Oran C. Hooker Post Organized January 1920

The Oran C. Hooker Post of the American Legion, chartered under the laws of the state department, was first organized in a called meeting of Mitchell county ex-service men December 19, 1919. At this meeting G. R. Quimney was elected temporary chairman and authorized to make application to the State department for a charter. Organization was completed and original charter granted January 20, 1920, with the following charter members: J. Y. Frazier, Joe E. Humphre, C. C. Pritchett, Dean S. Phenix, Joseph E. Pond, H. P. Slacel, G. R. Quimney, Harry Landers, Jr., E. J. McEntire, W. L. Doss, Jr., Joe B. Reedy, Thomas R. Smith, H. G. Newman, Jack Helton, J. L. Quimney, and C. C. Head.

G. R. Quimney was elected as the first commander of the Oran C. Hooker Post with numerous men holding this position since that time. At the present Howard Rogers is serving as commander having been the highest officer in the post for some time giving his organization his best of service. The American Legion, a national organization chartered under the laws of the United States, was first organized in France immediately after the signing of the Armistice by a group of the A. E. F. The first national meeting was held in Chicago in 1920. Since that time it has grown into one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world, gaining recognition in the congress of the United States and is responsible for some of our best legislation.

The Oran C. Hooker Post has grown from an organization with only sixteen members at that meeting held in the old court house in Colorado City Dec. 19, 1919 to a Legion Post which in 1939 has won every citation offered by the state department. Now they boast of the highest registration in history of the Post which is evident of the continued growth of their organization and the Legion Hut is an example of their prosperity; of their brotherhood; and lifelong friendship.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

Two special services are being planned by the pastor at the Methodist Church for next Sunday. At the morning hour a special service will be held commemorating Armistice Day. Bro. Shewbert will bring a special message along the line of "The Church in a World War." World War veterans will be recognized.

The evening service will be a Sacramental Service which will be the final service for this conference year. A general report of the years work along with the theme of "Thankfulness unto the Lord" will be had. Every one is urged to attend these services. Special music will be rendered at both services. Don't miss these two services.

PROGRAM CELEBRATING ARMISTICE DAY

A program celebrating Armistice Day is to be held in the band stand downtown Friday afternoon at 2:30 following a parade in which the American Legionnaires, the high school band, the Loraine Bulldogs, pep squad and others will participate.

The parade is to move through the main streets and is to be headed by Color bearers of the American Legion. A short program featuring the choral club will be rendered.

Should the weather be too bad for outdoor activities the program will be held at the school auditorium.

CROWNOVER PICKUP DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire caused by a short in the horn wiring badly damaged the pickup of Frank Crownover early Tuesday night. The upholstery and glasses were damaged and had it not been for the quick response of the fireboys considerably more damage probably would have resulted.

ARMISTICE DAY

To the memory of the brave sons of Mitchell county who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, loyal citizens again bow in humble gratitude. To these brave sons they extend renewed sympathies... and glory with them in honor justly awarded.

We record this tribute so that fellowmen may not forget and that we may never be charged with lacking in loyalty. This Armistice Day in 1939 has brought forth our own problems. Once again the world faces the grim problems of war with such disaster threatening our own nation. We pause to honor the brave sons who fell, the noble disabled veterans and all others who came through and had part in the World War of 1918... to an edge again that the cause they died for and served for has not been in vain. The courage so essential upon the battlefield lies within the breast of every loyal American. We are prepared, through their example, to face the future humble and unafraid.

*HONOR ROLL FOR MITCHELL COUNTY

Annual Legion Bean Feed Saturday Night

Veterans of Mitchell county will observe Armistice Day with members of the Oran C. Hooker Post of the American Legion their annual get-together in Colorado City Saturday. The days activities open with reveille followed immediately with a parade in town where they will breakfast of ham, eggs, fruit juice, sausage, toast, jellies and coffee at the Colorado Hotel coffee shop at 7 A. M. After breakfast and a fifteen minute program of music and novelty numbers they will be dismissed until the football game at Cantrell Field in the afternoon at 2 P. M.

At 7:30 the veterans will gather for the most joyful event of the day—the annual bean feed at the Legion Hut. This event is the highlight of the yearly Armistice Day observance and is looked forward to by every ex-soldier in the county. It is at this feed where they feast of beans, barbecue, pies, son-of-a-gun pickles, coffee, and all the trimmings in addition to being entertained with a well-balanced program and plenty of good music by Dr. Logsdon and his Cowhand Band. To add color to occasion the Auxiliary of the Oran C. Hooker Post will present one number and a talk by Dr. Black of the Episcopal church in Colorado City is arranged.

The veterans will be assisted in their parade Saturday morning by the Colorado City High School Band under the direction of R. P. Rose. The standing of reveille and the march down main street by the veterans is a most interesting attraction and people gather at the Hut yearly for this event. The town populace is first awakened by bugle calls assembling the ex-service men from all over the city.

After the bean feed and completion of the musical program the evening will be finished with a dance in the Hut to the music of Lawrence Long and his orchestra. The dance is not limited to the members and ex-service men only; the public being invited.

Oran C. Hooker First Mitchell County Boy To Die Over-seas

Over the mantle in the living room in the home of J. C. Hooker in Colorado City there hangs a plaque. It reads:

Columbia gives to her son the accolade of the new chivalry of humanity.

Oran C. Hooker, Private 1st Class, 4th Company, 117th supply Train.

Served with honor in the World War and died in the service of his country.

(Signed) Woodrow Wilson

Oran C. Hooker, the first Mitchell county boy to die over-seas, is a son of J. C. Hooker, an old settler in this county and who now resides in Colorado City. It is from this youth the Oran C. Hooker Post of the American Legion got its name.

Oran C. Hooker was born March 7, 1897 and died December 11th, 1917. He lived 20 years, 9 months and 4 days. His death occurred in St. Blin, France, a small village near the front, and was interred in an American cemetery on the outskirts of town.

A letter was received from 1st Lt. James T. Brooks, QMC telling his family of the death of their son and advising them of the Christian burial and describing the place of interment. A buddy drew a pencil sketch of the place on a post card at the time from which Mr. Hooker has had a most impressive drawing made.

On June 9th, 1921, the body was removed from St. Blin and transferred to Colorado City. Funeral service was held under the auspices of the American Legion with Rev. A. C. Browning officiating. He was one of the volunteers who entrained at Big Spring for the east August 17th, 1917 and his regiment sailed soon after with A. E. F. to France.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Soviet-U. S. Relations Strained By Molotov's Attack on FDR; Italy Protects Her Neutrality

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:

Double Feature

All Hallows' eve found every European ear cocked to Moscow, awaiting history-making utterances from Premier Viacheslav Molotov. Adolf Hitler had 1,500,000 men poised at the front; so did the allies. But war hung in abeyance. For as Russia swung so would the war, because every other European state had declared its status, neutral with leanings either toward Germany (like Italy and Hungary) or toward the allies.

Stolen Thunder

A few short hours before Molotov's speech, Il Duce Benito Mussolini pulled a coup that must have stunned his erstwhile colleague in Germany. Ousted was Propaganda Minister Dino Alfieri, close friend of Nazism's Propagandist Paul Joseph Goebbels. Ousted was Fascist Secretary Achille Starace, close friend of Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess and the man who gave a signal for the Italian chamber's demonstration against Germany. He said Nazi-Russian friendship was getting thicker. Next day it was revealed trade discussions were going forward successfully. One report from Stockholm said Russian submarines would be given the Nazis in exchange for German merchant ships, providing a subtle way of staying "neutral."

Poland. He said there can be no question of restoring Poland and that it was absurd to continue the war for that cause. Two days earlier, Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain had acknowledged Russia's right of invasion to "protect" her, Polish blood brothers from Germany.

Balkans. He gave no hint of expansion there, but shook a nasty finger at Turkey for signing mutual assistance pacts with the allies after shunning a treaty with the Soviet.

United States. He precipitated a heated argument which observers thought might end with severance of Soviet-U. S. diplomatic relations. Commenting on President Roosevelt's earlier note expressing hope for continued amicable Finnish-Rus-

France last winter; Gen. Alberto Pariani, friend of Hitler's Col. Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch and author of the Italian "blitzkrieg" plan for a German-Italian-Spanish drive against France; Gen. Giuseppe Valle, friend of Field Marshal Hermann Goering. Replacing them were middle-of-the-roads like Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, chief of staff. Retained were other favorites like Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano (Mussolini's son-in-law) and Count Dino Grandi, minister of justice.

In Paris there was a feeling the Rome-Berlin axis had broken down completely. London was also happy, for a few hours earlier Italy's Ambassador Giuseppe Bastianini had made a strong anti-Communist speech. In the Balkans it was thought Mussolini disapproved Russia's expansionist policy, especially since Il Duce did not even wait until Molotov spoke. But in Italy it was a simple indication that Mussolini had his ear to the ground; Italians wanted no pact with the allies, they merely wanted strict neutrality.

Ominous Talk

First allied reaction to Premier Molotov's speech was relief over his failure to declare a military alliance with the Reich, even though he did charge Britain and France

sian relations, Molotov said: "One finds it hard to reconcile that with the American policy of neutrality ... One might think that matters are in better shape between the United States and ... the Philippines ... than between the Soviet Union and Finland, which has long ago obtained both freedom and political independence ..."

Next day, while Massachusetts' Rep. John McCormack demanded from the house floor that Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt be recalled from Moscow, the President dug from his files an exchange of notes with Soviet President Michael Kalinin last April, when Kalinin cabled an unsolicited "expression of profound sympathy" with the President's efforts to safeguard peace. This cable had come one day after Mr. Roosevelt sent peace pleas to Dictators Hitler and Mussolini. Thus the U. S. put Kalinin on record as supporting the President's peace efforts in contrast to Molotov's declaration. Suggested White House Secretary Steve Early: "It would seem that he (Molotov) had the embargo in mind rather than what he termed the President's moral support of Finland."

(Unspotted, the neutrality bill wormed its way through the house which voted 237 to 177 for sending it to conference with the senate, conferees to have definite instructions. One instruction: To repeal the arms embargo, by a vote of 243 to 181. This congress expected to get out of town immediately. Britain hailed the repeal; Nazism was enraged. One suddenly discovered danger of cash-and-carry is that the allies will indeed buy more arms but will cut other imports from the U. S. One Britisher thought imports of U. S. industrial products and foodstuffs may fall off $150,000,000 a year.)

Western Front

Abandoning purely defensive positions, German "shock troops" stormed the French frontier at scattered points as murky weather gave way to sunshine. Fears grew that Belgium and the Netherlands might be invaded. The Dutch proclaimed a state of siege in eight provinces, flooding frontier positions to check any Nazi advance.

At Sea

While the embattled U. S. S. City of Flint steamed carefully down the Norwegian coast to Germany under a Nazi prize crew, the U. S. asked both the Reich and Britain to protect her interned American crew. Washington also reported 27 U. S. ships have been detained by belligerents since the war began. The war at sea came too close to American shores when the British freighter Caulmore was reportedly torpedoed 450 miles off New England. Nazi planes and U-boats continued successful raiding of allied shipping, but Britain retaliated by naming Lord Nuffield (her "Henry Ford") to a key post in the air ministry. His instructions: To intensify the navy's North sea blockade against Germany.

As Captive Poles Labor in German Prison Camps

Polish soldiers who became prisoners of war when the Nazi blitzkrieg subdued their country are shown at work in a prison camp "somewhere in Germany." Many of them are at work constructing buildings to house prisoners, others labor with pick and shovel, thus releasing more manpower for German military duty.

Ashes of Japanese Soldiers Home for Last Rites

Japanese priests are shown receiving the remains of hundreds of soldiers who died fighting in China or on the Mongolian border. It is a familiar sight at railway stations throughout Japan as the ashes of the country's soldiers come home in small white boxes. To the surprise of many, army officials announced that 18,000 Japanese casualties had resulted in the few weeks of fighting with Soviet troops along the Manchukuo-Outer Mongolia border before a truce was declared.

British Tar Comforts U-Boat Victims

A British tar comforts two pickaninnies who were rescued from the French vessel Bretagne, sunk by an enemy submarine. The Negro children, with other passengers, were taken to an undisclosed English port.

California Fliers Set Endurance Mark

Up in the air about the whole thing were Wes Carroll, left, and Clyde Schlieper, fliers who established a new world's endurance record in California. The lads remained in the air for 726 hours (30 days and six hours) in their pontoon-equipped light plane. The previous record was 653 hours and 35 minutes.

Brawlers, Keep Out!

Climb to the Attic Brought Possibilities

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE bride came home, but not to weep on Mother's shoulder. "There are too many bare spots in our house," she said; "and I want to rummage in your attic." "You are welcome," replied Mother, "but you will find no antiques—nothing there but junk."

A golden oak dresser; a fish bowl; an old portier; a chromo in a wide gold frame; and an old piano stool; were carted away.

Varnish remover and plain drawer pulls transformed the dresser into a good-looking chest of drawers. A glazier put a mirror in the oval gold frame. Those are dusky pink branches in the fish-bowl—lovely against the rose-red brocade hanging. The diagram shows how the hanging was made from a part of the portier. The edges were finished with dull gold colored braid and fringe; and it hung with matching cord, tassels and an ordinary curtain rod. What became of the stool and the mirror will be told next week.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your drugstore today!

"My dear child," Mrs. Follette said, "have lunch with me. Mary has baked fresh bread, and we'll have it with your berries, and some Dutch cheese and cream."

"I'd love it," Jane said; "I hoped you'd ask me. We are going at four to Delafield Simms for the weekend. I shall have to be fashionable for forty-eight hours, and I hate it."

Mrs. Follette smiled indulgently. "Of course, you don't mean it. And don't try to be fashionable. Just be yourself. It is only people who have never been anybody who try to make themselves like others."

"Well," said Jane, "I'm afraid I've never been anybody, Mrs. Follette. I'm just little Jane Barnes."

Her air was dejected.

"What's the matter with you, Jane?" Mrs. Follette demanded.

Jane clasped her hands together. "Oh, I want my mother. I want my mother." Her voice was low, but there was a poignant note in it.

Old Mary came out with the tray, and when she had gone, Mrs. Follette said, "Now tell me what's troubling you?"

"I'm afraid."

"Oh, of Mr. Towne's big house, and—I think I'm a little bit afraid of him, too, Mrs. Follette."

"Why should you be afraid?"

"Of the things he'll expect of me. The things I'll expect of myself. I can't explain it. I just—feel it."

Mrs. Follette, pouring ice-cold milk from a silver pitcher, said, "It is a case of nerves, my dear. You don't know how lucky you are."

"Am I lucky?" wistfully.

"Of course you are lucky. But all girls feel as you do, Jane, when the wedding day isn't far off. They wonder and wonder. It's the newness—the—"

"Laying flesh and spirit . . . in his hands . . ." Jane quoted, with quick-drawn breath.

"I shouldn't put it quite like that," Mrs. Follette said with some severity; "we didn't talk like that when I was a girl."

"Didn't you?" Jane asked. Well, I know you were a darling, Mrs. Follette. And you were pretty. There's that portrait of you in the library in pink."

"I looked well in pink," said Mrs. Follette, thoughtfully, "but the best picture that was ever done of me is a miniature that Evans has. She buttered another slice of bread. She had no fear of growing fat. She was fat, but she was also stately and one neutralized the other. To think of Mrs. Follette as thin would have been to rob her of her duchess role."

Jane had not seen the miniature. She asked if he might.

"I'll get it," said Mrs. Follette, and rose.

Jane protested, "Can't I do it?"

"No, my dear. I know right where to put my hand on it."

She went into the cool and shadowy hall and started up the stairs, and it was from the shadows that Jane heard her call.

There was something faint and agitated in the cry, and Jane flew on winged feet.

Mrs. Follette was holding on to the stair-rail, swaying a little. "I can't go any higher," she panted; "I'll sit here, my dear, while you get my medicine. It's in my room on the dresser."

Jane passed her on the stairs, and was back again in a moment with the medicine, a spoon, and a glass of water. With her arm around the elder woman she held her until the color returned to her cheeks.

"How foolish," said Mrs. Follette at last, sitting up. "I almost fainted. I was afraid of falling down the stairs."

"Let me help you to your room," Jane said, "and you can lie on the couch—and be quiet—"

"I don't want to be quiet, but I'll lie on the couch—if you'll sit there and talk to me."

So with Jane supporting her, Mrs. Follette went up the rest of the flight, and across the hall—and was made comfortable on a couch at the foot of her bed.

Jane loved the up-stairs rooms at Castle Manor. Especially in summer. Mrs. Follette followed the southern fashion of taking up winter rugs and winter curtains and substituting sheer muslins and leaving a delightful bareness of waxed floor.

"Perhaps I can tell you where to find the miniature," Mrs. Follette said, as Jane fanned her; "it is in Evans' desk set back under the row of pigeonholes. You can't miss it, and I want to see it."

Jane crossed the hall to Evans' room. It faced south and was big and square. It had the same studied bareness that made the rest of the house beautiful. There was a mahogany bed and dresser, many books, deep window-seats with faded velvet cushions.

Evans' desk was in an alcove by the east window which overlooked Sherwood. It was a mahogany desk of the secretary type, and there was nothing about it to drain the color from Jane's cheeks, to send her hand to her heart.

Above the desk, however, where his eyes could rest upon it whenever he raised them from his writing, was an old lantern! Jane knew it at once. It was an ancient ship's lantern that she and Baldy had used through all the years, a heritage from some sea-going ancestor. It was the lantern she had carried that night she had found Evans in the fog!

Since her return from Chicago she had not been able to find it. Baldy had complained, "Sophy must have taken it home with her." But Sophy had not taken it. It was here. And Jane knew, with a certainty that swept away all doubts, why.

"You are a lantern, Jane, held high . . ."

She found the miniature and carried it back to Mrs. Follette. "I told you you were pretty and you have never gotten over it."

She had regained her radiance. Mrs. Follette reflected complacently.

"I hope it won't rain," Edith said.

ly that girls were like that. Moods of the moment. Even in her own day.

She spoke of it to Evans that night. "Jane had lunch with me. She was very tired and depressed. I told her up to worry. It's natural she should feel the responsibility of the future. Marriage is a serious obligation."

"Marriage is more than that, Mother."

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, it's a great adventure. The greatest adventure. If a woman loved me, I'd want her to fly to me—on wings. There'd be no fear of the future if Jane loved Towne."

"But she does love him. She wouldn't marry him for his money."

"No, she wouldn't," with a touch of weariness. "It is one of the things I can't make clear to myself. And I think I'd rather not talk about it, Mother."

They were in Mrs. Follette's room. She had told her son about her heart attack, and he had been anxious. But she had been quite herself after and had made light of it. "I shall have Hallam over in the morning," he had insisted, and she had acquiesced. "I don't need him, but if it will make you feel better."

CHAPTER XV

Lucy was still to Eloise Harper the stenographer of Frederick Towne. Out of place, of course, in this fine country house, with its formal gardens, its great stables, its retinue of servants.

"What do you do with yourself?" she asked her hostess, as she came down, ready for dinner, in revealing apricot draperies and found Lucy crisp in white organdie with a band of black velvet around her throat.

"Do?" Lucy's smile was ingenuous. "We are very busy, Del and I. We feed the pigs."

"Pigs?" Eloise stared. She had assumed that a girl of Lucy's type would affect an elaborate attitude of leisure. And here she was, instead, fashionably energetic.

They fed the pigs, it seemed, actually. "Of course not the big ones. But the little ones have their bottles. There are ten and their mother died. You should see Del and me. He carries the bottle in a metal holder—round,"—Lucy's hand described the shape,—"and when they see him coming they all squeal, and it's adorable."

Lucy's air was demure. She was very happy. She was a woman of strong spirit. Already she had interested her weak husband beyond anything he had ever known in his drifting days of bachelorhood. "After dinner," she told Eloise, "I'll show you Del's roses. They are quite marvellous. I think his collection will be beyond anything in this part of the country."

Delafield, coming up, said, "They are Lucy's roses, but she says I am to do the work."

"But why not have a gardener?" Eloise demanded.

"Oh, we have. But I should hate to have our garden a mere matter of—mechanics. Del has some splendid ideas. We are going to work for the flower shows. Prizes and all that."

Delafield purred like a pussy-cat. "I shall name my first rose the 'Little Lucy Logan.'"

Edith, locking arms with Jane, a little later, as they strolled under a wisteria-hung trellis towards the fountain, said, "Lucy's making a man of him because she loves him. And I would have laughed at him. We would have bored each other to death."

"They will never be bored," Jane decided, "with their roses and their little pigs."

They had reached the fountain. It was an old-fashioned one, with thin streams of water spouting up from the bill of a bronzed crane. There were goldfish in the pool, and a big green frog leaped from a lily pad. Beyond the fountain the wisteria roofed a path of pale light. A peacock walked slowly towards them, its long tail sweeping the ground in burnished beauty.

"Think of this," said Jane, "and Lucy's days at the office?"

"And yet," Edith pondered, "she told me if he had not had a penny she would have been happy with him."

"I believe it. With a cottage, one pig, and a rose-bush, they would find bliss. It is like that with them."

The two women sat down on the marble coping of the fountain. The peacock trailed by them, its jewels all ablaze under the sun.

Adelaide, in her burnished tulle, tall, slender, graceful as a willow, was swinging along beneath the trellis. The peacock had turned and walked beside her. "What a picture Baldy could make of that," Edith said, "The Proud Lady."

"Do you know," Jane's voice was also lowered, "when I look at her, I feel that it is she who should marry your uncle."

Edith was frank. "I should hate her. And so would he in a month. She's artificial, and you are so adorably natural, Jane."

Adelaide had reached the circle of light that surrounded the fountain. "The men have come and have gone up to dress," she said. "All except your uncle. Edith. He telephoned that he can't get here until after dinner. He has an important conference."

"He said he might be late. Benny came, of course?"

"Yes, and Eloise is happy. He had brought her all the town gossip. That's why I left. I hate gossip."

Edith knew that pose. No one could talk more devastatingly than Adelaide of her neighbor's affairs. But she did it, subtly, with an effect of charity. "I am very fond of her," was her way of prefacing a ruthless revelation.

"I thought your brother would be down," Adelaide looked at Jane, poised on the rim of the fountain, like a blue butterfly,—"but he wasn't with the rest."

"Baldy can't be here until tomorrow noon. He had to be in the office."

"What are you going to do with yourself in the meantime, Edith?" Adelaide was in a mood to make people uncomfortable. She was uncomfortable herself. Jane, in billowing heavenly blue with rose ribbons floating at her girdle, was youth incarnate. And it was her youth that had attracted Towne.

The three women walked towards the house together. As they came out from under the arbor, they were aware of black clouds stretched across the horizon. "I hope it won't rain," Edith said, "Lucy is planning to serve dinner on the terrace."

Adelaide was irritable. "I wish she wouldn't. There'll be bugs and things."

Jane liked the idea of an out-of-door dinner. She thought that the maids in their pink linen were like rose-leaves blown across the lawn. There was a great umbrella over the table, rose-striped. "How gay it is," she said; "I hope the rain won't spoil it."

When they reached the wide-pillared piazza, no one was there. The wind was blowing steadily from the bank of clouds. Edith went in to get a scarf.

And so Jane and Adelaide were left alone.

Adelaide sat in a big chair with a back like a spreading fan; she was statuesque, and knew it, but she would have exchanged at the moment every classic line for the effect that Jane gave of unpremeditated grace and beauty. The child had flung a cushion on the marble step, and had dropped down upon it. The wind caught up her ruffles, so that she seemed to float in a cloud.

She laughed, and tucked her whirling draperies about her. "I love the wind, don't you?"

Adelaide did not love the wind. It ruffled her hair. She felt spitefully ready to hurt Jane.

"It is a pity," she said, after a pause, "that Ricky can't dine with us."

Jane agreed. "Mr. Towne always seems to be a very busy person."

Adelaide carried a little gauze fan with gold-lacquered sticks. When she spoke she kept her eyes upon the fan. "Do you always call him 'Mr. Towne'?"

"Of course."

"But not when you're alone."

Jane flushed. "Yes, I do. Why not?"

"But, my dear, it is so very formal. And you are going to marry him."

"He said that he had told you."

"Ricky tells me everything. We are very old friends, you know."

Jane said nothing. There was, indeed, nothing to say. She was not in the least jealous of Adelaide. She wondered, of course, why Towne should have overlooked this lovely lady to choose a shabby child. But he had chosen the child, and that settled it as far as Mrs. Laramore was concerned.

But it did not settle it for Adelaide. "I think it is distinctly amusing for you to call him 'Mr. Towne.' Poor Ricky! You mustn't hold him at arms' length."

"Why not?"

"Well, none of the rest of us have," said Adelaide, deliberately. Jane looked up at her. "The rest of you? What do you mean, Mrs. Laramore?"

"Oh, the women that Ricky has loved," lightly.

The winds fluttered the ribbons of Jane's frock, fluttered her ruffles. The peacock on the lawn uttered a discordant note. Jane was subconsciously aware of a kinship between Adelaide and the burnished bird. She spoke of the peacock.

"What a disagreeable voice he has."

Adelaide stared. "Who?"

"The peacock," said Jane.

THERE is no confection so widely used and universally liked as pop corn. It is a perennial ice-breaker at almost any social function. Here is a recipe that is sure to be enjoyed:

Honey Pop Corn Balls

1 cup honey 1 of tartar
1 cup sugar 1 tablespoon butter
1 cup water 4 quarts pop corn
½ teaspoonful cream

Boil honey, sugar, and water with cream of tartar until it turns brittle when tested in cold water. Add butter. Mix with warm pop corn and shape into balls. Green or red vegetable coloring can be added to the syrup.

This week in approaching Armistice Day our thoughts turn to War—Peace—Patriotism—American Legion—Disabled war veterans—brotherhood of mankind. In all this there is a visualization to many of us the spirit of the American doughboy arising from the water seeped battlefield into the blue fog of the horizon holding high the stars and stripes of the United States waving in all its glory into a no-ill wind.

But why shouldn't our thoughts be alive in such a spirit. It is here in our country where we enjoy and experience the most independent peace of all the world and certainly the blood boils with spine-chilling pressure within every red blooded American at the least intimation of our democracy being threatened.

Today the war-torned Europeans are bidding heavily for our assistance, whether it be in a physical form or financially or influencially. To them, any of this is acceptable. Day by day their anxiety grows and the tension tightens for us to take part in their useless controversy. Their consciousness of our uncurbed pride, freedom and independence is only food for their treacherous hoards of propaganda departments. They all realize our most advantageous position we hold in world affairs and are bidding for any prestige which we might erroneously tend them.

Here at home, instead of boasting with a murderous leer of our victory—the only victory—over our fellowman, we are seeing preparations in order in every American Legion Post throughout the U. S. A. to observe their twenty-first Armistice Day celebrating this many years of peace.

In such a preparation I have had the privilege to see inside this week, that of the Oran C. Hooker Post of Colorado City making their plans for the annual bean feed and Armistice Celebration, to be held in their hut Saturday and Sunday night. At their meeting Tuesday night in which they so graciously permitted me to sit at

"If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceable with all men!"

Men who have common sense see in war nothing but illogical reason. These men want peace, and know that it cannot be had by war. For war breeds war—while peace breeds peace.

We will be closed all day November 11th.

Higginbotham-Bartlett Lbr. Co.

A Hymn of Peace

Presented hilt-first, the battle sword has long been the symbol of our suit for peace. It is a symbol that expresses man's recognition of the superior values of peace. It is a symbol that should be foremost during these war-threatening days.

The Martin Drug StoreBaptist Church

The Saints got a little rest last Sunday and enjoyed good sermons Bro. Swearington preached at both hours. He is really a good preacher and our people enjoyed him.

The pastor enjoyed a visit with the church at Colorado for both services but will be at home next Sunday for all the services of the day. We had good crowds at all the services last Sunday. The Sunday School was better than the Sunday before. The offering continues to be good. The preaching congregations were never better for the present pastor. The Bible Study had 70 last Sunday. The B.
Y. P. U. were up to the shouting mark.

Next Sunday at 6 P. we will have the evening preaching service. Remember that we are moving up 30 minutes so don't get lost. In the bible study we will have the last verses of the 8th chapter of Acts. Don't fail to be there for this is the chapter you have been waiting for so don't miss it.

About twenty of our people attended the workers conference at Westbrook Tuesday.

If nothing happens a number of our people will leave Monday morning for San Antonio for the State Convention. I wish you could go. But that is all. See you Sunday.

STORK MAKING FREQUENT VISITS TO LORRAINE

This week the long-legged long billed stork has made two visits to Lorraine depositing that many bundles of preciousness.

On Monday, November 6th, a visit by this popular gentleman to the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. R.
Smith, Jr. leaving them a girl.

Wednesday, November 8th, another visit to this town honoring some out of town guests, left Mr.
and Mrs. James Hall of Coahoma a boy.

In the session I felt an extreme regret of being unable to assist such a fine organization as a member.
However, I try to imagine I have the true spirit.

In speaking of the American Legion, President Harding once said to Congress of this organization. "Here is an organization which has the greatest force for good in the United States." In these few memorable words you find the true background of the grandest bunch of American brotherhood ever assembled. I wish I were a Legionaire.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—A thirty day special session of the Legislature, beginning early in January, was regarded by most observers in Austin this week-end as a strong probability, in view of several significant developments. Chief among these was the ordering of special elections in three districts to elect representatives to succeed three House members who have resigned to accept State jobs. No election has been ordered in the Senate. Cotten of Palestine, who has announced he will quit to take the job formerly held by Olin Culbertson, as chief of the gas utilities division of the Railroad Commission. Cotten, however, has been ill, and has not yet offered his resignation, nor qualified in the new post. It is reported here he will delay resigning and sit as Senator during the special session if the latter is called soon.

SALES TAX FIGHT SEEN
If Gov. O'Daniel summons the legislators, he is expected to submit social security financing as the only major subject. He likewise is expected to make a drive for a statutory sales tax, as embodied in his bill which he calls a "consumer's tax bill". Opponents of the sales tax, headed by Sen.
Joe Hill of Henderson in the upper house, are expected to make a strong effort to substitute an omnibus tax bill, including substantially increased levies on natural resources, as the means of financing pensions.

Political strategists here regard O'Daniel's decision to call a session—if he makes it—as of distinct advantage to him in the forthcoming campaign for re-election. If the session raises revenue, he can claim credit for calling the solons if it fails, he can claim he was thwarted by a recalcitrant legislature in carrying out his extravagant promises to the old folks. If he should fail to call a session, observers here point out, he would be open to considerable criticism by his opponents on the ground that he gave the legislature no opportunity to consider anything but the notorious SJR No. 12, at the regular session, and then refused to let the Legislature meet to consider other methods, when that failed.

HILL BOOM FOR GOVERNOR

Sen. Joe Hill, of Henderson, fiery orator and untiring opponent of O'Daniel's sales tax plans, is reported giving serious consideration to running for governor against O'Daniel next summer.
Hill is reported to have interested many O'Daniel opponents who feel that it will be difficult for a "professional politician"—meaning one who has made previous races for State office—to defeat the Governor. They feel that Hill's gift of oratory, his command of forceful language, and his effective opposition to the sales tax plans sponsored by O'Daniel and the special interests, made him an effective opposition candidate who might be able to muster strength to oust O'Daniel in 1940.

THE WAR'S OVER

... that was the news all along the lines ... there was little shouting, cheering; men just quietly tried to adjust themselves to the new conditions, to realize that fighting, shells, gas, and life in the mud was ended. Their only thought was home and their return to peaceful pur-

SPORT NEWS

Friday night, November 3, the Bulldogs went to Post to play the Antelopes. They were very expectant and really should have won the game. We really had the best team but this team can't seem to get together and co-operate at the right time.

The Bulldogs showed the best pass offence in the game than any previous game this year and it was a pass that scored our only touchdown, to three for Post. As our pass offence went to working our ground plays ceased to work and it takes both of these to bring out a winning ball club.

Defeat seems to be a motto of these Bulldogs as the score was 20 to 6, but next week we play the Merkel Badgers and this Lorraine team can't get the tough breaks all the time. My idea is the Bulldogs will be clicking when they play the Merkel Badgers next Friday night.

Introducing the Seniors

Presenting Helen Azalee Compton of the 1940 seniors! Helen was born December 4, 1922 in Abilene, Texas. She moved to Cisco, and from Cisco to Lorraine in 1927. Helen started to school here and when she was in the second and third grade, she attended school in Bauman. Since that time she has been "one of us" in L.H.S.

Helen is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, has hazel eyes, fair complexion, and dark hair. (While interviewing Helen I noted her rosy cheeks.) Home Ec. is her favorite subject and is a club member of the same. She is a member of the pep squad. She likes all kinds of outdoor sports and her hobby is skating. She likes good movies and no westerns. Her ambition is to become a court stenographer. She plans to go to N.T.S.T.C. in Denton, Texas. Helen is both "witty and wise" and everybody wants Helen for a friend. She is a good sport and an all-around girl. We believe you'll make a go of it Helen, so here's to you!

Society News

Halloween night was celebrated by most of the boys and girls of high school. A bunch of Freshman boys and girls went spooking. A wiener roast was enjoyed.

F. H. T.

The area meeting of the F.H.T. chapter was held in San Angelo Saturday, November 4, 1939.

Lorraine was represented by 31 members when last year there were only 7. This was made possible by the school board allowing us to use a bus. We had a delightful program including a style show, showing the latest fashions. Also some fashions from China were modeled.

In the business meeting we selected our club song to be "Bendermeers Stream." The election of officers was held in the House of Delegates. Our president, Ruby Jo Marshall, represented Lorraine in the House of Delegates.

The meeting was held in the city hall. Many of us had cricks in our necks staring at the beautiful auditorium.

Next year the meeting will be held in Sweetwater.

Fifth Grade News

If everybody, we are kind of late we don't you do not mind.

A few weeks ago we elected class officers. They are: President, Dorothy Jean Hallmark; Vice-President, Billy Gene Finch; Secretary, Dorothy Schwimmer; Reporter, Kathryn Price.

We studied a unit of Transportation of Communication. We made many modes of travel. Our second unit was on "Large Cities" in America. We took New York as an example.

We invited Freda Derryberry, Mrs. Kirk Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Williams, and Mrs. Thrillkill to tell us facts about large cities they visited in the summer.

We are going to give an Armistice program in chapel Friday afternoon. We invite you to attend. You will be hearing from us often.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

The Vocational Agriculture class No. 1 elected the following officers: President—Harold Johnson, Vice-President—Merlin Bennett, Secretary—Albert Givens, Treasurer—Jimmie Coffey, Parliamentarian—Douglas Brown, term Watch Dog—Billie Derryberry, Jockey—Frank Giddens, Historian—Forrest Meadows.

BAND NEWS

The band went to Abilene Thursday afternoon to hear the Navy Band. We all enjoyed the program very much. What we enjoyed most was "Jitterbugs of 1939." We wish to thank the people that carried the cars to Abilene.

Mr. Martin has ordered some new music. So you will hear the band "purty" soon playing "The Beer Barrell Polka."

The band is going to have a right swanky formation at Merkel Friday night so be sure to come and see it and also the game.

The band is still selling tags and we would appreciate it very much if you would be so kind as to buy one. The band is closing with FIFTEEN RAHS for the BEST organization in school.

F. H. T.

Again, the Junior Unit of "Future Homemakers of Texas", met with Miss Gann Friday at ten thirty. Most of our class is going to San Angelo to hear and see many very interesting things to help us be better homemakers. After the discussion of old and new business we were entertained by a program sponsored by members of our class. After we all sang our club song we answered the roll call by a flower. Juana Jean then gave us a review on flowers which was very interesting. After a song "Sing Your Way Home" was sung, Reta Beights made a motion that we adjourn two weeks from today. The motion carried.

FRESHMAN NEWS

It seems the freshmen are getting all the hard knocks. Our freshman king and queen did not win the popularity contest and the queen, Ophelia Childress has moved to California. A picture show party was given Wednesday night by the freshman girls as a farewell party to Ophelia from the Lorraine Freshman Class.

If any one was scared out of their wits Tuesday night, you can bet it was done by some freshman.

The freshman girls in Home Ec. 1. A went to the F. H. T. meeting in San Angelo. All reported a splendid time.

JUNIOR NEWS

The Annual Junior Play has been temporarily set for December 15. Unless something turns up that will be the permanent date. The name of the play will be "To by Helps Out". The cast of characters have not been chosen.

ELECTRICITY

biggest bargain

● Thrifty housewives who keep a close check on expenses know that electricity is the biggest bargain of all household needs. They also know that the more electricity they use, the more they save in time, energy, add to the comfort of their home and protect the health of their family.

They know, for instance, that a penny's worth of electricity cleans the rugs in the entire house; that a few pennies a day is all it costs to keep food fresh and healthful in an electric refrigerator; that good light for reading costs only a penny or two an evening, and radio entertainment for a whole evening costs less than three cents.

When the end of a month comes around, they know that the cost of full use of electric service has averaged only a few cents a day, and is one of the smallest items of household expense . . . and the biggest bargain.

HIS PROBLEM

Little Johnny should have been hard at his homework. As it was, his father found him listening to the wireless and sucking his pencil. "Well," asked father, "why don't you get on with your work?" "I can't, Dad," came Johnny's reply, "until I've heard the latest news bulletin. You see, I've got to draw a map of Europe."

THE TRUTH
Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of their value. And favorable public opinion supports that of the leading laboratory specialists who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and direct attention would be more often employed.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer: nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up night after night, weakness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all played out.

ONE-TWO-THREE-FOUR CAKES

Let's All Have Tea

There's something so social about serving tea! Friends and neighbors drop in for a bit of rest and relaxation, conversation flourishes, and the whole house is aglow with hospitality.

Serving tea is one of the simplest and most gracious ways of entertaining—whether you invite one guest or fifty. It may be a cozy, informal affair with only a few "hand-picked" friends invited, and simple bread and butter sandwiches, with a cup of perfectly brewed tea for refreshments. Or, you may plan a much larger, more elaborate tea as a means of entertaining the Parent-Teacher association, the Garden club, or perhaps the Women's auxiliary of your husband's lodge.

Formal or informal, large or small, you'll find that beforehand preparations and carefully laid plans help to make this kind of entertaining easy. Admit the limitations of your budget, your equipment, your time and strength, and don't plan more than you can carry out comfortably and sensibly. Remember that a cup of tea and a slice of bread and butter can make a party if the tea is perfectly made, the bread enticingly thin, and the service dainty and attractive.

Keep sandwiches, muffins, cakes and cookies small and dainty. If your invitation list numbers a large number of guests, bake your favorite cakes in jelly roll pans, frost, and cut into small, diagonal pieces.

Ginger Cream Cakes.
To make these clever little cakes, use the thin gingersnap or cookie ordinarily sold on the market. Allow from three to five to a serving. Put together with sweetened whipped cream in the same manner as in frosting a miniature layer cake. Cover the top and sides generously with the cream, and chill thoroughly. Ground candied ginger may be sprinkled sparingly over the top. One cup of whipping cream will make six cakes.

Orange Ice Cream.
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons orange rind (grated)
2 cups coffee cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs (beaten separately)

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Dissolve sugar in boiling water and add to the gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add the orange juice, orange rind, lemon juice, coffee cream, salt, and beaten egg yolks. Fold in egg whites and pour mixture into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Assemble and cover. Then pack mixture of crushed ice and rock salt (use three parts ice to one part salt, by volume) around the freezing container. Turn crank slowly but steadily. When mixture becomes too stiff to turn, remove cover carefully, take out dasher, and pack down evenly with a spoon. Cover ice cream with wax paper and replace cover. Repack. Cover and allow to harden at least one hour before serving.

One-Two-Three-Four Cakes.
(Makes four dozen small cup cakes)
1 cup margarine
2 cups sugar
4 eggs (separated)
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons flavoring
Cream the margarine thoroughly. Add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, and beat well. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in small, well greased muffin pans in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Frost as desired.

Brown Bread Peanut Sandwiches.
Slice Boston Brown bread very thin, spread with creamed butter, sprinkle generously with finely chopped salted peanuts.

Parsley Sandwiches.
Slice day-old bread 1/4-inch thick. Cut into rounds with a doughnut cutter, toast one side, and spread with parsley butter. To make parsley butter, cream butter, add lemon juice to taste, and finely minced parsley.

Banana Nut Bread.
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups general purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1/2 cup wheat bran
1 1/2 cups mashed bananas
2 tablespoons sour milk

Cream butter and add sugar slowly, beating constantly. Add eggs—one at a time—beating thoroughly. Mix and sift the flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. Add nut meats and wheat bran to this mixture. Combine bananas and sour cream. Add flour mixture alternately with banana mixture—beating thoroughly after each addition. Bake in well-greased loaf pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 1/2 hours.

Note: This bread is really better if sliced the second day. Delicious for sandwiches with butter or with unflavored cream cheese for filling.

Reception Cakes.
(Makes 90 two-inch cakes)
2 cups shortening (part butter for flavor)
4 cups sugar
16 egg yolks
9 cups cake flour
8 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 1/2 tablespoons orange or lemon extract

1. Cream the shortening; add sugar very slowly, beating well after each addition.
2. Beat the egg yolks until very thick, and add gradually to the creamed mixture.
3. Sift dry ingredients together, and add alternately with the milk and extract.
4. Pour the batter into large jelly roll pans, which have been greased and lined with wax paper.
5. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Cool, and cut into diamonds.

PUTTING GOD'S KINGDOM FIRST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:19-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness.—Matthew 6:33.

Said the Robin to the Sparrow:
"I should really like to know Why these anxious human beings
Rush about and worry so."

Said the Sparrow to the Robin:
"Friend, I think that it must be
That they have no Heavenly Father
Such as cares for you and me."
—Elizabeth Cheney

Most men are rushing about madly. Worry presses them down. They wonder whether life is worthwhile, whether somewhere there is not relief from this nervous tension that is destroying mind and body. Well, there is relief and it consists of but one ingredient. Give God His proper place, the first place in your life, and "all these things" (Matt. 6:33) will take their rightful places. Seeking first the kingdom of God will settle every problem about money, about food and clothing, and about the future.

I. Money (vv. 19-24).

The word in our text is "treasures," and we know that it has a broader meaning than money, but since in our day men seem to translate all values into dollars, we feel free to use that word "money" to express our thoughts.

The treasure is something that one has placed somewhere in order to keep it for himself. It is not a thing gathered for the purpose of using it to serve others or to serve God, but something put away on the shelf to be kept for one's own enjoyment.

There are two places in which a man can lay up treasure, on earth or in heaven; but it is only as he hoards treasure on earth that he becomes selfish. That which he sends on to heaven by his devotion of life and in service to Christ, by his sacrificial giving to the cause of Christ, by his encouragement of those who are witnessing for Christ, all this is done for the glory of God and without hope of reward. How great will be the surprise of some when they come to heaven and find what they have thus laid up for eternity.

Laying up treasures on this earth, on the other hand, leads to covetousness, to enslavement to one's possessions (be they great or small), and to the evils that follow like a train in the wake of a love of money.

II. Food and Clothing (vv. 25-32).

Some who have no great desire to amass riches are nevertheless in constant anxiety about food and raiment for the morrow; in fact, it is true of some who have great riches that they live in fear lest next month or next year or ten years from now they may be in need.

What is the answer of the Lord Jesus? Consider the birds. They are not able to work nor are they able to pray, but God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers of the fields, for not even a king can dress himself in such beauty. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

"As far as known, no bird ever tried to build more nests than its neighbors; no fox ever fretted because it had only one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay up enough nuts for two winters instead of one; and no dog ever lost any sleep over the fact that he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years" (Public Health Service).

Proper forethought is good and right for we are intelligent beings, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God.

III. The Future (vv. 33, 34).

Why will we fret ourselves about the future? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Even tomorrow, with its needs and its blessings, with its joy and its sorrows, is not yet here, and when it does come, there will be God's gracious provision for each passing hour.

Unsaved friend, will you not take the Lord Jesus Christ just now as your personal Saviour and let Him solve the problems of your life as you put the kingdom of God first? Christian friend, if you too have been bearing burdens which are not honoring to God, will you not tell Him just now, and put them down at the feet of the Lord Jesus? "Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you" (1 Pet. 5:7), which might properly be translated, "Casting all your worries (or distractions) on Him, for He worryeth about you."

Be Still Then and Know

Only in the sacredness of inward silence does the soul truly meet the secret, hiding God. The strength of resolve, which afterwards shapes life and mixes itself with action, is the fruit of those sacred, solitary moments when we meet God alone. —F. W. Robertson.

(Nobodys Business Continued) carry" plan advocatd by President Roosevelt, has won admiring comment throughout Texas during the past two weeks. Connally, up for re-election in 1940, had no serious opponent before the special session, and he is even less likely now to have to make a campaign, veteran political observers here say. Connally's independence of thought, which has influenced him to fight certain Roosevelt measures, like the Supreme Court plan, of which he did not approve, as vigorously as he has advocated other presidential legislation which Connally regarded as in the public interest, has won the admiration of both friends and foes of Roosevelt in Texas. Probably the silliest rumor published in Texas recently was one obtained in the column of Walter Winchell this week, suggesting that Elliott Roosevelt would defeat Connally for re-election. Roosevelt will not be a candidate against Connally for many good reasons, not the least of which is the fact that Roosevelt, if elected, couldn't qualify to sit in the United States senate, because of the Federal constitutional age limit, which would bar Roosevelt for about seven years yet.

TO TENNESSEE

Mrs. W. S. Irving left Monday for Memphis, Tennessee to spend the winter with her son there.

... the Dove of PEACE carrying the feather of good-will flies high over the U. S. A. in the unspoiled sunshine of American Democracy. At no time of year should we be more proud of our country of freedom than now. We observe Armistice

We Shall Not Forget

"To you from falling hands throw the torch,
Be yours to hold it high,
If you break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep in Flanders Fields."

To those who offered their lives for their country . . . to them we say, "We have not forgotten." Their unselfish deeds have become engraved into the hearts of those living . . . never to be erased.

A Worthy Cause For Which To Serve

Armistice Day, Nov. 11th is emblematic symbol of gratitude for this service.

A service that our nation be preserved; that our ideals remain foremost in the minds of men; that the precepts of our founding fathers guide us through; that our freedom of thought, expression and worship be kept intact—these things are worthy of our greatest sacrifices.

ARMISTICE DAY, as a day of national observance, is a beautiful and significant expression of a nation's thoughts and hopes. It is no glorification of war or the cause of war. It is rather a memorial to the coming of peace to a war troubled world 21 years ago.

Saturday is the day of Observance

ARMISTICE DAY

November 11, 1939

Let this day be one of memories . . . a day of solemn oath of devotion . . . as we remember when was lost a mother's pride, a father's joy. Armistice Day, dedicated to peace shall be a burning torch held aloft lighting the way for ever American Democracy.

We will be open Friday night.

ARMISTICE DAY

RESPECT . . . honor . . . gratitude—all rather inadequate words when applied to the service of millions of men. For theirs, for you and I! The sacrifices made by this great, courageous army deserve far more praise than we can possibly bestow.

WE SALUTE YOU DOUGHBOYS

THE CITY NATIONAL BANK of Colorado City joins the nation in honoring the living and dead November 11th. It has been twenty one years since they lived their great adventure, twenty one years of peace during which the memory of that wartime army hasn't dulled and grown dim. Let's make this day not only one of remembrance, but also one for forethought . . . and resolve that peace shall be lasting.
