By STEP A. LONG

According to H. S. Drumwright, Cisco Chett, lean intellectual giant that he is, has invented a method by which clerks may always be sure of just how much courtesy and attention to show when a customer comes into the store....If he has paid his bill and is in good credit standing the clerks want to call and shake his hand and accord him a cheerful welcome .... If he is behind with his bills of course the clerks are not supposed to be so enthusiastic.

* * *

Oscar has installed a set of cards for the clerks so that they will know just how to receive him when he raises his right hand in greet....bills not paid....if he comes with his left hand....bills paid and credit good for next thirty days .... clerks may safely smile and shake his hand and invite him in with great cordiality ...Nice on the clerks....saves embarrassment.

H. T. Huffman, expert welder, seems to be an expert in psychological matters as well as in making two pieces of steel adhere together ...His remarks in course of an interesting conversation on matters general, that one had to be a judge of character in order to get along with people....some have to be handled one way and others must be dealt with entirely different....those who contact Mr. Huffman think him agreeable at all times....perhaps that's his secret.

From the Chicago office of the Associated Daily Press League....."We have gone through the excellent Centennial section, which was included as a part of your issue of August 29....We thing this is one of the finest editions we have seen in a long while. It is certainly a newspaper of which the Cisco area, as well as the staff of the News, can be proud."

ITALY WALKS FROM LEAGUE COUNCIL TALK

By United Press

GENEVA, Sept. 5 — The Italian delegation walked out of the League of Nations council room tonight and presumably out of the League's jurisdiction after Gaston Jeze, representing Ethiopia had asked the council to "unmask Italy's sinister designs."

It was emphasized that Italy was not withdrawing from the council and that its delegation would return.

ROME, Sept. 5. — Italy by assuming the offensive before the League of Nations council, is trying to prepare the way for "legal" military action in Ethiopia it was believed today.

If Italy succeeded in depriving Ethiopia of a position under the league covenant, Italy would then have a free hand to open operations without international complications. complications.

The argument that "no member of the League can claim rights under the covenant when it failed to keep its obligations" is the keynote of the entire Italian memomdum of attacks. Even if other league members failed to accept the Italian argument, the memoremdum and the pronouncement of Baron Pompeo Aloisi would continue to guide Italy's policy.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE TO REPEAT OFFER

GENEVA, Sept. 5. — Great Britain and France prepared today to renew their offer for a compromise on the Ethiopian dispute which Premier Mussolini rejected when it was offered at the three-power conference in Paris.

The Franco-British offer, it was understood, would be made the basis for efforts of an Italian - Ethiopian conciliation commission which it was decided to establish under League auspices.

The offer provides for "collaboration of the three-powers with the consent of Ethiopia "to guide that country's progress in every field, including the economic. The special interests of Italy would be taken into account.

With the council in recess until tonight, today was devoted to hotel room negotiations. Premier Pierre Laval of France conferred first with Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy and then with Anthony Eden of Britain on the prospective powers and composition of the conciliation commission.

MORE ETHIOPIAN TROOPS LEAVE FOR THE FRONT

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 5. — A nondescript Ethiopian "army" of 600 men, including greybeards and boys, armed with 20 different types of weapons, entrained today for Ogaden and possible death from Italian machine guns and poison gas.

Grinning, the warriors piled themselves and their arms into waiting box cars. 150 warriors were forced to remain standing, so tightly were they packed and some had to keep their bundles of clothing and equipment on their heads. Many women accompanied their husbands, bearing tools and utensils. One had a revolver strapped at her waist.

REFINERY HERE PURCHASED BY EASTLAND MAN

The White Star Refinery on East Fourteenth street has been sold to A. A. Walton of Eastland, it was announced Thursday night by R. E. Granthan. Consideration was placed at $3,000.

Grantham Thursday was granted a receivership and the right to sell the plant, by the 98th district court at Austin.

Walton will operate the plant, beginning in a short time, likely two weeks, Grantham said. The purchaser has a daily production of 500 barrels and will run his own oil through the refinery, Attorney Grantham said.

Granthan said Thursday night that the plant likely will be operated under another name, but was unable to say what name would be used. Operation to start soon will be the first since last December.

First Receivership

The state instituted a receivership, naming Grantham as receiver on August 8, 1933. The attorney ran the plant until August 24, 1933, when a federal court halted the operation. The receiver in bankruptcy had the refinery until November of the same year, when it was sold to John Shertzer.

In December of 1933 a district court turned the plant back to Grantham but a federal court ruled in favor of Shertzer and enjoined the attorney from molesting Shertzer in his operation of the refinery.

Grantham then appealed to the circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, which held last December that the bankruptcy court had no jurisdiction over the plant and equipment and that Grantham was entitled to possession. A stay order was granted by the circuit court of appeals, however, and Grantham appealed to the supreme court of the United States, which affirmed the ruling of the circuit court of appeals and turned the plant back to him.

The attorney Thursday night said that creditors of the refinery would file their claims with him for presentation in the state court at Austin.

Heavy Rains Fall Over Wide Section

Continued heavy rains soaked scattered parts of Texas today as cool and unsettled weather spread over the state.

The heaviest rain reported was at Dilley in southwest Texas, where 5.1 inches of rain fell last night. Additional rainfall was expected to swell the total today.

Ballinger reported two inches and Waco 1.64.

HEAVY RAIN HERE BOOSTS LAKE LEVEL

The rainfall of the last four days had boosted the level of Lake Cisco to 77 feet and 9 inches, approximately four feet below the high water mark of 1932, it was revealed today. Two feet and five inches of water had been caught in the lake.

Eight tenths of an inch of rain fell today, making the total for the last four days, four and seven tenths inches. This brought the total for the year to 28.7 inches, nearly two inches more than the average annual rainfall.

Marion Bruce Sings At Rotary Luncheon

Cisco Rotarians Thursday heard Marion Bruce, former Randolph and Hardin-Simmons student, sing at their regular weekly luncheon. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Olin Pierce.

The guest artists were introduced by J. B. Cate, program chairman for the day.

It was announced at the meeting that the attendance record showed a marked improvement last week. absent members having attended other club luncheons.

E. J. Tyler a member of the Hermosa Beach, Calif., club was introduced as a guest. O. J. Russell, president of the club, presided.

Congressmen Tune Up in Celebration of Adjournment

Plenty of good feeling, but not much harmony, marked the celebration in the House of Representatives when the Seventy-Fourth Congress adjourned in Washington. Many lawmakers sang many songs—in many different keys. Here's a band of happy Democrats led by Representative William P. Connery, Jr. (left), onetime doughboy - vaudeville actor, of Massachusetts. That's James P. Buchanan of Texas attacking the snare drum, and at right New York's Sol Bloom engages in a clash with the cymbal.

Relief Workers Check Toll From Florida Storm

MIAMI, Sept 5 — Relief workers picked their way today through highways piled with debris in the Florida keys in an attempt to get an accurate check on the number of dead in the tropical storm.

The Red Cross however, was not willing to alter its prediction that the total was about 300, pending more complete reports.

W. P. Mooty, Dade county criminal court clerk who surveyed the storm-ravaged keys by boat, said the death toll—when those victims blown into the water and those buried in tangled tropic underbrush were found—would number at least 1,000.

Governor Dave Sholtz announced he was leaving by automobile for Miami to take charge of the relief work. He will be accompanied by several assistants.

Work of bringing bodies from the keys moved ahead, meanwhile, as the emergency machinery established during the tropic storm began to function more efficiently .

Evacuation of the desolated area by plane, boat, and foot progressed to such a stage that relief authorities were considering a thorough study of Cape Sable on the mainland, which was immediately in the path of the swirling storm. Surviving victims taken to emergency hospitals continued to tell of stark horrors of the storm.

ALL PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF STRICKEN SHIP

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 5. — The crack Morgan liner Dixie listed desertedly on French Reef today after transfer of all remaining passengers to rescue boats.

Capt. E. M. Sundstrom, master of the vessel, remained behind with a skeleton crew for later efforts to free the Dixie from the reef where it was driven by the hurricane Monday night.

A radio message from the captain to the Morgan line office in New York said:

"All passengers and crew that were to leave off at 8:50 EST."

The passengers were transferred in boats to rescue vessels that had been gathering near the Dixie since a few hours after her SOS went out.

Cisco Is Invited To Give Program At County Fair

Cisco has been invited to present a program on the opening night of the Eastland county fair Sept 25, it was announced this morning at the Chamber of Commerce here.

The invitation came from H C. Davis, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, who was here today with others from Eastland.

The Lobo band has been requested to be present at the fair and play a concert.

The county fair is held annually at Eastland and this year will be from Sept. 25 through Sept. 28, it has been announced. It usually draws much interest over the county.

Cisco was invited to present a program one night during the fair, it was said, but the Eastland representatives said they hoped to have this city's program for the opening night. It was indicated that the Chamber of Commerce would consider the matter and work out a program within a short time.

Farmers Get Checks For Their Cotton

EASTLAND, Sept. 5 — Checks to 647 cotton producers for first rental payment on 1935 contracts have been paid for last week up to Saturday, A. E. Arthur, assistant in cotton adjustment, announced

Checks to the producers totalled approximately $6,000, Arthur said One hundred and seventy five of the checks remained to be distributed.

Checks to 100 producers, totaling $1,500 are expected in the immediate future.

Lion Minstrel Is Shaping Into Big Attraction

Reporting that the work of the Lions minstrel cast was rounding into an unusually good attraction to be presented at the high school auditorium the evening of Sept. 12, President E. L. Smith urged at the Lions luncheon today that every committeeman be on his toes to make the affair a success from every standpoint.

The cast has been selected and rehearsal has been going on successfully from night to night. Another rehearsal will be held at the Laguna Friday evening, after which rehearsal will be done at the high school building.

General Chairman J. A. Bearman also gave more detailed instructions to his various committees, asking that everything be done to make the entertainment one-hundred per cent perfect. Sale of tickets is progressing satisfactorily, Chairman Dyer reports.

Various other details were arranged for at the luncheon, including additional publicity stunts.

The president assured the public that an cutstanding entertainment is in store, both from an artistic talent standpoint and from the standpoint of fun. Manager Moreno, who is an artist of ability, will delight and mystify his audience with his card and other magic performances as a part of the program, which is to be two hours in length.

Fund Set Aside To Cut Farmers' Debts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — President Roosevelt today satisfied, set aside $2,000,000 of his $4,000,000,000 work relief fund to help farmers scale down their debts.

He made the money available to the Rural Resettlements Administration to defray expenses of 15,000 volunteer workers operating in 45 states to bring debtors and creditors together.

The allocation transferred the task from the old Farm Credit Administration organized in 1933, to Rexford Tugwell, whose job is the works relief program is to rehabilitate agriculture.

CROWS KILL SNAKE

HOLYOKE, Mass. — A flock of crows joined forces here to kill a snake. Five birds carried the snake in their claws to a tree. Other crows pecked at it until it was dead.

BEAUTIFYING OF CREEK TO GET CROWDS

United Press dispatches to the American today said that President Roosevelt had approved a project calling for the allotment of funds for a park in the Lake Cisco area.

The park, which is an improvement project at the east end of the swimming pool, was estimated to cost $5,071, of which would be paid by the Works Progress Administration.

The project calls for the improvement of the creek bed below the pool, clearing out of brush, and terracing the area.

It has been estimated that the project will be a great factor in attracting more persons to Cisco each year as they seek recreation spots in Texas. The job has been contemplated for some time but only now has been given the final approval of the WPA.

It was believed today that the job likely would get under way soon and that the new park would be ready for use during Centennial year in 1936.

$1,500,000 ALLOCATED FOR TEXAS PROJECTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — President Rosevelt has approved an allotment of federal funds totaling $1,500,600 to be used by the WPA in Texas, it was announced today.

The federal funds will be added to the sum of $434,333 pledged by the various sponsors of the projects submitted in the program by H. P. Drought, San Antonio, state WPA director.

Drought has been authorized to approve certain projects totaling $1,500,000 from the total list of projects totaling $1,770,676 to permit expedition of the program.

Included among the approved projects were:

Eastland county — Cisco, construction park of 5.6 acres; federal fund, $4,310; sponsor's fund $767

Palo Pinto county — Construction of 6-inch water main. Federal fund, $3,700; sponsor's fund, $6,196.

Garden Club To Beautify Roads Entering Cisco

15c

The Garden club's program will include beautification of homes adjacent to the highway as well as the decoration of bare spots and corners that may lend themselves to the beauty idea.

The Garden club members ask the cooperation of every business firm and home owner along the highways in carrying out Cisco's part of the work. If a business concern has an unsightly exposed portion of their building or lot that should be made more attractive looking, the club asks that they be allowed to plan with the owners for a correction of the ugly condition. If adjacent property is cleared of unsightly rubbish it will greatly facilitate the work of the club in its work.

The president or any member of the committee will appreciate the opportunity of consulting with parties thus concerned as to the best means of handling any problems hat may arise in this work. It is a work that should appeal to the patriotism and civic pride of every citizen of Cisco and we should not wait for these patriotic women to visit us but rather take the lead ourselves, cleaning up our premises and then telephoning them for their suggestions as to beautification plans, they suggest.

Members of the committee are, Mesdames William Reagan, W. H. LaRoque, and J. T. Berry.

CHARGE PRISON SYSTEM LOSS DISGRACE TO ENTIRE STATE

HOUSTON, Sept. 5 — Losses of the Texas prison system for the last five years were described today by Col. W. R. Dulaney, Houston, member of the state prison board, as "a disgrace to Texas."

He charged that Prison Manager Lee Simmons, who resigned Monday was "attempting to leave the prison system in a blaze of personal glory."

"As a matter of fact, the losses of the prison system are a disgrace to Texas," he said. "The loss for the five years he has been manager is $3,507,492. I noticed a statement published in one paper that says for every dollar $1,000 paid Mr. Simmons he has paid the taxpayers $10,000. The prisan system has lost money every year for over 10 years.

LAST OF FORREST CAVALRY IS GONE AS REGIMENT PRAISED

AMARILLO, Sept. 5 — The aged gentlemen of the "Old South", although somewhat tired after the strenuous first two days of their 45th reunion, went througs the routine of reports with unexpected endurance today.

General Rice Pierce, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans army, addressed the delegates, praising the Texans of Forrest's Cavalry.

"Are there any living of that gallant regiment that served under Forrest?" Pierce asked. "God knows what a pleasure it would be to cross hands with one of them."

The aged commander in chief looked through the crowd, searched faces about him, but received no answer.

Italy Outlaws Ethiopia

After telling the world that it wants peace, Italy yesterday threw the entire League of Nations into a muddled state of affairs by demanding that either Ethiopia or Italy be expelled from membership.

The situation was somewhat like that of the small boy known to all Americans who, because he can't be captain of the baseball team, takes his bat away from the rest of the boys until the present captain is dropped from his hank and creates a vacancy, whereupon he resumes play——with the bat——as captain.

Italy, furthermore tried the childish trick of not speaking to Ethiopia. The Italian representative, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, said that Italy wants peace with Ethiopia but will not talk about that or anything else to the Ethiopian delegation. The ancient African kingdom, he said, has been outlawed as a nation and would not be consulted by the Italian government.

What Aloisi said was, in effect, that Italy, without waiting for the League to act, had tried, convicted, and sentenced Ethiopia, and that the court decision from the League would simply be a waste of time.

In America, among individuals, such a conviction, without waiting for a court ruling, would be termed mob law.

Aloisi said, furthermore, that there is likelihood of war but that there will be no immediate fighting unless there is some provocation. Such speeches as that would be almost enough provocation for Ethiopia, it would seem to an American bystander.

This is not an effort to uphold Ethiopia. It is not a condemnation of Italy. But it is an expression of disapproval at the method of trying a defendant, either nation or individual by mob law and convicting that defendant before the proper court has the opportunity to act. It is a protest against any nation or individual which sets itself above the law and approves or "outlaws" another to the world. It is a protest against the ignorance or conceit of such a nation or individual which makes that situation possible.

Texas Aid Depends on U. S. Coffers

The qualified voters of Texas scored a record in the vote authorizing old age pensions. It was a tremendous declaration on the part of the electorate. It was a verdict of four to one for the pension proposal. It created a genuine sensation at the national capital. Now it is said by the powers that be on the banks of the Potomac that the acceptance by Texas voters of the constitutional amendment will contribute a maximum of $15 a month to each eligible Texan over 65 years of age. More important than this is the announcement that payments from Washington depend upon the availability of the whole social security fund which became embroiled in the debate that blocked congressional passage of the third deficiency appropriation.

Authoritative sources at the national capital were of the opinion that the Texas program would be patterned after the model created by the congress. Federal officials said the number of persons to be aided and the total amount of money Texas would obtain would have to be worked out in Texas and then submitted to the federal social security board for approval. Texas lawmakers in special session have a tremendous task facing them. There are lawmakers who saw that at least $5,000,000 will be the sum necessary on the part of Texas to meet the requirements of the federal security act.

The latest from Washington is that money can not be found to finance the social betterment program. The money was denied the federal agency "because of Huey Long's filibuster."

This is the plan that was worked out at the president's desk by the head of the New Deal administration and his advisors: To get enough money from the work relief fund to set up the machinery and leave the voting of another appropriation to the next congress convening in January.

William Green and School Teachers

William Green is president of the American Federation of Labor. He telegraphed a demand to the American Federation of Teachers in session at Cleveland, Ohio, "that they purge their ranks of communists and communism." Green urged the revocation of the charter of the New York local of the Teachers Federation, "in order that it might be reorganized on an American Federation of Labor basis." Well, the executive council of the teachers voted to rescind their action and refer the question to the convention floor. There are many teachers the country over who are for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. Old Samuel Gompers fought communism during his very active and brilliant career. His successor has not deserted the policy or the advice of the famous Gompers who was perhaps the wisest leader of organized labor America has known.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GOGRDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Sept. 5 — Sixty days is accepted in Austin as the minimum estimate of the number of days the legislature will be in session after it convenes Sept. 16.

No member who has been in Austin in advance of the session expects the work to be completed in less time than that. Some estimate it will take longer. One special session is limited to 30 days by the constitution. But members do not believe they will stop then. They expect Governor James V. Allred to reconvene them for another month.

SHEARER

If they are reassembled immediately, the two sessions would end on Nov. 14. If the Governor lets the legislators go home for a few days between sessions to get their ears to the "grass roots", they will be in Austin for the final home football game of the University of Texas Nov. 17.

There will be one new member of the legislature for the spcial session Horace B. Sessions, Ballinger, will take the House seat that was occupied by Rep Harvey O. Jones, Winters.

Jones resigned to become postmaster. He was a merchant. Sessions is an attorney. Of the 150 members of the House, 57 will be lawyers.

Indications point to a full attendance in both house and senate. Sen. Ernest Fellbaum, Sr., San Antonio will be present, Senate Secretary Bob Barker has been notified. Senator Fellbaum was absent from most of the regular session because of illness.

The senators may have some difficulty in finding their offices when the session begins. At the close of the regular session, souvenir hunters or vandals carried off the signs marking the senators' private offices.

Off to his home in Amarillo to attend the reunion there of United Confederate Veterans, Cll. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the state railroad commission, took with him a photograph of the Confederate memorial on the state capitol grounds with its graven announcement:

"They Died For State Rights."

Fighting for state rights against federal oil control, Thompson said he found the monument an inspiration as he passed it almost daily going to his office.

Governor Allred isn't nearly so embarrassed about his recent unsuccessful effort to thumb a ride into Austin, as are Supreme Court Judges Richard Critz and John Sharp, who were with him when automobiles passed them by.

Judge Critz' sister-in-law was one of the motorists who drove by without recognizing them.

"First we stood by our stalled car and thumbed," Governor Allred said. "No one stopped. Some laughed and thumbed in the opposite direction. One driver thumbed his nose.

"We got our suit cases out of the automobile and stood with them in hand to indicate our plight. Still the cars whizzed by. I do not believe a Bill Murray hitch-hiking campaign would be very sucessful these days."

The average citizen probably does not associate sentiment with politics and state departments. It might have been surprising indeed for an outsider to have been present in the office of the secretary of state Friday, when Secretary Mann announced his resignation to the some 30 employes of the office.

The announcement came as a bombshell, just prior to release to the press. Mann muttered two or three sentences in a voice scarcely audible, and then he choked up. A stenographer burst into tears. Others followed and a few of the men began wiping their eyes with handkerchiefs.

In the seven months that Mann and his associates have been in the office, a very close bond has been welded between them. It was some time after the announcement before employes were in a mood to congratulate their Washington-going chief.

R. B. Stanford, Waco, will sacrifice $400 a year in state pay for the honor of being secretary of state instead of attorney for the Securities Division of the secretary of state's office.

The secretary's salary is fixed by the Constitution of 1876 at $2,000 and cannot be increased by the legislature. Salaries of others in the office are left to legislative appropriation. Several employes receive more than the secretary.

A constitutional amendment to be submitted Nov. 3, 1936, will permit the secretary's salary to be raised to $6,000 a year.

A "gross receipts" tax may be the sugar coating placed on a "sales tax" in the efforts of the legislature to follow the State Democratic platform and also provide for old age pensions.

The platform declares against a "sales tax." The "gross receipts" tax would be levied against the merchant, varying with the amount of business (sales) transacted.

The merchant, of course, would pass the tax on to the consumer—perhaps charge more than it cost him.

Representative R. Emmett Morse, Houston, one of the authors of the Prohibition Repeal Amendment and chairman of the Texas Repeal Forces, will be able to give fellow legislators first hand information on how the liquor traffic is handled in one place. He has been in Mexico taking a vacation after the campaign for repeal.

Chapter 4

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

(Bosambo, trusted ally of British Commissioner Sanders, chooses a wife, Lilongo, from among the erstwhile victims of Mafolaba, whom he has defeated. Sanders being on furlough, evil white traders, desirous of peddling gin among the natives, spread the rumor, "Sandi is dead". The natives, believing, take this opportunity to return to their vicious life of old. Great havoc is wrought, and whites and blacks alike are reduced to terror.)

FERGUSON CAPTURED

Forty-eight hours later, having arted with Tibbets and disembarkd with ten men of the Hausas, nd having entered the lion's den o demand the surrender of Farini nd Smith, Deputy-Commissioner 'erguson found himself tied to a take in King Mafolaba's village.

While many hundreds of dusky atives looked on, a witch-doctor lad in the skin of an animal, and vearing a fiendish mask, proceeded o caper before the helpless white nan, taunting him with weird gesures. It continued for some time, nd then the Old King rose and adanced to the stake.

"White man," he said, "you came gainst me with your soldiers."

"That is a lie," Ferguson answered. "Yes, of course," the Portugues answered. "Didn't I tell you so?"

"Can Sandi come back?"

"How can he come back?" Farin protested. "I repeat, Sandi is dead."

The Old King beamed.

"When you say that, your voic is as sweet as honey to me, but i there is a devil in your heart, ther you will die as Ferguson died!"

"King Mafolaba," Farini declarec emphatically, "you can take it from me that Sandi will not come back."

The Old King was satisfied, and now he looked round upon his counclors.

"Four years ago," a little dog of a chief chopped the Captain of my Guard and brought shame to me before his village," he ground out. "I want the skin of that little chief. Let the warriors muster for the Blood Dance! Tomorrow they swoop down upon the Ochori!"

The Return of Sandi

The scene was Government House, at Lagos, on the coast, and a reception was in progress there. Commissioner Sanders and his fiancee had attended, and they were dancing to the rhythm of a waltz, when an orderly informed Sanders that the Governor wished to speak with him in his study.

"I'm sorry to interrupt your dance, Sanders," the Governor apologized gravely, "but I have just received bad news. Trouble has broken out in your territory—serious trouble. Two men, known as Farini and Smith, have been selling gin

The situation is bad," the Governor muttered, "Father O'Leary wires me 'Send four battalions or Sanders'."

ered thickly. "I came in peace."

"You came with soldiers. They re dead. You, too, will die!"

The captive's face was wet with erspiration, yet he looked at the id King defiantly.

"You may kill me, Mafolaba," he aid, "but the Lord Sandi will venge me. He will make his way o your village here and crush you. o you hear? He will crush you, s he has crushed other kings!"

Mafolaba's eyes betrayed a hint f fear, but he quickly recovered imself.

"Sandi is dead!" he answered.

"Sandi is not dead!" Ferguson reathed. "Sandi lives, and, whatver happens to me, I shall be venged."

They were his last words. Mafolaba, raising a spear, plunged it eep into the defenseless white nan's chest.

A half-stifled groan escaped Ferguson, and his body slumped in the hongs that bound him to the stake.

From a hut near by, two renegade whites had watched the whole cene. They were Farini and Smith, nd now the latter wheeled round nd snatched up a revolver.

"Farini," he panted, "I'm getting ut of here. This thing has gone eyond us. I'm getting out."

"Don't be a fool," the other narled. "We're making our forune peddling that gin, aren't we?"

"Farini, supposing — supposing hey find out that Sanders isn't lead!" Smith gasped. "You saw what they did to Ferguson. You aw the way Mafolaba finished him. Oh, it was horrible—horrible!"

The Portuguese eyed him conemptuously.

The Renegades

"You're getting soft, Smith," he neered. "Sanders is away at the oast. No one can dispute that he's lead, and long before his year's eave is up we'll be away from here. As for Ferguson—well, he's lucky o have died so easily."

"You cold-blooded swine!" Smith grated. "I'm clearing out, and nobody is going to stop me. I'm—"

He got no further, for with an oath Farini knocked aside his revolver and struck him on the jaw, sending him in a heap to the floor. Next instant a native appeared.

He vanished, and Farini dragged Smith to his feet.

"Come on," he snarled, "and don't act like an idiot! We're liable to fetch up against trouble all right if you lose your head!"

They walked up to the Old King, and he motioned them to a couple of stools in front of him.

"Is Sandi dead?" he demanded.

to the blacks. They are located up in the Old King's country."

"Farini and Smith," Sanders breathed. "I know them all right. Some years ago I sent them here in irons."

"They're back," the Governor muttered, "and the situation is bad. All your work ruined in the space of a few days. This is a message I've had from Father O'Leary, and here is how he sums things up: 'Send four battalions, or Sanders'."

The Commissioner smiled.

"I'm afraid it'll have to be four battalions, sir."

"I'd rather you went, Sanders. This is urgent. I could soon have a 'plane ready for you."

"No, sir," the younger man protested. "It wouldn't be fair to my fiancee if I were to alter my arrangements now."

The Governor frowned.

"Let me see, isn't she Hamilton's sister?" he inquired.

"Yes," Sanders rejoined quickly. "Her—her brother's all right, isn't he, sir?"

"At present, yes," was the reply. "Tibbets is all right, too—though he lost half a dozen men after taking Ferguson to the mountains."

"To the mountains?" Sanders echoed incredulously.

"Yes," the Governor answered. "He went into Mafolaba's country with ten men. I understand he said that's what you would have done under the circumstances."

The younger man was looking at him in horror and dismay.

"What's happened to him?" he jerked. "Is he—"

The Governor shrugged his shoulders.

"No news," he said.

In the small hours of the morning a 'plane left Lagos. It was a 'plane which carried Commissioner Sanders in its passenger cockpit, and the drone of its powerful motor startled the beasts of the karroo as it winged its way towards the interior.

Shortly after sunrise Sanders was at his office in the Residency overlooking the Niger River, and later that day, while he was in conference with Hamilton and Tibbets, a welcome visitor was announced in the person of Bosambo, to whom the Commissioner had dispatched a message by carrier-pigeon immediately on his arrival in the territory.

"Bosambo," Sanders said, "you are the one chief who has been able to hold his people in check, I am told."

"It is because I have not allowed Farini and Smith to come into my country, Lord," the giant negro answered.

Recall Discovery of Texas' First Oil

C. V. Harriss, left, and Brooke Smith, Brown county men, recall the discovery of oil in a wagon yard's water well at Brownwood. The oil, they said, was used for lubrication and medical purposes and sold well for both.

FIRST OIL IN TEXAS RUINED WATER WELL

Accidental discovery of oil in Tex- 56 years ago ruined a water well in Brown county but made the well a source of revenue for its "medi- cine", according to Brooke Smith and C. V. Harriss of Brownwood.

Back in 1879 Martin Meichinger, Brownwood wagon yard keeper, started digging a well on the lot now occupied by the New Brown- wood Hotel. At 102 feet he encoun- tered a three-fourths inch sand which was oil producing and which made about five gallons of oil a day.

Of course the well was ruined, as far as water was concerned, but the oil was sold for lubrication pur- poses at 50 cents a gallon, far above the present price for crude oil in Brown or any other county in the state.

Sold For Medicine

"It was sold also for medical pur- poses, and sold readily at 25 cents per four-ounce bottle, being used to treat blood boils or any kind of skin disease, with miraculous re- sults," according to a recent affi- davit by Smith and Harriss.

The oil, of 38 gravity and dark green, flowed into the hole at the rate of five gallons a day, but if al- lowed to stand for several days, would rise up to a depth of three or four feet, the two men said.

Oil that flowed in the 102-foot water well was the first discovered in Texas, to the best of their know- ledge and belief, the two men said.

Brownwood for a long time was troubled with gas coming up from the shallow oil sands and forming under pavements and sidewalks until the pressure was relieved, ac- cording to Omar Burkett of the rail- road commision's oil division at Eastland.

Smith was born in Hanover coun- ty, Virginia in 1853, 100 miles from Washington and within 40 miles of Richmond. He lived there for a number of years, moving to Indiana and later to Brown county, Texas, in 1876.

Former Mayor

Formerly a director in the Frisco railroad, he served 46 consecutive years as secretary-treasurer of Dan- iel Baker college. He has held the offices mayor, city councilor, and school trustee.

Recalling the changes in times, Smith observed that "more murders are committed in these modern times than committed by savages and pestilence in early pioneer days.

Harris, born March 12, 1859, was the first white child born in Brown county. His birthplace was in "first Brownwood," the family home being located on the old Swenden farm three miles west of the present city. Later the town was moved to the Connell ranch, three miles south of first Brownwood. His first school was in a log cabin.

Like Smith, Harriss had led an active life, now operating an irri- gated farm.

The two men can tell many hair- raising stories of early hardships, Indian raids, and drouths. Both re- member the much talked of dry years as secretary-treasurer of Dan- this area has had years just as dry since then, but that because of mod- ern preparations the years were not so bad.

Burglar Saved From Jail by Wasp Nest

DALLAS, Sept. 5 — A local thief doubtless has a new appreciation for wasp nests.

For it was one of these architect- ural oddities that probably saved him from being jailed.

Deputy Sheriff Ted Hinton, climbed up a ventilator to the top of a building where a burglar had been reported. Plainclothesmen J. B. Bell and C. G. Karr were waiting for Hilton's signal to go inside after their man.

Nearing the top the deputy sher- iff grasped an object for support. It proved to be a wasp nest. His cries snook the windows for blocks, the plainclothesmen said.

Thinking he was in mortal com- bat the two officers rushed to Hinton's aid to find the wasps had fled. So had the burglar.

Manchurian Road Being Modernized

HSINKING, Manchukuo, Sept 5. —While soldiers guarded the right of way against possible bandit raids, thousands of railroad work- ers weer busy Saturday changing the Hsinking-Harbin line of the North Manchuria railway from broad to standard gauge.

There are 200 miles of track on the line. Workmen busy on the job included 14,000 men.

Pageant to Depict Growth of Texas

DALLAS, Sept. 5 — A gigantic historical pageant, depicting Texas from its earliest days to its indus- trial present, will be a feature of the Texas Centennial Central Ex- position, Walter D. Cline, director, announced.

The historical pageant will be presented on a large scale, with several hundred trained actors tak- ing part, Cline said. The pageant will be re-enacted several times during the exposition.

The pageant probably will begin with the coming of the Spaniards and trace the state's history from the French and Mexican eras, through the Civil War period, on down to the present day.

An historical committee and spe- cial staff are now at work prepar- ing details for the pageant, Cline said.

Use of Slugs For Machines Illegal

DALLAS, Sept. 5 — Marble ma- chines may not be exactly legal in many counties, but use of slugs in them is even more a violation of the law, federal officers ruled here.

Secret Service Agent A. H. Re- bentish ruled that use of slugs in- stead of five cent pieces is a vio- lation of the federal law even if the coins are used in illegal ma- chines.

Raymond W. Peterson, 21, Dallas, arraigned on charges of using slugs, and released on $500 bond.

The fact that the slugs are of the crudest type and don't re- semble a five cent coin except in size, makes no difference as far as the federal government is con- cerned, Rebentish said.

Six-Foot Rattler Killed at Borger

BORGER, Sept. 5 — A diamond- back rattler, six feet long and weighing 30 pounds, was killed by Virgil Weinberg, 14-year-old Bor- ger, lad, who found the reptile near the Canadian river. The rattler bore 12 rattles.

The boy, who was hunting, shot the snake three times with a rifle.

II DUCE SAYS MOVE CANNOT CHANGE PLANS

TRENTO, Sept. 5 — Premier Benito Mussolini, in an unscheduled speech here Saturday served notice on the world that no oil concession granted by the Emporer of Ethiopia would altar Italy's attitude toward the last independent African king- dom.

"Political maneuvers now being attempted aboard will not lead Italy to abandon the road she has tak- en. That road is already won. Any attempt to place obstacles in it will prove futile," he thundered before 50,000 listeners in Dante square to cheer him on his way back to Rome from the Italian war maneuvers.

In his speech at Monte Ronzone earlier in the day before 140,000 of the troops gathered in the Austrian frontier to demonstrate Italy's abili- ty to defend itself, II Duce declared that Italy will have 1,000,000 men under arms by Oct. 1. In the same speech he defiantly denounced all talk of sanctions.

Better Conditions Reported for Texas

DALLAS, Sept. 5 — Better con- ditions in the agriculture and live- stock industry and an increased de- mand for merchandise in both wholesale and retail channels lent notes of optimism to the monthly business review of the federal re- serve bank of Dallas today.

During the past months favor- able conditions for growing crops throughout the eleventh federal re- serve district have been unusually bright, the report said. With the exception of wheat, the indications for Texas crops are larger and in- creased production is forecast for most crops in other states attached to this district.

To Settle Eastland Suit Out of Court

EASTLAND, Sept. 5 — Suit of M. E. Lawrence versus the City of Eastland, in which the plaintiff asks fees for services rendered while he was city attorney was to be set- tled out of court for $325, it was re- ported from an authoritative source Saturday.

The case was dismissed upon motion of plaintiff in twenty-first district court last week with costs assessed the plaintiff. Lawrence asked $750 for services rendered in three cases, the petition showed.

Red Sea Holds Out Perils to Newcomer

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Sept. 5 — The Mediterranean of- fers fresh breezes and gently smok- ing volcanoes to its visitors: the Red Sea, conscious of an unenviable reputation, concentrates on sharks and prickly heat. It stints on neith- er.

Of the two, the sharks are pref- erable. They swim lazily around the ship at anchor or in motion. They take any bait thrown overboard, then quietly bite the line— an inch cable —in two and make off with hook and all.

The sharks eat incautious native swimmers, but they do not come aboard ship. The prickly heat does.

It takes up residence on any part of the body.

September Relief In Texas Announced

AUSTIN, Sept. 5 — Texas relief commission employes have been busy figuring county allotments for September under a new $650,000 federal grant promised for the first half of the month.

Texas federal aid for the first half of August was $1,000,000, ac- cording to a report from Washing- ton, which lists nine states on a September allotment which will be held up for the last half of the month.

J. T. Duke, assistant state direc- tor, said relief will be carried on as usual, although the increased grants will necessitate limited oper- ation.

Exchange Fund Plan Studied by Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 5 — Establishment if an Exchange Fund to be used to protect the value of Canadian money is being considered by the government.

Authority to set up the fund will be sought in a bill to be introduced in the House of Commons by Mon E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance.

Details of the measure will not be made public until it is tabled in the House, but it is understood that the government plans to set aside a fund of approximately $50,000,000 to be used to buy foreign exchange gold or other credits abroad, particularly in London and New York, when it is deemed necessary to protect Canadian currency in countries with which the Dominion trades.

United States Bans Tint for Spaghetti

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — Artificial coloring of macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and similar products has been outlawed by the Food and Drug Administration.

The Administration said added color, regardless of its source or nature, constituted adulteration.

Thirty-seven shipments of the starchy products were seized last month, when analysis revealed the presence of soy-bean flour, turmeric (vegetable dye) or yellow coal-tar food color.

The Administration said that addition of coloring materials "conceals inferiority a form ofadulteration which no form of labeling can correct."

It was pointed out that manufacturers of other commodities also resort to artificial colors in their competitive efforts. The Administration, however, reiterated that wherever the presence of an artifil cial color conceals inferiority the food containing it is illegal.

Girl, 14, Promises To Be Golf Star

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 5 — A new woman golf star is appearing on the national horizon in little Edith Estabrooks, 14-year-old Iowa state women's golf champion. So easily did the young Dubuque girl win the state crown, held repeatedly by Lucile Robinson, of Des Moines, that experts predict she is on the way toward national laurels.

She is a daughter of L. B. Estabrooks, owner of the Bunker Hill golf course here. Edith has been wielding the clubs ever since she was small enough to crawl into a golf bag. She won a junior title three years ago in a winter tournament at Agua Caliente.

The youngest woman golf champion in the history of Iowa golf, Miss Estabrooks will depart for California in the fall to take a course in instruction on the game from West Coast experts.

The bank was founded more than 50 years ago by Frank Bowles as sole owner. Two years ago Bowles decided to retire and with the approval of the state banking department started liquidating his bank. All creditors were paid in full.

To furnish natural gas to our consumers is comparatively easy, considering that our plant and facilities are strictly modern and ample. To serve each customer in a personal way would not be so easy if each and every employee did not work in harmony.

The degree of satisfaction afforded the consumer by a gas utility rests not with its commodity of sale but mainly in the character of service rendered by those in its employ.

Every employee and officer of this company is striving to promote its welfare and that of the community at large by the application of sound business ethics and fair dealing. To deviate from this policy would be violation of trust.

"Camels don't get your Wind"

FAMOUS SWIMMERS AGREE

Champion swimmers speak with authority when they discuss sound wind—healthy nerves—and Camels. Buster Crabbe, champion in the 400-meter free-style Olympic event, says: "I have smoked Camels for years. If you go in for sports at all, I'd advise Camels. You'll find, as I did, that Camels are so mild they never get your wind or cut your endurance."

What Buster Crabbe says is confirmed by Helene Madison; by Jane Fauntz, the Chicago girl who rose to Olympic fame; and by Stubby Kruger and Josephine McKim. So turn to Camels. Enjoy those costlier tobaccos in Camel's matchless blend. Smoke all you wish. Athletes say, "Camels don't disturb your nerves or wind."

The argument that "no member of the League can claim rights under the covenant when it failed to keep its obligations" is the keynote of the entire Italian memomdum of attacks. With the council in recess until tonight, today was devoted to hotel room negotiations. Premier Pierre Laval of France conferred first with Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy and then with Anthony Eden of Britain on the prospective powers and composition of the conciliation commission.

CHECK MADE UPON TOLL OF STORM DEAD

By United Press

MIAMI, Sept 5 — Relief workers picked their way today through highways piled with debris in the Florida keys in an attempt to get an accurate check on the number of dead in the tropical storm.

The Red Cross however, was not willing to alter its prediction that the total was about 300, pending more complete reports.

W. P. Mooty, Dade county criminal court clerk who surveyed the storm-ravaged keys by boat, said the death toll—when those victims blown into the water and those buried in tangled tropic underbrush were found—would number at least 1,000.

Governor Dave Sholtz announced he was leaving by automobile for Miami to take charge of the relief work. He will be accompanied by several assistants.

Work of bringing bodies from the keys moved ahead, meanwhile, as the emergency machinery established during the tropic storm began to function more efficiently .

Evacuation of the desolated area by plane, boat, and foot progressed to such a stage that relief authorities were considering a thorough study of Cape Sable on the mainland, which was immediately in the path of the swirling storm. Surviving victims taken to emergency hospitals continued to tell of stark horrors of the storm.

Wallace Explains Amendments to AAA

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 5. — A special release from Washington outlines the amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act which have met the approval of both houses of congress and have the signature of President Roosevelt.

The amendments have two major purposes. One is to give the secretary of agriculture added powers in carrying out the farm program and the other is to erec t bulwarks around the program against the time when provisions of the act will have to meet the crucial test in the supreme court.

"The new amendments," Secretary Wallace commented, "will permit increased 'adjustment' of production by permitting benefit payments for increased production." Wallace was careful to point out that there is little likelihood of this provision being put to use except in cases of grave emergency.

On the most controversial point, the section barring suits by processors to recover processing taxes in event the levies are held unconstitutional, a compromise was reached. Processors can sue for recovery, but only after they have submitted their claims to the commissioner of internal revenue. However, the processors must show they have not passed the taxes along.

The amendments also permit the secretary of agriculture to draft marketing agreements with the consent of the majority of producers or processors for the following: milk, fruits, tobacco, vegetables, soy beans, pecans, walnuts and naval stores.

The recent act of congress also extends the Bankhead cotton control and Kerr-Smith tobacco control act and authorizes a similar program for potatoes. It also permits start of the "ever normal" granary plan under which the government could make loans to producers to induce them to hold surplus crops on farms.

Other provisions in the amendments authorize use of 30 per cent of customs receipts to finance export of crop surpluses, except cotton, under the export debenture plan; and authorize use of part of the $4,000,000,000 works fund to buy up sub-marginal farm land.

FUND IS SET ASIDE TO AID FARMER DEBT

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — President Roosevelt today satisfied, set aside $2,000,000 of his $4,000,000,000 work relief fund to help farmers scale down their debts.

He made the money available to the Rural Resettlements Administration to defray expenses of 15,000 volunteer workers operating in 45 states to bring debtors and creditors together.

The allocation transferred the task from the old Farm Credit Administration organized in 1933, to Rexford Tugwell, whose job is the works relief program is to rehabilitate agriculture.

Army Worms Slow New Mexico Trains

MOUNTAINAIR, N. M., Sept. 5. —Trains in this section frequently are thrown off schedule in the winter time because of snow storms, but railroaders have just discovered a new summer-time menace—army worms.

Dispatchers discovered that trains were having a difficult time maintaining schedules between Mountainair and Abo. They investigated and found that the trouble was worms.

The worms, which literally covered the ground in many sections, were crushed under the train wheels making the track as slippery as if it had been soaped.

Track workers had to be sent out with brooms to sweep the tracks clean so the trains could keep on scheduled time.

AREA WILL BE CONVERTED TO ANOTHER PARK

United Press dispatches to the Daily News today said that President Roosevelt had approved a project calling for the allotment of funds for a park in the Lake Cisco area.

The park, which is an improvement project at the east end of the swimming pool, was estimated to cost $5,071, of which would be paid by the Works Progress Administration.

The project calls for the improvement of the creek bed below the pool, clearing out of brush, and terracing the area.

It has been estimated that the project will be a great factor in attracting more persons to Cisco each year as they seek recreation spots in Texas. The job has been contemplated for some time but only now has been given the final approval of the WPA.

It was believed today that the job likely would get under way soon and that the new park would be ready for use during Centennial year in 1936.

This is a part of a move to change the whole area east of the dam into a big park.

Italy Outlaws Ethiopia

After telling the world that it wants peace, Italy yesterday threw the entire League of Nations into a muddled state of affairs by demanding that either Ethiopia or Italy be expelled from membership.

The situation was somewhat like that of the small boy known to all Americans who, because he can't be captain of the baseball team, takes his bat away from the rest of the boys until the present captain is dropped from his hank and creates a vacancy, whereupon he resumes play——with the bat——as captain.

Italy, furthermore tried the childish trick of not speaking to Ethiopia. The Italian representative, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, said that Italy wants peace with Ethiopia but will not talk about that or anything else to the Ethiopian delegation. The ancient African kingdom, he said, has been outlawed as a nation and would not be consulted by the Italian government.

What Aloisi said was, in effect, that Italy, without waiting for the League to act, had tried, convicted, and sentenced Ethiopia, and that the court decision from the League would simply be a waste of time.

Aloisi said, furthermore, that there is likelihood of war but that there will be no immediate fighting unless there is some provocation. Such speeches as that would be almost enough provocation for Ethiopia, it would seem to an American bystander.

This is not an effort to uphold Ethiopia. It is not a condemnation of Italy. But it is ar[illegible] the method of trying a defend[illegible] by mob law and convicting tha[illegible] court has the opportunity to a[illegible] nation or individual which set[illegible] proves or "outlaws" another t[illegible] against the ignorance or conce[illegible] dual which makes that situati[illegible]

Now it is said by the powers that be on the banks of the Potomac that the acceptance by Texas voters of the constitutional amendment will contribute a maximum of $15 a month to each eligible Texan over 65 years of age. More important than this is the announcement that payments from Washington depend upon the availability of the whole social security fund which became embroiled in the debate that blocked congressional passage of the third deficiency appropriation.

Authoritative sources at the national capital were of the opinion that the Texas program would be patterned after the model created by the congress. Federal officials said the number of persons to be aided and the total amount of money Texas would obtain would have to be worked out in Texas and then submitted to the federal social security board for approval. Texas lawmakers in special session have a tremendous task facing them. There are lawmakers who saw that at least $5,000,000 will be the sum necessary on the part of Texas to meet the requirements of the federal security act.

The latest from Washington is that money can not be found to finance the social betterment program. The money was denied the federal agency "because of Huey Long's filibuster."

This is the plan that was worked out at the president's desk by the head of the New Deal administration and his advisors: To get enough money from the work relief fund o set up the machinery and leave the voting of another appropriation to the next congress convening in January.

WASHINGTON — Grizzled veteran of famous congressional battles for more than 30 years, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is still winning victories.

His latest triumph was won largely at the expense of his former secretary, J. R. McCarl, long since grown powerful as comptroller general. McCarl wanted to get TVA finances under his thumb. And TVA is the senator's cherished child.

The controversial TVA amendments, designed chiefly to protect TVA against invalidation by courts, went through the Senate as Norris and other friends of the project desired. But a hostile House military affairs committee mangled them so as to hamstring the TVA directors seriously. The House repaired some of the damage, repudiating its committee, but the House measure was still in such shape when it reached conference that Norris, head of the Senate conferees, couldn't accept them.

Speaker Joe Byrns appointed a House conference committee, four of whose five members were hostile to TVA. Congressman Lister Hill of Alabama was the only friend Norris had in the House group. The outlook seemed hopeless.

* * *

AFTER weeks of deadlock, the conference suddenly reported out a bill far more favorable than any friend of TVA had dared anticipate.

Norris and Hill, throwing every ounce of energy into their persuasion, had won over two of the House conferees, giving them a majority on that side. The inside story is this:

The Norris threat to tie up the issue until next session, making TVA a campaign issue unless it were treated fairly now, was backed up by pregnant messages from an important gent at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue and by his congressional contact man, Charles West.

Chairman John McSwain of the House conferees, a South Carolinian and secret foe of TVA, was caused to remember that his state seeks 20 or 30 million dollars for a certain Santee-Cooper river navigation and power project.

Congressman Numa Montet of Louisiana, who has broken with his old friend Huey Long, was forcibly reminded that no anti-Kingfish candidate could be re-elected in Louisiana without strong administration support.

After McSwain and Montet saw the light, it was all over.

* * *

THE net effect is to let TVA do approximately whatever it finds necessary to achieve success and to knock out hampering restrictions. The TVA directors have insisted that they must be allowed some of the flexibility and freedom of a business corporation and a minimum of red tape.

McCarl, instead of getting the firmer hold on TVA finances for which he had hoped and worked, receives a setback. Although still authorized to audit TVA accounts, his comments can no longer be heralded—as they were recently by "power trust" representatives—as a "report" damning the development. McCarl's reports hereafter will be subject to TVA scrutiny and accompanying explanation or answer before they are submitted.

William Green and School Teachers

William Green is president of the American Federation of Labor. He telegraphed a demand to the American Federation of Teachers in session at Cleveland, Ohio, "that they purge their ranks of communists and communism." Green urged the revocation of the charter of the New York local of the Teachers Federation, "in order that it might be reorganized on an American Federation of Labor basis." Well, the executive council of the teachers voted to rescind their action and refer the question to the convention floor. There are many teachers the country over who are for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. Old Samuel Gompers fought communism during his very active and brilliant career. His successor has not deserted the policy or the advice of the famous Gompers who was perhaps the wisest leader of organized labor America has known.

OUT OUR WAY

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GOGRDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Sept. 5 — Sixty days is accepted in Austin as the minimum estimate of the number of days the legislature will be in session after it convenes Sept. 16.

No member who has been in Austin in advance of the session expects the work to be completed in less time than that. Some estimate it will take longer. One special session is limited to 30 days by the constitution. But members do not believe they will stop then. They expect Governor James V. Allred to reconvene them for another month.

SHEARER

If they are reassembled immediately, the two sessions would end on Nov. 14. If the Governor lets the legislators go home for a few days between sessions to get their ears to the "grass roots", they will be in Austin for the final home football game of the University of Texas Nov. 17.

There will be one new member of the legislature for the special session Horace B. Sessions, Ballinger, will take the House seat that was occupied by Rep. Harvey O. Jones, Winters.

Jones resigned to become postmaster. He was a merchant. Sessions is an attorney. Of the 150 members of the House, 57 will be lawyers.

Indications point to a full attendance in both house and senate. Sen. Ernest Fellbaum, Sr., San Antonio will be present, Senate Secretary Bob Barker has been notified. Senator Fellbaum was absent from most of the regular session because of illness.

The senators may have some difficulty in finding their offices when the session begins. At the close of the regular session, souvenir hunters or vandals carried off the signs marking the senators' private offices.

Off to his home in Amarillo to attend the reunion there of United Confederate Veterans, Cli. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the state railroad commission, took with him a photograph of the Confederate memorial on the state capitol grounds with its graven announcement:

"They Died For State Rights."

Fighting for state rights against federal oil control, Thompson said he found the monument an inspiration as he passed it almost daily going to his office.

Governor Allred isn't nearly so embarrassed about his recent unsuccessful effort to thumb a ride into Austin, as are Supreme Court Judges Richard Critz and John Sharp, who were with him when automobiles passed them by.

Judge Critz' sister-in-law was one of the motorists who drove by without recognizing them.

"First we stood by our stalled car and thumbed," Governor Allred said. "No one stopped. Some laughed and thumbed in the opposite direction. One driver thumbed his nose.

"We got our suit cases out of the automobile and stood with them in hand to indicate our plight. Still the cars whizzed by. I do not believe a Bill Murray hitch-hiking campaign would be very sucessful these days."

The average citizen probably does not associate sentiment with politics and state departments. It might have been surprising indeed for an outsider to have been present in the office of the secretary of state Friday, when Secretary Mann announced his resignation to the some 30 employes of the office.

The announcement came as a bombshell, just prior to release to the press. Mann muttered two or three sentences in a voice scarcely audible, and then he choked up. A stenographer burst into tears. Others followed and a few of the men began wiping their eyes with handkerchiefs.

In the seven months that Mann and his associates have been in the office, a very close bond has been welded between them. It was some time after the announcement before employes were in a mood to congratulate their Washington-going chief.

R. B. Stanford, Waco, will sacrifice $400 a year in state pay for the honor of being secretary of state instead of attorney for the Securities Division of the secretary of state's office.

The secretary's salary is fixed by the Constitution of 1876 at $2,000 and cannot be increased by the legislature. Salaries of others in the office are left to legislative appropriation. Several employes receive more than the secretary.

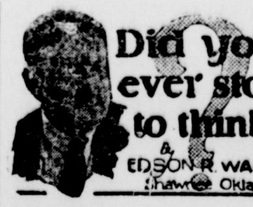

A constitutional amendment to be submitted Nov. 3, 1936, will permit the secretary's salary to be raised to $6,000 a year.

A "gross receipts" tax may be the sugar coating placed on a "sales tax" in the efforts of the legislature to follow the State Democratic platform and also provide for old age pensions.

The platform declares against a "sales tax." The "gross receipts" tax would be levied against the merchant, varying with the amount of business (sales) transacted.

The merchant, of course, would pass the tax on to the consumer—perhaps charge more than it cost him.

Representative R. Emmett Morse, Houston, one of the authors of the Prohibition Repeal Amendment and chairman of the Texas Repeal Forces, will be able to give fellow legislators first hand information on how the liquor traffic is handled in one place. He has been in Mexico taking a vacation after the campaign for repeal.

"Weather or climate is the most important of all physical influences which decide the destinies of men and nations," so says the Pinang Gazette.

The editor goes on to say that the fact was recognized by primitive people who made gods of the sun, the moon, the winds and the seasons. Even highly civilized people such as Egyptians and Romans carried on worship of the elements in some form or another.

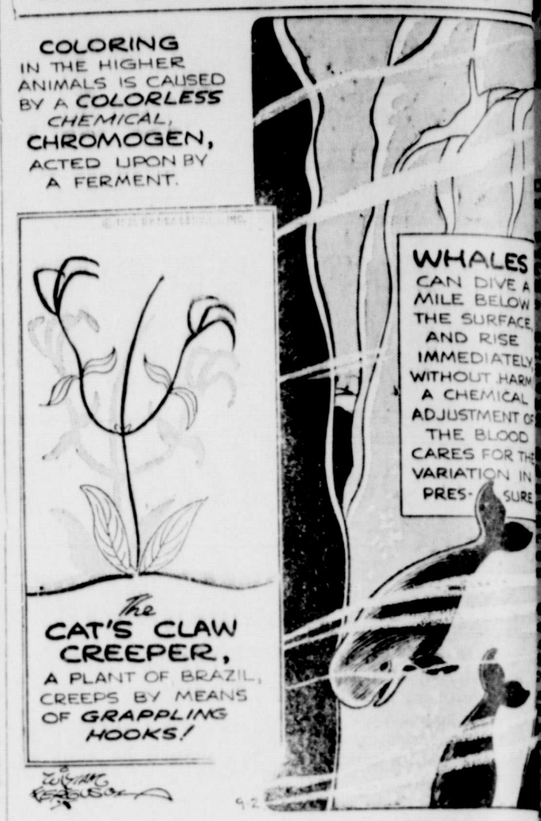

Today many of the medical men study or should study the weather for many reasons. It is an undeniable fact that various forms of illness are to a great extent controlled by the weather and modern medicine studies it with care, for every season seems to bring its own special forms of illness.

Shoestring Peddler Proud of Cane That Calvin Coolidge Offered to Buy for $

ODESSA, Sept. 5. — Jasper V. Smith, 92, a pioneer of South Texas, takes great pride in a walking stick which he says Calvin Coolidge tried to buy from him.

He hitch hikes over the country, making his way by selling shoe laces. It was while the silent Calvin Coolidge was president that he hiked into Washington one day to sell shoe laces to the congressmen.

He ran into the president who was out for a walk.

Forget Business

Excited, he forgot to solicit the chief executive's shoe string business, because the president stopped to admire his walking cane.

"I'll give you a hundred dollars for it," Smith said Coolidge told him.

The old man replied that he would gladly give the president his cane but for the fact that it had been given to him by a friend who made him promise he would keep it as long as he lived.

"I'm not superstitious," Smith explained, "but I made a promise to my friend that I'd keep it always."

"Mr. Smith, you're a man of my kind," the president is quoted as having said.

The odd diamond willow cane, topped with a cow's horn, accompanies him every time he leaves his little room at Odessa. He says the cow's horn brings him luck.

Carried Cane 25 Years

Smith said he has carried the cane for 25 years and during that time has visited all parts of the United States.

He had to give up cowboy life 25 years ago when he was crippled in a fall. After that he took up selling shoe strings to make his living.

"I can remember back in pioneer days," he recalls, "when ranch women had to send off to the nearest neighbor for coals of fire when they let their own fire go out."

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE

FOR years potatoes were misunderstood. Everybody, including scientists, talked about the calories they added and blamed them for making people fat, forgetting all about their valuable minerals.

The minerals are why it's not so easy to find satisfactory potato substitutes. Remember, too, that the tendency to serve macaroni or noodles in a rich sauce leads to the addition of many more calories than simply-cooked potatoes.

When the meat course is light a good dish of macaroni, spaghetti, rice or noodles will help the meal. Noodle ring with its eggs and milk adds many protein calories. Macaroni in a tomato and cheese sauce does its share in the same direction.

Plain Rice With Heartier Meal

Plain boiled rice is suitable to serve with a heartier meat meal. You know that unless rice is cooked in milk or richly dressed with butter, three-fourths of a cup is only a hundred calories.

Tomatoes are traditional with macaroni and spaghetti, but the combination of macaroni and onions is unusual and delicious. Hearty, too. Parboil the macaroni as usual. Then arrange sliced onions layer for layer with the macaroni (or spaghetti) in a well-buttered baking dish. A thin white sauce is poured over to cover the mixture and the dish is baked forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Noodle ring is good filled with any creamed fish, meat or full-flavored vegetable. Creamed sweetbreads and mushrooms, maybe, for party luncheon. Or filled with creamed cauliflower or creamed onions, this makes an excellent family luncheon, s[illegible] with, say, an egg salad.

Two cups noodles, 1 tables[illegible] butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 milk, 1-2 cup grated chees[illegible] eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 spoon white pepper, 1-8 teas[illegible] dry mustard, 1-2 teaspoon [illegible] chestershire sauce.

REDUCED COTTON CARRY-OVER OFFSETS GREATER PRODUCTION

Special to Daily News

The world supply of cotton probably will not be materially different this season than last, when it was 39,300,000 bales, since the probable increase in production this year may be offset by the reduction in carry-over on August 1, says the Purcau of Agricultural Economics on world cotton prospects.

Despite unfavorable weather in many foreign producing countries it now apears that total forcign acreage and production will be larger than last season Towever, the world carry-over of cotton on August 1 this year was about 2,900,000 bales less than on the same date a year ago.

World consumption of all cotton in the season just ended was about the same, says the bureau, as in the preceding season, and slightly more than the 10-year average. Consumption of American cotion, however, decreased about 2,350,000 bales from the preceding season, and was about 2,275,000 bales less than average.

Mill consumption of foreign growths increased about 2,350,000 bales over 1933-34 and exceeded world consumption of American cotton by 2,300,000 bales. During the 10 years ended 1932-33, world mill consumption of American cotton had exceeded that of foreign growths by approximately 3,000,000 bales.

Exports of American cotton during the season just ended totaled 4,800,000 running bales, or about 2,700,000 bales less than in the preceding year, and 3,100,000 bales less than the 10-year average. Foreign consumption of American cotton however, totaled about 6,100,000 bales, and foreign stocks of American cotton were reduced by more than 1,200,000 bales.

Horse Perishes In Rescuing Animals

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 5 — Old John has gone to a hero's reward.

An ordinary stockyards horse with more than ordinary horse sense, Old John's closest friend was William Davis, 60, negro, stockyards employe.

When a horse and mule barn near the stockyards caught fire recently, Old John gave his life for the other horses. Three times he and Davis entered the burning barns to lead other horses and mules to safety. Then Davis became exhausted.

"Go ahead, John," Davis urged weakly, "you can do it by yourself."

Old John entered the flames. Twice he came out leading horses almost ready to stampede. The third time Old John never returned.

Fort Davis Honors Stagecoach Drivers

FORT DAVIS, Sept. 5 — Days of the old stage coach drivers in Texas who came through this state on their way to the west coast, were vividly brought to mind recently when a bronze plaque in their honor was unveiled on the highway near here.

The plaque, 18 by 24 inches, weighs 70 pounds. The inscription on it reads:

"Dedicated in memory of Ed Waldy, John M. Dean, August Frensell and all other stage drivers who traveled this route. Fearless heroes of frontier days. By their courage the West was made. Erected by J. B. Gillett, 1935."

Captain James B. Gillett of Marfa, an old-time Indian fighter and police chief in El Paso in its boom days, was a friend and associate of the three drivers named.

The tablet is beside the old Butterfield overland mail trail to California, the San Antonio-San Diego mail trail, the Ben Ficklin route and the Old Spanish trail from Chihuahua City to Arkansas.

Hermit Hoards His Riches in Old Cave

OCTAVE, Ariz., Sept. 5. — Living in a cave he calls home, "Louie the Hermit," dean of Arizona hermits, ekes out a living while he leaves literal mountains of wealth but little touched about his door.

Prospectors say that his mining claims near here are rich, but he sells only enough ore to assure him of a living.

Veteran of the early prospecting days of California, and one-time friend of John Marshall, who discovered gold at Sutter's Mill and started the rush of '49, the aged German immigrant is content to remain at his camp and rarely ventures even to this little town two miles away.

He says that the world is "too excited and too busy" for him.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

I looked up Satisfy and it says—

SAT-IS-FY. Something that pleases, gives satisfaction; something that just suits. For example, you are pleased with a dress. As applied to cigarettes, it means one that is MILD—that is not harsh or bitter; one that TASTES just right.

RAIN FORCES LOBOES TO HOLD WORKOUT IN GYM

SHELLEY BACK FOR WORKOUT THIS MORNING

Rain which has been falling for most of four days forced the Loboes back into the high school gym this morning, where they were going through celesthinics drills to get into shape for the 1935 season, just around the corner.

The Loboes had only one day of outdoor work before being forced back inside. Their start was postponed and the first two workouts were held inside the gym, so that yesterday was the only time they have set foot on the turf they will race over this season.

Coach Dexter Shelley was back with his charges today after going to Fort Worth yesterday to the bedside of his father, R. S. Shelley of Austin, who was ill there. Coach Clyde Van Sickle yesterday put the boys through a good drill on tackling fundamentals. Thirty - four squadmen were present at the morning session.

The Loboes will have little time to get ready for the opening of the season, especially if rain delays outdoor practice much more. They are scheduled to take on Electra Friday, Sept. 20, in the first game.

The game will be played at night on Chesley field, according to Coach Shelley, and may be the last home game at night this fall.

Following the Electra game, the Loboes will take on San Angelo at San Angelo on Sept. 27. On Oct 4 they will meet Sweetwater at Sweetwater.

Their first conference game, against the traditonal first foes of the season will be on Oct 11 when they meet Brownwood at Brownwood. Then, to make it four consecutive games away from home, they will play Big Spring at Big Spring on Oct 18. The following four weeks will see four games here the first three league affairs. They will be against Breckenridge, Eastland, Ranger, and Childress. The Turkey Day clash at Abilene will wind up the district reason.

PREHISTORIC BONES

BIG DAM CHATTER

Over at Breckenridge a sports scribe is looking forward to a great year of football competition in the Oil Belt. But aren't we all?

He foresees strong competition, with Ranger the standout of the district, pointing to the fact that the Bulldogs are hoping to complete their fourth season undefeated in the Oil Belt, while Breckenridge and Abilene will be trying especially hard to stop them.

Breckenridge has a new coach this fall, Eck Curtis, formerly of the Ranger Bulldogs and last year with Electra. For those who like to size up the caliber of a football mentor by looking over the team he turned out the year before, there will be an excellent oportunity to get Curtis' number here Sept. 20 when Cisco plays Electra.

To most of the old timers of the Oil Belt, though, this will not be necessary. They remember that fast team of Bulldogs that took the Oil Belt by storm for two years in succession, only to be thrown out the second year. Curtis remembers that, too, and likely will be back to make it tough for somebody.

Curtis used a Notre Dame style of play with a backfield hop. The word "hop" is used advisedly. Those four backs jumped into position faster than any other shifting team seen in this part of the country in a long time.

For a while the Bulldogs were the only team in the Oil Belt using a shift or even the Notre Dame style of play. Last year, however, Coach Shelley brought it back to Cisco and added a tackle shift just for variety and to give his opponents something to think about.

Coach W. B. Chapman, who popularized football in this part of the state, made the spectacular Notre Dame style of play popular in the Oil Belt. Later, however, when the rest of the boys got to watching for it and had their defenses set for it, he changed to the just as spectacular Wallner type of game, using double-wingbacks and a close, unbalanced line. He is still giving his opponents plenty of trouble with that.

Like the Oil Belt, the Southwest conference generally has about one team using a Notre Dame style offense. For a while it was Rice, where Jack Meagher taught the Owls how to shift into the unbalanced box. The very year he left and it looked bad for the disciples of the late Knute Rockne, however, the University of Texas hired Jack Chevigny, chunky Notre Dame former star and helper under the famous Rock. He will be back with with it this season and promised to give Texas a good team.

OWLS PICKED AS CHAMPIONS IN SOUTHWEST

By J. WILLARD RIDINGS
Special to Daily News

FORT WORTH, Sept. 5 — The Rice Owls will win the 1935 football championship of the Southwest Conference.

At least that's what the sports writers of this section say. Asked by this writer to predict the order in which the seven Southwest Conference teams would finish the season, the sports writers climbed aboard the Rice band-wagon with such a unanimity that the Owls led the field by a wide margin.

T. C. U. and S. M. U. tied for second-place honors. The Texas Longhorns ran a strong fourth. Then, bringing up the rear, came Texas A. & M. for fifth place, Arkansas for sixth, and Baylor for the cellar position.

All of the first four teams (Rice, T. C. U., S. M. U. and Texas) received votes as potential championship winners. And many of the sports editors prefaced their selections with remarks to the effects that any one of the four could come through to win the flag, much depending upon team spirit, injuries and the fortunes of the gridiron warfare.

No Perfect Records

Several ventured the prediction that there will be no undefeated and untied champion, whichever team may come through for honors.

It might be interesting to quote one brief commentary:

"Texas Christian will have the most improved team in the conference, but, even so, I don't see how that Rice powerhouse can be stopped. The Aggies will be in the first division too. Norton will have them out for blood. S. M. U. will be the question mark. That camp has some 20-odd lettermen, and if they get off on the right foot they will cause much misery. Texas has lost too many big guns to be in the finals, but they can be tough in the clutches. Arkansas and Baylor are also-rans. Now that I've written that, I'll bet Baylor wins every game on her schedule!"

In the opinion of some, one of the biggest obstacles in the way of Rice is the never-broken Southwest Conference tradition that "Champions don't repeat."

All agree, however, that seldom has a football season promised so much in the way of thrills for the fans.

Troop Movements Slacken

At present the Italian movements have slackened. In normal times there are perhaps three ships a week. During the spring this had grown to an average above 29, but the rainy season in the south has forced a slowing down. Burning with Fever

Sure Relief for Malaria!

Don't try homemade treatments or newfangled remedies! Take that good old Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. Soon you will be yourself again, for Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic not only relieves the symptoms of Malaria, but destroys the infection itself.

The tasteless quinine in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic kills the Malarial infection in the blood while the iron it contains builds up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and fortify against further attack. The twofold effect is absolutely necessary to the overcoming of Malaria. Besides being a dependable remedy for Malaria, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is also an excellent tonic of general use. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle today at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money

The BLUE DOOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, high-spirited girl of 19, an orphan, lives with relatives, the LAWRENCES. Feeling herself neglected by her cousin LETTY LAWRENCE, Ruth impulsively takes a bus for the mid-west in hope of finding work. Running out of money, she is put off the bus in a small town just as a storm is breaking. She seeks refuge in a big, gloomy stone house with a blue door, and faints on the doorstep.

She is carried upstairs by the housekeeper and a young man, JOHN McNEILL. The old housekeeper has mistaken Ruth for ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Ruth allows the mistake to stand, in order to enjoy the good meal and comfortable bed which she needs. The old woman says to her, "Please call me Penny, like you used to do."

Elaine Chalmers, meanwhile, at school at Graycastle College, is in a sorority meeting to win the love of her first sweetheart, John McNeill.

Ruth resolves, with regret, to quit the old house early next morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

RUTH did not realize her own exhausted condition. When she sank into a deep, dreamless sleep it was not to waken at daybreak, as she had planned, but in response to a knock on her door hours later.

Sitting up in consternation, she called, "Come in!" and there entered the old woman with the bent back and peering eyes.

"Oh!" cried Ruth. "I meant—" She stopped abruptly, for, of course she could not say, "I meant to run away before you caught me!"

"I was worried about you, Miss Elaine. Are you feeling better? And will you take your breakfast now?"

Ruth thought, "Now I'm in it up to my neck!" Yet a lilting happiness mingled with her dismay. She would have to spend another day here and another night. In this situation there were blended three elements that beckoned her: adventure, a little respite from her wanderings, and most important of all) the chance of seeing once more the young man named John.

"Oh, Lawsy me!" exclaimed the old woman. "Are you too sick to talk, Miss Elaine?" She came to the bed and put her hand on the girl's forehead. "Where do you hurt most?"

Ruth laughed. "I don't hurt at all, Penny, and I'm not sick. Just tired and stiff and sort of mumbled in the head. I was so surprised to find myself here that I couldn't answer you."

Penny said, "When your letter came Tuesday, sayin' you were comin' to the old house for a rest I didn't think you'd be followin' so soon. I thought you said you'd be here in a couple of days. My eyes are terrible bad. Maybe I read it wrong."

"Have you ever wear glasses, Penny?" asked Ruth scoldingly. "They don't help, Miss Elaine.

I think it's cataract. I'll end up by bein' stone blind, I'm afraid."

"Oh," said Ruth, "I'm sorry!" She impulsively took the old woman's hand and held it for a moment against her cheek. Here was another human being with troubles as deep as her own, and without the hope of youth to help her bear them. "Poor Penny!" she murmured.

"Not that I can't see to take care of the house!" the old woman declared hastily.

"Oh, no!" agreed Ruth. "Did you say breakfast, Penny?"

"Yes, Miss Elaine. There're plenty of fresh eggs. I still keep chickens — white leghorns, the same as when you were a child."

"I'd like a couple of your white leghorn eggs, Penny," Ruth said with enthusiasm, "and a cup of coffee. Some toast, too, if it's not too much trouble."

"It's not," Penny said. "You've changed a lot, Miss Elaine. You never used to think whether a thing was trouble or not." She went out, shaking her head in wonder.

• • •

AFTER breakfast the girl amazed the old servant yet further by making her own bed and tidying her room. "I don't want to cause you any extra work," Ruth explained. "You've enough to do as it is."

"I can manage the work fine," the old woman declared positively. "I hope you'll tell your mother and stepfather that, if you get a chance. I don't want to be pensioned off, not till I drop in my tracks."

Ruth saw that the old creature had a horror of giving up her place. She longed to reassure her, yet she felt that such deception would be cruel in the end. As she thought of the old woman's troubles, her own schemes took second place. The impulse came to tell Penny, then and there, that she was not entertaining "Elaine," but just a tramp girl who had wandered in for shelter.

"Penny," she said, "I've something to tell you. I'm not—"

There came a knocking at the front door and Penny said, "Tell me later, Miss Elaine. It's young John McNeill come to ask about you. He carried you upstairs when you fainted last night. He was worried—"

She went hobbling down the stairs to open the door, while the knocking continued, with some impatience.

Presently Penny called, "Will you come down, Miss Elaine?"

Ruth made a quick survey of herself in the mirror, added a discreet touch of lipstick and went down. Her heart was pounding with both panic and pleasure.

The young man was waiting at the foot of the stairs. John McNeill just missed being handsome, but Ruth's eyes, in their hasty survey, saw that he had the rare quality of distinction. He looked up at her quizzically and Ruth thought, "He'll know I'm a fake. I shan't have to confess."

But he said, "Good morning, Elaine," and held out his hand.

She was surprised to find herself saying, "John McNeill!" and putting her hand in his.

• • •

THERE was a little silence between them after they had shaken hands, but it was not an awkward silence. Penny, who was observing them like a benignant owl, remarked curiously, "Do you find her much changed, Mr. John? I can't depend on my eyes any more—"

"Changed for the better," John McNeill answered coolly.

Penny remarked, "She hasn't made as big a woman as I thought she'd make. She was always an over-tall child, and well filled out too."

John put his head on one side, considering this. "Let's see—how old were you when you visited here last?"

"Twelve," Ruth replied glibly. To herself she observed, "Bright girl! I know the answers—so far."

"And I was 16," John McNeill said thoughtfully.

"I was in love with you," Ruth remarked audaciously. "You were too old to notice me much, but I was crazy about you just the same." (She thought, "Whatever made me say that!")

Penny said with a cackle, "Yes, you were, Miss Elaine! You used to follow him around everywhere, makin' eyes at him. Such airs as you put on, to get him to notice you!"

John McNeill laughed and joined Penny in looking back through the years. "But I noticed she was a good-looking kid," he confessed.

"I remember I said to my mother, 'Give Elaine Chalmers four or five years and she'll be a professional heart-breaker. She's got something—'"

"It seems to me her hair looks darker," Penny stated. "Her mother's hair turned dark that way, too, though not so noticeable."

Ruth thought, "Why have I gotten into this thing! In just a minute something's going to be said—something's going to break—"

But nothing was said, and nothing broke. John McNeill turned the conversation from the past to the present, as if that alone interested him. "I'm on my way to work now," he remarked, "but all days must end. Could I invite myself to dinner tonight, Penny, if I brought a steak and cooked it myself?"

Penny said, "Why, yes, Mr. John. But shouldn't you bring your mother, too?"

"Mother's out of town," he answered, "visiting Aunt Sarah in Scranton." (Ruth realized she had been holding her breath.) "So you see it's pure charity for you to take me in."

• • •

AS he left he said to Ruth, "No more fainting! Promise?"

She laughed. "I was just like a gay nineties heroine last night, wasn't I? I can't imagine what made me do it!"

He looked at her curiously. "You seemed pretty tired," was all he said.

After he had gone Penny seemed to want to talk, but Ruth set about evading her. John McNeill's visit had caused Ruth to abandon all thought of the confession she had been on the verge of making. She thought, "It would spoil the little party tonight. It would spoil everything. I'm going to be Elaine for a few hours longer. It's the nicest thing that ever happened to me!"

So when Penny said, after a while, "Excuse me, Miss Elaine, but does your stepfather, Mr. Deal, say anything more about selling the house?" Ruth replied cannily, "I think it's best for us not to discuss things like that, Penny."

She felt contrite when she saw how rebuked the old creature looked, so she exclaimed hastily, "That funny nickname 'Penny'! How did you get that? I've forgotten."

"Why," the old woman answered, diverted, "it happened when you were just a little tot. I gave you pennies for your bank because you had a fancy for dropping them in. Every time you dropped in a penny a little iron man stepped out and saluted. So you called me 'Penny! Penny!'"

Ruth laughed absently, but she was looking at her hands. "I meant to ask you, Penny—have you any turpentine? I've got blue paint on my hands. It must have come off the door last night. I didn't realize it was freshly painted when I was pounding on it—"

"Oh!" cried the old woman reproachfully. "You've scarred the door!"

She looked so stricken that Ruth said quickly, "If I have, I'll repair the damage. Have you any paint left?"

"Oh, yes," Penny said queerly. "But the quarter moon's past. I'll have to wait now—"

That was the first intimation Ruth had that the old woman was "touched," that mystery as well as pathos dwelt under this roof. . . . Penny hobbled quickly to the porch and Ruth could see her, through the prismatic glass of the side panels, rubbing the door with her sleeve and squinting at it anxiously.

CHURCH DECLINE FEARED

SANDUSKY, Ohio — The Rev. Thomas Hughes, Methodist minister here, has predicted the end of Protestant churches in the United States within the next quarter of a century, unless congregations take a more active interest in services and support of the church.

ETHIOPIA USES BAGS OF SALT FOR CURRENCY

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 — Ethiopie's currency, the Maria Theresa thaler has been thrust into prominence by Italy's war preparations against the African country but it is known to Wall Street only by hearsay. Leading exchange houses never have made a transaction in it, a United Press survey reveals.

Salt is the common medium of exchange in the ancient and primitive black kingdom.

The Bank of Ethiopia, in its semi-monthly letter to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York last posted a price that was read out at 36 cents a thaler.

The coin,, which is of silver of 833.33 fineness weighs 433.08 grains. Delivered in New York and melted into bars this silver would be worth approximately 49 cents a thaler, with the American silver price at 65 cents an ounce.

Advances With Silver

Value of the silver content of the thaler rises 3-4 cent for every 1 cent advance in the price of silver.

The Maria Theresa thaler, originating in Austria has long been the currency of countries bordering the Red Sea. For many years these coins were made in Austria and purchased as a commodity by Ethiopia att he rate of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 thaler a year. There was some mystry attached to their eventual disposal, inasmuch as more than 50,000,000 were purchased by the estimated circulation seldom exceeded 7,000,000.

The Ethiopian government also circulated a coin known as the Menelik dollar, similar in weight and content to the thaler, but many of the natives failed to recognize it as money, and it was withdrawn in 1933.

Salt Used In Trade

Salt a highly prized commodity in Ethiopia, figures importantly as a medium ofexchange in its domestic trade. The country imports 13,000 metric tons (26,652,000 pounds(of salt annually, andthis, taken into the interior in bars and bags is willingly accepted at a rate of exchange that fluctates according to the supply.

Larger mercahnts ant foreigners conduct their business with banknotes issued by the Bank of Ethiopia, covered by silver thaler reserves not more than 40 per cent government obligations, demand collateral loans and eligible commercial paper.

CHILD IN 460 WANTS WAR

Here's Something New; Sofeball Star Set Down

A PLAYER can be suspended in softball, too. . . . Bill Pecnick, a star left-hander who bowled a Kenosha array to the national championship last year, has been banned by the Amateur Softball Association of America on charges of professionalism. . . . The late John McGraw contended that most of baseball's thrills are introduced not by base hits but by mechanical errors. . . . Headed by Discovery, Top Row, Myrtlewood, and Clang, 32 thoroughbreds were named for the $15,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup. . . . The Hawthorne meeting begins Sept 3. . . . Despite Al Simmons' remarkable record in Philadelphia, not a single customer wrote a letter of protest when Connie Mack peddled the outfielder to the White Sox. . . . Ford C. Frick still sits in the press box at the Polo Grounds, from which he emerged, not so long ago, to become president of the National League. . . . During the past few days, the Giants have looked and acted to regular Polo Grounds patrons exactly like the Giants who collapsed so completely late last summer.
