General Buckner Is Killed On Okinawa

Full Destruction Of War Lords Is Urged

Nation Must Learn Crime Does Not Pay And Clique Must Be Destroyed

By FRANCIS M. LeMAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 18—General Dwight D. (Ike) Eisenhower, recalling all the destruction, death and suffering from Nazi militarism, declared today "the German general staff must be destroyed"—never to rise and make war again.

Germany also must be taught, he said, "that crime does not pay."

Addressing 300 newspapermen at the Army's Pentagon headquarters building, the supreme commander of American and British forces, who will govern the German zone occupied by Americans, gravely stated:

Started In 1860

"The German general staff started out under Scharnhorst in 1860 to rule the world. This war they regard as just another incident. We must not only destroy all their archives, but also segregate them — keep them apart where they can never go back where they were."

Eisenhower said "a Russian general (not naming him) agrees with me."

Turning, under questions of newsmen, to Germany's war crimes, the general declared "we must not let a single criminal escape. We must show them that crime does not pay. I will hold this position to the end."

Atrocities Stir Him

"I was never so mad in my life," he declared, "as when I saw the beastiality of the atrocity camps. Those responsible must be punished. If high ranking Nazis didn't know about it, they closed their eyes to it."

He estimated 15,000 war criminals now are in British and American hands.

So far as he is concerned all of Hitler's SS troopers (Schutzstaffel), up to last September, "are war criminals." The general specially and bitterly condemned the 12th SS division.

"They are the people who killed our men in cold blood," he said.

He explained his reference to last September by saying that after that month the Nazis, being hard-pressed, forced many persons into the SS. Hence the organization, in its latter stages obtained, in addition to war criminals, some involuntary members.

Asked if Hitler is dead, Eisenhower said that at first he believed Hitler dead, "but after

Truman Set For Conference End

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP) — President Truman summoned his top ranking military and diplomatic advisors for conferences late today, preparatory to taking off tomorrow on a flying trip to the west coast.

He plans to address the closing session of the United Nations conference, expecting that group to complete by Saturday the job of setting up a world organization designed to keep the peace.

The President talked for more than an hour with his joint chiefs of staff and followed this unscheduled meeting with a conference attended by Harry L. Hopkins, his special emissary to Moscow, and Joseph C. Grew, acting secretary of state.

None Discuss Talks

None of the participants would discuss talks with the President at which they presumably gave him a last minute fill-in on battle and diplomatic developments.

The conferees included Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, General of the Army George C. Marshall, chief of staff; Admiral of the Fleet Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations; and Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy chief of the Army Air forces.

The White House said the President will take off at 8 a. m. eastern war time, tomorrow for Olympia, Wash., for a three day "social visit" with Governor Mon C. Wallgren.

Assuming End Near

Despite some reports from the coast that the postwar security conference may not wind up its work until next week, the White House said that the President's decision to leave tomorrow was based on the assumption that the closing session would be held next Saturday.

If that assumption is correct, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said, the President will fly to San Francisco from Olympia Friday and address the session Saturday.

Russians Open Trial Of Poles

(By The Associated Press)

The trial of 16 Polish underground leaders opened in Moscow yesterday with a Soviet indictment charging the men with conspiracy seeking an anti-Soviet European bloc to battle Russia in a "forthcoming war." The indictment said 15 of the accused had pleaded guilty to all or part of the charges.

Stipulating details of the charges for the first time, the indictment said that Britain, Germany, and Poland were intended as members of this coalition, and that in their activities the 16 Poles acted on instructions of the Polish government in London. It further accused the Polish leaders of murdering nearly 600 Russian officers, and of engaging in terroristic and propaganda activities behind Russian lines.

One Pleads Innocent

The Russian indictment said 12 of the men had pleaded guilty to all counts, that three had accepted partial guilt, and the 16th had pleaded innocent. A highlight in this account was an alleged document which the indictment said had been found on Maj. Gen. L. Bronislaw Okulicki, commander of the Polish Home Army, concerning formation of a western European bloc to combat the Russians.

The trial opened as representatives of Polish groups began discussions in Moscow on the reorganization of the Polish provisional government. Preliminary talks were reported to be "going well."

Belgian Troubles

In Belgium, where the cabinet had resigned in protest against the return of King Leopold III, two emissaries of the king arrived in Brussels for conferences with government officials. They were expected to fly back to Salzburg, Austria, to report to Leopold, who had scheduled a press conference for today.

A formal charge of high treason was lodged in London against William Joyce, the "Lord Haw Haw" of German wartime broadcasts. Trial of the British war criminal will begin June 25.

A motorcycle accident Sunday claimed the life of Col. Gen. Nikolai Bezarin, Russian military commandant of Berlin, the Russians announced. Details were not given.

Harry Bridges Wins Deportation Fight

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)—Harry Bridges won a seven-year fight against deportation today. The Supreme court ruled that the evidence on his associations with Communist groups "seemed to indicate no more than cooperative measures to obtain objectives which were wholly ligitimate."

The 5-3 opinion by Justice Douglas invalidated a deportation order by Attorney General Biddle against the west coast CIO and longshoremen's union leader.

A laconic "OK" was Bridges' only immediate reaction when he was awakened in San Francisco to hear the news.

Wild Cheers Greet General Ike's Return

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Dwight David Eisenhower came home in triumph today and captured the hearts of wildly cheering Americans who like their heroes mighty but plain.

At least half the population of the nation's capital turned out to see the baldish, ever-grinning Kansan who became a world figure but still calls himself by the nickname "Ike."

From the National airport to the nerve center of the war effort, the Pentagon building, to the Lincoln Memorial, past the Washington monument, to the capitol, they stood, waving and shrieking.

Waves And Salutes

It was "here he comes" and "Ike, Ike," as the general, standing in a jeep, waved and saluted.

It was a stern test of the proven humility of this man. He met it by telling Congress what his men think—not what Ike Eisenhower thinks.

He bore a message for the lawmakers—in short, biting tones he told them that the GI feels "passionately" the peace "can and must" be worked out so that their children need face no such holocausts as that from which he had just emerged.

He told the tumultous throngs downtown that this was the "high point of my life," that never in his wildest dreams did he imagine such a celebration centering around him. But he did that too in the name of his troops.

Accepts Key To City

He accepted the "key to the city" from Commissioner J. Russell Young but said he viewed it as "a symbol of Washington opening its heart to our returning veterans."

It is for them, he insisted, that such enthusiams should be reserved.

The general, his staff, and a selected group of GI's from the European theater flew from France to Bermuda and thence to Washington in four giant C-54 transports.

Eisenhower himself was in President Truman's — lately Franklin Roosevelt's — specially-built plane.

They came into the air transport command terminal, across the Potomac in Virginia, at 11:08 a.m., ewt, escorted by 32 buzzing Thunderbolt fighters.

Great Cheer Goes Up

The cheers of 30,000 rose up from the outskirts of the flying field as the parade got under way and they brought the general's garrison cap from his head.

A score of jeeps carrying the Eisenhower staff, the selected enlisted men, and dignitaries, followed along Memorial highway which leads to Mt. Vernon, to the MINNEAPOLIS, June 18 (AP)—In a little more than six hours after she was carried aboard an Army Flying Fortress in Texas, Joan Prouty, 16, Lubbock, was admitted to Kenny Institute here tonight for treatment of infantile paralysis.

"Joan had a good trip and we would have made it faster if a little engine trouble had not developed," said her father, Parker Prouty, general manager of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche and Evening Journal who, with Mrs. Prouty, accompanied the stricken girl.

The Army ship flew the 900-mile trip nonstop with Lt. J. P. Wheeler as pilot, and I. J. Lewis, co-pilot.

Pair Confess, Face Murder Charge Here In Hold-Up Slaying

By RANDALL ABERNETHY
Avalanche Staff Writer

A. J. WRIGHT, 21, ex-Navy man of Abilene, a native of Lamesa, and his companion, Winnie McKeever Garner, 18, of Deming, N. M., Monday afternoon were charged with the murder of W. T. (Bill) Lamb, 49, in an attempted robbery of Lowrimore service station, at 2301 Nineteenth, early Sunday morning.

They were arrested about 9 o'clock yesterday morning in southwest Lubbock county after a long and relentless hunt by federal, state, district and county officials with the assistance of citizens of that area.

WINNIE McKEEVER GARNER
... Gun Moll In Slaying

Signed Statements

In signed statements elicited by District Attorney Burton S. Burks, the pair admitted the slaying here and an armed robbery a few hours earlier of Mack's Oil well in Brownfield. They also confessed a robbery early Saturday morning near Weatherford.

Ben Baggett of Brownfield and C. B. Leaird of Cisco, former Lubbock contractor, appeared here last night and identified the pair as the persons who robbed them at gunpoint. Baggett is night attendant of the Brownfield station. Approximiately $90 was taken in the Brownfield holdup. Leaird was robbed of his automobile and between $45 and $50.

Sheriff Joe Price of Brownfield and Eastland county officials indicated that charges probably would be filed against the couple in their counties.

Offer No Resistance

The pair was unarmed and offered no resistance when a cordon of officers closed around them two miles south and three west of Slide store.

Each was charged with murder with malice. Justice of Peace D. W. Robertson said he would deny bail if it were asked.

Funeral services for Lamb, who lived at 3420 Ave. Q, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Plains chapel with Rev. Franks, pastor of the Brownfield Northside Baptist church, and Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the Lubbock First Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Survivors are his widow two sons, William Bryant and Bennie Mack of Lubbock a brother, H. L. of Texarkana; three half-brothers, E. O. Lamb of Graham, Tex., Claude C. Lamb of Vernon, Jesse L. Lamb of Buffalo Springs; a sis-

Sellers Argues Tide Land Case

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)—Attorney General Grover Sellers of Texas told a joint Senate-House juidiciary committee that Texas is anxious to have settled a question of whether the federal government has claim to lands beneath tide and navigable waters.

Sellers made the statement today in a hearing before the committee which is considering legislation to release any claim of the federal government to such lands. Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the House Judiciary committee who is conducting the hearing is strongly supporting the legislation.

Suit In California

Sellers referred to a suit recently filed by Attorney General Biddle in federal district court in Los Angeles to prevent the Pacific Western Oil Corp., operating under state permit, from extracting oil from tide lands north of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Texas feels secure in its title to submerged lands off its 380-mile coast but the California suit raises a controversy which Texas is anxious to have settled, Sellers said.

"Pendency of the suit will do irreparable injury to Texas and to the nation by retarding development of minerals in submerged lands off our two-ocean coast line," he said.

Texas, for more than 100 years, has claimed a boundary three marine leagues (10.56) miles out in the Gulf of Mexico "without any protest or objection from the United States," Sellers declared.

Texas Legislative Act

He read a 1941 act of the Texas Legislature fixing the boundary at 27 miles from the coast line because by use of modern artillery on share "a state can now make its authority effective at least 27 marine miles out to sea from low water mark."

Sellers and attorneys general of 45 other states, in a brief submitted to the committee, asserted today that Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes' claim that the federal government owns tide lands "is a direct attack on state sovereignty."

Tenth Army's Chief Struck By Jap Shell

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. TENTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Okinawa, June 18. —Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., commander of the Tenth Army, was killed today by an enemy artillery shell at a forward observation post as he watched Marines attacking toward the town of Makabe on the southern tip of Okinawa.

The 58-year-old general died within ten minutes after the Japanese shell struck a rock near where he was sitting, a large fragment either of the shell or of coral, hit him in the left chest.

No artillery fire had fallen around the observation post all day, when suddenly at 1:15 p. m., local time, the shell struck. Two Marine officers carried Buckner from the rock.

Navy medical corps men attempting to give him first aid were forced first to carry him to a sheltered spot on the side of a cliff as the enemy poured more shells onto the observation point.

GENERAL WAS AT FRONT TO SEE MARINE ATTACK

(By The Associated Press)

GUAM, Tuesday, June 19.—Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., brusque 58-year old white-haired commander of the U. S. Tenth Army, was killed instantly on Okinawa yesterday afternoon. He was in the front lines watching Marines doggedly battle fanatically resisting Japanese in a final phase of the then 79-day old campaign.

Buckner was hit while observing a spearheading attack by the reinforced Eighth Regimental combat team from the Second Marine division. The combat team, under command of Brig. Gen. L. O. Hunt-veteran of Guadalcanal and other Pacific campaigns — had made a predawn assault in the Marine sector of southwestern Okinawa. This was the first disclosure that the Eighth Marines were on Okinawa.

One Of Most Colorful

The general, one of the Army's most colorful officers, could see the end of the campaign from his observation point in the battle lines. Ahead, Japanese were breaking and troops were fleeing in the open toward cliffs at the southern end of the peninsula.

Buckner, like Adm. William F. Halsey, jr., often said his task was to "kill Japs, kill Japs and kill more Japs" until the empire was crushed.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz sorrowfully announced Buckner's death in today's communique. He said:

"Buckner . . . was killed in action at 1:15 p. m. yesterday (Okinawa time) while observing the attack of the Marine Eighth

Yanks Continue Luzon Advances

MANILA, Tuesday, June 19 (AP) —All American columns sweeping northward in Luzon are continuing their advances, with gains of four to eight miles, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today as Japanese and Formosan troops quit the losing fight in unprecedented numbers.

The 37th Infantry division, thrusting down the Cagayan valley, major Japanese last-stand position on the island, were approaching the Cagayan-river-crossing town of Naguilian, eight miles north of their last reported positions.

Sixth Infantry Advance

In the north center of the island, the Sixth Infantry division gained four miles despite enemy delaying actions and got within seven miles of the Japanese base of Kiangan in the mountains.

The 33rd Infantry division on the west seized the big town of Bokod.

In central Luzon the 38th Infantry division on Sunday captured Mount Mapatad, an enemy stronghold in the Marikina watershed northeast of Manila, while units of the First (dismounted) Cavalry in clearing the Mount Daraitan area killed 81 Japanese and found 90 already dead from air attack.

Most spectacular Philippines operation, however, continued to be that of the 37th division. Its two northward-thrusting columns united at the approaches of the Cagayan river crossing near Naguilian.

River Not Bridged

The river, Luzon's largest, is 300 feet wide at that place and is not bridged.

The 37th has advanced so rapidly that it has outrun its tactical maps and has had to move some artillery batteries as often as three times a day. In one day it killed 180 Japanese and captured 65.

The 37th and all other American forces continued to profit by strong air support. The Fifth Air force flew 400 sorties Saturday and at one point on the east coast of Luzon swooped so low the Japanese used rifles and mortars against the planes.

Conservative American ground commanders commented on the increase in Japanese surrenders.

Japs Show Definite Signs Of Break But Resistance Fanatical In Areas

(By The Associated Press)

GUAM, Tuesday, June 19—Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in effect reported the capture of Okinawa today as he announced the death in action there yesterday of the Tenth Army commander, Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., "on the day of victory on which he gallantly met a soldier's death."

Nimitz's communique, however, carefully omitted announcing that Okinawa, last rung of a ladder reaching across the Pacific from the United States to Japan's doorstep, had been "secured" in a military sense.

GENERAL BUCKNER
... Falls On Okinawa

Jap Shellburst Fatal

Buckner, colorful general who spent many months planning the Okinawa campaign at Nimitz's Pearl Harbor headquarters last year, was killed by a Japanese shellburst as he stood in the Marine sector's front lines. Ahead, he could see broken Japanese forces fleeing across open ground toward cliffs at the southwestern tip of Okinawa.

Marine Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commander of the Marine Third Amphibious corps on Okinawa, was given command of the Tenth Army immediately upon Buckner's death. Geiger, recently nominated for lieutenant-general, was commander of all Allied aircraft in the Solomons in the Guadalcanal campaign.

Nips Being Compressed

Ground action on Okinawa yesterday saw the Nipponese compressed more tightly into two small pockets on the island's southern tip.

The Japanese, although showing definite signs of breaking and with many of their number fleeing across open terrain, nevertheless fought back savagely in some sectors. It was a shell burst fired into the Marine sector in southwestern Okinawa which killed Buckner as he stood in the front-lines, from where he could see some of the Japanese confusion ahead.

Watching Attack

The general was watching a spearheading attack launched before dawn by the reinforced Eighth Regimental combat team of the Second Marine division. This was the first disclosure that Marines other than the First and Sixth were on Okinawa.

The combat team, commanded by Brig. Gen. Leroy P. Hunt, veteran of Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian, had advanced

General Geiger Is Marine Vet

GUAM, Tuesday, June 19. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, who took command of the Tenth Army upon the death in action of Lt. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, jr., is a former director of Marine corps aviation.

Sixty years old, Geiger was the fifth Marine to become an aviator and has been a leader in Marine aerial operations in both world wars.

38 Years In Corps

A veteran of 38 years in the Marine corps, Geiger organized and led the First Marine Aircraft wing on Guadalcanal in 1942. He left that position to go to Washington as director of Marine aviation.

On Nov. 10, 1943, he became commander of the First Marine amphibious corps, which later was dissolved, its units becoming part of the Third Amphibious corps, which Geiger commanded on Okinawa until Buckner's death.

A native of Middleburg, Fla., Geiger was born Jan. 25, 1885, and enlisted in the Marines in 1907. He was commissioned a second lieutenant two years later, and in 1917 won his wings at Pensacola.

Navy Cross In War I

He won the Navy Cross for bombing operations during the first World war, and added a Gold Star to it at Guadalcanal.

He has served in Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua, Panama, China and the Philipplnes, and in 1930 and 1931 piloted planes carrying disaster relief supplies to the Dominican Republic and Nicaragua.

In 1941 for two months he was assistant naval attache for air at the U. S. embassy in London.

His wife lives in Washington, D. C.

Borneo Aussies Reach Toutong

MANILA, Tuesday, June 19 (AP) —Australian Ninth division troops have reached Toutong, oil refinery center 34 miles southwest down the Borneo coast from their landing points of June 10, a Southwest Pacific headquarters communique announced today.

The Japanese have put the torch to the island's rich petroleum wells in an "awesome spectacle" of destruction.

Other Australian units in a new overwater maneuver landed at Weston, on the eastern shore of Brunei bay, scene of the original landing, and moved inland against negligible opposition, the communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur said.

Air Field In Operation

The Labuan air field on Labuan island, in the mouth of Brunei bay, is in operation, it added.

Tarakan island off eastern Borneo, where Australian troops landed May 1, was virtually conquered, with two enemy strongpoints wiped out and enemy casualties raised to 1,028 killed and 35 captured.

Allied planes hurled new bomb loads on Japanese positions at Balikpapan and Bandpermasin, on Borneo's southeast and south coasts, and light naval forces beat up the north coastal areas again.

Along the north coast, fires set in the oil fields by the retiring enemy were visible more than 60 miles offshore, and a ceiling of smoke spread over the South China sea.

Supreme Court Rules Against AP Methods

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)— The Supreme court ruled today that the Associated Press, in passing on applicants for membership, must disregard possible competitive effects on existing members.

In a 5 to 3 decision, the court upheld a lower court ruling that AP's membership by-laws violate the Sherman anti-trust act. In a dissent, Justice Roberts declared the decision may well be "a first step in the shackling of the press."

The majority decision upheld a ruling by the U. S. District court for southern New York in a Justice department civil anti-trust suit against the cooperative news gathering organization.

Both the AP and the Justice department had appealed the lower court's decision. The AP asked that it be set aside in entirety. The Justice department sought to have it broadened. The 5-3 decision was on the AP appeal. That of the Justice department was rejected unanimously.

The high tribunal held the case more than six months after completion of arguments last Dec. 6, and the wide area of disagreement in the justices' discussions was reflected in the fact that five separate opinions were filed. They were:

1. The majority opinion by Justice Black holding that the lower court had correctly found "that the by-laws in and of themselves were contracts in restraint of commerce in that they contained provisions designed to stifle competition in the newspaper publishing field." Justices Reed, Douglas, and Rutledge concurred. Justice

36th Gets Permanent Role In Occupation

By GEORGE TUCKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 18 —The identity of eight American divisions included among those assigned to permanent duty in the American zone of occupation in Germany was announced officially tonight.

They are the Eighty-second Airborne, the First and Fourth Armored, and the First, Third, Ninth, Twenty-ninth and Thirty-sixth Infantry.

The 82nd Airborne division, now in Neufchateau, France, has been named a part of the Berlin task force and will leave for the German capital within 48 hours. It will take over the role originally intended for the Second Armored division, which is being deployed elsewhere.

The First armored at present is in Italy. At a date to be announced later, it will become part of the U. S. Seventh Army and will move up to the Halle area.

The Fourth Armored is assigned to the Seventh Army and will operate in the Regensburg-Neumarkt area.

The 36th Infantry remains with the Seventh Army and will control the area west of Ulm.

The 29th Infantry is part of the Bremen force and is stationed in Bremen and the surrounding area. It is assigned to the Seventh Army.

The Third Infantry division, now near Berchtesgaden, will move soon to the Seventh Army, taking up positions in the Herfeld-Eschwege area west of Leip-

Eisenhower Says GI Passionately Believes Peace Can And Must Come

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower told the nation's lawmakers and jurists today that the soldier "passionately believes . . . the problems of peace can and must be met."

To the soldier's mind, the general declared in an address before a joint session of Congress and the Supreme court, "the problems of peace can be no more difficult than the one you had to solve more than three years ago, and which, in one battle area, has now been brought to a successful conclusion.

Believes Can Be Met

"He passionately believes that with the same determination, the same optimistic resolution and the same mutual consideration, among Allies that marshalled in Europe forces capable of crushing what had been the greatest war machine of history, the problems of peace can and must be met."

Referring to the Pacific war, General Eisenhower said:

"Speaking for the American men and women I have been so honored to command . . . in our minds and hearts there is no slightest doubt that our people's spirit of determination, which has buoyed us up and driven us forward in Europe, will continue to fire this nation through the ordeals of battle yet to come. Though we dream of return to our loved ones, we are ready, as we have always been, to do our duty to our country, no matter what it may be."

Some Other Points

General Eisenhower made these other points:

The late President and Prime Minister Churchill were "two God-given men" to whom the world owes lasting obligation. In Churchill, Roosevelt "had a worthy partner, who had led his country through its blackest hour in 1940."

British and Americans "forgot differences in customs and methods—even national prejudices—in their devotion to a common cause."

"The campaigns of the Red Army, crushing all resistance in the east, played a decisive part in the defeat of Germany.

"The banners of victory cannot hide from sight these sacrifices in which victory has been bought.

Tough On Commander

"The hard task of a commander is to send men into battle knowing some of them—often many—must be killed or wounded in order that necessary missions may be achieved. It is a soul killing task!

"My sorrow is not only for the fine young lives lost or broken, but it is equally for the parents, the wives and the friends who have been bereaved. The blackest of their grief can be relieved only by the faith that all this shall not happen again!"

The proposed amendment would provide that the funds could be extended only by the states, the employment offices to be operated in connection with their unemployment compensation programs.

Soldier Arrives To See Sick Daughter

WATERLOO, Ia., June 18. (AP)—Seaman First Class Richard J. Peel, 32, who was on Saipan just a week ago, comforted his leukemia-stricken daughter, Diana Lou, 3, with "now we can be sick together."

"I came a long way just to hear you cry," Peel told Diana Lou yesterday when he stepped on crutches from a plane and embraced her. The girl has shown some improvement since doctors, a week ago, reported she had only "a week or two to live."

Peel, who left Saipan June 11, was wounded by shrapnel when Japanese suicide planes attacked his destroyer in the Pacific. He was located June 8 in a field hospital by the Red Cross, and flew 8,000 miles to be with his daughter.

And when he arrived home to watch Diana Lou die, he met his six-weeks-old son, Richard J. Peel II, for the first time, and observed he was "bald headed just like his dad."

The cablegram which informed him of the birth of his son also said Diana was dying—"the best and worst news" he could have received.

Released Germans To Set Up Farm Colony

MEXICO CITY, June 18 (U.P.)—El Universal said today that 110 of 174 Germans released from the Perote concentration camp had decided to form an agricultural colony in the state of Tamaulipas.

The Germans went to Tampico recently and asked the governor of Tamaulipas for permission to buy land and form a farming cooperative. On their release from Perote, President Avila Camacho gave them each $200 out of the alien property custodian board funds.

Most of the men had settled near Tampico before they were interned. They were seamen from the German ships Orinoco, Phrygia and Hamlin, which were seized in Tampico by the Mexican government on the outbreak of war.

Polio Victim Taken To Kenny Institute Aboard Flying Fort

Its deadly guns sheathed for an errand of mercy a fully armed and camaflouged Flying Fortress settled gracefully at Minneapolis, Minn., airport at mid-afternoon Monday carrying 16-year-old Joan Prouty to famed Kenny Institute for treatment for poliomyelitis.

Miss Prouty was attended by an Army doctor and nurse from Lubbock Army Air Field. At her side, too, were her parents, Parker F. Prouty, general manager of Avalanche-Journal newspapers, and Mrs. Prouty, of 3019 Twenty-first.

The big plane, with 1st Lt. Jesse P. Wheeler as pilot, and 2nd Lt. Ivey J. Lewis as co-pilot, left the ground at Lubbock Army Air Field at 11:01 a. m. Monday.

A patient in Lubbock General hospital since June 12, when her ailment first was diagnosed, Miss Prouty plainly was eagerly anticipating her first air trip as attendants from LAAF's hospital gently placed her on a specially devised litter on the floor of the plane. Swathed in blankets, she smiled bravely and answered greetings by her parents and nearby soldiers as she was transferred from the ambulance to the Fortress.

In attendance during the flight upon order of Lt. Col. Paul V Colvin, commanding LAAF's medical detachment, was Capt. Richard E. Nitschke, of New York City, an Army doctor attached to LAAF, and 1st Lt. Charlie A. Mason, Fort Worth, chief of LAAF nurses. As soon as Miss Prouty is placed in charge of physicians at Minneapolis, the LAAF personnel will head back toward Lubbock, anticipating arrival at the station at midnight tonight.

After having experienced difficulty in raising her right arm last Monday, June 11, Miss Prouty, on June 12 was taken to local physicians who immediately diagnosed her case as poliomyelitis. In addition to involvement of the upper right arm, her upper left leg also is affected Since she had been home from a Dallas boarding school only a few days before the illness was noted, doctors concluded that she was attacked by the virus while still in the East Texas metropolis.

She was immediately placed in Lubbock General hospital and treatment begun. The illness is such that the patient must remain prone and, in her case, she was forced to lie on her back, without pillow, throughout treatment here and the trip to Minneapolis. Her physician here expressed himself as being satisfied with her condition to date. Friends hold strong hope that under the "Sister Kenny" treatment, at the Minneapolis Institute founded by the famed Australian nurse, she will completely recover after the passage of time.

Stevenson Files Tax Remission Measures

AUSTIN, June 18. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today filed without signature three tax remission bills of the past session of the legislature, permitting them to take effect.

The remissions are for seawall protection for Port Arthur and Freeport, and dike protection at Dallas. He withheld action on a remission for Colorado, Fayette and Jackson counties for flood control.

Two Take Duties Of General Eisenhower

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, June 18. (AP)—Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder and Gen. Jacob L. Devers have assumed the responsibilities Gen. Eisenhower left behind him on his current visit to the United States.

Sir Arthur is deputy supreme commander and became acting chief of all Allied forces when Eisenhower left.

Devers has temporary command of both the sixth and 12th army groups and is senior American officer in the European theater of operations. He also is acting head of the American Control council for Germany in event it should meet during Eisenhower's absence.

Motors first came into use about 1884.

Jap Holdouts On Guam Surrender

GUAM, June 18 (AP)—A Japanese field officer who held remnants of his command together for 10 months until he had become a symbol of resistance to them was surrendered with 33 of his men.

The officer made a formal surrender on a green hillside of this island as elements of a Marine battalion watched, slack-jawed.

Parleys between the officer and Marine Col. Howard N. Stent, Warner Springs, Calif., preceded the surrender, which was reported today as a fine example of American psychological warfare against holdout Japanese. (Date of the surrender was not given, but it presumably was some time this month. Guam was "secured" Aug. 9, 1944.)

Parleys Conducted

The Japanese officer attended the parleys in an open area which was surrounded carefully by a Marine guard but he brought down his own well-fed appearing troops with him. As he talked, a subaltern wiped perspiration from his face and another fanned off the flies.

The Japanese said they had plenty of food and water. They appeared fit despite their months in the jungle.

The first concern of the surrendering officer was his voice query:

"What is the future of Japan after victory?"

"That will depend a whole lot on the type of leadership that men of your intelligence give it," replied Stent.

In U. S. Uniforms

Clad in makeshift American service uniforms, including dungarees and jackets on which were stenciled the names of Marines from whom they had been stolen, the surrendering troops counted off briskly. Then their commander, who was described by American officers as alert and intelligent, said:

"I am turning you over to Col. Stent. You will be treated well. You are now prisoners of war. It is not a disgraceful state and you are not to regard it as such."

First reports of the officer-led Japanese group were heard last September. Numerous efforts had been made to reach him through a truck-mounted loud speaker system and leaflets dropped from an airplane.

Lubbock To Share In Nation-Wide Spot Employment Survey

Lubbock has been selected as one of the representative communities to be studied in a nation-wide survey now being undertaken of month-to-month changes in employment in smaller business establishments by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Miss Lucille Cope, field supervisor of the regional office of the bureau, now in Lubbock, has announced that members of Congress are deeply interested in the problems of the small business and are concerned in having accurate and timely facts available, as a basis for arriving at effective solutions for post-war employment.

Representatives of the bureau will call on business establishments to get the necessary current data and explain the arrangements whereby one figure is to be submitted by mail in succeeding months.

"We know every Lubbock business establishment will want to cooperate with us in getting the necessary data," Miss Cope said. "The information collected will be completely confidential and none of it will be supplied to any organization, government or private party for tax or enforcement purposes. Representatives of the bureau are under oath not to reveal any of the information obtained. Businessmen are urged to give information in connection with this survey only to a bona fide Bureau of Labor Statistics representative, all of whom carry official identification."

Texan Nominated As Champion Point Man

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 18 (U.P.)—A fighter pilot from McKinney, Tex., was nominated by the Second Air force today as the Army's champion point man.

The Texan, Lt. Col. Royal N. Baker, has an adjusted service rating of 312 points.

The 26-year-old pilot has flown 272 combat missions in Africa, Sicily, England and France. He got 180 points for the Air Medal and 35 clusters and 35 points for seven combat stars.

He could get out of the Army easily. But he wants to stay in until it's all over.

Arnold Predicts Jap Destruction

By SPENCER DAVIS

MANILA, June 18 (AP)—Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the U. S. Army air forces, said today "by the end of 1946, we figure, there will be nothing left of Japan to bomb."

Arnold, conferring with Gen. George C. Kenney, chief of the Far East air forces at the latter's Philippines headquarters, took time out to express his views at a press conference.

Amplifying his program to drop three times as many bombs on Japan in the next 18 months as were dropped on Germany, Arnold declared: "We will do it with every airplane I can find a field for."

More B-29s Due

He asserted that by this fall there would be twice as many B-29s in operation against Japan as were used in May, when the heavy fire raids on Tokyo and other cities were started by fleets of 400 and 500 of the big bombers.

Twelve thousand pound "factory busters" bombs, now in production in the United States, will be used on "suitable targets."

Arnold remarked that the distance involved in bombing Manchuria, where many Japanese war plants are located, "doesn't worry us—from Okinawa we can cover half of China and all of Manchuria."

He predicted that "lack of fuel will drive Japan's air force from the skies just as it did the Luftwaffe," and added:

"As we destroyed Germany's refineries, we were destroying her air force. While the German air force became more and more impotent, it wasn't for lack of planes. Just before the collapse, Germany had more planes than at the start of the war but they didn't have enough gas and oil to train pilots. When half-baked pilots were sent into combat their losses became very heavy."

Physicians in Australia make many calls by airplane, because of the great distances involved.

First New Wheat Is Late At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 18. (AP)—The first carload of new wheat arrived in Kansas City today—the latest date, with one exception since records of arrivals have been k...

The grain originated at Weinert, Tex., and was received by the J. P. Parks company. It graded No. 1 dark hard, 62.5 pounds to the bushel, 11.8 per cent moisture and 13 per cent protein. With prices at ceiling levels, the car was awarded at $1.72½ to a buyer by means of a drawing.

The only other time in recent years when the first car reached here later than June 18 was in 1935 when the initial shipment was reported on June 22. The earliest date was June 2, 1941.

First Trainload Of Displaced And Hungry Germans Return To Homes

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WEIMAR, Germany, June 17. (Delayed) — Almost 1,400 miserable, hungry, displaced Germans—crying, sleepy children, doddering old grandmas and wounded former soldiers—crammed today aboard the 46 boxcars of the first train authorized by the American Army to replant German civilians in towns from which they were routed by war.

They were returning to the battered farms, towns and cities of western Thuringia, Hessen, the Saar valley and the Rhineland—the productive plains of western Germany.

Uprooted For Defense

When the Germans prepared to defend their western borders against the Allied invasion, these people were rooted from their homes and shipped to the nation's eastern fringes in East Prussia, Silesia and Pomerania.

The refugee train took shape by accident. All through this area there has been a veritable migration of hiking peoples. Hundreds of them drifted into Weimar where German authorities provided some sort of transient shelter.

As the military government became settled, many refugees asked for permits to return to their native areas.

Transportation Bad

But the government was unable to supply transportation, so refugees unable to hike out stayed in Weimar.

Meanwhile, Capt. Walter F. Dunn, jr., of the Bronx, New York, American Army administrator of Weimar, had been opening up the Thuringian railway system for Allied Army use.

One day an empty freight train pulled into the yards. Before the authorities were aware of what was happening, several dozen, and then hundreds, of refugees had climbed aboard and installed themselves.

He Calls For Help

Singlehanded, Dunn was powerless to clear the train. He telephoned for help. For three days negotiations went back and forth, while the boxcar population constantly increased—until 40 cars were jammed with humanity.

Finally, the Army acted. I was sitting in Dunn's office when the order arrived to move the train at midnight. Dunn's interpreter had gone, so he asked me to go from car to car, announcing in German for everybody to get ready for the journey.

I hadn't encountered such cheers as greeted me since visiting a liberated concentration camp.

County Schools Show Increase

The 1945-46 scholastic census of Lubbock county rural schools showed an increase of 140 over last year's census, and the Slaton Independent school district gained 90 more students, according to a report announced Monday by Roy Boyd, county school superintendent.

Scholastics for the rural schools totaled 2766 whites and 54 negroes, giving a grand total of 2820 as compared to 2680 in 1944-45.

Slaton scholastics indicated 995 whites and 133 negroes. Total scholastics were 1128 as compared to 1038 last year.

Listed By Districts

Scholastics according to school districts: Cooper, district 1, 460; Frenship, district 2, 498; New Deal, district 3, 510; Roosevelt, district 4, 404; Shallowater, district 5, 260; Idalou, district 6, 490; Estacado, district 13, 99; Posey, district 13, 99.

Total census for the rural schools in 1943-44 were 2737 and for 1942-43, 2860.

Use Of Frozen Food Lockers Defended

ABILENE, June 18. (AP)—Abilene frozen locker plant officials said today that no meat had been removed from the plant as result of plans announced by the Office of Price administration (OPA) to investigate the units.

(The OPA said in Dallas that it had received complaints from some locker plant operators that customers were removing meat supplies as result of the agency's announcement).

R. W. Rankin, an official of the Independent Ice and Refrigerating company, said the locker plants actually had helped alleviate the meat shortage.

Locker plants spokesmen said 90 per cent of the lockers in the plant here are under lease to farmers and stockmen. The purpose of the locker plants in the beginning, they declared, was to provide storage for fresh meat produced by farmers and ranchmen who did not have refrigeration.

With meat supplies available in locker plants, they continued, farmers and ranchmen do not have to draw on supplies at local meat markets.

Yank Brothers Meet In Philippine Wilds

TEMPLE, June 18 (AP)—Pfc. Billy E. Sharp of Mexia was marching with a group to join his company deep in the Philippine jungles when he saw a man who looked familiar.

Billy tapped the fellow on the shoulder. The latter, who was loading a jeep, didn't look up. Sharp tapped him on the shoulder again. Still he didn't turn around.

It required five taps before the fellow became cognizant of Sharp's presence.

Billy stuck out his hands but the other man didn't shake; he looked puzzled.

"Don't you know me?" Sharp asked.

"No," he replied.

"The heck you don't," Sharp said; "I'm your brother."

And so there was a reunion there in the jungle between Billy and his older brother, Melbourne, whom he hadn't seen for more than four years.

New Shortage Of Cigarets Looms For City---Fags Stolen

FORT WORTH, June 18 (AP)—The cigaret shortage was considerably more acute at Lubbock today. J. L. McCoy, agent for the Miller Freight lines, reported to police that 40,000 cigarets destined for Lubbock were stolen from the freight line's dock here some time Sunday.

McCoy estimated that the 200 cartons of popular brand "fags" would be enough to provide every resident of Lubbock with at least one smoke.

Beaumont Packers Protest OPA Ruling

BEAUMONT, June 18. (UP) — The city of Beaumont, operator of a local abattoir, and other slaughterers were rebelling today against a new Office of Price Administration regulation which they claim will cause them to lose money.

City officials and heads of local slaughtering houses agreed unanimously to seek an injunction against the OPA, while the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce and the Coastal Cattle association for southeast Texas were urging Texas Senator Tom Connally and Congressman J. M. Combs to seek to have the OPA in Washington stay their ruling of last Friday.

The June 15 ruling, an amendment to an earlier OPA slaughtering order, decreed that abattoirs or custom slaughter houses must purchase the hide and other inedibles of all animals butchered by them. The Price Administration also set a standardized price for these products.

"We can't stay in business under that order," said Lee Minor, spokesman for the packers.

★ HYDRO-FLATION . . . The Firestone Method of Liquid Weighting Tractor Tires
★ It takes just 8½ minutes to Hydro-Flate a 10-38 Tire

Advantages of
HYDRO-FLATION

GREATER PULLING POWER—Added weight enables the traction bars to get a better grip, giving greater drawbar pull.

INCREASED TREAD LIFE—A better grip reduces slippage, thus Hydro-Flated tires last longer because they get a positive grip.

RETAINS PNEUMATIC PRINCIPLE—An air chamber is left in a Hydro-Flated tire to absorb shocks, lengthen life of cord body.

IMPROVED RIDING QUALITIES—Tires partially filled with liquid softens the jolts and jars.

LOWEST POSSIBLE COST — Electric Hydro-Flator reduces labor, does job faster than any other method.

IN HER new book, "How To Live Beyond Your Means," Margery Wilson says Frank Sinatra is popular because too many men neglect their women. They feel too sure of their girls, Miss Wilson says and they don't think of bringing them candy or flowers the way Pappy did when he was courting.

The femmes love to hear The Voice because he's so romantic and makes them dream about the kind of men they've love to date. Or at least that is according to Miss Wilson.

JOLLY GHOSTS' HUNT

THE American Spirit Guild, which defines itself as "developing the American spirit in patriotism, industry and a sense of humor," is on a nation-wide hunt for spirits, whose "doing's on" are desired information for recitation at the Guild's "seance" Friday evening, July 13, at New York's Hotel St. Moritz. Philip Walenrod, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Chief Spiriteer, says the persons who submit the most interesting stories about spirits by July 6 will be awarded $350 in War Bonds. Five humorists will comprise the judging committee.

Entries in the form of news clippings or manuscript should reach the Contest committee of the American Spirit Guild, Room 601, 507 Fifth Avenue, New York, 17, N. Y. Three prize winning tales will be announced at the "seance."

Because there has been such a dearth of spook activities in recent years, the Guild has been prompted to stir up yarns. Created tales are eligible because the membership feels that all spirits are figments of the imagination anyway. Those who submit tales automatically become eligible for Guild membership. There are no fees or dues of any kind for membership. The password is "That's the Spirit—Buy War Bonds," Mr. Walenrod says.

ORCHIDS, PLEASE

ORCHIDS, the very best, should go to six Lubbock women who made 720 sandwiches last Wednesday which were served to 400 transient fliers in the canteen at South Plains Army Airfield, maintained by the Red Cross canteen corps. Mesdames Carl P. Shaffer, R. L. Thurman and Maria Libby went out to the field that morning and started the preparations; soon Mrs. H. J. Jarett came by and helped and later Mesdames William Q. Q. Rankin and C. B. Qualia joined them.

NEED FOR NURSES

WHEN Dorothy Robertson and her roommate, Nellie Cary graduate nurses, hear some one describe crying need for nurses in the services, they look at each other and smile wryly. They are wondering where their informants get their information because each volunteered for the service in March and neither has been accepted. Here's the story:

• • •

After listening to appeals over radio and in news reels and hearing a stirring plea made at a nurses' called meeting by a representative from Red Cross midwestern office, the young women decided they would answer the call. With their patriotism at white heat they went to Dallas to take their examinations, paying their own expenses.

Both were told they were physically and professionally qualified and went home, expecting to hear within a short time from the Navy, in which they had enlisted. They heard all right in May but it was to be informed that the quota for Navy nurses had been filled an their applications for commissions in the Navy Nurse corps were being forwarded to the office of the surgeon general in the Army Service forces, Washington, D. C., for consideration of appointment in the Army Nurse corps.

• • •

STILL hopeful, Misses Robertson and Cary continued their duties as civilian nurses, wondered if they would be needing civilian clothes much longer and waited to hear from the Army. Monday morning Miss Robertson received a letter from Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk thanking her for her patiotic tender of service to her country and regreting no action could be taken.

"The excellent response of nurses to the appeal of the Army and the unconditional surrender of Germany render unnecessary at this time the recruitment of additional nurses for the Army Nurse corps, "the letter continued. "Your application will be kept on file," etc. etc. etc.

• • •

The nurses have known they were rendering essential nursing service to the civilian population but they are disappointed and somewhat puzzled at the outcome of their applications, especially when magazines and newspapers are still carrying urgent appeals for volunteers.

HE'S HOME NOW

WE ARE able at last to write off of our personal interest account anxiety over the imprisonment and sufferings of 1st Sgt. Joe Stanley Smith of Carlsbad, N. M., former neighbor, who as a member of the famous 200th went through all of the tortures devised by the small minds of his Jap captors and was rescued from the "zero" ward in Bilibid prison in February. He's at home now, his mother, Mrs. W. G. Smith, who visited here Monday, told us and is rapidly recovering from loss of weight caused by starvation and disease.

Now all that Joe Stanley asks is that friends give him an opportunity to forget what his life has been since the day Bataan fell. He is being given a medical discharge and if his health continues to improve, will register as a pre-med student at the University of New Mexico this fall.

Parties For Guests And Miss Nelson

A coffee, luncheon and parties are being given here for house guests and a bride-elect.

Men Of Noted 86th Enroute For Furloughs After Gotham Welcome

CAMP KILMER, N. J., June 18 (AP)—Men of the 86th division, returned yesterday after several months combat in the European theater, donned summer uniforms today and prepared to depart for home reception centers and 30 day furloughs before going to the Pacific for further action.

The entire division will be out of camp by tonight.

Each man was treated by the Army to a sumptuous steak dinner last night and issued a carton of cigarettes.

Some said it "certainly beat K rations," and was the best meal they had partaken of since they left the United States for Europe last February.

Welcomed Home Sunday

The 14,289 battle-tested troops, known as the Black Hawk division, were welcomed home yesterday at New York in a colorful demonstration unparalleled since World war I.

From port to camp they traveled by train, and were quartered by units in widely scattered barracks from which they will depart within a few hours.

With their arrival, accelerated redeployment of 3,100,000 veterans of the war against Germany was under way.

Service bands blared and harbor whistles roared as four gray transports landed the officers and men at the red, white and blue paint-decorated North river piers in New York.

To Get Furloughs

On the transport James Parker flew the flag of the division commander, Maj. Gen. Harris M. Melasky, native of Austin, Tex.

The plan was for quick processing after which the men will leave for the reception station nearest their home. Most of them will get furloughs before being reassigned.

The 86th was activated at Camp Howze, Gainesville, Tex., in December, 1942, with the late Maj. Gen. Alexander E. Anderson as commander. Melasky assumed command of the division in Jan., 1943 shortly after Anderson's death. The 51-year-old Texas officer went to Camp Howze from Fort Jackson, S.C., where he had been assistant commander of the 17th (Liberty) Infantry division.

Last February the division joined Gen. George S. Patton, jr.'s Third Army in Europe.

Patterson Among Greeters

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson greeted Melasky aboard the James Parker and they came off the craft together.

Pfc. Noberto Ramos of Georgetown, Tex., said he found the finish of the war in Europe tougher than the division's first encounter with the enemy, explained: "That was because my company had to make as assault landing in a rubber boat across the Danube, and was that rugged."

Gen. Melasky told a press conference here that he and the men felt the same about going to the Pacific.

"If we've got to go, let's go in a hurry and get it over with," he said.

He was asked if the division would be the first to go to the Pacific, and said "all I know is what I read in the papers. I'm a dirt soldier."

Average Age Is 22

He said that the average age of men in the 86th was 22 years. The division was in actual combat 42 days, was for a time with the Fifth Army, drove into the Ruhr pocket with the First Army, into Bavaria with the Third Army, and into Austria with the Seventh Army. Gen. Melasky said that in all the division captured 77,000 Germans.

The general said the division would be retrained for Pacific warfare at Camp Gruber, Okla. Asked if he expected a morale problem when it was reassembled there after furloughs he answered: "I've known these men for a year and a half, and you can't get 'em down."

"The Ruhr pocket was the toughest of all," he said of the European fighting. "The damn flak guns the Germans used against us were the worst kind of fire we had to face."

Cpl. Gilliland Back From Combat Zones

After three years overseas participating in the North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and German campaigns, Cpl. Homer D. Gilliland has informed his wife, Rachel Gilliland of 1708 Eighteenth, that he is now at San Antonio and will receive a discharge under the Army point system.

Cpl. Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gilliland of Southland, wears seven campaign stars. He served in an engineering battalion and has approxmiately 105 points.

His wife is record librarian at West Texas hospital.

Cpl. Forgey Reported Killed In Thailand

The parents of Cpl. Jed D. Forgey, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Forgey of 1922-B Thirteenth, have been informed by the War department of the death of their son Sept. 27, 1943, who was reported to have been killed in Thailand while a prisoner of the Japanese.

The report was based on information from the International Red Cross and details will be sent by letter.

Only one card had been received from Cpl. Forgey since his capture and it arrived on Dec. 22, 1943, four months after his death. He was captued on Java as a member of the 131st Field artillery, which he joined in 1940 after graduating from New Deal High school and attending Texas Tech for one year. He went overseas in 1941 with the "Lost Battalion" and after being taken prisoner, was first interned at Moulmein prison in Burma. Survivors besides his parents are a brother, W. G. Forgey of Clovis, N. M., and a sister, Marjorie Forgey of Lubbock.

DR. C. M. NEEL
OPTOMETRIST

OLD FRIENDS MEET IN LUBBOCK—After seeking to see one another since they have been in service, SK 2/c James Moss of the Navy and Master T/Sgt. Tommy Van Meter of the Marine corps were reunited last week in Lubbock. They barely have missed one another at various places while serving in the Pacific. At Kwajalein island, the ship on which Van Meter was serving was going in as Moss's ship was leaving. They missed one another by about 15 minutes. Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Moss of Roaring Springs, has been in service about two and a half years and Van Meter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Van Meter of 2206 Ninth, more than four years. They played together in the high school band and were close friends. Until their reunion, they had not seen one another in more than three years. Moss has seven battle stars in the American and two in the Philippines. Van Meter served in the Marshall island invasion. Moss reported back for duty Monday and expects to go overseas again. Van Meter will report to Jacksonville, Fla., at the conclusion of his furlough.

Tanks Take Place Of Trucks, Ambulances

ITOMAN, Okinawa, June 17 (Delayed) (AP) — Lifesavers for Marines who took the center of Kunishi ridge and held it against enemy pressure from all sides for almost a week until reinforcements arrived today were Sherman tanks used as ambulances and trucks.

The enemy fire was so well-placed that neither men nor open vehicles could cross the 1,000 yard valley between Itoman and Kunishi ridge by daylighe.

The tanks brought out 80 casualties in one day, 125 the next, 70 next, and then 200. From the aid station to the ridge top was about 2,000 yards and the return trip with the patients had to be made very slowly.

JACKSON, Miss., June 18. (AP)—Officials of the Jackson Army Air base have announced that Ensign Everett L. Owens of Bonham, Tex., was one of 17 killed in the crash of an army transport plane near Vicksburg Thursday.

'One-Man Army' Kills 30 Japs, Breaks Nip Defense On Okinawa

OKINAWA, June 12 (Delayed) (AP)—Pfc. Clarence B. Craft, Santa Ana, Calif., in a one-man massacre, killed 30 Japanese and drove a wedge that, his regimental commander said, helped snap the Japanese Shuri defense line.

Fellow doughboys, who had a ringside seat to "a fighting performance we hardly could believe," told today how Craft almost single-handed wiped out a strong Japanese pocket in 10 to 15 minutes.

Craft made his one-man assault on a 450-foot hill May 31 when elements of the 96th infantry division were pinned down by intense machinegun fire.

When he reached the hilltop, he began tossing grenades into trenches and foxholes as men from his platoon passed them up to him. He straddled a trench, pouring fire from his Garand down into it. Then he jumped in, mowing down Japanese as they got to him. He knocked out a heavy machinegun and its crew as he strode through the trench. He drove the Japanese he didn't kill into a hillside cave, then sealed it with a demolition charge.

Craft fired five clips of rifle ammunition and threw 48 grenades. He estimated he killed 25 Japanese with rifle fire; some others with grenades.

CRAFT'S PARENTS NOT SURPRISED BY FEAT

SANTA ANA, Calif., June 18 (AP)—The mother of Pfc. Clarence B. Craft, killer of 30 Japanese in a daring foray with grenades and rifle fire on Okinawa, says "he's the most accurate thrower I ever saw."

"Why, I've seen that boy kill fish in a stream throwing rocks at them, home in Missouri," said Mrs. Pearl Craft after she and her daughter, Mrs. Cora Lillian Sinner, 21, received the news.

Craft's wife, Betty, 21, said: "I'm not surprised, exactly, but I don't see how he could have done it so soon. You see, this was his first battle."

Liquor Revenues In May Over Million

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Liquor control board revenues for May totalled $1,016,20?, an increase of $41,172 over the same month of last year.

Liquor stamp collections at ports of entry totalled $28,795. Agents at the international bridge at El Paso collected $7,949 to lead the list.

Shallowater Nine Romps Over Purina Mills 12-4

The Shallowater National league baseball nine easily romped over the Purina Millers 12-4 Monday night at Chapman field.

Shallowater began the scoring in the last half of the first inning when Charles Galey led off with a single, stole second, and crossed the plate on a long single by Sport. Wynn reached first base on fielder's choice, stole second, and scored the second run when Dean Galey singled.

Millers Score First

The Millers scored first in their half of the second when Cornell reached first on an error, stole second, and scored on Jackson's single. In the first of the third frame, the Millers scored again to tie, but Shallowater returned in the last half to go ahead again, 3-2.

Purnia was held scoreless the fourth and fifth innings, while Shallowater picked up three in the fourth. The Millers picked up one more tally in their half of the sixth.

Shallowater Ices Tilt

Shallowater exploded in the sixth to clinch the game. Reed walked and Evans tripled. Woods singled, stole second base, and scored with Evans when Sport tripled. Wynn singled scoring Sport. Lindsey doubled, Wynn crossed the platter, and Lindsey came home with the sixth run.

Purina began a rally in the seventh when Jones led off with a single. Henderson singled and stole second. Jones scored on a fielder's choice. The rally was quickly put out, however.

Woods hurled all the way for the winners; Wynn caught. Davids and Jones worked four innings for the Millers; Cornell and Henderson finished the game.

Sky Giants Find No Foes For Fast Club

AMARILLO, June 18.—(AP)— Amarillo Army Air field's baseball team, now holding a record of 23 straight victories, may have to disband unless more opposition shows up.

Manager Hoot Gibson, former trainer at Centenary college, is so disgusted with the situation he is debating whether the team should carry on.

Over the week-end the powerful Sky Giants ran their string of wins for this season to 15 straight. The finished up last year with eight consecutive victories.

Loaded with stick power, a potent hurling staff, airtight infield, versatile outfield and a top behind-the-plate man, the Sky Giants have found the opposition so easy in this section of the country that they feel sure they are as good, if not better than, any other service team in the nation.

Chet Ziemba, the catcher from Chicago, had just been called up by the Cincinnati Reds when he was inducted into the Army. Last season Ziemba was the star of the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center nine.

According to Chet, the Sky Giants have the smoothest infield combination of any service team he has ever seen in action and he has seen plenty of them.

Red Spackman, the third baseman, was with Lynchburg of the Piedmont League before the war. He is now batting a lusty .464 for the Sky Giants. He led the hitting for the powerful Keesler Field, Miss., team for two years.

Johnny Conway played with Birmingham in the Southern Association and now is holding down the Sky Giant second sack. Lou Burtner, owned by the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League, is the shortstop. Ralph Satterfield, the first baseman, is clouting around the .375 mark. In fact, the team average at the plate is now .362.

If its experience you're looking for, there's Al Clayton, former playing manager of the Humble Oilers, in center field.

The Sky Giants have contacted Waco Army Air field for a home and home series but haven't had any success in getting the games.

Returning Vet Plans To Rejoin Athletics

PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., June 18. (AP)—Phil Marchildon, Canadian war veteran, just 10 pounds above his best pitching weight, expects to rejoin the Philadelphia Athletics in about two weeks.

Resting at his home after a stretch in a German prison camp, the talented righthander expresses doubt, however, that he will return to peak form before the 1946 season. He won 15 games for Connie Mack's American League club in 1942 before joining the R.C.A.F.

Jaycees Upset Optimists, 13-2

Behind the air tight pitching of John Tosh, the Junior Chamber of Commerce junior baseball club smashed into the win columns of the American League race with a 13 to 2 win over the Optimists.

The league's co-leaders were helpless before the slants of the Jaycee mound ace. Tosh threw the third strike past an even dozen of the Optimist nine.

Given an early lead by his mates, Tosh coasted along with some brilliant pitching. He had only one bad inning, the fourth, when the Optimists scored both their runs.

The Jaycees came back in their half of the fourth inning, and leveled their sights on the offerings of Jackie Cook, and pushed over six runs to ice away the ball game, and take a long 11-2 lead. Behind this lead, Tosh coasted the rest of the way.

Cook went the route for the losers, but was unable to muffle the "big berthas" of the Jaycees.

Tigers Look Toward Pennant—Wistfully

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP)—There may be a bit of pennant fever in the jungle of the Detroit Tigers, now leading the American League, but its not apparent.

"We aren't talking about it," Manager Steve O'Neill said here today. "We're just trying to win one game after another. We hope we win enough of them."

The Bengal boss man wasn't skeptical as he looked down the pennant trail, but he wouldn't predict anything.

"We haven't played 50 games yet," he said. "A lot can happen before we finish out our schedule in October.

But with the season a third gone, and the Tigers a game and a half ahead of the American League pack despite two losses to Chicago Sunday, there were plenty of followers who were almost ready to concede Detroit its first pennant since 1934.

One reason, of course, is the anticipated return to top form of Hank Greenberg, Tiger slugger who went from a $55,000-a-year job to a $600 job when he donned the khaki of the Army more than four years ago. Greenberg will rejoin the club in Detroit Tuesday.

Blue Bonnet Romps Over Edwards Club

Manager Pete Hill's Blue Bonnet Laundrymen added another victory to their impressive victory string of the season Monday afternoon by romping to a 5-1 win over Edwards Grocery. It was an exhibition game.

The Laundrymen blanked the Grocers until the seventh inning, and were never closely pressed.

Hill also announced that his team had received a challenge from Ralls, sent in a letter from Osborn Stevens. The Ralls club stated it would play the Lubbock boys "any time, day or night."

The challenge will be accepted at the earliest possible date, Hill said, but his team has a full schedule this week.

Women Golfers Plan Meeting At Abilene

ABILENE, June 18. (AP)—Directors of the West Texas Women's Golf association will meet here next Sunday to decide whether the annual championship tournament is to be revived.

Abilene is extending an invitation to hold the meet here should it be scheduled. The last tournament was in 1942 when Polly Riley of Fort Worth won the championship at Mineral Wells.

SUBMEN SINK BRAVES

GROTON, Conn., June 18. (AP)—A home run with two on by Jimmy Gleason, ex-Cincinnati Reds, paced the U. S. Navy's submarine base to an 8-2 triumph today over the Boston Braves in an exhibition baseball game here.

BRITONS ARE PUZZLED

LONDON, June 18 (U.P.)—Briton still scratched their heads in bewilderment today after watching two teams of American service men, all former professional players, square off in a baseball game in which the "Grays" beat the "Whites," 7 to 5, with four runs in the ninth.

Didrikson And Suggs In Lead

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 18. (AP)—Defending Champion Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Los Angeles, Calif., and petite Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., applied the torch to soggy Highland golf and in the qualifying round of the 16th annual Women's Western golf tournament.

Miss Suggs, 21-year-old Southern star making her Western Open debut, carried the scrap to mannish Mrs. Zaharias in the opening nine with 38, while the former Olympic track star was two over Women's standard 37. The two were teamed for the test flight.

Babe Wakes Up

Babe woke up in the back nine, through, and driving off the tee with a brassie carded a three-under-par 36, while Miss Suggs was two under 37. Mrs. Zaharias put away her driver after six troublesome holes, including the 550-yard on which she fussed with seven strokes.

Only two others of the 136-player contingent seeking 32 match-play berths bettered par the flat Highland course which was doused by a solid week of rain.

Sessions Runs Close

Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., medalist in the 1944 Western Amateur, fired 39-38—77 and nearly had a 75 herself when a chip shot plunked the 18th cup. It caromed out, however, and she needed two putts to finish.

Betty Jameson, newly-turned professional from San Antonio, Texas, wound up fourth with 43-36—79, blazing home with three birdies and six pars. The one other professional contender, Betty Hicks of Chicago faltered with 42-39—81.

Dorothy Germain, winsome Philadelphia miss, who was 1944 runner-up, couldn't control her putter and finished eight strokes off the pace with 41-42—83. Miss Jameson, who swept both the Western Open and Amateur in 1942, matched Mrs. Zaharias' brilliant recovery with her three-under-par 36 on the back nine fashioned with three birdies and six pars.

Belmont Stakes Set For Wide Open Race

NEW YORK, June 18. (U.P.)—A three-way split of the turf's coveted triple crown apparently was assured today as the three-year-olds headed toward the $50,000-added Belmont with Preakness victory Polynesian ineligible and Kentucky Derby winner Hoop Jr. lame in his stall.

A wide-open battle was forecast for Saturday's final leg of the triple crown because the three top colts in Pimlico's richest Preakness obviously will not go to the post and Pavot has been stopped in both his starts over a distance.

Polynesian, from the stable of Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, would have been the horse to beat on the basis of his wins in the Withers mile and the Preakness. The dark brown colt proved his class as he ran for the black-eyed susans.

But neither Polynesian nor Darby Dieppe, who finished third in both the Derby and the Preakness, had been nominated for the Belmont.

As for little Hoop, he pulled up lame after the run at old hilltop and undoubtedly will remain in the barn come Saturday.

Holmes Gains Over Field In National

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Manager Mel Ott felt the effects of the New York Giants' slump last week, but most of the other big hitters of the National League also were slumping. The result was that Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves, who managed to maintain his pace, was far out in front after Sunday's games.

Holmes belted out a dozen hits in 32 times at bat last week to hold his batting average at the .385 mark, only one point below last week's figure.

Ott, second a week ago, dropped from .371 to .354 with only seven hits and went into a third-place tie with Brooklyn's Goody Rosen, whose average fell six points. Whitey Kurowski of the St. Louis Cardinals checked his slide at .357, a one point drop, and took over second place among the leaders.

Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs, who registered the week's big gain of 15 points, climbed from eighth place to fifth at .346. He hit safely ten times in 22 at bats.

Other leaders were Nap Reyes, New York, .337; Louis Olmo, Brooklyn, .333; Frank McCormick, Cincinnati, .302; Bob Elliott, Pittsburgh, .301; and Gee Walker, Cincinnati, and Ernie Lombardi, New ork, tied at .296.

Besides topping the hitters, Holmes continued to lead the league in scoring with 50 runs, in total hits with 85 and in doubles with 18. He also tied with Olmo for second place with 42 runs batted in. Elliott took over the lead in this department with 47.

Olmo continued to show the way in triples with seven and in base-stealing with nine while Lombardis' 13 home runs still were good for first place although he failed to add to his total.

Mort Cooper of the Braves suffered his first pitching defeat of the season but topped the list with six victories and a single loss.

White Sox Veteran Still Heads League

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP) — Tony Cuccinello, Chicago veteran third baseman who is having one of his best years at the plate in the past decade, continued to lead the American League hit parade tonight with an average of .347 in 50 games.

The "Cooch," who has banged out 61 hits and scored 28 runs himself for the fourth-place White Sox, was 19 points ahead of Nick Etten of New York, according to official averages which included games of Sunday.

Bob Estalella of the Philadelphia Athletics was in third, with .321, seven points behind Etten's .328 clip. Behind Estalella, the top ten included General Case, Washington, .318; Bob Johnson, Boston, .305; George Stirnweiss, New York, .303; Oris Hockett, Chicago, .290; Vern Stephens, St. Louis, .288; Oscar Grimes, Ney York, .286; Roy Cullenbine, Detroit, .283, and Hershel Martin, New York, .283.

Stirnweiss headed the runs-scored parade with 41, while Johnson, with 62 hits, led in that department although his .305 average was good only for fifth place.

George McQuinn: St. Louis' first baseman continued to head the parade of doubles with 15, while Stirnweiss was out in front in rtiples with six. Stephens had the most home runs, 10, and Johnson the most runs batted in ,37. Case, the base-stealing champion, was ahead in that department with 14.

Boston's Robert "Boo" Ferriss was far in front of the rest of the league's pitchers. He has won nine and lost one. Hal Newhouser of Detroit led the mound's strikeout parade with 78.

GARDNER IS IMPRESSED

MEXICO CITY, June 18. (AP)—Alvin Gardner of Dallas, president of the Texas League, commented today that "they play a good brand of baseball in the Mexican League." Gardner, here on a vacation, also expressed surprise at the large attendance, after seeing a Mexico City-Monterrey game that attracted 8,000.

After exercising give yourself a good rub-down with alcohol.

Chisox Nose By Tigers In Ninth

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP) — Catcher Mike Tresh's squeeze play hit in the last of the ninth, with one out and Joe Orengo, pinch runner for Tony Cuccinello on third, gave the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over Detroit in a tight pitchers' battle before 16,868 fans tonight. It was Chicago's third straight win over the league leading Tigers.

Bill Deitrrich, pitching his first game since April 19, hooked up in a hurlers' duel with Paul (Dizzy) Trout, and came out ahead when Cuccinello singled to open the last of the ninth and went to second on Skeeter Webb's error. Bill Nagel sacrified him to third, Cass Michaels was intentionally passed and then Tresh laid a perfect bunt down the third base line to bring Orengo home on the squeeze play and end the game. Orengo had been put into pinch run for Cuccinello.

Dietrich stopped the Tiger attack with four hits and was in trouble but twice. Roger Cramer and Jimmy Outlaw both singled in the fourth, and in the sixth Dietrich walked Rudy York and Outlaw. But the rest of the way he had things under control.

Dodgers Nip Giants In Overtime Battle

BROOKLYN, June 18. (AP) — A single by Howie Schultz with the bases full and two out in the 13th inning gave Brooklyn a 2-1 victory over the New York Giants tonight before a paid crowd of 29,866 fans.

The game started as a hurling duel between Leroy Pfund, Dodger rookie, and Harry Feldman, Giant veteran. Both gave up one run in the first nine innings, then handed the reins over to a pair of relief chunkers. Ace Adams, the Giant fireman, received credit for the loss, while Clyde King blanked the Giants for five innings to get credit for the win.

Baseball Attendance Ran High On Sunday

NEW YORK, June 18. (U.P.)—The hot pennant races in both major leagues were reflected at the gate yesterday as seven doubleheaders drew 160,675 paid admissions.

Only th Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati failed to draw, but bad weather which rained out the second game heid the crowd to 7,487. Season attendance records were set at Philadelphia, where 34,716 saw the Yankees and Athletics play, and at Pittsburgh, where 32,396 watched the St. Louis Cards win twice. Cleveland at St. Louis Browns was rained out.

Young Bandit Pair Face Murder Charge Here In Hold-Up Slaying Of Filling Station Operator

ter, Mrs. H. J. Rhoades of Olney; two half-sisters, Mrs. Jessie Jones of Buffalo Springs, Tex. Mrs. Ruel Connor of Dallas, and his stepmother, Mrs. N. O. Lamb of Buffalo Springs.

Route Is Retraced

Officers late yesterday returned Wright and the girl to the scene of their meanderings, across the listed farm lands southwest of Lubbock, for a search which failed to disclose the burial place for records of title to the Leaird car. Wright said they buried "some kind of papers" taken from the car after it was wrecked near Slide.

Wright, whose father is Arthur J. Wright of Merkel, Tex., said he had bought a pistol, one of two that have been recovered, at Abilene. He and the girl, who told officers that she was separated from her husband, "got together" at Abilene Friday, took the pistol and went to Fort Worth, took a "few drinks" and were hitchhiking back. A motorist, he said, offered them a ride. About seven miles down the road Wright said they hijacked the driver (C. B. Leaird of Cisco), making him pull off his pants and "run up the road."

Couldn't Start Car

"But I had to call him back—I couldn't start the car." When Leaird got the engine running the pair drove to Lubbock and bought a gun for her. (The gun was identified by B. H. Beaird of a jewelry store here.

Wright said they drove to Brownfield and hijacked a service station, then drove into Lubbock under presumption he was going to Littlefield. He admitted "making up" with a hair-dyeing preparation before robbing the station, operated by Ben Baggett.

Arriving at the Lowrimore station from a dirt street, Wright said he parked the car and ordered eight gallons of gasoline and some oil. He said the girl went into the station behind Lamb and that he, Wright, pulled his gun and informed Lamb "this is a stickup!"

The girl, too, had her gun pointed at Lamb, Wright said. Lamb was reaching for a can of oil. He hurled it at the girl and advanced toward her.

"I told him to stand back, but he grabbed her and threw her over his shoulder and her gun dropped to the floor. Wright said Lamb leaned over to pick it up. "I slugged him with my gun, on the head. He fired at me. I fired at him and he fell on his face. He got up and shot twice more. I ran out and the girl hollered for me to get in the car.

"I jumped in, and the hood was not down. We drove at high speed about two blocks, and stopped. She got out and put the hood down."

Wright said the girl suffered a chest injury when the car, moving about 80 miles an hour, ran off the end of the paved Slide cutoff road, but that he believed his badly cut ear was suffered in the fight with Lamb — "although I never noticed it till after the wreck."

Pulled Girl Out Of Wreck

He said he had to pull the girl out of the wreck. Her breath was "knocked out."

He said he discussed burning the car when he and the girl were unable to start it after it had rolled 33 yards into a field. She wouldn't hear to it, he said.

They started walking on a lateral dirt road, westward, then turned southward and buried their remaining pistol. The weapon had no handle. The handle had broken off when Lamb was being slugged at the station, and parts were found lying near the station attendant.

Wright said the pair then made their way to a gin up the road, stayed there until daylight "and started walking to a vacant house where we broke in and stayed until we heard a policeman—I guess it was a policeman: He hollered 'Hello!' and we neaded out the back way and began dodging and ducking officers in cars and on foot tracking in nearby fields."

He said he changed to a pair of shoes he found in the abandoned house, and ate some K-rations discovered there.

Between that moment at the old house two miles west and 10 south of Wolfforth until their capture east of that place Wright and the girl, whose story corroborated that of the man in all important details, the pursuit swirled "all around up and, sometimes, almost on top of us." Wright said they ducked back and forth across the roads and fields and pastures, "and sometimes the lights of spotlights and flashlights were right on us."

Girl Dressed Wound

The girl said she dressed Wright's head several times at water tanks and that she "wanted to give up," but Wright declined. She said she did no shooting, but that she had "held a gun" in all the hijackings.

They said their flight was directed toward a town "where he could get his ear taken care of."

Burks asked Wright:

"Did you tell the girl when she joined you you knew a good way to make some easy money?"

"No—I just told her we were going to do some stickups."

The blond, tow-headed, weather-reddened young man was courteous in his answers, but registered no emotion, unless an occasional moistening of his lips was an evidence.

Can't Explain Action

Asked why he had "done this," he said:

"I don't know."

He said this was the first time he had ever been "in trouble."

The girl too showed little, if any emotion, and seemed as willing to talk as was her companion, whom she had known only since March or April.

Lamb Seized Pistol

Lamb apparently had seized one pistol after he had been struck twice on the head. He fired the gun several times, two of the bullets striking the left front fender. That gun was found beside his left hand as he lay dying of a gunshot wound that struck him in the lower abdomen and lodged in the spine.

There were no witnesses to the shooting, officials said. There apparently was no money taken from the station. Lamb defended himself and the station with such manifest fierceness that the man told officers in Lubbock county jail that a bloody cut on the side of his head was caused by the station attendant. And the girl said Lamb "knew a lot of Judo—he threw me completely over his head."

Billfold Not Disturbed

Lamb's billfold, officials said, was inside the station. It too had not been disturbed.

Across the street, under a bus in City Bus company's barns, William H. Yelvington was at work and heard a shot. He rushed across the street to find Lamb lying near a gasoline pump, dying. The pistol lay near him, and there were large broken pieces of another pistol's handles nearby. (The gun dug up near Slide had no handles.)

The bandits were gone. Tire marks indicated a fast getaway westward on Nineteenth.

Yelvington called police. It was 3:56 o'clock.

Lamb was unable to volunteer information.

Brownfield Station Hijacked

L. N. Bartley and M. N. King, police patrolmen in a prowl car, were cruising on South Ave. H and had received a radio message from KGZW, Lubbock police shortwave transmitter, announcing a hijacking of Phillips 66 station in Brownfield. They drove westward on Broadway, thence southward to Nineteenth. There they picked up another message. Lowrimore station had been robbed, the call said, and a man had been shot.

Lamb could answer only two questions when the patrolmen arrived.

"Who did it? Can you describe them?" asked Bartley.

"A man and a woman," Lamb said, weakly.

Intensive Hunt Conducted

The manhunt concentrated airplanes, two-way radio cars and foot trackers in the naked field rows and occasional mesquite thatched pastures 10 miles south and two west of Wolfforth, after a relentless all-night search had followed the confused wanderings of the suspects.

The capture was announced at 9:09 o'clock in a broadcast from state radio-car unit 130.

"Suspects being apprehended," the call said.

One minute later came this message:

"Suspects are apprehended."

They were taken to Lubbock county jail, where they were admitted at 9:45.

Trackers skillfully used a "relay" system. One group spread into a field and another group would estimate where tracks would be in the section ahead. If the front group picked up a trail, its members would wave back group behind, progressing with leapfrog tactics.

Two other factors "threw dirt" in the eyes of investigators about the time they commenced working on the shooting case.

An automobile was stolen in Lubbock soon after the attempted robbery, a 1938 Studebaker four-door sedan with dealer's license "Jones & Whitfield No. 1866," and soon afterward was sighted in Tahoka driven by two men and a woman. Then, at 5 o'clock, Johnson & Bumpas filling station in Plainview was robbed by a lone gunman who took $108 from W. M. Dunn, station operator.

But "tips" began coming in and officials soon localized the area of escape.

Soon they were finding bandages, evidencing at least one of the pair sought had been injured.

They finally settled in immediate vicinity of an abandoned farm residence southwest of Wolfforth in Lynn county, and began following footprints.

About 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a telephone call was received by Sheriff Grady Harrist's department. An automobile had been wrecked in a field at the end of the paved Slide "cutoff" farm-to-market road. The glove compartment was "full of gasoline stamps endorsed by many different license numbers."

The call came from the William Mash residence, less than 50 yards from the spot where the car had been abandoned after leaping a deep "bar" ditch, then high into the air before falling on its right side and commencing gyrations that eventually left it standing on its wheels 33 yards from the road.

Heard Car Smash

Mrs. Mash and a daughter, Mrs. A. F. Barthel of 1812 Broadway, said they had heard the car smash itself "just a little while after the clock struck 4 a.m." They did not go outside to investigate, or call Mash, known as "Squire." A man and a woman left the car after attempting vainly to "start" its engine, going west. They had a flashlight.

After they had eaten dinner the Mashes went into the field and decided to investigate.

Tracks led westward, paused indecisively, then southward. Less than 200 yards down the south road, tracks led across a "bar" ditch. C. T. Potts "cut" the trail, and he and Sheriff Sam Floyd and Dep. Sheriff Cleve Barrington, both of Tahoka, scratched in the sand where one of the fugitives had sat, and found a 38 caliber H&R short revolver.

It had no handles!

Sgt. John Hollyfield of the state highway patrol, who with Capt. C. E. Tabor had three two-way radio cars and one radio receiver car in the search, quickly assigned four quadrants of search for his men.

Assistant Chief of Police Bill Mabray reappeared at the scene where he had taken fingerprint evidence off the car. Captain of Detectives Aubrey Fawver and other officers began arriving. Ranger Capt. Maney Gault, Chief of Police Roy Moreman of Brownfield had joined the search.

Soon all were spread out over southwestern Lubbock county and in parts of Lynn, Terry and Hockley counties.

Covered Wide Area

They sped from one farm house to another, stopped automobiles on lateral roads, set up roadblocks—questioning everybody in sight as to whether anyone had seen a man and a woman answering description of the suspects; asking whether dogs of the countryside had set up any unusual barking.

They learned first of the suspects' route through a telephone call from Lonnie Williams of the Slide community. Then came a report directly to officers in the search area, from Bennett Collins, a negro field hand, who said he and another black had seen two such persons "cutting across the Lee Rieger place from the Odell pasture."

It was found at another place in that vicinity where the suspects had "watered" and, just before dark, Ranger Norvell Redwine, Capt. Tabor and Patrolman B. J. Patterson inspected premises of the deserted farm house, known as the Old Northam place now owned by Mrs. Pinkie E. Hall.

Found Screen Pulled Loose

They found where a screen had been pulled loose from a window, and they raised the window and searched. Determining the suspects were not far away, they rejoined other officers in a search of surrounding fields and pastures and outbuildings of various farms.

Police Chief Don Reeder, with a party that approached the vacant house after dark, called that the group with him had found bandages, a few hundred yards off in a field, and more behind the Northam place.

There were cloths that matched some left in the farmhouse, officials found.

Bandages Changed Regularly

"They're changing bandages pretty regularly," one of the officials in a chickenhouse called.

"They're surely not more than 20 minutes from here."

Cars, joined by farmers in automobiles and afoot, began circling in contiguous fields and pastures, or cutting through them, spotlights and flashlights sweeping the curving blue-weed dotted ridges.

Their plan was to prevent any further moving of the fugitives until dawn.

When dawn allowed wan light to filter over the landscape Capt. Tabor was in Lubbock asking aerial search assistance.

He called the Army.

And Clent Breedlove Aerial service, which maintains a large modern airport and numerous planes southeast of Lubbock quickly placed a Waco biplane in the air to assist in a faster search which involved maneuvers that were to signal its observations.

The capture was effected approximately three hours after dawn.

Lamb was rushed to Lubbock General hospital by a Plains ambulance at 4 a. m. Sunday. He lived only 30 minutes after being admitted to the hospital.

Wright said he had been discharged from the Navy about two years ago for a physical disability.

Among the small "army" of officers seen by reporetrs rushing about over a four-county area were the following officers: From the state patrol, Capt. C. Tabor, Sgt. John Hollyfield, J. R. Whitmire, L. W. Wilhite, B. J. Patterson, T. C. Laws, John Wood and Finis Carter; from the FBI, Max Richardson and Curtis L. Perryman; from the Rangers, Capt. Maney Gault and Norvell Redwine; Sheriff Sam Floyd and Deputy Cleve Barrington of Tahoka; Lubbock county Sheriff Grady Harrist; Chief of Police Don Reeder, Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, Bill Bell, captain of night police, Aubrey Fawver, captain of detectives; Allan Miller, U. S. Secret service; Chief of Police Roy Moreman of Brownfield; and, unseen, but around somewhere, establishing road blocks and working by telephone, Sheriff E. Hofacket of Levelland and Deputy Mon Telford of Brownfield.

Religion Is Called Civilization's Heart, Source Of Democracy

American history reveals that democracy grew out of religion, declared Dr. M. E. Sadler, president of Texas Christian university, in a talk here Monday night, and he emphasized that religion should continue to motivate democracy and be "the spirit of it."

Speaking at a dinner meeting in Hilton hotel of board members of the various Lubbock churches, arranged by laymen of the city, Dr. Sadler said that Americans are fighting not so much to preserve civilization as to give us an opportunity to preserve civilization. "Religion is the heart of civilization," he said.

Approximately 200 churchmen were in attendance. The group endorsed similar meetings in the future.

Taking as his subject, "The church leader's place in today's world," he declared that the great thinkers of the world say that a bond of fellowship is needed to bind the world of today and said that the church is the only organization equal to creation of such a bond.

He told the gathering that its members were responsible for the progress of the church.

George P. Kuykendall was toastmaster and Harry Delaney song leader.

The meeting was sponsored by the Lubbock ministerial association.

Commission Okeys Gas Injection Tests

AUSTIN, June 18. (AP)—The railroad commission today authorized the Texas company, the Honolulu Oil corporation, Magnolia Petroleum company and Stanolind Oil and Gas company to conduct gas injection tests on four wells in the Slaughter field for a period not exceeding one month.

While the wells are closed for tests their allowable will be transferred to four remaining wells on the tract containing the test wells listed as Honolulu A. A. Salughter B-42; Magnolia F. L. Woodley No. 23, Stanolind Mallet Land and Cattle company No. F-43, and Texas Mallet Land and Cattle company Elease No. 1.

General Buckner Killed In Action

Regimental combat team on Okinawa. His death was instantaneous and resulted from the burst of an enemy shell. Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, U. S. Marine corps, has assumed command of the Ryukyus forces. General Buckner's death occurred as enemy resistance on Okinawa was breaking and Japanese troops were fleeing in the open toward the cliffs at the southern end of the island."

Veteran Of Aleutians

Buckner, veteran of the Aleutians campaign, where he learned a great deal about Japanese battle tactics, was a frequently visitor to the front lines.

He was named commander of the newly-formed Tenth Army more than a year ago, but the announcement was withheld until the April 1 invasion of Okinawa, when existance of his Army was disclosed by Nimitz.

The general entered the Pacific picture in the fall of 1943 when he organized the defenses of Alaska. He won the Distinguished Service Medal for that job and became commander of the Alaskan department in November, 1943.

Went Ashore Quickly

The ruddy-faced officer witnessed the pre-invasion bombardment of Okinawa from a warship and a week after his Army was ashore he had established headquarters on Okinawa, having made the trip to the invasion beachhead aboard an amphibious tractor. He made a jump of seven feet from the amtrac to get ashore. Then he took a jeep and toured the southern front.

Later the general went to a front observation post to watch the 7th Infantry division push off in the drive against one of the toughest spots on Okinawa — the Shuri castle area. After watching that operation he declared "there is nothing more inspiring than to see an American soldier's magnificant spirit. He gets there in rain, cold, mud and enemy fire."

Predicted A Hard Nut

The general predicted that Okinawa would be a hard nut to crack. The battle for the strategic island had been underway about three weeks when he said "it will be a heavy job and we can expect a good many casualties." He highly commended air, naval and ground forces and said the attack was "beautifully coordinated."

Buckner was a native of Munfordville, Ky.

He went to Alaska in the spring of 1940 and was in command of American forces there when the Japanese struck in the Pacific. With the threat of invasion in Alaska and the Aleutians dissipated, Buckner was transferred to another station in the Pacific, eventually appearing on April 1 of this year as commander of the 10th Army in the attack on Okinawa.

1908 West Pointer

His military service started with graduation from West Point in 1908. During his career, he served on two occasions in the Philippines.

He saw duty on the Mexican border during most of 1914. Subsequently he filled various assignments at stations in the United States including tours of duty in Washington.

At Washington, Secretary of War Stimson said that in the death of Buckner "the Army has lost one of its most skilled and aggressive field commanders."

Okinawa Battle

to the vicinity of the Nagusuku-Makebe highway in southwestern Okinawa.

Although there has been no official announcement yet that organized resistance has been crushed on blood-soaked Okinawa, there is little doubt that the campaign is in its final stage and will be wound up in a few days.

Tribute By Nimitz

Even Nimitz, in a brief tribute to Buckner, said "in the day of victory on which he gallantly met a soldier's death." However, the conservative admiral withheld proclaiming Okinawa "secured" —presumably until he positively can announce that all organized resistance is ended. He has followed that policy consistently throughout the Pacific campaigns under his command.

Yesterday, Tenth Army troops broke through Japanese defense lines in all sectors of the front against "resistance which was crumbling and diminishing at nightfall," Nimitz reported.

In the western (Marine) sector, the completely fresh Eighth Regimental combat team joined the Sixth Marine division's 22nd regiment in driving to the Nagusuku-Makebe highway.

Marine observers in this area reported about a battalion—approximately 1,000—of Japanese fleeing southward in the open. This fleeing force was smashed with a heavy concentration of artillery.

After breakthroughs early in the day, Tenth Army troops were closely pursuing the broken Japanese force.

Cracking of the last organized Japanese defense line on Okinawa started with the assault by Hunt's combat team in the western flank sector. These Marines moved into the sector during the night. Attacking before dawn, they gained 600 yards by daylight.

They met some resistance early in the day, but their drive again gained momentum as the Japanese broke and fled toward cliffs at the southern end of the island.

On Western Flank

On the extreme western flank, Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr.'s Sixth Marine division won a ridge near Kuwanga town.

On the eastern flank of the Marine sector, the First division's Fifth Regiment captured Hill 79.

In the center of the battlefront, the 96th Infantry division's 381st regiment spearheaded a sweep all the way across Yaeju plateau. They advanced to within 3,000 yards—about 1 2-3 miles—of the southern coast. From their new positions, the 381st looked down on the town of Medeera, with the surf off the southern coast in clear sight.

The Seventh Infantry division, on the eastern coast, employed tanks and self-propelled guns to blast hollowed-out coral heads in which death-stand Japanese were resisting with small arms fire.

There was a small core of fairly stiff Japanese resistance centered around Hill 110.

The Seventh division's troops penetrated to within 1,000 yards of Mabumi town.

The Eighth Regimental combat team which went into the Okinawa front Sunday night to spearhead the knockout blow in the Marine sector, was the first Leatherneck regiment to leave the United States after the outbreak of World war II.

The regiment now is in its fourth year of overseas service, with an outstanding record in four major Pacific campaigns—Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian. Hunt, its commander, was one of the Marines' Guadalcanal heroes. He was born in Newark, N. J. His wife, Hazel O. Hunt, lives at Berkeley, Calif.

The regiment sailed from San Diego, Calif., for American Samoa Jan. 6, 1942. It received the Presidential Unit citation for its Guadalcanal campaign and again for the battle at Tarawa.

News Briefs

While her husband, W. R. Adams, about 45, a Lubbock barber, lay critically ill Monday afternoon in a room nearby, Mrs. Adams lost a purse containing $100 to a thief in the corridor of a local hospital. Police were told that she left the purse for a few minutes on a radiator in the corridor and when she returned the purse was gone. Adams was resting "fairly well" at midnight, hospital attendants said.

West Texas hospital reported late Monday night that J. A. Fortenberry, Lubbock oil company agent who suffered two heart attacks Sunday night and Monday morning, was resting well although his condition remained the same. Members of the family said that Fortenberry apparently was in the best of health until Sunday night. He lives on the Levelland highway.

Three sailors robbed a Mr. Autry of $50 at O'Donnell Sunday night, Lubbock officers were Monday. Two burglaries the same night at Abernathy netted prowlers $500, it was reported.

H. V. Bigham, of 2115 Twenty-first, reported to police Monday that prowlers took a large quantity of clothing, including 25 ties, from his automobile at his home.

Levines Win Suit On Revenue Bureau

Ruling that the gifts were bonafide and not for income tax evasion purposes as charged by the internal revenue bureau, Federal District Judge William H. Atwell Monday awarded $24,410 plus interest to Mr. and Mrs. Morris Levine of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. William Levine of Wichita Falls, an Associated Press dispatch said last night.

Testimony at the hearing in court at Dallas showed that each couple, partners in Levine Bros., department store chain, has two children and that fractional interests in the stores were given them by their parents. The internal revenue bureau contended the gifts were for income tax evasion purposes.

Judge Atwell held that since the four children received their fractional profits from the enterprise, they were in fact partners of the business, and that therefore the gifts were bonafide.

The joint suit was filed by the elder Levines against the collector of internal revenue seeking to recover income tax overcharges.

Levelland Man Dies In Hospital Here

Thomas B. Grant, 66, of Levelland, died at 2 o'clock this morning in Lubbock General hospital.

Funeral services for Grant, a resident of Levelland for 12 years, will be conducted at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the First Baptist church at Levelland with Rev. J. T. Clinton of Lubbock and Rev. Harris of Lorenzo officiating.

Grant was a resident of Crosby county for 13 years prior to moving to Levelland.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; five sons, Tilmer, William M., and Prindle O., all of Levelland, Hubert B., Brownfield; John W., in the armed services, and 13 grandchildren.

Burial will be under the direction of Plains Funeral home of Levelland.

Occupation Troops

zig.

The Ninth Infantry, with the Third Army, is stationed in the area between Augsburg and Ingolstadt about 20 miles northwest of Munich.

The First Infantry of the Third Army has been assigned to a triangular area between Ansbach, Neustadt and Rottenburg.

These locations are not necessarily permanent, since the disposition of American troops in the occupied zone is in a constant state of flux due to the withdrawal of certain divisions for deployment elsewhere.

The Third Army area will coincide roughly with the boundaries of Bavaria while the Seventh Army will control the remainder of the American zone. Boundaries of the Seventh's area will not be determined until it is decided just how much territory the French Army will occupy.

Seventh Army headquarters presumably will be at Heidelberg, currently the headquarters of the Sixth Army group.

Third Army headquarters are listed tentatively as Bad Tolz, just south of Munich.

Capital Wild As General Returns

Pentagon building. There Secretary of War Stimson greeted the party and 32,000 War department employes, clustered beneath the broiling sun heard Eisenhower's tribute to their unspectacular labors:

"We have read in the papers that you are War department 'bureaucrats.' And when we have read that we have thought of the long hours, the sweating hours when you have worked loyally so that efficiency instead of chaos would prevail.

Stimson Comment Brief

Said Stimson simply:

"You (Eisenhower) have brought us great honor."

Down Constitution avenue, the jampack got even more intense, and more vocal. Eisenhower just had to stay on his feet to return the salute, now waving his right arm, now the left, occasionally catching his balance as his jeep halted.

Swinging into Pennsylvania avenue, the procession halted while the general was presented with the symbolic key to the city.

It hadn't seemed possible, but at the capitol the density of the crowd increased still further.

Eisenhower led his party into the House chamber, filled with members of both House and Senate, the Supreme court, the cabinet and others of high position.

Surprised Smile

The general, taller than he seems in pictures, glanced around with what continued to seem like a surprised smile that all this was for him. But when he spoke he was a general again, driving home his points in clipped sentences. He spoke very rapidly, in a deep, barking voice. His address, organized in soldierly order, was built on this outline:

That it was the 3,000,000 men he commanded who "should properly be here" to receive this reception.

None of Europe's historic battlefields ever saw 'a more worthy soldier than the trained American."

Prime Minister Churchill and the late Franklin Roosevelt were "God-given men" for this task and from Mr. Roosevelt "I drew constant support and confidence in the solution of my own problems."

Key To Success

"Teamwork" was the key to success and the Soviet armies "stir the emotions of anyone who admires soldierly virtues."

Then he told what he thinks is the innermost thought of the GI:

"He passionately believes that the problems of peace can and must be met." (See story on Page 2).

The general had made the eight-mile parade trip and his appearance before Congress in less than an hour and a half. By 1 p.m., he was enroute to the Statler hotel for a luncheon where he and his wife were presented with a silver service from the 1,000 guests.

From there, the general proceeded to the White House to receive an Oak Leaf Cluster in lieu of his third Distinguished Service Medal. Said he to President Truman as he received the award:

Called Supreme Honor

"I would rather have the distinction of receiving this from the President than any honor I know of."

"And," replied Mr. Truman, "I'd rather have this award than be President."

There was a brief respite for Eisenhower before tonight's stag dinner at the White House. Tomorrow he will receive New York's ticker tape ovation.

And through it all Eisenhower still looks as though he's thinking:

"Is this happening to Ike Eisenhower?"

Germans Must Pay

talking to Russians, I don't know."

Turning to the problem of fraternization in Germany, he said flatly he favors non-association of American soldiers with German adults "until we get out all the Nazis."

Eisenhower commented "I would like to put in my oar" on the Japanese war, but added "I have no part in that war except as a civilian."

That Bulge Battle

The general reviewed the fighting through France from D-day to Germany's surrender, and drew a roar of laughter from the huge body of newspapermen in answering a question about the "bulge battle."

"Were you ever worried about the outcome," a reporter asked.

"You bet," Eisenhower shot back. "Three weeks later, when we got the American newspapers."

He said orders to the German armies were captured right after the bulge offensive was launched, that the fighting that began December 16 was "by no means the hardest" of the German war. He estimated Germany's losses in the bulge offensive "were two and one half times ours."

Soldiers Knew Defeat

"The German soldiers knew they were whipped in January," he said. "Their only hope after that was that the Allies would start fighting one another."

Had the Allies been four months later the defeat of Germany would have been a much greater problem, he said, because of the tremendous development of the V-weapons.

Eisenhower disclosed that he had made a wager on the end of the war, back in October, 1943, and that he was wrong by four months. His opinion was that the European shooting would stop by January 1, 1945.

AP Loses Suit

Frankfurter agreed with the conclusion but set forth a different line of reasoning.

2. A sharp dissent by Justice Roberts in which he accused the majority in effect of disregarding "the general principle that nothing added to nothing will not add up to something," called the decision "government by injunction with a vengeance," and declared the decision "threatens to be but a first step in the shackling of the press which will subvert" its constitutional freedom. Chief Justice Stone concurred.

3. Justice Frankfurter's concurring opinfon. He took a view which Justice Douglas described as the "public utility theory." In effect, Frankfurter's argument was that such a vital public interest attaches to dissemination of news that the anti-trust laws must be applied more strictly to the AP than to other types of cooperatives. As he phrased it, the case "calls into play considerations very different from comparable restraints in a cooperative enterprise having a commercial aspect."

"A free press is indispensable to the workings of our democratic society," Frankfurter said. "The business of the press, and therefore the business of the Associated Press, is the promotion of truth regarding public matters by furnishing the basis for an understanding of them. Truth and understanding are not wares like peanuts or potatoes."

4. A concurring opinion by Justice Douglas. He said: "As developed in the opinion of the court, the by-laws of the Associated Press were aimed at the competitors of the Associated Press members; their necessary effect was to hinder or impede competition with members of the combination." But he took issue with Frankfurter, saying the lower court found the AP was not a monopoly. Douglas added: "Only if a monopoly were shown to exist would we be faced with the public utility theory which has been much discussed in this case and adopted by Mr. Justice Frankfurter."

5. A dissenting opinion by Justice Murphy. He said he could accept the majority opinion if it were "made clear by the undisputed facts" that members of the AP were, through the organization's by-laws, "engaged in a program to hamper or destroy competition." But he declared "there is a complete lack of any relevant proof justifying the conclusion that the Associated Press membership policy has prevented or hindered the birth of a competing newspaper, prevented or hindered the successful operation of one, or caused one to be discontinued."

Murphy said, too, that it was "the first time that the Sherman act has been used as a vehicle for affirmative intervention by the government in the realm of dissemination of information." Saying there was danger in approving such a decree without insisting upon more proof. He declared:

"If unsupported assumptions and conjectures as to the public interest and competition among newspapers are to warrant a relatively mild decree such as this one, they will also sustain unjust and more drastic measures. The blueprint will then have been drawn for use of the despot of tomorrow."

Borneo Advances

James Hutcheson reported from Brunei bay that a great column of smoke could be seen from there 75 miles north of the oil fields in the Seria and Mira areas. The Japanese inaugurated their scorched-earth policy last week as they fled from invading Australian troops.

The unopposed landing at Weston on Brunei bay was significant because that town is the southern terminus of the narrow-gauge railway leading northeast through Beaufort to Jesselton and is the place where the Japanese made their original Brunei bay landing in the 1942 conquest of Borneo.

The Aussies on Borneo had the support of 70 medium bombers and fighters which attacked the Miri and Kudat area.

On another almost - forgotten Australian front—New Guinea—Aussie infantry captured a strong Japanese position in the hills south of Wewak, which they took a month ago Heavy, medium and fighter bombers supported them and also attacked the enemy at Rabaul on New Ireland and at Bougainville in the Solomons.

J. C. Meredith Dies At Abilene Monday

J. C. Meredith, about 50, former Lubbock insurance man who moved to Abilene four or five years ago, died at his Abilene home, 634 Victoria street, about 7 o'clock Monday evening, friends here were advised last night. He had been ill from a malignant ailment several months.

Funeral services are to be held at Abilene probably Wednesday. Survivors include the widow and one daughter, Mrs. Sam Neathery, who were at the bedside when he died.

A Good Police Job!

But The Officers Need Help

LAW-ENFORCEMENT officers of the "wide open spaces" out this way demonstrated by remarkable night picketing and tracking down of two persons charged in connection with the wanton slaying of W. R. Lamb that their merging of effort into a democratic pattern can accomplish results traditionally accredited to them.

When you combine representatives of the government, state, district, county and precinct and expect lack of friction when tempers are frayed by long hours of dashing about the country without food and sleep, you are expecting a lot.

When you add to that problem individual characteristics of men who have been trained in different schools of investigatory theory; men who, except for occasional instances, are each fully capable of heading up a manhunt, the chances of an individual officer's making a suggestion that may unfortunately be construed as too officious are enhanced.

But Morning Avalanche reporters—two of them were taken all over the pursuit sector by the officers—have nothing but praise for the way the men exhaustively worked out leads in Lubbock, Terry, Lynn and Hockley counties.

The reporters, however, noticed a physical handicap that is more serious than the psychological one that did not flare up.

Often in the racing chase it was required that a two-way radio car would have to quit the ranks of officers and drive to within 15 or 20 miles of Lubbock before its signals could be "read" by KGZW, the police shortwave transmitter here. Without KGZW, the various cars equipped with radio receivers were stymied in efforts to quickly learn of general changes in instructions.

The Abilene state highway patrol has a portable radio transmitter that, when occasion suggests itself, can be wheeled quickly into the area of chase. It, perhaps far from a stationary transmitter like those boasted by Abilene and Lubbock, sets itself up in the middle of the desert, or wherever else its agency is needed, and catches the impulses of messages being broadcast in said desert and amplifies them so that there is no more difficulty in broadcasting in an out-of-the-way place than in the middle of a township.

Some officers openly will say a cycle of lawlessness and violence is "due to hit any time." If that be true, and they have a habit of being almost psychic about what to expect in their work, it is time for this area to prepare for coming problems of law enforcement by gathering here all the physical factors possible that can help run violence to earth.

In that connection, it would be well for the South Plains either to apply for a powerful mobile radio transmitter, or, at least, to arrange for transfer of such a unit from another section of the country when the need for it here arises.

The peace officers themselves have proved themselves capable of coping with all except mechanical problems.

Let's see that they get help there too.

Precious Transportation

THE American people will be doing both themselves and the nation a service if they heed President Truman's request to cut personal travel to the barest minimum. By this course they can avoid rationing of railroad tickets—which no one wants—and release trains and equipment for the much more important job of transporting soldiers and material to their new bases in the Pacific.

The question, "Is this trip necessary?" has even more meaning today than it had when the railroads were asked to bring to Atlantic seaports the millions of troops destined to form the American armies which won the victory in Europe. That earlier proceeding extended over 48 months. Now America expects to mobilize for Far Eastern duty a force of equal size but within a period of eight months.

Beyond all this, there are thousands of wounded men, casualties of the European war, who must be taken without delay to hospitals or their homes. In many instances this means extensive travel, and he is a selfish citizen indeed who would deprive any of these soldiers of the smallest fraction of the comfort which they so richly deserve.

They and the other men in the armed services have, by every right and reason, first call on the transportation facilities of the nation.

At times we are disposed to wonder if the world wasn't made primarily for fish and pessimists. It's three-fourths water and nine-tenths trouble.

"The poor are better behaved than the rich," says a sociologist. No doubt, but the poor aren't innately better than the rich. It's just that it takes a lot of money to raise hell.

One Saturday afternoon in April my father came home unexpectedly. He did not come into the sitting room where we were playing Authors, but instead called my mother out into the hall. Then the two of them went into the parlor and closed the door behind them. Saturday was my father's busiest day. His coming home meant something important. Going into the parlor portended the momentous. We were all agog.

"Maybe someone's dead," Julia suggested cheerfully.

At first we could make out almost nothing. Then right out clear we heard my father say it. "A note at the bank."

A note meant a letter. A letter brought news. Julia was right, I decided. Someone had died and left us a fortune. I would take a trip to Europe. I would go on the Lusitania. I would buy myself a red silk petticoat with a flounce.

Cousin Victoria was my father's only relation. She lived in a big house called Balmoral on the other side of the Junction. She had been born on the birthday of the Queen whose name she bore, and that circumstance had colored her entire existence for it gave her, she felt, a real prerogative. She had always told us that every cent she owned would go when she died to The Friends of the Royal Family, an organization of which she was a charter member, but Cousin Victoria was noted for changing her mind.

• • •

The front door closed, and my mother, her cheeks very flushed, came back into the sitting room. "Girls," she said, "I have news for you."

Two flounces, maybe . . . .

"Yes, Mama," we chorused.

"Jim McClure has left town," she told us.

I felt terribly let down. So I could see, did Sue and Julia. Jim McClure was a little pinkish man, and all three of us had viewed him with distaste. His leaving did not move us. Certainly, we thought, it did not justify the parlor.

"He left bills behind him," my mother went on.

That didn't impress us, either. Bills meant little in our life. My father sent them out occasionally, and people paid them in their own way. Sometimes it was with wood or potatoes, sometimes with weekly deliveries of fish and eggs. The grocer was my father's patient. So was the barber and the butcher and the cobbler and the paperhanger. Every once in a while he would get together with one or another of them for squaring things.

"Big bills," my mother repreated gravely. "Bills that your father will have to pay in cash."

We sobered. Our cash was gone, and we knew it. It had gone to buy the American House, to repair and to paint it. To buy horses and carriages for the stable. Cash did not come easily.

"Your father did what he thought best at the time," my mother continued. She never criticized him, at least in our hearing. "But things have turned out badly. He has spent all of his money, and now he has had to borrow $500 dollars from the bank."

Then the note didn't concern Cousin Victoria. . . .

"Now there is only one way out."

"What way, Mama?" Sue asked.

"For us to move into the hotel and run the place until he has paid back what he has borrowed."

She must have seen the amazement in our faces. No one in our village ever moved. You lived in the house where you had been born, and, as likely as not, where your father had before you. You were brought up to believe there was something suspicious about people who moved around.

"It's only for the summer," my mother hurried on. "By August your father will have other plans." She paused and sighed. "It will be very different from our life here."

My mother's eyes fell to the marble top of the table. "You will probably hear and see things, living there."

The room seemed warmer. I looked down at my shoes, fearful of smiling, though there was nothing funny anywhere.

"Hear and see things," she repeated.

Wild things had happened at the American House. There were still stories. . . . People still talked about the carpets and the bathroom, the parlor and the dumbwaiter. Even though my father owned it, my mother had never allowed us to go inside. Now we could see with our own eyes. . . . Hear with our own ears. . .

"And if you do," she went on, suddenly severe, "I want you to remember your upbringing. If I could only be sure of that. . . ."

We moved on the first Saturday in May. My mother packed only our toilet articles and our clothing, leaving each of us to judge what else was indispensable. "There's no need of carting a lot of things that will just have to be brought right back again," she warned.

The day was dull and chilly. At 9 o'clock my father came for us with the surrey. We got in gravely and sat throughout the ride in silence. For the first time I could remember we had locked our door. And we had locked it from the outside.

Slaton Funeral Held For Sam E. Staggs

SLATON, June 18. (Special)—Funeral services for Sam E. Staggs, 70, landowner, civic worker and former mayor of Slaton who died Sunday at his home, were conducted today at 5 o'clock at the Slaton First Methodist church with Rev. Luther Kirk, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. W. F. Ferguson, pastor of the Baptist church.

Mr. Staggs first came to Slaton in 1918 as a train dispatcher. He later served as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and served two terms as mayor beginning in about 1935. From 1928 to 1941, he was a partner in the Plains Grain and Heads Handling company. At one time he was in the insurance business with M. A. Pember.

The body was sent to Walton, Ind., for burial, Williams Funeral home announced.

Survivors are his widow of Slaton and two nieces in Indiana.

Pallbearers were K. C. Scott, J. L. Benton, R. C. Ayers, B. H. Ballinger, W. T. Brown and G. S. Baker.

Boundary Of Petsamo Region Being Drawn

(By The Associated Press)

A mixed Soviet-Finnish boundary committee met in Helsinki this morning to begin drawing the boundary in the Petsamo region of northern Finland, the Finnish radio said today in a broadcast reported by the FCC.

The Petsamo region in northern Finland was ceded to Finland by Russia in 1920. Under terms of the Russo-Finnish armistice the area is to be returned to Russia.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

ONE of my readers in Texas wrote me the other day and asked me whether I believe in long engagements.

He had been going with a girl for seven months, he said, and he didn't think that was long enough to know a person.

Naturally, I hesitated a long time before sending him an answer. It's one of those problems that everybody seems to have to work out for himself.

But I think I have the answer today.

BRANDEIS

We went to a little party last evening. There were six married couples and, after a very succulent buffet supper, the men went into the living room and the women to the den.

And before long the conversation drifted to what it always does eventually when men gather—women.

(I don't know what women talk about when they are by themselves. I think it's men, but my wife insists that it always gets to clothes.)

Well, each of the six of us had to tell how we met our wives and how we proposed and how and where we were married.

Two out of the six—an oil man and a sales manager — kept company with their wives more than two years.

One an editor—proposed to his wife the same evening he met her.

One—a navy lieutenant and lawyer in civilian life — took pity on his bridge partner after he had played with her a few times and married her to make a better bridge player out of her.

The fifth — a writer — is presently married to his third wife, so he doesn't count. The sixth was me. I knew my wife for four weeks when we were married.

• • •

And, let me say right here, that after more than twenty years of married life, my wife is exactly the kind of a person I knew she would be within fifteen minutes after I met her which was within thirty minutes after I arrived in New York from California.

So, I say to my friend in Texas, it doesn't make a bit of difference how long you know a girl before you marry her.

• • •

IN THE first place who ever knows a woman?

In the second place, what woman is dumb enough to let any man know what she really is like?

After all these years I don't know my wife yet, nor does any man really know his wife.

All women lead a life of their own—a life into which no man can ever intrude.

You all know about the Sphinx down in Egypt, don't you?

Every woman is a bit of a Sphinx, no mutter how much she may talk.

So, my advice to you is:

If you feel like marrying her, ask her.

If she says yes, marry her.

Elliott R's "Loan" Rocks Capital

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE REVELATION of Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt's unrepaid borrowing of $196,000 from John Hartford, president of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, has rocked Weshington from Capitol Hill to White House. Despite the distinguished personalities concerned, many members of Congress believe that the matter should not be hush-hushed, in view of its grave implications.

Several federal agencies were involved and even Mr. Hartford is held partially blameworthy. Advocates of an investigation have no desire to smear anyone, least of all the late Chief Executive or his family. But they do want to ascertain whether the the Treasury, the Internal Revenue bureau, the Federal Communications commission, the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Army have been amenable to political and financial influence.

TUCKER

The chronology of the various events in the deal must be kept in mind to appreciate the significance of the whole affair. Mr. Hartford advanced $200,000 in 1939 to aid the President's son in buying radio properties in Texas. Although he had assumed responsibility for repayment of such a large sum, Elliott entered the Army in October 1940 as an Air Force captain, with his father's approval. He had not moved to repay a cent at that time.

Normally ,the War department makes a scrupulous investigation of a man's background before it gives him a commission. One of the first questions the Intelligence service asks is whether the candidate pays his bills and has a good credit rating.

It is true that servicemen are allowed a moratorium on their debts when they join the colors. But $200,000 was rather a large lump for the War department to wipe off for the duration. Fact is that the Army did not look into the matter.

• • •

OWNERSHIP: The Federal Communications commission is charged by law with policing the ownership as well as the general behavior of radio stations. Elliott's outlets reached a vast listening audience in the Southwest, which now recalls that many of his own nightly broadcasts were extremely anti-New Dealish and pro-business.

If an ordinary person asked approval for such a purchase, the FCC would investigate his financial connections and backers. Under normal circumstances it would not give its OK to a prospective owner who had to buy on a shoestring. FCC, for instance, would withhold favorable action if it learned that great oil, utility or chain store interests were obtaining a radio audience by proxy.

Here again there was no investigation. FCC chairman at the time was James L. Fly, former head of the Tennessee Valley Authority and an enthusiastic New Dealer. Present chairman is Paul Porter, who was formerly associated with the Democratic National committee.

Only a few weeks ago — and here is a new chapter — the FCC announced that Elliott was selling some of his radio properties for an unspecified amount of cash and a chunk of stock in the purchasing corporation. There was no mention that the $200,000 advance which presumably financed his ownership of part of these facilities had not been repaid.

• • •

DEBT: RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones intervened at the request of the Roosevelt family in 1942 and finally settled for $4,000. The Texan declines to discuss the affair or the Questions of the source of his fund and the reason why Mr. Hartford was willing to lose $196,000 so nonchalantly.

On March 17, 1942, the A and P. executive crossed off the last mentioned amount as a bad debt, and so reported to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Presumably he informed the government of Elliott's default in the return which he filed on March 15, 1943. At that time the Internal Revenue Commissioner was Guy Helvering of Kansas, who quit in September to become a federal judge by FDR's appointment.

His successor was Bob Hannegan, now Postmaster General and chairman of the Democratic National committee. It requires at least a year for the Internal Revenue bureau to pass upon the writing-off of such a heavy debt as Mr. Hartford's, so it is assumed that Mr. Hannegan gave the final approval to the liquidation in so far as it affects the government.

To obtain forgiveness for such a large amount is no easy matter, as people who have tried to write off bad debts know. The creditor must sue or give equally strong evidence that the debtor cannot pay.

So far neither Mr. Hannegan nor his successor, Joseph D. Nunnan, has explained why the debt was written off so easily. Ironically, the law barring any public discussion or publication of an individual's financial relationship with Uncle Sam also bars them from "explaining."

• • •

INFLUENCE: Congressional and D of J files shed light on Mr. Hartford's squeamishness in making the loan to the President's son. Government agents did not begin their investigation of A. and P. until May 1, 1941, or until about two years after he financed Elliott, and the indictment was not returned until November 25, 1942.

But Mr. Hartford's organization had been under Congressional and New Deal attack for almost 10 years, or ever since Rep. Wright Patman of Texas introduced his anti-chain store legislation. Therefore, Mr. Hartford did not want to seem to be placed in the position of "buying influence."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE arguments presented last week to the Congressional Committee on Postwar Military Policy and the new naval building program indicate that Uncle Sam is now thinking about national defense in the peace era.

In maritime circles a hot debate is carried on behind closed doors concerning the types of fighting craft we should keep long after hostilities end. The battleship is again the bull's-eye for those who contend that she has outlived her usefulness in a V-bomb world.

LEMAN

The clash is especially violent in New York City. Here are great shipyards and Navy yards filled with battle damaged vessels. Nearly all the outstanding marine and naval architects have offices in the city.

New York experts point out that selection of the kind of ship necessary to implement naval strategy is never a closed subject; opinions are always in a state of flux. Certain improvements in ocean warfare seem to relegate conventional vessels to the junk pile.

Immediately, the uninformed public, stimulated by so-called specialists—usually with an ax to grind—cries that a particular model is rendered obsolete.

• • •

BOMBING: Almost from time immemorial, scientifically revised military and naval weapons have been overwhelmingly successful for a brief period. Then, as defense against the new arm was developed, the prophets who condemned older methods were put to shame.

Battleships — the modern ships of the line — have been argued about, pro and con, for years. At the start of this war the layman, impressed by their vulnerability at Pearl Harbor and off Malaya, concluded that they were "has-beens." Over-zealous air enthusiasts chirped, "We told you so."

But soon effective resistance to torpedo and airplane bombing attacks was devised. Experts assert that dreadnoughts are now our sturdiest and most dependable of all types in the Pacific. They cannot be sunk by even a number of lucky hits from torpedo, bomb or suicide planes.

A battlewagon like the mighty Iowa carries more than 135 guns to beat off the enemy. She and her sisters are covered by a vast amount of armor plate and are compartmented to keep them afloat. The smaller the vessel, the more difficult such protection.

Stokes Outlines A Grave National Problem

About Surplus War Properties

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Anyone who listened to the first two days inquiry by the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee into operations of the Surplus Property board found out what a difficult job that agency faces in disposing of billions of dollars of war surplus, and how important its job is to the future of the nation.

The chief concern of Sen. Joe O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), subcommittee chairman, is that the surplus be disposed of so that our system of free enterprise is maintained without big industries merely growing bigger and creating more monopoly.

STOKES

In that connection the attitude of board members is important. Therefore Senator O'Mahoney called before the subcommittee the newly appointed board chairman, W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis, because of his past affiliation with companies involved in anti-trust suits brought by the government, as revealed in this column recently.

The nomination of Mr. Symington, appointed by President Truman to succeed former Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D. Iowa), has not been acted upon yet by the Military Affairs committee.

• • •

Background Crops Out

In a surprisingly cursory examination by the subcommittee, Mr. Symington related his business history, including his connection with Vehicular parking, Ltd., and Karpark Co., parking meter companies of which he was president, and Rustless Steel and Iron Corp., of which he also was president for a time.

He brushed aside rather lightly his part in the alleged monopoly activities of these companies, and protested that his whole business career had been spent in fighting monopolies. Previously Senator O'Mahoney had read to him from the federal court decision in the parking meter anti-trust case setting forth in some detail his part with others in setting up a patent pool designed to freeze out competition and control the market and prices. He helped to organize the patent pool in 1936. He resigned as president of Vehicular and Karpark in 1938. The anti-trust suit, which the government won in Deleware federal court, was brought in 1942.

• • •

THE Wyoming senator did not read letters introduced as evidence which leave no doubt of Mr. Symington's monopoly purposes in that business. One, written to John Howard Joynt, one of the patent pool organizers, cautioned the latter "perhaps you are a little too definite in Point 4 when you state 'is to establish sales prices and methods.' This is the kind of statement Broussard might use in wrong fashion because of his ignorance of the great importance of masking the Vehicular movement. Kindly destroy this letter."

There are others of equally plain intent.

Mr. Symington became president of Rustless Steel and Iron on January 1, 1935. He left that company in 1936. Last year the Justice department brought anti-trust suits against several companies, including Rustless, for alleged monopoly in stainless steel, including patents and price-fixing. The companies did not even contest the criminal suit, pleading nolo contendere and paying fines. The civil suit is still pending.

• • •

"Frame-Ups" Described

Mr. Symington dismissed this case by saying he had left the company long before it was brought. He did say that it had been paying royalties for patents, formerly German, held by Chemical Foundation.

But the anti-trust suit, which the companies did not contest, set forth that since "in or about 1934" representatives of the companies involved in the suit, including Rustless, "have continuously met together at meetings commonly known as Stainless Steel Industry meetings, and at such meetings defendants have from time to time fixed and established uniform, arbitrary and non-competitive base prices, extras, and other terms and conditions of sale, and have agreed to sell their stainless steel finished products at such fixed, uniform and non-competitive prices and on such terms and conditions of sale."

• • •

MR. SYMINGTON certainly knew about this. He was aware also of the patent-licensing system, its operations and purposes. As a matter of fact, it is known that he thought well at the time of the patent-licensing system as practiced in the stainless steel business, to which he attributed the success of Rustless Steel and Iron, and that's why he suggested the patent pool device in the parking meter business. His views were the result of previous business experience.

The Senate Military Affairs committee can very easily question him further.

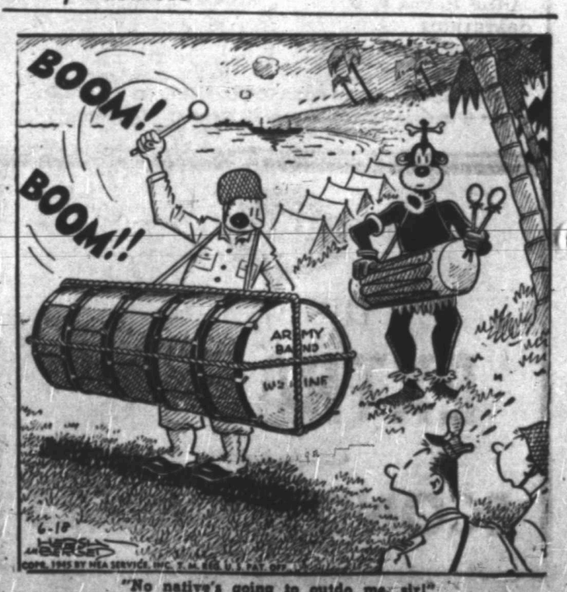

Yanks' British Wives Await Transportation

LONDON, June 18. (AP)—The U. S. Army said today that British wives of American soldiers probably will have to wait at least 10 months for transportation to the United States.

There is a waiting list of 4,000 British wives and children. Hundreds of others are awaiting approval by the Army and the American embassy.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:
1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.
This simple creed will work wonders.

PRICES ZOOM UPWARD

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP) — Further strength of rails and assorted specialties lifted today's stock market average to another 8-year peak on one of the largest volumes of the year although declines among industrial leaders were widespread.

Carriers again had the benefit of debt retirements, recapitalization programs and long-term traffic prospects.

Transfers of 1,930,000 shares compared with 1,000,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .1 of a point at 67, a top since Aug. 25, 1937. The rail average advanced .5 to a high since May 24, the same year.

Prominent on the push were H-K-T common and preferred, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman, Johns-Manville, General Motors, Anaconda, Armour, American Telephone.

Casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Texas Co., American Can and General Electric.

Railway bonds rose selectively.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—After selling off 80 cents a bale today, the cotton futures market turned strong on aggressive mill buying, short covering, and replacement demand to close 15 to 80 cents a bale higher.

Early selling was influenced by the official announcement of the 1945 cotton purchase program, under which the government will start buying crops at prices somewhat under current levels. However, trade quarters believe the scarcity of desirable grades of cotton would tend to support market prices above the government purchase price.

Cotton To Be Sent To War-Torn Nations

HOUSTON, June 18 (UP)—A total of 350,000 bales of government-owned cotton will move through the port of Houston within the next 60 days to war-torn France, Belgium, Holland, Czechoslovakia and England, a Houston warehouse company executive said today.

John Mayfield, vice-president of the Gulf-Atlantic Warehouse Co., said about 50 per cent of the cotton will come from Texas. Other quantities will be shipped here from cotton-growing areas as far west as California, he said.

The War Shipping administration has assigned sufficient ships to handle the huge cargo, all of which will be shipped under lend-lease and United Nations relief contracts, Mayfield said.

Congress Faces Toughest Slate Of War During Next Two Weeks

By JOHN L. CUTTER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 18—The toughest two weeks since the start of the year confront Congress today.

Within two weeks Congress must decide the fate of some of the most controversial programs of the Truman administration in both the domestic and international fields.

There is little doubt that most of the schedule will be met. There is strong belief that the administration will win on most of the issues.

Tough Schedule

The schedule for the remaining two weeks of the current fiscal year, ending June 30, includes:

1. Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

2. Approval of the Bretton Woods agreement authorizing U. S. participation in an international monetary stabilization fund and an international bank.

3. Extension of the life of the Office of Price administration. It is due to expire June 30.

4. Passage of appropriation bills providing funds for the next fiscal year beginning July 1 for the War department, the Labor department and war agencies such as OPA and the Office of War Information.

Centers In Senate

Most of the work centers in the Senate. The House has only the OPA extension measure and the War department appropriation to pass.

The House hopes to get through by the end of the week with the $39,000,000,000 War department appropriation bill. The Senate must then act on it.

The House Banking committee ended public hearings Saturday on the OPA extension measure, passed with amendments by the Senate. Closed sessions to consider proposed amendments began today. Floor debate tentatively has been set to start Wednesday.

The principal issue involves efforts to attach amendments to force some price ceilings upward. Administration forces want to eliminate the Senate-approved Wherry amendment guaranteeing farmers cost-plus-reasonable-profit" ceilings. If they do they'll still have to get the Senate to agree.

The Senate's schedule carries so much controversy that the Bretton Woods proposal, already passed by the House, probably will not get final Senate action within the two-week period.

Chairman Robert F. Wagner, D., N.Y., of the Senate Banking committee said public hearings on Bretton Woods which began last week probably will continue through June 25.

The reciprocal trade fight holds the Senate's first attention. The House has already approved the administration's request for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade act with an extra 50 per cent tariff-cutting authority.

News Briefs

Five officers from the South Plains area are attending the advanced school for criminal investigators being held in Austin under auspices of the Department of Public Safety, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Texas Police association. They are: F. R. Land, chief deputy sheriff; S/Sgt. John N. Strother and Ranger Raymond Waters of Lubbock; Chief of Police Hoyt Curry of Plainview and Deputy Sheriff Willis Bartley of Muleshoe. Running through June 23, the school is providing intensive training in the latest methods of criminal investigation, with emphasis on post-war crime, for officers throughout Texas.

Elton Simmons of Amarillo, petty officer 1/c, is a guest in the Earl W. Ince home. He has been serving in the United States Navy for six years and has participated in eleven major battles. Simmons has been on three ships that were sunk by enemy action, the name of the last one has not been announced by the Navy department. He is to report to the Naval hospital in Corpus Christi for treatment for a knee wound.

Mackenzie Highest In Park Attendance

Mackenzie state park had larger attendance in April than any state park in Texas, figures received by the chamber of commerce showed.

A total of 37,144 persons visited the park, and the nearest total in another state park was 17,100 at Lake Corpus Christi, according to the summary.

Of cars visiting Mackenzie, 7,803 from Texas and five from other states were recorded. Of individuals, 2,545 were service men and 34,599 civilians.

Totals listed for 32 other state parks were below 10,000.

The number visiting Mackenzie was only a fraction less than 25 per cent of the total of 152,672 visiting all state parks.

Centenarian Takes First Airplane Ride

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP) — Mrs. Irene Amanda Woods, a week past the century mark and a party girl in the estimation of her great-grand-daughter, took her first airplane ride yesterday and observed that as a horseback riding girl in Ohio "I never let any grass grow under my feet."

She had told her birthday party she had had a hankering to fly ever since the Wright brothers began tinkering with their machines. An airline (American) took her at her word and jogged her gently at 1,500 feet over her northside home.

When she landed, orchids and eyes gleaming, she said: "That was swell. Now when do I get those pork chops?"

An airline chef, a bit of a magician, fried her two, and as Mrs. Walker ate them, Mrs. Myrtle Walker, the great-grand-daughter, observing "grandma" was always a party girl, added she always was the last to turn in on a party.

Bedraggled Party Greets Officer

AN ALEUTIANS BASE, June 16 (Delayed) (AP)—Rear Adm. J. H. Brown, jr., Washington, D. C., a North Pacific task force commander, and his chief of staff, Capt. Leonard S. Mewhinney, Cameron, Tex., waited, fully uniformed, to greet Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the North Pacific.

Fog dipped down over the landing field—so low that a tall man could reach it with his fingertips.

Suddenly, an Army Mitchell, fighting to get into the fog-shrouded field, zoomed down toward the two officers. Brown hit the dirt, rolled into gravel, tore his pants and skinned his knee. Mewhinney dived into a muddy ditch. The Mitchell swished over them.

They were pretty bedraggled, but they stuck it out and welcomed Fletcher a few minutes later.

GI's Protect Buddy To Be Discharged

HONOLULU, June 18. (AP) — Frontline soldiers on Okinawa put a buddy in "custody" and guarded him all night to make sure nothing happened to him when they learned he was to leave for home and a discharge next day, the Army paper Stars and Stripes reported today.

The paper's correspondent, Cpl. John L. Duke, said the soldier was lying in a foxhole when he got the word he was to be flown home. His friends marched him from the foxhole to a safe cave and took turns standing sentry duty until he could be returned to the rear.

Duke said that elsewhere on Okinawa men eligible for discharge under the Army's point system had erected a road sign reading:

"Careful. Men with over 85 points at work ahead."

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

McALLEN, June 18 (U.P.) — A training plane crash five miles south of the field Saturday proved fatal to the plane's two occupants, Moore field authorities revealed today. Identified as victims of the crash were Lt. John Roach, Duluth, Minn., and Aviation Cadet Harold Peterson, Minneapolis, Minn.

Poles Admit Army Would Fight Reds

LONDON, June 18 (AP) — Reuters reported from Moscow today that 15 of the 16 Polish underground leaders on trial pleaded wholly or partly guilty today to charges of sabotage behind Russian lines.

The Moscow radio said the Poles had admitted that the Polish home army, which one of the defendants, Maj. Gen. Bronislaw Okulicki commanded, had been kept intact for eventual "armed struggles" against the Warsaw provisional government and the Red army.

The Moscow broadcast said Maj. Gen. Bronislaw Okulicki, commander of the Polish home army, testified that he had received orders from the exiled Polish government in London "to preserve the home army in a condition of illegality."

Earlier Moscow had announced the 16 underground leaders had been indicted formally on charges of sabotage behind Russian lines.

"Okulicki further testified," the broadcast said, "that the preservation of the home army was intended for armed struggles against the provisional Polish government and the Red army. Jankowski (Jan Jankowski, vice premier of the London Polish government) and others confirmed this statement."

Haw Haw Charged With High Treason

LONDON, June 18 (AP) — William Joyce, the American-born "Lord Haw Haw," who taunted the British over the German radio, was formally charged with high treason today in ancient Bow Street court.

The charge was based on the contention that "between Sept. 2, 1939 and May 29, 1945, being a person owing allegiance to his majesty the King, he adhered to the King's enemies elsewhere than in the King's realm — to wit, the German realm contrary to the treason act."

Joyce, looking older than his 39 years, showed little emotion as he heard the magistrate read the charge and was bound over for trial beginning June 25.

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD

PRAGUE, June 18. (AP)—Liberated Czechoslovakia honored the estimated 20,000 Czechs put to death by the Germans in revenge for the 1942 assassination of Reinhard (Hangman) Heydrich, gestapo chief Himmler's righthand man. Memorial services in many cities paid tribute to the dead.

Supreme Court Won't Review Humble Case

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to look into a dispute between the CIO and the Humble Oil and Refining company which has resulted in a Presidential order for government seizure of the firm's properties at Ingleside, Tex., by Presidential order.

The company specifically asked the high tribunal to rule whether lower courts have power to restrain the National War Labor board and the Eighth Regional War Labor board on Humble's company that the boards "are seeking by underhanded and secretive ways and means to coerce and compel" it to obey a WLB order.

The order required maintenance of union membership. The U. S. District Court at Dallas found illegal sanctions were imposed against Humble. It granted a preliminary injunction against WLB. The Fifth Federal Circuit court reversed the District court.

While Humble's petition for a Supreme Court review of the circuit court action was pending, President Truman ordered seizure of the Ingleside plant.

Washington, D. C., was first laid out from the plans of Maj. L'Enfant, an accomplished Frenchman and friend of Gen. Washington.

MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH

HENDERSON, June 18 (U.P.) — Robert Virgil Rinehart, 42, employe of an iron supply company recently transferred to Henderson from Beaumont, died today of injuries suffered when a truck load of pipe crushed him near Overton.

Three Clues Traced In Rape-Slaying

FORT WORTH, June 18 (U.P.)—Officers hunting for the murderer of Mrs. Lydia T. McBride had three new clues today, but still no trace of the attacker who slugged and criminally attacked the elderly postal employe as she walked to her home early Friday.

An unfinished letter written by Mrs. McBride to a daughter was turned over to police yesterday by a man living four blocks from the schoolground, where the woman's lifeless body was found lying in a pool of blood, her head battered in by some blunt object.

The letter evidently had been dropped by the attacker from Mrs. McBride's lunch box, which was not found near the scene although she was known to have been carrying it.

A second clue was a three-foot piece of blood-splattered iron pipe found in a garden only a block from the scene of the crime.

Officers continued their search for a sex-crazed negro as the most likely suspect after another woman reported that a negro accosted and chased her when she alighted at the bus stop where more than an hour later Mrs. McBride was last seen alive.

WENCHOW RECAPTURED

CHUNGKING, June 19 — (Tuesday) (AP)—The Chinese high command announced that Chinese forces recaptured Wenchow, Chekiang province seaport, 220 miles south of Shanghai, at six a. m. Monday.

Dean Named As Lions Governor

At a business meeting here Sunday afternoon 350 delegates and members of clubs in 86 counties elected Charlie H. Dean, Plainview attorney, as district governor of District 2-T Lions International.

Dean, who is a former district attorney and Hale county attorney, was elected to the post over R. L. Thompson of Hereford and Grady Wilson of Amarillo.

Lee Johnson of Wink, retiring district gevornor, reported that in the last year membership in the district had increased by 1001 and 10 new clubs were organized.

The delegates voted for Herb C. Petry, jr., of Carriso Springs as a candidate for Lions International director. Petry was on hand for the meeting along with his delegation. His opponent, W. L. Baine of Waco, and delegates were also present for the business meeting in the interest of Baine's candidacy.

To Attend Business Meet

Dean will assume his new duties as district governor July 1 and will attend the Lions International business meeting in St. Louis which will probably be held this summer.

The meeting, which was held at the Junior High school building, opened at 2 p.m. and closed at 6 p.m. Dr. W. A. Pettey, president of the Lubbock Lions club, introduced Johnson who presided at the meeting. Nomination speeches for district governor candidates were made, and reports were heard on war activities of the clubs. Dr. F. A. Green of Crosbyton led the group in singing several club songs. A mixed sextet from Plainview presented musical selections.

The meeting was held in lieu of the regular district convention due to wartime restrictions.

The first recorded use of the word "broadcast" to describe a radio service was in 1919 when Dr. Frank Conrad promised such a series to radio amateurs.

Patton Speech Is Said Profanation

LOS ANGELES, June 18 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton's speech in the Los Angeles Memorial coliseum last June 9 was criticized by Dr. Don Householder, co-pastor of Trinity Methodist church, in a sermon yesterday entitled "Profanity in High Places."

"What should have been the most glorious celebration Los Angeles has experienced in her history turned out to be the most tragic in the profanation of the name of God, repeated over and over again by the one we met to honor, Gen. George S. Patton," said Dr. Householder.

"Never in our country's history has there been such a public profanation of His name," said the minister. "One could even sense the protest within the hearts of the people and in many sections of the large audience audible resentment was expressed."

"Gen. George Washington and Gen. John Pershing always held that name in high reverence," added Dr. Householder. "We trust that the general, whom we admire and respect for his daring exploits and achievements in this war, will hereafter remember his moral obligation to the youth of America."

Negro Sought In Rape Of Soldier's Wife

HOUSTON, June 18 (U.P.) — A tall negro who criminally assaulted the Texarkana wife of a soldier overseas early Sunday was the object of an intensive police search today.

The 28-year-old woman, residing with her sister-in-law here after leaving Texarkana a month ago, told police the negro entered her room, warned her to be silent, and attacked her. She said he left via a window after taking her purse.

Local authorities were holding a 19-year-old Latin-American youth as a suspect in another raping over the week-end.

The second attack, reported by a 20-year-old girl shipyard welder, occurred Sunday night. The young girl said the Latin-American forced her to accompany him to an isolated spot, where he held her for nearly three hours, attacking her repeatedly.
