PRPC Bids Taken for Ambulance

Ambulance bids were let September 12 by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for ten vehicles to be purchased through the emergency medical services grant awarded to the Panhandle by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to Betty O'Rourke, Regional Emergency Medical Services Coordinator.

The City of Wellington has requested the purchase of a type II standard van, forward control integral cab body ambulance.

Well equipped ambulances meeting design and equipment standards are a prime prerequisite for an effective, reliable emergency medical services system. "The ultimate goal is to provide for regional emergency transportation service available at all times and designed to provide life supporting measures to every victim of an emergency," states Don Goforth, vice president of the Panhandle Emergency Medical Services System (PEMSS).

Bid packets will be opened October 10 in the offices of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, with the awards to be made October 23.

Two Deputies Studying for Certification

Two deputies on the staff of Sheriff John Rainey will begin six-weeks basic study leading to state certification as law enforcement officers.

The course is offered at regular intervals by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission at Amarillo College.

They are J.R. Nelson and Gary Thomas, both of whom had law enforcement experience prior to joining the Collingsworth County combined law enforcement program.

Upon completion of the course, they will receive state certification, now required of all men in law enforcement work.

The two will be out of the office during day time hours, but they will commute and will be here nights and on week ends.

Church Plans Fall Attendance Drive

The Church of the Nazarene begins its fall Sunday School attendance campaign, Sunday, September 28 and will conclude it Sunday, November 2.

The theme of the campaign is "Reach Out and Touch". Each of the six Sundays will have a special emphasis, the Rev. J.L. Harrison, pastor said.

September 28 - Reach Out and Touch, "Families".

October 5 - Reach Out and Touch, "Friends".

October 12 - Reach Out and Touch, "Neighbors".

RETIRING LIBRARIAN

Mrs. Rob Isbell recently retired as Collingsworth County Librarian. A party was given in the library in her honor on the 18th anniversary of her beginning this work. It was also her birthday. Recent illness brought her decision to retire. Here she is seen in the south room of the library, which she developed.

Steers Place High At Tri-State Fair

Four county steers placed high in the junior livestock show of the Amarillo Tri-State Fair, County Agent Don Reeves has announced.

There were two divisions, feeder and market.

David Baumgardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Baumgardner, exhibited the third place winner in the heavy weight class of cross bred market steers. It was a Charolais-Hereford cross.

Stan Tate's Hereford was fourth in the heavy class of the English breeds, feeder division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Tate of Abra.

Mark Fourmentin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fourmentin, had the fifth place winner in the same division, with an Angus-Hereford cross.

Lynn Tate, Stan's brother, had the seventh place winner in that class. He had a Hereford.

Lynn's calf was grand champion of the Collingsworth County Fair stock show and Mark's entry was the reserve champion.

It is pointed out that these calves will not be in top condition until time for the winter shows. All of the Collingsworth boys plan to enter their calves in those events.

Mr. Reeves also set up a Collingsworth County Agricultural Booth at the Tri-State Fair. These were not judged, but were to show to the Panhandle what the various counties raise.

This county's booth included such crops and produce as a watermelon, pumpkin, squash, among the vegetables; heads including milo, hegari, red top cane; cotton; bundles of native grasses; peanuts; alfalfa; apples; and seeds such as guar, two kinds of peas and sunflowers.

Basically this exhibit was much like those at the Collingsworth County Fair and included some of the products shown there, the county agent said. Assisting in preparing the exhibit were the vocational agriculture teachers, Rodney Myrick of Wellington, Doyle Messer of Quail, and Jimmy Brown of Samnorwood.

McAlister Goes To Dickens Co. Electric Co-op

Pat McAlister, has resigned as administrative assistant at Greenbelt Electric Co-operative, Inc. effective September 30, to become director of member services for the Dickens County Electric Co-op at Spur.

His wife, Nancy, legal secretary in the offices of Spillman and Spillman, is also resigning from that position.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McAlister have been active in Wellington's civic life. He was superintendent of this year's successful Collingsworth County Fair. He is president of the Wellington Cycle Club, a director of Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce, and is the immediate past president of the Kiwanis Club.

In his profession, he serves as chairman of the Group 5 Member Services Committee, which takes in 14 electric co-operatives in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains. The Dickens County Co-op is in the group.

As part of his work with Greenbelt Electric, Mr. McAlister helped with the 4-H Club electric program this summer, and worked

Crime Prevention Meeting Planned For Businesses

Wellington business men, and all others who are interested, will meet with Collingsworth law enforcement personnel later this fall for a briefing on crime prevention.

Announcement of the upcoming meeting was made by Sheriff John Rainey after he returned from an all-day crime prevention session in Amarillo Tuesday, September 23.

Attending with him were deputies Richard Keller and N.E. Childers. The meeting here will be aimed specifically at the prevention of burglaries to business houses, but other types of crime will be covered as well.

This will be an in depth meeting, with the date probably to be in November, Sheriff Rainey said.

The Tuesday meeting in Amarillo was sponsored by Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and held at Amarillo College.

The instructor was Calvin Babitske, who is with the Criminal Justice Council and co-ordinates crime prevention activities of PRPC.

Don Langford Works With Spacecraft to Land on Mars

When the Viking Spacecraft lands July 4, 1976, a former Collingsworth man will have his name on Mars.

Don Langford, who is with the Jet Propulsion Laboratories of Pasadena, Calif., was here recently to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langford, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Langford.

This orbiter project is one part of the NASA program, and while he was in Texas, Mr. Langford went to Houston for conferences with officials at the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center.

"The Viking Spacecraft is an orbiter and a lander," Langford explained. "The orbiter consists of the Mars Atmosphere Water Detector (MAWD), two high resolution cameras and a temperature mapper (IRTM).

Rockets Open Home Schedule Against Childress on Friday

Wellington Skyrockets will meet the Childress Bobcats, strongest team on their 1975 schedule, Friday, September 26, in their first home game. Play will start at 8:00 p.m. If the weather is good, this game will probably draw the largest crowd, spectator-wise, that the Skyrockets have played before in a good while.

Neither team has been defeated in non-conference play.

"They've been running up lots of scores on people and moving the ball," said Coach James Williams. "They are AA and we are jumping up out of our classification to play them."

The Bobcat team is made up of 16 seniors and 14 juniors, the Wellington coach added.

"This is probably one of the larger teams they have had in several years. Their line men are not only large, they have good height."

Childress has a good passer in Robert Sims, a 165 pound back and a senior. Outstanding in the backfield on defense are the brothers Buckley, Greg, a junior and Ken, a senior. In Ivan Johnson, all-district leftend last season, the Bobcats have an outstanding receiver.

"Basically, they run about the same formations as us on offense," Coach Williams remarked.

Coach Phil Bailey, who scouted the Childress-Shamrock game, pointed out that any comparison is a little hard to make, since the Bobcats have played stronger teams than have the Rockets.

However, in the game with Memphis, September 12, the Bobcats came alive in the fourth quarter to outlast the stubborn Cyclone 28-20. Childress rallied for 20 points in that period and at half-time had not put a single point on the board, while Memphis had 12.

When the game was over, Childress led Memphis 235 to 122 in net yards rushing and 127 to 69 in net yards passing. However, Childress had completed only half its attempted passes, 7 of 14, while Memphis completed 5 of 6. "The game will be decided on who has the least amount of mistakes on the play," Coach Williams predicted. "Our kids were off a week, and we don't know how

Basic Education Classes Will Be Held This Year

Adult basic education classes will be available in Wellington if enough people are interested.

Gene Andrews, adult basic education co-ordinator with PESO, was in Wellington Tuesday afternoon, September 23, to work with Supt. E.W. Clement in making preliminary plans for the classes.

A meeting will be held Monday, October 27, at 8:00 p.m. in the high school for all who would like to enroll. The interim will be used to try to contact all persons in the Wellington area who may be interested.

These classes are on the high school level and those completing the work may then take the GED test for certification. This serves in most cases in place of a high school diploma.

A minimum of 15 persons is needed in each class. Subject matter covered will include English, math, social studies, science and English as a second language.

These courses were offered in Wellington last year, with 32 students and two instructors. Nine of those

Telephone Installed For Family Service

A telephone has been secured for the Collingsworth Family Service Center, which may be used by anyone wishing to make an appointment for counseling with the director, Floyd Robertson.

The number to call is 447-2914.

The family service center is located in the education building of First Baptist Church, and this phone is in the church library. It will be answered by the church secretary.

It is a straight line and any information given by phone is confidential, said Mrs. B.M. Sims, who is working with the project.

Mr. Robertson is in Wellington for counseling on the first and third Thursday afternoons, of each month, but calls for appointments may be made at any time.

The Commissioners Court is making possible the telephone, and First Baptist Church is donating its facilities for use by the Collingsworth Family Service Center, Mrs. Sims said.

The Collingsworth Family Service Center provides individual, family and marital counseling and therapy to anyone requesting it. This is one of the services provided through the Amarillo Mental Health Mental Retardation Regional Center, a part of the state-wide MHMR program.

The director, Mr. Robertson, is the associate clinical psychologist assigned to District 6, MHMR.

There is a sliding fee scale which is used so that no one is refused services because of inability to pay.

FBI Enters Armory Burglary Attempt

Burglars entered the National Guard Armory about 10:30 p.m. Monday, September 22, but the burglar alarm was tripped and officers were on the scene in minutes, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

This scared away the intruder, although tracks were found in the grass outside the building.

Another attempt was made to enter C&H Pharmacy Saturday night about midnight, but the would-be burglar was apparently frightened by the approach of officers.

Nothing was taken at the Armory, Sheriff Rainey said, but because the burglary involves federal property, the Federal Bureau of Investigation entered the case Wednesday.

Entry was gained by removing a pane of glass from a window on the east side of the building.

The burglar at C&H tried to go in through the back door, first unscrewing the light above it. City night officer Wilson Porter saw the area darken and radioed the sheriff's department for help. Officers were at the scene immediately.

good a team. It's what they are trying to do.

Coach James Williams explained that the Harris Poll, as well as other polls, compile the ratings on such factors as returning lettermen, early season performance, and other statistics. The teams are picked by people who have never seen them play.

A more immediate matter for excitement is the District 2-A standing with Wellington at the top.

Games this week will include:

Childress at Wellington; Lubbock Christian at Memphis; and Groom at Wheeler. Clarendon, Silverton, Claude and McLean have open dates.

DAR Presents Texas Flag to Elementary

The La Paisana Chapter, DAR, presented a Texas flag to Wellington Elementary School September 18 at 8:30 a.m. Mr. Copeland accepted the flag on behalf of the school.

The flag was given to DAR by the Glyn Moore Post FFW, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Richard Fourmentin, Constitution Week Chairman.

The boy scouts marched forward and then gave a talk on flag etiquette and flag was with Texas Instruments at Garland.

Texas Top Exporter Of Breeding Cattle

COLLEGE STATION -- Texas remained at the top of the ranks as the leading exporting state of beef breeding cattle during 1974. "About a third of all the beef breeding cattle shipped from the United States last year came from Texas," points out Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Other leading beef breeding cattle exporting states were Montana, North Dakota, Florida and South Dakota.

"For the nation as a whole, 41,999 head were shipped out of the country, an increase of 56 per cent over 1973 levels," notes the Texas A&M University system specialist. "Total value of the 1974 exports was $33.9 million, up 51 per cent from a year earlier. Animals went to 43 different foreign countries."

Texas led in exports of Angus, Beefmaster, Brahman, Brangus, Charolais, and Santa Gertrudis cattle. What breeds were most popular and where were they shipped?

Crossbreeds led the list of exports, with 89 per cent of these animals moving to Canada. Canada was also the most important export market for all U.S. breeding cattle, accounting for 47 per cent of the exports, points out Uvacek.

Charolais were the second most common exported breed, with about half of them moving into Mexico.

The third largest number of exports were Brahman cattle, with the Republic of South Africa taking almost a quarter of them. More than half the Santa Gertrudis cattle, which ranked fifth in numbers, also went to this country.

Hereford cattle ranked fourth in breed popularity and the bulk of them went to Hungary.

Solid Waste Disposal Gets Closer Attention

COLLEGE STATION -- The disposal of solid wastes from residential, commercial and institutional sources may soon be regulated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Guidelines were published in the Federal Register July 11 that concern methods of storing and collecting solid wastes of homes, businesses and various institutions, points out Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineer in waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Sweeten, the guidelines will become mandatory for all Federal facilities, and are recommended for adoption by local and state agencies.

Some of the requirements set forth in the EPA guidelines include a limit on container size (35 gallons maximum), collection vehicle design standards, and a provision for collection of solid wastes at least once per week.

Certain specifications are set forth on reusable waste containers and paper and plastic bags.

The guidelines also spell out certain recommendations, which include vehicle selection and routing for fuel conservation, safety training for collection crews, curbside or alley collection, and disposal of solid wastes.

Sweeten points out that comment on the proposed guidelines is invited from the public as well as from state and local government officials. All comments should be mailed before Sept. 9 to the Deputy Assistant Administrator for Solid Waste Management Programs (AS-562), U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M. St. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20460.

Member-Guest Tournament Has Largest Attendance to Date

The member-guest golf tournament, held at Hay Camp Country Club Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21, attracted the largest attendance of any tournament held since the course opened, Jim Terry, Hay Camp professional, said this week.

Thirty-four teams -- 68 players -- were entered, almost the capacity that the course can handle.

Mrs. R.L. Mabery and her guest, Mrs. Ronny Hurst, were first division winners with a score of 123, computed on two-round, 36 hole play, 140 par, with the individual players handicap subtracted.

Coming in second were John Coffee and his visitor, Harold Dalton of Borger, scoring 125. Coming in third were A.D. Hollis of Hollis with Fred Bobo of Childress as his guest. Their score was 129.

Winners of the second division were Willie Gragson, with Robert Mills of Childress, scoring 131.

Two teams tied for second, shooting 136. They were Jerol Morris with David Seale of Childress; and Kent Pence, with Jim Bull of Hollis as his guest.

Winners in both divisions received gift certificates.

No one made a hole in one, but several eagles were reported -- and lots of birdies, according to Terry. This was the most complete tournament Hay Camp has held and was complete with a luncheon, refreshments at the course, and a dance Saturday night.

Play began in almost perfect weather Saturday, and after play was completed in the evening, the field was broken into two divisions.

The group teeing off at 10:00 a.m. Sunday played in rain for the first hour, then weather conditions improved considerably.

This will be the last tournament of the season in which visitors either pro or amateur, will compete. There remains, however, one major event, in which the

U-Stor-It Will Open October 1

U-Stor-It, a new concept in commercial storage facilities, will open Wednesday, October 1, at 904 Belton Street, just behind the new apartment complex, Bill Spillman, owner, announced.

Two business offices will be housed in the front of the building, Baker Concrete, owned by Maxie Baker, and Lanier Construction and Insulation, belonging to Gary Lanier.

Mr. Spillman is in charge of the storage facility, and those interested in it are to contact him.

The storage facility is housed in the back of the building and consists of fireproof, burglarproof units either 10 x 10 or 10 x 20 feet in size. To serve a wider group of customers, the small units will have regulation size steel doors, but the larger units will have folding steel garage doors.

"This type of storage will appeal to landowners, apartment dwellers, as well as for such equipment as boats, furniture, motorcycles, trailers, campers, or to store fertilizer, seed tools and many other things," said Mr. Spillman.

Doors are being installed this week, which will complete U-Stor-It except for landfill work and landscaping.

The person renting each unit will be the only one having a key to it.

city championship, club championship and women's championship will be determined, all in the same tournament.

This will be held in October with the date to be announced.

Ray Cozads Buy Phipps Station

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cozad have announced the purchase of Phipps Exxon Station at 102 8th Street from Murl Phipps.

Mr. Cozad will take over the business October 1, and the business will be operated as Ray's Exxon Station.

The new owner said he will handle all products now carried, including oil, gas, tires, and batteries, and he will continue to offer the same services, such as wash and grease jobs, pick up and repair of flats.

Mr. Cozad has been employed at the station several months. Prior to that he was driver for the volunteer ambulance service and an employee of Collingsworth General Hospital.

Mr. Phipps said he and his wife will continue to make their home in Wellington, although a little later in the fall, they have a fishing trip to South Texas planned.

If you are wondering what happened to the Savings & Loan premium giveaways that used to be advertised so enthusiastically by loan associations in the state of Texas, they have been altogether banned by the Texas Finance Commission.

New York and California have also sharply limited the amounts and kinds of premiums which savings & loans can offer to attract deposits and now Wisconsin, one of the most competitive giveaway states has asked for a moratorium on premiums while the state studies the whole idea of premiums and just how wholesome they are for the savings industry. There is a very real possibility that the premiums actually add to higher overhead and encourage higher interest rate loans as the competition gets more expensive and extravagant in the cost of the premiums.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board limits savings & loans to a maximum of $5 in premiums for deposits of less than $5000 and $10 in premiums for deposits of $5000 or more. However, there is no limit to the number of premiums which can be given each year or how much can be spent advertising the promotions or premiums.

The chief advantage of premiums is that they do attract deposits. There is no question that a 7.5% savings account with a free blender will draw money away from a 7.5% savings account with no blender. This means every savings & loan has to play the premium game just to protect their deposits from getting raided.

Even a premium ban doesn't solve the problem, though. The premium ban is only by state regulatory bodies, not the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. So, technically, the ban does not apply to federally chartered associations, only to state chartered ones. Thus far, the federally chartered association in Texas have gone along with the prohibition, but there is a real possibility of a flow of savings out of non-premium states into savings and loan in states where premiums are still permitted.

MR. AND MRS. COY VAUGHAN

Mr., Mrs. Coy Vaughan Feted On 50th Wedding Anniversary

A couple active in return home for Mrs. Wellington's business and civic life, Mr. and Mrs. Coy E. Vaughan, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, September 21, when a reception was given in their honor.

The hostesses were three of her nieces, Mrs. Joe Tipton and Mrs. Morgan Rigdon of Amarillo, and Mrs. David Lewis of Hamlin. Assisting them were Mrs. Vivian Godbey of Amarillo, sister-in-law of Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Cicero Gulley and Mrs. C.T. Hubbard.

Bura Handley Community Center was the setting for the gala celebration.

Guests were met by Mr. Vaughan's brother, the Rev. Raymond Vaughan of Hobbs, N.M., a former Wellington resident. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan was their son, Bill Vaughan.

Their only granddaughter, Sue Ann Vaughan of Lubbock, registered the guests.

The reception table was centered with an arrangement of large gold and bronze chrysanthemums in a golden bowl. At each side were gold candles in double crystal holders, and crystal appointments were used. Guests were served by Mrs. Tipton and Mrs. Rigdon and Mrs. Lewis.

One hundred and fifty friends called during the reception hours, from three to five in the afternoon.

Both Mr. Vaughan and the former Era V. Godbey were living in the Houselog community when they were married September 21, 1925, in a double wedding with Jake Clubb and Virgie Batson, both now deceased.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lem Hodges in the old parsonage of First Baptist Church. Mrs. Hodges was a witness, as was a visitor in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan moved to Altus, Oklahoma, where he entered the dry cleaning business in 1942. This was something of a return home for Mrs. Vaughan, for she spent her childhood in Elmer, south of Altus.

After 31 years in that Oklahoma town, another move brought them back to Wellington. Their home is at 1201 Dalhart Street.

Mrs. Vaughan was born at Portales, N.M., daughter of the late Amos and Betty Hall Godbey. Her father died when she was a small girl.

The family lived at Fargo, near Vernon, then moved across Red River to Elmer. Mrs. Godbey brought her family to Collingsworth County in 1921, and engaged in farming in the Houselog Community. Mrs. Vaughan attended school at Elmer and Amarillo, and Houselog High School, for it was then one of the larger rural schools of the county.

Mrs. Vaughan was a long-time member of the Altus Garden Club, then joined the Wellington Garden Club. She is also a member and past president of Belles Lettres Club and the Good Neighbor Club.

Mr. Vaughan, who was born at Greenville, came to Collingsworth County in 1905 with his parents, the late Arthur C. and Julia Bailey Vaughan, who settled four miles southwest of Wellington in the Houselog community. He also attended school there.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan are members of First Baptist Church and are active in its work.

Present for the anniversary celebration Sunday were Mr. Vaughan's two brothers, Rev. and Mrs. Vaughan of Hobbs, N.M. and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vaughan of Hereford.

Four of her five sisters were here, Mrs. Eva Jewel Rogers of Lamont, Calif., Mrs. Joe Thompson, Mrs. Ethel Britton and Mrs. Ray Clubb. Her other sister, Mrs. Mae Barton of El Paso could not attend. Her brothers, Ray Godbey and Elmer Godbey, are deceased.

In addition to these

Hollis B Wins 12-0 On Two Long Plays

Two long runs to scoring territory gave the Hollis Tiger B team the points they needed to defeat the Skyrocket Junior Varsity 12-0 Thursday, September 18. The game was played at Powell Field.

Until the first half, the game was played in mid-field and the score at that point was 0-0.

Hollis opened the third putting together a good drive, and about a minute and a half deep in that period, a 55-yard pass from Jones to Raymond Herrera gave the Tiger Jr. their first score.

Late in the same period, Bill Wiseman broke loose and scored on a 75-yard off-tackle play. Both attempts at conversion failed, and there was no more scoring.

Except for these two plays, Hollis was unable to advance against the strong Wellington defense, and by the same token, the Rockets could not make headway against the Tiger defense.

"We played better than the game looked," said

County judges and commissioners, meeting in Amarillo last week, voted to oppose all eight of the amendments to the Texas Constitution which will be voted on Nov. 4. It can be presumed that this will be the stand of this organization in other parts of the state.

This is powerful and potent opposition to the eight amendments. The county judges and commissioners are well organized over the entire state. At home they are close to the voters and have a tremendous influence in forming public opinion. Theoretically these officials are supposed to be listening to what their constituents have to say. The facts are nearly opposite. On statewide issues of great importance such as the proposed amendments, more often than not, the voter forms his opinion on what the judge or the commissioner has to say.

One of their main objections is that the amendments give too much power to the Legislature, particularly in the field of taxation. Another cause for concern was places in the proposed document which would later be implemented as may be provided by general law.

Before October's bright blue weather has faded into November, the judges and commissioners will undoubtedly have statements to publish over their signatures giving their thoughts.

In the meantime, we will be trying to learn more about the proposed changes and how they might affect us here at home. The Texas Constitution has been amended 220 times and has become unwieldy even for the courts and the lawyers.

The full text of each one of the eight amendments was published in the Leader in the issues of September 11 and again September 18. You better put one of these papers aside for you will want it later on. The ballot you will see in November will not contain the whole text — only the caption. Human nature being what it is, any number of our readers will be hunting these old issues about October 31.

Here are some of the changes the amendments would make in the present constitution which the proponents believe would make for better state government: The governors tenure of office would be limited to two four year terms. All state agencies would expire every ten years unless specific legislation continues their existence. We hope to have more about the amendments in later issues.

Congratulations to Bill Spillman upon being included in the 1975 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, which is recognition that he richly deserves. Although young in years he has rendered a service to the community that is above and beyond his able work in his own profession. The future of Wellington, the state and the nation now rests on young shoulders such as these.

And congratulations are also in order for Mrs. Murray Dodson who has been appointed as a member of the Mental Health Mental Retardation Regional Center. She could rest on her laurels as a public servant with credit and esteem from all who have observed her work. It is good to know that her ability and experience are being used still for the benefit of the region.

After a week with no game, the Rockets will meet their two toughest opponents of this year on Powell Field this week and next week. The game Friday night will be against the AA Bobcats of Childress who defeated the Memphis Cyclones 28 to 20 last week. Memphis has been rated as the team most likely to win the conference. Champions of last year, they have a team that is composed mainly of seniors and juniors

Meeting on Chloride Control Project Called for October 15

A public meeting on the Red River Chloride Control project of the Upper Red River Basin in both Texas and Oklahoma, will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, in the Empire Room of the Wilbarger Auditorium in Vernon.

The purpose of this public meeting is to discuss the plan of improvement and to receive new and additional material concerning the environmental impact of the project, according to Col. Anthony A. Smith, CE, district engineer of the Tulsa District, Army Corps of Engineers. All interested persons, including property owners and private citizens, are invited.

If it appears the meeting will last all day, there will be a recess for lunch at 12:30 p.m.

This project will have structures in two locations which are of interest to Collingsworth County residents. The meeting is one of three to be held, the others being at Denison and Shreveport, La.

An environmental statement is being prepared for the Red River Chloride Control Project in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act. The objective of the project is to improve water quality in the Red River farther east by reducing natural chloride (salt) in the upper reaches of the basin.

The Red River Chloride Control Project calls for a dam to create a brine reservoir on Salt Creek, which heads in southwest Collingsworth. Although the location of the dam likely will be in Hall County, the waters backed by it will back up into this county. These include Areas XIII and XIV of the project.

There has been concern from landowners to the east, as to whether seepage with only three sophomores listed on the entire roster. Wellington is now ranked 11th in the state.

Wellington has been rated as the team most likely to take second place in the district. Both games should fill the stadium to capacity. Let's hope the boys stay healthy through both games.

Somehow I get the feeling that Texas A&M should be playing Oklahoma in the cotton bowl this October instead of Texas. The battering the Aggies gave LSU proved that their offense has come up to their defense. The Aggie defense has been awesome for the last two seasons. You read a great deal about the running of Washington and the passing to Tinker Owens; but it is the two Oklahoma lines that push people around. They would not push that 250 plus A&M line around very much.

through the gap formations could damage irrigation wells, especially in the Loco area.

The other structure, in Area VI, is proposed a few miles east of the Texas-Oklahoma state line on Elm Creek and also a short distance east of the salt beds, which are totally in Oklahoma, and just off Oklahoma Highway 30.

A brine reservoir is proposed on Fish Creek, near its junction with Elm Creek.

The Red River Chloride Control Project covers an area more than 200 miles in length, including Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River and its tributaries. It begins a short distance west of Amarillo and extends east almost to Wichita Falls in Texas and east of Altus in Oklahoma. Its north boundary is beyond North Fork River in Wheeler County and it extends south of Lake Kemp.

Skyrocket JV Plays Return Game at Hollis

Wellington Skyrocket Junior Varsity will travel to Hollis Thursday, September 25, for a return game with the Tiger B team.

"We'll be ready for them," said Coach Robert Hicks, recalling the Rockets 12-0 loss at Powell Field September 18.

This is probably the most experienced and strongest B team we will face this year," the coach continued, then pointed to its advantage. "This will help us prepare for district, which begins week after next.

All the Rockets are healthy and they have been working on ways to break the long run, something Hollis used against the Wellington boys to good effect in the first game.

Firecrackers Drop Game to Hollis 20-8

Wellington Eighth Grade lost 20-8 to the Hollis Junior High team Thursday, September 18, on breaks that seemed to run against them all evening, although they were playing at home.

At the same time, coaches, fans and the Firecrackers themselves were aware they played the best game of their young careers.

Not only was the Hollis team larger, it included 7 ninth graders, who in Oklahoma are still in junior high. Coach Bruce Dollar pointed out.

"That additional year of experience makes a difference," he declared.

The only Firecracker score came in the third period, after they had moved 60 yards downfield, three and four yards to the play -- but never a long run. Robert Powell and Baldo Nevarez were credited with most of the ball carrying. Powell had the ball on the three and was able to get across the goal line.

Nevarez then ran for the extra points.

Hollis made its first score from 40 yards out on the first possession of the ball, but neither team crossed the goal line again before halftime, when the score was 6-0 Hollis.

Coach Larry Turner's boys scored in the third period when a player intercepted a Wellington pass and ran 60 yards for the second touchdown. The try for extra point was no good.

The final Hollis score came near the end of the game on another 60 yard run. This time Hollis was able to run the ball over for two extra points.

Coach Dollar praised the spirit and playing of his team.

The Firecrackers got in scoring position three times but lost the ball on downs.

Besides the ability of the backfield to move the ball, Coach Dollar praised the offensive line, as well as the defensive unit.

Asthma Seminar Planned Oct. 4

Mrs. Jimmie Sessions of Wellington today reminds residents of Collingsworth County of an area-wide asthma seminar, sponsored by American Lung Association of Texas, to be held Saturday, October 4, at the Quality Inn, 1-40 East, in Amarillo.

"The morning program from 8:30 till noon is strictly for health professionals," Mrs. Sessions said. "Afternoon program from 1:00 till 4 p.m. will be oriented toward parents of asthmatic children and adult asthmatic patients."

There will be no charge for the afternoon session. Morning registration will be $5.00. Four and one-half nursing education points have been approved for both RN's and LVN's. Morning session will include physiology, immunology, biochemistry and stress management of asthma, whereas the afternoon session will be oriented toward the parents of asthmatic children and coping with the disease from the patient's point of view.

All interested persons in the Panhandle area are invited to attend, including teen-age asthma sufferers.

Highway, Transportation Week Marks New Goals for Future

TRANSPORTATION - AMERICA'S LIFELINES

This theme underscores the crucial part that transportation plays in the everyday life-style that most Americans take for granted.

As highway and transportation officials across the nation observe Highway and Transportation Week, September 21-27, they face the challenge of how to cope with changing transportation demands in the face of gnawing inflation.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, formerly the Texas Highway Department, has been delegated an added responsibility - namely, that of public transportation. This new role underscores the change that has taken place since the arrival of the automobile on the American scene.

"Our present transportation system developed during a period of cheap and plentiful energy," said Lewis White, district engineer of the Texas Highways and Public Transportation Department in Childress. "In this situation, the goal of providing the best possible highway system was well defined."

Transportation is in a period of great change and new goals are being established. Highways and public transportation are only a part of the overall change.

"The new goal for the Department of Highways and Public Transportation is to provide the highest possible level of mobility for Texans, using whatever mode is appropriate," said White.

"The first step is to define the needs of all segments of our society for transportation. Next, we must determine how these needs can best be met."

To provide the best overall system, all forms of transportation will be considered.

"There is no easy answer," White said, "no 'cure-all', as has been suggested by some. Solutions to the problem will be varied to meet local conditions."

In this period of rising costs the Department has been caught in a financial crunch. Inflation, in the form of higher construction costs, has drastically reduced highway construction, emphasizing the need for added revenue.

"New Federal legislation in the form of a new Highway Bill is needed to provide funding and help chart the course of future transportation," stated White.

The Federal Highway Act of 1973 will expire in 1976, and the Highway Trust Fund will cease to exist at that time - barring new legislation by Congress in the interim.

"The Highway Trust Fund was originally created by Congress to allow highway users to partially pay for the interstate system and other approved highway systems," said George Wall, District 25 assistant district engineer. "We in the Department feel that it is imperative that the Highway Trust Fund be continued to insure a predictable flow of funds. Without this no orderly planning can be achieved."

Presently, in Texas, most public transportation is in the form of buses.

"Buses provide the flexibility needed in routing public transportation," said Wall. "Our urban areas are spread out, and the bus operating on the streets and highway systems best suits this need for flexibility."

The Department is also receiving applications for grants to provide transportation for the elderly and handicapped. This program must be sponsored at the local level by non-profit organizations.

In addition, the Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved, and the Department is processing, applications from cities operating public transportation systems for new capital improvements and equipment.

The Department is working with some of the larger cities for provision of "park-and-ride" facilities. "Park-and-ride" involves parking in a lot located at the edge of the city, with a subsequent change to public transportation.

Transportation - America's lifeline! "This is a challenge that must be met," White concluded, "and it will take the best efforts of all of us."

Eighth Grade To Meet Hollis There Thursday

The Eighth Grade Firecrackers will play a return game with the strong Hollis 8th-9th grade team in Tiger Stadium Thursday, September 25, Coach Bruce Dollar announced. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

In spite of the loss of their last game with Hollis, Wellington boys are not discouraged and they are looking forward to playing Hollis again.

"They know they played a good game," Dollar said.

Oldsmobile 1976. An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer showroom. They're impressive.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Torados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

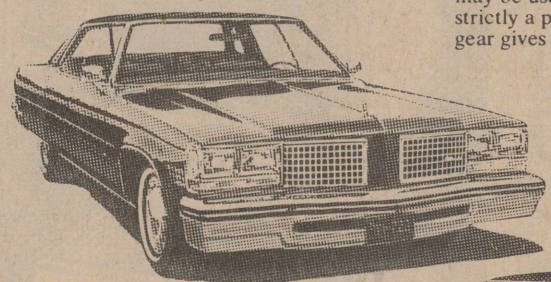

This year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

Alternatives Offered For Cow-Calf Operation

COLLEGE STATION -- Cattlemen are in the business of making a living by raising calves. But for the past year-and-a-half they've had more calves than the market has demanded, and prices have plummeted sharply. Calves are still abundant, and now cattle-men must decide what steps to take with the fall and winter months approaching.

What are the alternatives? Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers a few possibilities as to what the individual cattleman can do with his calves. He also discusses the advantages and disadvantages of each alternative.

1. Sell the calves right now. Calf prices are expected to move lower in the next few months, so current market prices are maybe tops for a while. With the calves gone, a cattleman could concentrate on culling his cow herd. On the other hand, holding onto the calves would yield heavier weights that are more desirable in the market; the price forecasts could be wrong. Total dollars are what really counts -- not the price per pound.

2. Winter pasture the calves and sell them in the spring. This would boost calf weights, and spring market strength should bring calf prices up possibly $5 to $6 from the fall lows. Low cost gain on pasture should allow a fairly low break-even price for such feeders. With this option, cattlemen must risk both weather and disease problems. A large amount of winter pasturing of calves would probably keep down the spring price rise. Assuming that calf prices do dip in the next month or two, a cattleman may be ahead to sell his calves now and buy others later to overwinter on pasture. This option requires an immediate decision since winter pastures must be planted early.

3. Rough winter the calves and sell them in the spring. With a cheap feed source, calves would put on weight at a low cost and cattlemen could take advantage of spring price gains. There is even a greater risk here due to weather and disease problems and these could greatly affect gains. Furthermore, feed will be expensive this winter unless a cheap feed source can be locked in.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, September 25, 1975

3B

Large supplies of calves held over the winter will limit spring price strength.

4. Feed the calves to slaughter weight. Risk from weather and disease should be minimal and gain should be consistent and substantial. If the feeding is done in a custom feedlot, expert management will handle the calves. On the negative side, high feed costs will force high break-even prices for finished animals. And there is price uncertainty in the fed cattle market. Holding the animals will cost money and will involve risk but could yield greater returns.

"Whichever decision the cattleman decides to make, it must be his decision and must be based on his own particular set of circumstances," points out Uvacek.

Bicentennial Year a Good Time To Mark Our Historic Sites

In this year when we are so aware of our American Heritage, perhaps we should look to our own county history as well.

There are many places in Collingsworth that should be marked, whose location should never be forgotten. It would not be feasible to attempt Texas Historical Society marking for all of these, but could not some local organization or group of organizations sponsor such a project?

Those who have lived in the northeast part of the county could probably go to the site of the Rocking Chair Ranch Headquarters. But how many others could get there? It is near Aberdeen—but Aberdeen is no more, and could you go there?

There are others in Wellington and over the county. These are not of state interest, but they are important to our history.

What of cattle trails that may have gone through Collingsworth? Even earlier, did the Marcy Expedition, trying to locate the source of Red River, come into this county? They are known to have been in near-by areas.

During court action about 1895 to determine if Greer County belonged to Texas or Oklahoma, testimony of a very old man brought out that in his youth, he was in this general vicinity. At that time it was known that at an even earlier period the Spanish were also through the area around the 100th meridian.

To check out these facts would take much research, but it would be an interesting and important venture in this Bicentennial Year for the nation and Centennial year for the creation of this county and its Texas neighbors.

Vandals Are Not "Sportsmen"

To those thoughtless gunners who shot up the city waterworks last week:

Your thoughtless (or worse, malicious) actions are making it easy for the anti-gun factions in America to build a case for outlawing all privately-owned guns.

You represent less than one per cent of the gun users in America, but you give everyone of them a black eye.

We don't know who you are, but we'll bet you are also the same ones who "pot shot" quail on the ground; shoot over your limits then throw the game away; fail to observe the game seasons; shoot at everything that moves.

Until you learn to appreciate nature and its bounty enough to enjoy a day of hunting without ever firing a shot, you cannot call yourself a sportsman.

(It always hurts us a little when we read that "sportsmen" shoot at and destroy property. Sportsmen don't do such things. Vandals with guns do.)

Your actions make it seem reasonable to require hunter safety training for everyone before obtaining a hunting license.

Here's hoping you wise up before taking a gun in your hands again, and that you don't shoot yourself . . . or, more importantly, someone else.

"CHEERFULNESS"

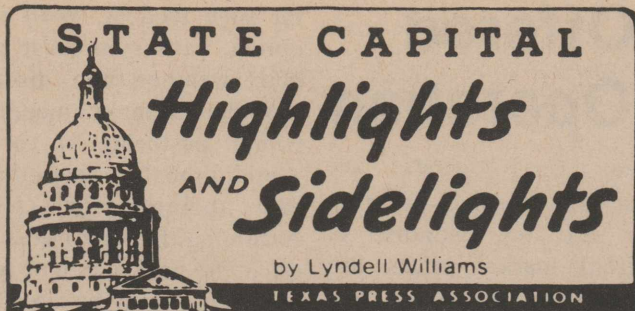

What effect has a merry heart? "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones." Proverbs 17:22.

From these words we may learn the influence which the mind has over the body.

Cheerfulness is necessary in every life. Good-cheer is the hall-mark of a brave and healthy soul.

There may be a very real reason why the heart faints and halts for life is serious, and the world is full of unexpected trials; but to sit and brood over a trouble only makes it look larger and larger until it finally obscures the horizon line and darkness descends upon the soul. Wherefore, the thing to do is to cast aside all thoughts of worry for a moment; just say to yourself: it is only for a moment; and when you return to it again you will be surprised to find it has lessened in importance and in size.

Phillipians 4:4 . . . "Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, rejoice."

AUSTIN — Campaigns for and against the proposed new state constitution already are generating lots of heat.

Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association and Texas Association of Broadcasters got a broad introduction in a day-long pro and con seminar here last week.

A day later, Citizens for the Texas Constitution, leaders of the revision change, held their statewide kick-off meeting launching a six-weeks public information effort before the November 4 election.

The opposition group, Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution (the present one, that is), already was doing lots of kicking. Its statewide steering committee broadened steadily, picking up such members as former Gov. Preston Smith and Court of Criminal Appeals Presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr.

Former Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert, head of the revision forces, summarized arguments for the new constitution:

Eight proposals on the November 4 ballot modernize Texas' basic laws and "provide benefits for the people which cannot be achieved under the old document."

Further, argued Calvert, the revision submitted by the legislature would "go a long way to stop wasteful spending in state government and provide equity and relief for the individual taxpayer."

Not so, countered Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler for the opposition. The new document would "lead to new taxes on an unprecedented scale," contended McKnight. Further, he maintained, it would give the legislature "power to do about anything it wants at the expense of the people."

Much opposition, as anticipated, centered on proposed annual legislative sessions and a commission to pass on legislators' salaries. Tax provisions also came under heavy opposition fire.

Highways Stated

If costs keep going up and income doesn't, the State Highway Department says in another six or seven years it may have barely enough money to maintain the present 71,000-mile road system.

Major new construction could be out of the question if the state hasn't the cash to match federal building funds. Gasoline tax and motor vehicle registration income, which traditionally increased at six or seven percent a year, is no longer growing much. Meanwhile, construction costs have doubled since 1967.

The Highway Department, as explained here previously, is studying its manpower needs with a view to reduced payrolls. Some districts already have reduced their work forces.

Mowing along highway rights-of-way also has been reduced to save money.

Discount Expiring

Ten percent discounts on auto insurance premiums for 35,000 Texans may be lost this fall unless they re-take defensive driving courses.

Those who passed the National Safety Council course in accident avoiding three years ago can renew their discount eligibility for an additional 36 months by completing another eight-hour course.

New films and visual aids, new information on traffic laws, driving habits, road design and engineering innovations are available, according to State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie.

More than 400,000 Texans have completed the course during the last three years, and statistics indicate they have 32 per cent fewer accidents, Christie said. The discount is also available to motorcycle operators.

Courts Speak

A federal judge in Washington, D. C. refused to block publication of Census Bureau statistics which will bring Texas under punitive provisions of the federal Voting Rights Act. Further appeals are under consideration.

A Belton man who shot another because he feared a karate chop lost an appeal from a 99-year prison sentence for murder.

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a 199-year murder sentence in a San Antonio robbery-killing. The Court granted a new trial in a controversy over sanity of an Odessa man convicted and sentenced to 10 years for the fatal shooting of his wife. It upheld 99-year sentences of two men in a Dallas murder and rape case.

AG Opinions

An unsuccessful job applicant has no special right of access to personnel-type information about his application under the open records act, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Students who are residents of Mexico are not entitled to reduced tuitions under a new law providing bargain rates for certain neighboring-state commuters.

The Senate and House are ultimate judges of whether a legislator's service on the legislative committee of a private group is consistent with ethical standards set by state law.

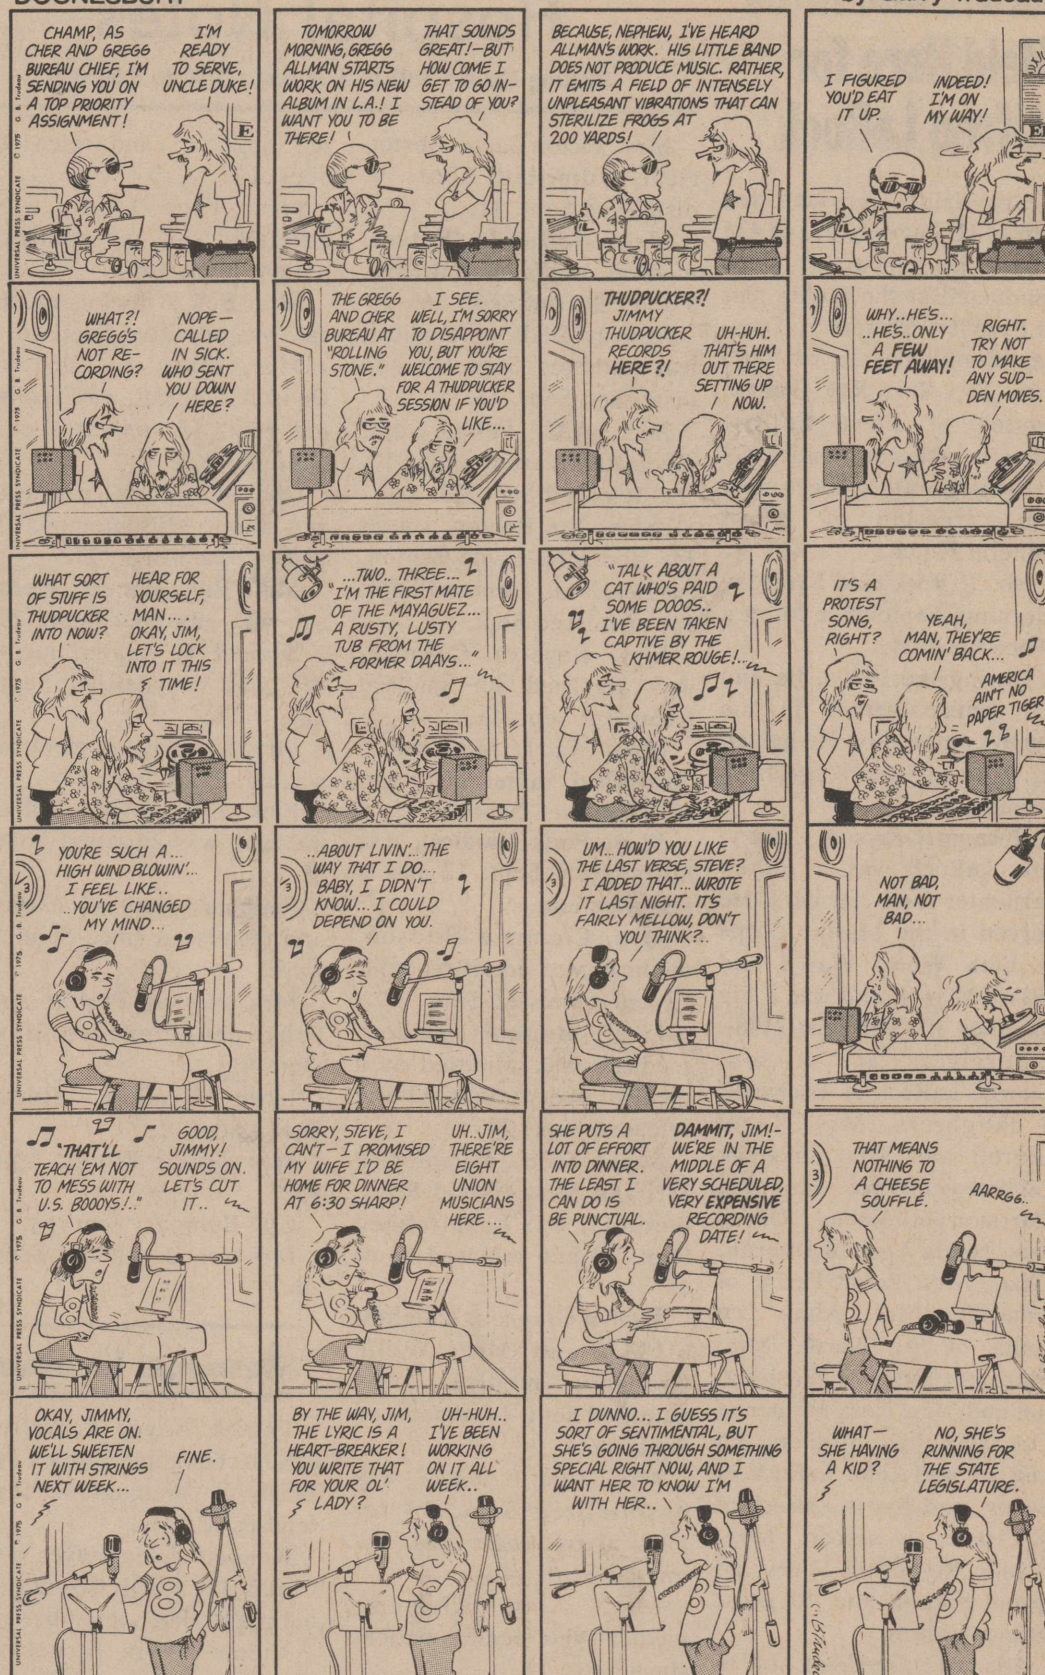

System operation grants and incentive grants can be awarded to community libraries where the proper prerequisite circumstances exist.

Temporary taxicab permits issued by a home-rule city are effective only within the jurisdiction of the particular home-rule city. The Library and Historical Commission may reject the initial and any subsequent annual plan submitted by a major resource center and withhold funds until an acceptable plan is drawn.

Loans will be available January 1 for medical students who agree to practice in rural areas—through the State Rural Medical Education Board. The program

Former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr urged a U. S. Senate investigation of possible connections between presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald and the FBI or Central Intelligence Agency.

Gas Priced Like Apples*

"How much are your apples?" asks the housewife of the grocer, so goes the story.

"Forty-nine cents a pound," the grocer replies.

The housewife registers surprise and exclaims: "Henry's apples are only 29-cents."

"Why don't you buy your apples from Henry?" responds the merchant.

"He doesn't have any apples," she says.

"If I didn't have any apples," the grocer explodes, "mine would be only 29 cents, too."

Which is a long way, perhaps, of getting around to the point.

Natural gas in Texas sells for up to $1.90 per 1,000 cubic feet. And Texans have gas.

But in non-producing states, where the price of imported gas is controlled at 51 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, there is no new gas to be bought.

If we didn't have gas, our price would be 51 cents, too. But we couldn't buy gas either.

HERE

8:00 p.m.

THEIR PLACE IS THE SKYROCKET BACKFIELD

Two halfbacks and a wingback are at left. The picture at right shows two fullbacks. Their playing coordinates with the remainder of the backfield to give The Skyrockets that scoring ability that is so apparent this year. At left, are Arnie Ingram, 12, halfback; Edward Thomas, 43, wingback; and Randall Sims, 23, halfback. At right, George Darton, 40, is understudying the fullback position, while Jessie Davis, 42, starts at the position. The versatile Ingram and Darton are sophomores, with two more years of eligibility. Thomas and Sims are seniors, while Davis will play another year.
