Voter participation low Jason Brinkley wins Cooke County Judge nomination

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Very few voters in Texas, including Cooke County, took time to exercise their right to vote in the May 27 primary Runoff elections. Many of these candidates will not have an opponent in the November General Election and thus have essentially been elected to that position.

Cooke County has 23,586 registered voters. Of that number only 3,999 (16.95%) voted to decide winners in Tuesday's Primary Runoff elections. Cooke County had 67 voters for the Democratic candidates and 3,932 for the Republican.

According to Pam Harrison, chief deputy clerk for the County Clerk's Office, in the Cooke County 2014 Primary Runoff, there were 1,267 persons who voted during Early Voting and 303 Ballots by Mail for a total of 1,570 early voters.

In the County, there was one race to be decided - that of the Republican nominee for Cooke County Judge. The runoff was between Byron Berry and Jason Brinkley. Brinkley garnered the nomination by winning 58.98% of the County's Republican votes. Berry received 1,598 (41.02%) votes to Brinkley's 2,298. With no Democrat on the November ballot, Brinkley will serve as the next County Judge. Judge John Roane did not seek re-election. His term expires on Dec. 31.

After the election Brinkley remarked, "I would like to acknowledge the voters for their support and for coming back out to vote the second time. It has been a long, hard fought campaign, but now it is time to come together as a county to work toward find-

Sheriff's Office will soon do reports from patrol vehicles

Cooke County Sheriff Terry Gilbert asked Commissioners Court at its Tuesday, May 27 meeting for approval of a software package for CAD/mobile computers for patrol units for the Sheriff's office and funding for the software package in the amount of $49,238.05.

Sheriff Gilbert said that would put 17 computers online and interface them with the CAD system. A grant was received for the computers and the CAD system is online, so they are ready for the next step when the funding is approved.

According to Sheriff Gilbert, his officers will be able to do arrest reports in the field from their cars, as well as most everything else that is now done in the office. "That will keep our manpower on the streets," he noted.

The Court unanimously approved the funding from the Contingency Fund. The contract will be brought to

Drug arrests made by Muenster police

Muenster Police Chief Mark Blankenship reported that on Wednesday, May 21, in a joint effort, the Muenster Police Department officers and Saint Jo Police Department officers conducted an investigation that resulted in the arrest of persons involved in the delivery and possession of controlled substances. The investigation netted a stash of prescription pills with a street value of over $4,000.

As the investigation progresses, more arrests are expected.

The first order of business at the Tuesday, May 20 meeting of Muenster Hospital's Board of Directors was the swearing in of the newly elected directors. Board Secretary John Aytes administered the oath of office for Paul Becker and incumbents Don Richardson and Jon Reed. They were elected to serve three-year terms.

Election of new officers took place. Aytes reminded the Board that availability is a big factor in serving as a Board officer. They should be able to make no less than 90% of the meetings - both monthly regular and executive committee meetings. They also need to be available outside of meetings for work other than meetings. Overall contribution should be to the benefit of the community, not just special interests. These things should be considered when electing officers, he noted.

President Ronnie Weinzapfel and John Aytes were unanimously re-elected to their positions by acclamation.

There were two nominees for vice president. Kenny Klethe next Court meeting for approval after review by the County Attorney.

Pulled from the consent agenda was consideration of a contract with Nodal Seismic LLC for a seismic field operation on CR 343, CR 378, CR 398, and Double O Ranch Road. County Judge John Roane asked for an explanation as to what it involved.

Precinct #3 Commissioner Al Smith explained that ConocoPhillips wants to do seismic operations on private property that borders those county roads. He noted, "They want to put some seismic sensors in the right-of-way of CR 348, 387, and 398. It is wireless and there are canisters that will set in the barditches and they will mark them with paint and ribbons. The actual operation is on private property and has been approved or contracted with by the land-owners."

"One of the thoughts given to me by the man who came and talked to me about it was that they are looking at some of the wells that were originally vertically drilled and ConocoPhillips is looking at potential operations of maybe those wells would be better if they were redone in a horizontal fashion."

"They have these seismic field devices that they're putting out they told me were basically for ambient noise. They are looking at noise that is being created in the operation of pumping stations or traffic, or those kinds of things."

The Court approved the request.

Charlie Milam, who has been employed with Precinct #3 for 12 years as a road and maintenance technician and heavy equipment operator, is retiring as of May 30. He will be honored at a lunch on May 29.

Commissioners Court also proclaimed May 29 as Charlie Milam Day in Cooke County. The proclamation stated that Milam, "has always been an asset to Cooke County Road and Bridge Precinct #3 and the citizens of Cooke County." Prior to coming to work for the County, Milam was water supervisor for the City of Gainesville for more than 30 years.

In other business, Commissioners Court approved the monthly County Treasurer's report for April showing cash on hand, money market accounts, and short-term monthly investments totaling $30,145,758.15.

Consent agenda items approved included:

- HIPAA Business Associate Agreement between Cooke County EMS and Muenster Hospital District.
- Annexation of 1.95 acre tract of land by the City of Gainesville.
- Indigent cremation of Jimmy Dale Pierce and of Robert Lynn Dumas.

- Resolution authorizing the sale of properties that were struck off at the May 6 Sheriff's sale.

- Contract with Woodbine Water Supply for the installation of a water lines on CR 147 and on CR 232 and for the installation of water line on CR 217.

- Contract with EOG Resources, Inc. to lay temporary water transfer lines on CR 328.

- Accepting auction proceeds from the sale of Constable, Pct. 4's Dodge Durango in the amount of $1,377.50.

- Accepting auction proceeds from the sale of Sheriff's drug forfeiture equipment in the amount of $15,782.34.

- Agreement between Cooke County Justice Center and Suddenlink Business for cable TV services in the jail commissary area beginning June 1, 2014 through May 31, 2015, with two optional one year renewals ment was nominated by TJ Walterscheid and seconded by Richardson. Bob Ambrose was nominated by Mary Del Olmo with a second by Reed. Voting for Klement were Walterscheid, Richardson, Aytes, Klement, and Becker. Del Olmo, Reed and Ambrose voted for Ambrose. Weinzapfel abstained from voting. Klement was elected vice president, replacing Richardson.

In order to be able to better plan the District's budget, the open enrollment period for employee health insurance was moved from August to July. The Board considered quotes from three different insurance carriers. The current carrier is Blue Cross Blue Shield (BCBS). The requirement by the Affordable Care Act to offer different tiers to employees was delayed by a year. The Board of Directors felt it best to begin the process now and so asked the insurance companies for quotes with three tiers.

ing solutions to the issues we face. And I look forward to doing just that in the months and years to come."

Berry commented on the election outcome, "The election was similar to the last presidential race, of course at a much smaller county level. A businessman against a lifetime politician. The businessman knows how to run a business but the politician knows how to get votes."

"I think its true that you work in office the way you campaign. I was aggressive and promoted a change to the county being more driven to business. Jason had a more laid back style and promoted his knowledge of how the county has been run and I think that will be how he works in office. Neither styles are bad. I think Jason will have no problem serving at the same level as John Roane has."

Cooke County Republicans also favored Lieutenant Governor candidate Dan Patrick with 2,294 (62.46%) to Incumbent David Dewhurst's 1,379 (37.54%). Patrick also won statewide.

In the Republican Primary Attorney General race, County voters favored Ken Paxton with 2,384 (67.06%) votes to Dan Branch's 1,171 (32.94%) votes. He also won the nomination statewide.

Sid Miller won the Republican nomination in Texas for Commissioner of Agriculture. Cooke County voted Miller 1,579 (48.11%) and Tommy Merritt 1,703 (51.89%).

For Railroad Commissioner, Ryan Sitton won the Republican nomination. Cooke County cast 1,813 (54.92%) votes for Sitton and 1,488 (45.08%) for Wayne Christian.

On the Democratic ballot, David Alameel won the statewide nomination for United States Senator. Cooke County voted Alameel 43 (66.15%) to Kesha Rogers' 22 (33.85%).

Commissioner of Agriculture candidates saw Jim Hogan win the nomination. In Cooke County he got 33 (52.38%) to Richard "Kinky" Friedman's 30 (47.62%) votes.

BCBS's offer was 7.5% higher than last year's rate. It would go from $602.24 to $646.20. Kent said that the administration recommended that they go with BCBS's second tier and that the Hospital pay the cost of $607.19 per month. That is a rate increase of 0.8%. It would match the current plan, said Kent. Employees who wanted to keep the same coverage that they currently have would pay an additional $20 per paycheck.

The Aetna plan is less expensive, but there are differences to the deductibles and co-pays and a higher cost to employees for family insurance.

UHC would be 26.2% to 23.2% higher than the Hospital's current plan.

Weinzapfel remarked of the BCBS plan, "It is going to cost the Hospital a little bit more but we thought it would be a better deal for the employees. Lots and lots of companies don't offer health insurance that has these good a benefits. We thought our employees deserve it."

The Board voted to accept the insurance brokers recommendation of staying with BCBS going with the alternate middle tier of the three tiers that will be offered.

In other business, the Board:

- Approved re-appointment to the medical staff of pathologist Joseph Barns, M.D.

Emma Fetsch 1916 - 2014

Emma Fetsch, 97, went to meet Our Lord in Heaven on May 6, 2014 at Just Like Home in Seymour. The funeral was held Saturday, May 10 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Rhineland, TX. Fr. John Perikomalayil officiated. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

She was born Nov. 21, 1916 in Muenster, the daughter of Alois and Anna Elizabeth Koelzer Hoenig. She married Leo Fetsch on April 10, 1939 and they resided on their farm located between Rhineland and Munday for the entire 65 years they were married.

For 35 years, Emma managed their insurance company which was located in their home while Leo continued the farming operations. Leo died Feb. 3, 2004. Emma lived independently on the farm until 2009.

Emma loved her church family. She was an accomplished musician and served 52 years as an organist for St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Rhineland and Santa Rosa Catholic Church in Knox City. She taught music to many young people in the area.

Emma was a "people person" and a caring friend to many. She found joy in helping others. She was a loving wife, mom, grandma, "west nana," and great-grandma. In her retirement, Emma enjoyed quilting, walks on her country lane, and Pilates. She volunteered weekly at the Knox County Hospital Auxiliary Pink Ladies.

She was preceded in death by husband Leo, parents, brothers Joe, Tony, Alphonse Hoenig and Fr. Alfred OSB, sisters Marie Vogel, Anna Hoenig, and Tillie Otto.

Survivors include son James and wife Kathy of Shreveport, LA; daughters Lori Ware of San Diego, CA and LaVerne Funderburk and husband Bill of Hamilton, TX; sister Clara Stanley of Seminole, TX; grandchildren Kendall and wife Theresia Ware of Sum-

Donna Schneider 1962 - 2014

Services for Donna Lynn Schneider, age 52 of Lake Kiowa, are set for 10 a.m. on Friday, May 30 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Muenster. Following the service, a celebration of life will be held at the pavilion at Lake Kiowa.

Donna died at her home surrounded by loved ones on Monday, May 19, 2014.

Born on March 4, 1962 to Jim and Elsie Edgett in Denton, Donna was a cosmetologist for more than 30 years. She was owner/operator of Creative Hair Designs in Gainesville until 2012. She taught cosmetology at NCTC for two years. Donna was the first mayor of Oak Ridge. She loved playing golf, fishing, horse races, yard work, her family, and every family event.

Survivors include her husband John Schneider of Lake Kiowa; brother Mark Edgett and wife Robin of Gainesville; son and daughter-in-law Casey and Carla Edgett of Gun Barrell City; stepdaughters Jonna Belanger of Shady Shores and Jenny Giberson of Boulder, CO; niece Starla Edgett Kirk of Gainesville; granddaughter Addie Lynn Edgett of Gun Barrell City; grandsons Patrick Belanger of Shady Shores, and Henry and Calvin Giberson of Boulder.

She was preceded in death by her mother and her brother Dale Edgett.

Memorial contributions can be made to Home Hospice of Cooke County.

Billy Bierschenk 1934 - 2014

Funeral Mass for Billy J. Bierschenk, age 80 of Valley View, was held Wednesday, May 28 at 10 a.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Lindsay with Fr. Victor Cruz officiating. Burial followed in the Valley View Cemetery. Rosary and visitation were held Tuesday, May 27, at 7 p.m. at Geo. J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home.

Billy died May 23, 2014 at his home.

Born March 23, 1934 in Cooke County to Bill and Mary Neu Bierschenk, Billy enlisted in the U.S. Army on Nov. 8, 1956 and was honorably discharged in 1958, serving 17 months in Germany. He married Dolores Grewing on April 23, 1960. Billy loved his children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. He loved farming and operating a dairy, enjoyed vacationing with his family, and visiting with friends and family.

Survivors include his loving wife of 54 years Dolores; son Wayne Bierschenk and wife Lisa; daughters Pam Collett, Brenda Dennis, and Diana Barnes and husband Jim; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; brothers and sisters Imelda Rauschuber, Jodie Rauschuber, Bobby Bierschenk, Betty Henscheid, Mary Nell Klement, Kenneth Bierschenk, and Dennis Bierschenk; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Billy was preceded in death by his parents and brother Edgar Bierschenk.

Grandchildren served as pallbearers.

We must pray without ceasing, in every occurrence and employment of our lives - that prayer which is rather a habit of lifting up the heart to God as in a constant communication with Him.

Deceased Veterans remembered at Memorial Day services

Muenster Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6205 and its Ladies Auxiliary commemorated Memorial Day on Sunday, May 25. Deceased Veterans were remembered during Mass celebrated by Fr. Ken Robinson at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

After Mass, the Post's Rifle Squad of Doug Martin, James Hess, Don Vogel, and Leonard Vogel led the congregation to Sacred Heart Cemetery where Auxiliary Chaplain Mary Lee Hennigan placed a floral bouquet in tribute to all the deceased of the parish. Fr. Ken said a prayer of remembrance.

The group then processed to the Veterans' Plot where Doug Yosten, Diane Grewing, Linda Flusche, Christi Klement, and Gina Yosten Kolar led the assembly in singing "America the Beautiful."

Auxiliary President Frances Bayer and Auxiliary Junior Vice President Sandra Hennigan placed a memorial and buddy poppy wreath respectively, in honor of all deceased men and women who served their country in time of need.

First Communicants then placed red carnations on each grave in thanksgiving for their sacrifices. U.S. flags and flowers had been placed on Veterans' graves throughout the cemetery earlier by Auxiliary members Sandra Hennigan, Linda Knabe, Rosemary Dankesreiter, and District Conductress Frances Bayer, Girl Scouts Angela and Anna Kay Hennigan and Penny and Mary Fisher, and helpers Annie, Maggie, and Garrett Hess.

First Communicants were Braeden Hacker, Andrew Bayer, Alexis Hofbauer, Jackson Sicking, Maggie Hess, Zachary Hennigan, Gage Eberhart, Emily Muller, Clint Bezner, Lenzie Sandmann, and Isabella Walterscheid.

Gina Yosten Kolar then sang "In Flanders Fields" and Fr. Ken said a prayer for all the deceased men and women who have served their nation.

Post Commander David Fisher gave Memorial Day remarks. The musicians sang "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory," before the Post Rifle Squad gave the time-honored 21 gun rifle salute. This was followed by the playing of "TAPS" by Ronnie and Tina Weinzapfel on bugles.

Members of the Post Rifle Squad included Don Eckart, Tom Hartman, Jake Luke, Don Fisher, Gilbert Hess, Bernard Hesse, and Jon Schilling, with Arthur Bayer as sergeant at arms.

The Post closed the day's activities with a steak dinner in the Post home. It was prepared by Tim Hess, Jeremy Hess, Jesse Hess, Hank Bayer, and Tom Hartman.

Hinze and Felderhoff exchange vows at St. Mary's in College Station

Rhonda Beth Hinze of Temple and Terry Joseph Felderhoff of Gainesville, FL were married at St. Mary's Catholic Church in College Station on Saturday, May 24, 2014 at 2 p.m. Fr. Jonathon Raia was celebrant and Fr. Kurtis Wiedenfeld was concelebrant. St. Mary's Church was chosen for their marriage because that is where the couple met.

Parents of the bride are Ronnie and Karen Hinze of Temple. Her grandparents are Louis and Blanche Knappek of Taylor, TX and the late Ignac and Florence Steffek.

Christopher and Sandra Felderhoff of College Station are the parents of the groom. His grandparents are Thomas and Barbara Felderhoff of Muenster and the late Wilfred and Polly Reiter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride carried a bouquet of fresh, cream white roses with fresh English ivy. The roses will be made into a family rosary at a later date.

ATTENDANTS

Mary Hinze of Temple served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ann Scott of Houston, sister of the bride, Evelyn Ann Steffek of Waco, cousin of the bride, and Melissa Kroeker of Moody, TX and Leigh-Ann Alvarez of Plano, both friends of the bride. Their floor-length, hunter green, chiffon gowns designed by Allure featured ruffled sweetheart necklines. They carried cream white silk roses with silk English ivy.

Flower girl was Emily Scott of Houston. Corbin Broglie of Katy was ring bearer.

Friend of the groom Hector Weir of College Station was best man. Groomsmen were friends of the groom Isaac Wong of Bryan and Ken Nagai of Japan, brother-in-law of the groom Collin Broglie of Katy, and brother of the bride Samuel Hinze of DeSoto.

Ushers were Andrew Huf of Stephenville and John Unnasch of Thorndale, both cousins of the bride, and Brian Oten of North Carolina and Dexter Jordan of Bryan, both brothers-in-law of the groom.

Altar servers were Mary Unnasch and Olivia Unnasch of Thorndale, TX and Brian Polasek of Taylor, TX, all cousins of the bride. Lectors were Susan Bezner and Susan Swanee. Eucharistic ministers were Andy Bezner and Asta Bilderback.

Providing music were Karine Weir-Gil, pianist, David Casper, guitarist and vocalist, and Heather Gardner, vocalist.

Families celebrate

On Saturday, May 10, 31 children of Sacred Heart Parish made their First Holy Communion in Sacred Heart Church. Many families held celebrations to mark the occasion. Their stories follow.

Reece Acayan

Reece Nathaniel Acayan celebrated his First Communion at Sacred Heart Church in Muenster followed by dinner at Medieval Times in Dallas. Helping celebrate were his parents Richard and Aileen Acayan, older sister, and grandmother. Gifts received were a Holy Bible by Precious Moments, a musical First Communion boy statue, a necklace and pendant (Mother of Perpetual Help and Baby Jesus) from his parents and sister Cassy, and a First Communion set from the local Catholic Life Insurance Group.

RECEPTION

A reception hosted by the parents of the couple was held for 450 invited guests at St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic Church's Parish Activity Center in College Station. Guests were served a catered meal and danced to the music of a live band.

Decor at the reception featured cream colored tablecloths, black wrought iron centerpieces with English ivy, and cream colored candles.

The couple is taking a wedding trip to Ireland.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at the Brahaus Bavarian Restaurant in Bryan.

The house party included Kim, Karlie, and McKenna Knappek, Betty Nemec, Phyllis and Laura Wick, Erica Perez, Paula and Alecia Hinze, Kendra Powell, and Julianna and Emma L'Ann Steffek.

The bride is a graduate of Texas A&M Central Texas in Killeen. She has a Bachelor's degree in Mathematics and a certification to teach high school. She is employed by Holy Trinity Catholic High School as AP Calculus and AP Physics teacher.

The groom has a Master's degree in Plant Breeding from Texas A&M in College Station, and is currently pursuing a Ph.D. in Genetics at the University of Florida in Gainesville, FL. He is employed by the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Heers graduates from Texas Tech University

Lia Marie Heers, a 2010 Muenster High School graduate, earned dual degrees from Texas Tech University at the United Spirit Arena in Lubbock. She was awarded a Master's of Science in Accounting from Texas Tech's Graduate School on the evening of Friday, May 16. Saturday morning, she graduated Summa Cum Laude with Honors from the Jerry S. Rawls College of Business Administration with a Bachelor's of Business Administration in Accounting.

Lia received the school's award as the Highest Ranking Graduate from the Rawls College of Business, maintaining a 4.0 GPA for both degrees and will be working in Dallas for KPMG, a global professional services corporation.

Lia is the daughter of Ted and Lou Heers.

Phillips house to receive historical marker

The Texas Historical Commission (THC) recently designated the Phillips house in Saint Jo as a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark.

Members of the Phillips family Leeton and Kim Phillips and son William are hosting a dedication ceremony on the grounds of their home to celebrate the dedication of the State Historical Marker awarded in 2013 to the 100 year old structure.

The dedication is scheduled to take place at 10 a.m.,

Saturday, June 7 under the direction of the Montague County Historical Commission (MCHC).

Featured speakers will include MCHC Chairwoman Janis Sneed as master of ceremonies, Donna Howell-Sickles representing the Saint Jo Historical Preservation Society (SJHPS), and members of the family sharing history and remarks.

The imposing white structure, known as the "Big House" to five generations of the Phillips family, was finished in 1913, and faces the Square in Saint Jo. The drive going into the ranch and house runs directly into Main Street and has frequently been used over the years by various organizations to assemble parades for community celebrations. Hwy. 82 runs through the Phillips Ranch and gives passers-by a good view of the meticulously restored, gleaming white, historic home located to the north of the highway, just on the east side of Saint Jo.

Interested persons are invited to the dedication which is to be followed by an open house.

Huston gets scholarship

Matthew Huston, a 2014 graduate of Lindsay High School and member of the Lindsay FFA chapter, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship by Glenn Polk Ford. Matthew's parents are Tom and Kelly Huston of Lindsay. He will attend Texas Tech University this fall where he plans to major in Agriculture Science Education.

The Built Ford Tough - FFA Scholarship Program is designed to recognize FFA members' talents and accomplishments while encouraging their future academic achievements.

Matthew has been an active member of the Lindsay FFA Chapter for the past four years, serving as president for three of those years.

Senior students of Muenster High School Child Guidance recently completed their Spring Semester Community Outreach Projects. One of the groups decided, after using the FCCLA Planning Process, to combine recycling and reaching out to those in need. Using donations of T-shirts from students, they cut, arranged, designed, and sewed two quilts to donate to ABBA (All Babies Born Alive). The students also raised money through bake sales to purchase the quilting supplies needed to finish the quilts. Students pictured with the quilts displayed at ABBA are, from left, Large Quilt: front - David Hutson and Jared Porter; back Quilt: Mariah Rocha, Adrian Rohmer, and Jori Magee.

GRADUATION

The First Reading, Acts 15: 22-31, was given by Leslie Eddleman. The Responsorial was sung by Brenda and Phillip Flusche. The Gospel reading John 15:12-17 was read by Fr. Ken. Bishop Olsen gave the homily. Devan Henry read the General Intercessions. Teachers Pam Dangelmayr and Christy Hesse brought up the Offertory Gifts.

Eucharistic ministers were Beth Bartush, John Bartush, Mary Bayer, Dolores Hofbauer, Barbara LaChance, Kelsey Reeves, Sandra Reeves, Rhonda Walterscheid, and Alan Zimmerer.

Bishop Olsen gave the final blessing and the graduation ceremony began.

Carolyn Zimmerer welcomed guests. Kylie Hess then introduced Salutatorian Bailey Walterscheid.

Bailey remarked, "While reflecting on our class's school life, I would like to remind my class that success isn't always measured by grades or money but how we utilize our God-given talents."

Bailey continued recalling how they enjoyed trading snacks in preschool, starting school in the big red school, and growing in faith while learning reading, writing, and arithmetic, their love of organized games, burying Cooper under gravel when the girls versus boys got out of hand, playing capture the flag, and finally competitive sports in high school.

"Sadly games aren't all that life's about; however, they can teach us many great life lessons," Bailey noted. "Applying the lessons of leadership, team work, endurance, persistence, hard work, and discipline to our future lives will help us greatly. As we end this chapter of high school, we must not live in the past successes, but branch out to achieve our own new accomplishments."

"I am very proud to be a graduate of a Catholic school. Our Lillian to Mr. Starrett have been exceptional and we now have a good faith foundation. Not only have we learned a lot about our faith, but our class has put it into practice. We have prayed at abortion clinics, volunteered at Noah's Ark animal shelter, donated to our sister school, and done many more acts of community service."

Bailey thanked Dr. Rondon, Fr. Ken, and all of their teachers for giving them one of God's greatest gifts, knowledge, and their patience as it was put to the test while teaching the class. She also thanked their parents for all their sacrifices, especially that of sending them to a Catholic school, and for their constant support.

Karleigh Reeves gave the introduction for Valedictorian Morgan Hesse's address.

Morgan began her address by thanking Bishop Olsen for sharing the special occasion with them, to Fr. Ken for continuously pushing them in the right direction, Dr. Rondon for keeping them on track, all of the teachers, both past and present, for entrusting them with a wealth of knowledge, to their families for supporting them, loving them, and putting up with them, even when they were difficult, and their friends for always being there when needed the most.

Something her Religion teacher Mr. Starrett says kept coming back to Morgan. She said, "It was, Quo Vadis, which means 'where are you going?' The phrase comes from an encounter between St. Peter and the risen Jesus. Peter was trying to run away from his responsibilities when he came across Jesus and he came, 'Quo vadis?' At which point, Jesus managed to turn the question on Peter, giving him the courage to face his responsibilities once again. I find this to be very applicable to our lives today. Although our responsibilities will most likely not lead us to crucifixion, as Peter's did, we cannot flee from the cross Jesus wants us to carry. We must face our responsibilities, knowing that Jesus will be there with us every step of the way."

Morgan noted that their class has been set apart from the beginning. She stated, "We are the turn of the century, new millennium generation. I remember having a party in preschool celebrating the start of the new millennium. The image of silver and purple hats with '2000' written on them comes to mind. Since that time, the beginning of our school years, we have been expected to achieve great things."

"Graduation is not the end, it is only the beginning," said Morgan. "It is now time for all of us to go our own ways and discover who we really are and what we are really to do - to seek out our vocation. Coming from Sacred Heart, we can go forth into the world with confidence because we have been filled with an abundance of knowledge about God, faith, character, determination, and respect. If we remember to always keep God at the center of our lives, we will truly be able to discover our purpose in life and find success and happiness."

Morgan concluded, "For all of our lives, we have had people laying out our options, choosing for us, making us do what we needed to do. Now, it is up to us. Our future lies in our hands. Our time at Sacred Heart has given us the tools necessary for success; all that remains is putting those tools to practice. And so I leave you with the same question Saint Peter had for Jesus, Quo Vadis? Where are YOU going?"

Bishop Olsen and Rev. Ken awarded diplomas of graduation. Keeping with tradition, Jim McDermott, counselor, performed moving of the tassels, and John Kintz, class sponsor, the turning of the rings.

Fort Worth Diocese Superintendent of Schools Don Miller spoke, congratulating the graduates. Sacred Heart Principal Dr. Rafael Rondon addressed the Class of 2014.

John Bartush performed the induction of the new graduates into the Sacred Heart Alumnae Association.

Coach Jon LeBrasseur formerly presented the graduates.

Greeting guests were siblings of the graduates Mikinzie Hess, Kathryn Davidson, James Sprouse, Alane Bartush, Tanner Eddleman, Hudson Eddleman, Winston Sprouse, and Wade Sprouse.

Memorial Day Weekend very busy for Texas game wardens

Texas game wardens investigated seven drowning deaths and another four boating-related fatalities over what proved to be one of the state's deadliest Memorial Day weekends.

In addition to handling those tragedies, game wardens issued hundreds of water safety citations and made numerous arrests, including 31 persons for boating while intoxicated, seven for driving while intoxicated, 14 for public intoxication, and 36 on various drug-related offenses.

"Texas game wardens will remember this Memorial day weekend for years to come," said Lt. Col. Danny Shaw, deputy director of law enforcement for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "Tragically, this was one of the deadliest three-day holidays in recent memory."

Wardens responded to 21 boating accidents that in addition to four deaths led to two serious injuries.

"Our thoughts and prayers go out to the families of all this weekend's victims," Shaw continued. "Game wardens will continue to be vigilant in our efforts to protect Texans on our public water. I would implore all Texans when boating to wear their lifejackets, be aware of their surroundings, and return home safely with their families."

Leading up to the weekend, he said, game wardens developed partnerships with many local law enforcement agencies in an attempt to increase water safety awareness as well as facilitating enhanced BWI enforcement.

"We also promoted water safety throughout the weekend on our social media outlets including the official Texas Game Warden Facebook and Twitter pages," said Grahame Jones, TPWD chief of special operations. "We reported major events that were subsequently shared by media throughout the state. In the days leading up to Memorial Day and through Monday night, it appears that we directly reached 118,648 Facebook users and 370,490 Twitter viewers, for a total direct reach of more than 489,000 people."

Jones said he was particularly pleased that the news media took an interest in and shared the department's water-related posts.

"Clearly, the partnership between law enforcement and media helped increase water safety awareness," he said.

For the first time during a major holiday weekend, several of the agency's newly created statewide law enforcement teams were deployed to assist local game wardens.

Dive Team: Response and recovery of drowning victim, on Lake Lewisville. Dive team conducted an investigation, applied sonar technology to locate the victim and divers made the recovery.

STORM (Statewide Forensics Reconstruction and Mapping Team): Responded to and assisted with investigations involving four boating accidents involving death and serious injury.

CID (Criminal Investigations Division): Responded to and assisting with investigation related to a boating accident.

CIT (Critical Incident Team): Conducted peer support for game wardens involved in a Jasper County boat accident in which a game warden sustained injuries.

Game wardens also responded to seven search and rescue situations and assisted local agencies during severe flash flooding in Val Verde, Lubbock, Archer, Medina, Uvalde, and Medina counties.

"The work conducted by our game wardens over the weekend is a testament to their professionalism," said Col. Craig Hunter, TPWD director of law enforcement.

Hunter noted that game wardens focused on ensuring public safety throughout the state's waterways.

"Everyone must play a part in increasing water safety in Texas," he said. "I urge every Texan to wear a life jacket while on our lakes, rivers, and bays, and to not consume alcohol while boating in Texas. Your life could well depend on it."

Just a thought

Success is not avoiding mistakes but surviving them.

Ryan Miller is part of the Texas A&M SEC Championship team and contributed points with 6th place in the 10K. Miller ran a 30:07, just 5 seconds off his personal best. Texas A&M delivered an impressive display of winning SEC titles on the final day of the conference championships at the University of Kentucky Track and Field complex, and the Aggie men claimed the team title in the SEC Outdoor Track Championship Meet. The Aggie men amassed 155 points to win the team title over 116.5 for three-time defending champion Arkansas. Miller will return next year to complete his final year of eligibility at Texas A&M and compete in Cross Country, indoor track, and outdoor track. Miller also ran the 5K race. He is pictured above leading the 5k. He is the son of Bert and Debi Miller of Boerne, Texas.

Did you know?

A review of the medical journal Pediatrics found that children benefited from weight training. Researchers from the Institute of Training Science and Sports Informatics analyzed studies that focused on children and weight lifting. The review looked at studies going as far back as 60 years, finding that children and adolescents who lifted weights grew stronger. Those who participated in strength training twice per week gained more strength than those who participated just once per week. These findings contradict a long standing belief that children do not actually get stronger. But while children and adolescents may be getting stronger, researchers found that they do not add as much bulk or obvious muscle mass as adults.

FARM & RANCH

Time to straighten out this BLM mess

By Gene Hall
Texas Farm Bureau

I own your house. In fact, I have always owned it. It does not matter that you have a deed or stacks of property tax receipts. It is not relevant whether or not you paid for this house.

I also own most of the houses on your street. Your neighbors, too, might have paid mortgages and taxes, but that does not matter. Rest assured, though, I am not “expanding my holdings” on your street, but only because I have always owned it. My name is Federal Bureau of Land Management.

This is not an eminent domain case. Since I own it already, I do not owe any compensation. I am conducting hearings to allow others to decide how I will use your house. You may comment. It's possible you can lease it from me. It might work out for you to buy it back from me. This should satisfy any concerns you have about your house. Remember, it's not yours. It's mine.

Outrageous? Of course it is, but it's happening now to Texas farmers along the Texas-Oklahoma border. Clay County, Texas farmer Tommy Henderson lost a court case in 1984, and about 130 acres of land he had bought and farmed wound up in federal hands. That case is now part of a federal claim to about 90,000 additional acres along 116 miles of the Red River. The trouble is that land, too, is being farmed or ranched. There are more deeds—more property tax receipts.

At first, BLM released vague statements that the agency was not planning to “extend federal holdings” there. Later, they claimed that it was settled that they do in fact own the land, citing a court case from the 1920s. Why were those who farmed the land allowed to continue making payments, paying taxes, farming, and living there?

There is that 1994 document in which BLM said a legislative solution would be needed to determine what land was in the public domain. Maybe they were waiting for that. Or maybe they didn't want the visuals of forcing family farmers from their land.

This is a mess. The public is watching. Let's straighten it out.

Tall corn tragedy

A couple of Nebraska farmers were sued because their corn was too tall. It began in October of 2007 when two pickups collided at an intersection obstructed by 7-foot-tall corn planted near the road. The crash killed one passenger and left another a quadriplegic who died from his injuries three years later. The second victim's wife sued the truck drivers and the farmers who planted the corn. The suit traveled all the way to the Nebraska Supreme Court which confirmed the two farmers were not negligent for the height of their corn that created the blind intersection

Hen Retirement Home

Do you lie awake wondering what to do with your hens when they quit laying eggs? You can sleep soundly tonight because we just found out about the British Hen Welfare Trust. That's where old hens go to scratch out their days under the protection of Jane Howorth, who founded the Trust nine years ago, and which has adopted out more than 400,000 hens. And don't get any ideas about adopting a few of these hens to become the main course at your summer barbecue. The hens aren't just handed out to adoptive parents like prizes at a county fair; there's a screening process. However, Howorth admits the growing number of birds up for adoption means she's had to drop the home visits with applicants. Whew!

Aussies Send Feeder Cattle to Russia

Two Australian ships loaded with 32,000 Angus steers are on a 23-day voyage to the Black Sea. It's a $40 million cargo, and the export manager for Livestock Shipping Services says the company is in negotiations for future contracts. The current shipment is the first of feeder cattle to Europe under the Exporter Supply Chain Assurance System (ESCAS), which makes the exporter responsible for animal welfare up to and including the point of slaughter. The Australians say 50,000 to 100,000 Aussie cattle could be shipped to Russia this year.

Ditch the Rule

By Gene Hall, Texas Farm Bureau

It's not that I don't trust the EPA ... well actually, I don't. Since the inception of the Clean Water Act, the law has said that it applies to “navigable waters of the United States.” EPA wants that to extend to every mud hole and drainage ditch in all the land. EPA failed in Congress and the courts. Up next? Bureaucracy!

The exemptions EPA says farmers have actually only apply to dredge and fill activity. There's not much of that in agriculture. If you extend the law to cover land that isn't even wet most of the time, you have the power to veto even routine farming decisions.

EPA, in effect, says, “We are the government ... trust us.” West Virginia poultry farmer Lois Alt knows about that. She faced millions in fines because residue, including manure, blew as dust by fans on her farm. Some of it came in contact with rainwater. Alt won in court, but nothing here inspires trust.

Create a giant federal agency. Fund it lavishly. What it will do then is regulate ... aggressively.

Grasshopper numbers are hopping up across the Southwest

There could be cause for concern from residents, businesses, farmers, and ranchers about the growing number of grasshoppers being seen across the Southwest.

According to Southwest Farm Press, grasshoppers are thriving in some areas, covering sidewalks, roads, driveways, and porches. Large grasshopper numbers are the result of favorable conditions.

Although grasshoppers are an unpleasant occurrence in the cities, farmers and ranchers have far more concern for their crops and the damage grasshoppers can cause.

Hesse and Walterscheid lead Sacred Heart Class of 2014

Morgan Marie Hesse is the Valedictorian of the Sacred Heart Class of 2014. She is the daughter of Mark and Melanie Hesse. Morgan will be attending the University of Dallas in the fall, majoring in Biochemistry. Following undergraduate school, she plans to further her education by attending medical school and becoming a doctor.

Morgan has attended Sacred Heart Catholic School since preschool and has been a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church all of her life. Involvement in extracurricular activities and community service projects has been very important to Morgan throughout her high school career.

She has been president of her freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. She was the treasurer of

Morgan Hesse

Bailey Walterscheid

Bailey Renee Walterscheid, daughter of Wade and Rhonda Walterscheid, is the Sacred Heart Catholic School Class of 2014 Salutatorian. In the Fall she will attend Hardin-Simmons University on the Presidential Scholarship to major in Biology.

During her high school career, Bailey has served as class vice president, as president of the Colonel Robert Dickins Chapter of the Children of the American Revolution, as secretary/president of the Letterman's Club, as varsity cheer captain, as varsity basketball co-captain, and as National Honor Society president. She has been on the Principal's Honor Roll all four years, was elected Homecoming Princess her sophomore year and Homecoming Queen her senior year. She was also the recipient of the Girl Scout

Huchton and Bayer named top students at Muenster

Sydney Leigh Huchton, daughter of Neil and Peachie Huchton, is the Muenster ISD Class of 2014 Valedictorian. She plans to attend Texas A&M University in the fall to major in Allied Health before going to nursing school.

Throughout her high school career, Sydney has been a very active member in National Honor Society, Student Council, Family, Career and Community Leaders of America, UIL academic competitions, TM-SCA competitions, yearbook, and athletic competitions. She has demonstrated her leadership skills by holding many leadership positions within her school and community. Sydney is currently serving as National Honor Society president, Student Council secretary, FCCLA vice president of Records, and class president. Prior to these positions, Sydney was

Sydney Huchton

Hannah Bayer

Earning the honors as Salutatorian of the Class of 2014 is Hannah Rose Bayer, daughter of Ryan Bayer and Tara Arendt. Hannah will be attending Texas A&M University in the fall, majoring in Physical Therapy.

Hannah has been an active student at Muenster High School for the past four years. She has been involved in academics, student organizations, and athletics throughout her high school career. Her memberships include the National Honor Society for the past three years of high school, serving as vice president this year, a member of the Student Council all four years of high school, currently serving as treasurer, a member of FFA all four years, currently serving as president and also a member of F.C.C.L.A.

She has been a participant in UIL Academics as part of Stoffels and Garner earn Lindsay's highest honors

Valedictorian at Lindsay High School is Sabrina Stoffels. She is the daughter of Stan and Stephanie Stoffels. Speech and drama were the classes and activities Sabrina excelled in. She was in UIL C/X Debate all four years, making it to octafinals as a junior and the quarterfinals as a senior. In the contests to qualify for state she almost made it with a ranking of third as a sophomore and fourth as a freshman. Only the top two advance to state.

Also in UIL, she used her speaking skills to compete in poetry three years, making it to regional competition as a senior; and prose as a junior, again making it to regional. Sabrina participated in the National Forensic League as a sophomore and junior, achieving the ranking of special distinction with 630+

Sabrina Stoffels

Shea Garner

Shea Garner is the salutatorian for Lindsay High School. Her parents are Kerry and Connie Garner.

Shea is a photographer, artist, and likes to write a lot. She has already earned money from her photos. She also works at Bosco's Gym and at The Gap. How she manages those jobs with her school activities is a good question.

In sports, she went out for track all four years. Being her favorite sport, Shea participated in hurdles and discus, making it to the regional meet as a sophomore and senior. She also played volleyball as a freshman, basketball and softball as a freshman and sophomore, and power lifting as a senior.

Class awards earned were Spanish I, Biology, and Principals of Human Services.

Student volunteerism can have a positive impact ... and help pay for college

Volunteerism can help young people grow into well-rounded, responsible individuals. When volunteering, kids can learn new skills, foster new friendships and contacts, and improve both their social and interpersonal skills. In addition, a 2011 study from researchers at the Stony Brook University School of Medicine found that people are generally happier and healthier when giving back to their communities. The study even recommended that health care professionals recommend volunteering to patients 12 and older, with the belief that helping others provides significant health benefits, including allowing volunteers to escape their stress and anxiety. And, there could even be a few added bonuses for volunteering!

Finding the right activity is often the most important step when fostering a love of volunteering in youngsters, and there are a number of great opportunities and causes that children can relate to.

* Embrace eco-volunteering. Today's kids are increasingly eco-conscious, and concepts like recycling, reusing and conserving fuel and energy are second nature to many young people. That makes eco-volunteering a natural fit for today's eco-conscious students. Children can volunteer with organizations that remove trash from beaches and parks; plant trees to establish community green spaces; work to promote wildlife conservation; or further recycling efforts in their communities.

* Help the needy. Volunteerism can open youngsters' eyes to the plight of the less fortunate. Various organizations dedicated to helping the needy depend on volunteers of all ages to meet their missions. From soup kitchens to shelters to private clothing or food collection drives, opportunities abound for kids who want to help the less fortunate.

* Help the sick. Many organizations that cater to the sick also provide volunteering opportunities to youngsters. Many kids who volunteer with such organizations are motivated to do so by a close friend or family member's battle with a particular illness, but some kids even turn their own personal adversity into an opportunity to help the sick.

* Visit the elderly. Kids can learn a lot from their elders, and many organizations that work with the elderly offer volunteering programs for boys and girls. Individuals in group homes or hospitals often appreciate visits from youngsters, and kids can learn valuable life lessons in return.

* Tutor fellow students. A child who is proficient in a given subject can lend a helping hand to fellow students who need some assistance. Working together to improve grades and school performance can improve others' sense of self-worth and instill a greater sense of accomplishment in tutors.

Volunteering can foster a sense of social responsibility in youngsters, and may even help them finance their college educations.

Best of luck to all area seniors

BRAVO CLASS OF 14

Make the most of your entry-level job

Many top level business executives, including some CEOs, began their careers in entry-level positions. Such positions may not fulfill a post-grad's dream, but they are often great opportunities for freshly minted graduates to learn about a given industry.

Like many opportunities, entry-level jobs are often only as valuable as employees want them to be. Those who approach entry-level opportunities with a good attitude and a strong desire to learn are the ones who are most likely to someday consider their experiences as entry-level employees as invaluable. With that in mind, the following are a few ways entry-level workers can make the most of their opportunity.

* Maintain a good attitude. Chances are your first few months as an entry-level employee will be spent performing tedious tasks that may have little to do with your long-term career goals. Approaching such tasks with enthusiasm may be difficult, but do your best to maintain a positive attitude. Your coworkers and bosses will observe how you respond to your workload, and that response can dictate your future with the company. In addition, those who are above you on the company food chain no doubt performed some menial entry-level work when they began their careers, and a poor attitude that suggests you are above such work will only harbor resentment among those who have already paid their dues.

* Be ready to chip in. A willingness to cooperate and work a few extra hours when help is needed is a great way for entry-level employees to get noticed. But while helping coworkers is great, make sure your own responsibilities aren't suffering because you're too quick to lend a helping hand. Once you have cleared your plate, you can then approach your boss and express your willingness to help. Such gestures will be appreciated and will help you get noticed for all the right reasons.

* Learn the lay of the land. Companies vary with regard to culture at the office, so while a casual environment might have prevailed at a past internship that does not necessarily mean your new employer fosters the same environment. When starting an entry-level job, pay attention to how the staff interacts with one another, including how decisions are made. Such information can help you as you look to advance your career and build relationships within the company.

* Develop your skills. No one expects you to be fully satisfied with an entry level position for your entire career, so don't be afraid to seek opportunities to further develop your skills. Such opportunities may present themselves within the company via an interesting project or outside the company via a class at the local college. Take advantage of any chance to develop your skills, and don't feel guilty about pursuing opportunities that have little to do with your current position so long as you're still doing your job to the best of your abilities. A good company will be impressed by your desire to learn and grow your skill set, so don't hesitate to seek such opportunities

Senior to Senior

Dear Graduates,

I graduated from Muenster High School in 1964. There were 18 in my class. Life seemed very simple then. There wasn't the technology that we have today. There were no cell phones, no computers, no instant text messages. The highways were not as complex-mostly two lane with very few freeways. It took longer to get places, and phone calls that were not local were long distance toll calls. So you did not connect with family or friends that lived away as often as you would like. Most of correspondence was by writing cards or letters. How things have changed in the 50 years since I graduated-and how fast that time has gone by.

I pursued a career in Nursing, getting my R.N. in 1968. I worked as a nurse until two years ago when I retired. It was a rewarding and fulfilling career for me even though it changed in many ways over those 40 plus years of nursing. Some changes were good and some not so good. I learned to adapt and to be flexible and versatile during those times of change. During that time I also married and raised my family. I am thankful for all.

I have made some good decisions and some not so good over the years but I hope I have gained a little wisdom, yes a little, in all those years. I don't remember asking myself, when I was young, "is this decision a wise one or not?" I don't think I asked or listened to much advice when I was your age. So, I don't know if you really want any advice but I will give you some anyway.

The first is to be humble and stay grounded in your faith, family, and friends. Remember your roots- to stay grounded you need to be well rooted.

The world seems so crazy these days, much crazier to me now, than when I was your age. Not to say that there wasn't craziness at that time, too, like the Vietnam War, racial discrimination, and the Beatles taking the world by storm. It helps to stay connected to your family and friends so your foundation can be reassured, even if the world seems to be falling down all around you.

Even though we can communicate so quickly with one another due to all this technology, it seems we are so disconnected. Try to have some quiet time each day to just reconnect. Just sit quietly away from the noise of the television, the cell phone, and other distractions. Try to pray, to just observe the beauty of nature, to look and be thankful for the good in your life and for simple things. Give back by volunteering to help others or someone who may be struggling or in need. Smile! Remember life goes by quickly. Try to live in each moment and be grateful for each day. Remember, God loves you and is with you all the days of your life even when you're not aware of His Presence. May His blessings be upon you all!

Editor's Note

The Muenster Enterprise invited graduates from Muenster High and Sacred Heart High Class of 1964 to offer words of advice to the graduates of the Class of 2014. Letters requesting the advice of graduates of 50 years ago were sent to those whose addresses we had easy access to. There were only two responses. We appreciate these two ladies taking time to share some of what they have learned since their graduation.

Seniors,

Where has the time gone? Just yesterday you were starting PreK - some no bigger than your backpack. Now, look at you all grown-up.

Welcome to the real world! It is an amazing journey - and you alone are responsible for the quality of it.

May God bless each of you as you begin on your new journey.

"Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding, in all your ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct your paths."

Proverbs 3:5-6
