This group is made up of singers from Collingsworth, Wheeler, Beckham and Harmon counties, but in addition to these, visitors from many other points in the Panhandle and in Southwestern Oklahoma will be present. This is the first time for this organization to meet here since its formation a little less than a year ago.

An outstanding program has been planned for both Saturday evening, and throughout Sunday. The Sunday session opens at 10 o'clock, while the afternoon session will open at 1 o'clock.

"There will be excellent singing that we feel each of you will thoroughly enjoy. Whether you sing or not, you will be welcome to meet with us and help make this one of the truly outstanding singing conventions of the year."

College Head Urges -

Education To Fit People

Pointing out that colleges should adapt themselves to the changing needs of present day life, especially for young men and women, Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State College at Canyon discussed with men and women of this county Monday and Tuesday the work of the institution he heads, and the plans that school is making to meet the needs of the Panhandle people.

"I came down to Collingsworth County for several reasons," he said while here. "The college at Canyon is a state institution, and is supported by taxation. It is the only institution of higher learning in the Panhandle, and it belongs in a way to the people of the Panhandle, and I want to be serviceable to them. Collingsworth County is a good patron of our school. Hundreds of boys and girls have come there, and I feel we owe something to the people of the county. We want them to know more about us and we want to know more about them and what they want us to do. I want to get acquainted, and I am meeting people—business and professional men and women to learn from them what modifications if any should be made in the college to make the program offered a better one."

Turning to the task which colleges, his own included, are facing, Dr. Hill said, "Both the public school and college must do more to enable boys and girls, young men and young women to find places in the business or industrial world. There are millions of unemployed youth in the country, and yet there are hundreds of thousands of unfilled jobs. Education and industry have got to get together. If they do, it will

Cummings Warns School Transfers Must Be Made

Transfers from one school district to another will begin July 1, and extend through the entire month of July, according to Logan Cummings, superintendent of the county schools.

If parents of school children are living in one school district and desire to send the children to school in another district, the transfer will have to be made through the county school superintendent's office, it was pointed out.

If school children have finished the work in the school district in which they live and want to do higher work in another district, they must transfer.

It is necessary to make application in the office of the superintendent of the county schools to make these transfers effective, Mr. Cummings added.

Red Cross Asks Aid In Knitting

One of the best ways to render service to the stricken populations of Europe is to aid in the knitting project that the Red Cross is sponsoring. Miss Katherine Boverie, secretary of the local Red Cross, issued an urgent call for volunteer knitters to help make the quota of sweaters for this district.

The supply of yarn needed to knit the sweaters for European refugees has arrived here. The quota for this district is 20 sweaters to be knitted and five women's dresses, five girls' dresses, and two layettes to be made. Material for the dresses will be purchased in the local stores.

The women of the Rolla community have agreed to make the five children's dresses, but volunteers are needed to make the women's dresses.

After the quota is reached, work will go on to make shawls, mufflers, sox, caps, and infant's bootees. The garments must be ready to ship by September 1.

Anyone interested in the knitting project should get in touch with Miss Katherine Boverie or Mrs. J. W. Harper, production chairman, as soon as possible, for the time is short and the need for help on the sweaters is acute.

Ten Cars Wheat Shipped From County To Date

Ten cars of wheat had been shipped from Collingsworth County up until Wednesday at noon, and an additional four or five cars is expected to be added to this before the harvesting is ended, a check with railroads serving the county revealed.

All the wheat to date has been shipped out of Dodson, although one car is loaded in Wellington ready for billing.

The average wheat yield for the county is around 12 bushels per acre, wheat buyers have estimated. The yield on sandy land this year is somewhat lighter than this, it was added.

The largest portion of the acreage planted in the county was in the southeastern part, around Dodson. This land also gave the heaviest yields, it was stated.

Little wheat will be harvested north of Salt Fork River, and combining in that section is now under way.

An estimated three cars of wheat will go from Wellington this season, while the total shipment from Dodson is expected to reach 12 cars. No wheat has been shipped from Samnorwood or New Loco this year.

A portion of the wheat raised in the Loco area has been sold at Hollis, Okla., while some of that grown in the eastern section of the county has been taken to Mangum or Hollis.

Dowell Honored By Area FFA

Pete Dowell of Quail has been named Star Lone Star Farmer of Area 1 and is one of the ten boys in the state who will compete for the Star Lone Star Farmer of Texas at the State FFA Convention at Houston July 11 to 13. He was also awarded a trip to the National FFA convention and the American Livestock Show at Kansas City November 10 to 15.

The following statement by the other 45 boys of the Quail Future Farmer Chapter was filed with Dowell's application for the Lone Star Farmer degree:

"Pete stands six feet high and weighs two hundred five pounds. He is not very fat but much of a man physically. While he is big and rather slow motioned he is full of life and energy, participates in all sports, and is a hard worker. He is much more mature in many ways than his years indicate. He is not forward, in fact he is rather reserved. Quite and business like, he talks little but when he opens his mouth he has something to say that impresses even his elders and superiors. He is democratic and everybody's friend. He has many friends and no enemies. He has a high I. Q. and ranks third in his class of 31, although he makes no great effort in his studies and school work. He is individualistic and does his own thinking, is clear-headed and cool under all conditions, is critical, and somewhat bigoted in his inner nature though it does not hurt his personality because it rarely comes to the surface. He leads a normal social life and is popular among the girls although he has few dates. Probably his most marked characteristic is his great love of plant and animal life. He knows live stock as few people do. He actually loves his animals, plays

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

This laxative does three important things for most users. If simple directions are followed, it usually acts punctually, thoroughly, gently. You will like spicy BLACK-DRAUGHT'S way. Chief of its all-vegetable ingredients is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" which helps tone lazy bowel muscles. Next time, take BLACK-DRAUGHT. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

Old West Lives In Anvil Park Rodeo July 3-4

CANADIAN.—Bound by tradition to present the wildest, woolest and most genuine reincarnation of the Old West, Canadian is busy preparing for the 18th annual Anvil Park Rodeo, July 3 and 4, the oldest outdoor rodeo in Texas from the standpoint of consecutive years in operation.

Long an outstanding feature in the year's entertainment in the Panhandle, the Anvil Park Rodeo this year will be the only big professional rodeo in the Northeast Panhandle. More than 100 cowhands will seek approximately $2,000 in cash prizes, plus many merchandise awards. Stock for this granddaddy of Texas rodeos will be furnished by Beutler Brothers. Horses known for their bucking ability, Brahma bulls famous for their mean dispositions and agile bodies, longhorn steers which know how to run, and, above all, cowboys who are tops in their field, will lend an atmosphere impossible to find except at Canadian, the heart of the Old West.

A full program has been arranged by rodeo officials, starting with a dance the evening of July 2. Rodeo performances are scheduled for 8 o'clock the nights of July 3 and 4, and for 2 o'clock the afternoon of July 4. Dances will be held each night in the spacious auditorium in Canadian. Transportation, from the days of dinosaurs to the present age of streamliners, will be the theme of the parade starting at 5 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, July 3. The largest group of horses and riders assembled in Canadian since the nineteenth century will ride in the parade.

For the night rodeos there have been large flood lights installed at the rodeo grounds, insuring ample light for spectators as they sit in the cool breeze.

The latchstring is on the outside for the thousands of visitors, many of whom will be seeing the rodeo for their first time, when Canadian plays host at its annual Anvil Park show.

C. A. Studer, rodeo secretary, has announced the Pampa Summer Recreation band will play the night of July 3, under direction of A. C. Cox. The Perryton High School band will be on hand for musical entertainment the evening of July 4.

Otto Yokley, uncle of Miss Sydna Yokley, America's typical ranch girl, is assistant arena director, or "herd boss" of the rodeo, upon whose shoulders falls the job of seeing that events are run on schedule at the performances.

Miss Elsa Gardner, who was the first woman elected to the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, edits the Technical Data Digest at Wright Field.

Yosemite National Park in California is about the size of Rhode Island.

Couple Tried In Connection With Medical Kit Theft

Dr. E. W. Jones was in Childress the earlier part of last week to attend the trial of a man and woman accused of stealing his medical kit the night of last January 12. Dr. Jones was in Childress attending a medical society meeting at the time the bag, valued at about a hundred dollars, was stolen from his car.

An immigration officer saw the couple go into a Travel Aid Bureau in San Antonio with the case. He followed them in, and when he overheard their plans to sell it, he called a detective. They at first said they had found the case on the road near Hobbs, New Mexico, but later admitted taking it from Dr. Jones' car in Childress.

The girl plead guilty and was given a five-year suspended sentence. The man was tried by a jury and given a two-year sentence.

The bag was returned to Dr. Jones with only a prescription pad holder missing, although the lock had been broken on the case.

Dodson Returns From Assembly

After participating actively for ten days in the world conference of the Church of the Nazarene at Oklahoma City, Elmore Dodson of Dodson left for home early this week. He will arrive about the middle of the week, after a stopover at the old Bar-5 Ranch. Mr. Dodson was delegate to the tenth assembly of the church from the Abilene District.

Local Nazarene congregations are waiting to hear reports on assembly developments that vitally affect all church members, particularly of the expansion program outlined just before the tenth general assembly adjourned.

Attendance at the assembly passed the 7,000 mark, and more delegates and visitors attended the sessions that there were Nazarenes in the world 32 years ago, it was stated.

COUNTRY REALLY UNITED

One of the most remarkable things about the present crisis is the way in which sentiment is closely parallel in every part of the country.

Competent reporters who have been "swinging around the circle" from Wash "swinging around the circle" from Washington are somewhat surprised to find that relations of the United States to it is the same no matter into what part of the country they go.

This was not true in 1917. In those days, the farther you went from the Atlantic seacoast, the more pronounced isolationist sentiment became. The people of the great empire of the middle west felt remote from the goings-on in Europe.

Today things are different. War in the past 22 years has made such great strides, what with bombers and tanks and troops covering 50 miles when they used to cover five, that our own country has become smaller. Better coverage of foreign news by even comparatively small newspapers, the radio, and every agency of communication have made the people equally well informed in every part of the country.

All these things have produced a unity such as the country has never known before. To talk of "the west," or the "middle west," or the "south," when considering opinions about American policies as related to other countries is out of date. So far as foreign affairs go, there is no "west", no "south," no "middle west." The strength which this great country has always found in union is greater today than ever before, and in that strength is the safety of all of us.

WHITE COLLAR JOBS

Boys should be taught to think less of fitting themselves for "white collar" jobs, says Prof. F. G. Nichols of Harvard, who points out the greater opportunities for promotion in industry than in clerical pursuits.

The young man who starts at the bottom in a factory often soon out-distances one who begins, say, as a bookkeepper. The idea is that while a clerk or bookkeeper may have a white collar job from the very first, the ambitious and intelligent industrial worker has a better chance to rise to an executive position, so that when he does reach the white collar job it means something worth while.

Advice along a similar line was sent out by the late President Thatcher of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, who defended vocational schools against the reproach sometimes leveled against them by the classical student. He declared "the idea is erroneous that vocational schools are undignified because they work with materials near at hand and not with the knowledge of things that are ancient and off."

However, the proportion of white collar jobs is constantly increasing. With the continued advent of new machines for doing the "dirty work" of the world, the time may come when more people may have white collar jobs.

BUILDING A WATCH

For sheer mechanical ingenuity it is probable that the building of a fine watch makes greater demands upon the engineer than the production of any other "machine in common use." This is especially true of the very small wrist watches with their many parts of microscopic size.

Some of the difficulties which must be overcome were recently described by Milton F. Manby, a well-known watch engineer, who states that designing and putting a new watch into mass production sometimes takes as long as two years.

After the drawings are finished, expert watchmakers must construct a working model of the new design, making each part by hand. Into the space about the size of a nickel, in the smallest watches, must go some 180 parts, of which 50 must have freedom to move. The most tiny parts are the screws which go into the rim of the balance wheel, nearly 8,000 of which could be held in an ordinary thimble.

The moving parts must be made only of metal alloys which do not contract or expand with changes in temperature, otherwise regularity of motion could not be obtained. Great ingenuity is displayed in the arrangement of combinations of metals to overcome this difficulty, as well as to guard against magnetization of the parts.

When the first watches were made is not definitely known, but their manufacture is supposed to have closely followed the invention of the mainspring for clocks, about the year 1500. It would be interesting to compare the earliest crude watches with the magnificent time-pieces of today.

FOOD AND HEALTH

From a modest beginning 57 years ago a pioneer kitchen for food study has grown to be one of the great dietetic laboratories of the country, at which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was recently an interested visitor, according to a press dispatch.

It is at Battle Creek sanitarium where food is prepared for that health center's hundreds of patients and guests, and where special attention is given to the vitamin and mineral content of every item of food served.

This all began in 1883, when the late Ella Eaton Kellogg, wife of the sanitarium's founder, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, decided to establish an experimental kitchen. Here she worked long hours in her efforts to provide more appetizing dishes for about a hundred persons.

The science of dietetics was then in its infancy, and it is said that this pioneer experimental kitchen was the forerunner of nearly every school of dietetics and home economics in America.

A simplified vocabulary called "Basic English" contains only 850 words. Inasmuch as it makes no distinction in the use of "will" and "shall," we are in favor of it.

Scouting Calls All Boys

THE GOOD TURN

A good turn is a service that a Scout renders because he wants to, not because he is obliged to. It may involve some very little kindness like helping a blind man to cross the road, or it may involve a great deal of effort and sacrifice, perhaps even the saving of a life.

Boyhood is a time of high idealism and eagerness to be of service. One of the outstanding contributions that Scouting has made to the youth of the nation is the opportunity for boys to have a share in the affairs of the community, to help others in a constructive and worthwhile way—to be in short, participating citizens.

In time of emergency and disaster Scouts amply fulfill their pledge "to help other people at all times." Literally volumes could be written of their splendid service—service which has been given recognition by organizations and individual observers alike.

But it is not only in time of emergency that the Scout Good Turn is evidenced. Daily in their communities, unobstrusively and effectively Scouts are carrying on a program of Civic Service that is not only an educational force to the boys themselves but an asset to others.

The test of good citizenship is evidence that the individual cares for somebody beyond himself. His attitude of mind must be such that he feels an obligation, not only to carry his own weight, but to be eager at least to help to carry some part of the responsibilities of the welfare of the community. Democracy is dependent upon a voluntary process of thinking, feeling and acting individually for the good of the community, the state and the nation.

Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance

(Editor's Note: The following is one of a series of articles prepared by Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo Social Security Board field office.)

WAGE CREDITS OF OLDER WORKERS

Under the original Social Security Act, wages received by a worker after his 65th birthday did not count toward old-age insurance benefits. Under the amended law, this "stop-date" at age 65 has been removed, so that an employee in commerce or industry may continue to build up his credits toward benefits as long as he remains at work.

A store, mill, factory, or office worker who was 65 or more when the original act went into effect on January 1, 1937, can now receive credit for all wages paid to him in covered employment since 1938. In other words, the amendment with regard to workers past 65 years of age became effective as of January 1, 1939. Beginning with that date, wages received in commercial and industrial employment count toward insurance benefits regardless of the age of the worker.

The amended law, as it affects older commercial and industrial workers, is summarized as follows:

1. A wage earner who reached age 65 after 1936 and before 1939 will count toward his benefits all wages he was paid after 1936 and before his 65th birthday, plus all wages he was paid after 1938.

2. A wage earner who reaches 65 at any time during the year 1939 or thereafter can count toward benefits all the wages he received since the original act went into effect in 1937.

3. A wage earner who was 65 years old before 1937 will count toward his benefits all the wages paid to him after 1938.

The Great American Home

God's Love Seen In Story Of Jonah

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 30.

The book of Jonah, in which is contained the remarkable story of the man and the whale, has been perhaps more seriously misunderstood and mistreated than any other writing in history.

With the serious literalism of those who have been unable in their reading of the Bible to realize the nature and extent of imagery in the presentation of truth, or with the light and trivial humor that has attached to it, reference to the book of Jonah has almost completely centered around the "fish story."

This would not matter so much, were it not that in this literalism and in this concentration upon the story of the great fish swallowing Jonah, there has been an almost complete loss of the great spiritual teaching and beauty of a book that, although it is only of a few chapters, marks the very highest point of Old Testament teaching in its conception of God and His grace.

It is no part of this comment to enter into, or to discuss, the controversies by which men have missed the message and meaning of this prophecy. But I do wish to emphasize its great teaching. It is obvious that, to get any teaching from the book, it must be read as a whole. The text of our lesson, in fact, is taken from two chapters. But the book is not a long one, and even before considering the passage set for a lesson, one should read the entire book.

The details of the story are fairly familiar. Nineveh, at the time of the story, was a great and wrecked city, and Jonah received the call of God to go and witness there for righteousness and truth. It was not unnatural that he should rebel against such a task. It was an unpleasant task in itself, to go as an individual and set himself as a preacher in the hostile environment of luxury and wickedness. He might well have asked what his lone voice, crying in such a scene, could have accomplished.

But there was a further antipathy in Jonah to obedience to this call. Nineveh was a foreign city against which Jonah might have been expected to have all the prejudice of a Jew, who believed himself to be of a chosen race.

Here there emerges the great central idea of the book and its teaching. It is a missionary book, presenting with considerable clarity the conception of God as the God of the whole world whose grace and mercy are for all people and not for the chosen few.

In this respect Jonah's reluctance to go and preach in Nineveh is typical of that narrow conception of religion and life that lack of any apprehension of the richness and fullness of God's mercy, which has led even good people in later ages, as in our own time, to be very apathetic regarding the spread of the Gospel.

Is it not true that we are most content to live within our own narrow circle of home, or community, or nation, disregarding the larger world and its needs and the boundless grace of God which He has intended for all?

If the world had been more a world of Christian missions, in the spirit of the Book of Jonah, it would be less the war-torn world, stricken with disaster, that it is today.

I SAW

By V. A. R.

One on the Timid Soul . . . A man walked in a local cafe for breakfast, bringing with him a morning newspaper and a box of matches. Another resident came in, picked up the first man's newspaper and read it then as he left, helped himself to half the box of matches, thinking that it was all on the house.

Notes from an adjoining county about people you know . . . Mrs. Albert Mamby, who lives in the north part of the county, told friends recently that she had just received the first letter in months from relatives in England. The letter from a cousin had been opened and censored, but Mrs. Mamby stated that at the time, all were safe.

Scoot Harrison of Shamrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Harrison and a nephew of Mrs. E. W. Moss, upon being told that if he didn't change his ways he was likely to end up president. To this he replied, "No sir, I won't accept anything less than a dictatorship."

I SAW among people here at home . . . Mrs. Alva Wood and her pretty little daughter, the latter with a perky blue ribbon in her hair.

Mrs. R. C. Easterly of Quail in to see her daughter, Leota, who works here in town.

Mrs. Allard Vandiver saying that the preachers conducting the revival meeting came to see them, found they weren't at home, and left a note inviting them to church. "If it's getting that obvious, we'd better start going," she commented.

Bill Lynn recalling this incident from the last war: A thoroughly disliked British officer spent considerable time around one of the cafes of a little French town. The cafe hostess couldn't speak English, but some of the privates made up for that. They taught her any number of phrases to say to the officer. Next time he came, she did, and he blew up. The soldiers had taught her all the things they wanted to say to the officer themselves.

Red Cross Quota Must Be Reached

As the map of Europe changes hour by hour, and as nations are ruled by different men each day, more stricken refugees pour from Belgium, Norway, and other invaded countries to a temporary haven in England. With them comes the danger of epidemics that spread with such awful swiftness. The need for diphtheria and anti-tetanus serums, and for medical supplies and medicine grows, just as the necessity for food and shelter and clothing becomes more acute.

The people of Wellington have generously contributed to the Red Cross in its drive to help the refugee population of Europe, but this drive has been intensified, and the county quota of $1080.00 is not yet half reached.

A letter has come from the Midwestern branch of the Red Cross urging the completion of the drive as quickly as possible, as the need is greater than ever before for the war relief fund, and is growing every moment.

Congress has appropriated fifty million dollars for wartime relief, and the Red Cross might possibly administer this money, but not one penny of it will go to the Red Cross.

An American ship left New York harbor June 16 with a million dollar Red Cross cargo. It will be convoyed to Spain, where the cargo will be taken through Spain for France and the Low-lands, including Holland, Den-mark, and Belgium.

Norman H. Davis, national head of the Red Cross, told Miss Kath-rine Boverie, secretary, in a tel-egram that the Red Cross had been assured by the warring nations that the mercy goods on the ship would be permitted to reach their destination without interference.

The following 171 donors in this area contributed to the Red Cross drive this week:

Helpy-Selfy Cow

When Ona, Jersey cow on a Conneaut, Ohio, farm, wants a drink, it's all very simple. She pumps the water herself. When her owner discovered Ona was a rugged individualist of the old school, he stanchioned her next to the pump. She raises and lowers the handle with her nose until her water bucket is full. Then she continues to pump as the bucket overflows, sends water down a trough to her pals in the barn.

Red Rockets Win 5-0 Over Roaring Springs At Spur

The Wellington baseball team annexed first honors over the strong Roaring Springs club with an impressive score of 5 to 0 at Spur Sunday, June 23.

The team, which is greatly improved, is well set for the season with the addition of Nig Wilson and Woodrow Wilson, Lewis Morris, Raymond Morgan, Ira Brisbin, and L. Davis, pitcher. Davis not only pitched a 4-hit game Sunday, but had six putouts and drove in a run with a hard single. Davis was never in danger and had the opposing team well under control at all times, fans report.

Lewis Morris got a triple and two singles while playing third base. Brisbin, Nig Wilson and Stafford played the outfield in good fashion. Woodrow played sensational baseball at first base, going back into the cars to pull down a high fly which looked impossible.

Jack Lowe, Morgan, and catcher Strong played errorless ball in addition to cutting three runners off base that were in scoring position. Lowe went deep into short, stopping three drives that looked like sure singles. Morgan played his usual game.

Roaring Springs will play the Red Rockets in Wellington Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Wellington FFA Is Made A Lone Star Chapter

By RONALD DAVIS

Being the largest chapter in Area I and probably the largest first-year department in the United States did not keep the Wellington chapter of Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.) from reaching the goal of a Lone Star Chapter. At the beginning of the school year, it seemed beyond the reach of a struggling new department of 80 boys to accomplish the goal of a Lone Star Chapter. Only through excellent cooperation of the students, chapter officers, school administration, faculty, and local advisor, was it possible for Wellington to make the required number of points to be classed as a Lone Star Chapter.

It was a great thrill to the local chapter members when the district teachers of Wellington district with the assistance of O. T. Ryan and T. L. Leach of Lubbock pronounced us a Lone Star Chapter along with several other chapters in this district.

In order to become a Lone Star Chapter a department of vocational agriculture must have a well-rounded program of work underway. All members must be active and cooperate to a high degree in the F.F.A. organization. A high standard of class room work is necessary, and each F.F.A. student must have a farm program of work well planned for at least three years. Many outside activities must be accomplished. Each boy must make so many specific improvements on his farm home which will make it a more desirable place to live. Many more activities to be done cooperatively and singly must be accomplished before the degree of the Lone Star Chapter can be conferred.

Briefly, the many achievements of the local chapter during the entire school year have made it possible to accomplish the 800 points with a few to spare necessary for a Lone Star Chapter. As mentioned before, only a well-rounded program of work with the scrapping group of farm boys to make it click can accomplish such a goal.

Miss Helen Sue Singley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Singley, was married at high noon Tuesday to Robert Lee Sisk of Indianapolis, Ind., son of Mrs. A. G. Sisk and the late Mr. Sisk. Rev. J. Edmund Kirby, pastor of the First Methodist Church, performed the ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The wedding took place in front of an improvised altar, banked with native greenery, and above which was a mirror. On either side of the mirror were placed crystal candle holders, containing white candles. A matching crystal bowl of Shasta daisies was placed in the center, and above was a white cross. Extending from the cross were white tulle streamers which were tied into the greenery. Flanking the altar were white miniature columns with white pottery vases of cornflowers atop each. Candelabras holding white candles were placed on either side of the kneeling bench.

The bride was lovely in a blue and white burgundy sheer gown with a white all over embroidery jacket and white accessories. She carried a white prayer book, from which were extended tiny white satin ribbons into which had been tied white phlox. Her shoulder corsage was of blue cornflowers and baby breath.

The groom was a student in local schools, and he, also, has lived here for many years. For the past year, he has been employed by the Gasteria Company in Indianapolis.

Collingsworth Leads Area In Cotton Growing

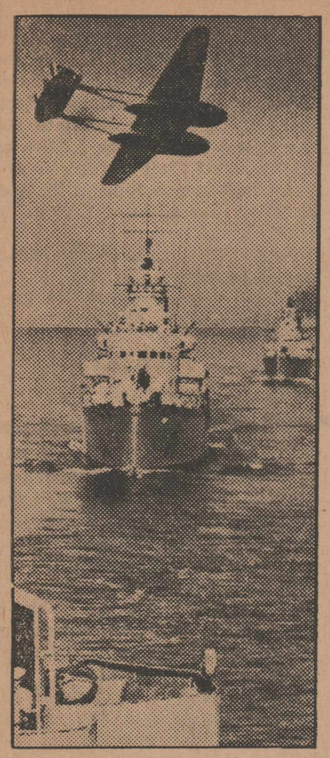

Collingsworth County leads in the crop year of 1939, both in the total number of bales of cotton ginned and the total grown, in comparison with the surrounding counties of Hall, Gray, Wheeler and Donley.

This information comes from the preliminary report of the Bureau of the Census in Washington, which reported cotton grown by counties in Texas.

Collingsworth County ginned 18,674 bales and grew 17,959. Hall County, the next highest, ginned 14,032, and grew 13,011. Donley County ginned 9,888, but it grew 10,042, while Wheeler County ginned 10,451 and grew only 8,877. Gray County trailed the other four counties, as it ginned 1,489, and grew only 617 bales.

Each individual ginner reported the number of bales, if any, grown in each of other counties and ginned by him. The "total grown" for any county was computed by subtracting from its "total ginnings" the number of bales grown in other counties and brought in for ginning, and adding the number grown in the county but ginned in others.

WHEREAS, by the final decree of the Supreme Court of the United States, entered March 17, 1930, in the case of the State of Oklahoma v. the State of Texas, the United States of America Intervenor, certain lands theretofore claimed by the State of Oklahoma, along the 100th degree of west longtitude, on the east side of the Texas Panhandle, were found to be in the State of Texas; and

WHEREAS, there was passed by the regular session of the 42nd. Legislature, an Act providing for the sale of said lands to certain claimants, as reflected by the Deed Records or other public records of the State of Oklahoma, and under the laws of the State of Oklahoma, at the time of the rendition of said decree by the Supreme Court of the United States, and creating a Special Land Board composed of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the Attorney General and the Governor of the State of Texas, to ascertain the persons entitled to purchase said lands; and

WHEREAS, said Act provided that said Special Land Board should determine when such lands are available for purchase, and by proper proclamation give notice to all persons entitled to file an application to purchase said land.

NOW, THEREFORE, KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That we, Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office, Gerald C. Mann, Attorney General, and W. Lee O'Daniel, Governor of the State of Texas, constituting the Special Land Board created by Chapter 185, Acts of the regular session of the 42nd. Legislature, under and by virtue of the powers vested in us by said law, do hereby proclaim and announce the following, to-wit:

THAT on the 27th day of June 1940, and for the period of twelve months thereafter, the State of Texas, through its duly constituted officers, will offer for sale the lands formerly thought to be a part of Oklahoma, but found to be in Texas by the final decree of the Supreme Court of the United States in the hereinabove mentioned case, to the claimants of said land, as reflected by the Deed Records or other public records of the State of Oklahoma, and under the laws of the State of Oklahoma at the time of the rendition of said decree, and said lands will be sold to such claimants as would have then owned said land had the same been a part of Oklahoma, or who have acquired, or may hereafter acquire, title by foreclosure of a lien, valid and enforceable under the laws of Oklahoma at the time of the rendition of such decree.

THAT the consideration of such sale shall be the sum of $1.00 per acre.

THAT any claimant to any portion of said land, entitled to purchase the same, may make application to Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office, to purchase the land claimed. Such application shall be accompanied by field notes of the tract claimed, together with a filing fee of $1.00, and an examination fee of 15c per acre, and with such other information as the Special Land Board may require to be given, including certified copies of all muniments of title under the laws of Oklahoma.

THAT in event it is found that the applicant would have been the owner of said land, at the time of the decree of the Supreme Court of the United States, had the same been located in Oklahoma, or hold title by reason of foreclosure of a lien, valid and enforceable under the laws of Oklahoma, at the time of such decree of the Supreme Court of the United States, such an application shall be approved and said land awarded to said applicant.

THAT within sixty days after such award such applicant shall pay to the Commissioner of the General Land Office the sum of $1.00 per acre for said land and upon receipt of such payment the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall issue to the claimant a patent to said land in such form as the Land Commissioner shall prescribe.

A failure on the part of the said owner to make purchase, or application for patent, for a period of four months after the last publication by said Land Board as provided in this Act shall constitute such failure to apply as will warrant the lien holder in making such application to purchase. The patent issued upon application and purchase of a lien holder shall be in the name of the person, persons or company who would have owned said lands had the same been a part of Oklahoma.

THAT this proclamation shall be published once each week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in each county in which any part of said lands may be located, and a copy of this proclamation shall be filed with the county clerk of each such county.

4. After the Board's examining attorney has completed his examination of title and is satisfied that the applicant is entitled to purchase the land applied for according to the terms of the Act, he shall then certify to the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the applicant is entitled to the benefits of said laws. If the person applying is a lien holder applying for the benefit of a claimant who refused or failed to make application within the specified time, the Examining Attorney shall certify to the Commissioner as to the right of the claimant and of the applying lien holder to the benefits of said law. THE BOY
"HAS NO FUTURE"

He is an American boy.

There are fifteen million like him in America; as young, as eager, as promising.

Yet some people feel sorry for these boys. They tell us American frontiers are gone. They say there is no future for youth in this country.

Do you believe such statements? We people of your electric company don't believe them, and we'll tell you why:

Fifty years ago the electric industry had barely begun its existence. There were no automobile, radio and aviation industries. Coming right up to date, here are a few of the things we didn't have as recently as 1930:

Streamline trains. Transoceanic air service. New plastics and resins. Synthetic rubber. Synthetic vitamins. Sulfanilamide and sulfapyridine, drugs that are revolutionizing medicine.

There are always new frontiers and new futures in America. In good times and bad, Americans work to make the good things of life better and cheaper. The employees of your electric company are typical: their efforts have helped make it possible for this company to give far better service than it could give twelve or fifteen years ago, and to charge about half what was charged then.

The men of your electric company were once American boys. They believed in their own futures and the future of their country. They worked to make the future better for themselves and their fellow citizens. They hope today's young Americans will not listen to pessimism, because they know that every American has a future if he sincerely believes he has.

partially solve the unemployment problem. The educational program must be changed to fit into business and industry, and I am going to work on that problem.

"I am down here to renew acquaintances with ex-students in the county and to tell about the rapidly expanding program at Canyon, and to meet other young men and women, of high school age. Letters from this county have come about the school at Canyon, and I came down here to put myself at the disposal of the people and see what service I could render.

"I find here, as at nearly every place, boys and girls who would like to go to college but cannot finance it. This is one of society's most important problems. We have to keep open the door from the fork of the creek to the highest place of honor in the nation so boys or girls arriving at adult life can look with confidence and hope to the future. If the door is not kept open, some form of dictatorship will come into this country. That is the way Mussolini got into power—through the discontent of youth. At Canyon we are helping 350 to 400 boys and girls through student employment or student loans."

Before he left Wellington Tuesday at noon, Dr. Hill urged the people of this county to visit him and his school, and consult with them on educational problems.

Leaving the problems of education, the college president reviewed the rapid expansion of his own institution. The college, originally a teachers' college, has now been expanded to offer courses in other professions, secretarial, general business office work, home demonstration work for girls, pre-medical, pre-law, and pre-engineering. Moreover, the college is fifty percent larger than it was ten years ago.

One of the latest steps is the addition of a course in aviation, with 30 young men taking pilot training. "There will be 50 or 60 in the fall," Dr. Hill predicted. The college has its own flying field, and is setting up aeronautical and auto shops, where trades can also be learned.

There are more than 20,000 ex-students of the college in all parts of the world, engaged in law, medicine, engineering, banking, industry, teaching, newspaper work, and in many other fields. "Hardly a community in the Panhandle does not have an ex-student from Canyon," Dr. Hill said.

"We had 28 young men and women from Collingsworth County in West Texas State College the past year. There have been no less than 500 people from this county there at various times, and we are looking forward to many, many more fine young men and women from your county," Dr. Hill concluded.

Local Store Begins Autumn Plans This Week

Clearance of all summer merchandise begins this week in the Leader Department Store in Wellington, Mack Saied, owner, and Floyd Taylor have announced.

"It's just a month until we go to market for fall and winter goods, and already we have had a few of our earliest shipments to arrive," Mr. Taylor said.

"Never have we had such a complete stock to offer the people of this county," Mr. Saied added.

Pointing out that with crop prospects better at this season than they have been for several years, the Leader is already making plans for the fall season, it was added.

"Since the enlargement of our store last year, and our removal to our new location, we feel that more than ever, we are serving the needs of the people of this section. For right here in Wellington, you are able to get merchandise as stylish, and of as good a quality as is carried in the stores of towns much larger than this," Mr. Saied and Mr. Taylor said.

Social Security Board Requires Proof Of Age

Do you know your own age?

If you do, then another question arises—can you prove the date of birth?

This is a question many workers seem to be worrying about because the Social Security Board is requesting proof of age from each individual who files a claim for Federal old-age survivors insurance.

Registration of births is practically a new thing in many parts of this country. Not many states maintained accurate records regarding births until a few years ago. Older individuals, therefore, have had to rely on other sources of information. The older persons are naturally more concerned about proving their birth dates than any other age class, since they are the ones who are fitting claims for monthly old-age insurance payments.

Proof of age is not difficult, especially the kind of proof required by the Social Security Board. In the sense that the Board accepts many kinds of proofs of birth, the policy is considered to be lenient or at least very cooperative. The difficulties of securing adequate proofs of birth are not insurmountable as evidenced by the fact that none of the many thousands of claims filed since January 1 of this year have been turned down due to the impossibility of securing some adequate proof.

There are various means of proving one's age, such as:

Registration of the birth of a child by its parents in the family Bible.

Baptismal record.

Date of birth as it appears on a life insurance policy if issued prior to August 14, 1935.

Date of birth as shown on an individual's application for membership in a lodge, fraternal group, or labor union, if dated prior to August 14, 1935.

Affidavits by sisters or brothers.

Affidavits by parents, of course, are sufficient proof of date of birth.

There are few 65-year-old persons whose mothers and fathers are living, but middle-aged and young workers might well secure proof of date of birth from their parents and file the proof away with their social security account number. Such an affidavit will come in handy when the worker becomes 65 years old and desires to file claim for old-age insurance.

If you have a proof of age problems, or any other problem connected with your old-age and survivors insurance account, the manager of your nearest Social Security Board field office will be glad to cooperate with you in every way in straightening out your difficulty.

The manager of the field office will help you without any charge whatever. There is no need to employ an attorney; just call on your Social Security Board field office, located at 324 New Post Office Building, Amarillo, Texas.

Maker Of Hot Music Presents "Iced Queens"

Meet 1940's "Iced Queens" . . . Miss Gertrude Hammack and Kay Matchett selected as "Miss Iced Coffee" and "Miss Iced Tea." The smiling gentleman congratulating the girls is none other than Ranny Weeks, nationally popular band leader, currently appearing at the Rice Top Deck, Houston. The occasion marks the third annual observance of the opening of the iced coffee and tea season.

The event is to be observed nationally throughout the coming weeks. Coffee growers of the leading coffee producing countries will send special samples of their coffees by air express to this country, where the coffees will be blended and the resulting brew served to government officials and to the mayors of leading United States coffee ports.

The event performs the function of renewing interest in iced tea as well as calling the attention of the trade and public to a pleasing and stimulating summer beverage (ice coffee) . . . a beverage, incidentally, that is more important to our economical structure than the average person realizes.

Coffee is the vital factor in the economy of our neighborhood nations to the South. This year they are faced with the loss of their European markets. When they can sell their coffee, they are prosperous customers of Uncle Sam. When they cannot, their economic position becomes affected, and our exports figures to these countries clearly reflect the situation. Although our imports from these countries were at the highest figure in history during 1939, this year our neighbors hope that we can absorb at least some of the crops that they usually ship to Europe.

Miss Roberta Love, bacteriologiest of Montclair, N. J., created a miniature American flag, perfect in color and detail, from living microbes.
