By $20-40 Billion...

Defense Spending Cuts Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's chief economic advisers are urging him to cut planned defense spending by $20 billion to $40 billion to keep alive any realistic hope of balancing the federal budget by 1984, a knowledgeable administration source says.

Budget director David A. Stockman planned to recommend the defense cuts at a meeting with Reagan in Los Angeles today, according to the source, who said there is no other feasible way for Reagan to fulfill his pledge to balance the budget within three years.

Backed by other top administration officials, Stockman wants to reduce military spending by $10 billion to $20 billion in both 1983 and 1984, said the source, who is close to the budget process and asked not to be identified.

Presidential counselor Edwin Meese III, chief of staff James A. Baker III and Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan are among the top officials who support the defense cuts, the source said.

On Monday in Los Angeles, however, Meese said the administration is prepared to spend as much money as it takes to strengthen the nation's defense.

"We're not going to be imprudent or be wild spenders," Meese said, "but we will do what is necessary to maintain the defensive capability."

Administration officials have said previously that cuts in Reagan's defense spending plan — the largest U.S. military buildup in history — would be needed to reduce projected deficits over the next few years.

However, the cuts to be unveiled today are considerably larger than those previously suggested and are certain to touch off vehement opposition from Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and the Pentagon establishment.

One senior Defense Department official, who asked not to be identified, vowed that the Pentagon would wage an all-out fight against reductions of that magnitude.

For most other government programs, a $20 billion to $40 billion reduction would be monumental. But for the military, a cut of that size is relatively small given the administration's plans to spend more than $1.6 trillion on defense between 1983 and 1987.

The administration's latest plans call for defense outlays of $225 billion in 1983 and $254 billion in 1984. Stockman's proposals would amount to reductions of less than 10 percent a year.

"We're talking about peanuts," the administration source said. "We're telling Defense we can no longer afford those additional luxuries."

Just last week, Reagan signed into law the budget and tax cuts he had sought from Congress. But he still must come up with $74 billion in spending reductions during 1983 and 1984 to bring the budget into balance for the first time since 1969.

The budget cuts approved by Congress are estimated to reduce federal spending by $140 billion over the next three years. That is not nearly enough to offset Reagan's plans for sharp defense increases and a tax cut that reduces government revenues by $280 billion through 1984.

From the start, Reagan's economic plan has required that he find additional savings beyond those already enacted to turn a projected $42.5 billion deficit for 1982 into a $500 million surplus by 1984.

However, administration economists no longer believe more sizable reductions can be found without cutting into the defense budget.

Social Security is the only other major area where significant savings are possible. Reagan already has proposed cuts in that popular program, but he drew a storm of protest in the process, raising doubts about whether he can persuade Congress to go along with Social Security cuts that voters would remember during the 1982 congressional elections.

If Reagan were to leave defense spending intact, budget officials say, the only alternative for balancing the budget would be to make 50 percent across-the-board cuts in domestic programs — a politically unrealistic scenario.

Even with defense cuts, the administration is growing increasingly pessimistic about its chances for balancing the budget. That is because higher-than-expected interest rates threaten to drive up spending while the prospect of slower-than-expected economic growth could produce less revenues.

Reagan has pledged to increase defense spending between 1980 and 1986 by 7 percent a year after adjusting for inflation.

WTC Personnel Receive Awards

America is still the land of opportunity, Michael Brown, Dallas television personality, told the Western Texas College faculty and guests last night, and he passed along a formula for taking advantage of it.

"There are hundreds of millions of people in other countries who would give up everything they have to move next door to you in Snyder, Texas," Brown declared.

Brown, who has been in television as an anchor man and on talk shows for more than a decade, referred to an interview he conducted with the late H. L. Hunt in offering a plan for success. Hunt's formula, he said, was to "decide what you want to do, determine how much you are willing to give up to achieve it, make a plan, and get to work."

Dr. Don Newbury, WTC president, presided, and he and Bill Wilson, president of the board of trustees, presented service awards to faculty and staff members who have

Tuesday update

Rain Drenches Florida

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Dennis lashed south Florida with gale-force winds and torrential rains today, flooding suburban communities near Miami and forcing many residents to flee their homes in airboats and canoes.

The storm, stalled in the Florida Peninsula between Fort Myers and Palm Beach, had dumped more than 22½ inches of rain on the southern Dade County town of Homestead in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. Nearly 22 inches of rain fell in the Miami suburb.

The heaviest flooding was concentrated in an area known as the Redlands, a farming region north and west of Homestead, which is about 35 miles southwest of Miami.

Boycott To End

LISBON (AP) — Portuguese air traffic controllers today said they would end their 48-hour boycott of flights to and from the United States as scheduled tonight, but would seek a worldwide ban on such flights next week.

Fernando Cesar, head of the Portuguese air traffic controllers association, said a motion for a worldwide boycott of U.S. flights in support of striking American controllers would be put before the International Federation of Air Traffic Controllers Associations meeting in Amsterdam. He mentioned no date for the proposed boycott.

Agreement Reached

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge says most of the issues have been settled in a lawsuit filed by Vietnamese refugee fishermen who charged they were being intimidated by Ku Klux Klansmen and others who wanted them out of the Galveston Bay area.

In the agreement signed Monday, U.S. District Judge Gabrielle K. McDonald made permanent a temporary injunction against threats, boat-burnings and Klan displays in the Bay area. Ms. McDonald issued the temporary injunction May 14.

"The only remaining issue to be decided by this court is the request by the state of Texas and the other plaintiffs to enjoin the military operations of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, otherwise known as the Texas Emergency Reserve," Ms. McDonald said.

Hearing On Drowning

MEXIA, Texas (AP) — Two sheriff's deputies say they will tell "the whole story" behind the drownings of three black youths in their custody when they appear today before a Limestone County grand jury.

Waco attorney W.C. Haley said his two clients' testimony would be "substantially in line" with the account of probation officer David Drummond, who testified during a public court of inquiry the week after the June 19 deaths.

Deputy Kenny Elliott and reserve deputy Kenneth Archie refused to testify at that inquiry.

FIVE-YEAR AWARDS—Awards for five years of service at WTC were presented to Charlene Light, Karen Burkett and Sharon Sutton at the banquet last night in the college cafeteria.

The SDN Column

A week ago we vowed that we would write a column about those crazy Czechs from Hallettsville. The vow was made as we sat on the west side (or was it the north side?) of the Institute of Texan Cultures building in San Antonio, not only listening to a Czech band perform, but also watching their antics on stage.

It was our first trip to the annual Texas Folklife Festival, and earlier we had sated our hunger by visiting the wurst booth of New Braunfels and the yam pie booth of our native Gilmer. We stopped to listen to the Czech band because there was shade from the broiling sun and a place to sit on one of the huge concrete railings. We stayed nearly two hours because those Czechs were putting on a great show.

Their band had five trumpets (with only four people playing them, which we will explain later), an accordion, a trombone, an occasional flugel horn, a bass horn, an occasional baritone, a saxophone and one of those electronic keyboard instruments that was operated by a real magician.

Their music was weighted heavily toward the polkas and the "oompah" numbers normally associated with their European heritage, but they pitched in a few well-known country and western pieces that they had adapted to their brass-heavy group with surprisingly good results. Included was "Faded Love," the classic made famous by the late Bob Wills, which they sang. And those trumpets, as manipulated by the Czechs, would have made a fiddle fan such as Wills himself smile.

Now, about that fifth trumpet. It was played by one of three female members of the band, and she played two trumpets simultaneously. We doubt that many female musicians would go for that type of performance. Can't you hear someone saying it takes a big mouth to do that? But those Czechs were having fun, and it was contagious. About every 15 minutes, their emcee would check the audience to determine how many Czechs were on hand.

"How many Bohunks are there out there now?" he would ask. A lot of hands would go up, and you wondered whether they were all Czechs, or merely wished they were.

We also made it by the booth operated by Episcopalians of Snyder and Colorado City, but failed to catch Monte Jones on duty.

They call the folklife festival the world's biggest block party, and it is a mighty big block. But we doubt that there are many places where more people are having fun at the same time in the same place. It is truly an amazing event.

Q.—Is the Post Office allowed to take personal checks?

A.—Postmaster Jack Tilson says postal clerks may accept personal checks for postage if the customer is known to them. They may also accept checks for postage from persons unknown to them, provided they are furnished two sources of identification. However, a clerk is responsible for checks he or she accepts, and checks are accepted for postage only. No checks are accepted for money orders, or for cash-on-delivery (COD) mail.

Patient dieting

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My wife is dieting and exercising one-half hour each night on the bike. She eats like a bird but no junk food. She is 32 and now weighs 129 and is 5-foot-2. She is trying for 115. She did lose six pounds the first three weeks. But the last three weeks there has been no loss at all. She is on the pill. Does that make a difference? She doesn't smoke or drink. Naturally she is getting discouraged and I feel lousy for her. Dieting was my idea.

DEAR READER — And it was a good idea. You both need a little more patience. The initial weight loss that most people experience when they go on a diet is mostly loss of body water and emptying out the digestive system. It is not real fat. People get encouraged and then expect to lose the same amount each week and it just doesn't work that way.

Of course the amount of the initial loss has a lot to do with how severe the diet is. The more sensible the diet, the less likely you are to lose a lot of weight in the first week or two. The really successful programs are those that result in the loss of about a pound of fat a week or even just a half pound.

A person needs to be on a balanced sensible diet plan to lose weight safely. Such a plan is included in The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Successful weight control programs involve a permanent change in life style. That includes a balanced diet that eliminates excess calories. You can use the diet I am sending you as a basis for a permanent diet. When your wife reaches her goal, she can add enough foods to it to maintain her weight.

Birth control pills will not prevent weight loss. They may cause a person to retain longer the water from metabolism of fat. Many people retain water anyway while losing weight and then suddenly eliminate a lot of water and lose several pounds. For several weeks there may be no weight loss again by the scales but fat is disappearing and water is accumulating. This plateau effect may confuse a person but the thing to do is ignore it and stick to the diet on a long-term basis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 83 years old and I like licorice candy. Some tell me it is not good to eat too much. What do you say?

DEAR READER — Licorice can cause high blood pressure. And it can affect the potassium level in the body. But cheer up, that is natural licorice and natural licorice is not used to make candy in the United States. An artificial product is used to provide the licorice flavor that you like. It does not have the same action as natural licorice. Candy in Europe may contain the real licorice and excessive ingestion may be harmful. Here is a good example where the artificial product is far superior — and safer — than the natural one.

Real licorice is used in some brands of chewing tobacco. Cases of licorice intoxication have been reported in men who chew and particularly those who swallow the tobacco juice. High blood pressure and low potassium levels are seen in these cases.

Could Hurt Needy Texans...

Proposed Budget Cuts

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Reagan budget cuts could mean an end to social services for up to 200,000 needy Texans and battered children, and state officials will decide this week who should feel the effects of the nation's conservative mood.

At a Monday hearing on the cuts, DHR officials offered two options for making the cuts. One would be a "staggering blow" and the other would be a "death sentence," one witness said.

About 900 people crowded into a University of Texas auditorium to hear about the cuts. The officials offered a bleak picture — a scenario in which the only question is who should be the biggest loser.

That decision will be made by the board next Monday in Fort Worth. "The needs still remain although the resources have dwindled," DHR Commissioner Marlin Johnston said. "Congress has reversed nearly half a century of expanding government's role in social programs."

All DHR programs will suffer, including child protective services, family planning, day care, emergency family services, and employment services.

In a time when the cost of services is increasing, the agency must find a way to cut spending by 17.7 percent, the amount by which Congress cut Texas' social services allocation. DHR laid out two methods: "Option A" would be an across-the-board 17.7 percent cut for all services while "Option B" would make big cuts in low-priority programs and smaller reductions in those considered more valuable.

John Widner of Austin, representing a group of day-care providers, said across-the-board cuts would be a "staggering blow," but Option B would be worse — a "death sentence."

Jim Mohler, executive director of the Community Action Council of Tom Green County, testified for Option A.

"Let there be no sacred cows and favored few," he said in support of the across-the-board cuts.

Either option would mean huge reductions in services. The 1981 budget included money to help 530,035 people. Under Option A the state would help 322,574 people. Under Option B, 351,080 would be served.

Associate Commissioner

M.J. Raymond said Option A would create a problem for child protective services, the agency's top priority.

The state spent $45 million on child protective services in 1981, and planned to spend $56 million in 1982. The 17.7 percent reduction would leave only $46 million available.

A total of 83,424 fewer children could be helped with the reduced funds. Under Option B the service would get $52.5 million, which still would mean ending services for about 42,000 children.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

A woman in Texas entered her apartment just in time to see a 165-pound burglar ripping off her fur coat.

She became incensed and took off after him in her two-inch wedge heels, apprehended him in less than a block, and got her fur coat back.

I am sitting here trying to think what I have that I'd run after in two-inch wedge heels to get back.

Furs? Anything I own would serve the burglar right. The last time I wore my stole, a shag dashboard wanted to mate with it.

Jewelry? How excited can you get over a couple of pig pendants and a 40-wpm typing pin?

Appliances? What have they ever done for me? Take them. They're yours.

The truth is I've never been a materialistic person. I have never lived in a house where I could not pick up and move if I thought there was better plumbing at the end of the next rainbow.

I've never had a "favorite" dress, a "lucky" dinner ring, a "classic" car, or anything I valued as a "collector."

I've never had a painting that I was attached to or a hobby that had become priceless as a tax write-off.

I don't have a little gun loaded with little bullets by my little bedside. The only thing antique in the whole house is me and even that's a sluggish market.

No. There are no bottles of Dom Perignon stored in the basement, no safes behind a fake copy of "War and Peace," and nothing in my medicine chest except three-year-old antihistamines and a rectal thermometer.

If you can find cash, it's yours. I have to write a check for postage due on an 18-cent letter. I guess you can safely assume there is nothing I would run down the middle of the street in pursuit of.

Unless...

No. No one would take my photo albums of the babies. C'mon. No one in this world is that mean. I would like to see a burglar get two feet with the only thing in my past worth saving or remembering. Not to see my daughter leaning over to smell the tulip in Grandma's backyard? Or my first son's holding the Dry Soap Award from camp? Or the baby sitting under a coffee table eating a raw potato?

Just try something! I'd destroy the intruder before he got to the door!

Crime Proposals Face Sympathetic Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crackdown on violent crime recommended by a Reagan administration task force is likely to find considerable bipartisan support in Congress, where similar proposals already are being considered.

Democrats and Republicans already have introduced numerous bills which closely resemble some of the major components in the task force report, which was submitted Monday to Attorney General William French

Smith. The task force made 64 recommendations, including new limitations on existing protections against unreasonable search and seizure, excessive bail and denial of due process of law. It also called for $2 billion in federal grnts to states to build new prisons.

NFL Cuts Reach A Few Old Veterans

by The Associated Press

The age old war of football experience vs. the value of youth has claimed another victim - Bill Gregory of the Seattle Seahawks.

Gregory, a 10-year National Football League veteran, was waived Monday by the Seahawks and he was quick to point out that his age had to be a factor in the decision.

"I had a feeling they wanted to move somebody else into my starting position," said the 31-year-old defensive end. "But I felt before and I still feel I can play football, that I can still rush the passer."

Gregory, a graduate of Wisconsin, wasn't quite ready for the harshness of a preseason release.

"You see it happen to other people every year, but you seem to think it will always happen to the other person," he said. "It's just like death."

What kind of future lies ahead for Gregory depends on Gregory, himself and the NFL general managers.

As down as Gregory is, Fred Anderson is up.

Anderson displaced Gregory on the Seattle defensive line.

The Prairie View A&M graduate impressed head

Coach Jack Patera after he was acquired on waivers from Cincinnati last year.

Anderson now joins Jacob Green, Manu Tuiasopopo and Robert Hardy on the Seahawks' front four.

The Seahawks also released former Notre Dame running back Al Hunter.

There were other veterans who felt the blade of the cut and the Washington Redskins led the way releasing a number of experienced players.

First-year head Coach Joe Gibbs asked waivers on running backs Ike Forte and Bobby Hammond, linebacker Dallas Hickman, and wide receivers Jon McDaniel and Zion McKinney. The Redskins also released 14 other players and placed veteran cornerback Ray Waddy on the physically-unable-to-perform list.

Other veterans of note released by their teams included, San Diego punter Rick Partridge; Minnesota wide receiver Kevin Miller; Baltimore defensive end Ron Fernandes; Green Bay linebacker Jim Gueno; running back Don Woods by San Francisco; defensive backs Dave Becker and Wentford Gaines by Chicago.

Miami running back Delvin Williams headed a list of players placed on reserved lists.

The Dolphins placed Williams on the reserved, did-not-report list, while Tampa Bay put nose tackle Randy Crowder on injured reserve along with strong safety Mark Cooney.

The New York Jets placed second-round draft pick Marion Barber, a running back from Minnesota, on the injured reserve.

However, sources told the Associated Press Monday the CFA is now trying to line up block voting among the conferences. The Southwest and Western Athletic conferences in particular are divided on the issue, sources said. It will be up to the conferences themselves whether to vote as a block or individually.

After the Friday vote in Atlanta, there is to be a three-week period in which schools can change their ballots.

intra-divisional playoffs. If the same team won both sections, it was to face the team in its division with the next-best overall record.

However, that left open the ominous prospect of a team purposely losing games in order to improve its chances at a playoff berth. It would take an intricate and unlikely set of circumstances for that to occur, but the mere fact that it is a possibility cast a shadow dark enough to prompt officials to re-evaluate the arrangement.

There were no miracles for baseball and gaping holes were exposed in the second season format.

Under the plan, the division leaders at the time of the strike were declared winners of the first part of the season and the second part was set up as a separate entity, with the winners of the two sections meeting in best-of-five,

After the Friday vote in Atlanta, there is to be a three-week period in which schools can change their ballots.

Mickey Wright won 13 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournaments in 1963, a record.

intra-divisional playoffs. If the same team won both sections, it was to face the team in its division with the next-best overall record.

However, that left open the ominous prospect of a team purposely losing games in order to improve its chances at a playoff berth. It would take an intricate and unlikely set of circumstances for that to occur, but the mere fact that it is a possibility cast a shadow dark enough to prompt officials to re-evaluate the arrangement.

There were no miracles for baseball and gaping holes were exposed in the second season format.

Under the plan, the division leaders at the time of the strike were declared winners of the first part of the season and the second part was set up as a separate entity, with the winners of the two sections meeting in best-of-five,

The age old war of football experience vs. the value of youth has claimed another victim - Bill Gregory of the Seattle Seahawks.

Gregory, a 10-year National Football League veteran, was waived Monday by the Seahawks and he was quick to point out that his age had to be a factor in the decision.

"I had a feeling they wanted to move somebody else into my starting position," said the 31-year-old defensive end. "But I felt before and I still feel I can play football, that I can still rush the passer."

Prepare Eggs The Italian Way

By TOM HOGGE
Associated Press
Wine and Food Editor

In ancient Rome, cooks used to whip up a batter of eggs, flour and grated cheese and toss the lot into a boiling broth. The mixture formed flakes when it hit the brew and they called it Stracciatella or "little rags."

Italians have always had a talent for preparing eggs, whether it be the simple act of dropping one into a glass of wine as a bracer when setting out on a journey or the delectable omelet called frittata so popular in that country.

Italians have had a fondness for omelets ever since the early Romans mixed beaten eggs with honey and served them as a dessert.

In Padua today, omelets are served flavored with fine herbs, and in Florence beaten eggs are poured over artichoke hearts and the mixture baked in the oven.

But Italy's egg dishes aren't limited to omelets. In Genoa, a favorite is a delightful tart filled with hard-boiled eggs and spinach mixed with a soft cheese made from milk curd.

In Lombardy, cooks go in for a chicken soup laced with grated Parmesan cheese. Each bowl is adorned with a poached egg perched on a floating round of fried bread.

The cooks of Genoa also stuff a galantine of boned veal breast with hard-boiled eggs and pistachio nuts that is said to be delicious.

An old friend of mine became fond of Italian cooking during his career as a foreign correspondent. He sent me an intriguing recipe for an Italian dish called Eggs in Purgatory. 1/4 pound butter 5 medium mushrooms 3 medium onions, chopped 1 35-ounce can Italian peeled tomatoes

2 teaspoons sweet basil
2 teaspoons mixed Italian seasoning
Salt and pepper
1 small can tomato paste, if desired
6 eggs

Saute mushrooms in two tablespoons butter till golden, then reserve. In same pan, with another two tablespoons of butter, saute onions. Return mushrooms to skillet with onions and add peeled tomatoes. Simmer 1 hour adding remaining butter, basil and Italian seasoning. If mixture is too thin for your taste, add tomato paste. In smaller skillet place 6 cups of tomato mixture and heat to just below boiling. Place the 6 eggs in depressions made with spoon in tomato mixture, cover and cook 4 to 5 minutes. Remove eggs to plates with spatula, allowing about equal amount of sauce around each egg. Serve with sweet or hot Italian sausage, toasted Italian bread and green salad. Serves 6. Good with a chilled mug of beer.

Here is a real gem played by Richard Frey back in 1940 when he was one of the best players in the world.

Dick almost didn't take his partner out of the doubled spade contract. Dick was one expert who did not feel that he was divinely appointed to play all contracts.

He ruffed the club lead in dummy; ruffed a spade in his own hand; ruffed a second club and noted that West

VIR...FOR STUDIO QUALITY COLOR AUTOMATICALLY

Curtis Mathes pioneered 100% modular design for greater performance and reliability plus quick and easy repairs... right in the home in most cases.

Most television pictures today are broadcast with VIR (vertical interval reference), a special color reference signal. Curtis Mathes' new VIR circuit decodes this signal and automatically adjusts the set to the precise color standards being broadcast from the point of origin. You get color as true and lifelike as it was then in left the studio.

ADVANCED INTEGRATED CIRCUITRY

In our series chassis, bulky modules have been replaced by seven to thirteen advanced integrated circuits (see chassis specifications below), some not much larger than a dime! They offer more repair advantages in a chassis that's designed to be lighter, even more dependable and more energy efficient than we've ever offered before. And what we had before created new standards of performance.

SHARPEST PICTURES EVER!

Our Super Chromalite 84" picture tube combines a newly designed gun with 100% beam dispersion to produce a tube that's three inches shorter than our previous models. The Curtis Mathes Slot Mask, Black Matrix Tube increases picture brightness and enhances both color and contrast. Not only does it save space and permit slimmer cabinet designs, but the new gun and shorter tube mean the electron beam travels a shorter distance for an even sharper, crisper picture.

Dear Abby

Adoptee's Love Extends To Natural Mother, Too

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying that when adopted children become adults they have the right to know who their natural parents are, providing the natural parents want to be found.

I'm adopted, but I am not an adult yet. I love the parents who raised me very, very much, but I would like to know my natural mother. I often wonder, do I look like her? Is she happy? Do I have any half-sisters or brothers?

To my "Mom": Wherever you are, if you bore a daughter on Dec. 10, 1967, I love you.

SHARI (ADOPTED)

DEAR SHARI: Wherever your mother is, whether she reads your message or not, I know she loves you, too. Yes, I do feel strongly that adult adopted children have the right to know where they came from, but I also believe that no adopted child should intrude on the life of his natural parent, nor should a natural parent intrude on the life of a child once given up for adoption.

However, if a reunion is agreeable to both parties, it could complete the lives of all concerned.

There are two organizations where both natural parents and adoptees may register. Cross-matches are made, and information is exchanged only if both parties desire it:

ALMA, P.O. Box 154, Washington Bridge Station, New York, N.Y. 10033.

CUB, P.O. Box 573, Milford, Maine 01757.

DEAR ABBY: I just graduated from college and really treasured my diploma because I worked very hard for a long time to get it.

My mother was also proud, so she decided to surprise me and frame my diploma. Abby, instead of taking it to a professional framer, she took scissors and cut it down to make it fit an old $2 picture frame she happened to have lying around the house! When I saw it I nearly fainted. The diploma is noticeably reduced in size and looks terrible.

My mother refuses to admit she did anything wrong. I want two things from her: 1) an apology; 2) I want her to arrange with the college to send me a replacement. I know I could request a replacement of that diploma myself, but I think since she's the one who mutilated it, she should replace it.

She reads you faithfully in the Los Angeles Times and respects your judgment, so please put your answer in the paper.

BURNING IN RIVERSIDE, CALIF.

DEAR BURNING: I think your well-meaning mother owes you: 1) an apology for her poor judgment; 2) a replacement.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's really possible to forgive and forget?

VIRG

DEAR VIRG: I know it is. Were it not so, we'd all be living in an awful kind of hell.

DEAR ABBY: Was I ever relieved to see the letter from MOLLY, whose husband can't hear unless he has his glasses on! For years I thought I was the only person with this freaky problem. I'm extremely nearsighted, and I can't hear without my glasses — especially on the telephone. Thanks, that letter made my day!

FELLOW SUFFERER

DEAR SUFFERER: According to my mail, you have a lot of fellow sufferers, but here's a new one:

DEAR ABBY: Tell MOLLY her husband is not crazy. I always thought I was because I wear glasses and false teeth, too, and would you believe when I take out my teeth and take off my glasses, I can't hear a thing, either?

DEAF IN WYOMING

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M" IN ST. PETERSBURG: Don't turn up your nose at a good man because he has a little dirt under his fingernails. Maybe he got it from burying money in his backyard.

McDonald Welding Features All Types Of Gasses And Materials

McDonald Welding has all types of gasses for any use. Some gasses you will find are breathing air, medical air, helium, argon, acetylene gas, industrial oxygen and liquid nitrogen.

Liquid nitrogen is used by Bell Telephone System in this area for drying their telephone lines after a rainstorm.

McDonald Welding serves an area bounded by Sweetwater to Lorraine to Colorado City to Big Spring and back to Snyder. The firm has two 18 foot bobtail trucks for delivery to farms and businesses in surrounding towns.

Also in stock is the Miller Big 20 D.C. welder for the oil field. It has an A.C. power plant built in and can furnish electricity for any device that runs on household current. The welder runs on regular gas or can be purchased with a diesel engine.

McDonalds also have in stock welders small enough to go in the back end of a Toyota or larger ones that will go on two ton trucks.

If you need steel for oil field fabrication you can find the kind you need at McDonald's.

In addition to Miller and the well known Lincoln welding equipment, the firm also makes available the Milwaukee line of heavy duty electric tools and grinders. Also Williams hammer wrenches and heavy tools, Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipment and Wilton vises are also available.

Safety equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kit refills, arm guards, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers.

The firm also stocks chain, cable, tubing and chain hoists. Blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list also.

The list of supplies goes on and on, so stop by and see the folks at McDonald Welding, located at 1110 College Avenue, and let them help you with your welding and equipment needs.

Alexander's Pest Control Offers Professional Protection

You can't escape from termites. They're hard at work in every area of every state, and they may be busy devouring somebody's home right in your neighborhood—maybe even yours.

You can't afford to take chances with costly termites. Your home is your largest dollar investment. It can be protected efficiently and scientifically at a pittance of the cost compared to the damage termites can do.

Call Alexander's Pest Control for professional protection, just to be sure.

By the time termites are discovered, the cost of repairing damage done could result in thousands of dollars. Once termites gain entry to your home, they spread rapidly through joists and floors. Wily termites are careful not to break through surface of the wood—so your first clue of termites may come when a piece of furniture sinks into the soft wood. Replacing floors and supporting framework could amount to as much as 10 times their original cost.

After getting inside, the appetite of termites is insatiable. They often follow the wooden framework of the house to upper levels and floors, creating havoc as they do. Once inside the house, termites keep on with their destructive job until either the house is destroyed or treated. Just because your house is made of brick or concrete doesn't mean that it's safe from termites. These insidious insects are crafty and cunning in gaining access and getting to the wooden construction inside.

Voracious termites will eat anything containing wood or cellulose. They frequently damage valuable papers, books, expensive rugs and items in storage. Beside feeding themselves, worker termites carry food back to the colony for the queen, king, secondary reproductives and soldier termites. With this large family to feed, the worker isn't the least concerned about the value of your property.

A concrete foundation doesn't stop termites. Termites must return to their nests every 12 to 24 hours for moisture, and to feed the non-workers. Termite tubes under your foundation are a sure sign of infestation.

Mature termites develop wings and on a warm, moist day emerge from the colony as a swarm. This usually happens in the spring and sometimes in the fall. After flying a short distance, the wings drop off and new colonies are formed. If you see swarming termites, you had better call us for an inspection.

Professional chemical treatment is the only way to be sure you're safe from termite damage—and this treatment is far more economical than repairs. Using proven methods, we'll treat the soil around and under your house to create a chemical barrier that stops subterranean termites cold. We make sure every possible point of entry is blocked.

Alexander's Pest Control, 573-7133, also does all types of pest services. Owner Craig Alexander reminds you that whatever your pest control or weed control needs are, he can help.
