Congressman, N-Viets Talk Prisoners Discussed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. congressman said today that North Vietnamese officials had told him American prisoners of war are allowed to participate in sports and were given special privileges this Christmas season.

Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss., told a news conference that he met two days this week with high-ranking officials of the North Vietnamese embassy in Vientiane, Laos, including the charge d'affaires.

The congressman talked with newsmen as he wound up a week-long tour of Southeast Asia.

Montgomery, a member of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, said he went to Vientiane to meet with the North Vietnamese "as a private citizen" but that they accepted him as a government official. He did not say whether he will make an official report on his trip when he gets back to Washington.

"Probably the most significant thing that came out of my meetings for two days is that they did meet with an American government official, and the highest ranking official they've ever met in that embassy," Montgomery said. "This is significant in that I generally supported President Nixon's policy in Southeast Asia and I am generally classified somewhat as a hawk."

He said he gave the North Vietnamese three concrete proposals:

1. That he be given any information on American prisoners of war that has not been released in Paris.

2. That he be admitted to Hanoi and be allowed to meet with American prisoners.

3. That two to six Americans be released in his custody and flown to Vientiane.

"I did not get a flat answer that I could not come to Hanoi to meet with the prisoners," Montgomery said. "I was given the answer on my third request —that Americans be released— that this would be referred to Hanoi. On my request for information on the 1,560 men classified as missing, I was told that would be referred to Hanoi."

Montgomery said the North Vietnamese told him that "the prisoners are being treated very well. They strictly denied that Americans died from malnutrition—the 20 they had reported dead in North Vietnam.

"They said they died of natural disease, that North Vietnam had some of the greatest surgical procedure. I took notes, and they said, and I'm reading from the notes, that they died of natural disease. They said they died of diseases that were incurable and could not be treated.

The SDN Column

The American Legion Department of Texas has raised its voice in protest over the possibilty that Cassius Clay may be granted a license to box in Texas, and the Layne-Kite Post of the American Legion, Snyder, Texas, was the third post in the state to pass a resolution of protest and forward it to the state office.

Sam Tibbets, commander of the local Legion post, said that Legionnaires are unhappy about Clay being allowed to participate in lucrative boxing matches while he is under a court sentence.

"A lot of young men are against the war in Vietnam, but many of them have gone on and obeyed the law—some of them have even been killed in the war," said Tibbets. "For that reason we think it is unfair that Clay should be allowed to go ahead and make a lot of money before his court case is finally settled. Just because he had money to make a fight in court and was a well-known personality who could get a lot of help is no reason that he should have an advantage over others who are against the war.."

And, of course, the state Legion office has emphasized that it believes that a man who will not fight for his country should not be permitted to fight in his country for a big chunk of money.

Soldier Gets Real Surprise

SAIGON (AP) — Christmas was a day of surprises for Spec. 4 Robert Decker of Green Bay, Wis. He thought he would share the stage with Bob Hope and his beautiful entourage but instead won $5,000 worth of free gifts.

The 21-year-old Signal Corpsman was watching the comedian's show at Long Binh when an officer asked for the identification cards of Decker and four others.

"The officer said we'd get a chance to go on stage with Hope," said Decker, "but that didn't pan out. Then the officer came back and said one of the cards would be drawn from a gift pack—you know, the usual soap boxes and tooth brushes they give soldiers at Christmas."

Decker's card was drawn and he approached the stage expecting to receive a prize worth $9.

"There I was, kind of nervous, and Bob Hope started talking about this new car, TV, clothes and a vacation in Vegas," Decker said later. "I thought all the stuff was for him. When he said 'take me with you to Vegas; I suddenly realized 'Wow, that's all for me.'"

The gift pack was the 500,000 issued to a GI in Vietnam, and its suppliers decided to make it special.

When he finishes his tour on Aug. 25, 1971, Decker will receive a new car, a color television set, movie projector and screen, a $250 wardrobe certificate and a four-day expenses-paid holiday for two in Las Vegas, Nev.

"I thought this was going to be the worst Christmas I ever had and it turned out to be the best," said Decker, who arrived in Vietnam four months ago and celebrated his birthday two weeks ago.

Fire Hits Shanties

SAIGON (AP) — A fire in a slum area on the edge of Tan Son Nhut in Saigon wiped out a square block of Vietnamese tin and wood shanty houses today.

Two Vietnamese children, a boy and a girl, were killed. Five American servicemen were reported treated for smoke inhalation.

The fire was across a street from two American billets and destroyed two large generators that provided electricity for one of the billets, the Merlin Hotel, which houses enlisted Air Force men.

Military spokesmen said the Merlin Hotel was slightly damaged. There apparently was no damage to the second billet, Horne Hall, which houses U.S. officers. Terrorists threw a bomb into Horne Hall last week.

Military spokesmen said 40 houses were destroyed. But some Vietnamese who were left homeless said as many as 175 of the small houses—some only 9 feet by 9 feet, were destroyed.

A military spokesman earlier had reported that a generator between the two billets had exploded, starting the fire.

But a U.S. military spokesman said later the fire started in one of the shanties and leaped to one of the generators which exploded.

Soviets Denounced In Sentencing Hijackers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denunciations against the Soviet Union reverberated around the world today because of death sentences handed down in Leningrad against two Jews accused of planning to hijack a Soviet jetliner.

Throughout Israel, Jews demonstrated revulsion at the trial and at Moscow's refusal to let Soviet Jews emigrate to Israel.

Schoolchildren in Tel Aviv chanted "let my people go" before the Finnish Embassy, which handles Soviet affairs in Israel. Pupils in Haifa asked in a telegram to the White House that President Nixon intervene. The southern city of Eilat cabled Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, Eilat's sister city, asking support for the condemned men.

Even Rakah, the pro-Moscow Communist party of Israel, asked that the death sentences be modified. But it sent a letter to Soviet President Nikolaiv. Podgorny condemning an "anti-Soviet propaganda campaign" it said was being waged in Israel.

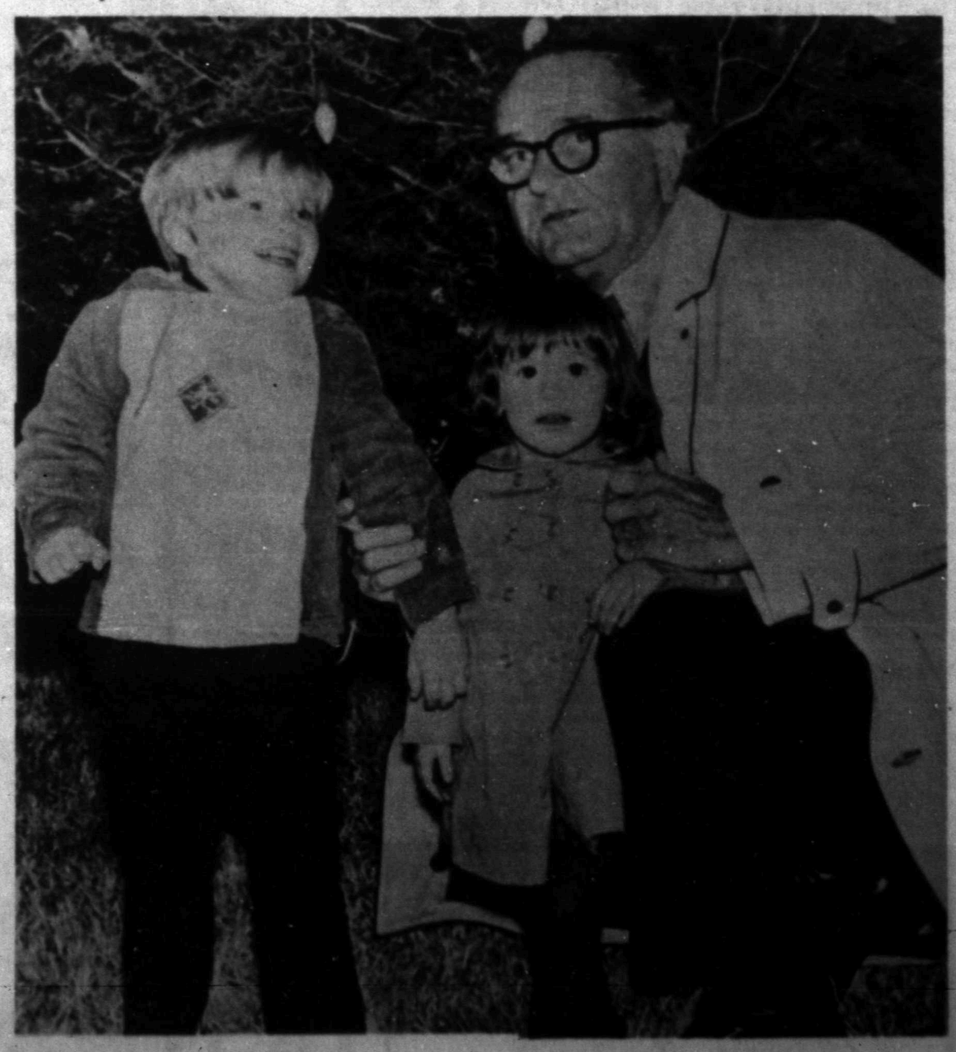

Premier Golda Meir told the Knesset, Israel's parliament, that the defendants' only crime was that "they dared approach the Soviet authorities to let them go to Israel." The defendants wanted to emigrate not as a protest against the Soviet government, she said, but because of a "national awakening ... for the right to join their own people."

Then the Knesset unanimously adopted a resolution calling on "enlightened mankind" to intervene with the Kremlin to free the two defendants sentenced to death and the eight other Jews and one gentile tried with them.

Edward Kuznetsov and Mark Dymshits, who told the Leningrad court he had planned the escape to Finland for two years, were sentenced on Thursday to death by firing squads. Sentences for the others were from 4 to 15 years in labor camps. The defendants have a week to appeal the convictions.

In Washington, about 200 demonstrators burned a replica of the Soviet flag and chanted "Let my people go!" and "Stop the kangaroo court now!" two blocks from the Soviet Embassy. An 11-man delegation was turned away at the embassy when it asked to express "our great concern and agony" over the trial.

In New York, the women's Zionist organization Hadassah urged in a statement that the Russian Federation Supreme Court "let these people go" and the Soviet government not to "add to the list of martyrs by yet another cynical miscarriage of justice."

Fiancee doesn't want to 'endure' marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been engaged to a very fine widower for nearly a year. He is 68 and I am a few years younger. Two weeks before our wedding date, he started having a little trouble, so he went to his doctor. The doctor found a tumor and ordered him to the hospital for an operation immediately. The tumor was cancerous, and in the last four months, my friend has had two more operations. He seems somewhat better now, and expects me to go ahead with our wedding plans. Do you think he would feel hurt if I were to give him the ring back? I don't think I am up to going thru all the things I may have to endure in the future. What would you do? Please hurry your reply.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: If I loved the man, I would marry him at once and give him as much happiness as the good Lord allowed us. But obviously that didn't occur to you, so return the ring. Of course he would feel "hurt," but feeling as you do, it would be better than "going thru all you may have to endure" with resentment—instead of love.

DEAR ABBY: I am a pastor's wife and I have a question which I wish you would answer as a favor to me and to all other wives of pastors who are puzzled by this problem:

Why don't people invite the pastor and his wife to the wedding and to the wedding rehearsal affair if they really want them? More often than not, they just "assume" that the pastor and his wife will attend the wedding and the rehearsal party. After the wedding rehearsal, when my husband is on his way out the door, they will run after him and say, "You are staying, aren't you?" Or, "Where is your wife? Isn't she coming?"

In order not to embarrass them, my husband usually says, "My wife is tied up." [He should say, "My wife isn't coming because she wasn't invited."]

Why, Abby, shouldn't clergymen and their wives receive invitations like everyone else if they are wanted?

PASTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Many hesitate to send an official invitation to the clergyman and his wife because they fear it might be construed as a hint for a gift. However, if the pastor and his wife are wanted, they should receive a formal invitation, an informally written note, or a telephone call.

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago I reported on a fellow employee. An investigation was made and this person was fired. I honestly don't know why I did it because the girl means a great deal to me and I know she trusts me.

She has been told by several people that I was responsible for her being discharged, but she refuses to believe it.

I feel so guilty now I avoid her at every opportunity. I find it hard to live with myself these days. Should I tell her and ask her forgiveness?

INFORMER

DEAR INFORMER: Yes.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who leaves a quarter tip for his wife every morning after breakfast?

PUZZLED IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PUZZLED: He must have bought his breakfast for a long time.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Court Search Is Ordered

CHICAGO (AP) — Sheriff's police have been instructed to search spectators entering Holiday Court in the Criminal Courts Building and during one day some 200 knives and 20 cans of disabling spray were confiscated from about 1,000 persons.

The searches began after a prisoner, Gene Lewis, was killed in a shootout with police after a gun had been smuggled into the building by a girl friend.

Although more than 200 weapons usually are confiscated on weekdays, the weekend day's catch was considered unusually high.

West German Consul Reunited With Family

BIARRITZ, France (AP) — Eugen Beihl, the West German honorary consul kidnaped by Basque separatists in Spain, became reunited with his wife and daughter today at this resort in southern France.

He flew here in a West German air force plane from Frankfurt where he told of his 24 days in captivity on television.

His Spanish-born wife and 29-year-old daughter met him at the plane's ramp. They had come here from Spain for the reunion.

The family will go later to West Germany where Beihl is scheduled for medical tests and to spend time with his family in southern Germany.

Then he plans to go back to San Sebastian, Spain, where he was kidnaped Dec. 1 by the Basque separatist organization ETA. The kidnapers warned that he would meet the same fate as 16 Basques tried for murder and terrorism in the Spanish city of Burgos but released him before the verdict was announced and said his abduction had served its purpose, "at least for the moment."

At the Frankfurt airport Beihl avoided newsmen by riding under police escort to the twin-engine aircraft in an airport bus for dignitaries.

Mrs. Beihl said in San Sebastian that she could not sleep during the night in anticipation of the reunion.

"I'm so very excited, happily excited, over the release of my husband," she said. "I tried hard to sleep, but all I could do was to close my eyes for a few minutes. I'm really eager to see and embrace him.

"Christmas day this year was the happiest one in my life, and I'll never be able to forget it no matter how long I live."

Beihl was freed on Christmas Eve after officials of ZDF, a West German television network, negotiated with the ETA and sent two employes to an undisclosed location to pick him up.

Wearing an open-collared shirt and looking very tired, Beihl told in a ZDF interview Friday night of a harrowing experience culminated by a Christmas Eve filled with depression because he wouldn't be with his wife and daughter for Christmas.

"I found myself. . .in a very terrible emotional state," he said. "It was the first time since the war that I could not count on sharing this day with my family."

He said he was startled when the door opened Thursday and three men entered wearing masks and armed with pistols. They gave him special glasses to block his vision, the 59-year-old German said, and told him "I would be freed in half or three-quarters of an hour. I didn't want to believe it because they had told me so often before that I would be freed. I ddn't believe it until I was taken out of the house and driven away."

He said he protested when his captors gave him sharply worded orders, telling them: "I have suffered enough. I don't need any more threats."

Land Use Study Is Awaited

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin is optimistic that a report on land use by the National Academy of Sciences can be a useful guide in the future development of the nation's resources.

The study was made by the academy's National Research Council at the request of the Agriculture Department.

The report says a proper balance among divergent interests regarding land use will be difficult but that it is "the unavoidable responsibility of an enlightened society" to gain that goal.

Objectives of the study were:

—Evaluation of the interrelationships of farm land use and the protection and production of wildlife and other natural resources; and

—Examination of the conflicts between objectives of agricultural and wildlife management.

The report acknowledged that to opposing doctines exist over land use, "both of which are revered as part of the American way" of life.

"The one defends the free enterprise systems and the constitutional rights of individuals," the report said. "The other centers on guardianship of the public interest, which means a conservation policy—the greatest good of the greatest number over the longest time."

Hardin said he recommended the report to all land managers and others in the resource field "as they seek ways for crop, animal and forest production to work hand in hand with the encouragement of good wildlife habitat."

The fire, which broke out shortly before midnight, destroyed the interior of a two-story frame house in this community, 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

Police have not identified the persons killed.

Negotiations Are Concluded

LONDON (AP) — Columbia Pictures has concluded negotiations with Ariane Films for a new Philippe De Broca film, "La Poudre D'Escampette," it was recently announced. Three leading international actors, Marlene Jobert, Michael York and Michel Piccoli, star in the comedy-adventure which recently began filming in Morocco.

Set in Africa in 1940-1941, the story concerns the adventures of three people brought together by chance—a British officer, a French arms smuggler and the wife of a Swiss consul, who find themselves having to cross the desert to evade the German and Italian forces.

Barr described the Albee work as "a family drama" and said he believed it was the best play the dramatist had written.

2 Charged In Fatal Shootings

SUMTER, S.C. (AP) — A father and son have been charged with murder in the fatal shooting of one South Carolina highway patrolman and the wounding of another.

The shootout occurred Christmas night, authorities said, when Maxie McFaddein, 42, and his son, Maxie Jr., 20, drove into the yard of their home after being chased by state trooper Robert M. Falls on a traffic violation charge, authorities said.

Killed was highway patrolman James A. Traylot 30, of Sumter. Officers said he was shot three times in the chest after he answered a radio call by Falls for assistance in arresting the McFaddins, officers said.

Falls, 32, was shot three times in the stomach. The Pinewood officer underwent surgery Friday night and was listed in serious condition.

The elder McFaddin, shot in the arm and leg, also was hospitalized.

Sheriff J. Byrd Parnell said both officers were shot by the younger McFaddin with a pistol he had taken from Falls. He said Falls got another gun from his patrol car and wounded the father.

The father was arrested at the scene but his son escaped. He was arrested two hours later, handcuffs snapped on by Falls before the shootout still dangling from one wrist.

Offenders Made Happy By Special Ordinance

MULBERRY, Fla. (AP) — There's a special kind of ordinance in Mulberry—one that usually leaves convicted offenders happy. The "Christmas Law" applies only once a year.

Six motorists from the North fumed and fussed and one even pleaded guilty before he heard about the annual law of Mulberry Friday.

Only after Municipal Court Judge Carl Ellis finished a stern-faced lecture did the motorists learn why Police Chief Norris Nixon had pulled them in.

The judge, who doubles as mayor of this west-central Florida community, told them that police work hard and don't like their efforts going without reward.

"Because you were going to drive through Mulberry without stopping at city hall," Judge Ellis said, "the policeman had to bring you in to receive this gift box of fruit. Merry Christmas!"

The one-day ordinance was passed four years ago, making it illegal for an out-of-state motorist to pass through Mulberry without stopping to pick up a gift from the police department —so long as the supply of fruit holds out.

"Naturally, everybody we pick up thinks immediately that they're about to be fleeced of their vacation money by a small town cop and judge," Chief Norris said.

"I pull them over, ask for their licenses and tell them to follow me to the police station. The fireworks start when I tell them they've broken the Mulberry Christmas law."

Norris and Ellis make no effort to dispel the impression of a speed trap. One driver replied "guilty" when Ellis asked for a plea—without telling the charge.

The driver said he did it because he didn't believe there was a chance of beating a speed trap.

The snapdragon is one of our most common, and most lovely, garden flowers. The blossoms fly shut with a snap when they are pressed, and a favorite with children. This snapping action probably gave them their name.

It is used for ornamental borders for lafge flower gardens because of the variety of many beautiful colors.

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE BARTON DOUGLASS

Miss Clark, Mr. Douglass Exchange Vows Dec. 20

Susan Marie Clark and Bruce Barton Douglass were united in marriage Dec. 20 in the First Christian Church. Reverend Robert McArthur officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Clark, of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Douglass of Fallbrook, Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white velvet wedding gown, with scoop neckline and fitted sleeves with point at the hand. A Choker of white velvet with a cameo accented the gown. The veil was elbow length of white illusion on a headband of white velvet with three velvet roses across the top. The bride wore a garnet, the birthstone of both the bride and groom, belonging to the grooms grandfather for something old and borrowed, a blue garter and the cameo choker for something new. A cascade of white and peppermint carnations made up the birdal bouquet.

Sarah Clark, sister of the bride, of San Angelo was maid of honor and Sandra Melot, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Their costumes were short, red velvet dresses accented with red velvet choker with a cameo. Their costumes were complimented with a white velvet muff and a red rose bud

Scott Douglas, brother of the groom, of Fallbrook, Calif., served as best man. Gary Fulfer, cousin of the bride was groomsman. Don Douglas, brother of the groom, of Fallbrook, Calif. and Bill Melot, borother-in-law of the bride, served as ushers.

The windows of the church were decorated with gold candle holders holding red votive candles, red velvet ribbon, bows, holly and spruce. Two candleabras with seven white tapers and green holly and red velvet bows and poinsetta graced the alter.

Organist Wayla Walton played "Love Theme From Romeo and Juliet" "Traditional Wedding March" and "We've Only Just Begun."

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of First Christian Church. The Christmas season was carried out in decorations with a tree at one end of the hall and the table covered with white net and felt table cloth trimmed with sequined bells and bows and Christmas trees.

The three tier wedding cake was decorated with red poinsettas and green leaves. Vicki Brewer and Ann Douglass, sister of the groom, presided over the table.

The bride chose a turquoise double knit suit for the wedding trip to Calif.

The couple will make their home at 51 North Koenigheim, San Angelo.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and a Junior at Angelo State University.

The groom is a graduate of Fallbrook Union School and attended Palomar College before entering the Air Force.

Out-of-town guest for the wedding were from Austin, Fallbrook, Calif., San Angelo and Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

Pontis Excluded From Taxes

ROME (AP) — The city says actress Sophia Loren and her producer husband Carlo Ponti made more than $1 million between them in 1970. But not one lira may wind up in municipal tax coffers.

City records showed that Miss Loren made $560,000 and her husband $456,000 this year. Her tax for Rome alone would amount to $80,000, but the couple claim they are residents of Switzerland and should be excluded from the city levy.

Highest reported income for an individual was that of Prince Alessandro Torlonia, who has massive real estate holdings and was credited with a take of $600,000. The city said he should pay tax of $86,000.

COURT AND CONSTITUTION IN THE 20TH CENTURY: The New Legality, 1932-1968. By William F. Swindler. Bobbs-Merrill. $12,95.

William F. Swindler, a journalist turned law professor, now furnishes us with the second volume of his readable and thorough history of the Supreme Court in the 20th century.

Beginning with the resignation of Oliver Wendell Holmes in 1932, we journey from the sunset years of American free enterprise and its endorsement by the court through the struggle between "activists" and advocates of "restraint" and on to the flowering of a legal revolution under Earl Warren.

Swindler, who teaches law at William and Mary, shows how the court gradually turned its back on a narrow construction of the constitution and accepted the theory of William O. Douglas and other libertarians that when Congress fails to act the court should readily enforce rights by interpreting the constitution.

Ironically, Swindler's story ends with the appointment of Warren E. Burger by a president intent on reversing the revolution with justices who will give the constitution a narrow construction again.

An important part of this book is a series of appendices that group the justices chronologically as well as the attorneys general, the solicitors general and the circuit court judges from 1932 through 1968, an account of all proposed constitutional amendments and laws bearing on the federal judiciary in the period and the titles and summaries of the principal constitutional cases.

This book should be of value to both scholars and court-watchers.

Japanese Women Are Liberated

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The Madame Butterfly image of Japanese women—fragile stay-at-homes dependent on the male for life and love-no longer is true.

Dressed in minis or midis and sometimes maxis, wearing their colorful kimono only on ceremonial occasions, many of them have minds, jobs and careers of their own.

Of the female population of 52,100,000, a total of 20,420,000 has jobs. Many are secretaries, textile workers, department store clerks, teachers, nurses, leather workers, food processers. In electronic plants where a fine eye and a delicate touch count more than brawn, and in the nation's schools, they predominate.

They are active in politics, donning the helmets and staves of the extremist student protest groups, running for the Diet (Congress) and provincial and local assemblies. They join women's consumer committees which tackle the high cost of living and the monopoly practices of big manufacturers.

And, of course, they are alone in the art of entertaining tired businessmen, either as a trained geisha or a sympathetic bar hostess.

They have come a long way since British scholar Basil Hall Chamberlain wrote in 1904: "Japanese women are most womanly—kind, gentle, faithful, pretty. But the way in which they are treated by men has hitherto been such as might cause a pang to any generous European heart. No wonder that some of them are at least endeavoring to emancipate themselves."

From 1909 to the end of World War II, a woman's lot in Japan was not a happy one. As a child, she automatically took a back seat to the males of the family, sometimes even suffering the blows of a younger brother. If she came from a poor family, she later might be pressed into a teeming factory, lodged in tiny rooms above the premises and held virtual risoner during her lifetime. Married, she usually became the slave of a tyrannic mother-in-law whose every whim she had to obey. In rural areas, her marriage was not registered until she had a child; if she were barren, she could be cast aside without legal fuss.

Japan's defeat in the Pacific war ironically was a landmark in the struggle of its women to gain equality. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Allied Occupation administration put through a constitution which contained guarantees more generous than those in many Western constitutions.

It directed the enactment of laws giving women equality with men in property rights, inheritance, choice of domicile, divorce and other matters.

Before and during the war, Japan's militarists used the same excuse for conquest that Hitler did—living space. The population hovered around 70 million and needed an outlet. Soon, however, the militarists were encouraging large families to people the open spaces of Manchukuo, China's conquered northeast area. Abortion was illegal. Women who broke the law went to prison.

Since the defeat, Japan has shrunk back to its main islands. Living space is a genuine problem in 1970 with the population hitting 102 million, a population density of 266 per square kilometer and only 20 per cent of the land arable.

The problem has been aggravated by a massive exodus from the farms to the already crowded cities. Abortion, under the circumstances, is widespread and encouraged. Not only the mother's health, but the family's economic status—a criterion generously interpreted—makes it easily available. The standard fee can be as little as $20.

Given this situation and the notable advances made toward the equality of women since World War II, it is perhaps not surprising that Japan does not have a large, vocal or impressive women's liberation movement.

Yoko Matsuoka, a graduate of Pennsylvania's Swarthmore College, heads the only women's liberation movement of any consequence. The 54-year-old author, a sharp critic of American policies, claims her group has a membership of about 1,000. But their thrust is more political than social, concentrates more on opposing the American presence in Japan and Vietnam than on achieving women's rights.

She insists this is the only effective approach, dismisses the various women's consumer groups and other organizations as too narrowly political. "We want to be political in a very big sense, in order to really fight the Establishment," she says.

Her reasoning is that once the U.S. influence is removed, the chance of fighting militarism, which she sees as the real problem, will improve. The militarists, she says, would set back the women's movement overnight, revising the constitution and clamping down on abortions in order to provide more cannon fodder for growing armies.

The main discrimination is a disparity in salary between men and women. The Labor Ministry reports that women get 1.5 times less than their male colleagues.

Another area of discrimination is economic advancement. No matter how able they may be, women seldom rise to executive positions in Japan's male-dominated private industries.

Collectiyely, Japanese women are making themselves felt. They have been formed into legal affairs study groups, to protect their rights in the marketplace. A consumers' group has shaken the powerful radio-television industry, calling for a boycott of color television purchases until prices are brought down to U. S. export levels.

In August, a group of bored housewives was arrested for operating a gambling house near Tokyo. Their problem: too much free time.

In Osaka, some housewives banded together to learn novel writing spurred by the success of Tomoko Jira, who won the prestigious Akutagawa Literary Prize in July.

Complains her husband: "I have come to think she is not a wife but another human being who happens to live with me."

Not all the other housewives who stay home are engaged solely in housework. In one out of eight families, women work from four to six hours a day turning out tiny compnents for large factories. Miss Matsuoka says they earn little more than $14 a month. They have none of the protections of the law, get none of the much-publicized recreational, bonus or retirement benefits or organized industry.

Miss Matsuoka describes these working conditions as "terrible."

Newspaper critic Tsugi Shiraishi says Japanese women are envious of American women who are treated by their men with consideration and politeness." She suggests-and undoubtedly is right—that this is less true in japan.

."Japanese women,—who have been subordinate for centuries, are happy to have gain ed literal equality though in reality they are not equal.

Wallace To Take A Bride

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George Wallace, widower and 1968 third party presidential candidate, has announced he will marry an attractive, 32-year-old divorcee who is no stranger to the Alabama governor's mansion.

The 50-year-old governor-elect announced Christmas Day that he will marry Cornelia Ellis Snively, the niece of former Gov. James E. Folsom. However, Wallace said no definite date has been set.

Friends of the couple said the wedding may take place before Wallace assumes office Jan. 18.

The announcement ends several months of speculation concerning Wallace's marital plans. He and Mrs. Snively had been dating for some time and until Friday denied having marriage plans.

Wallace has four children. His first wife, Lurleen, succeeded him as governor in January 1967. She died in office 18 months later after a long battle against cancer.

Should Wallace wait until after his inauguration to be married, he would be the second Alabama governor in 22 years to wed while in office. Folsom married Jammele Moore during his first term in 1948, two years after his wife died.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARCHERY

QUESTION: When was archery started?

* * *

ANSWER: An object moving very fast will always strike a target with very much more force than if moving slowly. When primitive men discovered the bow about 8,000 years ago, they had such fast-moving objects, arrows. These arrows, tipped with stone and later with iron arrowheads, changed the course of history. First (A) they enabled prehistoric men to dominate dangerous, savage animals; then (B) such arrows made it possible for bowmen, before the days of gunpowder, to win vitally important battles; third (C) they allowed American Indians to live off the buffalo herds; fourth, the development of the crossbow helped soldiers in Medieval times. It is still used to train boys in Switzerland. In (E) we see an African Pgymy with his tiny bow, deadly because the arrows are tipped with poison, while in (F) we look at a tall African tribesman with his formidable bow, even taller than he is. Nowadays, many men and boys, as well as women and girls, have taken to archery as a fascinating the stimulating sport. We show the special form of modern bow developed in the past few years.

THE PRODUCT—A compact foam fire extinguisher for oil, grease and gasoline fires in the home, auto and camp.

MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That this extinguisher, listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, discharges a foam similar to that used at airports ... that the foam is non-toxic, non-irritating, stainless and odorless ... that, when directed against the base of the fire, the foam has a quick smothering and quenching effect ... that the discharge range is 6 to 7 feet ... that the extinguisher may be used repeatedly until the contents are exhausted ... and that it comes with a quick-disengaging mounting bracket.

THE PRODUCT—A magnetic screwdriver with a three-way ratchet.

MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That the magnetism is transferred from the shank to the bit to the screw, providing a means of driving the screws in ordinarily inaccessible places ... that the ratchet design allows the operator to continue driving without releasing his hand grip, thus keeping the bit squarely placed in the slot ... and that four bits are easily stored in the handle when not in use.

THE PRODUCT—A new glazing vinyl.

MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That it provides a substitute for glass in storm windows and doors ... that it is non-flamm- and shatter-resistant ...that it is transparent and will not yellow or darken ... that it is available in 3-foot and 6-foot sheets and can be cut to size with a fine-toothed saw or plastic-cutting snips ... and that it can be drilled or nailed.

THE PRODUCT—Electrical connectors for splicing 18-10 gauge wire.

MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That the splicing can be done with no tool except a pair of pliers ... that the connectors have self-stripping "U" contacts which eliminate the need for wire stripping ... that they are enclosed in a plastic case that won't chip, crack or dry out ... and that they can be used for the wiring of lighting fixtures, control systems, doorbells, signaling devices, control panels, alarm systems, etc.

The fire extinguisher is manufactured by BernzOmatic Corp., 740 Driving Park Ave., Rochester, N.Y. 14613; the screwdriver by Vaco Products Co., 510 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., 60610; the vinyl by Vistron Corp., 12333 South Van Ness St., Hawthorne, Calif., 90250; and the electrical connectors by the 3M Co., St. Paul, Minn. 55101.)

Santa Makes A Sacrifice

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Taxicab driver Paul Dotterer had to make some sacrifices for playing Santa Claus during working hours.

During Christmas week, Dotterer decked out his cab with Yule decorations, sprayed the interior with the fragrant aroma of northwood evergreens and donned a Santa Claus suit.

He greeted his customers with a booming ho-ho and frequently stopped his cab to jump out and wish a Merry Christmas to pedestrians and groups of children.

However, the business of playing Santa Claus caused his cab fares to drop.

"That's why I had to work Christmas Day," Dotterer said.

But he added: "It was worth it."

IS GOD? OR ISN'T HE?
QUESTION GOD. BUT DON'T JUST IGNORE HIM.
Is the origin of man as described in Genesis fact or fantasy? What is man's purpose here on earth? Do cave men and dinosaurs refute the Bible? What about the Java, Neanderthal and Cro-Magnon men? Is the story of Noah and the Ark just a legend? Can a competent scientist believe the Bible? Is the Bible full of scientific inaccuracies? Is the Bible really the word and Revelation of God? If God is, why does He allow pain, death, war, famine, suffering, disease? What do fossils and geological discoveries reveal?
You probably have many more questions that have been bugging you. Isn't it time you brought them out in the open and took a long, hard look at the answers? John Clayton can help you find them, whether you're a student, science teacher, Bible teacher, parent, or just someone who's looking for something with meaning.
Just bring yourself. And an open mind. And a friend.

JOHN CLAYTON.
ATHEIST-TURNED-CHRISTIAN.
For most of John Clayton's life, he lived, thought, acted and defended atheism.
Then something remarkable happened.
In the very process of proving that there was no God, the walls of his unbelief slowly disintegrated. Today, John Clayton is a dedicated Christian.
What changed him? How could a strong atheist become a stronger Christian?
Power of God?
Ask John Clayton.

ACROSS THE Centuries

When one carefully examines Psalms 37 they find it speaks for the whole Book . . . "I have been young and now I am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken." Psalms one begins with a quiet confidence, "Blessed is the man who walketh in the council of the ungodly."

Moses is reassuring his people when he calls upon mankind to praise God in Psalms 150. But David gave humanity its greatest comfort when he wrote the 23 Psalm. "The Lord Is My Shepherd." However, today's world is more complicated. Men have prostituted world affairs and manipulated things so that it is impossible to say it so simply.

In our legal order, men are forced to obey the laws which govern the world. But in a moral sense we have to obey God's law, for it is God's world. Since the Hebrew and the Christian have always believed the future is wholly in God's hand, we grey heads can sleep more comfortably if we have been good stewards in life.

Anyway, how about your church attendance? Be a regular church-goer and a true supporter. For God has and will always have total control

Army, Navy Football Due To Rise Again

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army and Navy football will be on the rise next season and the sport at both academies could reach peak heights within the next five years.

This despite grumblings that it is tough to recruit top high school players and expect them to remain in the service five years following graduation.

Both schools came to the recent Army-Navy clash with pitiful records. Army had one win and one tie in 10 games and Navy was 1-9. Never before had the Cadets and Midshipmen met when their combined efforts totaled two victories.

Army's only other similar record occured in 1940 when the Cadets were 1-7-1. Navy has been way off the last two years and until the Naval Academy upset the Military Academy Coach Rick Forzano's job seemed to hang in the balance. He came into the Army fray with a 2-18 mark ofr two seasons. Navy hadn't been that bad in football since 1948 when the Middies lost every game but one, a stirring 21-21 tie with an unbeaten Army eleven.

"Beating Army made it a successful season for the graduating seniors," says Forzano. "And those with one and two football seasons left now have savored victory. Ten of our squad members will be upperclassmen next fall and 38 have two more seasons.

"We just hope Bob Elflein stays healthy. It was a thrill to see this sophomore break through the line on his 49-yard touchdown run."

Elflein has been threatening to do that all season or ever since the Air Force game. Navy failed to get a TD in that one but Elflein returned one kickoff 65 yards and Forzano knew he had a fine ball carrier for the future.

Mrs. Walter Elflein of West Hempstead, N.Y., has seen most of her son's football games and recalls the thrill of seeing Bob run 92 yards with a Villanova punt two weeks before the Army game.

"However, the play was nullified because of clipping," says Mrs. Elflein. "It broke his heart."

Until the Army game Elflein hadn't scored. In fact, hardly anyone on Navy had scored. The 11-7 win over Army marked the most Navy points in the last eight games. So Coach Forzano and Mrs. Elflein have reason to be enthused over Bob, the 5-10, 185-pound running back who was a track and football standout at Carey High, Franklin Square, N.Y.

Elflein was Navy's 1970 workhorse back, carrying 106 times for 315 yards. He returned seven punts 50 yards and 32 kickoffs 760 yards, one of two players to break NCAA records. (The other was South Carolina's Dick Harris with 880 yards).

Bob Elflein wants to be a flier because his dad was an Air Force captain who lost his life off Bermuda in 1958 while ferrying 101s to the Pacific. Bob missed getting into the Air Force so when he graduates in 1973 he will join the Marines to become a pilot. His stomach won't take two years of sea duty. He found that out during a summer cruise last July.

Elflein is one of the stars Army football must contend with the next two years. Two others to watch are quarterback Ade Dillon, a '69 Plebe who threw 20 TD passes, and defensive back Mark Schickner who intercepted four Army passes.

Army's Tom Cahill, with two losing seasons in a row, has better things ahead, too. Returnees number 46. Quarterback Dick Atha, a 6-2 sophomore southpaw from Worthington, Ohio, learned much from the Navy game. He threw too soon, turned the wrong way and sometimes threw the ball too high.

But he is a natural who throws 50-yard bombs. His passes almost upset Syracuse and his play helped surprise Oregon in a 22-22 tie.

Then there is Ray Ritacco, the slightly built (for a fullback) Nutley, N.J., athlete who is wrestling at 177 pounds this winter. He gained 77 yards in the '69 Navy game and has another year. Add Bobby Heins, the 202-pound Chester, Pa., soph who gained five yards a carry this year.

Army and Navy know they trail the Air Force, coached by ex-Navy end Ben Martin, in football. Martin's Falcons are 22-9 the last three years. The older academies know they will have to improve in 1971 because starting in 1972 the Cadets and Middies play the Fliers annually in what amounts to a service academy round robin.

And just to keep the record straight neither Army nor Navy has scheduled any future games with the Bloomer Girls. They will continue to play football-minded schools.

Irishman Leads Track Revival At Manhattan

By CHUCK SLATER
State Island Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — They're in the midst of a track resurgence at Manhattan College, and leading the way is a brash little Irishman who is cut from the same cloth as his coach.

Tom Donahue, he recently crowned Metropolitan Intercollegiate cross-country champion, is not afraid to put all his 5-foot-7 135-pound frame into whatever he does. Invited to speak at a Metropolitan Track Writers' luncheon, Donahue began:

"I'm not here to talk about myself. I'm here to tell you guys you stink!"

Then, after the dropped silverware, piiled drinks and punctured egos were rearranged, Donahue explained how, if track writers socialized less and wrote more, the journalists could help the sport he loves.

Donahue further astonished that same luncheon by predicting that, though he had never gone below 4:13 in the nile, he would do 4:03 in the spring. He then ran 4:03.5 in the IC4A outdoor championship. Now when he says "I'll definitely go under four minutes outdoors," no one smiles.

Except, perhaps, his coach, Fred Dwyer. And for him it's a smile filled with pride in "my pugnacious Irishman."

A three-time IC4A champion and the first in a long line of great Villanova milers, Dwyer was also a runner who made up for lack of stature with determination and competitiveness. A down-to-earth coach who demands total dedication, he is fashioning a powehouse to rival those the Jaspers once boasted under George Eastment.

The Jaspers were undefeated in dual meets fo the second year in a row, won the Met cross-country title and finished sixth in the IC4A—and didn't do as well as the Manhattan yearlings, who took both titles even though they weren't at full strength.

Marty Walsh and Chris Condon have dueled for first place in virtually all the freshman dual meets while their more heralded teammate, former New Jersey schoolboy standout Mike Keogh, has battled tendonitis.

And not even eligible yet is Tony Colon, the nation's top high school miler last year at Manhattan's Power Memorial. Colon is paying his own way for a year just to work under Dwyer, who developed Marty Liquori at Essex Catholic High School in New York, N. J. even though the school had no track.

Team captain Donahue also rates a hand in the frosh squad's success. Besides working with the varsity in the afternoon, he often runs with the freshmen in the morning and vows to "never let a freshman beat me."

At one time, beating Donahue was nothing unusual. "Until this year I'd never been a team's first man or even won a race," says the dark-haired senior who lives in a house he helped build in Vernon, N.J. "But I've been improving so fast in the last few years that I want to keep running after graduation."

This season Donahue has broken three of Brian Kivlan's school cross-country records and the 24: clocking which brought him sixth in the IC4A was the fastest time in Manhattan history.

Yet, perhaps Donahue's greatest contribution to cross-country has been to bring fans into a sport where traditionally pigeons outnumbered spectators. Under Donahue's direction, Manhattan runners now speak at neighborhood schools and drop flyers with the team's schedule under dormitory doors while the captain himself has been calling the social chairmen at nearby girls' colleges to suggest their sororities take in the races and post-race parties.

The result: Turnouts of 200 for simple dual meets and an astonishing 2,000 fans during the rain-marred Met championship.

Horns Cause Of NBA Protests

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A horn is a horn is a horn. Or is it?

Friday night's Cleveland-Cincinnati game in the National Basketball Association was played under protest because the 24-second clock signal—a horn—sounded different, at least to Cavalier Coach Bill Fitch, than most other 24-second clocks.

Cincinnati Coach Bob Cousy, whose Royals won 117-100, also filed a protest because the referees, who apparently didn't recognize the sound made by the 24-second timing device in Cincinnati, let Cleveland continue with the ball after the signal.

Fitch said the signal for the 24-second clock was the same as the scoreboard signal and that's an NBA rule violation.

"If the rule book means anything, our protest is right," the Cav coach, whose expansion team has a 3-37 record, said.

In the other Christmas day NBA games, Phoenix downed Atlanta 127-115 in a nationally televised contest; Philadelphia won its sixth straight with a 105-100 conquest of Detroit and Los Angeles trimmed Boston 123-113.

In the American Basketball Association it was Memphis 107, Utah 102; Virginia 145, Texas 131 and Pittsburgh 136, Carolina 121.

Cousy didn't think much of Fitch's protest. "If I were Cleveland, I wouldn't have the guts to protest," he said. "But I guess he does have a legitimate protest. I did, too."

Cousy protested because Cleveland was permitted a field goal after the horn sounded.

Tom Van Arsdale and Norm Van Lier each scored 23 points to pace the Royals while Dave Sorenson led Cleveland with 20.

Phoenix took an early 17-point lead but had to stave off a late Atlanta rally to beat the Hawks. The Hawks pulled within one point late in the third quarter.

Lou Hudson, the game's leading scorer with 33 points, led the Hawk rally. Rookie Pete Maravich scored 28 points for the Hawks while Dick Van Arsdale was the high Sun scorer with 32.

Baltimore's victory over Chicago came despite a 42-point performance by the Bulls' Bob Love.

Chamberlain sat out the first 10 minutes of the game because he missed Coach Joe Mullaney's team discussion at Friday's practice. The victory snapped a two-game Lakers' losing.streak.

Mullaney said he told his players they would be benched for not producing. He said Chamberlain was not reprimanded but did not start because "I did not feel it right to Wilt to start him tonight, then pull him out, inasmuch as I had not had a chance to explain."

Chamberlain and Mullaney met for a long talk before the game and Wilt was unable to participate in pregame warmups.

"It was not his fault," Mullaney said of Chamberlain's missing the practice. He said Wilt was out of town and missed an airline connection because of bad weather.

Matson Going To Frisco Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Randy Matson, world record shot putter, has accepted an invitation to appear in the Examiner All-American Games at the San Francisco Cow Palace Jan. 22, meet director Jim Terrill announced today.

Matson, who has an outdoor record of 71 feet, 5½ inches, is unbeaten in 10 meets in 1970.

Jones Boys Too Much For Utah

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jones boys are two of a kind ... and that's two too many for the Utah Stars.

Steve Jones hit two crucial baskets among his 25 points and Jimmy Jones pitched in 24 to pace the Memphis Pros to a 107-102 American Basketball Association victory over the Stars Friday night.

Steve Jones' two baskets in the last two minutes gave the Pros a six-point cushion at 101-95 and nailed down the game.

Elsewhere in the ABA, Virginia smashed Texas 145-131 and Pittsburgh clouted Carolina 136-121.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Phoenix 127, Atlanta 115; New York 115, Buffalo 102; Cincinnati 117, Cleveland 100; Baltimore 128, Chicago 112; Philadelphia 105, Detroit 100 and Los Angeles 123, Boston 113.

Zelmo Beaty, who scored 32 points, led Memphis to an early 10-point lead at 18-8, but the Stars rallied behind the Jones boys to tie it at 49 at the half. The lead changed hands several times before Steve Jones put the game out of reach.

Charlie Scott scored 29 points and Jim Eakins hit for 22 and hauled in 19 rebounds to lead Virginia's runaway triumph that boosted the Squires' Eastern Division lead over Kentucky to a full game.

Manny Leaks had 22 points and Ron Boone 19 to pace the Chaps.

John Brisker scored 39 points to lead Pittsburgh's success. The Condors went ahead 11-10 early in the first period on Stew Johnson's jump shot and never trailed.

Bob Verga scored 41 points for Carolina.

Nixon Eyes ACP Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is showing signs of riving up its annual attempt to abolish the long-standing and controversial Agricultural Conservation Program.

The strategy is to change the program, which provides federal payments to farmers for carrying out conservation projects, so that it focuses more on environmental benefits than on improving crop potential.

President Nixon on Tuesday said the program would be continued next year but in a new form permitting a focus on environmental problems.

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin told a news conference Wednesday that he could not say now whether ACP—to be renamed the Rural Environmental Program or REAP—would definitely be recommended beyond next year.

The reason, Hardin said, is that the department is in the process of working out its 1971-72 budget recommendations, which would—if REAP is continued-include money for the conservation program next fiscal year.

"I guess we could say that we couldn't be interested in a major reorganization of the program unless there was some chance that it would continue," Hardin said.

At least four administration have tried over the years to eliminate ACP or reduce its expenditure but each time Congress has given it new life. This year Congress overrode White House objections and appropriated $195.5 million for next year.

Scientists In Session

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 10,000 of the nation's leading scientists gathered in Chicago today for the 137th annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Topics to be discussed include pollution problems, urban affairs and death and dying. Also to be taken up will be extrasensory perception, an unusual subject for a scientific group.

Some 120 symposiums and sessions will be devoted to such topics as women in science and Hiroshima 25 years after the atomic bombing of that Japanese city.

More than 1,500 scientific reports will be delivered. Speakers will include anthropologist Margaret Mead and sociologist and economist Gunnar Myrdal.

The association, founded in 1840, has members from the social sciences and the humanities as well as the physical sciences.

Toronto's Ullman Celebrates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Norm Ullman had a double reason to celebrate his 35th birthday today.

The veteran center for the Toronto Maple Leafs scored two goals against the Minnesota North Stars Christmas night and joined the select 400-goal club in the National Hockey League.

NHL records list only four players with 400 or more goals at the start of this season. They are Gordie Howe of Detroit, Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau of Montreal and Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Ullman's two goals were in a losing cause, however. The North Stars snapped Toronto's seven-game winning streak 6-3 with three goals in the last period.

The Boston Bruins whipped the Pittsburgh Penguins 8-4 for their 10th straight victory in the only other NHL game scheduled. The Bruins thus regained sole possession of first place in the East Division over the idle New York Rangers.

Ullman, born in Provost, Alta., on Dec. 26, 1935, helped tie the score for Toronto at 3-3 before the North Stars went ahead for good on Danny Grant's second goal after five minutes of the third period.

Barry Gibbs and Tom Reed added Minnesota's last two goals later in the third period.

Phil Esposito, Johnny Bucyk and Don Marcotte each scored two goals for Boston as the Bruins rallied to overcome a two-goal deficit and extend their unbeaten streak to 11.

Esposito, the NHL leading scorer, added an assist to his two goals and now has 68 points in 34 games.

Greg Polis scored twice for Pittsburgh in the last period after Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice had given the Penguins a 2-0 lead in the first five minutes.

Allen Not Quitting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Exactly two years ago Saturday George Allen answered the telephone and got fired as head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

"I'm considering leaving my phone off the hook," Allen said Friday. His five-year contract with the National Football League team expires next Wednesday.

Allen was rehired by owner Dan Reeves two weeks after the Dec. 26, 1968 dismissal, after Ram players demonstrated strong support of their coach.

Reeves, who resides in New York, says he will save any statement on Allen until after the contract expires.

Allen makes it clear, however, that if he leaves it will be because he was fired.

The 48-year-old Allen's coaching record at Los Angeles is 39-17-4, but it has not included an NFL championship.

Dickey Sparks North Victory

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lynn Dickey, with flashy white shoes and longhair, gives the appearance of a Joe Namath with healthy knees.

And he's also got an arm of gold.

"We hit them up the middle with passes," said the Kansas State quarterback after leading the North to a 28-7 decision over the South in the Christmas Day Shrine All-Star collegiate football game.

"Their linebackers didn't seem to react. So, we kept firing."

The handsome 6-foot-4 Dickey hit 14 of 27 passes for 180 yards and was named the game's most valuable player.

It was the North's fifth straight success in the event.

"These are good athletes, all of them," said Dickey. "But, I think it was a case of the North having a little edge in major college talent."

All in all, it was a big day for the Big Eight Conference.

Dickey, North Coach Vince Gibson and top Yank pass receiver Mike Montgomery all are from Kansas State.

Kansas runner John Riggins gained 96 yards in 20 carries and scored on romps of 13 and eight yards to far outflash the ball carriers from both sides.

Larry Brown of Kansas grabbed five passes for 24 yards and Otto Stowe of Iowa State caught four for 51 yards.

Each represents the Big Eight.

"I'd say the difference was our quarterbacks," said Gibson. "My Kansas State boy, Dickey, did his usual fine job, but don't forget Ken Anderson pitched in with some good throwing, too."

Anderson, from tiny Augustana College, hit 8 of 20 for 77 yards.

Interceptions—six of them—were the South's bugaboo. Colorado's Jim Cooch was the peskiest defender, stealing two.

Richmond quarterback Charlie Richards, who was playing for his college boss, Frank Jones of the Spiders, connected on 15 of 26 passes for 249 yards, but was intercepted four times.

A fat television contract that paid the sponsoring Shriners a record $110,000 turned the game into a profitable venture although only 15,402 persons showed up.

Short, Chasey, Bowden Tell Champion's Story

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Record performances by halfback John Short and quarterback Jim Chasey and Dartmouth's defense led by roverback Murry Bowden tell most of the Ivy League champion's football story.

Short, with 54 yards on the ground in the 28-0 finale at Penn, set an Indian season rushing record with 787 yards, 62 more than Al Rozycki collected in 1960.

The senior Glendale, Ariz., back scored three touchdowns against the Quakers to finish the campaign with 15 TDs. His 90 points are more than any Dartmouth player has scored in 40 years, or since 1930 when Bill McCall also made 90.

In three seasons, Short gained 1,587 yards on the ground, second only at Hanover, N.H., to Jake Crouthamel's 1763 from 1957-59. Crouthamel is Dartmouth's defensive backfield coach and one of the men being credited by Coach Bob Blackman for an effort that produced six shutouts in nine games.

Chasey, a senior from Los Gatos, Calif., is the fourth Dartmouth man to pass for more than 1,000 yards in a season. He hit 86 of 146 passes for 1058 yards and six TDs. The versatile signal caller also ran for 161 yards and five TDs.

In three years Chasey made 2391 yards by passing.

Bowden, the senior co-captain from Snyder, Texas, intercepted three passes against Penn. The rugger rover inspired a defense that yielded only 42 points, 14 each to Holy Cross, Brown and Harvard. The last four games were shutouts and offensewise the Indians scored at least 24 points in all games except in the Yale game, a 10-0 success at New Haven, Conn.

If Columbia University football is on the way back the Lions had better hurry. The freshman team lost all six games and the light-weight eleven had the same disastrous record.

The Lion varsity, after beating Lafayette, Harvard and Rutgers in its first five games, dropped the last four to Cornell, Dartmouth, Penn and Brown.

Paddle Your Own Canoe

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain

During the Christmas holidays of 1960, Mrs. J. B. Rather, Jr., was a 50-year-old suburban New York homemaker whose experience in the business world consisted chiefly of Cub Scouts and other assorted volunteer service.

This Yuletide, Lillian Rather heads her own children's handmade knitwear company, and also creates knit and crochet designs for a major yarn and needlework manufacturer. Her fresh and imaginative designs range from funny-face puppet mittens and snuggy drum major caps to long knitted boots and roman sandals. Women's Wear Daily, Good Housekeeping, McCall's, Vogue and other national publications have featured her creations on their editorial pages, and stores as famous as Carson Pirie Scott and F.A.O. Schwarz carry her products.

This is impressive for anybody's success story! But it's positively inspirational coming from a woman who not only began her career at the mid-century mark with no commercial background, but who isn't an artist in the sense of being able to paint or sketch, and who isn't particularly skilled with knitting needles.

Lillian Rather operates the design and administrative end of her company, School House Enterprises, from her Manhattan apartment, where she moved several years ago with her husband, an oil-company executive. I interviewed her there, and at first I concentrated on the nuts-and-bolts of how she was able to accomplish the dream of so many homemakers. And I learned that, after a trial-and-error shoestring start, she eventually lined up resources to hand make her original designs, and found a manufacturer's representative (agent) who would sell the products to children's wear retailers.

It soon became apparent, however, that the mechanics were almost incidental. The real key was an attitude so positive that it reminded me of the maxim: "A quitter never wins and a winner never quits."

"Somewhere along the line," the charmingly soft-spoken designer told me, "I discovered something about myself which is true of almost everybody: I had ideas! So after my 3 children were grown, I determined to go ahead and translate my ideas into making lovely things for children. It never occurred to me NOT to try, although it was a little like Ethopia taking on Russia – as one acquaintance put it.

"My 'secret weapon' is other people. If I need to know something, I believe in the direct approach. Why waste time sitting around wondering who you know before acting? Call total strangers – if they have the expertise. Last year, I sought business advice from SCORE, the U.S. Small Business Administration's volunteer advisor corps of retired business experts. SCORE was wonderfully helpful. Friends, relatives, store buyers, packing clerks, editors – all have suggested ideas to me which proved workable.

"To those who want to start their own businesses, I suggest: Search your mind for ideas. Be receptive to new thoughts. Learn the art of persuasion – you must be a good salesman of your ideas," Lillian Rather advises.

I was flabbergasted when I heard her answer as to how she got her first big national magazine spread. "I just telephoned the magazine, asked for the name of the editor, then invited her to come see my things and served iced tea." No inside contacts, no press agents . . . nothing but sheer belief in herself and what she had to offer. I asked her if she had ever read books on or taken courses in salesmanship.

"No, but I think it's a good idea if you're not naturally gifted in this way. I was lucky. As a young girl, I adopted a point-of-view given to me by my grandmother. Today, I suppose it would be considered quaint, but it's as valid as ever: Paddle your own canoe. Then you'll never rue. Never sit down with a tear or a frown. But paddle your own canoe."

Merry Christmas!

Old Hermit Wants Mostly More Wood

HORNITOS, Calif. (AP) — The old hermit of Horseshoe Bend is getting more wood, and that, he says, is all he needs—not all those cards from over the nation.

The stack of mail was four inches thick Friday, said Harry Harris, the state Fish and Game Department warden who has aided Pietro Arata, 88, for several years while making his regular rounds.

"He's almost blind and nearly completely deaf, but still a pretty happy old man," Harris said.

Arata lives in a shack above Lake McClure, near here, and needs wood for cooking, Harris said.

"His only means of cooking is on a couple of flat rocks with a hunk of metal across them," he said.

A week and a half ago, a newsman trekked to Arata's place and the story spread around the country.

Since then, several people have made the difficult trip up the lake shore to take supplies to him.

On Christmas, Modesto County Fire Chief Charles Parker and six of his men spent hours cutting wood for him.

Parker also took the old hermit several pairs of glasses, one of which seemed to help.

The firemen said they would return in a couple of weeks to cut more wood and try to repair the roof of Arata's shack because rain has been bothering him.

Other people boating to Arata's rustic abode have brought blankets and clothes.

"But he is not interested in anything fancy," Harris said.

"That improvised stove is in a corner of his shack," he added. "He has the area vented, but it still gets pretty smokey."

Arata's mail has included money, says May Leiman, Mariposa Co... Welfare Department director who handles the pension Arata earned working more than a half century as a California miner after immigrating from Italy in 1908.

President Working On Budget

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon resumed planning today on his budget and legislative program for next year after a quiet Christmas surrounded by family members.

Except for a pre-Christmas hint that the President wanted books, there was no disclosure of what he and the others received. Customarily, however, Nixon gives his wife and daughters jewelry. Gifts were opened in the White House before all sat down to a turkey dinner.

Joining the President and his immediate family were daughter Julie's husband, David Eisenhower, and David's grandmother, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Harvard law student, and frequent escort of Tricia Nixon, Edward Finch Cox didn't join the Nixons for dinner. But reports persisted that they would announce their engagement before the New Year.

After dinner, Nixon, accompanied by everyone except Tricia and Mrs. Eisenhower, flew off to spend the night at the presidential retreat at nearby Camp David, Md. Tricia remained in Washington.

Several key aides went along for budgetary and legislative consultations.

The informal family dinner capped a hectic holiday season for Nixon.

Susan Agnew Is Engaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Scott Agnew, the daughter of Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, plans to marry 1st Lt. Colin Neilson Macindoe of the Maryland State Police, a friend of four years.

Their engagement was announced when Macindoe presented Susan with her ring at a family Christmas Eve gathering at the Agnews' hotel apartment here. No date has been set, but Ann Thompson of Agnew's staff said: "I doubt if it will be a big wedding. The children don't care for the limelight."

Macindoe, 36, is assigned to the governor's security detail in Annapolis, Md. He is the son of Mrs. Robert Macindoe of Easton, Md., and the late Mr. Macindoe.

Miss Agnew, 23, is an assistant coordinator of volunteer services at the Eastern Shore State Hospital in Cambridge, Md.

An Agnew aide said the couple probably will live in Easton, Md.

Accepted currency in the Republic of Texas in 1836 was "hammered dollars"—Spanish coins from which the ruler's likeness had been removed. Texas subsequently printed banknotes ranging from $1 to $5,000, including a $3 bill.

Paradise Slowly Losing Paradise

CLEVELAND, Ga. (AP) — It's going to be a cold winter.

If you don't believe it, look at the shucks on this year's corn crop.

If that's not enough to prove it to you, take a gander at the hair on a calf's neck or the hair on a squirrel's tail, for that matter.

These are "sure" signs for predicting the weather to many north Georgia mountaineers. They have been used for decades to predict the weather and the mountaineers swear by their validity.

Frank Reed, 81, Cleveland, Ga., became famous in the profession of mountaineer weather prognostication in 1960 when on March 1 he predicted that the roughest spell of the entire winter was yet to come.

It was in March 1960 that severe snows blanketed the Southeast three times, paralyzing all mountainous areas of the South. Many mountaineers called the spell the most severe in recent history.

Reed's wife says he has studied signs of the weather for as long as she can remember.

Here are the fruits of his studies:

When a mule rolls in the dirt and shakes it off, the weather will be dry. But if he leaves the dust in his coat, it will rain.

When your cats run and play in the house, it is a sure sign of a storm.

When the moon "news" and passes the evening star of a group of stars, there will be a change in the weather with rain or snow.

In the summer, when the leaves on a tree turn "bottom side up," Reed says, "it means rain."

Thick shucks on corn always mean a rough, cold winter.

When the hair on a calf's neck or a squirrel's tail is thick and shaggy in the fall, the winter will be a rough one.

A trained meteorologist with the National Weather Service told a congressional committee recently that there are "indications" that the Southern and Eastern United States will experience a slightly colder winter this year.

After all, the hornets are building their nests closer to the ground this year. This, according to Reed, is also a sure sign.

So, it looks like it's going to be a cold one.

Stress, Art Study Is Set

VIENNA (AP) — The Vienna Symphony Orchestra has commissioned a study dealing with stress and art. It will investigate the strains which influence musicians' health, performance and mental well-being.

PREPARES TO LEAVE SENATE—Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D—Texas, a 14-year veteran of the Senate, goes over papers in his office which he will leave at the end of the 91st Congress. Yarborough was defeated for renomination in the 1970 primaries by former Rep. Lloyd Bentsen, an insurance executive, who went on to win the seat. Yarborough says he has no plans at the present, except that he will open a law office in Austin his home town. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Nine Persons Are Rescued

KODIAK ISLAND, Alaska (AP) — Nine persons were rescued Friday night from a fishing vessel that radioed it was breaking up and in danger of sinking in the wind-whipped Gulf of Alaska, the Coast Guard said.

The 10th person aboard the 43-foot Rustler, Capt. Lyle Gardner, of Kodiak refused to leave his ship and stayed aboard as it was towed to Kodiak, the spokesman said.

The four children and five adults were taken to Kodiak Island Hospital for treatment of exposure.

Capt. Gardner had radioed the Coast Guard that his craft, owned by the New England Fish Co. of Seattle, had run up on off-shore rocks near Long Island, 4½ miles east of Kodiak.

Servicemen Get Free Trip Home

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — J. Vernon Harwell paid the air fare home on Christmas leave from Vietnam for a sailor he had never met and took him out for dinner because he knows how it feels to be lonely at Christmas.

Harwell offered to pay the $350 air fare for any serviceman from New Mexico who was eligible but couldn't afford to take advantage of the new Vietnam leave opportunity.

Navy Storekeeper 3. C. Tony Ray Davis, stationed at Cam Ranh Bay, jumped at the Chance. Davis, 25, originally from Carlsbad, was one of about 400 servicemen who left Saigon Christmas Day in chartered jetliners for the two-week holiday leave.

"I couldn't believe it at first. This is the best Christmas present I've ever had," Davis said on arrival Friday night in Albuquerque. He planned to go to Carlsbad today to visit friends, then to Port Lavaca, Tex., where his family now lives.

Harwell, whose son-in-law is in the Navy, said he and his family were going to Hawaii for the holidays.

"But we're going to give this kid a good time before we leave," he said. "We're going to take him out to the Albuquerque Country Club for dinner and give him some money to spend while he's home.

"I kind of know how those boys feel at Christmas because I spent three of them in the Pacific during World War II. It wasn't much fun."

Harwell, now a distributor for a peanut company, spent wartime yules with the 2nd Marines on Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Saipan.

Davis, who had been in Vietnam 4½ months, said he never will forget his benefactor.

Swedish soldiers once wore three-foot skis. Other skiers strapped a short ski on one foot to kick along with and a long sliding ski on the other.

CRMWD Is Evaluating Bids On New Pipeline

BIG SPRING—Engineers are evaluating bids on nine items totalling $3,533,707 in connection with a water development project of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Contracts will be awarded as rapidly as lowest and best bids can be ascertained. In some cases, delivery dates may be an influencing factor.

Biggest single job is for 47 miles of 33-in. concrete cylinder pipe from Odessa to Ward County. Apparent low bidder for this is United Concrete Pipe Company with a proposal of $2,894,523.

F. C. Wheeler of Stanton was apparent low bidder for drilling 17 water wells for $178,148. Apparent low bidder for steel tanks was Gorbett Steel Co. of Fort Worth for $130,190; for transmission pumps the Peerless Pump Co. of Los Angles, Calif. for $126,942; for gate valves the Clow Corp., Okaloos, Ia., for $52,294; discharge pump valves Allis Chalmers, York, Pa., $43,560; control cable Nelson Electric Supply of Dallas, $37,780; transfromers Westinghouse of Dallas $39,538; starters, General Electric, Dallas, $30,742.

The board will meet again in January and at that time bids are expected to be opened for laying of the pipeline.

The district is seeking to develop a water leasse it obtained in Ward County from the Duval Corp. Initially, the potential would e up to 24,000,000 gallons per day, although this rate would be relaxed considerably in event spring rains increase reserves in Lake Thomas and Lake Spence.

Target date for the additional water is mid-yera 1971.

Elvis In Visit to Memphis PD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley, wearing a white suit and hair down to his shoulders, visited Memphis police headquarters early Christmas Day.

The singer-actor wasn't in trouble. He arrived in the early morning hours to say hello to the men and women who had to work on Christmas.

His visit left telephone operators squeeling with delight, but they had one complaint — "He didn't give us any warning so we could get our lipstick on."
