P-TA Plans Picnic For Tuesday, September 18

Have you ever been paid just for meeting someone? If you never have, be sure and bring your picnic lunch and join all the people who will be at the P-TA all school picnic on the courthouse lawn, Tuesday, September 18th, at 6:30 p.m. While there, you stand a chance to find some money, just by meeting someone.

A most entertaining program is being planned for this first P-TA meeting of the year. The band will be there, also there will be a short pep rally. The students will introduce their teachers. Mrs. Gus Love will be the leader for the evening.

The plans for the picnic are being conducted by the room mother chairmen who met last Thursday afternoon at the high school auditorium. The room mothers will be contacting each school family to remind them of the meeting and to give the following details. Each family or person attending the picnic is to bring enough sandwiches, potato chips or fritoes, and cookies to feed their family. Cold drinks and coffee will be sold at the picnic by the senior class, and the band club is planning to have a cake sale on the grounds that evening. No one is required to buy these refreshments, but both of the groups will appreciate your patronage. Each class has a banner to show where their teacher or sponsors will be eating, and you are encouraged to find a group your child belongs in and join them. Of course if there is more than one of your children in school, you can take your choice of where you eat, but take your food with you so no group will run short.

It is hoped that every school family will attend, and also this invitation goes to every person in our area who is interested in the school. Everyone is invited to attend; just bring your lunch and join in the fun.

The P-TA is proud to announce that on the opening day of school, 262 people joined our organization. It is hoped that many who were unable to join that day will do so soon so they may be able to enjoy the work as well as the fellowship of our local unit. —Reporter.

Orland Harris was named incoming commander, with Bill Rountree as first vice commander and C. E. Love as adjutant. Rev. J. C. Hancock is new chaplain, Bennie Harky is new sergeant at arms, and Bill Gunstead is new historian.

Following the program ice cream and cake was served Legionnaires and their families in the banquet room.

FAMILIES TO LEAVE

Two Eldorado families are leaving this city. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Englert are moving to Fort Stockton, where Mr. Englert will be employed by Jack Shugart in building houses; they have been living on the Otto Sauer place in Bailey Ranch, which they leased, and Mrs. Englert has been employed in the bank here.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Englert have been living in Eldorado and Mr. Englert has been working the Brown place. The couple are moving to Big Spring where Mr. Englert will be employed as a diesel mechanic.

Austin, Tex.—Conservative and Liberal Democrats are battling each other. Republicans are active. But the Constitution Party of Texas now is in the spotlight.

At their Austin meeting the Constitution Party grabbed headlines by naming, as their nominees, prominent Democrats who have been active in recent campaigns. Their choice included W. Lee O'Daniel for Governor; J. Evetts Haley for Lt. Governor; Reuben Senterfitt for Attorney General; Warren G. Harding for State Treasurer, and Ross Carlton for the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Congressional candidates will be chosen later.

Secretary of State Tom Reavley challenged the Constitution Party's right to nominate any candidate who had been defeated for the same office in the recent primaries.

Joseph M. Rummler of Houston is state chairman of the Constitution Party. Their presidential nominee is Democrat T. Coleman Andrews, former Internal Revenue Commissioner of Richmond, Va. Former Republican Congressman Thomas Wendell of California is their vice presidential choice.

Major plank in the party's platform is elimination of federal income taxes.

Artificial Rain

Possibility of moistening droughty Texas by artificial rainmaking may be debated in the next Legislature. After hearing state and federal weather experts at an Austin meeting, the Texas Water Resources Committee voted to dig deeper into the subject. If findings are favorable, the committee indicated it would recommend legislation and appropriations for a long-range, statewide project.

Scientists were cautious in their claims before the committee. Much is yet to be learned about what makes rain, they said, and previous experiments have not yet been thoroughly evaluated. But they agreed prospects were promising enough to merit further research.

"Soaker" Wanted

Scattered showers have helped, but most Texas farmers still are scanning the skies for a "fall soaker."

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's latest crop report reflected increasingly critical conditions. Examples: cattle "forced to market"; peanuts "past redemption"; dryland cotton, "extremely short"; vegetable planting, "limited." Only irrigated cotton was reported "fruiting heavily."

GI Loan Payments Up

Delinquencies on veterans' land loans have dropped 19% since 1954, said Land Commr. Earl Rudder. Payment failures ran 20% on loans made under his predecessor, Bascom Giles, said Rudder. Under the new administration they have dropped to 1%.

Some 13,000 requests from veterans for loans now are pending before the land board. Present funds will stretch over only about 1,000. More money will be available if voters approve a constitutional amendment for a new $100,000,000 bond issue at the general election.

Insurance Code In Full Effect

Texas' new "model insurance code" now is in full force and effect.

Last measure to be activated requires companies to have a minimum of 100 policy-holders and $200,000 insurance in force. An Insurance Commission spokesman called the requirements "actually very easy to meet" and predicted almost 100% compliance.

Target of the law are companies which, for tax purposes, have operated other type businesses under the guise of insurance firms.

Eight Texas schools have been removed from the accredited list by the State Board of Education. In addition, the board warned 111 other schools they must improve

To Address Lions

At yesterday's meeting Mrs. Louis Gayer, of Memorial Hospital in San Angelo, gave a talk and showed a film on geriatrics, stressing that the care of old people was a comparatively new field in medicine. She was introduced by Don McCormick.

Fire Destroys Shack On Mrs. Tisdale's Ranch; Other Property Saved

Fire thought to have caught from a cook stove, destroyed a lean-to on a V. G. Tisdale ranch garage. The fire destroyed the lean-to Sunday night and some household goods stored near by. The garage and the ranch house were saved.

Both of the fire trucks were called out at 9:30 Sunday night to put out the fire. The men laid the hose to the ranch storage tank, while two hoses at once started streams of water from the tank loads carried on the two county fire trucks which made the run.

More than average traffic made it difficult for the fire boys to reach the fire. The drive-in theatre was turning out its first show crowd, and many other motorists were on the road "either to help or out of curiosity" as Palmer West expresses it.

The lean-to had been occupied by a Mexican.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH BELL HAS HISTORY DATING BACK OVER 100 YEARS—CALLED TO CHURCH, SERVED AS SIREN IN WARS

Church bells are never out of style in Episcopal churches, and the St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Eldorado, of course, has a bell.

But this bell has a history dating back over 100 years.

The bell, the gift of Mrs. Gene St. Clair, the former Kathleen Crosby, was bought from the little Baptist congregation at Pontotoc, who had built the church in 1885, then over the years, as the community lost population, the church building deteriorated. When the six or eight families still worshipping there rebuilt the church rec-their standards.

Stripped of accreditation were Bexar County School for Boys, Carey (Childress County), Douglassville (Cass County), Houston Christian School, New Hope (Wood County), Scranton (Eastland County), Strong (Shelby County) and Sacred Heart (Cooke County).

These schools are ineligible to receive state money for vocational programs and superintendent pay. Their graduates must take entrance exams to enter college or another school.

The Eagles scored once in each quarter, while leaving their hapless opponents without a tally. George Sofge scored in the first and third quarters; Stockton in the second, and Ronny Kerr in the fourth quarter.

Cool Your Eggs To Get The Most Profit

College Station.—Texas egg producers who sell on a grade basis are finding that on-the-farm egg cooling equipment when used with frequent deliveries to the grading station is both economical and profitable. Kermit F. Schlamb, extension poultry marketing specialist, says a 30 dozen case of eggs can be cooled for about 10 cents.

Research done at Texas A&M College, he adds, established this figure and also showed that producer returns could be materially increased. He cites the record of a producer who used adequate cooling facilities and delivered his eggs to the grading station five times plus each week. This producer, according to Schlamb, received 2.39 cents a dozen more than the average producer selling through the same program. That is almost 72 cents more for every case of eggs delivered.

The specialist emphasizes that during hot weather eggs should be gathered three or more times each day and then immediately cooled. The temperature of an egg when it is laid is above 105 degrees and unless it is cooled quickly, quality goes down. The egg, as designed by nature, contains self-destroying enzymes which work rapidly at temperatures above 55 degrees. The thick white and yolk membranes of the egg are broken down and the higher the temperature the faster the action of the enzymes.

Quality breakdown can be reduced to a low level by cooling eggs to about 30 degrees but the cost becomes too great. Therefore, says Schlamb, a cooling temperature of 55 degrees or lower is recommended. But, he warns, quick cooling and proper holding temperature are not a substitute for frequent delivery of the eggs to the grading station, for age is also a factor in quality.

HINTS OFFERED ON LAND LEVELING FOR IRRIGATION

College Station.—The prolonged drouth has made Texas farmers water conscious as never before. The number using irrigation to supplement declining rainfall has increased in every section of the states, reports Bob Thurmond, extension irrigation specialist.

Along with the increase, says the specialist, have come many problems and a major one has been land leveling. Now is the time to make plans for doing this job. Thurmond says that before the job is undertaken these questions should be answered. Is the farm suitable for surface irrigation? What method or methods of irrigation should be used? How dependable is the water supply? How much can be spent on the farm for land leveling?

In getting the answers, the engineer says consideration must be given to the depth of the soil, roughness of the soil surface, type of soil and crops to be grown, source of water supply, cost of water, expected yield increases and availability of markets for the produce. If the answers to the questions are favorable for land leveling, other decisions must be made.

Land leveling to be successful must be done according to a well developed plan based on the needs of the farm. The plan must be done by a competent engineer and the contract, if the job is to be done by others, should include all necessary engineering. In the humid areas, land leveling should also provide for an adequate drainage system for the farm to take care of excessive rainfall. Leveling may be done on a piece basis but the plan should be for the entire farm. Where the land is fairly steep and uniform, bench leveling may be desirable. If the soil is shallow, little top soil can be removed. Since leveling is both expensive and time consuming, Thurmond suggests doing a part of the farm each year. He says about three methods for doing the job are available. Do it yourself but only after an engineered plan has been developed; employ a competent engineer to do the plan and a contractor to do the earth moving or employ a contractor to do the entire job. Written contracts are advisable.

Finally, Thurmond says, it will probably take a year or two to put the final touches on newly leveled land. There will be a tendency for the fields to settle and the cuts to swell. Low spots can be filled with a float or drag after the first crop has been removed. Although initial costs are high, Thurmond reminds that benefits derived are long lasting.

Double Jeopardy

Most likely you can't picture yourself being brought into court on anything worse than a speeding violation. Nearly everyone feels that way. Even so, it is good to know that in this country you can't be made to stand trial twice for the same offense.

We have a provision in the U. S. constitution against "double jeopardy." That's one of the important safeguards in our system of law which makes it certain that once a court has reached a verdict of "innocent," the acquitted person may not be put on trial again for the same offense.

To add to the protection, if a person has been acquitted, the prosecution cannot appeal the case to a higher court. The constitution says specifically: "Nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb."

This right holds good, however, only if a full trial is held and a verdict is reached. It is possible to face another trial on the same charge if the first trial ends with a "hung jury" or a "mistrial," or if a new trial is requested.

A classic example comes from the "Wild West" in the late 1880's. A man named Ball was charged with murder, along with two others. Ball was acquitted, but the others were found guilty. The guilty pair appealed to a higher court, and their original indictment was found to be faulty.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Calves that become less alert "lose their pep" and manifest other symptoms such as watering at the eyes, nasal discharge, swelling of the joints, rapid respiration, staggering gait, convulsions, loss of appetite, or complete blindness, are suffering from vitamin A deficiency.

In general, calves of 250 to 400 pounds may be expected to show affected condition about 40-80 days when in a drouth area where there is not green grass and cottonseed products are only being fed.

Sheep show vitamin A deficiency by the same symptoms as cattle, but generally if the condition is not corrected quickly death losses occur. Alfalfa hay or cod-liver oil is the best restorative treatment when vitamin A deficiency is found in the herd or flock.

Vitamin A plays no part in the feed lot on the rate of gain as long as the animal has reserves of vitamin A stored in the body. It is always wise however, to supply vitamin A in the ration to maintain this reserve in the body.

Since about three-fourths of the earth's surface is water while one-fourth is land, could it mean man was meant to spend three-fourths of his time fishing and one-fourth of his time working?

Compensation to farmers for reducing their 1957 crop winter wheat acreage below their wheat allotment, designating such acreage for inclusion in the Soil Bank's acreage reserve program, will be in the form of negotiable certificates. The certificates may be redeemed in cash through regular banking channels or in grain by the producer to whom they are issued.

All persons holding titles to land within zone 3 of the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District will vote for the supervisor of your choice, October 2nd. The boundaries of zone 3 are: along State Highway 30 to Tom Green-Schleicher county line. Thence west to the NW corner of the county. South along west line of Schleicher county to old Ozona road. Thence east along old Ozona road to the beginning.

Mr. B. E. Moore is your supervisor for Zone 3 at present. All land owners will receive notice of the election in the near future. Notices of said election may be seen on the bulletin board at court house, post office and at the local gin.

A majority of pecan trees in yards have a heavy crop this year. In some instances the falling of pecans before harvest as a natural procedure as too many were on the tree for all to mature. In many instances, however, the falling was due to a nutritional disease called rosette, which occurs when there is not enough zinc available in the soil. Spraying with a 36% zinc sulfate at the rate of 1 pound per 50 gallons of water will wet the leaves of one large tree. Zinc sulfate may be added to insect and disease control spray mixtures in the spring and summer to ward off this nutritional disease.

Texas Extension Service Aiding In Hay Program

College Station.—Hay for Texas farmers and ranchers is being located by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Through cooperation with extension services in other states, J. D. Prewit, associate director of the Texas service is locating sources of hay which Texans can buy.

It is already known that several thousand tons of hay is available in the middle west, Mr. Prewit said. States which have indicated they have hay for sale include Kansas, Iowa and Minnesota.

Assistance of the state headquarters was asked earlier by agricultural agents in counties where farmers and ranchers were unable to produce hay this year due to drouth.

Indications are that there is an inadequate supply of hay in Texas. Prices of the hay varies, depending on the kind and quality. Freight rates also vary according to tonnage and the distance transported. Local railroad freight officials said, however, in carload lots freight rates are about $27 a ton from Minneapolis to Bryan; $23.40 from Sioux City to Bryan and $19.60 from Topeka to Bryan.

Information has been made available to agricultural agents in each Texas county for availability to local farmers and ranchers listing amounts of hay available and addresses of its location in other states, Mr. Prewit added.

I thought For The Week Ministerial Alliance

What is your worth? That all depends upon you.

You are not iron, but iron will illustrate as found written by someone else: "You have a bar of iron worth about $5.00. Made into horseshoes it is worth $10.50. Made into screw drivers it may be worth $250.00. Made into needles it is worth $3,250.00 and made into watch mainsprings it is worth $250,000.00."

You are another kind of material but the same thing is true with you. Most of us are back in school, either in body or in spirit or both. Your value is determined by what you make of yourself or by the use you make of God's gift that is in you. If you can, be a mainspring, if that is not possible be the very next best. God is willing and will do his part; the rest depends upon you.

Why America Remains Free

September 17th marks the 169th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America. This Constitution is the focal point of national integrity and sovereignty. Around it revolves our entire national existence and without it those "inalienable rights" of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness would become but a "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal."

The Constitution is the projection of the law of God as set forth in that other immortal document of American History—the Declaration of Independence—which presupposed the existence of God as a self evident truth—not as a matter of faith, but as a matter of fact, together with the other self-evident truths expressed within. The founding fathers accepted no political formula that was not achieved through divine guidance. Their faith in God's providence was unalterable. Years of tireless study and patient negotiation—of meetings and conventions—finally culminated in the writing and ratification of this Constitution. The great men who wrote the immortal Declaration of Independence and those who, with them led the Colonies to victory spent almost as much time in establishing our Constitution as in carrying on the War.

The observance of this day should be a day of humility and gratitude on the part of all of us for the many blessings that have been ours to enjoy under its protection.

Our Constitution provides the governmental vehicle by which our "inalienable rights" are preserved and their enjoyment guaranteed. By it the national sovereignty is pledged to this end: "to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Ours is the oldest written Constitution in the world, although there are many nations whose genesis runs to antiquity but which have degenerated by reason of their failure to recognize the principle that "that State exists for Man and not Man for the State."

Standing for itself, the Constitution deserves no more and no less than the grateful and respectful consideration of the American people, as it unites "national sovereignty with states' rights, individual security and public prosperity." For them it is written, based upon the principles which are older than human institutions and which spring from eternal justice that is anterior to the state.

On Monday night, September 10, the speech and dramatic club had their first meeting. A new name was selected to represent the club. It is called "The Masque Players."

They are to have meetings once a week at 7:30 each Monday night. The charter members are to pay 50c dues per semester. The incoming members pay 35c dues and an initial charge of 10c each six weeks. To make money for the club they will charge 15c for a student being absent and 10c for being late to the club meetings.

The speech and dramatics club's main desire is to make the speech department more educational, to create an interest to other students, and provide entertainment for everyone. They would like to welcome any new students who are not members to join "The Masque Players."

Self Employed Farmers Get S. S. Benefits

More than 100 self-employed farmers who have reached age 65 have in the past three months filed their claims for social security benefits in the 13 counties served by the San Angelo District office, according to E. M. Bowers, manager. These persons, Bowers continued, filed their 1955 tax returns, paid the self-employment tax thereon, and have already grossed $600 in creditable farm income in 1956. By a special provision in the law, farmers past 65 who meet the two conditions just outlined may file their claims now, without having to wait until the end of 1956, their second year of coverage under social security.

As there may be advantages to having a claim filed at this time, Bowers urged all self-employed farmers who are over 65, who have filed their 1955 tax returns, and who are still operating their lands, to get in touch with the San Angelo social security office in the very near future. A copy of the 1955 tax return and cancelled check or money order stub showing payment should be presented when the claim is filed.

Water-For-Texas Conference Coming

College Station. — Is artificial rainmaking a possible answer to Texas' water woes? Is it practical?

The various aspects of rainmaking will be discussed frankly and objectively by a representative of the U. S. Weather Bureau during the second Water for Texas Conference to be held at Texas A&M College September 17-19.

The conference is sponsored by the Water Research and Information Center of the A&M college system. All Texans who are interested in the state's water problems are invited to attend, by Gibb Gilchrist, head of the water center.

Mr. Gilchrist said the U. S. Weather Bureau has been making a thorough study of the possibilities of artificial rainmaking for the past several years. Information which it has collected should be of great help to Texans in evaluating proposals made for solution of drought problems, he added.

Other parts of the program which are expected to contain considerable interest for Texans include watershed development and management, water laws of the state, needs and uses of water in production of oil, and water for Texas agriculture and forestry.

Panel discussions during the three-day meeting will deal with better uses of water for engineering works and agricultural irrigation, as well as a statewide plan for water use and methods of financing a statewide program.

Dean John Calhoun of the A&M school of Engineering, and Director R. D. Lewis of the Texas Agricultural experiment station are co-chairmen of the conference. Paul Weaver, distinguished professor of geology, is program chairman.

Health Letter

Austin.—Hay fever season is a year-round affair in Texas. The reason behind this sad state of affairs, says the Department of Health, is Texas' wide range of climatic and soil conditions which produce an assortment of offending flora—trees and shrubs and grasses.

Ragweed pollen is still the biggest enemy of the watery-eyed set, officials say, but mountain cedar, scrub elm, and a variety of other plants and grasses also cause their share of sneezing misery. There are some bright spots in Texas though. Department hygienists say pollen counts in El Paso, Amarillo and other West Texas towns have been "amazingly low."

From midwinter until early spring, susceptible people from Dallas southward will be affected by the pollen of cedar, a profusely growing tree with a bad habit of pollinating in late autumn and winter rather than in spring.

Fall hay fever sufferers probably have the scrub elm to blame for their troubles. A late summer and autumn pollinator, the elm is common over most of the state, but is particularly profuse in the bottomlands of the Guadalupe and Trinity rivers. The mesquite, a member of the legume family, causes "minor" allergic trouble in West Texas during May, June and July.

Grass hay fever is possible throughout spring, summer, and fall over most of Texas, and in the winter in the Rio Grande Valley. Bermuda grass is the chief offender. Rhodes grass is a "potential" hay fever grass in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Ragweed pollen is almost as abundant at Dallas and Houston as in the north central states. It is a serious problem as far west as San Antonio and all along the Gulf Coast to Brownsville.

In Brownsville, the ragweed season begins in June or July. The source of the pollen has never been positively determined. Along the rest of the coast, ragweed pollination does not begin before September, a full month later than in the north-central states. Pollination continues into November all along the Gulf.

In arid parts of Central and West Texas, Russian thistle is a leading cause of inhalent allergy. Other local causes are sugar beets and Palmer's amaranth. Sage pollen is a potential factor in West Texas, but information on distribution is not available. Sand sagebrush, a dominant native plant in the Panhandle, is suspect as a troublemaker.

How do you get relief from hay fever? A sea voyage during "your" season would do it. So would staying in an air filtered room. But since neither action is practical, check with your doctor about a series of "pollen extract" shots.
