RICH SHEIK OR POOR BOY, HIS FLASK WILL BE ARREST SIGNAL

New Police Commissioner Raps Juvenile Drinking Before Officers

GIVES INSTRUCTIONS

Courtesy of Wichita Citizens And the Best of Service Demanded

Below are a few of the cryptic comments made last night by Frank Quiesser, newly elected police and fire commissioner, in an address to the members of the police and fire departments of the city.

"The number of arrests he makes is not the test of an officer's efficiency. I wish we could operate this department without making an arrest a year.

"Whiskey drinking by juveniles in Wichita Falls has got to stop. It makes no difference who he or she is; the son or daughter of the richest man in town or of the poorest—if you find them drinking, 'bring 'em down'.

"I am asking that you men refrain from smoking while on duty. I am demanding that you entirely abstain from liquor in any form while on duty.

"Let's be happy in our work. Nothing promotes efficiency more than contentment.

"There will be no spanking or cross words in this department unless you men deserve it. You are entitled to fairness and consideration — and I shall see you get it. But I tell you frankly, spankings will come if any of you need them.

Enforce Every Law.

"We are going to enforce the laws right down the line. But remember every law has a certain flexibility. Use your judgement and your intitiative in your application of the law.

"Remember that you are at all times the police department's representatives before the public. What you do and the way you act will determine the judgment to be passed on you."

"It makes no difference who he or she is; the son or daughter of the richest man in town or of the poorest—if you find them drinking or catch them with whiskey on their persons—bring 'em down."

This was objurgation given Tuesday night by Police and Fire Commissioner Queisser to the Wichita Falls police department when it met for a general "get acquainted" session. These directions, the most emphatic of any given by the incoming police commissioner, were only a few, however, of a number by which he hopes to see the police department mount to a still higher position of trust and importance in the city.

Mr. Queisser's remarks were stressed heavily when he took up the matter of juvenile delinquency and, more especially, promiscuous use of liquor by minors. He told his officers he intended to stop this condition now existing in Wichita Falls, and charged that they show no fear or favor in their efforts to halt it.

Attacks Whiskey Traffic.

"If at any time while you are on duty or off," he said, "you see drinking or see whiskey in the possession of young or old, I want you to bring them in. It makes no difference who they are. Bring them down and we'll look after the rest of it. This matter of juvenile boozing is going to be stopped."

The new commissioner outlined his policies and wishes to his men in an address following one by J. T. Young, retiring police commissioner, who bade the police and fire departments a farewell and was presented with a handsome Gladstone bag as a token of the esteem in which he was held.

Mr. Young expressed his appreciation of the loyalty and service policemen and firemen had shown in the two years he was their executive. He declared a finer, more gentlemanly group of officers had never come before his inspection and he hoped the men would continue the unselfish service they had given him now that Mr. Queisser had taken charge.

The traveling bag, purchased by the members of the department, was presented Mr. Young by C. B. McConnell, desk sergeant.

"We want you to accept it," Mr. McConnell said, "with no thought for its intrinsic value but with an enduring thought for the sentimental value we wish it to convey. As you travel from here this summer we want it to go with you as an ever present reminder of the high esteem the members of this department feel for you."

In a brief address of acceptance, Mr. Young said words failed to convey the appreciation he felt. He declared he would always cherish it as a valued emblem of the feelings of the Wichita Falls police.

Mr. McConnell, prior to the presentation to Mr. Young, reminded his fellow officers that they must have a goal to work for if they were to accomplish any good. He said unanimity of purpose and a systematic striving for greater efficiency and service was a factor of paramount importance in the work of the department.

Courtesy and Service.

A slogan of "Courtesy and Service to the Public" is to be the banner under which the police are to travel with Mr. Queisser. He said that being courteous didn't mean to arrest a man and then apologize for it. "If he needs arresting, go ahead and arrest him," he said. "Call a spade a spade; when you're right, go ahead; but there ought never be a time when an officer forgets that he is a gentleman."

The new commissioner said nothing would reflect more to the credit of the department than a courteous demeanor and treatment of those with whom the officers came in contact. Considerations of the rights of the other fellow, he said, must always be borne in mind.

He asked that the officers keep a constant eye to their personal appearance, stating that neatness and proper care of uniform and person was an admirable adjunct to any man's equip-

Oklahoma's Alleged Bandit Chief To Learn Today a Woman "Squealed"

WAURIKA, Okla., April 14.—Wednesday morning finds Waurika ready for the trials of Lucy Callis, Walter O'Quinn and Ernest Hensley, allegedly three of a band of six who robbed the bank at Addington last May, playing a safe get-away for the time being with $2,900. The other three implicated are within the toils of the law also. Eddie Shoquet and Page (Happy) Bohannon are serving 25-year sentences, Shoquet at McAlester and Bohannon at Granite. The latter is past 22 years of age, but was allowed to serve his time at Granite because of his youth. Henry Cornet, the sixth man, is in jail at Newkirk, held there pending a trial for various alleged undertakings.

From Oklahoma City.

Lucy Callis and Ernest Hensley were brought to Waurika from Oklahoma City by Parker LaMore, secretary to Governor Trapp, by Chas. McCloud and Luther Bishop, all of whom have been of invaluable assistance to the Jefferson county sheriff, Frank Driskill, and his deputies. They constitute, with others, the state department organized for assistance in the arrest of bank robbers in Oklahoma.

O'Quinn the Leader.

Walter O'Quinn holds the center of the stage of action. Whatever he has been, life has always placed him as leader, never the man who followed. He is the master mind back of a multitude of transactions which have covered a scope of several years operations. They have included officers charge, horse racing, gambling of all kinds, bootlegging. O'Quinn hading as large a whiskey ring as has ever been known in Oklahoma, according to the local sheriff. He is a man of about 45 years of age, . . . suave, with polished manner, . . . smooth, and with an amiable composure about him that is hard to disturb. He's a good conversationlist on all subjects . . . except the Addington bank robbery.

He was whisked away to Ardmore soon after his arraignment on the rumor of a jail break, local officers frustrating an attempt to smuggle a saw and other implements to him. He has not seen any of the newspapers, has had no mail only what has been carefully and thoroughly censored by the Ardmore sheriff, so he has yet to learn that Lucy Callis, his woman companion that has stood by him for the past several years, has "squealed" on him. What will be his attitude when she confronts him Wednesday morning is a matter of conjecture.

O'Quinn Deserts Family.

They grew up together on neighboring farms near Marlow. O'Quinn married, Lucy never did. They

HOGG QUERIED ON WHAT REAL NEWS MAY BE

He Classifies Associated Press Report, Fine, O. K., Rotten

"News items," 'as they are known to the journalistic profession, are somewhat out of proportion in the opinion of Dr. W. B. Hogg, evangelist who is now conducting services at the Floral Heights Methodist church. Dr. Hogg believes the average run of "news" as it is carried by the press associations lean too much to unimportant sensationallism, although he admits there are many stories finding their way over the wires that merit close attention by the public.

Wondering what sort of "report" its Associated Press service really was, the Record News yesterday asked Dr. Hogg to come to the office, go through the day wire bulletins of the A. P. and pass candid judgment on them.

A. P. Conservative.

It might be explained here that the Associated Press, the largest news gathering agency in the world, is also the most conservative and is least given to coloring or "padding" its stories. It does not cater to sensationalism and contents itself simply with a recital of facts. It constantly keeps editorial comment and interpretative matter from its wires, striving only to present what it deems "news" in the most concise and accurate form.

Dr. Hogg started through the day

NEW CENT AND HALF STAMPS PUT ON SALE

Postal Laws Go Into Effect Today With New Stamps

One and one-half cent stamps brown in color, and bearing the profile of the late Warren G. Harding, will go on sale at the stamp window at the Wichita Falls post office, when the new postal rates go into effect this morning, according to announcement of O. P. Maricle, postmaster.

The new stamps are designed for use on third class matter, the rate for which has been increased to 1 1-2 cents for each two ounces over the old rate of 1 cent. Post cards, other than regulation postal cards, will now require c cents postage, while letter postage remains the same.

Third class matter is defined by the postmaster as "mail matter wholly in print, including circulars, merchandise and other mailable matter, except first and second class" and excepting "books, catalogues, seeds, bulbs, etc., which remains the same—1 cent for each two ounces up to eight ounces when regular parcel post rates apply."

Weight Limit Changed.

Formerly the weight limit on third class matter was four pounds. Above that, parcel rates became effective. Now parcel post rates will apply after the eight ounce maximum has been reached.

The outstanding innovation, perhaps, in the new schedule is the provision for expediting handling of packages. If parcels are plainly marked "Special Handling" and bear 25 cents extra postage they will be handled as first class mail matter, it is declared. This means that large packages may be carried on through trains, make quick connections at transfer points and be delivered with the same dispatch as is required of letter mail.

Though regulation United States postal cards will still be carried through mails for 1 cent, "picture"

CONFESSION IS TAKEN IN TWO PIKE MURDERS

28-Year-Old Man Arrested In McKinney for Monday Night Crime

BACK TO FT. WORTH

He Admits Slaying Mr. And Mrs. G. M. Rogers On Dallas Road

FORD WORTH, April 14.—Robert McCartey, 28, was brought here tonight from McKinney, Texas, where he surrendered to officers in connection with the killing of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Rogers on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike near Arlington last light. Murder charges were filed against McCartey tonight.

The man made a detailed statement in which he said one of the bullets intended for Rogers may have struck Mrs. Rogers.

According to officers he claims that he followed the Rogers couple out the Fort Worth pike at the request of Mrs. Rogers who he said, feared her husband would kill her parents. The confessor said he rode up to the Rogers car when Mrs. Rogers held out her hand, a pre-arranged signal for him to approach, and that Rogers cursed and reached for a gun. He himself drew, beating Rogers and shot him he claimed.

Collins county officials claimed that McCartey said he came from Natchez and that he had formerly resided with Mrs. Rogers' parents at Fort Worth.

The prisoner said he informed a motor cycle officer at Arlington that there had been a killing and carried the officer to where the bodies were, and then left for McKinney where he surrendered.

Crook 'Stings' Altus Banks With New One

ALTUS, Okla., April 14.—Ignoring the warning of the sheriff here, all of the three Altus banks were "stung" in one of the most clever forging schemes ever tried in Altus when a crook obtained $310 here Monday.

The sheriff received a warning from the First National bank of Frederick which had lost $300 to a man earlier in the day. The crook used the scheme of placing a note in the hands of the bank for collection, then placing to his credit a check drawn on a person in a nearby town.

The arrangements completed, he drew out all or a large part of the money that he had deposited. He has not yet been located.

HEAVY RAINS FALL OVER EAST WILBARGER COUNTY.

VERNON, April 14.—Heavy rains falling over entire east part of county extending nearly to Vernon, this morning, and good rains last week in all other sections insure a good season. WALTERS, Okla., April 14. — A two-inch rain fell here early today, accompanied by high winds but resulted in little damage except for partially severed telephone communications. Heavy rains fell at Lawton, Apache and Snyder. This section has been badly in need of rain and crops will be greatly benefitted.

STAMFORD, April 14.—Continued but scattered rains have fallen in the territory fifty miles around Stamford. A ten-inch snow in January already gave good soil conditions. No lack of moisture this region.

Jefferson, County, Okla., Soaked by a Two-Inch Downfall

HEAVY IN WICHITA

Excellent Season For Texas Farming Sections is Now Prepared

Wichita county's long looked for sousing came Tuesday morning when the skies opened and bombarded parts of North Texas with more than an inch of rain, mixed with considerable hail and a driving wind.

From reports available yesterday afternoon and night it appeared this particular section of the state was the most amply blessed, for while it rained steadily at other points, none reported a precipitation to equal that which fell within a 30-mile radious of Wichita Falls.

Starts at 7:30

Starting at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, the storm lasted with varying intensity until 11:30 when the leaden blanket of clouds broke and the rain stopped. In the three and one-half hours, eight-tenths of an inch fell here, according to the water guage maintained at the observation station of the Wichita Falls Electric company. Burkburnett was given more than two inches, while slightly less than that fell at Iowa Park and Electra. In intermediate points the amount varied but it was an inch or more in practically every part.

The storm was not a local one by any means, but messages reaching here from stations on the railroads radiating out from Wichita Falls indicated it was not widespread.

To the north, Oklahoma territory south of Frederick was swept heavily and between there and Elk City practically no moisture fell. From Elk City on to the Canadian river, the Wichita Falls and Northwestern reported a steady shower.

Pours in Wilbarger

Southern Wilbarger county caught the brunt of the rain to the northwest. Vernon received a substantial downpour, but beyond that the plains country was visited only intermittently. The rain was general as far south as Seymour on the Wichita Valley, dispatchers reports said. Stamford caught scattered showers that

Police Applicants May Pass Civil Test

The Wichita Falls public safety departments may soon adopt a practice now rapidly coming into vogue throughout the United States. Chief of Police George Hodgins stated Tuesday in intimating that civil service examinations might be instituted here for all applicants for police and fire department posts.

Under this plan, he said, every man who seeks a position as a fireman or policeman would be required to pass the same mental and physical tests required of those who enter the civil service of the United States government. This, it has been found, tends to increase the general efficiency of the men on the department and weeds out those unfitted for such duties.

The idea has met favor with Commissioner Queisser, the latter has indicated, and was also given close consideration by J. T. Young, who has just retired as commissioner.

Further developments on steps to inaugurate the system here are expected in a short time.

PLAN FISH QUARANTINE.

Livestock Commission Wishes to Set Aside Certain Area.

France in Throes Of A Political Crisis

PARIS, April 14.—France is in the throes of one of the worst crises in the history of the third republic. Politically, economically, financially, there is a widely divergent current of opinion between the chamber and senate. It now has become an open conflict, and this underlies all the present difficulties.

The dissolution of parliament, which a few days ago was mentioned only in whispers is the rallying cry of all discontent and is being openly discussed in the lobbies of the chamber and the senate.

Confusion reigns in French political affairs, but the French nation refuses to get ruffled. The economic situation involving the status of the franc in the world's exchange market, remains unchanged.

Who is to become premier to succeed M. Herriott is by no means certain. Paul Painleve, president of the chamber is the latest unwilling candidate for the premiership.

Albert Sarraut has refused the task of cabinet making, and Aristide Briand, who is undesirable to the socialists, has followed suit. M. Demonzie, the present finance minister, and M. Renoult, may be summoned by President Doumergue but whoever assumes charge of French political direction, the French public feels that its institutions will be restored if the Bank of France can present an honest legal bank statement Thursday.

The situation tonight remains exactly like that created by the defeat of the Herriot government.

NEW RAIL GUN A SUCCESS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Following the announcement that heavy railway artillery will receive its first trial against an attacking battle fleet in the war game in Hawaii, it was disclosed today that a new railway gun recently has undergone successful tests at the army proving ground.

The gun is of 12-inch caliber, 20 feet long, with a muzzle velocity of 1,950 feet a second. At an elevation of 45 degrees, it has a range of 21,600 yards, hurling a 700-pound projectile. It can fire from any angle between 20 and 60 degrees and can command all points of the compass.

AUSTIN, April 14.—(AP)—The Texas railroad commission devoted the entire afternoon to the hearing upon a protest of the Ferguson Seed Farms, Inc., against the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway company in regard to placing cars for loading or unloading at the complainant's plant at Plainview, Texas. The decision will be announced later.

A Pardon a Day

AUSTIN, April 14.—(AP)—A woman was included in the group receiving executive clemency today from Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. She granted a full pardon to one, three conditional pardons and a restoration of citizenship.

Consolidated---Staley's Waggoner Pasture Test Looks Like an Oil Well

Oil Showing Up Through 500 Ft. Of Mud in Hole

Short Bailing Line Halts Cleaning Out Yesterday

SAND AT 1,935-42

Regarded at Worst As Small Producer From Level

Consolidated Oil company and J. I. Staley apparently have a well of some sort in their No. 1, Waggoner, in the center of the east line of the west 40 acres of the east 120 acres of the H&GNNRRCO survey, abstract 907, south of Gulf's new well, eastern Wilbarger county. Although bailed to only within five or six hundred feet of the bottom late yesterday oil was showing in small quantities through mud in the bottom of the hole and the test was giving every indication of making a well of some sort. Sand record given as 1935-42 feet, casing set at 1911 feet.

Bailing had to stop when mud had been cleaned out to this depth account of a shorting bailing line, taken from the Ragle pool wells, which well far short of the needs of the deeper hole.

The new strike is of immense importance to Waggoner pasture development if it should turn out anything at all, as seems almost certain.

Oil Exposition Owns Fair Site

TULSA, Okla., April 14.—The International Petroleum exposition, the largest single industrial exposition in the world, with offices at 108 East Third street, now owns a financial interest in the grounds which it used last year. A deal has been closed with the Prairie Oil and Gas company and one is pending with the Frisco railway and the city of Tulsa, whereby the exposition will own its old grounds and additional space immediately around it which will make it possible to offer many advantages and improvements over last year. A motorist can drive directly into the grounds and park his car under the watchful eye of the exposition attendant, and a great deal more space will be available for exposition purposes.

There will also be a great many amusement features which were not possible last year because of lack of space. E. F. McIntire, general manager, states that concessions will be given to circus and other outdoor free entertainment. However, no gambling devices whatever will be permitted, not even the familiar gift wheels. There will be all kinds of shows and good clean amusement features, mostly for the women and children who do not find the machinery so absorbing as do the men.

As soon as the purchases are completed, plats showing the available space will be sent to exhibitors and others who are interested.

Refiners Show Optimism With Start of Week

Monday Brought Flood of Inquiries To Tulsa Plants

By PAUL S. HEDRICK.

TULSA, Okla., April 14. — There appears to be more optimism among Mid-Continent refiners this week than has been noted for some weeks past, and inquiry reveals that the past week came and passed without gasoline prices sagging as has been the case in previous weeks. Prices held from at 9* to 10 cents, with many sales made from 9 5-8 to 10 cents.

The fact that tankwagon structures in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and other marketing territories held firm, and that refiners have somewhat reduced runs to the stills, and that inquiries and sales have become more frequent, has had a beneficial effect on the situation.

Monday brought in a flood of new inquiries from jobbers scattered over the entire Central Mississippi Valley states and this added to the optimism prevailing, and it was intensified when it was reported that the Standard of Indiana might come back into the Mid-Continent refinery market for another batch of gasoline. This stiffened the price to around 9 5-8 to 9 3-4 cents minimum for U. S. motor grade.

Fuel oil has shown a surprising amount of strength for this season of the year, and prices are firm and sales good. Some railroads have come back into the market. Gasoil is slow and natural gasoline is not as active as it could be, but manufacturers are expecting a seasonal decline.

Lubricants are moving good, and wax has strengthened materially, sales being made at 4 3-4 cents that 15 days ago brought but 4 cents. One refinery reports selling 100 tons at the first named price and receiving inquiries for more at the same figure.

The Gulf Coast crude reduction of 25 cents posted Monday afternoon by the Humble Pipe Line company did not upset the refinery market. The decline was somewhat expected because of the increase in cold test crudes. Mid-Continent oil men expect many cuts in the Arkansas area because of the Smackover deep pay development.

Monroe, Stephens

The Monroe Production company and Continental Oil company were reported looking for their expected sand yesterday just below 1,600 feet, on the line between blocks 3128 and 3127, TE&LCO survey, southeast Baylor county.

M-S, York Estate

Maer and Staniforth are dry and will abandon on their No. 1, York estate, in TE&LCO survey, block 1583 southwest of the Harmel pool, southwest Archer county, total depth given as 1,501 feet.

Garber Deep Well Holds Beautifully

TULSA, April 14.—The Covington-Garber deep sand discovery, the No. 25 Belveal of the Sinclair Oil and Gas company, in the northeast corner of 24-22-4w, Garfield county, is holding up beautifully and is encouraging the operators who are starting deep sand wells. The 25 Belveal's record to date follows:

April 7	2,544
April 8	2,600
April 9	2,545
April 10	2,479
April 11	2,551
April 12	2,710
April 13	2,500

It will be recalled it had the deep sand at 4,377 feet and three feet in it made 300 barrels: from 4,378 to 4,381 feet it did 525 barrels; from 4,381 to 4,386 feet it did 1,500 barrels; from 4,386 to 4,390 feet it did 2,300 barrels, and from 4,390 to 4,394 feet, where the sand began to harden up it produced 2,545 barrels.

Gray County Test

Clark, Harbin-Baldridge seemingly have some sort of a well at least in their No. 1, Coombs and Worley, near Pampa, Gray county, where the sand barely touched has 60 feet of oil in the holes, sand record given as 2,776 feet six inches. The well is being drilled into the pay, the first of the Panhandle series.

Waite Phillips, Woodrum

Waite Phillips was drilling yesterday below a last reported depth of 1350 feet in their No. 1 Woodrum, in the northwest corner of block 83, Torbcio Lesoya survey, southwest of the first Waite Phillips pool, west Archer county. This is the sixth Waite Phillips Archer wildcat.

Ex-Dragon Is Held After Woman Dies

He is Released on Bond Of $25,000 After She Takes Poison

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—Miss Madge Oberholtzer, 28, alleged to have been the victim of an attack by D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, died today.

Miss Oberholtzer had been in a critical condition for several days as the result of poison which she told her parents she took at Hammond, Ind., following Stephenson's alleged attack. Stephenson was indicted on five charges by a grand jury which investigated Mrs. Oberholtzer's story.

Stephenson is at liberty under $25,000 bond pending a ruling by Judge James A. Collins to quash the indictments which charge assault and battery, with intent to kill ,assault and battery with intent to rape, malicious mayhem, kidnaping and conspiracy to commit a felony.

Miss Oberholtzer has been unconscious for two weeks preceding her death. In connection with Stephenson's indictment Dr. John K. Kingsbury, Miss Oberholtzer's physician, filed an affidavit stating she could not recover.

Miss Oberholtzer was widely known in public school circles throughout Indiana. She had served as secretary-treasurer of the Young Peoples' Reading Circle of Indiana, an organization connected with the public school system, and also was formerly employed in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction. She had taught school at Hagerstown, Ind., following her education from Butler college. Her father, George E. Oberholtzer, is in the railway mail service.

Earl Klinck and Earl Gentry, alleged to have been companions of Stephenson, are under indictment with him on the charge of conspiracy to commit a felony. Motions to quash the indictments against them also are pending.

The charges against Stephenson, Klinck and Gentry were drawn by William H. Remy, county prosecutor, following an investigation of statements given by Miss Oberholtzer and her parents.

Ku Klux Leader Is Accused

Five charges now stand against D. C. Stephenson, ex-grand dragon of the Indiana ku klux klan and a national figure in the organization, who is accused in a ante-mortem statement by Miss Madge Oberholtzer of kidnaping and attacking her. Baker Sues For a Drink Of Whiskey

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Suit for the recovery of one drink of whiskey was filed yesterday by Jacob Jung, a baker, against District Attorney Matthew Brady and Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien. In his complaint Jung alleged that Policeman James Giffen last January entered his bakery without a warrant and therefore unlawfully seized the drink of whiskey. Jung said that in lieu of the liquor he would accept $200.

A demurrer to the suit was entered before a justice of the peace who held Jung had sufficient cause for action and ordered Brady and O'Brien to proceed with the case.

JUST FINDS NECK IS BROKEN

CHESTER, Pa., April 14.—With his neck and the upper part of his body encased in a plaster-of-paris cast, Howard H. Cloud, prominent resident of Concord, was resting comfortably at his home tonight despite a fractured vertebra, which was discovered only yesterday, although the bone was broken nearly two months ago.

Mr. Cloud, an active member of the Concord Grange, was run down by an automobile shortly after leaving the grange headquarters on February 22. He spent the night in the West Chester hospital, then returned to the home of his daughter in that borough to convalsence.

Recently he complained of a severe pain in his neck. Dr. Willis S. Manges of Wallingford, a member of the Jefferson hospital staff, was called in and announced that Cloud, who is 67 years old, had been walking around since February with a broken neck.

Cal's Right To Fire a Postal Official Argued

Portland Postmaster Sues For Back Pay on Alleged Illegal Discharge

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A picture of the White House with a "to let" sign hung out, was drawn in the supreme court today by Solicitor General Beck in closing argument in the Myers case through which the president's right to remove a postmaster without obtaining the senate's consent has been challenged.

Th esolicitor general presented the president's position as opposed by the senate through Senator Pepper, Pennsylvania in the controversy resulting from the appeal of the estate of Frank S. Myers, which is suing for back pay on the contention that his removal as postmaster at Portland, Ore., was illegal.

Congress should not be permitted, Mr. Beck declared, to "place the president in a straight jacket" by encroaching upon his prerogative to remove government office holders. There are 800,000 such employes and the president, he argued, should be unhampered in his right to remove any or all of them.

Mr. Beck held it highly essential in the proper administration of the government the president should be unrestrained by congress in exercising this right. If deprived of it, he contended the work of the president would be impaired and made so inefective that it would be well to close the White House.

Several Hurt In Gainesville Business Fire

Firemen Also Injured In Several Minor Blaze Accidents

GAINESVILLE, April 14. — Two men were severely injured and several firemen were hurt in a fire which swept two business buildings here this morning causing a loss estimated at $85,000.

Walker Hatfield, volunteer fireman was severely burned and received lacerations about the head and body when a bruck wall fell on the roof of a nearby structure on which he was standing. He was dragged from the burning debris and rushed to a hospital.

Hugh Hamilton, cotton buyer, received cuts when a flying object struck him in the neck. He was thrown down a stairway from the force of an explosion which caused the brick wall to crumble.

Several firemen received minor injuries when the wall fell.

Cause of the explosion and origin of the fire were not determined.

The firemen were hampered by lack of water pressure and the flames raged for more than two hours.

The buildings destroyed were owned by John Cunningham and housed a theatre, business offices, a meat market and a garage.

MILLION DOLLAR

helped but that were not as intense as had been hoped for. Beyond Stamford, the weather was cloudy but unproductive of moisture.

On the Wichita Falls and Southern, Archer City benefited the most heavily. Olney felt only a slight rain and southeast of there the weather was more or less clear.

Shortly after 8 o'clock a very heavy hail storm broke over Wichita Falls and continued for perhaps 30 minutes. It did but little damage, so far as could be learned and subsided completely before 9 o'clock. The rain, however, kept on.

Value to Farmers

The storm was of untold value to farmers in this territory, County Agricultural Agent Guy R. Jones declared Tuesday morning. He said that it meant the salvation of part of the wheat crop and would be of immense benefit to the ranges where grass was sprouting all too slowly. Some of the spring wheat has already died and is past all saving, Mr. Jones stated, but he thought much of it might yet grow in the face of the drenching it was given yesterday. The same thing, he said, applied to oats.

Farmers have been working more or less industriously for some time in an effort to put the ground in shape for cotton planting and the rain will be of immeasurable value on this score, too, it is said.

Oil Men Jubilant

Oil men were jubilant over the shower, which filled many tanks and will permit a resumption of drilling activities that have been hard hit by a lack of boiler water.

Temperatures struck a wide range as a result of the climatic disturbance. While the storm was at its height the thermometer dropped as low as 55 degrees, but with the sun breaking through the clouds later on and the wind subsiding, it mounted steadily and by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, was hovering just under the 80 degree mark. It was also sultry, which made the late hours yesterday unusually oppressive.

A hope that still further showers might visit this section was voiced universally Tuesday, although at the same time gratification also found expression on all sides. North Texas, particularly this section, has been so long without rain an unusually large amount is needed to bring fields back to normal.

HOUSTON, April 14.—Robbers cut a hole through the steel door of the vault in the First National bank of La Porte, 25 miles from here, with a acetylene blow torch and took $700 or $800 in silver before daylight this morning.

Second Judge Kills Self in Virginia

BRISTOL, Va., April 14.—For the second time in less than two months the Virginia supreme court of appeals has ost one of its members through death from shot gun wounds, Judge Joseph L. Kelly having been found dying in his home today after members of his family heard an exposion in the basement.

In February, Judge Frederick W. Simms, to whose post Judge Kelly succeeded, committed suicide, shooting himself in a richmond hotel.

Judge Kelly had been in ill health for many months. Early today his housebod was startled by the sound of a shot and entering the basement found him fatally wounded with the charge of the gun in his left side.

It was declared the judge regained consciousness before he died and told members of his family the gun was discharged accidentally.

Vacant Jail to Be Made Into a Hotel

THROCKMORTON, April 14.—The county jail here is for rent as a hotel or rooming house. In spite of an oil boom of fair proportions which is taking place in this county there has not been a prisoner in the jail here for six months.

There is a shortage of hotel space here and Sheriff Heard has decided that the jail shall be made into a hostelery.

The last prisoner in the jail was a man held for car theft Sept. 15, 1924.

THE FARMERS SHOULD BE CAREFUL.

All that has been said lately of the farmer's improved position finds new emphasis in the report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Dealing with the fundamentals of the situation, the bureau has little to say about prices and much to say of surpluses. Except in livestock, where estimates are doubtful, it declares there is nowhere a surplus to cause the farmers worry. The field before American agriculture is a clear one, with no large carryover to be liquidated before a new prosperity can be enjoyed. For the farmers the future is bright, and needs only to be shaped by their own efforts. As the bureau sums up the matter; "This is the first spring in five years with any evidence of general stimulus in agriculture."

But the farmers can easily lose their favorable position. They may become too confident, too eager to realize their prospects. They may forget that production must be kept well within the limits imposed by demand. There have been fairly trustworthy indications that many farmers plan to largely increase their crop acreage, and the agricultural economics bureau has felt constrained to utter a warning. "It seems doubtful," says the bureau, "if the general expansion of production contemplated by farmers would be to their best interest."

The present weak spots in the agricultural situation ought to show the farmers that what they need, and what the prosperity of the country demands, is not a rapid advance in some lines with compensating retreats in others, but a moderate and sustained improvement in all. High prices for grains have been accompanied by relatively low prices for dairy products, and increased costs in raising livestock. Practically all of the animal products have shown comparative weakness, their exchange value considered. Now, with the probability that livestock will rise in the price scale, there is a chance that grains may drop because of an over-production during this crop year. The farmers cannot benefit from such economic seesawing. Their endeavor should be to adjust the different items of their production as well as to adjust their whole production to that of industry.

FORT WORTH FOR A NEW DEAL.

Fort Worth is one of the fast growing cities of Texas. In 1907 a group of business men were induced to take over its affairs under the first commission placed in office by the people. There had been a revolt against old political and machine methods and the machine politicians were driven from power.

Commission form of government was a tremendous success for a few years when the people began to sleep on their rights and the machine politicians came back. Machine rule followed until the people revolted a second time and organized a citizen's association. They placed a ticket in the field of nine commissioners and the machine politicians ran a ticket.

Eight of the nine of the citizens' association were elected and after organization come a city manager will be elected by the commissioners and the city manager plan of municipal government will be given the acid test.

For the first time in years the business affairs of the municipality will be directed by business men. It will be a success of course, for one or two terms, and then perhaps the people will sleep on their rights again and permit the practical politicians with their antiquated and costly methods to come back and direct affairs for another term of years.

Many important American cities have given the manager plan the real test and wherever the people have responded ideal municipal government has been their reward. Fort Worth is a city of 175,000. A very successful, wealthy and charitable business man head of the association ticket.

He has given thousands out of his private fortune for public welfare and public improvement work and the men who are associated with him in this new adventure are among the foremost civic and business leaders of Fort Worth.

Now that the practical politicians have been put out will they stay out? They will stay out if the people are wise and keep them out.

WOODLOCK HOLDS THE FORT.

Thomas R. Woodlock of New York has qualified as interstate commerce commissioner. Before qualifying Mr. Woodlock resigned from all directorates and disposed of all his railroad stocks. According to the claimants there is an investment of $40,000,000,000 in the railroad properties of America. Mr. Woodlock should be acceptable to the railway managers and stockholders. He was of and for them before he became a servant of the people. Now as a servant of the people will he forget his former associates?

WOMEN DOCTORS.

Barnard college has recently been making some investigation regarding women as physicians.

It finds that about five per cent of the physicians and surgeons of the United States are women, and they are making rapid strides in preventive medicines. It finds that field will be profitable for women, because there numbers are small.

"The educational requirements for medicinal practice have kept the field of doctors rather limited," the report says. At present, women having been only recently admitted into the practice of medicine, they confine their work to certain phases such as non-surgical gynecology, obstetrics, and pediatrics. But they are steadily invading other fields, and their work in preventive medicine is notable.

There are many women engaged in government employ, and the results of their contribution to industrial medicine have been considerable.

There is no doubt that there is room for women in the medical profession. There are certain things that they can understand and deal with better than men.

A doctor often almost occupies the place of a mother, and all that is the matter with many sick people is that they need mothering. The mother instinct is strong in women, and enables them to deal wisely with those who need their help.

There is no reason why competent women may not take their place side by side with men in the business of healing the sick. Medicine is a scientific pursuit. It is based on special knowledge and requires special technical skill. In such work, whether in teaching, research or laboratory work, the woman has proved herself the equal of the man.

After all, taking care of people's health is a manner of economy. It calls for practical common sense, and in this women have shown themselves to be fully as proficient as men.

There remains only the question of physical endurance and the ability to resist hardship. In this there is a tradition that man is the stronger of the two sexes, and is able to stand more. But it is doubtful if this is the case. A strong, healthy woman will endure as much as a man.

There are many cases of sickness among women where the patient would confide more and make a franker confession to a woman doctor than to a man. And if the woman doctor is fully equipped scientifically, there is no reason why this confidence should be misplaced?

WHERE BOXING PAYS.

New York recognizes boxing tournaments. That is, pugilism is in flower. According to a sporting newspaper more than $18,000,000 has been paid by the public to see boxing contests in the Empire state in the last four years. Of this sum, the boxers have received about $10,000,000, while for the same period the state has received as its share of the receipts $922,000.

It cost more than $200,000 to maintain the state athletic commission, and approximately $8,000,000 has been distributed among the promoters as well as real estate owners and employes. A member of the Texas legislature introduced the bill legalising boxing in the early days of the thirty-ninth legislature. It died without a groan.

Cutting Down the Repair Bill.

Perhaps when you have occupied a seat in a railway carriage during a station stop, you have heard a series of bell-like thumps outside, beginning faintly, becoming gradually louder, and then growing faint again.

If you have been curious enough to look out the window you have seen a man in somewhat greasy clothes walking along by the side of the track with a hammer and tapping each wheel on every car as he went along, until he had traveled the length of the train.

Now and then, maybe, you have heard the wheel, when struck by the hammer give off a low unmusical sound, instead of the resonant "Pong!" to which your ears have become accustomed.

In that case the carriage on which this particular wheel was found was removed from the train before it sped on its way.

In this process you saw the railway company engaged in cutting down its repair bill.

The wheel that gave off the flat sound was cracked. It might have done its work till it got to the next station. It might on the other hand have gone to pieces while the train was flying along at sixty miles an hour. In that case you would not be reading this article.

All high powered, high speed machinery has to be regularly inspected, as passenger carriages are inspected at station stops.

Otherwise the repair bills would soon eat up the dividends. Let a small crack, a small flaw remain, and a crash may occur at any time.

The human body, as we operate it, is a high tension, high speed machine.

And it needs the same sort of regular inspection as any other such machine.

The little flaws that can be easily detected are readily and cheaply repaired—a little rest, a change in diet, perhaps a minor operation will do the work.

But let them remain undetected and they will grow and grow, until the crash comes. That means a big repair bill, a long time in the shops at least. At worst it means the permanent retirement of the machine from action.

The human body is a far better machine than any we build, because it has a marvelous faculty of doing much of its repair work automatically, and without any cost to its owner.

But abuse it as we all do by mistreatment, and ignorant handling, and the little faults that mean big trouble by and by develop.

To find out about these early is absolutely essential either to long life or to the complete enjoyment of such a term of life as is allotted to us.

A day in the shop now and then for an overhauling is the best insurance against serious accidents or total wrecks after a while.

Only those who are intelligent enough to go to a physician at least once a year to find out what, if anything is the matter of them can get very far on the railroad they happen to be traveling on without accumulating a staggering repair bill, or what is worse for them and their friends, going into the ditch to stay till the junk man comes along.

Irrigation

A HEAD OF WATER

A head of water in irrigation farming means the amount of water available for use by the irrigator. If a farmer says he wants a big head of water he means he wants a big stream. So you will often hear of big heads and small heads of water.

Every irrigation farmer should lay out his land and his irrigation system so he can use a big head of water. This means that his supply ditches and field laterals should be of sufficient capacity to handle a large quantity of water.

Of course the size of the ditches varies in proportion to the size of the field. A man handling a forty acre tract does not need to have as large canals as a man irrigating a hundred acre field and still the man with the forty acre field can use a big head. It is all a matter of proportion.

Using a large head of water is important from every standpoint. If you can put on and handle large quantities of water it saves time and money, and it saves water. A big head of water will irrigate more land in less time and actually use a great deal less water measure in acre feet. The reason for this is that less water is lost by evaporation and less of it sinks into the ground beyond the reach of the plant roots. The water which sinks beyond the roots hastens the day of water logging.

When the soil about the roots of a plant becomes saturated the plant either stops growing or the growth is retarded. Running a small head on a field means that the plants at the head of the run are subject to a saturated soil longer than if a large head was used.

Using a large head of water for a short time saves time and expense, means better crops, less water used and delays the time of water logging.

Editor's Note: Anyone having questions on any phase of irrigation are asked to write them out and send them to Mr. McPherson's office in the Kahn building.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

ARIES.

On awakening this morning you will undoubtedly experience as much exhilaration as you experienced depromise a great success for all efforts spondency on the previous day. The aspects are quite encouraging, and promise a great success for all efforts of a conservative and constructive nature. They do not, however, pressage any successful results in speculation or risky deals. If you have deliberated carefully over some new plan or fresh departure along lines of business or science, and have satisfied yourself beyond a doubt that your plan is workable and feasible, today is a very good occasion for the intitiation of such enterprise, more, especially, as the signs denote that whilst the vibrations will stimulate courage, they will not breed optimism.

In the evening the signs abate a little in their favor and become slightly adverse, although not to the extent to cause either worry or anxiety. It is well at such a time to pause and to think slowly over what has been accomplished during the day in order to ascertain if mistakes have meen made and if so, the right way to remedy them.

A child brought into the world today will undoubtedly be subject more than is usual to the ordinary ailments of infancy. This need not alarm the parents, as with proper nutrition and regular care, this child will overcome all its early weaknesses and reach maturity in a healthy condition. In disposition, this child will prove to be more secretive than communicative, and will not have that strict regard for the truth which is looked for by those who hold its future dear. Its character will be pusillanimous, and it will not possess any settled convictions unless disciplinary steps are taken in its early youth to impress upon it the difference between right and wrong ,and the benefit of doing right.

If today is your birthday, you are endowed with a very fair amount of intellect, a keen perception, analytical mind and a courage which never quails at a failure. Notwithstanding the many disappointments you have experienced, notwithstanding the hard knocks you have received, you have the necessary mental requisite to pursue the even tenor of your way, never losing sight of the remedy to pursue the even tenor of your way, never losing sight of the remedy in view and although long waiting may be incurred, you generally accomplish that which you set out to do.

You derive great enjoyment from social intercourse, you enjoy traveling, and you always seek popularity and allow your ambition to lead you. You are somewhat indifferent to your environment and neevr allow it in any way to interfere with the production of your plans. You feel at home in a drawing room, as you do in a hut, and owing to this ability to accommodate yourself to any sort of surroundings, you, as a result of your democratic way, have made many friends who think very highly of you.

In your love affairs you are just as determined as you are in material matters, and are never prepared to take "no" for an answer. You fight along until that which you desire is within your reach.

Even though you do catch the trolley car, you figuratively still pursue it, theoretically, if not physically, and the result is, a great deal of happiness in your home life and a great deal of felicity in your family circle.

Successful people born on this date are: Horace Porter, soldier and promoter, once U. S. ambassador to France; Henry James, Jr., novelist and critic; William B. Parson, civil engineer; Abbott F. Graves, artist; Bliss Carman, poet and author.

More Truth Than Poetry

NOT ACCORDING TO PLAN

An erudite college professor was wedded
To a lady whose lineage was Norse;
The wife of his bosom was ivory-headed
But strong as a Percheron horse.
While he, though his brain was exceedingly agile,
And admittedly one of the best,
In person was puny spindling and fragile,
And flabby and flat in the chest.

And all the eugenists exclaimed in elation:
"Just wait till the kids come along!
The husband's a marvel of pure cerebration,
And the wife is both husky and strong!
Most men into fatuous love-matches blunder
And anon curse the day they were wed,
But the fruit of this union will wake the world's wonder,
For they're bound to be perfectly bred."

The children arrived and were carefully nourished;
(Their number was goodly, viz., ten)
They all, on the training accorded them, flourished
And grew to be women and men.
Each spent the allotted four years in college,
But when they'd finished at length,
The girls seemed to have all the quota of knowledge,
While the boys had corralled all the strength.

No longer eugenists declare with elation
That the race will be certain to gain
When marriage is made but a shrewd combination
Of health and of muscle with brain.
Time proved that these people were rather bad guessers,
Though to us it can make little odds
That the girls of the family are college professors
While the boys are all carrying hods!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

NOT EVERY ONE HAS THE "TURN" FOR MATRIMONY ANY MORE THAN FOR ANY OTHER BUSINESS OF LIFE, AND THOSE WHO DISLIKE DOMESTICITY OR PERSONAL SACRIFICE SHOULDN'T MARRY

One of the things that is the matter with matrimony is that so many men and women get married who were foreordained and predestinated to be bachelors and old maids.

Nature never intended them to be husbands and wives and fathers and mothers. They were born to be celibates. They were old bachelors and old maids in their cradles, and no matter how many times they marry they still remain old bachelors and old maids in spirit.

Their wedding rings always gall them, and after the brief allure which enticed them into the holy estate is over they spend the balance of their lives wondering what made them fool enough to do it. So do the luckless women and men who drew them as life partners.

Just to be marrried doesn't make a man or woman a real husband or wife any more than a ream of paper and a typewriter make him or her a writer, or a saw and a hammer turn him or her into a first class carpenter. To be a successful husband or wife is a gift. It requires a special talent. One must have a "turn" for it, as the phrase goes, and this the born celibate lacks and can never acquire, no matter how conscientiously he or she may strive to do so.

There are many men and women who should never marry just because domesticity is not their country. They are never contented in it. They never feel at home in it. They never get acclimated. They are not only as unhappy as a fish out of water themselves, but they make things very uncomfortable for the innocent bystanders.

Chief among those who should not marry are the egotists, male and female. Their whole hearts are centered upon themselves. They will never see any other human being that they love as well as they do themselves. Their own comfort, their own pleasure, their own convenience will always be the chief concern in the world to them. And every sacrifice they are called upon to make for another will be done grudgingly, and with bitter laments and raucous outcries.

Now, every home is built on sacrifice. There is not an hour in the day in which every husband and wife do not have to give up their own personal desires, opinions, tastes and inclinations. The man must toil for his family and see the money he earns go for household bills, instead of spending it on indulging himself. The woman must slave in a house instead of running around to places of amusement, and nothing but a love greater than themselves, nothing but preferring another above themselves, makes the inevitable sacrifices of matrimony worth while.

The unadaptable should not marry. There are granite men and women who are set in their ways, and who are absolutely convinced that their opinions are their views of life are the only right ones. They never change. They never grow. They never concede any liberty of opinion at any one else.

These men make the kind of husbands who are grinding tyrants, and who crush the joy out of their wives' lives, and the sort of fathers whose children fear them and flee from home at the earliest possible moment. These women make the wives who nag a man for forty years about smoking and about wiping his feet on the mat before he comes into the house, and who drive their husbands and children from home to find some place in which they can throw things on the floor and be comfortable.

There are plenty of married old maids who think it far more important to have every book and chair and table in its place than it is to make a happy home.

The very essence of conjugal felicity is adaptability, a man and woman being able to adjust themselves to each other, to change their very characters to meet each other's needs, and those who are constitutionally unable to do this save themselves and others a lot of trouble by staying single.

No man should marry who lacks the domestic complex. There are plenty of men who are born butterflies and whom no amount of good resolutions will ever change into grubs.

It is their nature to flit from flower to flower, gay, irresponsible, utterly incapable of looking out for the future. They are born philanderers and philanderers they will be until the end of the chapter. No woman has it in her power to hold them long.

There are other men who are man's men. They enjoy man's society, man's games. They like club life, where they foregather with their own sex. Women are only a slight and extraneous interest in their lives, an amusement, a convenience, nothing more. Nature intended these men for celibates.

As bachelors they are happy and contented, useful as week-end guests, delightful as dinner partners; but when they marry they break the hearts of their wives with their fatihlessness and neglect, for the time the honeymoon has waned the call of the wild has been too much for them and they have reverted to type.

Nor should the ambitious woman marry. Nature betrothed her to a career instead of to a man, and she is wise when she does not commit bigamy and espouse both. If she does, she is punished by failing in both.

As a matter of fact, not everybody is any more fitted for matrimony than he or she is to be a grand opera singer. When we understand that, and try to find out whether marriage is our vocation or not, we shall have more marriages that stick.

Sub Rosa—Mimi

NO GOLD-DIGGING, PLEASE

Since I wrote that article of mine on "The Fifty-Fifty Girl" I've received many letters from irate young gentlemen, asking me where I got the nerve to advise their girl friends to let the men do all the paying.

One male reader—Bill J. he calls himself—tells me that his life is made perfectly miserable by the constant "gimme's" of his sweetheart.

When he announces that they are going to the movies—she's inclined to pout, but finally becomes sweetly resigned when he promises to invest in a box of candy as a special reward for her graciousness in accompanying him to anything as inexpensive as a 45-cent show.

Ordinarily, though, she insists on dinner at some really nice place, where the prices read like the income taxes of some of our more prominent citizens—then she likes a show—and of course, she can't see from any but orchestra seats—and then after the show a bite or two of lobster at some supper club. An evening like that leaves her almost satisfied.

And poor Bill is up to his neck in debt all the time, trying to keep up with the Lady of His Heart and her numerous requests.

Well, of course, I wasn't advocating any such conduct as that, when I advised you all to let the boys do the spending.

None of you girls who want to have a really extensive circle of admirers, had better start setting a price limit on your evenings.

Never decide in your own minds that a boy who won't provide you with a certain kind of entertainment is definitely off the list. You may be passing up some of the best men that way.

And don't get the idea that your time is too valuable to waste on an evening at the movies—with a boy who has no car.

If you are fortunate in the possession of a nice sweetheart, don't make him scramble and scrimp to provide you with expensive entertainment. You may lose him and the entertainment too.

Choose that form of occupation for an evening which is in keeping with your escort's income.

If he's a high school boy don't suggest any sort of amusement which will cut in too much on the allowance he draws from dad. If he's a college man—well you can afford to go out dancing at some one of the more inexpensive places.

If you go to lunch with a young boy, don't feast too royally. It's better to cut out the oysters and the soup—and have him ask you again—than to plunge into an eight-course dinner that will scare him away for life.

It's better to have your evenings dated up—even though all the dates are going to be with boys who can afford only the most inexpensive kind of an evening—than to be shunned by all your acquaintances, because they have found you to be too much of a high-stepper.

Certainly let the boys pay for the amusement—but don't make them pay too high.

J. L. Duffy Speaks To Wichita Falls Ad Club

Stressing the need of good-fellowship in business and honesty in advertising, James L. Duffy spoke to the Wichita Ad club at their weekly luncheon Tuesday noon.

Mr. Duffy stated that the local ad club was probably more important than the national organization matters of creating a sense of honesty in advertising. Citing the evils of false representation, he made a plea for fairness by merchants in dealing with the public.

Sam Lard, president of the Missletoe Creameries, of Fort Worth, made a brief talk in which he told the business men of his purpose in locating the proposed creamery in Wichita Falls, explaining that his company wished to get in better touch with the Panhandle region.

Short talks were also made by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and City Finance Commissioner Oral Jones.

TO CHANGE GAS ACT

Council Defers Action Until Changes in Proposed Ordinance Are Made.

A more or less radical revision of the gasoline ordinance recently drafted by the city is in store this week, members of the city council have decided since a number of suggestions as to needed changes have been brought to their attention. The ordinance was to have been passed on its third and final reading last Monday night but was put off for another week to allow a revamping of the new rulings.

Several prominent business men here are going over the original draft and will submit their proposed changes in a short time. The ordinance may be finally passed next Monday night.

DELINQUENTS START AGAIN

Council Making Every Effort to Collect Overdue Taxes.

The ever present and ever troublesome question of delinquent taxes is coming to the front once more, and the city council, faced with the necessity of conserving nickles wherever possible, has started on another campaign to bring in those in arrears.

The city now has approximately $131,000 in delinquent assessments on its books, these extending back a number of years. To collect them, authorization has been given City Attorney W. E. George to prepare and file tax suits against the delinquents and this will be done at once, Mr. George has announced.

TAKE TAX RENDITIONS

A plea that inventories of merchandise and personal property be ready for examination when assessors make their appearance was voiced Tuesday by W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector.

Deputies from Mr. Hyer's office will start Wednesday morning on taking renditions of personal property in the business and suburban districts. They will visit all business establishments here and will be greatly aided in their work if inventories are available for inspection.

Only a limited amount of time now remains in which these assessments may be made and Mr. Hyer is anxious to wind them up as soon as possible.

"We're Going to Tarsus, Land of Evil," Says Hogg

Evangelist Paints Picture Of Routes to Land Of The Devil

Dr. Will Hogg, evangelist at the Floral Heights Methodist church pictured for his crowded audience Tuesday evening the busy wharf of the city of Joppa on the Mediterranean sea, and told them, in paraphrased Bible language the story of Jonah, and Jonah, instead of obeying God and going to Ninevah to preach, sailed instead to Tarsus in hopes of making some money on real estate.

Standing before his congregation, Dr. Hogg, with his gift of dramatic interpretation, and ability as a reader, gave the story as found in Daniel with a modern application that gripped his hearers powerfully. The speaker's personality with his effective, simple flow of language, made the story very real to his audience. Bible facts that all too often are shrouded in far away, historical clothing, became near neighbors under Dr. Hogg's realistic manner of talking.

Are Like Jonah.

"You people today are like Jonah," Dr. Hogg said, "instead of going where God wants you to go, you're boarding ships bound for Tarsus."

Tarsus, Dr. Hogg defined as the capital of any land away from God, bounded on the north by a freedom from all restriction; on the east by do-as-I-please; on the south by none-of-your-business; and on the west by the rock bound coast of hell.

Graphically he pictured the hurrying throngs of the world today on the wharf at Joppa. Ships of every size and kind were loaded as fast as they landed, he declared, with passengers for Tarsus. Big business liners were mentioned as a favorite route. The booze route was described as a handsome line of vessels; adultery as luxurious ships were told of along with gambling liners and other routes of sin.

"All routes away from God lead to the same place," Dr. Hogg declared, "it matters not the size nor kind of vessel, if it doesn't lead to God it leads to Tarsus and destruction.

Saved or Lost.

"You're either saved or lost. The nicest school teacher or society woman who has not found God, or is away from God, is just as decidedly lost as the vilest street woman or murderer is lost. They're in the same class, in that they're both away from God. They're both lost.

"When you're dead, you're dead. It makes no difference if you've only been dead a little while, or if you died quite respectably, you're dead. In the same manner you're dead to God and eternal life if you're not saved, no matter what place you hold in the community.

"What does a ticket to Tarsus cost?"

"The ticket reads 'not transferable'—and it reads 'no return privileges granted.' Few who ever leave for Tarsus ever get back, for the basis of adultery or sin that take one away from God never bring him back."

Few Really Saved.

Dr. Hogg stated that only a small per cent of church members were really saved. Sin, he declared, was rampant among them as well as the unsaved. Many good men, he declared, were submitting to temptation and "taking boats to Tarsus."

"Be it a ship, a state, a nation, a home or a persons bound for Tarsus—God sinks everything bound for Tarsus in ruin. It is inevitable."

Telling of Jonah's stupor, Dr. Hogg declared that sin stupefied all men until their consciences were numbed and dead, and until they did not know enough to go back to God.

"True repentance is the nausea of the soul toward sin," the evangelist declared in closing. "When you truly repent of your sin, you'll be deadly sick of it. You'll turn your back on sin and never want to take any road that leads away from God."

Jeff Wall, singer for the evangelistic party, arrived Tuesday in time to conduct the musical service Tuesday evening. He sang several selections and played a trombone solo.

Another Wichita Woman Pleads for a New Home For Nursery Children

The following is another of the series of articles written by prominent Wichita Falls women in the interests of the Kiwanis club Day Nursery new home drive:

MRS. W. W. FRASER

Never before has there been a day when people have shown such an interest in and appreciation of their fellow men.

To those who have passed on we have erected memorials. To the great who are still with us we give honorable mention. New movements everywhere are continually being made in recognition of what someone has done or is doing for posterity. The reform movements, however, are another phase of the interest that man is taking in his neighbor. These movements have become so numerous, that we have almost begun to see them as antagonism among groups instead of working to keep one another. It seems to me the time has come for constructive work instead of destructive work. If all movements were now to become constructive, the need for reforms would soon pass. Let us begin today a constructive work for the little children of our city whose mothers must go from home during the day and earn money with which to furnish them with the necessities of life. The children of such mothers have a day time home offered to them at the Day Nursery, because some of the citizens of Wichita Falls have been thoughtful of their neighbors. There a limited number have had the splendid care of the matron and her assistance and each mother has been enabled to go to her work with a mind free to give the best possible service wherever she is employed with her happy little children, thereby holding the family together through the help of this wonderful nursery. Are we going to help these homes to hold together and bring up a better citizenship for our city? Are we going to meet the campaign committee with an optimistic attitude and a generous contribution for the new Day Nursery home when they come to us I believe we are!

The Old Home Town

Thirteen cases came up for trial Wednesday morning when the docket of the city police court was called. Half of the offenses listed there were for drunkenness charges and the balance were alleged traffic violations.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kell, 2410 Eighth street, left Tuesday afternoon for Chicago where they will attend a grain convention to meet there the latter part of this week.

P. P. Langford, president of the City National bank, was in Fort Worth Tuesday on business.

Many of the merchants in the city contributed to the affair so that the group could make a clear profit The Record News loaned the new home and provided a maid for the serving; the National Biscuit company gave the cakes; Bright's Ice Cream company, ice cream and cards for free bricks if presented at their plant; Noble-Little Hardware the dishes; Kruger Jewelry company the silverware; Wichita Floral company gave a pretty basket of flowers for the low prizes for women; Maxwell Hardware gave a thermos bottle for low for the men; Sanderford Booterie, chiffon hose for high for the women and Kruger Jewelry a belt buckle and chain. Mrs. Joe Jones won high score and Miss Erma Durnell received low for the women. H. T. Tatum won high and W. F. Davis made the low for the men.

Christian Endeavor To Meet in Wichita

The state Christian Endeavor convention will meet in Wichita Falls near the middle of June, bringing from 800 to 1,000 young people to the city, according to E. S. Goodner, general chairman of arrangements.

All societies in the state, from three denominations, the Christians, the Presbyterian and Evangelical churches, will be represented, Mr. Goodner states, and local workers are planning the entertainment of delegates.

SODA STAND IN SCOTLAND

A concession that a number of Wichitans have long wanted—that of operating a cold drink and refreshment stand in Scotland park, is to be granted this year to the highest bidder.

The city has advertised for bids for such a project, and the successful one will be granted permission to set up and maintain a stand in the city's big park and tourist camp in the Scotland addition. It will be under strict supervision and must measure up to high standards of sanitation and quality, Commissioner Patton has ruled.

Mistletoe Creamery To Locate in City

Wichita Falls will soon have an opportunity to purchase fresh Mistletoe butter, as the result of an announcement made Tuesday by S. S. Lard of Fort Worth, president of the Mistletoe Creameries now located in several Texas cities.

Mr. Lard stated that a new creamery, costing approximately $100,000 would be erected in Wichita Falls in the near future. The new concern will dispense its own butter and ice cream.

A site for the new factory will be chosen in the near future, with the aid of Fred L. Haskett, assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce, who has been working with Mr. Lard in the scheme, and R. S. Harper, local Mistletoe representative.

Mr. Haskett seemed very pleased with the project which he claimed will serve to boost Wichita Falls over the entire trade territory. Several large creameries are already located in this city, Mr. Haskett explained, but the Mistletoe company will afford a new variety that should increase the creamery standing of the city.

The assistant manager stated that to his mind the Fort Worth company was but one of the several larger companies now planning to come into this territory, that would decide on Wichita Falls as their headquarters.

"WHISKEY NET" RAIDED

Six Drunks and Large Quantity of Alcohol Are Seized.

What police declared to be a veritable "whiskey nest" was raided by city officers at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and six drunks and a large quantity of denatured alcohol seized. All six men were locked up until they could sober sufficiently to take care of themselves. Two of them, at least, were well known police characters.

The arrests were made in a house near the baseball park. Neighbors have made a number of complaints against it, police said, and a watch has been maintained there. Tuesday afternoon Officers Bryan, Morton, Bentley, Jenson, Allen and Carlyle went to the place and made the seizure.

Relieved From Bilious Spells

Texan Tells How Thedford's Black-Draught Has Given Satisfaction for Many Years.

ALIEF, Texas. Mr. A. F. Flippin, of this place, tells an interesting story about Thedford's Black-Draught, based on his own long experience in the use of that well known liver medicine.

"I don't believe I can remember the time when we didn't use Black-Draught," says Mr. Flippin. "My father and mother kept it and gave it to us when we were children. It was considered a family medicine.

"What was more natural than to still keep it when I was married and had a home of my own. And now I have grandchildren and am still taking Black-Draught when I need a liver medicine or purgative, and it has given satisfaction all these years. I haven't seen any use in changing.

"I have spells of biliousness, dull headache and don't feel much good. I take a few doses of Black-Draught and get all right. I take it for colds, also for constipation, and I can say I have never had it fail me."

Black-Draught is not some new, untried experiment. In hundreds of homes like that of Mr. Flippin's it has been thoroughly tested by generations of use, and its value is shown by the fact that these families continue to use Black-Draught after this experience of year.

Black-Draught has been in use for over 80 years and a million packages are now sold each month. Try it.

New Finance Commissioner Thanks Voters

Since I have been inducted into office, and have discovered the procedure a wonderful sensation, I desire, at this particular time, to sincerely, and most generously, thank all of my supporters for putting me into the place of honor to which I aspired. A grand and glorious feeling it is to have so many friends in the "Old Home Town."

My special thanks also go out to Mr. C. Walker Hendricks, my honorable opponent, for many kind expressions during our "hot struggle." He has been my good, close, personal friend for twenty-five years, and I know him to be a gentleman of the "old school." We had a good time together, and the only reason for my getting the "edge" on him was because the folks were sorry for me and voted because of my common name.

Also, I appreciate very much the good wishes, and pledges of support, in my new work by some of the outstanding leaders of the opposition.

I want to serve all the people of Wichita Falls, endeavoring always to do the best I can.

Shreveport Looks Good In Spring Exhibition Tilts

STEENGRAFE TO START

Club Okeh With Exception Of Patched Inner Works

SHREVEPORT, April 14. With all of their training season worries behind them Shreveport's sports are on edge for their opening clash of the Texas league season Wednesday afternoon with the Wichita Falls Spudders. Only a light skirmish was indulged in this afternoon along with a session of skull practice when signals were arranged and discussed. Milton Steengraffe, the big right hander, left here by the Chicago White Sox, will be the opening hurler. Although Steengraffe worked Sunday in New Orleans and lost he is being counted upon strongly by his bosses to turn in a victory. Wildness Sunday was all that hurt. In two previous games for Shreveport he was in wonderful form. He is a fast ball pitcher. In the event he fails to make the grade, Pat Malone will be called in. Both Malone and Steengraffe were with the Beaumont Exporters last year and were recalled by the White Sox before the end of the Texas league race.

Wednesday's contest will be Shreveport's first opening game in several years and officials of the ball club and city officials are endeavoring to turn out a crowd big enough to win the opening day attendance cup. They lost the honor to Dallas last season. Shreveport is pointing to a crowd of more than 6,000.

The Gassers of 1925 present a heavy hitting team. In their exhibition games they have averaged better than .300. Their pitching has also been fair, but the infield has proved a weak combination. At the eleventh hour Manager Luderus is forced to replace Shay at short with Tommy Morris, obtained from the New Orleans club.

Tex Westerzil has not yet reported and third base is in the hands of Tex McDonald. The outfield presents a strong combination with Joe Bonowitz, Jack Rabbitt and Red Ostergard on duty. Lauderus will play first base and McGaffigan second. Graham will do the catching with Roe Burns in reserve.

In all of the games against class A clubs the sports have more than held their own, with the exception of the New Orleans series they lost four and tied one in six played.

"We'll be up in the thick of the fight," is Luderous' prediction and he speaks with a determination.

Injured "Rabbit" Is Given Floral Crutch

CHICAGO, April 14.—"Rabbit" Maranville, captain and shortstop with the Chicago Cubs, on of the injured list because of a broken leg, was presented with a floral crutch when he bobbled on the field before the start of the Chicago-Pittsburgh opener today.

The attendance was a record-breaking crowd, the estimate varying from 34,000 to 38,000. Standing room was at a premium.

Here Is the First One of the Season

DETROIT, April 14.—Earl Sheely, first baseman wit hthe Chicago White Sox, smashed out the first home run of the 1925 major league season today. He drove the ball over the left field fence in the second inning of the Detroit-Chicago opener. No one was on base. Leonard was the pitching victim.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—Pete Donohue pitched a perfect game in the opening contest of the season here this afternoon and Cincinnati won from St. Louis 4 to 0. Hornsby, champion hitter of the league, failed to get one safety in four times up. A crowd of 22,000 persons was present. Score:

BRAVES TAKE OPENER FROM JOHN M'GRAW

Third Inning Rally Takes Boston Over For a 5-4 Win

BOSTON, April 14.—A third inning rally in which the Boston Braves scored four runs enabled them to defeat the New York champions, 5 to 4. In the ninth Meusel, pinch-hitter scored Wilson on a triple but Walker, running for Meusel, was tagged at the plate and the tying run was blocked. Burrus was outstanding in the fielding game. More than 15,000 persons saw the game, opened by Governor Fuller pitching to President Heydler of the National league. Score:

CHICAGO WINS.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The largest crowd which ever attended National league opening here—more than 38,000 persons, saw the Chicago Cubs defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8 to 2 today. A hit into the outfield throng was good for two bases. The Cubs won the game by bunching their hits, one of which was a home run drive by Hartnett with two mates on base. Grover Alexander, who pitched in midseason form kept the Pirates' hit swell scattered, and smashed out the first homer here of the season. Both the Pirates' runs were helped across by errors. Eddie Comes After Tab Levins Scalp

This hard looking customer is Eddie Murray of Tulsa, midget mite of the squared arena who hooks up with Tabby Levine in the eight-round semi-windup of the Legion card Thursday night.

Eddie, Sid Young, and their manager blew into town yesterday, and straight-away went to work. The boys cut loose with such gusto that during the opening melee they collided and Eddie came away a bit the worse for wear viz. a gash in the forehead. But Murray says he's not going to let the injury bother him any. He expects to bore in and carry the fight to Tabby all the way.

Murray is short in stature, sturdy, and apparently a tough lad. He throws 'em up, socks with both hands, and can hit from any position, but the uppercut is his best, incidentally the punch Tabby likes the least.

Eulas Morgan And Bubber Jonnard On Way Back to Spuds

Eulas Dick Morgan, Spudders best mound bet during 1924, and Clarence Bubber Jonnard, hustling backstop, will return to the Wichita Falls team from the Chicago Cubs before the week is out, it was announced at baseball headquarters Tuesday.

Morgan and Jonnard were sent to the Cubs at the close of the 1924 season. Their return to the Spudders puts Wichita Falls closer to a pennant than ever in the history of the Wichita Falls franchise.

Bubber was the hardest working catcher over the circuit last year, and Spud fans held out hopes for his return all winter long. Jonnard participated in 108 games and batted .284, making a brilliant slugging finish after a very poor start. He walloped nine home runs.

Jack Roche, veteran catcher acquired from Denver by the Spudders during the winter, was sold outright to Tulsa of the Western league to make way for Bubber.

Morgan's addition to the staff bolsters this department greatly. The big right hander would have burnt up the league, many believe, last season had he not been hampered by illness during the beat of the race. Morgan won 12 games and lost nine in 1924, but looked like a real comer. He is expected to be the sensation of the league this year.

Jonnard is expected to join the Spudders today in Shreveport. Morgan will either go to the team this week-end at Shreveport or meet them at Fort Worth Sunday.

TEXAS LEAGUE HAS EYES ON SPUDDERS AS ORGANIZATION STARTS NINETEENTH SEASON

DALLAS, April 14.—The Texas league will inaugurate its nineteenth pennant campaign tomorrow with Dallas playing at Fort Worth; Wichita Falls at Shreveport; Waco at San Antonio and Beaumont at Houston.

Reports from over the circuit indicates that all managers are optimistic concerning their team's chances. Club owners are expecting a successful season from a financial standpoint and are making arrangements for record-breaking crowds on opening day. All teams have been considerably strengthened since last year by the acquisition of playing material from other leagues and are expected to offer strong opposition to the Fort Worth Panthers who will endeavor to annex their sixth consecutive pennant.

Special interest attaches to the Wichita Falls club which has made a most impressive record in the preseason exhibition games, and to Waco which makes its re-appearance in the league after an absence of five years. Waco supplants Galveston who withdrew last winter because of poor financial backing.

Cat Followers Confident.

Fort Worth, which for the first time since it began monopolizing pennants, minus the services of Clarence Kraft, home run king of the minor leagues, will present a greatly changed lineup and whether the change will be beneficial or hurtful remains to be seen. Certainly the loss of Kraft did not help the Panthers, but their followers confidently expect them to come through as champions again. However, they are looking for strong competition from Wichita Falls and Dallas and possibly Houston and San Antonio.

Dallas Pepped Up.

A new manager makes his bow to the league in the person of Larry Gardner, who will direct the fortunes of the Dallas Steers. Gardner, who was one of the best third basemen in the major leagues a decade ago, has the solid backing of local fans, who expect him to bring Dallas its first pennant since 1918.

Del Pratt, former American league infielder, will manage the revived Waco club. Marvin Goodwin, probably the only pitcher-manager in a league of class A standing, is at the helm of the Houston Buffaloes; the veteran Dutch Bernsen is in charge of the Beaumont Exporters; Bob Coleman will direct the San Antonio Bears, while Veteran Jakie Atz and Buddy Tanner control the destinies of the Fort Worth Panthers and Wichita Falls Spudders, respectively. Fred Luderus, major league and world series star of other years and last year manager of the Oklahoma City Indians, will manage the Shreveport Sports.

Coyotes Work For Six-Game Road Schedule

The Coyote baseball nine has arranged a schedule of six games to be played soon. All contests will be on the road and none has thus far been set for the home lot.

On April 23, 24, 25 the Pack will journey to Paducah for a trio of games. Offers have been extended to Graham for a tilt April 18. Vernon has asked for games at Vernon. Coach Henderson announced he has offered to take the Lions on May 2 and 3. There is a possibility of only one game being played.

Rain kept the nine idle Tuesday.

TEXHOMA TO PLAY MONROE'S TRAVELERS

Grover Monroe's Travelers will cross bats this afternoon with the Texhoma nine for a practice contest on the Twilight league diamond at 5 o'clock. Both clubs are strong contenders for the first place in the league scramble which is to start Sunday.

McCallum Seeks New Quarterback

The big worry Bud McCallum has as he looks over his spring football practice squad is the discovery of a quarterback capable of filling the shoes of "Dummy" Deems. Deems is ineligible.

Stacy Jenkins, favorite for the position, has been lost to the Coyotes through the marriage route. Last week Stacy Jenkins and Lucille McConnell were married and Stacy will have to buckle down to work other than that of the gridiron. Stacy had won three letters under McCallum in high school athletics.

3 Prizes Offered In Texas Association

MEXIA, April 14.—Three awards are to be given in the Texas association baseball league this season, J. G. McIntosh announced today. The pennant will go to the champion of the association. The Corsicana Sun has offered a cup to the team which draws the best attendance at the opening game and the president's cup will go to the team in second place at the end of the season.

Although the season opens April 21 no schedule for the season has yet been announced. The three games will be Marlin at Temple, Mexia at Austin, Terrell at Corsicana. The next three game series will be Corsicana at Mexia, Austin at Marlin and Temple at Terrell.

Bob Starts In Box For Tanner Today

The heavy task of holding the Sports in check today at Shreveport while his team mates clout out enough safeties off Steengrafe to stow the season opener rests on the husky shoulders of Robert Osborn, tall El Pasoan who heaves a terrific fast ball and hooks 'em with an overhand motion that spells sure death to league batting averages.

The big right hander is the only pitcher on the squad fit to travel the route. The rest of the corps is either not in shape yet or handicapped by injuries.

If Robert can only get off on the right foot this afternoon, the game is already as good as won. So, wagering lads, bet your long green accordingly.

CLEVELAND 21; BROWNS 14

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—The Cleveland Indians piled up 12 runs in the eighth inning and defeated the St. Louis Browns today, 21 to 14, in a slugging match opening the major league baseball season here today. Four errors by Sisler, three by McManus and three by Bennett contributed to the result. Joe Bush newly acquired Brown pitcher, was batted out of the box in the third. Score:

Gleaming with confidence and determination to make their getaway in the 1925 Texas league flag marathon a bombastic and highly successful one today with Shreveport's Sports, Skipper Tanner and 19 Spud athletes, along with Secretary J. Will Gray, embarked for the Louisiana city Tuesday at 2:45 p. m.

Big Bob Osborn will be the starting hurler. The tall El Pasoan is the only member of the Tanner staff who is like anything in condition to travel the full nine-inning route. Bob is not at his best yet, but the shape he is in is better than that of the remainder of the staff. Almost on the eve of the Texas league opening the greater portion of Wichita Falls' pitchers became afflicted with various ailments ranging from sore arms caused by working too hard at the start or bumps and bruises received in the usual run of spring training accidents.

But the bludgeoning end of the Tanner forces, and that means the entire inner and outer works, is in pretty fair condition, and rearing to get at the Shreveport hurlers. The club as a whole batted far over the .300 mark during the 17 exhibition games just finished, and the lads seem all set to continue on their driving attack with little or no decrease.

Even at that distance Baree could see him grinning affably; he saw the outstretched hand, and the voice stirred new sensations in him. It was not like Pierrot's voice. He had never loved Pierrot. Neither was it soft and sweet like the Willow's. He had known only a few men, and all of them he had regarded with distrust. But this was a voice that disarmed him. It was lureful in its appeal. He wanted to answer it. He was filled with a desire, all at once, to follow close at the heels of this stranger. For the first time in his life a craving for the friendship of man possessed him. He did not move until Jim Carvel entered the spruce. Then he followed.

That night they were camped in a dense growth of cedars and balsams ten miles north of Bush McTaggart's trap-line. For two hours it had snowed, and their trail was covered. It was still snowing, but not a flake of the white deluge sifted down through the thick canopy of boughs. Carvel had put up his small silk tent, and had built a fire; their supper was over, and Baree lay on his belly facing the outlaw, almost within reach of his hand. With his back to a tree

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit."

Carvel was smoking luxuriously. He had thrown off his cap and his coat, and in the warm firelgow he looked almost boyishly young. But even in that glow his jaws lost none of their squareness, nor his eyes their clear alertness.

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit. Want to know what happened?" He waited a moment, and Baree looked at him steadily. Then Carvel went on, as if speaking to a human, "Let's see—it was five years ago, five years this December, just before Christmas time. Had a Dad. Fine old chap, my Dad was. No Mother—just the Dad, an' when you added us up we made just One. Understand? And along came a white-striped skunk named Hardy and shot him one day because Dad had worked against him in politics. Out an' out murder. An' they didn't hang that skunk! No, sir, they didn't hang him. He had too much money, an' too many friends in politics, an' they let 'im off with two years in the penitentiary. But he didn't get there. No—s'elp me God, he didn't get there!"

Carvel was twisting his hands until his knuckles cracked. An exultant smile lighted up his face, and his eyes flashed back the firelight. Baree drew a deep breath—a mere coincidence; but it was a tense moment for all that.

"No, he didn't get to the penitentiary," went on Carvel, looking straight at Baree again. "Yours truly knew what that meant, old chap. He'd have been pardoned inside a year. An' there was my Dad, the biggest half of me, in his grave. So I just went up to that white-striped skunk right there before the Judge's eyes, an' the lawyers' eyes, an' the eyes of all his dear relatives an' friends—and I killed him! And I got away. Was out through a window before they woke up, hit for the bush country, and have been eating up the trails ever since. An' I guess God was with me, Boy. For He did a queer thing to help me ou' summer before last, just when the Mounties were after me hardest an' it looked pretty black. Man was found drowned down in the Reindeer Country, right where they thought I was cornered; an' the good Lord made that man look so much like me that he was buried under my name. So I'm officially dead, old chap. I don't need to be afraid any more so long as I don't get too familiar with people for a year or so longer, and 'way down inside me I've liked to believe God fixed it up in that way to help me out of a bad hole. What's your opinion? Eh?"

INSTALMENT THIRTY-ONE

CHAPTER XXIX

Baree was on his feet, rigid as hewn rock, when Carvel came out of the tent, and for a few moments Carvel stood in silence, watching him closely. Would the dog respond to the call of the pack? Did he belong to them? Would he go—now? The wolves were drawing nearer. They were not circling, as a caribou or a deer would have circled, but were travelling straight—dead straight for their camp. The significance of this fact was easily understood by Carvel. All that afternoon Baree's feet had left a blood-smell in their trail, and the wolves had struck the trail in the deep forest, where the falling snow had not covered it. Carvel was not alarmed. More than once in his five years of wandering between the Arctic and the Height of Land he had played the game with the wolves. Once he had almost lost, but that was out in the open Barren. To-night he had a fire, and in the event of his firewood running out he had trees he could climb. His anxiety just now was centered in Baree. So he said, making his voice quite casual,

"You aren't going, are you, old chap?"

If Baree heard him he gave no evidence of it. But Carvel, still watching him closely, saw that the hair along his spine had risen like a brush, and then he heard—growing slowly in Baree's throat—a snarl of ferocious hatred. It was the sort of snarl that had held back the Factor from Lac Bain, and Carvel, opening the breech of his gun to see that all was right, chuckled happily. Baree may have heard the chuckle. Perhaps it meant something to him, for he turned his head suddenly and with flattened ears looked at his companion.

The wolves were silent now. Carvel knew what that meant, and he was tensely alert. In the stillness the click of the safety on his rifle sounded with metallic sharpness. For many minutes they heard nothing but the crack of the fire. Suddenly Baree's muscles seemed to snap. He sprang back, and faced the quarter behind Carvel, his head level with his shoulders, his inch-long fangs gleaming as he snarled into the black caverns of the forest beyond the rim of firelight. Carvel had turned like a shot. It was almost frightening—what he saw. A pair of eyes burning with greenish fire, and then another pair, and after that so many of them that he could not have counted them. He gave a sudden gasp. They were like cat-eyes, only much larger. Some of them, catching the firelight fully, were red as coals, others flashed blue and green—living things without bodies. With a swift glance he took in the black circle of the forest. They were out there, too; they were on all sides of them, but where he had seen them first they were thickest. In these first few seconds he had forgotten Baree, awed almost to stupefaction by that monster-eyed cordon of death that hemmed them in. There were fifty—perhaps a hundred wolves out there, afraid of nothing in all this savage world but fire. They had come up without the sound of a padded foot or a broken twig. If it had been later, and they had been asleep, and the fire out——

He shuddered, and for a moment the thought got the better of his nerves. He had not intended to shoot except from necessity, but all at once his rifle came to his shoulder and he sent a stream of fire out where the eyes were thickest. Baree knew what the shots meant, and filled with a mad desire to get at the throat of one of his enemies he dashed in their direction. Carvel gave a startled yell as he went. He saw the flash of Baree's body, saw it swallowed up in the gloom, and in that same instant heard the deadly clash of fangs and the impact of bodies. A wild thrill shot through him. The dog had charged alone—and the wolves had waited. There could be but one end. His four-footed comrade had gone straight into the jaws of death!

Shreveport Looks Good In Spring Exhibition Tilts

STEENGRAFE TO START

Club Okeh With Exception Of Patched Inner Works

SHREVEPORT, April 14. With all of their training season worries behind them Shreveport's sports are on edge for their opening clash of the Texas league season Wednesday afternoon with the Wichita Falls Spudders. Only a light skirmish was indulged in this afternoon along with a session of skull practice when signals were arranged and discussed. Milton Steengraffe, the big right hander, left here by the Chicago White Sox, will be the opening hurler. Although Steengraffe worked Sunday in New Orleans and lost he is being counted upon strongly by his bosses to turn in a victory. Wildness Sunday was all that hurt. In two previous games for Shreveport he was in wonderful form. He is a fast ball pitcher. In the event he fails to make the grade, Pat Malone will be called in. Both Malone and Steengraffe were with the Beaumont Exporters last year and were recalled by the White Sox before the end of the Texas league race.

Wednesday's contest will be Shreveport's first opening game in several years and officials of the ball club and city officials are endeavoring to turn out a crowd big enough to win the opening day attendance cup. They lost the honor to Dallas last season, Shreveport is pointing to a crowd of more than 6,000.

The Gassers of 1925 present a heavy hitting team. In their exhibition games they have averaged better than .300. Their pitching has also been fair, but the infield has proved a weak combination. At the eleventh hour Manager Luderus is forced to replace Shay at short with Tommy Morris, obtained from the New Orleans club.

Tex Westerzil has not yet reported and third base is in the hands of Tex McDonald. The outfield presents a strong combination with Joe Bonowitz, Jack Rabbitt and Red Ostergard on duty, Luderus will play first base and McGaffigan second. Graham will do the catching with Roe Burns in reserve.

In all of the games against class A clubs the sports have more than held their own, with the exception of the New Orleans series they lost four and tied one in six played.

"We'll be up in the thick of the fight," is Luderous' prediction and he speaks with a determination.

Injured "Rabbit" Is Given Floral Crutch

CHICAGO, April 14.—"Rabbit" Maranville, captain and shortstop with the Chicago Cubs, on of the injured list because of a broken leg, was presented with a floral crutch when he bobbled on the field before the start of the Chicago-Pittsburgh opener today.

The attendance was a record-breaking crowd, the estimate varying from 34,000 to 38,000. Standing room was at a premium.

Here Is the First One of the Season

DETROIT, April 14.—Earl Sheely, first baseman wit hthe Chicago White Sox, smashed out the first home run of the 1925 major league season today. He drove the ball over the left field fence in the second inning of the Detroit-Chicago opener. No one was on base. Leonard was the pitching victim.

CINCINNATI WINS.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—Pete Donohue pitched a perfect game in the opening contest of the season here this afternoon and Cincinnati won from St. Louis 4 to 0. The Cards did not get a runner to third base and only two as far as second. Haines lasted five innings. Sensational outfielding by Holm and Mueller kept down the Reds score. Hornsby, champion hitter of the league, failed to get one safety in four times up. A crowd of 22,000 persons was present. Score:

CHICAGO, April 14.—The largest crowd which ever attended National league opening here—more than 38,000 persons, saw the Chicago Cubs defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8 to 2 today. A hit into the outfield throng was good for two bases. The Cubs won the game by bunching their hits, one of which was a home run drive by Hartnett with two mates on base. Eddie Comes After Tab Levins Scalp

This hard looking customer is Eddie Murray of Tulsa, midget mite of the squared arena who hooks up with Tabby Levine in the eight-round semi-windup of the Legion card Thursday night.

Eddie, Sid Young, and their manager blew into town yesterday, and straight-away went to work. The boys cut loose with such gusto that during the opening melee they collided and Eddie came away a bit the worse for wear viz. a gash in the forehead. But Murray says he's not going to let the injury bother him any. He expects to bore in and carry the fight to Tabby all the way.

Murray is short in stature, sturdy, and apparently a tough lad. He throws 'em up, socks with both hands, and can hit from any position, but the uppercut is his best, incidentally the punch Tabby likes the least.

Eulas Morgan And Bubber Jonnard On Way Back to Spuds

Eulas Dick Morgan, Spudders best mound bet during 1924, and Clarence Bubber Jonnard, hustling backstop, will return to the Wichita Falls team from the Chicago Cubs before the week is out, it was announced at baseball headquarters Tuesday.

Morgan and Jonnard were sent to the Cubs at the close of the 1924 season. Their return to the Spudders puts Wichita Falls Closer to a pennant than ever in the history of the Wichita Falls franchise.

Bubber was the hardest working catcher over the circuit last year, and Spud fans held out hopes for his return all winter long. Jonnard participated in 108 games and batted .284, making a brilliant slugging finish after a very poor start. He walloped nine home runs.

Jack Roche, veteran catcher acquired from Denver by the Spudders during the winter, was sold outright to Tulsa of the Western league to make way for Bubber.

Morgan's addition to the staff bolsters this department greatly. The big right hander would have burnt up the league, many believe, last season had he not been hampered by illness during the heat of the race. Morgan won 12 games and lost nine in 1924, but looked like a real comer. He is expected to be the sensation of the league this year.

Jonnard is expected to join the Spudders today in Shreveport. Morgan will either go to the team this week-end at Shreveport or meet them at Fort Worth Sunday.

TEXAS LEAGUE HAS EYES ON SPUDDERS AS ORGANIZATION STARTS NINE TEENTH SEASON

DALLAS, April 14.—The Texas league will inaugurate its nineteenth pennant campaign tomorrow with Dallas playing at Fort Worth; Wichita Falls at Shreveport; Waco at San Antonio and Beaumont at Houston.

Reports from over the circuit indicates that all managers are optimistic concerning their team's chances. Club owners are expecting a successful season from a financial standpoint and are making arrangements for record-breaking crowds on opening day. All teams have been considerably strengthened since last year by the acquisition of playing material from other leagues and are expected to offer strong opposition to the Fort Worth Panthers who will endeavor to annex their sixth consecutive pennant.

Special interest attaches to the Wichita Falls club which has made a most impressive record in the preseason exhibition games, and to Waco which makes its re-appearance in the league after an absence of five years. Waco supplants Galveston who withdrew last winter because of poor financial backing.

Cat Followers Confident.

Fort Worth, which for the first time since it began monopolizing pennants, minus the services of Clarence Kraft, home run king of the minor leagues, will present a greatly changed lineup and whether the change will be beneficial or hurtful remains to be seen. Certainly the loss of Kraft did not help the Panthers, but their followers confidently expect them to come through as champions again. However, they are looking for strong competition from Wichita Falls and Dallas and possibly Houston and San Antonio.

Dallas Pepped Up.

A new manager makes his bow to the league in the person of Larry Gardner, who will direct the fortunes of the Dallas Steers. Gardner, who was one of the best third basemen in the major leagues a decade ago, has the solid backing of local fans, who expect him to bring Dallas its first pennant since 1918.

Del Pratt, former American league infielder, will manage the revived Waco club. Marvin Goodwin, probably the only pitcher-manager in a league of class A standing, is at the helm of the Houston Buffaloes; the veteran Dutch Bernsen is in charge of the Beaumont Exporters; Bob Coleman will direct the San Antonio Bears, while Veteran Jakie Atz and Buddy Tanner control the destinies of the Fort Worth Panthers and Wichita Falls Spudders, respectively. Fred Luderus, major league and world series star of other years and last year manager of the Oklahoma City Indians, will manage the Shreveport Sports.

Coyotes Work For Six-Game Road Schedule

The Coyote baseball nine has arranged a schedule of six games to be played soon. All contests will be on the road and none has thus far been set for the home lot.

On April 23, 24, 25 the Pack will journey to Paducah for a trio of games. Offers have been extended to Graham for a tilt April 18. Vernon has asked for games at Vernon. Coach Henderson announced he has offered to take the Lions on May 2 and 3. There is a possibility of only one game being played.

Rain kept the nine idle Tuesday.

TEXHOMA TO PLAY MONROE'S TRAVELERS

Grover Monroe's Travelers will cross bats this afternoon with the Texhoma nine for a practice contest on the Twilight league diamond at 5 o'clock. Both clubs are strong contenders for the first place in the league scramble which is to start Sunday.

SENATORS AND TEXAS EVEN.

AUSTIN, April 14.—The Austin Senators evened the exhibition series with the Texas Longhorns here today by winning the fourth game 3 to 2. Scheiffer's home run in the ninth gave Austin the winning run.

McCallum Seeks New Quarterback

The big worry Bud McCallum has as he looks over his spring football practice squad is the discovery of a quarterback capable of filling the shoes of "Dummy" Deems. Deems is ineligible.

Stacy Jenkins, favorite for the position, has been lost to the Coyotes through the marriage route. Last week Stacy Jenkins and Lucille McConnell were married and Stacy will have to buckle down to work other than that of the gridiron. Stacy had won three letters under McCallum in high school athletics.

3 Prizes Offered In Texas Association

MEXIA, April 14.—Three awards are to be given in the Texas association baseball league this season, J. G. McIntosh announced today. The pennant will go to the champion of the association. The Corsicana Sun has offered a cup to the team which draws the best attendance at the opening game and the president's cup will go to the team in second place at the end of the season.

Although the season opens April 21 no schedule for the season has yet been announced. The three games will be Marlin at Temple, Mexia at Austin, Terrell at Corsicana. The next three game series will be Corsicana at Mexia, Austin at Marlin and Temple at Terrell.

Bob Starts In Box For Tanner Today

The heavy task of holding the Sports in check today at Shreveport while his team mates clout out enough safeties off Steengrafe to stow the season opener rests on the husky shoulders of Robert Osborn, tall El Pasoan who heaves a terrific fast ball and hooks 'em with an overhand motion that spells sure death to league batting averages.

The big right hander is the only pitcher on the squad fit to travel the route. The rest of the corps is either not in shape yet or handicapped by injuries.

If Robert can only get off on the right foot this afternoon, the game is already as good as won. So, wagering lads, bet your long green accordingly.

CLEVELAND 21; BROWNS 14.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—The Cleveland Indians piled up 12 runs in the eighth inning and defeated the St. Louis Browns today, 21 to 14, in a slugging match opening the major league baseball season here today. Four errors by Sisler, three by McManus and three by Bennett contributed to the result. Joe Bush newly acquired Brown pitcher, was batted out of the box in the third. Score:

Gleaming with confidence and determination to make their getaway in the 1925 Texas league flag marathon a bombastic and highly successful one today with Shreveport's Sports, Skipper Tanner and 19 Spud athletes, along with Secretary J. Will Gray, embarked for the Louisiana city Tuesday at 2:45 p. m.

Big Bob Osborn will be the starting hurler. The tall El Pasoan is the only member of the Tanner staff who is like anything in condition to travel the full nine-inning route. Bob is not at his best yet, but the shape he is in is better than that of the remainder of the staff. Almost on the eve of the Texas league opening the greater portion of Wichita Falls' pitchers became afflicted with various ailments ranging from sore arms caused by working too hard at the start or bumps and bruises received in the usual run of spring training accidents.

But the bludgeoning end of the Tanner forces, and that means the entire inner and outer works, is in pretty fair condition, and rearing to get at the Shreveport hurlers. The club as a whole batted far over the .300 mark during the 17 exhibition games just finished, and the lads seem all set to continue on their driving attack with little or no decrease.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitagraph Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

Even at that distance Baree could see him grinning affably; he saw the outstretched hand, and the voice stirred new sensations in him. It was not like Pierrot's voice. He had never loved Pierrot. Neither was it soft and sweet like the Willow's. He had known only a few men, and all of them he had regarded with distrust. But this was a voice that disarmed him. It was lureful in its appeal. He wanted to answer it. He was filled with a desire, all at once, to follow close at the heels of this stranger. For the first time in his life a craving for the friendship of man possessed him. He did not move until Jim Carvel entered the spruce. Then he followed.

That night they were camped in a dense growth of cedars and balsams ten miles north of Bush McTaggart's trap-line. For two hours it had snowed, and their trail was covered. It was still snowing, but not a flake of the white deluge sifted down through the thick canopy of boughs. Carvel had put up his small silk tent, and had built a fire; their supper was over, and Baree lay on his belly facing the outlaw, almost within reach of his hand. With his back to a tree

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit."

Carvel was smoking luxuriously. He had thrown off his cap and his coat, and in the warm fireglow he looked almost boyishly young. But even in that glow his jaws lost none of their squareness, nor his eyes their clear alertness.

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit. Want to know what happened?" He waited a moment, and Baree looked at him steadily. Then Carvel went on, as if speaking to a human, "Let's see—it was five years ago, five years this December, just before Christmas time. Had a Dad. Fine old chap, my Dad was. No Mother—just the Dad, an' when you added us up we made just One. Understand? And along came a white-striped skunk named Hardy and shot him one day because Dad had worked against him in politics. Out an' out murder. An' they didn't hang that skunk! No, sir, they didn't hang him. He had too much money, an' too many friends in politics, an' they let 'im off with two years in the penitentiary. But he didn't get there. No—s'elp me God, he didn't get there!"

Carvel was twisting his hands until his knuckles cracked. An exultant smile lighted up his face, and his eyes flashed back the firelight. Baree drew a deep breath—a mere coincidence; but it was a tense moment for all that.

"No, he didn't get to the penitentiary," went on Carvel, looking straight at Baree again. "Yours truly knew what that meant, old chap. He'd have been pardoned inside a year. An' there was my Dad, the biggest half of me, in his grave. So I just went up to that white-striped skunk right there before the Judge's eyes, an' the lawyers' eyes, an' the eyes of all his dear relatives an' friends—and I killed him! And I got away. Was out through a window before they woke up, hit for the bush country, and have been eating up the trails ever since. An' I guess God was with me, Boy. For He did a queer thing to help me out summer before last, just when the Mounties were after me hardest an' it looked pretty black. Man was found drowned down in the Reindeer Country, right where they thought I was cornered; an' the good Lord made that man look so much like me that he was buried under my name. So I'm officially dead, old chap. I don't need to be afraid any more so long as I don't get too familiar with people for a year or so longer, and 'way down inside me I've liked to believe God fixed it up in that way to help me out of a bad hole. What's your opinion? Eh?"

CHAPTER XXIX

Baree was on his feet, rigid as hewn rock, when Carvel came out of the tent, and for a few moments Carvel stood in silence, watching him closely. Would the dog respond to the call of the pack? Did he belong to them? Would he go—now? The wolves were drawing nearer. They were not circling, as a caribou or a deer would have circled, but were travelling straight—dead straight for their camp. The significance of this fact was easily understood by Carvel. All that afternoon Baree's feet had left a blood-smell in their trail, and the wolves had struck the trail in the deep forest, where the falling snow had not covered it. Carvel was not alarmed. More than once in his five years of wandering between the Arctic and the Height of Land he had played the game with the wolves. Once he had almost lost, but that was out in the open Barren. To-night he had a fire, and in the event of his firewood running out he had trees he could climb. His anxiety just now was centered in Baree. So he said, making his voice quite casual,

"You aren't going, are you, old chap?"

If Baree heard him he gave no evidence of it. But Carvel, still watching him closely, saw that the hair along his spine had risen like a brush, and then he heard—growing slowly in Baree's throat—a snarl of ferocious hatred. It was the sort of snarl that had held back the Factor from Lac Bain, and Carvel, opening the breech of his gun to see that all was right, chuckled happily. Baree may have heard the chuckle. Perhaps it meant something to him, for he turned his head suddenly and with flattened ears looked at his companion.

The wolves were silent now. Carvel knew what that meant, and he was tensely alert. In the stillness the click of the safety on his rifle sounded with metallic sharpness. For many minutes they heard nothing but the crack of the fire. Suddenly Baree's muscles seemed to snap. He sprang back, and faced the quarter behind Carvel, his head level with his shoulders, his inch-long fangs gleaming as he snarled into the black caverns of the forest beyond the rim of firelight. Carvel had turned like a shot. It was almost frightening—what he saw. A pair of eyes burning with greenish fire, and then another pair, and after that so many of them that he could not have counted them. He gave a sudden gasp. They were like cat-eyes, only much larger. Some of them, catching the firelight fully, were red as coals, others flashed blue and green—living things without bodies. With a swift glance he took in the black circle of the forest. They were out there, too; they were on all sides of them, but where he had seen them first they were thickest. In these first few seconds he had forgotten Baree, awed almost to stupefaction by that monster-eyed cordon of death that hemmed them in. There were fifty—perhaps a hundred wolves out there, afraid of nothing in all this savage world but fire. They had come up without the sound of a padded foot or a broken twig. If it had been later, and they had been asleep, and the fire out——

He shuddered, and for a moment the thought got the better of his nerves. He had not intended to shoot except from necessity, but all at once his rifle came to his shoulder and he sent a stream of fire out where the eyes were thickest. Baree knew what the shots meant, and filled with a mad desire to get at the throat of one of his enemies he dashed in their direction. Carvel gave a startled yell as he went. He saw the flash of Baree's body, saw it swallowed up in the gloom, and in that same instant heard the deadly clash of fangs and the impact of bodies. A wild thrill shot through him. The dog had charged alone—and the wolves had waited. There could be but one end. His four-footed comrade had gone straight into the jaws of death!

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff of any Constable of Wichita County; Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Raymond Arnett and Dora Arnett and all unknown heirs by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in May, A. D., 1925, the same being the fourth day of May, A. D., 1925. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 27th day of March, A. D., 1925 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 16794-B wherein, Marion Arnett and A. C. Arnett are plaintiffs and Raymond Arnett and Dora Arnett and all unknown heirs are defendants and said petition alleging, that Marion Arnett is a man 41 years old and A. C. Agnett is a man 39 years old and that they are the only heirs of Thomas Arnett, now deceased and Lutisha Arnett, his first wife, and that their mother, Lutisha Arnett died on the 20th day of December, 1920, and that their father, Thomas Arnett, later married Dora Fowler and that a son was born to Thomas Arnett and Dora Fowler Arnett, his second wife, by the name of Raymond and no other children were born to them.

That their father, Thomas Arnett, and Dora Fowler Arnett separated in the year 1906 and were never divorced and that Dora Arnett took Raymond Arnett with her when she separated from Thomas Arnett and that at this time plaintiffs have made diligent search for Raymond Arnett and his mother, Dora Arnett, and have been unable to ascertain their whereabouts.

That Thomas Arnett, who died on the 18th day of March, 1925, left the following described property, to wit:

Lots 5 and 6 in block 28 of the Sibley-Taylor addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas.

Plaintiffs allege that they are the owners of the above described property but because of the facts set out above a cloud is on the title and they are unable to convey this property, and cannot give a clear title to same. Wherefore plaintiffs pray the court that Raymond Arnett and Dora Arnett and all unknown heirs be cited to appear and answer herein, and that plaintiffs have judgement removing cloud from the title and for title and possession of above described lands and premises and that each have an undivided one-half interest in and to the above described property and for costs of suit, etc.

Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your returns thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 30th day of March, A. D., 1925.

(Seal) A. F. KERR, Clerk,
District Court Wichita County, Texas.
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

formed a partnership. Lucy Callis is a pretty woman, about 35 years of age, vivacious brunette, with big dark limpid eyes, and curling black hair. She stood pat through a grilling that would have weakened many a man, but finally officers in Oklahoma City gained her confession, they announced. Wednesday morning she will enter a plea of guilty and accept the sentence that District Judge Pugh will pronounce, it is expected.

Cornett who is held in Newkirk, is also an older man, somewhere nearing 50 years of age, for years a ranchman in the eastern part of Stephens county. His ranch offered employment to many of the young men whom O'Quinn wanted to place where he could reach them at any time when he needed them. Cornett has, according to the officers, been mixed up in more than one deal, being held on a couple of charges separate and distinct from the Addington bank robbery. He will not be present at trial Wednesday morning but will face the bank robbery charges at a later date.

In Prison Before.

Eddie Shoquet's mother has a rooming house in Tulsa and he has served a brief term in the pen for a similar charge that he now faces. He met O'Quinn in Oklahoma City two years ago and cast his fortunes with him.

Happy Bohannon is the son of people living Mountain Park; his father is a carpenter. He was employed for two years on the Cornett ranch before he ever met O'Quinn. Ernest Hensley is from the northern part of the state.

O'Quinn and Lucy operated rooming houses in Duncan and Oklahoma City.

Planned Each Step.

In the Addington robbery O'Quinn, Lucy Callis and Henry Cornett, according to the obtained confessions, drove over the ground with the boys, planning each step of the procedure. On the morning of the actual robbery Ernest Hensley drove the car to the curb and waited for Eddie and Happy who went in and secured the money. Lucy Callis and Henry Cornett were waiting in a car two miles east on Monument Hill. When they met Lucy and Cornett, the money, Eddie and Happy were all transferred to the other car and Hensley drove on east to Mud Creek where the old car he was in (and which incidentally had been stolen) was ditched and he took to the woods. Eddie and Happy were left along the roadside where they took refuge with the money in their possession, along a creek, and Lucy and Cornett went on to Duncan, Cornett to return for the boys that night. Long before that time of night Cornett was drunk and couldn't remember where he had left Eddie and Happy. They waited for hours, then walked up to the roadside, buried their money and started on foot for Duncan. Cornett met them and they returned for the money, proceeded three miles and ran out of gas. While Cornett went for gas, the boys waited by the roadside where O'Quinn picked them up, and took them to a pasture east of Duncan where they were to remain the next day. Some time during that day Lucy Callis came to them with food and water. That night, it is charged, O'Quinn came for them and took them to separate farms where they were hired out for a few days near Barlow.

O'Quinn Had Alibi.

O'Quinn's alibi is complete, for at the time of the actual robbery he was busy checking out linen to a man named McAdams to whom he was supposedly selling the rooming house at Duncan.

In the meantime Hensley was stranded, hatless, somewhere in the timber on Little Mud and the band couldn't locate him, Cornett not remembering where he was to pick Hensley up. Eventually hunger drove young Hensley out and after two nights and a day he made for a farm house and ate some breakfast, procured a hat, and went to Duncan where he joined O'Quinn. Since that time the sextette have followed devious plans in various places but the arm of the law has been constantly reaching out, gropingly at times, but with unerring instinct.

Whether O'Quinn will be a "good sport" when he finds that he has been betrayed by a confession or whether he will turn against his former friends and the woman is a question. No one knows for no one really knows O'Quinn.

ment. He "asked" that no officer smoke while on duty, and then plainly demanded that liquor in any form should not be used.

"I'm going to try and be a daddy to the police and fire departments," the commissioner asserted, "because there is no finer relationship on earth than that of a father and a son. I want to be a good pal to all of you, and in that connection, I want it understood there is to be no spanking or scolding as long as you attend to business. No man on either of these departments will be judged by stories I may hear of him. Every man will be given a fair hearing and a fair consideration, but I want to tell you frankly that 'spankings' will be administered if at any time you deserve them."

A plea that all his men be happy and agreeable in their work was voiced by Mr. Queisser. He also asked that no "gossip" be resorted to by members of the department.

"If you have suggestions to make concerning our work, Chief Hodgins

Prince Tells How Pictures Were 'Soaked'

Russian Near Nobleman Denies He Hawked Them Over Europe

NEW YORK, April 14.—Prince Felix Youssoupoff, taking the stand today in his legal fight to recover two Rembrandt portraits, heirlooms for generations in the once wealthy and near royal family of which he is the surviving head, told again of the eclipse of his fortunes which led him to dispose of the paintings to Joseph E. Widener, financier and art collector of Philadelphia.

Prince Youssoupoff is suing Mr. Widener in the supreme court to enforce his alleged right to repurchase the paintings for the price Mr. Widener paid him in London in August, 1921, 100,000 pounds sterling, plus interest at 8 per cent. The prince contends the transaction was really a chattel mortgage; Mr. Widener claims it was an outright sale.

The prince denied today that he had hawked the paintings all over Europe as the opposing side had contended, but told of refusing offers from the late J. P. Morgan and the late William A. Clark of 200,000 and 225,000 pounds, respectively. He admitted that after escaping from the bolsheviks in 1919 he had twice pawned the pictures to get money for his relief work among Russian exiles in England.

and I will be more than pleased to hear them," he said, and then continued, "but gossipy talk to this merchant around on Indiana avenue and that business man on Scott street is not the way to correct errors or promote efficiency."

Chief of Police George H. Hodgins followed Commissioner Queisser and told his men he greatly appreciated the splendid spirit of loyalty they had shown him during the two years he had served as their chief. He declared, "I have never met a more loyal bunch than you men, and I have worked with and seen a good many bunches in my day."

The chief pledged fair consideration and fair treatment of every man in his department. He said a little error or little mistake here and there did not justify him in demanding an officer's resignation, and when he said, "I think you all know I've shot square with you," the court room rocked with applause.

J. S. Whitelaw, judge of the corporation court, concluded the meeting and stressed the need of courtesy also. He complimented the officers on the fine and gentlemanly sporit they had always shown and reminded them nothing would carry them quite so far as fairness and consideration for others.

Smokes were passed out to all present with the compliments of Chief Hodgins.

post cards and private mailing cards which formerly were carried for 1 cent, now require 2 cents postage.

Newspapers and other publications entered as second class mail matter, when sent by other than the pubisher, are increased to 2 cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof for weight not exceeding eight ounces. The old rate was 1 cent for each four ounces. Above eight ounces, parcel post rates apply under the new schedue.

While users of the parcel post will pay the same zone rates, they will be faced with the necessity of paying 2 cents for what the post office department terms "service charge" on each package excepting those originating on rural routes.

HOGG

report and came on a story from Austin dealing with state text book contracts. He labeled it "real news." A story from the same city telling of the cancellation of contracts involving nearly a million dollars was also o. k.'d as being of "business importance." "Business interest," too, was justification of a story under a Washington date line telling how American railroads had broken all records for freight movements in the first two months of the year.

Crime Aids Crime.

Getting down to crime news, Dr. Hogg ran onto a bulletin from Detroit which related that a bank cashier had been shot and killed by three bandits. "Too much such news is conductive of crime," he said. Then he passed on to a New York story about a gun battle between prohibition agents and bootleggers in which a thousand cases of liquor were seized. "That is not news," he said, "and the space devoted to it is out of proportion to the interest it arouses."

He was more charitable, though, with another New York story telling of the capture by American coast guards of a British schooner carrying a whiskey cargo valued at $500,000.

"Yes," he said, "that ought to be enlarged on and broadcast to the world."

Items dealing with sensual infractons were given short shrift in Dr. Hogg's classifications. He found a story from Indianapolis telling of the death of a woman alleged to have been attacked by an ex-ku klux klan dragon, and promptly labeled it "rotten." Further down the line he classed as "not worth the space" a San Antonio story about a youth who started court proceedings to secure the release of his sweetheart from an institution which prohibited his marrying her.

Publicity An Aid.

Publicity as an aid to officers in touched on by Dr. Hogg when he chanced upon a story from Fort the apprehension of criminals was Worth. It told of efforts being made by police to solve the mystery of a double-killing on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike, and across it he wrote "yes, this is news. It also aids officials in their work."

Two poison stories to which considerable space was devoted were justifiable on the grounds of "public interest," Dr. Hogg believed. One was a bulletin on the McClintock case in Chicago and the other a more lengthy recital of developments in the Crown Point, Indiana, poison mysteries where a woman is alleged to have killed five members of her family by administering drugs in fatal doses.

Disaster News O. K.

Stories of disasters that bring human suffering and over which man has no control are well worth use in the newspapers, he said. On this basis he classed as "real news" a tale from Detroit reporting the breaking of a huge dam of the Ford Motor company and the consequent flooding of a valley. Similar endorsement was given a Chicago date line story on the injury of nine persons in southern Illinois, all victims of a severe storm; the death of two Benton Harbor, Mich., farmers who were struck by lightning; and the injury of four persons in a costly fire at Gainesville.

"Informative" articles are well worth their space, Dr. Hogg said, and in this class he placed a story from Austin telling of the application of the Katy railroad to discontinue some local trains between Austin and Waco.

Humorous or entertaining stories, or those dealing with unusual happenings are quite all right. Thus, a story about a San Francisco baker suing the city for a drink of whiskey because a cop came into his place one morning and filched a snort was given a justifiable place. So were two other stories of a human interest angle. One was from Boston, dealing with a red headed woodpecker mystery, and the other was from New York and told about some hens that laid purple eggs.

Foreign news, especially that relating to political and economic conditions, is deserving of prominent mention. Thus, a number of bulletins from Paris, telling of the failure of ex-premier Briand to form a new cabinet and reporting developments in the French ministerial crisis were given Dr. Hogg's hearty o. k.

"The United States is vitally interested in this international situation," he said. "By all means, use it."

The news report as a whole was disappointing to the eminent clergyman, albeit he confessed it was "newsy and interesting." His parting shot, made in the form of a pencil notation was as follows:

"There was not a single constructive item on education or morality, while booze and murder have been given prominence. The report is newsy and interesting, however."

MIX IN ENGLAND.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 14.—Tom Mix, American movie actor, with his wife and daughter, arrived here today from New York and were welcomed by the deputy mayor of Southampton and the mayor of Brighton.

Mix pleased a large crowd by riding his horse, Tony, down the gangway from the ship to the quay.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Stock prices bounded upward today under the leadership of the rail and motor shares. The demand for stocks was broader than at any time since the culmination of the drastic reaction two weeks ago, due largely to the resumption of pool operations which were facilitated by relatively easy money rates.

The revival of interest in the rail group was based on reports of progress in the negotiations for the consolidation of some of the southwestern carriers. The recent changes in the directorates of some of these roads has been widely construed as a preliminary step in this connection. Missouri Pacific common and preferred, "Katy" common and preferred. Kansas City Southern and Chicago and Alton common and preferred were bid up 1¼ to 2½ points.

Ann Arbor preferred continued to respond to numerous early dividend action, climbing more than 3 points to a new 1925 high at 54¾. Nearly a score other rails showed net gains of a point or more, the list including Atlantic Coast Line, Omaha preferred, Lackawanna, Great Northern preferred, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Texas and Pacific and Union Pacific. Chicago and Northwestern common was hammered down to 47½ the lowest price since 1923 and rallied to 50, where it was up 1½ on the day. The preferred touched a new low at 101⅝ and then rallied a point for a small fractional gain.

The automotive issues gave another impressive demonstration of strength, Mack Truck standing out with a gain of more than 7 points at 145⅝. Maxwell B scored more than 5 points for a new high at 71⅝. Hudson was bid up 4⅝ to a new top at 52 and Willys-Overland preferred established a new high at 93. Jordan, White, Pierce Arrow preferred, Stewart Warner, Stromberg carburetor, Bosch Magneto and Nash closed 1 to 5 points higher.

Steady accumulation of United States Steel common which touched a new high on the current movement at 117 and then eased to 116⅝, up 1⅝ stimulated the buying of other industrials. American Can advanced 3⅝ to 174 and General Electric, Dupont International Paper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United States Cast Iron Pipe, American Agricultural Chemical, American Brake Shoe, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, the Commercial Solvents issues, Curamel Fruit, Gold Dust, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Republic Steel, United Cigar, Utah Securities and Worthington Pump all showed gains of 2 to 7 points.

The oil shares failed to participate in the advance, being held in check by reports of increased production and rumors of further cuts in crude prices.

Call money held steady at 3½ per cent all day. Time funds were more plentiful with a few loans arranged at 3¾ per cent for the shorter maturities, prime commercial paper also eased somewhat being quoted at 3¾ to 4 per cent instead of on a flat 4 per cent basis.

Heaviness of French franc, which dropped about 4 points to 5.13¼ cents on the failure of Briand to form a new French ministry, was the feature of the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.78. Norwegian kroner touched a new high at 16.00 cents, while Japanese yen recovered a new top at 42 cents.

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—The cotton market was fairly active at times today and the general trend of prices was downward although fluctuations were neither violent nor wide, the start was steady notwithstanding that Liverpool was a shade lower than due at the opening here, first trades about on a level with yesterday's close. The census bureau report showed consumption by domestic mills during March to have been 582,874 bales of lint cotton against 550.132 in February and 485,480 in March last year. The March total was somewhat lower than looked for and prices eased off about 10 points. Mill stocks at end of March totaled 1,644,793 bales against 1,546,210 the month previous, showing a much larger gain than expected. Prices after a slight rally accordingly eased off again the decline being helped by private reports of rains in Oklahoma and North Texas until July traded down to 24.22 and October 23.76, or 25 to 26 points lower.

The market was ruled steady around the middle of the session and during the afternoon mainly on shorts covering and in sympathy with firmer markets for stocks and wheat. About 10 to 12 points of the decline was recovered and the close showed net losses for the day of 15 to 17 points.

The reports of numerous rains in the west and the generally favorable character of advices from central and eastern sections of the belt induced traders to look for a very favorable weekly weather and crop report from Washington tomorrow and this held all constructive efforts in check.

Exports today, 23,256 bales.

Dental Hygene Is A Needed Course In Public Schools

Preventive Dentistry Is Only Sure Solution For Health Problems

"Preventive dentistry, through proper education is the solution to many of the health problems in our public schools," declared Dr. R. E. Huff Jr., local dentist, before the University club Tuesday noon at their regular Kemp luncheon, in an address observing National Dental week.

Dental Hygienists

Describing the work of the dental hygienist, Dr. Huff declared that the workers in this important branch of dentistry were young women who cleaned the teeth of the children, taught them sanitation and hygiene, won their confidence, lectured in the school rooms, and combined the offices of teacher, health nurse, and playmate, in a movement that has been widely successful wherever adopted. The dental hygienist, he stated, increased the general health and appearance of the school children and by her training affected vitally the good behavior of the boys and girls.

The speaker urged the club members to sponsor such efforts in the local

Dr. N. F. Williams, state veterinarian gave a short talk explaining the work of the state livestock commission and warned local dog owners to vaccinate their animals against rabies.

Eradicate Stray Dogs

Praising highly the work of Wichita Falls in eradicating stray dogs efficiently, he further urged that strenuous measures be adopted to insure the vaccination of all dogs for rabies.

"If all the dogs in the country were vaccinated once a year for two years, rabies would be entirely exterminated," Dr. Williams declared, quoting a scientific authority.

Dr. Will Hogg was introduced by Rev. Frank M. Richardson, and the evangelist, who is conducting revival services at Floral Heights Methodist church, entertained club members with several well-told negro stories.

Miss Tillie Mae Schaeffer sang, accompanied by J. S. Pitman at the piano.

Hundreds Call By To See Home Beautiful

In spite of the inclement weather yesterday hundreds of people who have heard of the wonder home in The Record News Home Beautiful called by to see and inspect the most remarkable display of home furnishings, home construction and home designing ever made in this city.

"We are daily showing people through the home who enter more or less dubious as to just what they will see, and who leave the home loud in their praise of this remarkable home, said E. A. McGinty, president of the Home Beautiful company, the organization which is collaborating wth The Record News in the home.

Every room of the Home Beautiful is a decided treat and presents the new and practical—not only in construction but in the unusual and attractive manner in which the furnishings are brought out.

The Home Beautiful will continue to be open to the public each afternoon and evening through next Sunday.

Robert Honea Wins Weight Gain Prize

Robert Honea, member of the nutrition class of the Austin school, received a dollar prize and a gold star at the weekly session of the class Tuesday morning for his record gain of two and three-eighths pounds.

Twenty-nine children and four mothers were present at the meeting, and after a short discussion, a contest was started between the boys and the girls of the class to see which group can gain the greatest number of gold stars.

Others who showed gains and the amount of the gains are: Joe Williams, one and five-eighths pounds; J. C. Mann, seven-eighths pound; Elsie Cooper and Harvey Allen, five-eighths pound each; Doris Williams, one-half pound; Uel Apple, and J. D. McMahen, one-fourth pound.

A contest was begun Tuesday morning to determine whether the boys or the girls in the class could capture the largest number of gold stars.

Principal of Alamo School Inaugurates Honor System Among the Grade Pupils

Team captains and officials of the Kiwanis club met yesterday at noon at the Wichita club to report the progress on the Day Nursery building fund drive. The report of the work for the first day and a half showed subscriptions approximating one-fourth of the desired amount.

"Kiwanians, however, are not discouraged with this small showing," said one of the directors yesterday following the meeting. Most teams report a number of their prospects as out and the weather this morning was not encouraging for the teams at work. I feel confident that Wichita Falls will go over the top in the same shape she does on every worthy campaign."

Present quarters for the Day Nursery are entirely inadequate and it now becomes necessary to build a Day Nursery in keeping with the growth of the city. "We feel that we are barely scraping the surface in our present work at the Day Nursery, due to cramped and crowded quarters and the fact that we have to turn away children day after day," said one of the ladies in charge of this splendid work.

All team captains are urged to report this noon at the Wichita club in order that an accurate check can be kept upon subscriptions.

Judge Dickey Speaks To College Students

Judge J. S. Dickey addressed the student body of the Junior college and high school Tuesday morning on "Making a Place in the World."

Hundreds of youths passed through the world leaving no impression, Judge Dickey declared, encouraging his audience to do something worth remembering with their lives. His talk was richly illustrated with historical references.

Wednesday morning, S. H. Rider, principal, announces, will be devoted to addresses by the extempore speakers and declaimers who will represent the school in the district interscholastic meet.

Friday morning, the Blue Curtain club, the college dramatic club, will present a one-act play charging ten cents admission, for the benefit of the Junior college annual.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Negro Will Be Retried on Booze Charge in Near Future.

After deliberating nearly two hours and standing six to six after the second ballot, a jury in the case of the state vs. Lemon Jessie, a negro, was discharged at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Judge H. R. Wilson in the 30th district court.

The day was spent in trying the negro on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor. He was arrested January 26 at a local hotel and was alleged to have had a quantity of whiskey in his possession at the time.

He will be retried in a short time, attorneys for both sides indicated.

TO CARE FOR INVALID.

Lamar Ave. Baptist Church Bible Class to Give Aid to Old Man

An old man in Wichita Falls, an invalid unable to care for himself and threatened with still greater want, will be provided with a home and the necessities of life, and perhaps a few of the luxuries, as the result of action taken last night at a meeting of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church Bible class.

The attention of the class was called t othe condition of the invalid and by a unanimous vote it was decided to care for him, according to M. C. Sullivan, class reporter.

In an effort to increase the roll of the class, each member was given a list of names of prespective members and during the week efforts will be made to enroll them in the class.

Among other business the class decided to stencil the class initials on the back of their chairs.

STUDENTS HEAR TALK

Dr. G. A. Brunson Speaks On Honolulu to Junior High Pupils.

Junior high school students were privileged to hear Dr. George A. Brunson, recently returned from Honolulu, lectured Tuesday morning before the student body on "Life, Customs and Traditions of the Hawaiian People."

His enjoyable talk was illustrated with colored stereoptican slides.

Several Changes Planned in City Traffic Rulings

Traffic Lights To Be Left On Forty-five Seconds Each Way.

A number of important changes in traffic enforcement in Wichita Falls are to be undertaken in the next few days by the police department. Announcements of the major points were made last night by a group of department executives which included Frank Queisser, commissioner, Chief of Police George H. Hodgins and Joe Blocker, traffic captain.

Of most general interest, perhaps, is the revision in the traffic control lights and the enforcement of the one hour parking law in the business district.

Both Ways Same.

Forty-five seconds leeway is to be given all ways on traffic flow hereafter, it was announced, in place of the 45 seconds for cars running north and south and 30 seconds for those going east and west. The system now is so adjusted that 15 seconds more are allowed for north-south traffic than for east-west travel. The flasher apparatus will be changed to give 45 seconds both ways.

The lights, it has been decided, will be operated straight through each day from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m., with the exception of Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday they will run from 7 until 10 and on Sunday from noon until 9 p. m.

One Hour Limits.

Regarding parking limits, the officials have announced one hour as the limit on the following streets: Ohio between Sixth and Ninth; Indiana between Sixth and Eleventh; Scott between Sixth and Eleventh; Lamar between Sixth and Eleventh; Sixth between Ohio and Lamar; Seventh between the Denver tracks and Lamar; Eight, Ninth and Tenth between Ohio and Lamar.

Parking limit signs have been ordered and will be put up within the next day or two, after which traffic officers will pay strict attention to machines left at curbings within the affected district.

Parking Alleys.

Two other matters of extreme importance are also to be enforced. One regards parking of automobiles in alleyways and the other deals with care following fire trucks when the latter are responding to alarms.

Under no consideration can automobiles be left standing in alleys, the police have ruled, and any drivers caught violating this rule will be subject to prompt prosecution. Another practice, that must stop, is that of making left hand turns when coming out of alleys. Right hand turns only will be permitted.

The fire department has complained again of interference from spectators who follow the trucks to fires, get in their way and cause trouble generally. Any one who approaches within a block of fire trucks on an alarm are subject to arrest and prosecution.

Motor Cop Force Sadly Depleted as Officers Have Wrecks Or Fall Ill

"It's a fine bunch of bums I've got," Traffic Captain Joe Blocker wailed yesterday as he chalked up the names of five of his motorcycle squad on the "sick-leave" list. The "squad" was recently amplified to six.

Blocker took inventory yesterday and found things about as follows:

J. A. Haigwood—In general hospital with badly cut and bruised leg suffered in a spill Monday afternoon. Is doing nicely.

K. B. Kinsner—Sick in bed at home with temperature of 104.

Joe Perskey—Nursing a badly wrenched and bruised right arm, suffered in a fall from his machine Monday night.

E. E. James—Sick at home with a malignant throat infection.

Clyde Bentley—Sick at home with fever.

It was almost a case of 100 per cent disability, for Clarence Griffin, the other man on the squad, returned to work Tuesday morning after a short period of illness.

Of those now on the infirmary sheets, Perskey will be able to ride again in a day or two and is now available for street duty. Haigwood will be out of the hospital in a few days, and it is believed Bentley will be ready for service before long.

Anyhow, it's a tough life. If you don't believe it, ask Joe Blocker.
