Season's First 'Norther' Jolts Thermometer

MERCURY HERE SKIDS RAPIDLY FRIDAY NIGHT

Temperature of 101 At 3 P. M. Drops to 72 At 9 P. M.

AMARILLO, Sept. 24.(AP) With a crisp norther blowing, temperature here tonight dropped 15 degrees. The norther struck this city about 8 o'clock. Cloudy weather and colder is the forecast for Saturday at Amarillo.

Wichita Falls and vicinity, after sweltering through almost a week of unseasonably high temperature, went after the blankets and heavy coats Friday night when the first norther of the year struck this section and sent therometers tumbling percipitously from their beaming heights.

A heavy bank of black clouds in the north and an inconsequential dust storm were the accompaniments of the wind which in less than two hours—from 7 until 9 p. m., brought a drop of from well up in the nineties to 72 at 9 o'clock. The maximum for the day was 101, registered at 3 o'clock.

Sharp Drop General

The sharp drop in temperature was felt generally throughout this section of the state. It came as a result of an early winter cold wave that spread snow, ice and far below freezing temperatures through the Pacific northwest and cold rains, snow and cascading thermometers in the middle west.

Railroad dispatchers of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and Fort Worth and Denver sent word of a brisk norther and much lower temperatures between here and Amarillo and Forgan, Okla. The Denver told of colder weather and scurrying clouds throughout the Panhandle, while the northwestern brought a report of similar conditions to the north through southwestern Oklahoma.

Rain Yet Remote

Rain seemed to be a remote possibility early Friday night. Skies were partially overcast in all the territory but no rain had fallen and little indication was seen that any would come, at least before morning.

Wichita Falls welcomed the cooler climes with gusto. Friday, like the earlier days of the week, brought a brilliant sun, but little wind, and temperature that climbed to one degree past the century mark. The evening norther, however, rapidly changed this and was accepted definitely as having routed summer s'last stand. Autumn, by the way, was scheduled by the calendar to appear shortly after noon. It delayed its arrival about six hours.

ROCKY MOUNTAINS SEND COLD WAVE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. (AP)—Unseasonable cold weather stalked out out of the northern Rockies today and advanced across the northwest to cap with snow and frost the rout of Indian summer.

Wyoming and Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska and finally Iowa and Minnesota felt successively their first snow fall of the season. All suffered frost, too, as did Kansas, and tonight the storm was moving into Wisconsin and across the Great Lakes, bringing to many localities the lowest temperatures ever experienced in September.

The storm's whim brought more

Daugherty Burned Up Records Of Bank Which Government Wants In Fraud Trial, Brother Testifies

Check for $22,000 Involved In Shady Transaction Traced to Bank Involved In Testimony But Missing Records Hamper Federal Attorney In Further Proof

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—Brother was forced to testify against brother today as the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial reached the highest point of tension since it opened almost three weeks ago. Mal S. Daugherty, small town banker and brother of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general was forced to tell on the stand that his brother had wilfully destroyed evidence which the government claims would have shown that he received graft money totalling $150,000.

Admissibility of the banker's testimony was hotly contested by the defense and opening of the court session was held up half an hour while attorneys for both sides argued in Judge Mack's chambers.

At 11 o'clock the judge strode to the bench and United States Attorney Buckner immediately called Mal Daugherty. The banker was visibly nervous as he was sworn.

"Other witnesses," Buckner demanded, "have testified that the ledger sheets in the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, Ohio, of which you are president, referring to the account of you, your brother and Jesse W. Smith, his aide, are now missing. When did you see them last?"

"In October of last year."

"That was when you brought them to New York at the time Jesse Smith was subpoenaed in connection with this conspiracy."

"Yes."

Records Not Seen.

"You did this although the records themselves had not been subpoenaed?"

"I did."

"And they were not examined by the grand jury at that time?"

"They were not."

"What did you do with them then?"

"My brother took them back."

"When you were subpoenaed again last December and you were ordered to bring these papers to New York, what did you do?"

"I left my home for a trip and was informed by telephone at Lima, that I had been subpoenaed, I went immediately to my brother's home in Columbus."

"What was your conversation with him there?"

Records Destroyed

"I told him that he had been the last one to have those sheets and that I needed them to comply with the new subpoena."

"What did he tell you then?"

"He said he had destroyed the records."

"How had he destroyed?"

"He said he had burned them."

"Why did he say he had burned them."

"He gave no reason."

"Had you and he frequently discussed these sheets and the entries they bore?"

"We had."

"That is all, Mr. Daugherty."

After this testimony the government started a new line of testimony. It was brought out through documents and witnesses that Thomas W. Miller, Daugherty's co-defendant in the present trial had two accounts for $50,000 each in the Midland National bank as alien property custodian and that he had been influential in placing another account for $75,000 with the bank.

Daugherty Recalled.

Mal Daugherty was recalled to the stand to tell about this.

He admitted that Smith had been influential in getting the business for the bank and then Max D. Steur, attorney for Henry Daugherty took the witness for cross examination.

Under his guidance the witness said that he had never asked any favor of his brother while the latter was attorney general. He said he thought it perfectly natural that he should turn to Smith in this matter snice he knew hmi well and was aware that he was close friend of the attorney general.

HARDIN SCORES 'BUCK PASSING' ON NOMINEES

Texas Senator Urges To Retract Solons Postponement

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.(AP)—Reconsideration by the state senate in call session of its postponement to the 40th legislature action on rejection of Hal Moseley and John Cage, members of the highway commission, and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's appointees, will be urged when the senate goes into third week Monday. This was assured late Friday when Senator Roy J. Hardin of Kaufman county made the sensational charge that "a low standard in public service has been set by the state senate in its refusal to act on the confirmation" of the commissioners.

Precedent Defied

"It defies all precedent and serves no purpose except that of giving to the victors the spoils of politics" the senator charged. Senator Harding of Kaufman was one of seven men known to be staunch supporters of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, who voted against the postponement of confirmation, when the forces of the incoming administration, Dan Moody, swept the senate with 22 votes, and taking into the fold six or eight senators, who until Wednesday had been considered Ferguson men.

'Passing Buck'

Senator Hardin asked, "What is the purpose and what is the use of investigating the senate with the authority to approve or disapprove appointees of the governor? If the 39th can pass the buck to the 40th senate, then why shouldn't the 40th pass it on to the 41st?

"The constitution contemplates no such proceedure. It is the duty of this senate to pass on the appointments of this administration. The governor has made these appointments and has called on the senate for confirmation or rejection; action one way or the other, is imperative under the constitution. The duty of this senate cannot be passed to the next senate, and the attempt to do so is a mere political trick staged in behalf of the next governor.

Cloud of Suspicion

If Hal Moseley and John Cage are unworthy of the places they hold, then the senate should do its plain constitutional duty and reject them. Its refusal to act on their appointments simply leaves them under a cloud of suspicion and weakens the confidence of the public in one of the most important departments of government. If the Moody supporters are sincere in their charges against these men, then why are they afraid to face the accused in open hearing? Such a hearing was arranged by the committee on governor's nominations but the prosponents of the charges failed to show up. Instead they offered a resolution postponing action until the next senate.

Deplores Action

"What kind of a standard is it by which a public servant can be indicted and then be denied a hearing on the charges against him? That is what has happened to Hal Moseley and John Cage, and the senate, in the name of politic... expediency, has sanctioned it. Such a standard of public service is so low that the people of Texas should not tolerate it an instant. In the future the highway commissioners should be elected by a vote of the people, so they can carry on their work unhampered by the pas ig political wheeze and regardless of which way the band wagon is going."

Cage Gets Hall

The senate voted to permit John Cage use of the senate chamber Monday night to speak to the senators on the action relative to confirmation, and Tuesday it is expected efforts to re-open matter will be made.

The senate also postponed action on the confirmation of S. C. Granberry, state prison commissioner.

Summer's Alleged To Be Gone

"Summer has went!"

That is, according to the astronomical calendar, or whatever is the proper name for the proper temporal guide in such cases, summer has departed for the limbus of absent seasons. In fact this happened just at 1:29 p. m. Thursday when the autumnal equinox, the time of equal day and night, arrived in Wichita Falls and autumn officially began. Henceforward until the time of the winter solstice, Dec. 21, the period of longest night and shortest day, Wichita Falls nights will grow longer and her days shorter.

Old Sol however refused to verify the reported departure of summer and Friday beamed down on Wichita Falls as warmly as ever despite the fact that officially it was the first day of autumn.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 24. (AP)—Three men are missing and are believed to have perished and thirty-two others are held prisoners in a drift on the eighth level of a shaft in an Oliver mining company mine here as the result of a cave-in this afternoon. Crews are working feverishly in an attempt to dig out the dirt and reach the cage.

One Way Traffie to Be Enforced for Fair This Year, Donohue Asserts

Lyle Donohue, who will direct the traffic for the Texas-Oklahoma Fair this year, announced a definite plan of action yesterday in regard to the movement of automobiles into and from the fair grounds.

"The traffic will be moved all one way," Mr. Donohue stated, "and there will be no jamming and delaying if the public will follow instructions." All cars going to the fair must go out the Seymour road and enter the fair grounds from that side. The road is paved practically to the fair grounds and the balance is freshly graveled and graded, making a fine road that way. All traffic leaving the fair grounds will go out Grant street way and country club roads.

This system will provide a smoothe, easy movement of all traffic with no cars meeting each other, Mr. Donohue explained.

All cars will be parked inside the fair grounds near the Seymour road entrance, and no charge is being made for automobiles into the grounds. Police officers will be stationed at various intervals to direct the traffic, but the main thing for the public to understand is that they must enter the fair grounds by way of the Seymour road, and the rest will be easy.

CARDS WIN IN RACE TO FLAG

St. Louis Club Cops National Pennant Friday At New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.(AP) Rogers Hornsby and his gallant band of St. Louis Cardinals after a stirring struggle to bring to the mound city its first National league pennant in the history of baseball, ended all doubt as to the ultimate winner today by trouncing New York, 6 to 4, while the second place Cincinnati Reds were splitting a double header with Philadelphia.

When the Quakers walloped the Reds, 9 to 2 in the first game, Cincinnati's mathematical possibility of overcoming the Cardinals disappeared.

The standing of the leaders today:

	W.	L.	To P.	Pct.
St. Louis	89	63	2	.586
Cincinnati	86	66	2	.566

Only the slimest of possibilities bars concession of the pennant to the New York Yankees in the American league. Cleveland's loss to Philadelphia, 3 to 1 today, while the Yankees were being rained out at St. Louis boosted the New York advantage to two and a half games.

The standing today:

	W.	L.	To P.	Pct.
New York	89	61	4	.593
Cleveland	87	64	3	.576

Cleveland by winning three games, may nose out the battering Yankees if the latter lose all four of the struggles left to play. In that event the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cleveland	90	64	.584
New York	89	65	.578

BANKERS PLAN FUND TO HELP ORDERLY SALE

Million Bales Will Be Kept Off Market To Aid Price

DALLAS, Sept. 24.(AP)—A plan adopted by 100 representative Texas bankers here Friday provides for raising a fund of $100,000,000 to be loaned at $50 a bale at 6 per cent per annum to retire 1,000,000 bales of Texas cotton or one in five bales of the prospective 5,000,000 bale crop. The fund is to be raised through the clearing house associations of Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Waco, Galveston, Austin and other large cotton centers. Today's special conference was called by the Dallas clearing house association.

New Finance Plan.

Texas bankers will be urged to convert some of their present loans on the cotton crop into new loans on the actual cotton insured and warehoused, with warehouse receipts or chattel mortgages attached, thus helping growers to market the crop orderly, and stop dumping.

The same plan is to be introduced into Oklahoma, Arkansas and other southern states until at least 3,000,000 bales of cotton in these states or a total of 3,000,000 bales will have been retired from the market. This would leave only about 12,000,000 bales in the active market, experts pointed out, although in the last 12 months the world consumed 15,000,000 bales of American cotton.

Acreage Reduction.

Coupled with this financial plan is one of a 25 per cent acreage reduction in Texas cotton and in other southern states for 1927, starting early this fall through an intensive campaign of education and pledge signing. With proper acreage reduction next season, it is estimated, the 3,000,000 bales should be easily absorbed with the 1927 cotton crop.

READ THIS FIRST:

Merry Locke, pretty and gay as her nickname, is a born flirt. She's the kind of girl who has no ambition beyond having a good time and plenty of beaux. At 20, she fails at business school because she won't study. Then she takes a low-salaried job in Lillie Dale's little beauty shop.

At that time she is having the first real love affair of her life. The man in the case is Tony Gaines, a serious young lawyer who wants to marry her. Their engagement ends when Tony learns that Merry goes out with other men. A year later Merry hears that he is going to marry a girl in Montana where he has gone to live.

Moms, Merry's widowed mother, takes Lillie Dale and a Mr. Hefflinger into the house to board. Mr. Hefflinger begins to court Moms in his middle-aged way, to the disgust of Merry's youngest sister, Jinny, who elopes with Derrick Jones and goes to live next door with his parents.

Cassie, the oldest sister, marries her rich employer, Morley Kaufman. They quarrel constantly, but Merry envies Cassie her soft easy life.

Through the Kaufmans, Merry meets Bill Erskine, a wealthy bachelor. They become engaged but Bill keeps putting off the wedding. Then Merry begins to go about with Cabby Marsh, who is the fiance of Morley Kaufman's sister Muriel. And when Merry gets herself tangled up in the divorce case of her old beau, Les Purcell, and his wife, Muriel tells Bill all about it. He drops Merry like a hot cake and marries another girl.

One afternoon a year later, Merry is just starting out for a drive with Cabby Jones when they meet Muriel. Muriel, wild with jealousy, tells Merry that she is "the kind of girl that fellows take out on the sly." She adds that Cabby wouldn't be seen with her, if he were with his own crowd," and Merry knows that it is the truth. For Cabby admits that while he is going to marry Muriel, he is more than willing to have a little fun with Merry and girls like her in the meantime.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVI

The morning of Merry Locke's twenty-eighth birthday was a day she never was to forget so long as she lived.

It began as ordinarily as a day can begin.

She sat up in bed, yawning. Then suddenly she remembered that paperhangers were coming to paper the hall and the downstairs sitting room.

It was not until she was out of bed, and standing before her mirror that she remembered that this was her birthday. Her twenty-eighth birthday.

Could she really be that old? She leaned close to the mirror and looked at herself in the glass.

The sunlight from the window beside her poured over her in a yellow flood that found few flaws in her face.

The twenties do not write very much history on a woman's face, and except for the little tired lines at the corners of Merry's eyes, she looked much as she had looked when she was twenty.

"I can't believe I'm really twenty-eight," she said to herself, her own eyes meeting the gay, deep ones in the mirror. "First thing I know I'll be an old maid."

She laughed at the thought, and then wondered if she ever would be married. George Leet was still coming to see her every Wednesday and Sunday night, as he had been coming for five years.

"Shopworn—That's What I Am," She Thought Bitterly.

George would never marry while his mother lived. He said so. He had only enough money to support himself and her. Poor George.

"But I don't believe I'd marry him even if I had the chance," Merry thought, as she picked up a brush and began to fluff out her yellow hair.

She was almost contented, these days. She worked all day, and she read a great deal. The old days when nothing but a movie magazine or Vogue looked good to her, were gone. She had a card at the public library, and she took out two or three books a week.

She liked stories about married life best. Or stories of adventure. The other kind, the books about the love of a man and a girl, she never read. They made her unhappy and restless.

She didn't know why. But she learned to leave them alone, just as she had trained herself not to think about Tony Gaines.

She never thought about him any more. That is, hardly ever.

But that morning something happened that filled every niche and corner of her mind and heart and soul with him, again, after eight long years.

"I wish you'd stay home today and help me," Moms said to her over the hurried untidy breakfast in the kitchen. "I ought to wash all the woodwork before the paperhangers come. And I'll never be able to do it, alone.

So, instead of starting off to the beauty shop with Lillie, Merry went upstairs and put on an old blue calico house dress that had once belonged to Helen.

"All right, here I am," she told moms cheerfully, when she went downstairs. "Where will I begin? I don't know whether I'll be any good at this kind of work or not."

To Mom's disgust she put on a pair of red rubber gloves.

"I don't know how you can work in those things, Merry Ann Locke," she said severely, "but do your best and use plenty of elbow grease. You can start in with the front hall."

Merry carried her pail and an armful of clean cloths and a bowl full of oil soap into the hall and set to work.

It was the first time she had ever tried to scrub woodwork in her life, and like all beginners, she made quite a job of it.

The space between the wall and the mob-board that ran around the floor was filled with dust. After trying to wash it out Merry decided to try scraping it out.

In the drawer of the kitchen table was a ruler and she slipped it between the baseboard and the wall and went to work. Little rolls of dust, like gray mice, came tumbling out and then, suddenly, the ruler stuck.

Merry pulled it out, and slipped it down behind the base-board once more.

But once more it stuck. Something was holding it there—something that felt like a wad of paper. All at once the ruler brought it forth from its hiding place. It was a wad of paper. A folded wad of envelope with a two-cent stamp and a special delivery stamp on it!

Merry's mouth began to tremble. Without looking at the handwriting on the envelope she knew what it was—the special delivery letter from Tony Gaines! The letter that had disappeared so mysteriously so long ago.

Shaking all over she got up from her knees and went upstairs to her own room.

There she opened it and read it—the letter that she should have read on a summer night eight years ago. The letter that could have changed her whole life, if someone had not folded it up and hidden it then, behind the old warped baseboard.

"Dearest," Tony had written, and Merry shut her wet eyelids as she looked at the word. It was almost like hearing his voice say "dearest" close against her ear.

It was a minute or two before she could see again to read, through the blinding tears that flooded her eyes.

"Dearest, I am going away in a few days. To Billings, Montana, where my father's old friend, Judge Bannerman, is going to take me into his law office. I've been waiting to hear from you, and as your mother, no doubt has told you, I've called at the house twice. Let's not be fools any more, Merry. Let's get married now, today, and go to Montana together. TONY."

Merry sat still as a statue, holding it in her hand. The boyish impulsive letter that the ' ', Tony, had written eight years before. She wondered if the grown man, who had married in Montana, ever thought of that letter now. If he ever thought of that last night he had spent here, in this town, probably waiting for her to telephone him.

Suddenly, with a little whimpering cry she turned and flung herself across the bed, shaking with terrible sobs. Shaken with helpless grief. Crying as she had not cried for eight years, and knowing as she did, that it was too late to cry now.

It may have been half hour afterward that she began to wonder who had put the letter there, where she had found it.

It was perfectly plain that it had not fallen there. It had been folded twice and then stuffed down behind the baseboard. The blackened creases showed exactly where it had been folded.

Merry sat up, wiped her eyes, and lived over the long-ago night in her memory. No one had been in the house that night but herself and Moms and Jinny and Cassie.

Moms, of course, had not touched the letter. She had liked Tony Gaines.

Jinny—all at once, something that Jinny had said that night flashed across Merry's mind. Jinny had said that Cassie had been looking at the letter, while she sat beside the table, waiting for Morley Kaufman. Of course, Cassie had hidden the letter!

"I'll never forgive her if she did!" Merry declared.

That afternoon at four o'clock she was on her way to Cassie's big house on Overlook Heights.

All day she had gone around the house, doing her scrubbing, with a face like white flint.

She sat in a corner of the street car, watching two or three young flappers across the aisle. Cute young things with shingled hair and painted cheeks and bright eyes.

"They're nineteen or twenty—just about the age I was when Tony wrote this letter to me," Merry thought, holding it between her hands. "I wonder if he'd still like me if he could see me now."

She knew she was as pretty as she ever had been. The flappers every now and then stole an admiring glance at her. For all their youth, she was better looking than any of them.

"But I've changed," she thought, as the car started the slow climb to Overlook Heights. "Maybe I don't look much different, but I feel shop-worn, somehow."

She thought once more of Cassie, who, without any doubt, had hidden the letter from her. And her face was set to the mood of hatred as she started up the gravel drive that wound through green lawns to Cassie's proud house on Overlook hill.

(To Be Continued)

The next chapter of "The Petter" a vitally interesting one, tells how Cassie "explained" the letter from Tony, and what Merry did. Do you think she wrote Tony Gaines? See the next chapter.

CHINESE JOLT BRITAIN'S IRE

Protest Filed Before League Of Nations in Yangtze Case

GENEVA, Sept. 24.(AP)—The Chinese delegation to the league of nations made a protest today against the part taken by the British gunboats on the Yangste river in the recent trouble at Wanhsien. The protest caused something of a sensation.

Acting on instructions from the Peking government, Choa Hsin Chu gave the Chinese version of the affair in which several British naval officers and enlisted men were killed or wounded.

Viscount Cecil, replying, said he had heard Chu's statement with astonishment and regretted the Chinese delegate's strange procedure.

Chu alleged that more than 100 Chinese had been killed in the first bombardment of Wanhsien in July and more than 1,000 in the second bombardment in August.

Lord Cecil said the British version was quite different. Both governments, he added, were trying for a friendly settlement of the affair, but the statement of the Chinese delegate would hardly help in bringing about such a settlement.

DUST KILLS MANY.

Freak of Tornado Proves Fatal for Victims.

ASUNCTION, Paraguay, Sept 24. (AP)— Asphyxiation caused by dense clouds of dust was responsible for the deaths of several of the 150 victims of the hurricane in Encarnacion, it was learned today.

The violent gale, especially on the outskirts of the city, raised dense clouds of dust, somewhat like a sand storm, which suffocated several persons who had no time to find shelter.

Further reports from the stricken city say that relief workers are still removing debris and extricating victims from the ruins.

FLAVOR TEST PICKS COFFEE

Easiest Way Devised To Select Best Of Brands

There is a saying that a "Woman is a natural born shopper." She doesn't buy the first pair of shoes shown her. She tries on many dresses before she makes a purchase. She carefully compares one hat with another until she finds just the right hat.

Men say she goes to all this trouble just because she has an inherent love for shopping. But that isn't entirely true. Women may love to shop but they also believe in getting the best possible value for their money. The compare one article with another in order to select the best. They shop for satisfaction.

Another reason why women shop is because they have become the purchasing agents of the home. In a recent survey by a national magazine it was found that women buy 98 per cent of the things for the home. And many husbands will admit that their wives buy most of their shirts, hose, underwear and other apparenl.

Shopping for hats, shoes, dresses, jeweiry, and other similar goods is easy to do at the store, but there are some articles for which it is difficult to shop. Coffee is one of these.

People prefer one coffee to another because of the flavor primarily. And they cannot compare flavors at the store.

Because of this fact and to make it easy to compare coffee flavors the Folger Coffee test was devised. It is strictly a flavor test and makes it possible to choose the best coffee. You simply compare Folger's coffee with the brand you are now using. It is the logical, easy way to shop for coffee.

The Folger Coffee test: Drink Folger's coffee tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will decidedly favor one brand or the other. The best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it?

After the housewife has made this easy test, it is a simple matter to always order her favorite coffee by brand name.

NEGRO SHOOTS WIFE.

Other Man in Triangle Tangle Also Gets Bullet.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 24.—Tommy Wright, negro, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife and Isom Mitchell, another negro, in a cotton field west of Manitou on the Jeff Roark farm at about 11:30 o'clock Thursday.

50 BILLS FOR 'MA' TO SIGN

She Has 0 Days For Okeh Or Veto On Bond Laws

AUSTIN, Sept. 24. (AP)—With half of the 30-day special session of the 39th legislature gone and both houses adjourned until Monday, approximately 535 measures of 617 introduced, practically have been disposed of with little opposition. Most of the measures were bills creating road districts and validating bond issues worth $100,000,000 affected by the United States supreme court decision in the Archer county case.

50 Bills Ready

Although about 50 of the validation bills have been submitted to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, at the close of Friday she had signed none but the per diem and contingent expense bill of $130,000.

She has 10 days within which to sign or veto the measure.

The lower house has finally passed about 320 of the 333 bills introduced and the senate was finally passed 215 of 284 bills introduced. Eighty-six senate bills were passed by the house and the senate passed 48 bills, nearly all of which have been validation bills.

Bills By Dale

The fight in the house of representatives is expected to center on the two bills by Dale, as submitted by the governor, for a three-cent gasoline tax, one-fourth of the revenue for public schools to increase the scholastic apportionment and three-fourths to the highway department, and the second, to abandon the horsepower fees on motor vehicles and permit the counties to retain all of the weight fees on automobiles.

Moody Opposed

These measures, although unfavorable reported by the committee on revenue and taxation, were advocated by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in her unsuccessful campaign for re-election and are opposed by supporters of the incoming administration headed by Dan Moody. The submission by the governor of the tax on gasoline does not open up any and all matters of tax, the attorney general ruled in a letter to Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house and if the bills are not passed, the legislature will be unable to appropriate funds for school apportionment, which probably will remain at $11.50 and which is admitted as being insufficient to maintain the free school system standards.

Tax on Tobacco

In event the legislature defeats the Dale bills Governor Ferguson is expected to submit a tax on tobacco but was stated that the chief executive is anxious to place the three-cent tax gasoline, not only to raise the revenue but to carry out plans of her campaign, her fight against the oil companies which her husband, James E. Ferguson credited with being a great factor in her defeat.

THROWN FROM HORSE.

ELECTRA, Sept. 24. (AP)—Miss Pauline Chiles, sister of Mrs. Jack Prince, suffered a painful fall from her house about 10 o'clock Friday morning when returning from a morning ride in company with Miss Ruth Prince. As the horse entered the drive-way of the home at 710 West Ida where Mr. and Mrs. Jack Prince reside, the horse slipped, throwing Miss Chiles to the grass.

HUMBLE CUT IS 2ND ATTACK

Panhandle Crude Is Still In Demand, According To Reports

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 24.—The second attack that the Texas Panhandle field has received lately from the major purchasers occurred Thursday.

The Humble Oil and Refining company announced that effective that day it was establishing a price of $1.25 a barrel for all crude run into its storage tanks in the field. This storage price is irrespective of gravity.

In addition the Humble announced that such crude as it will purchase to ship will be at its previous price schedule of $1.35 to $2.15 a barrel.

Field reports show that the Humble has had three steel tanks of 55,000 barrels capacity in the Panhandle field, but had authorized the construction of 10 or 12 new tanks of similar size there.

The Magnolia Petroleum company on September 18 announced reductions of 20 to 45 cents a barrel for Texas Panhandle crude.

Panhandle crude is still in demand by independent and major refiners, and the Santa Fe railway is now moving out from 50,000 to 70,000 barrels a day of the field's total of 120,000 barrels a day by tank cars. When its Isom-Panhandle branch is completed, it will materially increase this total.

The Skelly Oil company of Tulsa, is now arranging to ship 30 to 50 cars a day of its own Panhandle production to its Eldorado, Kan., refinery. Arrangements there have been made to refine this oil there. Skelly company is being governed in its future refining activities by the results that Mariand, White Eagle and Humble had with Panhandle crude.

Moody's Oil Suits Surprise Operators

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 24.—Mid-Continent oil men were surprised at the news from Austin that the State of Texas, through Attorney General Dan Moody, had brought suit against the Humble Oil and Refining company, Reagan County Purchasing company, Big Lake Oil company, Texon Oil and Land company and Croon No. 1 Oil company on a charge of conspiracy.

The suit involves $2,750,000, which it is charged was withheld from the University of Texas treasury, through an alleged conspiracy on the part of the producing and purchasing companies to buy and sell oil from university lands in the Big Lake district below the posted market price.

The proceedings ask for an immediate receivership for the Texas Oil and Land company, Group No. 1 Oil company and the Big Lake company.

HODGINS WILL AID FARMERS

Police To Direct Them To Cotton Pickers Who Ask Work

Cooperation of Police Chief George Hodgins and members of his department, with the chamber of commerce in the efforts to place as many cotton pickers as possible in the fields of the county was promised Friday by Hodgins when he conferred with members of the chamber of commerce staff.

As one means of cooperating, Chief Hodgins announced that the desk sergeant at the city hall will be glad to receive the names of the farmers in need of pickers. He will also be glad to furnish these farmers with the names of all who desire work in the cotton fields.

The chamber of commerce staff members have been busy throughout the week in efforts to obtain the workers for the farmers. Many families were given work, but there remains an abundance of cotton to be gathered. In places it is reported as much as one half bale to the acre is open and needs to be gathered.

ELECTRA HENRIETTA ~ HOLLIDAY ARCHER CITY ~ IOWA PARK CHARLIE

STUDENT TAX QUIZ MONDAY

University Fee System Will Be Probed By Texas Solons

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.(AP)—Any Texas university student who wishes to protest payment of the $10.50 compulsory student activities fee will be given the opportunity to appear beginning Monday before the house investigating committee, Representative George Purl of Dallas, chairman, said Friday. Hearings will be held on the university campus.

The house of the 39th legislature here in session, Wednesday ordered an inquiry into the university fees, and instructed the committee pay particular attention to athletic receipts and disbursements. Of the $10.50 blanket tax, $7.10 goes to support of men's activities, the student receiving a season pass to athletic contests here.

To Meet Splawn.

Other committee members are, Sheats, secretary, Pope, Woodall and Dinkle.

Committee members go Saturday to the campus on a "get acquainted' mission, calling on President W. M. W. Splawn and other university officials, Purl said.

Ed Gossett, president of the students' association, and other student officers will be invited to testify, Representative Sheats said. President Splawn Wednesday told the committee the "blanket tax" was made compulsory at request of the students, who administer expenditure of the receipts. He said the regents reluctantly had granted the request.

"Pauper's Oath."

The feature of the tax apparently most distasteful to the house members was that a student to avoid payment of the tax has to state such payment would seriously embarrass him financially. This statement was characterized as a "pauper's oath," in the reason offered by eight former Texas university students asking the inquiry, and in the arguments on the floor.

President J. C. Mytinger of the chamber of commerce and Mayor R. E. Shepherd Friday afternoon received telegrams from the president of the chamber of commerce and mayor of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., asking for financial aid for the storm sufferers of that city. The matter was turned over to the Red Cross since that organization is handling this relief work.

The message from Fort Lauderdale stated five thousand people are destitute and homeless and that fully 1,000 are suffering from disease. Hospital facilities are limited and the financial aid is needed in efforts to relieve the suffering.

The Red Cross, according to Mrs. Grace Ashbaugh, in charge of the local branch, has raised more than $800,000 for relief work in the storm stricken area. A large number of Wichita Falls citizens have contributed to this fund. A check was received Friday by the Red Cross from a Wichita Falls woman, who said she was in the Corpus Christi storm and she could imagine the suffering in Florida and wanted to contribute her part to the suffering.

Frisco Police Capture Miss "X" and Her Companion

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.(AP) The Chronicle says Harry Melosh, sought for questioning in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson affair, was arrested here last night as the "Mr. Martin" in the case, along with a woman who confessed she is the mysterous "Miss X" mentioned by Mrs. Lorraine Sielaff in her recent kidnaping hoax confession. The woman is Mrs. Babe Daniels, 20, of Chicago.

Mrs. Daniels, in an affidavit, asserts that she is the woman who signed the affidavit claiming that she and not Mrs. McPherson was the woman companion of Kenneth G. Ormiston at Carmel, while Melosh declared that Mrs. McPherson told him that she had been at Carmel with her former radio operator.

He Gets $450

Asserting that he had received in all $450 from Mrs. McPherson, Melosh said that a Los Angeles attorney and a nationally known Los Angeles detective have also played prominent parts in the alleged attempt to manufacture false evidence to clear the name of the Angelus Temple evangelist.

Melosh is held on a "John Doe Martin" warrant from Los Angeles, while Mrs. Daniels is held as a material witness.

The hoax as outlined to him by the attorney, Melosh said, was to begin with the "planting" of Mrs. McPherson's bathing suit in the rear of 4505 South Gramercy street Los Angeles, which was later to be discovered by the detective. The detective was also to discover evidence that the pastor had been drugged and held a captive there.

One Plot Falls

But this plot fell through and Mrs. Sielaff entered the plot at a conference between Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Sielaff, Mrs. Daniels, the attorney and Melosh, according to Melosh's statement. It was at this meeting, he said, that they planned for Mrs. Sielaff and Mrs. Daniels to pose as Ormiston's companions and arrange for the affidavit.

Cards Tuck Away First Title By Lacing Giants While Cincinnati Splits

Southworth's Homer With Torporcer On Base, Sherdel's Relief Pitching Wins for St. Louis

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals tucked away their first National championship here today when they defeated New York by 6 to 4 after Cincinnati had lost the first game of a doubleheader in Philadelphia. It was the first championship won by a St. Louis club since the original Browns of the old American association won in 1888.

The triumph of the Cards in firmly cornering the elusive pennant found popular favor with metropolitan fans as well as with enthusiasts throughout the east.

Cheers Greet 'Em.

When the game was over, the Cardinals were hailed with cheers, but they merely smiled as they hurried to the club house, shaking hands and slapping one another on the back. With the exception of Pitcher Grover Alexander, Outfielder Billy Southworth and Coach Killefer, being on a major league championship team was a new experience for the St. Louis players.

About 5,000 witnessed the advent of the Cards to the premier honors. St. Louis players were favorites throughout the game and when a Cardinal rally was cut off or the Giants scored groans went up from the spectators.

Reds Fight Hard.

Stubborn resistance was advanced by the Reds in the pennant scramble. After leading the league during a large part of the season, Cincinnati was obliged to step aside for a Cardinal challenge to peak honors and the final days of the race saw both clubs battling away on an even footing. The Cincinnati rout, however, took form in the series with the Giants last week when they dropped two games in a row and then extended to the mixup with the Braves when Boston made a clean sweep of a three-game tussle. The Giants rapped Flint Rhem hard in the opening inning of today's game forcing the star of the St. Louis pitching staff to give way to a pinch hitter in the second inning. Terry hit a home run with Frisch and Kelly on base. But for a great catch by Douthit on Lindstrom's drive and Mueller being out stealing, New York would have scored three more runs.

Cards Come Back.

The Cardinals came right back and knocked out McQuillan, who defeated them here last Sunday in the second inning. Lester Bell doubled, took third on a wild pitch and scored on O'Farrell's infield single. Doubles by Thevenow and Toporcer, the latter a pinch batter, then tied the score.

Billy Southworth, former Giant, then sent St. Louis in front with a home run, scoring Torporcer ahead of him.

Wee Willie Sherdel, the southpaw, assumed the pitching burden for St. Louis in the second inning and held the Giants to seven hits and one run, the latter being made as the result of a ball which bounded poorly to Hornsby.

Sherdel Gets Help.

And with the pennant within their grasp the Cardinals played a great defensive game behind Sherdel. O'Farrell threw out three Giants attempting to steal, Kelly's bobble and Tyson's single in the eighth accounted for the Giants' last run. The Cards only other productive inning besides the heavy handed second stanza was the seventh when "Sunny Jim" Bottomley's triple off "Zeeke Barnes" and Chick Hafey's double put over their final run. Kent Greenfield pitched the final two innings for the Giants.

Hagen To Meet Diegel In Finals

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. Sept. 24.—Walter Hagen tonight stood at the door of golfing fame which refused to open six days ago for Bobby Jones needing only one more triumph to win his third successive championship.

The invincible "Hage" arrived at the threshold in the ninth professional golf event today with a blast of great stroking which completely smothered Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., in the semi-finals, six and five. Tomorrow he will pass through his final test—a 36-hole match against Lee Diegel of New York, who drew abreast of Hagen today after beating off a brave but belated rally on the part of Johnny Golden veteran contender from Paterson, N. J., one up.

ROMMEL HAS EDGE ON UHLE

Jenkins Slams Two Doubles in Macks' 3 to 1 Victory

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.(AP)—Cleveland's pennant hopes flickered today when Rommel outpitched Uhle and Philadelphia won the first game of a scheduled double header 3 to 1. The second game was called at the end of the second inning because of darkness followed by a heavy downpour of rain. A double header will be played tomorrow. Rommel and Uhle each allowed nine hits, but the Philadelphia hurler kept his better scattered than Uhle. It was "Uhle day" at Dunn field, the fans of Lakewood, Ohio, Uhle's home, coming to the park to present the Indian moundsman with several gifts including a watch and stick pin. Had he won, he would have beaten his 1923 record when he won 26 games.

Olney Wallops Junior Coyotes

OLNEY, Sept. 24.—The Olney high school club defeated the Coyote pups 21 to 9 in a hard fought gridiron battle the first of the season here, Friday afternoon. The cubs held the offensive practically throughout the entire game and opened up an aerial attack completing eight out of 11 forward passes. Dunnigan Club, quarter back, and Russell Speedy, half, made the three touchdowns. The former scored the first on an 18-yard run around right end while Russell crossed the line on a 35-yard broken field run in the first quarter after he had recovered a Wichita back's fumble and on an eight-yard end run in the fourth period.

Carter, quarterback, and Beach, playing half, were the Coyote stars.

Childress Routs Matador, 41-0

CHILDRESS, Sept. 24.—Matador went down to defeat at the hands of the Childress Bobcats on the local fair park gridiron here this afternoon. The final score being 41 to 0. The Matador team was outweighed and outplayed. They did not have a chance from the time the game started. Sport, fullback for Childress, was easily the outstanding star of the game, being always good for ground gains through the line or around the end. He made two of the touchdowns himself and threw the pass that netted another. On the kickoff by Matador, opening the game, Sport returned the ball 65 yards and had the run been straight down the field it would have been good for a touchdown from kick-off.

Assisting Sport and playing stellar games were Bybee, quarter; Fowls, half and T. Nichols, end and punter. Nichols caught a long pass in the last few minutes of play and raced over the goal line.

A feature of the game was when J. D. Barkley, 13-year-old sub and 75-pounder went in the game at end. He got in just in time to drop kick a very pretty goal after touchdown.

The only player of any ability on the Matador team was Tilson, the fullback, who made some fine gains for his men and he was also good on defensive. Matador lacked experience, teamwork and weight. They did not show the fighting spirit as did Childress. Had the Bobcats exhibited that kind of fight in the Amarillo game, the score might have been different.

Bill Habern will take care of the keystone. Jimmy Parker is down for left field, E. Roberts, center and Roy Anderson, right field.

Frederick Wins First Grid Game

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 24.—Frederick high school won its first Southwestern Oklahoma conference game here this afternoon, defeating Mountainview 13 to 6. Captain Pope, all Southwestern back, made both of Frederick's touchdowns, one on a 45-yard end run, the other for 35 yards. He also kicked goal. Mountainview's touchdown was made after a series of costly fumbles on a line. Buck, Jack Kadane, with Wichita Falls team last year, and Pope starred for Frederick.

PHILLIES HALT REDS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.(AP)—The Phillies eliminated Cincinnati as a possibility for the National league pennant today by splitting a double header with the Reds. The Quakers won the first game, 9 to 2 and lost the second, 8 to 4. Claude Willoughby held Cincinnati's batsmen in check in the first game while the Phillies clouted two Red pitchers out of the box. Art Nehf of the Reds held them at the finish. Knight pitched the entire game for the Phillies in the second contest but was ineffective. Luque started for the Reds but was replaced by Lucas in the sixth, although the former was credited with the victory. Hargrave hit a home run in this game with two on base.

Archer City Nips Electra, 3 To 0

Jim Reese's Tigers dropped a hard-fought practice game in Archer City Friday to Wilson's Wildcats, 3 to 0, when in the third quarter B. Larkin placekicked a field goal from near the 20-yard line.

Larkin and Hodges were the offensive stars for Archer City, the former gaining more ground than the entire Electra backfield combined. Hodges flashed with end runs and line plunges.

Gillum was Electra's offensive star, if any.

The Tiger line performed highly efficiently on the defense, but Electra backs failed to show much in the way of an offense.

Brown and Cloninger at wing positions put up a neat brand of ball. Brown later was shifted to the secondary defense. Sargent and Avens at tackles. Fowler and Davis at guardsind Coolidge at center all performed in good style.

Springfield Slams Des Moines, 9-0

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 24.(AP)—Springfield today won the second game of a Western-Three Eye league post season series here, 9 to 0. Roy Shades Pence, 1-0, For Second Pel Victory

HEIMAN PARK, NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24. (AP)—Whaley's single in the "lucky seventh" inning scored Lingle and enabled New Orleans, Southern association champions, to conquer Dallas, Texas league pennant winners, 1 to 0 here today.

Luther Roy, ace of the Pelicans pitching staff held the Texans to a lone hit, a single by Brainard, while his team mates were collecting eight safeties off Pence for their second successive victory in the Dixie series.

Lingle opened the seventh for the southerners with a single to right center. Roy went to first base when hit by a pitched ball. After fouling four times Whaley then drove Lingle in. Hendrick, Vick and Tucker then hoisted flies to left fielder Woeber.

Hendrick drove out the first hit of the game in the Pelican's half of the fifth when he placed a hot one out of the reach Morse. Miller's quick return held it to a single, however, and Vick's grounder to Morse put the side out. Dallas moved a man as far as third when Morse received a free pass to first, stole second and advanced another base on a sacrifice. A beautiful one-handed catch by Deal of Miller's drive to short ended the rally.

CHAMP VISITS FALLEN RIVAL

Jack and Gene Shake On Future Meeting In Roped Arena

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.(AP) Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, foes in a boxing ring last night in quest of the world's heavyweight title with all the honor and riches accompanying it, met tonight in Dempsey's hotel as friends. Tunney called on the deposed champion to pay his respects and say goodbye.

Dempsey with his wife, Estelle Taylor, who joined him this afternoon left tonight for an unnamed destination. Tunney will leave tomorrow for his New York home where he was expected to inspire a tumultuous reception. Dempsey too will be in New York within the next few days and will probably make an announcement of his plans for the future.

Jack Wants Fight.

The former champion was said to be eager for an opportunity to regain the title lost last night and Gene Normile his business representative said after the new champion's call on Dempsey that a return engagement could probably be arranged.

Announcement by Tex Rickard of the attendance and gate receipts at last night's bout confirmed the new records made both for number or persons in the stadium and the money they paid to get there.

The attendance was 125,735 of which 118,736 were paid admissions. The record of 81,000 cash customers at the Dempsey-Firpo bout in 1923 was smashed with a wide margin to spare. Gate receipts totaled $1,895,733.40 bettering the previous record of $1,626,580 at the Dempsey-Carpentier bout in 1921. Last night's golden boxing harvest was the third championship contest to attract more than one million dollars at the box office, the other being the Dempsey-Firpo clash.

Dempsey's $700,000.

Dempsey's share in the receipts was $700,000, while Tunney realized $200,000. Tax collected by the United States government was $172,339.30. The Pennsylvania boxing commission received $86,150 and the sesqui-centennial got $170,000. Riekard and his associates had approximately $500,000 in the division.

Relatively a small number of the thousands of visitors remained in Philadelphia tonight. The exodus started immediately after the bout last night, continued throughout the day. Work of clearing the sesqui-centennial stadium of its temporary seats was pushed steadily and will be completed early tomorrow.

A. P. To Broadcast Its Series Reports

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—The broadcasting company of America has been given non-exclusive broadcasting rights for the world series baseball games it was announced today following a conference of radio interests with K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

Mr. Landis told the Associated Press that members of the Associated Press would be permitted to broadcast its wire report of the games as in the past.

The arrangement made by the commissioner with the broadcasting company of America, it was explained was that the company should install a microphone at each game, and through the long distance telephone lines of the Bell system furnish a running discription of the games to as many broadcasting stations as facilities would permit. The broadcasting company of America operates station WEAF.

Only one microphone will be installed in each ball park it was said since Commissioner Landis desired to conserve the available space on the grounds.

Mustangs Smother Teachers, 42 to 0

DALLAS, Sept. 24. (AP)—Scoring two touchdowns in the first quarter and four in the last quarter, the S. M. U. Mustangs using 36 players, smothered the light North Texas State Teachers eleven here Friday, 46 0.

Coach Morrison used his regulars in the first quarter and in the second period, ran an entire team of subs into the contest. At the beginning of the second half he ran another team of fresh men into the fray. Then in the final quarter, he rushed his first string team back into play, and they scored four touchdowns in rapid succession, and were on the verge of the fifth when the final shot fired.

The two most brilliant runs of the game were executed by Buddy Craig and Redman Hume. Craig shot around right end for 39 yards and the third touchdown of the game at the start of the fourth quarter. Later in the same period Hume reeled off a 35-yard dash around left and for the fifth touchdown.

Indians Expect Tough Sledding In Defense Of Fort Against Army Club

Ludgate Sends His Brayes Into Fray With Sill Soldiers This Afternoon At Spudder Park

Maroon and Gold football hopes will be given their first test of the season when at 3 o'clock in Spudder park this afternoon the eleven of Wichita Falls Junior college encounters the squad of the United States army post at Fort Sill, Okla. The soldier boys, owing to their greater age and experience, are expected to carry a powerful punch against the younger and faster college boys, and a good game should result. The game should provide plenty of experience on short order for the college lads in preparation for their conference season, which is to open a month hence.

Coach Ludgate, on the eve of the game, expressed himself as satisfied that his charges would give a good account of themselves and would stand a good chance to carry off a victory. While his team consists of new boys almost entirely, only two letter men from last year having returned, many of his boys have had some experience in high school and are suffering now only by reason of not having played together in the past and starting under a new coaching system, flaws which are rapidly being eliminated through earnest practice and the good spirit of the squad.

Need Field General.

Friday's practice sessions consisted largely of brisk signal and punting drills to prepare the Tribe for a smoother performance of plays. The great lack for the team thus far has been the absence of a field general with experience. In the field of two dozen candidates is no one with experience in the quarterback's position. Ludgate has tried out various candidates for this important post and has finally decided to give first call to Edmund Coffey, kid brother of Gerald Coffey, noted as all-state material on the famous Coyotes of '23 and later lettering at state university. Captain Stephenson at half has shown himself to be a real ball carrier and strong on the defensive and is confidently expected to set the pace for his mates in today's mixing.

Use 'Em All.

The probable line-up for the Maroons will be as follows, according to an announcement by Coach Ludgate yesterday: Quarterback, Coffey; left half, Captain Stephenson; right half, Peery or Keller; fullback, McAninch; left end, Scoggin; right end, Bland; left tackle, Gilchrist; right tackle, Burks; left guard, Thompson; right guard, Trevathan or Ricks; center, Patterson. Every man on the squad who has been out regularly is to be given a trial in the melee, according to the Indian mentor, in order that every man may get an opportunity to show his mettle.

Officials in charge of the contest were announced by Coach Ludgate as J. B. McClain (Ohio), referee; Harold Eaton (Notre Dame), head linesman; Brown McCallum, umpire.

Cardinal Fans Go Wild In Exultant Celebration Of Victory

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24. (AP)—With one great roar of whistles, bombs, horns and other noisemakers including the human voice, St. Louis late today burst into its most joyous and wholehearted celebration since Armistice day eight years ago. The news of the Cardinals' pennant clinching victory at New York had barely been announced by the radio than it was broadcast by the ensuing uproar.

Faster than telephone or telegraph could transmit, the news spread through the downtown district and most disinterested passers-by if there were any knew what it was all about. They realized the Cardinals had brought to St. Louis its first major league pennant in 38 years and a world's series would be played here, Oct. 5-6-7, probably against the New York Yankees.

Passing motorists sounded their horns and heads bobbed from the high windows of office buildings. Sirens began to blow, ten bombs were set off at city hall where hundreds of pigeons nesting there sweeped out over the streets.

A downpour of rain made no difference. Bare headed men and women, young nad old behaved as if the sun were shining brightly. An hour later when the rain abated some hundred more celebraters appeared and the showers of paper were redoubled.

Traffic at the principal corners was in a hopeless jam. Policemen trying vainly to keep some semblance of order, were unable to keep the automobiles and street cars moving.

Three hours after the game, the celebration appeared to be just beginning and it was predicted the fans would continue to hold carnival until the small hours of morning, rain or no rain.

In the midst of the excitement a robber held up the downtown office of the Pressman's association and escaped with $2,000.

Tex May Re-Bill Jack And Gene Next Spring

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.(AP) Tex Rickard said Friday he might promote a return title match between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

"Jack has asked for the match and it may be put on next spring," the promoter declared.

Rickard said Harry Wills would never be given a chance at the title under the New York promoter's auspices "because of the scurrilous tactics of the faction" supporting the negro challenger.

Harry Persson, Swedish champion, and Monte Munn of Lincoln, Nebr., each of whom registered knockouts in preliminary bouts Thursday night and were mentioned as potential title contenders by Rickard.

Tunney is already under contract to defend his title exclusively for Rickard, who following his usual custom obtained such an agreement with the challenger before the fight.

The champion declared he was ready to battle any man Rickard selected.

LAWTON BEATS COYOTES, 20-0

Wichita Falls Eleven Pulls Only Two Threats In Whole Game

LAWTON, Sept. 24.—The 1926 football curtain raised victoriously on the Lawton high school squad here today when the local eleven drubbed the Coyotes of Wichita Falls high school in a practice tiff, 20 to 0.

Starting the scoring in the first quarter the local gridsters were never in danger of being defeated and only once did the Coyotes come into real striking distance of Lawton's goal. Lawton made one touchdown in the first quarter but failed to kick goal in the second quarter. Coach Griffin's lads added another touchdown, kicked goal and made the score stand 13-0, in favor of Lawton.

It was early in the second half that the Coyotes launched a march down the field which Lawton gridsters stopped on their own 20-yard line. Wichita Falls again came into possession of the ball on Lawton's 40-yard line and pushed the pigskin to within one yard of the locals goal line. The Lawton line held and after gaining five yards Lawton kicked out of danger. About the middle of the last quarter Lawton secured another seven points.

Substitutions were: Allred for Lynch, Sisk for McKinney, Downy for Brown, Razor for Francis; Dickey for Razor; Watson for Neal Sisk for Dodson, Francis for Dickey; Dodson for Holstein; Mitchell for McKinney; Razor for Francis; Fly for Mitchell.

CREDIT GOES TO MARINES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.(AP) —"Give the marines credit," says Gene Tunney. "But for the marine corps I could not have won the championship."

Major A. J. Drexel-Biddle of the marine was a happy man at the finish. "The fight demonstrated that the good boxer is superior to the fighter all the time."

Teachers To Be Entertained Here

E. Fisher of the University club, and chairman of the arrangements committee, which, with the chamber of commerce is sponsoring the party.

The purpose of the party is not only to entertain the teachers, but to get them acquainted with the citizens and to have them meet each other. Other committees to assist in taking care of the program and entertainment are to be named soon, Mr. Fisher said.

AGGIES DOWN TRINITY, 26-0

Woodman, Colgin, Simmons Hunt Flash Strong Offense

WAXAHCHIE, Sept. 24.(AP)—Texas Aggies by a score of 26 to 0, won the opening game of their 1926 schedule here Friday from the Trinity university Tigers.

Coach Bible's Farmers, despite the short time given to team development, were obviously the scheduled winners from the opening of the game. Coach Barry Holton's Tigers played a hard game and fought until the pistol sounded the end, but proved too light for the Farmers' line.

End-runs, plunges through the line, and passes comprised the Aggies gaining tactics. The Tigers employed the pass in one quarter to advantage, and were headed for a goal, but a break came and the ball was lost.

Woodman, Colgin, Simmons and Hunt made up the effective Farmer backfield. The Aggie was strong in the line.

Big Celebration To Open Micks New Store Today

Plans for an elaborate celebration for the opening of the newly remodeled building of Micks Furniture company, 716-718 Seventh street are all ready, and the formal opening begins today at 3 o'clock and continues through 10:30 o'clock this evening.

Guests who call at the store during the afternoon and evening will be presented with souvenirs. Music will be furnished by Yancey Cummings and his orchestra from 3:30 to 5 o'clock and from 7 to 9:30 o'clock.

With the remodeling of the building a floor space of 15,000 square feet is obtained, where two floors, a 60-foot balcony and 12-foot wings are provided.

The store opened first in March, 1918 at its present location with C. O. Roark and D. R. Garrison as members of the firm. They are still connected with the company but John C. Man is sole owner and proprietor. The policy of the company has been to serve those persons who want substantial well-made furniture at moderate prices. Working on that basis they have increased from a $25,000 a year sales basis to several times that amount, it was said.

New Age Rule To Function In 1927

Amateur Ineligible If Played With Pro, Announces Henderson

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.(AP)—Certain changes in the University of Texas interscholastic league football plan to be followed this fall which have been misunderstood by some member schools have been explained by Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league.

The change in the rule lowering the age limit to 20 years does ot affect this year's play, as it does not become effective until September 1, 1927. There are also two slight changes in the amateur rule. One which makes the contestant ineligible for a period of 12 months if he has played on a team with a paid player. This clause refers almost entirely to summer baseball, according to Henderson. The second change in the amateur rule is to the effect that if a boy was under 15 years of age, the time of payment for athletic service, such payment does not render him ineligible. By this the boy who may have won a prize in a meet at a county fair, or the like, is taken care of, Henderson pointed out.

This year, four places in the track and field events at the county meet qualify for the district meets. Heretofore, only first and second place winners were allowed to enter the district meet.

Until September 1, 1927, a contestant is eligible if he received credit for three courses his last semester in school irrespective of summer school work done. After that date, however, the contestant must have attended school a major portion of the preceding semester and have completed at least three half units during the semester, with the exception of pupils who have been out a year or more, Henderson said.

Negro Shooting Case In Court

An interesting case among the colored population of Wichita Falls held sway in the 89th district court yesterday when Will Jones, a colored employe of the Lloyd Weaver Motor company faced charges of assault to murder

Jones is charged with having attempted to murder his brother-in-law, Colonel Bell, and Zollie Combes, a negro prize fighter. The trouble came up when Bell and his wife and Combes and Jones wife were surprized at Bell's home. Jones entered the house, shooting his way through as he went. No one was killed but there was considerable commotion in the neighborhood and Jones faced charges of assault to murder.

The case went to the jury late yesterday and last night no verdict had been reached.

DUTCH WANTS GORMAN NEXT

Burly Dutchman Posts $100 Weight Forfeit For Tilt Thursday

Following Thursday's victory over Yaqui Joe in the first of Dutch Mantell's "revenge" forays against Wichita Falls' wrestling favorites, the Amarillo athlete declared that he wants a match with Jack Gorman next.

Mantell was awarded a decision over Gorman at the Eleventh and Ohio arena several weeks ago but mat fandom was very much dissatisfied with the verdict. The wrestlers had split falls and Gorman was getting the better of the match when Mantell started stalling, worked the referee between him and his opponent and then gave the third man in the ring a violent shove. The referee plunged against Gorman, who was off guard. Jack's heels caught in a rent in the canvas and he fell down with the referee flopping heavily on top, knocking the wind out of Gorman temporarily. Mantell dived in and had Gorman pinned before he could straighten out and disentangle himself from the fallen referee.

Dutch said Friday morning before hopping off to Amarillo:

"These bugs down here weren't satisfied with the way I beat Gorman, so I want that guy brought back up here again and I'll beat him right. He wants me to make 140 pounds for him. I'll do it, but he's got to make the weight, too. After I've finished with him I want Romonoff and then Matsuda. I'm going to clean 'em all out."

Dutch left 160 weight guarantee for the Gorman match. Promoter Ross yesterday was busily getting in touch with Gorman in hope of bringing the popular little fellow to Wichita Falls next Thursday for the match.

If Gorman meets Mantell and is in good shape he rates as the odds-on favorite to win.

Texhoma Leases Two New Floors

The entire tenth and eleventh floors of the new Medical Arts building at Eighth and Lamar have been leased to the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, according to announcement Friday. The new building, which was purchased this week from the Medical Arts corporation by W. B. Hamilton, will be completed from the eighth to the eleventh story.

The Texhoma offices have been in the City National bank building, occupying two floors, but has been in need of additional office space for some time. It is expected that the opening of offices in the new building will result in several additions to the company's personnel here which has been prevented by lack of office room.

MILLIONS IN LABOR BANKS

AMERICAN labor is in the saddle—American organized labor the skilled workers of the republic. Banks and investment companies with total resources in excess of $150,000,000 are owned and controlled by organized labor in the United States. Thirty-eight banks in twenty states and the District of Columbia with a total capitalization of $10,500,000 represent the activities of organized labor in the real estate investment bond business. These banks had total deposits of $108,000,000 on June 20, 1926, representing a gain of 10 per cent in less than six months.

In addition to the thirty-eight banks there are several large banking institutions with combined resources of more than $100,000,000 in which labor organizations have substantial but not controlling interest. Ten investment companies in eight states, with total capitalization of $31,000,000, are owned and controlled by labor organizations.

Banking statistics show that there have been few failures of labor banks. Of course, the largest labor bank in the United States is the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Co-operative National Bank of Cleveland, Ohio, with resources of nearly $27,000,000. It is said the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, pioneers in the labor bank movement, which was started six years ago, has founded fifteen banks and eight investment companies with total resources exceeding $80,000,000.

Houston has a labor bank. State Senator Charles Murphy is one of its officers. He was a railroad worker before he studied for the law and invaded Texas politics as a representative of the working classes. In house and senate he has served the people of Harris county. He abandoned politics or will abandon politics after closing his present term in the senate for the good and sufficient reason that the head of a labor bank cannot find time to serve his people as a lawmaker. He has other fish to fry.

What would be the condition of American wage workers if the immigration act had not been passed by congress? What would be the condition of American wage workers if the free traders had their way and the markets of America were swamped with foreign made goods turned out by those who work long hours and have a very small wage scale.

This is the reason why the republicans have the best of it in presidential election years. The tin bucket brigade may be democratic as far as sympathy goes, but the skilled trades are for a protective tariff on American made goods and they think they know the reason why.

WHY NOT THE UNIT RULE?

THERE are western and mid-western democratic politicians who are for the abrogation of the two-thirds nominating rule. There are southern democratic politicians who are for its abrogation. Now the state unit rule is the basis for the existence of the two-thirds nominating rule. This combination of rules originated in the south in the days of chattel slavery.

It was invented to give the politicians who represented the slave holders absolute control of the national convention of the democratic party and to prevent the nomination of a democrat from the north or the west unpopular with the political bosses of the slave owning states.

If the democratic leaders wish for a national harmony, national solidarity, a national party worthy of the name, they will toss aside the state unit rule and the two-thirds nominating rule.

They wrecked the party in 1920. They wrecked the party in 1924. Are they planning to wreck it again in 1928?

PUNISHMENT FOR DRINKERS

NEBRASKA is a western state, the former home of the late William Jennings Bryan. Burt is the name of a Nebraska county. This county has a judge who knows how to punish drunkards and to cure them of drunkenness. He places the convicted culprit on a bread and water diet for twenty days in the county jail. All the sentimentalists are up in arms, but the higher courts of Nebraska have refused to interfere and the convicted drunk must take his medicine or rather his bread and water. It is said to work like a charm.

WINTER GRAIN CROP

CLARENCE OUSLEY, director of the Texas Safe Farming association, is giving advice to the farmers of the state. He warns that Texas faces another loss to her principle industry, cotton production, and it behooves farmers to take early steps to recover next year's operations.

"We have too much cotton," writes the director of the association, "but happily we have the best food and feed crop we have ever produced, and we can recover somewhat of our losses on cotton if we will take advantage of the present state of weather and plant a large acreage in winter grains, winter oats for the southern regions and winter wheats for the northern regions.

He reminds the tillers of the soil the present situation affords an opportunity which should not be neglected to check root rot on all infested land by planting a liberal acreage in winter grain. "Wheat at $1.35 a bushel and oats at 42 to 45 cents a bushel, promises as much net return as cotton at 16 1-2 cents per pound."

Root rot is playing havoc with the cotton lands in Texas. Director Ousley says it is the worst infestation ever recorded of root rot and as the consequence, the average acre yield is low and the acreage pound cost is high. He lets loose this bit of advice to the growers:

"On the whole, we cannot expect to take as much out of our cotton land as we have put into it."

Reduction of cotton acreage is advised by the association. Indeed, reduction of cotton acreage is advised by all thinking men connected with the industry in the cotton belt of the country.

At a recent meeting in Dallas of this association, Charles B. Metchalfe of San Angelo and W. B. Yeary were the authors of a joint resolution calling for the cotton producers of Texas to hold their staple off the market until a price of 25 cents per pound could be realized.

This resolution met with scant support. Now the farmers are advised to plant winter grains and to make a sweeping cut in acreage next year.

ANOTHER BUILDING YEAR

ACCORDING to the federal government exports construction operations are keeping abreast of the records set in 1925, the greatest building year in the history of the country. Total volume of operations carried down during the first eight months of 1925 is 3 per cent larger than the corresponding volume registered last year. Construction activities this year have shown more of an inclination to spurt. This is shown by the fact that although only three months in 1926 have produced levels above that reached in August, 1924, the total for the first eight months stands higher than that achieved by the comparatively consistent trend of 1925.

Building activities in Texas are as great as they were in 1925. All the smaller cities and towns contribute to the volume of building. President Coolidge has returned from the mountains to the capital.

Prosperity appeals to the cautious son of New England. He has his eye on 1928 and another term. If he can pacify the corn growers of the west, he will have plain sailing. As for the nomination, if he wants it, it is going to fall in his lap.

National Committeeman R. B. Creager of Texas predicts that the Texas delegation will be for Coolidge and prosperity and every southern state will send Coolidge delegates to the national convention. He will have behind him the delegates from New England, New York, Pennsylvania, and many of the mid-west states.

He will have the Rocky mountain states and California and Oregon. If he does not care for a third term, it will not be thrust upon him. Calvin Coolidge is the master of the republican political situation.

TEXAS MILLIONAIRES

HOW IT WORKS IN N. CAROLINA

IN THE year 1925, North Carolina spent $15,000,000 on public highways and incidentally it is safe to say that North Carolina is building the best system of highways to be found in the states east of the Mississippi river.

According to the commissioner of agriculture of North Carolina, this building was done from an automobile tax and the gasoline tax of three cents. No advalorum taxes are used for road construction in North Carolina.

If those who use the roads should pay for their maintenance as well as their construction, why should a portion of the gasoline tax go to the credit of the permanent school fund.

The Challenge of the Snake

Meigo O. Frost

Black above those fires, even against the night-time starless sky, bulked the mass of squat and twisted liveoaks from which Ribault Cheniere took its name.

Dark against those fires moved tiny forms in the distance, seen in sable silhouette.

Then it was that Father Duchassois took command.

Silent and dark the St. Rita lay on the bayou bank. The little priest, his cassock covered by a huge oilskin cloak, his head bare, hauled upon the rope astern until the skiff surged alongside. He leaped into its stern-seat, gripped the rail of the St. Rita to steady the small craft.

"Not a shot unless I command, mes enfants," he ordered crisply. "Too much talk of slaying have I heard. We come to rescue Jacqueline now, not to seek vengeance. Your promise?"

Growlingly Antoine and young Perrin gave pledge as they stepped overside into the skiff, weapons in hand.

Antoine looked around. "But where is that scare Bink?" he asked.

Certainly he was not in the skiff. Back over the St. Rita's thwart scrambled Father Duchassois. Cabin and deck alike he found empty. From the blankets on the berth had vanished the heavy rifle the old trapper had oiled so carefully. From the deck the pirogue was missing.

A moment Father Duchassois stood, brow knit in perplexity.

"He leaves us nothing else to do," he said. "We must go on without him."

Without creak of greased oarlock or splash of blade, the skiff swept noiselessly on toward the cheniere.

Crouched in the stern beneath the lash of the driving rain, Father Duchassois was wondering mutely what plan had been in the old guide's mind.

Pirogue and skiff, square-ended john-boat and the long gasoline launch of Zombi Le Veau, lay moored in a cluttered jumble on the shore of Ribault Cheniere.

Zombi Le Veau! It was a name with which to conjure among the illiterate descendants of those who had heard whispered tales of Gran' Zombi, the snake-god, from their earliest childhood. His power had grown silent and malignant. Now he was drunk with it.

There on Ribault Cheniere, in the heart of the deep swamp where few penetrated, stood the temple his following had reared, bulking beneath the dripping liveoaks. Rough trunks of small trees formed its four corners. Rough saplings braced the roof. Thatched with the scrubby latanier palm were roof and walls through whose chinks now shone gleams of light. There were no windows in the shaggy surface of the walls. One opening, doorless, screened by a blanket, gave entrance.

Empty gombo buckets and blackened coffee-pots strewn carelessly beside the embers of the dying fires beneath their palm thatches along the shore, showed that the feast had ended, as Father Duchassois and his two companions in the skiff ebbed along the cheniere in the darkness. By a mass of undergrowth they landed. Lightly the painter was looped to a mangrove root. Silent-footed, keeping in the shade of the spreading oaks, they inched their way toward the walls of the Voudou temple.

Not a guard was outside. Far in the deep swamp the worshippers had deemed sentry needless.

Out from the lantern-lighted room was surging the age-old throb of the Congo drm. Eyes to chinks, the little priest and the two with him peered in upon a scene such as the jungle knew before the new world dawned upon the old world's ken.

Squatted against the wall across from them sat the musicians.

"A present commences!" intoned its leader.

Weird minor cadences rose and fell as bow scraped two-stringed fiddle, long-necked, its body a scant three inches across, its covering a mottled snake-skin. The accompaniment of that weird and wavering note was the steady, rhythmic throb of little drums of gourd, across which sheep-skin was stretched. Some beat those drums in steady cadence with their thumbs in the ancient tribal way. Others gave a swift double-beat with the smoothed ends of the whitened jaw-bone of the bild boar. Out from those guords poured the throbbing volume of sound, surging in eerie waves through the lashing of the rain.

One glance at the squatting musicians showed Father Duchassois that the girl they sought was not there. His eyes, close to the chink in the rough and spiky palm-leaves, searched the room inch by inch. Then he clenched his lean jaw to repress an exclamation.

There stood Jacqueline Paincourt, white-faced, white-robed, in coarse cotton cloth roughly draped about her dress. By the far end of the room she stood, crouched with staring eyes beside a rough seat of planks that served as throne, and on that throne sat Tante Melancon.

Before her, in mid-room, Father Duchassois saw for the first time the Voudou altar. A white tablecloth was spread flat upon the pounded earthen floor. On each croner, held in a little mound of its own melted grease, burned a tall candle. The flickering wayering flames cast weird light upon a strange array of altar decorations.

But between the altar and the plank bench where sat the Voudou queen enthroned, was a sight that sent a shiver down the spine of the little priest.

Weaving and coiling in a square box whose top and bottom were solid wood braced with wodden posts at the corners, but whose sides were chicken-wire mesh. Father Duchassois glimpsed the folds of a snake. Thick as a strong man's arm, its body, bluish black in the light of candle and lantern, mottled with greenish yellow spots.

With swift recollection his mind flashed to Antoine's description of the diabolic thing Zombi Le Veau and Tante Melancon had given Jacqueline. A board black with tar and splashed with the drippings of candle-grease. The symbolism of the snake-skin!

Full six feet long the reptile seemed. From time to time its flat head darted through the opening in the chicken-wire mesh—its forked tongue flashing forth. And close by, tethered by cord from foot to small stake driven in the ground, was a snow-white cock. Beneath the crimson comb its filmed eyes stared fascinated at the snake.

The lips of the little priest moved in silent prayer. He was on the firing line of his service now, in the enemy's country indeed.

Shriller and shriller rose the cadence of the snake-skin fiddle, scraped now by a frantic bow. Higher sounded the throb of the gourd drums. The seated rows of worshippers along the wall swayed to the rhythmic surges of sound.

"A present commences!" rang again the call.

Then Father Duchassois, for the first time that night, saw Zombi Le Veau.

The tall and sinewy form, rippling with snaky muscle, stepped forth from a corner of the room that from his position the little priest had been unable to bring within the range of his limited field of vision.

Questions from the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

What Are The Chances of Marriage for a Young Widow With Two Boys?—Suggestions to a Young Couple on Financing Matrimony. Should She Marry for Money or for Love?

Dear Dorothy Dix.—I am a widow of almost a year. My husband was a good man, too good, in fact, for he allowed me to get anything I wanted and run into dept. He left me no money. As I have two boys, 8 and 10, that I must support I have taken a business course and have now my first position in an office

I am 30 years old, good-looking, I love to keep house and I want to marry. Do you think there is anywhere in the world a man who would take me with my two little boys and be good to them and me? Or do you think I would be better off to forget all thoughts of love and marriage and to work at the thing I have chosen to do and bring up my boys as best I can?

A WIDOW.

ANSWER:

I think that the wisest thing any of us can do is to look life straight in the face and try to see our situation just exactly as it is. We gain nothing by lying to ourselves and trying to deceive ourselves with rosy dreams about what we would like things to be instead of accepting things as they are. So I think that you will do well just to recognize the fact that a poor widow with two small boys is almost insuperably handicapped and has a very small chance of making a desirable marriage.

A young widow, unencumbered by olive branches, may marry when and where and as often as she chooses, for the woman of 30 is in full flower of her mature beauty and as a widow she has an especial lure for men. But when she has children it is another story, and no matter how deftly she tries to weave her spell they fly from her. Few men want to assume a ready-made family. Indeed, in these days of the high cost of living few men feel that they can afford to undertake the support of another man's children.

And when those children are boys at the very age at which they are mischievous and unruly and when it takes the patience of Job and all of a father's devotion to his own flesh and blood to stand them, you can easily understand why there would be few men heroic enough or enough love-maddened to undertake the job.

Of course, miracles do happen, and it is possible that some noble, altruistic man with a well-filled pocket may come your way and fall enough in love with you in spite of your encumbrances, but that is a hundred-to-one shot on which it will be folly for you to place your hopes.

So my advice to you is to put all thoughts of solving your problem by marriage out of your mind. The chances are too great against any fairy prince coming along and rescuing you, so dig in and save yourself. Concentrate all your energies and ambitions on your work and on trying to rear your children properly and you will find a happiness that you will not get in marrying for a home. For you will have your own self-respect if you stand on your own feet, and you are bound to be filled with contempt for yourself if you sell yourself for a meal ticket.

And after all, your pull will not be a long one, for in five or six years your boys will be old enough to support themselves and help you.

ONE LITTLE LAMP

One little lamp that points to camp
Means more to men who wander
Than all the lights of starry nights
That glitter way up yonder
One little word, in sorrow heard,
When someone's heart is broken
From someone dear does more to cheer
Than all the rest have spoken.

One little place is ours to grace,
One little spot to gladden,
And always we the ones will be
To bless it or to sadden.
One little cot is glad or not,
As rain or sun we scatter;
To worlds afar how small we are,
In this how much we matter.

One little task our God will ask,
Not ask some mighty duty—
Some house to find and keep it kind,
Some home to fill with beauty.
One little wall, and yet if all
Would hold the loved ones tighter,
Then all the earth would smile with mirth,
And heaven itself be brighter!

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. Are whales the largest animals in the world?
2. What is a grampus?
3. From what animal is ambergris obtained?
4. In what part of a whale does whale bone occur?
5. What is spermaceti?
6. What animal can drive a hole into a large wooden ship?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

Some Pets!

A famous "snap" course was offered some years ago at Harvard. It was taught by an old German who was so absorbed in his subject that he scarcely troubled to notice who came to it, so the registration was large and the attendance small. The subject of the course was "whales." The professor prefaced his course by saying that some people had cats for pets, and some people kept dogs or horses "but whales is my darlings!"

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions.

1. The wind does not whistle, but rather the objects it strikes are made to vibrate; the pitch of the sound depends on the length of the object, that is, its "key note;" a storm in space, striking no object, would be noiseless.

2. Sound can be reflected, like light, which is the reason for echoes being given off by barns, rocks, hills, woods, etc.

3. The noise of stones being struck to gether under water is louder than in air because the vibrations set up in water move the heavier liquid violently against the ear-drums.

4. Whether an explosion that there was no one to hear would make a noise depends on the definition of "hear" and "noise;" vibrations would be set up just the same, but if noise is something that some animal hears, then it would be noiseless.

5. The wind by itself can slightly wear away weak rocks; if it carries sand it can wear rocks away very fast.

6. There are many, perhaps an infinity of sounds that are so high or so low in pitch that the human ear does not detect them.

DIAMOND PRODUCERS IN WARFARE ON SMUGGLERS

CAPETOWN. — Millions of dollars are being lost annually by the diamond producers of South Africa, owing to a European organization for smuggling diamonds stolen from the mines. This traffic, which is highly organized and is controlled by a gang of international criminals in Europe, is becoming one of the chief problems of the mining companies today. The traffic has become so extensive that Sir David Harris, president of the New Jagersfontein Mining company, stated at the annual meeting of the company in Kimberley that vigilance must be redoubled if the company were not to be crippled in consequence of the cleverly-laid traps of this organization. During the existence of the industry, he stated, many millions have been lost in this way.

"PULL THE LINE AND GET MY BODY," SUICIDE CLEW

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—While H. C. Thompson was walking along the shore of Lake Michigan a few miles from here he found a stick upright in the sand, to which was pinned this note:: "To save time, pull the line and get my body." It was signed "James Kirby." Then Thompson saw a cord extending from the stick into the water. Pulling this, he drew to shore a body. It was identified as that of James Kirby of Chicago, who had disappeared while visiting relatives here. He had been in ill health for several months and had often threatened suicide.

LITTLE PEEPS BEHIND THE SCENES.

The Laundry.
(Overheard By Jessie Schutts)

Boss—Boys, we've broken the grindstone!

First Assistant—Gosh, does that mean I've got to sharpen all those collars by hand?

Boss—Sure, and get busy! Here's a file—let's see you put a keen edge on them. Bill, hurry and tear the buttons off this shirt! Look at this one! Do you call that a good job? Why, you've left half the buttons on!

Second Assistant—I'm sorry, sir, but I did my best. Some of the buttons were hard to get off.

Boss—Well, hand me the scissors! You get to work on that pillow case.

Third Assistant—That 'was a sheet, sir, but I've got it worked down some—shall I make a handkerchief out of it?

Boss—H'm, you ought to be able to get two white neckties out of it if you use your head. If Mr. Jones' washing is done put this pair of ladies' silk stockings in it—he's a bachelor and it ought to cheer him up.

First Assistant—I think I've ruined this tablecloth.

Boss—Ruined nothing! That'll make a good pair of step-ins. Say, where did this wash rag come from?

Third Assistant—Wash rag? Why that's one of your shirts!

Boss—One of my shirts! Say, you dumbells, don't you know better than to do my washing? What's my wife for, anyway?

MODERN IDEA!

Ethel: "Would you marry a man who had a past, dear?"

Josephine: "Why, certainly. There's nothing like having something on a husband from the start."

—Thomas Lisa.

IN KLASS AT KRAZY KOLLEGE
(Conducted By Judy)

Teacher: "Mr. Oskey, why was your friend crying for yesterday, when I passed?"

Pete Oskey: "He wasn't cryin', ma'am—he was playin' tennis with one of his mother's onions."

Teacher: "Well, then you can play with 'gallantry.'"

Pete Oskey:

"I'd sure be content in the gay Orient
Where a man can be married to twenty;
I wouldn't be a Tartar, so just for a starter
My gallantry more would be plenty."

—Silas F. Seadler.

KRAZY KINDERGARTEN.

Teacher: "If you have your mouth organ with you, Tony, try 'Saskatchewan' on it."

Tony Manners:

"I go-a feeshing wid-a my ole man,
I say, 'Chee, aint no feesh in dis-a pon'—
And my ole man look-a mad and say:
'Don' give-a me no Saskatchewan!'"

—Eleanor Shepard.

A Messy Job.

Osborne: "Just married, eh? Congratulations!"

Blake: "Why I'm not married!"

Osborne: "Your hair is just full of rice."

Blake: "That isn't rice. I've been eating corn on the cob."

—Edgar Morrissette.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the ginkette who comes to visit you and then gives you my estimate of your neighbors. My favorite stunt is to sit on the front porch and make remarks about the people who pass or those who are on their porches. Of course, they may be friends of yours, but I never consider that. I go right ahead and discuss their clothes and their appearance. You don't like to call me down, as I'm your guest, so I have a good time. I wonder why I get so few invitations to visit.

CHEERFUL FOR THE INVALID

Karl Kitchen, who writes a column of Broadway gossip for one of the New York papers, stands sponsor for this revised version of an ancient but justly popular wheeze.

According to Kitchen, it seems that a very distinguished motion picture producer—a man who is looked upon as leader of the industry—went to call on one of his actors, who was critically ill. In fact, it was because he was told that his former employee was dying that the producer visited the out-of-the-way tenement on the East Side where the actor was gasping out his life.

The great producer spent several minutes at the bedside of the dying man trying to cheer him up with the promise of a leading part in next picture.

"Why, you'll be yourself in no time," he went on. "I'll have you out in California and I'll make a real star out of you yet."

The actor smiled a weak smile of protest. He did not have the strength to utter a syllable against the extravagant promises of his former employer.

The caller took his departure. Starting down the narrow stairs he bumped his head against the ceiling.

"Ouch!" he exclaimed. Then in a perfectly audible voice he added, I wonder how in thunder they expect to get a coffin down these steps!"

Latest News of the Markets

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.(AP)—Moderate rallies in the cotton market today followed yesterday's sensational decline. After selling up to 14.78 at the start, December broke to 14.54, but rallied to 14.81 in later trading and closed at 14.78. The general market closed steady at a net advance of seven to 14 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of nine to 19 points on covering promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and the appearance of Liverpool buying orders in the local market. October sold at 14.57 and January at 14.69 but as soon as initial demand had been supplied, prices weakened under continued hedging with a renewal of liquidation and local selling. Prices broke back to about the lower levels of yesterday afternoon, October declining to 14.36, and January to 14.62, but selling tapered off around these figures and there were rallies during the afternoon on covering.

The unusually low temperatures for this time of the year, reported northwest of the belt with prospects that the cold wave would extend down into the southwest, no doubt stimulated profit-taking on recent sales, but prices worked up to 14.66 for October and 14.88 for January, or about 18 to 23 points net higher. Except for covering brokers reported very little buying power in the market, and the close showed reactions of six or nine points from the best.

Bearish sentiment based on yesterday's official crop figures was very much in evidence during the day, but after the decline of about 270 points from recent high levels reactionary impulses appeared to assert themselves. The prospect for colder weather, if not light frosts in some exposed parts of the southwest, may have encouraged buying for a rally, but some of the early buyers were credited with selling late in the afternoon, while there was a little spurt of hedging toward the close.

Exports for the day 17,084, making 87,694 so far this season. Port receipts 70,134; U. S. port stocks 1,903,610.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.(AP)—While trading was not nearly so active as it had been earlier in the week prices were steadier and after an early dip due to selling orders probably accumulated over-night, yesterday's big government crop indications and the appearance of a cold wave in the northwest which traders feared might lead to rains in the west and possibly an early frost scare rallied briskly. After an early decline of 16 to 18 points the market rallied and during the afternoon reached levels 31 to 39 points above the early lows and 13 to 19 points above the previous close. The close was practically at the highs, showing net gains for the day of 10 to 15 points.

As Liverpool was better than due at the time the market here opened first trades were unchanged to three points up and prices gained a point or two right after the opening. October trading at 14.53, December at 14.72 and January at 14.77, or four to five points above the previous close. The market soon turned easier and by the end of the first hour October traded down to 14.36, December at 14.46 and January to 14.65; or 22 to 24 points down from the early highs. These prices proved to be the low points.

The market turned firmer near the end of the first hour and advanced gradually during the day on reports of a cold wave, making the highs of the day in the late trading with October at 14.61, December at 14.87 and January at 14.91, or 31 to 39 points up from the lows and 13 to 19 points above the previous close. Heater made mill takings for the week 239,000 bales.

Exports for the day totaled 14,084, for the week 118,209 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.(AP)—With U. S. Steel common regaining the leadership of the market, stock prices moved upward in impressive fashion today on buying stimulated by easier money rates and constructive business news. The advance was by no means uniform, but closing quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from one to five points. Although pools succeeded in obtaining a following in a few specialties, public participation was reported to be on a relatively small scale.

Continuance of the 4 per cent rediscount rate by the New York federal reserve bank and a reduction in the renewal rate on call money from 5½ to 5 per cent allayed at least temporarily the fears of a tightening of credit string. The weekly mercantile reviews reported retail trade in good volume and the destructive storm in Florida was the only unfavorable feature of the week. Renewed talk of mergers and higher dividends invoiving several of the specialties added fuel to the speculative flame.

Except for the rather nebulous explanation of "inside buying," there was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden demand for steel, which was marked up nearly four points to 149½ and closed at the top. In fact, early in the day Wall street heard reports there had been a slight decrease in mill operations last week.

General Motors, which has shared with Steel the leadership of many markets in the last few months, moved up about a point in bull trading. The statement of President Sloan on the eve of his departure for Europe intimating that the huge cash reserves of the corporation may be needed for expansion instead of being distributed as dividends, has acted as a depressing influence on prospective buyers of the stock. Mack Trucks was run up five points at the expense of a sleeping short interest and most of the other motors received good support, despite expectations of a seasonal falling off in business.

Farm implement shares gave a good exhibition of group strength Advance Rumeley common and preferred moving up to new 1926 high levels and International Harvester jumping over four points. About a score other industrials climber into new high ground including Commercial Solvents "B", Texas Gulf Sulphur, Gold and new stocks, Pacific Telephone, Wilson company, preferred, Lambert company, By-Products, Cake and Lowe, Warner Pictures "A" had another spectacular move soaring nearly 10 points to 63.

In the rail group, Chesapeake and Ohio common and Perre Marquette were elevated to new record high prices and Illinois Central of Passaic has been affected by a strikes as reported by Bottany consolidated mills. Conditions since June 30 have been more favorable and operations for the last two months have been profitable.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady in quiet trading, with the exception of the Chinese rates which yielded with the drop in the quotation for silver metal, new selling around 59 cents announced. Demand sterling hung around $4.85 and French francs ruled just above 2¾ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.(AP)—Wheat prices underwent a sharp setback today owing chiefly to improved weather northwest and also to a dearth of buying for Europe. Closing quotations on wheat were 1¼ to 1⅝c net lower, with corn ⅝ to ¾c down, oats a shade to ¼c up, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 12c.

Frost predictions stimulated some commission house buying of future deliveries of corn and oats, but mostly in small lots. On the other hand, country offerings of corn to arrive were liberal.

Provisions responded to an upturn in the value of hogs.

WOOL FORECAST.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The wool market is stronger again this week. The larger worsted mills have a large weight of wool from the market and still seem to be hungry for the staple, although the tendency of the market is steadily against them. It is evident that the goods market has responded to the low prices named for goods and the very evident healthy condition of the market itself. Moreover, prices on goods are rising as is inevitable under the circumstances.

Foreign markets are stronger than ever.

Mohair is firm with moderate sales. Some good hair has been bought in Texas at 55 to 56 cents and kid hair at 65 to 66 cents. Wool quotations:

SILVER MARKET SLUMPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—The price of silver in the New York market today tumbled to the owest level in five years at 59 cents an ounce, an overnight decline of one cent. The break in the local market followed an earlier point since 1916.

Heavy Chinese selling of the metal following the lifting of a rade boycott in Canton was blamed by bullion dealers for the latest slump. At the same time the accumulation of large stocks in the various far eastern centers is said to have induced bear speculation on the part of Indian traders who are anticipating a steady falling off in demand due to the proposed establishment of the gold standard n India.

GIVES THANKS IN WILL FOR A HAPPY MARRIAGE

EVANSTON, Ill.—Many people use their last will and testament as a vehicle for venting their spleen on members of their family who have offended them. Robert Howe took a different task in the document disposing of his $300,000 estate. "In the first place," says his will, "I desire to thank my Heavenly Father for 40 years of happy married life. Secondly I desire to thank Him for blessing me with four loving and loyal-hearted children. I want them to share equally in my estate and to realize that I have always wanted and tried to be just and fair with them."

STOCK-A-DAY

THE FAIR

Five and One-Half Year Record.

E. J. Lehmann orginated in 1875 the business which was taken over by The Fair. The latter was incorporated October 2, 1922. The company conducts a department store in Chicago which occupies an 11-story building and several warehouses. Approximately one third of The Fair common stock was exchanged in October 1925 for Kresge department stores. In March, 1925, the Fair bought the stock of Thomas E. Wilson and company retail sporting goods dealers, which acted as a retail outfit for the Wilson Manufacturing company. The control of the Fair passed in 1925 to S. S. Kresge and associates.

There is no funded debt and capital stock consists of $4,000,000 outstanding in 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par and 375,000 shares of no par common. This latter issue includes a stock dividend of 75,000 shares issued in March, 1925. Two million dollars of preferred stock was retired in 1925.

Net income in the last six fiscal years has varied from $1,111,602 in the year ended January 31, 1925, to $2,485,255 in 1922. In the year ended January 31, 1926, net income of $1,403,541 was equivalent to $2.52 par share on the common stock outstanding. years in the house, is the veteran of the group, followed by Representative Fly, who is 67. Petsch, 38, is the youngest, while Montgomery is 39.

Enthusiastic Moody supporters regarded the exclusion of representatives of the Ferguson minority as a signal victory, comparable with the triumph of Moody forces in the senate in deferring action on the confirmation of Hal Mosely and John Cage as highway commissioners and S. C. Granberry as prison commissioner until convening of the 40th legislature.

Jim Is Silent

James E. Ferguson, husband and chief adviser of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, had no comment to make on the committee personnel; but Ferguson supporters in the house were out-spoken in condemning the barring of minority representatives.

Ruben Loftin of Henrietta, who led the unsuccessful fight to have the committee begin its work immediately and report to the call session, said he was sorely disappointed. "Satterwhite broke the precedent, not only of the house, but of all parliamentary bodies, by not giving the minority representation," he said.

Work During Recess

Neither George Purl of Dallas or A. H. King of Throckmorton, authors of the investigation resolution, wa placed on the committee. Whether either was tendered a post is not known. Purl is chairman of the committee investigating the compulsory student activities fee at Texas University. King stated repeatedly he would not be able to serve under any circumstances, should a post be offered.

The original resolution provided the committee should begin after adjournment and report to the 40th legislature. It was amended, however, to prescribe the committee should also investigate activities of members of the legislature before state departments, and report to the special session if possible; hence the committee may start work within the near future on this angle.

Oil Tax Angle

Another [illegible] ordered an inspection of the treasury and railroad commission records to ascertain if oil and sulphur companies have paid and are paying the full state gross production tax.

Informed there was some criticism of his commitete selection, Satterwhite said he had performed his duty on selecting a group of men he believed would carry on the most searching investigation demanded by the people.

Before making his announcement to the house, the speaker said he believed the committee would be fair and just to all concerned and that he hoped it would work in harmony.

Fine For Obstinates

Next week, the house is expected to pass on the bill submitted by Representative Hall of Harris and others, giving the house committee power to fine and imprison witnesses for contempt of the investigating committee. This bill has been referred to the committee on criminal jurisprudence.

Jurisdiction of the proposed law would be placed in the Travis county court, and a person who wilfully refused to answer the committee's summons or refused to answer a pertinent question would be liable to a fine of from $100 to $1,000 and imprisonment in the Travis county jail from one to twelve months.

Immunity Angle

Immunity would be given a witness from any prosecution growing out of his testimony.

The house investigating committee will in Austin. It is authorized to expend as much as $25,000 from the contingent expense fund.

Last Day For T-O Thrift Tickets

Going! Going! And almost gone. This is the last day! The very last day in which you can save 20 per cent on your Texas-Oklahoma fair expenses. After tonight at 12 o'clock there will not be another thrift ticket sold by the Fair association, Secretary-Manager R. E. Shepherd stated yesterday, and those who have not purchased their Thrift tickets must purchase them today or pay the full amount when they go to the fair ground. This is final. There will be no ifs, ands or buts about it. You cannot have advantage of the saving unless you get your Thrift tickets today.

The Thrift tickets are sold for 40 cents each and are good for 50 cents at the gate or at the grand stand at every performance of the fair, and represent a considerable saving to those who have large families, or those who are going to give parties to the fair.

Season box seats are also going rapidly and those who have not arranged for a box should do so at once at the best boxes have already been reserved and only a few of any kind remain.

Plans All Made For Odd Fellow Encampment Here

The encampment branch of the Odd Fellows lodge held its final meeting here Thursday night prior to the big parade and initiatory ceremonies of Saturday night. About 30 candidates were elected to receive degrees to be conferred on the encampment grounds four miles west of the city on the Seymour road.

All candidates are urged to be on hand at the Odd Fellows hall at 5 p. m. Saturday to participate in the parade. This will go east on Ninth from Travis to Scott, north on Scott to Seventh, east on Seventh to Indiana, south on Indiana to Ninth and west on Ninth to the hall.

Approximately 800 Odd Fellows from all parts of north Texas are expected to be here for the encampment. Some 30 or more grand lodge officers will also be in the city for the affair.

The 15-piece drum corps which will lead the parade has been practicing diligently the past few weeks and everything is announced in complete readiness for the big event.

101 Degree Mark Reached Again

For the fourth day in succession, Wichita Falls weather has gone past the century mark. The temperature reached 101 degrees Friday, 102 Thursday, and on the two preceding days went to 101. A barometer slighty low Tuesday went lower daily and reached 28.82 Thursday at 5 o'clock but had risen to 28.98 Friday afternoon. The skies were slightly clouded during the afternoon, according to the weather report.

Snow In Canada.

Canada's grain belt was ankle deep in snow from Winnipeg to British Columbia with damage to unharvested crops estimated at $12,000,000.

Ohio, at the eastern end of the storm zone computed the losses from a tornado which killed a child and did $300,000 damage as it swept through three counties along Lake Erie last night.

Originating in the upper Rocky mountains, the phenominal cold wave brought Seattle the lowest September temperature since 1887 and sent the mercury down to six degrees at Helena, Mont., it scurried on through Wyoming, the Dakotas and Nebraska, bringing six inches of snow to Rapid City and Pierre, S. D., and Crawford, Neb.

40 Degree Drop.

The temperature fell forty degrees in twenty hours at Omaha to 41 and Alliance, Neb., reported a temperature of 20. Snow fell at Albert Lea, Minn., and Cedar Rapids, Ia., as the storm moved eastward and Evanston, Ill., reported a trace of snow followed by rain and hail.

Tonight killing frosts were general over all the states in the storm area west of the Mississippi river.

Farmers in Iowa were warned today to select their seed corn and get it in before tonight's frosts.

FAIR SIGNS KID ROPERS

Juvenile Stars With Lariat To Appear At Texas-Oklahoma Rodeo

One of the star feature performances of the rodeo during the Texas-Oklahoma fair this year will be the fancy roping exhibitions of the famous Blatherick Kiddies, who have been signed up to appear here at each performance of the rodeo at the fair.

The Blatherick Kiddies first came to prominence about two years ago, when they were picked up for the vaudeville circuit at a small rodeo event in Texas. Since that time they have played continuously throughout the country and are recognized as the greatest fancy ropers in the world. They have a number of very difficult tricks which never fail to bring down the house at each performance.

The Blatherick Kiddies live at Fort Worth, Texas, and have performed at rodeo events there, but have never been in Wichita Falls. There are, R. D. Jr., aged 10, and Mazie, aged 12.

In commenting on these performers, Foghorn Clancey, director of the rodeo, stated that they were without question the peer of the fancy ropers of the world, and Mr. Clancey has five fancy ropers in his own family.

School Exhibits To Be Speeded For Fair

Every possible effort is being made to get the educational exhibits for the Texas-Oklahoma fair in earlier this year than ever before, Superintendent Burl Bryan stated yesterday, and explained that this action is being taken following a recent meeting of the educational committee of the fair association in which a resolution was passed urging the early entry and placing of exhibits for the educational building.

"All schools have been awarded the same space they had in the building last year, and the entries must be in the building and established as the judges of exhibits will take place on Saturday, the first day of the fair, this year," Mr. Bryan stated, adding that delay on the part of any one school may disqualify them from participating in the judging.

Members of the educational committee urging this resolution were W. D. Hogg of Burkburnett, E. M. Dinsmore of Electra, W. R. Bradford of Iowa Park, A. F. Ligon of Holliday and Mr. Bryan.

GETS SUSPENDED TERM

O. F. Cunningham plead guilty to a charge of stealing a purse in district court here yesterday and was given a five year suspended sentence, Judge P. A. Martin declaring that it was the first case of this kind to his knowledge which drew a suspended sentence.

Cunningham snatched a purse from the hand of Mrs. R. E. Southard as she stood on a corner near the Junior high school on May 15, and was arrested later and charged with the crime. When the case came up for trial yesterday Cunningham plead guilty without argument and the sentence was imposed.

COUNTY ASKS CITY TO MOVE

Health Department Must Seek Quarters Elsewhere

Formal notice was served on the City of Wichita Falls yesterday by County Judge B. D. Sartin to vacate the two offices in the basement of the county court house which are now occupied by the city health department.

The notice came as a result of a resolution passed by the county commissioner's court at its last meeting, which orders that every step possible be taken to provide more room for the county officials at the court house.

There is not enough room in the building for the county offices, and the city is asked to remove their health office from the building. The rooms occupied by them will probably be taken over by the sheriff's department, it was stated at the court house yesterday.

No definite information as to where the health department would be moved could be ascertained yesterday, but will probably be moved to a down-town office building.

FUHR IMPROVING.

Raymond Fuhr, 10, who was struck in the head while at play at the recess hour at the Alamo school Thursday afternoon is reported resting well. A boy friend was batting the ball and threw the bat which struck Raymond in the mouth, breaking out one tooth and cutting his upper lip so that seven stitches were taken to close the wound. He received emergency treatment at the General hospital, but was allowed to return to the Optimists' Boy's home Thursday night.

AUDITORIUM AT ALAMO OPENED

Big Crowd Turns Out For Dedication At School Building

A large crowd of parents and friends of pupils at the Alamo school turned out Friday night for the official opening and dedication of the new auditorium of the school. A short program, followed by a tour of inspection of the entire building and serving of refreshments in the school cafeteria made up the evening.

The auditorium, a handsome new structure adjoining the main building, was completed last summer to fill a long felt need at the school. In the program, presided over by Mrs. Marvin Smith, president of the Alamo mothers club, short congratulatory talks were made by W. M. Priddy and W. B. Hamilton, prominent business men of the city, and by Miss Kate Haynes, honored dean of the public school system's primary instructors. Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools also spoke.

A piano solo was given by Miss Ila Cook, music supervisor of the school, on the new grand piano purchased for the auditorium; and a rising vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. T. H. Lawson, last year's mothers' club president and under whose administration funds were raised to purchase the instrument.

More Entries In For Fair Livestock

Additional entries continue to come into the fair association office every day, with the livestock department leading in number of entries filed for the fair. Yesterday two more entries in the cattle division were received and arrangements made for a show place for them.

One of the entries is for 12 head of prize short horns from Towanda, Kans., and the other is for 12 head of Red Polls from Altoona, Ill. These two entries increase the competition in the two classes mentioned, as a number of other entries in these classes have already been filed.

Police Launch Vigorous Campaign Against Liquor Runners

BOOTLEG RAIDS ARE STARTED

Hodgins Announces Intention Of Continuing With His Campaign

Police Chief Hodgins inaugurated a vigorous campaign against all liquor running and selling in the city yesterday, and announced that he would maintain such a campaign throughout the remaining days before the opening of the Texas-Oklahoma fair. He stated he intended to clean up the city for the fair and will not permit the sale of liquor anywhere.

A series of raids were conducted yesterday afternoon, with some tangible results. More than a dozen warrants were issued for searching premises, and in the afternoon seven raids were made in various parts of the city without results.

Later in the evening, however, small amounts of liquor were confiscated in various parts of the city, and the raiding continued throughout the night.

City Detective Dick Huzman and Officer C. T. Wheat were eye witnesses to a street sale of half a gallon of liquor on Fourth street near Indiana and arrested two men and confiscated a gallon. The sale was being made from an automobile when the officers arrived on the scene.

2 Give Testimony Of Relief Through Prayer and Faith

A Wichita Falls woman testified that her 6-year-old son had been greatly benefitted by prayer, after having suffered from paralysis for a year, Friday evening at the interdenominational revival at Eighteenth and Holliday streets.

She said that the boy had been walking with one foot stuck out, but that now he walked straight, and that she believed he was improving every day. A farmer living near the city, testified at Friday evening's meeting that he had been healed of hernia, through prayer.

Two important questions will be answered at Saturday evening's service, A. E. Davis, evangelist, announced. The questions are: "Does eternal destruction mean the annihilation of the wicked?" and "How can a saint be happy and enjoy heaven and at the same time have loved ones in hell?" Mr. Davis asked that members of the congregation hand him any other questions they might wish to have solved, saying that he would try to answer them or to have someone else do so.

Taking his text from Matthew, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people fro... their sins," the evangelist declared that the Christian reached God by five steps, namely, justification, elevation, salvation, unity and sanctification.

"Any justification that hasn't any Jesus in it is not of God, any elevation that hasn't any Jesus in it is not of God, any salvation that hasn't any Jesus in it is not of God, any unity that hasn't Jesus in it is not of God, and any sanctification that hasn't Jesus in it is not of God," he concluded.

Permit Issued For New Weeks Home

A building permit was issued yesterday by City Clerk W. E. McBroom to Fred Weeks for the building of his beautiful home at 2008 Harrison street. The home has been in the course of construction for more than a year. It was started before the city ordinance requiring building permits was passed and it was not compulsory for such a permit to be procured, but Mr. Weeks was issued a permit as a matter of form.

The palatial new home is now nearing completion practically all of the construction work having been finished. It will cost approximately $150,000, and will be one of the finest and most beautiful homes in Wichita Falls.

Kell Has Optimistic View of Future Trend Of World's Business

The signs of the times continue to point unwaveringly to prosperity for the rest of 1926 and probably for 1927, Frank Kell, business leader of the southwest, told members of the chamber of commerce business council in an optimistic address Friday noon. He painted a rosy picture of conditions in Wichita Falls, Texas, and the United States, and said that the only discomforting dark spots on the world's economic map were the plights of the American farmer and the attitude of France on her war debts. Some drastic action at Washington is needed to rectify the agricultural situation, Mr. Kell thought, and the French people need to come to a realization that America will not cancel her war debts and thus obviate the necessity of France settling down and really going to work.

Farm Legislation Damaging.

Most of the recent farm legislation enacted by congress has been more damaging than helpful, Mr. Kell said, asserting that an amendment to the immigration laws, permitting an increase in domestic consumption, seemed to him to be the most practical solution of the farm problem. At present, he asserted, stable production lines were gorged with excesses of products. He frowned on government or any other cash subsidies for the farming industry.

Going back to international questions, Mr. Kell asserted that the unrest and disruption brought on by the war had practically subsided with the single exception of France and her turbulent financial acrobatics. Foreign manufacturing, he said, had lifted itself to a substantial basis and was paying much better wages than was the case in former years. The European economic condition has improved accordingly, he said, cheap labor and cheap products have disappeared and the whole world has profited thereby.

The speaker foresaw Texas appearing in an improved light before the people of the nation by reason of recent political rearrangements, and said that Dan Moody's housecleaning at Austin presaged a speedy elevation of the commonwealth in the concourse of the states. He voiced warm approbation of Moody's efforts and said he had merited the wide following he has built up in the state now.

Remarkable Building.

Wichita Falls is going through another year of remarkable yet solid and substantial building, Mr. Kell said. This is true not alone from a standpoint of new architectural materials, but from a standpoint of civic progress and development as well. The spirit of the men who are building the city and making possible this development, he declared, is another exemplification of the spirit of faith and forward looking pioneers who have made possible the community of today.

Wichita Falls and Houston, he said, have led all of Texas in the matter of new building, while Texas has been in the eyes of the nation as one of the most active and aggressive commonwealths of the nation. Through 1925 and 1926, he said, this state has occupied a place in the sun and has been watched closely by other sections who have seen in the great southwestern empire a territory that is challenging the attention of leaders in all walks of life.

Not only this, he thought, but the state is now facing a period of even greater development than it has ever known. It is now on the verge of an industrial and financial expansion that will outstrip even the great gains made in the past, he asserted.

WBA PAGEANT PLANS FORMED

National Director Here To Take Charge of Big Display

Mrs. Jennie M. Little, national pageant director of the Women's Benefit Association, arrived in Wichita Falls yesterday morning to take charge of the arrangements and program for the huge pageant which will be staged here by the Women's Benefit Association on October 7th, the last day of the fair at the fair grounds.

The local organization has made arrangements with the officials of the fair association to stage the pageant and it will be one of the most delightful spectacles of the entire fair program.

The W. B. A. is exclusively a woman's organization, and was organized by a woman in 1892. The order has increased until now it has 250,000 members and 25,000 members in the junior organization. The national president is Miss Bina West, of Port Huron, Michigan and Miss West enjoys the distinction of being the first woman president of the National Fraternal Congress of America.

The pageant is to be a historical sketch of the order, showing in picturesque mimicry the different phases of the order's growth, including the sixten nationalities which are members of the order. They will also have a coronation of the Queen and and court of honor with Miss America, Miss Canada, Miss Oklahoma and Miss Texas taking part.

A meeting of the members of the order will be held today at the Labor Temple for the purpose of rehearsals and arranging the different parts and casts. All juniors should be on hand at 9:00 a. m. and those taking part in the Nationalities should come at 10:30 a. m. The Grand March participants will rehearse at 1:30 p. m. Everybody interested in the pageant and all members of the organization are requested to be at the Labor Temple this morning.

Fair officials are much elated in the arrangement for this additional spectacle for the fair program, and predict a large crowd in attendance on the closing night of the fair.

LIONS LINEUP GETS IN TRIM

Local Celebrities To Come In For Some Red Hot Panning

A red hot line-up of local jokes which will spare no feelings and play no favorites is being groomed for the Lions club minstrel show to be given here next Tuesday night at the Majestic theatre.

Word emanating from the theatre Friday night where another 100 per cent rehearsal was held indicated that the Lions were swinging into fighting trim for their blow out.

Six end men, viz, i. e. and to wit: Joe Marlow, Ray Smith, Jerry Jones, Joe Dickey, Bert Ripley and J. Tol Camp have doped out a scandalous array of cracks involving some of the prominent business men of the city, if any, and these, as well as others, are to be shot over the footlights, probably to the discomfort of some of the natives.

In the Lions ballet will be featured, among others, Sam Gose and company, Mrs. Underwood, Del Brashear, Mrs. J. S. Pittman and the Lions quartet. And the in addition to all these will be the girls choruses, jazz orchestras, solo numbers and other features.

All proceeds from the show will be applied on the Lions club boys band which has recently been organized and which will make its first public appearance at the minstrel.
