Coolidge Proves His Angling Skill

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Out till late last night on the Brule river and with only a bright moon to guide his way, President Coolidge achieved his greatest ambition of the summer by catching one of the Montana graylings which had been let out into the stream purposely to see if his angling skill were up to the level of hooking what are commonly considered the hardest fish to bait.

With two secret service operatives and George Babb, veteran Brule guide and his dry fly fishing instructors, as witnesses, the chief executive managed to fulfill his most earnest angling wish just before August 31 when the fishing season on the open river will close.

The graylings were originally brought to the Cedar Island lodge fish hatchery two years ago to see if they could live and reproduce in these waters. About a month ago fifty grown specimen of the fish were let out in the river to test Mr. Coolidge's fishing skill.

Mr. Coolidge gave instructions to prepare the grayling for his breakfast.

Ballot Cast For "Fido" Thrown Out as "Multilated"

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 29.—(AP)—By casting it out as "mutilated," election officials of Wichita County have ruled that a ballot cast for "My Dog Fido" is illegal. It happened in the run-off primary when one voter, who apeared to rate his dog as a better candidate than either of the two listed on the ballot for a local office, scratched both names and voted for his dog.

Peace Treaty Is Signed by Nearly All the Powers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—A simple, friendly gesture from an old world statesman to this country has grown into an istrument whereby the world may be brought nearer to universal peace.

From little, insignificant Albania down to Venezuela on the other end of the international alphabet, opportunity has been opened to join the great powers in renouncing war as set forth in the treaty signed at Paris Monday.

Credit for the wish of two countries agreeing to banish war between themselves as an instrument of national policy goes to Aristide Briand of France. Credit for expanding the idea into an international pact open to every country goes to Frank B. Kellogg.

In keeping with the spirit of the negotiations which resulted in the treaty, invitations have been placed by American diplomatic representatives before forty-eight governments include every sovereignty of consequence except Russia which has been bidden by France to join.

The American invitation said:

"The United States has been anxious from the beginning that no state should feel deprived of an opportunity to participate promptly in the new treaty and thus not only align itself formally and solemnly with this new manifestation of the popular demand for world peace but also avail itself of the identical benefits enjoyed by the original signatories.

"According to the draft treaty by any and every power desiring to identify itself therewith, and this same provision is found in the definitive instrument signed x x x in Paris."

While these invitations were being delivered, several countries in the old world and the New extended themselves to be among the first to add approval after that of the powers. Jugo Slavia was first to follow the original fifteen, when Foreign Minister Marinkovitch signed the pact just fifteen minutes after receiving the official invitaton.

From Havana came the word that Cuba intends to be the first Latin-American country to sign. The formal ceremony of adherence was set for today.

At the same hour, the Bolivian legation in Washington announced Bolivia was one of the nations which had notified secretary Kellogg of its intention to adhere to the pact. At Sofia, Premier Liapcheff stated that Bulgaria would sign.

A favorable reply is expected from Norway and Argentine shortly.

MOTHER, 23, HAS BORNE 13 CHILDREN---WANTS MORE

SEVEN OF MRS. CORONA'S TOTS ARE STILL LIVING

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

REDLANDS, Calif., Aug. 29.—Only 23 years old and the mother of 13 children, seven of whom are living.

That's the distinction achieved by Mrs. Sista Carona, a member of Redlands' oldest Spanish family. Mrs. Corona married David Corona in 1918 when she was only 13 years of age. Her first child, Jose, was born when she was 14. Since then the flapper mother has given birth to 12 other children, only six of whom are now living.

"But I have only one child left now—Juan, my baby who was born just a few weeks ago," says Mrs. Corona in a tone that calls for instant sympathy. "My husband, who left me a short time ago, took our other children with him.

"If only David and I could come together again so that I could have all of my children, I would be the happiest mother in the world. Of course I haven't had too many children. David and I both love every one of them—and if there is a reconciliation we may have more. My health is still perfect and I have loved having the children."

Perhaps it is her enthusiasm at love for her children that keeps Mrs. Corona in the young flapper class. Now that she has only the one baby boy, she spends considerable time helping her neighbors care for their children.

"It's no trouble at all to take care of children," declares the young mother. "Yes, they must be scolded at times, but, still I love them. I get lonesome for my other children—that's why I help the neighbors with theirs. I was so busy when our family was all together. But now I have so little to do. I played with my first baby just like he was a doll. And the others have been just like a lot of new dolls—only, of course, lots more work. They are worth it though because they give loads of affection in return."

MRS. SISTA CORONA

There are four boys and three girls now living in the Corona family. One boy, one girl and two sets of twins have died.

Dr. Hunt Principal Speaker at Rotary Luncheon Today

Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry College at Abilene, who is conducting the evival at the Methodist Church was the principal speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon today. Dr. Hunt described interesting incidents which occurred at the International Convention of Lions Clubs in Miami Florida, particularly stressing the work being done by service clubs in bringing about better understanding among the people of all countries. Paying tribute to all such clubs for the work of developing fellowship and friendliness among the members the speakers said that an even greater and more important accomplishment is the constant trend toward a higher character among the business men of our country and all other countries as well.

Lynn Boyd, president of the club, gave an interesting and instructive report on the meeting of Rotary presidents and secretaries held in Mineral Wells August 20 and 21. President Boyd outlined the duties of the directors, president, secretary and committees of the local club as given at the Mineral Wells meeting.

Visiting Rotarians were: Erwin L. Blum, Burkburnett, B. F. Anderson, Amarillo; Fred Cline, Oklahoma City and C. H. McClellan, Wichita Falls.

Other visitors were: Fred L. Vance, Dallas; E. D. McIver, Panhandle; Joe Strother, Pampa; H. L. Grove, Pampa; Clinton Henry, Palo Duro, and Dr. Hunt.

Flashes of Life

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK—There seems to be no mystery about this. Paul Mellon, son of the secretary of the treasury, and two Yale chums, Francis Carmody and James Brady, had secret presidential poll all to themselves on the way home from abroad. All the news they would reveal was that the tabulation showed one vote for Hoover and two for Smith.

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Roy O. West, Secretary of the Interior, reminds one of the story of a fellow who made a hole in one the first time he swung a golf club and felt much relieved because he thought he had missed the hole. The secretary started trapshooting with Mr. Coolidge. "I only shot once," he explained. "It hit the darn thing, so I thought I'd better call it a day. I didn't want to impair my amateur standing."

NEW YORK—A job in musical comedy is open to John Coolidge. Hot on the heels of news that he had played the sax and sung at a dance a press agent got busy with announcement of a producer's offer by wire to Superior.

NEW YORK—The American Association of Teachers of dancing is all worked up over a proposed new dance called the byrd hop. It is intended to depict the start, flight and landing of a plane. After a demonstration some delegates thought it was beautiful, others regarded as in violation of classical standards and cheap. The matter was referred to committee.

JERUSALEM—Begging is to be prohibited by the Palestine government and civilians are discussing plans for maintenance of 1,000 persons who make their living that way.

MILWAUKEE—Now come yellow baseballs. Golf balls of that color have been used by some duffers this season. The idea is better visibility. Yellow baseballs were tried in a game between Milwaukee and Louisville.

LEFORS BUSINESS MENS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

L. C. Carrenter was elected president of the LeFors Business Mens Association which was organized last night. The association has 32 charter members. Dr. E. L. Thomason was elected secretary.

Meetings will be held every Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. "We expect to accomplish many things in the near future," says Dr. Thomason, "and we want to be prepared to meet the rapidly growing demands of LeFors."

Judge W. R. Ely To Attend Convention Here September 10

A letter received at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday from Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, stated that Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, with the state highway department, would attend convention of the Panhandle Plains division of the W. T. C. C. to be held here September 10. Mr. Wade was also arranging to have Gibb Gilchrist and W. R. French here to discuss the highway question.

The morning session of the convention will be held in the Rex theatre when F. M. Gwin, city manager will read the address of welcome to the delegates. At the same session Andy Bourland of Vernon, president of the organization will address the gathering. Homer D. Wade and other good speakers will be present.

This is the second convention to make Pampa its headquarters. The American Legion convention was first, and the delegates were royally entertained.

Visitors Are Eager To Hear Robinson's Acceptance Speech

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 29—(AP)—Vanguard of the thousands expected here to witness sight of a southerner receiving notification of his selection for a place on the presidential ticket of one of the nation's major parties today was streaming into this mountain city.

Majority of early arrivals came from homes south of the Mason-Dixon line like that of the man they have come to honor—Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, who will be notified tomorrow that he is the Democratic party's vice presidential nominee.

Nearly all who already arrived scarcely had unpacked their suitcases before they began inquiries as to what the nominee was expected to say in his acceptance address.

Senator Robinson yesterday devoted much of his attention to a speech he will deliver in Dallas next Monday at a big Labor Day meeting. In the address which he has announced will open his campaign formally, the Senator will deal at length with labor and farm relief questions.

Smith's Plans For Campaign Are Not Yet Completed

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—After a week of attention to his responsibilities as Democratic presidential nominee, Alfred E. Smith today stepped back into his role as governor of New York and will play that part, unless something unforseen occurs in the meantime, until he decides which one of three rough drafts of his speaking itinerary is acceptable.

With nothing but state business on his mind, the Governor today packed up to go to Syracuse, where he had an engagement to attend tonight the annual "farm dinner" given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard. Tomorrow he will make his yearly visit to the New York state fair at Syracuse, and, if weather conditions are favorable, he will make a brief non-political talk in the open air.

He plans to say a few words at the Barnum dinner, but not along national political lines. In emphasizing his reason for this, the Democratic presidential candidate likes to refer to last year's experience when, he says, there were only two Democrats present and he was one of them.

Indications today were that Governor Smith would have something definite to say regarding his proposed stumping tour of the country by the end of next week at the latest, or probably by Labor day. He has no plans for that holiday, nor has he made any engagements between his Syracuse dates and next Monday. He expects to return to Albany Thursday night and spend a quiet week end, but may go in for a little golf, as he did here yesterday with his friends William F. Kenny. Campaign duties are to be forgottens—far as the public is concerned.

Romance Is Ended By Shelby Tragedy

SHELBY, N. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Like most tragedies that in Shelby yesterday had its poignant touch.

When tons of falling brick and timber of three buildings in the business section fell upon Carl Blanton, young farmer, they snuffed out a romance that had been watched with sympathy by those who knew his prominent family. Blanton was to have been married within a few days.

The catastrophe, in which three buildings suddenly sank in during the morning business hours, also took the life of Blanton's father and four others. Twelve persons were injured. The Blanton's had been negotiating some business at the First National bank. As they were leaving the bank and two adjoining structures caved in.

The other dead are:

Miss Ora Eskridge, 35, employe of the bank; Guy Green, 23, bank clerk; Alex Hoyle, bank clerk, and Clyde Carpenter, 29, of Caesar, N. C.

The buildings were owned by John McKnight and O. Max Gardner, the latter Democratic nominee for governor of North Carolina.

Mike Austell, of Shelby, has been named by Coroner T. C. Eskridge to conduct an official inquiry. Coroner Eskridge's daughter was among those who lost their lives.

J. H. Prince of Amarillo, president and manager of the Safety First bus lines, was a business visitor in the city today.

THIRD ANNUAL SWIM HELD AT LAKE ONTARIO

Miss Olive Gatterdam Finishes As Close Second

FIFTY-TWO WOMEN START

Many Contestants Run Even Race For Ten Miles

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—To Miss Ethel Hertle went the $10,000 first prize in the third Wrigley marathon for the championship of the world. She led throughout the entire distance, successfully fighting off a stirring bid by Miss Olive Gatterdam of Seattle, who finished second.

Swimming a relentless crawl stroke that shot her through he water at a startling speed, Miss Ethel Hertle, of New York, led the field of 52 in the women's marathon at the end of the first 2 1-2 miles of the ten mile grind through the waters of lake Ontario today.

A hundred yards behind, Olive Gatterdam, of Seattle, Wash., guarded second place with a lead of 100 yards over Ruth Tower, of Denver, Miss Hertle swam at a rate of 43 strokes a minute. Her time for the 2 1-2 miles was one hour 11 minutes and 34 1-2 seconds.

Gertrude Ederle, of New York, first woman to conquer the English Channel and coupled with Miss Hertle as favorites to win the first prize of $10,000, was in fourth place, 50 yards behind. May Flwell, of Revere, Mass., swam strongly behind "Trudy" in fifth place, ten yards back, and threatened to pass her at any time.

To complete American domination of the first lap, Anna Beloit, of Westfield, Mass. and Jane Thoms of Terre Haute, Ind., swam neck and neck behind the revere star.

Euphrasia Donnelly, of Indianapolis, was more than 100 yards behind Miss Benoit and Miss Thoms, and 200 yards behind her was a pack of a dozen more.

Bank Deposits of Bootleggers To Be Used as Evidence

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29—..—Detectives working with District Attorney John Monaghan and the grand jury today sought to learn the identity of a dozen or more big bootleggers who are said to have deposited $10,000,000 in Philadelphia banks in the last year.

Information furnished the grand jury by federal prohibition agents and others it was said, gave an insight into the financial side of bootlegging and sent investigators off on a new track in the effort to place before the juror a complete story of gang activities, including information regarding fortunes made in the liquor traffic under the protection of sawed-off shotguns and pistols. The money is reported to have been deposited in nearly a score of institutions, many of them legitimate financial houses, but fictitious names and addresses were used by the depositors. Some addresses given were found to be vacant lots, old buildings, stables and cemeteries.

Prohibition officials who have been before the grand jury also furnished the district attorney with information he considers important. He declined to comment today but intimated it would not be many days before the public would be given an inkling of the many ramifications of the underworld activities.

Texans Leap From Car To Save Lives

CUBA, Mo., Aug. 29.—(AP)—When a crash with a Frisco passenger train seemed inevitable as the brakes of the automobile in which they were riding failed, I. N. Hancock, and his wife and daughter of Artesia, Texas, saved their lives at a grade crossing near here yesterday by leaping from the machine.

The car was demolished as it rolled onto the track from a hill above the crossing. The family was returning to Texas after a trip East.

The Younger Generation

What about the younger generation? Critics abound who would have us believe that the young people of today are on the down grade, that they are irresponsible, shallow visioned and totally incapable of solving the problems with which the future will be confronted. It is said of these young people that they are living entirely on the surface, giving their time and attention to frivolities and non-essentials.

It is by no means certain that the present adult generation is in a position to sit in judgment upon the youth of today, any more than today's younger generation should sit in too harsh judgment upon its elders. Only by an earnest effort at co-operation are satisfactory results likely to be obtained. War, for example, is an institution supported largely by the prejudices of maturity. Young people are seeking a way out of war, and their search is far more likely to be successful if they are not subjected to undeserved criticism by their elders. Then disrespct for law is an attitude for which age must assume its burden of responsibility. On the other hand, youth must recognize its responsibilities in this direction before its efforts will obtain their full measure of result.

The more aggressive and idealistic of today's young people have set themselves to the task of improving these conditions of social maladjustment. This summer in Eerde, Holland, there will be held a Youth Peace Congress, at which time the young people of many races and nations are expcted to register their determination to live above the discords and hatreds of war. A number of student conferences are to be held on the Continent during the next several weeks, and in all of these gatherings youth will set its face toward a higher and nobler destiny for the human race. Literally thousands of students will meet together in Geneva this summer, as in other years, to exchange experiences and to lay the foundation for a deeper understanding between their respective nations. Retreats and young people's conferences of one kind or another are held during the summer all over the United States. Here again youth is found pioneering its way into the hitherto unexplored areas of human happiness. An American delegation of young people is planning a good-will trip to Mexico soon Still others are going to Japan and the Balkans. Any estimate of the younger generation that leaves out of consideration this reaching out on the part of these young people for a more livable universe must be discounted in advance as unfair to youth.

History shows that many of the movements of world reform have had their beginnings in the crusading interest of youth, and by youth have been carried on to their final consummation. Young people, as a rule, are sincere. Honesty is the keynote of their ideas. They are impatient of sham and hypocrisy. They want to get somewhere and they want to take their fellow men along with them. They want to sheathe the sword. They want to democratize industry. They want to level racial barriers. They want to live under the liberty of law. They want to get at the truth of the issues to which they give themselves. Rather than being criticized for such efforts, they should be commended and encouraged—Christian Science Monitor.

Adjusting the War Debts

The 100 per cent American attitude on the war debts is to insist that they shall be paid. Says this kind of American: "It is a fair debt; they owe it; they started that war; we did our part; let them save and pay for it and they will not be preparing for another war."

France objects that it really was civilization's battle and the United States should have come to the rescue earlier. She says the debts are too heavy and that they simply cannot be paid. England has the greater dignity of an Empire nation, but doubtless would like to cut out the bulk of the debt which cannot be met soon.

The economic angle is international, and in this the United States must ask herself what is best for her foreign trade and export balance. Some of the leading financiers of the country, who have negotiated loans since the war with stricken nations, advocate cancellation or revision of the debts for their own benefit, They point out, however, that refunding of the debts to stimulate more buying of U. S. raw and manufactured products would mean more widespread prosperity than payment in gold of the money they borrowed.

Advocates of readjustment of the debts point out, furthermore, that the Allies fought our battles for nearly 15 months after the Lusitania incident, and this fact should be acknowledged in debt settlement. They recall that we demand full pay from our friends, the Allies, but no cash reparation from Germany, our enemy. The debts were made under duress, no questions asked.

The dollar of the war period is not the dollar of today. The war dollar had a lot of profit in it. To demand 1928 dollars for war-period dollars is not fair play. General Pershing has suggested that "we should bear a certain part of the expense of maintaining the Allied Armies at the front while we were preparing."

Economically speaking, the debts in bulk are uncollectable except in goods and services, which we cannot accept without damage to our own industries and our own people. Our foreign debt policy has been hardboiled up to date, but the time has come for straight-thinking, full recognition of whatever debt we owe the Allies in service on the front, and judicious recognition of the dangers of forcing payment.

This is not an argument for out and out cancellation, but we believe the rather popular hostility to debt readjustment is un-American and unwise. Refunding of debts is being done in every other kind of finance—why not in this? Justice to our debtors may be advantageous to the laborer in our factories and on our farms.

Don't Call it "Easy Money"

Two boys arrested for taking part in a bank robbery near St. Louis recently were "influenced by the desire for easy money", says a newspaper account of their deed.

Again, another newspaper, commenting on the sentencing to death of two men who took part in a recent trust company holdup in Kansas City, says it was "the result of their glowing dream of making a couple of thousand dollars in a few minutes," that tempted them.

We think the editors of both those newspapers should call their police reporters in for a little heart-to-heart talk. We feared, as we read their stories, they put just a little too much sincerity in their handling of the term "easy money" and the phrase "couple of thousand in a few minutes." We think a few adjectives would have helped those stories a lot. Suppose the writer of the first story had put down:

"Influenced by their foolish desire for easy money," or "their mistaken desire," pointing out that the boys were out after what they thought was easy money rather than what the newspaper itself seemed to think was easy money—would not the effect have been better?

And if the second writer had said something like "the robbery was the result of their ill-conceived dream of a couple of thousand in a couple of minutes," putting the mistake in the minds of the men, would his story have been so terribly editorialized?

The point is that the spoils of lawbreaking never can be called "easy money" If youth only could learn by some process except experience that robbery never is easy money, a most useful end would be served. Education seems to be about the only way.

A British newspaper is conducting a debate on the question of whether or not a man has a right to open his wife's letters. Seems to us more a question of courage.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON — The American helium center remains in Texas, but it has been removed from Fort Worth to Amarillo.

The government's new helium production plant is now being constructed just outside Amarillo and will soon be completed. The plant site covers more than 18 acres.

Here the helium will be separated from the natural helium-bearing gas piped down from the Amarillo company in a pipe-line now being constructed, to be used in the lighter than air ships of the Army and Navy, all of which are now lifted by helium.

Helium, it may be well to recall, is one of those rare inert gases which do not burn. It has no affinity with anything else and though some chemists believe they have made it combine with other things—such as platinum and bismuth—government scientists will not be convinced until after further investigation.

* * *

Helium has only 92 per cent of the lifting power of hydrogen, but the government long ago decided that this sacrifice in lifting power was more than compensated by the fact that hydrogen was dangerously inflammable.

The helium plant at Fort Worth is being abandoned only because the old Petrolia pool a hundred miles away, which has heretofore supplied it with helium, has begun to peter out. The pool was seven years old when the government first began to take helium from it.

The Bureau of Mines, which has supervision over the government helium prospects, investigated various sources of helium, testing samples of natural gas from over a wide area. It found that by far the best source was at Amarillo.

This source, according to officials of the bureau, ought to provide enough helium for "quite a few years". Such supplies are very rare, however, and there is no promise that the helium in this country will last indefinitely.

Besides the Petrolia and Amarillo sources, there is only one other important one known in the United States. It has been found in natural gas in Canada, but in very small percentages.

* * *

The government helium project was begun in 1917 and two plants were opened in Fort Worth, with a pipe-line carrying the gas all the way.

The new structures at Amarillo will be substantial and adapted for future expansion at lowest possible cost, according to the Bureau of Mines. The more important parts of the equipment will be housed in steel framed buildings.

LUNCHEON—Stuffed cabbage, rye bread, watermelon cones, milk, tea

DINNER—Roast duck, creamed onions, grape fruit and avocado salad, jellied rice pudding, milk, coffee.

Coffee made to be served iced should be of double strength and will be vastly improved by the addition of a dash of salt. Particularly for those who use cream and more particularly for those who use whipped cream to top their glasses.

Stuffed Cabbage

One medium sized cabbage, 1 cup cold left-over meat, 1 cup coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 small onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon minced thyme, 1 clove garlic, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 4 to 6 slices bacon.

Wash cabbage carefully and trim if necessary. Cook in boiling salted water for 30 minutes. Remove from sauce pan and turn upside down to drain. Soak bread crumbs in hot water. Add chopped meat, minced onion, parsley, thyme and garlic minced, salt and pepper. When the cabbage is well drained turn back the leaves and put the stuffing between. Bind around with bacon, keeping bacon in place with wooden toothpicks. Tie cabbage with a soft cord to keep in place and cook slowly until cabbage is tender. It will take about one and one-half hours. When ready to serve remove from pan, cut away cord and put on a hot platter. The final cooking can be done by gentle simmering closely covered in a little of the water in which the cabbage was cooked on top of the stove or by steaming.

Recalls Childhood Days of the Smiths Back in New York

BY MARTHA DALRYMPLE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—From the childhood games in the streets of the lower east side to the serious business of stumping the country in a presidential campaign there has flourished a close friendship between the Smiths and Mrs. Mary Collins.

The Mamie O'Leary of the neighborhood dances of wormer days and the amateur dramatics of the St. James Parish church has today become the slightly portly, silvery-haired Mrs. Collins who is an almost constant companion to Governor Smith's party.

She has spent the last month either in Albany or traveling about with the Democratic presidential nominee's group as it jumped from week-end to week-end. Today she bade a regretful farewell to the Smith family before it departed for Syracuse, and she returned to her home on St. Lukes place in Greenwich Village, next door to Mayor Walker.

She was born on Madison Street, within a block of where Mrs. Smith was born, and within two blocks of where the Governor was born. In the same house she spent her girlhood and was married, moving only to another house in the same block when she set up housekeeping as a young bride. It was only a year ago that she moved to Greenwich Village.

Of the old days the Governor and the Governor's wife, often talk.

It was a great neighborhood then, and the Parish church, clubhouse and stage were the centers of all that went on among the younger folk. Those were great days ,but these are almost better, Mrs. Collins believes.

"Most of the people who lived down there that long ago and ran around in ouh crowd have amounted to something," she said. "Of course the Governor is our most prominent citizen, and the one of whom we are most proud.

"The spirit of the old crowd still holds, and we all still stick together. Almost every time Mrs. Smith comes to New York they all gather at my house and we women have a real get-to-gether. As a rule it is just the ladies, because the Governor is always so busy that he can't take more than a minute to come down and stick his head in."

Mrs. Collins as Mamie O'Leary was a close girlhood friend of Katie Dunn who was destined to marry young Al Smith, when an ambryo politician at a salary of $75 a month. Mamie O'Leary saw the young couple met through the office of a cousin of Katie Dunn's saw the departure of the Dunn family to the elegance of the bronx, and saw the frequent visits young Al made on a bicycle to the then far distant uptown section.

Mrs. Harry Rashbaum left today for her home in Kansas City, after a pleasant visit of several days in the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Denebeim.

Mrs. F. D. Keim is attending to business in Wichita Falls this week.

Attempt To Solve Year-Old Crime

FORT DAVIS, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Continuation of evidence by which prosecuting attorneys hope to link Paul Mitchell, 27, with the slaying last September of Pat Murphy at Iraan, Texas, marked the second day of Mitchel's trial here today.

Testimony was started yesterday after more than one day was consumed in obtaining a jury.

State's witness testified to an argument between Mitchell and Murphy over money shortly before the latter's body, weighted down with rocks, was found at the bottom of the Pecos River, Sept. 30, 1927. The skull had been crushed with a blunt instrument.

Mitchell and his brother, Dave, were indicted for the crime.

More Exhibits For Fair Are Needed

The Chamber of Commerce is in need of bundle wheat, oats and rye to use in the Gray county exhibit at the Amarillo Tri-State fair September 22 to 29 inclusive. Manager George W. Briggs would appreciate anyone's bringing in some of the above named grain or phoning the Chamber of Commerce, 367, in order that someone could call for the grain.

The Pampa exhibit is fast taking shape at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and will be beautiful in design and quality.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sewell spent Sunday with relatives in Miami.

Sybil thrilled appreciatively. "But there's my past," she protested. "They say I'm a bit wild, Craigie. Fickle and hard as nails . . ."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, lovely and notorious, believes herself the most miserable of girls. JOHN LAWRENCE, her youthful lover, missing in action. TAD, her adored brother, engaged to VALERIE WEST, a frivolous creature. And now her beloved father desperately ill and breaking her heart. But Sybil has a devoted admirer—CRAIG NEWHALL, most eligible bachelor in Boston. Craig persuades her one sunny afternoon to leave her father and go with him through the country. For months Sybil and Craig have had a sort of an affair . . . "Just because a girl likes to pet with a man it's no sign she loves him," affirms Sybil. . . . And though she has permitted Craig's caresses and underrates his infatuation she is genuinely surprised when he asks her to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

"OH, CRAIG, Craig. And Simpleton!" Sybil grasped his coat lapels in both hands and, pulling him to her, kissed him and pushed him away again. "Bless and adorable fool!"

"I'd be awfully good to you," he promised, and taking her hand raised it to his lips to make a bracelet of kisses for her wrist.

Ceremonial kisses, like strands of sacred stones. Cool and chaste as pearls. . . .

Sybil took her hand away. "Kiss me on the lips," she said.

And when he had, she sighed happily, and leaned against his shoulder.

"Darling," she told him. "I shouldn't have let you—now I don't know quite what I was going to say. Don't touch me again until I've finished. Your technique isn't conducive to reasoning. And, getting married, Craig, is sort of serious. Now listen—in the first place, I'd make a wretched wife. No domestic accomplishments—no social graces—"

"Now you listen." Craig put his hand over her mouth to make her. "I don't want a cook, or a professional hostess, or anything like that. If I did, I'd go to an employment agency. I want a girl to love and pet and make a fuss over. Budgets and hashes and things aren't my idea of marriage. I'm not paging a little woman to run a vacuum and shake a wicked mop.

"I want a mistress 'all wonder and a wild desire.' A girl with crimson lips to kiss, and skin that's soft and sweet to touch. That's why I'm asking you, Sweetheart."

* * *

SYBIL thrilled appreciatively. "But there's my past," she protested. "They say I'm a bit wild, Craigie. Fickle and hard as nails, and a notorious petter."

"Well, I'm no white-haired boy myself," he admitted, and smiled at her absurdities.

"But, Craigie, you're a catch! Just try proposing to any other girl in town. My dear, you'd be surprised! They'd simply jump at you. And here you are—throwing yourself away on me! Craig—it's—it's—preposterous!" And, fumbling for a handkerchief, she wiped her eyes. "Darn wind," she said, "makes my eyes water."

"Oh, well, it's nothing to cry about." Craig patted her hand lamely. "Gee, you're a funny kid, Sybil. Anybody'd think, to hear you talk, Galahad had just proposed to Mary Magdalene. Think it over, dearest. I don't want to rush you into anything. But when Tad gets married, you're going to be very lonely. And you'll need someone to cling to."

"You don't mean that, Craig," she corrected, "not about Tad, I mean. It's daddy you're thinking about. You're afraid, when he dies, I'll go crazy again. Like when John died. And you're just wonderful enough to want to save me all you can. Grief and loneliness and everything."

* * *

SHE leaned against him gratefully.

"I feel like the girls in the comic sheets, Craig. 'This is so sudden.'"

"You darling!" he cried, and moved to take her in his arms.

"Just a minute. Just a minute." With both hands she waved him away. "Sit still like a good little boy. The lady of your heart must ponder."

"But you're so deliberate!" he protested.

"You told me to think it over," she reminded him.

And over his shoulder, as he drew away, she saw another figure. Pathetically boyish. With the sun on his hair, and the light of love in his eyes. A phantom in khaki. And she saw his mouth grow hurt, as she gazed. And his outstretched arms drop to his sides. . . . Could she break faith with the dead?

She thought of her father, as she had left him an hour ago. And he seemed to her more piteous even than John, who had died in his youth with his heart full of love and dreams.

She remembered what he had said that afternoon.

"I want to see you happily married."

"Daddy'd be so happy," she reflected, and a warm, lovely feeling filled her heart. How his dear eyes would brighten! . . . But there was John . . . John . . . John. His name beat like a drum in her ears. So that she put her hands to her temples, to keep him away. . . . Poor little boy. . . . It was so long, long ago. A sort of dream—the way he had loved her, and the way they had talked and planned. How he loved her!

"But he wouldn't if he were alive today," she told herself. "He cared so fearfully then because I was young and good, and he was young and good, too. There isn't that kind of love when a girl gets to be 23 and knows life. Love at 19 is a beautiful illusion."

Sometimes Sybil felt as if she had died with John Lawrence and been reincarnated within herself, and, having died, had gone on living. So that there had been two Sybil Thornes—and one was dead. Perhaps the girl John loved wandered with him in Elysian fields—or slept by his side in a soldier's grave. And this girl Craig wanted to marry—she wasn't really the girl John Lawrence loved. Then what if she did marry Craig? And bore him children? John Lawrence wouldn't care. What do the dead want with bodies? "Crimson lips to kiss and skin to touch."

* * *

SHIVERING, she turned to Craig.

"You know about my sweetheart," she told him. "John Lawrence, who was killed in the war. There's never been anybody else but John—not really. I love John, Craig—love him still."

"I love you too, Craig. And—and of course there's my body, Craig. Whatever's happened to my soul, there's still that. Sometimes I think bodies don't count very much. But probably they do. . . . Could you be satisfied, Craig, with a girl who—whose love was—was—sort of divided—"

Helplessly she paused. It was hard getting it into words. And Craig caught her hands that fluttered so futilely, and kissed her tear-drenched eyes.

"I should never," he murmurmed, "be jealous of a dead man."

"Then," she said, "I will marry you."

"Oh, my God!" he cried, and took her in his arms and smothered her with his caresses. "When, Sybil? When?"

"Right away," she told him. And she smiled very sweetly upon him because she was thinking of her father. But of course Craig did not know that. He only knew she looked transfigured.

"Now take me home," she commanded. "I want to tell daddy."

IT WAS dark when they reached the house. One of those soft, moist darknesses of early Spring. Piercing the dampness—throwing strange, blurred radiance—a row of cars stood at the curb, their dimmed lights glowing sepulchrally.

"Dr. Parker!" she whispered. "Daddy's doctor. And those other cars, and the house all lighted up. . . . Daddy's dead, Craig."

She clutched his shoulder in a spasm of agonized horror. Her face grew white and frozen.

The door opened and a great arc of yellow light spread from the hall over the lawn.

Solemn men, filing solemnly down the steps to their cars. A big man and a little man, carrying black bags. . . .

(To Be Continued)

What had happened while Sybil listened to Craig's proposal? There's tragedy in the next chapter. And, on the heels of Death, a marriage feast draws near.

Cards Margin Is Increased In The National League

(By The Associated Press)

It's a dog fight for runner-up position in the National league.

A small blanket would suffice to cover the Giants Cubs, Reds and Pirates who are battling fiercely to catch the St. Louis Cardinals before Mc Kethmic gets his crew too far away.

Six percentage points—or half a game—divide the Giants, present occupants of second place, from the Reds and the Pirates who are tied for fourth position.

It took some heavy losing and winning by the five contenders yesterday to bring about this situation.

The Cardinals stretched their lead t five and a half games by dowing the Cubs for the second straight day The Giants ran into disaster where they least expected it it for they were de Boston Braves at the Polo grounds feated twice by the seventh place The Pirates furthur jumbled up the standings by taking both ends of a double bill with the practically helpless Phils and thus moved up to a tie with the idle Reds.

Behind some canny pitching by Mitchell, the Cardinals had no trouble registering a 6 to 0 victory over the Cubs. The Cards were baffled by Pat Malone nutil the sixth when they scored four runs with the aid of some Cub infield arrors.

Hornsby seemed to take great delight in the Braves double defeat of the Giants, 3 to 2 and 7 to 5. He got six hits, rthee of them doubles, during the day, drove in two duns and scored four himself.

The Pirates crushed the Phils, 9 to 2, and 16 to 7. Cermen Hill gave up only four hits in the first game while Joe Dawson received credit for the second when Burleigh Grimes was knocked out of the box in the second inning.

In the American league, the Philadelphia Athletics regained ground lost on Monday by taking both ends of a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. Grove hung up his 12th straight victory in the opener, 1 to 0. Bing Miller's soingle in the seventh scored Mule Haas with the run that gave the A's the nightcap, 4 to 3.

A six run rally in the third gave the Detroit Tigers an 8 to 4 decision over Cleveland in the opening game of the series.

The St. Louis Browns rallied for two runs in the eleventh innings to turn back the Boston Red Sox 9 to 6.

Wichita Falls Is Main Offensive In the Texas League

(By The Associated Press)

The last lap of the big push in sight, Wichita Falls yesterday continued its upward offensive while four other Texas Leaague teams, besides that worsted by the Spuds, kept up a tired scramble and rain gave two others time out.

Gallant usually but inadequate yesterday, Shreveport bolted the ticket of Pitcher Brown, making four errors, and Wichita Falls went away with the second of the series, 5 to 4.

Faltering again, Dallas lost to Fort Worth, 8 to 2, because they couldn't hit Devaney well. When Leopold, for the Steers, threw the ball up in the seventh it was returned so often he was gathered to the bench.

Beaumont, yawning from a long nap, cleared for action and defeated San Antonio, 4 and 1. Bagwell's bat and an excellent defense wo nfor the Exporters, whose at home card reads "in the bottom of the League."

Houston and Waco sat on the front porch and read the papers while the park was drying out.

ARGENTINE CHANCES ARE THREATENED BY SICKNESS OF THEIR POLO MOUNTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The loss of some of their horses by sickness threatens to impare the chances of the Argentine polo team in its matches with the United States next week for the championship of the Americas. In spite of all the precautions the South Americans have taken to prevent such troubles a slight coughting and fever has developed in a few of the Argentine mounts.

Bobby Jones Breaks Chicago Link Record

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)— Chicago golf courses may have a par but Bobby Jones doesen't care. Yesterday Bobby turned in his fourth score under 70 since arriving in Chicago Saturday and in doing so set a new course record for the Flossmoor links.

Golfers and a gallery went to Flossmoor yesterday in memory of Warren K. Wood, former Western amateur champion. They saw Bobby Jones go round in 37-30—67, not only shattering the course record but coming one stroke of equalling the world's record for nine holes.

Bobby 67 was his ninth consecutive round under 70, his tenth was a 71, over five different courses, all of them diferent. Fifteen strokes have been sliced off par for the 72 holes he has played since starting practice in Chicago for the Walker cup matches which start Thursday at the Chicago golf club.

Heading the American Walker cup team which appears in its entirety to participate in the Wood memorial tournament, Jones went out in a foursome that included T. Phillip Perkins, the British champion; William Tweddell captain of the Britons, and Chick Evans, former national amateur and open champion. The remainder of the foursome did not fare so badly but their golf was mediocre besides that of Jones.

Gifts to Tunney Require Services of His Secretary

LONDON, Aug. 29—.—Gene Tunney has worked "the psychology racket," on London reporters.

When the ex-champion arrived from America last week he was mobbed by news men and photographers. He submitted gracefully to their importunities then, but dropped this little bomb: "I always heard that in England people attend to their own affairs and don't intrude on the privacy of others."

Evidently the English finally have accepted this hint for the papers have dropped Tunney like a hot brick. There is not a word abou thim in today's editions.

Gene has confessed he made a great mistake in not bringing his secretary to Europe. Telegrams, flowers, books and other gifts are pild in his rooms, and his traveling companions have notified him they are unable to stem the tide of gifts and callers.

Arrangements are being made for a temporary secretary to take charge of his affairs.

Harry Preston British sports promoter, will be host to the former champion at a dinner tonight. Although the dinner is a preliminary affair to the boxing match between Newsboy Brown and Johnny Hill, Tunney declared he does not intend to attend the bout.

He will go to Paris Monday and hopes the welcoming ceremonies there will be the last in Europe.

To Discuss Plans For Extension of Highway No. 41

A road meeting of interest to this community will be held at Wheeler September 14 when plans for the extending of highway 41 from Sayre, Okla. to pass along highway 33-A through Wheeler, Mobeetie and Pampa and thence through Skellytown, Borger and Dumas to connect with highways to Colorado will be discussed.

This proposed highway would shorten the route from Oklahoma City to points in Colorado by many miles. At the present time it is necessary to go by way of Amarillo. The road would be of material benefit to Pampa and the surrounding territory not only from the tourist standpoint but would give direct connection with points in Colorado.

Warden Favors Centralization Of State Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Capital punishment does not prevent crime, in the opinion of Captain E. F. Harrell, newly appointed warden of the Texas state penitentiary. Extreme penalty should be inflicted only in extreme cases and never on circumstantial evidence, he said he believed, in discussing prison affairs today.

The electric chair is the most humane manner of executing criminals the warden said, and the sheriff of a county in which a person is given the death penalty should throw the switch instead of one man being compelled by law to do all the executing.

Mr. Harrell said he favored centralizing the penitentiary system for the reason that it would be more economical and would afford better opportunity to prevent escapes.

Concerning a location for a centralized penitentiary, the warden said, with a vein of humor, that it should "be set way out in the middle of the plains of West Texas so the prisoners could never get out of sight when they escape."

Under the present system, he said all prisoners first are brought to Huntsville, registered, fingerprinted and given physical examination; "then we ship them out to diferent farms, all of which costs a good deal even in transportation."

Mr. Harrell, who assumed charge of penitentiary affairs less than two months ago, has instigated many reforms, One of these was stoping of "trusty" convicts from walking the streets of Huntsville at night. This met with approval of citizens here.

"Kindness is 80 percent in handling prisoners," he said. "I never whip a man. When a prisoner violates the rules he is either punished by being placed in solitary confinement or is required to do hard work. One cannot curse and abuse a convict and get along with him. I do not permit it."

Captain Harrell, who is 39, has been a peace officer for 16 years, starting in Carroll County, Mississippi in 1912. Later he was policeman and eventually chief of police at Paris ,Texas. Nearly two years ago he joined the Texas Rangers and was appointed warden of the penitentiary on July 9, 1928.

HARVE France, Aug. 29—(AP)—Secretary Kellogg said farewell to France this morning, sailing on the crusier Detroit at 11 o'clock for Ireland.

Mr. Kellogg arrived from Paris on a special train placed at his disposal by the government.

President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State accompanied Mr. Kellogg from Paris and also embarked on the Detroit.

The secretary took with him the now famous renounciation of war treaty which was signed in Paris Monday.

A Waterspout in the China Sea

A rare sight for the crew of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh was this, and a narrow escape for them too. For the phenemenon caught by the camera's eye is a waterspout, or sea-cyclone, that passed within 500 yards of the ship when she lay at the mouth of the Yangtez-Kiang river in China recently. The twister, speeding along the sea, was of such force that it drew a stream of water through its vortex. Had it reached the ship serious damage would have resulted.

Purchase of Old Line by Santa Fe Ends Chapter of Romantic Railroad History Started by Young Salesman

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29—(AP)—Purchase of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway ends a chapter of railroad history romantic and tragic.

First visioned thirty-five years ago in a dream by Arthur E. Stilwell, young insurance salesman who had come here from the East, its construction began a few years later financed by a small fry investors living far from Wall street where such projects usually are capitalized.

In the period of construction, Stilwell, was confronted by many financial obstacles, But financing was his forte. Reluctant purses yawned at his magic voice. When he was faced by any problem he went into what he described as a trance and always came out prepared.

In addition to organizing the railroad company, he established numerous subsidiaries such as construction companies and others. The construction company would build the line, taking in pay, stocks and bonds of the road.

Instead of a continuous line, the road was built in patches. It never got farther east than Wichita, Kansas, although it carried Kansas City in its name and built an expensive terminal here. Purchase by the Santa Fe gives it the first Kansas City connection.

Eventually a line that stretched 737 miles from Wichita to Alpine, Texas, was completed and three widely separated stretches including one at Topolobampo, western terminal on the Gulf of Lower California, were built, a total of 250 miles on that side of the border.

Stilwell interested English financiers who invested heavily in the road. At about the same time, when aid in the amount of $2,655,000 was forthcoming from the President Diaz of Mexico, the revolution of 1910 halted the payments after Stilwell had received about half the amount.

Even with all the financial aid Stilwell mustered, the road never was adequately equipped and as late as 1924 paid $400,000 for rental of box cars and $250,000 freight on coal hauled for its engines.

The fact that the line was the only railroad serving more than a hundred communities in western Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, caused the government to keep it going with loans.

In 1912 it was thrown into receivership and in the reorganization that folowed, Stilwell was left out entirely. The original stock was thrown in the waste basket when $6,000,000 in gold notes secured by the Orient's properties were issued. Former investors took some of the notes and new investors, including Henry Ford and Senator Couzens of Michigan became interested. All went well until the road defaulted interest payments, and its construction companies went into bankruptcy.

The road was refinanced in 1916 by noteholders deposit committee. English note holders also formed a committee but the two never worked in harmony.

Difficulties continued in 1917 and then William T. Kemper, was named receiver and authorized to issue $2,500,000 in receivers certificates to rehabilitate the line.

The Kemper receivership was a stormy period, including the years of government operations. On two occasions the road was on the point of being sold for junk. But Kemper and a few others put their own money into the line, obtained government loans and effected economies that made continued operation possible.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Reorganization of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad company, into the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway company, so that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company, can acquire it, as authorized yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission, was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Details of the reorganization plan call for the issuance of 35,000 shares of capital stock without nominal or par value by the new railway company for the purpose of acquiring the railroad and properties formerly owned by the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad company, and the assumption of obligation and liability by the new concern of a note for $2,500,000 given by the receiver of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad company, to the secretary of the treasury.

The new company also is slated to acquire and operate the railroad lines of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad company, and to acquire control of the company by purchase of its capital stock.

Opinions Vary As Hoover Campaign Plans Continue

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Cross currents of advice and opinion are bearing down upon Herbert Hoover as he busies himself with determined campaign policies and deciding matters of strategy of organization.

These come largely from East and South, but some from the West, as the Republican presidential candidate confers with his chief advisers from various sections and gets his grip upon the controls of the party machinery.

With the return of Hoover from the West, there has been an increasing pressure from New York and New England for greater activities in those sections. The set up of the Eastern organization never has been precisely described and apparently there are several groups operating more or less independently.

One set of managers now advises a general headquarters for the east and New York City while others propose that the fight in New York and New Jersey be carried on under a directing force distinct from one to have charge of affairs in New England and especially in states like Massachusetts and Rhode Island where the Democrats are concentrating their offorts.

There also is an increasing demand from the South for more effective organization work there. In that section too, some advisors would have the effort concentrated largely in those states where local leaders claim Hoover sentiment has been maniested.

These are some of the major problems Hoover must dispose of while he is working out plans for his personal participation in the campaign, which, it is becoming more and more evident, is likely to be upon a much more extensive scale than he contemplated even as late as ten days ago.

The Republican nominee will carry on his conferences here in the future at general headquarters which are being set up in a building near his street home. There his work will be fasilitated as he can keep his office force around him and also receive larger delegations than he could at his home.

Thurman of Rock Springs, owner of one of the largest goat herds in the state, says the industry for the past two years had been the leading money-maker in this section.
