MOODY SCORES A BIG VICTORY IN FAMOUS TRIAL

BOND IS GRANTED CON-TRACTOR AFTER BILLS ARE FOUND

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 28.—State highway matters, which have caused political turmoil in Texas during recent months, were climaxed tonight when two indictments were returned by the Travis county grand jury against F. C. Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of the Hoffman Construction Co.

One indictment charges perjury in connection with an account claimed to be due under the terms of a road surfacing contract let to the Hoffman Co., by the state highway commission, and the other bill charges swindling growing out of the same transaction. Bonds of $2,500 were fixed in each case.

These are the first and only indictments which have been returned since grand jury investigation of highway affairs in Texas was started last October. This company is now being sued by Attorney General Dan Moody to recover alleged excessive profits paid it for road contracts.

Shortly before the grand jury made its report Hoffman was called to the grand jury room. It was the second time he had been called by the jury today.

The grand jury in its reports severely criticized the former highway commission for letting road contracts without competitive bidding.

This latter charge was first made by Attorney General Moody, causing a stir up in state politics which at one time threatened a forced session of the state legislature and brought about a break between the attorney general and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. The special session was avoided and at that time the governor was conceded to have won a victory over the attorney general.

EX-HIGHWAY HEADS "PASS THE BUCK" DURING TRIAL

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Dan Moody interrogated Frank V. Lanham, former chairman of the state highway commission, on the witness stand today in the Hoffman Construction Co. plea of privilege suit.

Lanham testified under cross examination by Moody that he did not investigate the Hoffman Construction Co. before he signed the contract with them. He declared that he permitted the contract to go to them on the recommendation of Joe Burkett of Eastland, former member of the highway commission.

Burkett, who preceded Lanham on the stand, testified that he did not read the contracts carefully before he signed them, adding that he intended to see, however, that the state of Texas received full value for every dollar that they spent on road work.

LOVERS MARRY AT HIGH PRICES MAY CLOSE 50-YEAR COURTSHIP

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—A romance which sparkled in its youth, then burned at a dull glow over 50 long years, has burst into flame again and sent Frank T. Lee Brick, 77, and Fannie Rodenburg Toland on a belated honeymoon.

Frank and Fannie were sweethearts at Richmond, Ind., back in the late 60's. But Fannie's parents frowned on the marriage.

Frank in their estimation was a harum-scarum lad because he had intended striking out for himself to homestead a farm in Kansas.

So the lovers separated and Frank took the Kansas land, 1,000 acres, near McDonald. Four years later he heard that Fannie had married another. Two years later he married. Fannie's mate died in 1920 and Frank's wife in 1923.

Frank found Fannie at her home here last Sunday, renewed the suit of his youth and now they are married.

The bride and groom, basking in the ecstasy of their first romance, are rolling across the prairies toward the little home Frank had prepared for them in Kansas a half century ago.

CORN GROWERS TO DEMAND AID OF U. S.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 28.—Congress must create an export corporation and a federal farm board to administer it.

This was the determined attitude taken by the corn belt conference committee, representing 11 middle western states, in session here today.

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, upheld the Dickinson bill for farm relief. Practically every speaker offered support to the export corporation and federal farm board plans. Pledges were made from all users to carry the fight to congress, a united fight for granting agriculture the protection now afforded other industries.

Although in harmony on these two important principles and other matters of farm relief, the resolutions came of the conference, in its efforts to produce comprehensive and exacting proposals, was forced to prolong its session well into the evening before reporting out to the conference as a whole. First expectations were that the resolutions would be submitted to the conference in late afternoon.

County Agent David F. Eaton, introducing the Lubbock High School Band, yesterday morning ushered in the first session of the Farmers Short Course, and a larger attendance than was anticipated marked the opening session, a most successful one and indicating the great interest in better agriculture that prevails in the South Plains.

LAND COMPANY CHARTER GRANTED BY OLD MEXICO

By United News.

EL PASO, Jan. 28.—Dr. John C. Dycus was Thursday found guilty on four out of eleven counts brought against him by jury in United States federal court charging use of mails to defraud after deliberating for more than 26 hours.

Out of the 13 counts originally brought against him by the grand jury, two were dropped by the prosecution, he was acquitted of seven and found guilty on the other four. Sentence was deferred.

Dr. Dycus was arrested in October 1925, in San Francisco. He returned to El Paso because his company, the Dycus-Slaughter-Van Gass Land Co., although incorporated in Mexico because from El Paso, operated chiefly from El Paso.

A motion for change of venue because he thought he could not obtain a fair trial in El Paso was refused. The jury which tried him here was composed of out of town men.

STORY TRIAL WILL CONSUME MANY DAYS

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—Trial of Yancey Story on charge of robbery with firearms of the bank at Krum, Texas, was progressing slowly Thursday, the fourth day of the trial.

Additional witnesses were put on the stand this morning by the state which included Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and other officers who were members of the raiding party that swooped down on the Story ranch in Denton county last fall.

Over objection of the defense testimony was allowed by the court from T. N. Skaggs, resident of Ponder, Denton county, who identified some antique coins as his property which he had in a safe deposit vault in the bank at Ponder. The Ponder bank was robbed in April, 1925. Elbert Hooper of Denton identified the coins as being part of the loot found among Story's things when the ranch was raided.

Pack Hampton, night watchman at Saenger, identified a watchman's time clock which he said was taken from him when the bank at Saenger was robbed in March, 1925. This clock was also alleged to have been found hidden on the Story ranch.

SNOW MUST GO TO CHAIR FOR CRIME

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, Jan. 28.—F. M. Snow was found guilty of murdering his step-son, Bernie Connally last November and given the death penalty by a jury here today. The case went to the jury late Wednesday night and the verdict was returned at 9 a. m. Thursday.

Snow did not vary from his unconcerned attitude when the verdict was read. The defense asked for a poll of the jury on the sentence and each juror stood and declared it was his verdict that Snow's life should be taken by the state.

Witnesses called by the state during the trial testified that the head of young Connally had been found tied to the rafters of an abandoned house in a gunny sack. After Snow was taken into custody he led the officers to a spot on Cedar mountain where the boy's body had been hidden. Snow was alleged to have confessed to the murder on top of Cedar mountain at midnight after the body was found. He also said that he had murdered his wife, the boy's mother, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. S. A. Olds.

Defense attorney announced appeal will be taken.

ENGINEER ADMITS BLAME FOR WRECK

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Jan. 28.—For the last 26 years Sam Dunn has been listed as one of the victims of a disastrous railroad accident. The man has been discovered here, working as a cook in the Santa Cruz hospital.

Dunn, Southern-Pacific engineer, was in the cab of the locomotive that plunged through an open end of Oakland Estuary bridge. Thirteen persons, occupants of a coach that was taking passengers to a Memorial day service on May 30, 1900, were drowned.

Until Thursday Dunn had been believed dead. A coroner's jury charged him with criminal negligence in the handling of his train and passing years covered the tragedy in obscurity.

"I could have stopped that train if I had had eight more feet to go," Dunn said in admitting his identity. The fact that he had been blamed for the loss of life weighed heavily upon him.

According to his story, Dunn swam ashore after his engine struck the water. Another engineer gave him money enough to get to Los Angeles and he later drifted back to this section. He was admitted to the hospital of being struck on the head by a falling log of the Santa Cruz mountains and remained as cook.

SATTERWHITE MAIN SPEAKER AT CANYON

CANYON, Jan. 28.—Plans for the coming year's work were discussed by representatives of the Southwest Trail Highway Association session here Thursday.

Representative Lee Satterwhite, principal speaker, told the meeting that a hard surfaced highway from Higgins to Clovis would do more at the present time than any other one thing to bring the Panhandle and Plains country into the eyes of the people.

It was agreed to assess all members towns in order to carry on an extensive advertising campaign.

Canadian was chosen as the next meeting place for the association. No change was made in the officers of the association.

MRS. FERGUSON IS WIFE BETTER THAN FREE WITH HER PARDONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson issued pardons Thursday to the following: Manuel Gonzales, sentenced to five years from Cameron county on charges of transporting liquor; H. G. Tankersley, Tarrant county, five years for forgery; Roy Kimbrough, Limestone county, two years on a liquor charge; Leonard Florenoy, Polk county, five years, assault with intent to murder; Ed Safarik, Wilberson county, three years on a liquor charge.

Gonzales was given a pardon by Governor Ferguson after his wife and four scantily clad children had appeared at the governor's office to ask that he be released in order to support them.

Calvin Leonard, from Bastrop county, given 18 years for murder and who paroled October, 1925, was ordered back to confinement on the ground that he violated the conditions of the parole.

FERGUSONS MAY BE OUSTED AS RESULT VERDICT

SPECIAL SESSION LEGISLATURE MAY BE CALLED AT ONCE

By United News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Dan Moody, arch-enemy of the Ferguson administration in Texas, again was vindicated in his charges of graft and corruption against the state highway commission when two indictments were returned Thursday night against an official of a road company.

Observers of the political disturbance that has attracted nationwide attention during the past few months see a recurrence of the storm that once nearly ousted Governor Miriam A. Ferguson from office. Rumblings already have been heard in the calling of a special session of the legislature to investigate the administration of the woman executive and her husband and political advisor, former Governor James E. Ferguson.

Investigation of the affairs of the state highway commission, which has been under fire of the bellicent attorney general ever since he obtained a settlement from the American Road Company for $600,000 which was admittedly "excess profit" was claimed Thursday night when two indictments were returned by the Travis county grand jury against F. C. Hoffman, vice president and general manager of the Hoffman Construction Co.

One of the indictments charges perjury in connection with an account claimed to be due under the terms of a road surfacing contract and the other bill charges swindling growing out of the same transaction.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Jan. 28.—Dave Tennal is in the market for a composite picture of Andrew Volstead and Dan Condit to take the place of honor among his marriage licenses, bridal photographs and other trophies of his marital adventure that finally has culminated in happiness after a divorce and nine years of separation.

With their 19-year-old son as best man and three other children for bridesmaid and guests, Dave and Mary Tennal have been married for the second time, more than nine years after the day that Mary lost her patience and found her freedom in a divorce court.

For, although Dave was a good husband, a kind father and a fair provider, he just couldn't leave liquor alone. So his wife gathered up the four children and deserted the house of Tennal until such time as he should desert the mahogany bar.

For three years Dave drowned his sorrows in an alcoholic flood. Then came prohibition and the advent of synthetics, denatured concoctions and home brews. He tried, but he literally couldn't stomach the stuff, so he betrouth himself of almost forgotten domestic joys and called on his wife.

"Mary, I'm in the wagon from now on out," he told her humbly. "We'll wait and see," was the case comment of Mrs. Tennal as she closed the door.

For six years Mary watched and waited and made discreet inquiries. And in all that time she learned. Dave never took a drink. Last year she allowed him to make weekly visits to see the children.

Finally came an embassy of love, bearing a proposal. It was his eldest son.

"Mamma says that if you want to marry her again that it's all right with her."

So Dave and Mary are honey-mooning again.

The Thirteenth Chair" Enthusiastically Received by Large Audience At Palace Theatre Thursday Evening

To those who believed in the mysterious power of mediums and those who did not—the play given by the Lubbock Little Theatre Thursday evening at the Palace held the same fascination. The tenseness of the audience could be felt from the moment that Edward Wales interrupted the happy scene following the engagement of Helen O'Neill and Will Crosby by begging that the engagement should not be announced for twenty-four hours, till the final curtain. The weird scene which followed the appearance of Rosalie LeGrange, with the incoherent voices of the trances into which she plunged herself, created in atmosphere of intense suspense which was heightened by the murder of Edward Wales.

The interest in the plot was held until the last moment when it was revealed that a hitherto unsuspected character had committed the two murders, and not the daughter of Rosalie.

The play was directed by Mrs. Dana Harmon Trent, whose recognized ability had fine opportunity for display in the mystery drama of last night. The cast was well selected, all the actors showing unusual talent. Indeed, most of them had been proven before this last production and their popularity was one of the features which assured the large audience, which filled the Palace theatre.

Mrs. Joe Flaig gave a much appreciated organ number between the first and second acts and Lubbock's popular "Home Brew Quartette" sang between the second and third acts, receiving hearty applause and very agreeably gave two encores.

Mrs. Wm. D. Green, president of the Little Theatre, graciously thanked the public for the generosity shown, and the business men for their co-operation. Announcement was made of the tournament soon to be held in Dallas, and of the next play to be given in Lubbock, April 8.

In the cast of characters, Miss Julia Mae Cravens had the most difficult role, that of Rosalie LeGrange, her mysterious medium whose power fascinates and baffles the other players, as well as the spectators. She has marked abilities in dramatic work, and did her part well.

In interpreting the part of Helen O'Neill, Mrs. Byron Dickinson displayed unusual charm, and was a graceful and lovely protagonist to Arthur Witt in his whimsical and clever portrayal of the part of Will Crosby.

Mr. Ned Camp starred again as Inspector Donohue, surpassing his character part of farmer in "Nice People" and creating one of the strongest parts in the play.

Miss Della Wilkinson and Mr. Douglas Harrison, taking the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Crosby, gave the atmosphere of stability to the play and both proved excellent actors.

Miss Laura Street played the vase, sceptical, modern young woman, Mary Eastwood, and Miss Edith Carter was charming as Grace Standish.

An especial word of praise must be given Misses Ruth Slaton and Mildred Street, who appeared at Helen Trent and Elizabeth Erskine with less than thirty hours time to learn the parts. They showed all the voice of daily practice for weeks, and were indispensable to the success of the play.

Mr. Byron Dickinson played the dual role of Edward Wales and Donohue to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

Louis Price, as Will Standish, Horace Nelms as Mr. Trent, and Ross McWhorter as Philip Mason, left nothing to be desired as to stage presence or acting ability.

Mr. Floyd Smith as Potlock, the butler, gave the needed touch of laughter, and Guy Pierce as Sergeant Dunne was the indispensable ally of Inspector Donohue.

Altogether, the acting was excellent, the settings unusually good and the costumes particularly beautiful.

While it could not be in justice to the former play be said that the Little Theatre is doing better work, still all are delighted with the play and are looking forward to even greater successes in the future.

applique Makes a Fashionable Trim.

This design calls for three yards of fat crepe and one yard of chiffon velvet or crepe satin for the applique motifs. A great deal of time may be saved by buying embellished medallions and using them instead of the applique. A fashionable touch is also to have the motifs of gold or silver kid.

The diagram shows how pin tucks are used to hold in the edges of the waistline. First fold the dress at the side where the seam is attached, then take three short tucks on either side of the seam, stitching from the inside. Make the tucks from 1/4 to 1/2 of an inch wide and about three and one-half inches long. About 1/2 of an inch apart, make a nice creasing. In order to prevent the tucks from ripping out, pull up the threads and tie them neatly on the reverse side of the work.

The neck is finished with a round collar bound with the material employed for the applique motifs. There is also a tie-string whose ends are ornamented with the applique work.

The fullness of the sleeves is introduced only below the elbow.

A Dress of Commanding Style
The straightest of frocks are made picturesque by novel trimmings this season. This model in crepe is embellished with motifs of chiffon velvet which may be replaced by satin, if preferred.

A straight line is the shortest cut to smartness this season. Many of the smartest one-piece dresses are slightly molded to the figure at the waistline, flaring below the hips.

Ladies and Misses Dress No. 102, cut in sizes 14 to 16 years and 18 to 40 inches bust, will be mailed postpaid upon receipt of 10 cents. Be sure to give correct number and size of pattern desired and enclosing. Write name and address plainly. Send order to Pattern Editor, The Dressmaker.

PEOPLE TURNING TO DIVERSIFICATION ON THE SOUTH PLAINS

SLATON, Jan. 28.—There seems to be both state and national interest over increased farm diversification. At no time in the history of our state has the attention of average life been turned toward that far-reaching diversified farm program. Slaton's Commercial club directed by J. J. Ross its secretary is planning and putting over one of the most extensive diversified farm program ever undertaken on the plains. There will be organized sub units in every community and it will be the purpose of all these units to meet together once a month to study and apply this well prepared program. The slogan of this farm program is more feed, more hogs, more dairy cows, and more chickens and less cotton acreage and increased cotton production per acre, besides all other garden and orchard products for the up keep and maintenance of home life.

The School of Agriculture has taken a great deal of interest in the course. It is in direct line with their study. Most of the students of the school attended most of the lectures yesterday and many more will attend today.

Fish Meeting Tonight
President Bruce Read of the Fish class called a meeting for tonight at 7 o'clock. It will be held in room 306 of the administration building. All members are requested to attend as matters of vast importance will be discussed.

Prof. Ford Addresses Press Club.
At the regular meeting of the Press Wednesday night, Prof. C. L. Ford of the History department gave a very interesting lecture to the members. His theme was in direct line with the study of the club and he chose The Powers of the Press as his subject. The members enjoyed Prof. Ford's talk very much and several stated that it was one of the most interesting and instructive talks heard by the club this year.

The president urged all members to be present at the meetings as the programs will consist of very valuable material.

Spanish Club Meeting Postponed
On account of the inability of several of the members of the Spanish Club to attend the meeting last night, the time has been postponed until a later date. A very interesting program has been prepared and all members are requested to watch for announcements of the next meeting.

All College Party to Entertain
The officials in charge of the first all-college party announced yesterday that special arrangements will be made for the entertainment of the Matador and Buffalo basketball players. The party will begin immediately after the game and a special invitation will be extended to the Teacher Athletes. Everything will be done in order to make them feel at home.

Ministers Visit College
Several ministers of the surrounding towns were here yesterday to attend the funeral of Rev. Clements of this city. While in town they visited the Tech. Rev. Beavers of Canyon was an interested visitor at the college and was well pleased with the state's newest institution. Rev. Lipscomb of Plainview was a visitor on the campus also.

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

Be-r-r! Just as soon as the weather clears up and gets springlike so we can quit shivering, something else has to come along and make us quake in our boots.

That "Thirteenth Chair" last night was quite a wow. In fact we enjoyed it hugely. It was so funny along in the scene, just when everything was so spook like, we heard a tiny, little squeak and nearly jumped out of our seats. We had thought that the Palace was mouse proof.

Oh, say, did you feel that earthquake about 2 o'clock yesterday morning? We didn't either, but there's a supposedly truthful lady out at the old school who almost swears she felt the tremor along about that time. And her belief can't be shaken either. Candidates for the truth society form in line, please.

These school (college) issues of the Tornado are going to commence getting themselves out soon, and we just bet a can opener to the hole in a doughnut that there's going to be some friendly (maybe otherwise) rivalry between the gangs. Funny part of it will be that it'll be a rather one sided affair. One bunch will have one time, another the next, and so on. Liberal arts will have it first, and from what we understand they're going to rather pour it on the rest of the gang. Whoops! But the next issue should be "hot."

This afternoon the college cast for the "One Must Marry" play will leave for Spur, where the play will be given tonight. They've got a dandy good program all arranged; two one-act plays, music, readings and all such. They are to return Saturday, bringing as much of Spur as will come along.

Tomorrow evening though is when the fireworks comes off. The W. A. A. girls are sponsoring the all-Tech party at the college. With that gang in behind things everything in general should hum and it's just as liable as not to do that very thing.

Our English class yesterday had quite a bit of fun. Looked rather like some of the students were trying out for English instructors' jobs, as several of them were teachers during the period. We got to be "it" once, and just had the biggest times, getting back at our desire to question the teacher like "it" had questioned us.

And oh, yes! A certain Spanish teacher we know took unusual or at least unexpected, action as the result of a "holesale" cut the other day. A class got tired of waiting for said teacher to appear and walked. As a result as many individual cuts were registered as there were individuals in the class. Humph!

Funniest thing! While we were attending rehearsal of the "One Must Marry" play the other night at a preacher's residence a couple from out of town came in and really got married. We're not going to say what the effect was on the cast of the play—let you guess that for yourself. It was a funny situation, however, and quite out of the ordinary.

Freshmen girls are all busy these past days in ordering their caps. They're not going to let the old boys outdo them in school loyalty, so they are going to set their heads covered in the same style. Maybe.

Concert band has been playing, does play, and will play. They're getting so up-town now that they do have regular engagements to play now. For Saturday night for instance, they are going to play for the W. A. A. party out at the old mule barn. Just thought we'd tell you so you would not think some of the stock had got loose and were frightened.

Flagg Will Be Formally Opened Next Sunday

HEREFORD, Jan. 28.—The new community church at Castro county's infant city, Flagg, will be formally opened next Sunday, Jan. 31, and a large number of people are expected to attend. Colonel C. T. Herring of Amarillo, who started the town, and owner of the Flagg ranch, is expected to bring a number of Amarillo people for the opening services.

The Reverend Joseph Bozarth of Canyon, Presbyterian Sunday school missionary, will preach the opening sermon in the new community church. The Flagg church was financed by popular subscription, and the money was raised in a few days time, so enthusiastic were the people of that fast growing community for a place to worship.

HEREFORD'S MAMMOTH HATCHERY TO BEGIN OPERATIONS FEB. 1ST.

HEREFORD, Jan. 28.—Hereford's mammoth hatchery is scheduled to begin operations next Monday, February 1, and this event is expected to be a milestone in the development of the poultry industry in Deaf Smith county. H. H. Hawkins, owner of the New Golden Rule Hatchery is planning an inspection trip to the new plant for all those in attendance at the I. H. C. Short Course meeting. The caravan will leave the court house at 4 o'clock, or immediately following the afternoon session. Farmers and business people will have a chance to see the big hatchery machine in operation, and can have a look at the breeding flock that is kept at the new plant. Cars will be arranged for all the visitors and everyone is urged to make the inspection trip.

The mammoth hatchery was installed recently by H. H. Hawkins, and is attracting the attention of poultrymen all over this section. The

DEVELOPMENTS OF AGRICULTURE GETS ATTENTION AT CLYDE

CLYDE, Texas, Jan. 28.—The Clyde Chamber of Commerce has mapped out a very extensive program for 1926 for both civic and agricultural development. The program is as follows: Paving North First street, and opening a crossing on the railroad near the Citizens Gin; moving the stock pens beyond the city limits; the consolidation of rural schools with the Clyde high school. Installation of waterworks and sewerage systems, and providing water supply for fire protection. Erection of a new hotel, and securing a new telephone system.

The secretary, Homer Shanks, has written the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that they will also put more land into cultivation in Callahan County this year; plant more fruit trees; and endeavor to get better seed selection and fertilization. Committees have been appointed to outline plans for carrying the different projects to conclusion.

WHITEHEAD CHOSEN TO MANAGE THE HEREFORD BASE BALL TEAM

Special to Avalanche.

HEREFORD, Jan. 28.—Chas. Whitehead, local business man and an enthusiastic base ball supporter, was unanimously selected to manage Hereford's summer base ball team for the coming season at a meeting Tuesday night in the district court room with a good crowd of baseball aspirants and fans in attendance.

Whitehead urged the local people to support him in his undertaking. His word to the players was that he would take charge of the team with the understanding that he would be in absolute control of the work, and that they would all support him by practicing regularly and by taking

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities and proclaimed by the people as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your any position on the field he might choose. In other words, Whitehead will be boss of the boys, and the players will move like checkers just as he directs. With his past experience as a player and as a manager, Whitehead should be able to build a team that will do credit to Hereford.

The question of securing uniforms for the players was discussed at the meeting and a committee composed of Chas. Galbreath, T. B. Moss and Ralph Smith, to work out a system of raising finances for the equipment for the club. It is believed that the team will be self supporting just as seen as the playing season opens, if the boys receive the right kind of support.

According to reports Whitehead will have a wealth of material with which to work. Two or three men have already announced for the receiving position. Tate and Galbreath, mainstays of last year's pitching staff will be out for the twirling job. Jones, a new man who comes here with a good reputation will also try out for the pitching work. Competition for all the infield positions will be keen, and reports show that the garden positions will be hotly contested.

ADOLPHUS HOTEL AT DALLAS UNDERGOES BIG IMPROVEMENTS

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 28.—Improvements costing $200,000 are now being installed in the power plant at the Adolphus Hotel here preparatory to serving the new annex which opens shortly, giving the establishment a total of 825 rooms.

Two new 250-kilowatt generators will give the hotel plant a total capacity of 1250 kilowatts per hour. The generators are steam driven.

A new 600-cubic foot, two-stage, steam-driven Worthington air compressor, recently put into place, pumps water for the hotel from its three private artesian wells. One well, just completed, furnishes 300 gallons of water per minute. Two large storage tanks on the roof permits storage of water during the night against the maximum early-morning demand of 900 gallons of water per minute.

The hotel management says four refrigerating machines with a total refrigerating capacity of 150 tons per day, will be installed before summer.

About Monuments

Place your order with us and you will not have to worry, each order that is placed with us is executed with the idea of making this particular monument an advertisement for other sales, and the idea works.

Some of our very best orders are coming to us as the direct result of some sale that we made years ago to some friend or neighbor of the buyer.

Hadn't you rather deal with a firm of this kind than some peddler that you know little about, and likely nothing whatever about the house he represents? Our prices are no higher, usually less, than the transient peddler, and when the work comes it's always right.

GOOD ROADS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

William Connell, engineering executive of the Pennsylvania Highway Commission and retiring President of the American Road Builders' Association, told members of that body at their recent convention in Chicago that "Pennsylvania today is operating on a basis that the user pays all costs for constructing and maintaining the State highway system. Motor license receipts and proceeds from the gasoline tax are used exclusively for highway purposes, and these funds pay the entire costs of all construction and maintenance, as well as all departmental salaries and wages—in fact, all highway expenses including interest and sinking fund charges on bonds issued." Mr. Connell states that practically $1,630,000,000 is saved in the United States in motor vehicle operating costs as a result of the construction of 133,000 miles of hard-surface roads and 153,000 miles of gravel roads, a total of 286,000 miles since 1904. These figures don't take into consideration the saving in time. In the United States, while motor car owners save $1,630,000,000 stated by Mr. Connell, in operating costs due to the construction of gravel and hard surfaced roads they paid only $420,000,000 in 1925 in motor vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes, leaving a net saving of $1,210,000,000. Meanwhile the increased value of real estate along these highways and suburban districts is more than double all the original costs. When it is considered that there are about 3,000,000 miles of roads in the United States and only about 430,000 miles of which are surfaced with gravel or better, it is evident that this business is still in its infancy.

CONTROL OF THE AIR

The question of radio control is centering about the formation of a commission, not only to regulate radio but telephone, telegraph and cable service as well. As an aftermath of the sixty-million-dollar suit against big radio interests by Prof. Fessenden of Tufts College for alleged restraint of trade, the impression that a monopoly of the air is contemplated is growing among Congressmen. The nation-wide hook-ups of large stations indicates a movement on foot to run smaller broadcasters off the air, and it is feared that within five years the little fellow will be lost.

Every state but Nevada now has at least one broadcasting station and the suggestion that one way length be reserved for each state seems to meet general approval and is endorsed by most of the Radio Associations. The bill creating a Communications Commission introduced by Representative Wallace J. White, Jr., of Maine will not only make this possible, but will also include anti-monopoly provisions. Hearings on the bill have been closed and the Committee recommendation will soon be before Congress.

HIGH TAXES AND LIVING COSTS

The National Industrial Conference Board produces a governmental balance sheet that is of interesting study. The total cost of government in 1924 was $10,252,000,000 compared with $2,919,000,000 for the year 1913. It also shows that during 1924 Federal government expenditures were reduced 10.6 per cent., but state and local governments increased expenditures by 7.6 per cent., leaving a net increase of $107,000,000. High costs of government contribute directly to the high cost of living. As a result of war inflation the limit on values was only the amount the purchaser could or would pay. Industry contended that the high cost of living was, and is due to high wages, and the late President Harding established the slogan "back to normalcy" which has been construed to mean lower wages. The wage earner refuses to accept lower pay while the landlord demands high rents. And the landlord in turn points to a high tax rate and high construction and maintenance costs as his reasons for insisting upon his share. It is so all along the line. Just where is deflation and economy to begin? The department of Labor states that the highest paid mechanic in the United States is the printer. His average earnings for the past year amounted to about $37.00 per week. The New York State Department shows that for the four weeks of February, 1925, the average earning of all men employed in all industries of that great state, was less than $28 per week. Can he live on less and pay his bills? This is a peculiarly serious question in view of the fact that the great body of commodity consumers have mortgaged their earnings for 1926 to the amount of seven thousand millions of dollars to installment houses. The economic "perfect balance" is sadly out of tune. As Forbes says: "Business can't have its cake and eat it too." The beginning of deflation should be at the top—by Federal, State and local governments—and work downward, rather than at the bottom working upward.

FARM RELIEF

More than 200 bills and resolutions proposing "farm relief" legislation have been introduced in Congress. Scores more are expected before the spring recess. Most of the measures call for some form of government control or price fixing and involve appropriations amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars. Most of the bills are for political purposes, which perhaps explains why 95 per cent of these measures have been offered in the house. Not over a dozen of the entire number will reach the floor for consideration in either house but the "folks back home" will know that their representative is "on the job."

SHIPS AND SHIPPING

According to Lloyd's Register Great Britain's shipbuilding output in 1925 was 2 1/2 times that of Germany, seven times that of Italy, eight times that of the United States, 12 times that of Holland, 13 times that of France, 14 times that of Denmark and 18 times that of Japan. Great Britain also built 10 out of a total of 15 vessels of over 15,000 tons each launched in the world last year. The total tonnage, however, was only 2,000,000 compared with 7,000,000 launched in 1919. No one has yet explained the real reason why British shipping should maintain such a lead over American shipping in spite of the billions that we have squandered to establish an American Marine. It would be interesting to know the whicness of the coon in the woodpile.

FRENCH DEBT AGAIN

Senator Henri Berenger, ambassador of the French republic to the United States has come to take up the threads of the negotiations that were dropped when Joseph Caillaux returned to France in October, meet his political doom. Present indications are that the ultimate debt settlement between the United States and France will be on terms more favorable to France than the terms proposed by Joseph Caillaux in October which were rejected by the American debt 200,000,000 of principal and accrued interest that France owes the United States should be paid in 62 annual installments beginning at $40,000,000 for the first five years, then advancing to $60,000,000 annually and finally reaching the considerable sum of $100,000,000 by 1967. The settlement with Italy has been the subject of bitter criticism in Congress and outside. Under the agreement Italy is to pay us the principal of the debt in full but on such easy terms and over so long a period that it practically amounts to a cancellation of 75 percent of the debt. Mr. Mellon says that is all that Italy can pay that is all that we could get whatever the terms. France now takes the position that she is not as well able to pay as is Italy and so long as France continues to carry on two wars of aggression that will continue to be true. After all, of what use are paper promises which cannot be lived up to? American taxpayers will have to pay the bill in the end.

AN 80-CENT LAW SUIT

When the government aided the Northern Pacific and other western railroads by loans and gifts of every other land section, it was stipulated that the government should have the use of these roads for governmental transportation without cost, or at rates below those charged to private citizens. Since 1892 the rates paid by the government for transporting military property or troops over these roads has been 50 per cent of the current tariffs for freight and passenger carrying. The original line of the Northern Pacific was shortened by the construction of two cut-offs comprising 53 miles of non-land grant road and all through trains are routed over these cut-offs.

A Marine Sergeant traveled from St. Paul to Seattle for which the railroad rendered a bill of $33.09. The accounting department in Washington held that the charge should have been made on the fullest possible use of land mileage and sent a check for $32.29. The railroad has appealed from the decision of the Controller-General and brought suit to recover the 80 cents. Inasmuch as a decision in this particular case forms the basis of an issue that involves many millions of dollars, a long legal battle is inevitable. The question involved is how far the government may continue to get returns from the grants of land made in the nature of subsidies. According to a sworn statement by one of its officials, the Northern Pacific alone received public lands that were worth more than $107,000,000 and a congressional committee held that the lands received by that road were worth more than $156,000,000 while the construction of the road did not exceed $70,000,000 in cost. Other land grants roads fared equally as well, and will do likewise.

Owing to the war there is a large surplus of women in Germany between the ages of 18 and 45 whose chances of marriage are estimated to be one in five. Several women's organizations have joined in a demand made to the government marriage bureau to set aside one week of each year when it shall be their privilege to propose. There is no law against women exercising this prerogative if the opportunity presents itself, because marriage is, or should be, a partnership affair, and the barrier of custom will some day be completely obliterated by common consent.

The Cleveland Board of Education, by a vote of 6 to 1, decided that military training of high school students is not essential to either their health or their education, and the system will be discontinued by next June. The Federation of women's clubs, Congress of Mothers and Parents and Teachers' Associations, backed by the Ministers' Association, are responsible for this action, which will no doubt be followed by many other cities.

Stop, Look, and Think!

SO THINK WE

We think the number thirteen might be considered an unlucky number when it is composed of twelve jurors and one judge.

We think the man that holds by the right will double his might in any community. Stand for the right in Lubbock and see what a strong community this will become.

We think that after Col. Mitchell was convicted by the naval board, that after all he may have told some great truth about the navy and air departments. That does not seem to have been unbecoming for him to say it.

We think it takes a smart man to listen to half a dozen women all trying to tell him something at one time, and still retain their friendship, or escape being called rude or impolite after the conversation at all over.

We think it used to be that men married because they loved the girl that they sought to make their wife, and the girl expected to help him build a home, but in this day of flats and apartments, she usually merely helps him to spend his salary, a thing that he hardly needed any help on.

We think there should be no divorce court. But before that is abolished there should be a rule among decent people that there be no marrying until the couple has at least known the bride twenty-four hours.

We think the main question now among the people of Texas is did Jim let the road contracts?

We think some men lose control of their car when they fail to meet a couple of payments on it.

We think the dry laws of the United States are bad, but we have not found that they will equal the old wet laws yet from the point of abomination.

We think that diversification and intensification will settle the crop problems of this country, and the farmers will be prosperous and happy and the balance of us will go merrily along.

We think newspapers make a great many mistakes, and they get things mixed up pretty badly, but if you want to know just how easily it is to get stories mixed, just get out and try to run down one of the important stories of the day. Start early and continue all day and see how many different reports you get on it.

We think you do not fool many people. They know pretty well whether you can afford to live the way you do.

We think that some women seem to dress ahead of their husbands salary, just to make hubby work a little harder and try to earn a little more money.

We think that the man who lets anything get the best of him should certainly let that thing alone, makes no difference what it may be.

IT IS REPORTED

That more than a million automobile license plates have been sold in Texas for 1926.

That the Lynn county farmers as a general rule are in better condition this year than the average year shows.

That there are still a number of people who have not paid their automobile licenses, and still more have not paid their poll tax. Only two more days to do this.

That one husband says that his wife is a source of annoyance to him except when she is mad. We imagine that such a man as that would have his wife mad all the time.

That Lovington is soon to have another physician.

That Bledsoe, out on the west end of the Santa Fe west from Lubbock has a brand new Chamber of Commerce, and it's full of pep.

It is reported that a certain Lubbock man recently got stung by a fake salesman for five hundred dollars, and it was found that he was the same fellow that told the Avalanche solicitor recently that he had no time to read newspapers.

It is reported that the janitors in the court house and the post-office, will very likely ask for a raise of wages if the weather does not open up, so old battle axe can get out side to spit. We cannot see how any man who chews tobacco could pass through the lobby of the post-office and ever be able to take another bit of any kind of chewing tobacco.

That murder will out, and so will Texas prisoners some times

DINNER STORIES

In Arkansas they tell of a certain farmer who, being in hard luck, got the job of postmaster to help out. After a while complaints were made that no mail was sent out from his office. So Washington sent an inspector to investigate the matter. He asked the postmaster why no mail had been sent out; whereupon that functionary pointed to a big and nearly empty mail bag hanging on a hook in the corner and replied: "I ain't sent it out because the bag ain't nowhere near full yet."

Little Billy, four-year-old actor, was sent to kindergarten. For a few days things went along all right but one morning he went home so early that his mother knew school could not possibly be out. "Why Billy," she demanded, "how is it that you've come home so early—are you ill?"

"No, I have quit," said the little fellow. "You've quit," exclaimed his astonished mother. "You go right back this minute." "What's the use of going back?" sobbed Billy. "They had a fire drill and I don't want to be a fireman—I'm a screen star."

Pat was called into court to testify to a talk that he had had with the defendant in a civil suit, and everything went along as swimmingly as a flock of buffaloes until the lawyer attempted to bring out the important points of the conversation. "No, then Pat," said he encouragingly, "please tell the court what you and the defendant talked about." "Yes, sir," answered Pat, willing. "We talked about fifteen minutes." "No, no no," interposed the lawyer. "I mean, what did you and the defendant talk over?" "Yes, sir," was the calm rejoinder of Pat. "We talked over the telephone, sir."

Annoyed by the continual coughing, Judge Grenwell of St. Paul ordered three women and a man from the courtroom.

TIMELY VIEWS OF WORLD TOPICS

"Farmers Must Control Crop Surplus or Face Ruin," Says Ex-Governor Lowden

That a way must be found to control crop surplus if farmers are to be saved from ruin, is the belief of ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois, who is frequently mentioned as a potential corn and wheat belt candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1928.

"The nation that holds a crop surplus to be conserved against lean years is the richer for having it," says Lowden. "Industry is a plan the better for the future if it knows in advance that we shall have enough of food and raw materials. The farmer asks why, if this seasonal surplus is a good thing for every one else, it should result in a loss to him."

Should Be Used Prudently "The nation should employ this abundance wisely and prudently. It should hold sufficient for its own needs as against a less fruitful time, and it should aim to dispose of the surplus beyond that in the market."

W. G. Skelly, oil man, of Tulsa, Okla., sued for $75,000 for beating his butler, declared that if he hit him "there was probably good and sufficient reason."

MEAT LOAF

I do not mind an Irish stew I like a good New England dinner. Most any food I'm glad to chew. To no so menu-card I'd pin her. I take her make-shift meals with a grin. For I'm man enter strong and able. But I rebel whenever I see Meat loaf upon our dinner table.

Ment loaf has many friends, I know. It has a very ancient history. Our great grandmothers long ago Fashioned this solid kitchen mystery. With tender hands they shaped its sides. Bricks without straw! there's nothing to it! Old ladies teach the tricks to brides. Meat loaf is proof that they can.

Buffaloes Romp to Victory Over Daniel Baker Hill Billies By Forty Five To Twenty Four

Special to The Advance.

CANYON, Jan. 28.—Although playing only the third game of the season the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes romped away to a 45 to 24 victory over Daniel Baker Hill Billies. At no time was the result in doubt, the Buffaloes showing marked improvement over their playing of last night when they were lucky to win despite the fact that Crump, the Buffalo scoring ace, was put out of the game in the second half. The Buffaloes continued scoring with remarkable regularity. Reeves who substituted for Crump played stellar ball. Hill, all conference guard, was also put out of the game on personal fouls. McVickers, who took Hill place, showed real form in covering the Hill Billy forwards.

Perhaps the greatest sensation of the evening was the remarkable playing of the experienced Lower Buffalo center. Lowes was playing with a sprained ankle, but was able despite the handicap to amass a total of 11 points. High point honors were divided between Hale, Buffalo captain, and Crump, his running mate. Chambers, Hill Billy forward, seemed to have lost the proverbial shoe that he seemed to have been carrying in last night's game when he threw 6 goals for a total of 12 points. He only made 5 points in tonight's game.

The Buffaloes leave Canyon Friday for Plainview, where they will play the Wayland College Jackrabbits, after which they go on to Lubbock, meeting the Texas Tech Red Raiders Saturday night, returning to Canyon where they meet the McMurray Indians in a two game series Feb. 3 and 4.

The game tonight was witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever packed Buffalo gymnasium.

POLITICAL PIE IS REALLY WORTH WHILE

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

United News Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Wallace McCamant, the man who shared the claim of having put Calvin Coolidge in the White House, has come here to show away several tough old political chickens that are roosting on his doorstep and preventing him from receiving the reward for his service to the president.

McCamant will appear before the senate judiciary committee Friday to answer charges raised by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, against his appointment as a circuit judge of the ninth circuit, which embraces the Pacific coast and inter-mountain states.

This Portland, Oregon lawyer, stepped the republican national convention of 1920 into nominating Coolidge for vice president after the senatorial caucus had selected Senator Leonard of Wisconsin to be Harding's running mate. So when President Coolidge appointed him as circuit judge, McCamant's friends in the senate would confirm him in accordance with the custom toward repayment of political obligations.

But meanwhile Hiram Johnson rounded up McCamant's wandering poultry and when it was assembled before the senate in closed session the nomination was referred back to the judiciary committee that the candidate might have an opportunity to explain.

Everyone is familiar with Johnson's claim that McCamant, instructed under the Oregon primary to support Johnson at the Chicago nominating convention, voted for Leonard Wood. McCamant declares he asserted a lie several times before the primary that he would never vote for Johnson, that the Oregon primary law was not binding and that therefore there was no fraud in his ignoring the preference indicated by the voters for Johnson.

Although this old grudge fight has its share in the opposition to McCamant, it was the story of the Pacific Spruce Corporation deal, laid before the senate in secret session, that caused the nomination to be sent back to committee for more thorough scrutiny and to give McCamant an opportunity to explain.

As it comes from opponents of McCamant, the story of this deal is that McCamant assisted in organizing and acted as counsel for the Pacific Spruce Corporation which bought for $2,000,000 the timber sheds, tracks, terminals and other equipment of the government's war time spruce corporation. The equipment alone was valued at $3,000,000 and the timber at perhaps $8,000,000. In addition to getting the property at this low price, the McCamant syndicate paid only $50,000 down and two per cent interest on the unpaid balance. The company estimated it would earn 49 per cent on its common stock and would pay off the total cost of the investment in five years.

But the feature that brought the deal under most criticism was the event whereby the government retained title to the property for 10 years, thus leaving it tax free. This meant a saving of $30,000 a year, the company estimated. The two per cent saved it $500,000 it estimated.

SHEEP AND CATTLE RAISERS ARE BATTLING

MONT ROSE, Colo., Jan. 28.

The ancient feud between the cattleman and sheepman, basis of a hundred thrilling tales of the old west, still smolders here. Only the timely arrival of a sheriff's party here Thursday afternoon prevented the hatred from bursting again into open warfare.

Mont Rose county and the vicinity always has been a cattle country, where branded herds were allowed to roam at will. Then the sheep raisers, searching for greener pastures, began to drive their flocks over the public grazing lands. The cattle resented this as an infringement of their "rights."

The feud grew more bitter until Thursday, when fifty armed and mounted enemies of the sheep herds surrounded a small flock of sheep and threatened to drive them from the grazing lands. Then the sheep men surrounded cattlemen, threatening "action, and plenty of it" if their stock was driven from the range.

The arrival of the sheriff and his deputies averted a pitched battle and won a bloodless victory for the cowboys. The sheep are being withdrawn from the public lands.

MANY PEOPLE PRESENT FOR FIRST FARMER SHORT COURSE

that the success of the Farmer Short Course is wholly dependent upon the people of the community in which it is presented, and that while it is well to attend all sessions and to give attention to the remarks that are made, the course will be an absolute failure if those who attend return to their homes and fail to put into actual practice the things they will have heard at the close of the sessions.

Neglected Orchards Are Profitless
Mr. Hawkins stated that one had better have 30 well cared for fruit trees than 100 neglected ones, emphasizing the fact that the number of trees does not enter so largely into the value of an orchard as the quality of fruit each tree will produce.

He insisted that farmers give their orchards a good chance to supply the family table with fruit, urging selection of a good location on the farm for the orchard, preparation of land, planting of only thrifty trees, selection of proper varieties, keep roots from drying, see that good soil is placed about the roots of every tree planted and to prune the tops of young trees.

Guard Against Diseased Nursery Stock
Diseases of nursery stock must be guarded against in every possible manner if successful growing of trees is enjoyed, Mr. Hawkins declared.

He insisted that in planting, care should be taken to see that roots are not crowded, and that special care be given newly planted trees. "The trees usefulness depends on the first year of its life, and neglect of an orchard during its early life can't be overcome," Mr. Hawkins said.

Since leaves are the lungs of trees care to save them by spraying should be taken during their first years. Spraying is also necessary to keep fruit clean and protected against insect life.

Mr. Hawkins' talk was instructive throughout and it was regretted that he did not have more time to continue his discussion.

Mrs. Gordon W. Randlett's discussion of "Household Conveniences" was not altogether confined to the material things about the home, but discussed farm life as a huge partnership in which father, mother and all the children are engaged.

Her sound argument favoring co-operation of all members of the family in making mother's work easier was well received.

Mrs. Randlett declared that the best thing to do in making one's work easy is to be pleased with one's surroundings and to make the very best of what material things one has to work with.

She pointed out kitchen arrangements that are designed to lessen work, emphasizing the fact that poorly arranged kitchens are time wasters. "Headwork lightens house work," Mrs. Randlett said.

The afternoon session of the program was especially enjoyed by all due to the fact that the community singing, lead by Prof. W. R. Wagborne, fitted well into the mood of those in attendance after they had enjoyed the luncheon which was served by the chamber of commerce.

A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, was the first speaker for the afternoon session and declared that the business men of Lubbock are elated over the large attendance that had been accorded the short course.

He stated that it is all too often that such schools as that being conducted by the International Harvester Company people do not reach those who are wanted most, but that the enthusiasm that had been shown in the program features earlier in the day proved beyond any doubt that the course will be valuable to the South Plains.

Mrs. Gordon W. Randlett, whose appearance on the morning program gave her much popularity with the short course crowds, spoke in the afternoon on "Food for the Family," emphasizing the importance of growing gardens.

Cattle Growth is Demonstrated
D. L. Jones, superintendent of the agricultural experiment station here, talked on "Fifteen Years of Cotton Growing on the South Plains," which was illustrated with growing plants.

Thirty stages of plant development were shown, from germination upward.

"The Farmer's Cow," was discussed by E. T. Ebersol, a dairy expert with the International Harvester Company.

Moving picture reels showing "The Making of a Good Cow," and "Milk, Nature's Perfect Food," were shown.

Evening Program Drawn Crowd
Lovers of entertainment filled the spacious church auditorium to capacity in the evening.

Music was lead by Prof. Wagborne, several selections were given by a local quartet operating under the firm name of U. R. Bum & Company.

L. A. Hawkins gave splendid instructions in "Beautifying Our Home Grounds," following which a moving picture reel, "Late and Early," was shown.

MAN INJURED IN GIN LIKELY RECOVER

H. M. (Boots) Bryant, following serious injuries sustained in a gin at Lockney yesterday afternoon is resting well in a Plainview hospital at this time. At first it was thought his injuries were of a very serious nature, though attending nurses stated at an early hour this morning his chances for recovery were good.

Sports Done Brown
Verily, these be big times in the baseball world on old Manhattan island, and its environs, because of uncertain and unsettled conditions in the camp of the Giants and the Dodgers.

Unless Herculean efforts to straighten out the tangle fail utterly, there will be a change of ownership at both the Polo grounds and Ebbets Field before 1926 has run much of its course.

It seems that President Charles Stoneham is discouraged by the lack of attendance at the Polo grounds, has grown tired of the game and desires to step out, and Muggsy McGraw shares the same feelings.

However, Francis McQuade, treasurer of the club, is the fly in the ointment, if he might be termed such, for the reason that Stoneham cannot sell without the consent of both McQuade and McGraw and the former is putting a stiff price on his block of stock.

It was reported that a certain syndicate, which had the approval of the National League, was ready to take over the Giants any time but are compelled to wait until they find out what McQuade intends to do.

Across the Brooklyn bridge there seems to be some sort of a battle.

between the Ebbets heirs and S. W. McKeever, vice president and treasurer of the Dodgers. The latter controls 50 per cent of the stock and says he will buy out the Ebbets if possible. This coupled with the statement that he will will his share of the club to his daughter and other relatives, indicates that he wants the Dodgers to stay in the McKeever family.

Added to this is dissatisfaction on the part of other stockholders over the managerial capacity of Uncle Wilbert Robinson. They say he used poor judgment in buying players and did other things last year detrimental to the team, so they are crying for his scalp.

Just how the matter will end no one seems to know, not even those most vitally concerned.

We hardly think that any of the star American golfers will become unduly excited over Abe Mitchell's recent challenge for a match over 72 holes during the coming season.

WORKMAN INJURED IN FALL FROM BUILDING

J. T. McKee, of the International Weatherstrip Company, suffered a painful but not fatal injury when he fell from the Elmo Wall building on Avenue I, at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning.

McKee was rushed to the West Texas Hospital in a Hogan-Burrows Ambulance, where an X-ray examination revealed that he suffered a severe fracture of his right hip joint, his right arm was broken and serious and painful injuries were inflicted about his right side.

McKee was working on the second floor of the building when he under estimated the strength of materials laying cross wise on the joists below which he was working, and upon throwing his entire weight on these materials, they broke and he fell to the concrete floor below.

He will recover, according to physicians at the West Texas hospital.

KIWANIANS ENJOY THEIR WEEKLY LUNCHEON

The postponement of the Lubbock Kiwanis club Luncheon yesterday in order that members of the club serving on the Farmers Short Course committees would not be hampered in their good work, did not keep a large number of the members from getting their usual Thursday knife and fork exercise, according to Secretary Claude Bitrus.

Garland Woodward, president of the club, Past President, W. C. Rylander, and others of the members took a sudden ambition to get the best there was from the Short Course at about the noon hour yesterday, Secretary Brewer reported.

PRINCE SUFFERING FROM SECOND TUMBLE

BY CHARLES M. McCANN
LONDON, Jan. 28.—Prince of Wales probably will not ride again for nearly a year as a result of his fifteenth tumble in five years of hunting to hounds and steeple chasing. Sore but safe in St. James Palace, Wales is nursing a deeply fractured left collar bone as a memento of his second hunting accident in 24 hours. A few bruises and perhaps a deep disgust add to and perhaps a deep disgust add to Wales was thrown from his horse Thursday, on the yonder side of a high straight rail fence. The field beyond the fence was three feet lower than the take off area and the royal mount stumbled. Prince Henry was among the riders to the thirty hounds whose hunt Wales was honoring at the time.

"Absolutely satisfactory," was all his physicians would say of the prince's condition after he had arrived in London for examination. No ball-time will be lost.

"I'm not hurt," the Prince said as he was picked up. "I know what it is, I've done it before," and he had. In 1924 Wales broke his other collar bone in a fall.

Jerry Clements Believes 1926 Building Year

Jerry J. Clements, local building contractor who is now rushing work on the four buildings for E. P. Norwood, and who did as much building in Lubbock during 1925 perhaps as any other one man, stated yesterday that in his opinion the greatest building boom ever witnessed in Lubbock will be carried on through 1926.

Clements declared that building permits this year given to private business and residence builders, will far exceed the permits for 1925, and points to the fact that with work started on the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building on Broadway and the numerous residences that have been started here, together with the four Norwood buildings, gives January a sprint up the building road that few had anticipated.

Clements is in touch with a number of proposed projects here, announcement of which has been withheld, and his optimism regarding building prospects for 1926 has convinced his friends that he is probably basing his guess on deflated figures together with his usual confidence in Lubbock and the territory surrounding the city.

At any rate the sky line will be materially cluttered up when the new hotel, now under construction, has been completed and when other buildings which have been planned, are completed.

SENATORS TO OPEN DISCUSSION ON REVENUE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United News Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The sharp plines of difference in the senate on certain phases of tax legislation became apparent only a few minutes after the revenue measure was taken up. The time taken for airing this difference halted any progress on the bill for the day.

The clerk had hardly begun to read the ponderous document to the handful of senators who were assembled to listen to a discussion of such a subject as taxes after the dramatic world court debate, when he was interrupted by members who wanted to express their views. The exchange was frequently spirited despite the small attendance.

The opening speech of Chairman Smoot of the finance committee and the interruptions to his analysis of the bill and those speeches which followed throughout discussion of virtually every point at issue, including estate taxes, publicity, nuisance taxes, amount of total reduction and the time which should be allowed for consideration.

It became evident that every effort would be made to rush the measure should complete the bill by February 10, putting aside as impractical a suggestion of Senator Norris of Nebraska, that the time of payment of first tax installments be advanced to April 15 in order that more time would be given to consideration.

There were indications of the fight to come over publicity in a discussion of the disclosures made by the Couzens committee which investigated the internal revenue.

The results of the Couzens investigation show the evils of secrecy in government," Norris told the senate. "If only the people of this country would read the committee's report, it would be shocked to know what has been going on in the conduct of this country's business behind closed doors."

Repeal of many nuisance taxes is provided in an amendment presented Thursday by Senator Harrison, who insisted in a speech in the senate that the tax reduction should be $500,000,000 instead of $325,000,000 as the senate bill carries.

Democrats gave notice through Harrison and Simmons, they would oppose increase of the corporation tax from 12 1/2 to 13 1/2 per cent as voted by republican members of the committee.

FINANCIAL REPORT
BY TODD W. WRIGHT
United News Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The stock market Thursday bore out the contention of the traders that it had suffered all the selling it could stand for the present at least, when prices made ready response to the to the aggressive buying activities of the constructive element.

The principal difference in the advances as compared with those in the various session was that whereas the previous days brisk rallies were principally the result of frantic short covering by traders who had been active in driving prices down Thursday's advances were the result of fresh buying.

The ease with which prices shot up Wednesday restored confidence to a greater degree than even the most optimistic members of the trading fraternity had looked for and the improvement was almost all due to a resumption of construction operations.

Various indications of the nation's current prosperity were held up by those working for higher prices sufficient reason for a general advance in the market.

The earnings reports for the first 45 railroads for the month of December, showing their total net operating income to be $55,782 as compared with $53,691,000 in the same month of 1924, an increase of 4.1 per cent, was hailed as sufficient cause for the advancing prices of the car shares.

Statements from the leading manufacturers of automobiles were so enthusiastic for the outlook for this prime favorite with shares of industries closely allied with the automobile world in correspondingly good demand.

On the other hand the disgruntled bears claimed that even if the present prosperity continued for another six months, as it is generally expected to do, stock prices were high enough.

And the joker who knows the way of the average traders chimes in on the discussion with:

"I don't know what the market is going to do, but I'll wager that the average trader will be selling stocks destined for higher prices and buying those destined for lower prices, just as he has in the past."

LORENZO, Jan. 28.—Taking their second winning over the Ralls eagles in a game that Wednesday night looked like anybody's for every minute of play, the Lorenzo high school team romped into certain possession of the championship of Crosby county.

They will meet the Crosby team Friday night but the outcome of this game will not take them out of the county championship regardless of how the score runs.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Husband's Regeneration in Her Hands

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman, 23 years old, and have two small children. My husband drinks a terrible lot and spends lots of money. He seems to think only of himself, about spending money and thinks I should get along on hardly any at all. I have had people tell me lots of times about other women and how he spends money on them, but when I question him, he gets terribly mad and denies all. I have lived with him four years and have tried to save all I could and have been true to him. I think he likes me well enough but just drinks and is terrible wild. He will tell me he is going on business somewhere and come right back, and he will stay away all night and maybe two or three. I have started to leave several times, but he don't want to see me go. And my mother and sister have thought me such a fool for staying with him this long that I hate to go home to live again and have it thrown up to me. I could forget about it and not be reminded all the time. My sister tells me lots about him, and he seems to like her lots. People have told me about him and her. Shall I leave him or try to stay with him? He always promises that he will do better but always breaks his promises. I see nothing ahead of me but hardship and more children. I love my two little girls and want them to be raised up right. He don't seem to think much of them. Please advise me.

IDA MAY.
Your husband is weak, and needs a strong guiding hand. You should not desert him, until it is evident that kindness and loving attention can do nothing with him. His promises that he will do better show that he wants to get out of the hell he is in, but he is too weak to keep them. Appeal to his better side when he is in a sober and remorseful mood, and tell him how unhappy he is making you and his little girls, and what a terrible life the children face unless he does better. Tactfully induce him to allow you to draw his paycheck and put the money in the bank, restricting his funds so that he can't go off on these sprees. You must wait for an opportunity to do this, for such an appeal to him in an angry moment would only turn him against the idea. Remember that drunkenness is a disease, and must be treated with patience. Forget what "other people" and your mother and sister say, and remember that he is your husband and your charge. And refuse to have any more children until he makes good his reform. Place him on probation in this respect.

PEGGY: It is all right for you to have boy friends, providing you do not allow them to interfere with your school studies. You should not think of getting married until you have finished high school at least. Any way, it appears that the young man is not interested in you. He has not responded to your cards, and it would be silly and out of place for you to phone him. You don't want him to think you are chasing him, do you?

GRACE: If the young man owes you a letter, don't think of writing him and asking why he doesn't answer. His behavior has been so peculiar that he owes you an explanation if not an apology and the next move is up to him. Certainly don't return his letters if you don't hear from him. That is only done where an engagement has existed and then not as often as formerly.

DISCOURAGED AUNT: There are many homes for orphan girls where they will be cared for and educated properly. They are of all denominations, and some are inter-denominational. Consult your pastor.

Bitter Experience Her Teacher.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Perhaps I can help "A WORRIED MOTHER," who wrote to you a few days ago. I was just the same kind of girl. I trust she will read this letter. My mother had never said "no" to me. I was the baby. Not an inch of me was bad, but she thought everything

I said was "smart." The person with that thought must learn by experience that they are NOT smart. When I was 16 I had a fellow year my senior who my mother hated. The first time I heard her say "no" about him, I put my foot down and said "yes." Mother watched and when she caught us on the corner she invited us home and said I had stood on the corner long enough. She used the man with all the courtesy she could. Told him she did not like him, but as we cared for each other she would not stand in our way. He could court me if he wanted, but he must come to our house to do so. That I was only a child and he was old enough to keep our courtship clean and she would expect it of him, and the man who married me must be entirely prepared to make me a living. Mother invited him to return the next evening for dinner. When he came mother and dad used him fine. When he saw he could have me, he called to see me twice. I woke up to find he turned me down. I settled myself. The first thing in my life that I wanted and I couldn't have him. My mother took me in her arms and was my pal. I woke up to the fact that old men don't meet girls in their teens on the corner with the intention of marrying them. So today I give thanks for my mother and her good judgment and that I am a level headed girl holding a responsible position. Men are the last thing on my mind. I also wish to state that no girl would drink or smoke if she really knew it was wrong, but she gets it in her head it's smart.

THE GIRL WHO WOKE UP.
Oh, if there were only more mothers as sensible as your. I, too, hope that "A Worried Mother" sees your letter.

ELMER: You may write me freely, and be confident that your name, and if necessary your letter, will be held in strictest confidence.

ALMOST SIXTEEN: Perhaps the silliness with which your letter is laden is the reason why the young man has lost interest in you. I'd advise you to pay more attention to your studies, and forget about boys for a while.

DIZZY: If all he cares about is kissing, what kind of a husband do you suppose he will make? Don't worry, you're well rid of him. A girl makes no mistake when she refuses to cheapen herself just to hold the acquaintanceship of a young man who isn't, after all, worth knowing.

CURLY TOP, SHORTY AND BLUE EYES: You three girls should be able to have jolly times without having to worry about boys. All three of your letters—mailed in the same envelope—show that you need to think more of your lessons than courtship and marriage.

Many Pastors Take Part in Services For Veteran

Funeral services for Rev. B. A. Clements, who died here Tuesday of pneumonia, were conducted at the district parsonage Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The deceased had been in the Northwest Texas Conference, First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for the past 24 years, and was on the supernumerary list for a period of three or four years because of feeble health.

Glowing tributes to the splendid achievements wrought by him during the long years of active service were spoken by the several ministers who participated in the final rites.

Mrs. P. L. Ferguson, of Lubbock, daughter of the deceased, was joined in mourning the loss of the veteran minister by a host of friends throughout the conference of veterans. Out of town friends attending the service were Mrs. Stokes, of Snyder, and G. M. Laulis, of Floydada. Mrs. Pierson, of Snyder, daughter of the deceased, was here to attend the service.

Presiding Elder D. B. Donk was assisted in conducting the services by Rev. E. E. White, of Lubbock; Rev. O. P. Clark, of Vernon, and Rev. M. M. Beavers, of Canyon City.

Police to Enforce All Regulations Traffic Laws

No late of the Lubbock city traffic ordinances will be slighted in the strict enforcement program launched by T. E. May, chief of police, and as the traffic force has been increased there will be less difficulty in carrying out this program, it was stated at the police office yesterday.

Motor Cop Paul Hardy said yesterday that an average of eight speeders are hauled into police court daily, while numerous other minor violations are given attention.

Automobile users of Lubbock are advised to take greater care in obeying violations of the traffic laws, for the officers have declared that little leniency will be shown in the enforcement program.

New Trackage is Announced For Slaton Yards

SLATON, Jan. 27.—The Santa Fe railroad has just announced that its Chicago office has announced that three hundred car tracks will be constructed in the divisional yards at Slaton with the expenditure of something over $50,000. The new trackage will mean the extension of the yard limits of the Santa Fe from the present Northern limits of the yard almost to the Santa Fe wells. Construction work on this new trackage will be started within the next month.

The hot water boiler washing plant which has been under construction in Slaton to take care of two months and at the present time is just about completed. This new plant was erected at a cost of $60,000; it will be used to wash the boilers of engines with hot water, whereas heretofore they have always been washed with cold water. This new heating plant was all that was needed to make the Slaton shops as modern and complete as any railroad repair works in the entire country; it will enable to workmen clean the engines more thorough-

MORAL OF PEOPLE OF SLATON IS IMPROVING

SLATON, Jan. 28.—The moral of the people and general conditions are greatly improved and far better than all expected immediately after the freeze. Cotton growers have continued to gather far beyond their expectation. There will be something near 9,000 bales ginned during this cotton season against 12,000 in 1924.

The ground has been covered with a heavy blanket of snow for the past eight days which will greatly benefit both the wheat and the land in general. The melting each day and freezing at night opens up the air cells and mulches the surface of the land.

Many farmers will begin at once preparing their lands for another crop.

New Directors For Brownfield C. of C. To Be Named

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 28.—The Chamber of Commerce of this place was called to meeting at the American legion hall on last evening. There was a representative crowd of business and professional men as well as a good number of citizens of the town.

Many matters were up for discussion among the most important were the organization of a Retail Merchants Association to be operated concurrently with the Chamber of Commerce and one secretary serving both, financing the night watchman, the Cemetery Association, and the Brownfield Band. Also the consideration of propositions of oil men at Wichita Falls and Breckenridge to drill test wells near Brownfield.

Chrysler "70" alone combines all these and scores of other attributes joined to a superiority of design and fineness of quality and workmanship, heretofore thought possible only in cars of twice the Chrysler price.

Discriminating men and women are refusing to accept less than Chrysler gives. This extraordinary demand for Chrysler quality and value accounts for the ever-increasing production of the Chrysler "70"—a production which has steadily outgrown expanding factory capacity, and has established for the Chrysler "70" new popularity records for the industry.

We are eager to demonstrate each of these outstanding qualities to you at your convenience.

Education in the Street
What do YOU see when you walk in a crowded street?

Just a lot of humans, a pretty girl here and there, some rushing automobiles, the filth in the gutter? Or many persons, each a walking history of human experience each with wisdom written in his face that is waiting for you to read?

Observation is education. Observation, as Arnold Bennett observed, endows our day and our street with the romantic charm of history, and it is this charm—not the clarity that signs, checkers, but the more general clarity which puts itself to the trouble of UNDERSTANDING.

"One is curious about one's fellow creatures; therefore one watches them. And generally the more intelligent one is, the more curious one is, and the more one observes," Bennett wrote.

"The mere satisfaction of this curiosity is itself a worthy end, and would alone justify the business of systematized observation. But the aim of observation may, and should be, expressed in terms more grandiose.

"Human curiosity counts among the highest social virtues (as indifference counts among the basest defects), because it leads to a disclosure of the causes of character and temperament and thereby to a better understanding of the springs of human conduct.

"Observation is not practiced directly with this end in view (save by priests and other futile souls); nevertheless it is a moral act and must inevitably promote kindness—whether we like it or not."

"It also sharpens the sense of beauty. An ugly deed—such as an act of cruelty—takes on artistic beauty when its origin and hence its fitness in the general scheme begin to be comprehended.

"In the perspective of history we can derive aesthetic pleasure from the tranquil scrutiny of all kinds of conduct—as well, for example, of a Renaissance pope as of a Savonarola."

The condition is that the observer must never lose sight of the fact that what he is to see in LIFE, is the woman next door, is the man in the train—and not a concourse of abstractions.

To appreciate this is the first inspiring preliminary to observation.

How to Get Rich

Economy is not sufficiently appreciated in the United States. Americans work hard and make good incomes; they put more money in banks and buy more life insurance than other peoples; but other nations excel us in thrift.

"It's what thee'll spend, my son," said a wise old Quaker, "not what thee'll make, which will decide whether thee's to be rich or not."

The very word thrift tells its own tale, being derived from the Latin word meaning "TO THRIVE."

Apart from any question of being rich, it is wise and right to save, so as to provide for future needs.

Economy for the sake of money may be mean; but economy for the sake of INDEPENDENCE is the duty of every man.

Obviously, the first rule of thrift is to live within your income. Save something, however little, every year.

Above all things, do not run into debt.

If a man, Dickens lets Mr. Micawber say, has an annual income "of twenty pounds, annual expenditure, nineteen, nineteen, six, result happiness. Annual income, twenty pounds, annual expenditure, twenty pounds, result misery." And

HIDING IN A HURRY.

"Ha, ha, ha! Hee, hee, hee!" Hyena's laugh was not pleasant to hear. "So I am to be stoned to make a holiday for your people, hey? Maybe, but before you can drag me home, a captive, you must first catch me!"

Snarling dreadful threats at the little brown Hunter should the chance for revenge ever come his way, Hyena made off as fast as he could go, and Peter, because he didn't know what else to do, followed him. What a queer walk the fellow had!

"Oh, you've hurt your foot, haven't you?" called the Boy softly, "and you are lame! What a pity." Then Peter saw that Hyena's hind legs were so much shorter than his front ones that the fellow couldn't well do anything else but hobble.

Peter, of course, had thought that Hyena would pick out a good spot, behind some rock, perhaps, and make a stand against the enemy. But Hyena did nothing of the sort. Instead, he sunk around the corner of the very rock against which the Boy had been sitting and disappeared. Peter, hurrying after, found himself facing the entrance to a deep, dark hole. Out of the black depths came a command:

"Keep away from my front door, you foolish Two-Legs! You might as well run and tell the Head yet the difference is only a shilling.

The world, said Cobden, the great English economist, "has always been divided into two classes—those who have saved, and those who have spent—the thrifty and the extravagant."

"The building of all the houses, the mills, bridges, and the ships, and the accomplishment of other great works which have rendered man civilized and happy, have been done by the savers, the thrifty; and those who have wasted their resources have always been their slaves."

"It has been the law of Nature and of Providence that this should be so; and I would be an impostor if I promised any class that they would advance themselves if they were improvident, thoughtless and idle."

AMARILLO PAPERS PRAISE JACK JENCKS PLAYERS

Manager Lindsey proudly announces the engagement of the Jencks Players, with the full original cast and orchestra combined with the added attraction of a complete vaudeville unit, both to appear at the Lindsey theatre commencing Monday night, Feb. 1.

The Jack Jencks Players have just closed a long extended engagement at the Deandi Theatre, in Amarillo.

and they are preceded by very flattering newspaper reports and reviews.

The opening production, "The Power of Mother Love" is indeed a Gem of American dramatic literature. If you are lover of the drama—if you love good acting—if you love romance, pathos, intrigue, action—if you love these things, then we predict you will place "Mother Love" most indelibly in your pleasant memories. Remember the date, Monday, Feb. 1st.

It will be a big double show. The play and pictures also. There are no tiresome waits, as there is good wholesome vaudeville between acts.

BEHIND the SCENES

DURING the WORLD WAR

With Colonel House

In outspoken comment on the leading citizens of the world in those most eventful years between the election of President Wilson and the entrance of the United States into the world war, this work has no rival. So high was the regard felt for Col. House and so highly important the work he had in hand that when he was in Paris, in war time, the Germans never shelled that city from the air. He passed from France to Germany in time of war with freedom and ease. This series is the most important document of its kind ever printed by any newspaper.
