our nation are consistent with the national interest, with the desires of our country, and the dreams of our people."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said that "certainly the President is trying to chart a course toward peace. It gives hope to people and dissipates some uneasiness which seems to exist."

Reaction Mixed
Reaction on Capitol Hill to Johnson's action was mixed, with even Democrats cautious and Republicans generally skeptical. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called the move "a favorable and hopeful development."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said he had "no particular confidence" in the Soviet promise, which he described as "indefinite."

Johnson declared that America's goal of peace through strength remains, but that "there are new pressures, new realities, which make it permissible to hope that the pursuit of peace is in the interests of the Soviet Union as it is in ours."

No Mention Of Dispute
In his statement, Khrushchev made no mention of his serious dispute with Communist China or of his warming relations with the West. He said the Russian cutback was "an opportunity for improving mutual understanding with other states on the necessity of avoiding a nuclear war."

No signed agreement was involved and, because there is no provision for inspection, neither side can be sure the other will carry out its promise.

Government

Holds Pressure On Strike Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal mediators kept the pressure on rail dispute negotiators today amid reports of "encouraging steps" toward a strike-averting settlement.

Talks went on all night. Federal mediators called both rail management and union negotiators into session at midnight, and the conference finally recessed at 7 a.m. EST. Another meeting was set for later in the day.

Sources close to the bargaining said there were tentative understandings on some issues in the tangled, five-year-old dispute but no final agreement.

Rep. Oren Harris chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said he expected a settlement before midnight Friday when a nationwide rails strike could occur. That is the hour when a 15-day truce achieved by President Johnson is due to expire.

Both labor and management sources indicated that encouraging results were being obtained from the near-continuous negotiations. They cautioned, however, that no settlement could be guaranteed at this time.

City to Host Highway Unit

Pampa will host the Texas branch of the U.S. 60 Highway Association at noon Thursday prior to the opening of the national meeting of the highway organization at Fairview, Okla., Friday.

Some 30 persons are expected to attend the affair which will be headed by Texas Association President Howard Lane of Panhandle and Howard Buckingham Jr., Pampa board member.

Several items of business will be discussed before a delegation to the national meeting is named by Lane. Representatives from every city located on the U.S. 60 route across Texas will be in attendance.

The two-day national meeting will be attended by a group of Pampans, including Buckingham and E. O. Wedgeworth. It will be presided over by Sam Bell of Amarillo, who is national president of the association, and Bill Thomas of Hereford, secretary.

Engine Passes Over Tot

By Glenn McCasland

A quick-thinking brakeman for the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad was credited with saving the life of a two-year-old Lefors girl although five cars and the engine of a freight train passed over the child's body.

Vicki Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Steele of Lefors, was being treated for injuries at Highland General Hospital and her mother was being treated for shock after the near-tragedy that occurred about 11:15 a.m.

Hospital attendants said the child was "not seriously hurt, but we are checking for possible internal injuries to make sure." The mother was being checked by doctors for shock as an aftermath of the incident.

Witnesses to the incident said the child, along with four others, were playing atop the tracks of the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad which passes through Lefors. The approaching freight, which makes the run once a week through the Gray County community from Childress, apparently scared the children and they left the area.

The Steele girl did not get off the tracks and no one could reach her in time to pull the child from the path of the train.

J. A. Lowrance of Amarillo, the head brakeman for the freight, was standing on the cow-catcher of the train as it approached the child. He made an attempt to pull her out of the train's path and into his arms.

Lowrance could not grab the child with the heavy gloves he was wearing, but apparently his attempt pushed the girl down, flat, in the middle of the tracks.

The engine and at least four cars passed over the girl, before the train could be brought to a halt.

The child was removed from underneath the train by L. C. Dubuque, conductor, and L. H. Reneau, engineer, along with Lowrance.

A Pampa resident, identified as Bart Stewart, who was parked nearby at the time, loaded the child into his car and raced to Pampa where an ambulance met the car just outside the city limits and took the girl to Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Steele, who told Hospital Administrator Bill Robinson of the mishap, said she missed "the children while they were playing and I went looking for them." She said she went the wrong way. The site of the accident is some four blocks from the Steele residence.

She did not know of the mishap until officials of the railroad notified her. Her husband, David, is water superintendent at Lefors.

The train was delayed at Lefors for some 30 minutes, but came into Pampa where trainmen were making a full report of the accident to both their company and Texas highway patrolmen.

Pampa Student Takes Office In Key Club

Mike Wise, Pampa High School sophomore, was officially sworn in as Lt. Governor from the Pampa division of Texas-Oklahoma Key Clubs in final ceremonies at the Houston two-state convention this week.

Wise assumed office during election of officials for the young men's organization that saw Jack Williams of Mission named president for the coming year.

The Pampa Key Club was one of several units that won the Paul J. Files Award for general excellence and president Joe Fischer accepted the certificate for the 31-man delegation from Pampa.

Ed Foreman of Odessa, who is U.S. Representative from that area in Congress, keynoted the four-day meeting with a speech on "Government and Youth" in which he pointed out what a well-informed group of youngsters could do towards making the federal government more workable and continue the freedom which is currently so "easily accepted by youth today."

The Key Clubbers also heard from Ken Cohen, Key Club International president from Trenton, N.J., who talked on basic ideals of the Key Club program.

The 31 Pampa boys were accompanied by four sponsors at the convention which began Thursday and concluded Sunday afternoon.

SHIPS IN RAMMING

SINGAPORE (UPI)—A Japanese oil tanker rammed into the 18,000-ton Norwegian tanker Brarena, almost cutting it in half off Raffles Lighthouse about 10 miles south of here, the port office reported Monday. No casualties occurred aboard the Norwegian tanker.

Aviatrix Plans To Continue World Flight

LAE, New Guinea (UPI)—Aviatrix Joan Merriam said today she plans to go ahead with the 1,500-mile hop to Guam on her around-the-world solo flight despite some reports of bad weather along the route.

Miss Merriam was following the route taken by Amelia Earhart in 1937 on an ill-fated global flight. Miss Earhart and navigator Fred J. Noonan disappeared after leaving Lae on July 2, 1937, headed for tiny Howland Island, 2,556 miles to the east.

On Guam, Miss Merriam, who flies under her maiden name, planned to meet her husband, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Marvin G. Smith, skipper of a minesweeper assigned to the Pacific fleet.

The aviatrix landed at Lae, on the eastern end of New Guinea, Monday after an 80-minute, 200-mile flight from Port Moresby. Some of those on hand to greet her were also present when Miss Earhart took off 27 years ago.

Miss Merriam left Oakland, Calif., March 17 and had covered 21,000 miles by the time she reached Lae. She said she hoped to reach Oakland again Saturday.

Residents Open Pocketbooks in Cancer Drive

Pampans opened their hearts and pocketbooks Monday night as members of the Gray County Cancer Society chapter rang doorbells in a house-to-house fund-raising drive.

A total of $3,238.60 was reported collected in the drive by 9 p.m. Monday. The drive continues through April.

The county wide goal is $7,300. A similar drive will be held in Lefors between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday but the rest of the campaign will be conducted by personal contacts and via contributions mailed to the Cancer Society.

Pampa Cancer Society drive chairman, Mrs. Maynard Johnson, said the organization was "very pleased" with the response of the public Monday night.

Briefcase Reported Stolen; Contents OK

A briefcase, left laying on a table at the office of the Coronado Inn, vanished Monday afternoon but its contents stayed right where the case had been.

Police said Jim O'Conner, manager of the hotel, notified them that the brown case had been cleaned of its contents and stolen. He said the briefcase was owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and was valued at $12.95.

House Prowlings Cleared by Police

Three house prowlings in the Graham St. area were cleared by Pampa police Monday afternoon after a 13-year-old Pampa boy told officers he had entered the homes, doing some damage to the furniture in one.

Capt. Denny Roan said the youth was turned over to juvenile officers after police questioned him about the incidents in which some eggs were broken on the floor of one house and several articles of clothing damaged.

Juvenile officer Bill Leonard said the boy had been returned to his parents.

Arizona Prof Selected for Peace Corps Job

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — An Arizona State University professor today was named temporary summer director of the Peace Corps training facilities at the University of New Mexico.

He is Dr. Levi Mayland Parker, 44, of Tempe, Ariz., a professor of agriculture at Arizona State and a former Peace Corps training officer.

He succeeds Dr. Marshall Nason, director of the UNM facility for the past two years.

In making the announcement, Dr. Hoyt S. Trowbridge, UNM academic vice president, said that William G. Toland of Baylor University, Waco, Tex., has withdrawn from consideration for the post. Toland, whose name was mentioned previously as the leading contender for the director's post, "withdrew voluntarily," Dr. Trowbridge said.

Dr. Parker will assume his new duties June 1 and will remain in the post until Sept. 5. Dr. Trowbridge said a permanent director to fill the remainder of the two-year term will be named in the summer.

FPC Plans Talks At Gas Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Power Commission (FPC) examiner Robert Weston will conduct a pre-hearing conference Thursday in a case involving a $5.3 million natural gas rate increase to some 70 distributing companies in five states.

Cities Service Gas Company of Oklahoma City, filed for the increase Oct. 21, 1963. The boost, averaging 8.1 per cent over present rates, would affect rates in communities in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas.

The FPC disallowed (suspended) the new rates until April 23, 1964, "at which time they may go into effect subject to refund if FPC proceedings have not been concluded."

Since that date, no action has been taken and the rates will go into effect as scheduled, subject to formal approval later after hearing.

ROBERT MORRIS
... GOP candidate

OP Candidate for Senator to Speak Here

Robert Morris, Dallas attorney, has scheduled appearances in Pampa Thursday in his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

Morris will speak at a breakfast at 7 a.m. Thursday at theonado Inn and at a coffee women at 9:30 a.m. in thepitality Room of the City Bank. At noon that day will be in Amarillo for acheon appearance.

Morris has had more than 20 years experience in key Washington and other federal and state posts. For several years served as chief counsel for United States Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and as Officer-in-Charge of naval intelligence units during World War II.

The author of two widely read books, "No Wonder We Are Fighting" and "Disarmament—Apathy of Conquest," Morris is nationally recognized spokesman for our American heritage. He has stated that he believes in the defense of the nation from Communist threat and the preservation of our common heritage and system of free enterprise are the main issues of the campaign.

Room Student on Dean's Honor Roll

Bobby Burgin of Groom has been listed on the Dean's Honor Roll at Clarendon Junior College for the first nine weeks of the spring semester. Burgin, a sophomore, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Burgin.

He enrolled in Clarendon Junior College in January, 1964. His grade point average for this reporting period is a 2.7. He was 1961 graduate of Groom High School.

SLIKES SHOW

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Lynce London, 33, went to the movies Monday to see "Soldier of the Rain."

She decided she didn't like the picture and demanded her 25 back, but theater manager James R. Saunders told her he couldn't give her a refund because she didn't enjoy the film. Police said Miss London then grabbed $154 (or $2.75 too much) out of the cash drawer and sprinted away.

The theater manager caught her suspect a block away and she was hooked on a grand larceny charge.

CLOSING COLLEGE DOOR:

Applications to tax-supported colleges are up from '63 but schools can't admit all.

THE BIG SQUEEZE—Applications to get into big, tax-supported colleges are running far ahead of last year and the colleges are hard-pressed to find adequate space for the prospective students. The Newschart notes the crush in various sections of the country. In private schools, the situation is even tighter.

Imports Not Only Cattle Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A cattle-state congressman said today the U. S. livestock industry was plagued with other problems besides imports.

Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said in a statement there were "several factors" that have combined to depress cattle prices. He repeated, however, that imports from Australia and New Zealand were "most significant."

Purcell cited new figures which show that on the basis of imports for the first quarter of 1964, the United States can expect shipments from Australia of about 170 million pounds or 29 per cent less than last year. From New Zealand the estimates are 50 million pounds or 22 per cent.

"On the surface," Purcell said, "this is most encouraging. But a closer examination gives two causes for concern. First, it seems to me that one reason for the decline in shipments from these two countries is the lower prices they have been receiving for their meat in this country as a result of the depressed market."

"More significant, however, is the fact that the prices for domestic cattle have not increased substantially despite these very substantial decreases in imports," he added.

Purcell said the domestic livestock industry was plagued by other problems including prolonged drought in some livestock raising sections and an all-time high cattle population.

UNCLE MILTIE FAIR

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Milton Berle, 55, was reported continuing in fair condition Monday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where he has been under treatment since early last week for bleeding ulcers.

WHO'S SUSAN SPOTLESS?—Will the real Susan Spotless please smile? Susan, Keep America Beautiful's 1964 poster girl, has fun with her "poster twin," a life-size cutout of Susan as she will appear during the summer vacation season in newspapers, magazines and television. And she'll be saying: "Don't be a litterbug. Every litter bit hurts." In real life, "Susan" is Dorothy Estabrook, 7, of Hollis, N.Y.

Move Denied To Postpone Judge's Trial

AUSTIN (UPI)—Dist. Judge Mace Thurmann Jr. Monday denied a move to delay trial of former Houston probate Judge Clem McClelland on charges of illegally converting funds from an estate to his own use.

Questioning of prospective jurors began immediately. Thurmann said he hoped to begin hearing testimony late today.

McClelland's lawyers sought a continuance because of the absence of W. W. Schoelman Sr. of Houston, whom they termed a material witness. A telegram from Schoelman's doctor said the witness was ill.

McClelland is charged with illegally converting $2,500 in estate funds from the Gordon Robert Von Strohm estate. The trial was postponed from early 1963 so state Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg could participate.

A Belton court found McClelland guilty and sentenced him to 10 years in prison on charges of converting funds from another estate in 1962. The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned that decision and ordered a new trial.

SELLERS IMPROVES

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — British Actor Peter Sellers began his third week of hospital confinement Monday after suffering a near-fatal heart seizure.

Attendants at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said the 38-year-old star's condition continued to improve, but gave no indication as to how much longer he would be required to remain hospitalized.

The United States pays more money to foreign nations than it receives from them each year. This is called the "balance of payments deficit."

Foreign nations, through purchases and loan payments, gives some—not all—American dollars back to the U.S.

Of the U.S. dollars which stay in the foreign nations, some are invested in U.S. government securities and some are kept in reserve.

... And some U.S. dollars are used to buy gold from the U.S. Treasury, a policy to which we are committed. The free world's financial mechanism hangs on this commitment.

Foreign nations are exchanging their U.S. dollars for U.S. gold in such quantities that the gold supply of Fort Knox is dwindling. This is what makes the "balance of payments deficit" serious, for without gold backing, the dollar weakens.

To stem the flow of gold to foreign nations, the U.S. is trying to keep money home by cutting down on purchases and grants and by increasing exports.

'Citizenship Day' Set By Governor Connally

By United Press International
With less than two weeks to go before the May 2 primary, Gov. John Connally has proclaimed that date "Texas Citizenship Day" in a move to stir up more interest among voters.

Connally, who is being opposed by Don Yarborough of Houston in the Democratic primary for reelection, reminded Texans of their "solemn responsibility" to participate in the primary elections.

"It is vital to our state and nation that as many persons as possible participate in these essential functions of representative government," the governor said.

Connally has limited his campaigning to three weekly television appearances and to billboards. During the telecasts he asks for help from his listeners in his reelection bid because he is unable to conduct a strenuous campaign since he was wounded last November by the assassin of President Kennedy.

In Gulf Area
Yarborough, meantime, continued campaigning in the Gulf Coast area. He announced formation of 60 "Youth for Yarborough" groups over the state in his second bid to defeat Connally.

The four-way Republican U.S. Senate race continued active.

US Warns About Continued Air Check on Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today publicly warned that American aerial inspection of Cuba will continue even if Russia turns over the operation of its Cuban-based anti-aircraft missiles to Castro.

Defense department spokesman Richard I. Phillips said the United States would stand by its contention that Fidel Castro's refusal to permit the inspection Russia promised in late 1962 made it imperative that the "over flights" continue.

Dr. Milton Davis of Dallas told supporters he is "running scared" because "I think all Republicans were overconfident in the 1960 elections."

Clothes Poll

Some women seem to be afflicted with squirrel fever. They hoard in their handbags everything from last year's vacation photographs to a collapsible umbrella.

Watch a girl walk down the street, weighted down with 10 pounds of miscellany, jammed into what was intended to be a handsome accessory to her costume.

Take a good look at a feminine twosome, paying a restaurant check. Dig the gals must, down into the depths of huge handbags (the wallet is always at the bottom.) And before they come up with the money, the table is littered with unpaid bills, keys, hair-spray, Johnny's model plane that broke two days ago and earrings that had been removed at some time or another because they hurt.

A handbag should complement your ensemble. It won't if it bulges like a bag of onions. And no matter how expensive a purse you buy, it won't last long under that kind of treatment.

Weed it out once in a while. You don't need half the junk you lug around every day.

When you buy a purse, make sure it's one large enough to take care of your needs neatly — many have compartments for such items as glasses, checkbooks and keys. Then go through it at least once a week and remove all unnecessary items. You won't have to apologize when you open your bag in public. And it will last longer and look better. Who knows, you may even wonder what ever happened to that pain you used to have in your arm.

Chic Chat.
Q — "I have three children and do all my own housework. I don't have time to fuss about how I look around the house and think my husband should realize this. Instead he complains that I always look trumpy at breakfast and when he gets home at night. How can I make him realize that I can't be a cover girl under such circumstances?" — Dolly J.

DEAR DOLLY J. — Cover girl, no. Attractive, yes. After all, how much longer does it take to slip into a fresh dress than into a rumpled one? Get yourself some colorful, young-looking, no-iron shifts for daytime. They suds out in a jiffy and look like new again for the next wearing. They come in crisp prints and stripes and many have long apron skirts that can be worn over them for evening, transforming them into attractive hostess gowns.

It's a mistake to think you are too busy to look pretty. Five minutes with a comb and lipstick and bright, inexpensive, easy-care, at-home clothes will bring compliments instead of complaints from your husband.

Dear Abby....

Veteran of Twenty-Year War Says 'Leave Her Be'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Get this message to NO NAMES PLEASE, who wanted to move her aging mother from Illinois to California against the old lady's wishes: I plead with you, don't move your mother to California to be near you so you can "look after" her. She will disrupt your whole life. It happened to me. My mother made a nervous wreck of me with talk of how abuse she was, and how she couldn't wait to die. I should have let her sit in Minnesota with the blizzards in the winter. She complained in Minnesota, but she complains more in California. Leave well enough alone, and don't look for trouble trying to please a half-senile mother who doesn't know herself what she wants.

VETERAN OF A
20-YEAR WAR

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how much experience I have had with aging parents, but I have had plenty, so let me tell you what I would have told NO NAMES PLEASE to do about her elderly mother in Illinois, who was incompetent to live alone, chased away all the live-in companions hired to stay with her, and refused to move to California to be with her children. I would put her in the best rest home I could afford in Illinois. It is familiar country and she wouldn't feel as though she was being torn up by the roots. She may not be happy there. But she won't be happy with you, either. You will at least know that she is being well cared for.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people leave their old parents alone? Children think they know what is best for their parents. Let me tell you, parents know what is best for themselves. The worst thing you can do to an older person is to move him away from his familiar surroundings. He feels so friendless, helpless and lost. Maybe the winters ARE cold, but if they have survived 78 winters, they can survive a few more. They might not live quite so long, but they will not mind, if their last years are happy.

Spearman Unit Hosts P-TA Spring Meeting

Pampa P-TA delegates attended the Eighth Annual Spring Conference of the 19th District Texas Congress of Parents-Teachers in Spearman yesterday and today. Forty-one delegates from local units and delegates of the Pampa P-TA City Council attended the conference which followed the theme, "We the P-TA, Cooperate in the School Story."

Superintendent of Pampa Schools, Jack Edmonson introduced the principal speaker, Dr. John McFarland, state safety - civil defense chairman, Houston, in today's sessions. Sam Begert, principal presented the parliamentarians workshop and Joe Page took part in the procedure course. Mrs. Melvin Watkins, incoming president of the Pampa Council took part in the council workshop.

Hang pictures so the center is about eye level. Eye-level varies from room to room. Some rooms, such as the living room, are used for sitting. Others, such as halls, usually are used just for walking.

Sandpaper Does the Trick For Slipping Towels

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My husband taped a strip of sandpaper on the back of our towel bar, next to the wall and with the rough side out. Now the towels stay on the bar instead of on the floor. — MRS. C. G.

DEAR POLLY — I have four children away from home and three still with us. I never seemed to have time to write as much as they all wanted to hear, about home and local happenings until I hit on the idea of addressing and stamping four packs of envelopes on a Sunday. I keep a writing tablet and pen on the top of the stove and write while I am getting the evening meal. I have never failed to get a letter off to one of them every day since I started this. The letters are done in minutes that were wasted and I am writing this the same way. — MRS. V.K.

DEAR POLLY — I have some suggestions that might help Mrs. A. C. G. with her Cub Scout projects. My Cub gave me his picture (the den mother could take snapshots of the boys) in a frame he had made. He also gave me a plate on which he had glued plastic flowers and leaves and then sprayed all over with gold paint. It hangs on a plate hanger on the wall for an attractive decoration. Trays are also nice for the boys to make out of plywood that they shellac or varnish, and then glue rope around the edges. A design could be painted in the center or the entire tray could be painted a gay color.

MRS. A. M.

DEAR POLLY — My 5-year-old son likes jigsaw puzzles but tires of working the same ones over and over. I now tear full-page advertisements or pictures out of old magazines and he takes his own blunt children's scissors and makes his own puzzles. He enjoys cutting the different shapes and putting the picture back together. When he tires of this picture he makes himself another puzzle. — MRS. G. S.

When your telephone receiver is off the hook, your phone can't ring. It's closed to incoming calls. This kind of trouble we can't prevent.

Schedule Cut Asked For Baseball Video

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There have been rumors for some time that network television wouldn't mind giving baseball games a big splash if only, it was modestly hinted, the national pastime would adapt itself to video.

After all, other sports—football, golf—had come around, allowing players to be wired, allowing announcers to speak to participants during a contest, and otherwise sanctioning show biz gimmicks in the midst of competition.

CBS-TV and NBC-TV presently broadcast major league day-time baseball games on week-ends, but this is hardly a big splash because the contests are not seen all over, and the networks put up with the ordinary moments, kindly allowing the national pastime to continue as it is. Thus when we mentioned the industry-known rumors 11 days ago, suggesting that big money has no small influence, there were cries of proper anguish and unhappy disbelief from readers who are true baseball fans. Monday ABC-TV brought the rumors frankly out into the open, with specific proposals — and where they will end, who knows?

An ABC-TV leader, in a speech here, suggested that baseball's 162-game schedule might well be reduced to 60—repeat, 60—games per season if the sport is to be attractive to network television.

As an ABC handout paraphrased the remarks: "With a 60-game schedule — two week-end games a week — big league baseball could adapt itself to network television and thereby increase attendance at the games and put baseball on a much sounder financial basis."

Under the plan, contests would be seen nationally with only those areas where games are played blacked out. "The teams would be able to reduce their rosters, fielding only their best players. A team would need only three or four of its best pitchers."

ABC offered some analysis: "The appeal of baseball has also suffered from the long periods of idleness. The average major league game today lasts about two hours and 45 minutes, compared to roughly two hours flat 20 years ago. Too much time is consumed by stretching pitcher changes, strategy meetings, and just plain idleness."

Further: "It is now time for some of our tradition-bound institutions to do a little adapting" to television. In doing this, they would "adapt without affecting the integrity of their sports." Further: "The leaders in all sports must recognize that they are engaged in presenting entertainment" and must compete for the public's leisure time. One thing it is important to avoid, it was suggested, is being "over-exposed."

All of these suggestions bring to mind some ideas: —To begin with, it is unlikely that the coming pay-television movement, which plans to offer full-length unfettered games starting with the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants, could think of a better or more popular argument against the misnamed "free" television. Under the plan, "free-television" would immediately cost baseball fans — of which there are many — 102 games a year out of the schedule they follow devotedly.

Second, the plan offers some decent advice for the networks themselves. For instance, the matter of over-exposure. Television suffers badly from it. There are long periods of idleness and just plain idleness. It might be wise to cut back programming to just a few hours a night, fielding only the best players.

Third, without daily games, what will there be to discuss in steam baths and bars? Before you know it, a fellow will have no excuse not to talk to his wife. Further, there is nothing very exciting about the prospect of cheering for a 10-game winner.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Jan. 1 of this year a noble experiment designed to prove black Africans' and whites' ability to live and work together came to an end.

Poor and over-populated Nyasaland and copper-rich Northern Rhodesia became self-governing British protectorates, with Britain retaining control of foreign affairs, defense and police.

Southern Rhodesia, with its cattle ranches and tobacco plantations, resumed its status of self-governing British colony and a policy of white supremacy closely akin to that of its neighbor, the Union of South Africa.

The Central African Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland had lasted just over 10 years and it had collapsed on the same grounds that had led black Africans to oppose it in the first place—the fear of domination by a white minority.

And it is against this background that violence now sweeps Southern Rhodesia where about 220,000 whites dominate the lives of more than 3.5 million Africans.

Refuse Independence
Politically, the issue lies between Southern Rhodesia's demand for independence from Britain and Britain's refusal to grant it before the whites grant political and social equality to the blacks.

Internally, it has meant the fall of moderate Prime Minister Winston J. Field and the rise of Ian Douglas Smith, rancher, World War II hero and outspoken racist.

The new governments' banishment of Joshua Nkomo, a nationalist leader, led directly to mob action by Africans chanting "Nkomo owns the land."

Externally, it arouses the possibility that Southern Rhodesia may become the first colony since the American Revolution to declare its own independence from Britain.

How Southern Rhodesia goes also effects the future of Africa as a whole.

Has Protective Buffer
The prosperous Union of South Africa has been able to follow its own white supremacy line partly through the protection of buffer states, of which Southern Rhodesia is one, which cut it off from the nationalism of new African nations.

An independent Southern Rhodesia might join with the Union of South Africa or it might seek its prosperity through trade overseas, going through Portuguese Mozambique.

The latter course is hazardous since Portuguese African holdings themselves are under attack by African nationalists.

In the former course, the Union of South Africa's borders would move up next to those of avowed enemies.

In that event, the black Africans would obtain "privileged sanctuaries" providing avenues of safe attack on the white supremacists in both Southern Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The International Statistics Bureau, Inc., asserts that stock prices are not "abnormally high" even though some securities are selling at more than 20 times earnings. It adds that most stocks have not yet reflected the 10 to 15 per cent increase in earnings.

Leslie M. Pollack of Raynolds & Co. urges investors to "investigate before you invest." Never commit your capital into a situation until you know all the important facts about it, Pollack says. He also warns against investing in too many issues.

James Dines & Co. advises investors to stick with the present rising trend of the market. "When the current emphasis on low-priced stocks increases to a fever pitch," it says, "signaling the return of the gambling, consistent losers, it will be time enough to get out."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache & Co. says it does not feel that stock prices are "unreasonably" high in light of the state of business, and advises investors to "maintain a positive outlook" toward the market.

The brokerage house specifically recommends selected aluminum stocks for both a near term and long term investment. It notes that the industry's price structure has firmed recently and that a further hike in the domestic ingot price is "a distinct possibility" before the end of the year.

Candidate Talks At Meeting of Pampa Realtors

Bob Price, Republican candidate for the 18th District congressional seat, addressed the Pampa Real Estate Board Monday noon at Coronado Inn at the bi-monthly meeting of the board.

Price stressed his stand against urban renewal and told the realtors that if elected, he would insist on a governmental policy of economy and would boost free enterprise in business.

The realtors also discussed plans for National Realtor Week, for which Mrs. Betty Meador is local chairman.

Joe Fischer presided at the meeting and announced the next meeting will be May 4. Plans also were made for members to attend the state convention of the Texas Real Estate Association at El Paso in June.

Rockefeller Goes Into Deep South

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller invaded the Deep South today for the first time since he announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

The GOP hopeful flew by private plane from San Diego, Calif., into country considered to favor Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

His schedule called for a foreign policy talk to a Pan American seminar lunch sponsored by the International House, a non-partisan civic group.

There was little doubt that Rockefeller, who calls himself a Republican "moderate," hoped to test his prospects in the conservative South.

Rockefeller spent the weekend and Monday campaigning for votes in California's largest-in-the-nation June 2 presidential primary, where he is an admitted underdog to Goldwater.

Registry office of the New York Jockey Club registered 13,735 foals during 1962.

OTIS HOLLADAY called with ofuse apologies Monday morning for failing to make the Sami Sports Banquet Saturday night due to car trouble. That's right, Otis, the speaker (Mrs. Holladay) was not only excellent, she was purtier too!

BILL MARTIN SR. invited us to go down to watch the OUarsity - Exes game, but couldn't be two places at the same time, unfortunately. Bill was supposed to call back and let us know how Carl McAdams and company made out, and allow the freshman track team did at the Kansas Relays, but must have gotten sidetracked in one of the Alumni shingings. Anyway, the Varsity clobbered the Exes and promises to be as good as everyone's as old us they are. Ralph Palmer in the third leg on the winning mile relay team. Incidentally, Bill Sr. reports that in addition to Ralph and Bill, the Pampa Track Club may be blessed with several other OU speedsters, including a 9.4 runner. With Jim Thurmond busy bounding up every White Deer creek, and every good trackman, Frank Phillips, Norm Phillips may have a University division this summer equal to most colleges. Don Carter of Memphis State, former WD Ex may also join the ranks. John Sale says Howard Van Loon, totan's high school version of Randy Matson, also scheduled to go to Texas A&M next year, may come up so he can throw with the Pampa Giant. Norm has been doing miracles for years with just a handful of handouts... what will he do with a crew like this? He has a possibility of six collegians who can break 50 seconds in the 440... I think we'll just line them up at the starting gate and let the first four become the relay team. Poor Thurmond, our ardest worker, may end up as manager if he keeps recruiting such talent!

Slippery Rock Slapped by NCAA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The University of Kentucky and two other smaller schools were smarting from slaps by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) today.

Kentucky was banned from playing post-season football. It was charged Monday with violating provisions of out of season football practice.

Slippery Rock, Pa., State College and Prairie View, Tex., A&M each were given penalties for playing in non-sanctioned post-season grid contests last year.

Indiana University, the University of Colorado and New Mexico State all had sanctions lifted. The Hoosiers had finished a four-year probation period. Colorado completed a two-year sanction while New Mexico's three-year ban still had nine months to run.

The announcement of the NCAA action came from Walter Byers, executive director. He said the bans for Kentucky, Slippery Rock and Prairie View all apply only to football.

Earlier Monday Byers said the executive council "still is looking into alleged infractions by five other schools," but he would not name the schools.

Clay Quiz Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army's explanation of why it declined to draft heavyweight champion Cassius Clay drew some dissents today from congressmen, who suggested he could at least do kitchen police work.

Army Secretary Stephen Ailes said in a report Saturday that Clay, who was tested both before and after he defeated Sonny Liston for the heavyweight title on Feb. 25, passed Army physical tests but failed the mental exams.

Ailes in a letter to the House Armed Services Committee said the growing complexity of weapons systems rules out induction of any but "fully trainable" manpower.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., accepted the Army's report and said he planned no further inquiry into the matter. But some other lawmakers were not so ready to drop the subject.

"The Army's refusal to accept the heavyweight champion of the world has triggered an anti-draft reaction among many people," Rep. Frank Bow, R-Ohio said.

"It is difficult to believe that Cassius Clay cannot pass the simple mental examinations. It is difficult to resist the thought he was rejected because the Army did not know what to do with him if they had him," Bow expanded.

Eddie Dyer Dies In Houston at 63

HOUSTON (UPI) — Eddie Dyer, who won fame perhaps too quickly by leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a world championship in his first year as manager, died Monday after a series of strokes.

Dyer passed away in Methodist Hospital. He was 63 years old. The round-faced friendly man gave the city of St. Louis its last pennant in 1946 after the first playoff in National League history.

The Cardinals beat the old Brooklyn Dodgers, then won four of seven from the Boston Red Sox in a long-remembered World Series that was won by Enos Slaughter scoring from first base on a single.

Dyer had replaced Billy Southworth that year as manager and in the short space of one season found himself at the pinnacle—he could go no higher in the baseball world.

It was perhaps because of this that four years later Dyer resigned to devote full time to his expanding Houston business. In the years that followed, Dyer became successful in oil, real estate and insurance. He became a prominent figure in Houston civic life.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m., Wednesday at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Houston. Dyer is survived by his wife and two children.

Celtics Take Second Win Over Warriors

By DICK DEW

UPI Sports Writer

BOSTON (UPI)—If, as Wilt Chamberlain said, San Francisco can end the Boston Celtics' championship spree, Wilt and his Warriors better get cracking.

The final round of the National Basketball Association's long playoff extravaganza shifts to San Francisco starting Wednesday night for game number three. The fourth meeting between playoff champions of the East and the West will be played there Friday night.

But the Celtics haven't sold a single ticket for a fifth meeting in the best-of-seven series. That is because after whipping Cincinnati, four games to one, they've built a 2-0 lead in games over the Warriors.

Red Auerbach, the NBA coaching dean whose team is seeking its sixth straight playoff title and seventh in eight seasons, had to jerk out all the stops Monday night—to keep from giving the Warriors a record drubbing.

The Celtics were leading by 35 points early in the fourth quarter when Auerbach lit his famed victory cigar and went into action. He pulled starters and top reserves and swept his extensive Boston bench.

When the game ended, the Celtics had won by only 23 points, 124-101.

From a statistical standpoint, Sam Jones topped Boston with 31 points. Tom Heinsohn had 20 more. Chamberlain rolled up 32 and Tom Meschery popped in 24 in the losing cause. And in addition to outscoring Bill Russell, 32-9, Chamberlain had 25 rebounds to 24 for Russell.

Belgain Belts Out Marathon Victory

BOSTON (UPI)—The United States physical fitness program hasn't reached the extensive ranks of the nation's marathoners yet.

In fact, Uncle Sam's distance runners appear to be a mite slower than they used to be.

It was a Belgian champion, Aurele Vandendriessche, who whipped a group of foreign challengers in Monday's 68th Boston AA marathon.

"Vandy," who said he enjoyed his "easy race," thus became the 18th visa-carrier among the last 19 champions. Vandendriessche staged a successful defense of his own 1963 record victory to become only the fifth man to win the Boston race in successive years. And he finished a matter of two minutes better than he predicted before the race that his winning time would be.

Though the foreign field was sharply curtailed in this Olympic year, visitors still managed to grab eight of the top ten places.

"Vandy's" official winning time was 2 hours, 19 minutes and 59 seconds, 62 seconds off his own record.

Yank, Russ Girls Win

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — The United States and Russia continued to dominate the women's world basketball championship tournaments but the American girls were headed for a showdown with a talented Bulgarian team today.

Most of the American team is made up of girls from Wayland College's Flying Queens of Plainview, Tex.

The U.S. defeated Paraguay, 54-40, Monday and Russia defeated Chile, 91-28, to advance into the final round along with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Brazil and Peru.

The American girls had a height advantage over Paraguay and they used it well. The U.S. team also used a tight defense and some excellent playmaking to defeat the scrappy South American team.

Nellie Fox Trade Payoff For Colts-3rd Straight

By FRED DOWN

UPI Sports Writer

General Manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts may have pulled the coup of the winter trading season when he acquired Nelson Fox from the Chicago White Sox for two minor league players valued at $100,000.

At 36 Fox doesn't have too many big league seasons left but the Colts are worried more about the present than the future. And for the present, at least, Fox is paying off like a runaway slot machine in a Las Vegas night club.

The little second baseman, who collected more than 2,500 hits in 17 American League seasons, is batting .364 after six games in the National League and Monday night shared honors with pitcher Dick Farrell as the Colts beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, for their third win of the year.

Hit Key Blows
Fox drove in four runs with a two-run single and a two-run triple to provide the key blows behind the four-hit pitching of Farrell. He capped a four-run rally that drove Ray Sadecki to cover in the second inning with the two-run single and tripled home two more runs off reliever Harry Fanok in the fourth.

Farrell, whose low fast ball is very effective in the Houston park, struck out seven, walked four and allowed only one Cardinal to reach third until Ken Boyer homered in the ninth. Eddie Kasko and John Bateman each had two hits in the nine-hit Houston attack.

Willie Mays zoomed his average to .444 as the San Francisco Giants downed the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2, the Milwaukee Braves dealt the Los Angeles Dodgers their sixth straight loss, 7-1, and the Boston Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees, 4-0, in the only other games.

McCovey Perks Up

Mays lashed out two singles and a double and Willie McCovey, who had been hitting .043, hit his first homer of the season to lead the Giants' seven-hit attack. Jack Sanford pitched a seven-hitter and struck out six to win his second game for the Giants. Chico Ruiz had three hits for Cincinnati.

Bob Sadowski weathered some rough going in the first inning and a fraction and then retired 21 consecutive batters before the Dodgers ended the shutout bid in the ninth on a single by Tommy Davis and a triple by Ron Fairly. Lee Mays homered for the Braves, who clinched the victory with three runs on three singles and as many walks against Bob Miller in the sixth. Nick Willitte suffered the loss.

Bill Monbouquette allowed seven hits in eight innings and star reliever Dick Radatz struck out the side in the ninth although two men reached base to hand Yogi Berra and his Yankees their fourth setback in five games. Rookie Tony Conigliaro homered and Carl Yastrzemski tripled to lead the Red Sox' attack.

But Casey's Still Casey Under It All

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel is being stripped of another memento of his days as a Yankee.

Stengel sheepishly revealed Monday that his wife is annoyed by the fact he still wears underwear with a Yankee emblem embroidered on the right leg although he now manages the New York Mets.

"She is very disturbed about the writers seeing me in my Yankee underwear," Stengel said. "She is going to buy me some Met underwear."

Bowling

By JIM ADKINS

The growing value of bowling for the youth of the nation is becoming more and more apparent. The two great organizations of bowling, the men's American Bowling Congress and the Women's International Bowling Congress are joined in the common cause backing and improving the American Junior Bowling Congress. The A.J.B.C. in the state of Texas has also made great strides and this year is promoting a state championship tournament for all junior bowlers. High school seniors will be eligible for scholarships if they so desire.

Texas will have nine districts and a representative from each district in four different classes will have a grand week-end of bowling at Dallas June 14th.

The Garden Lanes had their house roll-off last Sunday in the first step to the district representations.

The four winners from Garden Lanes were: In the senior girls division, Carole Belmont, Senior boys, Don Rader; Junior boys, Jackie Clark; and in the juniors boys division, Buddy Newton.

Sunday afternoon at 1:30 these four young bowlers will compete with the winners from Harvester Bowl to see who will represent Pampa in the district roll-off in Amarillo May 12th.

Winners from the Harvester Bowl were Janet Morgan and Alvin Joe Achord, both juniors.

Amazing? Most people are downright flabbergasted the first time they check out a new compact Dart convert. Pop goes the top. But the price just sits there low and easy to take.

It's even more amazing when you consider all that makes a Dart a Dart. Room, for instance. Size it up with knees, head, elbows, or luggage. You'll find large economy-size room—as much stretch-out and load space as in many standard-size cars. And there's large economy-size power to go with it... from a 170 cu. in. standard Six to an optional gung-ho 273 V8.

Amazing? You bet. It's what happens when a quality car maker builds a compact bigger and quicker and then tops it off with such good looks.

Price of Wisdom?

Rep. Everett G. Burkhalter has had his fill of Washington. He's retiring after one term in Congress.

The California Democrat, who is 67 himself, says he is disgusted with the "antiquated" seniority system and complains that "a lot of these old men are living in their dotage. . . (They) have got everything tied down you can't do anything."

Rep. Burkhalter, who was in public office in California for 20 years before going to Congress, advocates limiting House membership to 16 years (eight terms) and putting an age limit of 70 on candidates.

Like other solutions to the seniority system that have been proposed in the past, Rep. Burkhalter's would work more harm than good. Placing an age limit on congressmen might end the stranglehold of old men on committee chairmanships, but it would also deprive the nation of much needed wisdom and experience.

There are more examples in American history of old men serving their nation long and well. John Quincy Adams, for instance, after his term as president, served in the House of Representatives for 17 years until his death at 81. In the Senate, Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island was a respected member in his 90s.

The list is long and we should not prevent it from growing longer with an arbitrary rule. Some old men in Congress should be retired, perhaps. Some should never have been elected in the first place.

That, however, should be up to the American voters. They cannot be guarded against all of their follies by a piece of legislation.

A Booming Industry

Tourism has become a booming industry. It's the safest of bets that more Americans will travel abroad this year than ever before. And the number of people from other lands who visit our country is steadily increasing.

Most of these travelers will move by jet plane. With its speed, comfort and reliability it has transformed international air travel. One can be almost anywhere in the civilized world in a matter of hours. And, over the years, the cost has consistently gone down. Our own principal international airline, Pan American, has been the leader in this. It has been Pan Am policy from the very beginning that the cost of air travel should be brought within the means of the average person, instead of being a high priced luxury patronized only by the few. And time has thoroughly proven the soundness of that attitude.

There is more to this than the economic element, important as that is. Juan Trippe, Pan Am's president, has held steadfastly to the idea that stimulated travel can make a major contribution to world friendship and understanding — and thus, to world peace. This, one hopes, will be the most significant development of the jet age.

Bakers Cases Fetid Wake

If the senators who have just about closed the books (that were never opened very far, anyway) on the Bobby Baker case hope that the whole thing will now blow over and everybody forget about it, they will be absolutely right.

Nobody except a few reporters and editors and Republicans really got excited about this latest example of influence peddling and questionable conduct by a government employee, one of a long line of similar cases that began at least as long ago as 1789 in the United States.

Most people apparently still don't know what the Baker case was all about, nor do they care. One thing the senators should seriously consider, however, is that many people are quite ready to believe that the affair extended far beyond the little circle in which Bobby Baker swung his weight. Ending the investigation with too many questions unanswered will only encourage such thinking.

It does indeed extend beyond Bobby Baker in the sense that the entire Senate — the entire government — will be suspect. This being an election year, it is not unlikely that during the course of the campaign, vague, generalized charges of widespread government corruption will assail the national nostrils like fetid odors from half-buried garbage.

CAPITOL EYE

Says Lodge Didn't Nap '60 Campaign

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Now comes a man to say that the picture of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as a vice presidential nominee who afternoon-napped his way through the 1960 campaign is completely false.

He is Vincent O'Brien, presently news editor of the Lynn (Mass.) Item, who was Lodge's press secretary in that campaign. He traveled with the candidate for 40,000 miles through 30 states.

Reading constant comment from politicians and others on Lodge's reported midday snoozing, O'Brien, his patience evaporated, speaks up:

"I hate to see the history of the 1960 campaign distorted. . . The fact of the matter is that Lodge did not sleep in the afternoons."

Yet it is true, he says, that the ambassador did not pursue an endless round of campaign stops from dawn to midnight. He was, in fact, unavailable during part of every working day.

"He thought it was a lot of nonsense to spend every waking hour shaking hands. To him, Nixon and Kennedy and Johnson were frenetic in their campaigning."

"He decided at the beginning that he would campaign morning and evenings, afternoons and evenings, but never all three on a given day."

Has Lodge spent his "free time" during the day?

According to O'Brien, he used it steadily for talks with his staff, for strategy planning, for preparation of major speeches. Adds his former press aide:

"He took very little time off. I still have in hand his 'daily campaign schedules hour by hour. Anybody who would read them over could see he did not have much time for napping."

Lodge's defender does not say that the candidate never stretched out on a bed in working hours.

"Sure, there were times when he would hit a town at 5:30, take a shower, lie down for a bit, have a steak and then be ready to go for the evening rally."

"But the two-hour nap in the middle of the afternoon is a myth."

O'Brien says most of the "specific cases" which purport to document Lodge's leisurely campaigning never occurred as now reported.

There is one about his supposedly ducking out on five speaking engagements to take his wife, Emily, for a look at Niagara Falls.

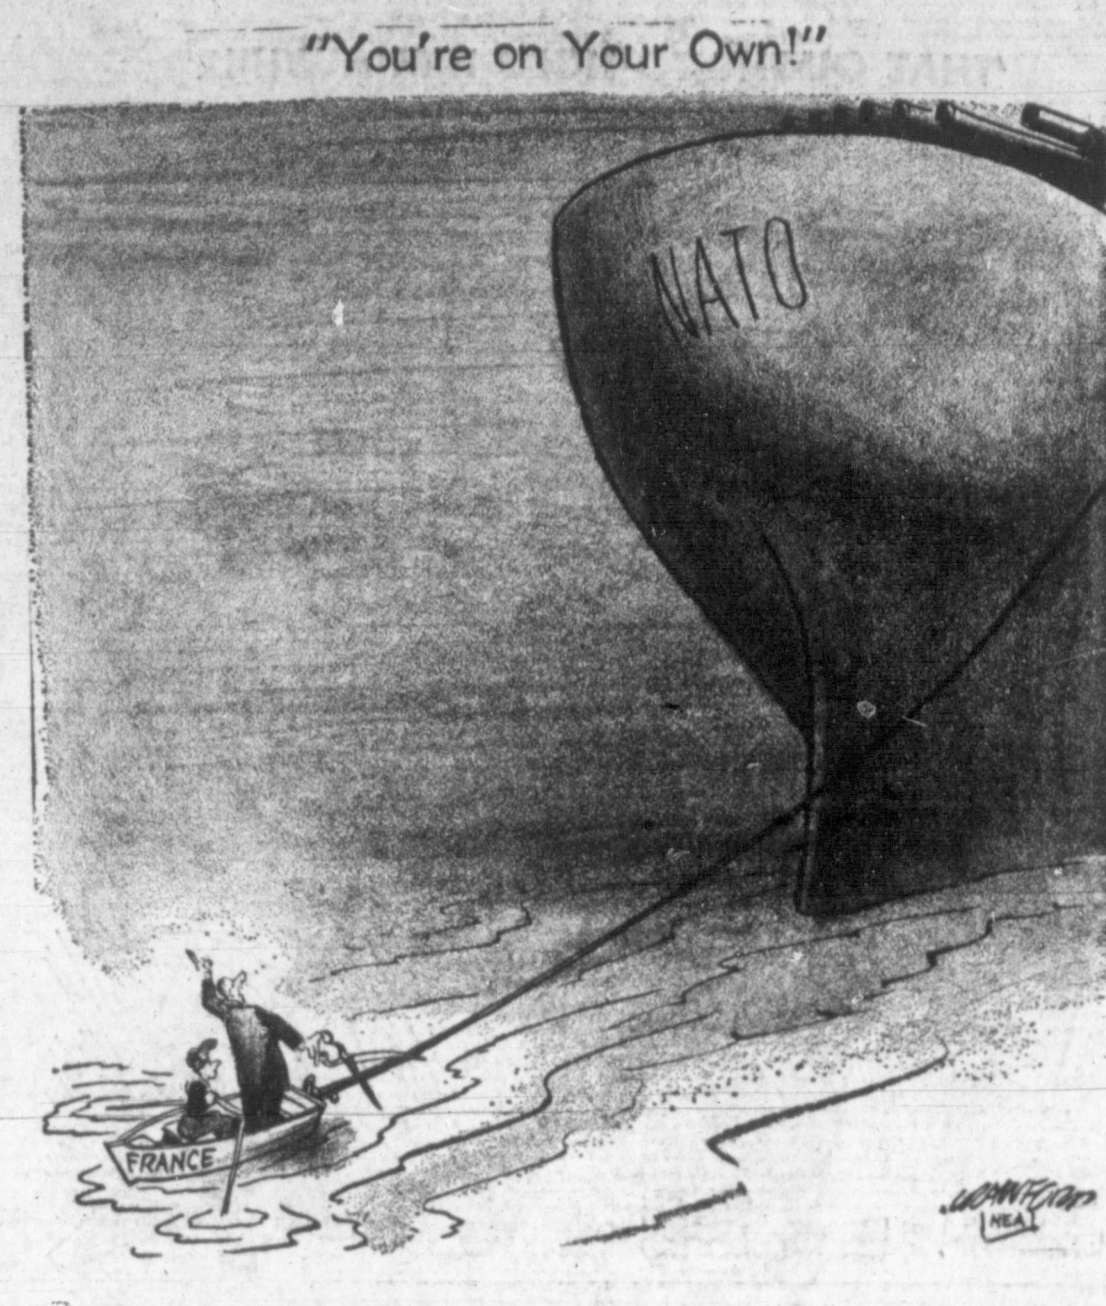

O'Brien's version: The ambassador arrived in Niagara Falls at 4:30 p.m. after a long swing that began in Atlantic City and took him through several upstate New York towns. He showered and dined, had some photographs taken, then went to the evening meeting. Only after that, late in the evening, did Lodge say:

"Let's unwind a bit. Let's take a look at the falls."

The 1960 nominee is also supposed to have canceled five of seven appearances in Kansas City. A visitor claims he barged into his hotel suite to find Lodge "lolling in a chair in his bathrobe, watching a movie on television." Says O'Brien:

"Frankly, I don't think he has ever seen a movie on television. I don't think he ever watched anything but the news and the big debates of 1960. As for canceling out, the fact is we had only one scheduled stop in Kansas City and we kept it."

O'Brien thinks most of the "nap stories" arise from the irritation of local leaders who were frustrated in their attempts to "overschedule" Lodge when he hit their territory. He believes, too, that the "myth of the afternoon nap" has now spread like a contagion to politicians who had not the slightest evidence of how Henry Cabot Lodge spent his afternoons when he was not with them.

Proposed Appointment of Wilson McCarthy to White House Staff Triggers 3-Way Dispute over More Kennedy Influence

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

WASHINGTON — A three-way power struggle is raging within the White House staff over the proposed appointment of Wilson McCarthy to White House staff triggers a 3-way dispute over more Kennedy influence.

This politically explosive dispute, which only President Johnson can decide, is coming to a head over the proposed appointment of Wilson D. McCarthy, congressional relations officer of the Peace Corps, to the White House staff.

The 34-year-old McCarthy, known as a "Bobby Kennedy man" within administration circles, is being strongly pushed for the White House post by presidential aides Bill Moyers, former deputy director of the Peace Corps, and J. J. Valenti, special consultant to the President.

These two presidential advisers are stressing that McCarthy is needed in the White House to improve the administration's liaison with Congress to pass the controversial Medicare and anti-poverty programs.

A close friend of Moyers when both worked in the Peace Corps, McCarthy is being urged by the former as the one person who could serve as a communication link between President Johnson and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Opposing McCarthy's selection are veteran Johnson aides Walter Jenkins, special presidential assistant, and Clifton Carter, the White House's top political adviser.

They frankly argue that McCarthy, a pre-convention supporter of the late President Kennedy, is a "Kennedy man" rather than a Johnson man, and that his political loyalties in any showdown with Attorney General Robert Kennedy would not be to the President, but to Kennedy.

Until the Attorney General spells out more clearly his future political intentions, neither Carter nor Jenkins feels the President should strengthen the Kennedy influence within the inner White House circle by adding McCarthy to the staff.

THE THIRD FORCE — The third group of White House aides, known as the "Kennedy holdovers" and headed by special presidential assistant Kenneth O'Donnell, is supporting McCarthy's appointment but staying in the background in the struggle between the two Johnson groups.

The "Kennedy holdovers" who supported the late President in his 1960 bid for the Democratic nomination, include Lawrence O'Brien, special legislative assistant to the President; Myer Feldman, special counsel; Lee C. White, deputy special counsel; and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant on security affairs.

tor of the President's anti-poverty program.

In their backstage discussions, the "Kennedy holdovers" are privately telling supporters in Congress that McCarthy's selection will strengthen their hand in influencing Johnson to increase his $300 million request for funds to launch the anti-poverty program.

The two Johnson groups, although sharply split over McCarthy, are firmly united in limiting this new domestic venture to "pilot projects" until a determination can be made as to which approach should be used in allocating federal funds.

White House insiders say the President is delaying his decision until he can personally determine whether Attorney General Kennedy has any unannounced political plans for 1964.

THE WHITEWASH — A major effort is being made by a group of State Department and Central Intelligence Agency authorities to whitewash, cover up and ridicule the disclosures made by Polish defector Colonel Michael Goleniewski, since they involve treason in both agencies. It is a well-organized campaign, with CIA officials making personal contact with members of Congress and newsmen, and telling them Goleniewski is under heavy nervous tension. Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., one of the few members of Congress who have talked to Goleniewski, reports that the Polish defector is in good health and mind although worried that the Russia may try to kill him. A high-ranking KGB intelligence officer in Poland, Goleniewski has a "thank-you" note from former CIA Director Allen Dulles, who used considerable information supplied by the defector in his book "The Craft of Intelligence."

Latest information being "leaked" to Washington columnists by CIA officials involves the Russians' appraisal of President Johnson. It goes like this: "Top Soviet officials (no names) say they do not plan to arrive at any firm judgments on the nature and intentions of President Johnson until after the American elections. The Soviets say Mr. Johnson's public pronouncements are now pointed entirely at the election and that a clear picture of him cannot be secured now."

In extending General Curtis LeMay's tenure as Air Force Chief of Staff until the end of the year, President Johnson turned down a recommendation by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to replace the tough, frank-speaking General. LeMay is one of the few top military officers in the Pentagon not afraid to speak out publicly in opposing McNamara's defense decisions. . . . Early readers of this column were not startled by the late General Douglas MacArthur's reported appraisal of General Matthew Ridgway ("way at the bottom, a chameleon"). In 1952 this column published inside details of

It seems silly now, but years ago partaking of soup was considered effeminate and he-men shunned it. The late President Kennedy was a soup addict and invariably that constituted his noonday meal on the campaign trail. Rudy Vallee keeps trim and fit for the rigors of a hit Broadway musical comedy by starting each day with a cup of beef bouillon. During his boxing career Gene Tunney, who knew the secrets of good diet, was another whose daily menu included a clear soup.

Today's smile: An irate preacher returned a used car to the dealer, who had sold it to him a few days earlier, saying: "I can't continue to drive this car and stay in the ministry."

Good songs never die, and that's true of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," written in 1906 by Jack Norworth, one of vaudeville's great song and dance men. It's played regularly today to play baseball on radio and TV. Curiously, Norworth had never seen a baseball game when he wrote the song, and saw his first big league game some 30 years afterward. . . . Among the events listed for this year's Olympic games is weight-lifting. We wonder how a famous strong man like Eugene Sandow, who amazed the world 50 years ago by hoisting a full grown horse and holding a pony at arm's length, would fare in today's competition?

Thoughts while shaving: Atomic explosives will be used for the first time in construction work to open a two-mile cut through California's Bristol Mountains for the extension of a railroad and superhighway. The 22 A-bombs will be equivalent to 1,730,000 tons of TNT. Engineers expect the blasts will remove 68 million cubic yards of earth at a cost of $13 million as against $22 million by using conventional methods. . . . That's no Indian portrayed on the face of the Indian-head penny. A government official's daughter put on an Indian headdress and posed for the designer. She forgot to take off her pearl necklace and it's visible on a penny in good condition. . . . Harry Von Well has never been permitted to forget the time he pulled the greatest of sponsorisms by introducing on radio the then President of the United States as "Hoobert Heever." Spoonerisms are named after an English clergyman, Canon William Archibald Spooner, who occasionally lapsed into transposing sounds in delivering a sermon. . . . The Chicago (Ill.) TRIBUNE reported: "The Peace Corps workers will be sent to how MacArthur tried to block General Ridgway's fourth star during the Korean war. When the story was published, then-President Truman ordered a full-scale FBI investigation of how the information was obtained. According to an aide of General Omar Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the investigation was concluded with a report stating: "sources unknown."

HOW TO GROW A MONEY TREE

By Harry Browne

Editor, Freedom Magazine

Wouldn't it be wonderful if you had a money tree?

Just think: you'd never have to work again — except to pick whatever money you needed off the tree.

Doesn't that sound heavenly? But you're not selfish, are you? While we're dreaming, let's extend our wish to include a money tree for everyone.

Then no one would have to work. We'd each have all the money we need.

Yes, it's a mean old world without money trees. Why didn't the Creator see fit to give one to each of us?

But wait a minute! We have a government in Washington that's equipped with a printing press, plenty of paper and ink, and a determination to promote our "welfare." Why doesn't the government do something about the money shortage? Why not print enough money so that no one will have to work again?

Sound ridiculous?

Of course!

Its Real Value
In the first place, money is not wealth; it is only a means of exchange. Real wealth consists of such things as goods and services, personal property. The value of money is only in what it will purchase. What good is a million dollars if inflation cuts its buying power to one loaf of bread?

You and I know that the only way you can have anything is to work for it. To have things, you must produce them — or produce something you can exchange for what you want. We realize that the more money there is in circulation, the less each dollar will buy. And no matter how much money we "grow," we still have to produce more goods and services in order to be a wealthier nation.

Isn't that right?

Well then, what in the world are they trying to prove in Washington? Why try to make believe the government can return $11 billion to us in the form of a "tax cut" — and yet not cut down on its own spending at the same time? How can we be any richer just because an extra $11 billion in printed money has been put into circulation? Obviously, what is needed is more production, not more paper money.

No, money trees are not for us. They're for children reading fairy tales and for politicians — but not for grown-up men and women.

Our True Wealth

For each of us has something far more valuable than a money tree. We each have arms and legs and a mind that can conceive of ideas. We can grow and prosper by increasing our talents and energies.

some of the least desirable places on earth to live with and like the grass hunted natives. They may have to live there, but they won't have to like it. . . . According to a recent survey, the average commuter driving homeward at 60 mph on an expressway is more tense than an astronaut whirling at 18,000 mph around the earth. Reluctantly, we agree. . . . It's been determined that it takes 12 hours or more for the average brain to store information in the memory so that it can be used and become part of your knowledge.

Country Editor speaking: "To err is human, but if you wear out the eraser before you've used up the pencil, you're overdoing it."

Money trees soon die because they're unreal to begin with. But man's ambition is real and limitless. In a free economy the sky's not even the limit. There's nothing you can't do if you really want to do it — and it's not infringing upon the property of another.

So what we really need from Washington is the freedom to produce more. We need an end to foreign aid and farm subsidies and urban renewal — a public power and all of the rest of the fairy-tale programs that are taking our wealth from what we need is the freedom to grow and prosper on our own.

That freedom is worth a million money trees. And it can be yours if you're willing to work to obtain it.

Glasses Clink Again On Mexican Border

REYNOSA, Mexico (UPI)—Glasses clinked loudly and cash registers rang at regular intervals at Reynosa Sunday, but the pleasing sounds did not wipe out the memory of a lost weekend for owners of night-spots in the Mexican border cities.

And, it did not ease the natural worry that goes with 15 days of waiting before Gov. Praxides Balboa of Tamaulipas state makes his final decision on the selling of liquor from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday in the border state.

Balboa surprised everyone two weeks ago when he announced there would be no liquor sold on Sunday in accordance with a 25-year-old state law. He did not explain why the law had never been enforced before, and said the present crackdown was to curb weekend violence.

Bars, package stores and restaurants from Nuevo Laredo to Matamoros reported a heavy loss of revenue due to the ban last week and pleaded with the governor to lift its enforcement. Saturday, he gave cities freedom from the tourist-cutting statute for 15 days. He will make a ruling at that time, about May 1.

Business was slow over the weekend despite the lifting of the ban. Tourist spots usually so crowded they turn away customers were running about three-fourths full. Owners blamed the cutback in trade on the law, feeling the would-be border visitors did not get the word of a stay of execution in time.

ALL-SEEING EYE—This is the electronic eye of a new radar system being built at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla. It will improve U.S. ability to detect and track satellites. Although it can scan space without any movement of the antenna, its beams can be steered electronically to track satellites up to altitudes of several thousand miles in one "glance."
