Open house for the newly constructed addition to Singleton Funeral Home, Inc. will be held between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. Saturday, February 25 and Sunday, February 26.

Highlighting the two-day event will be the dedication of the new Chapel of the Chimes at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Frank Ellis, manager, vice president, and C. V. Singleton, President of Singleton Funeral Home, Inc., and John Blackwell will be on hand, along with a group of other hosts to show the new establishment to guests.

"To better serve the people of the Muleshoe area, many new and modern features have been added to Singleton Funeral Home," Ellis said.

The new reception room has two groupings of furniture to adequately accommodate two families. The decor carries beige tones in walls, draperies and carpeting, spiced with gold and green sofas and occasional chairs. Mediterranean lamps stand on drum tables. A number crystal ceiling light and a swag lamp of similar design grace the room. A large gold framed mirror hangs on the south wall of this large room.

A spacious arrangement of office is another new feature to the establishment. The office is furnished with Danish modern furniture. A consultation desk of Walnut centers the room. Chairs are also Danish Modern and are in colors of gold, green and orange with touches of black.

A scenic oil painting done in autumn tones adds to the color of the room. This painting was done for the Funeral Home by Mrs. Ellis' sister, Betty Malyneaux, Roswell.

Two new reposing rooms are furnished with occasional chairs carrying out the decor theme of green and gold. Octagon tables are used with gold base table lamps with soft white shades. Each of the reposing rooms are equipped with adjustable-tone lights.

Chapel of the Chimes, with a seating capacity of more than 200, is designed with a high pitched open beam ceiling. The beams are fruit-wood stained backed by the white spruce natural finish ceiling. Oak pews match the ceiling beams, as does the pulpit and Sedillas. Amber crystal lights hang from the ceiling. The Chapel carpet is Avacado which extends from the entrance to include offset music room separated from the chapel room by a floor-to-ceiling wall of Solar tile. The music room is equipped with an organ and will accommodate a group of singers for services.

Chimes are amplified outside the Chapel prior to services and at the conclusion.

A family room is situated just off the Chapel of the Chimes. Forty green padded chairs are used to seat the family. The walls are painted to match the natural-colored drapes. The family room is designed to be used as a reposing room, should the occasion arise.

Arbitrary Reduction in Cotton Loan Rate Foreseen By Agriculture Officials

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Representative George Mahon reports that officials of the Department of Agriculture may soon announce an arbitrary reduction in the loan rate on short staple cotton. Officials complain that there is a heavy accumulation of short staple cotton in the loan and that unless better staple and quality is grown the accumulation of cotton-to-sell government stocks will continue to rise.

Mahon has cautioned Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman that an arbitrary reduction in support rates would be unfair and unacceptable. He asserts that he believes that the differentials reflected by the spot markets provide a sufficient spread between cotton qualities to encourage the production of better cotton.

"I have been encouraged," Mahon said, "by reports which have come to me indicating that West Texas farmers are aware of the threat to their economic welfare and are planning to make a major effort to improve staple length and quality."

Mahon said indications See ARBITRARY on Page 8

Pair Arrested On Attempted Burglary Charge

Two men were arrested around 7:40 p.m. Thursday by City Policemen David Cunningham and Deputy Bobby Henderson after they attempted to force the rear window at Bill's Drive In Cafe on West American Blvd. A family spotted the men and reported the activity to Patrolman Jim Kinser, who was relief dispatching at the time.

Arrested and charged with attempted burglary were Raymond Diaz Rodriguez and Emilio Martinez, both who give Plainview addresses.

A number of burglary tools were taken by Patrolman Cunningham of the "Make-shift" type such as two steel bars, one round, one with a point end measuring about three feet in length and a shorter bar-type tool with handle and two screw drivers and pocket knife. A pair of badly soiled gloves and a cap were also among the items.

Rodriguez had in his possession any number of cards for identification purposes bearing aliases such as Larry R. Diaz, Raymond Diaz, etc. No alias identification was found on Martinez.

Diaz seemed to have been a "traveler" and is known to have spent some time in Arizona where he has a state record of a number of "admitted" burglaries and in Washington with a burglary record at Yakamo.

Both are lodged in Bailey County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

County Legislative Community Council Meets

The Bailey County Legislative Community Council held its organizational meeting Saturday morning at 10:00 at L.B.'s Cafe in Muleshoe with 33 people in attendance. State Representative Jesse George conducted the meeting, explaining some of the major bills and problems confronting the 60th Legislature and answering many questions.

Rep. George first began organizing councils of this type two years ago, and response has been so great that many other legislators are now doing the same thing. The purpose of this council is to serve as a grass-roots sounding board for public opinion. Through this council citizens with different problems can come together, discuss their problems, and find solutions to them. The council is a non-partisan organization. Rep. George has appointed Harvey Bass Chairman of this council, and Mrs. Betty Jennings Secretary. If information is desired concerning any legislative matter, either of these persons may be contacted, and if they don't have the information needed, then you may write to Rep. George in Austin.

George discussed some of the more important issues confronting the 60th Legislature.

Legislative...

These are:

1. City Sales Tax

This proposed legislation would permit cities on a local option basis to levy a 1% sales tax. This tax would be collected by the State Comptroller, along with the 2% state sales tax. The State would retain 2% of the 1% collected for administrative purposes. The Governor was at first reluctant concerning this, but has now shown approval. This is similar to a proposal two years ago. The Legislature would give the option to the city for this city sales tax, and it would apply mostly to larger cities. This would be permissive legislation.

2. Liquor by the drink and paramutual wagering

These actually are two separate items, and yet tied together closely. George stated that the five counties he represents are dry, and the volumes of mail and phone calls he has received indicate public opposition to these items. Therefore he will again oppose them as he did last time, although he stated that he realized there would be a substantial loss of revenue in the State. In the liquor was defeated in the State and most soundly defeated in the 5 county area. Therefore there is a statistical basis for his opposition here. George stated that the betting held little chance for passage, and that there would be a better chance for liquor by the drink.

3. State Employees Pay Raise
In the last 2 to 3 weeks we have heard much publicity on neglected area of salaries of state employees. At present there are two proposals. One was made by the Governor for $15,000,000 under an emergency status. The other is a package consisting of $75,000,000. The House refused to suspend the rules for the emergency measure, preferring to wait for the larger amount. George states that we cannot complete a State with big business in salaries. The State employees did not think this an emergency measure. It is now a dead issue until the meeting of the Appropriations Committee. George believes it will pass this session.

4. Teacher Pay Raise

Another important issue involving money is the teacher pay raise. At present there are 2 proposals, one by the Governor and the other by Texas State Teachers Association. There will probably be a compromise here, as the Legislative process is a compromise process. At the last session George co-sponsored the TSTA proposal, but this year he did not because of reservations. Texas ranks 33rd in salaries paid its teachers, and there is a definite need here. It is hard to convince people of this need. However, anyone with an insight into the government realizes this need. George stated that he was aware of the need because he once taught school. In Texas we take a great pride in knowing we have a very low tax. Many states have much higher tax rates and income tax and higher sales taxes. We have much potential and growth, but can we still maintain the low tax rate? We can stand more taxes. If we quit demanding better highways, more roads, better schools, etc., we could quit raising taxes. The Governor seems to favor an increase in taxes; the Lt. Governor says no.

5. Garnishee of Wages

There is a provision in the Constitution which prohibits the garnishment of wages. This would take 2 measures: 1), an enabling act, and 2), a Constitutional amendment. George is on this Committee, and will support this measure. Provisions as being discussed now are: 1), a maximum of 10% of the wages of the head of the family may be held, and 2), a maximum of 25% of the wages of anyone not head of the family may be held. George stated that this is a two-way picture, and there are obligations on both the buyer and the seller. A prudent business man must investigate. George will support this measure with these limitations. It has just been introduced, and he doesn't know the mechanics of it yet. This is Rep. Bill Clayton's bill, and will involve court procedure for settlement. George stated that this would probably not pass if the amount is over 10%, and the hope here is that this would deter a person from buying beyond his means.

6. Revision of the Constitution

The Governor has advocated for some time the revision of the Constitution. It is now a patchwork; just last year 27 amendments were passed, and 60 so far are under study this year. There is a conflict in the amount of revision needed. The Governor states that we need a complete revision and the Lt. Governor says a partial revision. George states that a revision is needed, but refused to take sides. He stated that it would depend upon what is meant by the word "partial." This would be a difficult job, and would need many brilliant minds and much time and study. A revision might create the same situation. This should be watched closely. Now we often don't know if we are voting for or against amendments as stated on a ballot. In addition to the proposed amendment when it appears in the newspaper, George stated that a two or three paragraph explanation or summary containing pro's, con's, purpose, background, etc., should be placed by the side of it. It would be completely unbiased. George is introducing legislation for this. There will be three people appointed by the Speaker and three appointed by the Governor to check this before it appears in the newspapers.

7. Water

This has been an element of contention. The Governor has a State-wide water plan. However, there are new studies and a new program for water for West Texas. George doesn't think there is a chance for this water bill to pass until West Texas is included. This is a very vital and long-range program, and we should find the best solution possible. The people in West Texas realize this vital need, and we will hear much more about this.

8. Annual Sessions of the Legislature

We now have a maximum of 140 days every two years. Texas is too big and has too much potential for this. Many times the bills passed by the Legislature are not new, but are corrections. More time is often needed on issues. A Constitutional amendment has been proposed to create annual sessions of the Legislature. This is one of the sixty amendments, and George will support it. It would call for a regular session one year of 140 days, and the other year of 60 days, and the shorter one dealing with appropriations.

9. Governor's Safety Program

The Governor's Safety Program is a seven-point program. This will be very difficult, in that a person may like some of it and not all. Generally speaking, if you can live with 50% of it, it will be alright. Included in the program is an increase in the number of highway patrolmen and a revision in Driver's License including periodic health and eye examinations. George thinks this is good. He stated that we can't talk safety and not do anything about it. This should be watched closely.

"These are the major things. This is a difficult session," George stated, "much more so than two years ago. There are more things of a general nature which will affect us for years to come."

George commended those out today for becoming involved. A discussion followed concerning the status of a Junior College for Muleshoe, the Governor's mansion, the HemisFair Bill, and taxation.

It was decided that a meeting would be held once each month on the third Saturday. "This way we can all work together and get a better insight into government. We are the government and we can be the controlling voice. Then it is government of the people," he said.

The next meeting will be held on March 18th at 10:00 A. M. The program will be brought by Neal Dillman regarding Education, Jack Young regarding Taxation, and Mrs. J. G. Arm regarding the Governor's Safety Program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Once nematodes get at your cotton, yields go down and so do profits. But with FUMAZONE® 86 soil fumigant applied at only 1 to 2 gallons over-all an acre, you can take care of root-knot, sting, meadow and other nematodes—those tiny soil pests that attack plant roots, suck away profits. FUMAZONE 86 soil fumigant increases yields up to $200 an acre. Many High Plains ranchers just like yourself tell us that's exactly what happened to their yields after their soils were treated with FUMAZONE 86. It can be applied right from the drum. No

Could you ask for greater flexibility? Sure you could. So here it is. Apply FUMAZONE 86 before planting, at planting or after planting. COMMENTS ON OVERALL PROGRAM

Very complimentary about overall program. Good learning atmosphere, good direction and continuity of program by use of guides, lesson plans, workshops, etc.

Were very critical of the fact that we did not have a written self-evaluation of all curriculum and extra-curriculum areas. This we will have to do in the future.

Were very complimentary of the appearance and quality of professional personnel, although their purpose was not to make any judgments on individual personnel. This they did not do.

A written report will be given in detail in some two or three weeks.

LIBRARY News

by Anne Camo

Memorial gifts have been received this week by the library, given in memory of Ferdinand LeVeque, and given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young and Mrs. Tye Young; also by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cox.

Memorial books will be added to the library, in memory of James Moore. These were given by The Pioneer Sunday School Class; Mr. and Mrs. Ike Stinson; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cox; and Mr. and Mrs. James Wedel.

A book of collected Poems by Horace Gregory will be added to the poetry section of the library. This book is presented by the Muleshoe Study Club in memory of George W. Crain.

A Childrens book has been requested as a memorial to Mrs. H. M. Kerr, mother of Ernest Kerr. This book is given by Mrs. Opal Boothe.

OTHER LIBRARY NEWS
Things have really been humming around the library; and "Food for the Mind" our only commodity is really being dished out. 847 books have been checked out since March 1, with our largest day being Wednesday of this week, when 120 books were checked out. Despite the wind, Wednesday morning, 26 pre-school children came to the story-hour, to sing songs, work on posters, and hear two stories. With increasing number of children participating, we may divide, the older children, and younger, have two groups, and two story tellers. This is an excellent way for children to become adjusted to getting along with other children in play and learning.

Storyhour is held each 1st and 3rd, Wednesday mornings at 10 a.m. at the library.

Who Do We Admire?

The American culture, or lack of it, our society in general, is so diverse and many-splendored it is often hard for our boys and girls to know who to admire. When young, the national heritage is too heavily sold to them as a cowboy heritage. The shooting and killing of the bad men in the West, of the wild West in general, is stressed and we see hardly any good portrayals or emphasis on our more important heritage—the colonies, the hard times and Indian wars, the revolution against England, the Civil War with all its heroics and sacrifices, etc.

And whereas some countries have a royal family to look up to as a standard, and others and aristocracy (neither of which we desire), nevertheless we have a problem in that movie stars and television stars are the object of hero worship in this country. And the pattern of their lives, generally speaking, is not one we should hold up as an example.

As an example, in recent months U. S. magazines and newspapers have probably given Jackie Gleason more publicity than just about any other American. Gleason returned to the vast wasteland of television about half as funny as he was years ago, but so lacking is our entertainment in general that he is hailed as a national wonder.

He and other entertainment figures command vast sums of money for mediocre performances (judged by sophisticated standards) and are, with the movie stars, the standard of our country, as the symbol of success. The great thinkers, the artists, the musicians, the great writers (as apart from sex novelists), the modern theologians—too many youngsters never hear of them.

Cowboys and Carrots

GUEST EDITORIAL—

Texas has a great advantage over Florida, California and other states in selling abroad, Walter A. Meyer, Texas Farm Bureau, has found, "Every European seems to love Texas," he adds, "Just wear a cowboy hat over there and you are assured of popularity."

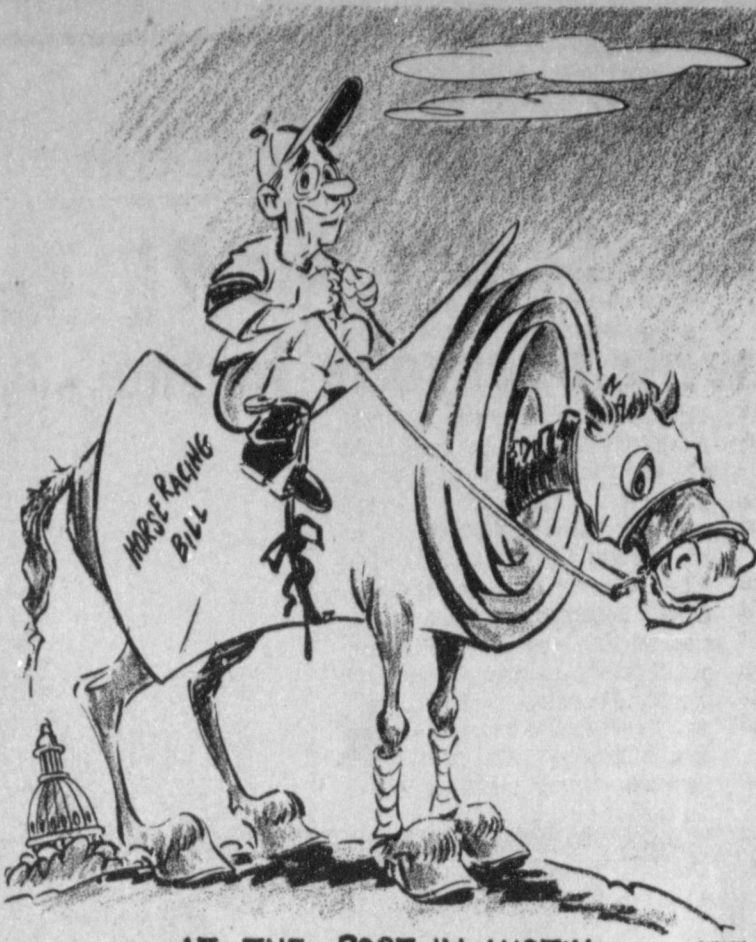

Meyer, foreign-marketing specialist for the farm organization, sees a bright future for sales of Texas farm products in Europe. He cites the quality of Texas citrus as superior to most competitive products in the European markets. As an example, English buyers like the straight carrot which Texans ship better than the crooked English variety.

Current sales of Texas products include about 100 cartons of Ruby Red grapefruit moving every few weeks to Sweden, citrus exports to France and Germany and the British market for carrots.

Promotion of foreign sales is one of the valuable services the Texas Farm Bureau, in cooperation with its national organization, is rendering to members. Present exports of farm products from Texas, valued at some $495 million, should be appreciably increased through sound merchandising and advertising.

Such assets as the popularity of Texans, the quality of products and our modern methods of packaging and shipping should be fully exploited. This is one way that Texas farm and agribusiness organizations can increase outlets for and revenues from crops and livestock.

Industry in suburbia

GUEST EDITORIAL—

There is nothing sudden about the trend of industries to follow the fleeing urbanites into the open spaces that surround the cities. Recent years have seen much decentralization. The appearance of a big publishing house in the cornfields is not too strange a sight.

But when within one week four large corporations announce plans to leave New York City for locations in surrounding counties or neighboring states there seems need to appraise the movement. Will New York City suffer from the loss when American Can Company, for example, takes its 2,000 employees to a new suburban location? Will the departure of PepsiCo, Olin Mathieson, and others mean a further serious loss in taxes?

No city likes to lose taxpayers and job-providers. Mayor John V. Lindsay and civic leaders made efforts to keep the big companies from pulling out. Their failure to do so, however, is not likely to cause serious trouble. A business study show that in recent years for every large company that moved out of New York, another moved in. Normal business expansion also tends to fill vacancies.

Perhaps more to be considered is the effect of these moves on employees. The adjustments required often cause hardship to those who for one reason or another cannot move with the company. Others, probably the majority, will benefit. They will welcome the easier, quicker transportation to and from work, the airier and more spacious work quarters, the less crowded schools. Many will get better housing.

In itself, decentralization of industry and commerce can be good. But it must be handled with due regard to community planning. It should not be allowed to bring the mistakes of the city into the country. It should profit by city experience and produce better schemes for living.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Dear editor:

According to a copy of a newspaper which I found on my front porch -- don't know how it got there but it's like a government check that turns up unexpectedly in your mail box, don't as questions, cash it -- a China watcher has explained that the reason millions of young Chinese youths known as the Red Guards are flocking to the cities of China to riot is that they have been stirred to revolutionary fervor by master propagandists.

This may be true, but judging by how hard it is to keep a young man on a farm in the United States, despite all the modern tractors, three-point hook - ups for equipment, mechanical harvesting machinery, etc., there may be another explanation.

It shouldn't take much of a propagandist to get a young man in China to unhook himself from the plow he's been pulling and head for the bright lights. After you've harvested rice all week with a hand scythe and threshed it with a stick and hauled it on your back to the government warehouse, any excuse to get to town is welcome.

Of course what they do when they get there is another matter, and is something the China watchers are having trouble figuring out.

Speaking of China watchers, I may take up the job myself, which I figure I can do from this Johnson grass farm as well as from any place. Any time one China watcher assures you Mao is losing, and another assures you he's winning, I figure on man's report is about as sound as another's and I'd like to get on that payroll.

Watching China from the outside is about like having a Frenchman who doesn't speak English and has never seen a game standing outside a football stadium trying to tell you what's going on inside just by the sound of the noise. Watching it from the inside is probably worse.

What China ought to do is rebuild the Chinese wall, but this time get it a lot higher. Yours faithfully, J.A.

Daylight Time For Texans

GUEST EDITORIAL—

Texas will be on Daylight Saving Time on April 2 if all goes well.

A federal law passed last year will put all states on DST unless state legislatures keep their states off it. With DST now fairly widespread, airlines, buses, trains and television programs have to have some kind of time standard for the public convenience. If the Texas Legislature blocks the start of DST in Texas next Spring, Texans will face mass confusion until they regulate to "outside" time.

First inconvenience will occur if Texans insist upon remaining on Central Standard Time on television. The TV networks will move to Daylight Saving Time and all programs will be moved ahead on the time schedules. Before DST became as widespread as it will be in April, the networks repeated shows at regular time for the non-DST states. This will no longer be practical.

There are a few who objected to anyone tampering with our time, as one would expect. If we decline to "standardize" our time, the inconvenience will be ours—not the non-Texans.

We hope the legislature will let DST come to Texas in good time.

The Heart Drive Reading & Knowledge

The American Heart Association is currently seeking more than $11,000,000 in donations as its 1967 objective. Red heart-shaped coin collectors appear in the stores in many states during the month of February and the fund-raising campaign will be carried on in every section of the country.

Although it is true that some sort of drive seems to be getting underway every few weeks, during this time of the year, it should not be necessary to point out that heart and circulatory diseases cause over fifty-four per cent of all deaths in the United States.

It also should be pointed out that there is considerable hope in this field and considerable progress has been achieved recently. There are new methods to control high blood pressure, to safeguard against rheumatic fever, to prevent repeat heart attacks and other heart conditions. Support of the Heart Fund Contributed to the evolution of heart and blood vessel surgery, which is a great step forward in America's number one health problem.

Meanwhile, the death rate from heart diseases continues to be an appalling one and even though you might have contributed to several worthy causes already this year, this newspaper urges you to support the American Heart Association.

Books from early times have been the source of really thorough knowledge and this is still true today. And despite the craze of television—and the soap operas which fill the viewer's TV day--books are today still the safest, surest way to knowledge.

A survey not too long ago showed that people in various sections of the country spend a varying degree of their time reading books. The people in the South, for example, spent less than did people of any other section.

Some attribute this to the warmer climate and the tendency of people to get outdoors in the milder climate and "do" more than read. But whatever the reasons, and regardless of the compensations, the South suffers when its citizens do not read books, as does any other section of a country, or any people.

All of us should read more good books. It would be a good habit to form the routine of reading one good book a month, or a week--or however often your daily life allows.

Buy a Buick LeSabre stripped and here's what you get.

Highway 84 In Top Slot

That much-needed and long-delayed highway improvement program for Bailey County's portion of the 1933, 2-foot, 10 inch Highway 84 west of Muleshoe, is on the top portion of this month's Texas Highway Department's program of action, state highway officials told The Journal this week.

The good news came from James Barr, staff services assistant director, and Phillip L. Wilson, supervising design engineer of the Highway Dept., state highway officials officed in Austin.

The 9,550 mile stretch, known locally as "Killer 84" because of its heavy toll of lives and property, is in place No. 9 on the February state list showing order in which (highway construction) bids are to be tabulated by the state highway commissioners at their Friday, Feb. 24th session.

This means that the major-revamping and widening construction work from Muleshoe's city limits to the Farmer County line is really "on its way" with construction work to be began as soon as possible after the bid letting.

Following the state's acceptance by awarding the contract for the highway construction job to be handled by the commissioner's next Friday, the usual procedure thereafter promptly sets into motion the Federal Bureau of Public Roads' OK, with the commissioners themselves setting up the official state work order with the approved contractor as soon as possible following the letting session. And the usual procedure is for the job's contractor to get right to work thereafter, as far as possible with his construction teams' job-bings.

Within a possible 200 working days, excluding Sunday and bad weather, after the work order is agreed upon by contractor and state officials, completion of Highway 84 paving work should make for safe and smoother travelling.

Put it another way: during the next month or so Killer 84 will be pretty "torn up", but the end result sometime in March or April will be a convenience and life-saver road for all.

State Designing Engineer Wilson explained the surface treatment paving method as to include grading work, necessary structures construction (such as drainage, grading structures and culverts), to be followed by a flexible base and one-course surface treatment.

Because of the high plains' arid climate, types of wetness, and changes of weather, engineers feel the one-course 18 inch surface treatment consolidates density and makes the paving more resistant to moisture, than the asphalt "hot" mix process of the all-at-once-time paving programs. Porous rock of the surface treatment allows moisture to drain through, causing normal shrinkage and better settlement of depressions due from traffic. Then the surface is later levelled, the program completed as needed and ready for the asphalt and concrete 40' treatments. Besides giving a better base in the completed paving officials, pointed out this process saves money now and in the long run.

More important to John Q. Public is the fact that traffic will not be interrupted for as lengthy a time now, nor as often, with the stage surface treatment paving program. The program has been used successfully on interstate Highways near Pecos, Monohans, stoner's hearing and the bid and between Midland and Odessa, officials told the Journals. order schedule due thereafter Word will be received following the Highway Commission of the contract.

Cow Herd May Need More Phosphorus

COLLEGE STATION--Beef cattle producers need to give special attention to supplying phosphorus for their herds. This mineral, says U. D. Thompson, Extension animal husbandman at Texas A & M University, is highly deficient in dry pasture forage, a condition which is now widespread in Texas.

Practical methods of supplying phosphorus to range cattle include soluble phosphorus in drinking water and phosphorus supplements in mineral feeders.

Where the water supply of cattle can be controlled, adding phosphorus to the water may be the most satisfactory method, Thompson says. Monosodium phosphate may be added to water troughs by hand. Automatic dispensers which add the desired amount of mineral solution to a given amount of water are also available, the specialist says.

If the mineral is added by hand, recommendations generally call for one-fourth ounce of monosodium per eight gallons of water or one-fourth ounce per head daily. A stock solution of two-and-one-half pounds of this phosphate per gallon of water is recommended when an automatic dispenser is used. This machine automatically proportions the mineral to the water.

Sheltered mineral feeders offer protection from wind and rain and thereby lessen waste. The weathervane type is satisfactory if kept level and treated with a rust preventive. Placing the feeding trough 12-18 inches above the ground will permit calves free access to the mineral. The feeding box should be divided -- salt in one compartment and additional minerals in the other.

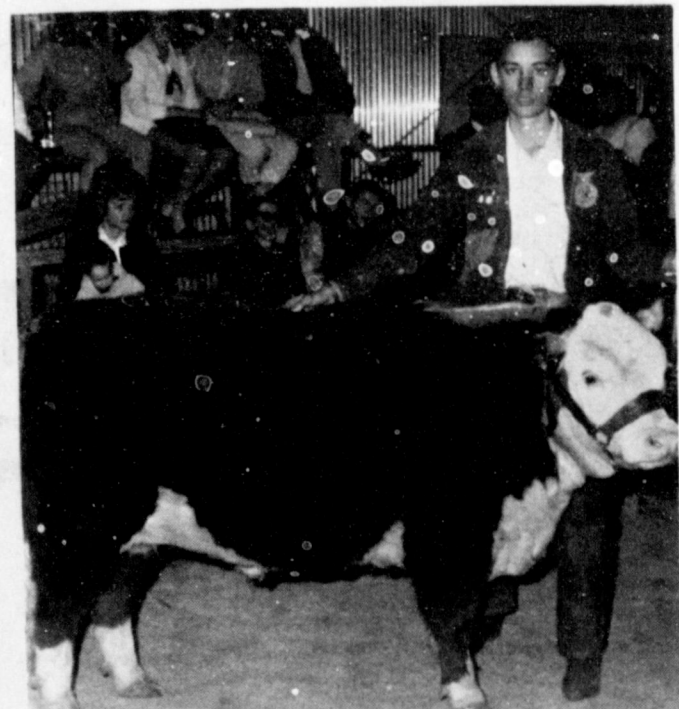

A mixture of one part salt and two parts steamed bone-meal by weight is recommended for self-feeding where phosphorus is highly deficient.

Bonemeal without salt is recommended in saline areas, as in sections of the Gulf Coast. Where salt is fed in mixtures to control protein intake, bonemeal should be fed alone, says Thompson.

Program Launched To Attack New Industry

A "Prosperity Through You" program is being launched by the Southwestern Public Service Company to enlist the aid of the electric company's customers and employees to attract new industries to the communities in which they live.

The customers and employees will receive a "Prosperity Through You" prospect card with their March electric service statement. If they have any information at all on an industry that would be interested in locating in their home town, they are requested to fill in the blanks on the card and bring it to their local chamber of commerce office or to their hometown Southwestern Public Service Company office.

"Industrial development has many times resulted from the actions of one individual. Just the slightest rumor has led, on many occasions, to the establishment of an industry which was economically important to a community. This type of approach will obviously lead to some blind alleys, but it is equally obvious that, with the cooperation of all of us, it can also produce some valuable industrial prospects," Larry Milner, industrial development manager for Southwestern Public Service Company, said.

Plans for following up on the leads provided by the "Prosperity Through You" program will be an evaluation of the tip by local business leaders and them some type of contact with the prospect suggested by the local resident.

Southwestern Public Service Company announced establishment of a new industrial development department last fall. Since that time, the department has been accumulating economic information about communities in its service area in order that it will be able to provide industrial prospects with factual information. "Prosperity Through You" is the first program in what will be an expanded industrial development effort.

sling during Thayer II because the jungle canopy would not allow the chopper to land.

The unusual pick-up of prisoners occurred when companies C and D of the 2nd Bn, 5th Cav. were sweeping an area where a B-52 air strike had just been completed.

As the companies maneuvered through the area, they found three prisoners—a khaki-clad NVA soldier and one man and one woman, both civilians—hiding in a cave.

Questioning of the three disclosed that they had been used by the NVA as workers and carriers.

Because of the heavy terrain a helicopter could not be landed in the immediate area; so Maj. Floyd Riddle-hoover, 2nd Brigade S3, decided to extract the three by using a Chinook in a method similar to that used to transport artillery ammunition.

From 40 feet above the ground a sling was lowered, and one by one the prisoners were hoisted through the trees to the chopper.

SP4 Dave Roberts, a military policeman waiting in the helicopter to take custody of the prisoners, said, "The prisoners were scared stiff while being hoisted up to the Chinook. I guess I would have been to."

SP4 Roberts is the son of Mrs. Goldie Roberts, Muleshoe and a former Muleshoe resident. His grandparents are Justice of Peace and Mrs. Joe Vaughn.

Buy Now-Pay Later

COLLEGE STATION, "It is almost impossible to live in out present day society without being lured into spending beyond our means," says Mr. Doris Myers, Extension specialist in home management, Texas A&M University.

Yesterday's luxuries become today's necessities. Everywhere people are on the move, and with each move there is usually an attempt to live just a little bit better than before. "Buy Now and Pay Later" has become a national slogan.

No matter how much you earn it is quite likely that your family cannot have everything it wants. In order to get the greatest satisfaction from the money you do have, it is necessary to spend wisely and curtail impulse buying.

Many families refuse to budget their incomes. They feel budgets are too strict, and are not realistic. "Budgets just won't work," they go along from day to day letting commercial companies manage their money by collecting a reasonable amount of financial security, sit down with your family and do some real thinking about your situation.

(1) What do you want your money to do? Both on a short time basis and several years hence.

(2) Figure out where you stand right now.

(3) Make a plan to accomplish your goals. If this is to get out of debt you must do some real planning and stick to it until you accomplish your goals.

You have to make your own plan as nobody is in this same boat with your family. They have their own problems.

(4) Try out your plan and keep a record of your spending.

(5) Periodically check up to see how the plan is working. This is the critical point where most people give up. Instead of tossing it out the window, get your pencil and eraser, and start making adjustments...be flexible rather than foolish.

Knowing what you own and what you owe can be a big help in making decisions about the plan and the use of credit. With many families the decision to stop credit buying for a while is the wisest one; for others credit can be a wise decision.

are that unless something dramatic is done within the next three years to improve the quality and uniformity of Texas cotton, the industry would sharply deteriorate and the economy of many producing areas would suffer great loss.

In a statement on the subject of cotton quality Mahon said, "My discussions with farmers lead me to believe that many producers are quite uncertain as to what particular strain of cotton seed should be selected for planting. Farmers need more information and clarification as to what the best varieties actually are. Another question relates to the availability of adequate seed supplies. Nevertheless there seems to be much expectation that significant progress will be made this year. It would be difficult to exaggerate the importance of better quality and more uniformity."

The USDA announced last November that a major effort would be made this year to discourage the production of low quality cotton and slow down the rise in government stocks of such cotton.

The Department has appointed a Committee, known as the Underhill Committee, which is preparing a recommendation on the subject of cotton loan differentials for submission to the Secretary of Agriculture. An early report is expected.

Mahon said that he realizes the urgent need for improvement in cotton quality and uniformity but he would continue to protest any threat of action which might be arbitrary and punitive.

Bull & Bear May Rip & Tear; Words'll Never Hurt... See?

Every kind of business has its own language, and the securities industry more so than most.

So it is always a pleasure to come upon a translating dictionary, however brief. Herewith—by people who seem to want to remain anonymous—is a page of translations that may prove helpful to the public.

These translations of what the translator has called "research rhetoric" are also refreshing in that they indicate that people working in the stocks-and-bonds trade seem to have gotten over the worst of their depression (recession?) of spirit that last year's stock market declines threw them into.

So . . . some securities trade phrases with their translations:

Phrase: "This undervalued special situation is a vehicle for dynamic capital gains, has explosive potential, and is poised for action."

Translation: "The stock looks OK."

Phrase: "This stock, while suitable for long-term investors, may be considered to have reached its intermediate objective."

Translation: "We're out."

Phrase: "Intermediate."

Translation: "It will take longer than we thought."

Phrase: "Long-term."

Translation: "One hundred years."

Phrase: "This stock has growth characteristics."

Translation: "This year may be better than last year."

Phrase: "This is a growth stock."

Translation: "This year will be better than last year."

Phrase: "Management is young and aggressive."

Translation: "Sales are under $20 million."

Phrase: "Management is so - ber and mature."

Translation: "Sales are leveling off."

Phrase: "This stock has been one of our favorites."

Translation: "We recommended the stock two years ago; the price has not gone down too much, and we still play golf with the management."

Phrase: "A recent field check with management."

Translation: "My brother-in-law was riding on the train with this fellow who knows the management."

Phrase: "We feel we are realistic; trees do not grow in the sky. Let us take a hard look at the so-called facts."

Translation: "You laid did not live through '29."

Phrase: "This shakeout merely shoved the stock from weak hands to strong."

Translation: "Caught us by surprise."

Phrase: "Penetration of the recent intermediate upside resistance point on some volume would augur well unless followed off."

ed or perhaps even preceded by a move on volume."

Translation: "It'll go up if it doesn't go down."

Phrase: "The market appears to be broad within a trading range."

Translation: "Our chartist didn't show up this morning."

With those translations available, it would seem that the man on the street now has all the opportunities for stock market operations that are available to the professionals on the Street.

Increases Income

The soil is a good place to start farm income improvement for 1967. A soil inventory, points out County Agent J. K.
Adams, should include a close study of the acres to be farmed or grazed since soils may vary in their productive capacity and adaptability to crops.

A logical first step, he says, is a soil testing program. The determinations from the soil testing laboratory will give needed information on the amounts of plant food required to provide the planned crop or pasture with the nutrients for production requirements. The fertilizer recommendations for a particular field will be based upon the analysis made of the soil sample submitted to the testing laboratory.

The county agent emphasized the importance of submitting soil samples which are representative of the field or pasture.

This is the real key to soil testing. The results of the laboratory analysis, Adams explained, will be no more accurate nor representative than the soil sample submitted.

Producers are invited to contact the County Agents office for detailed information on how to take soil samples and also for information sheets and soil sample containers. Gardeners are also reminded that soil testing can help them solve soil fertility problems connected with their activities.
