

United Way report equals 65 percent complete

The 1983 Scurry County United Way campaign reported a healthy spurt of growth Wednesday morning as the effort rose some 20 percent toward its ultimate goal.

The campaign now stands at 65 percent complete — with 45 percent of this raised during the first week.

In actual dollars, the countywide effort has to date raised $50,719 of its goal of $77,300.

Wednesday's report from United Way chairmen also included the first division to exceed its goal as the Educational Division topped out at 101 percent.

Chairmen for it are Jack Gorman, representing the public schools, and Ed Barkowsky, representing Western Texas College. With a goal of $6,916 set, the pair reported United Way contributions totaling $7,375. "I think this reflects the quality of people we have both in the public schools and at the college," said Roy McQueen, drive chairman for this year's effort.

Percentages in excess of 60 percent were reported also by chairmen for the professional division, at 86 percent complete; commercial division, 83 percent; public employees, 67 percent; advance division, 61 percent; and oil and industry, 60 percent.

In actual dollars, funds raised in these divisions include: advance, $12,883; commercial, $10,761; oil and industry, $10,496; professional, $2,533; and public employees, $1,880.

Fund reports from other division chairmen Wednesday included: public utilities, 40 percent complete with $1,996 raised; royalty owners, 32 percent complete with $990 raised; and rural, 15 percent complete with $430 raised.

Division chairmen for the 1983 effort are: advance, Mickey Nunley and Don Newbury; commercial, L.E. (Doc) Griffin, Fred Castillo and Donny L. Brown; oil and industry, Jerry Vestal and Jerry Cales; educational, Jack Gorman and Ed Barkowsky; professional, Wilma Dillard and Vicki Best; royalty owners, Lyle Deffebach; rural, Bob Clifton and Brenda Hedges; utilities, Wedge Turner and Rodger Sullenger; and public employees, Rick Conner.

Ask Us

Q. — I've read that state fines are going up for Texas truckers caught in violation of overweight requirements. What will this be?

A. — Under new laws which went into effect Sept. 1, all overweight violations will be a minimum of a $100 plus court costs.

In Brief

MX okay chances improve

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan had an eye on Capitol Hill when he called on the Soviet Union to join the United States in a mutual pledge to destroy at least 5 percent of their strategic nuclear warheads a year.

There, Reagan is trying to nail down a $2.6 billion appropriation to buy 27 MX missiles — the first of 100 he wants to see deployed at Warren Air Force Base in Wyoming.

By embracing the idea of a weapons "build-down" — destroying a certain number of weapons before new ones can be deployed — Reagan apparently improved the outlook for the MX program.

But in the House, where Democrats outnumber Republicans by 267 to 167, a White House victory is not considered a cinch.

Three-wheelers said taken

Snyder police are investigating the theft of two three-wheel motorcycles from a local dealership Monday night.

According to police reports, two Honda ATC three wheelers, one a 200cc model and the other a 250cc model, were discovered missing from the lot at Key Brothers Lawn and Leisure Division on 37th St. Tuesday morning.

The missing vehicles were parked outside the building at the dealership and are thought to have been taken sometime between 5:30 p.m. Monday and 7:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Investigators report recovering a pair of fencing pliers thought used by the thief to cut a hole in the chain link fence at the lot.

Turn in exercise records

Local physical fitness enthusiasts planning to maintain a log of miles either walked, ran, swam or bicycled are asked to bring these records to the Western Texas College gymnasium area Saturday morning.

A physical fitness day is planned there Saturday with a two-mile fun run-walk scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m.

A goal of 50,000 miles has been set for Snyder residents during the month of October, Texas Physical Fitness and Sports Month.

Individuals are asked to keep records of their personal physical fitness routines each day. The cumulative total citywide will then count toward the 50,000 mile goal.

Activities are scheduled at the WTC gym area each successive Saturday of the month and these records may be turned in at that time all during October.

AFS slates special program

The Snyder chapter of the American Field Service will meet Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the Shack for a salad supper. Chris Wiman and Amy Lancaster will be in charge of the program.

Chris, chosen to be the AFS scholarship exchange student for this past summer, will show slides and tell of his experience in the Dominican Republic. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. David Wiman.

Amy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lancaster, went to Argentina as an AFS exchange student this past summer and her trip was sponsored by the local AFS chapter.

Both are seniors at Snyder High School. Anyone interested is invited to attend. Chris and Amy are also available to present programs to clubs and organizations.

Ira schedules homecoming

Ira School will have its homecoming this Friday when the Bulldogs take on Paint Creek at 7 p.m. in Bulldog Stadium.

A homecoming queen will be crowned during halftime activities. All high school girls are candidates.

ALREADY AT WORK — Scurry County parks department crews are already at work dismantling the wooden bleachers at Moffett Field in Towle Park. County officials Monday let a bid for renovation work at the facility. Once the original structure is torn down, aluminum bleachers will replace these. Concrete block dugouts will be added as well in addition to moving back the home plate fence. (SDN Staff Photo)

Sculptor plans symposium visit

Contemporary sculptor Luis Jimenez Jr. has scheduled a local appearance in conjunction with the "Images of the Contemporary Cowboy" symposium Oct. 15 at the Scurry County Museum.

Several of his works will be displayed at the Diamond M and Scurry County Museums as part of the "Where the Buffalo Roamed" symposium on that day. This exhibit will remain through Nov. 20.

Composed of fiberglass and epoxy, Jimenez's works have been described as "garish and colorful" and "piercing satire that has to do with nostalgia."

Jimenez has said his deas came from the "10-ft. polar bears and 20-ft. high horse's heads for drive-ins" found in his father's El Paso signmaking shop.

His work has been publicly commissioned numerous times, including his 24-ft. work "Sodbuster," a depiction of a farmer driving a team of oxen that now stands in downtown Fargo, N.D.

His Southwest heritage and Hispanic background play an important part in his work, making him a natural choice to represent contemporary cowboy art at the symposium, event sponsors say.

"Where the Buffalo Roamed" is to be a celebration of the American cowboy in music, art, literature, history, folklore and contemporary culture.

It will coincide with Snyder's annual White Buffalo Days celebration, which includes also an antique auction, parade, musical review and barbecue. All these events will center around the Scurry County Coliseum.

Jimenez along with other contributing contemporary cowboy artists will be honored at a reception opening the exhibit Friday, Oct. 14 at the Diamond M Museum.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Lech Walesa, founder of the now-outlawed Solidarity labor union, today won the 1983 Nobel Peace Prize for his struggle on behalf of workers' rights in Communist-ruled Poland.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee said it honored Walesa "as an exponent of the active longing for peace and freedom which exists, in spite of unequal conditions, unconquered in all the peoples of the world."

Walesa, the first Pole to win the coveted prize, was chosen for his "contribution, made with considerable personal sacrifice, to ensure the workers' right to establish their own organizations," the committee said.

It said the 40-year-old former head of Solidarity, the first independent trade union in the Soviet bloc, had worked with "a determination to solve his country's problems through negotiation and cooperation without resorting to violence."

Walesa had left his apartment this morning to hunt for mushrooms in the woods and was not at home when the prize was announced, said his wife Danuta.

"Oh god, I am very happy, very, very happy," she said when reached by telephone at their home in the Baltic port of Gdansk, where Walesa helped create Solidarity at the Lenin shipyard.

Appraisal board...

City rethinks nominations

City council members had to think again Tuesday about nominations to the Scurry County Appraisal District board.

Monday night, the council nominated six candidates to the five-member board. As council members pointed out at the time, this constituted an endorsement of the four remaining members who said they will serve again plus the names of two other men who had expressed a willingness to serve if asked.

But, a recheck of the laws governing such districts Tuesday morning by City Attorney Ernie Armstrong indicated that member entities of the district may nominate a maximum of only five candidates.

This information prompted city council members Tuesday afternoon to call a special emergency meeting. It also left them faced with the difficult task of dropping at least one name from the city's nomination list.

The choices included incumbent appraisal district directors Kenneth Wilson, Ross Blanchard, Billy Huddleston and Pete Hester. The council had been told that district

Funeral pending for civic leader

Longtime Snyder civic leader Paul Sizemore, known in recent years for his work with the Chamber of Commerce Gold Coater organization, died Tuesday. He was 76.

He passed away at 4:15 p.m. in Big Spring's Malone-Hogan Hospital following a lengthy bout with cancer.

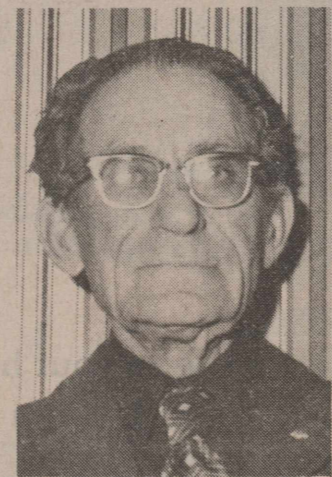

Services were pending as of noon Wednesday with Bell-Seale Funeral Home. A Masonic graveside service is planned.

He was a four-time recipient of the Gold Coater of the Year Award, presented yearly to honor the most active member of that goodwill organization.

His other local civic activities included service as president of both the chamber of commerce and the Scurry County Industrial Foundation.

In 1969, he also served as a member of the local delegation which presented Snyder as an "All American City" to the panel of judges in New Orleans. Through the efforts of individuals like Sizemore, Snyder was chosen for the honor.

In addition, Sizemore was active in the Snyder Lions Club and in the Scurry County Historical Commission.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "This is a country of faith. You can buy on the installment plan what you can't afford and you can sell on the stock market what you don't own."

A fellow in the coffee shop the other day handed us a piece of paper and instructed us to run it in the classified section.

When we returned to the office, we opened the note which read: "For Sale—Complete set of encyclopedias. Never used. Wife knows everything."

It was like the eternal optimist who wanted to sell his wife's car. The ad read, "Wife's car in good condition. Only driven to church and back. Down hill both ways."

Sales technique is important. Take for example the salesman who called on merchants whose back doors were on unlighted alleys. He tried to sell them rear-entrance floodlights to discourage burglars.

Often the businessman would say he'd never had a problem with burglars and that floodlights were not needed.

Then late that night, the salesman would drive to the darkened rear of the store and prop a crowbar against the back door.

He explained it was remarkable how many of those businessmen would call back the next day and say, "Better have one of those lights after all. It looks like somebody intended to break in here last night but got scared off."

We heard about a Snyder man who recently went to Las Vegas with a couple of his male friends. It was a good weekend and he brought home more than $50,000.

"You are going to report that to the IRS?" asked his friends. "No, and I'm not going to report it to the MRS either."

Convicted sheriff faces new charges

HOUSTON (AP) — A former sheriff already convicted of torturing jail inmates now faces new federal charges accusing him of arresting drivers on trumped up charges to extort bail money.

An indictment released Tuesday charges James C. "Humpty" Parker, 47, and his son, Gary, with conspiring to deprive citizens of civil rights and six counts of forging and falsifying arrest records and submitting them to FBI agents.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Scott Woodward said the Parkers each face 70 years in prison and fines of $16,000 if they are convicted of all the new counts.

Three other men — former bail bondsmen Herbert Atwood and James L. Browder, and former deputy Robert Rice — are charged only with the conspiracy count that carries maximum penalties of 10 years in prison and $10,000 fines.

U.S. Magistrate Ray McQuary released Gary Parker, Atwood and Browder on $10,000 personal recognizance bonds. Parker was scheduled to surrender to U.S. marshals today, Woodward said.

"It was a money-making proposition," Woodward said. He said he did not know specifically how much the trap, which operated from at least 1978 until 1982, produced.

"A bunch — a lot," he said. The elder Parker was convicted Sept. 14 of forcing jail inmates to give him confessions by handcuffing them to chairs and half-drowning them by pouring pitchers of water over their heads.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda is to sentence Parker Oct. 25 on three counts of civil rights violations. Parker faces a maximum penalty of 12 years in prison and a $12,000 fine.

This week's indictment said deputies sought out cars driven by "hippies" or blacks. They also searched for cars bearing "Louisiana license plates with the letter 'G'" and bumper stickers for KLOL-FM, a Houston rock authorized to set bond, the arrested people were required to pay either a bond fee and/or an additional sum of money known as an "escrow pre-payment" to obtain their release.

The grand jury said the defendants then divided the fees among themselves and confiscated drugs, guns and other property from the vehicles which they either kept or sold, and failed to report accurately to appropriate county authorities.

Parker had agreed to plead guilty to charges similar to those announced Tuesday, but on April 8, U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald threw out Parker's guilty plea, contending the sentence was too lenient.

Under the aborted bargain, Parker would have served three years in a minimum security prison, five years on probation.

"They used a pretext to stop them — a license plate light out, something like that — then they'd do an illegal search," Woodward said. He said the victims were taken to jail and charged "bond" money, which was not reported to county officials, for their release.

The indictment said that, without probable cause, the officers searched the vehicles and occupants, sometimes conducting strip searches of men and women, and then damaged or altered the vehicles to create false evidence to justify the stops.

The indictment said that without ever being taken before a judicial officer and have been fined $15,000.

Parker voluntarily resigned after his indictment on the water torture charges.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Uterine fibroids

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 39-year-old woman. Five years ago I was diagnosed as having uterine fibroids. During the past year I have noticed an increase in the duration of my periods. My flow is heavier and more clots are evident.

Five months ago my gynecologist told me my fibroids were the size of a seven- to eight-week pregnancy. He also said surgery wasn't performed until fibroids were the size of a 14- to 16-week pregnancy. Is there any particular reason for waiting until fibroids double in size?

I firmly believe in the saying, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." But I wonder if an elective dilatation and curettage (D&C) might not eliminate more severe problems and a possible hysterectomy in the future.

Since I am aware that approximately 50 percent of all hysterectomies performed in the United States are unnecessary, I'm sure you can appreciate my concern.

DEAR READER — Go see your gynecologist again. I am more concerned about your bleeding than about your fibroids. While the size of the fibroids is important, if smaller ones cause bleeding then it might be wise to remove them.

Your fibroids sound like they are so small that your doctor probably hopes that they may not enlarge much more before your menopause. They often shrink then.

Your bleeding may be unrelated to your fibroids. If it is excessive or changed, a D&C may be wise to check the lining of your uterus. And it may stop the excessive bleeding. Don't ignore it.

Fibroid tumors as a reason for a hysterectomy are discussed in The Health Letter 14-12, Hysterectomy, Cystocele and Rectocele, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It is true that some hysterectomies prove to be unnecessary. But a certain number of those removed would have developed cancer of the uterus. No one will ever know which ones because the uterus was not left in to progress to something more serious. So while I don't approve of just taking out a uterus because it is there, I believe that in a number of instances a so-called unnecessary hysterectomy may have prevented cancer. It is not a black or white situation as some believe.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the danger from a trephination operation done to evacuate blood from a subdural hematoma? Are there any side effects? How many incisions do you make to do the drilling for a hole in the skull?

DEAR READER — You are asking very complicated questions. Trephining is an ancient medical treatment done in prehistoric times to allow evil spirits to escape.

The bored hole through the skull is still used to relieve pressure from a blood clot from a hemorrhage inside the skull, most commonly from an epidural hematoma, meaning a clot outside the membranes (dura) that encases the brain.

But whether trephining or actual removal of bone for more exposure is done depends upon the nature of the hemorrhage and location.

The symptoms or damage that might occur are usually from the damage that may have already occurred to the brain from pressure, or from the injury that caused the hematoma in the first place, not the operation.

Opening the skull to remove clots, or for other reasons, is called a craniotomy.

What he said was, "There's a sucker born every minute — and two to take him!"

Some Chicago used car dealers have been selling rebuilt wrecks without telling the buyer they were rebuilt wrecks.

Thus they brought $1,500 to $2,000 more than they were worth.

The Feds caught eight. In southern Florida where con men used to sell swampland there's a new breed of hustler; merchants who sell things they never deliver.

Consumer fraud nationally is $5 billion annual business and nowhere worse than in Dade County, "The Dodge City of Consumerism."

Miami is a happy fleecing ground for scam artists where they can prey for pay on the elderly, the immigrants and the drugged.

One of the 24 indicted the other day was head of the local Better Business Bureau!

You know what else has become a nationwide racket? Stealing rare books from libraries.

Professional thieves are stealing rare books worth millions, in fact, some one-of-a-kind books — Copernicus, Galileo, Newton, Sir Walter Raleigh; those can be worth half a million each.

Because most have to be disposed of overseas our FBI is working on this with INTERPOL.

That's not all. Fishermen are cheating.

Fishermen are attending fishing tournaments, bringing with them some big frozen ones which they thaw out in time to win prize money.

The Texas Bass Association makes the winner take a lie detector test. Despite that precaution, they figure cheating anglers in four states have made off with a quarter million dollars in prizes.

Then there are the big-league crooks. A New York Grand Jury believes that Marc Rich, the international commodity trader, evaded $48 million in federal income taxes.

And that he also is guilty of racketeering, mail fraud, wire fraud and trading with an enemy of the United States.

He's yet to be tried, but what most of these people do, of course, is misuse other people's money.

The guy who doesn't pay his taxes hikes yours.

The shoplifter raises your prices.

The welfare cheat and the insurance cheat are picking your pocket.

A fellow can get cynical — but for all that I have to agree with Jackson Jimmy Ward: "I'd rather get cheated once in a while than to go through life trusting no one."

Schmidt homer makes for 1-0 win

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Mike Schmidt says the opening game of the 1983 National League Championships is merely history now, but the Philadelphia Phillies slugger played the major role in its making.

Dempsey on spot against Chi-Sox base runners

BALTIMORE (AP) - He does one heck of a Carlton Fisk imitation, but at this stage of his career, he might be just as happy to be Rick Dempsey.

Dempsey, catcher for the Baltimore Orioles, was a man on the spot as the American League playoffs began. Considered one of baseball's best-throwing catchers, Dempsey will have to contend with the fleet feet of the Chicago White Sox.

As a team this season, the White Sox stole 165 bases, 77 by Rudy Law and 57 by Julio Cruz.

Over the last several seasons, Orioles fans have gotten used to Dempsey's antics, especially during rain delays when he comes onto the tarp and imitates, among others, former Manager Earl Weaver, his teammates and, most memorably, Fisk. The object of Dempsey's Fisk caricature was the 1975 World Series when, as the Boston catcher, Fisk homered to win the sixth game against Cincinnati. Fisk's homer was down the left-field line, and, as he danced sideways toward first, Fisk waved the ball into fair territory.

Now, Dempsey and Fisk are opposing catchers in the AL playoffs, which begin today. Fisk, signed by the White Sox as a free agent in 1981, probably won't have to worry too much about Orioles baserunners. They stole only 61 bases this season.

Left-hander Scott McGregor, 18-7, and 1-0 this season against Chicago, was picked by Manager Joe Altobelli to start the opener for the Orioles, who were favored 13-10 to win the playoffs by Nevada oddsmakers.

McGregor will be followed in the playoff rotation by rookie right-hander Mike Boddicker, 16-8, left-hander Mike Flanagan, 12-4, and right-hander Storm Davis, 13-7. Jim Palmer was the winningest pitcher in baseball this year, right-

"The game means nothing now except that guys will write about it for tomorrow and we'll think about it for a couple of hours before starting to think about the next one," Schmidt said Tuesday night after he homered in the first inning for the only run in Philadelphia's 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I remember we won the first game against the Dodgers in the 1977 Championship Series, but they came back to win the next three," he said. "Of course, being up by one game is more fun than being down by one."

"I know the Dodgers are a great ball club, and there's going to be some hitting before this series is through."

There was little hitting in the first game of the best-of-five series, which resumes tonight in Dodger Stadium with Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela, 15-10 during the regular season, going against Philadelphia's John Denny, 19-6.

Steve Carlton blanked the Dodgers on seven hits for 7 2-3 innings before giving way to ace reliever Al Holland with the bases loaded and two away in the bottom of the eighth. Holland got Mike Marshall to fly out to right to end the Dodgers' strongest threat of the game.

Jerry Reuss was the loser in the pitchers' duel, allowing five hits before going out for a pinch-hitter in the bottom of the eighth. His performance was flawed only by the fastball in the first inning that he threw in Schmidt's preferred hitting area, low and across the plate.

Both the winners and the losers agreed it was a well-played contest.

"Carlton pitched a super game," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "We had our chances to score a couple of times and we didn't. Who would have thought that Schmidt's home run in the first inning would have been all they needed to win."

"Reuss pitched a great game, but just came up short," Lasorda continued. "We hope our turn comes tomorrow."

Tigers ready; freshmen fall

Coach Leslie O'Pry said her varsity volleyball team is ready to return to District 2-4A play after taking Tuesday off.

The Tigers, who are tied with two other teams for the district lead, will travel to Fort Stockton for a 7:30 match Thursday. The junior varsity will play at 6:30.

"We needed it to work on a few things," said O'Pry of the day off, "but we're ready to go. We're always ready."

She said she didn't think the long trip would bother her girls.

"I don't think the traveling will hurt us. Of course we'd rather stay home...but in a way it (traveling) will help because we'll be mentally preparing, while we are traveling," she said.

Fort Stockton is 3-4 in 2-4A competition this season. Snyder is 6-1 and tied with Monahans and Pecos.

In freshman action Tuesday, Snyder lost to Big Spring, 15-5 and 5-6.

Serving for points for Snyder were Christy Valadez 5, Stephanie McKnight 3, Jamie Gregory 2 and Julie Williams 1.

The freshmen will play again next Tuesday in Lamesa at 5 p.m.

Rodeo features college students

Shane Smith, Mark Mauldin and Kellie Kyle were top winners in the Western Texas College School Rodeo, held here Tuesday.

Approximately 30 students, many of which were WTC rodeo team members, competed in the afternoon show.

Smith, from Sweetwater, won the bareback, the saddlebronc and tied with Odessa's Dale Gideon for first place in the bull riding.

Mauldin teamed with Kenny Riley of Snyder in the team roping and won the calf dressing with Craig Murdoch of Jayton and Judy Cox of Comanche, Okla. Mauldin is from Roby.

Kyle, of Quanah, won the goat tying and the barrel race.

Western Texas rodeo teams will compete in the Sul Ross State University NIRA Rodeo this Thursday through Sunday.

Below are results of Tuesday's rodeo here.

The Brothers, Grimm...others-Bunch Oil Silver...llets and Walton's...gles took victories in...ynder Flag Football...eague play last week.

The Brothers scored on three passes from James Wells to Keith McClain and one from Smokey Ollison to Charles Anderson in defeating the CA White Cowboys, 25-6. The others also converted on Wells to Anderson pass.

The Cowboys got their score on a toss from Joe Hall to Shawn Ragland.

The Silver Bullets got passing mileage out of Marvin McClanahan in their 39-0 win over the Cadillac Cowboys. McClanahan threw TD passes to Clayton Riley, Greg Gafford and Steve Grimm. Riley also passed to Russell Gafford for a touchdown and ran for another one. Grimm also ran for a touchdown.

The Bullets also converted twice as Grimm ran over one and caught a pass from McClanahan for another.

The Eagles got two passes, one from Frank Hill to Steve Jenkins and another from David Lee to Ricky Escobedo, in whipping the J&J Machine Jets, 13-0. Hill also threw to Jenkins on a conversion.

League standings early into the season have the Brothers at 3-0, Grimm Brothers-Bunch Oil Silver Bullets at 2-0, J&J Machine Jets at 2-1, Walton Eagles and the CA White Cowboys at 1-2 and the C.T. Raiders and the Cadillac Cowboys at 0-2.

Cowboys to honor Staubach during halftime activities

DALLAS (AP) - Roger Staubach, who led the Dallas Cowboys to four Super Bowls, will be inducted into the team's Ring of Honor at halftime Sunday and Coach Tom Landry said he can't think of a better candidate.

"If ever there was a person who deserved it other than Bob Lilly it's Roger Staubach," said Landry. "You couldn't pick anyone who meant any more to our team in the 1970s."

Staubach will join Don Meredith, Lilly, Chuck Howley, Don Perkins, and Mel Renfro in the Ring of Honors. Lilly was the most recent inductee in 1981. Staubach was supposed to be honored last year but the strike interfered.

Landry said Staubach was a great competitor "who probably would have played another year or so but knew that Danny White was ready. Roger was the kind of player who felt he was never beaten."

The induction will come at intermission of the 3 p.m. Dallas-Tampa Bay National Football League meeting.

The unbeaten Cowboys were 13 point favorites and Landry said "I hate games like this, it's very unusual."

The Bucs are fresh off a 55-14 walloping by the Green Bay Packers.

"Tampa Bay will be playing with their pride hurt," said Landry. "They are going to come to town to play. They are a team that has been stung and those are the ones who play the hardest."

The Cowboys have beaten Tampa Bay five times with all the victories coming in Texas Stadium.

"This game will be tough," promised Landry. "We've kept Tampa Bay out of the championship quite a few times and they haven't forgotten it."

"We've been in a few runaway games ourselves. We got beat by the Vikings like that once."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago when I found out that my husband was having an affair with my mother, I practically went into shock! My husband said he loved me and wanted another chance. We'd been married for eight years and had three children, so I forgave him and my mother, too. Things were better for a little while, then a week ago he confessed that he had never stopped seeing my mother. I told my two sisters about it, and they both said Mom had slept with their husbands, too. (Our father doesn't know this, but he's caught her with other men.) I want to leave my husband, but I hate to break up my family. My parents come over often and my mom flirts openly with my husband, which tears me apart. (She says if she acts "cold" to him, Dad would wonder why.) I think I'm losing my mind, Abby. I'm so depressed, I cry all the time. Please help me. I don't want to be a 26-year-old divorced mother of three.

GOING TO PIECES

DEAR GOING: There are worse things than being a 26-year-old divorced mother of three. And living as you are is one of them.

Run, do not walk, to the nearest shelter for abused women in your area. You need emotional support and counseling in order to get your head together, bolster your self-esteem and learn how to make it on your own. Your husband desperately needs counseling — and so does your mother — but for the moment, look out for yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I am a student on a limited budget. What should I say when a stranger accosts me on the street and asks for money? I am entirely dependent on my parents for financial support, and I simply cannot afford to give away money.

Instead of just walking away and feeling guilty, would it be all right to say, "I'm sorry I have no money to spare, but I will say a prayer for you"?

VANCOUVER, B.C.

DEAR VAN: I wouldn't recommend apologizing, explaining or offering to say a prayer for a stranger who accosts you on the street and asks for money. Just say "No" and keep walking. And if you want to pray for him, go ahead and pray. You don't need a person's permission to pray for him.

DEAR ABBY: Please remind your readers to get up and walk about at least every two hours to prevent problems with blood circulation while traveling. Muscle-flexing exercises are also helpful, but walking is better.

Recently, in a medical staff meeting, I heard of a 28-year-old woman who developed a blood clot in her leg, apparently as a consequence of a long car ride without a break. She developed severe complications that nearly cost her her life.

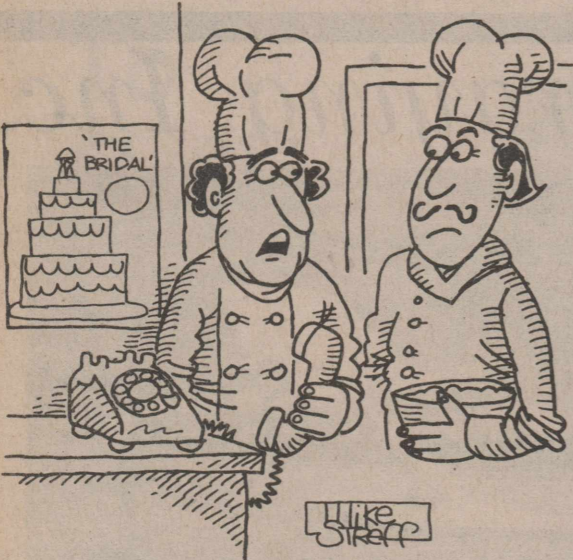

Long airplane rides can cause this condition when a considerate passenger is too reluctant to disturb another passenger.

FRIENDLY PHYSICIAN

DEAR FRIENDLY: Thanks for an excellent suggestion, to which I want to add: When sitting for long periods, refrain from crossing your legs. It inhibits normal circulation.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

"They want to order a 'living-together cake.'"

Autry is product of broken home

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — James David Autry, a two-time loser condemned to death for the 1980 murder of a convenience store clerk, never had a chance to be anything but bad, his attorneys say.

Autry, the product of a broken home, spent much of his boyhood in reform schools. At 18, he was sent to prison for armed robbery and was later convicted of burglary.

Autry had been out of prison less than three months when he casually walked into the Sak-N-Pak convenience store, picked up a six-pack of beer and then killed the clerk with a single shot between the eyes when she asked for $2.70, said the prosecutor who convinced jurors that the 29-year-old drifter from Amarillo deserved to die.

"I've never seen anybody more cold blooded. He's a dangerous man who doesn't care for life," said Assistant Jefferson County District Attorney David Moore.

But Autry, a tall, slender man who seems almost shy, might have been a better man had his family life been better, according to affidavits filed in a state appeals court.

Autry's older sister, Pamela Cook Lynn, described their childhood home as a battleground between the parents.

"Our father stayed drunk almost all the time. He was sometimes violent with us kids and often he was violent with my mother. Because of my father's violent nature and heavy drinking, he and James never got along," she said.

"My father was constantly telling James that he was good for nothing, a bum and a criminal," Ms. Lynn said.

"I just feel that if he had been brought up better by my father and if he had had just a few more breaks in life and if he had had a little more opportunity to see what life in the free world was like, none of this would have happened," she said.

Stefan Presser, an attorney for the Texas Civil Liberties Union, argued jurors never would have imposed the death sentence had they known about Autry's troubled childhood.

Instead, the 29-year-old Autry, known as "Cowboy" to other inmates, spent the past three years waiting in a 5-foot-by-9-foot cell for his punishment to be carried out. Some of Texas' 170 condemned inmates have been on death row for more than nine years.

Autry believes his case has moved faster through the courts because one of his two brothers threatened State District Judge Leonard Giblin.

"They (detectives) told me that my brother said that if they killed me that he would kill the judge. But I don't believe my brother would ever do that," he said.

Court officials were notified by Amarillo, Texas, police that threats had been made against Giblin last year. Giblin said he was taking precautions but said the threat had no bearing on the case.

Autry has denied killing Shirley Drouet, a 43-year-old mother of five who took the job as clerk at the store to earn some extra money.

He also denied killing Joseph Broussard, 43, and a former Catholic priest who discovered the bloody body, and denied injuring Athanasios Svarhas, 30, a Greek sailor who suffered permanent brain damage.

"Eagles" relates a gripping true story

ON WINGS OF EAGLES. By Ken Follett. Morrow. 439 Pages. $16.95.

There are few true stories more gripping than this account of the escape of two Americans from revolt-torn Iran. It also gives a fascinating portrait of the men who helped them get away, each famous in his own right.

The ill-fated Americans were executives working for Ross Perot, owner of Petrus Oil and Gas Co., when they were picked up in Tehran in December 1978 by the henchmen of an Iranian bureaucrat and tossed in jail without charge.

Had it not been for two men who went to their aid they might still be there.

Perot apparently had as much courage as he did money. He had first won fame during the Vietnam War when he chartered two planes and tried to fly Christmas dinners to Hanoi for ill-fated American prisoners of war. As expected, Perot's planes were not allowed to land, but he did create enormous international awareness of the treatment of the captive Americans.

The other man who played a key role in plucking Perot's employees from the Iranian jail was Col. "Bull" Simons, who had won fame in November 1970 when he and a team of commandos raided North Vietnam's Son Tay prison in a daring bid to rescue American POWs. It might have succeeded had not those prisoners already been moved elsewhere.

Perot, who had met Simons after the abortive attempt at Son Tay, decided that if anyone could rescue his aides and spirit them out of Iran, it would be the colonel.

This is an extraordinary tale of a raid by a group of computer executives transformed into a crack commander team by Simons.

The team succeeded in doing more than the U.S. government: engineering the escape and the even more daring flight across Iran into neighboring Turkey and on to final safety.

There are arresting sidelights to the story. For instance, at that stage, months before Khomeini's mass arrest of Americans at the embassy and their long detention, the Ayatollah seemed well-disposed toward Americans in general and warned his followers not to mistreat U.S. citizens trying to get home. However, this did not include Perot's two jailed executives.

The only shortcoming in this account is the thoroughness of author Ken Follett, who recounts in detail every occasion when the fugitives are stopped by police in some village. But even this seems justified for the sake of authenticity.

and knocks out the ace of diamonds. Maybe East wins the first, second or third diamond.

It makes no difference. East clears the hearts and South cashes all the clubs and diamonds to wind up with an overtrick.

No one has noticed that East could have shifted to a spade. If someone does, it is mentioned that since East holds the spade jack, that shift would yield just two spade tricks for the same result of three bid, four made.

Now let's look at really expert defense in operation. East can count 10 tricks for declarer if he leads back a heart, so he realizes that a spade shift is imperative. Then he reviews his bridge books and recalls the "bracket" play. This play is designed to nullify some high-spot card held by dummy when you hold the cards that bracket it.

East leads the jack of spades. South can put up his queen, duck, whistle a sad tune, but come what may, the defense is going to cash four quick spade tricks and set him one.

To clean out a steam iron, fill it with a solution of one part vinegar to two parts water, let it steam, then rinse with clean water.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The approach of autumn means it's time to plant the bulbs that will brighten your garden next spring — tulips, hyacinths, muscari, crocus, iris and scilla. The snow will hardly be gone in some areas when these blooms will create their magnificent color.

There are many types and varieties of bulbs to choose from, ranging from plants a few inches to 4 feet in height and blooming for an extended period of time.

Before autumn's first frost, select firm, plump, unblemished bulbs and plant them promptly. The best time is September or October in the North and a little later in the South.

Loosen the soil to a depth of 10 to 12 inches so that tender roots can penetrate soil easily. Good drainage is needed. Bulbs often rot in water-soaked soil. Add peat moss, sand or vermiculite to loosen the soil and mix in bonemeal or other fertilizer rich in calcium, phosphorus and magnesium before planting.

Plant large bulbs such as tulips, irises, hyacinths and daffodils 6-8 inches deep, pointed end up, and 6 inches apart. Snowdrops, crocuses, muscari, scilla and other small bulbs should be planted 4 inches deep, 3 inches apart. In the South reduce the depths an inch or so.

It is a good idea to mulch planted areas with leaves, wood chips, salt hay or cocoa-bean shells to conserve moisture and discourage wide temperature fluctuations.

Water bulbs well when planting and water regularly all fall until the ground freezes. Once in the ground bulbs will send out roots, and the embryo flower inside the bulb will begin to grow into a full-sized plant. In spring, when first shoots appear, feed with 12-12-12 fertilizer to provide nitrogen and potassium. Remove leaf mulch in spring before shoots emerge. This will improve the garden's appearance.

After bulbs have flowered, remove faded blooms, but let foliage grow until it turns yellow. When foliage is ripening it is helping the very important process of building and nourishing the next year's bulbs.

By planting fragrant Dutch hyacinth bulbs now you can have a red, white and blue flower display in spring, long before the Fourth of July.

Of course, hyacinths, which must be planted in the fall, also come in Easter shades of yellow, pink, violet, peach and orange. Varieties that will provide "patriotic" colors include brilliant red "Amsterdam," white "Carnegie," and Dutch porcelain "Delftblue."

Other handsome shades appear from "Pink Pearl," canary yellow "City of Haarlem," and peaches-and-cream "Lady Derby."

Hyacinths are easy to grow. Treat them as you do tulip and daffodil bulbs. Fertilization improves bulb performance and encourages flowering for several years without replacement.

Among recent garden books are:

The Country Journal Book of Hardy Trees and Shrubs, by Harrison L. Flint (Battletown, Vt. $10.) Designed to help you select the right tree or shrub for the right climate, shade, color or screening. Cost and maintenance are explained.

Herbs & Herbalism, edited by Malcolm Stuart. (Van Nostrand Reinhold Co. $12.95.) Thoroughly illustrated, covering herbs A to Z. Includes herb organizations, descriptions and uses.

Courses for better service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the nation's restaurants are giving their staff a special course to help improve service.

The program originated after the National Restaurant Association learned from a poll that what customers looked for in a restaurant were good food, cleanliness, parking and "friendly service." While the first three may be attained by hiring quality chefs, diligent janitors and enlarging parking space where permitted, the trade association had no formula to make service more "friendly."

After many attempts, the NRA asked Sandy Corp., a training and communications consulting firm in Southfield, Mich., to solve the problem. Louis P. Kasman of Sandy said a program had been developed involving restaurant managers.

"We train the trainers," he said. "Once the management people have completed the course, they'll be able to teach what they have learned to the rest of the staff."

Vehicle in collision with railroad tamper

Four traffic mishaps, including one called major by investigators, were reported in Snyder Tuesday.

A Santa Fe Railroad crossing in the 2300 Block of Ave. E was the scene of the major mishap at 1:26 p.m. According to reports, a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Michael Rodriguez of 413 20th St. was in collision with a Tamper brand switch tamper owned by the Santa Fe Railroad Co. and driven by Raymond Lopez of Amarillo.

Rodriguez was reported taken from the scene of the mishap to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle where he was treated for minor injuries and released. Damage to the vehicle was extensive.

Tuesday's first minor accident was reported at 8:14 a.m. on the parking lot of the Eastridge Apartments. Involved in this mishap were a 1969 Ford driven by Redonna Gay Ramsey of the Eastridge Apartments and a 1977 AMC driven by Mary Ellen Davis of Rotan.

Damage to both vehicles was classified as minor to moderate.

Houston Ballard of 1100 16th St. reported a minor hit and run accident at his residence at 1:30 p.m. Ballard told police a fence at the residence had been struck by an unidentified vehicle sometime between 5:30 p.m. Monday and 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Damage to the fence was estimated at $100.

The final mishap of the day occurred on the Taco Villa parking lot at 6:16 p.m. Involved in it were a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Robert Alan Phariss of 3911 Eastridge Dr. and a parked 1977 Ford owned by Thomas Flores Leyva, Jr. of 607 34th St.

Damage was listed as minor to moderate.

Demonstrators are protesting

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Shouting anti-government slogans, an estimated 15,000 demonstrators marched to the Zocalo, the city's main plaza, tossing two fire bombs at the National Palace as they passed by.

Guards at the palace, location of several cabinet ministries and President Miguel de la Madrid's offices, quickly extinguished the fires and the bombs caused no substantial damage. De la Madrid was not there at the time of the Monday evening demonstration.

Protesting inflation, government austerity moves and demanding salary increases, demonstrators from 60 political, labor, student and other organizations marched in two columns that converged at the Zocalo Monday evening.

City rethinks nominations

board member Pat Falls would not seek a new term.

Other names on the first nomination list were Billy Hairston and John Reed, both members of the original appraisal district board.

After approximately 45 minutes of discussion, the council opted to nominate only two names, those of Hairston and Reed.

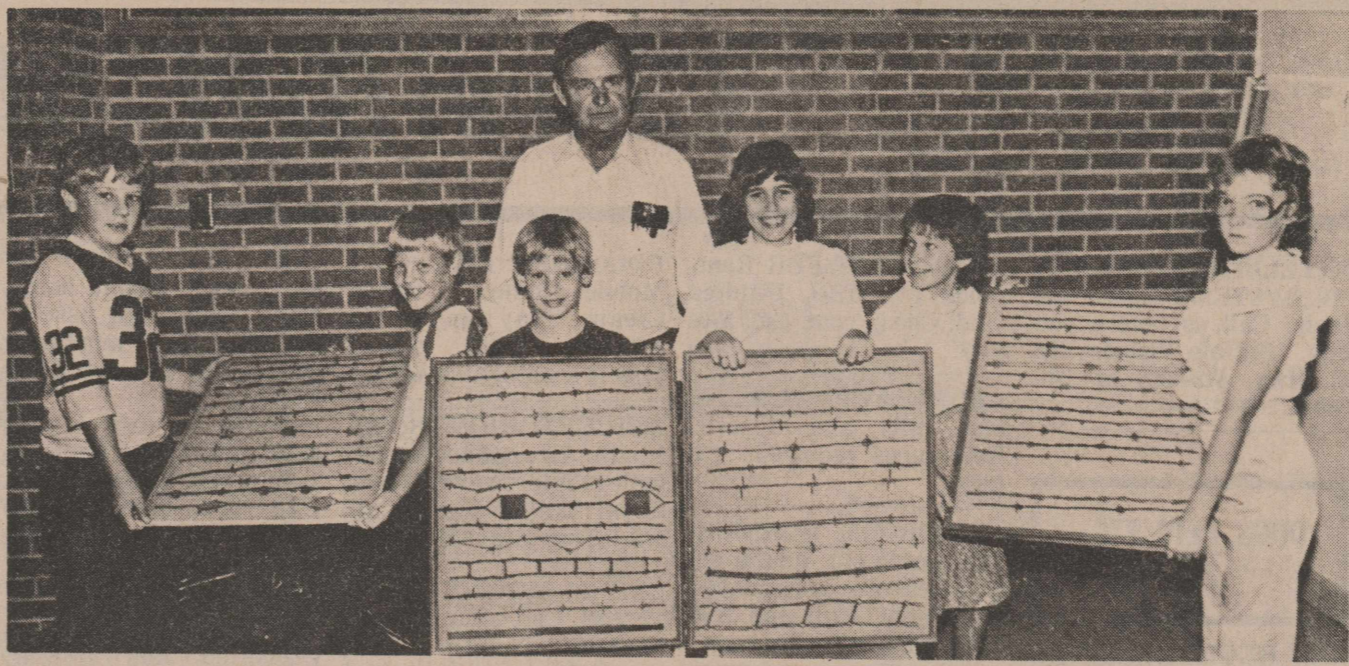

This option followed a motion first made by council member Don Gressett early in the meeting. His motion failed to receive a second, but after further discussion the council returned to this plan for adoption.

During discussion, it was pointed out that the council's original motion made Monday should indicate that "as a group, we support the current board plus both new candidates."

The option to nominate only Hairston and Reed was then decided upon to give both men an equal opportunity to serve.

Making the motion which was ultimately passed by the city board was Councilman Mickey Nunley.

Nominations for the board are still to be received from other member entities of the appraisal district. These include the school districts for Snyder, Hermligh and Ira plus the Scurry County commissioners court. The nomination process must be completed by Oct. 15.

Sears shares barbed wire collection

Ernie Sears recently shared his barbed wire collection with June Brock's Stanfield fifth graders as part of the continuing effort by local teachers to teach their students about our western heritage. The various studies are being coordinated in conjunction with the Oct. 15 White Buffalo Days celebration.

Sears first became interested in barbed wire when his mother-in-law (whose father had worked on the Matador ranch) gave him his first sample plus a copy of the book, "The Wire That Changed the West," written by a geologist. Within three to four years he had amassed his collection which have been displayed in various museums.

Sears said it was natural for him to be interested in such things since he grew up in an era "not too far removed from that time."

Some of Sears' barbed wire samples have patents which date back to the 1860s. Each item as well as patent as its own personal history he said.

Taxis charge higher fares

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico City taxis began charging higher fares Tuesday.

City officials authorized rate hikes under a complex system that depends on distance, time and whether the taxis are cruising or work for stands.

Tires cut, tapes stolen

Snyder police are investigating one criminal mischief incident and an auto burglary reported Tuesday.

Mary Lou Gonzales of 3607 Kola Ave. called police at 11:50 a.m. and reported a tire slashing incident. She told investigators someone had cut two tires on her 1977 Chevrolet while the car was parked at Snyder High School between 10 p.m. and midnight on Sept. 30.

Jay Clay of Crosbyton filed the auto burglary complaint with local authorities at 2:21 a.m. Wednesday. He told investigators that a stereo equalizer and a case full of tapes valued at $400 had been taken from his car earlier in the evening.

The missing items were thought to have been taken while the car was parked at Western Texas College.

Society must readjust now

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid says Mexico's middle classes lived better than their counterparts in industrialized countries in the recent past, but it was an "artificial standard of living."

"We Mexicans lost, for a time, the sense of proportion, the sense of limitation, but what is most serious, the sense of discipline and productive work," de la Madrid told private sector representatives during a tour of the state of Mexico, bordering Mexico City, on Monday.

"Now all Mexican society is subject to a readjustment, all Mexican society is seeing the effects on artificial standards of living that we only achieved through unrealistic economic and financial policies and as a result of habits whose cost the country was not prepared to pay."

Fewer policemen must have impact of many

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Sergeant Tom Burke's cops are nearly invisible. They fade into the white stucco background of West Los Angeles. In T-shirts, dungarees or worse, they look like the felons they are out to catch.

yesteryear might have said. But it is actually the latest evolution, as police everywhere reach into their bag of tricks to keep up with the latest trend in crime and find some tactic to deal with it.

The task force approach, a theme with dozens of variations, is an example of targeting police effort, hitting where it counts, getting the most out of the police dollar, part of a necessary shift in police strategy.

There are fewer cops today than there were a decade ago. New York's once robust force of some 30,000 is now some 23,000. Proposition 13 pruned the Los Angeles P.D. While major crimes rose 46 percent in five years to 1982, the police had to trim more than 500 officers from already thin ranks.

At the same time, total arrests declined 22 percent and the city had to abandon a team policing concept that showed promise of quieting difficult neighborhoods. It didn't have the officers.

With few exceptions, police dollars have been cut across the country. The police can do less today than they could 20 years ago. They have a mandate to do it better.

Effective as these techniques are, they inevitably bring the cop and culprit into a potentially hot confrontation. And that inevitably comes as a shock to the culprit.

In New York's Manhattan, a lone pedestrian on the way home late at night becomes aware of two youths following for a dozen blocks on nearly deserted Madison Avenue. He is slugged as he tries to leap to the safety of a bus — and then finds himself in the arms of a plainclothes police sergeant.

By early 1900s cities began issuing cop guns

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The American policeman used to be little more than a night watchman, armed with a stick or nothing at all.

The Los Angeles dictum, which is similar to rules in most big cities, dates from 1977: "An officer is equipped with a firearm to protect himself or others against the immediate threat of death or serious bodily injury or to apprehend a fleeing felon who has committed a violent crime and whose escape presents a substantial risk of death or bodily injury to others."

The police prefer to handle such complaints internally and bring charges against officers when they think they are warranted. How thoroughly and fairly these investigations are conducted is often a matter of dispute.

Indictments, in any case, are unusual, with prosecutors and courts recognizing the delicate balance between the hazard to an officer's life and his action to defend it. That reluctance, minority groups contend, too often is extended to officers who clearly use excessive force.

In 1982, seven New Orleans police officers searching for a cop-killer shot four blacks to death. A police investigation found they had acted in self-defense. Federal and state officials declined to seek indictment on criminal charges.

Last month, tempers in the city's black community were roiled again when police killed one of two black youths riding a motorcycle they were chasing. Police claimed to have mistaken the backfire for shots. Later, they admitted planting a gun to substantiate their story that the riders had been armed.

The Boston police department recently became embroiled in a controversy arising from the fatal shooting of a black man in 1975 that resulted in a $750,000 judgment against the police. The police commissioner refused to pay, the victim's family tried to garnish the salary and seized the property of the two officers involved, and Boston police have threatened to strike unless the city assumes the financial responsibility.

In New York City, Mayor Ed Koch has refused to attend a congressional hearing on accusations of police brutality against blacks and Hispanics. The hearing was scheduled for an armory in Harlem that could hold 2,500 people. The mayor balked at that and at a previous hearing because he said they were staged as a political circus. He has backed his police who have, on the books, one of the better records among big cities when it comes to shootings by officers.

But back in 1858, a New York City cop used his private gun to shoot a fleeing suspect. The state declined to indict. With that implicit permission, other New York cops armed themselves and the practice spread.

By the early 1900s, cities were issuing arms to police. With those arms went the authority to shoot, and the liability of getting shot.

Today, almost half the states allow police to shoot any fleeing felony suspect, explains Larry Sherman of the Police Foundation.

"If I steal a $500 bicycle from you and ride it down the street and a police officer can't catch me, he can kill me to get that bicycle back. If you forge a check and run away from a cop, he can shoot and kill you."

Few cops would take this literally under normal circumstances, but in the last decade or two, big-city police departments have imposed more restrictive rules.

The FAA steps up safety tours

By Deborah Zabarenko
Associated Press Writer
Concern that airline industry turmoil could bring a "degradation of safety" prompted the government to beef up inspections as meetings between Continental Airlines' president and pilots yielded no results in a strike that entered its fifth day today.

Other FAA officials said inspection crews have been beefed up at Continental, which imposed sharp salary cuts and layoffs after filing Sept. 24 for reorganization under bankruptcy laws.

But FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said "there have been no safety violations so far" at Continental.
