Dry weather is blamed for an unusually heavy "kill" of deer along highways in West Texas.

The Parks and Wildlife Dept. reports that over 100 dead deer have been observed on various roadsides during the past two weeks. They believe that the drought has driven the deer from parched range land to greener pastures along the road bed. Most of those killed by traffic are hit at night when they are temporarily blinded by the headlights of oncoming cars.

Motorists are being advised to watch out for deer as they drive along West Texas highways at night. The danger is expected to decrease when it rains.

In a pamphlet distributed by the Myron Institute, Inc., Dr. Franz Winkler, who says he has spent 38 years in the study and observation of such things, says he can offer any unbiased youngster positive proof of the harmful effects of marijuana smoking. He says he usually offers them the following proposition: "Conduct an independent investigation of your own. Pick any individual among your classmates, friends or relatives who has been taking marijuana for at least a year but whom you had known well before he started taking the drug. Then compare his present personality with his former self. If you do not find that he is turning into an empty shell, that he is on the way to becoming a pitiful caricature of his earlier self, I shall make no further effort to convince you."

Dr. Winkler said he did not remember a single high school or college student who seriously undertook such an investigation who did not return deeply shocked by his experience.

"Unfortunately, people are not observant enough to notice the weird but elusive changes in themselves or others unless their attention is directed to them," he concluded

Two Snyder boys were running first string when the Texas Christian University football team began its Easter recess from spring training.

Frankie Grimmett, who has changed positions, having formerly lettered as a tight end, is listed as No. 1 on the TCU depth chart as the "rover" on the defensive platoon. David McGinnis, who lettered as defensive left halfback last season, is the top name on the list at that position. Both will be juniors next fall, although Grimmett was a "red shirt" his second year in college. New Coach Jim Pittman has been changing positions with several veterans, and he has indicated more changes will take place. Grimmett was the team's leading pass receiver last year as a tight end, but apparently has nailed down the No. 1 rover spot.

South Viets Repulse Attack On Fire Base 6

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops repulsed a North Vietnamese commando attack on besieged Fire Base 6 today as enemy forces launched new assaults on government positions in the central highlands.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 12 enemy commandos were killed and that the government defenders seized three rifles, five rocket-propelled grenade launchers and some explosives which were to have been used to blow up the base.

Headquarters said there were no South Vietnamese casualties.

Four hours after the attack was beaten back, South Vietnamese jets bombed North Vietnamese positions about a half-mile north of the base. The spokesman said 20 enemy soldiers were killed and the bombs triggered several secondary explosions, indicating hits on ammunition stores.

Enemy gunners shelled three other South Vietnamese positions near Fire Base 6, which has been under seige since March 31. Two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported wounded.

Mortar shells triggered a fuel fire in one of the attacks on the airfield at Dak To, north of the fire base.

U.S. bombers and helicopter gunships kept up their around-the-clock attacks against elements of three North Vietnamese regiments in the region to prevent them from overrunning the South Vietnamese positions.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses have been dropping tons of explosives on enemy troop concentrations within two or three miles of the mountaintop artillery base, 300 miles north of Saigon near the triborder juncture of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Extra Jobs For Youth Asked

By MICHAEL J. REILLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has moved to open more jobs for two groups hard-hit by unemployment but says efforts on behalf of a third are disappointing.

The Labor Department announced Friday toughened rules governing minority apprentice-training programs around the nation. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said rules are needed to close "wide gaps in acceptance of qualified minority apprentices in many skilled trades."

At the White House, meanwhile, President Nixon said he will ask Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $64.3 million to provide 100,000 extra jobs for youth this summer. The added money would help finance jobs for 514,000 young people for nine months.

But as these efforts were disclosed, a Labor Department official said in an interview a program set up to get jobs for out-of-work engineers—the engineer jobs bank—has been relatively unsuccessful.

"We've had a lot of applications, you know, but the job orders are not coming in as fast as we hoped they would," said Fred E. Romero, acting director of the Office of Technical Support.

The job bank, set up five months ago in Sacramento, Calif., attempts to match job seekers with prospective employers. But at present there are 5,000 applications for only 800 job openings.

Nevertheless, a pilot program is under development between the Labor and Housing and Urban Development departments to retrain out-of-work engineers for tackling urban problems.

Secretary Hodgson, announcing the new minority apprenticeship rules, said there has been some improvement in training, but more is needed.

Under the new regulations, all programs registered with the Labor Department or federally approved state agencies will be required to "develop and adopt affirmative action programs including, if necessary, approved goals, timetables and selection methods.

Brezhnev Given 'Cleanse' Power

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party has given its chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, the power to "cleanse" the ranks with a weapon Stalin used to purge nearly one million party members.

Despite signs of widespread resistance to the measure, the 24th party congress adopted Brezhnev's keynote speech proposal to order an exchange of party cards.

Published today by Pravada, the party newspaper, the resolution adopted as the congress closed Friday calls for the card exchange to be carried out as an "important organizational and political measure."

It means that each of the 14,455,321 party members will in effect give up his membership and receive a new party card only if [illegible] him worthy of membership.

The last card exchange took place in secret 17 years ago. Before that, in the mid-1930's Stalin profited from a similar operation, cutting membership from 2.2 million to 1.4 million and ridding himself of 800,000 people he considered opponents. Many were executed.

The practice of liquidating recalcitrant party members ended in the Soviet Union years ago. Yet even if the membership review only served to remove from local influence officials disloyal to Brezhnev it could speed Brezhnev's accumulation of power.

Brezhnev used the word "cleanse" rather than "purge" in describing the operation, and said it should not be a mere formality. The official explanation for the surrender of party cards is to sharpen [illegible] activity.

World Pauses For Easter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians were set to celebrate the most important date on their church calendar with traditional Easter services across the nation, while Jews observed the second day of Passover.

Passover began at sundown Friday in homes and synagogues with cerenonial dinners and readings of the story of the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt. The dinner, called Seders, were repeated Saturday Conservative and Orthodox Jews.

Thousands are expected to attend Easter Sunday sunrise services commemorating Jesus Christ's resurrection, although many, including vacationing college students, will observe the holiday in a less traditional manner.

A group of 100 students from 10 Eastern colleges is spending the Easter recess in Nevada, Mo., assisting elderly, handicapped and other persons and conducting a clean-up at a youth center at nearby Metz.

In Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a mecca for vacationing collegians, students were reported listening to rock tunes about Jesus Christ over transistor radios as they sunned on the beaches.

At Needles, Calif., an estimated 70,000 persons were camped along the Colorado River. Authorities said the campers were mainly young people and "the majority are pretty well behaved."

At Canon City, Colo., 70 handicapped and underprvileged children were expected inside the walls of the state prison for an Easter egg hunt sponsored by two inmate self-help groups.

At Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania, the sunrise service will begin with the launching of a "floating sculpture" entitled "Resurrection." It is a trapezoid made of mirrow-coated plastic, suspended by about 100 balloons, the work of New York artist Paul Von Ringelheim.

Weather Nice For Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aside from rather brisk south winds, it's hard to find a flaw in Texas weather for the Easter weekend.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy and temperatures were generally mild.

With the latest cool front dissipating over West and Northwest Texas, the wind switched back to the south and started shoving warm air inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

The southerly flow promised an increase in cloudiness but forecasts made no mention of the rain needed in all parts of the state.

Dust blew as gusty winds fanned West Texas Friday, lowering visibility for a time around Lubbock and Wink.

Temperatures climbed as high as 86 degrees at Cotulla. Dalhart was the coolest spot with a top mark of 64.

Readings early today ranged from 38 at Dalhart up to 66 at Brownsville.

Jews Celebrate Their Passover

JERUSALEM (AP) — Warm hazy sunshine bathed the Holy City Sat. as Jews celebrated the beginning of their Passover and Christians their holy Saturday.

Jerusalem was crowded with pilgrims and tourists—the largest crowds since the 1967 Mideast war. All hotels, even the small ones in the Arab sector were reported booked.

The de facto Middle East cease-fire and the absence of the usual threats by Arab guerrillas against such celebrations were credited for some of the massive turnout.

Thousands of Jews prayed at the Wailing Wall in the old city, today—the first day of Passover, the feast celebrating the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt.

Other Israelis drove into the countryside for picnics or visited friends and relatives.

The Latin, or Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem, Msgr. G.G. Beltritt, gave the blessing of the baptismal font today in the rotunda of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

This was followed by a pontifical high Mass attended by dozens of the devout.

In Rome, on "Good Friday", Pope Paul carried a six-foot cross for 15 minutes and led a re-enactment of Christ's final journey.

After the ceremony, the Pope appealed for help and protection for Christians in the troubled Holy Land.

His appeal was connected with a Good Friday tradition of collecting funds for Christian shrines in Jerusalem and the cities. It came two weeks after a dispute between Vatican and Israeli officials over the fate of Old Jerusalem, a city holy to Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

Catholic Easter celebrations will climax in Jerusalem Sunday morning with a pontifical high Mass sung in the old Crusader Church by the Latin patriarch and in other parish churches by local priests.

Protestant sunrise services will be conducted in various churches and from vantage points overlooking the Holy City Sunday.

Oilmen Try To Strangle Well

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pumping efforts began today to kill off the last oil well in an offshore oil fire which has cost four lives and about $36 million since it started Dec. 1.

Warran Marshall, the head of Shell's Bay Marchand Emergency Task Force, said the effort "may take as short a time as three hours or as long as three days."

Fed by 11 wild wells at its height, the once-great inferno had been reduced to a gush of flame resembling a king-sized blowtorch when the drilling rig Margaret braced for the final kill.

The fire started 131 days ago when an explosion ripped the Shell Oil Company's 22-well control platform which stood on stilts in 55 feet of water 10 miles off the Louisiana coast, south of New Orleans.

Two workmen died in the blast and two died later of burns.

Since then, Shell has picked off the wild wells one by one, smothering them deep beneath the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico with the slow and expensive "killer well" technique.

The method was adopted to avoid any sea pollution which could have come from efforts to blow out the fire and try to cap the wild wells at the surface.

Instead, the gushing oil—thousands of barrels of it—was allowed to go up in smoke while five big drilling rigs were called in.

A Shell spokesman said each of the 11 "killer wells" cost about $1,250,000 to drill and were sunk to a depth of 12,500 feet beneath the sea floor.

The Margaret completed its killer well Friday. Then, as the last tubing was set, a mixture of chemical "mud" and seawater was prepared.

The technique called for pumping the heavy mixture down the killer well, which is angled to a point just a few feet from the spot the wild well enters the oil pool. The mixture circulates into the wild well and stops the oil flow.

At the time of the blast, the control platform was Shell's biggest and busiest producer. It sent about 15,000 barrels of oil and 40 million cubic feet of natural gas to shore each day through underwater pipelines.

That much production was worth about $53,000 a day to Shell, oilmen estimate.

Damage to the platform, which had a main deck nearly the size of a football field, was estimated at $15 million.

Sheel said the cost of controlling the wells and fighting the size of a football field, was estimated at $15 million.

Shell said the cost of controlling the wells and fighting sea and beach pollution cost up to $210,000 on some days.

Amnesty Law Is Prepared

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jordanian government has prepared an amnesty law which would pardon about 900 Palestinian guerrillas now in jail for illegal possession of weapons, informed sources in Amman said today.

The sources said the law would become effective as soon as all guerrillas leave the Jordanian capital. Jordan was reported Friday to have accepted an agreement with the commandos providing for their speedy withdrawal from Amman to "posts best suited to their activities."

Along with the new amnesty law, the government plans to make the death penalty mandatory for illegal possession of arms. The current sentence is life imprisonment.

Police in Beirut reported that five Jordanian trucks loaded with phosphate were attacked in the Lebanese capital today and set afire by unknown gunmen.

Two children were killed and their mother was wounded when a grenade exploded in an Arab refugee camp in the Gaza Strip. A brother and sister also were injured.

The blast, at a camp near Rafah, was the second grenade explosion in two days involving children. Another explosion Friday killed two children and an adult Arab in the EKL Bureij camp.

Son gets too homesick to go away to college

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Sidney graduated from high school at the top of his class last June. He was offered a scholarship to a very fine Eastern University, but he turned it down to go to a local college. Everybody thought he was crazy. He admitted to me he didn't want to go away to college because he gets "homesick."

We sent Sidney to summer camp when he was 12, and he came back after one week so thin and pale, he didn't look like the same boy. He said he got so homesick he couldn't even sleep or eat.

Sidney is not an only child. But he is my youngest and has always stayed very close to me.

He doesn't have many friends and has never asked a girl for a date on his own, but he has dated girls when someone fixes him up. He reads a lot and doesn't mind being by himself all the time.

I want Sidney to go away to college next fall, but every time I bring it up he begs me not to talk about it. I think it would be good for him to go away, but how can a mother push her son out of the house when he begs to stay?

—SIDNEY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's not uncommon for a 12-year-old to become so homesick he can't eat or sleep, but when he reaches college age he should have matured sufficiently to overcome it. If Sidney has not been evaluated by an expert, he ought to be. To push him out of the house would be traumatic, but do insist he have a frank talk with a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Suddenly after 32 years of marriage in which my husband never went grocery shopping with me, he insists on going with me every time.

He picks up every item I put in the cart and will frequently tell me I don't "need it." [Abby, I do the cooking, and I know what I need.]

When we get to the checker he yells at her about how expensive everything is nowadays, and he even tells her we can buy the same item cheaper at a different store. The poor checker! All she can say is "Well, why don't you go shop at the other store?"

My husband has held up a whole line of people, demanding to see the store manager so he can give him a piece of his mind about the outrageous prices. It is embarrassing!

Don't tell me to shop without him. He won't stay home. I have also quit going out to dinner with him lately because he bawls out the waitresses on account of the prices on the menus being so high. I can't take much more of this. Help me!

MRS. H.

DEAR MRS. H.: Don't dismiss his sudden change of personality as "meanness" without first having him checked thoroly by a physician. Many men, like women, undergo a "change of life" in later years.

DEAR ABBY: This is an open letter to those parents lucky enough to be able to have children, but who don't have love enough in their hearts to give them.

Abby, my husband and I have been on the waiting list to adopt a baby for a year and a half, and they are hard to get.

Many people keep babies they don't really want because of outside pressure from friends and relatives. These children grow up without knowing love and a good family life. Isn't it much better to give the child to some adoptive parents who desperately want a child than to raise it in an atmosphere where it is neither wanted nor loved?

Maybe this letter will show people that everyone isn't cut out to be a parent, even if they are able to bear children. And it is much more humane to give a child away than to keep it and raise it unloved.

—WAITING IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR WAITING: There are plenty of babies who desperately need love and a good home. They are not all pink and white, but they are no less deserving, and they are available. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: "DUBIOUS" asked you if a man who had been swinging for 20 years can ever settle down? Brother, can they ever! I married a 47-year-old "wild man." He chased and drank and danced and played. He's now given up all his bad habits. He evidently had his fill, and now all he wants to do is stay home and watch TV.

Water Demand Up Over 1970

Drought is having its effect on water consumption, and the Colorado River Municipal Water District would just as soon that it were otherwise.

Tenaciously dry weather over the past six months has had a hand in whetting thirst by the cities. Even without the help of Midland — a new customer since this time last year — March deliveries were up by about 50 per cent. Midland deliveries help boost the total municipal demand to 958,404,936 gallons in March, a gain of 122.56 over March 1970. The municipal use for the first quarter of the year is 2,344,036,936, or up 81.48 per cent.

Deliveries for industrial and oil repressuring purposes has been cut drastically. The 180, 311,895 gallons for this purpose was down 57.04 per cent from last year, but of this 118,443,895 gallons were non-potable (salt) water and 41,229,000 extremely low quality water, or a total of 159,672,895. The remaining 41,229,000 gallons for this purpose represents only 3.3 per cent of the 1,138,716,831 gallons for March, which was a record for the month. The combined total of oil-industrial deliveries for the first quarter is 519,823,085, down 58.33 per cent, and most of it is non-potable or low quality water.

Total deliveries for the first quarter stand at 2,863,860,121 gallons, a gain of 12.79 per cent for the period.

During March, Odessa took 378,760,000 gallons an increase of 67.59 per cent over March last year; Big Spring 214,584,000, or 37.06 more; Snyder 65,407,000, or up 49.22 per cent; Stanton 861,000, down 79.92 percent (because it now has no filter plant operator); and Midland 298,792,936 gallons. As noted, Midland was not taking water at this time a year ago.

Heavy Breathing Ruins Ballet

LONDON (AP) — All that heavy breathing from the audience ruined the nude ballet at Bill Fentiman's pub.

Feintiman staged the show involving a 23-year-old male dancer and a 21-year-old female partner to launch an extension to his tavern. To separate the act from the audience, he installed a transparent plastic screen.

Five hundred people packed the room Friday and the temperature rose as the dance began. Soon the screen was fogged over by condensation. Angry customers, complaining that they could not see, started breaking up the furniture.

"We came to see a nude ballet. We like a bit of culture, but they could have had fur coats on for all we knew," said Mrs. Pearl Cooper, 41, a housewife.

Fentiman calmed the spectators by returning their 24-cent admission fees. He promised to bring on the nude dancers again sometime—without the screen.

Aftershocks Causing Illness

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emotional problems caused by the devestating Feb. 9 earthquake are being aggravated by continuing aftershocks, mental health experts say.

The earthquake that tore through the populous San Fernando valley before dawn more than two months ago killed 64 persons and caused millions of dollars in damage. Much of the physical damage is being repaired.

But Psychiatrists and Psychologists in the valley northwest of downtown Los Angeles say the emotional problems have been more severe and longer lasting than they expected.

The primary reason, they said, is the aftershocks that still occasionally jolt San Fernando and surrounding communities.

More than 300 aftershocks strong enough to be felt have been recorded. An aftershock March 31 injured six people and damaged 300 buildings.

"The cumulative effect is great," said Dr. Mal Braberman, a psychiatrist who says his practice has increased substantially because of the earthquake's effect on people.

"Experiencing several small shocks is worse than one large shock. Individuals are developing a sort of preparatory vulnerability."

An example of this has been seen in school rooms when an aftershock strikes, said Dr. Merril B. Friend, professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California. When a tremor starts he said, the teacher and children freeze instead of running for the door or diving under a desk.

"They're asking themselves, 'Is this simply an aftershock or is this the big one that's going to rip one day," he said.

At the Valley Child Guidance Clinic in Van Nuys, free group therapy sessions with children and parents—hastily organized after the Feb. 9 quake—had stopped. Then the March 31 aftershock hit and the telephone began ringing.

"So we are running earthquake groups again," said Dr. Stephen Howard, director of clinical services.

"We found that many people had problems with their children from the Feb. 9 earthquake and never came to see us, thinking the fears would subside. But they didn't and the aftershocks made the fears worse.

"Many children are still sleeping on mattresses beside their parents' bed or on the living room couch," he said.

Bentsen To Speak At Dedication

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., will speak Tuesday at the dedication of $12 million worth of campus improvements at Pan American University.

Bentsen is to speak at 10:45 a.m. at the flag raising ceremony during the celebration of Pan American Week.

Flags of all nations in the organization of American States will be displayed.

The actual dedication of the buildings will be by Henry Morris, chairman of regents of the Lower Rio Grande Valley school.

The new buildings are the science building, the health and physical education complex, fine arts center, cooling plant and covered walkway, the expanded student center and the remodeled and expanded library.

Bentsen, a native of the Valley and a former Valley congressman, will be making his first public appearance in the area since he took over as Texas' junior senator in January.

Inauguration Set At A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Jack K. Williams will be inaugurated formally Friday as the 17th president of Texas A&M University and the fourth president of the Texas A&M University System.

Gov. Preston Smith, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Gus Mutscher head the list of dignitaries taking part, Dr. Horace R. Byers, Texas A&M's academic vice president and head of the inaugural committee, said.

Gov. Smith will represent the state at the formal inauguration and be featured speaker at the luncheon following. Sen. Tower will represent the nation and tentatively is scheduled to bring formal greetings from President Richard Nixon.

Barnes and Mutscher also will speak at the luncheon.

Dr. Byers said the academic procession opening the inaugural ceremonies will include delegates representing 268 college and universities and 118 learned societies and professional organizations.

Formal installation will be conducted by Clyde H. Wells of Granbury and Dallas, president of the system board of directors.

Inaugural activities begin Thursday evening with a concert and reception.

Dr. Williams, 51, officially took office last Nov. 1, succeeding the late Gen. Earl Rudder who headed the university more than a decade and was head of the system for five years.

In addition to the 14,000 student university, the system includes Prairie View A&M College, Tarleton State College and the Texas Maritime Academy at Galveston.

Also included in the system with headquarters at College Station are the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Engineering Experiment Station, Texas Engineering Extension Service, Texas Transportation Institute and the Texas Forest Service.

Prior to accepting the A&M presidency, Dr. Williams was vice president for academic affairs at the University of Tennessee.

He previously served in 1966-1968 as the first commissioner of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

In that position he directed the development of current and long-range planning for the state's junior and senior colleges and universities.

Dr. Williams was born in Galax, Va. He earned his undergraduate degree from Emory and Henry College in Emory, Va., and his masters and Ph.D. at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

After working briefly as a high school teacher and principal in Virginia and serving as a Marine Corps officer in World War II Dr. Williams began his career in higher education at Clemson University in 1947.

Active in numerous education and professional organization, Dr. Williams is currently in his second term as chairman of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, one of the nation's six organizations responsible for general school accreditation representing 553 colleges and universities in 11 states, including Texas.

Offers Free Plumbing To Elderly

SEATTLE (AP) — John Lindquist of Seattle is making a personal effort to show that "people can't live in a selfish little world of their own."

In a classified advertisement in the Seattle Times, Lindquist, a 48-year-old licensed plumber, has offered to do minor plumbing jobs for elderly people unable to pay.

"Of course I just can't drop everything and respond right away to every call, but I'll do everything I can when I can," he says.

Lindquist hopes the idea will spread because, as he says, "It's a risky business, being old."

"I've known so many who have worked so hard. And they deserve better," he says. "If I can help, I will."

Nixons At Camp David

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Nixon are spending the Easter weekend with their family at the presidential retreat in Camp David.

They flew by helicopter Friday to the camp in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland. With them were their daughter Julie and her husband, Navy Ens. David Eisenhower. Tricia Nixon is expected to join them Saturday.

The first family is expected to attend Easter services at a church in the area and may be joined by Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower who will have an Easter dinner with them at Camp David.

Girl Won't Give Up

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — By all odds, Molly McNamara should be dead today. But the six-year-old girl won't give up her battle against aplastic anemia.

"Molly won't throw in the towel," said her physician, Dr. Lawrence J. Singher. "And as long as she doesn't her doctors, her mother and her friends can't."

Molly has been given $16,000 worth of blood transfusions since last September, when she had a baby tooth pulled.

Three days after the extraction, her mouth was still bleeding. Molly's mother, Mrs. Wally Hanson of St. Louis Park, Minn., took her back to the dentist who suggested that Molly see a doctor immediately.

Just a few hours later, Molly was hospitalized. But it took doctors almost two weeks to diagnose her illness as aplastic anemia, a rare blood disorder in which the body's bone marrow fails in its blood-producing function.

Molly has "gone through the gamut" of infections and complications, Dr. Singher said Friday. During the past six weeks she'd had a serious staphylococcus infection, fevers of almost 105 degrees, infections on her legs caused by missing white cells, jaundice and a complete bowel obstruction that almost killed her last Sunday.

What is keeping Molly alive, besides her willpower, is blood from donors. Her transfusions have exceeded 400 units of blood.

The transfusions won't cure Molly. But they may keep her alive until, hopefully, her bone marrow will resume its blood role again.

Cadette Troop 42: On April 6 we planned our picnic with the Humble-Smith students. We chose this as our service project to complete a badge. After we have completed this badge, we will keep on with this project of visiting the school, giving parties for them, etc.

We plan to have a White Elephant sale to help finance a trip along the Hill Country Trail. This will include the State Capitol. We also went to the library to find some information to complete our My Country badge.

Flower Talk

By HERSHEL HINSHAW

TULIPS BROUGHT A FORTUNE

When tulips were first introduced to Holland, the mania for these flowers was so great, the following list of items were given in barter for a single bulb:

4,000 pounds of wheat, 8,000 pounds of rye, four fat oxen, three fat swine, twelve fat sheep, two hogsheads of wine, 1,000 gallons of beer, two tons of butter, one thousand pounds of cheese, a complete bed, a suit of clothes and a silver beaker — all this being worth at the time around $1,200.

Flowers today are most reasonable in their prices, even the flowers that were at one time considered out of reach, through cultivation, hothouses and other means of production all are a good buy at our shop.

HERE'S HOW

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you have a habit of cutting yourself with sharp knives or if you are continually falling off the step-stool in the kitchen, it doesn't necessarily mean you are accident prone. It might be that your kitchen noise factor is too high, and in trying to escape, you injure yourself.

This is an idea that is leading to a new study of design principles which might be identified as the psycho-biology of design, says Professor Donald C. Hay of the University of Wisconsin. He is chairman of the Department of Environmental Design that has just made a study of "The Auditory Environment in the Home," under a grant provided by John Koss, who developed the concept of the stereo phone.

The home study may lead to other studies involving the effects of noise on animals in the home—dogs have a much higher frequency range—and on the elderly—whose joints may be affected by low vibrations. It might lead to further studies on the developmental problems of pre-adolescents where it might be shown that boys respond better to the voice of male teachers.

"In the study we were trying to correlate noise of products connected with tasks in the kitchen ... the extent to which startling effects may cause one suddenly to focus away from one's tasks. We have found kitchens are a deafening place for the housewife," Hay explained in an interview.

Knives are a great cause of accidents in the home. Ditto cooking ranges, ovens, pots, pans and minor appliances, he says. In addition to chugging, humming, whirring and whining noises, there are furnace sounds —the loud purring of a radiator or the bang, bang of baseboard hot water pipes. And then there are smaller noises such as electric shavers.

If you can escape noises above 60 decibels and close the door, great. Or you might try wearing ear muffs. You won't notice an airplane at 60 decibels if you are tuned to music.

Noises are decibel deceivers though. Wheras the earsplitting knife sharpener registers in at only 80 decibels, the seemingly less noisy blender and wall-exhaust fan are likely to give off at 90 decibels—noise factors that might cause the skin to pale, the pupils to dilate and the adrenalin to increase, impairing work efficiency. The range vent fan registers in at 85, the garbage disposal at 80 and the dishwasher at a mere 70. A comforting thought might be that everything can be run at the same time without the decibel rate going appreciably above the highest noisemaker. It might be the clue to solving kitchen problems—turn everything on for one big blast, and go outdoors.

The environmental course at Wisconsin is for graduate students who have completed design training in interiors, architecture, landscape or industrial design, providing them with information that should be useful in getting a clearer picture of the home in terms of the amount of noise or levels of sound, they explained.

Koss sponsored the university study on the auditory environment in the home to find out whether noise factors can be solved in future product design and whether home environment can begin to meet the needs of the family rather than the family adjusting to it.

"There have been all sorts of studies on the effects of jet noises and factory noises, but no one has gotten in to the home areas," he explained.

Other ideas have come out of this noise study, he says. He is thinking about radar-like devices that might be worn by blind people, and he is working on new devices for the hard of hearing. He is also tremendously interested in stereo video, a third dimension in viewing. Hearing and watching in that manner is a command performance without distractions, he says.

Stevenson, Hardy United In Double Ring Ceremony

Cheril Ruth Stevenson and Wayne Mitchell Hardy repeated wedding vows April 9 at 8 p.m. in First Christian Church. Rev. Robert McArthur, minister of the church, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Malven K. Stevenson Jr., 2707 Thirty-fourth St. and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hardy, 1560 Lynnhaven, Fort Worth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of chiffon and re-embroidered lace. The gown was fashioned with an empire waist of satin and lace with a full flowing skirt of chiffon with re-embroidered lace beginning mid-length to the floor. A cathedral length veil of tulle with matching re-embroidered lace was attached in the back. The bride carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

The bride's sister, Kris Stevenson of Houston, was maid of honor. She wore a Thai silk dress of purple, blue and green print splashed with a cummerbund of purple satin and a square neck and elbow length sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of purple sea foam statice.

Robin Cross, flower girl, was attired in a costume fashioned after that of the maid of honor.

Deborah Raines, of Snyder, Marilyn Feldman of Seabrook, Tex., Ann Goin of Overland Park, Kansas and Leslie Williams of Fort Worth, served as bridesmaids. Their costumes were fashioned after that of the maid of honor.

Matt Cross was ring bearer. He wore a white Eaton suit with knee socks and a purple shirt.

Dayle Hardy of Fort Worth served as his brother's best man Danny Harris of Fort Worth, Greg North of Newark, Ron Vrnak and Jerry Conatser both of Fort Worth were groomsmen. They wore black Edwardian tux with purple ruffled shirts.

Mrs. Malven K. Stevenson Jr., mother of the bride, was attired in a citron peau de soie two piece suit with matching shoes and hat. Mrs. Hardy's dress was of blue silk with matching accessories.

The altar of the church was centered with a backdrop of colonial white lattice entwined with wild smilax. A brass arched candelabra and an arrangement of white gladiolas centered the altar table. Spiral candelabra holding tall burning tapers complimented the prayer bench. Other candelabra and smilax completed the church decorations.

Helen Rodgers, organist, accompanied Jana Bullard as she sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held at the Snyder Country Club. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy cloth and held a three tiered wedding cake decorated with a nosegay of purple statice. The groom's table was centered with a candelabra entwined with southern smilax and purple statice. Karen Weir of Tucson, Arizona, Ginny Burham of Houston, Carol Ellis of Shreveport, La., and Diane Schmidt of Fort Worth presided over the tables.

Jim Wynn's five piece orchestra from San Angelo furnished music at the reception.

For the wedding trip to Galveston the bride chose a navy and red two piece suit with navy accessories. The couple will make their home at 1512 Brentwood, Fort Worth.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Snyder High School and is a candidate for graduation from Texas Christian University in August. She is a member and first vice-president of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority and a secondary education major.

The groom graduated from Eastern Hills High School in Fort Worth and from Texas Christian University in 1969. He is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity and is currently employed by Carl Hardy Auto Distributing Company.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Miss Irene Crowder, Mr. and Mrs. John Shaddix and Mr. and Mrs. Hezzie Carson of San Angelo, Dr. and Mrs. Bill Rhode, Mrs. W. W. Rhode and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Thompson of Colorado City, Mrs. Herman Saenger of Fort Stockton, Jack Christenson of Lufkin, Tookie Berry of Odessa, Miss Paula Archer and Beth Davis of Fort Worth.

A bridesmaid luncheon was hosted by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Malven King Stevenson, Sr. of Snyder, Friday, April 9.

A bridal party was given March 7 by the bride's attendants and house party in her sorority lodge. Mrs. Rufus Adcock and Mrs. Ed Noe also hosted a bridal shower March 21

Women's Comments

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

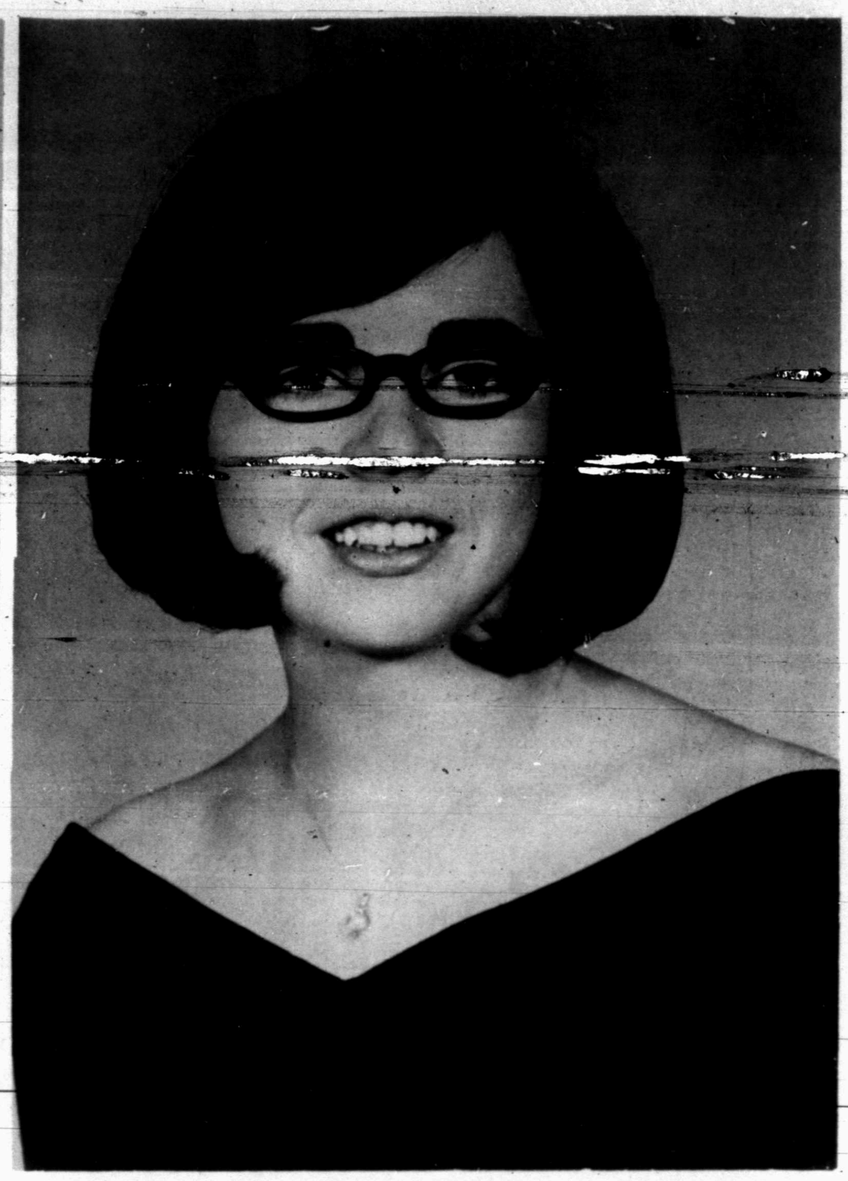

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Probably the main reason I went back to finish was because I didn't see how my children could be inspired to do well in their educations if Mom was a dropout."—Mrs. J. N. Franks Jr., who earned diplomas in high school, college and YMCA Law School after dropping out of high school 22 years ago.

"It is interesting that the one lady, Janis Joplin, who made it in rock ended up looking like a hooker, cheap and loose. She put herself down. Women are their own worst enemies, isn't that always the case?"—Mary Travers, formerly of the singing group of Peter, Paul and Mary, in an interview about the rock culture and women's liberation.

"They seem to be men-haters, while some of my best friends are men."—Authoress Katherine Anne Porter, commenting on the extremists in the current women's liberation movement.

"My son is 2 now, nearing the age when he needs a full-time mother. If the time comes when he asks me to stay at home instead of going off to work, I'll stop. It could be tomorrow."—Actress Glenda Jackson, nominated for an Academy Award for her role in "Women in Love," in an interview.

SBA Editions Are A Bargain

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

There's a certain breed of shopper – I'm one of them – who becomes ecstatic over a bargain. The other day I received a package of new publications from the US Small Business Administration (SBA), and spent a happy evening browsing.

Some of the publications are free, others cost a modest amount. Even those that cost are terrific values – a commercial publisher would have to charge much more for the same thing, but because the government issues these in the public interest, buyers get a break. Here's a rundown on recent books and pamphlets:

FOR SALE LITERATURE (Order literature that costs from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402). "Starting and Managing A Small Retail Music Store, Vol. 20." 80 pages, 55 cents. This primer discusses inventory from pianos and organs to phonograph records and cassettes, where to locate, building and equipment, starting capital, financial management, getting business – and a myriad of related business topics.

"Insurance and Risk Management For Small Business, No. 30 Revised." 70 pages, 40 cents. Insurance is a complex subject and it's little wonder that many small businessmen are confused about its proper place in the running of their businesses. Frequently they buy too much or too little coverage, or they attempt to insure situations that might be better handled by alternative means. This handbook covers nearly everything the small business operator needs to know about insurance.

FREE LITERATURE (Order this no-cost literature from a local SBA field office, or from SBA, Publications Office, 1441 L Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20416.)

"Personal Qualities Needed To Manage A Store, Small Marketers Aids No. 145." 8 pages. The man or woman who manages a small store successfully must have personal qualities which will help in working with customers, employees, and vendors. He should have a strong motivation to succeed on his own. Handling the many details involved in a store also calls for an alert mind in a healthy body. In discussing these qualities, this booklet points out that the best approach is for a person to be himself. He should build on his strong points and try to improve his weak spots where he can.

"Soft-Frozen Dessert Stands," Small Business Bibliography No. 47. 10 pages. This booklet lists books and other publications, including periodicals, which provide information of interest to prospective and active owner-managers of soft-frozen dessert stands. It also discusses basic factors in this business.

"Motels," Small Business Bibliography No. 66. 10 pages. This publication not only describes the A-B-C's of small motel operation, but provides an extensive list of resources for further information.

"Suburban Shopping Centers," Small Business Bibliography No. 27. 11 pages. If you're thinking about a suburban shopping center as a location, this is a must-read booklet. Includes such recent developments as enclosed, climate-controlled malls, super regional centers, and kiosks (free-standing booths).

For all the readers who have written about opening fabric shops, there's an excellent new book: "How To Improve Your Retail Fashion Fabric Business." It costs $6.35 postpaid from the National Retail Merchants Association, 100 W. 31st St., New York, N.Y. 10001. It covers virtually every aspect of fabric retailing.

Wells Drilled In Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Corpus Christi led in the number of gas wells drilled this past week with six, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

A wildcat well was also drilled in San Antonio District 1 and Houston, for the weekly total of eight. This puts the annual tally at 137, compared to 169 last year.

Eight wildcat oil wells were also drilled, making 78 for the year in comparison with 118 in 1970. San Antonio District 1 had two, District 2 one, Houston one, Abilene one and San Angelo three.

The commission said 85 oil and 38 gas wells were completed. This brings the total since January to 1,534 oil and 496 gas, compared with 1,499 and 549 for 1970.

PWIA Adds Rainmaking To Efforts

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Directors of the Plains Weather Improvement Association don't want so much hail and—like other residents of the dry Southwest—want more rain.

Last year, the area had little hail, comparatively speaking, but did not get much rain, either—like the rest of the Southwest.

So now the association has voted unanimously to conduct a rainfall stimulation program in conjunction with its 1971 hail suppression program.

The program, which costs $100 per acre plus materials, will involve a 2,000-square-mile area in the counties of Hale, Lamb, Floyd, Crosby, Castro, Swisher and Lubbock. Rain-making efforts will cost about $20,000 with the hail suppression efforts about $130,000.

Atmospherics, Inc., of Fresno, Calif., which conducted last year's hail suppression program, will run both the hail suppression and rainfall stimulation jobs this year. Aircraft will sprinkle silver iodide into updrafts of air feedings into the clouds.

Money for the two programs has been collected from landowners at 32 cents per acre. City residents pay $25 per home. Both are on a voluntary basis.

With most of Texas stricken by drought, there has been opposition to the hail program because last year some claimed it stopped the rain.

Farmers, who need the rain badly, often lose millions because of hail damage to their crops.

Hyde Created By Cocaine?

CHICAGO (AP) — An Atlanta, Ga., physician says cocaine—a widely accepted drug in 1885—may have been used by Robert Louis Stevenson when he wrote the famed novel "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Writing in the April issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Myron G. Schultz of the Public Health Center in Atlanta, said he based his theory on a study of Stevenson's life and works.

Schultz wrote of a "marked literary contrast between the healthy, open quality of Stevenson's other stories ... and the dark satanic character of his Jekyll and Hyde.

Although he was an invalid suffering from tuberculosis Stevenson wrote the book in three days and three nights, then rewrote the story in another three days and nights.

The story tells of a conventional respectable doctor (Jekyll) who transforms himself into a diabolical creature (Hyde) through the use of a powerful new drug.

"What could account for this extraordinary creation?" Schultz asked. "The answer I would suggest is cocaine."

Schultz said Stevenson was probably exposed to cocaine in an "innocent therapeutic trial by his physician during the period when cocaine still had the glow of a panacea."

During Stevenson's time, cocaine was highly regarded although little was known about it. It was later found to be addictive.

Fires Decrease

BELIZE CITY, British Honduras (AP) — Fires destroyed property valued at $60,000 during 1970—a $36,000 decrease from the year before, Police Chief Stephen Heusner said.

Of the 44 fires reported during the year in this city of 40,000, the largest single damage was $12,000 when Dr. C.J. McCleary's airplane caught fire at the municipal airport, Heusner said.

No fatalities were reported and only two firemen were injured while performing their duties, the fire chief stated.

WIND EROSION — Wind erosion on a farm east of Snyder. No attempt was made to establish cover on the four blank rows. Listing or chiseling could have prevented this erosion. Most of the wind erosion that has been occurring could have been prevented if adequate conservation measures had been carried out.

Conservation Program Described In Booklet

District Conservationist Von Kleibrink of the Snyder Soil Conservation Service office said a new booklet, "Soil and Water Conservation in Texas," tells how SCS programs are helping Texans conserve, develop, and protect the state's soil, water, plant, and wildlife resources. Single copies are now available at the local SCS office free of charge.

The publication describes SCS soil surveys and tells how they are used by cities, planners, farmers, and contractors. It tells how conservation reduces pollution and enhances environmental quality. It also describes resource planning help available from the SCS. Other programs explained include the search for improved conservation plants for livestock and wildlife; the Great Plains Conservation Program; efforts to help multi-county areas speed up resource programs; and upstream watershed protection projects.

Kleibrink said conservation work is coordinated through local soil and water conservation districts. In the Snyder area, the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District is the action group through which conservation work is directed. The district directors in this district are Walter Stirl, Carl Williams, Burl Belew, and Bill Wilson.

The booklet points out that cooperation of different agencies and groups is the key to getting the job done. Kleibrink said that in the Scurry and Borden County area, the ASCS, Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, Scurry and Borden County Commissioners Courts and various civic groups have been helpful in getting conservation work done.

Ecumenicity Is Threatened

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ecumenical institutions are in "real danger of being destroyed," says the Rev. Dr. George G. Beazley Jr., chairman of the Consultation on Church Union, which has drafted a proposed plan for merger of nine Protestant denominations.

Dr. Beazley, in a report to his own denomination, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), said destruction of inter-church organizations would kill the Christian unity movement since "movements do not survive without institutions to carry them."

14 Killed At Village Baptism

CULIACAN, Mexico (AP) — Fourteen persons were killed and 10 wounded in the village of El Realito, Sinalao, after Mexican soldiers mistakenly thought they had been fired upon, a police spokesman said Friday.

He gave this account:

The soldiers arrived Thursday night at a baptism in El Realito seeking a man believed involved in narcotics traffic.

One of the villagers fired into the air and then was disarmed by a soldier, as he took the gun from the civilian, the soldier accidentally shot himself in the stomach.

His fellow soldiers, believing he had been shot by the civilians, then began shooting the unarmed villagers.

The police spokesman said 13 villagers were killed and one soldier died in the crossfire from his compatriots. Ten others were injured, including the soldier who disarmed the villager.

The Mexico City newspaper Excelsior reported that the baptism was attended by poppy growers who responded to the soldiers' arrival with gunfire.

The soldiers returned the shots, according to Excelsior, killing 12 villagers described as narcotics distributors and wounding 10. One soldier was killed and one injured, the newspaper said.

El Realito is about 80 miles northwest of Culiacan.

Church Starts Sex Education Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A minister says his Unitarian congregation is starting its own sex education program for youngsters from 3 years old. "We want to tell them what they want to know, not what we think they should know."

"These kids are filled with questions never answered before," said the Rev. Robert F. Kaufmann of the Emerson Unitarian church in suburban Canoga Park.

Kaufamann, 49 and father of two children, said 60 children would take part in eight weeks of Sunday morning classes. He said they would be split by age in to classes of 10 to 12 students with an adult couple present.

Schools aren't answering the students questions Kaufmann said.

"School sex education often amounts to a basketball coach showing the kids some frogs and telling them to be sure and take showers and take two laps around the track," says Kaufmann.

He said classes would begin with pupils submitting written, unsigned questions about sex.

He said no question by the 7 to 11-year-olds will be left unanswered but the 3 and 4-year-old toddlers will be eased into sex education more gradually.

"The older ones will learn terminology to begin with. All the words for the organs and all the acts. We try to take away the thrill of using a dirty word," he said.

"We use all the words and some words they never heard." Kaufmann said the church has 300 adult members. He said a successful teen-age sex education seminar was held a few weeks ago and a sex education class for married couples and couples living together had been under way for several weeks.

"We are not telling the kids that sex is groovy, or sex is terrible; just that sex exists and it is enjoyalble, but not something you run around the corner and latch on to every time you get the chance," Kaufmann said.

Man Drags Stove Home

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Mountaineer Nathan Lee Robertson says the store couldn't deliver his $4 stove right away so he set out to take it home—dragging it the 20 miles from Charleston to Sod, back in the West Virginia mountains.

"We explained we'd deliver the range the first of the week if he'd wait," a spokesman at the Mountain Mission store here said Friday.

By the time photographers caught up with Robertson he was nearly a mile from the store. He'd drag the second-hand stove about 10 feet, rest a bit, and drag some more.

Robertson didn't say when he expected to reach home.

"He'll probably get home sometime tonight," said residents of Alum Creek, a community near Sod that Robertson passes through on his way home. "Somebody from up here will give him a ride in a pickup or something."

But he doesn't always get rides. "He went by here once carrying a four-foot by eight-foot piece of sheetrock," said Jim Holtsclaw at the Curry Funderal Home in Alum Creek. "It was snowing like mad."

Holtsclaw and others in Alum Creek described Robertson as "strong as an ox," and in his late 20s. They told of how he had hauled a refrigerator from Charleston, rolled a lawnmower from South Charleston—a shorter distance by a couple of miles—and once carried a 12-foot roll of linoleum home.

Vietnam Veterans Facing Many Problems

By JOHN WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

They trickle home every day, unheralded. They are the Vietnam veterans, the nation's young returned from yet another war.

No bands play, no crowds cheer. At best, the ex-GIs find apathy, except within the close circle of family and friends. And even here the debate sometimes rages across living rooms over whether the conflict and the sacrifices were worth it, or even moral.

As the veterans tell it among themselves, few in the United States care that they braved and passed through a hell where the dying and pain and terror and disgust were as real as in any war anytime.

But the apathy is best, they say. Because at the other extreme are the charges by those who stayed home—and some who went—that the vets were bloody accomplices of the nation in what they call its most shameful hour.

Many of the new veterans—too many, the experts say—are bringing home terrible burdens of guilt, anxiety and frustration, drug addiction and a hatred or denial of American society and its institutions which they say used them so harshly during their service careers.

Most simply want to forget the war. Many want to drop out of society, often with harder drugs, in hippie communes or that ultimate dropout, suicide. The suicide rate for veterans apparently is soaring along with that of other youth in the same age bracket.

Vietnam has been a most untypical war. The veterans who are returning also do not fit easily into stereotypes from the past, even though outwardly the overwhelming majority are slipping back with comparative ease into civilian life. Moreover, their problems are not typical —drugs, joblessness, the feeling that all the death and destruction have accomplished so little.

Donald Johnson, a decorated World War II combat sergeant who now heads the Veterans Administration, said: "The veterans are not only a tremendous natural resource, they are an important and significant force in America if for no other reason than because of their numbers."

More than 2.5 million men were sent to Vietnam, where 45,000 died and 296,000 were wounded. Some 200,000 will be partially or wholly disabled for the rest of their lives.

"About 99 per cent of these guys are going to adapt back into the mainstream of life and become useful citizens," a Veterans Administration source said.

An Associated Press nationwide survey of veterans found its sampling generally supported the VA's optimism. The survey also indicated that fears voiced by Johnson and other experts were well founded—that from a small minority there may come serious problems and even dangers for society.

As pleased as they are with the over—all record of veterans so far, psychiatrists, social workers and VA officials say the seeds of danger have been implanted in a minority which is made up largely of blacks.

Johnson said: "The draft calls brought in significant proportions of less educated men and men from the less advantaged families. Unless they now are properly motivated when they come back into the mainstream (of U.S. society), they will be problems for society, real problems."

Johnson and other VA officials emphasize one of their major concerns is for the fate of Negro GIs pouring back into civilian life.

Dr. Charles A. Stenger, head of the VA's Vietnam Era Committee and chief of psychology of the medical, surgical and neurologic hospitals, says: "I am very surprised there is so little acting out (violence) by blacks. They are very bitter in the sense they feel the need to strike back. Black veterans ask themselves if they really count as a person in our society. They served and sacrificed and were more likely to see combat (proportionately) than whites. And then they came back to the ghetto just when they believe things will be different because they have done their bit for their country."

VA officials say jobs are the single biggest issue with today's veterans. Labor Department statistics show unemployment among young veterans is nearly double the national figure. For Negroes, the rate is 16.2 per cent.

The job crisis has led to a multifront attack headed by the White House and involving the Pentagon, private business and the Labor Department. Although officials claim some successe with the programs, they have yet to blunt, let alone reverse, soaring unemployment trends.

Under the GI Bill, veterans are entitled to maximum unemployment benefits. Officials say many not only have used this benefit but have exhausted it and have had to resort to welfare. They often live with families, friends or in crash pads and abandoned buildings. Large numbers of vets are so little interested in dealing with the establishment they have not even filed for jobless benefits.

"The problem," one Washington official said, "is that Negroes are too often poorly educated and still run into job discrimination." But another factor enters the picture, too, according to the Concerned Veterans from Vietnam, a national vet self-help organization funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity and headquartered in Chicago. It claims 28,000 members from 29 states. A spokesman said the organization had been told by the Defense Department that 80 per cent of "bad paper," or less than honorable discharges, now are being handed out to Negroes who make up only about 12 per cent of the military.

"Look at it this way," an official said. "A guy goes looking for a job and he's black, not too well educated and carrying bad paper. Now what kind of chance does he have?"

So far, at least, law enforcement officials say fears have proved unfounded that young veterans would turn their guerrilla warfare savvy against society either for radical groups on the right or left or in small angry bands. "Which is not to say they won't," one lawman added quickly.

Law enforcement men over the country say that speculative reports of high crime rates for veterans are a mystery to them and that the veterans do not appear to be turning to crime out of proportion to their numbers.

At the University of California in Berkeley, cradle of the student revolutionary movement, the president of the student body and a spokesman for the most powerful antiwar group said veterans were notable for their absence.

A Junior Editors Quiz About SERVICE STRIPES

QUESTION: What do the stripes and other marks mean on a sailor's uniform?

* * *

ANSWER: These marks, called insignia, serve the same purpose as the emblems on the uniform of a soldier or of a Boy Scout. They identify the wearer as to rank, branch of service, honors or duty assignments. There are too many Naval emblems to display in one picture, but we have made a selection which will give you a general idea. Commissioned officers (left) hold their positions because they have received a commission from the President; they rank the highest. Officers' insignia, from captain down to ensign, appear at left. Each has shoulder marks and gold bands around coat cuffs, as well as a small metal emblem of rank, worn on shirt collar when without coat. Warrant officers, ranking below commissioned officers, also have cuff bands, but these do not go completely around the sleeve. Below these again are the petty officers; we show insignia of one petty officer rating as worn on upper left sleeve. Enlisted seamen of the three lower grades have insignia appearing as stripes on the upper left sleeve. These may be accompanied by one of a number of special services marks. Service stripes appear on the left cuff — one for each year of service.

Englert Is Aggie Star

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M baseball coach Tom Chandler says "hitting is an infectious disease."

This season Coach has an epidemic on his hands.

In rolling to a 24-3 season record, the nationally fourth-ranked Aggies have posted some impressive statistics with the bat. The team boasts a .312 average with eight players, excluding pitchers hitting above the .300 level.

In Southwest Conference play, where the Aggies have forged a 9-0 record, the team is hitting .335 with nine players over .300.

"You get one or two players hitting the ball well, and the rest of the players feel they can do it, too. Everybody goes up to the plate with the little more confidence, and that makes a lot of difference," Chandler says.

It's hard to pinpoint the toughest of the Aggie hitters, but R.J. Englert would be a good place to start. The junior outfielder from Big Spring led the league in hitting as a sophomore with a .400 average. This season he is slashing the ball at a .422 clip for the season and .463 in league play.

But Englert has plenty of company among the upper strata. Catcher Billy Hodge is hitting .390, second baseman Carroll Lilly .371, outfielder Larry Smith .349, right fielder Jim Sampson .324, shortstop Butch Ghutzman .319 and outfielder Jim Atterbury .316. In addition, four pitchers are hitting above the .300 level.

A&M's eight starters, again excluding pitchers, are hitting at .343 for the season and .354 in league play.

Then there is the case of Dave Elmendorf. An All-America candidate in centerfield, Elmendorf has spent the last 15 games on the bench after getting hit in the eye with a line drive in batting practice. He was hitting .471 at the time of the accident. However, Elmendorf is expected back in the lineup when the Aggies return to conference play April 16-17 against Texas Tech.

With that kind of hitting, a team still needs some pitching. The Aggies have that, too, particularly great relief pitching. Bullpen aces Charles Kelley and Pat Jameson have accounted for eight decisions and 10 saves. In 24 combined appearances, only once has the pair failed to hold off the opposition.

The three starters are not as bad as the relief pitching makes them sound. Senior right-hander Paul Czerwinski is 3-0 with an 0.81 ERA. Junior lefty Bruce Katt is 4-0 with a 2.21 ERA, and freshman left-hander Jackie Binks is 4-0 with a 2.81 ERA. The staff earned run average is a respectable 2.44.

Chandler is quick to point out, though, that the season is just half over. He hopes that nobody finds a miracle vaccine before the season ends.

Red China Hosts Ping Pong Players

HONG KONG (AP) — Fifteen Americans, members of the U.S. table tennis team, crossed into Communist China Saturday with invitations from their hosts to see the sights as well as play ping pong.

"A lot of our itinerary has been left up to us," said Rufford Harrison of Wilmington, Del., deputy team leader, before the team crossed the border here into mainland China, the first delegation of Americans allowed in since the Communists took over in 1949.

"In fact, they have asked us a lot about our preferences, both as to what we would like to do between matches and such things as accomodations and meals," he added.

Graham B. Steenhoven of Detroit, team president, said the Chinese have invited the Americans to go on several short sightseeing tours and to visit factories and possibly a farm commune.

They were scheduled to take a train from the border to Canton about noon and to leave for Peking Saturday night. The team expects to return to Hong Kong between April 16-18.

From Peking, where they are to play a series of exhibition games, team members said they thought they probably would go to either Shanghai or Nanking for several more matches.

Three American correspondents were told by Communist China that they could visit mainland China for the express purpose of covering the team's exhibition tour.

Cougars Win 18th Straight

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston golf team has won its 18th straight tournament.

The Cougars took the Johnny Goyen Intercollegiate Tournament Friday by 109 strokes with a team total of 866.

Houston Baptist College was second with 975 and Centenary was third with a 976.

Brady Miller of Houston was medalist with a three-under-par 67-74—141.

Other individual scores included Joe Stencik, Houston, 143, Bruce Ashworth and Tom Jenkins, Houston, 144.

A DREAM IS SHATTERED — Trainer Sid Watters stands glum in stall of unbeaten Hoist the Flag at Belmont Race Track in New York Wednesday as a bandage and splint are put on the horse's right hind leg. The thoroughbred, boomed as possible favorite for the Kentucky Derby, was seriously injured, suffering two fractures in the leg, in a five furlong workout earlier in the day at the track. Barnett Paces Knicks

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Barnett insists the playoffs are nothing to get excited about, that he plays one game no more enthusiastically than another. But his own statistics make him out to be a liar.

Barnett, old man of the New York Knicks at 34, averaged 15.5 points a game during the regular season, during the National Basketball Association playoffs his average has soared to 22.6. Last year, when the Knicks won the NBA title, was similar as his average rose from 14.9 to 16.9.

"I'm probably taking more shots and so I'm scoring more," the sleepy-eyed, poker-faced guard said after peppering in 29 points to lead the Knicks to a crushing 107-88 victory over the Baltimore Bullets Friday afternoon.

The victory gave the Knicks a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final series, with Barnett accounting for 48 points.

The third game will be played in Baltimore Sunday and will be nationally televised.

In Friday's other NBA playoff action, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Los Angeles Lakers 105-88. It was the first game of the best-of-seven Western Conference finals.

Taking more shots was not what Barnett had planned when the Knicks began defense of their title, first against Atlanta in the conference semifinals and now in the finals. It just happened.

"It wasn't predetermined before the game," he said. "I guess it's because Willis hasn't been taking as many shots, and somebody has to take up the slack."

Willis Reed, whose shooting shoulder has been aching along with his knees, took 18 shots from the field Friday and hit only four, so Barnett gunned 23 times, made 13 and added six rebounds. And it was his three-point play that got the Knicks started.

His drive and free throw pulled the sluggish Knicks within 54-53 and he added two more baskets for a 65-59 lead as the New Yorkers ran off 16 points to Baltimore's three for a 75-59 advantage.

With the injured and foul-plagued Bullets stubbornly hanging close at 85-77, Barnett's two baskets helped another run of 12 consecutive points for a 97-77 bulge that proved decisive.

Barnett felt the Knicks had to give their best despite Baltimore's loss of forward Gus Johnson with ailing knees for the entire game. The Bullets also missed center Wes Unseld, in foul trouble, and Earl Monroe, with a twisted ankle, during the third period collapse. Monroe played only one minute of the final period.

Grimmett Is Rover Back

FORT WORTH (AP) — The primary decision in the early days of spring football training under new Texas Christian coach Jim Pittman has been the switch of Guy Morriss from strong linebacker back to offensive guard.

Morriss, a 6-foot-4, 220-pounder with 4.7 speed in the 40-yard dash, was given a whirl at defense but Pittman believes he will be all-conference material at offensive guard where Morriss, a junior, played six games last season.

Other changes as a result of scrimmages before the Easter recess, include moving Frankie Grimmett, last year's leading receiver as a tight end, to the No. 1 rover spot; Scott Walker from the defensive to offensive line; Jerry Watson from offensive guard to offensive tackle; Sidney Bond from offensive tackle to defensive tackle and sophomore Mike Morrison from quarterback to running back.

The Horned Frogs' spring finale will be the annual Purple-White game at 7:30 p.m. on May 1.

Preston Trail Field Swells

DALLAS (AP) — Former Masters champion Gay Brewer, rookie sensation Brian "Bud" Allin and veteran Roberto de Vincenze of Argentina have entered the 1971 Byron Nelson Golf Classic May 3-9 at Preston Trail Golf Club.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus already has submitted his entry.

Brewer was the 1967 Masters champion. Allin won the Greater Greensboro Open in only his 14th pro tour start.

Squires In ABA Win

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Rick Barry bombed away in awesome style from beyond the 25-foot mark, breaking the American Basketball Association playoff record for three-pointers and scoring 36 points but the New York Nets still lost.

"It was the most unusual shooting exhibition I've ever seen," said Virginia Coach Al Bianchi of Barry's remarkable effort after the Squires had taken a 127-124 decision from the New Yorkers Friday night. The victory made Saturday's game a do-or-die affair for the Nets.

Virginia leads the best-of-seven semifinal playoff 3-2 and a victory Saturday at Madison Square Garden would put the Squires into the Easter Division finals against the winner of the Floridians-Kentucky series, which is knotted at 2-2. The fifth game of the series will be played Saturday at Kentucky.

Indiana and Utah each won their semifinal playoffs in four straight and meet Monday at Indianapolis for another best-of-seven affair that leads to the ABA championship finals.

Barry, who connected on eight 3-point goals, one an off-balance bank shot, was unable to supply the scoring power the Nets needed in the last 10 minutes of the game.

His last three-pointer came at 10:12 of the final period and he didn't score again until 1:21 was left and Virginia was ahead by seven points.

"I thought this might be the night he'd never miss," said Bianchi, "but in crucial situations I'd just as soon see Barry take long shots."

Bill Melchionni, who had scored a total of 62 points in the third and fourth games at New York, had to leave the contest late in the second period with a leg injury and never returned.

Melchionni's replacement, Jeff Congdon, could manage only six points.

Veteran Ray Scott scored 28 points for the Squires, half of those in the second period and 10 in the final quarter. Scott's steady clutch shooting in the final eight minutes meant victory for Virginia.

Mike Barrett led the winners with 30 points, including nine straight as the second half opened. George Carter added 28.

Rookie Bill Paultz was second high for New York, throwing in 26 points and grabbing a game high 15 rebounds. Reserve Ollie Taylor had 18.

State Bass Tourney Set

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' most successful bass fishermen are not making any predictions as the 1971 State Tournament approaches.

"We'll be there," Jackie Hewlett says, "but we're not talking much." Hewlett and Johnny Mayes, who'll defend their team title on Lake Whitney April 22-25, plan to make their first scouting trip to the lake on the weekend prior to the competition.

Jackie hasn't fished Whitney in a long time, and Johnny has never been on it.

The two Austin fishermen have had an amazing success streak during the past four years. They won the team title in 1967 at Buchanan, finished second to Phillip Cole and Don Cole of Denton in 1968 at Sam Rayburn, and placed third in 1969 on Rayburn behind Billy Hayden of Dallas and Jim Richardson of Austin, and Gaylen Gilbreath and Dee Snowden of Arlington.

"After that, I told Johnny if we slipped another notch in 1970 I'd fire him and get another partner."

They didn't slip. They won again last year, edging close friends Glenn Hayden and Raborn Waites, also of Austin, by a matter of ounces.

"But," Jackie grins, "we're making no predictions this year."

The two entered during the week, helping the tournament field swell to near the 250 mark. It is expected to total between 400 and 500 by tournament time.

Little League Signups Set

Little League signups will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. April 13 and April 15 at the Scurry County Boys Club, according to an announcement by Rex Robinson, league coordinator.

He said all boys of age eight through 12 are eligible to play Little League ball. Boys should bring certified copies of their birth certificates with them when they sign up.

The first ball game is set for May 7. John Jarrell is president of the National League, and Bill Sikes is president of the American League.

Harridge Dies At 85

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Will Harridge, who rose from a railroad ticket clerk to preside over baseball's American League through the storied eras of Ruth, Dickey, Cobb, Williams and DiMaggio, died Friday. He was 85.

As league president for 27 years, the man who never played a game of baseball in his life guided the junior circuit with unruffled determination through the years some of the sports most famous names enjoyed their prime seasons.

He ended 47 years in baseball with his retirement in 1958, having become known as the most able and highly regarded figure in the history of the national game.

He died Friday night in a nursing home where he was recuperating from surgery.

"We have lost a tremendous gentleman; one of the game's greatest leaders and fans," said Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics. Finley had business offices in the same building where Harridge maintained contact with the game since his retirement as chairman of the league's board of directors.

Harridge was a trim, meticulous and dignified 26 when he was thrust into baseball.

Working for the Wabash Railroad he came under the eye of President Ban Johnson in 1911 for his efficiency and enterprise in arranging American League club travel.

Johnson wanted Harridge, told Harridge's boss and the boss told Harridge.

"But I don't know anything about baseball. Never played a game in my life," Harridge protested.

He began work the following week as Johnson's personal secretary.

He remained in that capacity until January 1927 when Johnson was granted a leave of absence because of ill health. In November E.S. Barnard was elected league president. Harridge was named secretary of the league.

He ascended to the presidency in 1931 upon Barnard's death.

Despite fears that the always mild-mannered and unobtrusive Harridge might lack the aggressiveness needed in an office under the pressure of spirited club owners, he became one of the game's most respected and quietly effective leaders.

He was president for only a year when Manager Lew Fonseca of the White Sox and three of his players were charged with attacking an umpire in Cleveland May 30, 1932.

Harridge swiftly levied a $1,350 fine on the Pale Hose quartet.

Five weeks later, Harridge had to decide against the New York Yankees backed by the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, one of baseball's richest and strongest operators.

Catcher Bill Dickey broke the jaw of outfielder Carl Reynolds in a Fourth of July fracus at Washington. The Yankees were fighting for the pennant. Harridge didn't waver. He suspended the Yankee star receiver for 30 days and fined him $1,000.

Always mindful of player discipline on the diamond, Harridge's fines against Jimmy Dykes are almost legend.

Yet Harridge never bore a grudge. Four years after the Fonseca incident, he named the former White Sox manager chief of the league's promotional department.

When the major league players in 1946 confronted club owners with an unprecedented demand for collective bargaining, Harridge was a sympathetic and cooperative liason man, helping his league's player committee draft its proposals.

Harridge never permitted the heavy routine of his office to interfere with his amazingly cordial relations with the press. He had a widespread reputation for honesty and fairness in dealing with sportswriters.

Patterson Wins High Hurdles

ANDREWS — Snyder High School captured a first place at the Invitational Track Meet here Friday. Gary Patterson won the 120 yard high hurdles with a time of 14.6 seconds.

The only other points scored by the Bengals was in the 880 yard run where Freddy Murphy copped a sixth place with a time of 2:04.9.

Coach Bill Hartsfield only had four boys entered in the Meet.

Ector of Odessa tallied 87 points to win the Meet. Dunbar of Lubbock was second with 78 points. Scores of other teams: Monahans 61, Brownfield 51, Kermit 51, Estacado 43, Pecos 41, Andrews 35, Colorado City 18, Lamesa 11, Snyder 7, Seminole 6, Levelland 1, Tulia 1.

Seeded Players Come Through

HOUSTON (AP) — Seeded players came through as expected Friday in the opening rounds of the River Oaks Junior Tennis Tournament.

In the 14 and under singles division, first seeded Bobby Dowlen of Houston defeated L.D. Crumly of Midland 6-0, 6-0, and second seeded Ronnie Baumgardner of Corpus Christi defeated Bill Bryan of Houston 6-2, 6-2.

Timmy Lane of Houston, third seeded in the 14s, defeated Campbell Booth of San Antonio 6-2, 6-4, and fourth seeded Tony Giammalva of Houston defeated David Peterson of Houston 6-1, 6-0.

Paul Crozier of Corpus Christi, the No. 1 seed in the 12 and under singles drew a bye but David Dowlen of Houston, the second ranked player, defeated Brenton Davis of Houston 6-0, 6-0.

The semifinals in both groups will be held Saturday with the finals scheduled Sunday at the River Oaks Country Club.

Golden-Cheeked Warblers Have A Limited Range

AUSTIN — Golden-cheeked warblers perform a variation on the migratory theme.

While other migratory birds flee the first cold spells in the north toward sun and fun in Texas, the golden-cheeked warblers leave Texas for a winter among the pine and oak-covered mountains of Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

They leave behind the juniper covered hills of the Edwards Plateau, the only place in the world where golden-cheeked warblers can nest and rear their young.

The golden-cheeked warbler is a small bird which, as an adult, is only five inches long. It gets its name from the deep yellow on its cheeks and the side of its neck. This yellow is accentuated by a jet black crown, upperparts, throat, neck, upper breast and heavy streaking along the flanks. The black wings have two distinct white bars.

The female has a duller appearance, and while the male is bold and nearly always singing, the female is almost songless, emitting only an occasional chirp or "tick, tick," when danger threatens. The female is shy and seldom seen.

Texas to Nicaragua, is the limited range of the golden-cheeked warbler although a couple of errant birds have shown up in the Virgin Islands and near St. Petersburg, Fla.

They arrive in the Texas Hill Country in early March, the mature males preceeding the young males and the females by about five days. They come to the same breeding grounds as the year before and select their territory. Then, perched on a high limb overlooking this territory, they sing their four-note songs.

One pair of golden-cheeked warblers will claim this territory and exclude others of their species. But at the same time, they live in a harmonious association with other species such as the mourning dove, yellow-bellied cuckoo, chuck-will's-widow, Carolina chickadee, tufted titmouse, Bewick's wren and the cardinal.

When the females arrive, the males set about selecting a mate. During this time, as many as three males may fight over one female. As these disputes are settled, the females start searching for suitable nesting sites.

Golden-cheeked warblers prefer to nest in ashe juniper, but nests have been found in oaks, black walnuts and elms. Constructed in the forks of perpendicular branches from five or six feet to about 20 feet from the ground, the nests are works of art. They are built entirely of strips of juniper bark, held together with cobwebs and lined with a few plant fibers, hair and feathers.

It is thought that the construction of the nests is the reason which the golden-cheeked warbler is entirely dependent on the stands of ashe juniper. Unlike the other three types of juniper which overlap the range of the bird, the bark of the ashe juniper comes off in strips, and it is with these strips that the golden-cheeked warbler builds the outside of her nest. Without this type of bark, the nest, it is believed, could not be made.

Three or four, and occasionally as many as five eggs are laid in the nest. The eggs are whitish with small blotches of lilac, gray and pink.

While the female sits on the nest, the male perches nearby singing and having nothing to do with the hatching. He does, however, assist in feeding and caring for the young, and as these duties become more demanding, the amount of singing lessens.

In 10 to 12 days after hatching, the fledglings begin to show a buffy yellow at the base of the lower mandible and on the cheeks, and by the time it is time to fly south, they have their winter plummage.

The golden-cheeked warbler is a very active bird, constantly hopping from limb to limb and flying from tree to tree in search of insects which comprise his entire diet. He sings his song continuously as he hunts.

When the eggs and young are threatened by a snake or other predator, both the male and the female may take part in "injury feigning." They will spread their tails, flutter their wings and even hop down through the branches, giving the impression that they are falling — all in an effort to draw the danger away from the nest.

Among the many enemies and threats small birds must deal with, the most serious in the golden-cheeked warbler's case is the brown-headed cowbird.

Cowbirds do not build nests of their own, but lay their eggs in the nests of other birds, thereby escaping the hatching responsibilities and the chore of feeding their young.

Being bigger than the young golden-cheeked warbler, the cowbird fledglings have a distinct advantage over them when it comes to competing for food brought by parents. They may even peck the young golden-cheeked warblers to death.

A 1963 study of 19 golden-cheeked warbler nests revealed 16 of them to be parasitized by cowbirds, and only 23 percent of these nests fledged successfully.

Another serious threat to the golden-cheeked warbler is its vanishing habitat. Large acreages of ashe juniper are being cleared each year to make grazing land. In 1946 there were an estimated 19 million acres of cedar-covered hills. Now, less than 10 million acres remain. These figures include land with juniper growths other than ashe juniper and therefore unsuitable for golden-cheeked warbler habitat.

So, in reality, suitable habitat is limited.

An estimated 15,000 to 17,000 golden-cheeked warblers remain in a 32-county area. Sightings have been recorded in 40 counties.

The Texas Hill Country with its virgin cedar brakes offers the best chance to see these rare little birds. But as the cedar brakes disappear, so will the golden-cheeked warbler.

Mobile Home Park Operator Found Guilty

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas jury found a mobile home park operator guilty of four counts of pollution Friday and he was fined $2,000.

J. C. Thweatt, operator of the North Lake Mobile Home Park at suburban Coppell, was found guilty of permitting a septic tank to overflow into Cottonwood Creek, a tributary of the Trinity River.

Defense attorney Thomas Melody served immediate notice of appeal, saying the Texas Water Quality Control Act of 1969 was vague.

County Health Inspector Frank Hodges said he had been trying to get Thweatt to correct a septic tank at the park since 1968. He said water samples taken at the site on four days last October contained 188 milimeters of waste per liter of water. He said 30 milimeters is acceptable.

Asst. Dist. Attys. Ed Anderson and Bob Whaley said criminal action against the man was a departure from the usual procedures of filing civil suits.

Thweatt was fined $500 on each count.
